Jimin didn't answer, caught somewhere in a state of pain and pleasure, the feeling so sweet, yet so intense and overwhelming, making Jimin wonder whether he was capable of bearing any more of it, but also somehow making him not want to lose that exact feeling. The pink haired male had slipped into such a conflicting haze, confusing him.

“Angel” Jungkook repeated, slowing down.

“M-Mhm” Jimin hummed softly, blinking as he lifted his head in order to meet Jungkook's gaze in the mirror.

“Can you tell me your colour, pretty baby?”

Jimin blinked again, inhaling a shaky breath.

How far would Jungkook go, if he agreed for him to go on by saying 'green'? Did Jimin want to find out? It was odd, wasn't it? Jimin had been at this point before, hadn't he? Jungkook had made him come multiple times before and Jimin had been able to bear that – No, had even enjoyed that feeling as the orgasm he had eventually received had hit him so incredibly hard, making it more than just worth it – Yet, this time was different somehow. This time, Jimin wasn't sure, if he could come again.

“I-I really can't, Jungkook-ah, I-I can't come again. I-I-”

“Sssh” Jungkook interrupted his fussing, peppering his back with gentle kisses, his lips brushing over Jimin's skin so softly as he traced open-mouthed kisses up to Jimin's nape, “It's okay, little one. You've been such a good boy for me, haven't you? I'm so proud of you”

Heart fluttering at the praise, Jimin smiled shyly, cheeks turning a darker shade of pink when Jungkook pressed a tender kiss to his nose.

“How far would Jungkook go, if he agreed for him to go on by saying 'green'? Did Jimin want to find out? It was odd, wasn't it? Jimin had been at this point before, hadn't he? Jungkook had made him come multiple times before and Jimin had been able to bear that – No, had even enjoyed that feeling as the orgasm he had eventually received had hit him so incredibly hard, making it more than just worth it – Yet, this time was different somehow. This time, Jimin wasn't sure, if he could come again.

“I-I really can't, Jungkook-ah, I-I can't come again. I-I-”

“Sssh” Jungkook interrupted his fussing, peppering his back with gentle kisses, his lips brushing over Jimin's skin so softly as he traced open-mouthed kisses up to Jimin's nape, “It's okay, little one. You've been such a good boy for me, haven't you? I'm so proud of you”

Heart fluttering at the praise, Jimin smiled shyly, cheeks turning a darker shade of pink when Jungkook pressed a tender kiss to his nose.

“Will you allow me to eat you out? I won't be long, I promise, just wanna lick your pretty hole clean” Jungkook whispered against his ear, the request sending a shiver down Jimin's back.

Swallowing hard, Jimin found himself nod.

“No, baby, I need to hear you say it”

“Y-Yes, p-please do”
Humming in satisfaction, Jungkook pressed one last kiss to his shoulder before he sank down on his knees, grabbing Jimin's buttocks and pulling them apart. The black haired boy was very aware of the fact that Jimin couldn't take much more, his trembling legs being any indication other than his words. So, having mercy, he dived right in, licking a fat stripe over the gaping hole.

Jimin winced, whimpering at the oversensitivity, but attempting to stay still while Jungkook ate him out. Honestly, Jungkook's mouth was a sin itself – the skill the boy possessed in making Jimin go absolutely insane and draw him in such a state of pleasure was pure bliss as well as it was fascinating, almost unbelievable. There was no way Jimin had actually ever believed sex would be like this before experiencing it for the first time – would be this utterly beautiful as well as intense.

Carefully, Jungkook pushed his tongue inside, gently licking Jimin clean and collecting his own cum on his tongue. A slight part of Jungkook wanted to tease Jimin a little more, wanted to watch the pink haired one squirm around in oversensitivity, making a fuss and begging Jungkook to stop while he proceeded to cry for him – but he wouldn't do that. Not when he saw and was very aware of how close he had brought Jimin to his limit. Crossing it was not an option for Jungkook – not when Jimin didn't specifically want him to and was comfortable with that idea – He would never forgive himself for ignoring that.

Sucking on the pink hole one last time, Jungkook finally pulled back, Jimin sniffing as he observed Jungkook get back up. Just as Jimin was about to say something, the younger one hooked his fingers around the collar and tugged on it. The action caused Jimin to straighten his back, a whimper slipping from his lips when Jungkook gripped a bundle of his hair and pulled his head back, making Jimin hiss at the slight pain.

Then, he closed his free hand around Jimin's jaw, pulling his mouth open without saying a word. Confused, Jimin stared up at Jungkook, eyes going wide when Jungkook parted his own lips and allowed his saliva mixed with his own cum to trail down into Jimin's mouth.

Jimin moaned breathy at the obscenity, almost wanted to cry as he felt his sensitive penis twitch in arousal while Jungkook pressed his soft lips on Jimin's, capturing them in a kiss. Slowly, they moved their lips against one another, Jungkook's tongue licking over Jimin's tenderly so he could taste himself on there.

When Jungkook pulled away, he lingered above Jimin's lips for a moment longer, smirking against him, “Good boy.”

With that, Jimin's eyes fell shut as he collapsed in Jungkook's strong arms.

Chapter End Notes

I hope you enjoyed the chapter <3
I wish you wonderful happy and healthy days <3
See you in the next chapter! <3
Revelations

Chapter Summary

In the midst of Jimin trying to figure out what to do with his future, obstacles seem to be inevitable... certain incidents making the decision that much more difficult for him.

Chapter Notes

Hiiiii, lovely readers <3

I-I can't believe it! We've hit over 71k hits on this story and I just... I'm speechless! I'm so, so grateful and happy that you seem to enjoy the story and that you support me with such love. It means the world to me, it really does. <3

Whenever I feel down and am not satisfied with my own work or am discouraged, you motivate me again and cheer me up. Especially as English isn't my native language, it's sometimes difficult to write in a way that captures people, so I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart for reading my story and for supporting me. <3

I've been in a rather good place with my mental health for the past days. Actually, I'm feeling very bright and happy these days - although I'm tired all the time haha! I'm sorry, if some of you don't care or don't want to hear that, but I just wanted to let you know <3

How have you guys been these past days? I would love to know <3

Well, but now I don't want to annoy you any further.

Please enjoy the chapter <3

See the end of the chapter for more notes

“Little one”

Jimin squeezed his eyes further shut, exhaustion still vivid in his body, muscles aching, causing him to whimper.

“Little one” The soft, yet deep voice called out again, a gentle hand brushing Jimin's hair out of his face, a thumb rubbing over his cheekbone tenderly.

Slowly, Jimin's eyes fluttered opened, his vision still blurry as a figure appeared in front of his gaze. Involuntarily, Jimin's eyes fell shut again, the boy blinking a couple of times until he adjusted to his surroundings.

“Hey, angel” Jungkook whispered, slight concern in his eyes.

It was only then that Jimin noticed that Jungkook had picked him up, the pink haired one subconsciously clinging onto him as he had wrapped himself around the taller boy, essentially going slack in his strong embrace, but still somehow managing to hold onto him unconsciously. Then again, Jungkook had proven his strength numerous times, carrying Jimin with ease like he had done several times before, the previous sex against the wall being any indication or evidence of that fact.

Almost inevitably at this point, a shiver ran down Jimin's back at the reminder of Jungkook taking him up against the wall – Hang on, was Jimin really okay? Jungkook had just thoroughly taken him from behind against a counter, why was Jimin getting aroused again by the thought of even more sex? Was the poor boy really that horny?

“Jimin-ah, hey, talk to me, angel” Jungkook interrupted his thoughts, walking back to the counter and setting Jimin down on the cold surface. The latter whined as his sore butt came in contact with the counter, Jungkook swiftly apologising and picking him back up, “Shit, sorry”

“I-It's fine” Jimin finally spoke, voice sounding somewhat foreign to him, so small, so raspy, yet still as gentle as ever.

Nodding, Jungkook sat the boy in his arms down on the counter, spreading his legs and moving inbetween them.

“Can you tell me how you are, Jimin-ah? Just tell me whether I went to far, baby” The black haired boy wanted to know, seriousness mixed with his usual softness glistening in his eyes as he stared intently at Jimin, wanting the boy to be honest although it could potentially hurt him to the core to know the answer.

Jimin pulled his brows together, blinking again as he shook his head, “No, you didn't, I promise” He then answered, somehow still caught in that sweet haze, floating somewhere.

“I'm going to run us a bath, little one, is that okay?”

Jimin found himself nodding, Jungkook bringing his hands up to his neck simultaneously in order to unfasten the collar. The action caused Jimin to flinch, the boy jerking back in his position as he looked at the younger male with something similar to fear in his eyes, “W-What are you doing?”

“I'm just taking off the collar, baby” Jungkook answered, stilling his movement immediately upon noticing Jimin's discomfort with his action, “Is that okay?”

“W-Why?”

The taller boy frowned as he titled his head to the side, “We're done, little one”

“D-Done?” Jimin echoed, making himself smaller.

Assuming that Jimin might have misunderstood, Jungkook's eyes widened as he shook his head, “No, baby, no, we're not done. What I mean is that we're done with the sex... for today, hm?”

“But... but...”

“Little one, the collar is just for you to wear while we fu- I mean, it's just for you to wear while we have sex, hm? You don't have to wear it outside of that, remember?”

Right.

Yet, why did Jimin want to keep it on?
Maybe because he liked the feeling of it around his throat... maybe because he liked what it represented, what it meant.

Maybe because for some reason he was scared to take it off? Why was a part of him worried that taking it off would equal to him no longer belonging to Jungkook? That was utterly absurd. Nothing would change regardless of him wearing the collar or not.

For some reason, Jimin was caught in an odd state of feeling very clingy, feeling needy, not wanting to part from Jungkook, wanting to be as close as possible to the boy and not have him leave him.

“It's time to take a bath now and give you all the cuddles you deserve, hm? I have to take the collar off of you because I want to check your throat, baby”

Jimin gave a faint nod, eyes appearing dazed to Jungkook who frowned at his lover's expression.

“Little one, are you okay? Why don't you want me to take it off? Do you like wearing it that much?” Jungkook wanted to know, gripping Jimin's chin softly to guide his face up, locking eyes with him.

“I like wearing it a lot” Jimin admitted, cheeks turning a shade of pink, “I-I don't know... I think I'm just very sleepy and my-my head feels dizzy”

“Mhm, I know, baby, I was very rough on you today. Were such a good boy for me, weren't you? Can you be a good boy for me one more time and let me take off your collar?” Jungkook asked, voice soft as his fingertips traced over Jimin's collarbones, wandering closer to the object wrapped around his throat.

Nodding, Jimin observed how Jungkook gently took of the collar, placing it down on the counter next to him before he grabbed Jimin's chin again to guide his face further up, exposing the pink haired boy's throat to him.

“It's slightly reddened” Jungkook noted, apology and something similar to pain flashing in his eyes, “Does it hurt a lot?”

Honestly, Jimin's throat didn't hurt one bit. It was more the overall soreness his body was experiencing that exhausted him. Other than that, he didn't feel anything else that was causing him pain. After all, he would most likely only be aware of the actual pain tomorrow as he was still trapped in that sweet high.

However, Jungkook appeared to feel very sorry, his fingers gently tracing over Jimin's throat like he was attempting to soothe the pain he imagined Jimin was experiencing.

“It doesn't hurt, I promise. I'm just... exhausted, sleepy. My body feels sore, but my throat doesn't hurt, really, Kook-ah”

Looking back and forth between Jimin's eyes to ensure that he was sincere, Jungkook gave a faint nod before he pressed a kiss to Jimin's forehead. Then, he turned around and ran them a bath.

Jimin found himself still weakly shivering. However, the boy wasn't certain whether it was caused by the tiredness of his body or by the faint coldness that had settled in the bathroom. Swiftly, Jimin received an answer as he noticed goosebumps rising on his skin, conveying that he was lightly freezing indeed.

Slowly, Jimin began to swing his legs back and forth, gaze fixated on the taller boy who tugged his shirt over his head, tossing it to the floor without a care. Truthfully, Jimin had completely overlooked the fact of Jungkook having been dressed this whole time, the poor boy having been way too caught up in the pleasure he had experienced.

Yet, now, Jimin couldn't help but allow his eyes to wander over Jungkook's exposed upper body, defined abs and v-line catching his attention. Despite just having been gifted such an intense orgasm and even having been fucked into overstimulation, Jimin found himself swallowing hard at the sight as he drew his thighs together almost unconsciously.

Jungkook didn't notice his staring, had turned around to check the temperature of the water, now exposing his broad back and shoulders to Jimin who had to catch his bottom lip between his teeth in order to stay silent.

“You like your baths warm, don't you, baby?” The black haired boy wondered – although he already knew the answer – as he spun back around while removing his trousers simultaneously.

The smaller one only blinked, his dazed mind taking its time to register that Jungkook had addressed him – which, well, who else should he be talking to? - as he was still distracted by Jungkook's body, his eyes now glued to his muscular thighs.

Jimin was doomed.

“Angel?”

Shaking his head to draw himself out of his thoughts, Jimin lifted his head up, locking eyes with Jungkook who was already staring at him, amusement glistening in his eyes as he titled his head to the side.

“I see you're occupied?” Jungkook noted cheekily, approaching Jimin who gulped as he felt his cheeks turn a darker shade of pink.

“I-I-”

“Staring at me, hm, angel?” Jungkook whispered, smirking as he closed his hands around Jimin's hips, rubbing his thumbs over the milky skin.

“I like staring at you... all the time” Jimin found himself admit, voice soft and quiet, barely audible for Jungkook to register, but he did.

Jungkook chuckled, Jimin only then realising how creepy that actually sounded, blush deepening as his eyes went wide.

“I-I mean, I- That sounded so weird, I just meant that I-“

“It's fine, Jimin-ah” Jungkook snickered, eyes lighting up as he leaned in to press a kiss to Jimin's flushed cheek, “I like staring at you, too, pretty baby”

Hiding his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck, Jimin whined in embarrassment, wanting to blame his stupid way of expressing himself on his utterly sleepy and dazed mind, but, to be fair, wasn't he behaving like that all the time? Frankly, there weren't many incidents were Jimin didn't embarrass himself in some shape or form in front of Jungkook. Then again, could you actually blame him? Jungkook just made the poor boy feel all flustered - a lot.

“You're so cold, little one” Jungkook noticed, warm hands caressing Jimin's back, the boy clinging further to Jungkook, attempting to hide himself in the warmth the younger male was radiating, “Come on now, let's get you in the bath”
With that, Jungkook picked Jimin up with ease, the latter swiftly wrapping his arms around Jungkook's neck with a yelp, allowing the stronger boy to lift him up and carry him over to the bathtub.

A content sigh slipped from either boy once they sat down in the bathtub, Jungkook having adjusted himself in the back as he pulled Jimin inbetween his legs. The water felt so nice against their skin, the warmth immediately engulfing Jimin after enduring the shivering of his body for several minutes.

"Lean back" Jungkook murmured into his ear, Jimin more than delighted to oblige as he leaned his head back on Jungkook's shoulder as the taller one wrapped his arms around Jimin's delicate body.

Silence settled between them, Jimin finding comfort in the way he was capable of feeling Jungkook's heart beat against him, in the way Jungkook was breathing softly against his skin. Slowly, Jungkook began to rub his hands over Jimin's stomach, carefully caressing his body while cleaning him simultaneously.

Jimin's eyes fluttered shut at the tenderness, Jungkook gently stroking his palms over Jimin's thighs and down inbetween his legs. In response, Jimin twitched, his intimate parts still too sensitive for even the slightest touch.

"Is this okay?" Jungkook whispered into his ear, his movement having stilled immediately, "Just wanna clean you, hm?"

Giving a nod, Jimin spread his thighs, observing Jungkook's hand disappearing between his legs as the boy carefully cleaned his hole, soft with his touch so he wouldn't trigger any more oversensitivity. Jimin couldn't help but gasp, one palm gripping Jungkook's upper thigh as the black haired male proceeded to clean him, hands now tracing up Jimin's legs as he pressed a kiss to his nape, "Sssh, it's okay"

Jungkook proceeded to rub his hands over Jimin's stomach, fingertips tracing over his inner thighs before they travelled back up to his stomach, brushing over his chest faintly to comfort the boy.

Several minutes passed while Jungkook continued caressing him, Jimin finding himself slip into such a sweet haze of sleepiness.

"Angel" Jungkook whispered, breaking the silence as he pressed his lips to Jimin's shoulder, "Are you ready for bed or do you want to stay here a little longer?"

"Bed, please" Jimin mumbled, eyes still shut when he felt Jungkook get up behind him, stepping out of the bathtub in order to pick some towels out of the cabinet before he returned.

Carefully, he lifted Jimin out of the bathtub, carrying the boy over to the counter where a towel was already placed for him. Gently, he set Jimin down on the soft towel, wrapping another one around him.

At that, Jimin's eyes fluttered back open, the sleepy boy yawning as he glanced up at Jungkook, cheeks turning a shade of pink upon noticing that Jungkook was already staring intently at him, affection glistening in his eyes as he smiled at his lover.

"Gotta dry you first, hm, baby?" Jungkook noted as he rubbed the towel over Jimin's body, standing there in front of Jimin completely wet and naked, seemingly more interested in making sure Jimin was warm before caring about himself.

Jimin's heart fluttered at that as he reached for another towel, wrapping it around Jungkook. The taller boy halted, locking eyes with Jimin again. A smile danced around his lips as he closed the towel around his waist, “You gotta dry yourself, too” Jimin decided, rubbing the towel over Jungkook’s body determinately – well, as good as he was able to - earning him a chuckle from Jungkook who stroked his thumb over his cheekbone.

“Thank you, little one”

Once they were both no longer wet, Jungkook picked Jimin up and walked over to the bedroom, gently lying the boy down on the soft bedsheets, towel slipping from his body in the process, causing the pink haired boy to lie there completely naked.

Jungkook couldn’t help but gulp at the sight, the image Jimin created literally causing his heart to do some fluttering shit.

What a beauty.

What a fucking angel he was.

His pink locks had fallen into his face, the innocent boy blinking as he parted lips - clearly wanting to say something - his cheeks were flushed in such a pretty pink, his milky skin covered in Jungkook’s marks, the beautiful boy just lying there and being all his... fuck.

“I’ll be right back” Jungkook then uttered, brushing Jimin's hair out of his face before he indicated to leave, resulting in Jimin lifting his petite hand up in order to close it around Jungkook’s wrist, tugging on it.

“D-Don't, I-”

“I’ll be right back, I promise. I'll just get you some fresh clothes and clean up the mess on the counter. I won't take longer than a minute”

Pouting, Jimin allowed Jungkook's wrist to slip from his grasp, watching it return to Jungkook's side who smiled fondly at him, leaning in to peck Jimin's pouting lips before he withdrew and swiftly disappeared into the bathroom.

The smaller one blinked, staring up at the ceiling as his body began to shiver again. Despite him just having taken a warm bath, his body was now exposed to the slightly colder air of the room.

Suddenly, the buzzing of a phone broke the silence of the room, startling Jimin who jerked in on himself as he scanned the room for the object that created the noise. It didn't take long for him to find Jungkook's phone lighting up on the nightstand, indicating that he was receiving a call.

Jimin wouldn't doubt it being work related, having seen first hand how Jungkook's profession included him receiving calls from work essentially all around the clock, the man seemingly having to be available the whole day. To be fair, Jimin figured that it was one of the prices one had to pay for owning a company. Although Jungkook didn't seem to mind – at least he had never voiced any annoyance – it surely wasn't the most pleasant part of the job.

“K-Kook-ah, your phone!” Jimin called out, voice breaking due to it being strained, the pink haired one grimacing at the sound.

It didn't take long for Jungkook to return after that, carrying pieces of clothes in his hand while being dressed in a fresh pair of briefs and a white shirt himself, “Thanks, babe” Jungkook noted as he picked up his phone, glancing at it for a moment as he pressed his lips into a line.

“You can call back if you want to. I mean... in case it's important. I don't mind” Jimin assured, noticing that Jungkook was conflicted over whether to call back or not.

Eventually, the taller one shook his head, turning his phone off before he tossed it back on the nightstand, “I'll call back in the morning. Now, I'm all here for you”

Smiling shyly, Jimin gave a small nod as Jungkook kneeled down on the bed, helping him put on the new pair of briefs. Jimin wriggled his hips around in an attempt to make the process easier, causing Jungkook to chuckle at how adorable the boy was.

“Can you sit up for me, baby?”

Giving a nod, Jimin sat up, face scrunched up in discomfort as black dots appeared in front of his eyes, a result of Jimin having complied too quickly.

“Arms up”

Jimin obliged, lifting his hands up into the air so Jungkook could pull a hoodie over his head, the big piece of clothing swallowing Jimin's delicate body. Clearly, the hoodie was too big on him, but it engulfed him in warmth and softness so beautifully, the faint scent of Jungkook still sticking to it immediately washing comfort over Jimin who inhaled a deep breath as he pressed his nose against the collar of the hoodie.

The younger male smiled, the sight of Jimin wearing his hoodie and looking absolutely adorable in it melting his heart. It was mesmerising, to say the least. Jimin was mesmerising, always looking like the most beautiful creature walking this earth no matter what he wore – or didn't wear.

Jungkook picked up the towel and tossed it to the floor with little care before joining Jimin on the bed, the pink haired one more than delighted as he scooted over, body longing for Jungkook to hold him.

Gently, Jungkook reached for Jimin and pulled the boy closer, wrapping his strong arms around his petite body. A content sigh slipped from Jimin's lips as he turned over, hiding his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck while the latter tugged the soft blanket over both of their bodies.

Without an ounce of hesitation, Jungkook began to trace his fingertips over Jimin's back, pressing a kiss to the top of his head, the touch causing Jimin's eyes to flutter shut.

Although Jimin was more than just sleepy, he found himself reminisce about their sex just moments ago, questions popping up in his head that he desired to find answers to. After all this time of being intimate with Jungkook, there were still unanswered things that Jimin didn't quite understand.

Clearing his throat, Jimin titled his head to the side so his face wasn't pressed into Jungkook's neck any longer, “Kook-ah?” He murmured with a soft voice, the taller male humming in acknowledgement as he dipped his head down, gaze falling on the boy in his arms, “Can I ask you something?”

“Of course”

“Earlier when you... I mean, when we had sex, I really didn't believe I would be able to come again. It was just too overwhelming and simply too much”

“I'm sorry, little one, please use your safe words, if anything like that-”

“No” Jimin quickly interrupted, shaking his head vigorously upon Jungkook blaming himself for something he truly didn't need to apologise for, “I didn't mean it like that. You- you made me feel amazing, really, I loved it a lot. It's just... I just wasn't able to come again"

Jungkook proceeded to caress Jimin's back, smiling at the smaller one, “That's okay, little one, we don't have to push you over your limits. If you didn't feel like you were able to do it, that's completely fine.”

“I'm just confused because... why did it feel too much to the point where I didn't think I would be able to come again when I was previously capable of coming multiple times by you?” Jimin elaborated, cheeks turning a shade of pink.

“There's many factors that could contribute to that. Some days are just different than others. You might not like something that you previously enjoyed. Your body might not be capable of bearing something that you were previously able of handling. That doesn't mean there is anything odd happening to you, baby, it just means that you're reacting to certain things in a different way during that day.”

The smaller boy thought over those words, taking a moment to process them before he gave a faint nod.

“That can change for your kinks, too. Maybe one day you won't enjoy me doing something to you that you previously wanted me to do. Things like that happen, little one. So, if one day, you decide that you don't like something that you prior asked me to do to you, please tell me. Don't feel like you can't speak up. I want you to feel comfortable and enjoy it, not to feel forced into something because you once liked it but don't anymore, hm, baby?”

Jimin nodded again, apparently to Jungkook's dissatisfaction.

“Promise me, Jimin-ah”

At that, Jimin glanced up at the boy, looking back and forth between his beautiful brown orbs, “I promise you” He uttered, Jungkook leaning in to press a kiss to his forehead.

“Is there anything that I did today that you didn't enjoy?” The black haired one then wanted to know, gently sliding his hand through Jimin's hair.

Cocking his head to the side, Jimin furrowed his brows, contemplating over that question, “Uhm, well... there was nothing I didn't enjoy” he then answered truthfully, cheeks turning a darker shade of pink under Jungkook's intent stare – despite it being only an attentive one – as he cleared his throat, “It's just... You told me you were going to punish me and... and I'm just wondering what you were going to do to me? So far, you've punished me with spanks, but are there other things you would do to punish me?”

Jungkook arched up his eyebrows, seemingly surprised by his words, “Are you asking me because you want me to punish you in a different way?” Jungkook wondered, rubbing his thumb over Jimin's flushed cheek, the boy dipping his head down to avert his gaze, “Or are you just curious in general?”

He added, gripping Jimin's chin to guide his face back up.

“I-I'm just curious... or... or maybe both” Jimin found himself answer, voice turning quieter with each word as he swallowed hard.

“Jimin-ah, do you understand the idea of punishments?”

“I do” Jimin answered without hesitation. They've talked about it before. Jimin was aware that good boys got rewarded and naughty boys were punished. As long as he behaved, he wouldn't have to worry about being punished. Yet, whenever he was naughty, Jungkook would make sure to punish him for disobeying, “Naughty boys get punished”

A low breath slipped from Jungkook's lips, Jimin saying those words so innocently clearly affecting him in a way Jimin didn’t even realise.

“Exactly. Naughty boys get punished for being bad and for misbehaving”

“And... and are they always punished with spanks?” The pink haired boy wondered.

“It depends. I would punish you in a way I see fitting in that certain situation, but I would never cross any of your limits nor would I ignore your safe words during any moment. In certain situations, a slight spank or tug on your collar seemed to work on getting you to obey, but in case you're too disobedient, I might turn to different punishments”

“L-Like what?” Jimin whispered, eyes not leaving Jungkook's, something flashing in them.

“Punishments are about discipline. In case you don't behave, I have to punish you in a way that will assure that you'll behave the next time. It's quite complicated, actually. Well, not the punishing part, but I guess the idea behind it. Certain people misbehave purposely so they receive a punishment because they enjoy the pain. Others don't enjoy the punishing part as a whole, but enjoy being disciplined and be put back in their place.”

Frowning, Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth in thought, his sleepy brain attempting to process that information.

“So, some people enjoy punishments?”

“They do. You enjoy being spanked, little one, don't you? That's what I do to punish you, but you enjoy the pain so it's not actually punishing you, is it?”

Swallowing hard, Jimin shook his head. Clearly, the smaller one did enjoy being spanked quite a lot, loved the pain that send jolts of pleasure through his body, loved being disciplined by Jungkook – sometimes even in a very rough way, “I do like it... I mean, I don't know why I like it so much, but... but it feels good. Makes me feel really good, Kook-ah.”

“I know, baby” Jungkook smiled, stroking his thumb over Jimin's cheekbone.

“I guess... I guess it isn't a real punishment then?”

“Well, it still is in a way, I would say. Of course, you enjoy it, but you also try to behave after I do it because you take it as a warning, hm?”

Jimin nodded, somehow hesitant to ask his next question. However, Jungkook appeared to notice that there was something else lingering in Jimin's mind.

“What is it, baby?”

“What else is there you would do?”

Jungkook halted, fingertips tracing down to Jimin's lips, the pad of his thumb pressing down on his bottom lip to part them as he leaned in and pecked the boy. The pink haired boy's eyes fluttered shut at the touch, heart melting at the softness.

“I will do anything to you that you want me to” Jungkook murmured against his lips, withdrawing, but still lingering close to Jimin, his lips still brushing Jimin's.
Swallowing hard, a shaky breath slipped from Jimin's lips, his tongue poking out to wet his bottom lip unconsciously, Jungkook smirking when he noticed.

“I-I don't know what... what else there is that... that you could do to me”

“There is a lot of things. Most of them include pain. I don't want to scare you off though, little one”

Jimin shook his head, “Y-You won't scare me. I promise. I'll tell you when there is something that sounds too frightening to me. You told me to be honest and comfortable with you so I want you to feel the same with me”

Jungkook smiled, capturing his lips in another kiss.

“Well, certain object could be used to intensify the pain you're receiving, like whips or paddles for example. Then I could also deny you your orgasm completely. Or the opposite, make you come multiple times until you can't take it anymore. There is a lot of possible things I could do”

“O-Oh... p-paddles?” Jimin breathed, a shiver running down his back at the mention of whips and paddles.

“Yes, baby. We don't have to use those, though”

Jimin inhaled another shaky breath.

“W-We can... I mean, I... I don't know, I'm kind of curious to know how that would feel like, but then again that wouldn't be the purpose of a punishment after all then? Isn't it supposed to hurt me? I should dislike it, right?”

Jungkook’s eyes widened, “No, baby, no you don't have to dislike it. You might not be the most fond of it, but if it's something you completely dislike or that hurts you to the point of actually harming you and you feeling nothing else but discomfort, then I'm not going to do it. It's supposed to discipline you, not harm you for life.”

“Oh” Jimin murmured again, resting his head on Jungkook's chest while keeping eyecontact with the boy, “Then... Maybe we could try that? I mean, we could try different punishments? In case I misbehave we could... we could try something else. You can do to me what you see fitting, if I... if I misbehave again... which I'll try not to do of course” Jimin tried to voice his thoughts, attempting to form a coherent sentence without stumbling over his words, yet appeared to struggle quite a bit.

The taller boy wet his lips, giving a nod as he brushed Jimin's hair out of his face, “Little one, is there something you can think of that you don't want me to do at all?”

To be fair, Jimin couldn't think of anything. Perhaps that was caused by his lack of experience, there was nothing that came up in Jimin's mind.

“N-Not really, no”

“Okay, Jimin-ah. I will think about it and make sure to try something else next time. The most important thing, though, please don't forget to use your safewords if needed, okay? Remember that although it's a punishment, I don't want you to feel like you have to endure it, if you really can't take it and just feel too uncomfortable, yes?”

“Yes, Kook-ah, I promise”

Smiling warmly at the pink haired boy, Jungkook attached their lips in a soft kiss before Jimin snuggled even closer to him and placed his head on top of Jungkook's broad chest. The latter's hand immediately found it's way back on Jimin's back, caressing the boy while Jimin's palm wandered up, sliding through Jungkook's hair to play with it, scratching tenderly over his scalp every now and then.

It didn't take long for them to fall asleep, both too exhausted from the events of the day, finally drifting off into their dreams, finding comfort in each other's touches.

-----

Jimin pulled his legs up to his chest, nibbling on his bottom lip as he rested his head on top of his knees, heart pounding fast against his chest. Simultaneously, he was playing with the card in his hand, twisting it in his clammy palm.

The continuous beeping ringed in his ear, phone pressed to it with a shaking hand.

Why was Jimin so nervous?

In that moment, Jungkook reappeared in the room, approaching Jimin with curious eyes. The smaller boy only shook his head, conveying that no one had picked up the call yet.

“Eat your breakfast” Jungkook insisted, pressing a kiss to Jimin's head as he pointed at his barely touched food on the plate, Jungkook having prepared breakfast for them this morning.

“In just a moment” Jimin assured, picking up a grape and putting it in his mouth to satisfy Jungkook, decreasing his concern.

The taller boy rolled his eyes, but smiled fondly, “I'll get my stuff from upstairs”

Jimin gave a nod, chewing on his food as he listened to Jungkook’s footsteps distancing, the audible sound on the wooden floor turning quieter until Jimin didn't hear them anymore, the beeping of the phone line amplified in his ears.

Suddenly, there was a click, indicating that someone had picked up the call.

“Hello, I'm Kim Jieun, working for YK entertainment. How can I help you?” A woman with a sweet voice beamed.

The pink haired male almost choked on the food in his mouth, barely able to swallow it down as he ended up coughing several times. Swiftly, he swatted his chest, sitting upright.

“H-Hello, this is Park Jimin” Jimin greeted the woman, voice slightly shaking, underlining his nervousness, “I've been given this number by the CEO himself. He told me to call him in case I'm interested in-”

“Ah, I see. Park Jimin, yes” The female voice interrupted him, typing something down, presumably on a keyboard, “Your call has been expected, Park Jimin. I understand your call as you being interested in a spot in the company? Is that right?”

“Ah, I see. Park Jimin, yes” The female voice interrupted him, typing something down, presumably on a keyboard, “Your call has been expected, Park Jimin. I understand your call as you being interested in a spot in the company? Is that right?”

“Yes” Jimin answered swiftly, straightening his back, “Yes, that's correct. I am interested, but I haven't made up my mind yet. I was curious whether or not it would be possible for me to have a conversation with the CEO, just to get an idea of what exactly this offer would include. On the day he gave me the number, we didn't exactly have time to talk much, so there was no chance of me asking much about it or really have an understanding of what the offer is” Jimin elaborated, somehow feeling rude for asking for a personal meeting because he was certain that the CEO was very busy. It wasn't that Jimin was demanding for anything, he was only asking politely for a chance to talk. Hopefully, it wouldn't cause him to lose this offer.

“I understand. It is under my perception that the CEO is very busy today, so I'll see what I can do for you.”

“Oh, it doesn't have to be today. I would... would prefer it to be this week, though, if that's possible. Please.”

The woman hummed in acknowledgement, typing something on her keyboard again, “I'll talk to him after his meeting and let him know about your request. I'll get back to you later today.”

“That's great. Thank you, have a nice day”

“You, too”

With that, the call was ended, Jimin letting out a breath that he hadn't even noticed of holding as he sank back into the chair. Then, he pulled his phone away from his ear, staring at it for a moment before he smiled.

“And?” Jungkook's deep voice suddenly spoke behind the smaller boy, startling him. Jimin jerked up in his seat, almost yelping in shock because he hadn't noticed Jungkook at all. The latter cooed, wrapping his arms around Jimin as he leaned down to rest his head on top of Jimin's shoulder, “Sorry, little one, didn't mean to scare you. How did it go?”

“It wasn't him that I talked to. It was a Kim Jieun. She told me she would get back to me for a possible meeting” Jimin shared.

“Ah, Jieun-ssi. That's his secretary” Jungkook revealed, picking a grape from Jimin's plate that he put in his mouth before he straightened his back.

“How do you know?” Jimin wondered, frowning as he sank his feet back down to the floor, observing Jungkook.

“I've been there before. I told you that I know Yang Kijung, Jimin-ah. He's friends with my father. They have known each other for a very long time” Jungkook answered, yet the boy seemed to know her a little more than just through Yang, considering the way he was adressing her first name.

“That's all?” Jimin asked, arching up his eyebrows in suspicion.

“What do you mean?” The black haired boy muttered, swallowing down the grape as he furrowed his brows in confusion.

“I mean... is that all you know her from?” Jimin clarified, not entirely sure why he was so curious about that.

“Do you really want to know?” Jungkook asked, arching up his eyebrow as he cocked his head to the side.

Oh.

What was that supposed to mean?

“Did you... did you...” Jimin attempted to mutter, but appeared to struggle with finding the right words. After all, he didn't want to assume anything, but a lot hinted at his assumption not being that “I had sex with her before, yes, if that's what you're trying to ask” Jungkook replied almost nonchalantly, shrugging his shoulders.

Just great.

“O-Oh” Jimin murmured, averting his gaze at the weird clenching of his heart at that revelation. Oddly enough, the sweetness of her voice was now something he swiftly wanted to banish from his memory, the assumption of her being very pretty appearing in his head.

“Jimin-ah” The younger male soothed, grasping Jimin's chin and gently guiding his face back up, rubbing his thumb over Jimin's cheekbone a moment later, “That was a long time ago. Long before I even knew you. It didn't mean anything. I fucked her this one time after a party their company threw. I never had any romantic feelings for her. I don't even talk to her regularly. The only times I talk to her is when I'm at YK entertainment's building, but those times are rare and I honestly haven't been there in months. She's nice and pretty, but I never wanted her in the way I want you. In the way I have you”

The smaller one caught his bottom lip between his teeth, his heart fluttering at those words.

Their fling had been a long time ago – even before Jimin and Jungkook even knew each other. Clearly, it didn't seem to have meant that much. At least, it didn't mean anything now because now Jungkook was with him, chose him, wanted him, loved him.

Jimin found himself relax, the stupid voices inside of his head having made him feel insecure – although there was no reason to.

Smiling shyly, Jimin gave a faint nod, “I'm sorry, I shouldn't even have asked. That was a long time ago and it's none of my business. I know that you've been with people before. It's just... sometimes I seem to forget it”

Jungkook leaned against the table, brushing Jimin's strands of pink hair out of his face, “I've fucked people before, but I've never felt what I feel for you, Jimin-ah. Everything is different with you. Everything is so much better with you. Those people are my past and none of it meant anything, no matter how nice or pretty they were.”

Jimin's smile grew as he dipped his head down, feeling his cheeks turn a shade of pink, “It's just... kind of odd to know that there might be people out there that I'll meet that you could potentially have been with”

The taller boy arched up his eyebrows, snickering, “Baby, I haven't fucked the whole city. I had my fair share, but the chances of you meeting them are very slim. Jieun-ssi is just an exception. I didn't think that it mattered so I never mentioned it once you had received the offer. It's not important to me because it didn't mean anything.”

“It... it doesn't matter... I don't know, it's stupid. It's just...” Jimin attempted to explain, but went silent as he shook his head. To be honest, Jimin felt immature for these thoughts, for feeling insecure of meeting people Jungkook had slept with before. It was one thing to just see them once, never having to talk to them again, but Jieun would work there, too. Jimin would have to see her everyday, knowing that Jungkook had touched her.

The pink haired boy shook his head, feeling ashamed for thinking like this. Just because he had never been with someone else before didn't mean that it was the case for everyone else out there – especially not for Jungkook. That's just not how life worked.

“It's not stupid, baby, it just... I don't think you should be bothered by it. It didn't mean anything and even if you work there, you won't necessarily have to see her. She's a nice person, though, so even if you two see each other, I'm sure you would get along” Jungkook assured.

Sighing, Jimin gave a faint nod, still not capable of preventing those thoughts from creeping up in his mind.

“How old... how old is she?”

“Does that matter?” Jungkook wondered, titling his head to the side.

Averting his gaze, Jimin shook his head. It didn't actually matter, Jimin was just curious.

“I think she's 27 now” The taller boy decided to answer, pushing himself up from the table.

“O-Oh”

“Jimin-ah, I'm sorry, maybe I shouldn't have told you. I didn't think it would be this kind of a big deal. If I had known that it would bother you, I would've kept it to myself. It's just... you know that I've been with people before. Although those times didn't mean anything to me, they're still a part of me.”

“I know, I know” Jimin whined, sighing as he pushed his hair back, frustrated with himself and feeling guilty for his behaviour, “I'm sorry. I don't want to make it a big deal. You assured me that it didn't mean anything and that it was a long time ago. That makes me feel better. It's just... it's just difficult because I've never been in a relationship before and it's weird to meet someone you've been with. It's quite a coincidence, too, I mean, who would have thought that I would receive an offer for a spot in the company where one of your past flings works?”

Jungkook was about to say something, but swiftly shut his mouth, pressing his lips into a line.

“We should get going now. I have an important meeting this morning” Jungkook insisted, walking past Jimin who got up from the chair and placed his hands on his hips, narrowing his eyes.

“What is it? What did you want to say?”

“Nothing” The younger one brushed it off, reaching for Jimin and gesturing for him to come closer as he grabbed the doorknob of the front door with his other hand.

“What is it?”

“It's not... one” Jungkook clarified, clearing his throat.

“Not one what?” Jimin digged, not exactly knowing what he was referring to.

“Jieun-ssi isn't the only one working there that I've fucked before” At that, Jungkook opened the door, reaching his hand out to Jimin, “Come on now, little one” Jungkook urged before he exited the apartment.

Jimin blinked once, “What?” He called out in bewilderment, rushing after the boy, stepping out of the apartment.
“It would have been nice to know of it before” Jimin revealed when they were seated in the car, Jimin having stared outside the window for several minutes in silence, watching the busy city flash by.

“Of what?” Jungkook asked confused, taking a glimpse at the boy before fixating his gaze back on the road.

“Of people that you have slept with before working at the company that I received an offer for” Jimin elaborated, playing with the hem of his shirt.

“Jimin-ah, do you want me to count out every person I've had sex with before? I don't even remember some of them”

Nibbling on his bottom lip, Jimin shook his head, “No, you're right... it's stupid.”

“Jimin-ah, I really didn't think of it as much. I didn't think it would be a big deal. Do you think it would have changed anything? Do you think you wouldn't have wanted to apply in case I had told you sooner? If that's the case, I'm glad for not telling you earlier because that's a huge opportunity for you and I don't want anything to get in the way of that for you”

Gosh, why was Jungkook always right? - Or, well, plenty of times... okay, most of the times.

The pink haired boy gave a weak nod, pressing his eyes shut as he sank back into his seat. It wouldn't have changed anything, Jungkook had a point. Surely, Jimin would have hesitated in the beginning, but in the end he would have still decided to at least attempt to earn a spot in the company. After all, this truly was his dream and a simple one-night-stand of Jungkook shouldn't be the cause of his dream to crumble.

Perhaps, she was even a nice girl – like Jungkook was claiming her to be. Who knows, maybe they would become friends in the end?

Okay, well, that might be acting a little precipitous. After all, Jimin didn't actually know her yet. However, he shouldn't go in with the feeling of disliking her simply for Jungkook having touched her before. That was immature and, honestly, a little unfair to the girl– woman.

Jimin should stay professional and look past this, if he wanted to work there.

“Why are you always right?” Jimin mumbled, crossing his arms over his chest, “I'm sorry for... for making a big deal out of this”

Jungkook smiled warmly, grabbing Jimin's inner thigh and giving it a reassuring squeeze, “Little one, stop apologising for the way you're feeling. I wouldn't like the idea of you being with someone else either. I know that it's weird in a way, but it didn't mean anything. So, let's just focus on you getting that spot in the company instead of my past one-night-stands, hm?”

The smaller boy gave a nod, glancing at Jungkook who had reached for his hand, lifting it up to his lips to press a kiss to his knuckles. The action caused a smile to appear on Jimin's face, the boy giggling as Jungkook began to pepper kisses all over his hand.

“Focus on driving, Kook-ah, before you get us both killed”

Jungkook snickered, allowing Jimin's hand to slip from his grasp before he closed his own palm around the steering wheel again.

Slowly, Jimin's gaze wandered back to the window, the boy drawing his attention on the cars they were passing, the different stores with people entering and exiting with heavy bags in their hands, the slight breeze that was visible by the leaves moving from side to side in the trees.

“Two though? Really?” Jimin uttered amused as he fixated his eyes on the black haired boy in the driver's seat.

“Yes, Jimin-ah, I've had a thing with two people there. Now let's stop talking about it” Jungkook chuckled, shaking his head.

“I'm sorry... I just can't seem to stop thinking about it. What are the odds, huh? What are the odds of me applying for exactly this company?” Jimin wondered, voice quiet and distant as he was drawn into thought.

“Sometimes the universe really works in a fucked up way, baby” Jungkook stated, Jimin finding himself agree as he nodded, playing with the hem of his shirt absentmindedly.

“Did you... did you enjoy the sex with them?” Jimin found himself ask before he was able to stop himself, voice just above a whisper. The pink haired boy's cheeks heated up at his own question, Jimin swiftly dipping his head down.

Jungkook took a glimpse at him, Jimin's timidity notable despite him being the one bringing it up. The flush on his cheeks was adorable, Jungkook smirking as he forced his gaze back on the road.

“The sex was good. Nothing mindblowing, but satisfying.”

“O-Oh”

“Why do you ask?”

Blush deepening, Jimin shook his head, “I'm sorry, I don't know why I brought it up. I spoke before I was able to stop myself” Jimin murmured, pulling his sleeves over his petite hands, “It's just that... that I've never done anything with anyone before you. You're my first in many things whereas you've... you've done so many things before me”

“Little one, just because I've done many things before you doesn't mean everything we do feels old to me or like I've done it before. In a way, everything feels new with you because I love you. Sex with you is something I can't even describe. It's fascinating, it's so much better. Trust me, Jimin-ah, I can't get enough of you” Jungkook assured, wetting his lips, “And that you haven't been touched by anyone but me is... Fuck, I love that I'm the first one who ever touched you like that, Jimin-ah.”

“I... I like that, too. I mean... I like that you're my first. I can't even imagine myself with someone else. I don't need to imagine myself with anyone else, either, because I have you”

Jungkook smirked, humming in agreement, “You have me, baby.”

They shared a glance, smiling at the other one before they averted their gazes, Jimin's heart fluttering at the thought of Jungkook being happy to be with him – not needing anyone else, enjoying their sex just as much as him.

Comfortable silence settled between them, Jimin taking glimpses at Jungkook's handsome face every now and then, causing Jungkook to smirk eventually when he noticed.

“What?”

“Nothing” Jimin quickly uttered, forcing his gaze back to the front, evoking a chuckle from Jungkook.

“Do you have another question, baby?” The taller boy then offered for Jimin to be enlightened some more.

“Well, I didn’t. I was just appreciating your beauty, but now that you’re asking: They don’t hate you, do they?”

“Who? The girls at the company?” Jungkook wondered amused.

“Yes” Jimin clarified, giving a nod, “I don’t want them to dislike me for associating me with you as I’m your boyfriend in case you’ve seriously hurt them to the point of them hating you” Jimin elaborated, catching his bottom lip between his teeth, “It ended on good terms, right?”

“They were one-night-stands and both of them knew. I still talk to Jieun-ssi when I see her, like I told you. The other girl, well... she knew, too, but I never really talked to her after it. I don’t think she felt anything for me after a simple fuck. Don’t worry about it, baby, it will be fine”

“You’re right. It will be fine” Jimin agreed, deciding that he had let this issue – that wasn’t actually an issue after all – consume his thoughts for long enough now, the boy determined to move on from this and to look forward to having a possible meeting with Yang.

“Exactly. You’ll have your meeting with Yang and he will give you his best offer because he really wants you in the company. You know, I could accompany you to the building so we can figure out whether or not the girls hate me” Jungkook teased, smirking cheekily as he glanced at Jimin.

“Oh, shut up” Jimin chuckled, shaking his head as he playfully swatted Jungkook’s arm.

---

Jimin was stretching his limbs, drops of sweat dribbling down his face, falling to the floor beneath him. Swiftly, the pink haired boy reached for his towel, wiping it over his face to remove his sweat.

After tossing the towel to his backpack, Jimin picked up his water bottle, taking quick sips to keep himself hydrated, the cold fluid moving down his throat. Once he was done, he pulled the bottle away, catching his breath, chest rising and falling rapidly.

Slowly, Jimin allowed his gaze to wander over to Hoseok, watching the brown haired boy talk to one of the other dance students. Hoseok had just broken the news to them that he was going to start working at his new place next week – meaning that he would have to figure out a different schedule for them, most likely having less time to teach them.

Obviously, they all adored Hoseok – especially Jimin – and would miss having him teach them as often, but they were all eternally happy for him. More than that, Jimin was so proud of him, was over the moon because he had received such an opportunity knowing that he deserved it like no one else.

They had went on with practice after that, Jimin’s body aching already, begging him to just lie down for the remainder of the day. However, the practice wasn’t over yet, Jimin also having to head to work at the library after this.

Suddenly, his phone rang inside of his backpack, Jimin swiftly scooting closer to his bag to rummage through his stuff, picking out his phone a moment later.

“Hello?” he answered without checking who was calling him.
“Park Jimin? This is Kim Jieun” a sweet female voice greeted, a sudden sour taste to her voice to Jimin's ears.

“YK entertainment?” the smaller male clarified, although he knew the answer already. For some reason, his heartbeat quickened, the boy nervous about the outcome of his earlier request.

“Yes, exactly. We've been able to arrange a meeting for you with the CEO after tomorrow. You should be here by 12pm as it fits his schedule best.”

“R-Really? Okay, yes, that's great. Thank you so much. I'll definitely be there on time” Jimin responded, a relieved breath slipping from his lips.

“You should. He's not one to appreciate someone who's late” the woman warned, yet her voice still as sweet as honey.

“I understand. I won't be late. Thank you” Jimin promised, body going slack as he felt a burden of nervousness lift from his shoulders. Honestly, Jimin had feared that his request might anger Yang as it could appear rude, but everything had seemed to go well.

“You're welcome. Have a nice day”

“You, too”

With that, Jimin hung up, catching his bottom lip between his teeth as he stared at the phone in his hand. The fear of being rejected had vanished, Jimin now relieved to know that Yang had accepted his request to meet him for an explanation about what the offer would include. However, now that one fear was gone, another one seemed to blossom inside of Jimin.

To be fair, the boy was very shy, and to have a conversation with such a powerful man on his own about his future and any kind of conditions Jimin would have – if Jimin would even be courageous enough to mention anything – slightly terrified him.

Then again, Jimin had become a bit more confident in his skin, didn't allow everyone to push him around anymore. This meeting was important to him and Jimin was going to be just fine.

What happened after it though? What if neither the conversation with Yang nor the one with Jungkook's father would enlighten Jimin any more about his decision? What if it only made it more difficult – knowing that each offer sounded more than amazing.

The pink haired boy sighed, shaking his head. Who knew, perhaps the decision wouldn't be that difficult on his side. Perhaps, he would receive a sign to make it easier.

Maybe the universe was going to be on his side for once.

“YK entertainment, huh?” A male voice interrupted Jimin's thoughts, startling the smaller boy who jerked up in his seat on the floor, lifting his head up to search for the source of the voice.

Dongha.

Jimin felt his stomach twist, the boy gulping upon noticing who it was that was standing in front of him. Surprise and curiosity were written on Dongha's face, his eyebrows arched up as he cocked his head to the side. The bruises on his face were faded, yet still visible to Jimin's eyes.

“Sorry, I didn't mean to eavesdrop. I was just resting right next to you so I heard you talk on the phone” Dongha apologised.
Jimin only smiled faintly, not entirely sure what to do in this situation. Sure, he was aware of the fact that he had promised Jungkook to stay away from the boy – hell, Jimin himself wanted to stay away from him – but it evidently wasn't the easiest task out there considering how they were both part of the same dance crew – slight encounters appeared to be inevitable.

Right now, Jimin was conflicted on whether he should simply ignore Dongha and walk away or entertain a conversation with him as to not come off as rude.

Silly, Jimin thought to himself as he was about to shake his head. Avoiding Dongha was not rude at all. It was more than justifiable after everything the boy had done to him.

“They’re a great company” Dongha added, smiling, “May I?” The boy wanted to know as he pointed to the spot on the floor next to Jimin.

The pink haired boy parted his lips, about to say that he wanted to be alone right now, yet could he really tell Dongha where to sit in a practice room that all of them were allowed to share?

“Dongha, I'm sorry, but what do you want?”

Dongha sighed, scratching the back of his neck, “I just wanted to talk to you. I miss us talking, Jimin-ah. We spent so much time together before... before-”

“Before you screwed all of that over, yes” Jimin interrupted him, frowning at the memory of Dongha ignoring his protests of being touched by him and forcefully attempting to enter his apartment, “You know what you did, Dongha. I'm sorry, but I don't think we should talk. There is nothing... there is nothing I have to talk to you about”

The brown haired boy gave a hesitant nod, “Right, I see. Well, I get that you don't want to talk to me or even see me or whatever, but I guess there is going to be no way around it” He stated, shrugging his shoulders.

“I know. We're both part of this group and I want to stay civil and professional. So please don't make it any harder by ignoring my protests yet again” Jimin replied, pushing his phone into his backpack.

“Oh, I wasn't talking about this group” Dongha clarified, pointing to the center of the room.

“Then what are you talking about?” Jimin wondered, pulling his brows together in a frown.

“Oh, I was offered a spot as a trainee in YK entertainment, too. What a coincidence, right?” Dongha grinned, something flashing in his eyes.

Jimin felt his heart stop, all the air being kicked out of his lungs upon the news reaching his ears, Dongha's voice amplified inside of Jimin's head.

“You- You what?” Jimin whispered, not entirely trusting his own voice at this point.

“I was offered to join for an audition and I passed. I'm going to be a trainee there, Jimin-ah. Isn't that great?” Dongha beamed, clearly excited – but also... also taunting in a way - whereas Jimin... well Jimin felt like he had been hit by a truck.

The smaller boy blinked, mouth agape in complete shock, utter horror written on his face. Maybe, he was even slightly scared by the thought of being a trainee with Dongha.

Now, Jimin was fully aware of what could have happened to him, if Jungkook hadn't been there both times to save him. Yes, he should have realised it sooner, but Jimin must have been caught in a state of shock or perhaps sympathy for the boy he thought and wanted to be beneath that horrible mask. Now, he saw clearer.

However, Jimin still didn't believe that Dongha was intentionally and solely evil, but that part of him that thought Jimin owed him his body for him being nice to Jimin for that long – and him attempting to achieve that by forcing himself on Jimin - clearly was messed up. As long as Dongha didn't want to fix that, didn't show any indication of changing that horrible part of him – Jimin would want to stay away from him – as far as possible.

“Alright guys, let's get back to practicing now” Hoseok decided, clapping his hand together to gain their attention, all of the students getting back up to their feet and gathering in front of their teacher.

Jimin's gaze wandered over to the mirrors, his eyes falling on his own reflection – lips still parted, eyes almost hollow.

Maybe the universe wasn't going to be on his side for this one.

---

“Jimin-ah, stop daydreaming” Somi chuckled, nudging Jimin's arm.

The pink haired boy was staring intently at the book in his hand, had wanted to place it back in the shelf several minutes ago, yet he appeared to be too caught up in his thoughts – mind still racing due to the earlier information that had been revealed to him.

Jimin didn't know whether or not he wished he had never received the news of Dongha being a trainee there. However, wasn't it better to know now rather than later in case he would accept the offer? Yet, what would it change? What was Jimin going to do now? Was he really going to let this offer go simply because of Dongha being there, too? Did he really want to give that up? After all, it was his own future that was on the line here...

“I'm sorry” Jimin apologised, shaking his head as he felt his cheeks turn a shade of pink. Somi giggled, shaking her head as she reached for the book in Jimin's hand and placed it back on the shelf herself, “It's fine, don't worry. Just don't let Haru see you or she's going to scold you – again”

Jimin smiled weakly, “That was once” he defended himself, shaking his head, “I was new and still had a lot to learn” he added, Somi smiling as she gave a nod.

“True. Well, you keep going here, I'll go organise the books that came back. Oh, and go get your name tag once you're done here before Haru sees you” She let him know, pointing at his shirt before she spun around and left.

Jimin looked down on himself, sighing as he realised that Somi was in fact telling the truth. In all the hectic of the news he had received earlier, Jimin must have forgotten to put it on.

After watching Somi leave, Jimin squeezed his eyes shut, pressing his forehead against the back of the books placed neatly in the shelf, “Shut up” Jimin whispered to Dongha's voice that proceeded to ring in his mind, reminding him of the possibility of them training at the same company together.

Clearly, there was nothing Jimin was currently capable of doing to change this situation. He should try to banish Dongha's voice from his mind and focus on work.

Determined to concentrate on work completely, Jimin urgently reached for another book, lifting it up and placing it back on the shelf in its designated spot. Just like that, Jimin proceeded to do his work diligently, moving along the shelf and organising the books.
When he had to get up on his tippy-toes to reach a higher shelf because he was too lazy to walk over and get the small ladder, Jimin steadied himself on one of the lower shelves in order to reach the higher one. However, caused by his ever lasting clumsiness, the poor boy slipped and watched the book fall from his hand. Fortunately, he was able to keep his balance by grabbing the shelf tighter, gasping at the slight shock of the situation.

“Careful there” a male voice commented, startling Jimin who jerked his head to the side, eyes falling on a tall man that somehow seemed familiar to him. His brown eyes were such a dark shade, almost appeared like there was no life behind them. Oddly enough, a shiver ran down Jimin's back at the mere glance at the man's face. The man was bald, surely almost double Jimin's age and smelled like cigarettes. A smile was plastered on his face, but Jimin couldn't help but decipher it as one being almost forced, “This might be better to use” the man pointed out, pushing the ladder towards Jimin while simultaneously holding his hand out to him.

Jimin forced his gaze down to his big hand that was closed around the book, an apparent sign of the man having caught it when Jimin had slipped. How fast had that man reacted? How close had he been to achieve this? How hadn't Jimin noticed his proximity at all, thinking he was all alone in this corner?

“T-Thank you” Jimin murmured, taking the book from the man's hand and stepping on the ladder in order to place the object back on the shelf in its designated spot.

“You're welcome” the man muttered, Jimin's gaze travelling back down to his hands that the man had pulled back to his side, the pink haired boy noticing the way his palms were shaking.

As soon as the man noticed that Jimin was staring, he pushed his hands in the front pockets of his trousers, clearing his throat.

“I need a smoke” The man mumbled – perhaps referring to the shaking of his hands, it might being a sign of him craving to smoke as he was addicted to it, Jimin wasn't certain, was truthfully slightly bewildered by him mentioning it.

“You're not allowed to smoke in here, I'm sorry” Jimin stated, voice soft, but sure as he had collected himself again after the faint shock of slipping just a moment ago.

“I know. I'm about to leave, but I have quite a lot of books that I am borrowing so I was wondering, if you could help me bring them out to my car?” The man wondered, an eyebrow arched up.

Jimin opened his mouth, seemingly surprised by that question as no one had ever requested anything like this. How many books did this man want to take with him, if he needed another person with him to carry them outside?

“Uhm, I'm currently working, so I'm not sure, if I can just leave to do that” Jimin noted, titling his head to the side as he looked at the man in apology.

“It won't take long, Jimin-ah”

“I really don't want to be scolded again for- Wait. How do you know my name?” Jimin asked, eyebrows pulled together in a frown. After all, Jimin wasn't wearing his name tag today.

“Oh, that girl over there told me to ask you for help, but I've also seen you work here before” The man responded with faint hesitation, pointing to the other side of the room. Jimin didn't need to check to know that he was referring to Somi.

Maybe that's why his face seemed familiar - Jimin had seen him spend time here before.
“Oh” Jimin chuckled, “Well, I guess-”

Suddenly, his phone in the back of his jeans started to vibrate, interrupting Jimin who excused himself to pull it out of his pocket to check whether or not it was urgent.

Jungkook's name flashed on the display of his phone, indicating that the black haired boy was calling him.

The man took a glimpse at his phone, his eyes looking up at Jimin before he drew his gaze back to the phone.

Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth, not exactly wanting to take the call because it was rude, yet figuring that he had already behaved rude by pulling out his phone in the first place.

However, he didn't need to make a decision as Jungkook's name stopped flashing on his display, implying that he had given up to call him.

“I'll just-” Jimin was about to say.

“Was that call urgent?” The man asked, eyebrows arched up in curiosity.

“Oh, sorry, no, I just wanted to check who it was, but I don't think it's that urgent. I didn't want to be rude and take it while you were talking to me” Jimin clarified, shaking his head.

In that moment, he saw a figure approach them out of the corner of his eye, the pink haired boy swiftly putting his phone back into his pocket.

It was Haru.

Haru frowned at him, hands on her hips once she had closed the distance between them, “Jimin-ah, I was looking for you. You've left some of the books scattered around in the back. Also, where is your name tag?” She wanted to know, voice not full of venom, but rather soft, yet still conveying her dissatisfaction with his performance.

“I'm sorry, I'll make sure to take care of it right now. I was just about to help this man” Jimin told her, pointing to the man at his side.

Haru eyed the man, smiling at him before drawing her attention back to the smaller boy, “I'll take care of him, you go and get the books from the back.”

Jimin gave a nod, noticing that the man was about to say something, yet Jimin averted his gaze in order to bow deeply at his supervisor, “I'll be quick”

“Mhm” She hummed, nodding for him to leave which Jimin swiftly did, feeling his phone vibrate again almost simultaneously.

After making sure that Haru was focused on helping that man, Jimin quickly pulled out his phone again, accepting the call and lifting his phone up to his ear as he walked towards the back of the room.

“Jimin-ah?” Jungkook immediately called out, voice urgent and firm.

“Yes? What's going on? Are you okay?” Jimin wondered, keeping his voice low so he wouldn't disturb any of the people around him.

“Where are you?” Jungkook then wanted to know, ignoring Jimin's questions.
“I'm at work, Kook-ah. Why? What's going on?” The pink haired boy responded, slightly confused by Jungkook calling him, considering how Jimin had told him earlier that he was leaving for work after practice.

“Right. Are you... are you okay, baby? How is work going?”

Frowning, Jimin slowed his steps, “I'm okay, Kook-ah. I'm just a little tired as always after practice. There is not much going on here. How are you?”

“I'm good. I'm just having a break and wanted to check on you. I'll see you later, hm, baby?”

Jimin smiled, “Yes, you'll see me later. I'll head right over to your place after work.”

“Good. I won't keep you from doing your work any longer then. Let me know in case... in case there is anything going on, okay, little one?”

“I will. See you later, Kook-ah”

“Later, Jimin-ah”

With that, Jimin ended the call, shaking his head as he smiled to himself.

---

Jimin swung his feet back and forth on his spot on the edge of the bed, noticing that the water had stopped running in the bathroom. Almost simultaneously, Jimin stilled his movement, deliberating over what to do next, but deciding to simply stay seated on the bed.

It didn't take long for Jungkook to enter the bedroom, a towel wrapped around his waist, hair damp and sticking to his forehead. The black haired boy didn't notice Jimin at first, walked straight over to the small dresser where he had seemingly placed his phone on earlier before taking a shower.

Just as Jimin was about to make his presence known, Jungkook looked up from his phone, eyes falling right on Jimin and widening upon his sight.

“Holy shit, Jimin-ah” Jungkook cursed and clasped his hand over his chest, clearly startled by Jimin's sudden appearance.

“I'm sorry” Jimin giggled, getting up to his feet, “Beomsoo just dropped me off and you told me to just come in as soon as I arrive. I texted you, but you didn't answer so I let myself in. Then I noticed that you were showering so I decided to wait here”

Jungkook arched up his eyebrows, approaching Jimin as a slight smirk appeared on his face, “Mhm, why didn't you join me?” he wondered once he had closed the distance between them, grabbing Jimin by the hips and pulling the boy closer, “Would've been way more fun” Jungkook whispered into his ear, voice low and his breath tickling Jimin's skin.

The pink haired boy gulped, feeling his cheeks heat up at the suggestive tone of Jungkook, not leaving much room for imagination, but rather making the indication very clear.

“I didn't just want to burst in without asking. It's your privacy after all. Besides, we wouldn't actually have showered then, would we?” Jimin pointed out, smiling lightly as he locked eyes with the taller boy, amusement in his eyes as he leaned in to press a kiss against Jungkook's cheeks before he withdrew and walked back over to the bed.
“Jimin-ah, you know I don't give a fuck about that at all. You've seen me naked plenty of times. Hell, we've fucked plenty of times. You can always join me for a shower. You don't need to ask, baby” Jungkook reminded him.

“I've already showered before coming here anyway” Jimin noted, shrugging his shoulders as he sat down on the bed again, looking back at Jungkook who was smiling at him.

“Even better reason to join me.”

“To not shower?”

“To give you reasons to shower by making sure you're all messy again, hm?”

“Kook-ah, you're unbelievable!” Jimin giggled, shaking his head. In response, Jungkook chuckled as well, holding his hands up in defense.

“Okay, I'll stop. Let me just get dressed quickly – or not, whatever you prefer, little one” the younger boy teased, smirking cheekily at Jimin as his hand slowly slid down his stomach, closer to the towel that was barely covering him.

Jimin's blush deepened as his gaze trailed down to Jungkook's upper body, strong muscles catching his attention, “I-I- You don't- I think-” the poor boy stuttered, swallowing hard as he forced his gaze back up to Jungkook's smug face, amusement glistening in his eyes, “Put on some clothes, troublemaker”

Jungkook raised up his eyebrows, light smile on his face as he clasped his hand over his heart as if he'd been hurt, “Troublemaker? Me? Aah, Jimin-ah, how could you do-”

“Oh, shut up” Jimin giggled, “Go get dressed, Kook-ah”

The black haired boy's smile grew as he approached Jimin, grabbing his chin softly and guiding his face up in order to lock eyes with him, “Bossing me around, hm?”

Gulping, Jimin wet his lips, slightly shakinig his head. Jungkook noticed, glancing down at Jimin's plump lips before his gaze rushed back up to Jimin's eyes. The reaction he evoke in Jimin caused him to smirk, Jungkook loving to tease the smaller one.

“I'll be right back”

With that, Jungkook walked away, his hand slipping away from Jimin as he disappeared in the bathroom in order to put some underwear on. It was only then that Jimin noticed the quickening of his heart as it was pounding faster against his chest.

“How was your day then, baby?” Jungkook asked him loudly, still getting dressed in the bathroom.

“I ate before I came here. Have you?”

“I ate at work”

Almost simultaneously while answering, the taller boy reappeared in the bedroom, now dressed in some sweatpants and a white shirt.

“How was your day then, baby?” Jungkook wanted to know, lying down on the bed comfortably. Jimin crossed his legs, adjusting his position so he was able to look at Jungkook, “Did Yang call you back?”
“You mean Jieun?” Jimin corrected, reminded of Jungkook's history with her.

“Yes, did she call you back?” Jungkook asked, placing his hand on Jimin's thigh, giving it a soothing squeeze.

“Mhm” Jimin hummed, “She... she called me during practice. Well, when we were having a break”

“And? What did she say?”

“I can meet him after tomorrow” The pink haired boy answered, smiling weakly as another thing popped up in his head – one he didn't want to think of.

“That's great” Jungkook smiled, closing his hand around Jimin's wrist and pulling his hand up to his lips, pressing a kiss to his knuckles.

“Mhm” Jimin only hummed, dipping his head down as he played with the hem of his shirt.

“What's wrong?” Jungkook muttered, voice hinting at his concern, if the softness in his eyes wasn't already indicating it.

“Nothing. It's just... it's nothing” The smaller male brushed it off, shaking his head. Dongha was not exactly a topic Jungkook was fond of – well, Jimin wasn't either – and he really didn't want to ruin their night by angering Jungkook.

“What is it, angel? I won't stop asking until you tell me. I don't want anything to bother you. You know that you can trust me with anything, hm?”

“I know, it's not... it's just, well, it's Dongha”

Jungkook visibly tensed, sitting up with a frown, “What did that motherfucker do now? I swear to god, I'll-”

“Kook-ah, I haven't even told you what happened yet. Please, calm down. It's not even anything he really intentionally did. It's just a big coincidence, but a huge slap in my face. Dongha... he, well, he was offered a spot in YK entertainment, too. Not only that, but he already went into an audition and passed it. If I accept this offer, we're most likely going to train there together”

It took a moment for Jungkook to process those words, his eyes conveying that his mind was racing, “What? That bastard was offered a place there, too? Why the fuck did that happen?”

“Well, as horrible as what he did to me is, he's still a great dancer” Jimin pointed out.

“Average. At most” Jungkook corrected.

“Jungkook-ah, he's good. Yang wouldn't have offered him the spot, if he wasn't”

Jungkook clenched his hands into fists, clicking his tongue, “I don't think it's a good idea for you both to train there, but I also don't want you to let this opportunity go because of this fucking bastard”

“I don't want to decline the offer, either, but, I mean, I don't even know what Yang is going to offer me”

“Right. He might be thinking about hiring you as a choreographer” Jungkook agreed, giving a nod, “Still, working there with him would just... Fuck, this situation is messed up. Just focus on your meeting with Yang for now”
“I’m trying to. It’s really nice that he took time out of his schedule for me”

“Mhm, I told you he’s a good one”

“I know. I’ll just hear him out and see whether or not it’s worth risking working there with Dongha” Jimin murmured, giving a faint nod to underline his determination.

Glancing at Jungkook, Jimin noticed that he appeared to be drawn into his own thoughts, eyes fixated on the wall across from them, brows pulled together in a frown.

“Kook-ah?”

“Huh?” Jungkook mumbled, shaking his head before he forced his gaze back to Jimin's pretty brown orbs, “Right. Good idea. Now, come here, angel” Jungook insisted with a smirk, reaching for Jimin who was more than delighted as he fell right into his arms, lying on top of his boyfriend with his head resting on his chest.

Their night was soft, cuddles leading to them falling asleep in each other's arms with Jungkook's promise of him protecting Jimin.

-------

Slowly, the elevator doors opened, Jimin hesitant before he stepped outside, heart beating fast against his chest. With a careful stare, Jimin looked around, inhaling a shaky breath as he saw several people walk past him – immersed in their conversations with each other or rushing to different rooms.

A person bummed into him, clearly not having seen him or having paid attention to him, Jimin swiftly apologising as he bowed slightly - although it wasn't exactly his fault at all. However, it was simply a part of Jimin's nature, the apology slipping from his lips subconsciously. The person didn't even took a glimpse at him, rushed past him without a word.

Brushing the dusk from his shirt, Jimin made his way over to reception, a woman typing away on her keyboard while she was focused on her computer monitor. Her black hair was tied up into a long pony tail, her face fair skinned with a hint of blushed cheeks, eyes big and shiny as if there were actual stars in them.

Gulping, Jimin approached her, coming to a halt right in front of her desk. The woman didn't spare him a glance upon his arrival, but proceeded to concentrate on her own task. After looking around for a moment, Jimin cleared his throat, an attempt to make his presence known.

Apparently, it worked, as the woman lifted her head, her eyes falling on Jimin. Immediately, a smile appeared on her face, red coloured lips parting, “Hello, what can I help you with?” she asked with a sweet voice, a voice that undeniably belonged to the same woman that had talked to him on the phone – that belonged to Jieun, the girl Jungkook has had sex with before.

“I-I'm Park Jimin” Jimin stated, straightening his back, “Hi. I have a meeting here with Mr. Yang. I called two days ago and-”

“Aah” she hummed, pointing at Jimin, “I see, yes, of course. Well, you're on time” she added before she got up to her feet, her slim body covered by a red dress, the material flowing around when she moved as she walked around the desk, “Follow me.”

With that, she went ahead, walking towards a door a couple of meters away from them, high-heels clicking on the floor. After blinking, Jimin swiftly rushed after her.
“He wouldn't have waited for you, if you'd turn up too late. He has a very tight schedule”

Jimin only nodded, pressing his lips into a line as he followed her to the door.

Once they arrived in front of it, she lifted her small fist and knocked two times. Not waiting for answer, she pushed the door open, walking inside and announcing Jimin's arrival. The smaller boy swallowed hard, palms suddenly clammy as he entered the room as well.

“Ah, yes, Park Jimin” Yang smiled as he gestured for Jimin to take a seat in front of his huge wooden desk – filled with piles of paper, pens scattered around, “Let me just- Yeah, move some stuff aside and clean up a bit” he mumbled attempting to organise his desk, “Thank you, Jieun-ssi” he adressed the woman that had walked Jimin here, confirming his assumption of her identity.

She gave a faint bow before she exited the room, pulling the door close behind her. In the meanwhile, Jimin had approached the older man, shaking his bigger hand before he took a seat in the surprisingly more than comfortable chair.

Just as Jimin was about to scan the room because he hadn't had the chance to do that upon his arrival a moment ago, Yang spoke up, gaining Jimin's full attention, “I was glad to hear that you're interested.”

“Oh, yes, I'm very interested. Thank you so much for taking time out of your schedule to talk to me” Jimin uttered, bowing lightly as good as he was capable of doing in his current position of being seated in the chair.

“Oh, that's nothing. I was wondering when you were going to call – or even if at all. I was glad to hear that you did. After seeing you dance at the Seoul Dance Championship, I was more than impressed with your performance. The way you move was mesmerising, was striking and stunning. I'm very interested in having you work with us.”

“Thank you” Jimin murmured, cheeks turning a shade of pink at the compliment.

“It's understandable that you have questions about the offer, of course. Go ahead” Yang noted, pointing at Jimin before he leaned back in his seat.

“Oh, well, I was just wondering what exactly the offer would include? Are we talking about an audition for becoming a trainee?”

“The question is, what do you want to do? What I have in mind for you depends on how skillful you are and what your own desire is”

“Skillful as in how well I can dance?” Jimin wondered, titling his head to the side. The nervous boy didn't even notice the way he was playing with the hem of his shirt, fingers pulling and twisting on the fabric absentmindedly.

“No, that's not a question anymore. I saw you dance. That fact has been proven to me already. I'm talking about something else.”

“About what?”

“How experienced are you in creating your own choreography?” Yang wanted to know, resting his arms on his desk before he leaned forward.

“Well, I like creating my own choreography. I always do that when I'm on my own. There is something so fun and almost healing about doing that. Most of the times, it comes naturally by just listening to the song. I allow my body to speak and move accordingly to what it feels when listening to the melody, what I wants to express and how I can convey the feeling and the message of the song in the best way possible. Sometimes, it's a little trickier and it takes more time to come up with something because it doesn't actually turn out the way I plan it in my head”

Yang gave a nod, humming to indicate that he was listeing attentively.

“I started creating my own choreography ever since I was younger. I went to an arts school where we often were challenged to contribute our own choreography. I would say that I am experienced in it, but there is a lot more I can learn”

Yang hummed again, smiling, “I see. Well, what I had in mind for you – what I am hoping for you to do is to have you teach my trainees what you have. You have a certain kind of passion for dance. You feel in such a vivid and visible way when you dance and you convey that in such a beautiful way that it simply keeps you mesmerised.”

“Really? Y-You want me to teach someone?”

“I want you to teach my trainees, yes. I would like for you to become a choregrapher. As you aren't as professionally experienced in it yet, you would become the assistant choregrapher for now, but can easily work yourself up to becoming a full choregrapher.”

“W-Wow, that's... that sounds amazing. I'm flattered. Thank you”

Yang wanted him to teach his own trainees because he thought he was that good? Was this real?

“You don't have to accept the offer just yet. No pressure, but I would like to receive an answer over the next, well, let's say, two weeks. I know it's a difficult decision to make. After all, you're surely dancing somewhere else already. I'm assuming you're currently part of the dance group you've performed with at the championship?”

“Yes, I'm still part of it” Jimin confirmed, nodding as a smile played around his face at the memory of his dance group.

“Ah, I see, yes. Very talented people in there, indeed. Jeon got Jung Hoseok. I know that already. Good lad, what a great dancer”

“He really is a great dancer. One of the best I know. There are a lot of talented people in my group actually. You've also offered Dongha-ssi a place as a trainee, right?” Jimin wondered although he already knew the answer.

“Oh, Dongha?”

“Yes, he's also part of my group and danced at the championship” The smaller boy clarified, not entirely certain whether or not Yang was currently aware of who he was referring to.

However, he definitely was.

“I'm aware, yes. He's not a trainee here anymore, though. I've fired him”

Jimin froze in his place, mouth agape in visible shock. This couldn't be true... How was this possible? Why had he been fired before ever really starting to train here? What had he done?

Or... what had someone else done?
“Fired?” Jimin echoed, voice quiet and unsure.

“Yes, he was removed from the company after some things were revealed to me. But now back to you, Jimin-ssi. I'm sure you have some more questions for me”

---

“It was very nice talking to you. I hope you've received some clarity about the offer and its conditions. I would love to hear from you soon, Jimin-ssi” Yang smiled as he got up to his feet, straightening his suit jacket before he approached his door.

Jimin returned the smile, joining him at the door and shaking his hand for goodbye, bowing deeply out of respect and politeness, “Thank you so much for talking to me. I'll make sure to get back to you soon”

Yang opened the door, “If there is anything else you're worried about, just call and ask. I'll make sure to answer.”

“Actually” Jimin murmured, catching his bottom lip between his teeth as he pulled on the hem of his shirt. The pink haired boy pulled his brows together in a frown, but decided to not ask the question that was lingering in his mind after all as it really wasn't any of his business, “Nevermind. Have a nice day”

“You, too” Yang responded, watching Jimin exit his office before he shut the door close.

Their conversation had went very well, Jimin now somehow having found some more understanding and clarity over the whole situation. Hopefully, making this decision, making the right choice would be easier now.

Especially now that... now that Dongha wasn't in the picture anymore. Surely, it was mean to think that way, Jimin was aware of that, but he couldn't help but feel relieved somehow that Dongha wouldn't work here with him in case Jimin accepted the offer. Essentially, he was only being cautious, didn't want anything to happen because he didn't know what else the boy was capable of.

Well, unless... unless it was an unfair reason Dongha had been fired for. Clearly, Jimin couldn't feel relieved about that because it was just, well, that – unfair. After all, what could Dongha have done to cause his removal from the company without actually having trained here a day?

What had he done?

What had someone else done?

Frowning, Jimin lifted his head up, looking straight ahead while still being caught in his thoughts.

As if his mind was pulling games on him, Jungkook was standing there at the reception, immersed in a conversation with Jieun. It was in that moment when a voice in Jimin's mind began to connect some strings... assumptions blossoming inside of him that Jimin didn't want to be true.

Jimin shook his head, figuring Jungkook's sillhouette would disappear in that moment as it wasn't real after all. However, the boy was more than bewildered when he realised that Jungkook was still standing at the reception, seemingly actually present in the company.

What was he doing here?

Suddenly, Jieun broke out in giggles at something Jungkook had said and closed her petite hand around his upper arm.

Jimin felt his heart drop, delicate hands clenching into tiny fists at the sight. His blood was already fuming at the information he had received, his mind accusing Jungkook of having had his hands in Dongha's removal before Jimin was capable of stopping himself.

Angrily, Jimin stormed away, walking right past Jungkook without a word. Apparently, Jungkook must have felt the wind blow past him at the speed of Jimin's walk, perhaps he had caught Jimin's figure out of the corner of his eyes – whatever it was, Jungkook rushed after him with quick steps, wrapping his strong hand around Jimin's wrist and pulling him back.

“Hey, beautiful” the taller boy greeted with a smile, hands wandering down to Jimin's hips, “Didn't you see me, little one?”

“Oh, I did see you” Jimin shared, voice hinting at him being angry, Jimin pushing Jungkook's hands away. In response to the action, Jungkook's eyes softened, concern visible and something like... like pain glistening in them as if Jimin had physically hurt him by rejecting his touch.

“What's wrong? What's going on?” Jungkook worried, frowning as he lifted his hand up to brush Jimin's hair out of his face, triyng to comfort him, Jimin's change in demeanor notable, “What did Yang do? Should I go and talk to him?”

“What are you doing here?” Jimin wanted to know, ignoring his question.

“I had a break and it fell perfectly in time with when your meeting was supposed to finish so I decided to come and pick you up for lunch” Jungkook answered, his thumb rubbing over Jimin's cheekbone.

“I have to go to work now” Jimin reminded him, huffing.

“Not even a small coffee?”

“I don't want coffee right now. I have to go” Jimin declined, swatting his hand away again as he spun around and stormed towards the elevator. Yet, Jungkook was right at his heels, his legs longer and enabling him to quickly catch up with Jimin. Gently, he closed his hand around Jimin's wrist and pulled him right back.

“Stop running away, Jiminie. What's wrong? Tell me right now. What happened?”

“I should ask you that” The smaller boy challenged, pulling his arm out of Jungkook's grasp with force.

“About what?” Jungkook asked confused, frowning to convey that he was dumbfounded by the fact that Jimin's behaviour was supposedly caused by him.

“Dongha? Jieun?” Jimin reminded him, eyebrows arched up as he crossed his arms over his chest.

“What?” The taller male muttered, shaking his head in pure bewilderment.

“Did you... Dongha has been fired. Did you have anything to do with that? You... You talked to Yang about Dongha, didn't you? What did you tell him?”

That's when it clicked, Jungkook's eyes going wide, his mouth opening, yet no words slipping from it. With slight hesitation, Jungkook finally responded, “Jimin-ah, what do you mean?”
“Don't play that game with me. What did you do?”

This time, Jimin didn't buy him being unaware of what Jimin was referring to. This time, Jungkook just knew what this was about – Jimin could see it in his eyes.

“I didn't do anything” Jungkook denied.

“So Yang just magically backtracked after I told you about Dongha training here? This can't be a coincidence” Jimin pointed out angrily, pointing to Yang's office.

“Sssh” Jungkook silenced him, “Fine, but we shouldn't. Let's go somewhere else to talk about this.”

“I'm not going anywhere with you until you tell me the truth – the full truth”

Jungkook looked around, gaze falling on a door right next to them. Swiftly, he reached for Jimin and pulled the boy into the room with him. It turned out to be a small room reserved for printing and copying files, two bigger printers taking up most of the room, the small window allowing light to illuminate the room.

“Now, tell me”

“I just talked to Yang about Dongha”

“What did you tell him? What caused him to fire Dongha? You must have-” Jimin rambled, shooting question after question.

“Fine, I mentioned what a fucking bastard he is and what he tried to do to you! I told Yang that he's not a reliable person and that he attempted to assault you – well someone, I didn't mention your name” Jungkook revealed, venom in his voice at the thought of Dongha - the name planting the picture of him touching Jimin without his consent in his mind, blood immediately boiling.

“Kook-ah, this is-”

“It was the right decision, Jimin-ah. How is it fair that someone like him receives such an opportunity? He doesn't even feel any remorse for what he did. I'm sure he beats his meat to the thought of possibly working here with you. How can I allow him to be a trainee in the same company with you?”

“You don't have to allow anything, Jungkook-ah. I'm older than you! I'm an independent person. You don't have the right to make decisions-”

Suddenly, the door opened, a man with several sheets of paper in his hands stilling in his tracks upon the sight of Jimin and Jungkook arguing in the small room, “O-Oh, I need to copy some files” the man stated, clearing his throat as he pointed towards the printer behind the two boys, “I believe you're not allowed in here. I have to ask you to leave”

“We're busy right now, so if you don-”

“Of course. We're sorry. We'll leave” Jimin interrupted Jungkook who was clearly too mad already at the mention of Dongha and was about to forgot about simple manners and politeness, surely having wanted to respond in a rude way out of anger – although the anger wasn't directed at the poor man, but Dongha.

With that, Jimin reached for Jungkook’s arm and pulled him out of the room.
“Where are we going?” Jungkook wanted to know.

“Jungkook-ah!” a female voice yelled across the hallway, high-heels clicking on the floor as she hurried after them.

It was Jieun. Of all people. Right now.

Jimin pressed his lips into a line, looking from Jungkook to Jieun and back to Jungkook.

The taller boy's gaze was still only fixated on Jimin, paying Jieun little to none attention. It wasn't until she was literally pushing herself inbetween them to gain Jungkook's attention that he tore his gaze away from Jimin, locking eyes with Jieun.

“I was just wondering whether or not you wanted to grab some lunch with me?” Jieun asked sweetly, Jimin feeling like the third wheel as he took a step back.

Jungkook pointed at Jimin, making his presence known to her.

“Oh!” she uttered, clasping her hands over her mouth, “I'm sorry, am I interrupting something? I didn't mean to”

“It's fine. I'm sorry, Jieun-ssi. I'm busy right now. Maybe another time”

“Oh, yeah, sure” she murmured, smiling as she waved her hand, “It was nice seeing you again. And you- sorry, what was your name again?”

“Jimin” the pink haired boy mumbled.

“Right, Jimin. Well, Jungkook-ah, I could give you my number in case you want to hang out?”

There it was again... that odd feeling in his chest. That feeling he had experienced whenever he had seen Seoyun by Jungkook's side. After everything, the emotion wasn't foreign to him any more, wasn't something he wasn't capable to decipher.

It was jealousy.

It was jealousy although Jimin didn't want it to be that way. Jimin trusted Jungkook, but it still pained his heart to see someone else make a move on him – even though Jungkook didn't return it.

At least, Jimin hoped that he didn't.

“Give me your phone” Jieun insisted, smiling sweetly.

Rolling his eyes, Jimin averted his gaze, noticing that the elevator doors had opened. Without another word, he stepped inside, pressing the button for the ground floor.

However, Jungkook was quick to notice his absence, uttering one last thing to Jieun before he rushed after Jimin.

“Why are you running away?” Jungkook asked, eyebrows furrowed as the elevator doors closed.

“I'm not running away” Jimin denied, staring at the wall instead of Jungkook's gorgeous face that would surely distract him from being mad at him for several things – for Dongha, for Yang, for Jieun.

“Yes, you are, like you always do when there is something bothering you instead of talking to me about it” Jungkook pointed out, anger in his voice, “Communication is important, ba-”

“Oh, don't come at me with that communication stuff. You are the one who's avoiding conversations! You are the one who leaves me in the dark most of the times!”

“I'm trying to change that, Jimin-ah”

“Are you? Then what about Dongha? What was that just now with Jieun? That didn't look like you haven't seen each other in months like you said” Jimin spat, heart clenching at the thought of Jungkook having had sex with her more than once – opposed to his earlier statement.

“What? Jimin-ah, she was just talking to me in a friendly way. How is it my fault that she wants to give me her number?”

“I saw you at the re-” Jimin was about to argue, yet went silent as soon as the elevator doors opened, an older male stepping inside and joining them.

“Hello” the man greeted them politely, bowing at them.

“Hello” Jimin and Jungkook responded in unison, bowing simultaneously, but glaring at each other right after.

Figuring that they shouldn't argue while another person was present as they didn't want to bother him with their issues, they both stayed silent, angry gazes fixated on the walls.

It wasn't even a minute until they reached the ground floor, yet it felt like an hour, tension hanging in the air that was very noticeable. As soon as the elevator doors opened, the stepped outside, pushing past the man.

“Don't you dare run away now” Jungkook warned, wrapping his hand around Jimin's wrist to pull him back, “You can't accuse me of shit and then run away, Jimin-ah”

“I wasn't running away” Jimin argued, pulling his arm out of Jungkook's grasp, “I was heading towards your car. We shouldn't discuss this here. We shouldn't argue here.”

“Then let's go home”

Jimin was hesitant, but perhaps the drive home would give each of them time to calm down and organise their thoughts. Perhaps, it would enable them to have a more civilised and quieter argument instead of them screaming at each other.

“Okay, let's go”

---

It was quiet. So quiet. The silence was almost suffocating - somehow louder than any words they could say, the silence amplified in their heads.

Jungkook was still angered, hands gripping the steering wheel so tight that his knuckles were turning white. Jimin was trying to calm down, yet was mad at Jungkook for telling Yang about what Dongha had done... was even mad for Jieun wanting to spend more time with him.

“Jimin-ah, I-”

“No” Jimin interrupted him, shaking his head, “I don't want to argue with you while you're driving. It's dangerous.”
The black haired boy seemed to consider to proceed to talk to Jimin, yet hesitated. Eventually, he forced his gaze back on the road, concentrating on driving them home.

For some reason, time appeared to pass faster than usually, the ride home to Jungkook's apartment fairly quick. Soon enough, they found themselves back in Jungkook's living room, not having spoken a word to each other on their way here.

“Now. Talk” Jimin insisted once Jungkook had shut the door close behind them, dropping his keys on the dining table.

“Jimin-ah, I—”

Jimin caught a smaller gift box lying on the dining table, his eyebrows furrowing upon the sight.

“It's a present for you” Jungkook clarified, pointing at the box, “I don't think right now is the perfect time to open it though. It's... well, it's something we've talked about before”

For a moment, Jimin felt his heart flutter, curiosity blooming inside of him as he wondered about what Jungkook had gotten him. As Jimin had told him before, he didn't want Jungkook to buy him presents and spend that much money on him, yet... yet it was still very sweet of him.

However, Jimin shook his head, turning back around to focus on the task at hand.

“Go on, Jungkook-ah”

“I didn't spend time with Jieun-ssi. What I told you was the truth. I've fucked her once and then spoke to her a couple of times afterwards when I was at the company. She's a nice girl, really.”

Jimin bit on the inside of his cheek, crossing his arms over his chest, “I-I don't want to... I don't want to feel like this, but I didn't like seeing her be that close to you and her giving you her number”

For a slight moment, it seemed as if Jungkook had wanted to say something else, something like amusement glistening in his eyes, yet it was swiftly replaced by his usual softness. Fortunately, the drive back here had actually worked in calming both of them down, neither of them raising their voice at the other.

“I didn't take her number. I refused and told her that I'm in a relationship you, but you didn't hear that because you decided to run away”

Jimin felt guilty, but then again, wouldn't Jungkook have disliked such a sight as well, “Wouldn't you have reacted in a similar way? What if... what if I had an ex and he touched me while laughing or wanted to eat lunch with me or wanted to give me his number. Would you enjoy that?”

“Hell no”

“See” Jimin insisted, shrugging his shoulders.

“I wouldn't enjoy it, but I wouldn't get mad at you. I would get mad at him for flirting with you knowing that you're mine”

“I didn't... I didn't exactly get mad at you. I was just... I don't know, I didn't like the situation so I decided to leave.”

“Well, now you know that it was a misunderstanding. I told you that I don't want her” Jungkook assured him, closing the distance between them to grab Jimin's chin tenderly, “I want you, Jimin-ah, only you” he whispered those last words, leaning in to brush his lips over Jimin's.

Gulping, Jimin felt his heart flutter again, his anger slowly starting to vanish and being replaced by pure softness for the taller boy.

However, this conversation wasn't over.

“Stop” Jimin urged, pushing Jungkook's hand away and taking a step back, “Stop distracting me”

Jungkook sighed, “Baby, I wasn't trying to distract you. I was trying to comfort you because you're insecure of me wanting someone else, when that's not true at all. I didn't have any malicious intentions in reassuring you about my love for you. No matter how mad you are at me, I need you to know that you mean the world to me and that I don't want anyone else beside you”

“Stop saying these things. I want to be mad at you and that's not helping” Jimin mumbled, pulling his sleeves over his petite hands.

“Why do you want to be mad at me?”

“Because you did wrong. You interfered in something you shouldn't have. This is Dongha's life you're playing with!” Jimin responded, frowning deeply.

“I'm not playing with anything. I had to stop that bastard from being close to you. I won't allow him to ever lay a finger on you again” Jungkook argued, walking past Jimin further into the room.

The smaller boy spun around, taking a step closer.

“If you did it for me then you should have talked to me first! I would've never wanted you to do something like this. No matter what he did, this is going too far. His future might be ruined now”

“What about Yang? What kind of reputation would he have, if it slips that a guy that assaulted someone is a trainee at his company? What, if Dongha does it again? I also thought about Yang and all the other trainees there. Yang decided to backtrack on his offer because he wants to protect his own trainees. I didn't force him to do it.”

“Gosh, you're so-”

“I'm what? Are you mad at me because I want to protect you? Why are you still defending him? He doesn't deserve this job.” Jungkook interrupted him, narrowing his eyes at the pink haired one.

“I could have just went to your company, Kook-ah. You didn't have to go the extra mile and ruin Dongha's life like this” Jimin pointed out.

“I didn't ruin anything. He did that by assaulting you and getting away with it. To this day, I regret not punching the hell out of him. He should have seen this coming for treating you like shit, like you're an object he's allowed to touch whenever he pleases” the younger boy argued, eyes such a dark colour, anger and hatred so very visible in them whenever he thought of Dongha.

“That doesn't justify you ruining his future. Yes, he messed up big time, but it's not our right to get involved in his life like this” Jimin muttered, figuring that what Jungkook had done wasn't right, yet thinking that maybe... maybe it hadn't been entirely wrong to an extent?

Jimin was so very conflicted over what the right thing to do in such situation was. On the one hand, it wasn't his business to expose something like this about Dongha, yet it wasn't like Dongha had actually changed, had he? It wasn't like he was ever going to share that about himself in front of Yang either, so there was no way of him having any knowledge about what Dongha had done and what he was capable of.

Was Jungkook right? Had he just acted in the desire to protect Jimin, Yang and all the other trainees that could potentially be harmed when Dongha wasn't able to compose himself?

Yet... did Dongha really deserve to have his future ruined like this?

Then again, was it actually ruined? Maybe, he would find another place... right? It wasn't far-fetched to think that, was it? However, would that be a safe place - for other people?

Was any place safe? Was Dongha going to change? Was Jimin the only one he had attempted to force himself on or were there other people who had to endure something similar before?

This was causing him a headache.

He was feeling dizzy, this issue harming him mentally.

“He got what he deserved” Jungkook spat.

“Why are you so presistent on hurting him?” Jimin wanted to know, voice soft.

“I'm not persistent on hurting him” the younger male argued, averting his gaze.

“Then why are you so persistent on making him pay for what he did? Why are you so-” Jimin urged, voice becoming slightly louder again.

“Because he almost raped you, for fuck's sake, Jimin-ah!” Jungkook yelled, his deep and loud voice echoing in the big room.

“He didn't, though!” Jimin yelled back.

“So? That doesn't make it better! He almost raped you and I'm not going to go through that again! Not if I can prevent it!”

Jimin blinked, frowning at the choice of his words.

“Again? What do you mean?” the pink haired boy whispered.

Jungkook plopped down on the sofa, suddenly calmer as he pushed his hand through his hair, chest rising and falling quickly. Jimin stared at him intently, heart suddenly beating so much faster.

Jungkook shook his head, wetting his lips.

“I went through this before. The last time, I wasn't there to stop it” Jungkook answered, voice just above a whisper, barely audible to Jimin, yet he caught the words that sent a shiver down his back.

“Wh-What are you talking about, Kook-ah? Who was raped?” Jimin asked, not entirely sure whether he actually wanted to know the answer to that question – already certain that it would break his heart.

Jungkook looked up at him, pain in his eyes.

“My mother”

Chapter End Notes
That's it for now! Did anyone see it coming? I've been dropping hints here and there, but never explicitly had Jungkook talk about it. I'm curious whether or not anyone had any guesses on it!

There is no smut in this one, but there will be in the next chapter, I promise <3

I hope you enjoyed the chapter <3

See you in the next chapter! :)

Love you <3
Past

Chapter Summary

Jungkook finally opens up about his past, Jimin finding some clarity as to what shaped Jungkook as the man he is today. The day seems to go on for an eternity, another incident happening that leaves Jimin dumbfounded...

Chapter Notes

Hiii, lovely readers <3

Aaaah, I'm so sorry for taking so long for this chapter! I was honestly struggling quite a bit to write this chapter. I can't pinpoint it to a certain reason, but I guess that I wasn't exactly satisfied with my overall writing in this chapter (more than usually) so I kept editing it.

I hope you still enjoy this chapter <3

See the end of the chapter for more notes

It did.

It did break his heart.

The words proceeded to ring in Jimin's mind, amplified in the silence that had settled between them in the room. Speechless. Jimin was utterly speechless. Confused. Heartbroken. There was a turmoil in his heart, the information shocking him, Jungkook's expression hurting him to the core of his very being.

“What? No, why did you never... You never said anything... I-” Jimin murmured, shaking his head in disbelief – he didn't want this to be true.

“I don't like talking about it, Jimin-ah. It's... it's fucked up. I...”

It was only then that Jimin realised that he knew so little about Jungkook's past. They had never actually addressed it, the boy briefly having mentioned that his mother had passed, yet never explicitly telling Jimin how and when.

Why had he lost his mother? Why had his relationship been so rocky with his father? Why had he never believed in love?

All of these unanswered questions were lingering in Jimin's mind – yet again. Questions that Jimin had attempted to put on hold, not wanting to rush or force Jungkook into opening up to him.

“Jungkook-ah, I-” Jimin whispered, taking a step closer.

Tears. There were tears in the corner of Jimin's eyes as he looked into the gorgeous brown orbs of the taller boy, heartbreaking pain glistening in them.

“Let's not... let's not talk about it” Jungkook decided, voice quiet and almost vulnerable, the boy shaking his head as he averted his gaze.

The pink haired male pulled his sleeves over his tiny hands, closing the distance between them, “Kook-ah” Jimin uttered, lowering himself on the sofa, hooking one leg over Jungkook's lap in order to straddle the boy, “Look at me” Jimin begged, pressing his soft hand against Jungkook's cheek to guide his face back to him, enabling them to lock eyes, “Talk to me. Please.”

“No, I-” Jungkook declined, wrapping his hand around Jimin's wrist to push it away from his face, indicating to move Jimin off from his lap.

“Don't push me away. I won't force you to talk about it, but don't push me away, Kook-ah. Please” Jimin responded desperately upon Jungkook's attempt to get up while pushing Jimin away from him simultaneously.

The black haired boy halted, looking back and forth between Jimin's eyes before he sank back into his seat, body almost going slack as the painful memory flashed in front of his eyes.

“Thank you” Jimin whispered, closing his arms around Jungkook's neck to hug the boy, Jungkook hesitating before he hooked his arms around Jimin's small body, pulling the boy impossibly closer as he hid his face in Jimin's nape.

Clearly, Jungkook didn't want to talk to Jimin about the incident. Maybe, it was too painful for him to bring up. Maybe, he just wasn't ready to share the whole thing. Maybe... he thought that he wasn't allowed to or refused to feel like this because he always wanted to be strong and protective.

Just days ago, Jungkook hadn't wanted to tell him about his nightmare, had been hesitant to let Jimin see that something was scaring him as well, that he wasn't always as strong as he taught himself to be. For some reason, Jungkook seemed to cling onto the desire to uphold a strong demeanor – wanted to be someone that wasn't scared, that wasn't weak, that didn't know heartwrenching sorrow.

Yet, Jimin knew better. Jimin had seen different parts of Jungkook, was aware of incidents that had occurred in his life and that he had been through – things that had shaped the man he was today, things that had broken his heart, things that had scared him.

However, he had not known about this part.

Jungkook was always there to catch him, has been with him through everything from panic attacks to the sad past of his childhood, comforting him through all of that in the most gentle way.

This time, it was Jimin's turn to be there for him.

“You don't always have to be strong” Jimin murmured into his ear, voice soft and comforting.

Although this was who Jungkook was and Jimin didn't want him to change anything about himself for the sake of Jimin, the smaller boy wanted him to know that it was okay to let himself fall, that it was okay to not be strong.

No, Jimin would be there to catch him, would comfort him in the way Jungkook always did for him.

“I... I fucking hate this feeling. I don't like talking about it, Jimin-ah” Jungkook whispered, shaking his head, face still pressed into Jimin's nape.

“I know” Jimin uttered, tenderly sliding his hand through Jungkook's hair in order to comfort him, “You don't have to talk about it. You waited for me, too, when I wasn't ready to talk about my father yet. Although I don't know what it was like to experience what you went through, I understand how you're feeling. It takes time to open up about traumatic experiences.”

This moment seemed unreal – Jimin desperately wished that it was only a nightmare after all.

It wasn't, though.

Slowly, Jimin attempted to recall the moment Jungkook had first mentioned his mother, trying to figure out whether or not he had missed something the boy had shared with him. However, reminiscing about the day Jungkook revealed the passing of his mother, Jimin simply couldn't find a hint that would lead him to this conclusion.

It was the night at the motel, both of them on the journey to finding Jimin's biological father. During that night, things had started to shift between them, the heavy tension easing, the skies brightening up again and allowing them to feel what their hearts truly desired for each other.

Jimin had seen the sorrow on his face, the pain that glistened in his eyes upon the mention of his own mother's death. Obviously, it could be caused by the death itself – there was no doubt in Jimin's mind that it was – but it could also be a result of a traumatic experience such as the raping of his mother.

A shiver ran down Jimin's back, the boy gulping at the mere thought of what had happened to Jungkook's mother.

“It was a long while ago. I was 13 years old at that time” Jungkook suddenly uttered, the words almost whispered, his voice so small as it was muffled against Jimin's skin, barely audible for Jimin.

However, he did register those words, his heartbeat quickening as he stilled his hands, “Kook-ah, you don't have to-”

“I know. I know that I don't have to, Jimin-ah, but I want to. I... You've trusted me with your past so I want to share mine with you because I trust you just as much”

“Jungkook-ah, I will wait un-”

“I know you would, little one. Just another reason for me to tell you now. I trust you”

“Okay” Jimin whispered, giving a small nod.

They were still not making eyecontact, Jungkook's head resting on Jimin's shoulder. Perhaps, it would make all of this more bearable for Jungkook. Maybe, he didn't want to look Jimin in the eyes while sharing the traumatic experience – Jimin understood.

Frankly, Jimin wasn't certain whether he would be capable of seeing the heartwrenching pain in Jungkook's eyes either as he recalled the memory of this horrible incident.

In a way, Jungkook was protecting them both from having to bear too much pain by hugging Jimin tightly instead of locking their eyes.

“It was winter. I remember because the whole street was white with snow and I had slipped a couple of times on my way home. My... my mother was home alone. My father was still at work when it... when it happened. A stupid meeting that he had to attend. I was at a friend's place that night, but we ended up fighting over some stupid shit that I can't even remember so I decided to go back home” Jungkook began, inhaling a shaky breath.

Jimin proceeded to caress the back of his head, noticing the way Jungkook’s heartbeat had quickened, his grip around Jimin becoming tighter, but Jimin didn't mind.

“I entered through the backdoor after noticing that it was already unlocked and open. I figured my Mom might have forgotten to lock it after coming home from her work. I tried to be quiet because it was late and I assumed she was already asleep” the black haired boy added, pausing for a brief moment to collect his thoughts, “But she wasn't. The lights were on in the living room, that cheesy drama she always watched running on the TV. I turned the TV off, thinking that she might have left it on accidentally before going to bed”

Jimin squeezed his eyes shut, sensing that things were going downhill from here.

“Then, I turned around”

The smaller boy gulped, not sure whether he was ready for the next part.

“My gaze fell on her. There she was. Just lying there, night gown torn apart. There was blood everywhere. Everywhere. I remember standing there in complete shock. I couldn't move. Not even an inch. All I was thinking was: Why is there blood? Why is there so much fucking blood?” the taller boy recalled, “Everything after that is kind of a blur. I remember running up to her, screaming at her, but she didn't respond. I yelled at her for ignoring me. I yelled at her to wake up. I didn't know or maybe I chose not to believe that I was holding her lifeless body” Jungkook went on, voice breaking.

A tear slipped from the corner of Jimin's eye, his bottom lip trembling as the words reached his ears. Jimin couldn't help but picture the scene in front of his eyes, heart clenching at the image in his mind.

“I called an ambulance, they came fairly soon, having to push me away in order to get to her because I had just been holding her in my arms. I tried to fight them because I wanted to be with her, but they refused to let me be close to her”

“She was already dead. There was nothing they could do for her”

“I'm so sorry, Jungkook-ah, I...”

“It was two men who had been breaking into houses around town before. They had planned to rob our house, but stumbled into my mother who was, unfortunately, home. They decided to... they decided to...” Jungkook paused, appearing to struggle with allowing the words to slip from his lips, his grasp on Jimin tightening. “They raped her. Each of those fucking bastards raped her, Jimin-ah. They killed her by choking her, claiming that they had only tried to make her unconscious to muffle her cries and screams.”

“Jungkook-ah, that's... I don't know what to say... I'm so sorry... You-”

Jimin went silent upon noticing something wet dribble down on his nape, confused by the sensation on his skin. Slowly, Jimin leaned back, Jungkook averting his gaze.

In that moment, Jimin felt his heart break yet again.

Jungkook's eyes were watery, another tear having slipped from the corner of his eye that he swiftly wiped away.
“Kook-ah” Jimin whispered, cupping Jungkook's face to guide it back up, locking eyes with him, “Look at me”

“She was just gone, Jimin-ah. Gone. Just like that. Just because of these bastards”

“I know” Jimin murmured, pressing his forehead against Jungkook's, the latter inhaling a shaky breath as he squeezed his eyes shut, another tear trailing down his cheek.

Jimin couldn't recall a time where he had ever seen Jungkook cry, the sight pulling on his heartstrings – Jimin felt his heart be ripped out of his chest, he felt mad at those guys who took his mother, he felt so sorry for Jungkook who had to experience all of that.

Gently, Jimin wiped away his tear, leaning in to press a soft peck to his lips in order to comfort the boy. The younger male exhaled a shaky breath, hugging Jimin tighter. Jimin's heart clenched as he hid his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck, proceeding to play with his hair to soothe him.

Neither of them knew how long they remained in that position, Jimin comforting him while Jungkook was embracing him tightly, almost- almost as if he was scared of Jimin disappearing. They just knew that they could stay like this for an eternity, only needing each other.

They focused on their soothing touches, their soft breathing into each other's ear, their hearts that were beating so close to each other. Slowly, Jimin noticed that Jungkook's heart began to pound evenly again, beating to the same rhythm as Jimin's. Visibly, Jungkook was calming down, finding comfort in Jimin.

It was Jungkook who broke the silence that had settled between them.

“They were caught”

Jimin tilted his head to the side, nudging his nose against Jungkook's cheek.

“Her... her rapists were caught. Only one of them was sentenced to life imprisonment for murder and several cases of burglary, whereas the other one was set free on parole for two years. Two fucking years.”

“What? How did that happen?” Jimin asked, utterly shocked, horror written on his face. How was it possible that one of them had been essentially set free for raping and killing someone? Was he still walking around on this earth, potentially harming several more people?

“Great lawyer, claiming he wasn't the actual one who killed her, but the other guy, and that he had only been talked into all of these crimes. An example of how some people get away with shit without any kind of punishment.”

Jimin was in disbelief, bewildered by the very little punishment one of the murderers had received.

“The guy left town after, but he came back to Busan a couple of years later. Maybe he wasn't able to start new somewhere else, I don't know, I never fucking cared enough about him to find out” Jungkook added, shrugging his shoulders, “But, I guess he got what he deserved in the end for killing my mother. He died four years ago. Overdose.”

Jimin faintly recalled having seen something about a similar case like this on the news before – yet, maybe it was exactly this one?

“I wanted to kill the guy for so long, I wanted him to pay for what he did. I had this... I had this anger in me. My life went downhill after that. I got into loads of shit, wasn't able to find closure nor really deal with my mother's death. I got into many fights in school, arguments with my father – shit like that. My father tried to be there for me, but it was a difficult time for him, too, you know? Unfortunately, it took time for me to realise that. I was mad at him for being distant, for immersing himself even more in work. Little did I know back then that he had been blaming himself for my mother's death during that time”

Jimin inhaled a shaky breath, picturing Jungkook dealing with the repercussions of his mother's death, the abscene of his father's guidance and the inevitable anger that he let out in physical fights, it taking some time for him to realise that it wasn't the right thing to do.

“It was a difficult time, filled with shit after shit. I was mad at my father for distancing himself the way he did because... because I didn't understand his way of grieving over her death. Later, he told me that he regrets not having been there for me from the start, but during that time he just couldn't look at me because he felt sorry towards me. Yet, I didn't know any of that during that time. I hated him for pretending to be heartbroken over her death. Their relationship has never been the best. I often felt like they were together for my sake, you know? I felt like they were together so I wouldn't have to grow up with divorced parents. It took me time to realise that her death was still affecting him as she had been his wife and the mother of his son. Although they had their differences and issues in their marriage, although they had grown distant, he had still cared a lot about her.”

The pink haired boy couldn't help but wonder whether or not Jungkook's perception on love had been affected by the narrative he believed to have been growing up in – his parents never actually being in love, but rather not parting in order to enable their son a life without divorced parents.

“It was a couple of months after her death that was... that was kind of like the final string. Yoongi hyung and I were on our way to some dance event for Hoseok hyung when we caught a guy harrassing a girl in front of the building. No one was interfering, maybe they didn't see, I don't know. I remember stopping in my tracks, hyung halting next to me as we watched the scene unfold. As soon as the guy touched her and pushed her against the wall, I saw red. I ran up to them, telling the guy to leave her alone. She was already crying, his hand beneath her shirt as he was touching her in a disgusting way. That's when I hit him, punch right in the face. Obviously, he didn't like that one bit, throwing a punch right back at me. It was a terrible fight, brutal. That's how I got the scar. Hyung had to pull me off the guy, for both our sake's.”

“Kookie...” Jimin whispered, the image of Jungkook being in physical pain causing his heart to clench.

“Hyung kind of saved me there. If he hadn't interfered, I don't think I would've stopped beating the shit out of that guy. Hyung was so mad at me for that. Well, he was proud of me for defending the girl, but mad for how I handled it. Hyung wanted me to go to therapy in order to learn how to deal with my repressed emotions. I didn't want to, but he didn't budge, essentially annoying me with the request every single day until I agreed. In the end, me and my father both went to therapy.”

That was a good thing, Jimin thought. It was a good thing that they had seeked for professional help.

“I'm so glad we did. It saved me. If it wasn't for hyung, I would have never went there. His guidance... his and Hoseok hyung's guidance through all of it was a huge factor for me being able to heal” Jungkook muttered, eyes flashing with emotions, "Honestly, Yoongi and Hoseok hyung saved me by supporting me through it, therapy saved me by showing me ways of how to deal with my emotions. It wasn't easy. It took us a long time to heal and- and maybe I'm not fully healed, but we're in a better place now” Jungkook elaborated.

Jimin couldn't help but feel guilty for never actually having addressed Jungkook's past. Then again, Jimin had never wanted to force Jungkook to share anything of his past with him as the younger male had respected his hesitance, too, regarding Jimin's struggles with his father.

Yet, all this time, he had known nothing about this – nothing about the horrible incidents that had occurred in Jungkook's childhood. Surely, they had spoken about Jungkook's past a couple of times before and Jimin had been aware of certain struggles, yet little did he know how heartwrenching it actually had been.

The smaller boy studied Jungkook's features, his beautiful brown orbs shining with tears, causing Jimin's chest to sting, his heart clenching in such a painful way. In that moment, Jimin would give his life to be capable of taking away Jungkook's pain, would have sold his soul, if he could go back in time and never have Jungkook have to experience anything like this.

“I never changed my view on consent, though. I never changed my view on how violence might be the only solution, if someone is in danger. I'll use it to protect the people I love and care for. I know... I know that I have my flaws and that I might not handle everything in the right way, but I'm trying.”

“I know you are” Jimin agreed, smiling warmly.

“And Dongha is just... - I was fine, Jimin-ah. I got over it, you know? At first, I tried to numb the pain, but I learned how to face it. I don't like talking about it, but who does like to talk about stuff like this? I was fine. I mean, it always hurts to think about her death, but I've found my closure, I've been able to live with it and be content, trying to remember what a beautiful person she was. Dongha... I don't know, he kind of triggers that traumatic experience, I guess. I just... when I see him I think of what happened to my mother and it just... it fucks me up, Jimin-ah” Jungkook whispered those last words.

Jimin pressed his forehead against Jungkook's, shutting his eyes close.

That's why consent was that important to him. That's why he hated Dongha with the core of his very being. Clearly, Dongha triggered that experience, Dongha triggered the unfair treatment of the guy that got away for raping his mother, triggered the memory of the rape itself.

“I'm not your mother, though. And Dongha-ssi isn't that guy. I'm fine, Kook-ah. We're fine” Jimin murmured against him, nudging his nose against Jungkook's.

“I know, but for how long? Who can guarantee me that he won't ever lay a finger on you? No one. I have to protect you. I can't let something like that happen again. Not to you, little one, no. I won't let that happen”

Jungkook's grip became tighter again as the younger male hid his face in Jimin's nape, Jimin's hand finding its way back into Jungkook's hair. Tenderly, Jimin slid his palm through the soft black locks, scratching on Jungkook's scalp gently every now and then. The taller boy appeared so vulnerable, the urge to protect Jungkook blooming inside of Jimin.

“He won't do it again because there will be no opportunity to. I'm going to stay away from him. If he... and in case he ever tries to hurt me again, I won't hesitate to call the police, I promise”

The pink haired boy pulled back in order to lock eyes with Jungkook.

“Promise me you won't do anything stupid, though” Jimin insisted, rubbing his thumb over Jungkook's cheek, “Please don't get yourself in trouble by hurting him. Let the authorities do that in case he does anything like that again”

Jungkook looked back and forth between Jimin's eyes, something flashing in them before he averted his gaze, “Jimin-ah, I... There is...” he went silent, leaving the remainder of the sentence hang in the “Please, Kook-ah, promise me”

“I don't know, if I can. If I see him do anything like that again, I can't guarantee to just stand there. There is no way in hell that I wouldn't do anything. If it is to protect you, it's justifiable. I won't get in trouble for that. After all, I don't go out and punch random people, little one”

Jimin nibbled on his bottom lip, giving a faint nod, “I just... I just don't want you to get in trouble or hurt yourself in any shape or form”

At that, Jungkook smiled slightly and it was like a light was illuminating the room, Jimin feeling his heart find comfort at the sight, “I know, baby, I know you don't want that” Jungkook murmured, brushing strands of Jimin's hair out of his face.

For a moment, they only stared at one another, their turmoil of emotions caused by their heartwrenching conversation slowly starting to vanish as they found comfort in each other – their touch, their stares, their close proximity – all of it.

Almost cautiously, both of the boys leaned in, Jungkook the one to capture Jimin's plump lips in a gentle kiss. In response, a soft breath slipped from Jimin's lips, his eyes fluttering shut as he carefully parted his lips, Jungkook mirroring his action in order to deepen their kiss.

It wasn't hungry, it wasn't sloppy, it wasn't dirty – no, it was pure and soft and soothing.

Tenderly, Jungkook's hands wandered beneath Jimin's shirt, caressing his back with his warm palms before he dug his fingers into Jimin's skin – almost as if he wanted to pull Jimin even closer.

Time seemed to pass so quickly, hours appearing to go by in that sweet moment of their soft lips attached to one another. It was almost, yes... it was almost healing to both of them.

A tear dropped down on Jimin's cheek – neither of them certain who it belonged to, yet not needing to find out either. Evidently, the revelation Jungkook had made after all this time of them knowing each other still sat deeply, both of them affected by it: Jimin who felt like he had been hit by a truck – shocked, so heartbroken and sorry - and Jungkook who had been reminded of the incident that completely and utterly turned his life upside down.

Jimin wasn't mad at him for only sharing this information about his life now – how could he? Clearly, it wasn't easy to talk about this and Jimin couldn't blame him for taking his time, considering how he had taken some time to trust and be capable to talk about it with Jungkook, too.

Slowly, Jungkook withdrew, rubbing the pad of his finger over Jimin's cheekbone in order to wipe the tear away while he stared deeply into Jimin's eyes, gaze piercing through Jimin like he was searching for his soul.

“Thank you” Jungkook whispered against his lips, brushing his own over Jimin's in a slight touch as he gripped the boy tighter.

“For what?” Jimin wondered, surprise written on his face as he slid his hand through Jungkook's hair.

“For... for listening to me. For giving me time. For being with me. For... just for being you. Thank you, little one”

Jimin smiled shyly, pressing his forehead against Jungkook's, “You don't have to thank me. If Jungkook shook his head, “I have to thank you, Jiminie. I feel like there has been a burden lifted from my shoulders. Although it pains to be reminded of the incident, it's kind of healing to share it with you. I haven't talked about it in so long. I... I thought that it might scare me to share such a big thing of my past with you, that it would make me feel vulnerable, but it didn't. It comforts me. It comforts me to have let you in” Jungkook stated sincerely, brushing strands of Jimin's pink hair out of his face to press his lips to Jimin's forehead.

“I'm... I'm glad to hear that, Kook-ah. I know that it's not easy to share something like this with anyone. It's just... I just feel so sorry that you had to go through all of that” Jimin responded, voice becoming softer and quieter with each word as he dipped his head down, feeling another wave of tears swell up in his eyes that he attempted to contain.

“I don't want to see you be sad, little one. You and I have both been through shit, but it lead us to this path, to this day. As horrible and heartbreaking it was what he went through, we're in a better place now. I'm happy, Jimin-ah. I'm happy to have you, to be with you” Jungkook murmured against his lips, affection glistening in his eyes.

Jimin smiled, heart fluttering when Jungkook pressed a peck to his lips.

The shock of the news still sat deeply in Jimin and quite honestly, there were still a lot of questions lingering in his mind. Yet, Jungkook’s words made him feel at ease, comforted his poor heart that was hurting for Jungkook.

They had both experienced horrible things in their past, had essentially walked through hell and came back, but they found heaven in each other. They have had time to heal, had time to pick themselves back together and in the end had found one another, illuminating each other's lives.

Obviously, those incidents – those memories - would never be completely forgotten, would never vanish wholly as they were a part of them. Of course, it still hurt to think about them, the pain was simply inevitable, yet it decreased with each day.

After wandering through those dark tunnels, they had found the light in the end, following it determinately until they were finally out.

Now, they had each other to comfort one another whenever they were reminded of those dark times.

They found comfort in each other.

And that was beautiful.

A vibration at the back of Jimin's trousers interrupted his thoughts, pulling the two boys out of their little bubble, startling either of them. It was a reminder he had set earlier to remind him of his shift starting soon.

“You have to go to work, don't you?” Jungkook asked, leaning back in his seat.

The smaller boy caught his bottom lip between his teeth, looking back and forth between his phone and Jungkook.

“I'll ask Somi to take my shift. I covered for her last time so I'm sure she won't mind” Jungkook smiled slightly, tilting his head to the side, “You don't have to stay, baby”
“I want to stay. I don't want to leave right now”

Swiftly, Jimin texted Somi, asking her to take his shift. Fortunately, she agreed without a question, visibly still grateful for Jimin taking her shift last time.

Jungkook's gaze was fixated on Jimin, eyes roaming over the delicate features on his face, the boy trying to fathom how he deserved Jimin – what country did he save in his last life to be gifted an angel like Jimin?

The pink haired boy felt his cheeks heat up at the intent stare of the other, glancing up from his phone in order to lock eyes with Jungkook. Slowly, he pushed his phone back into his pocket, studying Jungkook's face.

“I'm sorry for interfering” Jungkook murmured, reaching for Jimin's petite hand, both of their eyes following the motion. Tenderly, he played with Jimin's smaller fingers, smiling faintly.

“Huh?” Jimin hummed in confusion.

“I'm sorry for telling Yang about Dongha's actions without talking about it with you beforehand” Jungkook suddenly uttered softly, Jimin lifting his head up to look at the black haired boy with surprise in his eyes, “I know what a pure soul you have, little one” he added, lifting his hand and caressing Jimin's cheek with the pad of his thumb, “You've never done anything like this, knowing that it could ruin a potential future at such a huge company for him. You might not agree, but I still believe that Yang deserved to know. It's one thing to make a mistake, feel remorse for it and regret doing it, then doing everything in your willpower to make up for it, yet it's a whole 'nother thing to make a huge mistake repeatedly – at the chances of doing it again - without seeing anything that's actually wrong with it, without feeling any type of remorse. You could be in danger as long as he's near you, other trainees could have been in danger. Dongha doesn't deserve this chance at YK entertainment as long as he doesn't change. I'm just asking you to try and see it from my perspective, but I understand that I did wrong in the way I handled it”

Jimin bit down on the inside of his cheek, averting his gaze as he allowed the words to ring in his mind, processing them.

“I just wish that you would talk to me about things like this. I... I do understand your concern. Although I'm not happy with what Dongha did either, I'm not sure if it was right for you to do this to him. Then again, I understand your point about Yang having the right to know, if there is a chance of Dongha doing it again. And quite honestly, the chance isn't slim. Even though he apologised to me each time, he clearly ignored his own words and went back to doing the same thing, but even worse each time.”

“Do you hate me for doing it?” Jungkook wondered, something similar to fear glistening in his eyes.

“No, Kook-ah, of course I don't hate you. I don't agree with the way you handled it, but I would never hate you for you trying to protect me”

“What do you want me to do now?” Jungkook asked softly.

“About what?” Jimin wanted to know, slightly confused by his offer.

“Dongha” the taller boy clarified.

Jimin shook his head, “Nothing. I know you don't want to go back to Yang and convince him to take Dongha back and honestly, I don't think he would take Dongha back anyway after knowing about what he did”
“I’m sorry, little one” Jungkook apologised yet again, stroking his thumb over Jimin's cheek.

Frankly, Jimin would have to let this really sink in. Surely, he would need to allow his heart and brain to debate over it a little more, yet he was already certain that he didn't hate Jungkook for doing it, but understood his concern. Eventually, he would get over it.

Jimin just wished that Jungkook would talk to him about stuff like this, that they would communicate more. Maybe, that just needed time to fix. Maybe, they just needed time to realise how to fix it.

“I know you are, Kook-ah”

Gently, Jimin pressed a kiss to his cheek, reassuring him that they would be fine. In response, Jungkook titled his head to the side, capturing Jimin's lips in yet another sweet kiss, his hands rubbing over his delicate back as he pulled the boy closer.

Withdrawing, Jimin stared deeply into Jungkook's eyes before he placed the most tender kisses on Jungkook's face, pressing his soft lips to Jungkook's forehead, his nose, his cheek, his lips. The action caused Jungkook to smile warmly as his eyes fluttered shut, the boy kissing Jimin right back.

“I love you, Jimin-ah”

The smaller boy's heart fluttered. Every time those words were uttered to him, his heart went crazy.

Love. What a beautiful, yet somehow complicated and complex emotion.

Jimin couldn't help, but frown in a curious manner.

“How do you know?” he whispered, catching his bottom lip between his teeth as he traced his fingertips over Jungkook's arm.

“How do I know what?” Jungkook wondered, eyebrows arched up in curiosity.

“I mean, how did you know that it was love? You... You never believed in love before, right? Why did you never believe love existed and what made your perception on it change?” Jimin elaborated, feeling Jungkook smile against him, soft lips curling up.

“I never believed in love because I grew up with parents who never truly showed a loving, committed relationship. My father wasn't good at showing his feelings, maybe I've got that from him. I always felt like they were together for my sake, but not because they were truly in love. I do believe that they cared for each other, but I wouldn't call it love” the black haired boy answered as he reached for Jimin's petite hand again, gently playing with his delicate fingers.

“How are you sure that it wasn't love?” Jimin murmured, gaze still fixated on Jungkook's face.

“If that was love, I wouldn't have wanted it.”

Jimin titled his head to the side.

“Their conviction of love was something that I didn't desire to have because it was never anything close to how they told you in books, how they showed you in fairy tale movies. I thought that maybe, the reality just wasn't as picture perfect, but that love was actually just spending your time with someone because it was convenient, because you didn't want to be lonely or because you had a child that you wanted to protect. Love wasn't anything I strived for of having after knowing the reality of it”
“Maybe love just... just dies down after having spend that many years together? Maybe their definition of love was different? That doesn't mean that they never loved each other” Jimin reasoned, trying to point out that it could've still been love.

“Wouldn't that be an even sadder narrative? That they were in love at one point, but it just didn't work out so they fell out of love, choosing to stay together for my sake? I'm sure that they did have feelings for each other at one point, that they cared for one another, but to me that wasn't love”

Jimin felt like he wasn't entitled to judge the way his parents might have viewed the term love. Perhaps, that was their definition of love? Perhaps, that's how they were in love? Yet, maybe Jungkook was right and they never truly loved each other, choosing to stay with one another only for Jungkook.

The reality of love – at least the one Jungkook was describing – wasn't anything Jimin would long for either. Yet... his feelings for Jungkook were something completely different – so much stronger, so much deeper and vivid, filled with colour.

“It was difficult for me to bond with people in that sense, trust them or even date anyone because I didn't see a point in it. We would never be in love anyway and I didn't want to be with anyone just because it might be convenient. I chose to keep to simple sexual connections. Well, that was until you came along”

Jimin smiled shyly, but still didn't quite understand, “How did you know that it was love, if you never believed in it?”

“I have no idea what true love is, Jimin-ah. But... if someone asked me what it is, all I could say is that it's... fuck, that it's this. It's being with you. That it's wanting to wake up to you every morning, loving nothing more than to see you smile, wanting to do everything in my willpower to see you be happy, promising to protect you forever, trusting you the was I do, falling asleep next to you so easily. It's something... it's something I can't explain in words. You've made my life so much brighter, little one. You're the first thing I think of in the morning and the last thing I see before I go to sleep” Jungkook revealed, something like... wait, was Jungkook blushing now? There was definitely a faint shade of pink colouring his cheeks, yet that could also be caused by him tearing up at their earlier conversation about his mother, “Fuck” he cursed and averted his gaze, chuckling, “That sounds cheesy as fuck. When did I become this-”

“No” Jimin interrupted him softly, smiling as he felt warmth spread through his chest, “It's not cheesy at all. It's beautiful, Kook-ah”

Jungkook cleared his throat, smiling as he shook his head, “It's new for me to talk about shit like this. I've never felt like this before... before you. I love you more than anything else in this world”

The pink haired boy dipped his head down, heart fluttering, yet guilt blooming in his chest as he wasn't able to return those words. Surely, he could simply say them back, but he wanted them to be genuine. Jimin wanted to be more than certain that he actually meant them.

“You don't have to say them back, baby” Jungkook murmured, gripping Jimin's chin in order to guide his face back up, locking eyes with the latter, “Don't feel pressured to say them back. I can wait”

“I'm sorry” Jimin whispered, hiding his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck.

“Don't be” Jungkook assured him, voice soft as he pressed a kiss to his temple, “I will love you either way. I won't stop loving you just because you aren't ready to say those words back yet. I'll always love you, so take your time”

Jimin couldn't help but feel that it was unfair of him to not say them back. Why couldn't his heart just send him a clear message? What more proof did he need to know that this was love? What feeling would there be to make him certain that this was in fact love? Everyone kept saying that once you're in love, you will just know.

Then why didn't Jimin?

Was there something wrong with him?

Suddenly, another phone rang, startling both of them. This time, it was Jungkook's. The black haired boy groaned in annoyance, pulling his phone out of the pocket of his jeans. After checking who it was, Jungkook glanced at Jimin who nodded to signal that he was fine with Jungkook taking the call.

“Hello?” Jungkook greeted, clearing his throat as he straightened his back.

Jimin noticed that his eyes were a faint shade of red, caused by him tearing up earlier. The sight was so vulnerable, Jimin's heart clenching again, yet fluttering when Jungkook flashed him a comforting smile.

“I'm- I'm fine, yes. It has? Oh no, I don't mind at all. I'm currently busy anyway. In three hours? Okay, that's fine. I'll make sure to be there on time, yes. See you later, hyung. Yes, great, thank you. Later” Jimin picked up broken parts of the conversation, having only been able to listen to Jungkook's side of it.

“Work?”

“Mhm. Jin hyung. A meeting was rescheduled. I don't have to rush back to work now. I'll just turn up to the meeting and work a little longer tonight to make up for the time I'm missing now”

“Then you're going to be home late” Jimin noted, titling his head to the side.

“Mhm, but I don't want to leave right now”

Jimin smiled warmly, brushing Jungkook's hair out of his forehead.

“I'm so fucking exhausted. I didn't even do much” the younger male sighed, sinking back into his seat on the sofa.

“You did. You've allowed yourself to open up about your past. That can take a lot of strength and energy. After all, we also argued quite a bit” Jimin pointed out.

“I know, I'm sorry, angel”

“Don't be. I'm... I'm glad that we're working on this. I'm glad that we were able to solve this. I'm still not happy about the Dongha issue, but I understand your intention”

They've talked about so much... Jimin felt like hours had gone by – maybe they had. Finally, he knew more about Jungkook's past, knew more about what had shaped him, why he was the man he was today.

Jungkook's eyes fluttered shut, Jimin giggling at the sight, “You're tired, hm?”

“Fuck, I just wanna sleep right now” Jungkook groaned, rubbing over his temples.
“We could take a nap before you have to leave for work” the pink haired boy suggested.

Jungkook opened one of his eyes again, staring right at Jimin at the inviting suggestion, “We could” he agreed.

“Come on then” Jimin smiled and got up to his feet, holding out his hand to Jungkook.

“Let's nap right here, I'm too lazy to walk upstairs” Jungkook grumbled, reaching for the smaller boy. In response, Jimin chuckled, giving a nod as he watched Jungkook lie down on the sofa, “Up” Jungkook insisted, pointing to his upper body.

Smiling shyly, Jimin lowered himself on Jungkook, straddling his crotch before he sank down on Jungkook's body, allowing his head to rest on his broad chest.

After all, the sofa wasn't big enough to enable them to lie next to each other without either of them falling down to the floor in the midst of their nap. Jimin having to lie on top of Jungkook was simply... inevitable and honestly necessary for both right now.

Without an ounce of hesitation, Jungkook embraced the pink haired one, moving his hands beneath Jimin's shirt to caress the skin with his warm palms. In response, Jimin's eyes fluttered shut, exhaustion vivid in his body.

Although not much had actually occurred, it felt like so much energy had been sucked from their bodies. Both of the boys just wanted sleep to welcome them, the shift in their relationship still taking its time to fully settle in. After all, it was new that Jungkook was opening up to him about his past... it was new that they were communicating more about their issues.

Somehow, Jimin felt very stupid and guilty now for accusing Jungkook of having lied to him about Jieun earlier... More than anything, Jimin felt ashamed for how he actually handled the issue.

“I'm sorry, Kook-ah” Jimin whispered, cheek pressed against Jungkook's chest.

It took a moment for Jungkook to respond, Jimin figuring that he might have already halfly dozed off.

“For what, baby?” the black haired boy wondered, proceeding to rub his hands over Jimin's back.

“I think I overreacted. I'm sorry for getting mad at you for talking to Jieun-ssi. I didn't mean to, but seeing her with you while knowing that you two had a past made me... made me... it makes me feel insecure” Jimin admitted, voice becoming quieter with each word.

“There is no reason to be insecure, little one. You're the only one that I want. Jieun-ssi is nice, but I've never had any romantic feelings for her and that won't ever change. I didn't take her number and if it assures you to not be insecure, I won't talk to her any more” the black haired boy offered, smiling comforting as he rubbed his warm palm over Jimin's back, drawing shapes on the soft skin.

“No” Jimin declined, shaking his head erratically. The pink haired boy didn't want to restrict Jungkook in his decision over who he's talking to or not – especially not because of a silly reason as this one, “I trust you. I guess that it's just new for me to actually see a person that you've been with and I have to learn how to deal with it. You don't have to stop talking to her. I would just... I don't know, maybe let her know that you're taken so you won't lead her on”

“I told her, baby. I told her that I'm with you” Jungkook stated, giving a nod.

“Then I trust you. I'm sorry for screaming at you. Maybe it was caused by me getting angry over “Don't apologise, Jimin-ah. Your feelings are valid. I wouldn't like the sight either. All I can do is assure you that there isn't anything going on, nor will there ever”

Jimin smiled faintly, giving a nod. Then, he rested his head back down on Jungkook's chest. Their eyes fluttered shut again, Jimin focusing on the soft breathes that slipped from Jungkook, on the way his chest rose and fell in a regular pace, his even heartbeat audible to Jimin as his ear was pressed against his chest.

“I wish you could have met her” Jungkook suddenly whispered, Jimin's eyes fluttering back open, a sad smile appearing on his face.

Carefully, Jimin reached for Jungkook's hand, intertwining their fingers as he watched their hands align. “Tell me about her. I would love to know more about her. Unless... unless it pains you too much” Jimin whispered back, lifting his head up in order to glance at Jungkook's face.

The taller boy met his gaze, smiling lightly, “She- She was beautiful” he then uttered, Jimin resting his head back down on Jungkook's chest, feeling the vibration of his voice against his ear, allowing his soothing voice to ring in his head, “God, was she beautiful- and kind. So damn kind. She worked with many charities. Mostly children. Those who don't have a family, those who don't have the means for proper education, who barely have any food. She always tried to give back. Sometimes, she took me along to help out. I loved it. I loved seeing the light in their eyes when we helped them. I always thought that one day we would start our own”

Jimin smiled, giving Jungkook's hand a little squeeze as he began to draw shapes on his chest with his fingertips.

“I miss those times. I really do. I... After her death, I just couldn't bring myself to do it” Jungkook admitted, wetting his lips, “I know that's horrible. I just... I just had to figure out my own shit first”

“That's fine, Kook-ah. It's really sweet that you did that. Charities are wonderful things” Jimin assured, smiling warmly, “You can still do charity work, Jungkook-ah. I'm sure you can find a cause you want to support. If anyone has the means, I think it's a beautiful thing to help. I would love to join you. We could... I mean, if you want to... we could do that together” Jimin suggested, voice slightly quieter and unsure.

Jungkook's sleepy eyes lit up, his smile deepening, “I would love that”

They stared at each other for a moment, their eyes falling shut every now and then in their sleepy haze, Jimin the one to break the silence, “Did your mother work at the company with your father?” he then wanted to know, curious about the woman that had raised Jungkook.

“Kind of. I mean, she helped out in a way, but it was never her dream. She had been a balett dancer, but broke her ankle during one of her performances” Jungkook revealed, Jimin's smile fading at the sad information, “It was severe. It took a long time to heal, but she never felt like she used to when it came to dancing. She decided to stop. She still danced at home from time to time, though”

Jimin didn't even want to image himself being injured that badly that it would prevent him from dancing – that it would take away his passion. That would genuinely... it would break his heart, but ruin him just as much. What would Jimin do in a situation like that? After all, dancing was... was his life... He truly didn't know what he would have done.

“You remind me of her. Your kind heart reminds me of her” Jungkook murmured sleepily, pressing his lips to Jimin's cheek.

It wasn't weird. Jimin didn't think of it as weird that Jungkook was comparing him to his mother. It was a compliment. It made him smile as he stared at Jungkook's sleepy face.

“She would have loved you” the black haired boy mumbled tiredly, eyes falling shut.

“I'm sure I would have loved her, too” Jimin stated, chuckling quietly as he didn't receive a response, Jungkook potentially – or rather, most likely – having falling asleep already.

Smiling to himself, Jimin pressed his lips to Jungkook's forehead before he hid his face in the curve of his neck, noticing that the latter's grip was still tight around him in order to keep him close.

Eventually, Jimin found himself fall asleep, too, trying just like Jungkook to remember and focus on the beautiful memories of Jungkook's mother he had shared with him instead of that one horrible one.

---

Jungkook was already gone, when he woke up later.

Jimin was lying on the sofa all alone, face pressed into the soft surface, neck aching from the position he had been sleeping in. Somehow, it felt cold without the taller boy, it almost always did.

Scientifically speaking, there must be something wrong with Jimin's temperature sensibility, right? As if to prove a point, a shiver ran down his back, Jimin wrapping his arms around his upper body.

“Kook-ah?” Jimin called out, voice a little raspy due to the heavy sleep. Essentially, they had only wanted to take a nap, yet the pink sky outside conveyed that it was already in the late afternoon, the sun starting to go down.

Slowly, he sat up, rubbing his petite fists over his tired eyes.

“Jungkook-ah?” Jimin tried again, still not receiving an answer.

Maybe, he had already left for work? Jimin figured. After all, he recalled Jungkook saying something about having to attend a meeting earlier.

Carefully, Jimin got up to his feet, stretching his limps before he waddled over to the dining table, a small white note catching his eyes. Reaching for it, Jimin closed his fingers around the piece of paper and picked it up.

I had to leave for the meeting. Didn't want to wake you up. I'll call you later, little one.

P.S. Don't open the present just yet, wanna be with you when you do.

P.P.S I love you.

Jimin smiled, a faint shade of pink colouring his cheeks as he read over the words. Then, he placed the note back down on the table, scanning the room.

What should he do now?

Frankly, the smaller boy hadn't even danced at all today, having come here to Jungkook's apartment right after meeting Yang at his company. Somehow, all of that seemed so far away now, although it had only been a couple of hours.

To be honest, Jimin was already missing dancing, felt like he could really need it today for comfort after the intense argument and conversation with Jungkook earlier. Jimin didn't just want to sit here and wait for Jungkook to return, but would rather go practice dance for a couple of hours on his own. Today, there was no official dance practice, but the studio was always open for them to train in, hence Jimin could simply come by and dance for awhile.

Nodding to himself, Jimin put on his shoes and made his way out of the apartment, rushing downstairs.

To his surprise – or should it really surprise him at this point? - Beomsoo was waiting for him inside of the car, climbing out of it as soon as he caught Jimin's figure. Greeting each other politely, Beomsoo opened the door for him, gesturing for him to hop in.

---

Swiftly, Jimin ran up the stairs, breathing heavily as he took two steps at once. No, he wasn't actually in a rush, yet he wanted to make sure to use the little time at the studio he still had today productively, thus hurrying like that.

As soon as he arrived inside of the room, he regretted rushing himself like that, the poor boy catching his breath before truly having started to practice. Surely, his own practice wouldn't be too tough today as he really only wanted to dance to soothe his heart, hence this was probably the most breathless he was going to be today at the studio.

Gently, Jimin tossed his bag to the side as he walked over to the centre of the room, stretching his limbs thoroughly.

Suddenly, there was a noise behind him, startling Jimin who jerked up at the sound, spinning around to figure out what the source of the disruption was.

His heart sank at the sight of the intruder.

Dongha.

To be fair, he wasn't actually an intruder, just as much allowed to be here as Jimin, yet... yet why him? Why now? Why were the odds against Jimin?

“D-Dongha” Jimin uttered, the taller boy glancing at him in shock – apparently not having seen him prior to Jimin making his presence known with his voice.

“Jimin” Dongha responded, pulling his eyebrows together in a frown, “Jimin” he repeated, but more to himself than to Jimin.

“What are you doing here?” Jimin wanted to know, voice way quieter than he intended.

“What are you doing here?” Dongha challenged, taking several slow steps closer.

Swallowing hard, Jimin blinked, “I'm here to practice” he answered, pulling his sleeves over his petite hands, a nervous habit of him, Dongha following the movement with his eyes.

“There you have your answer. Same goes for me” Dongha replied, shrugging his shoulders before he tilted his neck from side to side in order to stretch the muscles.

“Uhm, well... okay then” Jimin murmured, reckoning that he wasn't essentially entitled to ask Dongha to leave simply because he wanted to stay away from him. In fact, right now, looking at Dongha, all Jimin could think about was his removal from the company because of Jungkook's
They averted their gazes, each taking a spot in front of the mirror with some distance inbetween them, stretching their muscles simultaneously. Trying to focus on himself and ignore Dongha's presence as well as he could, Jimin bent forward, reaching down to his feet as he felt the sweet ache of his muscles at the back of his legs.

“How was your meeting with Yang?” Dongha broke the somewhat awkward silence between them.

Jimin looked up, straightening his back again as he followed Dongha’s motions with his eyes, “It... it went well” he answered out of politeness.

“Great to hear” the brown haired boy commented, giving a nod, “What offer did he make you, hm?” he then wanted to know.

“Dongha, I'm here to practice. I'm sorry, I don't- I really don't want to talk about this right now. Especially not with you” Jimin responded with a sigh, shaking his head.

The other male arched up his eyebrows, “Why?”

“You know why” was all that Jimin uttered as he fixated his attention back to his own reflection in the mirror. Yet, apparently, Dongha didn't get the message, meeting his gaze in the mirror.

“Please enlighten me” Dongha murmured, cocking his head to the side.

Pulling his brows together in a frown, Jimin opened his mouth to oblige, but shut it close again as he shook his head, “Dongha, leave me alone” he demanded eventually.

For a moment, it was silent, Jimin figuring that Dongha was going to respect his request. Relief washed through the boy as he stretched his arms, trying to blur out Dongha's presence again.

However, it wasn't that easy.

Essentially, Dongha was the one who was making that process that much harder – speaking up yet again.

“I was fired” the taller boy revealed, voice somehow softer.

“What?” Jimin wondered, not having paid much attention to the words that the other one had spoken.

“Yang fired me” Dongha elaborated, glancing down at the floor before he fixated his gaze on Jimin's delicate face again.

“Oh no, here we go, Jimin thought, gulping at the mention of Dongha's removal from Yang's company.

“O-Oh. Well... I'm sorry to hear that” Jimin uttered, voice very quiet as he avoided eye contact, fearing that Dongha might sense that something was off – that Jimin knew more than he lead on. Desperately, Jimin attempted to maintain a rather surprised expression, figuring that upholding that would prove his innocence in the case.

However, evidently, he wasn't that convincing in managing that.

“It's just odd how I was fired without ever actually having trained there” Dongha noted, frowning at Jimin.
Swallowing hard, Jimin unconsciously took a step back, “Well, did he... did he tell you why you were fired?” he then asked, eyes wide in curiosity.

“He did” Dongha confirmed, giving a nod, “Safety of his trainees and the reputation of the company” he elaborated, taking another step closer.

“Oh” Jimin breathed.

“Did you... Did you-” Dongha started, voice not angry, but rather soft and more than anything just... just curious?

Jimin interrupted him, narrowing his eyes, “Are you accusing me of having my hands in your removal? Because I didn't. I didn't talk to Yang”

Silence.

An almost suffocating silence.

Dongha just stared at him, blinking only very few times.

The smaller boy took a glimpse at the door, wondering whether he should take a dash and leave this place as quickly as he good. Cautiously, Jimin was trying to read the situation, yet was merely capable to look at Dongha without fearing him coming even closer – doing something that could potentially hurt him.

“Are you sure?” Dongha finally broke the silence, taking a step closer.

That was it.

“I'm leaving” Jimin announced, lifting his hands up as he walked past the brown haired boy.

Yet, Dongha didn't appear to like that, closing his hand around Jimin's wrist to pull the boy back.

A shiver ran down Jimin's back at the contact, sudden fear blooming inside of him.

“I'm sorry, don't go anywhere” Dongha apologised, sincerity in his voice as he stared at Jimin.

“Let go of me!” Jimin insisted, pulling on his arm as he scanned the room for his backpack, trying to run in order to get his phone. Unfortunately, the boy stumbled over his feet in the process, the rush combined with his anxiety causing him to trip. Yet, Dongha quickly caught him, pulling him back.

“Was that your revenge?” Dongha asked, locking eyes with Jimin.

The smaller boy gulped, remaining in Dongha's grasp as he looked back and forth between his eyes – confused that he didn't appear mad or angry.

“I didn't do anything, Dongha” Jimin answered, “Have you thought about your own behaviour? About the decisions you made and the actions you pursued? Have you considered that they've been wrong and that maybe, the universe simply had enough of it? You hurt me, Dongha. Repeatedly. I thought that I could trust you and I tried to forgive you, but you really see no remorse at all. You were such a nice friend to me. What happened?” Jimin wanted to know, furrowing his brows. Yet, there came no answer, causing Jimin to continue, “Maybe, everything that's happening to you is because of your own decisions and mistakes. Life gives you what you deserve” he added, slight anger in his voice, yet the tone somehow soft and so very quiet as he pulled away forcefully, surprised that Dongha didn't attempt to reach for him again.
The taller boy blinked, staring at Jimin with big, hollow eyes. For a moment, Jimin truly believed to see emotion flash in them, almost as if he had a realisation – a fraction of what he had seen in his eyes before everything that he had done to Jimin.

“I should leave now” Jimin stated, taking several steps back to pick up his stuff, but hesitating as he heard Dongha speak up.

“No... No, you stay. You- You were here first” Dongha insisted, shaking his head as he walked past Jimin to grab his stuff.

Jimin frowned as he watched Dongha walk past him, heading for the door. His sudden change in behaviour confused Jimin – yet again.

“Don't stay for too long” Dongha murmured.

The pink haired boy opened his mouth, but shut it again as he watched Dongha come to a halt in the doorway.

“And Jimin?” Dongha uttered, looking back over his shoulder to glance at Jimin.

Nervously, Jimin pulled his sleeves over his petite hands, “Hm?” he hummed softly, almost caught in trance as he realised that he couldn't move an inch.

“You... you should stay away from him” the taller boy suggested, voice gentle.

Jimin's frown deepened, confusion increasing as several questions came up in his head. Who was he referring to?

“Be-... just... just be careful with who you trust”

What?

Regarding what? Who was he talking about? Did he just... did he mean in general?

Why was Dongha so cryptic? What did that mean?

Before Jimin was able to utter out a word, Dongha had already left, leaving behind a very dumbfounded Jimin.

---

I'm off work in a couple of hours. It's probably going to be very late by then. You still wanna come by to my place? - Jungkook

Unfortunately, Jimin still hadn't forgotten about Dongha's words, his voice proceeding to ring in Jimin's mind. Somehow, Dongha always managed to confuse Jimin with his complete 180 degree turn of his demeanor and behaviour. For some reason, Dongha just possessed the ability to utterly bewilder him.

Frankly, Jimin had tried to decipher what Dongha had meant with those words, yet had figured that in the end there was no depth to them, that Dongha might have just played some mind game with him to get into his head – his words didn't actually mean anything.

I'm still at practice, not sure when I'll leave. I have to get up early tomorrow, too. Early shift. :( – Jimin
I understand. Don’t practice for too much longer. Sleep well, angel, I’ll see you tomorrow – Jungkook

The smaller boy caught his bottom lip between his teeth, truthfully wanting to see Jungkook – especially after their argument and very revealing conversation earlier. After all, falling asleep in each others arms was somewhat healing to both of them.

Jimin longed for his touch and it wasn’t far-fetched of him to believe that Jungkook desired falling asleep next to him just as much.

Perhaps he could head home first and pick up some clothes before going over to Jungkook's place, thus enabling to leave for work immediately in the morning without having to stop by at his own apartment first.

Don’t get him wrong – Jimin could very well spend a night on his own, without Jungkook hugging him. In fact, he had lived like that each day before he ever met Jungkook. Yet... not this night. Every other day, yes, okay - sure, he would prefer the reality of being with Jungkook, but it wouldn't kill him to spend a day on his own. However, tonight wasn't one of those nights. Tonight, Jungkook might need him just as much after having shared such a big part of himself earlier.

Quite honestly, Jimin didn't want Jungkook to believe that he was distancing himself, that his decline was a reaction to Jungkook's earlier almost vulnerable appearance – especially not after the latter had opened up about his past to him for the first time. The pink haired boy feared that Jungkook might think that he rejected his invite because of his vulnerable breakdown earlier – although that wasn't the case at all.

The melody of the song that was currently playing in the studio interrupted his thoughts, the heavy beat ringing in his ears causing him to slightly lower the volume. Jimin decided to proceed with his practice and choose whether or not to stay at Jungkook's tonight later.

---

Gently, Jimin shut the door close behind himself, trying to make as little noise as possible. Carefully, he pulled off his shoes, placing them down against the wall before he straightened his back again. The pink haired boy was immensely sleepy, eyes falling shut involuntarily every now and then as he scanned the pitch black room.

The only source of light was coming from upstairs, a faint light illuminating the staircase. Slowly, Jimin tip-toed over to the staircase, walking up to the next floor, tiny feet padded on the soft rug and creating no noise. Then, he entered the bedroom, catching sight of Jungkook's figure lying on the bed.

Smiling faintly, Jimin walked closer, heart fluttering at the adorable sight of Jungkook hugging a pillow close to his body, face pressed into it as he appeared to be asleep. The TV was still on, causing Jimin to assume that Jungkook must have fallen asleep as soon as he had arrived home, presumably not capable to turn off the TV in the midst of falling asleep.

The smaller boy dropped his bag to the floor and went to turn the TV off. Then, he stood still, taking a glimpse back at Jungkook’s figure lying on the bed.

Smiling faintly, Jimin walked closer, heart fluttering at the adorable sight of Jungkook hugging a pillow close to his body, face pressed into it as he appeared to be asleep. The TV was still on, causing Jimin to assume that Jungkook must have fallen asleep as soon as he had arrived home, presumably not capable to turn off the TV in the midst of falling asleep.

The smaller boy dropped his bag to the floor and went to turn the TV off. Then, he stood still, taking a glimpse back at Jungkook’s figure.

Truthfully, Jimin was slightly conflicted over what to do now. Clearly, he couldn't just join Jungkook in bed, right? What if he woke up and almost had a heartattack at the realisation of someone lying next to him - having essentially intruded his apartment - which, well, wasn't actually the case though.
Obviously, Jimin hadn't actually intruded his flat. After all, Jungkook was the one who had asked him to stay over in the first place, yet... Jimin had declined. However, he had changed his mind, but unfortunately his phone had given up on him after practice, shutting off due to the lack of battery, preventing him from being able to contact Jungkook.

Then again, Jimin didn't want to wake him from his sleep either... The handsome boy was sleeping so peacefully, nose scrunched up as he dreamed about something, grasp tight around the pillow as if he needed to make sure that something was close to his body.

Jimin noticed that Jungkook was still fully dressed, perhaps having been too tired to take off his clothes prior to lying down on his bed. Frankly, Jimin could relate, felt like he would collapse any moment now, too, the boy just wanting to fall asleep.

Suddenly, the younger male rolled over, murmuring something in his sleep as he pressed his face into the pillow.

Jimin's smile deepened as he closed the distance between them, glancing down at Jungkook's sleeping face. Carefully, he reached out, not able to resist the urge to touch his gorgeous face as he brushed strands of black hair out of his forehead before he traced his fingertips over his cheek.

"Kook-ah?” Jimin whispered eventually, not wanting to scare the other boy by simply joining him in bed, “Jungkook-ah”

The taller boy frowned.

“Mhm?” he grumbled, “Jimin-ah?” he murmured, voice raspy.

“Yes, Kook-ah” Jimin confirmed, giving a nod although Jungkook wasn't able to see it.

“You're here” Jungkook noted, reaching for Jimin.

Giggling, Jimin gave a nod as he allowed Jungkook to take his hand. As soon as their fingers brushed over each other, Jungkook's eyes fluttered open.

“Holy shit” Jungkook cursed, jerking back as he clasped his hand over his chest, “Jimin-ah, fuck, you scared the shit out of me”

“I'm sorry” Jimin chuckled, “I'm so sorry”

“What- Shit. What are you doing here? I thought you wouldn't come over tonight” Jungkook commented, sleep still vivid in his voice.

“I changed my mind. Wanted to be with you tonight” the pink haired male responded, his voice quiet and soft as if those words were only meant for Jungkook, “I wanted to text you, but my phone shut off. I didn't want to wake you at first so I let myself in and tried to be quiet, but then I realised that I couldn't just join you in bed because... well, I didn't want to scare you, but I guess that didn't work out as planned after all” he giggled, eyes turning into crescents as he titled his head to the side, “I'm sorry, Kook-ah”

“No, it's fine, little one. I just didn't expect you to come over tonight after your text, but I'm happy that you're here” Jungkook assured, pushing the pillow of the bed to make room for Jimin who chuckled as Jungkook reached for him and pulled him onto the bed.

“I should have asked Beomsoo to call you. I don't know why I didn't think of that...” Jimin stated, shaking his head at his own stupidity.
“No, baby, it's fine, really. Come here” Jungkook uttered, closing his arm around Jimin's delicate body as he pulled the boy closer, “This isn't just still happening in my dreams, right?” Jungkook mumbled as he tugged the blanket over their bodies.

“No” Jimin giggled, shaking his head, “I'm actually here, Kook-ah”

“Fuck. I really believed I was still just seeing you in my dream when I heard your voice talk to me” Jungkook admitted, chuckling.

“I'm sorry” Jimin mumured, smiling as he pressed a kiss to Jungkook's cheek, “Oh, but, you were dreaming of me then?” he asked, eyebrows arched up.

An ounce of hesitation before Jungkook cleared his throat, “Huh? What? Who said that?”

“You” the smaller boy giggled, “You said that you thought that I was still just a part of your dreams” Jimin helped him remember – despite him knowing very well what Jimin was referring to.

“Mhm, I don't recall” Jungkook insisted, pulling Jimin even closer as he hid his face in his neck, pressing his lips to Jimin's nape.

The latter smiled to himself, shaking his head at his boyfriend's adorable behaviour.

Peaceful silence settled between them, Jungkook rubbing his hand over Jimin's stomach.

“It was Hoseok hyung's first official day today at the company, wasn't it?” Jimin wanted to know, breaking the silence as curiosity bloomed inside of him.

“Mhm” Jungkook hummed, confirming his statement, “I didn't get to see him much because I had to attend several meetings today, but I did stop by to see him live in action, coming up with some new choreography”

“Was he happy?” Jimin found himself whisper.

“Hyung did smile a lot, but I think it's going to take some time for him adjust to the new situation. After all, this is something he had dreamed of for a very long time, but all of it is fairly new to him” Jungkook replied, his palm travelling down to Jimin's delicate hand, the taller boy intertwining their fingers, “Don't worry, I'm sure he'll like it with us”

Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth, “It's not that. I'm just wondering whether or not he feels pressured a lot... or... or whether it's lonely. Does he have actual students?”

“Mhm, well, he comes up with a choreography and teaches it to our dancers. They are his students, you could say” Jungkook answered, Jimin giving another weak nod, “I'm sure he misses you, angel”

“I miss him, too” Jimin uttered, chuckling, “Although he's still going to teach us. If he.. if he has time, that is’”

“I'm sure he'll try his best, baby. After all, you're going to choose a company soon, too, won't you? Who knows how much time you'll have to attend those practices”

That was a fair point. Valid, actually. Jimin might be too busy with his new job at an entertainment company. Who could assure him that he himself would even have enough time for the dance practices with Hoseok?

Their lives simply proceeded to evolve, they grew up, new paths appeared for them, doors to unbelievable opportunities opened up. That's just... that's just what life was about.

“You're right” Jimin agreed, sighing as he watched Jungkook play with his fingers, “Sometimes, I'm afraid of changes. I don't even know, why”

“I guess everyone kind of is. We never know what to expect and sometimes the unknown scares us” Jungkook noted, “And that's okay, but changes are just part of life. They help us grow and learn”

The pink haired boy hummed in agreement, “They do”

Jimin snuggled back against Jungkook, eyes fluttering shut at the comforting way the latter was playing with his delicate fingers in such a gentle way.

“How was practice?” Jungkook wanted to know then, voice soft.

Jimin gulped, eyes shooting open. Immediataly, Dongha was there to invade his mind, the earlier events creeping up in Jimin's head. Frankly, it wasn't such a good idea to tell Jungkook about that incident. As soon as he would mention Dongha touching him at all, it would be over.

To be fair, Dongha hadn't touched him in a forceful way, hadn't tried to assault him or anything like that, but had simply tried to prevent him from running away so he could share his thoughts, right?

And what kind of thoughts that were... Jimin still didn't quite fathom what he had meant with those words and to be honest, he didn't think that he needed to. After all, how could he trust Dongha after everything? - Surely, there was no depth to his words.

“It was good” Jimin answered eventually, praying that Jungkook wouldn't notice the way Jimin slightly tensed at the mention of his earlier practice, “I really needed that today”

Jungkook hummed in satisfaction, Jimin letting out a breath of relief at the fact of Jungkook not asking any furhter questions, preventing Jimin from having to uphold any kind of lie.

The black haired boy moved his hand beneath Jimin's shirt, gently rubbing his warm palm over Jimin's soft skin.

“Thank you for staying over” the taller boy whispered after several moments of peaceful silence, Jimin having had time to relax again after the mention of Dongha just minutes ago.

Jimin lifted his head, pressing his lips to Jungkook's chin in a tender kiss, “You don't need to thank me for that, Kook-ah. I like sleeping with you” Jimin responded, cheeks turning a shade of pink a moment later at the realisation of his choice of words, “I-I mean, I like falling asleep next to you- with you, well, you know what I mean” he swiftly clarified, Jungkook chuckling, his chest vibrating at the sweet sound, “Not that- I mean, not that I don't like sleeping with you as well. I do like... I do like sleeping with you, too... if you, well, I mean that in the sense of s-”

“Baby” Jungkook snickered, shaking his head, “I know what you mean” he assured, smiling at Jimin's cuteness, something so adorable about how flustered he got, about how timid he became at the topic. The black haired male placed a kiss to his temple, rubbing his warm palm over Jimin's stomach, “I like both of these things, too, Jimin-ah” Jungkook murmured against his ear, hot breath tickling Jimin's skin.

Blush deepening, Jimin smiled shyly, giving a small nod, “Good”

“Good” Jungkook echoed, lips curling up into a smile.
The younger male pressed an open-mouthed kiss to Jimin's cheek, remaining in that touch for a moment before he trailed more kisses down Jimin's neck, causing Jimin to giggle at the way Jungkook's lips tickled his skin.

In response to Jimin's reaction, Jungkook smiled against his neck, proceeding to brush his lips over the smaller boy's skin to plaster more kisses over his nape, nibbling on his skin gently. Smiling, Jimin rolled over, enabling him to lock eyes with Jungkook.

“Are you trying to eat me?” Jimin giggled, titling his head to the side.

“Angel, if I was going to eat you up, I'd probably get a sugar rush by how sweet you are” Jungkook flirted with a smirk, causing Jimin to giggle again, eyes turning into crescents as he swatted Jungkook's arm, “What? I'm just being honest here. I gotta keep my health in mind”

“What happened to you?” Jimin chuckled, shaking his head, "You're silly" he smiled.

“You started” Jungkook noted.

“It was a justified question” Jimin defended himself, chuckling.

“Well, then it depends on what kind of eating you were talking about there” he added, amusement in his eyes as a cheeky smirk danced around his lips, “You would definitely know if I was eating you ou-”

Swiftly, Jimin clasped his hand over Jungkook's mouth, eyes going wide, “Don't say it” he whispered.

Chuckling, Jungkook pulled Jimin's hand away from his mouth, “Why not? We're the only ones here, little one”

“Ts... that's...” Jimin attempted to reply, swallowing hard as he stared into Jungkook's brown eyes.

“What, baby? Dirty?” Jungkook smirked, brushing stands of Jimin's pink hair out of his face.

Kind of. But more than anything it caused Jimin to then think about exactly that, mind beginning to image Jungkook going down on- No, no, no, not now.

“Cute” Jungkook snickered, pulling Jimin closer as the smaller boy hid his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck, cheeks heating up at his own thoughts.

“'m not” Jimin mumbled against his skin, pouting.

“You are” the younger male uttered as he softly gripped Jimin's chin, guiding his face up in order to lock eyes with him, “Stop pouting, kitten” he murmured before he leaned in to capture Jimin's pouting lips in a gentle kiss.

Jungkook withdrew, wetting his lips as he studied Jimin's delicate features, smiling at the way the latter's eyes had fluttered shut during their kiss.

“You're cute, too” Jimin stated, eyes glistening with affection.

“I'm not” Jungkook snorted, shaking his head, yet smiling.

“You are” the smaller boy insisted, chuckling as he sat up.
“I'm not cute, Jiminie” Jungkook denied, rolling his eyes, but still smirking at the way Jimin stared at him in disbelief. The way Jungkook had slept earlier, snuggling against the pillow was clear proof of how cute he could be.

“You are. Admit that you are” Jimin urged, poking Jungkook's stomach.

“Fine, whatever you want, angel” Jungkook sighed, “Happy now?”

Smiling, Jimin gave a nod, hooking his leg over Jungkook's lap and straddling him, steadying himself by placing his hands on Jungkook's chest, “Yes, very” he uttered, grinning wide.

They only looked into each other's eyes, Jungkook's hands moving down to Jimin's waist and closing around his hips. Gently, he gave his hip a little soothing squeeze, smiling at the way Jimin gulped.

Hesitantly, the pink haired male leaned in, exhaling a shaky breath as he brushed his lips over Jungkook's. The latter was the one to close the last bit of distance between them, attaching their lips in a sweet kiss.

A soft breath slipped from Jimin's lips as his eyes fluttered shut, his hands clenching into tiny fists as he grabbed Jungkook's shirt. The black haired one parted his lips, licking over Jimin's bottom lip before he pushed his tongue into his mouth, meeting Jimin's in the middle.

They proceeded to kiss one another, Jungkook the one to withdraw in order to allow them to catch their breath, yet Jimin whined, following after Jungkook and chasing his lips for another kiss. In the process of his movement, Jimin rocked his hips forward, causing his penis to rub against Jungkook's.

“O-Oh” Jimin whimpered breathy against Jungkook's lips in response to the action, pressing his forehead against the taller one's. Jungkook titled his head to the side, his hand moving beneath Jimin's shirt to caress his back with the tips of his fingers.

Jimin was still staring at Jungkook's lips, watching them curl up into a smile before his gaze travelled up to his gorgeous brown orbs, the boy realising that Jungkook was already looking at him intently.

Swallowing hard, Jimin leaned in to capture Jungkook's lips in yet another kiss, rocking his hips forward simultaneously. The black haired boy made a surprised sound, his hand that was currently curled around Jimin's hip giving it a little squeeze.

“O-Okay?” Jimin whispered against his lips, not entirely sure when exactly his body had decided to initiate any kind of further physical contact, yet for some reason – he couldn't help himself, feeling like they might need to be as close as possible tonight, feeling like being intimate tonight would... would comfort them?

“Jimin-ah, you have to get up early in the morning tomorrow, hm? It has been a long day, hasn't it? You sure you don't just wanna cuddle and sleep?” Jungkook wanted to make sure, brushing the pink strand of hair that had fallen in Jimin's face away from his forehead.

Fair enough. Frankly, the whole day appeared to be an eternity long, not seeming to come to an end, but somehow everlasting. The meeting with Yang surely has been days ago, the argument with and revelation from Jungkook clearly not having occurred today – yet, they had. All of these events had happened today.

“I... I don't wanna sleep just yet” Jimin admitted, shaking his head, “Unless you... unless you don't-”

“I always want you, angel” the taller boy interrupted him with a warm smile, reassuring him by pressing a peck to his cheek.

“Okay” Jimin whispered, returning the smile shyly.

“What do you want, baby?” Jungkook wanted to know, nudging his nose against Jimin's skin as he played with the hem of the latter's shirt.

“No” Jimin protested, shaking his head, “What do you want?” he asked, sliding his hand through Jungkook's soft hair, eyebrow raised in curiosity, a faint blush tingling his cheeks.

Jungkook arched up his eyebrows, clear surprise written on his face as he tilted his head to the side, “What do I want?” he echoed, watching Jimin nod, “I want to see you come so you can fall asleep in my arms all relaxed and sleepy” he muttered, rubbing his thumb over Jimin's cheekbone, “I would have to stretch your hole in order to properly fuck you, but it's already fairly late and as much as I want to see you come for me, I don't want to keep you up for too long because you need to sleep, little one”

The smaller boy sank down on Jungkook's body, almost pouting at his words.

“But there's other ways to find pleasure, hm, baby?” Jungkook smirked, pressing his lips on Jimin's as he reached for the waistband of his jeans, “Okay?” he whispered, waiting for Jimin to permit him to go further before he zipped down his fly, tugging his trousers down.

Swiftly, Jimin lifted himself up, removing the piece of clothing from his body before returning on his previous spot on top of Jungkook, his lips finding their way back on Jungkook's.

The younger male smiled into the kiss, slowing Jimin down who was kissing him sloppily, “Ssh, baby, steady” he murmured softly, placing his hand against Jimin's cheek who nodded weakly, exhaling a shaky breath as he nuzzled against Jungkook's gentle touch, “No need to rush” His poor heart and body were so happy, just wanted to touch* and feel* Jungkook - resulting in him being a little overly excited. Obviously, Jungkook didn't mind, loved whenever Jimin was happy and was receiving pleasure, yet tonight he didn't want to tire Jimin out too much and fuck his brain out to the point of him only remembering Jungkook's name. No, tonight would be... would be softer, would be purer.

Fuck, what had Jimin done to him?

Slowly, Jimin zipped down Jungkook's pants, the latter rubbing his hand over Jimin's exposed thigh to reassure him. Taking a glimpse at Jungkook's face, Jimin slid down his legs, pulling his pants with him and tugging them off of Jungkook's body. Cautiously, he dropped them down on the floor next to the bed, reaching for the waistband of Jungkook's black briefs.

However, the taller boy wrapped his hand around Jimin's wrist, stilling his movement. Immediately, Jimin halted, looking up at Jungkook with big eyes, “Not okay?” he murmured, cocking his head to the side.

“Well, more than okay, kitten” Jungkook assured, closing the distance between their faces by softly pulling on Jimin's wrist, “Just wanna kiss you”

Smiling shyly, Jimin pressed his lips on Jungkook's, rocking his hips forward in the process to create some friction on their hardening lengths. Whimpering, Jimin's eyes fluttered shut as he clung onto Jungkook's shirt, clenching his hands into tiny fists before he moved his hands up to Jungkook's shoulders, quickening his pace.
A low breath slipped from Jungkook's lips as his hands found their way back on Jimin's hips, gripping the flesh tightly as he proceeded to guide Jimin's hips back and forth.

“G-Good?” Jimin whispered, wetting his lips as he stared into Jungkook's eyes.

The black haired male smiled fondly, rubbing his thumb over Jimin's cheekbone, “The best”

Returning the smile, Jimin hid his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck, lifting his hips in order to reach for the waistband of the latter's briefs, tugging them down slightly to expose Jungkook's erection. Unconsciously, Jimin swallowed hard at the sight, mouth watering at the image of his throbbing member.

“Touch?” Jimin asked, glancing from Jungkook's erection up to his eyes and back down.

The younger boy snickered at the innocent way he was asking for it, humming as he gave a nod, “Whatever you want, angel”

Frankly, Jimin was desperate to feel Jungkook inside of him, yet he understood that it was quite late already, faintly agreeing with the statement of them having to get up early in the morning, thus meaning that they shouldn't stay up too late.

However, couldn't he... wasn't there a way... was it possible to feel him be that close in another way?

Suddenly, Jimin had an idea, eyes lighting up, yet heartbeat quickening all the same as he pulled down his own underwear, tugging it down completely and removing it from his body.

Jungkook wet his lips at the sight, fingertips tracing over the milky skin of his inner thighs, “K-Kook-ah” Jimin murmured, gulping before he licked over his own hand. Jungkook's eyes went wide at the image of his cute tongue poking out coating his own palm in spit before the smaller boy closed his wet hand around Jungkook's dick, evoking a groan in him.

“Little one, what.”

“O-Okay?” Jimin asked again, lifting his hips as he gave his hard length a couple of pumps, sinking down on it a moment later.

“Fuck, Jimin-ah, I-” Jungkook cursed, eyes falling shut as his dick slid inbetween Jimin's buttcheeks, the pink haired one purposely clenching his cheeks together in order to create an even tighter space.

Jimin moaned breathy at the sensation of Jungkook's erection brushing over his sensitive rim, eyes fluttering shut and mirroring Jungkook's, the latter grabbing his hips tighter, one hand moving up to Jimin's nape.

To be honest, Jimin was surprised by his own act, couldn't blame Jungkook for being slightly surprised either. It wasn't exactly in Jimin's nature to initiate any major sexual contact, yet for some reason, tonight, he wanted to be the one to take care of Jungkook.

Usually, Jungkook found an even balance to make sure they both received pleasure – didn't use Jimin like a toy and threw him away once he had filled him with his cum. No, Jungkook was considerate in spite of him being a little more dominant in certain situations, simply knew what Jimin needed and made sure that he was comfortable and pleased. In fact, sometimes, he paid even more attention on taking care of Jimin, on satisfying Jimin's needs by breaking him apart, allowing him to feel these intense sensations and then putting him right back together.

Tonight, Jimin wanted to focus on Jungkook's pleasure solely.
Gently, Jungkook applied some pressure on Jimin's nape, the smaller boy getting the message and bending forward, their faces only mere inches away. Attaching their lips in another kiss, Jimin whimpered against him, a response to the way Jungkook's penis proceeded to rub over Jimin's sensitive ring of muscles.

“Is this okay?” Jimin whispered, pressing his forehead against Jungkook's, hips moving back and forth, up and down in a very slow and sensual pace – a contrast to his usual frantic and sloppy way of bouncing up and down on Jungkook's penis whenever he was riding him.

“Mhm” Jungkook hummed in satisfaction, breathing heavily against Jimin's throat as he gripped his hips tighter, guiding him up and down in an almost very pure way.

At that, Jimin realised that, honestly, he didn't need to come tonight – wouldn't mind watching Jungkook come for him, wouldn't mind falling asleep in the taller one's arms with the knowledge of having been the one to have pleased him.

However, Jungkook clearly didn't agree with that idea, reaching down inbetween them and loosely wrapping his hand around Jimin's hard length. Involuntarily, Jimin bucked his hips up at the touch, whimpering when Jungkook gave his erection a little squeeze and ran his thumb over the sensitive slit.

“Y-You don't have to” Jimin whispered, catching his bottom lip between his teeth as he proceeded to move his hips up and down, subconsciously rocking forward each time in order to slide his erection through Jungkook's fist.

Jungkook only smiled, kissing Jimin again - which, well, he was more than delighted at as he kissed right back, whimpering against Jungkook's lips.

They didn't quicken their pace, Jungkook continuing to guide Jimin's hips up and down while they proceeded to kiss slowly yet passionately, tongues only brushing over each other in a very gentle way.

To be honest, Jimin unhesitatingly grabbing his dick and shoving it up inbetween his asscheeks had surely surprised Jungkook. Not that he minded him initiating any sexual contact – Fuck no, not at all. Clearly, it had surprised him, but the surprise had quickly vanished, being replaced by pure mesmerisation.

The weirdest thing was – he didn't need to come tonight. With Jimin moving that sensually on top of him, Jungkook hugging him close to his body while they kissed – Jungkook frankly didn't require anything more tonight, wouldn't mind falling asleep just like this right now, the boy he loved not even an inch away from him.

Yes, fuck, Jimin had done that to him.

That definitely wasn't a thought Jungkook had ever had before meeting the smaller boy. It wasn't that he minded that either, it was just... it was just different. A good kind of different.

The black haired boy's gaze wandered over each inch on Jimin's face as if he wanted to create a picture in his mind to save the sight forever – flushed cheeks, affectionate pretty brown eyes, plump lips a rosy shade – Damn, was he stunning. Jimin's delicate features were like a piece of art created by god himself and for some reason, Jimin had chosen him. For some reason, Jungkook deserved to call Jimin his.
Surely, he must have saved a country in his last life.

“C-Close” Jimin murmured, brushing Jungkook’s hair out of his face before he nuzzled his face into Jungkook’s neck, “K-Kook-ah, close”

Jimin’s cute little whimpers went straight down to Jungkook’s dick, his erection twitching at each of those heavenly noises, but oddly enough, his heart did that weird fluttering thing all the same.

Shit, was that normal?

There had never been anyone in his life that had been able to have this kind of effect on Jungkook. Surely enough, he had enjoyed his previous sexual partners being loud for him, proving that he was satisfying them right by screaming his name – Yet, with Jimin, it was different. Everything was different.

Prior to Jimin, for Jungkook, sex hadn’t been connected to feelings in any shape or form – not in the slightest. It had been purely physical, a platonic fuck to get off. However, with Jimin, that’s wasn’t the case at all – essentially wasn’t even possible anymore.

There was no way his heart wasn’t beating faster in an odd rhythm whenever Jimin looked at him, whenever the pink haired boy touched him. There was no way Jungkook didn’t feel affection or love when he looked at Jimin, when they were intimate during any moment.

There was no way his heart was capable of seperating these things at this point – sex and feelings. With Jimin, those things went hand in hand, were intertwined, unbreakable.

And shit did it feel good.

Jungkook would’ve never expected sex to be that much different when feelings were involved, hadn't known what he had been missing before meeting Jimin. Now, there was no way back – and frankly, he didn't want it to.

Although Jimin probably had no idea of what kind of effect he had on Jungkook, he clearly had.

These cute noises made Jungkook hard, but made him weak in his heart all the same.

Jimin was capable to make Jungkook want to ruin him, but protect him all the same.

Only the smaller boy had the ability to have Jungkook be weak for him like that. With a mere stare of the innocent looking one he would fall to his knees and give Jimin the world. Fuck that, Jimin deserved more than this shitty world.

“Mhm-ah” Jimin whined, forehead pressing against Jungkook’s, interrupting the latter's thoughts.

“Jimin-ah, so good” Jungkook whispered back, breathing unevenly as he proceeded to guide Jimin’s hips up and down, feeling himself approach his orgasm fairly quickly, the heat of their realeases in the pit of their stomachs implying that they were close to the edge.

They stared right into each other's eyes when they came a faint moment later, the name of the other slipping from their lips in a hush, forehead's pressed against one another's.

The taller boy hugged him tighter, his penis twitching inbetween the tight space of Jimin's clenched buttccheeks, his sperm shooting out and painting Jimin's skin white, “L-Little one” Jungkook whispered, eyes fluttered shut as he pressed his lips to Jimin's chin, panting against him as he rode out his orgasm.
Jimin's body was shaking vigorously, the orgasm not the most intense he had ever had, yet still more than satisfying. Gently, Jungkook brushed strands of pink hair out of Jimin's face, smiling when the latter collapsed on top of him, breathing heavily.

Jungkook's hand found its way on Jimin's back, moving beneath the shirt to caress the soft skin as he placed a kiss to his temple, “My shirt is covered in your cum, baby”

Grimacing, Jimin sat up, cheeks turning a shade of pink upon the sight of a white stain on Jungkook's black shirt, “Sorry” Jimin murmured in sincere apology, biting down on his bottom lip in embarrassment.

Chuckling, Jungkook shook his head, fondness in his eyes as he sat up and tugged the shirt over his head, removing the dirty piece of clothing from his body, “Don't worry about it, Jimin-ah”

Smiling shyly, Jimin dipped his head down, not exactly having calculated that consequence of grinding on top of Jungkook while the latter was still wearing his shirt into his previous idea – which was, well, his own fault after all.

In response to the sight of Jungkook's exposed upper body, Jimin swallowed hard, a shaky breath slipping from his lips. The warmth that was radiating from the black haired boy was comforting, somehow causing him to be even sleepier.

“Can you bend forward for me, angel?”

Slightly confused, Jimin obliged, leaning down in order to lie flat against Jungkook's chest, the younger male reaching behind him and cleaning Jimin with his worn shirt, cautiously as he moved closer to his sensitive hole.

Blush deepening, Jimin hid his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck, hands clinging onto his shoulders, the act evoking yet another snicker in Jungkook, the sweet sound vibrating in his chest.

“I'm just cleaning you, hm?” Jungkook uttered, smiling against Jimin's ear.

“Thank you” Jimin whispered, clearing his throat.

“Thank you, angel, for taking care of me”

Smiling, Jimin's heart fluttered, pride swelling in his chest at the mention of him having been the one to take care of Jungkook tonight.

Without little care, Jungkook tossed the shirt to the side, arms closing around Jimin's delicate body immediately to hug the boy closer, moving his hand beneath Jimin's shirt in order to tenderly rub his palm over the skin. A content sigh slipped from either of their lips, their eyes falling shut almost simultaneously.

They were too tired to say anything, Jimin barely able to lift his hand up and slide it through Jungkook's hair in order to play with it – a habit he had picked up after noticing that it appeared to soothe Jungkook.

Exhaustion and sleepiness was vivid in both of their bodies, their shared intimate moment after such an eventful day allowing them to find comfort and settle down, finally drifting away into a beautiful haze of sleep.
Thank you for all the love on the last chapters <3
I really appreciate your support in any kind of way <3

I also loved reading about your ideas, wishes and requests for further chapters! :) I'll definitely take them into consideration and try to include them in the story, if it fits the story line <3

I hope you enjoyed this chapter and I'll try my best to post the next chapter a little quicker <3

Stay healthy and happy <3

Love you <3
Left Unsaid

Chapter Summary

Jimin and Jungkook spend some intimate moments, yet things don't really go as planned...
Odd encounters proceed to happen to Jimin, making him wonder whether they are connected...
When the group of friends finally meets again, trouble is inevitable.

Sometimes it's better to leave things unsaid, if you want to protect someone, yet what happens when you never talk about these issues? Will it tear you down? Will it make you do something you shouldn't?

Chapter Notes

Hiiii, lovely readers!

Merry belated Christmas/Happy Holidays to all of you! <3
I hope you had days filled with love and happiness spent together with loved ones <3

I think it was exactly on Christmas Day that we hit 80k hits on this story! That's also the exact day six months ago that I posted the first chapter of this story! :) I can't believe that it's been that long already! Thank you for your continuous support <3
I still can't believe it, I was so shocked when I saw how much love this story has received! This story keeps receiving so much love and I'm eternally grateful for all of you. Your support means so much to me, really <3

I hope you enjoy this chapter, it's a long one again <3

See the end of the chapter for more notes.

The sound of Jimin's phone ringing and vibrating next to them on the bedside table woke the smaller boy up the next morning, his body jerking at the sudden noise in the silence of the room, amplified in the still sleepy haze he was in as he was ripped out of a world of beautiful dreams involving a certain black haired boy.

Swiftly, Jimin reached for the flashing device, the faint light illuminating the darkness that was surrounding them. Realising slight resistance in his movement, Jimin noticed the tight grip that was wrapped around his back. Surely enough, Jimin was still lying on top of Jungkook, the latter's grasp securing him on his warm body, holding him as close as possible.

In a quick motion, Jimin turned the alarm off, sighing as peaceful silence settled back in the room, no longer an irritating sound ringing in their ears. Jungkook shifted beneath him, grumbling as he hugged Jimin tighter.

“Already?” the black haired boy mumbled, voice raspy, eyes still shut.
“Mhm” Jimin hummed in confirmation, sitting up.

In response to the action, Jungkook’s grip loosened, his hands wandering down to Jimin’s waist, yet a sound of disapprovment slipping from his lips, conveying his dissatisfaction with Jimin leaving him.

“Then I should wake up, too, hm?” Jungkook yawned, eyes opposed to his statement still not opening, his body not indicating of moving.

“No” Jimin declined, shaking his head despite Jungkook not being able to see the motion, “Keep sleeping” he decided, “We had a short night after all”

Jungkook faintly nodded, causing Jimin to smile fondly at his boyfriend as he brushed strands of his black hair out of his face, pressing a kiss to his cheek before getting up to his feet.

Sleepiness was still more than vivid in his body, the pink haired boy rubbing his delicate fists over his tired eyes, waddling over into the bathroom. The cold air around his body sent goosebumps over his skin, the sensation causing him to notice the lack of clothing that was covering his body.

Jimin was only dressed in a shirt, the remainder of his clothes scattered somewhere over Jungkook’s bedroom floor. The realisation made him recall the past night, stomach twisting in both a heart fluttering, yet heart clenching way. His heart reminisced the sweet intimate moment they had shared last night, but also reminded him of the traumatic past of Jungkook.

Slowly, Jimin came to a halt in front of the sink, staring at his own reflection in the mirror, the image of Jungkook's heartbreaking expression flashing in front of his eyes. Shaking his head, Jimin swept his hair back, gripping the sink to keep his balance.

It was fairly early in the morning, those events not actually having occurred that long ago if you thought about it. In fact, it was that early that Jimin wanted nothing more than to lie back down next to Jungkook and sleep. Frankly, Jimin wouldn't have woken up any time soon if it wasn't for the sake of his phone ringing and disrupting his beautiful peace.

Then again, it was positive that he had been woken up by his phone because he had to attend his shift at work after all - Jimin having gotten up earlier in the night to charge his phone before returning to Jungkook's side now surely very beneficial, although it had been annoying to leave Jungkook's grip for that short minute.

Jimin removed the shirt from his body and neatly folded the piece of clothing before he placed it down on the counter. Once the fabric had slipped from his grasp, he waddled over to the shower, turning it on. After setting it to a comfortable temperature, he stepped in, allowing the warm water to drop down on his body.

Essentially, the shower was favorable in waking him up, energy blooming inside of him as he thoroughly cleaned and shaved his body. As soon as he stepped out of the shower, the cold air wrapped around his body, the poor boy shivering as he tip-toed over to the counter to pick up a towel. Swiftly, he pulled the soft fabric around himself, warmth engulfing him.

After brushing his teeth, Jimin returned to the bedroom, Jungkook's figure still displayed on the bed, body entangled in the soft sheets. Smiling at the sight, Jimin picked up the dirty laundry from the floor, folding them neatly before he stuffed them into his backpack once he had pulled out his fresh clothes that he wanted to put on today.

The pink haired boy attempted to make as little noise as possible, refusing to wake up Jungkook from his peaceful sleep, the latter only shifting in his position every now and then, soft breaths slipping from his lips.

Just when Jimin had gotten dressed, his phone vibrated on the bedside table, indicating that he had received a message. Frowning, Jimin walked over to the nightstand in order to pick up the device, a small window having popped up on the display.

_I know this is last minute, but do you mind switching shifts with me? I have a spontaneous family thing coming up later – well, not actually spontaneous, but my stupid ass forgot about it, whoops – and taking your shift is way more convenient. Pretty please? :) - Somi_

Jimin read over the words, smiling to himself at Somi's poor ability to memorise certain events – especially important ones. To be honest, it really wasn't the first time she had told Jimin about appointments she had missed simply because of her lack of memory, “Oh, Somi-ssi” he giggled, shaking his head.

_I don't mind at all. I'll gladly take your shift later. Have fun at that family thing :) - Jimin_

_You're an angel, thank you. I owe you one! See you tomorrow - Somi_

See you tommorow :) - Jimin

Pressing send on his last message, Jimin locked his phone before letting out a sigh. The smaller boy forced his gaze away from his phone, eyes rushing over to Jungkook. Quietly, he approached the bed, setting his phone down on the bedside table before joining Jungkook back on the bed, too lazy to remove his clothes again.

The younger male grumbled, eyes fluttering open as the bed dipped down due to Jimin's faint weight, “Everything okay, baby?” Jungkook mumbled, watching Jimin move beneath the soft blanket and nuzzling against his side.

“Mhm” Jimin hummed in confirmation, a content sigh slipping from his lips as Jungkook embraced him, “Switched shifts with Somi-ssi. I guess I can stay a little longer then and cuddle”

A low hum vibrated in Jungkook's chest, an audible display of his satisfaction as he pulled Jimin closer, “Perfect” he murmured lowly.

Their eyes fluttered shut, Jungkook sleepily pressing a kiss to the top of his head, remaining in that touch for a brief moment as he inhaled a slight breath, “Mhm, you smell good” he noted, tone still raspy, caused by that sweet haze of sleep, “Always do”

“Thank you” Jimin smiled, hiding his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck.

It didn't take long for them to fall asleep again, Jimin delighted at the fact of being able to spend more time cuddling Jungkook, appreciating the spontaneous change in plans.

---

The sound of water running was the reason for Jimin waking up hours later. Hesitantly, his eyes fluttered open, just to squeeze shut again at the brightness of the room. Evidently, it wasn't early in the morning any longer, clear light illuminating the room. Blinking several times to allow his eyes to adjust to his surroundings, Jimin scanned the room, vision no longer blurry nor irritated.

As soon as his gaze fell on the sight outside of the window – curtains already pulled to the side – the water stopped running, Jimin figuring that Jungkook had finished his shower. Yawning, the smaller boy stretched his limps, sitting up with a sleepy moan.
Despite him having actually received more hours of sleep due to Somi, Jimin would be lying if he claimed to not be tired. Once he moved in an attempt to leave the bed, the boy noticed the slight aching of the muscles in his neck caused by him having slept with his head nuzzled against Jungkook the whole time – not that he was complaining, the close proximity to Jungkook had been more than worth it.

Slowly, he placed his feet down on the floor, noticing the flashing of his phone on the bedside table. Getting up from the bed, he picked up his phone to check for the source of the flashing.

Jimin-aaaah, where are you? - Tae

_You're not opening the door :( Are you already at work? Did you spend the night at Jungkook-ah's? - Tae_

For a moment, uneasiness settled in Jimin, slight fear blooming at the thought of Tae being in danger or simply needing him when he was that far away.

Miinneeee, I have to talk to you! - Tae

_Oh, don't you worry, it's nothing bad, Minnie! I just need to tell you some great news and I can't wait so pick up your damn phone! – Tae_

Are you free during lunch? - Tae

Minnieeee – Tae

_I'm so sorry, Tae. I was asleep. I'm at Jungkook's, yes. What is it? Are you okay? - Jimin_

Jimin's fingers moved quickly over the keyboard, concern still not fully vanished although Tae had assured him of the news not being bad.

_I am, don't worry. I'm more than okay, Minnie. I'll tell you later in person. Does lunch sound good? - Tae_

Sounds great. - Jimin

Perfect. I'll text you later. Sorry for waking you up, Minnie – Tae

You didn't, don't worry :) See you later – Jimin

Smiling at his best friend, Jimin put his phone back down on the nightstand, relief blossoming inside of him at the knowledge of Taehyung being fine. However, now his concern was replaced by curiosity.

What was it that made him this excited? What could it be that he wanted to tell Jimin in person instead over text? Truthfully, it could be anything. Taehyung merely texted him about anything that slightly excited him, but always sought for spending time with Jimin in person and talking to him face to face. After all, those times were way more valuable, Jimin agreed.

The pink haired male lifted his head, gaze falling on a small box placed on the dresser. It didn't take long for him to recognise the familiar object, Jimin recalling having seen it yesterday. Curiously, he approached the dresser, reaching for the box. Gently, he traced his fingertips over the top of it, wondering what could be inside.

Surely, it must be something Jimin should be able to figure out considering how Jungkook had mentioned them having talked about the present before. Perhaps it was related to-

“Good morning, little one,” a voice interrupted his thoughts, startling Jimin who jerked up at the sound and spun around, “You're already up” Jungkook noted, smiling as he closed the distance between them. The black haired boy was already dressed in his usual attire for work – black trousers, button up shirt and a tie that hung loosely around his neck.

“Good morning” Jimin replied, returning the smile as Jungkook reached for his waist, pulling the boy closer as he leaned in.

“Did you sleep well?” Jungkook murmured against his lips before he pressed a peck to them, watching Jimin's cheeks turn a shade of pink at the action.

“I-I did. Did you sleep well?” Jimin wanted to know, eyebrows arched up.

“Better because you were here” the taller boy answered, nudging his nose against Jimin's, his words evoking a shy smile in Jimin, “I see you found your present already. Did you have a peek?”

“No” Jimin answered, shaking his head erratically as he remembered Jungkook having asked him to not open it unless he was present.

Jungkook furrowed his brows, clearly slightly suspicious as he smirked, “Are you sure, baby?”

“I swear!” Jimin giggled at the stare, lifting his hands up in defense, “I didn't peek. I wanted to wait for you” he assured sincerely, pointing at the box.

“You wanna open it now, baby?” Jungkook asked, eyes flashing with an emotion that Jimin currently wasn't able to define. The black haired boy brushed strands of Jimin's hair out of his face as he reached for the box simultaneously.

“Mhm” Jimin hummed softly, giving a faint nod.

Smiling, Jungkook handed him the box “Here you go, angel”

Once the box was in his grasp, Jimin took a seat on the bed, heartbeat quickening in excitement, “Thank you” he uttered before he lifted the top.

Upon the sight of what was inside, Jimin's cheeks tingled a rosy flush, his heart skipping a beat as he drew his thighs together, feeling his penis twitch in anticipation.

“A...A... is this...” Jimin stuttered, swallowing hard.

Jungkook chuckled, reaching for Jimin's chin and tilting his head up in order to lock eyes with the smaller boy, eyes rushing down to the way Jimin was biting down on his bottom lip.

“A buttplug, kitten. You seemed excited whenever I mentioned the idea of one, so I went ahead and bought you one” Jungkook confirmed his assumption, smirking as he noticed the way Jimin's blush deepened.

“Thank you” Jimin breathed, heart fluttering, yet his penis twitching inside of his pants all the same.

“You love every colour so I decided to choose a pink one, matching your collar” Jungkook added, pointing at the buttplug that had a beautiful shade of pink, matching the colour of his collar.

Frankly, that statement was more than true. Jimin simply couldn't choose a favourite colour – something that somehow always had been one of his struggles. To be fair, every colour was beautiful in their own way.

Jimin loved the blue sea, the clear water reflecting the light of the sun, depicting a distorted image of it that was still remotely recognisable. Jimin loved the orange-pink-ish colour of the sky when the sun began to go down, reminding him of yet another day having gone by filled with wonderful memories. Jimin loved the green of the grass that he could feel beneath his feet whenever he had played barefoot in it as a child. Jimin loved the white colour of daisies - a flower that had grown to become his favourite one, having grown next to the adoption center where he had met Tae for the first time.

More than anything, Jimin loved the brown in Jungkook's eyes - the shade they created in the sun light, the shade they displayed in their most intimate moments, the shade they had when his eyes lit up with affection when he looked at Jimin. Jimin loved the pink of his lips just as much, loved kissing them.

Evidently, choosing a colour for Jimin was a clear struggle.

“Thank you, I love the colour” Jimin uttered, wetting his lips.

Honestly, Jimin was anticipant for the time they were going to use it, his imagination already running wild and causing a whimper to slip from his lips - the thought of Jungkook using it on him blooming in his mind.

“Do you wanna try it out?” Jungkook wondered, eyebrow arched up as he ran his thumb over Jimin's cheekbone.

“N-Now?” Jimin asked, voice quiet and soft, heart pounding fast against his chest as he looked back and forth between Jungkook's eyes.

“We don't have to, if you don't want to do that right now. There are other times where we can try it” Jungkook assured.

Gulping, a shaky breath slipped from Jimin's lips as he clenched his thighs together, penis jerking in excitement, “I-I... I would like to.”

Smirking, Jungkook ran the pad of his thumb over Jimin's bottom lip, applying some pressure. In response, Jimin parted his lips, tongue poking out to wet them, touching Jungkook's thumb in the process.

“I want you over my lap. Is that okay, angel?”

“O-Oh” Jimin breathed, blinking before he nodded erratically.

“Up then” Jungkook insisted, gesturing for Jimin to get up from the bed as the black haired boy rolled up the sleeves of his button up shirt, exposing his veiny arms.

Almost whimpering at the sight, Jimin watched Jungkook open the top drawer of the bedside table, picking out a bottle of lube.

“Pants off” he ordered, taking a seat on the edge of the bed, tilting his head from side to side.

Obliging without an ounce of hesitation, Jimin zipped down his pants, removing them from his body and neatly folding them before he placed them down on the bed – after all, those were his trousers that he wanted to wear today.
“Come here, kitten” Jungkook insisted, pointing to his lap.

Already breathing unevenly, Jimin shyly closed the distance between them, allowing Jungkook to grip his wrist and pull him down on his lap. Once straddling the taller boy, Jimin clenched his hands into tiny fists, staring deeply into Jungkook’s eyes while he waited for further instructions.

“Nervous?” Jungkook murmured, eyebrow arched up as he rubbed his hands up and down over Jimin's back.

“A little” Jimin admitted truthfully – which was silly, as he thought about it. After all, having anything penetrating him wasn't exactly new now, was it? Neither Jungkook’s penis nor a device like a vibrator was foreign to him.

However, for some reason, there was always slight nervousness bubbling inside of him whenever there was something remotely new – even if it was only the slightest bit different than something they had done before.

“I'll be careful, I promise” Jungkook assured him, tracing his fingertips over Jimin’s skin, “The only major difference with this one to a dildo is the base of it. See” he explained to him, picking up the pink object, “The base is thicker to ensure that the plug doesn't completely slide into your hole which enables you to wear it on your own for a certain amount of time. That way, you stay stretched out and in case you're filled with my cum, none of it leaks out” Jungkook elaborated, Jimin swallowing hard at the information, penis jerking up yet again.

“O-Oh” the smaller boy breathed, staring back and forth between the buttplug and Jungkook's face.

“It shouldn't feel much different or any at all, but in case you're uncomfortable and want to stop, what do you say?” Jungkook pressed, staring intently at Jimin.

“Red or yellow” Jimin answered.

“Good boy”

Jimin smiled shyly at the praise, heart still pounding fast against his chest as he watched Jungkook drop the buttplug down on the bed next to them.

“Come here” the younger male insisted, grabbing Jimin's hips and lifting the boy up in order to manhandle him over his lap, ass up in the air.

Gasping, Jimin pressed his face into the soft sheets, goosebumps forming on his skin as soon as he felt the faint touch of Jungkook's fingertips tracing over his inner thighs. The taller boy's touch trailed up to the waistband of Jimin's briefs, digits playing with it for a moment before he gave it a firm tug, pulling it down Jimin's milky legs before he dropped the piece of clothing on the floor.

“Fuck” Jungkook cursed beneath his breath at the sight of Jimin's perky asscheeks now completely exposed - the urge to paint his fair skin in a pretty shade of rose blooming inside of him, “Beautiful”

A flush tinged Jimin's cheeks pink at the compliment, the smaller boy clenching his hands into petite fists as he grabbed the soft bedsheets, a shaky breath slipping from his lips.

“Colour?” Jungkook asked, rubbing one hand soothingly over Jimin’s upper thigh before the sound of a bottle being opened echoed in the room. Thoroughly, Jungkook coated his fingers in a good amount of lube as he needed to prep Jimin.

“G-Green” Jimin assured, titling his head to the side to press his cheek against the bed in order to catch a glimpse of Jungkook.

Once satisfied, Jungkook dropped the bottle on the bed next to him before he gave Jimin's inner thigh a faint tap with his palm, Jimin spreading his legs obediently, without Jungkook having to order him.

“Good boy” Jungkook praised, smirking at Jimin's obedience.

Then, he grabbed one of Jimin's asscheeks with his clean hand, kneading the flesh before he pulled on it, exposing Jimin's tight pink hole. Wetting his lips, the taller boy pushed his fingers against the ring of muscles, evoking a gasp in Jimin who twitched at the sudden touch, the stickiness against his hole having surprised him.

“Deep breath for me” Jungkook uttered as he pressed his index finger into Jimin's little hole, the latter's eyes going wide as he opened his mouth in a silent scream, the familiar stretch so sweet.

“K-Kook-ah” Jimin whimpered, bucking his hips back against the touch involuntarily.

“Sssh, stay still, kitten” Jungkook demanded, rubbing his digit over Jimin's inner walls, earning him another high-pitched moan from Jimin.

The smaller boy's penis twitched against Jungkook's leg, his length growing to full hardness at the way Jungkook was fingering him open. Faintly, he could feel Jungkook's dick hardening beneath him as well, the fact arousing him even more.

“M-More, Jungkook-ah” Jimin begged, eyes fluttering shut as he rocked his hips back and forth, Jungkook purposely avoiding Jimin's prostate to tease him.

“Stay still, baby” Jungkook ordered, spanking Jimin's left buttcheek and watching it jiggle at the touch as the boy couldn't manage to behave.

Yelping, Jimin pressed his face into the bedsheets, giving a nod as he obliged, “S-Sorry”

It wasn't that Jimin was intentionally disobedient, it was just that his body wouldn't cooperate with his brain! Simply too drunk on that sweet arousal.

Soothing the spank with his palm, Jungkook pushed his second digit past the ring of muscles, Jimin's rim allowing it entrance with only little resistance.

The pink haired male moaned high-pitched at the stretch, Jungkook intentionally scissoring his fingers as he was pushing them further inside to drag them over his sensitive walls.

“Sssh, I know” Jungkook cooed, Jimin's sweet breathy whimpers echoing in the room as Jungkook was playing with his hole, fingering him open, but teasing him all the same.

It didn't take long for Jungkook to find his prostate, the scream that slipped past Jimin's lips being any indication of that fact. Firmly, he rubbed his digits over the sensitive nub of nerves, securing Jimin's body with his left hand pressing down on Jimin's back. In response to the stimulation on his prostate, Jimin cried out, thighs shaking as he bit onto the bedsheets.

“Aaaah!” the poor boy shrieked into the fabric.

Jungkook smirked, speeding up his movement, curling his wrist in just the right way to apply more pressure on Jimin's prostate. Breathing rapidly, Jimin kicked his legs at the intense sensation, whining high in his throat.
“Kook-aaaah” he mewled, squeezing his eyes shut.

“Yes, let me hear you, baby boy” Jungkook uttered, tone displaying his satisfaction with Jimin no longer muffling his sounds by pressing his face into the bedsheets.

After deliberating for a moment whether or not to make Jimin cum this way, Jungkook pulled out his fingers, deciding against it. The smaller boy's penis was trapped between their bodies, rubbing against Jungkook's legs whenever he moved around in the slightest way. Neither of them acknowledged the fact of Jimin surely leaking pre-cum all over Jungkook's trousers, yet frankly, they wouldn't care about it anyway.

“N-Noo” Jimin whined at the emptiness he was suddenly feeling, body squirming around on top of Jungkook while the latter had picked up the buttplug, now coating it in a good amount of lube.

“Ssh, kitten. Stay still and I'll make sure to fuck you nicely with this toy, hm?” Jungkook promised, caressing Jimin's inner thigh with his palm as he pressed the tip of the buttplug against Jimin's rim.

“W-Wait” Jimin prompted, voice quiet and soft as he attempted to lock eyes with Jungkook, chest rising and falling quickly as he was coming down from the sweet high, being ripped away from the way to the edge of that wonderful orgasm, “Is it... I mean, is that... that thing clean?”

Great to kill the mood there, Jimin.

However, he had only just opened the present and they were already using it – him questioning whether or not it was a good idea to use it immediately was justifiable... right?

Chuckling at the question, Jungkook reached for his face and brushed his hair out of his face, strands of pink locks sticking to his forehead, before he stroked the pad of his thumb over Jimin's cheekbone, “Of course, little one” he assured, “I'm not gonna fuck you with any toy that I haven't disinfected and thoroughly cleaned before using it on you. I did all of that before putting it in the box.”

“O-Okay” Jimin muttered, smiling shyly as he lowered himself down again, heart beating faster against his chest as he felt Jungkook push the buttplug against his rim, “D-Do I have to stay still?” he then whispered, catching his bottom lip between his teeth as Jungkook pushed the toy past the ring of muscles, slipping into his hole with only little resistance. The loud squelch that echoed in the room caused both of their penises to twitch, Jungkook cursing.

“Mhm” he hummed in thought, stilling his movement so Jimin could adjust to the size of the toy inside of him, “No, baby, you don't have to stay still. You can fuss around all you want, kitten”

Moaning at the pet name, Jimin pushed his hips back, asking for more. Smirking, Jungkook didn't hesitate, but was more than delighted to oblige, sliding the buttplug deeper into him.

Truthfully, Jungkook had been right. The feeling of the buttplug inside of him wasn't exactly different to that of a vibrator – if you secluded the fact of a vibrator buzzing inside of Jimin's hole. The toy was only of a smaller size, but other than that, Jimin couldn't notice a huge difference.

“There you go, feels good, little one?” Jungkook wanted to know, lazily thrusting the toy in and out of Jimin's hole, intentionally avoiding his prostate as he slowly dragged the toy along his walls.

Jimin could only nod, yet quickly regreted his choice of communication as he received a spank to his inner thigh. In response, Jimin gasped, whining as he tilted his head to the side.

“Answer me, kitten, wanna hear your voice”

“Yes” Jimin breathed, wetting his lips, “F-Feels very good, Jungkook-ah”
Humming in satisfaction, Jungkook caressed the spot he had previously spanked, soothing the pain, yet appreciating the faint shade of rose on his fair skin, the urge to spank the smaller one a little more blooming inside of him yet again.

It didn't take long for Jimin to realise the actual difference of the toy. The black haired boy sped up his motion, thrusting the toy inside of Jimin at a fast pace, evoking a silent scream in Jimin who jerked away from the touch – the sudden intensity surprising him. The unique shape of the toy allowed Jungkook to have a tight grasp around it, the boy not having to worry about the buttplug slipping from his grip as he fucked him quickly with it.

Just like that, the heat in the pit of Jimin's stomach expotentially increased instead of slowly building up like it was prior doing.

Jimin was doomed.

“Don't come” Jungkook ordered, having noticed the way Jimin was squirming around on his lap, moaning high-pitched as he kicked his legs every now and then.

“P-Please” Jimin begged, grabbing the sheets tighter, “Please, Kook-ah”

The poor boy was making a fuss, shrieking every time the toy rubbed over his prostate, the increasing stimulation overwhelming Jimin. Jungkook had no mercy on him, curling his wrist in just the right way to dab the toy against his prostate, getting off on the way Jimin was so very responsive, getting off on the way he was pleasured by Jungkook.

“Such a good boy. Look at you, such a pretty kitten, aren't you?”

Sobbing, Jimin gave a nod, drooling over himself as he tried his gosh darn best to prevent himself from finding his release, wanting to behave.

“My obedient angel”

Jimin nodded erratically, kicking his legs as he cried out at the way Jungkook was no longer pushing the toy against his prostate, but had decided to now rub it in firm circle motion over the sensitive bud of nerves.

“Y-Your good boy” Jimin whispered, eyes rolling back into his head as he moved back and forth at the force of Jungkook's movement, penis dragging along Jungkook's legs with each snap of his wrist, the pink haired boy leaking all over his clean trousers that- well, now weren't as clean anymore.

Without any warning, Jungkook completely stilled his movement, causing Jimin to whine high in his throat as he pushed back into the previous touch. Slowly, Jungkook picked up a teasing pace again, sliding the toy in and out of him a couple more times before he pulled it out, circling the ring of muscles with it before he withdrew it entirely.

“N-No” Jimin cried at the lack of stimulation, at the emptiness he suddenly had to endure, “Kook-ah, please, don't stop” he sobbed as he looked back, glassy eyes staring at Jungkook who was only smirking, reaching for Jimin's face again to rub his thumb over his cheek.

“We only wanted to try it out, little one, isn't that correct?” Jungkook pointed out, arching up his eyebrows, amusement in his eyes.

Obviously, this whole fucking thing aroused him more than he gave away – his throbbing member any sign of that fact – yet it was so much fun to tease his lover, the cute boy staring at him with big innocent eyes, flushed cheeks and simply the most adorable expression.
Jimin blinked, bottom lip wobbling, “B-But-Mean. You're mean” he sniffed.

“Aww, kitten” Jungkook cooed, running the pad of his thumb over Jimin's bottom lip, pressing down on it only slightly, but the faint touch was enough for Jimin to part his lips subconsciously, watery eyes staring deeply into Jungkook's as he wrapped his plump lips around the digit.

At the sight, Jungkook's penis twitched, the boy visibly gulping as Jimin sucked on his finger in the most innocent way possible – the action causing him to curse beneath his breath.

“Want me to make you come, hm?”

Jimin nodded quickly, desparation in his eyes.

“Can you tell me your colour, angel?”

“Green” Jimin answered without an ounce of hesitation.

“Good boy” he praised, “Down” Jungkook insisted, pulling his hand away from Jimin's pink lips before he reached for the toy again, sliding it into Jimin without any kind of resistance.

The smaller boy gasped, eyes fluttering shut as he sank back down on the bed, grabbing the sheets tighter.

Frankly, when Jungkook had suggested to try out the toy, Jimin hadn't actually thought he would feel this desperate and overwhelmed by the intense stimulation. Then again, he didn't know what exactly he had expected - Certainly not to cry at the way Jungkook was pleasuring him, but... you know, simply checking whether the toy fit? Not that he was complaining – Not at all. How could he with the way he was moaning Jungkook's name at a growing frequency and pitch. This was so much better.

It had been foolish of him to not consider himself surely being aroused as soon as anything was penetrating him and remotely brushing his prostate – especially with Jungkook being the one to fuck the toy in and out of him, especially when he grew desperate so very quickly. Being aroused was certainly inevitable under those circumstances.

Jungkook sped up his motion, now aiming at Jimin's prostate without wanting to tease the poor boy for too much longer. Jimin was already shaking vigorously in his lap, clearly very sensitive and overwhelmed. This state of Jimin was always so adorable, yet also fucking arousing to Jungkook.

“There you go, kitten” Jungkook praised, rubbing his palm over Jimin's back as he proceeded to fuck the toy in and out of him at a rapid pace, dabbing the toy against his prostate without missing it once, “Look at you making a fuss, baby boy. You love it when I play with your little hole, hm?”

“Y-Yes” Jimin cried out, squirming around as he kicked out his legs, whining, “Jungkook-aaaah”

“Are you gonna come for me, kitten?”

“Mhm, Kook-aaaah” Jimin whimpered against the bedsheets, hiding his face in the soft fabric as he pushed back against the toy, shrieking as Jungkook firmly rubbed the device against his sensitive bud of nerves, now all swollen due to the attention and intense stimulation it had received, “P-Please” he sniffed, body shaking all over.

“Go on, baby. Go ahead”

All of his muscles spasmed, Jimin crying out as he felt himself tip over the edge.
“There you go, kitten. Yes, such a good boy”

Jimin came with a high-pitched moan, body vigurously trembling as he kicked out his legs, sperm spurting out of his penis in thick stripes, staining Jungkook's black trousers. The black haired boy proceeded to fuck the toy in and out of him, prolonging the sweet feeling of Jimin's ecstasy.

A mantra of Jungkook's name slipped from his lips, the smaller boy's body going completely slack as Jungkook lazily thurst the toy into him before he slowly pulled it out, circling his rim before he pushed it back inside.

“Wanna leave it in so you stay stretched out or do you want me to take it out?”

“O-Out” Jimin whispered, eyes falling shut.

To be fair, Jimin was going to meet Tae soon and would have to head to work right after – going on with his whole day while wearing a buttplug surely wasn't the best idea, considering how this was new to him. Essentially, it would be better to start small, like wearing it only at Jungkook's or his own place for a certain amount of time to get used to the feeling. Wearing it outside was simply too soon for Jimin.

Jungkook obliged without asking for a reason, dropping the toy on the bed next to them before he picked up the pink haired boy, manhandling him upside over his lap and making him straddle him.

“Look at you,” Jungkook cooed, brushing his hair out of his face as he placed his hand against Jimin's flushed cheek, the latter nuzzling against the touch, “Came so good for me, baby, such a good boy”

Smiling shyly, Jimin pouted in a silent question for a kiss, eyes still shut as he heard Jungkook chuckle against him before he leaned in to press a kiss to Jimin's lips.

As Jimin was seated in Jungkook's lap, the hardened length beneath him couldn't go unnoticed, Jungkook's erection pressing against his butt. Swallowing hard, Jimin panted against Jungkook's lips, still caught in that sweet haze of his orgasm, but still wanting to pleasure Jungkook now.

“W-Wanna- wanna- you, too” Jimin attempted to murmur a coherent sentence, struggling with his dizzy mind that was clearly only capable of forming incoherent words.

“Want me to fuck you? You think you can bear a second round?”

Pouting, Jimin crossed his arms over his chest, not sure whether he should take that statement as an insult.

Jungkook snickered at his reaction, nudging his nose against Jimin's cheeks to comfort him, “I didn't mean it like that, little one. Sometimes your orgasms are very, very intense, aren't they? I don't want you to hurt yourself just because you want to please me”

“Wanna ride you” Jimin stated, catching his bottom lip between his teeth.

Not only would that pleasure both of them, but it would ensure Jimin to be filled up with Jungkook's cum – giving him a valid reason to wear the plug.

“Fuck” Jungkook cursed, wetting his lips as his grip around Jimin's hips tightened, “Okay, little one. Just- Let me get something”

With that, he gently pushed Jimin off of him, causing Jimin to whine at the lack of his warmth.
Soothing him, Jungkook pressed a peck to his forehead before he approached the dresser, opening the top drawer and picking out a familiar object.

His pink collar.

“I want you to wear it. Is that okay, little one?”

Swallowing hard, Jimin nodded erratically, more than delighted to wear his collar again. For some reason, the idea- the actual fact of wearing it made his heart flutter, made him all excited.

Smiling, Jungkook closed the distance between them, ordering Jimin to get up to his knees who complied immediately. As Jimin watched the taller boy strut back over to him, his eyes widened.

“K-Kook-ah” he whispered, cheeks flushing a darker shade of pink, “Your trousers. I.... I ruined your trousers”

Jungkook glanced down at himself before he locked eyes with Jimin again, “Don't worry, baby. I'm going to change later. It's not a big deal. I know how messy you can get” he reassured, softly gripping Jimin's chin and guiding his face up in order to expose his neck.

Tenderly, Jungkook wrapped the collar around his neck, fastening it, but not too tightly. Jimin's heart skipped a beat in euphoria as he felt the pendant dangle back and forth.

“You want to ride me now, kitten?”

Jimin nodded, tongue poking out to wet his lips.

The younger male smirked as he leaned in to capture Jimin's pink lips in a kiss, a shaky breath slipping past Jimin's lips as he tried to kiss back.

However, Jungkook hummed in disapproval, shaking his head, “Don't be greedy” he ordered, lips brushing over Jimin's before he withdrew.

Swallowing hard, Jimin remained still, looking back and forth between Jungkook's eyes, amusement glistening in them as Jimin obeyed his order by not moving an inch, waiting for further instructions.

“Go on and work for what you want” Jungkook insisted, pointing to his own crotch.

Blinking up at the boy, Jimin needed a moment to fathom those words, mind not quick in processing the order. However, as soon as he did, he obliged, reaching for Jungkook's belt.

“Jungkook-ah!” a voice suddenly called out.

Both of the boys halted, Jimin's eyes going wide at the familiar voice very clearly being present in this apartment.

There was a knock on the door before it swung open, revealing an older man whose eyebrows arched up in surprise at the sight he saw in front of him. Swiftly, the man turned around as he cleared his throat. Simultaneously, Jimin had squeaked, hiding himself behind Jungkook's body although he had already been covered by the taller boy.

“My apoligies” The man said before he closed the door again, disappearing behind it.

Jungkook's father.

“Oh my god” Jimin cried in shame as he was ripped out of his aroused state in mere seconds. He literally fell out of the bed in an attempt to get up, stumbling over his own two feet as he reached for his underwear and trousers, swiftly putting them on.

Embarrassment was clear on his face, cheeks heating up.

“How embarrassing” Jimin whined.

Chuckling at Jimin's adorableness, the clumsy boy almost tripping over his feet as he tugged his pants up his legs, Jungkook shook his head, smiling soothingly, “It's not embarrassing, baby. We didn't do anything, but kiss. Well, if you exclude me fucking you with the buttplug moments ago” he pointed out, shrugging his shoulders at that last part as he smirked.

“Oh, shut up, that isn't helping” Jimin whined, cheeks tingling with a flush.

“Don't worry, little one. My father most likely didn't see anything because you were kneeling on the bed behind me” Jungkook assured, taking off his own trousers before he went over to the dresser to pick out a fresh one, “And I don't think it's surprising that we kiss or have sex, Jimin-ah. I'm pretty sure he can imagine that much.”

“I don't want to think about your father imagining us having sex, thank you very much” Jimin stated, picking up his backpack and phone.

“I didn't mean it like that” Jungkook laughed, shaking his head at a pouting Jimin as he closed the distance between them, pressing a kiss to his lips.

“I'll see you later” Jimin muttered, hurrying over to the door, Jungkook's sweet chuckles audible behind him. Honestly, Jimin just wanted to get out as quickly as possible, too embarrassed by the whole situation. If the universe could be on his side just for once, could it please just open up the ground beneath him and swallow him whole. Thank you.

“Jungkook-ah, you didn't forget that I wanted to come over for breakfast to talk about our schedule, did you?” Jungkook's father asked as soon as the door swung open, Jimin hurrying out of the room.

Jimin couldn't even look at him, bowed out of politeness before he uttered a goodbye.

“I did forget, Dad. Sorry about that” Jungkook answered as he stepped out of his room as well, smiling in amusement at Jimin.

“Well, I see why you did” his father commented, Jimin squeezing his eyes shut in embarrassment, blush deepening as he rushed downstairs.

---

“I'll wait here until you're finished, Jimin-ssi” Beomsoo reminded him once he had opened the door for him, Jimin climbing outside the car, a fresh breeze of air brushing past him and sending a shiver down his back. The taller man had finally started addressing Jimin with his first name instead of his surname – making him feel much more comfortable.

“It's probably going to take awhile” Jimin responded, pulling the sleeves of his shirt over his delicate hands, “Please don't wait here in the car for that long, but go and eat some brunch, too. I'll text you as soon as I'm finished” he then suggested, bowing slightly as he watched Beomsoo shut the door for him.

For a moment, the man hesitated, clearly deliberating before a bright smile danced around his lips, “I have already eaten. Besides, I have a clear order from Mr.-”
“Jeon, I know” Jimin interrupted him with a sigh, having decided long ago to not argue over the fact of Beomsoo still driving him to any place he went. Surely, it was nice to get to places quicker and way more comfortable, yet Jimin enjoyed taking a walk, so it wasn't actually necessary for him to take a car everywhere he went, “You can take breaks, too, though” Jimin pointed out, crossing his arms over his chest, “He won't find out, if you go ahead and eat something or drink a coffee somewhere while I'm seeing Tae”

“I'll wait in the car, Jimin-ssi. Go ahead and enjoy your brunch” Beomsoo simply declined, bowing slightly as he went ahead and climbed back into the car, sitting down in the driver's seat.

For a brief moment, Jimin only stared at him unimpressed, narrowing his eyes as he watched the man pick up a newspaper, beginning to read it.

Deciding that he had lost this battle, Jimin spun around, gaze falling on the front door of the cute little restaurant Tae and him had found awhile ago. They had made plans to meet here for brunch immediately after Jimin had left Jungkook's apartment in a hurry, Jiming having texted his best friend as soon as he was inside the car.

Stealing a glance at his phone to check the time, Jimin rushed inside the building, having noticed that he was right on time. As soon as he stepped inside, a few people glanced at him, their gazes always falling on something that was slightly below his face. It wasn't a judging look, more of a curious one.

Slightly confused by that, Jimin rubbed his hand over his face, figuring that he might still have flushed cheeks. Then, he went ahead and ruffled his own hair, assuming that it was a mess due to him not actually having checked it or fixing it after Jungkook had pleased him. Essentially, he had come here right after having such an intense orgasm, barely managing to come down from the high.

However, the fact of Jungkook’s father disrupting their intimate moment had clearly sped up the process of him calming down.

It didn't take long for Jimin to find his best friend, his blond locks sticking out in an ocean of different shades of brown and black. Smiling, Jimin approached Taehyung who was sitting with his back towards him, Jimin making his presence known by hugging his friend from behind.

Yet, it had been foolish of Jimin to think that it wouldn't backfire, Taehyung yelping at the sudden contact, ramming his elbow into Jimin's stomach. Moaning in pain, Jimin hunched forward, clasping his hands over his paining spot.

“Holy shit, Minnie!” Tae cursed in shock, getting up to his feet to embrace the smaller boy, “Fuck, oh my god, I'm so sorry”

“It's fine” Jimin winced, taking a seat on the chair across from him, “You're quite strong”

“I know” Tae smiled faintly, glad that Jimin was making light of the situation and presumably wasn't in too much pain, “I'm sorry, Jimin-ah” he uttered in apology as Jimin inhaled and exhaled deeply until he felt fine.

In fact, the shock had been the worst part, Jimin only having had difficulty to breathe for a moment, yet now all of that had vanished, the pain ebbing down.

“I should have known” Jimin giggled, “It was a stupid idea, but I guess I...” Jimin added, but his voice became quieter with each word until he paused completely, the remainder of his sentence hanging in the air between them as he noticed Taehyung staring at his throat, eyes blown wide and slight smirk plastered on his face, “Is... is everything okay?” Jimin uttered softly.
“Nice accessory, Minnie” Tae commented, amusement in his eyes as he pointed at Jimin's throat.

In that moment, Jimin felt a familiar tightness around his throat. Somehow, that feeling had gone unnoticed by Jimin this whole time.

Jemin's eyes went wide, the pink haired boy realising what was responsible for that feeling.

Jimin was still wearing the collar. Somehow, he had swiftly gotten used to how it felt around his throat – like it was a part of him, causing him to not notice it still being wrapped around his throat.

Choking on his own spit, Jimin felt his cheeks tinge a shade of rose, his hands rushing up to his throat in order to unfasten the collar, removing it.

Taehyung giggled, eyes glistening in fondness as he watched his best friend try to quickly hide it by stuffing it into his backpack, yet doing that with the utmost caution as he didn't want to damage the collar.

“I didn't know you were into that kind of kinky shit. His name, huh?” Tae teased, wiggling his eyebrows up and down as he nudged Jimin's arm.

Jemin whined, hiding his face in his hands as soon as the collar was hidden, the poor boy now realising why those people had stared at him – because he had been wearing a pink collar with a freaking name dangling from it.

Oh god, Beomsoo had surely seen it, too.

Oh god, what if Jungkook's father had seen it as well?

Jemin prayed to god that he had made his way out too swiftly for the man to even have had the chance to get a real glimpse at Jemin.

“Shut up” Jemin whined, voice muffled by his hands, “This is so embarrassing”

“It's not embarrassing, Minnie. It's kind of cute, actually” Tae noted, shrugging his shoulders as he smiled at the other. Without a doubt in Jemin's mind, it was visible that Taehyung wasn't mocking him, wasn't making fun of him in any way, but was rather sincere. However, the whole thing was still humiliating to him.

Shaking his head, Jemin caught his bottom lip between his teeth, “Let's just forget about it” he murmured, scanning the room to ensure no one watching them.

“Noo, please, it's kind of funny” the blond haired boy protested, giggling. Well, he might be teasing Jemin a little bit there...

“It's not funny!” Jemin whisper-yelled, “Nothing ever even happened, okay?” he added quietly, but determinately as he straightened his back and cleared his throat.

“Okay, I won't say a thing to anyone” Taehyung promised, lifting up his hands in defense as his amused expression was replaced by an unnatural serious one.

“I don't want to talk about it either...” Jemin mumbled, averting his gaze as he pointed at himself to underline his statement.

“Minnie, hey, that's nothing. The shit that Hoseokie and I are doing – that's kinky shit, trust me” Tae tried to cheer him up, shrugging his shoulders.
Jimin blinked, not doubting that statement for even a second, “I trust you, you don't have to enlighten me on that one”

“I wasn't going to, don't worry” Tae snickered, shaking his head.

“I never know with you” Jimin made a fair point, smiling faintly at Tae's playful offended face. After all, Taehyung had never been hesitant to share any information about his sex life with him, having actually recommended quite a few of things to him.

“Oh, shut up. I just wanted you to know that you aren't the only ones who're kinky. Having sex isn't anything you need to be ashamed of. Besides, people actually wear chokers, collars and stuff like that as accessories a lot of the time - just because it looks good. I don't think anyone assumed anything more of it when they saw you wearing it just now” Tae noted, clearly having tried to comfort him.

The smaller boy furrowed his brows.

“Jungkook's name is dangling from it” Jimin whispered, reminding Tae of a fact that the latter surely hadn't forgotten.

“They don't know that” Taehyung noted, smiling warmly, “Could be yours”

Groaning in shame, Jimin hit his forehead down on the table, Taehyung chuckling as he slid his hand through Jimin's hair.

“Minnie, you don't need to be embarrassed”

Frankly, Jimin had even considered this idea before – wearing the collar out in public to let people know who he belonged to. However, in reality, he didn't have the courage to ever pull anything like that off. That sight was just meant for Jungkook, Jimin had decided.

“Let's just move on and forget about this” Jimin pleaded, nibbling on his bottom lip as a waiter approached them, handing them their menus.

“Thank you” the two boys uttered in unison, picking up the card and opening it in order to decide on what to order, Jimin's stomach grumbling and reminding him that he had not eaten anything at all today.

“Minnie” Tae murmured, voice full of comfort as he smiled at the pink haired boy with warmth in his eyes.

“After all, we didn't come here to talk about me embarrassing myself again” Jimin pointed out, cheeks still flushed a faint shade of pink, Tae only chuckling before his eyes went wide in excitement.

However, Jimin's gaze was torn away onto something else – rather someone else.

It was like one of those scenes in overdramatised movies – time almost going by at a slower pace than it was supposed to do, than it usually did.

Dongha was walking past their table, his slow steps echoing in the room, somehow amplified in the silence of Jimin's mind as the boy blurred out any other sound of his surroundings.

Jimin followed him with his eyes, watching him take a seat at an empty table on his own in the far back. Swiftly, Jimin hid behind the menu, forcing his gaze away before Dongha caught him staring.
Slightly dumbfounded and maybe even... uneasy, Jimin stared down at the table.

Not that he was frightened by the knowledge of Dongha being present..., yet as soon as Jimin had seen the taller boy, his last words proceeded to ring in Jimin's mind.

“Minnie?” Tae uttered, waving his hand around, “Are you okay? What's wrong?”

“Dongha” Jimin whispered.

“Huh?” Taehyung murmured in confusion, pulling his brows together in a frown.

“Dongha is here” Jimin clarified.

“What? Where?”

“Don't look” Jimin whispered, shaking his head again.

“Is he fucking stalking you?” Tae asked in visible anger, getting up to his feet.

In that moment, Jimin regreted having ever told Tae about what Dongha had done to him, the boy clearly mad and on his mission for revenge. To be fair, Taehyung had proven numerous times that he would stick up for him, having almost beat up those several people that had made fun of Jimin throughout the years – even having been in trouble quite a lot of times for it.

“I'm gonna go and talk to him” the blond haired boy announced, clenching his hands into fists.

“No, Tae” Jimin protested as quiet as possible, closing his petite hand around Tae's wrist in order to give it a weak tug, “Sit down. You're not going anywhere” he added, pulling a little harsher, enabling him to tug Tae back down on the chair next to him.

“That piece of shit almost assaulted you, Minnie. Do you think I'm just gonna sit here in peace while he's mere feet away from me?” Taehyung stated angrily, shaking his head as he huffed, ignoring Jimin's small 'hush', the boy wanting him to speak quieter, “Hell no. I'm gonna make sure he learns to have some manners” he continued, attempting to get up again, yet as soon as he indicated to move at all, Jimin pulled him down again.

“Tae, sit down right now! You're just like Kook-ah, stop!”

Evidently, Tae and Jungkook were similar in that sense when it came to protecting Jimin – when it came to Dongha. They clearly didn't have any boundaries, willing to do anything in their power to ensure his safety.

“So? We want to protect you, what's wrong with that?” Tae argued, fortunately taking a seat again, though.

“It's not... it's not wrong per say. It's just... the way you're approaching the situation isn't exactly favorable for your own health and good. Please Tae, I don't know what Dongha is capable of doing and I don't want you to get in trouble for something so stupid”

Taehyung hesitated, staring intently at Jimin, “Minnie, I'm pretty sure he's stalking you. How big are the odds of him being here at the same time you are, huh?”

For a moment, Jimin contemplated, jaw dropping for him to answer, yet the question had surprised him, “Well, the dance studio is right down the street. It's not far-fetched to believe that it's just a coincidence” he reasoned, shrugging his shoulders.
To be fair, that statement was a fair point – it wasn't an attempt to defend Dongha in any way, yet just a way of him considering every possible scenario and seeing the situation in its entirety, from every side there was.

“Bullshit” Tae huffed, shaking his head in disbelief.

“Tae, please, for me, don't do anything stupid” Jimin begged, tugging on the sleeve of his shirt.

Tae rolled his eyes, but gave a nod in the end, “Fine, but if he comes near our table, I'm not going to be quiet”

A breath of relief slipped past Jimin's lips, “He won't. I don't think he even saw us” he assured.

“Oh, I'm sure he did. That's why he's here” Tae mumbled beneath his breath.

Now that he wouldn't have to worry about Taehyung jumping Dongha any longer, the latter's words reappeared in his head, Jimin somehow not managing to prevent himself from thinking about them – banishing them from his mind was harder than he had hoped it to be.

“What are you thinking about? You're frowning, Minnie”

Startled by the voice, Jimin glanced up at the blond haired boy, shaking his head, “It's just... his words won't leave my mind” he responded, voice just above a whisper.

“What words? What did he say? When did you talk? Did he try to assault you again? Fuck that shit, I've had enou-”

“No!” Jimin interrupted him, shaking his head erratically, “He didn't do anything like that. He was...I don't know. The situation was weird. He was kind of calmer, softer. The way I remembered his demeanor towards me to be” Jimin attempted to explain, appearing to struggle with finding the right words.

“That's just an act he puts on to get to your head and make you believe he's changed again” Tae stated, unimpressed expression plastered on his face as he leaned back in his chair.

“No... maybe. I don't know, but his words were just... odd” the smaller boy uttered.

The other male arched up his eyebrows in curiosity, “What did he say then?”

“That I should stay away from him” Jimin answered, voice quiet as he refused to let anyone else – especially Dongha – hear any part of their conversation.

Taehyung frowned yet again, “Who? Dongha?”

“No, someone. He told me those exact words, 'stay away from him.' I have no idea who he's referring to, but that's what he said. He also went ahead and told me that I shouldn't trust people easily” Jimin whispered, leaning closer to Taehyung to assure no one else catchign a glimpse of them talking about the incident.

“That is true” Taehyung argued, lifting his finger as if to underline his agreement with that statement.

To be fair, Jimin did agree with that, too. After all, it had backfired quite often for Jimin to easily put his trust into people, causing him to be careful with certain people. However, it was just part of his nature for him to try and see the good in people, thus often trusting them fairly soon – unless those were people he could sense of being bad.
“I know, but it was odd for him to say that when he was the one that betrayed my trust” Jimin murmured, furrowing his brows as he sighed, leaning back into his seat as well.

“True... Again, I think he's trying to mess with your head, get a reaction from you, make you paranoid, maybe scare you with this one. I don't think you should trust in anything he tells you”

“I know...” Jimin sighed, nibbling on his bottom lip as he saw the waiter approach them out of the corner of his eyes.

“Are you ready to order?” the man wanted to know, friendly smile dancing around his lips.

“I think we're just taking the whole brunch plate” Tae ordered, pointing to the menu that offered his exact order with several different dishes included for a very cheap price – at least if you'd ask Jimin, “Unless you want anything else, Minnie?”

“No, that sounds great. Let's share that” the pink haired male muttered.

The waiter smiled, writing their order down, “Any drinks?”

“I'll take an orange juice” Jimin responded, smiling politely as the waiter noted his order.

“I'll take a coffee. Black” Tae ordered, the waiter giving a nod and taking their menus before he disappeared.

“Black?” Jimin echoed, eyebrows arched up in amusement, “Since when do you drink black coffee? You hate the taste of it” he giggled.

The blond haired boy sighed, giving a nod as he swept his hair back, exposing his forehead and his perfectly shaped eyebrows that Jimin had always admired, “I know. I still don't like it very much”

Jimin blinked, titling his head to the side in confusion, “Then why do you drink it?”

“It's supposed to be good for you. High amount of coffeeine, good for weight loss, apparently makes you smarter. All that good shit” Taehyung replied, yet Jimin couldn't help but doubt that it was the sincere reason – something about Tae's demeanor conveying a different picture.

“You're already smart, Tae, and you don't need to lose weight” Jimin pointed out.

Honestly, Taehyung had a body that Jimin had always admired – tall, slightly muscular, defined features in his face – it was almost as if Taehyung had been shaped to be a greek god himself.

There wasn't a doubt in Jimin's mind that god had taken a good extra amount of time on him. Taehyung wasn't stupid either, no instead very smart, yet quite lazy. It was the small things he did that proved his intelligence.

“It's just healthy. Apparently” Taehyung claimed, shrugging his shoulders.

Jimin cocked his head to the side, “Well, where did you get that from?”

“A colleague of mine drinks black coffee every fucking day, at least five cups, and I just couldn't help but ask him how he can drink that shit each day. He just laughed at me and said I'll see” Taehyung answered, clicking his tongue in annoyance.

The smaller boy blinked, visibly still not an ounce less confused.

“What?” Jimin asked, frowning at his own lack of being able to fathom what had occurred.
“He fucking laughed at me” the blond haired male repeated, now with slight anger in his voice, “Supposedly, he thinks he will live longer than me, when he drinks that shit” he snorted.

“So now you drink it to prove him wrong? Do you want to outlive him?” Jimin concluded, arching up his brow.

“He fucking told me I'll die sooner than him although he's like seven years older than me! Guy thinks I'm just going to let that rude comment slip. Hell no. We'll see who lives longer” Tae expressed, humourless laugh leaving his lips.

“Tae” Jimin giggled, “That's ridiculous. Don't drink it, if you don't like the taste at all”

“Well, it is good for you” he repeated a fact that he clearly didn't quite believe either.

“There are other things that are good for you that you could do instead to stay healthy” Jimin reminded him, smiling in amusement. Black coffee might be the healthier option when it came to coffee overall, yet if Taehyung only wanted to drink it to stay healthy, then there were other way to achieve that.

The other male furrowed his brows, “Like what?”

“Like walking?” Jimin suggested.

“Uh” Tae groaned at those words.

Frowning, Jimin titled his head to the side, “You don't like walking?”

“Who likes walking?” Tae asked instead.

“Me” Jimin answered, not quite certain whether or not he should be offended by Taehyung's dismissal of walking – something Jimin was surely fond of.

“Uh” the blond haired boy only groaned again.

“Come on, you and I have always ran around when we were younger” Jimin stated, smiling as he reminisced about those beautiful memories of his.

Taehyung shrugged his shoulder, rubbing his index finger up and down on a spot on the table, “I know, but that was to have fun and play games. I mean, I don't hate walking, but it's not my favourite activity either”

Jimin only giggled, shaking his head.

In that moment, the waiter arrived with their drinks, placing them down on the table in front of the respected one of them.

“Thank you” the two boys smiled in unison, both picking up their drinks and taking a sip.

As Jimin had predicted, Tae grimaced at the taste of his coffee, setting the mug back down on the table as he shook his head, body shivering in disgust, “Gross” he commented, Jimin only giggling at the reaction after he had swallowed down his sip of orange juice.

“Do you want some of mine?”

For a slight moment, Tae appeared to deliberate over that offer, expression displaying his hesitance, yet consideration. Ultimately, the taller boy shook his head, “No, I'll just drink mine” “Tae” Jimin pressed, chuckling yet again.

“It's fine. Maybe I'll just get used to the taste” Taehyung sighed, eyeing the mug as if it contained something absolutely sickening, hand reaching out to move it further away from himself as though the sight alone was disgusting to him.

“Or you will die from depression because you hate that coffee with a passion” Jimin exaggerated, giggling.

“I don't... hate it. I just prefer different types of coffee over that one” Tae mumbled, voice turning quieter with each word, evoking suspicion in Jimin.

“I saw your face!” Jimin chuckled, “You looked like you were about to vomit all over the table”

“Fine, well, I just don't like the taste of that shit” Tae gave in, pointing at the cup with a pout on his face.

“You're petty” Jimin snickered.

Taehyung rolled his eyes, “I'm not petty”

“You're petty because you're forcing yourself to drink something simply because of a comment someone made towards you”

“It was rude” Taehyung defended, voice a pitch higher.

They stared at each other for a moment longer, both eventually breaking out in laughter.

However, Jimin's laughter subsided as a man walked past their table, his face familiar. For a reason Jimin couldn't explain, his gaze was glued to his figure, Jimin watching him walk to the back of the room, approaching Dongha and sitting down at his table after the latter had greeted him. In that exact moment, Dongha's eyes met Jimin's, the smaller boy tearing his gaze away and sinking down in his seat – as if that would look any less suspicious.

“Minnie?”

Jimin's heartbeat quickened, cheeks tinged a shade of pink as he inhaled a shaky breath, praying that Dongha hadn't caught him staring and being slightly nosy.

Who was that man? Why did he look so familiar?

“Jimin-ah?” Tae tried again, waving his hand around in order to gain Jimin's attention.

The pink haired boy looked up, eyes still wide in shock, “Huh?” he uttered, clearing his throat as he sat up.

“Are you okay?” his best friend worried, concern visible in his brown orbs.

“Yes, just... Yes, everything is okay” Jimin lied.

Well, did he lie? After all, there wasn't really anything concerning going on, right? The fact that Dongha had caught him didn't make the situation any less comfortable or okay... right?

“Are you sure?” Taehyung pressed, accompanying the protective voice inside of Jimin's head.

Gulping, Jimin leaned closer, frowning, “Do you know that man who's sitting there with Dongha?”
Tae was about to steal a glimpse at him, but stilled as soon as Jimin tugged on his sleeve, leaning even closer, “Don't look too suspicious”

“I won’t” he assured, eyes rushing over to Dongha's table, frown appearing on his face as he pulled his brows together, “No damn idea” he ultimately answered, forcing his gaze away and back to Jimin.

“ Weird” Jimin mumbled, mirroring Taehyung's expression and pulling his brows together in a frown.

“ Do you think you know him?” the blond haired boy wanted to know.

“For some reason, I do. I don't know where I know him from and I'm too scared to look at him again because I don't want either of them to see me stare” Jimin murmured, mind racing in an attempt to quickly and diligently recall any prior encounter with that certain man in order to figure out who he actually was.

“ Well, Dongha seems to know him, too” Taehyung pointed out, nodding towards their table.

“I know... They greeted each other like they know one another” Jimin noted, catching his bottom lip between his teeth in thought, “What are they saying now?”

Taehyung glanced at Jimin in disbelief, swatting his arm, “Minnie, I'm right next to you, how in the hell am I supposed to hear anything you can't? I'm not a fucking eagle”

“ Eagle?” Jimin wondered in confusion, not exactly understanding the reference there.

“Don't they hear really well?” Taehyung asked, cocking his head to the side.

“I think you mean a bat?”

Tae blinked, “Oh, well then I'm not a fucking bat”

Jimin gave a nod, “Right. You're right. But... can you see whether they're... I don't know – like, happy? Are they arguing?”

The blond haired boy stole another glance before tearing his gaze away, “They're just talking to each other. Quietly it seems as they're sitting close by one another”

“ Weird” Jimin breathed, nibbling on his bottom lip in thought.

“To be fair, we talked like that, too, when we-” Tae reminded him.

“When we talked about him or well... different personal stuff” Jimin finished his sentence, nodding in agreement.

“Exactly” the blond haired boy uttered.

Jimin sighed, “I can't get that thought out of my head. I feel like I know the guy”

“Well, he does have quite the average appearance. You might have seen someone who looks similar to him and are mistaking him for that person” Taehyung stated, the possibility not actually far-fetched, yet Jimin couldn't help but believe that he had seen this exact man not too long ago.

“Maybe...” Jimin murmured, sighing a brief moment later.

It didn’t take much longer for the waiter to arrive with their food, placing huge plates with different kinds of good down on their table — including omelets, toasts, bagels, sausages and even more.

Jimin and Tae felt their mouth water at the sight, politely thanking the waiter before the latter disappeared, leaving them with their food.

The two boys dived right in, filling their respected plates with the food they wanted to try, stomachs grumbling before they finally took their first bite.

“Fuck is that good” Tae uttered, chewing on his bite of the omelet, “Try this” he insisted, cutting Jimin a piece before he lifted his fork up to Jimin's mouth, enabling him to taste it, too.

Jimin's eyes went wide, taste buds in euphoria as he chewed on the bite, humming in agreement, “Really good”

Tae smiled, giving a nod as he proceeded to eat.

Suddenly, Tae smashed his fork down, eyes going wide as he stared at Jimin, mouth hanging open and displaying the remainder of his bite that he hadn't finished of chewing.

“Tae” Jimin giggled, tapping at his jaw to close Taehyung's mouth, the other swiftly swallowing his bite down before he spoke up again.

“Jimin-ah, I have completely forgotten to tell you what I desperately wanted to share with you!”

The pink haired boy mirrored Taehyung's expression, placing his fork down on the table as well, “Oh my god, yes. I'm so sorry, Tae, what did you want to-”

“I got a new job!” he exclaimed with a bright smile.

“What? Where?”

“It was literally just... It was fate, Minnie. I was just working my usual stuff at the company, but then Kang Nayoung just walked straight into the building”

The name rang a bell in Jimin's mind, yet the boy couldn't quite pinpoint it to a certain person he surely knew. At least, he was aware of her existence and had remotely heard about her.

“Kang Nayoung? Isn't she that one... designer?”

Taehyung opened his mouth in shock, “Minnie, she's one of the most famous designers Korea has ever seen! She's popular among the international market and has famous models lining up begging to walk in her designs! Her clothes are just pure perfection”

To Jimin's defense there, he didn't quite know that much about fashion. Surely, he was interested in Taehyung's profession and listened to him talk about his work, yet he wasn't as experienced in any of it and didn't keep up with the latest news about the world of fashion. In fact, Jimin simply wore what was comfortable and suited his proportions.

“Do you wear her stuff?” Jimin wondered.

Taehyung chuckled, “Jimin-ah, be realistic. I don't have anywhere near the money to own even a damn sock by her”

To be fair, Jimin surely wouldn't amount to own anything by such a huge designer either.

“What did she do at your company?” Jimin then wanted to know, drawing their attention back to the “Apparently she's friends with my boss, but I never even knew!” Tae revealed, surprise still written on his face, “So, she walks in and goes straight up to his office and just stays in there for awhile to talk. I'm out there starstruck, thinking I'm going to faint”

“She's that famous?” Jimin asked, quite bewildered by the fact of her being that popular, yet Jimin only vaguely remembering having heard her name. To be honest, he couldn't recall a time where Tae had mentioned her either.

“Well, she is famous, but there is quite a controversy in Korea's industry regarding her and her work” Taehyung responded, slight grief displayed on his face as he sighed.

The smaller boy titled his head to the side, “Why?”

“She's one of the first women to own her own label, have transgender and other lgbtq members walk for her shows and she designs clothes for both men and women. Certain homophobic and misogynist people don't agree with her vision or with what she does. They don't think women should be running a company or they believe that only straight females or males deserve to walk on a runway – literal bullshit, but unfortunately, some people do believe that shit” Taehyung elaborated, Jimin's eyes going wide.

The reality of these kind of issues still existing in todays society made Jimin's stomach twist, sorrow washing over him to the core of his very being.

“That's... It's really sad” Jimin uttered.

“I know. She's amazing. Minnie, she's a legend. It's what she did for the fashion industry worldwide that strikes people's interest and liking in her. On top of that, she's like so damn kind and generous”

Jimin could easily find himself understand why Taehyung adored her that much.

“Well, because of the slight controversy with other Korean fashion labels – mostly run by homophobic men – most Korean models are afraid to model for her, frightened of risking their own career by being involved with her. That's why you see mostly international models wear her stuff – which is beautiful for diversity, yet the fact that barely any Korean model is brave enough to work with her is surely hard on her, too” Taehyung added.

“I can imagine” Jimin murmured, sticking out his bottom lip at the thought of Kang Nayoung not being able to find any Korean model for her collections or runways because of such a stupid perception of certain – unfortunately powerful – people.

“So, she's in there for awhile and then walks back out with my boss and I think okay, this is my chance to tell her that I admire her work. Then, I walk up to her and introduce myself. My boss is telling me about how Kang just told him about her new collection that she's bringing out soon and that she has trouble finding the perfect models for it as it is inspired by Korean styles and traditions” Tae elaborated, “We talk about her new collection for awhile, but then she suddenly wants to know more about me. I was so shocked, but also delighted. She was actually interested in me and talked to me about what I do at the company and whether or not I have had experience in modelling”

“What?” the smaller boy muttered.

“Yes, she was so kind and interested in me and then she told me that she would like to see me pose for some pictures?”
“What?” Jimin uttered again.

Taehyung chuckled, but went on, ignoring Jimin's state of complete shock, “My boss rushed and picked up a camera and we just went into an empty room where she asked me to pose in front of a white wall. She was nice enough to help me out with how I was supposed to look, you know. For instance, she told me to smile or laugh, look sultry, look sad, that kind of stuff. She just wanted to see different expressions on me. I have never done anything like that – if you seclude my frequent Instagram pictures - so I'm quite nervous, but also so excited” Tae added, eyes lit up in happiness, “Once we were done, she had like such a big smile on her face and told my boss that she thinks she had found the one to fit her concept’

Jimin's jaw dropped.

“She asked me to model for her new collection, Minnie!”

“What?!”

“Yes! I still can't believe it! This feels like a dream. And I don't want to wake up from it" Taehyung smiled shyly, shaking his head, "She wants me to come by tomorrow and try on her new stuff – new stuff, Minnie! No one has ever worn that shit before me! Of course, the chances stand that I look absolutely garbage in her clothes and she decides not to have me be the model, but it's still exciting and she was like really fond of me and I just... Minnie, I might model for her”

Jimin shook his head, finally ripping himself out of his trance, having been caught in a state of utter shock. This was... Jimin was speechless, “Tae that sounds absolutely amazing!”

“I know” Tae shrieked, bright smile plastered on his face as he clasped his hand over his heart, clearly still affected by the idea of him actually modelling for someone – not anyone, but Kang Nayoung at that.

To be fair, Jimin was entirely shocked. Obviously, he had always believed in Taehyung's dream, had supported him in anything he did. After all, Jimin had always admired Tae in so many ways, had always been aware of how gorgeous the boy was. It had only been a matter of time until someone finally noticed and allowed him to have this chance. However, the circumstances were utterly bizarre, weren't they? How often would anything like this happen? Then again, Taehyung was incredibly handsome...

“You're going to be in magazines?” Jimin asked, eyes blown wide.

The blond haired boy caught his bottom lip between his teeth, trying to suppress the facial expression of complete euphoria, “Yes, I think so. I'm still... I still haven't wrapped my head around it. This is so strange, but also exciting? I can't explain it, but I'm over the moon!”

“I'm so happy for you” Jimin stated, getting up from his chair to hug his best friend.

“Thanks, Minnie”

Once they pulled apart, Jimin took a seat again, frowning as an uneasy thought came up in his mind, “But Tae... aren't you... aren't you-” “Scared of people criticising what I do?” Taehyung finished his sentence, being correct with his assumption of what Jimin was worried over.

The smaller boy pressed his lips into a line, feeling guilty for killing the mood. Jimin hated that a voice inside of him was always cautious, urging that thought of suspicion on, yet he couldn't help but be concerned for his best friend, “Yes, what if it ruins your career?”

Taehyung shrugged, smiling warmly, “Well, I'm a completely new face. What do I have to lose?”

Jimin nibbled on his bottom lip, “Your further future in modelling?” he whispered, eyebrow arched up.

“People are always going to comment and criticise everything one does. That's just the way it is. There are a lot of people who support her, but also many who don't agree with what she does. Yet, if you'd ask me, I think they're just scared. I think they pretend to hate what she does because it's new to them and they're afraid of changes. They need to be shown how beautiful it can be. If they gave her a chance, they would see what amazing things she does. Overseas, she's already loved and many people here love her, too - like me. I'm honored to do this for her, Minnie. There is nothing I can lose with this one” Taehyung stated, corners of his lips curling up into a blissful grin.

Jimin smiled, giving a nod to convey that he fathomed what Tae had said. Truthfully, Jimin was more than proud of his best friend to be brave enough to go after his dream, “I understand” he uttered, “I'll support you no matter what” Jimin promised.

“Thank you, Minnie”

They smiled at each other, the sound of Taehyung's phone vibrating on the table startling them as both of their gazes fell on the source of the noise. Jimin saw Yoongi's name flash up on the phone, yet Tae declined the call.

“I don't mind, if you take that” Jimin assured, “I haven't seen hyung in awhile, actually”

“I'll just text him that I'm busy right now and that I'll call back later” Tae declined, shaking his head, “Ooh, by the way, hyung told me that he really wants to throw a party some time soon again. You know, like one of those he did... wow, that's months ago now. The one I fist met Hoseok hyung and you, well, you met Jungkook-ah at”

“Such a big one?” Jimin asked for clarification.

Taehyung gave a nod, “Yeah, well, he prefers our smaller gatherings, but he said partys like that are quite fun once in awhile”

Jimin grimaced, being reminded of the people that had made fun of him for being a virgin, being reminded of the whole vibe of the party that just wasn't for him, “I'm not a huge fan of stuff like that”

“I mean, they can be quite fun” Taehyung noted, frowning a brief moment later, “Well, I guess that depends on what kind of people there are”

“I guess” Jimin agreed quietly, voice soft as he gave a faint nod, still somehow caught in his memory of that party, recalling the night he first met Jungkook – not having any idea at that point of how his life would be entirely flipped upside down due to that certain black haired boy.

“Would you go?” Taehyung asked, eyebrows raised up in curiosity.

Jimin hesitated, “If all of you wanted to go... maybe. I don't know”

“I'll talk to hyung again and maybe we can figure something out” the blond haired boy suggested.

“Okay, just let me know” Jimin agreed, giving another nod.
Suddenly, Jimin felt a wave of air brush past him, the boy tearing his gaze away from his best friend and glancing at the two figures passing their table.

Dongha and that oh so familiar man.

The man turned around to look back at their table, presumably checking whether or not he had forgotten something, giving Jimin another chance to study his face - features so very familiar, bald head reminding him-

Wait.

That's when it klicked.

This was that one man from the library! The guy that visited almost every day, having asked Jimin to carry out his books with him once!

For some reason, Jimin couldn't force his gaze away, was only able to avert his eyes once they had exited the small restaurant together.

“Minnie?”

Jimin swallowed hard.

Dongha knew that guy?

“Jimin-ah, you look like you've seen a ghost” Tae worried.

“I think I just remembered who that guy is” Jimin whispered, still quite flabbergasted.

“Really, where from?” Taehyung wondered, staring back, yet realising that Dongha and that guy had already left, causing him to look at Jimin again.

The smaller boy narrowed his eyes in thought, “He comes to the library very often. I think there hasn't been a day that I haven't seen him there at least once”

Taehyung tilted his head to the side, placing his finger against his chin, “Well, maybe he likes reading”

“Maybe” Jimin murmured, still recalling the odd encounter with that man.

“Or the smell of books. Don't people like that smell?” Taehyung noted.

“I do” Jimin agreed, nodding. For some reason, the smell of books was one of his favourite scents. There was just something so comforting about it.

“There you go” Tae uttered, leaning back into his seat like they had cracked the code. To be fair, it was a valid point, yet... would anyone make their way there each and ever day for that reason alone? Jimin highly doubted that.

“Would you go to the library each day for that though?” he voiced his thought, sharing it with Taehyung who pursed his lips, shaking his head at that objection.

“Probably not. Well, unless I don't have anything better to do or would consider myself a slight weirdo”

“Maybe he just needs to work on a project or something” Jimin mumbled, not capable to come up with any other reason as to why that man would visit the library every single day, if he didn't actually work there.

“That makes sense. Maybe that's the case” the blond haired boy agreed with a nod.

Jimin allowed his gaze to wander back over to the door, almost as if their figures were still standing there, their traces remaining, “I wonder where Dongha knows him from. They're not exactly the same age” Jimin murmured in thought.

“Perhaps they're related?”

“Perhaps...” the smaller male mumbled.

Jimin shook his head, figuring that it wasn't such a big deal and after all, really none of his business. The universe simply worked in a weird way sometimes.

---

“That is not a singer” Tae claimed, snorting as he stuffed popcorn into his mouth, eating with his mouth open, the act creating a noisy sound.

Taehyung and Jimin were currently both spread out on Jimin's couch, watching The King of Mask Singer – a show that Tae had become obsessed with, having begged Jimin to watch it – while eating some snacks and chatting.

They had decided to spend the night in each other's company as well, Taehyung suggesting a sleepover for tonight once they had left the restaurant earlier. Delighted at that, Jimin had agreed, offering to meet at his place later once he got done at work.

“Tae” Jimin uttered, trying to gain Taehyung's attention and averting his own from the programme on the TV.

“Mhm” the other boy hummed, yet not drawing his gaze away from the show.

“Does Hoseok hyung know already?” Jimin asked.

Taehyung met his gaze, arching up his brows, “Know what?”

“About your job offer” the pink haired boy clarified.

“Of course” Tae chuckled, swatting Jimin's arm as if it should've been obvious – which, well, to be fair, it had been. After all, they were boyfriends, “He's the first one I told”

“Did you see him since then?”

“I spent last night at his place” Taehyung answered, a faint blush tinging his cheeks.

Jimin gave a nod, “So you don't want to spend time with him tonight?”

“No, tonight is our night, Minnie. We haven't had a sleepover in so damn long” the taller male responded, shaking his head.

“You're right” Jimin agreed, nodding. To be fair, they haven't done one of these in so very long. Ever since they had broken apart, choosing to spend less time with each other in order to heal, they hadn't slept at each other's place - something that had once been such a habit of theirs, something that they would do almost weekly.

“I'll meet hyung tomorrow. I'll call him later before going to bed”

The voice coming from the TV interrupted their conversation, powerful notes echoing in the room as they glanced at the TV simultaneously, almost mesmerised by the soulful, yet soft voice.

“Wow” Jimin breathed in awe, “She sounds amazing”

“She does” Tae agreed, stuffing another hand of popcorn into his mouth, eating noisily. In response, Jimin leaned forward to tap on his chin, startling Tae, “What?” he asked, mouth full and displaying glimpses of his faintly chewed food.

“Tae, shut your mouth when you eat” the pink haired boy whined, sinking back into his seat.

“Sorry” Tae giggled, obliging as he shut his mouth to eat.

“Thank you”

They proceeded to watch the woman sing on the show, her mask veiling her face, thus ensuring that her identity wasn't easy to expose. It was their task to figure out who the voice could belong to, Taehyung repeatedly yelling names at the TV as if he had an epiphany - just for them to turn out being false.

“She has to be a singer!” Tae exclaimed, clapping his hands together as her performance ended, “No doubt in my fucking mind. Aaah, that's IU”

“IU?” Jimin echoed, doubtfully arching up his brow.

“Yes, has to be” Taehyung confirmed, giving a determined nod.

“Doesn't she have a really soft voice?” Jimin pointed out, titling his head to the side.

The blond haired boy blinked, catching his bottom lip between his teeth as he sank back into his seat, “Right, then... ooh, I know, Hwasa!”

“From that one girl group?”

“Yes, exactly! That's definitely her, I'm sure it is!”

“Mhm” Jimin hummed, not exactly agreeing, yet not denying his statement either because in all honesty, he had no clue at all, “Maybe”

Slowly, they drew their attention back on the TV, proceeding to watch the performer sing, yet Jimin was the one to speak up again.

“Tae” Jimin uttered, watching Taehyung chew on some more popcorn.

This time, the latter swallowed his bite down before replying, “Yes, Minnie?”

“How do you say thank you to a gift? I mean, I know how to do it, but I mean... what if you keep receiving gifts and you don't know how to express your appreciation?” Jimin elaborated, biting down on his bottom lip as he pulled his sleeves over his delicate hands.

“Are we talking about Jungkook-ah here?”
“Mhm” Jimin confirmed with a hum.

Tae's smile grew deeper, “Then a blowie” he answered with sincerity in his voice.

“A blowie?” Jimin echoed, slight confusion written on his face at the choice of term.

The taller boy snickered, giving a nod, “Yes, a blowjob” he affirmed, giving a nod.

“Oh, I-I should thank him by-” Jimin murmured, cheeks flushing a shade of rose.

“Dropping down on your knees” Tae finished his sentence, teasing eyes staring back at Jimin.

“Tae!” Jimin exclaimed, swatting his arm. In response, Taehyung broke out in chuckles, closing his hand around Jimin's wrist.

“I'm kidding, Minnie. Well, to an extent. I'm pretty sure Jungkook wouldn't say no to getting head, but I'm even more certain that he wants to make you happy without you owing him anything back. As long as you're happy and show your appreciating by thanking him, that's good” Taehyung assured him, smiling warmly at him.

“I want to give him presents, too. Well, to be fair, these presents are for... kind of... both of us? I mean... well... yeah” Jimin muttered, cheeks flushing a darker shade of red.

Taehyung chuckled, “I think I get what you're trying to say, Jimin-ah”

The singer on the show ended her performance, giving a bow.

“How was work?” Tae then changed the topic once a commercial break began to run on the TV, the boy lowering the volume.

“It was good. Not much going on - as always” Jimin answered, shrugging his shoulders. Frankly, most days at the library were very quiet - which, well, was caused by the prohibition of making too much noise. There wasn't ever anything huge or exciting happening, nothing out of the ordinary.

Taehyung raised up his eyebrows in curiosity, “Was that guy there again?”

Jimin furrowed his brows, cocking his head to the side, “You mean the one we saw earlier at the restaurant?” he clarified. To be honest, Jimin had simply tried to forget about that earlier encounter, choosing to believe that it had no meaning at all.

“Yes, the one who was with Dongha” the blond haired boy confirmed.

Jimin shook his head, “No, he wasn't there today actually”

“Jimin-ah” Taehyung murmured, voice softer as he stared at his best friend.

“Mhm?” Jimin hummed.

“Earlier, they kept glancing at our table, but I didn't want to say anything because I didn't want to scare you. Also, I was this close to tell them to fuck off, but I respected your request to not interact with them” Tae suddenly revealed, underlining his statement by placing his thumb and index finger close to one another.

“They did?” Jimin wondered, surprised by that information.

Why would they be staring at them?
“Not often, but every now and then” Taehyung added, giving a faint nod.

“ Weird...” Jimin mumbled, playing with the hem of his shirt. Back at the restaurant, Jimin had decided to not pay any more attention to them, too scared to be caught being noisy. However, maybe he should have.

Taehyung nodded, “I know”

“I wonder what they were talking about... Maybe they thought you were cute?” Jimin stated, titling his head to the side.

Tae snorted, “I'm sure they did, but just...” his tone turned into a more serious one, soft, “Minnie, be careful, okay?”

The smaller boy studied his features, “I think this is just a huge coincidence” Jimin murmured, shaking his head. To be fair, Jimin wasn't sure who he was trying to convince here - Taehyung or himself?

“It might be, but it could also be a warning” Tae noted.

Jimin hesitated, the words echoing in his mind, “For what?”

“I don't know, but honestly, I don't want to find out” the blond haired one murmured, concern glistening in his eyes.

They stared at each other for a moment.

The woman on the show took off her mask, revealing a face neither of them recognised.

An actress, they announced.

“Dammit” Tae cursed beneath his breath, Jimin giggling.

---

Jimin's eyes had fluttered shut, the boy desperately attempting to force them back open, just to have them shut again. Breaking the silence of the room, Jimin's ringtone disrupted the peace, his phone vibrating on the coffee table. Swiftly, Jimin reached for it, accepting the call to silence the irritating noise, having noticed that Taehyung was fast asleep next to him, soft snoring audible.

“Hello?” the smaller boy whispered, getting up to his feet as he rubbed his petite fist over his sleepy eyes.

“Little one” Jungkook's voice uttered, tone raspy, causing Jimin's heart to flutter.

“Hey, Kook-ah” Jimin replied, entering his bedroom and shutting the door close behind him as he didn't want to wake up Taehyung.

“Hey, baby, how are you?”

“I'm good” Jimin responded, allowing his body to lie down on the bed, falling on his back and staring up at the ceiling, the boy surrounded by darkness and utter silence in the room, “How are you?”

The darkness began to creep him out, Jimin not a fan of absolute lack of light, causing him to reach over to his bedside table and turn on the nightlamp.
“You didn't answer my texts” Jungkook noted, ignoring his question.

Jimin knitted his brows, “You texted me?” he wondered in confusion.

“I did”

“Maybe I did actually fall asleep then because I didn't see any of your texts” Jimin responded, not having seen anything flash up on his phone, “I'm sorry, Tae is over and we watched TV until I must have fallen asleep on the sofa”

“It's fine, little one. I just wanted to make sure you're alright. I just got off work”

The pink haired boy checked the time, horror written on his face as he noticed how late it was, “Just now?”

“Yes, just now. I was wondering whether I should come over to yours, but I understand, if you want to stay with Tae tonight”

“Tae suggested a sleepover, I hope that's okay?” Jimin replied, absentmindedly playing with the hem of his shirt, “He told me some amazing news! I'm not going to tell you yet, though, because he might want to be the one to tell you!”

“Of course that's okay, Jimin-ah. I just wanted to hear your voice. I haven't seen you since this morning when you rushed out of my apartment” Jungkook stated, Jimin's heart fluttering at his words.

Yet, Jimin groaned in embarrassment at those last words, the earlier awkward encounter with Jungkook’s father replaying in his mind, “Don't remind me. I don't want to recall that... That was so embarrassing” he whined, cheeks heating up at the mere thought.

Jungkook chuckled on the other end, clearly amused, “Angel, don't be embarrassed”

“You're father is going to be my boss – maybe. I mean, the possibilites stand. How can I look him in the eyes now?” Jimin muttered.

“We've fucked in my childhood bedroom right next to his bedroom” Jungkook blatantly pointed out.

Silence.

Right. Fair enough.

“Well, but he didn't see us or heard us then, did he?”

“Who knows? Jimin-ah, little one, sex is natural. My father knows that I have sex. He knows that I love you and that we're in a relationship so it's not far-fetched for him to conclude us having sex, too. That doesn't change your professionalism or anything like that” the taller boy assured.

Jimin nibbled on his bottom lip, hesitant.

“Do you believe that he thinks that... I'm using you?” he wondered, voice suddenly a lot quieter and unsure, conveying his insecurity.

“What?”

“Do you believe that he thinks I'm with you for the sake of getting into the company?” Jimin repeated the question in the same tone.
“No, why would you think that?” Jungkook asked instead, it was audible in his tone that he didn't believe that at all.

“I don't know... I don't want him to hire me because we're together, but because I'm actually skilled” the pink haired boy expressed.

There was rustling on the other end. “My father made you an offer even before I told him about what I actually felt for you. Remember? Back in Busan? He showed interest in you as a trainee” Jungkook reminded him.

Just like that, several incidents replayed in Jimin's mind, vivid pictures flashing in front of his eyes as they came to a halt at one particular one – the two of them at Jeon entertainment, encountering Jungkook's father who had a fixated look on Jimin, almost inspecting his appearance in a way.

“That's true... I just don't want him to think that... I don't know, that my feelings aren't real?”

“Angel, don't worry. My father isn't stupid. If he wants you in the company, that's because you have major skills” Jungkook reassured him, voice genuine.

The sound of honking in the background interrupted Jimin's concentration, the boy frowning, “Where are you?”

“I'm in the car, on my way home now. Unless you do want me to come by?” Jungkook answered, suggestive tone as he uttered that question.

Jimin giggled, shaking his head in spite of Jungkook not actually being capable of seeing that, “I don't think Tae would appreciate me bringing in another person to our night. He even relinquished on Hoseok hyung tonight”

Jungkook snickered, “That's fine, little one”

“Wait- you're in the car?” Jimin suddenly remarked, eyes going wide.

“Yes?” the younger male replied confused, not exactly fathoming why Jimin was repeating that part of his statement.

“You're driving while you're on the phone? Jeon Jungkook, that's so incredibly dangerous! What if something happens, you can't just-” Jimin scolded him, fear washing over him at the thought of Jungkook having a car accident because he was distracted by the phone call.

Jungkook chuckled, “Jimin-ah, calm down. I'm not the one driving”

“Oh” Jimin mumbled, relief blooming inside of him as he allowed his body to go slack again, tension easing, fear vanishing.

“I called Beomsoo to pick me up once he informed me that he dropped you off at your home” Jungkook elaborated, amusement in his voice.

Well, now, Jimin felt slightly stupid for making a fuss over essentially... nothing, “Oh, well... okay, then” he murmured, playing with the hem of his shirt.

“You're cute” Jungkook commented, affection dripping from his voice.

“Are you home soon?” Jimin asked, attempting to draw the attention away from himself and his stupid overly paranoid being. Yes, Jimin got scared easily, yet could you blame him? A lot of car accidents happen throughout the year.

Jungkook hummed in confirmation, “Yes, not too far now” he responded, “Where are you, baby?”

“I'm in bed. Tae is still in the living room, fast asleep” Jimin responded, slipping down and resting his head on top of the soft pillows.

Jungkook hummed in acknowledgement.

“How was your day?” the smaller boy wanted to know, playing with his own hair, sliding his hand through the pink locks.

“Spent most of my day with my father, talked about some upcoming meetings and potential sponsors before I accompanied him for quite a few auditions” Jungkook replied, sighing.

“Anyone you liked?” Jimin asked in interest, the thought of Jungkook being part of essentially being capable to decide about someone's future really fascinating, yet somehow scary.

“A couple, but my father was strict. I think there were only two people he let through” the black haired boy answered.

Jimin's eyes went wide at the information, “Wow” he breathed in shock.

“It's tough. Competitions is high”

“It is” Jimin agreed.

“How was your day then, angel?” Jungkook then wanted to know.

“It was good. I got to see Tae again and it's really fun. We went to eat something before I went to work. You know, I” Jimin began rambling, fortunately pausing before he blurted out that Dongha had been at the restaurant, too, “I missed that”

“I'm glad that things seem to go back to how they were between the two of you” the black haired boy commented.

Jimin smiled, agreeing, although he wondered if it was ever really going to be like it used to be. However, somehow, there was no doubt in his mind anymore that it could be. Right now, Jimin honestly already felt as close to Tae as he ever did. Maybe, their bond had actually defeated the dark side, perhaps even coming out more stronger than ever.

“Me too” Jimin whispered.

Comfortable silence settled between them, Jimin able to hear the faint sound of the engine of the vehicle in the background, Jungkook's soft breathing a sound he was capable to pick up as well, something so very soothing about it.

“Kook-ah?” Jimin was the one to break the silence.

“Yes, baby?”

“I'm sorry for leaving earlier like that. I hope it didn't come off as rude. And I'm sorry for... well, ruining your trousers and then leaving without you... without you coming at all”

“Angel, don't apologise. I told you I don't fucking care about my trousers and I understood that you felt embarrassed in that moment. My father didn't think of you as rude either, don't worry” the taller boy reassured immediately, fondness in his tone.

“Are you mad that I came, but you didn't?” Jimin feared, actually feeling guilty for having received such mindblowing pleasure this morning, but then leaving before he had been able to return the favour.

“Little one, stop apologising for that” Jungkook responded, light sternness in his voice to ensure that Jimin took it serious, “Besides, we would've had to stop anyway because my father was literally right in front of my room. I mean, I don't mind fucking you under those circumstances, but I'm sure you wouldn't have felt as comfortable about that”

“You wouldn't mind having sex with me while your father was standing literally 10 feet away from your bed, surely able to hear us?” Jimin doubted, arching up his eyebrows as he titled his head to the side. Surely, Jimin was still somewhat shy when it came to sex, yet this wasn't exactly something someone who was comfortable about sex in all it's entirety enjoyed either.

An ounce of hesitance on Jungkook's part.

“Well, okay, I might had minded that as well, if you word it like that. I don't think my father would appreciate the sight or sounds either” Jungkook chuckled.

“That's what I thought” Jimin giggled, giving a nod.

“I sat there with a hard dick for the first five minutes of our breakfast, though” he stated, guilt washing over Jimin.

“I-I'm sorry” he apologised, digging his teeth into his bottom lip, nibbling on it.

“Don't apologise, baby. I took care of it once he was gone” Jungkook responded, voice only an ounce lower, yet Jimin caught it.

“Y-You-”

“I jerked off, yes” Jungkook confirmed his unspoken assumption, “At the thought of what I would have done to your cute little body, if he hadn't interrupted”

“O-Oh” Jimin whispered, cheeks tingling a darker shade of pink, the smaller boy praying that Beomsoo wasn't listening to Jungkook talk to him on the phone.

“I wanted to fuck you right up against the wall. Hm, baby, isn't that what you love? A reward for you because you let me fuck you with the buttplug like a good boy” Jungkook murmured, his voice seductive, tone lower - the way that always sent a shiver down Jiming's back, “Then I'd slide the buttplug right into your cute stretched out hole once I came inside of you, make sure nothing leaks out and you stay nice and stretched out for me”

The pink haired male inhaled a shaky breath, an embarrassing whimper escaping him as he swallowed hard.

“Did that get to you?” Jungkook noted, Jimin essentially certain that there was a smug look on his face – it was almost visible to him, although he couldn't actually see the other boy.

“I...” Jimin tried, wetting his lips.

“I know you like me praising you, like me talking dirty to you” Jungkook added, suggestive tone making Jimin's heart skip a beat.
“K-Koo-”

“Are you getting all aroused already now?” the taller boy wondered, raspiness in his voice resulting in Jimin wanting to whine.

“N-No” Jimin lied, clearly embarrassed by how quickly Jungkook had him at his knees.

Jungkook chuckled, “Aww, kitten, are you getting all hot and bothered now? There is no way for me to take care of you, hm?”

“Kook-ah, don't be mean” Jimin whined, drawing his legs together as he felt his penis twitch.

It wasn't exactly a good time for Jimin to get aroused, considering how Taehyung was in the next room, possibly crashing into Jimin's bedroom any moment to check on him. Yet, what could Jimin do with Jungkook having this kind of effect on him?

“Am I mean, now?” Jungkook asked, clearly rhetorically, as clear as the amusement that was audible in his tone.

“Y-Yes” Jimin whispered, biting down on his bottom lip.

“Why, kitten, tell me” the taller male insisted.

“Y-You're... you're... you know what you're doing. You're doing this on purpose” Jimin attempted to express, forming a coherent sentence already an obstacle to his poor aroused mind.

“Okay, kitten, then I'll stop” Jungkook gave in, the humour in his voice not brushing past Jimin.

At his words, Jimin whined high in his throat, the reaction evoking a snicker in Jungkook.

The thought of Beomsoo appeared in Jimin's mind, making him feel uneasy. It was kind of embarrassing to imagine Beomsoo listening to what Jungkook was saying to him over the phone. How was Jimin supposed to look him in the eyes tomorrow?

As if on cue, the voice of the older man was audible to Jimin, “We're almost there, Mr. Jeon” Jimin was able to pick up, horror washing over him.

“What about... what about Beomsoo, isn't he... is he listening to what you're saying?” Jimin worried, gulping yet again.

“Beomsoo is occupied with driving. Besides, the car has a privacy window, it's rolled up. Beomsoo rolled it down to inform me that we've almost arrived. Don't worry, angel”

Jimin blinked, “Oh... okay” he mumbled.

“Cute” Jungkook commented.

The pink haired boy huffed, “I'm not”

“It's already late, pretty baby. You should sleep. I'll see you tomorrow”

“B-But... but-” Jimin uttered, too timid and ashamed to actually speak out what he desired, arousal still blooming vividly in his very being.

“Yes, Jimin-ah?”
“Can... can...” the smaller boy paused abruptly, watching something small trail down from the ceiling. At the sight, Jimin narrowed his eyes, gaze fixated on the tiny black thing that was coming near him.

That's when he realised what it was.

“Aaah!” he shrieked, body jerking up as he swatted his hand back and forth, attempting to hit the spider that was trying to attack him.

“Jimin-ah” Jungkook's concerned voice spoke to him through the phone, yet Jimin completely ignored him, too focused on getting rid of the spider, “Jimin-ah, what is going on?” he urged.

“Spider!” Jimin exclaimed, whining as he got up from the bed, a shiver running down his back at the thought of the spider dropping on his bed, crawling over him in his sleep.

Swiftly, he waved his hand around again, certainly feeling something hit against the back of his hand, the black dot suddenly gone.

“No” he cried out, assuming that it had falled on his floor, surely running away as quickly as it could, waiting to attack him another time.

“Angel, hey, is everything okay?”

“A spider” Jimin simply repeated, “There was a spider trying to attack me”

Jungkook laughed, the sound warming Jimin's heart, “I don't think spiders attack you, baby”

“This one tried to!” the slightly scared boy claimed, pulling his legs close to his body, “It ran away”

Clearly, Jimin was absolutely terrified of spiders. There was just something about them that utterly frightened him. It was definitely one of his phobias.

“Aww, angel, don't be scared. It's way smaller than you. Just step on it when you see it again” Jungkook suggested, amusement in his voice.

“No!” Jimin protested, erratically shaking his head, “I don't want to kill it. I just don't want it anywhere near me”

“Then ask Taehyung-ssi to kill it”

“I feel bad killing it – or being present when someone else does” the pink haired boy murmured, voice soft.

“Cute” Jungkook commented, chuckling again.

Suddenly, there were gentle knocks against Jimin's door, interrupting him. He went silent upon the noise, startled as he forced his gaze over to the door that was opened, a blond haired head peeking inside.

“Minnie?” Taehyung's sleepy voice uttered, the boy rubbing his fist over his tired eyes, “Are you okay? I heard something- like a scream. I got worried when I woke up and didn't see you”

“I'm just on the phone” Jimin responded, pointing to the device in his hand, “And I might have just had a battle with a spider”

“Oh okay, I'll wait until you're finished” he responded, presumably missing the part about the spider in his sleepy state or perhaps choosing to ignore it.

“Is that Tae? Is he okay?” Jungkook wondered.

“Mhm” Jimin hummed in confirmation, “Tae just woke up and wondered where I was”

“I'm really sleepy” Tae mumbled.

Jungkook seemed to have heard that part, speaking up, “It's already fairly late, little one. You should head to bed, too. I'm almost home now as well. Two more blocks”

Despite Jimin longing to listen to Jungkook's voice until he fell asleep, he found himself agreeing, reminding himself that Tae and him had wanted to take the night all to themselves.

“Alright. I'll talk to you tomorrow, Kook-ah”

“Goodnight, beautiful, dream sweet”

“You, too” Jimin replied, voice soft as he hung up, shy smile on his face.

Tae waddled over to him, lifting up the blanket and joining him on the bed, hiding himself beneath the covers. Jimin giggled, tugging the duvet over his own body as well, neither of them caring enough to change their clothes.

“Was that Jungkook-ah?” the taller boy asked sleepily, nuzzling his face against the soft pillow.

“Mhm” Jimin confirmed with a hum, mirroring his action, a content sigh falling from his lips.

The soft snoring that was suddenly audible next to him evoke a giggle in Jimin, Taehyung having the odd, yet amazing ability to fall asleep almost instantly no matter where they were.

It didn't take long for Jimin to join his best friend, sleep welcoming him as he slipped into a haze of peaceful dreaming where he met a certain black haired boy.

---

Jimin squeezed Jungkook's hand tighter, following him through the tight hallway. Drunk people were dancing and singing around them, sweaty bodies grinding against one another, frequently pushing against Jimin in their attempt to make their way through to the living room.

“Stay close by, little one” Jungkook had whispered to him once they had entered the house, intertwining their hands to ensure Jimin not leaving his side or going missing in the crowd of drunk people.

The house was incredibly crowded, Jimin certain that even more people than last time had turned up. Surely, they didn't want to miss the chance of free alcohol. In fact, most of these people were complete strangers to Jimin. The boy would have to lie if you'd ask him whether or not he had ever seen half of the people here before. To be fair, then again, Jimin wasn't the most social butterfly there was, thus knowing a lot of people wasn't exactly one of his traits.

“They're over there” Jungkook informed him, pointing to his group of friends that had gathered around the sofa, red cups in each of their hands, the boys laughing about something.

Jimin smiled at the sight, his heart feeling all warm and fuzzy at the image of his friends being happy. After all, they hadn't seen each other all together in awhile, hence Jimin was more than delighted to see them again.
“Jikook!” Tae exclaimed in pure joy, spreading his arms as he got up to his feet, spilling some of his drink in the process, yet not noticing.

“What did you just call us? Jikook?” Jimin giggled, hugging his best friend, allowing his grasp to slip from Jungkook's hand as the other male greeted his friends.

“Tae came up with that” Hoseok revealed as he pulled Jimin into a hug, “Hey, kid”

“Hey, hyung” Jimin smiled in return, chuckling at the name Tae gave them, “Is that a mixture of our name?”

“Yes!” Taehyung confirmed, plopping back on his spot on the floor in between Hoseok's legs, “The Ji from your name and the kook from Jungkook-ah's name. Jikook” Tae explained, Jimin not doubting that he was already tipsy.

“Why did you gave us a name?” Jimin wondered, glancing at Jungkook who appeared to be amused by the fact, too.

“Because you two are basically always attached at the hip. You're an item. It's easier to say that name in a conversation regarding you than spelling out both of your names” the blond haired boy reasoned as Yoongi embraced Jimin.

“He's been giving all of you those weird ass names. Claims it's funny and shit. Apparently convenient” Yoongi snorted, yet smiled warmly.

“What are you then?” Jimin wanted to know, hugging the others as well.

“Taeseok” Hoseok answered, sliding his hand through Taehyung's hair whose eyes fluttered shut at the gentle touch.

“Sounds like a disease” Jin chuckled.

“Shut up, babe” Namjoon scolded, “Don't be rude”

“Yes, hyung, don't be rude” Hoseok defended Tae, petting over his boyfriend's head, the latter pouting at the mockery of his well thoughtout names.

“I tried my best, guys” Taehyung defended, crossing his arms over his chest as he narrowed his eyes at the other ones, “You go and come up with better names”

The others shared a glance, “No, we're good, thanks”

Hoseok leaned down to press a kiss to the top of Taehyung's head, “You did well, baby”

“Yes, I like it” Jimin agreed.

“What are they called?” Jungkook wanted to know, pointing at Jin and Namjoon who rolled their eyes, presumably already having heard the name.

“Namjin” Jin responded, “We've had to listen to him come up with these names for the past ten minutes now. Ten minutes!” he emphasised those words, eyes glistening like a scream for help.

“Namjin sounds... sounds good” the pink haired boy complimented, smiling in reassurance at his best friend as he took a seat on the floor next to him.

“I'm not going to use that for you guys” Yoongi snickered, surely only teasing, the smirk on his face any indication of that fact, the older male shaking his head as he took a sip from his drink.

“Party pooper” Tae mumbled, appearing to be slightly hurt by everyone making funny remarks about the names he had created.

They all shared another glance.

“I'm going to use them” Hoseok muttered, leaning down to press another peck to the top of Taehyung's head.

“Yeah... they're not that bad” Jin assured, smiling as he ruffled through Taehyung's hair who whined at the action, fixing the mess Jin had created, yet smiling at the tender touch.

Hoseok glared at the other ones, eyes narrowed, “You did well, sunshine. Now stop making fun of him or we're going to have a problem”

They other boys lifted their hands up in defense.

“They're actually kind of cute” Namjoon commented, nodding to underline his liking in the names.

Yoongi rubbed over the back of his neck, mumbling, “I agree”

Jimin giggled, shaking his head as he stared up at his own boyfriend, “I'm going to get us a drink, Jimin-ah. Do you want anything in particular?” the black haired boy wanted to know, pointing to the kitchen.

“I mixed something myself this time. I'm calling it sweet knock out” Yoongi stated, lifting up his own red cup to present the drink.

The pink haired male furrowed his brows, titling his head to the side, “Why that?”

“Because it tastes sweet, but you're going to be knackered by the second drink so be careful. It's really good though” Yoongi answered, smiling in reassurance as he took a sip.

Jimin glanced back at Jungkook who arched up his eyebrow, “You want one of those, baby? I'm going to stay sober because I'm driving us home tonight”

Alcohol and Jimin never went well together, yet now that he had Jungkook, he wouldn't have to worry about doing anything stupid that would get him into trouble, right?

“Maybe I'll try one of them then” Jimin responded, “Thank you”

“I'll be right back” Jungkook noted before he disappeared in the crowd, making his way over into the kitchen.

The music was ringing in their ears, yet somehow they had found a spot in the house where they were able to hold a conversation without screaming like maniacs at one other.

Yoongi's parties were always crazy – at least as long as Jimin was concerned. Not that it was particularly a bad thing, it was just different to what Jimin was used to on a daily basis. Frankly, he had never understood those people who went to these parties every single weekend, being part of essentially the same routine with the same people over and over again.

“Why aren't you playing your own songs?” Jin wanted to know, resting his head on Namjoon's shoulder. The voice of the older one ripped Jimin out of his thoughts, the latter lifting his head and staring at his friends.
Namjoon pursed his lips, tilting his head to the side, “Hyung, we could probably do that, right?”

The blond haired male wasn't exactly involved in their conversation, in fact appearing to not even pay much attention at all – his gaze fixated on something else. Yoongi was staring at Hoseok and Taehyung with intent eyes, watching how the brown haired boy played with Taehyung's blond locks, Tae's eyes fluttering shut as he purred at the touch.

“Hyung?” Namjoon called out, Jin nudging the referred to person.

It startled Yoongi, the man twitching at the sudden contact as he averted his gaze, locking eyes with Namjoon, “Huh? Sorry, what did you say?”

Kind enough to ignore Yoongi's lack of attention on them and him visibly having been occupied with checking out what Hoseok and Taehyung were up to, Namjoon smiled warmly, repeating his question, “Jin hyung was wondering why we're not playing our songs. You know, the new ones we've been working on?”

Jimin allowed his gaze to trace up to Hoseok, the boy paying attention to their conversation, yet still playing with Taehyung's hair absentmindedly. Apparently, he hadn't noticed the way Yoongi had stared at them.

It wasn't that there was anything wrong with Yoongi staring, yet there had been an emotion glistening in his eyes that Jimin wasn't able to define.

“Sure, I'll go and put them on” Yoongi agreed, smiling as he got up to his feet, all of them choosing to ignore the faint shade of rose that tinged his cheeks.

Jungkook returned back to the sofa once Yoongi had disappeared into the crowd, carrying two red cups, one in each hand. Upon the sight of the black haired boy, Jimin found the corners of his lips curl up in a smile, a natural reaction of his, accompanied by the fluttering of his heart whenever he saw Jungkook.

“Here you go, little one”

“Thank you” Jimin smiled, slight flush appearing on his cheeks at the pet name, Taehyung grinning at him with knowing eyes as he took a sip from his own drink.

Jungkook squeezed himself in the spot between Jin and Hoseok, enabling him to be closer to Jimin who immediately scooted over inbetween his legs, “Where did hyung go?” the black haired boy wondered as he took a sip from his cup.

Jin pointed to the other side of the room, “Went and changed the music”

The smaller boy lifted the cup up to his lips, taking a cautious sip, the liquor flowing down his throat, a faint burn noticeable, yet the taste so very sweet, “Mhm” he hummed, eyes wide at the delicious taste, “It's good”

Taehyung nodded, “It's really good” he agreed.

Gently, Jungkook slid his hand through Jimin's hair, brushing it out of his face before he gave his pink locks a tender tug, Jimin smiling at the touch, warmth spreading through his chest.

“I wanna dance” Taehyung stated, setting his cup down on the table next to the sofa before he got up on wobbly legs, Hoseok swiftly there to steady him, enabling Tae to gain his balance again, “Minnie, come on”
Jimin chuckled, glancing at Jungkook who had lifted his cup up to his lips, amusement in his eyes as he tilted his head to the side, staring intently at Jimin. The shorter one got up to his feet as well, emptying his cup in one-shot, bottoms up as the cold liquor flowed down his throat, burning lightly heavier than previously, yet still so very sweet.

“Careful, baby” Jungkook warned, watching Jimin set his empty cup down on the table next to Tae's, the pink haired boy coughing at the taste of alcohol.

Turning to Jungkook, Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth, “Okay?” he finally asked the unspoken question in his mind, pointing to the group of people that was already dancing, figuring that a silent communication in the sense of a questioning stare hadn't brought him a clear answer.

“You don't have to ask for permission, little one” Jungkook reminded him, smiling.

Right. For some odd reason, Jimin had decided that he had to ensure that Jungkook was fine with him dancing at the party. For some odd reason, Jimin had thought that it was a decision Jungkook should make for him.

Which wasn't- and shouldn't be the case at all. Surely, they were in a relationship now and Jimin would never do anything that would cross any line or boundary as he was faithful and didn't want anyone else, yet being in a relationship didn't conclude to prohibiting each other from doing something, neither restricting each other in their own choice of what to do and what not to do when it came to such small things as this.

Jimin blinked, giving a nod before he pressed a peck to Jungkook's cheek, blushing at the way the others whistled at the cute display of affection.

“Fuck off” Jungkook cursed at them, but smiled as he leaned back into the seat, rolling his eyes at the way Jin nudged his shoulder to tease him as though they were still middle school children, teasing each other over their first crush or kiss, “Shut up, hyung” the black haired boy chuckled, shaking his head.

Taehyung giggled, reaching for Jimin's hand to guide him over to the dance floor.

“I'm so happy!” Taehyung screamed over the music that turned louder with each of their steps, heavy beats ringing in their ears, Jimin's eardrums wincing at the intense volume, yet body already craving to move to the rhythm.

“Why?” Jimin chuckled once they arrived in the crowd, the smaller boy trying to ignore the close proximity of the other people, their sweaty bodies stumbling into him every now and then, “I mean, I'm glad you're happy, but what makes you say that?”

The blond haired boy grinned, jumping up and down to the music, “Just... everything! I'm happy because of life. Honestly, I feel like, this is the most beautiful moment of my life!” he exclaimed, reaching for Jimin's wrists as the latter joined him in his dance.

“This moment right now?” Jimin giggled, titling his head to the side.

To be fair, if they decided to proceed to talk to each other, they might need to consider going somewhere else, if they didn't want to lose their voice by tomorrow as they were currently yelling at each other to barely catch what the other one was saying.

“All of it! Each day I'm currently living is part of what I would consider to be happiness. Jimin-ah, I love you and Hoseok hyung and Jin hyung and Yoongi hyung and Namjoon hyung and even Jungkook-ah. All of you” Tae laughed happily, eyes lit up in complete fondness, joy glistening in them.

“I think you've drank a little too much” Jimin giggled, yet he found his heart flutter as it agreed with the statement, feeling just the same.

Jimin loved his friends, loved the family that they were to him. They weren't related, but that didn't matter. Family didn't always mean blood related. They had created their own little family, taking care of each other and loving one another unconditionally. Frankly, Jimin had never had anything like this, had never had people to trust and love this very much.

It was beautiful to be part of it.

“I might have, but that's beside the point here. I'm just happy - happy to have found all of you” Taehyung added with a shrug of his shoulders.

Jimin smiled warmly, “I'm happy, too”

They grinned at one another, chuckling as they jumped around, the light amount of alcohol running through their system allowing them to feel utterly free, both of them singing along to the song at the top of their lungs.

Surely, they were going to regret it by tomorrow morning, but right now they didn't care.

They were happy.

Taehyung lifted Jimin's hand up, making him spin around. The action brought laughter to both of them, Jimin's eyes turning into little crescents as he took a glimpse to their group of friends still scattered over the sofa, also laughing over something.

However, Jungkook was already staring intently at him, Jimin capable to see the fond smile on his face that curled up the corners of his lips, eyes glistening in the faint light that was illuminating the room.

As their gazes met, their smiles grew bigger, Jimin breaking out into a shy giggle, dipping his head down as he felt his cheeks tinge a shade of rose.

How long had Jungkook been looking at him? Had he seen him dance like a fool, singing along to a song he barely knew the lyrics to?

Out of curiosity and with a sudden burst of courage, Jimin lifted his head again, glancing back at Jungkook who was still staring at him with intent eyes.

“Cute” Jungkook mouthed, Jimin chuckling as he shook his head.

The black haired boy only nodded, smiling at the way Jimin turned all shy and embarrased, his timid being causing him to be adorable by nature in almost everything he did.

“Minnie, stop flirting!” Taehyung scolded him, swatting his arm as he jumped around to the music.

“Ouch” Jimin whined, rubbing over the spot that had received a slap, “I wasn't even... We were just looking at each other”

“There's literal honey dripping from his eyes when he's looking at you! Just wait until you're actually dancing – poor dude is going to undress you with his eyes” Taehyung commented, laughing.

“Tae!” Jimin shrieked, now the one to swat his arm, “Shut up”
“What? I'm just warning you. I bet you won't even make it home, but he's going to drag you up into a room to f-”

“Shut up, Tae!” Jimin interrupted him again, eyes wide, yet a smile dancing around his lips.

Taehyung only giggled, amused by his own way of teasing.

As they proceeded to dance to several songs, the air around them turned warmer, sweat forming on their skin. Their throats were dry, begging for hydration, yet they kept telling one another 'last song, really, this time.'

It never was.

“We should go back now” Jimin shouted over the music, pointing to the sofa where their friends were still sitting, Yoongi now having returned to the group.

“We should” Taehyung agreed, but didn't make any indication to actually leave.

“Tae” the pink haired boy chuckled, tugging on his sleeve.

“I kow, just a moment” he promised, nodding erratically.

Rolling his eyes, Jimin smiled affectionately, shaking his head, but not leaving Taehyung's side either.

However, they should have left earlier.

“Heeey” a male voice slurred into Jimin's ear, a rough hand brushing past his arm, grabbing the flesh of the smaller boy as the stranger dragged his palm along the fair skin, “My friend and I have been watching you two dance for awhile now” he whispered, hot breath tickling Jimin's skin as the man pressed his body against Jimin's, the latter feeling something hard and thick press against his butt.

Jimin jerked away from the boy, the scent of smoke and alcohol filling his nostrils, the mixture somehow sickening. Swiftly, Jimin glanced at Tae, the blond haired one having pushed the other boy away from him.

“Don't touch me, bastard!” Taehyung cursed at him.

The two foreign boys appeared to be utterly drunk – maybe even high on some illegal substances - their eyes hollow, yet filled with desire as they stared intently at Taehyung and Jimin as if they were some kind of prey.

“Leave right fucking now or you'll find my shoe up your asshole” Tae threatened, pulling Jimin towards him who could only blink, frightened by the sudden turn of events. For some odd reason, Jimin felt dirty, felt disgusting because the boy had touched him while he had pressed his own body against Jimin's.

“Is that a promise?” one of the boys wondered with a smug smile, eyebrow arched up as he titled his head to the side, reaching for Taehyung's chin, “I'm all for that kinky shit, if you are, doll”

What now?

“What did you just call me?” Taehyung asked angrily, swatting his hand away.

“The feisty one is mine” the boy decided, smirking as he glanced at his friend who was still only looking at Jimin.
The other man smiled in satisfaction, “I’ll have him then. Pretty one”

Jimin swallowed hard, reaching for Taehyung’s sleeve and giving it a weak tug, silently begging Tae to just run away with him or scream for help. Frankly, Jimin simply couldn’t find an answer as to why he wasn’t able to do anything at all. It was almost as if he was completely frozen in his state of fear.

“Dare to come one step closer and I swear I’ll ram my foot in your pathetic little di-” Taehyung gritted through his teeth, clenching his hands into fists as he watched one of the boys try to move closer to Jimin.

“Step away from them” another male voice suddenly interrupted, Jimin feeling the warmth of another figure behind him.

It was a voice that Jimin would recognise anywhere.

Relief washed over him as Jungkook moved closer to them, grabbing Taehyung and Jimin by their shirts to pull them behind himself.

The other two boys shared an unimpressed glare, “And who are you?”

“You don’t want to find out” Jungkook answered, titling his head from side to side, “I’ll give you ten seconds to leave the house”

The males snorted in unison, “Or what?”

Jungkook arched up his eyebrow, “Or we’re going to have a problem”

“What problem would that be? I don’t think anyone asked for your annoying ass to be here so leave and mind your own fucking business” the taller of the two boys responded annoyed.

Jungkook clicked his tongue, a humourless laugh slipping past his lips before his expression completely changed into one of anger. In response, Jimin gulped, reaching for Tae’s hand as he watched Jungkook open the buttons of his shirt cuffs in order to roll up his sleeves.

Without a warning, Jungkook grabbed one of the boys by their collar and pushed him against the wall, the boy’s eyes going wide in horror.

“Yes, go on, Jungkook-ah! Punch him right in the face!” Taehyung cheered on, angry look on his face.

“Tae!” Jimin expressed in shock, shaking his head, “Don’t spur him on. Violence always means trouble” he added, terrified of Jungkook losing it and beating these guys up or Jungkook himself getting hurt in the process. That surely wasn’t something Jimin wanted to experience.

The blond haired boy furrowed his brows, “It’s what they deserve. Fucking perverts”

As Jungkook spoke up again, they averted their gazes from one another, drawing their attention back over to the taller one, “I gave you a chance to leave on your own, didn’t I? Why do you have to make it so much more difficult, huh? You’re practically begging to feel my fist in your face, hm?” Jungkook asked, tightening his grip around the guy’s collar.

The guy attempted to laugh, yet his voice was shaking, “C-Calm down, dude, we were just joking”

“Is anyone here laughing? I don’t fucking think so” Jungkook gritted through his teeth, glancing at Jimin to check on him, heart clenching at the fear in his eyes, “Touch them without their consent ever again and I’ll personally cut off your dick” the black haired boy threatened as he made eye contact with the stranger, the latter swallowing hard, clearly terrified at the threat.

The other guy interfered, shoving at Jungkook's shoulder to gain his attention, “Let him go, asshole” he prompted angrily, eyes narrowed.

Taehyung clenched his hands into fists, pushing the guy away from Jungkook, “Fuck off’

“L-Let's just leave” Jimin begged, voice soft and vulnerable as he reached for Taehyung's and Jungkook's shirts, giving them a weak tug so they would leave with him. However, they didn't budge.

Instead, Jungkook's grip became tighter, the guy he was trapping against the wall gasping as he scanned the room for his friend, nervousness glistening in his eyes. The latter dropped his cup to the floor, clearly having had enough as he harshly pushed Jimin away from Jungkook in an attempt to reach and harm the black haired boy more easily.

Barely keeping his balance, Jimin yelped at the shock of the harsh treatment, watching Jungkook spin around as he noticed the way Jimin had been shoved. After making sure that Jimin wasn't hurt, Jungkook turned towards the culprit, clicking his tongue.

“Fuck you” Jungkook cursed before he punched his fist right into the boy's face, the latter stumbling backwards into the wall at the force of the hit.

Jimin gasped, clasping his hands over his mouth, “Jungkook-ah!”

“Finally!” Taehyung yelled, kicking the other guy right in the balls.

“Tae!”

The smaller boy scanned the room, feeling helpless as he didn't know what to do. Surely, this situation was about to escalate to an even worse extent, Jungkook most likely not managing to hold his temper.

Jimin had to interfere before this incident ended horribly. Snapping out of it, Jimin rushed towards Jungkook, pulling on his shirt firmly, “Kook-ah, leave him alone!”

As predicted, Jungkook didn't budge, frustrating Jimin who decided to hug the boy from behind in order to gain his full attention. Surely, there was no way to ignore Jimin's attempt to prevent him from being in major trouble this way.

Wrapping his arms around Jungkook's stomach, Jimin pressed his cheek against his back, hugging him tightly, “Stop, please, Kook-ah”

The black haired one looked back over his shoulder, finally taking notice of Jimin's presence. Slowly, Jungkook's tension eased, his eyes becoming softer at the sight of Jimin.

Swiftly, Taehyung rushed over to them, pointing to one of the guys that had fallen to the floor, the guy wincing in pain.

“I guess I kicked his dick a little too hard there” Tae noted, shrugging his shoulders.

“Leave right fucking now” Jungkook demanded, staring intently at the guy that was still standing, yet who was hiding his face behind his hands.
The boy gave a nod, stumbling away from the wall and picking up his friend. Quickly, they hurried away from the scene, taking one last glimpse back before they rushed outside.

“I should make sure and see whether they're actually leaving” Jungkook decided, slipping away from Jimin's grasp to follow them, but Jimin was there to stop him, closing his petite hand around the younger male's wrist.

“Don't go” he begged, voice soft, “Leave them be. I'm sure they learned their lesson”

Taehyung cracked his knuckles, “They better. I was about to thoroughly kick their asses”

For some odd reason, Jimin couldn't help but smile – clearly, there must be something wrong with him because quite honestly, there was nothing funny about this situation. At least, there shouldn't be. Yet, Taehyung’s demeanor whenever he was angered and cursing around was actually a quite cute sight.

Then again, truthfully, for a moment, he had even intimidated Jimin when he had kicked the guy right into the balls.

Jungkook turned towards the pink haired boy, taking a step closer. In response, Jimin unconsciously took a step away, his back hitting against the wall.

“What did I tell you?” Jungkook asked, placing one of his üalms against Jimin's cheek while he pressed his other hand against the wall next to Jimin's head.

The smaller male gulped, big eyes staring up into Jungkook's brown orbs, “About what?”

Jungkook lifted his hand, brushing strands of Jimin's pink locks out of his face, anger still vivid in his eyes although there was the oh so familiar and soothing softness hidden beneath, “About you calling me whenever you're touched inappropriately or you're uncomfortable due to anyone – for whatever reason”

Jimin dipped his head down, cheeks flushing a faint shade of rose, “I-I was shocked”

“Let's go back, guys. I've had enough of this corner of the house” Taehyung decided, reaching inbetween Jungkook and Jimin to grab the latter's palm, intertwining their hands and pulling Jimin away from Jungkook, “Are you okay, Minnie?”

“Mhm” the boy hummed, looking back to make sure that Jungkook was following them, the black haired boy right at the heels of their feet, “Are you?”

“Yeah, I'm fine” Taehyung assured, giving a nod as they approached the others.

Namjoon grinned at their sight, “There he is! Our soon-to-be-model!”

“Shut up” Taehyung mumbled, not exactly kind, yet surely still dealing with the prior event.

The other guys shared a glance, “What happened?” Jin had the courage to ask, looking back and forth between Jungkook, Taehyung and Jimin.

“Two guys were being pieces of shit and getting way to close to Taehyung-ssi and Jimin-ah” Jungkook answered, crossing his arms over his chest as he leaned against the wall.

“What?” the other ones exclaimed in unison.

“We were dancing” Tae expressed, straddling Hoseok's lap, the brown haired boy staring back and forth between Taehyung and Jungkook as he wrapped his arm around his boyfriend, “They were hitting on us, groped us and shit”

Suddenly, they all – excluding Hoseok as he was restricted due to Taehyung straddling his lap - jumped up, “What?” they yelled in unison.

Jungkook pointed towards the hallway, “I kicked them out”

All of them exhaled a breath of relief, sitting down again. Yoongi nodded, “Good” he uttered once he was seated again.

“What the fuck even were those guys?” Hoseok wanted to know, rubbing his hand over Taehyung's back in a protective manner.

Jungkook shrugged his shoulder, sighing as he rolled down his sleeves again, fastening the buttons on his shirt cuffs. “I don't know, but I don't care either. I was this close to beating up these bastards” he stated, pushing his hair out of his face, exposing his forehead.

“You did punch one of them” Taehyung reminded him as he nuzzled against Hoseok, “Thank you for helping us by the way”

The black haired boy only hummed, sharing a glance with Hoseok who nodded at him, silently thanking him.

“Are they outside now?” Yoongi wanted to know.

“Mhm” Jungkook confirmed, “At least that's what I'm guessing. I better not see them again. Who the fuck even are all of these people here, hyung?” the taller one asked, brows furrowed as he pointed to the crowd.

“I'm not sure” Yoongi answered genuinely, shrugging his shoulders, “People just invite their friends and those invite their friends and it always ends up being more people than initially planned, so quite honestly, I have no damn idea who some of these people here are”

Well, then Jimin wasn't the only one oblivious.

Hoseok pressed a kiss to Taehyung's cheek, “Did they touch you? Are you hurt?”

Taehyung shook his head, smiling faintly as he nudged his nose against the brown haired one, “No, I'm fine, hyung”

Jungkook reached his hand out to Jimin, “Come here, little one” he uttered.

Without an ounce of hesitation, Jimin placed his hand in Jungkook's, allowing him to pull him closer to his body, closing his arm around the smaller boy's back. Immediately finding comfort, Jimin nuzzled his face into the curve of Jungkook's neck, “Are you mad at me?”

Jungkook shook his head, caressing Jimin's back, “No, baby”

“You are mad, though, aren't you?” Jimin wondered, lifting his head just enough to lock eyes with the taller boy.

Softly, he brushed Jimin's hair out of his face, stroking the pad of his thumb over Jimin's cheekbone, “Not at you, Jimin-ah. I'm mad at those guys for behaving the way they did” he responded, leaning in to press a kiss to his forehead.
Jimin's eyes fluttered shut at the gentle touch, “Thank you for protecting us”

“Always” Jungkook whispered against his skin.

---

It was a little later that night, Jungkook and Yoongi the remaining ones on the sofa, the others having scattered around the house. Jin and Namjoon were no where to be found while Hoseok, Taehyung and Jimin had decided to move to a corner on their own to dance. However, they weren't exactly dancing, rather talking and laughing while moving from side to side, too caught up in their conversation to pay attention to their dance moves.

“Fuck, he deserves the world, hyung” Jungkook suddenly uttered, gaze still fixated on the pink haired boy giggling about something next to Hoseok and Taehyung, eyes turned into small crescents, sweaterpaw covering his mouth, cheeks flushed due to the slight amount of alcohol running through his system.

Yoongi followed his gaze, mirroring Jungkook's expression, “I know he does” he agreed, “I would give him the world”

Jungkook furrowed his brows at that statement, glancing at the older man.

“Hyung, do you like Ji-”

“Oh, no, don't worry, kid” Yoongi interrupted him, chuckling as he met Jungkook's gaze, “I love Jimin, but not in the way you do. I love him as a brother, but I still wanna give him the world. He deserves it”

Relief washed over Jungkook, the thought of Yoongi having feelings for Jimin wouldn't exactly have sat well with him. After all, he wouldn't want to see Yoongi be emotionally hurt, yet Jimin was his and that would never change, “He does, but I... I don't know how to give it to him. I don't know shit about this relationship stuff. I have no idea how it actually works” Jungkook confessed, leaning back in his seat on the sofa.

Yoongi snickered, “I don't think there's a formula, Kook” he commented, taking a sip from his drink.

“Well, there should be. It's damn hard to figure out”

The blond haired boy studied his features, contemplating for a moment as he swallowed his drink down, “It's just... well, trusting each other, being with one another through bad and good things, it's bringing each other happiness, doing nothing, yet still feeling complete – stuff like that”

Hoseok, Jimin and Taehyung laughed whole heartedly, Jungkook almost certain to be able to hear Jimin's sweet giggles over the loud music, filtering it out from the noises of his surroundings.

“Do you think I make him happy?” Jungkook then asked, not able to tear his gaze away from Jimin.

“You better” Yoongi stated.

“Seriously, hyung. Do you think he's happy being with me?” Jungkook elaborated, glancing at Yoongi.

The smaller man smiled comforting at him, giving his shoulder a squeeze, “Kook, I've never seen him be this comfortable and happy with anyone else. You helped him through shit none of us were able to and you give him something no one else has ever before. His smile when he looks at youfuck the way his eyes light up when he looks at you just prove that he's happy to be with you”

“Is what I'm giving him enough though?” Jungkook asked, pulling his brows together in a frown as it was something he was doubting over himself.

“What do you mean?” Yoongi wondered, frowning.

“I wanna give him the world, but I don't know how to do that” the black haired boy clarified.

Yoongi smiled, shrugging his shoulders, “It's the little things that count, Kook”

“We spend every day together. We talk a lot, we cuddle, we fuck.”

“Gosh, fuck you, Jungkook-ssi, I didn't wanna know about that part” Yoongi interrupted him, groaning in frustration.

Jungkook laughed, shaking his head at the reaction, “Shut up, hyung, you know that we fuck. You literally asked me to off-”

“I know, don't remind me” the older male interrupted him again.

Both of their smiles faltered at the memory of Jimin tearing down after the revelation of the offer. Either of them refused to replay that heartwrenching memory, swiftly wanting to move on.

“I mean, come on, we're in a relationship. We're not just holding hands” Jungkook chuckled, taking a sip from his drink.

“I know, asshole. I just don't want to imagine Jimin... I just... I don't know. I want him to be happy, of course, and I know that he's having sex, but I just can't imagine my cute innocent Jimin being fucked by you” Yoongi pointed out.

Snickering, Jungkook shook his head again, “He's not a child anymore, hyung”

“I know” Yoongi murmured, sighing, “Still weird, though”

“Well, but what I was trying to say is that we do a lot of stuff together, but I don't know if that's enough for him” Jungkook picked up the previous point again.

Yoongi frowned, “Do you go on dates?”

Slight hesitance on Jungkook’s behalf.

“You do go on dates, right?” Yoongi pressed, arching up his eyebrows in curiosity.

“We hang out at each other's places, watch movies and eat dinner and stuff like that. We talk a lot, cuddle...” Jungkook listed, figuring that the other one wasn't pleased with his answer.

“Take him out!” Yoongi prompted, eyes wide at the information of them not going on dates.

Jungkook blinked, “What?”

“Show him the world, Kook!” Yoongi demanded, lifting his hands up as if he was poiting to the world around them.

“I can't just fly around the damn world with him. We have jobs, we have responsibilities” Jungkook reminded him, leaning back in his seat.
“I'm not talking about other countries, idiot, I'm talking about Seoul, cities in Korea. Take him to a restaurant, go watch a movie at a theater, fuck, go sit in a park and look at the damn sky, travel to a town nearby – shit like that” Yoongi elaborated, swatting Jungkook's shoulder, “Dates don't have to be outside, you can have a date at your place, too, but it's exciting to do something different for once”

Frankly, Jungkook had never actually done those things with a romantic partner - ever. Fuck, there hadn't ever been a romantic partner to take to any of these places prior to Jimin in the first place. All of this shit was new for him, hence it wasn't exactly obvious for Jungkook to figure out what to do.

However, he should have been able to guess that much. Fuck, he wanted to take Jimin to places, wanted to do all of that cheesy ass shit, if it was for Jimin.

Then again... life wasn't exactly on their side right now. It currently wouldn't be easy to take him out.

“We once went to a park, when we weren't a thing yet. You all ditched on us so it was just us two. I mean, I guess, it wasn't really a date, or maybe it was without us realising, but it was nice” Jungkook responded, recalling the night at the park, Jimin having had no idea about how he had already been on his way to steal Jungkook's heart back then, although he hadn't even realised it himself at that point.

“See. Ask him out on a date, ask him what he wants to do or surprise him with something. I'm sure he would love that. Jiminie has never been on dates before you. I don't think he's expecting anything because he probably doesn't know how to go about relationships as well. So show him, surprise him, he'll love it. Like, small stuff, too. He will love that. Gift him flowers or chocolate for no reason at all. Little things like that” the blond haired boy added.

“Flowers?” Jungkook echoed, eyebrows arched up.

Yoongi nodded, “Yes, Jimin-ah loves flowers”

“Of course he does” Jungkook smiled, gaze travelling over to his lover, “There is no flower as beautiful as him, though”

There was a puking noise audible next to him, Yoongi the source of the noise as the man made an expression as though he was vomitting.

“Fuck you” Jungkook laughed, shaking his head.

“What happened to you? When did you become this sappy and cheesy?” Yoongi asked, amusement in his voice.

Chuckling, Jungkook shrugged his shoulders, “I don't know, he does that to me” he answered, voice slightly softer.

Yoongi smiled warmly, “I'm just joking, Kook. I'm really happy for you in all seriousness. Both of you. You helped Jimin a lot and he's so happy since he's been with you. You seem brighter, too. I couldn't be happier having two of my closest brothers bring happiness to one another like that”

“He does things to my heart that I didn't even know existed. As cheesy as that sounds. I sometimes find myself say stupid shit like that and I can't even contain it. I just wanna let him know how much he means to me and that he's the one for me” Jungkook expressed, corners of his lips curling up at the thought of Jimin.

Yoongi's eyes went wide, “The one? Slow down there, Kook” he chuckled, giving Jungkook's shoulder a gentle squeeze.

Smiling, Jungkook looked over to Jimin, the smaller boy lifting his head and meeting his gaze in that exact moment. A shy smile appeared on his face, affection in his eyes as he stared back at Jungkook.

There was no doubt in his mind.

As Jungkook glanced at Yoongi again, as he noticed the glistening of his eyes as he stared at their friends, he wondered if... Yoongi might have referred to someone else with his earlier statement.

“Did you ever tell him?” Jungkook suddenly asked, voice almost soft as he took a glimpse at the boy sitting next to him.

Yoongi furrowed his brows, meeting his gaze with confusion plastered on his face, “Did I ever tell whom what?” he wanted to know instead, wonder flashing in his eyes.

“Did you ever tell him what actually happened back then?” the younger one elaborated, yet not exactly decreasing Yoongi's confusion, his words not bringing him clarity.

“What are you talking about?” Yoongi wondered, leaning back in his seat.

Jungkook gave a nod, “So you haven't” he concluded, taking a sip from his cup.

“Jungkook-ah” Yoongi called out to gain his attention, “Be a bit more precise here” he insisted, pointing at Jungkook.

The black haired male fixated his gaze on him, eyes almost piercing through him as the words slipped from his lips, “Hoseok hyung”

Yoongi's face froze, the boy swallowing hard as he averted his gaze, running his index finger over the side of his cup. Evidently, he was tensing at the mention of one of their closest friends, attempting to uphold a demeanor of nonchalance.

“Don't be silly” Yoongi uttered, shaking his head at the absurd question.

Jungkook studied his features for a moment, uttering, “You should have”

“There's a lot of things we should have done- or shouldn't have” Yoongi stated, dipping his head down, “We were drunk” the blond haired boy reasoned quietly, shaking his head yet again. It was almost as if he was trying to make sure that Hoseok wouldn't be able to hear any of their conversation – which was silly, as the boy was several feet away, loud music playing in the room.

“So?” Jungkook questioned, raising up his eyebrow.

Finally, Yoongi met his gaze again, “We just fooled around. It didn't mean anything” he expressed, shrugging his shoulders, but there was something glistening his eyes that told Jungkook different, an emotion opposed to the one he was claiming to uphold.

“Then why do you keep staring at him like that - after all this time?” Jungkook wondered.

Obviously, it wasn't any of his business, yet... he cared. Yoongi was one of his closest friends and there was clearly something going on with him.

“I'm not staring. I'm just looking at my friends, is that prohibited now? Fuck” Yoongi defended himself, on edge now as he averted his gaze.
“Hey, I didn't mean to start shit, hyung. I'm sorry. I was just wondering” the taller boy apologised sincerely, tone softer, “You never spoke about your feelings with him then?”

“There was never- Jungkook-ah, stop” Yoongi demanded, tone defensive, but also annoyed.

Jungkook lifted his hands up, “Okay, calm down. I'm sorry” he uttered.

Silence settled between them, the music ringing loud in their ears, distracting them from the awkwardness that was in the air between them.

“He didn't remember anything, why would I've told him about it?” Yoongi then broke the silence, voice softer again.

The taller boy stared at him for a moment, studying his features, “Because maybe it had meant something to you?” Jungkook responded, pointing out the obvious here – yet maybe, it wasn't as obvious after all. Maybe, Yoongi was oblivious to what he was actually feeling, maybe he had suppressed it for so long that he couldn't be sure whether or not it truly existed anymore.

Yoongi shook his head, “Clearly, he didn't want to remember. It's a long time ago anyway”

“It's not that long ago” the black haired boy pointed out, shrugging his shoulders.

Yoongi stole a glance at Hoseok, forcing his gaze away almost immediately, “It doesn't matter anyway. He's with Tae-ssi now. They're happy and I'm happy for them. I got over it a long time ago”

“Did you?” Jungkook digged, cocking his head to the side.

“Fuck, Jeon, stop with this interrogation shit” Yoongi snapped.

“Okay, I'm sorry, hyung”

The blond haired boy took a one-shot of the remainder of his drink, bottoms up as the liquid flowed down his throat.

“I got over it” Yoongi claimed, grimacing at the burning the alcohol caused.

Jungkook set his cup down on the small table next to the sofa, eyebrows arched up as he turned his body towards the older one, “Does Taehyung know? Do any of the others know?”

A humourless laugh, Yoongi shaking his head at the absurdity of the question, “No, why would I have told anyone, if Hoseok-ah himself doesn't remember?”

“You told me” Jungkook reminded him, voice still steady and calm, in contrast to the slight frustration that was displayed in Yoongi's tone. It wasn't that Yoongi was mad at him, yet the whole conversation really twisted a knife in the wound that he had attempted to stitch up, having prayed that it would somehow heal on it's own – and it had, at least that's what Yoongi had always told himself.

“That's because you saw us. There was no point in hiding any of it” the shorter man reasoned, shrugging his shoulders.

Jungkook gave a nod, “Fair enough”

A loud scream interrupted their conversation, the noise of something falling down on the floor audible a moment later. They scanned the room for the source of the noise. As it turned out, it was a glass that had been dropped to the floor, the girl that had caused it to fall yelling out an apology.

“I told them not to use glasses when they are drunk” Yoongi sighed, but trailed his attention back over to Jungkook, “Thank you for not saying anything about it to him”

“You don't have to thank me. It wouldn't have been my place to tell him and it still isn't” Jungkook stated, smiling weakly to reassure his friend.

“I guess” Yoongi murmured, nodding in agreement.

“Will you ever tell him?” Jungkook wondered, watching Yoongi glance back at the brown haired boy who was dancing close his boyfriend, Taehyung giggling as Hoseok’s hands travelled down his body.

The older man gulped, tearing his gaze away, “I don't think so” he responded then, “Well, I guess I should go and check out what exactly had been dropped there – and make sure to clean that shit up so no one gets hurt”

Slight guilt washed over Jungkook as he watched his friend walk away, the boy feeling responsible for Yoongi's mood dropping by a good sixty or seventy percent, making an a hundred-and-eighty turn there. This hadn't been his intention at all. Jungkook's purpose was to figure out what was going on in Yoongi’s head, what was bothering him and whether or not he had found closure to the thing with Hoseok. Clearly, he hadn't, despite him not being capable or maybe refusing to admit that.

The black haired one decided to follow after him, wanting to make sure that his closest friend wasn't hurt.

---

“Have you seen Jungkook-ah?” Jimin asked, big eyes staring intently at Taehyung, slight sadness glistening in them at the absence of the black haired boy.

“I think I saw him go upstairs. Have you seen Hoseok hyung?” Tae wondered, tilting his head to the side as he scanned the room.

The pink haired one shook his head, “No, sorry. I'll go and look for Jungkook-ah”

“Okay”

Jimin made his way through the crowd, pulling his sleeves over his delicate hands as several people stumbled into him, Jimin wincing at the way they were utterly careless with their actions and behaviours, the alcohol causing them to completely forget simple manners or an awareness of their surroundings.

The smaller boy was tipsy as well - maybe had a few too many drinks to consider him being only tipsy – yet Jimin still behaved decent and had a sense of people being around him.

Sighing, Jimin walked up the stairs, head slightly dizzy as he stumbled along the hallway.

“Jungkook-ah?” he called out, knocking on one of the closed doors and opening it a brief moment after, just to reveal an empty room.

Disappointment bloomed in him as he shut the door close again, proceeding to go down the hallway in search for Jungkook.
“Kook-ah?” Jimin yelled out, frowning as he walked past another door, noticing that it was only partially shut, a rather bigger gap remaining, Jimin managing to look right through it into the room.

The pink haired male froze in his stance, mouth agape as he watched the scene in front of him.

Unfortunately, Jimin hadn't found Jungkook.

Well, but he had found Hoseok after all.

There he was – kissing another boy.

That boy being

_Yoongi._

Chapter End Notes

uh-oh... what's going on there? :o

I hope you enjoyed the chapter, it was a rather long one again :) Please don't kill me, though, for that last part :(

I hope your days are filled with happiness, stay healthy <3

See you in the next chapter :)

Love you <3
No Control

Chapter Summary

The aftermath of a heartwrenching event at the party leaves Jimin with repercussions that he doesn't quite fathom...
Days later, Jimin wants to try something new.

Chapter Notes

Hiii my lovely friends!

I'M SO SORRY! My stupid butt forgot to wish you a happy new year during the last chapter because I didn't realise that the next time I post, it will already be the new year :(
So now, I wish you a very belated happy new year! May your year be filled with happiness and only good things. I hope all of you can achieve what you desire to do!
Please stay healthy! <3

Also, I'M SO SORRY that it took me literal years to update this new chapter. I feel so bad :( I had quite a few things I wanted to happen in this chapter, but it took me longer to write them as I had planned out for. I guess I overestimated myself. I hope you can understand. <3

Thank you to the people who have been worrying about me, I'm fine, no need to worry :) I just wasn't able to finish the chapter as quickly as I had hoped for. <3

I hope you enjoy this chapter despite it being very late. <3
This is the longest chapter I've ever written, I hope it's not too long that it's an inconvenient length. ^^

See the end of the chapter for more notes.

Jimin gasped, taking a step back, legs suddenly buckling and knees eventually giving in. The smaller boy was barely capable to keep his balance by holding onto the wall, steadying himself on his shaky legs.

It couldn't be true. Jimin didn't want it to be true.

For some reason, he couldn't avert his gaze, eyes fixated on the way their lips were moving against one another. However, his heart was screaming at him – to run, to run and not look back, to run and pretend this had never happened.

It was the alcohol, Jimin decided, trying to convince himself – trying to make himself believe whole heartedly that this was only a hallucination the alcohol in his delicate body was creating.

This night couldn't turn any worse than this.
“No” he breathed, shaking his head in disbelief as he stumbled further away.

Jimin squeezed his eyes shut, attempting to banish the picture from his mind, yet it was as if the sight was engraved into his eyes, permanently there for him to stare at.

It was horrible.

The pink haired boy's heart clenched, stomach twisting as he stumbled along the hallway, trying to get as far away as possible.

Don't run away! Face them!

“I'm dreaming. It's not real” Jimin muttered to himself, chest burning at the thought of this being entirely real, at the thought of Taehyung finding out.

_Taehyung._

Just weeks ago, Tae had mentioned the possibility of being deeply in love with Hoseok, having proved how much the brown haired boy truly meant to him.

That exact boy was currently making out with someone else – not anyone, but one of their closest friends.

It would break Taehyung's heart. Entirely.

It would shatter into pieces, broken by the boy he truly liked or even loved being with someone else.

“No, they wouldn't” Jimin whispered, shaking his head again, desperately trying to convince himself.

Hoseok had a kind soul, just as much as Yoongi had. They would never hurt Taehyung like this... *Never._

Frankly, Jimin loved all of them dearly, has known Yoongi and Taehyung for years now, has known Hoseok long enough to consider him one of the closest people in his life. They wouldn't hurt each other like this... no... no, they wouldn't.

Yet, they had.

“It wasn't them” Jimin murmured, stomach stirring again.

The smaller boy's heart was pounding firmly against his chest, begging to jump out of his ribcage to end the turmoil of emotions his chest was enduring.

Yes, Jimin knew them long enough to know their hearts, their characteristics and traits, knew them long enough to trust them – but that also meant that he knew them long enough to recognise them anywhere, even in the darkest room, even in the biggest crowds.

Jimin saved images of the people he loved in his heart, deeply within to never lose them.

There was no doubt in his mind that these two boys had indeed been Hoseok and Yoongi. It didn't help that Jimin attempted to desperately make himself consider the possibility of being wrong. It was useless. Yet, he still tried, begging his heart to believe – all the more did it hurt to be aware that the truth looked different.

Go back. Go back and check! Face them! Don't run away! His heart demanded, screaming at him to assure himself of what his brain already knew it saw.
However, Jimin simply couldn't.

“No” he breathed, tears prickling in the corners of his eyes as he shook his head.

The pink haired boy wouldn't bear to see them again, wouldn't bear the knowledge of his heart finally realising that his brain wasn't lying.

Maybe, that just made him a coward.

Clumsily, he approached the staircase, stumbling along the hallway in his attempt to run away. Hastily, he rushed down the stairs, taking two steps at once, barely missing one each time and merely preventing an accident.

As Jimin finally reached the ground floor, he felt helpless, people around him like a wall, dancing to the music and chatting among each other, not taking notice of his heart that was breaking for his best friend.

Shaking his head, Jimin squeezed his eyes shut, trying to push past the crowd, yet walking right into someone. That exact person grabbed his hips, stilling him.

“Minnie!” Tae called out in joy, chuckling as he brushed Jimin's hair out of his face, “There you are. Were you upstairs? Have you found Jungkook-ah? I can't seem to find Hoseok-ah anywhere either. Is he upstairs?” he screamed over the music.

Jimin blinked, bottom lip wobbling.

“Min-ah, hey, what's wrong?” Tae worried, concern immediately replacing the bliss in his eyes as he cupped his best friend's face, “Are you not feeling good?”

The inevitable happened - Jimin hunching to the side, stomach twisting again as he threw up. It was a natural reaction of his body after the events of tonight. Alcohol, stress and anxiety a toxic combination.

The acid taste in his mouth caused him to grimace, the poor boy whining as tears rolled down his cheeks.

“What the fuck! Did you just fucking puke over my shoes!” a boy yelled at him, disgusted by the vomit that had dropped on his shoe.

“Calm down, prick” Tae shushed him, a warm hand placed on Jimin's back to soothe him, “Min-ah, hey, what is-”

Too weak to hold himself up, Jimin dropped down to his knees, barely missing his own puddle of vomit. A shriek was audible next to him, Taehyung gasping as he watched Jimin fall down.

The guy next to them was visibly annoyed, cursing at them as he lifted his hand as though he was about to hit Jimin.

Whimpering in pain, Jimin pressed his palm against his stomach, breathing heavily as spit drooled out of his mouth, trailing down into the puddle.

Frankly, Jimin couldn't explain what was happening to his body. It was almost as if everything was simply too much for his heart, causing his body to shut down.

Suddenly, the world around him was spinning, head dizzy as he attempted to get up again.
“Jimin-ah!” a male voice screamed out, the voice somehow muffled, Jimin scanning his surroundings to find the source of the sound. Yet, his vision was blurry, Jimin faintly making out Jungkook's figure that was rushing towards him, “What the fuck have you done to him?” Jungkook shouted angrily, pushing the guy next to him, causing him to tumble back into the wall, his drink spilling in the process.

“Jungkook-ah, he didn't do anything!” Taehyung yelled, pulling the black haired boy back, “Jimin-ah just started vomiting. I don't know what's wrong with him, he must be sick”

Swiftly, Jungkook rushed to his side, dropping to his knees next to Jimin, a soft hand caressing his cheek.

“Little one, hey-” he whispered.

Then, everything was black.

---

There was softness beneath Jimin, no longer a hard floor, his body feeling warm instead of the previous coldness he had suffered. The pink haired boy was entangled into comfy blankets that were wrapped around his delicate body, engulfing him in warmth.

“No, he hasn't woken up yet, hyung. Yeah, I'll call you as soon as he does. Don't worry. Good night, hyung” Jungkook's familiar deep voice spoke, his tone somehow softer and quieter.

Jimin's eyes fluttered open, a whimper slipping from his lips at the sudden pain that spread through his body, the emotion having somehow not been present prior. Carefully, he lifted his petite fist up to his face, rubbing it over his tired eyes.

In the meanwhile, Jungkook was pacing around the room, his footsteps audible on the wooden floor, yet muffled whenever he walked along the soft rug.

Gently, Jimin sat up, moaning in pain at the aching of his body, head spinning in his attempt to sit up, causing him to swiftly lie down again.

“You're up” Jungkook noted, a breath of relief leaving him as he rushed towards the smaller boy, taking a seat on the bed next to him, “Hey, little one” he whispered, taking Jimin's tiny hand into his own, rubbing his thumb along the soft skin on the back of his hand soothingly.

“W-What happened? Where am I?” Jimin wondered, voice quiet and raspy as he stared into Jungkook's doe eyes, searching for answers that weren't there. Yet, there was concern and something Jimin wanted to define as affection.

The taller boy reached up, caressing his soft cheek with the pad of his thumb, “We're at my place” he answered, pulling the blanket higher up Jimin's body, tucking him in.

“How did I get here? What exactly happened?”

To be honest, Jimin couldn't recall anything that had occurred at the party after he had danced with Hoseok and Taehyung. somehow, the remainder of the night was blurry, odd pictures flashing in front of his eyes, some making his heart clench for a reason he didn't understand.

Jungkook sighed, shaking his head. There was an emotion glistening in his eyes upon that question, almost as though he was recalling a frightening event, “I'm not too sure, but I assume you must have passed out. I drove us here and carried you upstairs”
“T-Thank you” Jimin uttered, heart fluttering as he observed Jungkook pressing a kiss to the knuckles of the hand he was holding, “Why... why did I faint, though?”

“I'm not sure, but I guess because of dehydration. You didn't drink anything else besides alcohol earlier, did you, little one?” Jungkook responded, brushing Jimin's pink strands of hair out of his sweaty forehead, “Hyung’s drinks weren't such a good idea for your delicate body that isn't quite used to that high amount of alcohol. Combine that with you dancing the whole night, the stress from those dudes that harassed you and Taehyung-ssi and the lack of water your body received, and that's what happens”

Evidently, neither of them were anything close to major knowledgable in the field of medicine, yet the explanation did sound plausible to Jimin. After all, his body surely wasn't used to that much alcohol and there had been quite a few incidents that night that had stressed him out... one, that he couldn't quite recall, but that made his heart clench all the same.

Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth, dipping his head down, “I'm sorry”

The black haired boy shook his head, grabbing Jimin's chin to guide his face back up, locking eyes with him, “Nothing to be sorry for. But, fuck, you scared the absolute shit out of me. I was about to drive you to a hospital, but you were still moving and mumbling before you fell asleep in my car, just not answering to anyone who talked to you. Hyung advised me to take you home and give you loads of water and a warm bed, no loud noises so that's exactly what I did”

It was so odd and scary to Jimin how he couldn't remember any of these events. Several hours of his life just gone, forever vanished from his mind, no memory left at all. Yet, maybe he would be able to get them back, recall what had actually happened.

“Where was I when you found me? For some reason, I can't really remember what happened at the end of the party” Jimin wanted to know, pulling his brows together in a frown, attempting to reminisce about what had occurred at the party, but failing miserably.

Jungkook straightened his posture, still playing with Jimin's fingers, “I found you next to Taehyung-ssi, by the stairs. I thought a guy nearby had hurt you so I was about to fight him, but Taehyung-ssi told me that he didn't do anything, but that you just suddenly started to feel sick. I was calling your name, but you didn't respond at all. At that point I already knew that something was wrong. You were just lying on the floor and my heart literally dropped. You scared the shit out of me, baby” Jungkook added, shaking his head as he recalled the event, “As soon as I was holding you, Yoongi hyung and Hoseok hyung appeared at our side. They were scared just as much until you started mumbling again which calmed us a little bit. They told me to take you home” the taller boy elaborated, “They were all so scared. They made me promise to text them as soon as you wake up”

“Oh” Jimin breathed, his heart clenching at the mention of Yoongi and Hoseok, yet his brain not entirely certain what exactly was causing such a reaction within him.

What had happened? What incident was evoking this pain in his heart?

“Jimin-ah, hey, are you okay? You look alarmed” Jungkook's voice interrupted him, concern in his tone as he placed his soft hand against Jimin's cheek.

“I... Yeah... just-just tired” Jimin replied, forcing a half smile as he met Jungkook's gaze, attempting to uphold a non-concerning demeanor.

“Jimin-ah, your eyes look empty. You're worrying me, angel” Jungkook voiced, sliding his hand through Jimin's hair before he placed it back against his cheek.
The smaller boy caught his bottom lip between his teeth, averting his gaze, “I'm sorry. It's just... Did something happen at the party? I mean, to Hoseok or Yoongi hyung?” he asked eventually.

Jungkook frowned at his question, reaching for his chin to guide his face back up, “What are you referring to?”

“Nothing specifically” Jimin responded, sighing as he fidgeted with his fingers, “I just... I feel like something happened to them” he murmured, voice softer with each of his syllables, his gaze flickering back and forth between Jungkook's eyes.

The latter cocked his head to the side, “Not that I know of” he replied, shrugging his shoulders, “The last time I saw them, the boys were all with us and worried about you. Then, they sent me off to go home with you. They all looked fine, though, apart from the concern they all felt for you”

Relief bloomed within Jimin at Jungkook's words, the pink haired male giving a nod as a faint smile adorned his delicate features.

“Are you okay?” Jungkook wondered, stroking Jimin's cheek.

“I was just worried, sorry, it's just... I guess I'm just really tired” Jimin murmured, smiling warmly as he grasped Jungkook's bigger hand and intertwined their fingers, their palms aligning. As Jimin observed the spot they were connected at, he noticed a faint injury on the back of his hand, “Your hand” he worried, gently running his thumb along his knuckles.

Jungkook followed his gaze, “What about it?”

“It's bruised” Jimin noted, almost as if Jungkook wasn't aware of that fact in the first place, but he was, of course, Jimin's eyes were blown wide as he felt his heart clench at the sight.

The black haired boy smiled warmly, “It's fine. It will be gone soon”

It must be a result of Jungkook punching the guy that had harassed Taehyung and him at the party earlier. Essentially... it was yet another bruise he had received simply for protecting Jimin.

Jimin leaned up to place a kiss to his cheek, ignoring the way his body was aching at the movement, “Thank you for always protecting me” he whispered against his skin, pressing his forehead against Jungkook's.

“I promised to keep you safe” Jungkook declared, “I won't ever let anything happen to you. As long as you want me, I'm going to protect you”

Providing Jimin with safety was something Jungkook had promised, was something he would strive for until it would kill him. That was something he had established fairly early in knowing Jimin. Something about him just evoke that in Jungkook.

He loved him too much to let anything happen to him.

“My head is killing me” Jimin whined, choosing to ignore the nagging of a voice in his head that proceeded to remind him of something unsettling having occurred at that party.

Perhaps, Jimin had only seen Hoseok and Yoongi argue about something? In all honesty, they all argued from time to time – it wasn't anything too out of the ordinary and completely natural. Of course, Jimin wanted them to always get along and be happy, yet a small argument wasn't that heartwrenching. Surely, they would make up quickly. Potentially, they already had.
Jimin's sensitive heart was just exaggerating that incident, causing it to clench in pain.

The black haired boy pointed to the bedside table, “I made you some soup, brought you some bread, pain killers and more water. Your stomach must be empty now that you've puked all over hyung’s floor” Jungkook revealed.

Jimin's eyes went wide at the information, “I did?” he uttered, simultaneously recalling that exact incident. Evidently, his stomach must have felt upset for a reason – clearly the alcohol simply being too much for him, “I'm so sorry. I hope hyung isn't mad at me”

Jungkook smiled soothingly, shaking his head to reassure him, “No, don't worry. He didn't care about that at all, just wanted to make sure that you were okay”

The pink haired boy smiled faintly, giving a weak nod.

Jimin took a mental note to call Yoongi as soon as he woke up in the morning in order to apologise for making a mess without cleaning it up. Obviously, Jimin hadn't even received the chance to clean up in the first place as he had fainted, yet he still felt bad for creating that mess to begin with. Despite it being unintentional, Jimin figured that he should apologise.

“You should drink more, Jimin-ah. Here” Jungkook insisted, reaching for a water bottle and opening it up for Jimin before he handed it to the shorter male.

Jimin wrapped his hand around the bottle, “Thank you” he murmured before he lifted the water up to his lips and took several long sips, the cold liquid flowing down his throat.

“There you go” Jungkook uttered, observing Jimin empty half of the bottle, “Soup?” he then offered once Jimin had given him the bottle back in order for him to set it back on the bedside table.

Frantically, Jimin shook his head at the mention of food, “No, I don't feel like eating”

The thought alone made his stomach stir, a meal right now surely only causing him to throw up yet again.

Jungkook smiled sympathetically, caressing Jimin's cheek, “Aww, angel, is your hangover kicking in?”

“It might” Jimin mumbled, shrugging his shoulders as he pouted, “Everything is hurting” he whined, pulling his sleeves over his delicate hands.

The taller one chuckled, tugging the blanket to the side in order to join Jimin beneath it, “Come here, little one, let me make it better” he muttered, closing his arm around Jimin's stomach and pulling the boy to his chest.

“How?” Jimin wondered, heart fluttering at the close proximity, the sweet gesture evoking a shy smile in him.

“Kisses and cuddles always cheer you up, hm?” Jungkook whispered against his ear, pressing his soft lips against Jimin's nape, placing several kisses against the sensitive skin, causing a shiver to run down Jimin's back as the corner of his lips curled up into a deeper smile.

“You want to kiss me even after watching me... me puke?” Jimin asked, voice soft and unsure as he looked back over his shoulder.

Thinking about it, it was quite humiliating for Jimin to imagine the scenery that Jungkook had found him in – spread out on the floor, next to a puddle of his own vomit, drool running down his chin. In all honesty, that surely wasn't the most beautiful sight. It was quite disturbing, to be exact.

“Jimin-ah, I always want to kiss you. Puking is a natural reaction of your body. Shit like that happens, especially when you drink” Jungkook reassured him, grabbing his chin to tilt his head back while simultaneously leaning in to capture his lips in a swift, gentle peck.

“You're.. you're sweet” Jimin stated, cheeks tinged a faint shade of rose as he stared into Jungkook's doe eyes. The latter smiled at him, sinking back onto the bed, Jimin mirroring his motion and resting his cheek down on the pillow.

“But I am a bit concerned” Jungkook then revealed, pulling Jimin closer to himself, “I hope you won't be sick and this is really only caused by the alcohol. I'll definitely make sure you're feeling better before I'll leave your side for work tomorrow”

Jimin shook his head, “Don't worry about me. I'm sure I'll feel better after sleeping”

Jungkook hummed low, the sound vibrating in his chest, “Mhm, I hope you do” he murmured against Jimin's nape, “In case you feel like you have to puke again, let me know. I've moved the bin over here, right next to the bed”

“Thank you” Jimin whispered, nuzzling back against Jungkook.

“Mhm-mh”

As Jimin was lying there almost peacefully, he was able to smell himself. There was still the faint scent of vomit and alcohol clinging to him, sweat on his body due to him feeling extremely sick earlier. Why was Jungkook voluntarily choosing to cuddle with him? Why was he allowing Jimin to be in his bed?

“I feel... I feel really dirty” Jimin whispered, dipping his head down as he observed Jungkook soothingly rub his warm palm along Jimin's stomach beneath his shirt, “I smell. And I'm all sweaty and just... why are you even cuddling me?”

Jungkook chuckled, nudging his nose against Jimin's nape, “Because I love you”

Jimin's heart fluttered, cheeks flushing a shade of rose, “Even like this?” he wondered softly, voice quiet.

“Like this and every other way. I love you as you are, Jimin-ah” Jungkook assured him, reaching for his hand to intertwine their fingers, “Yet, if you want to, we could take a bath together, hm? Would you like that? I wanted to make sure you're feeling better first before I changed your clothes or bathed you”

To be quite honest, Jimin didn't want to move an inch right now. The poor boy's body was aching with each movement of his, the only solution being to lie entirely still to prevent him from suffering any kind of further pain. However, a shower was required in order for him to feel better – to make this state a little more bearable.

The pink haired boy gave a nod, “Yes, please”

“Come on then” Jungkook insisted, getting up from the bed and placing one hand below Jimin's knees while closing his other arm around his back. With little effort, he picked Jimin up, lifting him from the bed and up against his chest.
Jimin gasped at the sudden movement, pouting at the aching of his body. Swiftly, he hid his face in Jungkook's chest, whining.

"Sssh, I got you, angel" Jungkook whispered, distancing himself from the bed and moving over into the bathroom. On his way, Jimin stole a glance at the bed, making out a stain of drool and something he prayed not to be vomit on the pillow.

Jimin squeezed his eyes shut in embarrassment, “Your... your bed. I'm sorry, I ruined it. It's dirty with my-”

“Don't worry about it” Jungkook interrupted him, carrying the boy in his arms into the bathroom, “I'll change the sheets before we get in again”

Jimin felt disgusting.

All of it should be humiliating – and usually it would be to Jimin - yet Jungkook was so... so sweet about all of this and he comforted him in the most kind way. There was no reason for Jimin to feel anything else but loved, cared for and comfortable as long as Jungkook was with him.

The smaller boy caught his bottom lip between his teeth, hiding his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck before he was set down on the counter, Jungkook's hand slipping from his body as he moved over to the bathtub.

As soon as the water was running, Jungkook adjusted the temperature, Jimin scanning the sink to find the toothbrush that he had left at Jungkook's place, having figured that he would need it frequently as he did spend a lot of nights at his place. In fact, it had been Jungkook's idea. It didn't end there, he had an extra pair of clothes here, his shower gel and shampoo – just in case he ever decided to spontaneously spend the night here.

Well, it did definitely come in handy today.

Carefully, Jimin reached for his toothbrush, opening the tube of toothpaste and squeezing a small amount of it onto the brush before he held it below the water from the sink. Once satisfied with the amount of water on his brush, he lifted it up to his mouth and pushed it between his lips.

“Do you want loads of bubbles, Jimin-ah?” Jungkook wondered, pulling his shirt over his head and removing it from his body as he moved over to the bathtub.

Brushing his teeth, Jimin stilled the movement of his hand upon the sight of Jungkook's bare upper body. Almost choking on his own spit, Jimin coughed, giving a nod.

In response, Jungkook chuckled, turning back around to fill the bath with bubbles. In the meanwhile, Jimin was blushing at the way he had reacted to the sight of Jungkook, the latter still having that kind of effect on him – every single day.

As Jimin proceeded to brush his teeth, Jungkook opened his belt, zipping down his trousers before removing them from his legs. For his own good, Jimin tore his gaze away, focusing on cleaning his teeth thoroughly.

“Okay?” Jungkook wanted to know, voice soft as he slightly lifted the hem of Jimin's shirt, waiting for Jimin's permission.

Each time this happened, Jimin's heart fluttered. There was something so soothing about the fact of Jungkook always making sure Jimin was comfortable with whatever they did – even something as simple as removing his clothes for a bath. Of course, after all this time they've known each other, it wasn't as necessary anymore because Jimin would let him do anything, yet it was still... sweet and comforting. After all, there might come a day where Jimin didn't want Jungkook to touch him at all – although the idea alone seemed silly to Jimin, it was nice to know that Jungkook wouldn't do anything Jimin didn't want him to, that he wouldn't cross any of his boundaries.

“Mhm-mh” Jimin hummed in approval around the tooth brush, nodding as he halted his movement and lifted his arms up in order to make the removal of his shirt easier for Jungkook who tugged it up over his head and dropped it down on the counter next to them.

“Hips up, baby” Jungkook insisted, having zipped down Jimin's pants.

The smaller boy obliged, lifting his hips up so Jungkook could pull the piece of clothing down his legs, allowing it to drop down to the floor. Now, the two of them were only dressed in their underwear, Jimin still brushing his teeth, but deciding that he had done it for a justified amount of time now.

Gently, Jungkook placed his hands on Jimin's milky thighs, rubbing his palms along the soft skin as Jimin rinsed out his mouth with water, spitting the water out before he set the toothbrush back in the small holder next to Jungkook's.

“Feeling a little better already?” the younger male wondered, soothingly rubbing the pad of his thumb along Jimin's skin.

“Mhm-mh, the awful taste in my mouth is gone now” Jimin affirmed, nodding as he observed Jungkook remove his underwear from his body, standing completely nude in front of him now.

Then, Jungkook wrapped his hands around Jimin's waist before he trailed his digits along the waistband of his underwear, hooking one finger around it, “Hips up again, little one” Jimin complied without an ounce of hesitation, allowing Jungkook to remove yet the last piece of clothing from his body, watching it drop to the floor next to his pants.

Tenderly, Jungkook lifted him up into the air again, “Let's get you into your nice bath then” he decided, Jimin immediately clinging on to him as he wrapped himself around Jungkook's upper body, holding him dearly.

Once they were both seated in the bathtub, Jungkook shifted in his position, adjusting himself behind Jimin while the latter exhaled a breath of content, the warmth of the water engulfing him, bubbles hiding their naked bodies in the water.

“Good?” Jungkook whispered as he wrapped his arms around Jimin's stomach, pulling the boy closer to his chest.

“Good” Jimin confirmed, giving a determined nod before he leaned his head back, resting it on Jungkook's shoulder. The black haired boy titled his head to the side, pressing his lips against Jimin's temple.

Slowly, Jimin allowed his eyes to flutter shut, all of this so very comforting, distracting him from the aching of his body, causing him to feel calm and sleepy.

“It's okay to fall asleep like this. I'll carry you back into the bed later, little one” Jungkook murmured against him, caressing Jimin's stomach and arms alternately by tracing the soft skin with his fingertips.

Jimin's sleepiness was notable to him, especially after an eventful day like this one.
“I won't fall asleep, I promise. Wanna cuddle with you” Jimin mumbled, shaking his head frantically. Despite sleep sounding like absolute bliss to him, cuddling with Jungkook was heaven and simply so much better.

The taller male chuckled, the sound vibrating in his chest, resulting in Jimin's heart to flutter at the noise, “Okay, baby” he uttered, hugging the boy closer to his body.

Peaceful silence settled between them, Jungkook proceeding to caress his skin or playing with his delicate fingers, loving how their palms aligned as though they were puzzle pieces, as though they were meant to be.

To Jimin, it was inevitable to let his thoughts run wild in a silent setting as this one. Although he didn't want them to, the voices inside of his head were amplified due to the absence of noise around him - Those voices nagging at him for something having happened to or between two of his closest friends.

“Kook-ah?” Jimin eventually broke the silence, the younger male having began to wash Jimin's hair with the shampoo, his fingers tenderly massaging it into his hair, his digits gently moving along his scalp.

“Mhm-mh” Jungkook hummed.

Jimin played with his own fingers, sighing, “Can I ask you something?” he wondered, voice soft and unsure, the boy not entirely certain where he was going with this one.

“Of course, Jimin-ah” Jungkook answered without hesitation.

“You're sure that nothing happened to Hosek hyung or Yoongi hyung, right? I don't know why, but my heart hurts at the thought of them. Do you think they might have argued at the party?” Jimin stated.

Jungkook pursed his lips in thought, “I can't tell. You might have seen something I didn't. But they seemed fine to me, when I saw them. Of course, they were worried about you, but I'm pretty sure that there was nothing going on between them as they looked close to me. And if there had been an argument between them, they must have resolved it. I think I even saw them walk off with Taehyung-ssi. So, even if they had, it surely wasn't anything bad” he responded, reaching for the shower head, “Lean your head back for me, baby” he insisted softly.

Immediataly, Jimin obliged, leaning his head back into his neck in order for Jungkook to rinse out his hair, the remainder of the shampoo trailing down his head and into the water.

Jimin's heart calmed at those words, relief washing over him as a soft smile adorned his features.

“Okay” he breathed, nodding, “That sounds good. Maybe, my heart is just exaggerating over something I saw”

Jungkook placed the shower head back into its designated spot, “Do you want me to call them and check whether everything is okay?” he then wanted to know, brushing Jimin's wet hair out of his face.

The black haired boy reached for his chin, titling his head to the side in order to make eye contact with Jimin, their position slightly restricting them.

Jimin smiled faintly, shaking his head. The offer itself was kind, yet also not exactly necessary. As long as Jungkook promised him that he had seen them together before he left Yoongi's place, it assured Jimin that they weren't in urgent danger, that there was nothing hurting them. A simple argument could always be resolved.

“No” Jimin declined, voice soft, “No, I don't want to annoy them tonight. Besides, they might already be asleep. I'll just text them in the morning to check on them”

“Okay, baby” Jungkook hummed, rubbing his palms along Jimin's arms.

The taller boy attached his lips to Jimin's nape before he rested his chin on Jimin's shoulder, the latter nuzzling against his cheek, heart fluttering.

For some reason, having this little exchange about his concerns with Jungkook had decreased his own turmoil of emotions. Now he knew that his heart had reacted like that for no reason at all.

The thought alone broke his heart – the thought of something hurting Yoongi and Hoseok.
Fortunately, nothing like that had occurred, Jimin being entirely grateful.

“Stop pouting, little one” Jungkook whispered into his ear, nudging his nose against Jimin's cheek, the latter not having noticed himself doing that, “Or do I have to tickle you again, hm?”

As soon as those words left his mouth, his hands closed around Jimin's waist, digits trailing up to Jimin's sides to tickle the pink haired boy. In response, Jimin giggled, squirming in his seat as he attempted to detach himself from Jungkook's grasp.

“I-I'm not pouting any-anymore” Jimin promised inbetween laughter, the younger male having no mercy and proceeding to tickle him.

Carefully, Jimin picked up some bubbles into his palm and turned around to Jungkook, planning a secretive attack back. Gaining a wave of courage, Jimin blew the bubbles into Jungkook's face.

The taller boy jerked back, palms withdrawing from Jimin's body, a shocked expression plastered on his face as he wiped the back of his hand over his face.

Jimin could only chuckle at the reaction, hiding his giggles behind his petite hand that he clasped over his mouth. However, his giggles died down as soon as Jungkook glared at him, an apologetic expression adorning his delicate features as he made himself smaller.

“You didn't” Jungkook muttered, clicking his tongue, yet there was amusement glistening in his eyes as he moved closer, Jimin somehow only able to giggle.

Slowly, Jimin scooted further away from him, “You didn't want to stop, what was I suppo- Ah!” the smaller boy laughed, Jungkook having wrapped his strong arms around Jimin to pull him back against his chest, proceeding to tickle him – however, now there was no way for Jimin to escape.

“No, please, I'm sorry, I surrender!” Jimin giggled, squirming around in Jungkook's embrace, kicking his legs as he sank further down, essentially lying in Jungkook's arms now, staring up at him. Due to him laughing whole heartedly at the way he was being tickled, his eyes had turned into little crescents, the noise of his giggles sounding like a sweet melody to Jungkook.

Just like that, Jungkook stilled his movement, only staring at Jimin's endearing face and studying his delicate features. Unconsciously, the corners of Jungkook's lips curled up into a soft smile, his eyes glistening with affection.

Jimin's giggles died down, the boy smiling shyly as he stared up at Jungkook with big eyes, looking back and forth between Jungkook's orbs to find the reason for his sudden act of mercy.
Yet, Jungkook was only looking intently at him, his gaze fixated on Jimin as though he held the stars themselves in his eyes – and maybe, to Jungkook, that was entirely the case.

“What? Do I have something on my face?” Jimin whispered, lifting his hand up to rub it over his cheek.

Jungkook smiled faintly, silently shaking his head as he leaned in, capturing Jimin's lips in a gentle kiss. The smaller boy's heart fluttered, Jimin smiling as he kissed back, his hand finding its way to the back of Jungkook's neck.

“I love you” Jungkook whispered against his lips, withdrawing and pressing his forehead against Jimin's.

Jimin nudged his nose against Jungkook's, smiling shyly as he sat up again, allowing Jungkook to wrap his arms around his stomach, pulling him close to his chest and resting his head on Jimin's shoulder.

Their eyes fluttered shut, Jimin feeling as though he could stay in this moment forever – simply here, being with Jungkook, doing nothing, but being in each other's company. It wasn't much, yet somehow, it was everything.

Jungkook gently traced his fingertips along the fair skin of Jimin's stomach, digits trailing up and down, along the soft skin of his collarbones and back down to the faint display of his abs. It was pure, as pure as it could be.

With each of his tender touches on Jimin's sensitive skin, a soft breath slipped from Jimin's lips, goosebumps forming beneath Jungkook's fingers.

They didn't know how long they remained in each other's embrace that way, but they didn't need to know either, wouldn't trade this moment right here for anything.

Whenever Jungkook's palm reached Jimin's inner thigh, the smaller boy's legs twitched visibly, a gasp escaping him as he eventually titled his head to the side, hiding his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck.

The black haired boy smiled against his nape, Jimin's lips parting with another gasp as he clenched his hands into tiny fists before he decided to grab onto Jungkook's thighs.

Despite this moment being soft, the faint caress on his sensitive skin – especially on his inner thighs – was almost teasing to Jimin, the mere touch of Jungkook's fingertips tracing along his skin arousing him. Certainly, Jimin didn't know why something as pure as this was making him feel somewhat desperate for more, yet it was.

To underline that statement, Jimin's penis twitched between his legs, his hips involuntarily bucking up as he sank further back into Jungkook. It was as though he was silently begging for something he didn't know. Jimin's cheeks flushed a faint shade of rose at the unintentional effect the taller one had on him – Jimin being responsive without any way to contain it.

Obviously, Jimin's reaction was notable to Jungkook, the latter pressing his lips to Jimin's shoulder before he rested his head on top of it, “Okay?” Jungkook then whispered, smiling warmly as his hand moved closer to Jimin's penis.

“Mhm-mh, p-please” Jimin affirmed, catching his bottom lip between his teeth, blush deepening.

Carefully, Jungkook wrapped his palm around Jimin's penis, giving it a tender squeeze. In response, Jimin gasped, involuntarily spreading his legs further apart. A chuckle fell from Jungkook's lips as he nudged Jimin's cheek with his nose, his free hand wrapping around Jimin's stomach to hold his lover close.

Jimin whined softly, eyes falling shut as he allowed his head to fall back on Jungkook's shoulder. Slowly, Jungkook picked up a steady pace, moving his hand lazily along Jimin's hardened length.

“K-Kook-ah” Jimin whimpered, Jungkook peppering kisses all over his skin.

The black haired boy was pumping his hand along Jimin's throbbing member in a slow pace, gently running his thumb along the slit whenever he reached the tip, his other hand roaming over Jimin's upper body, warm palm caressing the skin, digits brushing over his sensitive nipples every now and then.

Simultaneously, Jimin was digging his fingers into Jungkook's thighs, grabbing the flesh while he occasionally squirmed around in his seat, body shaking at the stimulation he was receiving.

“K-Kook-ah” he breathed out, eyes fluttering shut as he leaned his head back into Jungkook's shoulder, plump lips parted, the softest little breathy moans leaving him.

Jungkook smiled against his nape, pressing his lips to the sensitive skin as he whispered sweet nothings into Jimin's ear.

It only took mere minutes for Jimin to reach the edge, one last stroke from Jungkook and the words “My good boy” uttered softly into his ear pushing him to his release.

“Ah, ah” Jimin moaned high-pitched and breathy, eyes rolling back into his head as he squirmed around in his seat, kicking his legs as he came.

Jungkook held him through it, the smaller boy's body trembling in his embrace as Jungkook tugged on his length several more times to prolong the sweet feeling of Jimin's orgasm.

“N-No more” Jimin whined quietly, shaky hand reaching down to wrap around Jungkook's wrist, stilling his movement as he hid his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck.

“Ssh, it's okay, Jimin-ah” the black haired boy whispered, attaching their lips in a gentle kiss. Jimin was panting against him, chest rising and falling quickly at his rapid breathing, caused by the intense stimulation.

The pink haired boy's body was still shaking at the overwhelming jolts of pleasure that were spreading through his body, fingers still digging into Jungkook's upper thighs as the latter peppered kisses over his skin.

“Thank you, Kook-ah”

Jungkook hummed low in his throat, proceeding to caress Jimin with his soft lips.

Slowly, sleepiness washed over Jimin, blooming alongside the ecstasy of his orgasm and accompanying the sweet haze he had been pulled into.

After enabling Jimin a moment to calm down, Jungkook shifted in his position behind him, “Come on, let's get you out of here”

The pink haired male whined at the mention of having to move his body, his heart disliking the idea of leaving the warmth and close proximity of Jungkook for even a second.
“Jimin-ah, baby, hey” Jungkook chuckled, getting up despite Jimin having made himself heavier and having pushed his body further against Jungkook in order to prevent him from leaving, “Let's move you over into the bed, hm?”

Jimin hummed in dissatisfaction, pouting as he watched Jungkook step out of the bathtub, the man approaching the counter to pick up a big towel and returning at Jimin's side a mere moment later.

“Up, little one” Jungkook ordered softly, reaching down and lifting Jimin up to his feet. Then, he wrapped the towel around Jimin's body, drying him faintly before he picked him up entirely into the air and out of the bathtub.

Swiftly, Jimin clung onto him, wrapping himself around Jungkook's body and hugging him dearly. The act evoke a chuckle in Jungkook as he walked over to the counter, setting Jimin down on it.

"Thank you” Jimin uttered, closing the towel tighter around his delicate body, yet not exactly drying the wetness from it, but rather choosing to simply stare at Jungkook as though he was the moon himself. However, even that wasn't the easiest task, his eyes falling shut every now and then as he wasn't able to fight the sleepiness as a whole after all.

Jungkook snickered and shook his head, placing a peck on Jimin's forehead. Then, Jungkook reached for the sides of Jimin's towel, drying the boy's body as Jimin didn't seem to do it himself. In response, Jimin giggled, the sweet sound evoking a soft smile in Jungkook, the corners of his lips curling up.

Once satisfied, Jungkook picked up another towel, briefly drying himself before he wrapped it around his waist. It gave Jimin an opportunity to have a proper glance at him, the smaller boy appreciating the view of his faintly wet body.

It was only then that Jimin noticed the very visible bulge of his crotch through the towel, somehow not having paid attention to that fact prior. Guilt blossomed within him as he parted his lips, hand reaching out while Jungkook stepped to the side in order to open the drawer of the dresser.

“Jungkook-ah” Jimin murmured to gain Jungkook's attention, voice soft as he observed Jungkook picking out two fresh pairs of underwear, the boy lifting his head to glance at Jimin, his eyebrows arched up in curiosity.

“What's wrong, baby?” the younger male wanted to know, moving closer to Jimin again and settling himself inbetween his legs, the underwear slipping from his grasp and falling to the counter for him to be able to rest his palms on Jimin's thighs, his thumb rubbing along the skin in a soothing way.

Rather than voicing his concern, Jimin chose to let actions speak, sliding closer to the edge of the counter and eventually dropping down to his knees in front of Jungkook, his crotch right in front of Jimin's face.

“You didn’t” Jimin whispered, hands reaching up to grab the towel that was the only fabric that was preventing Jimin from touching his penis. Gently, Jimin hooked his digits around the towel to give it a swift tug so-

“Don’t” Jungkook stopped him with a firm voice, his bigger hands closing around Jimin's wrist to halt his movement.

Jimin looked up at him with his big doe eyes, confusion written in them as he studied Jungkook's features, trying to find an answer that wasn't there. The taller boy reached down and lifted Jimin back up, the latter subconsciously clinging onto him, resting his head on Jungkook's shoulder as he was carried into the bedroom.

Tenderly, Jungkook set him down on the soft sheets of the bed, withdrawing completely and turning around in order to disappear into the bathroom. In the meanwhile, Jimin crossed his arms over his chest, pouting at the way Jungkook had rejected his touch.

“Why can’t I-” Jimin wanted to know as soon as Jungkook returned to the bedroom, now dressed in some black briefs and carrying another piece of underwear that he had dropped on the counter earlier in his hand.

“You've had a rough day. You're almost falling asleep as he speak-” Jungkook interrupted him, coming to a halt in front of him and squatting down.

“I'm not” Jimin denied, pouting, “I can still... still suck you off” he declared, determination dripping from his eyes, yet his voice somehow acting opposed to that, sounding unsure. The smaller boy observed Jungkook sliding the underwear up his milky legs, arms still crossed over his chest.

“Hips up” Jungkook ordered softly.

Jimin obliged without an ounce of hesitation, too distracted by their conversation as he watched Jungkook tug up the piece of clothing. Once done, Jungkook staightened his back, reaching out to brush Jimin's wet hair out of his face, fingers trailing down to his cheek to caress the skin with his knuckles.

“Any other day you know I would love to see your pretty lips wrapped around my dick” Jungkook stated, the pad of his thumb running along Jimin's bottom lip, the latter swallowing hard as his gaze was fixated on Jungkook's face, noticing how his eyes had rushed down to Jimin's full lips, “But not tonight, little one. As long as I'm not certain whether or not you're actually getting sick, I want you to rest” he decided, dropping his hand and pulling away entirely as he walked over to the dresser.

Jimin puffed up his cheeks, huffing, “But I want to-” he whined, but was interrupted again.

“No, Jimin-ah” Jungkook argued, voice stern as he took a glimpse at Jimin before he drew his attention back over to the dresser, picking out some fresh bedsheets.

The smaller boy sighed, figuring that it was immature to whine over the fact of not being allowed to suck on Jungkook's- yeah.

“Stop pouting, little one” Jungkook uttered, voice softer again as he approached Jimin, dropping the clean sheets down on the bed in order to cup Jimin's face, guiding it up to lock eyes with the latter.

“You made me feel good, too, so I just thought... I just wanted to return the favour” Jimin expressed quietly.

Jungkook smiled, giving an understanding nod, “I know, Jimin-ah, but I hope you're aware that I love pleasuring you and seeing you be happy regardless of you returning anything. I don't pleasure you for you to owe me anything back. I do it because I want to” he reminded Jimin who bit down on his bottom lip.

“I-I know. I don't feel like I owe you anything, I just... I just want to” Jimin stated.

The taller boy hummed, “Next time, okay?”

Jimin gave a faint nod, smiling weakly as Jungkook pressed a kiss to his forehead.
“Drink some more water, baby. I'll change the sheets” Jungkook insisted, pointing to the bedside table where he had placed several bottles of water.

Jimin gave another nod, getting up on his wobbly legs and almost tripping over his own feet in an attempt to walk. However, fortunately, Jungkook was there to steady him, grabbing Jimin's hips and pulling him close to his own body.

“Careful, little one” Jungkook warned with a smile.

“Sorry” Jimin whispered, returning the smile shyly.

The taller boy lifted Jimin back up into the air, Jimin yelping at the suddenness his feet had lost the floor beneath them. Gently, Jungkook carried him over to the armchair that was standing in the corner of the room a few feet away from the bed, titled towards it.

“I'll change the sheets now” Jungkook announced, sliding his hand through Jimin's damp hair after setting the boy down on the piece of furniture, “You can fall asleep, if you want to”

Jimin shook his head, but smiled softly, “I won't”

Slowly, Jungkook increased the distance between them as he walked over to the bedside table, picking up a bottle of water and bringing it over to Jimin who thanked him quietly as he wrapped his palm around it.

As Jimin sat there and sipped on the water bottle, he watched Jungkook change the bedsheets that he had ruined earlier. Don't get him wrong, he surely wanted to help Jungkook, yet the boy would definitely refuse to let Jimin help him anyway.

The black haired male's back muscles stretched whenever he moved around, veins defined on his strong arms as he tossed the dirty sheets down to the floor.

Somehow, there was an odd feeling blooming within Jimin. Something... that was worrying him. It wasn't that he actively chose to genuinely believe the voices inside of him that brought up these concerns – knowing that they weren't sincere anyway – yet... they still occupied his mind.

“Jimin-ah, hey, little one-” Jungkook's muffled voice interrupted Jimin's thoughts, “Are you okay?”

Jungkook grabbed his chin, guiding his face up in order to lock eyes with him, concern displayed in Jungkook's brown orbs.

The pink haired boy smiled faintly, giving a nod, “Mhm-mh” he hummed, noticing that Jungkook had finished changing the sheets, “You're done” he noted.

“Yes, we can cuddle now”

Jungkook took Jimin's hand into his, intertwining them as they walked over to the bed, both moving beneath the soft blankets as soon as they arrived, covering themselves. Smiling at one another, Jungkook closed his arms around Jimin's delicate body, pulling the boy closer to his chest.

A content sigh slipped from Jimin's lips as he nuzzled his face into the curve of Jungkook's neck, feeling safe. There was something so beautiful about lying down in a freshly made bed after having taking a bath - combining that with the feeling of being next to Jungkook made him feel as though he was truly in heaven.

“Thank you for changing the sheets and for taking care of me” Jimin whispered, voice quiet as he spoke against Jungkook's skin, tracing his fingertips along Jungkook's stomach, “I'm sorry for... making a mess like that”

Jungkook shook his head, pressing his lips to the top of Jimin's head, “You don't have to thank me, Jimin-ah. I've been through worse than this, believe me”

Worse than this? What did that imply?

Jimin arched up his eyebrows, tilting his head up in order to lock eyes with Jungkook who met his gaze, “Oh... your... your previous sexual partners puked over your bed often whenever they were drunk?”

“No, I did” Jungkook clarified, brushing Jimin's strands of pink hair out of his face that had fallen into his eyes.

The smaller boy's eyes went wide at the information, “You did?”

Jungkook hummed, giving a nod as he played with Jimin's hair absentmindedly, the touch causing Jimin's heart to flutter, “I drank a lot when I was a teen. I told you how I lost sense of reality and went the wrong path after my mother's death. It didn't only include getting in fights, but having my first encounter with alcohol fairly soon” he revealed, voice steady and calm.

“Oh” Jimin breathed, taking a moment to process those words.

“I went to many parties, did the usual shit and got wasted” Jungkook added, sighing, “But I'm glad I got out of that hole because it was horrible”

Jimin titled his head to the side, “You don't drink at all now?” he wondered.

After all, Jimin couldn't recall seeing Jungkook drink even once. In fact, he had told Jimin fairly early on – during one of their first encounters – that he doesn't really drink alcohol anymore.

“No, not really. I don't dislike the taste of it. It's just not something I need” the black haired boy answered, “I'll never go back to the way I drank back then, not even remotely close”

Jimin gave a nod, grateful that Jungkook had been able to get out of that continuous circle, that he had found a way out of that hole. Surely, it must have been difficult to break the pattern, especially when it was a way to escape the pain that his mother's death had caused.

Truthfully, Jungkook has been through so much in his life already. It was remarkable to see what a respectful and kind man he has become, choosing to be that way instead of hating the world and treating it as bad as he had been treated.

Smiling softly, Jimin leaned up to press a kiss to Jungkook's cheek, reaching down inbetween them to hold his hand. The younger male returned his smile, nuzzling his face against Jimin as he observed the latter play with his fingers.

As Jimin pressed his hand against Jungkook's to appreciate the sight of their size difference, he noticed the faint display of the injury on his knuckles again. Jimin's heart clenched at the knowledge and the visible proof of Jungkook having been in pain, a bruise left on his body to remind Jimin of that fact.

In a way, it was a result of Jungkook having protected Jimin from that guy at the party earlier. That fact was even more heartwrenching, Jimin feeling as though it was his fault – and maybe it was.
Jungkook had been in pain to prevent Jimin from being in pain.

“Your hand... I'm sorry” Jimin whispered again, gently tracing his fingertips along the knuckles of his hand.

“It's not a big deal, really. It will heal” Jungkook commented, shrugging his shoulders, “Don't worry about it”

Carefully, Jimin lifted his hand up to his lips, pressing gentle kisses against the bruised skin. In response, the corners of Jungkook's lips curled up into a soft smile as he pressed a peck against Jimin's temple, pulling the boy impossibly closer to him.

Jimin proceeded to tenderly play with Jungkook's fingers, caressing his skin while Jungkook was drawing shapes on Jimin's back that the latter wasn't capable to define.

Soothing silence settled between them, their steady breathing the only sound in the room, solely audible to one another. Jimin was able to listen to Jungkook's heartbeat right against his own, wanting to believe that they were beating in the same rhythm.

Their eyes fluttered shut almost simultaneously, sleep washing over them although they didn't want it to, preferred to stay in the comfort of one another, wanting to appreciate it in their awake state.

Then again, it was fairly late and it had been an eventful day. To be fair, Jimin was extremely tired and should probably choose to sleep soon. In the end, his body would win over his determination anyway.

“I spoke to my father this morning” Jungkook broke the silence, voice low and already fairly filled with sleep, “He suggested this friday evening for your meeting with him. Does that sound good?”

Jimin smiled, giving a nod, “That sounds great. Thank you”

“My father thought it might be good to have dinner at his place” Jungkook elaborated, fingertips still tracing along Jimin's back.

“At his place?” Jimin echoed, eyebrows arched up.

“Mhm-mh” Jungkook hummed in confirmation.

Wouldn't that be... Was it not odd to have a meeting such as this at his own home?

“Isn't that too... I don't know... less formal? I mean, after all, it's supposed to be about a job I'm going to potentially take, right?” Jimin voiced his concern, voice soft and unsure as he proceeded to rub his hand over Jungkook's stomach.

“It is about your job, yes. It's going to be professional. Yet, my father knows you already so you're not a complete stranger. He invited you, but if you don't feel comfortable, we can choose a different setting” Jungkook offered.

“No, it's... If your father sees that as fitting then I don't mind” Jimin decided, shaking his head. After all, Jimin was already grateful that Jungkook's father had agreed to meet up with him in the first place, he didn't want to cause any more inconveniences.

“Are you sure? I want you to be comfortable” Jungkook wanted to know, placing his index finger below Jimin's chin to title his head up, locking eyes with him.
“You're going to be there, too, aren't you?” Jimin asked instead, his doe eyes wide in curiosity.

“I am. After all, I own the company just as much as he does. We make most decisions together” Jungkook affirmed, giving a nod, yet cocking his head to the side a brief moment later, “Unless, of course, that would make you feel uncomfortable? I'm going to be professional, I promise you. In those hours I'll keep work and my personal feelings for you separated – as well as I can”

Jimin vigorously shook his head, smiling fondly, “No, you're not making me feel uncomfortable at all. In fact, I'm sure your presence will help me be comfortable enough”

Truthfully, Jimin wanted Jungkook and his father to treat him just like any other applicant. After all, that's just what he was. Jimin didn't want any special treatment simply for being Jungkook's boyfriend.

Yet, he was already receiving just that by having the meeting at Mr. Jeon's apartment, wasn't he? Essentially, that wasn't really a place to have a serious meeting at with an applicant now, was it?

Then again, Jimin might not be just another applicant. Being Jungkook's boyfriend was now a part of him. Besides, Jungkook's father wasn't a complete stranger to him either. In fact, Jimin had spend two days at his house, had eaten dinner with him already.

It wouldn't be any less professional to have that meeting in a comfortable setting as his apartment. It wasn't prohibited to have an easy going meeting while also staying serious and remembering to doing one's work.

“Okay” Jungkook murmured, leaning in to attach their lips in a kiss, remaining in that touch for just a moment longer before he withdrew, “We should sleep now, little one”

“Mhm-mh” Jimin agreed, despite his heart making a fuss as it wanted to cuddle Jungkook for a little longer.

However, their eyes still fell shut almost simultaneously upon Jungkook saying those words, hearts beating to the same beat as they slipped into a world of dreams.

---

“No” Jimin whispered, vigorously shaking his head, “No, stop! Stop!” he screamed high-pitched, voice breaking as he wasn't capable to move at all, his heart clenching at the sight, tearing him apart from deep within.

Yoongi and Hoseok were standing there, repeatedly twisting a knife through Taehyung's heart, the latter crying, begging them to stop.

“Leave him alone! Why!” Jimin screamed, falling to his knees, trying to crawl towards them, yet something was holding him back.

The smaller boy jerked up, chest heaving as he was gasping for air, clasping his hand over his heart. Swiftly, he scanned the room, realising that he was sitting in Jungkook’s bed, darkness lying over them, evidence of the night still being among them.

“Just a nightmare” Jimin whispered to himself, sweat dripping from his forehead as he sank back down on the bed.

Almost urgently, Jimin closed his arm around Jungkook's body, hugging him tightly as he hid his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck, soon noticing that he was crying.
It was only then that he realised that the drop of sweat had actually been a tear of his own.

The dream had appeared so vividly, the sight absolutely horrifying Jimin who hadn't been able to do anything at all to help Taehyung. Yet, relief bloomed within him at the knowledge of Hoseok and Yoongi having been the culprits – assuring him that it truly only had been a nightmare. In fact, Jimin was more than just certain that Yoongi and Hoseok would never do anything like that to Taehyung, or anyone for that matter.

No, they would never pierce a knife through Taehyung's heart.

---

When Jimin woke up the next morning, Jungkook was still by his side, already awake and dressed, having prepared breakfast for Jimin who munched on some bread to please Jungkook despite him not actually being hungry.

“Did you sleep well?” Jungkook wanted to know, sweeping Jimin's hair out of his face, a fluffy mess of pink locks adorning Jimin's appearance.

Evidently, Jungkook hadn't noticed how Jimin had woken up during the night, a terrifying nightmare forcefully drawing him out of his sleep, the events in said dream truthfully having made him cry.

The shorter male smiled shyly, giving a nod as he chewed on the food, “I'm feeling better” he reassured him “You can leave for work, Kook-ah”

Jungkook narrowed his eyes in suspicion, but hummed low in his throat, leaning in to press a kiss to Jimin's forehead, “Call me in case you're not feeling well, okay?” he insisted, getting up from the bed and fastening his tie.

“Okay” Jimin promised, giving a nod.

The pink haired boy also woke up to several messages from his friends – each of them worrying over how he was feeling.

The stirring of his stomach at the sight of Hoseok's and Yoongi's names appeared to be an inevitable reaction. However, he simply chose to ignore that feeling as he was pretty certain that it was caused by his nightmare – which wasn't reality at all.

Swiftly, Jimin texted all of them back, assuring them that he was feeling a lot better and that he was grateful for their concern about him.

The worst of it all was seeing Taehyung's name flash on the display of his phone, his name popping up with a long message declaring his concern and love for Jimin as though he had been seriously sick or injured.

Jimin's heart fluttered, yet it clenched all the same at the thought of that awful dream.

Why had Jimin dreamt of something as horrible as that? Why had his mind created such a terrifying scenario hurting the people he loved?

Surely, nightmares didn't mean anything, did they? They declared a fear you possessed, portrayed it in the most horrible way.

Obviously, seeing Taehyung in pain was one of his worst fears – seeing anyone he loved or cared for be harmed was one of his worst fears.
Yet, why were Hoseok and Yoongi the culprits?

---

Dance class was tough. Not entirely because of the new choreography Hoseok was teaching them, but the fact of having to look at Hoseok in the first place – Jimin being reminded of something he knew wasn't real.

It was unfair, he was aware of that. It was unfair how his heart clenched at the thought of something that had never – and would never – actually occur.

The sight of Yoongi and Hoseok piercing a knife through Taehyung's heart flashed in front of his eyes, almost burned into his mind.

It bothered him. It bothered him that he wasn't able to let the nightmare go. After all, it was just that – a nightmare, an awful dream, a creation of his brain. Why did his mind torture him with it?

Now Jimin knew how Jungkook had felt like with his own nightmare, could relate to the turmoil of emotions in his heart upon a creation of his mind that appeared so very vividly – despite them knowing that it was utter nonsense.

"Jimin-ah, pay attention" Hoseok scolded him, but as their gazes met, the older one smiled softly at him, reassuring him.

Jimin gave a nod, swallowing hard as he mirrored the steps they were being taught, trying to focus solely on dancing.

Yet, another thing that occupied his mind was the fact that Dongha was absent. It's not that he really cared.... well, maybe, he partially did. It was just odd that he wasn't present as he had never missed one of their classes.

Somehow, dance class went by in a rush that day, Hoseok already announcing the end for the lesson, praising them before he sent them off with a grin. Breathing heavily, Jimin scanned the room, watching the other students grab their stuff and leave with a blissful expression, wishing Hoseok a good day.

Wiping his shirt over his sweaty face, Jimin approached his own bag as well, picking it up before he stole another glance at Hoseok who was occupied by organising his own stuff.

Hesitantly, Jimin observed the brown haired boy for a moment, digging his teeth into his bottom lip.

Shaking his head, Jimin squeezed his eyes shut as he inhaled a deep breath.

Once he had opened his eyes again, he found himself to be all alone in the room with Hoseok.

"Hyung" Jimin called out softly, closing the distance between them.

The taller male lifted his head, smiling as he saw Jimin approach him, “Hey, Jimin-ah” he uttered, waving at him before he proceeded to push his stuff into his bag.

“Do you know where Dongha-ssi is? Is he sick?” Jimin wondered, not certain when his heart had decided to ask that quesiton.

Hoseok shrugged his shoulders, shaking his head, “I don't know. Kid said he won't be able to make it today” he answered, not meeting Jimin's gaze as he was fixated on fitting all of his belongings into his bag.
Jimin gave a faint nod, furrowing his brows, “So he didn't leave for... ever?”

“No, Jimin-ah” the brown haired boy chuckled, shaking his head, “Why do you ask?”

“I was just... wondering. He never missed a class” Jimin noted, gulping as he shrugged his shoulders, concerned that his noisiness was an act that raised suspicion in Hoseok. Yet, it wasn't prohibited to ask where one of his fellow dance students was, right?

Hoseok hummed, “I was surprised, too, but he must have his reasons” he stated, glancing at Jimin again before he averted his gaze down on his belongings.

Jimin hummed, nodding in agreement. Certainly, Jimin had missed dance practice a couple of times as well due to personal things he was dealing with at that time. Obviously, it wasn't any of his business to know why Dongha hadn't attended class today, but he couldn't help the curiosity.

Silence settled between them, the rustling of Hoseok sorting his stuff into the bag the only noise in the room.

“Hyung” Jimin spoke up again, voice barely above a whisper, causing Hoseok to fixate his gaze back on him, eyebrows arched up in curiosity.

“Yeah?”

“Can I ask you something?” the pink haired male wondered.

Hoseok blinked, clearly wondering what was bothering Jimin's heart for him to want to ask something that would require his permission of being asked in the first place – almost as though the truth could harm him. The taller male finally shut his bag, straightening his posture again.

“I don't have much time right now, Jimin-ah” he responded, stealing a glimpse at his phone to check the time, “I need to head over to Jeon entertainment. The trainees are prob-”

“I just wondered whether or not you were alright” Jimin interrupted him, pulling on the hem of his shirt as he tilted his head to the side – finally wanting to find clarity over why his heart had reacted like that.

Hoseok hesitated as the question surprised him, gaze flickering back and forth between Jimin's eyes, something glistening in his brown orbs that he couldn't define, “Of course, I am. Why do you ask?” he chuckled.

“I just... wanted to check on you” Jimin responded, smiling warmly.

Hoseok returned his smile, “What about you, Min-ah? Are you alright? The party was kinda tough on you, hm? Too much alcohol?” he then wanted to know, ruffling through Jimin's hair.

“Yeah” Jimin snickered, giving a nod as he rubbed his palm over the back of his neck, “I did have quite a lot of hyung's drinks. That wasn't such a great idea”

The brown haired male hummed in agreement, “You scared all of us. We're glad you felt better really soon”

“Me, too” Jimin replied.

“Well, I need to leave now, Jimin-ah” Hoseok noted, pulling his bag over his shoulder and pointing to the door, “I'll see you during our next lesson” he uttered, smiling sweetly before he headed towards the door.

“Goodbye, hyung” Jimin muttered, waving goodbye at him.

The other male exited the dance studio, not aware of how this simple exchange had comforted Jimin in a way the boy wasn't capable to explain either.

Perhaps, the nightmare could now vanish from his mind.

-----

“Do you want me to pick you up?” Jungkook offered.

Jimin shook his head despite the black haired boy not being able to actually see him as they were talking over the phone, the boy smiling at the kind gesture, “No, I'll meet you there. It would be weird for you to drive me there, wouldn't it? After all, you own the company as well”

Stupid past Jimin.

Why had he declined that offer?

Now, he was longing for nothing more than Jungkook's presence beside him, craved nothing more than to hold his hand for reassurance. In all honesty, it was quite scary to stand in front of the building, the sight alone causing Jimin to swallow hard.

Inhaling a shaky breath, Jimin approached the front door of the building, pressing the button with the name Jeon engraved in it. It was yet another fancy apartment complex that Jungkook's father was currently calling home for until he found a house to live in that he was satisfied with.

The door opened without Jimin having to introduce himself, the smaller boy not doubting that the security cameras were installed somewhere he wasn't aware of, that weren't visible to his naïve eyes, certainly picturing him up on a screen in Mr. Jeon's apartment.

Hesitantly, Jimin entered the building, heading straight towards the elevator and stepping into it.

Fortunately, he recalled the number of the floor that Mr. Jeon's flat was at, the boy reaching out to press the right button.

As soon as he had touched the button, the doors closed shut, the elevator moving up.

There was definitely surprise blooming within Jimin as he arrived upstairs at his desired floor.

There was a man dressed in black standing in front of the only door that existed in the hallway - it was almost as if he was protecting it, as though this was some kind of movie scene.

Who was he?

Carefully, Jimin approached the man, bowing politely and greeting him, but the guy didn't budge, wouldn't even take knowledge of his presence.

“I-I'm here to meet Mr. Jeon” Jimin expressed, pointing to the door the man appeared to be shielding.

The guy didn't respond, didn't even make eye contact with Jimin. To be fair, it was fairly rude to utterly ignore Jimin's existence, wasn't it? The least he could do was lock eyes with him, yet apparently, that was too much to ask for.

“He invited me” Jimin added, figuring the guy might reply, if Jimin elaborated his statement a little Yet, he didn’t, but proceeded to stare straight ahead, right through Jimin.

"H-Hello? May I-" Jimin attempted again, lifting his hand up into the air to wave it around in front of the man’s face.

However, Jimin went silent upon the noise of a door opening, light illuminating the hallway as the door behind the man swung inside.

“Park Jimin!” Mr. Jeon exclaimed, the man in front of the door finally taking a step to the side, allowing Jimin to enter the apartment, “Come on in”

Smiling shyly, Jimin bowed to greet Jungkook’s father, stepping towards the door and taking off his shoes, “Good afternoon, Mr. Jeon, thank you for taking time out of your schedule for me” Jimin uttered once he entered the apartment, noticing how the man behind him took his prior spot right in front of the door again as soon as Jimin was inside. Frowning at the sight, Jimin watched how the door was shut, restricting him from looking at the man any further.

“There’s no need to thank me, Jimin-ssi. Jungkook-ah told me that you were curious about the offer I have so it’s my pleasure to have a conversation with the two of you present” Mr. Jeon responded, gesturing for Jimin to follow after him.

Jimin bowed deeply, shy smile adorning his delicate features, a faint shade of rose flushing his cheeks. Evidently, Jimin was fairly nervous, the poor boy scanning the room in search for Jungkook.

In the process, Jimin noticed how the apartment didn’t look that different to Jungkook’s – huge and decorated in a modern style, many shades of black, gray and white – yet, everything was very... well, almost sterile. It didn't look much like an actual home, no picture frames of family members, no personal objects scattered over the room, a very unnatural neatness.

Then again, this was only supposed to be a temporary stay for him. Most of his belongings must still be back in Busan until he found the perfect house to settle down.

“You have a very nice apartment” Jimin complimented, smiling at the man who chuckled as he gave a nod.

“Thank you” he responded, scanning the room himself, “I have only brought a very few of my personal items with me until I’ve found the right home” he added, confirming Jimin's assumption.

Jimin only smiled, giving a nod.

In all honesty, Jimin didn't know how to behave. It was somewhat odd for him to be here, knowing this could potentially become his new boss.

“Follow me. Jungkook-ah is already in the dining room” Mr. Jeon insisted, Jimin giving a nod as he followed the man into the dining room.

Jungkook was on his phone, leaning against the wall and munching on some grapes as his gaze was fixated on the display of the device, fingers typing away on the keyboard.

“Son, Jimin-ssi has arrived” Mr. Jeon announced, Jungkook's head snapping up at the information, a smile dancing around his lips as he locked his phone and slid it into his pants.

“Hey, little one” Jungkook greeted him, approaching the smaller boy and pressing a kiss to his forehead, the display of affection in front of his father and co-owner of that huge company causing Jimin to blush a faint shade of rose, “I mean, Jimin hyung” he corrected, clearing his throat as though Jimin wouldn't appreciate his kind gesture, but rather preferred him to be professional.

To be honest, Jimin was way more comfortable now that Jungkook was present and wasn't treating him any different than he usually would. Obviously, Jimin wanted them to stay professional, yet he didn't want Jungkook to be cold and distant either.

“Hey, Jungkook-ah” Jimin replied with a soft smile.

“Why don't you take a seat already? I'll see whether Jiyoo-ssi is finished with the food already” the older man offered, pointing to the dining table to their right. It was already filled with plates, glasses and several little snacks like fruit and bread. However, apparently, the main dishes were still missing.

“Thank you” Jimin uttered with a smile, almost bowing, yet stilling as he felt Jungkook grab him by the back of his botton-up shirt and preventing him from bowing.

The taller boy stared at him with an amused expression, “You don't have to bow”

“Well, but it's polite” Jimin murmured, still bowing at Jungkook's father despite Jungkook's objection.

Mr. Jeon chuckled, giving a nod as he disappeared into the kitchen. Simultaneously, Jimin and Jungkook moved over to the dining table, taking a seat across from each other.

“Jiyoo is here?” Jimin then asked, eyes lighting up at the mention of her name. After all, she had been very kind and sweet when Jimin had met her on their trip back in Busan. Back then, Jungkook had revealed to him how she was a part of their family essentially - so it was only right for her to move to Seoul with them, Jimin assumed.

“Yeah” Jungkook affirmed, “She came here with my father once he decided to settle here”

Surely, she had been spending a lot of her life with Jungkook's family, a very long duration to be exact. However, it made Jimin wonder whether or not she had a family of her own that she had taken with her to Seoul? Or had she left them back in Busan? Then again, maybe the Jeon's were her family after all.

“I feel like I should say hello” Jimin noted, nibbling on his bottom lip as he recalled their last encounter. To be fair, he had never said goodbye to Jiyoo back then. The last time he had seen her, Jungkook and him had tried to sneak out of the house to meet that scary informant.

Oh, that informant. What a frightening experience that had been. That night, things had changed between them, Jungkook confessing his feelings for him, yet it had also been the night that Jimin had feared that they had hurt Jungkook – even killed him.

The thought alone sent a shiver down Jimin's back.

Jungkook snickered, pointing towards a door that presumably lead to the kitchen, “I'm sure she'll be out soon” he stated.

Jimin smiled, “I like her. She's nice” he declared, warmth blooming within his chest at the thought of Jiyoo. Despite him only really having spent one day with her, he was already utterly fond of her – something about her just very endearing.

“She is” Jungkook agreed, humming as he gave a nod, “I think she loves you” he added, smirking as he leaned back into his seat.

The pink haired male arched up his eyebrows in surprise, “Why would you say that?”

“Because she kept asking where you were” Jungkook answered, chuckling.

What?

“Really?” Jimin wondered, furrowing his brows in disbelief.

The other boy nodded again, “Yeah, after you left our house in Busan back then, she wondered where you went to and was sad that she didn't get to say goodbye” he responded, “Then, as soon as we told her you were coming, she got all giddy and excited”

Shyly, Jimin smiled at the information, yet somehow a feeling of guilt appeared to be inevitable. After all, he should have said goodbye to her back then. However, things had been kind of hectic and very chaotic during that time, Jimin's mind and heart having had very different perceptions on what to do. In the end, his mind had overweighed everything else, causing him to leave Jungkook behind just as much, choosing to meet his father on his own while giving Jungkook and himself some space.

How heartwrenching that experience had been. Yet, they were here now... Together. Happy.

“She's sweet” Jimin uttered, a soft smile adorning his pretty features as he rested his chin on his hands, staring at Jungkook who snickered, the man wetting his lips.

“I think she has a slight crush on you” he claimed, arching up one of his brows, “Gotta watch out” Jungkook added, his tone a faint tone lower.

Jumin giggled, shaking his head, “Don't be silly” he responded, cheeks heating up at those words regardless, “She's just kind and we... well, she was very welcoming back then. We talked about you” the smaller boy revealed, blush deepening as he recalled the incident.

“Of course, you did” Jungkook sighed, rolling his eyes, yet a smirk was dancing around his lips, “What embarrassing shit did she tell you about me on top of the ones my father had to share with you that night, huh?” he wondered.

The pink haired boy shook his head as his lips curled up into a warm smile, “Nothing embarrassing. Just...” Jimin replied, reaching out to run his index finger along the side of the glass, “Just good things” he murmured, “I felt that she loves you a lot”

Jungkook stared at him for a moment, blinking as he smiled almost shyly, “She's... yeah, she's been there with us... with me through everything. She never left” he uttered, voice softer with each of his syllables.

Inevitably, Jimin felt his heart clench at the reminder of Jungkook's scarring past, the horrible events he had to endure. It was calming to know that at least, Jiyoo had been by his side as his father had been struggling with the death himself, not entirely capable to be that role for Jungkook during that time.

“I'm glad, she didn't leave. She saw you grow up and become this charming, respectful man. That's wonderful” Jimin declared, heart almost desiring to get up and hug the other male.

Just as Jungkook was about to reply, a loud squeal echoed in the room, startling both boys. Swiftly, they scanned the room for the source of the noise, watching a middle aged woman hurry into the room.

Jiyoo.

“Jimin-aaah!” she beamed, the smaller one barely able to get out of his seat before he was pulled into a warm hug, the woman embracing him tightly, almost choking all the air out of his lungs.

Gasping for air, Jimin attempted to wave at Jiyoo, yet was slightly restricted in doing that as he was caught in her grasp, “H-Hello-” he murmured.

Gently, she allowed him to slip from her embrace, grinning brightly, “Noona, call me noona!” she exclaimed.

“Hello, noona. It's very-” the pink haired one tried again, yet was interrupted by Jiyoo.

“Waah, your hair!” she noted, clasping her hand over her mouth as her eyes lit up in something Jimin wasn't sure how to define – was assuming it to be affection or joy, “It looks so pretty! What a beautiful colour!”

Mr. Jeon and Jungkook snickered at her excitement, Jimin feeling his cheeks tingle a shade of rose at the compliment, “Thank you, noona, it's nice to see you-”

As she reached out to caress his cheek with her knuckles, Jimin went silent again, “Such soft skin, would you look at that? Waah, what ah-” “Jiyoo-ssi” Jungkook emphasised her name with a chuckle.

At that, she dropped her hand, eyes going wide in shock, “Sorry, yes” Jiyoo swiftly apologised, bowing at Jimin before she brushed the dust of her clothes.

Jimin giggled, returning the bow, “Hello, noona. It's very nice to see you again” he finally responded, somehow affected by her overly joyful and positive demeanor, happiness blooming within him, calming his nervous heart.

“Oh, and what a pleasure it is for me!” she replied, clasping her hand over her heart as though to underline her statement, “Jungkook-ah talks so much about you! Ah, and Jungwhan-ssi, talked about you, too!”

The smaller boy arched up his eyebrows in surprise, stealing a glance at Jungkook, “They do?”

“Yeah!” she affirmed, nodding frantically.

“What do they say?” Jimin wondered, tilting his head to the side, lips curling up into a smile.

“Oh, well, Jiyoo-ssi, don't scare him away, hm? We've got the whole night to talk” Jungkook interrupted her swiftly, scratching over the back of his neck as he had jumped up to his feet, gesturing for Jimin to take a seat again.

“Right, right, right. Of course” she chuckled, giving a nod as she poked Jimin's nose, ruffling through his hair.

“Jiyoo-ssi appears to be very excited today” Mr. Jeon noted, smiling as he walked past them, carrying a glass of red wine in his hand as he took a seat next to Jungkook.

Upon his arrival, Jimin bowed out of politeness, figuring that he was never going to lose that mannerism despite Jungkook reminding him each time that it wasn't necessary.
Jungkook gave a nod in agreement, sitting down on his chair again before he reached for his glass of water, bringing it up to his lips, “This is going to be a fun night then…” he muttered beneath his breath, a smile still plastered on his face before he took a sip from his glass.

“Jimin-ssi, why don't you sit down again?” Jungkook's father suggested, pointing at Jimin's empty chair.

The smaller boy nodded, swiftly taking his seat back across from Jungkook as though Mr. Jeon had demanded for him to rush with his motion.

In the meanwhile, Jiyoo had reached for the handle of the big glass jug containing water, filling Jimin's cup almost until the brim before she set the jug back to its designated place.

“I can tell you more about all of that later” Jiyoo whispered once Jimin had thanked her for the water, winking at him.

Giggling, Jimin gave a nod, “I would love to know more about what Jungkook keeps telling you about me”

Jiyoo chuckled sweetly, clasping her hands together as though she was recalling the event, “Aah, Jungkook-ah is so enchanted by you, he keeps-”

“Jiyoo-ssi!” the black haired one interrupted her with humour in his voice, furrowing his brows, yet still smiling.

The older woman pressed her lips into a line, nodding, “Whoops, I see, gotta go and get the food” she remembered, spinning around and hurrying back into the kitchen.

The others snickered in unison, watching her leave before they trailed their gazes back over to the table, Jimin reaching for his glass in order to take a sip, his dry throat thanking him for the cold liquid.

Fortunately, his heart felt calmer now, somehow not as anxious anymore now that the ice had been cracked. Surely, one could argue that it wasn’t the most professional setting, yet honestly, Jimin didn’t mind at all. Truthfully, he preferred it this way… was almost reminded of something he had never been able to experience at home with his parents.

However, the behaviour of Jiyoo made him wonder what exactly Jungkook had told her about. Clearly, she had always been very kind and welcoming towards Jimin, yet this time she appeared to be even more endeared. What had caused her to be this fond of him?

“Does she know about us?” Jimin then wanted to know once he had swallowed down the water in his mouth.

The taller boy arched up an eyebrow, giving a nod, “Yeah, of course she does”

Jungkook's father chuckled beside him, wiping the napkin over his mouth, “Of course she knows about you because Jungkook-ah won't shu-”

“Appa, be quiet” Jungkook mumbled, glaring at his father, cheeks tingling a very faint shade of rose-wait, was Jungkook- was he blushing now?

Jimin's heart fluttered, warmth spreading through his chest at that revelation.

How utterly adorable.
“I will, I will” Mr. Jeon snickered, yet gave a nod to reassure Jungkook of him complying.

Jiyoo returned to the dining room with several big dishes in her arms, setting them down on the table in front of them. Immediately, the delicious scent of home-cooked meals filled Jimin's nostrils, mouth watering at the sight of his favourite dishes being presented for them.

“I would suggest for us to start eating already before we speak about the topic at hand, hm? I'm sure you must be hungry. We've got the whole night to discuss this anyway, right? Does that sound good, Jimin-ssi?” Jungkook's father suggested.

Jimin found himself nod at the word 'hungry' without even registering such a movement on his own, the boy agreeing with the suggestion before Mr. Jeon had even finished.

“Go ahead, then”

---

It was a little later during the evening, laughter filling the room as Mr. Jeon shared a story of his absurd experience of an addition he had previously attended. There was never an occurrence of awkward tension lying among them, one of them always finding ways to lead the conversation.

In all honesty, it was so very comfortable – not scary or nervewrecking at all, as Jimin had feared of.

Then again, they hadn't actually started to talk about Jimin's application just yet, too caught up in the fun atmosphere upon them.

Mr. Jeon reached for his wine glass, taking a sip from it. As Jimin had noticed, it was already his second – and surely not his last - glass, them still in the midst of eating their dinner that Jiyoo had prepared. Frankly, Jimin didn't mind that at all, had wondered only for a brief moment whether that was so called for or even appropriate during a meeting with an applicant, yet their relationship was somewhat different to the one to an usual applicant anyway.

As long as they were still able to hold a serious conversation, Jimin was entirely fine with it.

Once Mr. Jeon had taken a sip from his wine, he drew his attention over to Jimin, fixating his gaze on the pink haired boy, “So, Jimin-ssi, how long have you been dancing for?”

Slowly, Jimin chewed on the food in his mouth, slightly surprised by the sudden question. Quickly, he swallowed his bite down, eyes lighting up at the mention of his passion.

“Oh, uhm, well, ever since I was a child. I didn't start dancing professionally up until I lived in Seoul several years ago. I loved dancing in school, too, so I guess it was only right for me to attend an arts school and major in contemporary dance” Jimin answered, recalling that they hadn't really talked about all of Jimin's past and inspirations back then in Busan.

“Contemporary?” Mr. Jeon echoed, arching up an eyebrow, “How interesting”

“Yes, Sir, it's... it's my favourite, I think” Jimin responded, shy smile adorning his delicate features, the boy setting his chopsticks down on the table.

“Fascinating” Jungkook's father uttered, interest and sincerity in his eyes, the man staring at Jimin attentively, “Was there someone in your family that inspired you to dance?” he then wanted to know out of curiosity, potentially- or rather unmistakably not aware of the fact that he hit a wound with that question.
Jungkook visibly tensed beside his father, chewing on his food slower now as he glanced at Jimin, an emotion flashing in his eyes that Jimin wasn't capable to define. It was almost as though he was silently assuring Jimin that he wouldn't have to answer this question, appearing to soothe him with a mere stare.

The smaller boy cleared his throat, shaking his head, “Uhm, no... nothing like that, really” he replied, but then titled his head to the side, “Well, my grandmother always supported me. She loved watching me dance and always cheered me on”

Mr. Jeon smiled, “That is very sweet. Does she still support you? She must be very proud of you for coming this far and achieving what you did” he commented, voice genuine.

At that, Jimin dipped his head down, heart clenching as he half smiled, “I... I hope so, yes” he agreed, lifting his head up again to maintain eyecontact with the older male, “She's... well, she's not with us anymore. She passed away several years ago”

“I'm very sorry to hear that” Mr. Jeon muttered, setting his chopsticks down on the table as well, simultaneously wiping his napkin over his mouth.

Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth, “I always feel like she's watching from above and... and supporting me from there” he then added, voice turning quieter with each syllable as he felt silly for having said that out loud.

However, Jungkook and Mr. Jeon both smiled warmly at him.

“I'm sure she does” Jungkook responded, affection glistening in his brown orbs.

Immediataly, Jimin returned the smile, noticing how his fingers were fidgeting with the hem of his shirt absentmindedly, playing with the fabric as a nervous habit of his.

“What about your parents?” Mr. Jeon wondered, surely only intending to lead the conversation on, yet twisting the knife in Jimin's wound.

Jungkook shook his head, “Appa, don't” he warned, glaring at his father who raised up his brows in surprise.

“What? I'm just very curious to know more about Jimin- as an applicant, but even more than that as the man that's by your side” the older male reasoned, pointing from Jimin to Jungkook.

The black haired one clicked his tongue, balling his hands into fists, “Appa, this isn't about my relationship with him. I told you to not corner him with any of that shit and to stay on”

“It's fine” Jimin interrupted Jungkook's rant, smiling softly as he shook his head, refusing to cause a fight between Jungkook and his father. “I don't mind. I don't have... I don't have...”

The smaller boy went silent, heart suddenly clenching.

Truthfully, he had meant to say that he didn't have any parents anymore, yet... that was a lie. Somewhere out there, his biological father was still alive – oblivious to the fact that he had another child living out in Seoul.

In all honesty, Jimin didn't spend that much time thinking about him. Maybe, that was horrible of him, yet the situation was... was still surreal to him even to this day, almost as though it had all only been a dream.
Of course, he had woken up a couple of times at night over the past weeks, wondering what his biological father might be doing right now, yet he had made a decision back then to not reveal his own identity to him.

It had been the right one – at least during that time.

Perhaps, he would never reveal the truth. However, perhaps, one day he would change his mind and contact the man that has no knowledge of his existence at all.

At least, that's what Jimin thought.

“My mother died before I was able to remember her” Jimin finally answered, “My father... died several years later, but he never supported me in my dream or... or anything really. Our relationship was very... toxic”

Mr. Jeon blinked, giving a nod as he averted his gaze, “That's... I'm very sorry to hear that, Jimin-ssi”

Silence settled between them, Jimin staring down at his plate as he moved the food from side to side with the chopsticks in his hand.

“I'm sorry” Mr. Jeon apologised, clearing his throat, “I didn't mean to dig in your past. It's really none of my business at all. I got carried away with my curiosity to find out more about you, but Jungkook-ah is right. I should stay professional and remember that you're here tonight as an applicant first and foremost. Obviously, I would ask any applicant for their inspiration or the reason for why they started dancing, yet I understand that I've crossed a line with asking about your parents”

Jimin stilled, smiling shyly as he shook his head, “It's fine, really. I... I'm fine. I really don't mind. It is a part of me-”

“Who wants dessert!” Jiyoo screamed joyful as she appeared in the dining room with two plates filled with cake and ice cream. Swiftly, she rushed over to the table, setting the dessert down in front of them, “Hurry up before the ice melts” she insisted with a smile before she disappeared back into the kitchen again.

“I have to excuse myself for my moment. You go ahead with the dessert already. I'll be right back” Mr. Jeon noted, getting up to his feet before he exited the dining room, leaving behind a somewhat awkward tension in the air.

Obviously, that hadn't been his intention at all and Jimin wished for it to disappear as quickly as possible as tonight had started out so wonderful. Initially, Jimin had felt nervous upon his arrival, but had calmed down fairly soon and had been rather happy the whole night.

“Hey, little one, is everything okay?” Jungkook interrupted his thoughts, concern in his eyes as their gazes met.

“Mhm-mh” Jimin hummed in confirmation, but avoided Jungkook's eyes.

The younger male got up from his seat, walking around the table in order to close the distance between them.

“Baby” Jungkook whispered, grabbing his chin and tilting his head up, “Don't lie to me”

Jimin shook his head, “I'm fine, really. I just hadn't expected to talk about this tonight. I've found my closure already. I won't let my own father ruin yet another thing for me. I'm past that point” he responded, entirely sincere with his words, heart convinced that it was stronger now.
After all, this whole thing was extremely important to him. Essentially, the treatment of his father has led Jimin to grow up to be a certain way – scars filling his heart that had taken its time to heal. There had been so many missed opportunities simply for the way that man had lacked emotional support or had been absent entirely. Despite him having passed away many years ago, his actions had left repercussions in Jimin's life that he had have to deal with even years later, dragging it along like a burden.

Yet, not anymore. No, Jimin refused to allow his father to have such power over his life any longer, refused to let the scars cut even deeper.

Gently, Jungkook ran the pad of his thumb along Jimin's chin, leaning in to press a soft kiss to his lips, withdrawing before he placed another peck on his forehead, “Okay”

“I forgot the whipped cream!” Jiyoo yelled from the kitchen, reappearing a brief moment later back in the dining room, immediately halting in her steps, “Oh. I'm sorry”

Jungkook was still leaning above Jimin, steadying himself by having one hand pressed to the table while the other one was grasping the back of Jimin's chair, their faces only mere inches away.

“It's fine” Jungkook assured with a smile.

Slowly, Jiyoo closed the distance between them, placing the whipped cream on the table. Then, she walked right back out – a joyful shriek visible from the kitchen.

The taller boy snickered, dipping his head down at the reaction of Jiyoo at the sight of their close proximity.

“Jiyoo” Jungkook uttered beneath his breath, shaking his head.

“She's cute” Jimin giggled, the sound evoking a soft smile in Jungkook, fondness glistening in his brown orbs. It was odd how a mere sound like this was capable to evoke such affection and happiness in Jungkook.

Love really worked in a fascinating way.

Jungkook chuckled, “You're cute” he uttered, smirking.

In response, Jimin rolled his eyes, yet wasn't able to hide the smile that curled up the corners of his lips, “Stop flirting” he insisted.

“What? I can't help myself when I look at you. You're the one to blame here” Jungkook argued, arching up his eyebrow as though he had made a valid point, returning to his seat with a smug smile.

“Me?” Jimin asked, eyes wide, “What am I doing?”

“Looking absolutely adorable” he answered, the sincerity in his eyes claiming that he was utterly serious with that statement, “That should be a crime”

Jimin giggled, shaking his head, “Then what about you, hm, Mr. As Handsome As A Darn Greek God?” he challenged, crossing his arms over his chest, but feeling his cheeks flush a faint shade of rose at his own words.

Jungkook's eyebrows shot up, “A greek god?” Jungkook echoed, a smug smirk adorning his handsome features as he leaned back into his seat.
“What?” Jimin asked, pretending to be oblivious.

“Can you say that again?” the younger male insisted, titling his head to the side, smirk deepening.

“No” Jimin declined, shaking his head as he reached for a spoon, choosing not to feed into Jungkook's ego – partially because it was kind of funny and partially for the fact of being embarrassed.

Jungkook leaned closer, resting his arms on the table, “That was quite the long name, though. I didn’t quite catch all of that. I think you have to rep-”

“Oh, shut up” Jimin interrupted him with a chuckle, shaking his head, both aware that Jungkook had indeed caught Jimin's comparison, simply choosing to tease one another.

Jungkook's heart warmed at the sound of Jimin's giggles, his eyes turned into little crescents, the sight piercing right through Jungkook's heart as though it was an arrow – here to collect the heart that rightfully belonged to Jimin already.

Suddenly, Mr. Jeon entered the dining room again, arriving to a room filled with laughter, the man smiling at the realisation – almost relieved that the awkward tension had vanished.

“What are you two laughing about?” he wondered, taking his seat back next to Jungkook.

“Oh, nothing” Jungkook answered, smirking.

“Mhm-hm” his father hummed, eyes glistening with affection as they reached for their spoons simultaneously, either of them picking a piece of the cake. Hesitantly, Jimin joined them, not certain whether any more food would even fit into his stomach, Jiyoo's meal having been that delicious that it had been quite difficult to actually contain himself.

Once they've finished a good amount of their dessert, half of it already filling their stomachs, Mr. Jeon spoke up again, “Jimin-ssi”

“Yes, Sir?” Jimin uttered, noticing how the ice cream was melting away on his plate next to the remainder of his chocolate cake.

“I was informed that you've received another offer? YK entertainment? Is that correct?” the man wondered.

“Yes, Sir” Jimin confirmed with a hum, swiftly chewing on the cake in his mouth and swallowing the bite down, “I did receive an offer and I've already met Yang as well”

Mr. Jeon pulled his brows up, visibly surprised by that news, “You did? What did he offer you?”

“Oh...” Jimin hesitated, stealing a glance at Jungkook who smiled comforting at him, giving a nod.

“Go ahead, baby, you can tell him”

Clearing his throat, Jimin fixated his gaze back on Mr. Jeon, “Well, he was very open about everything and wanted me to decide, but then told me that he would like for me to become an assistant choregrapher for now” the smaller boy responded, recalling the day at the company.

Oh, what a day that had been. Truly, an eternity had passed during that day. The meeting, that argument with Jungkook, the revelation of Jungkook's past – an awful event including his mother having scarred him.
“That sounds very good” Jungkook’s father stated, appearing to be pleasantly surprised by the offer, giving a nod as though to affirm it.

“It does” Jimin agreed, remembering how kind Yang had been, “I was very happy with the offer”

Mr. Jeon nodded, clearing his throat as he rested his arms on the table, “Well, I would like to share my offer with you now, then, Jimin-ssi”

The pink haired boy felt his heartbeat quicken, the organ pounding hard against his chest in a quickening pace, conveying his nervousness, “Okay, Sir” he uttered softly, straightening his posture.

“What actually, my offer isn't that different from Yang's as I had expected” he stated, grinning, “I was very intrigued by your performance at the Seoul Dance Championship. Your skills are truly remarkable” he complimented Jimin, the latter inevitably blushing at the praise, “You've got great control over your body and something that you can't be taught easily – the ability to feel and to convey that feeling when dancing. I felt like I was watching a story”

Surely, Jimin was dreaming. The CEO of Jeon entertainment had really just said that? Was this real?

“Thank you” Jimin uttered, his heart fluttering at the compliment, the boy bowing as well was capable of doing in his current position.

Mr. Jeon nodded, “I would love for you to teach certain trainees of ours”

At that, Jimin's eyes went wide, bis brain taking a moment to register those words, the boy truly caught in a state of disbelief.

“Thank you for the offer” Jimin ultimately answered, clasping his hand over his heart, “I really appreciate it. Yet, although I do love choreographing and wouldn't say that it's anything new to me, I'm still lacking, Sir. I need to learn a lot myself and practice hard to become someone who can teach others”

The older male titled his head to the side, humming, “I know that you don't have much experience, but that doesn't mean that you don't have the ability to teach someone what you already have. You can always improve yourself technically, everyone can. There's always things that we can do better and it's admirable when you keep practicing, but when you're gifted with something as you are, when you can convey such feelings as you do, it would be a shame to not spread that” he pointed out, leaning back into his seat.

Jemin caught his bottom lip between his teeth, dipping his head down in thought, “I would love to teach your trainees, but... I'm just not sure whether I'm ready” he declared.

After all, being a good dancer didn't equal to being a good teacher. In fact, Jimin had already had this mental discussion upon the offer he had received from Yang. However, that had been slightly different as he hadn't been offered a place as a full choregrapher, but only as an assistant one.

“Would you prefer becoming a trainee?” Mr. Jeon wondered, pointing his hand at Jimin, “I can make you a star that dances on huge stages, Jimin-ssi, if that's what you want” he promised, smiling.

Jungkook set his spoon down on the table, straightening his back at the mention of 'star.' Then, the taller male wiped a napkin over his mouth, titling his head to the side in order to look at his father.

“I... I'm not sure, if that's...” Jimin murmured, furrowing his brows at the question.

The idea of teaching someone – seeing the light in someone's eyes when they succeeded, seeing the passion in their eyes when they dance, watching people evolve and improve themselves because Jimin was teaching them was just- was simply such a beautiful thing to dream of.

Surely, Jimin had always dreamed of dancing on big stages, but who decided that teaching someone to dance would restrict him from doing exactly that? Evidently, Hoseok was their teacher, too, but had danced on a big stage with them.

“What is your dream, Jimin-ah?” Mr. Jeon interrupted his thoughts.

The question surprised him.

Half smiling, Jimin’s eyes lit up, “I... I want to dance. No matter in what way, I want to dance” he answered, heart almost jumping in joy at the mere thought of one of his major aspirations in life.

Mr. Jeon hummed, giving a nod, “Is fame important to you?”

Well, that definitely wasn't anything he had expected to be asked.

Fame wasn't ever anything Jimin had set out to be his goal for. In fact, he simply aspired to dance, wanted to inspire and touch people, wanted them to feel what he feels when doing exactly that.

“No... not really. I mean, I don't know” Jimin responded, furrowing his brows at the confusing conversation going on within him, “I do love the look in people's eyes when they're touched by me dancing, but I don't know whether that whole fame thing is really for me” he trailed off, digging his teeth into his bottom lip.

After all, the negative side of being famous wasn't ever really perceived in society, wasn't exactly part of the narrative they were being taught when it came to fame. Clearly, they only ever discussed a small fraction of what it was actually like to stand in the public eye.

Surely, it had its many perks and many, many beautiful aspects to it, yet it also required you to allow a major part of your privacy to be gone entirely, people choosing to watch your every move, judge everything you do, deciding how you should behave and act – trying to control your life completely.

Certain people didn't stop there, criticising even the smallest action of yours, making it impossible to do anything right in their eyes, no way of pleasing them at all – you were ought to fail in their eyes.

Yet, there were people who would cheer you on, who would support you and declare their love for you, be inspired by you. Maybe, you were capable to change their life.

That alone made it worth so much.

In all honesty, it was a bittersweet thing.

“Here's my offer for you” Jungkook's father expressed, “I want you to work alongside Jung Hoseok who I've recently hired as our new choreographer. For now, you're going to work with him to assist, learn from him as he's got quite the experience” he added, stealing a glimpse at Jungkook before his gaze wandered back over to Jimin, “However, you do have a pretty face and I would offer you to dance as a background dancer for certain artists. During shows, music videos, etc. If that's enough for you, then that's wonderful. Yet, if you decide you want the spotlight solely on you, if you decide you want to be at the front as the main act one day then let me know and we'll modify your contract” he offered.

Jimin's eyes widened, mouth agape and heartbeat stilling for brief a moment, just to pound twice as fast against his chest.
Surely, he must have misunderstood that offer? Perhaps, he had misheard the words that his brain had believed to have registered. Evidently, this was too good to be true.

“W-What... really?” Jimin asked in utter disbelief, eventually shutting his mouth as he had noticed his jaw hanging down.

“Yes” Mr. Jeon affirmed, “You would receive a set payment for your work as a choreographer and then an extra amount for your work as a back-up dancer. The amount will vary from artist to artist, but I'm sure we'll be able to work something out”

This time, it was Jimin who glanced at Jungkook, observing how the black haired boy was sitting their attentively, his gaze fixated on Jimin the whole time, a reassuring smile adorning his handsome features, yet something that Jimin found to be concern flashing in his eyes.

“What about an audition? Shouldn't I... I don't know, properly audition?” Jimin wondered, ought to feel as though this was way too good to be true.

Mr. Jeon arched up his eyebrows, titling his head to the side as a faint smirk appeared on his face, “Of course, you could, but quite frankly, I don't see that as necessary. I've seen you perform already. I'm aware of your skills. I see this right here fit as your interview for the official job. As early as over the next couple of days, we could set a contract ready for you”

The pink haired boy wet his lips, mouth suddenly dry, “Just like that?” he questioned, voice suddenly a lot softer, almost displaying his faint emotion of disbelief.

“Just like that” Jungkook's father echoed, “Wouldn't take long at all. Depending on how quick you want in, we could accelerate the process and have the contract ready by tomorrow, assuring you to be able to start as soon as after tomorrow” he added, glancing at Jungkook as though to confirm that statement.

The younger male hummed in agreement, but leaned back into his seat as ne noticed Jimin's display of hesitation, the latter nibbling on his bottom lip as he ran his index finger along the side of his glass.

“Already?” Jimin then whispered, not entirely sure when his voice had decided to be that quiet, the boy not having intended to do that.

“If that's what you want to happen” Mr. Jeon responded, giving a firm nod, “Obviously, we can set later dates. It's really up to you”

“What about Hoseok hyung?” Jimin then wondered, furrowing his brows.

After all, Jimin wasn't certain whether or not Hoseok would appreciate this decision just as much. Then again, they were very close friends and got along very well. In fact, they shared a special kind of bond, Hoseok having been his teacher, having stayed by his side through a tough time and being the boyfriend of his best friend. Truthfully, Jimin didn't quite believe that Hoseok would be that opposed to the idea.

“What about him?” Jungkook's father muttered, clearly not quite fathoming why Hoseok was brought up as an objection.

“What if he... doesn't like this idea?” Jimin still voiced his previous concern.

Mr. Jeon chuckled, “Of course, I've spoken to Hoseok-ssi earlier today, he's more than delighted to work with you” the older male assured him, Jimin's heart making a jump in excitement.
To work alongside Hoseok... to work in Jeon entertainment – a company he had always dreamt of being part of – to teach other trainees... to dance on big stages even if it was only as a back-up dancer.

All of that would allow Jimin to live his dream in the most vivid and beautiful way.

“This is... I hadn't expected to be able to start this soon already. This is all happening so... quickly” Jimin murmured, brain quicker than his heart. Then again, his brain was right. Frankly, Jimin shouldn't just jump into the offer like this. After all, that wasn't as fair to YK entertainment, now, was it?

“Take your time, Jimin-ssi” Jungkook reassured him, “You don't have to feel pressured at all. We'll wait for you to make a decision” he added, glancing at his father who nodded in agreement.

“If it's okay, I would like to think a little more about it. I don't feel entirely comfortable with making a hasty decision right now” Jimin asked, shaking his head at his own busy and complicated mind.

“Of course, I understand. Take the time you need. It is a very important choice after all” Mr. Jeon accepted.

Smiling gratefully, Jimin gave a nod, “It is” he agreed quietly, reaching for his spoon in order to finish his dessert.

After all, this decision could very well change his life.

No, it would certainly change his life – in a way, the smaller boy had never even dreamed of.

---

“I'll go and get me another glass of wine” Mr. Jeon announced once he had finished his dessert, getting up from his seat and disappearing into the kitchen.

Almost simultaneously, Jiyoo entered the dining room with a bright smile, “How was the food?” she asked as she approached the table.

“Absolutely delicious” Jimin complimented, smiling at her.

Gratefully, she ruffled through his pink locks, eyes glistening with fondness as she reached for his empty plate, “Would you like anything else?” Jiyoo then offered, Jimin's stomach already begging him to stop, threatening him to burst entirely, if he would dare to stuff any more food inside of his body.

“No, it was very good, but I'm full” the pink haired boy declined politely, shaking his head.

Truthfully, Jimin hadn't eaten that much in quite a while, the night having been filled with laughter and a very pleasant ambience that had lead him to enjoy himself quite a lot tonight. Of course, there had been the slight tension in the air upon their conversation about his past, yet that had quickly been forgotten, “I think I might have gained several pounds today”

Jiyoo shook her head determinately, humming in disagreement, “No, don't you worry about that. If it tastes good, it doesn't have any calories, hm?” she grinned at him, Jungkook chuckling as he lifted his glass up to his lips, taking a sip.

Slightly confused, Jimin pulled up his eyebrows, “Oh?”

“Jiyoo-ssi has been telling us that over the past years” the taller boy revealed to him, winking at Jiyoo who giggled as she gave a nod.

“And? Have I been wrong?” Jiyoo wanted to know, placing her hands on her hips as she glared at Jungkook, waiting for him to answer.

“No, noona” the latter replied, amusement glistening in his eyes as he stole a glimpse at Jimin who giggled into his hand.

“There you go” Jiyoo noted, throwing her hands into the air as though she had made a valid point, the woman then starting to clean the dining table, stacking up the dirty plates in a big pile.

“Let me help you” Jimin offered swiftly, getting up to his feet as he noticed the shaking of the tower she was creating.

“Oh, no, no, no” she declined, vigorously waving her hand at him for him to take a seat again, “You sit down, sweety. I've got this”

“I really don't mind at all”

“I'll help you, Jiyoo-ssi” Jungkook then suggested despite her protest, wiping the napkin over his mouth before he got up to his feet, walking around the table and taking the pile from her with slight resistance from her.

The older woman swatted his arm, but smiled warmly at him, “Jungkook-ah, you disobedient man, always helping me even if I tell you no”

Jungkook rolled his eyes, but smiled at her, “It nothing, Jiyoo-ssi”

There it was – that spark of affection and fondness glistening in his eyes as he looked at the older woman, the emotions displaying his deep bond and caring for Jiyoo. In that moment, Jimin wondered whether or not she had almost been like a mother figure for him once his biological mother had died. Surely, she would never be able to replace his actual mother, but it appeared that she still cared for him as though Jungkook was her son, and he cared for her deeply, too.

“What a good man you've become, thank you, bunny” she uttered, caressing his cheek.

Silence.

All of them stilled, Jungkook's eyes going wide before he squeezed them shut, appearing to know what was going to happen.

What had she just called him?

“Fuck, no” Jungkook uttered beneath his breath.

“B-Bunny?” Jimin echoed, eyebrows shooting up as he turned around in his chair, gaze flickering back and forth between Jiyoo's apologetic expression and Jungkook's unimpressed one, “Bunny?”

The younger male shook his head in disbelief, almost as though he felt defeated, “Shit” he cussed.

“Language” Jiyoo scolded him.

“Bunny? Did you just call him bunny?” Jimin repeated, amusement in his voice, humour glistening in his eyes as he chuckled.

“Shut up, Jimin-ah” Jungkook mumbled, rolling his eyes at the smaller one.
Warmth bloomed within Jimin's chest, “Oh my god, that name is absolutely adorable, I-”

“I knew I was doomed tonight” Jungkook sighed, dipping his head down as he headed towards the door.

Jiyoo clasped her hands over her heart, “I'm so sorry, Jungkook-ah. I didn't mean to- It was just-”

“Let's just clean the table” Jungkook muttered beneath his breath, a faint shade of rose tingling on his cheeks as he exited the dining room and disappeared into the kitchen.

“I guess I shouldn't have said that. It just slipped” Jiyoo stated, rushing after him with more plates.

For some reason, Jimin couldn't contain his giggles, the knowledge of Jiyoo calling Jungkook 'bunny' absolutely endearing and simply just way too adorable.

In a way, it was just proving how much she really cared for him. After all, choosing an adorable petname as that one for someone was something very affectionate. Surely, she hadn't intended to tease him at all, but had just been pulled back into an old habit of hers.

After all, Jimin assumed that she had used that name for him when he was younger, perhaps only during several few occasions still today.

As Jungkook returned back to the dining room, Jimin immediately drew his attention over to him, smile adorning his pretty features as his eyes lit up in amusement, “Hey, bunny” he greeted the boy.

“Ha ha” Jungkook muttered in fake humour, rolling his eyes, yet a smirk was dancing around his lips, the boy appearing to be fond of listening to Jimin's giggles, “Dammit Jiyoo”

The pink haired boy watched Jungkook reach for the last few bowls that contained the small remainder of the meals Jiyoo had cooked for them, Jimin cooing at him, “I like it. It's cute” he assured.

Jungkook sighed, shaking his head in dissatisfaction, “Fuck, that name is so damn old. She called me that when I was younger, okay?” he reasoned, glancing at Jimin who titled his head to the side, smile not leaving him.

“Why?” he then wondered.

The taller boy shrugged his shoulders, “She claimed that I reminded her of a bunny when I was younger. I'm not too sure, though. It just kind of started one day and she has been using that ever since” he explained, stacking the bowls up in a minor pile.

Jimin's eyes lit up, the boy jumping up and down in his seat, “Can I call you that?” he wanted to know, the name simply too cute not to be used, although... Jungkook didn't quite appear to be that keen on the name, seemed slightly embarrassed by Jimin knowing about it.

“No” Jungkook denied, meeting Jimin's gaze.

“Why not?” Jimin wondered, “Don't you like it? It's adorable”

“Don't” the black haired male demanded beneath his breath, clicking his tongue.

Jimin pouted, “But it's so cute, bunny !”

“Don't, Jimin-ah” he insisted again, intent stare piercing through Jimin, causing him to feel weak.
Jimin arched up his eyebrows, wetting his lips, “What are you going to do, if I don’t?”

The younger male stilled, staring at Jimin for a brief moment longer before he walked up behind him, then sliding his hand through Jimin's hair before he pulled on it, manhandling the smaller boy who was forced to lean his head back into his neck, “Don't make me fuck that name out of you” he whispered into Jimin's ear, lips pressed against him, tone low, goosebumps immediately forming on Jimin's skin, the latter gasping as he drew his thighs together.

“I must say, I thought I had bought more than one red wine bottle. I can't believe I'm already out of it” Mr. Jeon stated as he reappeared in the dining room with a sigh, Jungkook allowing Jimin to slip from his grasp, Jungkook sliding his hand through his pink locks to comfort him before he picked up the bowls, “I found some white wine, though” Jungkook's father added as he took his previous seat before.

Jimin was still dealing with Jungkook's sudden change in demeanor to his teasing, the smaller boy oddly aroused, cheeks flushed a shade of rose as he exhaled a shaky breath, begging his heart to calm down as he reached for his glass of water, emptying it in one go.

“Would you like some wine, too, Jimin-ssi?” Mr. Jeon wondered, pointing at his full glass.

Smiling, Jimin shook his head, “Thank you, Sir, but I'm gonna stay away from alcohol for awhile” he declined, recalling his previous - not too long ago – encounter with alcohol that had lead to him actually passing out and forgetting about the remainder of the night.

“I understand, of course. You should, yes, you should. It's not good for you” Mr. Jeon agreed with a firm nod, almost as though he was scolding him like a father would, having his best interest at heart.

Suddenly, a younger woman entered the dining room, coming to a halt in the doorway as she bowed deeply, “Hello, Sir. I'm so sorry for interrupting your dinner and meeting right now” she apologised, her voice sweet, yet also... yes, almost seductive, as she made her presence known to the man that was sitting with his back towards the door.

Surprised, Mr. Jeon set his glass down, eyebrows shooting up as he turned around, “Ah, no, come on in. What is it?”

The woman smiled, the movement adorning her beautiful features as she entered the room, her high-heels audible on the wooden floor, a noise echoing in the room with each of her steps.

Jimin blinked, allowing his gaze to trail over her appearance, the woman dressed in a tight black skirt and a slim-fitting red blouse, matching her red lipstick that she had lined on her plump lips, her hair was a light shade of brown, curled and ending somewhere below her breasts.

“What the fuck is Minji-ssi doing here?” Jungkook asked annoyed as he returned to the dining room, now drawing all the attention over to him as he came to a halt in the middle of the room.

Mr. Jeon sighed, waving the woman – who Jimin now had learned to be called Minji – over to him, “Manners, Jungkook-ah, manners” he reminded his son, “She's my assistant, my right hand. She's what Jin-ssi is for you, you know that. It's only right for her to be here to let me know about changes in my schedule” Jungkook's father expressed, not faced by Jungkook's visible anger with her presence.

So she was working for Mr. Jeon? Has she been here all along? Frankly, Jimin hadn't expected anyone else to be here at all. Then again, that had been foolish of him to think as he had only really caught sight of the living room, but had spend the sole time of the night here in the dining room.
Jungkook snorted, taking his seat across from Jimin again as he rolled his eyes, “Jin hyung isn't hanging out at my place to let me know about my schedule” he pointed out, glaring at Minji who flipped her hair back, tucking some strands behind her ear.

“Well, you usually don't work a long amount of time from home either. Today, I've cleared my schedule at the company in order to be able to meet Jimin-ssi here at my apartment, but that doesn't mean that I don't have no work to do from here. Minji-ssi is just making sure that everything stays organised” he explained, “I hope you understand kindly, Jimin-ssi” he added, glancing at Jimin before he addressed Minji, “What is it?”

“I've just wanted to get over this request with you. Well, I just need your signature, really” she answered, squeezing herself in between the spot of Jungkook's and Mr. Jeon's seats, bending forward as she placed the piece of paper on the table, handing the older man a pen.

“I see, let me just skim through it quickly” Mr. Jeon murmured, taking the piece of paper as well as the glasses Minji handed him – as though she was very diligent with her work and always prepared. Surely, she must have worked for him for quite some time now.

“Mhm-mh” she hummed, smiling as she rested her hands on the table, her low cutted blouse revealing a sight on her cleavage as she was bending forward.

Jimin averted his gaze, swallowing hard as he noticed how Jungkook eyed her. Surely, it wasn't intentional, but simply his way of earning a sense of the situation as he didn't appear to be as pleased to see her here... right?

“Thank you” she uttered with a sweet voice as she leaned over to Jungkook, pointing to the piece of paper as she got closer to him, “You wanna look?” she asked, titling her head to the side as her cleavage was essentially right in front of Jungkook's face now.

The smaller boy clenched his hands into fists, yet not certain why his body was reacting in such a way to the sight.

“Ah, Minji-ssi, before I forget it, I have these papers that you need to sent off today” Mr. Jeon remembered with a gasp, getting up to his feet, “I'll be right back” he announced before he exited the room, leaving behind a somewhat awkward tension – yet again.

Annoyed, Jungkook snatched the piece of paper from her grasp, skimming through it as he had been asked to do.

“Hello, Jungkook-ah” she greeted him with a smile, “It's nice to see you, too” she added, “You look as hot as ever” she chuckled, leaning against the table as her eyes stayed fixated on him.

Jungkook arched up his brows, “That's not how you address your boss, is it?” he reminded her.

Minji rolled her eyes, but smiled sweetly, “Well, you're not exactly my boss, but your father is, hm?” she argued as she pushed his shoulder, cocking her head to the side, her hair falling into her face.

“It's Mr. Jeon or Sir for you” Jungkook simply insisted, handing her the piece of paper back.

The brown haired girl looked at him through her lashes, “Right, Sir. It was a pleasure seeing you again. We missed having your handsome face back in Busan” she stated, something seductive in her voice.

Jungkook rolled his eyes, but gave a nod, reaching for his glass and taking a sip in visible annoyance.
The smaller boy only blinked, having almost frozen in his place as he had observed the odd exchange between Jungkook and Minji. Quite frankly, Jungkook appeared to not be very fond of her, almost despise her to be exact as he was annoyed by her presence alone, yet, she on the other hand, was flirting with him right in front of Jimin's eyes, subtly bending forward to show off her cleavage.

“Oh, and you must be the applicant, then?” Minji then wondered, now addressing Jimin who was finally ripped out of his trance.

Nodding in agreement, Jimin smiled politely at her, almost wanting to bow, yet resisting the urge, “Mhm-mh” he affirmed with a hum, “I'm Jimin” “Minji” she responded, reaching out to shake his hand.

Hesitantly, Jimin got up to his feet, shaking her hand as he didn't want to be rude.

Slowly, her eyes trailed over his appearance, her smile deepening.

“I feel like I have seen you before” she noted, brows pulled together in a frown as she attempted to recall the time she could have encountered him before.

Jimin titled his head to the side, “Uhm... well, maybe the Seoul Dance Championship? I attended that” he responded, not quite certain where else they could have met before.

Then again, she might have seen him at the company building in Busan before as Jimin had been there with Jungkook several weeks ago.

“Yes, right!” she exclaimed, eyes lighting up at that realisation, “You were- dammit, what was it? Hope- Hope something!”

“Hopeworld” Jimin corrected her.

What a wonderful experience that competition had been. Sure enough, it had been tough on their bodies, all of them having put their blood, sweat and tears into training, yet it had been entirely worth it.

“Right, yes! You were really good. I was rooting for you” Minji revealed, Jimin not having expected that at all.

Frankly, he wasn't certain how to behave now either. After all, he was slightly irritated by her blatantly flirting with Jungkook right in front of him. Then again, he didn't want to be impolite either, especially as she had praised him.

“Thank you” he murmured, cheeks flushing a shade of rose at the compliment.

Minji's smile grew, “Damn, you're handsome. No wonder you've been offered a spot”

“Minji, back the fuck off-” Jungkook muttered beneath his breath, staring at Minji in anger.

“Found them” Mr. Jeon announced as he entered the dining room, handing Minji a small stack of papers, “I almost forgot about them, but that would have been an absolute disaster. They need to go out tonight, Minji-ssi”

“I understand. Well, it was very nice seeing you again, Jungkook-ah-Sir” she noted, smiling at Jungkook, “It was really nice meeting you, Jimin-ssi” Jimin only forced a smile at her, Jungkook rolling his eyes, yet also watching her leave, his gaze following after her. Truthfully, Jimin wasn't certain whether or not he had stared after her because he had wanted to assure himself of her absence or because... she simply was that beautiful that she demanded his attention – maybe, she purposely swayed her hips the way she did as she left.

For some reason, Jimin couldn't help but wonder whether or not something had occurred between them that would explain Jungkook's demeanor towards her. Evidently, she appeared to be more than intrigued by him – In fact, utterly attracted to him. Yet, maybe, it had only been harmless flirting that Jimin shouldn't worry over.

Jungkook's father took his seat again, a content sigh slipping from his lips as he reached for his glass of wine, bringing it up to his lips.

"Wah, I completely forgot to bring the snacks!" Jiyoo yelled from the kitchen, appearing in the dining room a brief moment later.

"I don't think those are necessary, Jiyoo-ssi" Jungkook declined, shaking his head, but smiling at her.

"I think it is. Let me just put them here" she protested, setting them down on the table before she cleaned the dirt and crumbs from the piece of furniture, wiping a wet cloth along it, "You always loved your snacks"

Mr. Jeon hummed in agreement, reaching for a biscuit, "Ah, yes Jungkook-ah really did love snacks and candies a lot when he was younger. Sometimes, he would sneak out of his room at night and steal them right from our secret cabinet where we hid all of-"

"Appa" the black haired boy interrupted him, rolling his eyes, but still smiling, clearly not wanting his father to share yet another story of his childhood with Jimin.

Jimin giggled, eyes glistening in amusement and affection for the younger male, "Are you going to tell more of Jungkook's childhood stories? I love hearing them" he expressed, heart always fluttering at all the new information he received about Jungkook, allowing him to fill in his puzzle.

Mr. Jeon chuckled, tapping the napkin over his mouth before he pointed at his glass of wine, "If I have a little more of this, I can't guarantee for not doing exactly that"

"I think you've already had enough, Appa. I swear, if you emba-"

Jimin and Mr. Jeon broke out in laughter collectively, Jimin clapping his hand over his mouth to hide his giggles, amused, yet also endeared by Jungkook's embarrassed reaction.

The taller boy sighed, rolling his eyes, yet he couldn't deny that weird fluttering shit his heart did at the sound of Jimin's giggles, "Yeah, yeah, it's so funny embarrassing me. I think you've done that quite a lot tonight"

Jimin shook his head, humming in disagreement, "It's not embarrassing. It's really cute, Kook-ah. I like to know more about how you were as a child" he noted, resting his head on his hands.

Jungkook smiled at him, titling his head to the side, "I think you've learned enough for today, little one"

In response to the pet name, Jimin's cheeks flushed a shade of rose, the audible display of affection in front of his father still new to Jimin.

Learning more about Jungkook was so fascinating and endearing, causing Jimin to feel that much closer to the younger boy.

“Oh, please, tell that story with that dog again!” Jimin begged, jumping up in his seat.

“Let’s not” Jungkook objected, sighing.

Mr. Jeon cleared his throat, giving a nod, “Well, whenever Jungkook was very-”

“I gotta piss. I'll be right back” Jungkook then announced swiftly, getting up to his feet.

The other two snickered, Jungkook walking past Jimin and ruffling through his hair before he exited the dining room, going off to use the restroom. For a moment, Jimin just watched after him, heart skipping a beat at the mere sight of the younger male.

“You make him very happy” Mr. Jeon suddenly declared.

Hesitantly, Jimin turned back around towards him, only blinking.

Mr. Jeon shook his head at himself, resting his arms on the table, “I’m sorry. I just felt like I should say that. I can see the look in his eyes. It's just very nice to see. He smiles whenever he looks at you”

Jimin smiled shyly, a blush creeping up on his cheeks, “Ah, he... he makes me very happy, too”

“I'm glad he does. That's all I could have ever wished for. True happiness for my son”

Warmth bloomed within Jimin's chest at that. In the end, Jungkook's father was just that – a father who loved his only son very dearly and struggled with showing that sometimes. When he got home from work at night and stripped down that business facade, he was just a father of a loving son.

“You know, Jungkook-ah and I don't really have that much time to just sit down and talk outside of work” he then revealed.

“I'm sorry to hear that” Jimin stated.

Surely, they were both so caught up in their work sometimes that there was only little time left to talk about topics that didn't involve work. Clearly, that wasn't as easy on him.

“I would like for us to just, I don't know, find the time to at least sit down for a meal once a week” he elaborated, “It was very nice to have that chance tonight even if it was work related”

Jimin smiled, giving a nod, “It was very nice”

Mr. Jeon stared at him for a moment longer, fondness flashing in his eyes before he cleared his throat, snickering, “Well, where was I with that story...”

---

Jungkook's father set his now empty glass of wine down on the table again, “And then... And then--” he uttered, voice quieter with each of his syllables before he went entirely silent, eyes falling shut as he hunched forward on the table.

Startled, Jimin jumped out of his seat, gasping at the sight, “Did he faint?”

The taller boy chuckled, shaking his head as he helped his father up into a straightened position, resting his weight on the back of the chair, “No, he just fell asleep” he assured.
“Is he okay?” Jimin worried, still slightly frightened.

Jungkook hummed, getting up to his feet as well. “Yeah, he just had a little too much wine. It always helps him sleep, though” he expressed.

Jimin stared at the man for a moment before he suggested, “Should we help him into his bed?”

“No, I'll do that” Jungkook declined, shaking his head.

“Let me help” the pink haired one insisted, walking around the table to his side.

“Little one, no-”

“You'll hurt yourself, if you do it alone” Jimin interrupted him, persistend on helping Jungkook.

The black haired boy sighed, ultimately giving in and nodding.

“Jiyoo-ssi! Can you help us for a moment?” he then called out.

Swiftly, the woman rushed into the dining room, scanning her surroundings to figure out what was going on.

“Did he fall asleep again?” she then wondered, appearing to not be surprised by the sight at all as she approached them.

“Mhm-mh” Jungkook affirmed with a hum.

“Again? Does that happen often?” Jimin couldn't help but ask, bewildered by the fact of them not being faced at all by the sight – as though it was a frequent occurrence.

Jungkook snickered, “I told you, baby. That happens everytime he has a little too much wine”

“Oh” he whispered, recalling Mr. Jeon having a little too much alcohol on their trip to Busan back then, too, Jungkook having to carry him upstairs into his bed as well.

“Jiyoo-ssi, open the door to his bedroom, please. We'll carry him into his bed” Jungkook then instructed, pointing to the door.

Jiyoo nodded, rushing out of the room.

Then, Jungkook picked up his father, throwing his arm around his shoulder, “Take his left side”

Jimin quickly nodded, obliging and closing Mr. Jeon's arm around his neck, splitting his weight on either of the boys.

Jungkook's father mumbled incoherent words, eyes still shut as they carried him out of the dining room, taking slow steps.

The smaller boy pressed his lips into a line, aware that Jungkook was dealing with most of the weight as Jimin simply couldn't handle any more than that – was already struggling with the small fraction.

“Did you have to carry me like that, too?” Jimin then wondered, staling a glance at Jungkook before he forced his gaze to the front again, focusing on not tripping.

“No, I took you bridal style” Jungkook informed him, shaking his head, “Besides, you weigh like nothing so it's not a comparison to this one”

Jimin could only nod, not mustering to speak at all as his body required every ounce of air in his body to breathe, the poor boy breathing heavily as he started to sweat.

Finally, they reached the bedroom, Jiyoo having pulled the blanket of his huge king-sized bed to the side.

“Careful” she warned softly, helping them lie the older male down on the bed.

Apparently, Jimin hadn't been clumsy enough for the universe today - the pink haired boy tripping over his feet in his attempt to lie the man down on the bed and falling right onto the sheets with Mr. Jeon, his arm stuck beneath his heavy weight.

“Ouch” Jimin whispered, soft chuckling audible next to him.

Jungkook cocked his head to the side, arching up his brows as he observed the sight, “Well, really hadn't expected you to go for guys that much older”

Jimin rolled his eyes, “Oh, shut up and help me”

“My own father, damn, that hurts” Jungkook added, clasping his hand over his heart as though the sight was seriously harming his heart – despite it being evident that he was only acting.

“Jungkoo-ah!” Jimin whisper-yelled, arm almost going numb beneath the heavy weight of Mr. Jeon's weight.

Snickering, the younger male pulled him away from his father and picked him up from the bed, “Yeah, that's better” Jungkook smiled softly, pressing his lips to his forehead before he set the boy down on the floor next to him.

“Let's leave” Jiyoo decided, gesturing for them to follow her outside of the room.

The two boys complied, exiting the bedroom and shutting the door close behind them.

As they walked into the living room, Jimin noticed the sleepiness that was vivid in his own body. Sighing, he slowed down his steps, stilling in his tracks as they reached the front door, “I guess I should head home now, too. It's fairly late already and I'm tired” he expressed, pointing towards the door.

“Okay, little one, I'll drive you home” Jungkook offered, giving a nod.

“Shouldn't you stay here and make sure your father is okay?” Jimin objected, still faintly concerned about Jungkook's father who had just been knocked out in the midst of their conversation.

Jungkook smiled warmly, shaking his head as he brushed strands of Jimin's pink hair out of his face, the tender touch resulting in butterflies to spread throughout Jimin's stomach.

“My father is just going to sleep for hours now until he's sober again. Besides, Jiyoo-ssi is here in case anything happens” he pointed out.

Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth, “What if he needs you, though?”

“I highly doubt that, don't you worry” Jungkook murmured, leaning in to capture Jimin's lips in a swift peck.
The sound of high-heels walking on the wooden floor filled the room, drawing both of their attention over to the source of the sound.

Minji.

“Where is Mr. Jeon?” she wondered, brows pulled up in curiosity.

Jungkook closed his hands around Jimin's waist, meeting her gaze, “Asleep. Is something going on?”

“Well,” she emphasised, moving closer, “One of the papers he gave me contains incorrect information. We need to go through it again before I send it off. Should I wake him?”

Jungkook shook his head, “I don’t think he's quite capable to deal with this right now even if you wake him up” he noted.

Gently, Jimin tugged on his shirt to gain his attention, leaning up to whisper into his ear, “Go ahead and help her. I'll just take the bus”

The taller boy stared at him, looking back and forth between his eyes, clearly deliberating over whether or not to give in.

“I'll let Beomsoo know to pick you up. Let me just text him” he eventually decided.

“Kook-ah, it's not-” Jimin tried, yet went silent as he watched Jungkook walk over into the kitchen, reappearing a brief moment later with his phone, presumably texting Beomsoo.

“So, what now?” Minji asked, pulling up her brow as she waved the piece of paper around, “This needs to get done”

Jungkook sighed, giving a nod, “I'll be right up and help you with that. I'll just bring Jimin-ah down” he expressed, pushing his phone back into his pocket as he reached for his shoes, slipping into them.

“Kook-ah” Jimin emphasised his name, putting on his own shoes, yet gaze fixated on the black haired boy.

“I'll be quick” he assured her as he opened the door, gesturing for Jimin to leave with him, “Come on” he insisted, taking Jimin's petite hand into his own.

As they were about to exit the apartment, Jimin halted, gasping as he spun around, “Wait! I need to say goodbye to Jiyoo-ssi!”

Almost simultaneously, said woman appeared in the living room, gasping at the sight of Jungkook and Jimin leaving.

“Ah, you're leaving already?” she noted as she hastily approached them.

“Mhm-mh” Jimin affirmed with a hum, smiling as she pulled him into a warm hug, “It's already fairly late”

“Of course, of course. I understand. Wah, it was so nice to see you again, Jimin-ssi. I hope you'll visit more often, hm? Together with our Jungkook-ah” she wondered, a soft smile adorning her features, something that Jimin defined as hope shining in her eyes as she brushed his hair out of his face, cupping his cheeks.

“Eh, yes, I... I would love to” Jimin answered timidly, glancing at Jungkook who only smirked at him, winking as he lifted Jimin's hand up to his lips and pressed a kiss to his knuckles.
After all, Jimin would love to repeat a night like this, having almost felt as though he had been allowed to experience something he had never quite been able to experience before – a family dinner filled with laughter and minor arguments that simply were a part of something like that, almost inevitable to not occur.

“I'll make sure that Jimin-ah tags along whenever I visit so you get to see him again” Jungkook assured her, rubbing his hand over her back in a soothing way.

Her smile deepened, the corners of her lips curled up into a big grin, “That sounds beautiful!” she exclaimed, “I would love to see you two more often, hm?” she added as she bopped Jimin's nose, “What a beautiful couple you are. What beautiful children you two would create together” she complimented them, placing a hand on either of their cheeks.

Shyly, Jimin felt his cheeks tinge a shade of rose as he smiled timidly, Jungkook chuckling at her as he titled his head to the side, brows arched up.

“Well, Jiyoo-ssi, science doesn't quite work like that” he reminded her, “Yet, there are other ways, hm?”

Jiyoo's eyes widened, the woman clasping her hand over her mouth as she giggled, “Oh, I'm sorry, yes, you're right. I apologise”

“Nothing to apologise for” Jungkook assured her, smiling charmingly as he took her hand into his and pressed a kiss to her knuckles, surprising Jimin who had never been present for such a display of affection towards Jiyoo, “You should go to bed now, too, noona. You've worked a lot for us today”

A faint blush appeared on her cheeks, the woman smiling as she swatted his arm, “You've really got a charming one there, Jimin-ah”

“I know” Jimin giggled, affection glistening in Jungkook's eyes as their gazes met. That truly was one of Jungkook's many beautiful character traits indeed.

“Now get going. Have a good night, Jimin-ah” she uttered, waving her hands at them and gesturing for them to leave.

“You, too” Jimin responded, ultimately exiting the apartment, almost bumping into a black wall – which turned out to be a man's back and not actually a wall, “Whoops” Jimin exclaimed, dodging the man who took a step to the side in order to make room for them.

“Jeon” the man that had already been standing here upon Jimin's arrival took notice of their presence – or rather Jungkook's – and nodded at the black haired boy.

Jungkook returned the nod, taking Jimin's hand into his as they approached the elevator, an odd fluttering present in Jimin's heart as the previous conversation with Jiyoo replayed within him.

Together, they stepped into the elevator, Jiyoo waving at them with a big smile, the doors eventually closing and hiding her from their sight.

The taller boy leaned against the wall after having pressed the button for the ground floor, crossing his arms over his chest as he observed Jimin, a smirk appearing on his handsome face, “How was today? Was that okay? Did I behave good?” Jungkook wondered, arching up his brow.

Giggling, Jimin gave a nod, “The best. It was really nice, Kook-ah. I didn't feel nervous at all and the offer is just... it's unbelievable” he expressed.
Quite frankly, Jimin still couldn't fathom what an amazing offer he had received today. Truthfully, it appeared to be too good to be true – Jimin certain that he was going to wake up from this dream any moment now.

Jungkook's smile deepened, the boy reaching out for Jimin. Without an ounce of hesitation, the latter approached him, leaning up on his tippy-toes as Jungkook wrapped his arms around his waist, their faces mere inches away.

“Mhm, you deserve it, little one, even more than that” Jungkook whispered against him, brushing his soft lips over Jimin's, yet not granting him a full kiss, but the touch alone sent a shiver down Jimin's back, the smaller one having longed for Jungkook the whole night.

“Thank you, Kook-ah” Jimin uttered timidly, cheeks flushing a shade of rose as Jungkook finally attached their lips in a kiss, a breath slipping from Jimin as he kissed right back.

Heart fluttering, Jimin brought his hand up to Jungkook's neck, playing with his soft locks at the back of his head as they moved their lips against one another, Jungkook's tongue pushing past Jimin's parted lips to lick over his own.

Gasping, Jimin balled his hand into a fist, Jungkook pulling him impossibly closer as their kiss turned hungrier, the taller boy moving his palm beneath Jimin's shirt to rub it along the soft skin on his back, evoking a moan in Jimin.

Whimpering, Jimin withdrew, eyes fluttering back open as he shook his head, “We shouldn't risk anything, hm?” he noted, wetting his lips as he pressed his hand on Jungkook's chest, already having to catch his breath, “Besides, I'm pretty sure there are cameras around here”

“Well, I'm pretty sure you enjoy a little audience, hm?” Jungkook teased, clearly referring to him jerking Jimin off that one time at one of their hang outs at Yoongi's house.

Blushing, Jimin swatted his arm, “Oh, shut up, troublemaker” he mumbled as he pulled away, pouting as he crossed his arms over his chest.

Jungkook fixed his shirt, chuckling, “Well, if I have to remind you, you were the one just moaning for me, so-”

The smaller boy glared at him, “I hate you” he murmured, causing Jungkook to snicker again.

“No, baby, you don’t” Jungkook argued, tilting his head to the side as he reached out to slide his hand through Jimin's soft hair.

“I know” Jimin sighed.

Chuckling, Jungkook leaned in to press a kiss to his temple, the action bringing a smile to Jimin's face who begged his heart to calm down and to not make such a fuss all the time at the merest touch or stare by Jungkook.

The sound of a bell interrupted them, startling the two boys who withdrew from one another, watching the elevator doors open for them, allowing them to step out of it.

Gently, Jungkook reached for his hand, intertwining them as they exited the elevator and approached the front door. As they arrived in front of it, Jungkook pulled it open, gesturing for Jimin to go ahead.

“Thank you” Jimin uttered with a soft smile, leaving the building into the chilly night air, a breeze of wind brushing past him, blowing his hair out of his face. At the sudden change in temperature, a shiver ran down Jimin's back, the cold air startling his body, “Well, Sir, thank you for bringing me down” Jimin expressed his gratitude, giggling at Jungkook's expression.

The younger male smirked, arching up his brows as he walked closer, “Sir?” he echoed.

Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth, “Won't I have to call you that once you are my boss?”
Jimin wondered, “Minji has to” he pointed out, cocking his head to the side.

“Well” Jungkook responded, closing his hands around Jimin's hips, “You're not Minji, though, hm?
You can call me whatever you want, little one, but...” he trailed off, wetting his lips as his gaze flickered down to Jimin's lips, “Fuck, 'Sir' does sound very pretty coming from your lips”

“Yeah?” Jimin breathed, swallowing hard as Jungkook lifted his hand up to his face, pressing the pad of his thumb to his lips.

“Yes, fuck, but better not call me that during work” Jungkook stated, shaking his head to himself, more distracted by Jimin's lips than anything else.

“Why not?” Jimin asked with big eyes.

Jungkook applied some pressure on his bottom lip, resulting in Jimin to part his lips almost subconsciously, “Wouldn't want to distract me, do you?” the black haired boy murmured.

Frantically shaking his head, Jimin wet his lips, tongue poking against Jungkook's thumb in the process, “No” Jimin whispered softly, gulping as he saw Jungkook's smug face, the boy clearly pleased with his reaction.

“Mhm, you're my good boy, aren't you?” Jungkook praised.

Exhaling a shaky breath, Jimin swiftly nodded, “Yes.”

Humming in satisfaction, Jungkook leaned in to press a kiss to his forehead, the touch so much softer than Jimin had expected- or had certainly predicted. In fact, it was slightly embarrassing to him how excited he had turned, almost- yes, almost aroused.

However, the weather quickly disrupted their little moment, the chilly air blowing past them again, Jimin shuddering as he was only dressed in his botton-up shirt, having left his jacket at home in his prior nervous state.

“Are you cold?” Jungkook worried, pulling Jimin closer to his body in order to embrace him, aspiring to engulf him in warmth.

“Thank you” Jimin murmured, pressing his face into the curve of Jungkook's neck.

“I'm sure Beomsoo will be here soon” he assured, staring down at Jimin who only hummed, “Should we go back inside to wait?”

“I think I'll manage” he uttered, “Are you cold?” Jimin wanted to know, shaking his head as he was more concerned over whether Jungkook was freezing.

“No, this is just fine”

Nuzzling closer against Jungkook, a content sigh slipped from Jimin's lips, the boy feeling comfort deep within. In fact, he was quite certain that he would be capable to fall asleep just like this, the sleepiness still very vivid in his body, the events of the night settling in.
“Shouldn’t you go back up to help Minji?” Jimin then remembered, presuming that it would take a little longer for Beomsoo to arrive, leaving Minji to wait for Jungkook’s return to get that work done, “That paper was important, wasn’t it?”

Jungkook hummed, the sound vibrating in his chest, audible to Jimin who had pressed his cheek against his chest, “She’ll manage some minutes without me. I’ll leave when Beomsoo has arrived”

Slowly, Jimin gave a nod, hesitant as he lifted his head, locking eyes with Jungkook who met his gaze, “Do you dislike Minji-ssi?” he then wondered, finally voicing his earlier assumption.

“Huh?”

“Minji-ssi” Jimin repeated, “Is there something about her that you don't like?” he clarified.

Surely, there must have been an occurrence that had caused Jungkook to dislike her quite a bit, his earlier reaction and behaviour towards her being any indication of that fact.

“Uh, well, I'm just not very fond of her” Jungkook responded, shrugging his shoulders as he brushed Jimin’s hair out of his face, the pink locks having been blowed into his face by the wind.

“Why? Did something happen between you two?” Jimin elaborated his previous question.

Jungkook pursed his lips, titling his head to the side, “Well, depends on what you're referring to”

“Did you two have an argument?” Jimin asked, pulling up his brows.

That was a plausible explanation, Jimin believed. If they had in fact had an argument before, it would make sense for Jungkook to act like that. After all, he was usually always very respectful. Then again, it wouldn't quite explain her behaviour as she had flirted with him quite a lot.

“Not really an argument. It's just... Well, she wanted more than I did” Jungkook revealed.

Hesitation on Jimin's behalf, his heart dropping.

“Oh, so you two...” Jimin muttered, allowing the remainder of the sentence to hang in the air between them.

“It wasn't anything serious. I was bored, she was willing so I allowed her to suck me off a couple of times at work in one of the restrooms” Jungkook clarified, sighing as he shrugged his shoulders.

“Oh” Jimin breathed, averting his gaze as he felt his heart clench.

Evidently, Jimin was aware that he shouldn't be as affected by this as he was because this was just a part of Jungkook’s past- which was, well, exactly that- past.

Yet, it was still odd.

Jungkook reached for his delicate hands, wrapping his bigger ones around them, “Hey, it was only that, really. It was two or three times that she sucked me off, that's it. I stopped it when I realised she wanted more. I never wanted more. Besides, she works for my father and that really wasn't a good combination”

The pink haired boy gave a nod, nibbling on his bottom lip.

Why did this information cause him to feel this insecure?
Jungkook's previous sex partners had all been so utterly... seductive and sexy in their mere appearance – at least the ones Jimin had met before. To Jimin, they screamed confidence, displaying a behaviour of high self-esteem and sexiness.

Truthfully, Jimin wasn't anything like that.

“I see....” Jimin murmured, voice soft and unsure, displaying his vulnerability that he wasn't quite good at hiding.

“Angel, hey” Jungkook whispered, cupping his face.

Sighing, Jimin shook his head at himself, guilt blooming within him as it was unfair to make Jungkook believe that there was anything wrong with this. After all, she was one of his past flings. Jungkook had been entitled to fool around with whoever he wanted to before Jimin and him had become a thing.

“No, it's fine” Jimin assured, half smiling.

Jungkook's gaze flickered back and forth between his eyes, “It was before we met” he stated, “It was a long time ago. It was back in Busan”

“She was flirting with you, though” Jimin noted, not quite able to forget her mischievous behaviour from earlier.

The taller boy chuckled, raising up his eyebrows, “She was flirting with you just as much. That's just what kind of person she is”

“Okay” Jimin uttered, giving a nod as he dipped his head down.

“Hey” Jungkook murmured, placing his finger beneath Jimin's chin to guide his face back up, “There is no way for me to avoid her. My father chose her as his assistant and I have to live with that”

“I know. It doesn't... doesn't bother me. It just surprised me. We've been through this before. Don't worry, I'll manage” Jimin reassured him, smiling.

Apparently, Jungkook wasn't satisfied, though, the boy shaking his head, “I don't want you to manage, Jimin-ah. I want you to be comfortable”

“I am, I am. I mean, I will be. It just surprised me to learn this about you and her. I'm sure I'll forget about it in the morning” Jimin stated.

Surely still doubting Jimin's words, but deciding to trust him, Jungkook gave a nod, pressing a kiss to his nose, “Okay”

A car honked beside them, both of the boys snapping their heads to the side to notice Beomsoo having parked right next to them.

Swiftly, Jungkook leaned in to capture his lips in a peck, “Text me when you're home” he whispered.

“Okay” Jimin whispered back, smiling warmly.

“Goodnight, little one”
“Goodnight... bunny” Jimin responded, giggling as he detached himself from Jungkook, running towards the car and climbing in before Jungkook was able to snatch him back.

---

Taehyung was fidgeting with his fingers, his knees bucking up and down at least five times per second as he sipped on his iced Americano as though his life depended on it.

“Slow down, Tae” Jimin giggled, reaching for Taehyung’s hand and giving it a reassuring squeeze, “You’re gonna get a sugar rush, if you order another one. Besides, what if you really have to pee once the shoot starts?”

The blond haired boy halted, the straw slipping from his lips as he processed Jimin’s words, his anxious brain taking a moment longer to fathom what Jimin was saying, “You’re right” he agreed, pushing the cup away from him.

After staring at it for three seconds, he reached out for it again, pulling it closer in order to push the straw between his lips, swiftly sucking on it. Taehyung took big gulps, adam's apple bobbing with each of his sips.

“Tae-yah” Jimin chuckled, shaking his head, “You don't need to be nervous. You're going to pee yourself during the shoot!”

His best friend pulled the straw away from his mouth, big doe eyes glancing at Jimin, “I'm fucking scared, Min-ah. I've never been this scared and excited at the same time before. Well, except for the first time Hoseok hyung and I had sex. For some reason, I was so scared during that moment, but excited all the same”

Jimin could relate all too well. Somehow, many sexual encounters with Jungkook had been that way for him. On the one hand, he had always felt very nervous about what was to come, yet he had always been anticipant just as much – if not even more.

Taehyung ran his index finger along the side of his cup, expression blank – a display of him being in the midst of his own thoughts, perhaps caught in a dream of his own, creating an imagination of what could happen today.

“I'm so happy – I can't even express it in words, but.... It's just...” Taehyung tried to explain, timid smile adorning his handsome features, yet slight concern hidden beneath the happiness in his eyes.

“You feel pressured?” Jimin concluded, titling his head to the side.

Surely, this was all very nervewrecking for Tae. After all, he had never done anything like this before. Yet, there was no reason for him to be nervous, Jimin believed. There was no way he wouldn't do well.

“Yeah” Taehyung breathed, meeting his gaze, “I mean, she hasn't seen me actually model, you know? Yeah, I've posed for her, but what if I really suck? What if I look absolute garbage in her clothes? That would be the worst thing ever” he worried, shaking his head as he averted his eyes.

The smaller boy reached out for his hand, placing his delicate one on top of his, “Taehyung, there is no way you would look garbage in anything at all. You're one of the most gorgeous people I know. You're stunning. It doesn't matter what you wear, you make it look beautiful because you are beautiful” Jimin complimented him genuinely, the other male looking back and forth between his eyes as though he was searching for something that would give away that he was bluffing – yet, there wasn't. No, only sincerity and fondness.
Taehyung smile softly, “Thanks, Minnie” he responded, turning his palm around in order to hold Jimin's hand, giving it a tender squeeze.

“She chose you for a reason” Jimin assured him.

After all, someone as popular as he, someone as experienced as her clearly wouldn't just take anyone. No, essentially, she had chose Taehyung for a reason – for several reasons.

Taehyung chickled, shaking his head, “Well, because she's desperate to find a model and I'm quite good-looking”

Jimin rolled his eyes, resisting the urge to swat his arm, “First of all, you're more than quite good-looking and second of all- Tae, she chose you because- yes, you are beautiful, but also because you resemble something she wants to represent with her fashion. You're the one who's going to enable her concept, the one to look absolutely remarkable in her designs and prove to the world how beautiful Korean traditions are. You're going to stand for something- for change, for a development in the industry”

The blond haired boy blinked, eyes almost watery as he leaned in to pull Jimin into a hug.

“Minnie... I love you” he whispered against him, holding him tight.

Chuckling, Jimin nuzzled his face into Taehyung's neck, “I love you, too, Tae”

For some reason, it was so easy to say those words to Taehyung, yet it was difficult to say them to Jungkook. After all, they were different versions of love, weren't they?

Was that even a thing? Had Jimin just made that up?

No, surely not.

Loving Taehyung was loving family, was loving a brother who had been by his side for half of his life.

It was somewhat different in the sense to loving someone in a... in a romantic way- in a way where you want to spend every second of your life on this earth with them, a way where you want to grow old with them and have a family with them, a way where that person illuminates something in you that you've never felt before.

“Tae-yah” Jimin uttered, voice just above a whisper as the name fell from his lips.

The other one lifted his head, eyebrows arched up in curiosity, “Yes, Min-ah?”

Suddenly, a ringtone interrupted Jimin, the source of the noise Taehyung's phone that vibrated on the table they were sitting at. Stealing a glance at the display, Jimin noticed how Yoongi's name was flashing up on it, implying that he was calling Taehyung who swiftly reached for his phone.

“You can take it” Jimin assured, giving a faint nod as he watched Tae stare at it deliberately, presumably uncertain whether or not to take the call.

“I'll just tell him to call me back later” Taehyung stated, accepting the call and placing the phone against his ear.

In the meanwhile, Jimin reached for his own drink, bringing the straw up to his lips to suck on it, the liquid filling his mouth before he swallowed it down.

“Okay, hyung, yes. I’ll see you later. Bye” Tae responded, soft smile on his face as he spoke to the older one. Then, he ended the call, placing his phone back down on the table.

Jimin stared at him for a moment, “Is... everything okay?”

“Yeah. Hyung says hi” Taehyung replied with a smile.

Happily, Jimin returned the smile, “Oh, well, say hi back to him for me when you see him later”

Taehyung chuckled, “Will do”

“Is hyung okay? Why are you two meeting later?” Jimin then wondered, titling his head to the side as he took another sip from his drink.

“Just to hang out... and stuff” Taehyung responded, a faint shade of rose adorning his cheeks as he shrugged his shoulders, notably avoiding eyecontact as he reached for his cup and pulled the straw inbetween his lips, “What where you going to say before we were interrupted by hyung?”

“Oh” Jimin murmured, deciding to ignore the way it appeared Taehyung was blushing.

In all honesty, Jimin couldn't quite recall what exactly he had wanted to ask Taehyung. Perhaps, even if he did, he wouldn't have the courage to ask anyway, having been hesitant in the first place.

Jimin shook his head, “It was nothing. Nevermind” he stated.

Taehyung hummed around the straw, “How are things going with Jungkook-ah?” he then wanted to know.

“Oh, good. We're good. Yes...” Jimin assured, heart warming at the thought of Jungkook, yet something unsettling blooming within his stomach, nagging at him.

“What's wrong?” Tae immediately caught on, concern in his eyes.

Swiftly, Jimin shook his head again, “Nothing, it's just...”

To be fair, Jimin wasn't certain how or even if he should approach this topic. After all, it wasn't anything seriously worrying, just his annoying insecurities speaking.

“Spill” Tae insisted, eyes suspecting as he frowned.

Jimin caught his bottom lip betweent his teeth, “It's stupid, I know, but... but I've been thinking about the girls Jungkook-ah has hooked up with before” the pink haired boy revealed, cheeks flushing a shade of rose as he avoided Taehyung's gaze.

“You think about them?” the latter echoed.

“Well, not in that sense, but just like... how they all like shared this confidence and... how they conveyed this... this sexiness. In fact, they were just so... I don't know, different from me” Jimin admitted, voice soft, barely above a whisper, yet Taehyung still registered his words, smiling comforting at Jimin.

“That's why he chose you, Minnie. Jungkook-ah didn't want them, no, he wanted you” the blond haired boy reassured him.
Smiling faintly, Jimin ran his index finger along the side of his cup, “I just keep wondering... Should I try to be a little more like that?”

Taehyung pulled his brows together in a frown, titling his head to the side, confusion written over his face, “What do you mean?”

Sighing, Jimin attempted to find the right words, yet was struggling quite a bit, “I don't know... I mean... I mean, should I try to...” he trailed off, apparently not capable to finish his sentence, leaving the remainder of the sentence hang in the air, there for Taehyung to interpret it on his own.

“Try to what? Don't change yourself, Minnie. Jungkook-ah loves you the way you are. Don't change yourself because you think he-”

“I don't want to bore him” Jimin interupted him softly.

Eyes going wide, Taehyung reached for his hand, “Bore him? What do you mean?”

The smaller boy hesitated, not certain what was bothering his own heart.

To be fair, Jungkook and him had talked about this before – about Jimin feeling as though Jungkook’s previous sex life must have been a lot more exciting as the other part has had experience as well, knowing what to do to please Jungkook, appearing to seduce Jungkook with a mere stare, just by the aura they displayed. Whereas Jimin... well, he had needed to learn all of that first – in fact, he was still learning a lot.

Then again, Jungkook had assured him that he loved them as they were, enjoyed having sex with Jimin. Yet, the pink haired one couldn't help but feel as though Jungkook might have only said that to comfort him, not wanting to hurt him.

Weren't his previous sexual partners evidence of what he was actually into?

Someone that was seductive, confident and sexy?

“These girls were clearly very... I don't know” Jimin sighed, frustrated with himself, “It appears he had a certain type. He went for confident girls that look like absolute models, sexy and- Ouch” Jimin elaborated, whining as Tae had slapped his arm, the smaller one rubbing his hand along the spot, “What was that for?”

Anger was plastered on Taehyung's face, the boy shaking his head as his features softened again, the anger ebbing away as Tae gave Jimin's hand a gentle squeeze, “Don't you dare go there, Min-ah. I'll not allow you to put yourself down – especially not in comparison to them. You're such a gorgeous person. You're kind and funny and supportive and so much more. You're the most beautiful person I know, from the inside and from the outside- well, apart from me, but that's beside the point” he replied, voice softer with each of his syllables, but a smirk adorning his handsome feature by the end of his sentence.

Jimin giggled, shaking his head at his best friend, but grateful for his way of cheering him up like that. Clearly, it had been Taehyung’s intention to hear him laugh, the taller boy smiling warmly, satisfied with his own joke.

“And how dare you say you're not sexy” he added, about to swat Jimin's arm again, yet the boy was able to dodge his hit this time, “Have you seen yourself dance before? Damn, you're sexy. Shit, no wonder Jungkook fucked you stupid that night”

“Tae!” Jimin exclaimed, eyes going wide as he blushed, praying that none of the other customers had listened.

Tae only smiled sympathetically, “I'm just saying, please don't think of yourself as anything less than this. You're more than enough, Min-ah. Jungkook-ah sees that, Jungkook-ah loves you like that”

Smiling timidly, Jimin dipped his head down, “Thank you, Tae” he murmured genuinely.

Just like that, his heart felt more at ease, Taehyung always knowing what to say to comfort him. It proved that they shared a special kind of bond, Tae that aware of what Jimin needed in a situation like this. It only assured Jimin again in why Taehyung must be his soulmate.

Several people walked past their table, Taehyung sipping on his drink again as he glanced at them. Simultaneously, Jimin wondered whether Tae had ever felt like this, too.

“Tae?” Jimin muttered, drawing the blond haired boy's attention back over to him, his eyebrows shooting up in curiosity.

“Mhm-mh” he hummed around the straw.

Playing with the hem of his shirt, Jimin titled his head to the side, “Do you... Well, who usually takes the lead in your relationship?” he then wanted to know.

Taehyung chuckled, the straw slipping from his lips, “Hoseok hyung” he answered, nodding determinately.

“What are you referring to?” Jimin wondered.

“I don't know... I was just wondering whether... Have you ever, like, taken the lead and s-seduced him?” Jimin stumbled over his words, finally uttering out the question as he felt himself blush.

“All the time” Tae snickered.

“Really?” Jimin asked in awe, eyes big.

Laughing, Tae shook his head, “Well, no, but from time to time. When it comes to him, I'm more the submissive type, but I still like to seduce him every now and then”

“I see” Jimin murmured, nodding.

“Have you ever done that?” Taehyung wanted to know.

Digging his teeth into his bottom lip, Jimin shook his head, “No... No, I haven't”

“That's okay, Minnie. Don't do anything you don't want to” Taehyung assured him, eyes dripping in affection and sympathy as he stared at Jimin, the latter feeling his cheeks heat up at the conversation they were having in public.

“It's not that I... don't want to, it's just that I never really thought about it that way. After all, Jungkook is more the dominant type. He usually takes the lead” Jimin expressed, shrugging his shoulders. Usually, Jungkook made the first move, knowing what to do to arouse Jimin, knowing what Jimin needed in each of these moments, always taking care of him.

Yet, Jimin suddenly desired to take care of him like that, too.
“That's fine, Min-ah” Tae smiled, “However” he then uttered, lifting his index finger into the air as though he was about to make a valid point, “It's okay to want to spice things up. Hyung and I always try to do that. Have you... ever wanted to take the lead?”

“Oh, uhm” Jimin muttered, eyes going wide, “I... I'm not sure, not really. I'm not really the dominant type and he isn't the... submissive type”

Then again, they had faintly tried that before -- Jimin recalling having tied Jungkook’s hands to the bed and riding him. Yet, that had ended fairly soon with him begging for Jungkook to take the lead again, his needy state having taken over.

“I see. Well, if you can't see yourself doing that at all, then that's fine” Taehyung responded, smiling soothingly at him.

Nibbling on his bottom lip, Jimin leaned slightly closer, “Do you... I mean... Have you ever dominated... Hoseok hyung?”

Taehyung chuckled, shaking his head, “No, not Hoseok hyung”

“Someone else?” Jimin wondered, eyes going wide at the conclusion.

“Uh... yes, kind of” the blond haired boy affirmed.

“Oh” Jimin breathed, fascinated, “So you're... both? That's possible, too? To enjoy both parts of it?”

Quite honestly, Jimin had never thought that the possibility of being dominant and submissive simultaneously existed. Thinking about that now, it had been quite foolish of him not to consider that.

“Mhm-mh. That's called a switch, Min-ah. Sometimes, we prefer the one thing and sometimes we prefer the other one. With Hoseok, I'm always more submissive, but... I'm not exclusively only doing that as I've realised”

“Oh” Jimin responded, giving a nod as he processed those words.

Switch. What a funny word for a sexual term, yet very fitting, Jimin thought.

“Have you ever tried taking the control? I mean, you may know without trying that it's not for you at all, but if you're not sure, trying won't hurt you” Taehyung suggested, making a point.

“Uhm, well... we have kind of tried that before? But not... not really. It wasn't really for me, but I mean, I don't know, I can't really see myself doing that, I enjoy the way our dynamics are, but... I guess I could try again?” Jimin rambled, confused by his own heart that was considering the possibility to try again, something like- yes, like excitement blooming within him.

Taehyung gave his hand a gentle squeeze, “Don't force yourself to try it, Minnie”

“Yeah... I don't think I have it in me” Jimin murmured, brain quicker than his heart. After all, Jimin couldn't see himself really do that, was too anxious to take the full control.

“You don't have to entirely dominate him, if that's too much for you. You could just try taking the lead for once and- I don't know- order him to do something, hm?”

“O-Oh” Jimin whispered, eyes going big at the suggestion.

“You look scared” Taehyung giggled upon the sight of Jimin's adorable expression – doe eyes wide, plump lips parted, cheeks flushed a shade of rose.

“I'm not, I'm just... thinking” Jimin responded.

Chuckling, Taehyung gave a nod.

Suddenly, his phone vibrated again, startling either of the boys. Swiftly, he picked it up, eyes going wide.

“My alarm” Taehyung revealed with a gasp, pointing the display of his phone towards Jimin in order to show it to him.

The smaller one blinked, slightly flabbergasted, “For what?” Jimin wondered, titling his head to the side.

“For the shooting! I need to leave now!” Taehyung exclaimed, yet not moving at all.

At that, Jimin's eyes went wide, the pink haired boy having entirely forgotten about that in the midst of their conversation.

“Come on then” he insisted, jumping out of his seat as he reached out for Tae.

Frantically, Taehyung shook his head, pressing his palm to his stomach, “No, I think I'm going to throw up” he declined, burping quietly as he made himself smaller.

“Tae, come on now” Jimin urged, taking his hand into his own, pulling on it, “You can't be late!”

“I can't, Minnie, I can't, I'll...” the other male objected, vigorously shaking his head as he stared up at Jimin with big eyes, fear glistening in them that caused Jimin's heart to clench.

Halting, Jimin observed his almost vulnerable appearance for a moment, sitting back down on the chair, not allowing Taehyung's hand to slip from his grasp.

“Hey, Tae, look at me” Jimin whispered, cupping Taehyung's face, “There is nothing to be afraid of. You're one of the most beautiful and talented people I know. You can do this, okay? You're going to be phenomenal” he reassured his best friend, the latter squeezing his eyes shut.

“I'm so nervous. I... Gosh, this feeling sucks” he revealed, sighing as he dipped his head down.

Jimin smiled comforting at him, chasing his gaze in order to enable eyecontact with him, “It's okay to be nervous, but they're going to make sure you're comfortable. You're just going to give it your best, I know you will do well. They're going to be amazed by you. Tae, they'll love you”

Taehyung returned his smile, biting down on his bottom lip, “I guess I just gotta try, hm?”

The pink haired boy tilted his head to the side, smile deepening, “This is something you've always dreamed of, Tae” he reminded him.

“You're right” Taehyung agreed, “I'm so happy that I received this opportunity and I can't believe that this is happening, but...”

“It's still nervewrecking” Jimin finished for him, the other male nodding at him.

Frankly, Jimin was more than aware of what a turmoil of emotions must currently be going on within him. After all, he had been through a similar experience at the dance championship. However, he had been able to control his anxiety, the anticipation of finally dancing on that stage and the concern... of letting his group down urging him to go on.

“Yeah” Taehyung murmured.

Jimin brushed Taehyung's hair out of his face, “You're so much closer to your dream, Tae-yah. I know you're going to be amazing”

Determinately, the blond haired boy nodded, “You're right, you're right. I've wanted this for so long, so bad. Besides, I can't leave her hanging now” he decided, straightening his posture.

Smiling, Jimin reached for his hand again.

“Are you ready?” Jimin wondered.

Taehyung mirrored his smile, “Yeah” he whispered.

“Then, come on”

-----

Hesitantly, Jimin paced around the room, shaking his head as he decided against his idea and took a seat on the edge of the bed.

Swiftly, he reached for his pastel pink high-knee socks and pulled them up his legs, allowing them to rest slightly above his knees.

It was actually a gift that Taehyung had given him once, having bought matching blue ones for himself. Truthfully, Jimin never really wore them - well up until today, craving for very comfy clothes tonight.

Just as he was about to reach for his big sweater, he bit down on his bottom lip, his plan replaying in his mind, heart pounding fast against his chest as he spoke words of reassurance to himself.

This whole day he had deliberated over this, just to back out of it now? No, Jimin was determined to go along with his desire to try something new tonight.

“It's fine. You can do this” he whispered, squeezing his eyes shut as he gulped.

Surely, his plan could very well backfire, yet... he needed to stay positive.

Determined, Jimin nodded to no one in particular, getting up to his feet and exiting the bedroom. The smaller boy tip-toed over to the staircase, hands closing around the railing as he looked down and scanned the living room.

The black haired one was spread out on the sofa, working on his laptop as he was answering some of his mails regarding work. Earlier, Jimin had excused himself to take a shower, having declined Jungkook's cheeky offer of joining him because Jimin had different plans for tonight.

Swallowing hard, Jimin took a step back from the railing, making sure that Jungkook wouldn't see him, “Jungkook-ah? Can you come upstairs, please?” Jimin yelled.

Quickly, Jimin spun back around and rushed into the bedroom, dimming the lights on his way in before he came to a halt in the centre of the room, begging his heart to calm down, fearing it was about to pound out of his ribcage any moment now.

“Little one, are you okay?” Jungkook's concerned voice spoke before he entered the bedroom, “Are Inhaling one last shaky breath, Jimin turned back around, shaking his head.

“Are you cold? Why aren't you dressed? What's wrong, baby?” Jungkook wondered, eyes trailing along Jimin's petite figure, the boy only covered by a white robe, his pink hair damp and sticking to his forehead.

Jimin's cheeks flushed a shade of rose as he opened the robe, allowing it to slide down his shoulders before it dropped to the floor, leaving Jimin completely bare except for his pastel pink high-knee socks.

It took every ounce in Jimin's very being to not shield himself, to not pick the robe back up to cover himself. Frankly, Jimin wasn't the most confident little bean out there, yet Jungkook loved him, had proven numerous times that he found him to be beautiful. That's all that Jimin needed.

The black haired boy's jaw dropped, eyes going wide at the sight, “Fuck” he breathed, swallowing hard as he approached Jimin with fast steps, surely not having expected anything like this from Jimin, “You're going to kill me” Jungkook groaned as he suddenly picked Jimin up, the latter yelping and clinging onto Jungkook as he was carried to the big windows that adorned the whole wall.

Hunggrily, Jungkook attached their lips in a sloppy kiss, pressing Jimin up against the cold glass of the window, the smaller one gasping into the kiss, not having expected the low temperature on his hot skin. Due to his nervousness, Jimin had completely forgotten to close the curtains earlier, his bare butt exposed to the whole city now.

For a moment, Jimin kissed back for he was getting lost in the moment, the boy whimpering against Jungkook's lips as the taller one grinded his crotch against Jimin's.

“N-No” Jimin uttered eventually, withdrawing as he pushed his hands against Jungkook's shoulders, shaking his head. The two boys were already breathing unevenly, having to catch their breath after their short making out session.

“No?” Jungkook echoed, immediately setting Jimin down to the floor, concern bubbling in his chest as the emotion also glistened in his brown orbs, “You don't want me?”

Wetting his lips, Jimin frantically shook his head at the way Jungkook had misunderstood his rejection, “I do want you more than anything” he reassured, reaching for Jungkook's hand, “Just not like this” he whispered, staring up at Jungkook through his lashes, “I-I want to...”

“What do you want, baby?” Jungkook wondered, voice softer.

“You don't get to decide tonight” Jimin responded, digging his teeth into his bottom lip.

Jungkook arched up his eyebrows, slight smirk dancing around his lips as he appeared to catch on, “Oh?”

The pink haired boy's breath hitched in his throat as he noticed the way Jungkook's pupils dilated, desire displayed in his brown orbs.

“You're not going to let me play with your cute little body tonight?” Jungkook wondered, leaning in, hot breath tickling on Jimin's skin, “Won't be begging me to fuck you by the end of this? I doubt that” he whispered teasingly into Jimin's ear, one hand curling around Jimin's waist, giving it a tender squeeze.
In response, Jimin gasped, eyes fluttering shut as his penis twitched inbetween their bodies. However, this was not how it was supposed to go! Jimin was already aware of how he was slipping into a more submissive mindset, yet tonight was ought to be slightly different.

“Where is your pretty collar, hm? Are you not going to wear it for me tonight?” Jungkook wanted to know, titling his head to the side as he traced his fingertips along Jimin's collarbones, moving closer to his throat before he loosely wrapped his hand around it.

Jimin swallowed hard, adam's apple bobbing against Jungkook's palm in the process. The pink haired boy shook his head, closing his petite hand around Jungkook's wrist to pull his hand away.

A smug smile adorned Jungkook’s defined features, eyebrows arched up at Jimin's act of control, the boy clearly wanting to take the initiative tonight.

“No?” Jungkook repeated.

“No” Jimin breathed, allowing Jungkook's wrist to slip from his grasp, “I-I want tonight to be different” the nervous boy revealed, legs almost buckling at the way Jungkook's eyes darkened, at the way he was intently staring at Jimin, gaze piercing through him.

“Different? How so?” Jungkook wondered, the man wetting his lips as he eyed the pink haired boy in front of him. In all honesty, he was so fucking aroused by the mere appearance of Jimin – his fair skin so inviting, almost urging Jungkook to leave marks everywhere, his flushed cheeks such an adorable sight, his doe eyes filled with desire, but affection all the same, his pastel pink hair still a damp, fluffy mess on top of his head. To sum it up – Jimin was a fucking living piece of art that Jungkook couldn't tear his gaze away from, that evoke the urge in Jungkook to ruin him, but protect him all the same. The taller one just wanted to fuck him senseless before cuddling him to sleep. That's how absolutely whipped he was for Jimin.

“I want to take the lead tonight’” Jimin whispered a response.

Jungkook's brows shot up in surprise, “You do? We have tried that before, haven't we?”

“I-I know, but I want to try again” Jimin replied, wetting his lips. Jungkook's eyes followed the movement, his pupils dilating, “I want to take care of you tonight” he added, voice softer. As soon as those words left his mouth, Jungkook's gaze rushed back up to stare into Jimin's doe eyes, fondness glistening in them, “You're always taking care of me, so now I want you to... to sit back and let me take care of you”

Jimin couldn't believe that he had actually just said that. The courage that had bloomed somewhere within him had made him manage to utter out those words without stuttering. It enabled him to be a little less vulnerable, yet Jimin could feel the bravery fading away – all of this simply too new and somewhat foreign to him.

Surely, it was in his nature to take care of people, to behave and to want to be good, yet having the entire control was slightly different and way scarier.

“Oh, kitten, I'm all yours” Jungkook declared, dropping his hands and nodding at Jimin, “What do you want to do?”

The smaller boy's heartbeat quickened, the knowledge of being in control tonight excited him, yet made him nervous all the same. After all, the last time they had done exactly that, Jimin had turned needy fairly soon, having desired Jungkook to take the lead.
The chances weren't slim that tonight would be any different than that, yet Jimin wanted to try.

Inhaling a shaky breath, Jimin got up on his tippy-toes, attaching their lips in a gentle kiss as he simultaneously reached for the top button on Jungkook's shirt, opening it up, “O-Okay?” he whispered inbetween their kiss, Jungkook humming lowly as his hands curled around Jimin's waist, pressing the boy against the window as he deepened the kiss.

“Do whatever you want to do” Jungkook assured him, catching his breath for a mere moment before he captured Jimin's lips in another hungry kiss, the shorter male mewling against his lips, breath hitching in his throat as soon as Jungkook pushed his tongue against his own.

Swiftly, Jimin buttoned down Jungkook's shirt, sliding it off his shoulders and allowing it to drop down on the floor behind the boy. Carefully, he withdrew, breathing rapidly as he admired the sight of Jungkook's bare upper body. Almost unconsciously, he lifted his hand, tracing his fingertips along Jungkook's defined abs, the boy swallowing hard as he felt the strong muscles beneath his touch.

It was as though Jimin was caught in a trance, gaze fixated on Jungkook's gorgeous features.

Gently, Jungkook gripped his chin, guiding his face back up in order to lock eyes with him. The softness hidden in Jungkook's brown orbs comforted Jimin, the boy trying to focus on it.

“Off?” Jungkook wondered, slight smirk on his face as he pulled up an eyebrow, playing with the waistband of his own pants.

Gulping, Jimin hesitantly nodded, eyes flickering back and forth between Jungkook's veiny hands playing with his belt and his smug expression that adorned his handsome features.

It was apparent that losing the entire control wasn't easy for Jungkook – potentially not something that was even possible for him at all. After all, Jungkook was rather dominant and authoritative by nature. Surely, giving all of that away wasn't in his bones.

Just as it wasn't in Jimin's bones to have the utmost dominance or control.

However, they were both trying.

In all honesty, Jimin wasn't quite certain what his true goal for tonight was. Obviously, he had wanted to surprise Jungkook with a new side of him, tried to be somewhat... sexy? Wanted to be the one to take care of him tonight as he was usually the one doing all the work, yet what did that include, how far would he go?

Was Jimin going to try and entirely dominate Jungkook tonight- because, to be fair, that surely wasn't happening. It simply wasn't within him to do that and it quite certainly wasn't in Jungkook to be submissive either, but... Jimin could try, right?

After all, essentially, it wasn't anything Jimin truly desired to be either. No, he didn't long for dominance during sex, enjoyed the way their dynamics had fallen and were established into them, how they worked together in the perfect way. However, how could he be entirely certain whether or not he actually didn't want to be dominant at all, if he never really tried it?

Then again, in all honesty, Jimin was somewhat scared and very nervous – for a reason he didn't know.

The black haired boy tugged down his pants, stepping out of them and kicking them to the side. Almost patiently, he was standing there, straight posture and head titled to the side as he waited for Jimin to go on. However, there was his ever-lasting smug smirk dancing around his lips.
Jimin noticed the display of a prominent bulge in his front, his black briefs tight around his crotch – a visible proof of Jungkook being aroused by all of this, by Jimin.

“What now, baby?” Jungkook wanted to know, reaching out to rub the pad of his thumb along Jimin's cheekbone.

Jimin exhaled a shaky breath, eyes almost fluttering shut, “C-Can you sit on the armchair, please?” he insisted, pointing to the piece of furniture.

Jungkook's smile deepened, “Whatever you want” he responded, giving a nod as he dropped his hand, confidently strutting over to the armchair, taking a seat.

For some reason, Jimin felt vulnerable, not certain what to do with himself. What was he even supposed to do now? How was he going to voice his desire of what he wanted to do with Jungkook, if he was lacking comfort in this foreign situation?

Slowly, Jungkook was studying his features, his eyes softening as he noticed the discomfort Jimin was experiencing, his doe eyes almost glassy as he stared back at Jungkook. The shy boy was just standing there, chest moving up and down in a rapid pace, cheeks flushed a pretty pink.

Swallowing hard, the smaller boy moved closer, playing with his fingers, “May I... Is it okay, if I... Only, if that's okay for you, but...” Jimin stuttered, puzzled by the fact of why this situation was overwhelming him despite Jungkook always being so very kind and respectful. Evidently, Jungkook was more than supportive in his attempt to change things up tonight, wasn't judging him in the slightest, but was trying his best to adjust to the new circumstances as well.

What was wrong with Jimin?

“Jimin-ah, kitten, hey, come here” Jungkook interrupted him softly, reaching a hand out to Jimin. The latter's bottom lip started wobbling as he tip-toed closer, placing his hand in Jungkook's bigger one. Tenderly, Jungkook pulled him onto his lap, closing his arms around Jimin's back to hug him close, “There is no need to be nervous, okay? Come on, deep breath for me” he whispered, noticing Jimin's quick heartbeat, his heart pounding fast against his chest.

Jimin obliged, inhaling a deep breath as he squeezed his eyes shut, trying to supress the tears that were forming in his eyes for a reason that was unknown to him. Swiftly, he hid his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck, taking deep breaths to comply Jungkook's instruction.

“Hey, angel, can you tell me what's wrong?” Jungkook murmured into his ear, rubbing his warm hand along Jimin's back, caressing the skin with the utmost care and tenderness.

“I don't know. I feel... I feel stupid. Is this weird?” Jimin mumbled, catching his bottom lip between his teeth as he lifted his head, taking a glimpse at Jungkook, “Is it... is it odd that I'm trying to take the lead for once? That I'm surprising you like that although I'm... I'm not like that at all?”

Jungkook shook his head, noticing how watery Jimin's eyes were as though he was about to cry. Upon the sight, Jungkook's heart clenched, the urge to protect the boy sitting in his lap blooming within him, “Little one, hey, look at me” Jungkook insisted, grabbing Jimin's chin to guide his face up in order to lock eyes with him, the shorter one appearing to try to avoid any eye contact – ashamed of his sudden burst of anxiety, “Deep breath, okay? Can you do that, angel?”

The pink haired male nodded, obeying as he took several deep breaths for Jungkook, staring deep into his eyes to focus on the softness, the affection that was glistening in them as it was comforting to him.
“There you go, baby, good boy” Jungkook whispered, leaning in to press a kiss to Jimin's forehead as he proceeded to trace his fingertips over Jimin's back.

After a moment of silence, Jungkook waiting for Jimin's heart to calm down, he smiled softly at the smaller one.

“This is not weird, Jimin-ah. It's beautiful that you've felt confident enough to try something new. I'm proud of you for having the bravery. You know that I want you to be comfortable though, always, hm?” Jungkook reminded him, an eyebrow arched up as he rubbed his thumb over Jimin's cheek, “Are you comfortable?”

To be honest, Jimin wasn't quite sure what he was feeling. At the beginning of all of this, he had felt nervous, but very excited to try this. However, although the excitement was still present, once he had actually been in the situation, his nervousness and anxiety had won the upper-hand, outweighing anything else.

Then again, Jungkook was soothing him, was assuring him in what he wanted to do.

“I... I was- I mean, I don't know. I feel nervous and... and stupid” Jimin voiced his thoughts, shrugging his shoulders as he was frustrated with himself for not being quite capable to express his thoughts – yet, also frustrated for feeling like this in the first place and not being able to just go on and take the control for once. “I thought... Your previous sex partners I've met before all appeared to be so... sexy and confident and I just thought that... I don't know... That I should try it, too? That I should try something else for once because I don't want to... bore you”

Jungkook halted his movement, his heart clenching and concern glistening in his eyes as he arched up his brows in surprise, “Jimin-ah, that is... Little one, no, you're perfect the way you are. You don't bore me at all. I enjoy the sex with you, I always do. Everything we do feels new to me. In fact, you're the most compatible sex partner I've ever had. I told you before that sex with you is so much better because I actually have feelings for you” Jungkook stated, cupping Jimin's face as the latter had attempted to avert his gaze.

“I just... I don't know. I wanted to try something new, but now I feel stupid and... and insecure...” Jimin revealed softly, shrugging his shoulders.

“There's no need to feel either of those things. I love you, Jimin-ah. You're the sexiest, most beautiful and stunning person I've ever seen. Fuck, do you even know how fucking attracted I am to you? I could get hard by the mere look at your pretty lips. You're the only one I'm looking at, the only one I need – just the way you are” Jungkook assured him, sincerity in his eyes.

Jimin blushed, dipping his head down.

“You're not stupid for trying something new and wanting to be more confident in sex. If you want to try being in control, then I'm more than happy to be there for you to see whether or not you enjoy it. If you do, then that's great, but if you don't, then that's just as great. But please don't feel forced to do anything, little one” he added.

Jimin bit down on his bottom lip, “I do want to try this. Just... the whole... the whole way I did it is just... I should have talked to you first and not stand in front of you completely naked, I mean-“

“You can always surprise me, little one. There's something even more exciting about that, hm?” Jungkook uttered, grabbing Jimin's chin and tilting his head up, locking eyes with his lover, “Do you know how fucking hot you looked when you dropped that robe?” Jimin's cheeks flushed a shade of rose at the compliment, the shy boy shaking his head, “Fuck, you look ravishing, Jimin-ah. I was about to fuck you right against the window”

Jimin swallowed hard, lips parting as a soft breath slipped from him, yet he also smiled shyly at the softness in Jungkook's own smile.

Well, that would had been a great turn of events, too – after all, it was a known fact to either of the boys how much Jimin truly loved being taking up against a wall, the numerous prior incidents being any indication of that fact. Clearly, Jimin had a slight... well, rather very prominent strength kink.

“Yet, you don't have to do that. You don't need to surprise me like that. You're sexy to me either way” the black haired boy assured him, Jimin's blush deepening.

“Thank you, Kook-ah” Jimin uttered, “I feel better and less nervous now” Jimin responded softly, feeling his heart ease, “I just... I guess I should have talked to you about this after... after we had sex because...” Jimin murmured, playing with his petite fingers, a sigh falling from his lips, “I'm sorry for ruining the mood”

“You haven't ruined anything, baby” Jungkook reassured, leaning closer, “I'm still hard for you” he murmured, grinding up into Jimin to prove that point, the pink haired boy gasping as he felt his hard length brush over Jimin's butt, “Hm?”

Swallowing hard, Jimin gave a nod, glancing up through his lashes to meet Jungkook's eyes, the latter's hands roaming down to Jimin's thighs, giving them a gentle squeeze in reassurance.

“Do you want to go on now or do you want to stop? Feel better?” Jungkook murmured, warm smile still adorning his features, Jimin's heart fluttering at the sight.

“Yes, I feel better. Thank you” Jimin smiled shyly, nodding his head as he leaned in, capturing Jungkook's lips in a gentle kiss before he withdrew, “I-I want to go on”

It flabbergasted Jungkook how Jimin was even remotely insecure in his effect on Jungkook or his sole appearance itself. Frankly, the smaller boy was so gorgeous, so beautiful - so sexy, if he wanted to be. It was cruel how he didn't appear to see that himself. Yet, Jungkook would be there to remind him - Every single day of his life.

Jungkook would do anything for him. Fuck, if he could, he would pick the stars right from the sky and give them to Jimin, if he'd ask him to. Whatever it was, whatever Jimin wished for, Jungkook would do anything to realise that exact wish. If Jimin wanted the control tonight, then fuck, take it, take it all. Jungkook was going to do anything in his power to make sure that Jimin was comfortable and happy.

However, it truly wasn't an easy task, the dominance in his bones urging him on to simply pick Jimin up and fuck him right against the wall.

The younger male licked over his lips as he traced his hands over Jimin's soft skin, goosebumps forming beneath his touch. Slowly, his eyes travelled down to Jimin's pastel pink socks, a damn piece of clothing somehow making him appear that much more angelic and innocent despite of what they were about to do.

“Tell me what you want” Jungkook insisted, sinking back into the seat, hands not leaving Jimin's thighs.

Inhaling a deep breath, Jimin bundled up all the courage in his bones to respond, “May I tie your hands to your back?”
Jungkook's eyebrows arched up at the request, the boy evidently not having expected such a question, “Fuck, you're going to tease me, aren't you? Not being allowed to touch you is torture”

The smaller boy caught his bottom lip between his teeth, “We don't have to do that, if you don't feel comfortable” he assured, shaking his head.

“No, baby, go ahead. I'm all yours. Do whatever your sweet mind desires”

Jimin gave a nod, smiling softly as he got up to his feet, Jungkook's palms reluctantly slipping from his hips. Swiftly, he spun around, hurrying over to the dresser to pick out two of Jungkook's black ties. For a moment, he rummaged around the drawer, searching for one that was slightly thicker. In the end, he was able to find one.

Once he had picked what he had been looking for, he turned back around, strutting over to Jungkook who was already staring at him intently, gaze fixated on him as he observed Jimin's every move. His eyes were a dark shade of brown, pupils blown wide in lust as he spread his legs apart, leaning back into his seat as he waited patiently for Jimin's return.

He loves you the way you are. You're beautiful to him. Jimin proceeded to remind himself of Jungkook's words, his confidence blooming again, comfort settling within him.

Carefully, he straddled Jungkook's lap again, the latter's hands immediataly closing around his waist to pull him closer, fingers digging into Jimin's fair skin to undoubtably leave marks.

“Hands behind your back, please” Jimin ordered softly, lifting one of the ties up.

The taller boy wet his lips, obliging and placing his arms behind his back.

“Can you lean forward, please?” Jimin whispered.

Jungkook gave a nod, leaning forward against Jimin, his face brushing over the curve of Jimin's neck as the latter wrapped the piece of fabric around Jungkook's wrists. The pink haired boy fastened it tightly, yet still leaving some room as to not hurt Jungkook too much or to leave any deep red marks – just the way Jungkook had taught him.

“O-Okay, done” Jimin declared.

“Good boy” Jungkook whispered, smirking against Jimin's skin as he pressed open-mouthed kisses to the sensitive skin on his throat. In response, Jimin whimpered, hands clenching into fists as he involuntarily rocked his hips forward.

“No” Jimin protested, shaking his head and pushing against Jungkook's shoulders, “Lean back. You're not allowed to touch” he ordered.

Jungkook pulled up an eyebrow, cocking his head to the side, “I'm not?” he echoed.

“No” Jimin answered, determinately shaking his head.

“No even kisses?” Jungkook wondered, trying to lean closer again, yet restricted by Jimin who pushed him back by his chest.

Jimin bit down on his bottom lip, “Well.. I'll decide later” he murmured.

The taller boy was still dripping with confidence, smug smirk adorning his handsome features as he teased Jimin in just the way he knew would earn him an adorable reaction. There was something so satisfying about teasing Jimin, watching him squirm and blush for him.

Yet, to Jimin, Jungkook's behaviour just spurred him on to try harder. By the end of this, he wanted Jungkook to desire him just as much, wanted him to long for Jimin.

“Can I... I brought another one” Jimin revealed, lifting the remaining piece of fabric in his hand up into the air.

Jungkook cocked his head to the side, pulling up an eyebrow in curiosity, “What do you have in mind?”

Swallowing hard, Jimin wet his lips, looking up at Jungkook through his lashes, “May I blindfold you?” he asked.

Jungkook's eyes were dark with lust, pupils dilated and stare intense as his gaze was fixated on Jimin's every move. Despite it surely not being Jungkook's intention, the mere stare caused Jimin's knees to buckle, a whimper almost escaping him as his heart urged him to drop to his knees and follow Jungkook's orders. There was always this kind of dominating demeanor dripping from him, that authoritative appearance that made Jimin want to beg for him. Hopefully, if he blindfolded Jungkook, his gaze wouldn't result in Jimin feeling like that any longer.

The younger male appeared taken aback, eyebrows shooting up in surprise as he opened his mouth, yet no words leaving him for a brief moment, “Blindfold?” he echoed eventually, running his tongue along his bottom lip in thought, “Fuck, you're trying to kill me, aren't you? Won't even allow me to see your pretty body or face?”

Shaking his head, Jimin felt his cheeks tinge a darker shade of red, “You told me that it would increase your sense of feeling, that any touch would be more prominent so I just thought...” Jimin reasoned, the remainder of the sentence hanging in the air between them.

“Go ahead, little one. You're allowed to do whatever you want tonight” Jungkook declared, pulling at his restraints, but noticing fairly quickly that he wasn't able to move his arms.

What a fucking pain in the ass this was going to be.

Giving a determined nod, Jimin leaned closer, staring into Jungkook's beautiful brown orbs one last time before he placed the piece of fabric over his eyes, tying it to the back of his head.

Jimin wondered how it was like, the urge to experience it on himself one day blooming within him. Wasn't that even more evidence of... dominance not exactly running through his veins?

The smaller boy shook his head at those thoughts, determined to try something else tonight.

“Fuck, this... fuck, this sucks” Jungkook cursed, pulling on his restraints and turning his head from side to side, “You want to torture me, hm?”

“No” Jimin assured, shaking his head as he pressed a kiss to Jungkook's cheek, “I want you to feel good” he added, somehow giggling at Jungkook's reaction.

To be honest, Jungkook had never been blindfolded during sex – or ever for that matter. It wasn't anything that he had ever desired to experience on himself, but rather chose and preferred to blindfold his sexual partners.

Fuck, it was such a pain in the ass to not be able to touch Jimin to begin with, but not even being allowed to see the beautiful boy? Even worse.
Despite it being not exactly something he had ever desired to experience, he was more than happy to go along with Jimin's plan in order to enable him to try out whatever he wished for tonight. After all, there were still so many things Jimin wasn't aware of or wasn't as comfortable in, so it was Jungkook's pleasure to help Jimin in that sense.

Furthermore, he was experiencing something new tonight himself. Truthfully, he doubted that he would get off on being blindfolded itself as he was already hating it, but he surely would be aroused by whatever Jimin decided to do to him.

“Is this okay? Do you want me to take it off?” Jimin wanted to make sure, slight concern blossoming within him, “You can use the safewords, too, Kook-ah”

“No, baby, it's fine” Jungkook assured him, wetting his lips.

“Okay” Jimin breathed.

So what now?

Silence settled between them, Jimin deliberating over his next move. It was odd to be in this position for once, to decide where this night was going to go, to decide what to do with Jungkook and having the boy grant him anything he wanted to do to him.

Cautiously, Jimin leaned in, attaching their lips in a hesitant kiss. A breath slipped from Jungkook's mouth at the touch, the boy parting his lips and pushing his tongue against Jimin's.

The latter grasped Jungkook's shoulders as he kissed right back, whimpering against Jungkook as he rocked his hips into his crotch, the other male groaning at the stimulation.

Jimin realised fairly quickly that he was already craving Jungkook's hands on him, longed for him to touch him, to leave marks on his body, to dominate him.

Dammit. This was going to be a lot harder than Jimin had imagined it to be.

As soon as Jimin withdrew, Jungkook attempted to chase after him, cursing under his breath as he wasn't able to reach Jimin, arms restrained to touch him as well.

Slowly, Jimin straightened his posture, allowing his fingertips to trace along Jungkook's chest and down to his stomach, observing how the muscles of his abs spasm beneath his touch. Then, Jimin got up from his lap entirely, dropping down on the soft rug in front of the armchair, adjusting himself on his knees.

“What are you doing, kitten?” Jungkook wanted to know, wetting his lips. Jimin noticed the way his chest was moving unevenly, a sign of his heavy breathing.

“W-Wanna suck you off” Jimin answered, voice soft as he reached for Jungkook's briefs, his fingers playing with the waistband before he hooked his digits around the fabric, giving it a swift tug, “Okay?”

“Fuck, yes, little one”

In order to help Jimin, Jungkook lifted his hips up, allowing Jimin to remove the last piece of clothing from his body. Gently, Jimin pulled it down his legs, dropping it to the floor next to him.

The pink haired boy had to bite down on his bottom lip in order to muffle any embarrassing sounds that had wanted to slip from his mouth as his gaze fell on Jungkook's semi-hard erection. The sight itself made Jimin desperate, urged him to beg for Jungkook – for anything the boy would give him.

Swallowing hard, Jimin leaned forward, gently closing his palm around Jungkook’s penis and giving it a little squeeze. The taller boy cursed at the contact, Jimin observing the way his petite hand couldn't quite fit around all of Jungkook's member.

Slowly, he moved his fist up to the tip, running the pad of his thumb over the sensitive slit. In response, Jungkook's hips bucked up into the touch, the boy silently asking for more.

“Remember what to do?” Jungkook wanted to know, spreading his legs further apart as Jimin hovered above him, his lips lingering mere inches above the head of his erection. To be fair, it was quite embarrassing how Jimin's mouth was already watering, drool essentially almost leaking from his lips.

Frankly, Jimin simply loved to give Jungkook head – so, so much.

“Mhm-mh” Jimin hummed in confirmation, his cute tongue poking out against the base and licking a fat stripe up to the head before he pressed an open-mouthed kiss against the tip.

The smaller boy whimpered at the taste, own penis twitching against his leg as he finally sank down on Jungkook's erection, pushing the hard length between his full lips. Truthfully, Jimin couldn't recall the last time he had given Jungkook a blowjob, faintly replaying the time he had been finally capable to deepthroat Jungkook in his mind.

Jungkook's penis twitched against Jimin's tongue, the latter squeezing his eyes shut as he pushed his head down. As always, Jimin was determined to deepthroat Jungkook, attempted to fit all of him into his throat in one go – Yet, his gag reflex wasn't that generous.

As soon as the tip of Jungkook's penis hit against the back of Jimin's throat, the pink haired male was forced to pull off, annoyed by the way his body reacted. Coughing and spluttering several times, Jimin wiped the back of his hand over his mouth, breaking the streak of spit that had connected his lips with Jungkook's hard length.

“C-Careful, baby” Jungkook warned softly, yet again trying to reach out to Jimin, but cursing at the realisation of being restricted in doing exactly that.

“W-Wanna deepthroat” Jimin revealed quietly, giving Jungkook's erection a few pumps before he pressed the head against his tongue.

“There you go, baby” Slowly, Jimin slid the hard length back inside, head sinking down on Jungkook's throbbing member, Jimin digging his digits into Jungkook's thigh to hold onto something, simultaneously squeezing his eyes shut again.

In order to adjust to the size, Jimin pulled off until only the tip was between his lips and then sank down again, repeating that process in a slow pace several times. In the meanwhile, Jungkook was groaning, cursing beneath his breath at the almost teasing way Jimin was sucking him off.

Pride swelled in Jimin's chest at the knowledge of how worked up Jungkook was because of him, how he was receiving pleasure because of him. Determined to satisfy him even more than that, Jimin pushed his head further down, gag reflex rejecting almost immediately, yet Jimin didn't care.

Tears pricked in the corner of Jimin's eyes, body urging him to pull off, yet heart and his intial wish to satisfy and please refusing. Instead, Jimin coughed and spluttered around the length in his mouth, drool trailing down the erection and making a big mess.

However, neither of them appeared to mind that at all, Jungkook praising him and Jimin just allowing himself to jerk off the remainder of Jungkook's penis more beneficial and easily.

“Don't force me down, kitten” Jungkook warned him, Jimin only humming around his erection, but not exactly listening to him either.

Slowly, Jimin began to bob his head up and down, swiftly picking up a quicker pace. With each motion of his, wet gagging noises and little whimpers from Jimin filled the room, Jungkook's erection twitching at the sounds Jimin was creating.

“So good, kitten, such a good boy” Jungkook praised, wetting his lips.

Gently, Jimin pulled off, chest heaving as he was gasping for air, proceeding to tug on Jungkook's penis, allowing his fingers to play with him.

“G-Good? Am I good?” Jimin wanted to know, voice soft and already faintly touched by fair raspiness.

Jungkook nodded, “The best, fuck, my good boy” he responded breathy.

Heart fluttering, Jimin bent forward again, poking his tongue out to twirl it around the tip, collecting some pre-cum on it. Humming at the taste, Jimin's eyes fluttered shut as he swallowed it down, lapping over the tip several more times to receive more.

“You're doing so good, kitten” Jungkook complimented him, Jimin smiling as he felt his cheeks tinge a shade of rose because Jungkook was showering him with praises.

Pressing the tip between his lips, Jimin gave it a tender suck, twirling his tongue around before he sank back down on the hard length. Once the tip hit the back of Jimin's throat, he forced it down even more, gagging around the throbbing member in his mouth, but yet too determined to deepthroat.

Swiftly, Jimin bobbed his head up and down several times, whining around the length in his mouth in his attempt to fit all of Jungkook inside of him. Pressing his eyes shut, a tear rolled down Jimin's cheek as he finally reached the base of Jungkook's erection, pride and joy blooming within him at that realisation.

“Shit, kitten” Jungkook groaned, head falling on the backrest of the armchair, his hands clenching into fists behind his back “S-So fucking good. Good boy”

It took every last ounce of self-control in him to not fuck right into Jimin's mouth.

The shorter one hummed in satisfaction and happiness around Jungkook's penis, ignoring the way his gag reflex urged him to pull off, ignoring the drool that was trailing down Jungkook's length and south to his balls.

For a moment, Jimin just remained in his position, breathing heavily through his nose as he dug his digits deeper into Jungkook's thighs, not certain whether to pull off entirely or allow Jungkook to thrust up into his mouth.

Involuntarily, Jimin's penis jerked up in excitement at the thought of Jungkook using his mouth – Jimin imagining the boy to just grab him by his hair and thrust into his mouth until he was painting his face with white stripes.
Jimin whined at the image in his mind, regret washing over him as Jungkook’s hands were tied – quite literally. There was no way to enable that wish right now.

Ultimately, Jimin pulled up to the tip, sucking on the length while simultaneously twirling his tongue around before he sank back down to the base, repeating the action several times until he picked up a steady pace, bobbing his head up and down.

“Holy shit, Jimin-ah, fuck” Jungkook cursed, almost bucking his hips up into the tight, wet heat of Jimin’s mouth, but his self-control and protective streak to not ever harm Jimin overweighing that wish.

The pink haired boy mewled around the hard length, his own penis begging for attention, almost hurting as it was being entirely neglected by Jimin.

Slowly, Jimin pulled off again, “Wanna- wanna play with myself” he begged softly, breathing heavily as he rested his head on Jungkook’s inner thigh, his hand still loosely wrapped around Jungkook’s throbbing member to jerk him off, own erection screaming for attention.

“Baby, you’re in charge. No need to ask” Jungkook reminded him, groaning in frustration as Jimin was barely moving his hand, almost lazily playing with him as he was desperate to touch himself.

Right.

To be honest, Jimin was simply too used to their dynamics – actually loved them the way they were. In fact, he was already longing for them to fall back into the way they used to, craved for Jungkook to order him around and tell him what to do, yet he had barely even tried at all.

In the end, Jimin decided against playing with himself as this was supposed to be all about Jungkook. The smaller one desired to pleasure Jungkook and focus solely on him tonight.

However, it surely wasn’t as easy as he was trying to convince himself for it to be, telling himself that his needy state wouldn’t take over despite him knowing better.

Truthfully, both were quite aware how this night was going to end – Jungkook unmistakenly the one to be in charge again - yet that didn't stop them from playing for now.

“S-Stop teasing, Jimin-ah” Jungkook gritted through his teeth, wetting his lips as he bucked his hips into Jimin's loose fist.

The latter dug his teeth into his bottom lip, withdrawing his hand and watching how Jungkook's penis slapped down onto his stomach, a loud sound echoing in the room. Gasping, Jimin tilted his head to the side, observing how the erection twitched as it was begging for attention, a drop of pre-cum leaking from the slit.

Gently, Jimin reached out, his delicate fingers tracing along Jungkook’s penis, brushing over the veins and applying only faint pressure in his touch. It was almost as though Jimin was mesmerised by the sight, drool trailing down his lip at the thought of just finally sitting down on it and riding-“Fuck, don’t- don't do that” Jungkook warned, attempting to buck away from the touch, yet not exactly capable to do just that.

Pulling up his brows in curiosity, Jimin cocked his head to the side, “Why?” he whispered, yet proceeded to tease Jungkook by caressing his hard length with his fingertips – not providing him with much, yet surely just enough to bring him closer to the edge as he had been fairly close to begin with.
“You’re-” Jungkook murmured, but went silent as he groaned again.

“What?” Jimin wanted to know, inhaling a shaky breath as he collected some pre-cum on his index finger, licking the digit clean before traced his fingertips along Jungkook's shaft again.

Jungkook pulled on his restraints, “Be a good boy” he warned.

“I am” Jimin stated, eyes big in innocence as he rested his head on Jungkook's thigh again, teasing himself just as much by not sucking Jungkook off. Frankly, they were both kind of suffering here.

“Stop teasing, kitten” Jungkook demanded through gritted teeth.

“What if I don't?” Jimin challenged, voice quiet and soft, the words surprising Jimin himself.

Hesitance.

Jungkook clicked his tongue, yet his penis twitched beneath Jimin's touch, “Don't test me” he uttered, voice calm, yet tone low.

The smaller boy's breath hitched in his throat, Jimin swiftly biting down on his bottom lip to muffle the mewl that had threatened to slip from his lips, “W-What are you going to do to me?”

“Untie me and you'll find out” Jungkook responded, a faint smirk adorning his handsome features.

“Will you p-punish me?” Jimin whispered, swallowing hard.

“Wouldn't be as fun to let you know now, hm?”

It was embarrassing how the heat in the pit of Jimin's stomach grew at the mere idea of being punished. It was surprising how daring Jimin was, the ounce of courage he possessed not yet fading away and buckling under Jungkook's threat – Yet, was it even a threat? To Jimin, this was clearly arousing. The sole thought of what Jungkook would do to him excited him that much, whimper already slipping from his lips.

“No” Jimin simply uttered, digging his teeth into his bottom lip as he closed his entire hand around Jungkook's throbbing member, pumping the flesh in his hand almost torturing slow and watching more pre-cum leak from the slit, trailing down and making an even bigger, wet mess.

“Fuck” Jungkook grunted, pressing his lips into a line.

Proceeding to pleasure the taller boy, Jimin deliberated over whether or not he should make Jungkook come like this before having him orgasm again by riding him, yet he wasn't as certain on whether Jungkook would be able to handle another release in such a short amount of time.

However, before he was even remotely close to making a decision, Jungkook cursed beneath his breath, hips bucking into Jimin's fist, “Shit, kitten, I-I’m close”

The smaller one whined, but gave a nod despite Jungkook not being capable to see that. Swiftly, he leaned down again, lingering above Jungkook's hard length, lips parted as he poked out his tongue, rubbing it sensually over the tip – up and down, circling it with firm laps.

“J-Jimin-ah” Jungkook warned through gritted teeth, clenching his hands into fists.

As Jimin pressed the head of his penis against his tongue, barely pushing it between his parted lips, he noticed the faint trembling of Jungkook's thighs – the boy wondering whether Jungkook was attempting to prevent himself from coming.
However, he didn't quite manage to do that as Jimin sank down on him again, deepthroating him with an obscene noise of his gag reflex.

“Fuck, baby, yes- just-” Jungkook cursed, throwing his head back into his neck, groaning Jimin's name repeatedly. At that, Jimin pulled off, licking over his lips as he was moving his fist along Jungkook's length, pressing the tip against his tongue, “J-Jimin-ah”

Then, Jungkook was coming – hard. The pink haired boy shrieked, having jerked Jungkook through it, the prolonged pressure causing white stripes to spurt on his face, only a faint amount of it falling on his tongue.

Jimin observed the younger male's muscles spasm, penis twitching in his grasp as he was proceeding to move his hand slower, big eyes staring at Jungkook.

“Oh- Fuck- Shit, Jimin-ah”

Jungkook's chest was heaving, the boy breathing heavily as he was remaining in his position – almost as though he was spaced out, drawn into a sweet haze of ecstasy as he was riding out his orgasm, Jimin leaning down to lick the sperm from Jungkook's penis, savouring the taste on his tongue – desiring more.

“Oh, stop, baby. Enough” Jungkook insisted breathy.

In response, Jimin whined, but obeyed regardless, withdrawing to lick his hand clean, eyes fluttering shut at the taste of Jungkook on his tongue. There was something so fulfilling whenever he sucked Jungkook off, something so... intoxicating and addictive. Clearly, Jungkook was all of that to begin with, but this particular way of pleasuring the boy was one of Jimin's favourites.

In all honesty, he still wasn't certain what exactly the reason for his love for blowjobs was. Essentially, he reckoned that it was the fact of satisfying Jungkook and being good, yet Jimin enjoyed the mere fact of having his mouth stuffed with Jungkook's penis as well. Frankly, he didn't doubt that he could spend hours just sucking on it lazily, content with the fact of having it in his mouth while also taking care of Jungkook.

Was that a kink itself?

Jungkook wet his lips, finally moving his head again, “That was...” he trailed off, a content sigh falling from his lips.

“Y-Yes...?” Jimin murmured, eyes big in curiosity, the boy almost shy as he played with his fingers, gaze fixated on Jungkook's rose lips, waiting for him to talk.

“Fuck, I think that was the best head I've ever gotten” Jungkook muttered, slight smirk adorning his handsome face.

Jimin's eyes lit up at his words, cheeks tingling with a shade of red as he smiled shyly, “R-Really? The best?” he echoed, digging his teeth into his bottom lip to contain his excitement.

“Yes, shit, you did so fucking well, little one” Jungkook praised, giving a nod.

Pride swelled in Jimin's chest, the pink haired male slumping down on his knees as he felt his heartbeat quicken, endeared by the praise. Surely, Jungkook must have received so many blowjobs in his life already, yet here he was – declaring that Jimin's was his favourite one ever.

It was embarrassing but Jimin almost wanted to shriek in euphoria at that praise.
However, he noticed the way Jungkook was titling his head from side to side, shoulders shifting as a groan slipped from his lips, “Are you okay?” Jimin whispered, straightening his posture to rest his delicate hands on Jungkook's thighs, giving them a reassuring squeeze.

Jungkook smiled, giving a nod, “Yes, fuck, so good. The ties are a fucking pain in the ass though. No wonder you hate them” he noted with a snicker.

“I... I don't hate them. I like everything you do to me. I like... being at your mercy” Jimin expressed, voice just above a whisper. Swiftly, he bit down on his tongue, regret washing over him at that revelation as he was supposed to be the one taking the lead tonight.

Yet, Jungkook didn't mind – didn't mind at all.

“Fuck, I know, little one” Jungkook responded as he swallowed hard, licking his lips, “I like taking care of you, too”

They smiled at one another although Jungkook wasn't aware that Jimin was mirroring his expression.

Then, Jimin titled his head to the side, “Colour?” he still wondered, concerned by their exchange that included Jungkook expressing his discomfort with the restraints.

Jungkook chuckled at his adorable way of wanting to assure Jungkook's comfort, “Green, baby, green” he assured, “But give me a sec” he asked for, stretching his neck, “Are you okay, kitten?”

The smaller boy rested his head on Jungkook's thigh, staring up at him with big eyes, “Mhm-mh” Jimin affirmed with a hum, but whined as he noticed the throbbing of his own penis, his erection screaming for attention, begging to no longer be neglected, “Wanna- want more”

“What do you want?” Jungkook wanted to know.

“You” Jimin simply answered, tracing his fingertips along Jungkook's inner thigh, catching his bottom lip between his teeth.

Chuckling, Jungkook gave a nod, “Just a moment, baby”

Jimin whimpered, deciding that he wanted to ride Jungkook. Curiously, he scanned the room, figuring that he needed to grab the lube before going on with anything.

Inhaling a shaky breath, the pink haired male got up to his feet, legs buckling at the arousal that was vivid within him, excitement blooming. Hastily, he waddled over to the bed, not even noticing that they still hadn't shut the curtains.

“Where are you, baby? What are you doing?”

Suddenly, Jimin tripped over his own leg, tumbling into the bedside table and hurting his knee in the process, “Ow” Jimin whined, rubbing over the spot he had previously hit due to his own clumsiness.

“Are you okay, little one?” Jungkook worried, voice suddenly filled with such softness and concern that it made Jimin's heart flutter.

Jimin looked back over his shoulder, noticing how Jungkook was attempting to get out of his seat, clearly worried about him.

“I'm fine” Jimin responded, biting down on the inside of his cheek, wanting to slap himself for ruining the mood yet again.
“Okay” Jungkook uttered, a breath of relief falling from his lips as he sank back down, waiting patiently for Jimin to return.

In the meanwhile, Jimin had opened the top drawer of the nightstand, rummaging around it to find the item he was looking for, eventually picking up the bottle of lube before tip-toeing back over to Jungkook.

Once he had arrived in front of the younger male, Jimin lowered himself on the armchair, straddling Jungkook's lap. An audible breath slipped from Jungkook's lips at Jimin's close proximity, the boy attempting to lean closer in order to kiss Jimin.

Smiling, Jimin closed the distance between their faces, attaching their lips in a slow and passionate kiss, their lips moving against one another for several sweet moments before Jimin withdrew, nuzzling his cheek against Jungkook's.

“Your face is wet. Did you cry?” the taller boy suddenly worried, attempting to look into his direction, yet merely missing the actual position of Jimin's eyes, rather looking right past him.

Confused, Jimin wiped his fingers along his cheek, collecting the remainder of Jungkook's cum on his two digits, “Y-You came on my face” he noted, pushing his fingers between his lips to suck them clean.

“I did?”

“Mhm-mh” Jimin affirmed around his digits, pulling them out of his mouth.

“Made you all messy the way you like it, hm? Fuck, let me see” Jungkook insisted, running his tongue along his bottom lip.

The pink haired boy shook his head, “No”

“No?” Jungkook repeated, cocking his head to the side.

“Already licked it off” Jimin admitted, the flush on his cheeks deepening.

“Fuck” Jungkook cussed, titling his head from side to side before a smirk appeared on his handsome face, “Like my cum that much, huh?”

Exhaling a shaky breath, Jimin dipped his head down, slightly embarrassed by hat fact, “Yes, I like the taste”

Chuckling, Jungkook gave a nod, “You really love sucking dick, don't you?”

“Your... only your...” Jimin clarified.

“Ony mine, baby, I know” Jungkook murmured, a soft smile curling up the corners of his lips, Jimin more than delighted to press a kiss to them.

Silence settled between them, Jimin's palm still closed around the bottle of lube, Jungkook's chest rising and falling in a steady pace again, clearly having calmed down.

Gently, Jimin traced his fingertips along Jungkook's chest, his own erection still screaming at the lack of attention, reminding him of what he had wanted to do.

“I'm going to strech myself open now” Jimin announced, voice soft as he opened the bottle of lube, coating his index and middle finger in a good amount of the sticky substance. Simultaneously, he bent forward, dropping the bottle on Jungkook's lap as he pulled his left buttcheek to the side.

“Let me watch, baby” Jungkook insisted.

“N-No” Jimin denied breathy, pressing his fingers against the ring of muscles, teasing himself for a brief moment before he pushed the digits past the rim, mouth agape in a silent scream.

“Fuck, no- Kitten, let me watch, just- Shit, just let me watch, I won't touch you” Jungkook gritted through his teeth, hips bucking up into nothing as he titled his head from side to side – clearly searching for Jimin's direction.

“No” Jimin whispered, tossing his head back at the feeling of the nice stretch he was experiencing.

Jungkook groaned in frustration, wetting his lips as he imagined how Jimin was currently looking like- all pretty and desperate, playing with himself.

“Ah, oh” Jimin mewled breathy, digging his teeth into his bottom lip as he proceeded to push his finger further into himself, a loud wet squelch filling the room.

“Fuck” Jungkook cussed, throwing his head back as his penis twitched beneath Jimin, the latter rolling his hips into his own fingers, attempting to reach deeper, yet failing miserably.

“Jungkook-ah” the poor boy whimpered, desperately trying to touch his prostate with frantic dabs of his digits, but his fingers were simply too short to enable that, “C-Can't reach deep enough”

“Fuck, let me help you, kitten. I'll strecht you open, hm? My fingers will strech you so nicely, I'll play with your prostate the way you like it, hm, baby?” Jungkook offered, appearing to be almost just as desperate as Jimin. Then again, that was a silly thought – Jimin already beginning to feel dazed, surely more desperate than Jungkook.

“N-No” Jimin declined, shaking his head although Jungkook wasn't even able to see him due to the blindfold, “No touching” he repeated his own rule in a soft voice, deciding to grind on his own fingers as he scissored his digits, allowing them to drag along his sensitive walls as he pulled them apart, “Oh, oh” he moaned, pre-cum leaking from his throbbing member.

Jungkook was utterly screwed. This was pure torture. Jimin was sitting on his lap, playing with his little hole and undoubtably looking all flushed and desperate as he was pleasuring himself and Jungkook- Shit, he wasn't even allowed to see his beautiful angelic boy do something as obscene as that.

“Kook-ah” Jimin moaned high-pitched, eyes fluttering shut as he proceeded to prep his own hole, loud squelches filling the room with each of his motions, audible alongside the cute noises that were slipping from Jimin's lips and the frustrated curses and groans by Jungkook.

“Baby” Jungkook growled.

“'nother one” Jimin whispered to himself, pulling his digits out and searching for the lube.

Swiftly, he opened the bottle with shaky hands, ignoring Jungkook's demand of untying his wrists so the boy would be capable to help him.

Once he had coated three of his fingers with lube, he allowed the bottle to slip from his grasp again, wasting no time to reach back behind himself, placing his digits against his rim and pushing them past the ring of muscles, crying out Jungkook's name at the nice stretch.
“Jimin-ah, just-”

“J-Jungkook-ah” Jimin whimpered, resting his forehead on Jungkook’s shoulder as he digged his other fingers into the flesh of his left buttcheck, still pulling it to the side to ensure that his fingers could reach as deep as possible.

“Kitten, be a good boy, let me help you” Jungkook whispered, pressing his lips to the back of Jimin’s ear, peppering gentle kisses all over his skin, “I’m gonna take such good care of you, hm?”

Whining, Jimin sped the movement of his fingers up, vigorously shaking his head, “N-Not yet”

Groaning in frustration, Jungkook pressed his own face into the curve of Jimin’s neck, his dick still hard and ready to pleasure Jimin. The desire to lose these annoying ties and fuck Jimin stupid grew with each passing second, the urge to just pick him up and fuck him until he cried and begged for Jungkook to stop blooming within him.

Gasping for air, Jimin shrieked as he noticed the growth of the heat in the pit of his stomach, announcing the release that was approaching him gradually. If he wanted to come with Jungkook inside of him, he should most certainly stop now.

Reluctantly, Jimin pulled the fingers out of his hole, dragging them along his sensitive walls and circling his rim before he dropped his hand to the side. His chest was heaving, uneven breaths slipping from his lips, cheeks flushed a shade of rose as he was still hiding his face in the curve of Jungkook’s neck.

It was as though he was noticing himself slipping into a more submissive and needy mindset, his heart begging him to untie Jungkook so the boy could take care of him again, break him apart and pull him back together the way he always did.

Shaking his head, Jimin straightened his posture, picking up the bottle of lube with a trembling hand as he reached for Jungkook’s hardened length simultaneously.

“W-Wanna ride you now” Jimin announced, squirting a good amount of lube on Jungkook’s erection, then wrapping his palm around his member to pump his penis several times.

Jungkook hissed, groaning as he leaned his head back into the backrest of the armchair, hips bucking up into the touch, “Fuck, baby, g-go ahead”

Urgently, Jimin pressed the tip of his erection against his rim, slowly pushing it past the ring of muscles while simultaneously sinking down on it. Gasping, Jimin’s eyes fluttered shut, his hole granting Jungkook’s penis entrance with only little resistance, the stretch so utterly nice and stimulating.

“Shit” Jungkook cussed, hands clenching into fists as he attempted to reach out for Jimin, yet the boy restricted in doing exactly that as the piece of fabric was still very much fastened around his wrists – Honestly, he would burn these fucking ties as soon as they were off.

The pink haired boy’s lips parted in a silent scream, Jimin lowering himself further down on Jungkook’s erection, a loud squelch echoing in the room and accompanying Jimin’s whimpers. Swiftly, he leaned closer to Jungkook, brushing his lips over Jungkook’s, yet not close enough to call it a proper kiss.

“Kiss me, little one” Jungkook uttered.

Without an ounce of hesitation, Jimin leaned in, capturing Jungkook’s lips in a slow kiss, the taller one kissing right back. Gently, they moved their lips against one another, Jungkook the one to push his tongue against Jimin's, the latter not able to contain the moans that slipped from him, Jungkook catching each of those sounds within the kiss.

Finally, Jimin reached the base of Jungkook's hard length, his butt settling down on Jungkook's lap entirely, his whole penis filling Jimin's hole. A breath fell from either of them, both of them halting, allowing their lips to brush over each other as they caught their breath.

“Little one” Jungkook murmured, nudging his nose against Jimin's cheek before he pulled on his bottom lip, the soft flesh slipping from his own lips a brief moment later, “You're being such a good boy, Jimin-ah. You've done so well” he praised softly, allowing Jimin to adjust to the size inside of him or maybe wanting to distract him as though he believed Jimin was too far gone already, would surely start to bounce on his dick in desperation and ignore the faint uncomfortable burning of the stretch entirely.

Jimin whined, “N-Not done yet” Jimin whispered against his lips, “May I move?”

“Of course, baby, if you feel like you're ready” Jungkook assured him.

Hesitantly, Jimin rolled his hips from side to side, digging his teeth into his bottom lip as he placed his petite hands on Jungkook's broad shoulders, “Like this?”

“Up, kitten” Jungkook instructed.

Slowly, Jimin lifted his hips up, almost watching Jungkook's length slip from his hole, yet stilling as only the tip was settled inside of him. Swiftly, he dropped back down again, evoking a content sound from both of them.

To be fair, Jimin couldn't recall the last time had ridden Jungkook either. Obviously, his mind hadn't just magically forgotten what he needed to do, yet it was still difficult for him to decide how to move his hips as he was simply too needy.

Repeating the movement, Jimin picked up a steady pace, lifting himself up before sinking back down. In the process, he clenched around Jungkook's erection from time to time, earning him a groan from Jungkook who tossed his head back into the backrest of the armchair, pulling on his restraints.

The pink haired boy proceeded to move in a rather slow way, leaning in to attach Jungkook's and his lips in a deep kiss, the latter's head still titled back, yet Jungkook immediately leaned closer, moving his lips against Jimin's.

Jimin whimpered into his mouth, pride swelling within his chest whenever Jungkook groaned his name into the kiss, the stimulation so sweet inside of him, Jungkook filling him so nicely.

“Ah, ah” Jimin breathed softly.

Mewling, Jimin tossed his head back, fingers digging into Jungkook's shoulders as he continued to grind his hips up and down.

The taller one chased after him, trailing open-mouthed kisses down his throat, his soft lips brushing along Jimin's skin, nibbling on the flesh very gently.

With a particular motion of Jimin's hips, Jungkook's erection pushed into his prostate. In response, Jimin cried out, hunching forward and hiding his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck.

“There you go, kitten, found your prostate?” Jungkook whispered into his ear, Jimin whimpering as he nodded frantically, confirming Jungkook's assumption.

“Kook-ah” Jimin murmured, soft and quietly, the boy currently not trusting his own voice, almost certain that it would break in his attempt to speak any louder than this.

The smaller boy was aware how close to his orgasm he already was, the excessive amount of pre-cum leaking from the slit of his penis any indication of that fact. After all, he had been aroused and stimulated for a long duration of the night, his erection having begged for attention as he had neglected it for quite awhile.

“Fuck, wanna see you, baby” Jungkook muttered, wetting his lips, the soft breaths that were slipping from Jimin brushing over his neck, resulting in goosebumps to rise on his skin.

“W-Wanna see your eyes, too” Jimin mewled, certain that the intent stare of Jungkook would make him submit, yet he was longing to look into his beautiful brown orbs so desperately.

“Little one” Jungkook whispered.

Whimpering, Jimin decided he had tortured Jungkook – and honestly himself – enough by blindfolding the taller boy. Finally, he reached for the piece of fabric and untied it, dropping it to the floor.

Jungkook groaned at the sight, having to blink several times to adjust to the faint lightning of his surroundings before he locked eyes with Jimin, affection immediately accompanying the lust in his orbs.

“Pretty, baby, so pretty” Jungkook complimented him right away, trying to touch him as well, yet noticing that the tie was still fastened around his wrists.

“T-Thank you, Kook-ah” Jimin responded, rosy flush on his cheeks deepening as he rolled his hips from side to side, heart oddly fluttering by the mere glance at Jungkook's eyes - the brown orbs so beautiful, emotion glistening in them.

“My pretty baby, aren't you?” Jungkook added, titling his head to the side as a smirk adorned his handsome features.

Jimin gave a swift nod, “Y-Yours, yes, only yours”

Slowly, Jimin picked up a quicker pace again, desperate to find his prostate and increase the stimulation on it, Jungkook's penis dragging along his sensitive walls not quite enough.

In all honesty, Jimin wasn't certain how much longer he would manage to last, wishing to make Jungkook come again before he would find his own release, the smaller boy attempting to maintain a pace and stimulation that would grant them a mindblowing orgasm each.

“Fuck, kitten, you're so- shit, so tight” Jungkook grunted at the way Jimin had sped up his movements, proceeding to clench around him with each of his motions.

“Kook-ah, ah, ah” Jimin cried out each time Jungkook's penis hit his sensitive bud of nerves, the feeling intense. Another drop of pre-cum dripped out from his slit, trailing down his length that swung around with his quick movement.

Hastily, Jimin bounced up and down on Jungkook's dick, pace almost frantic as he chased that overwhelming feeling, moaning high-pitched right into Jungkook's ear.

“S-So gooood, oh my god” Jimin whimpered, grabbing Jungkook's shoulders.

“Yeah?” Jungkook murmured breathy, bucking his hips up into Jimin's tight heat.

“Mhm-ah, so deep” Jimin added, squeezing his eyes shut again, head dizzy.

Jungkook wet his lips at the sight of Jimin, the boy such a beauty, “Such a good boy, baby, you look so sexy”

Cheeks tingling a shade of rose, Jimin whined at the praise, thighs shaking as he proceeded to bounce on his lap, his muscles starting to ache, almost feeling as though they were burning.

“M-My thighs” Jimin whispered, hunching forward into Jungkook, rolling his hips from side to side as he slowed down, whining at the lack of stimulation.

“What is it, baby?” Jungkook asked, pressing a kiss against Jimin's temple.

“S-Sore. My thighs hurt, Kook-ah” Jimin elaborated, leaning his head to the side, lips brushing over Jungkook's neck.

The taller boy pulled on his restraints, trying to reach out to Jimin, “Fuck, kitten, you've taken such good care of me. Let me take care of you now” Jungkook suggested, nuzzling his cheek against Jimin's.

“N-No, I'm not finished” Jimin denied, vigorously shaking his head, chest heaving.

After all, Jimin had really tried tonight, had really wanted to take care of Jungkook, yet... his heart simply desired Jungkook too much, longed for him to touch him, craved to behave and to obey his orders.

“Kitten, you've done so well” Jungkook assured him, nudging his nose against Jimin's cheek, “You've been such a good boy for me, took the lead so well. Now it's time for me to reward you” he added.

The promise made Jimin's heart flutter, winning him over.

Hesitantly, Jimin reached down with shaky hands, finding the tie and unfastening it, finally freeing Jungkook's wrist.

With that, the dynamics of the night shifted.

The younger male cursed beneath his breath, barely shaking out his wrists before his hands rushed down to Jimin's hips, grabbing them tightly. As Jungkook dug his fingers into Jimin's fair skin, he leaned closer, licking over Jimin's bottom lip.

“Fuck, come here, baby boy” he uttered against Jimin.

With that, Jungkook got up from the armchair effortlessly, hands rushing down to Jimin's thighs as the latter hooked his legs around Jungkook's body, clinging on to him as he yelped at the suddenness of the movement.

Holding Jimin against his body with ease, Jungkook walked a few steps before he pushed Jimin against the glass wall firmly, the smaller one gasping at the contact of the cold material on his hot skin.
“K-Kook-ah, what- Aaahh !” Jimin shrieked, Jungkook wasting no time to ram his hard length back into him, immediately finding his prostate and dabbing his erection into it.

“Fuck, kitten” Jungkook grunted into his ear, pining Jimin into the window as his hands rushed down to Jimin's butt, his fingers digging into the soft flesh of the round cheeks.

The new position allowed Jungkook to ensure Jimin staying secure in his spot, enabling him to slam his hips into him, penis thrusting into his tight hole and reaching as deep as possible.

Jungkook's movement was nothing compared to Jimin's – whereas Jimin had bounced on him frantically, aimlessly rolling his hips around in desperate search for his prostate, Jungkook was skillfully ramming his hips into him, his erection not ever missing Jimin's sensitive nub of nerves once.

“Oh my god!” Jimin shrieked, rocking back into the window with each forceful thrust of Jungkook, penis leaking out more pre-cum at the intense stimulation on his prostate, causing him to forget about anything else, but the boy who was creating these feelings within him – Jungkook invading all of his senses, simply intoxicating, utterly intoxicating and addictive, “Jungkook-ah!”

The black haired boy smirked against him, sweat dripping from his forehead, not bothering either of them. In fact, both of their bodies were shining in sweat, the heat of the room and their bodies having created the wetness on their skin.

Jemin's eyes fluttered shut, head falling back into the window as he cried out, Jungkook's pace entirely relentless, hips snapping into Jimin hard and rough.

“Kook-aaah!” Jimin screamed, digging his teeth into his bottom lip to muffle his sounds as he noticed the volume of his own voice, the boy slightly embarrassed. Instead, only soft whimpers were audible from him now.

“No, baby” Jungkook ordered, giving a slap to the back of his thigh, causing Jimin to gasp at the punishment, “Let me hear you” he demanded into his ear, hot breath tickling on Jimin's skin.

The pink haired boy whimpered, “m sorry” he murmured, locking eyes with Jungkook who cursed at the sight, Jimin's eyes glassy, filled with lust and desperation, yet also so very dazed – evidence of how far gone he was.

Smirking, Jungkook brought one hand up to Jimin's hair, sliding it through it before he tugged on it harshly, pulling his head back into his neck.

Breath hitching in his throat, Jimin's lips parted as he swallowed hard, Jungkook leaning in to press open-mouthed kisses against Jimin's throat, still proceeding to thrust into him harshly, the heat growing in the pit of Jimin's stomach.

“Jungkook-ah, f-faster!”

Growling, Jungkook slapped his thigh again, “You're not in charge anymore, kitten. You get what I give you, baby boy, understood?” Jungkook reminded him, words whispered right into his hear as he tugged on Jimin's pink locks again, the smaller one wincing, yet a drop of pre-cum leaking from his penis all the same, “Beg for what you want”

Whining, Jimin gave a nod, “P-Please, faster, Kook-ah, I-I'm close, just- just- ah, oh god, please” Jimin begged, squeezing his eyes shut, flush on his cheeks turning a darker shade of rose.

Jungkook cursed at the image in front of him, Jimin's delicate features scrunched up in pleasure so fucking pretty. The younger male wanted to shower him with orgasms, wanted to fuck him stupid and have him come multiple times until the only thing he would be able to remember was Jungkook’s name – Jimin a crying and babbling mess by the end of this.

“Fuck” Jungkook groaned at his own imagination, slamming his hips into Jimin roughly.

“Oh my god!” Jimin cried out, hunching forward to hide his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck, closing his arms around him as he was pushed into the window with each snap of Jungkook's hips, his prostate being stimulated dead on.

“Yes, kitten, just like that. You're so fucking tight, always so tight for me” Jungkook groaned, both of the boys breathing rapidly, choosing to place kisses on each other's skin rather than breathing, deciding that suffocating was more bearable than breaking apart for even a second.

“I'm coming! I'm coming, Kook-ah, stop, I-” Jimin shrieked, a particular harsh thrust bringing tears to his eyes, the feeling simply too overwhelming, but yet so sweet.

“What a good boy, baby. Are you going to come untouched for me, hm? Won't even need me to play with your little cock?” Jungkook praised him, smirking against Jimin as the latter sobbed, moaning as he nodded frantically.

“K-Kook-ah, I-I'm going to-” Jimin cried out, squeezing his eyes shut as his body trembled, the boy unconsciously squirming around in Jungkook's embrace.

“Go ahead, doll” Jungkook interrupted him, tone low.

At that, the pink haired boy tipped over the edge, orgasm washing over him as he screamed out Jungkook’s name repeatedly, head falling back. Swiftly, cum spurted out of his penis, painting their upper bodies white, Jungkook cursing at the way Jimin was clenching around him.

“Ah, K-Koo-” Jimin sobbed, body shaking vigorously, thighs trembling as Jungkook proceeded to snap his hips into him, prolonging the intense feeling of his orgasm.

“Such a good boy, kitten, aren't you? Made a big mess for me, didn't you?”

“Mhm-ah” Jimin mewled, giving a nod as he bit down on his bottom lip, Jungkook's pace not slowing down.

At that, Jimin was crying out, clinging onto Jungkook as he was fucked into oversensitivity, the younger male not allowing his penis to go soft at all, but maintaining the hardness and intense stimulation.

“K-Kook-ah” Jimin sobbed, hiding his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck as he was pushed against the window with each forceful thrust of Jungkook.

The pace was relentless, Jimin whining with each snap of Jungkook's hips, his penis leaking out more cum. It was greatly overwhelming, tears pricking in the corner of Jimin's eyes at the stimulation.

“I know, kitten” Jungkook shushed him, pressing his lips to his forehead, “I'm not done with you yet”

At that, Jungkook withdrew from the window, carrying Jimin over to the bed and setting him down on the soft sheets. Without allowing Jimin a moment of clarity, the smaller boy confused by the situation as he stared up at Jungkook with big eyes, the latter grabbed his hips, rolling him over onto his stomach.

“Ass up” he ordered, hand coming down on Jimin's buttcheek harshly, the flesh jiggling at the hit.

Yelping, Jimin obliged, getting up to his knees, butt up in the air. Just as he was about to get up to his hands, too, Jungkook hummed in dissatisfaction, sliding his hand through Jimin's pink hair and grasping a bundle of it before he pushed his face back into the sheets.

“You're staying like this” he demanded, Jimin gasping as he nodded, titling his head to the side so his cheek was resting on the bed, enabling him to breathe properly.

In the meanwhile, Jungkook had joined him on the bed, kneeing on the soft sheets behind him, and giving his penis a few more pumps before he pressed the tip against Jimin's rim, circling the ring of muscles.

“K-Kook-ah” Jimin whined, too sensitive to any touch down there. Involuntarily, he pulled away, earning him a spank to his buttcheek.

“Stay still” Jungkook ordered sternly.

“S-Sorry” Jimin whispered.

Teasingly, Jungkook rubbed the tip of his hard length along Jimin's rim, pushing it in very faintly just to be gone a mere second later, driving Jimin insane. The pink haired male sobbed, attempting to prevent himself from moving, yet body still shaking at the prior orgasm and continuous stimulation.

“Colour?” Jungkook asked, voice notably softer as he ran his palm along Jimin's back, causing goosebumps to rise on his skin.

Inhaling a shaky breath, Jimin's eyes fluttered shut, “G-Green” he assured, deciding to listen to his heart that wanted to please and satisfy rather than his brain that was unsure whether he could handle any more.

At that, Jungkook rammed his erection back into him, Jimin shrieking as he clenched his hands into fists, twisting the sheets in his palms.

“Fuck, yes, baby” Jungkook grunted, repeatedly slamming his hips into him roughly, Jimin forced to rock up and down on the bed, loud whimpers and sobs falling from his lips.

“K-Kook-ah, t-too much” Jimin sniffed and squirmed around, whining as Jungkook slapped his upper thigh.

“You're going to give me another one, kitten” Jungkook ordered, leaning forward to grab a bundle of Jimin's pink locks, tugging on it harshly. In response to the action, Jimin was manhandled up into an uncomfortable position, tears rolling down his cheeks at the overwhelming feeling of the stimulation on his sensitive prostate inside of his hole.

“I-I don't think I can, Kook-ah, too-” Jimin cried out, vigorously shaking his head despite Jungkook still firmly grabbing his hair.

“You're going to, kitten. I know you can” Jungkook interrupted him, pushing his head back down into the bed, almost pining Jimin into the sheets as he proceeded to fuck him through overstimulation.

“Jungkook-ah, o-oh my god, s-stop!” Jimin shrieked, trying to get away from Jungkook, yet hips not moving according to that wish, but pushing back into the touch almost unconsciously, begging for more.

“You were so keen on finding out what your punishment would be for teasing me earlier, hm, kitten?” Jungkook reminded him, spanking his left buttcheek twice, “You were a bad boy earlier, weren’t you? And you know what happens to bad boys, baby, don’t you?”

Jimin gasped for air, hiding his face in the sheets, body shaking as he gave a nod.

“Tell me, kitten, loud and clearly” Jungkook ordered, pulling on his hair again to tug him up.

Sobbing, Jimin only whimpered as Jungkook thrusted into him roughly, not slowing down yet.

“Answer me” Jungkook urged, spanking his thigh.

Wincing, Jimin organised his thoughts, trying to form a coherent sentence, “T-They get punished”

“There you go” Jungkook uttered, giving a nod, clearly satisfied with the answer, “Why are you being punished, kitten?”

Swallowing hard, Jimin wet his lips, inhaling a shaky breath, “I-I was bad. I teased you earlier” he uttered a reply.

“Good boy” Jungkook murmured, smirking at the response.

Moaning at the praise, Jimin hunched forward again as soon as Jungkook's hand slipped from his hair, his hands rushing back down to Jimin's waist as he proceeded to snap his hips into him.

Jimin gripped the sheets tighter, knuckles turning white at the pressure his was applying. The smaller one's mouth was agape in silent screams, drool trailing out of it and his eyes wide as more tears rolled down his cheeks.

Sobbing, Jimin squirmed around again, hips involuntarily trying to get away.

“Little one, can you tell me your colour?” Jungkook asked inbetween his thrusts, Jimin's comfort more important to him than anything else.

“G-Green” Jimin whined, the heat in the pit of his stomach gradually building again, penis still leaking a streak of pre-cum down on the sheets, ruining them yet again. Oh, what a mess that was. What a messy boy Jimin was.

Frankly, Jimin couldn't tell how much longer he would last, was almost certain that he would burst any moment at the oversensitivity, yet also aware that the orgasm was going to be completely mindblowing.

“Up, kitten, up” Jungkook insisted, manhandling Jimin up against his chest by pulling on his hair again, Jimin somewhat confused why that treatment was arousing him so much, “Aww, look at you, kitten” he cooed, tilting Jimin's head to the side in order to have a proper glance at him, “Such a pretty baby” he praised, pressing a kiss to the back of Jimin's ear.

With each word, Jungkook tugged on Jimin's hair again, the smaller boy sobbing as he felt his penis twitch, hands clenching and unclenching several times, thighs shaking as he spread his legs further apart.

“Crying and begging me to stop now, hm? Were so desperate for it earlier, weren't you? Now it's too much, isn't it, kitten?” Jungkook wondered, breath hot on Jimin's skin as he whispered into his ear.
Sniffing, Jimin nodded, trying to capture Jungkook's lips in a kiss, yet the boy pulled on his hair, securing him in the position he desired, “K-Kook-ah, please” Jimin begged, voice soft, but still faintly touched by raspiness, Jimin not entirely certain what he was asking for here.

“But you're my good boy, aren't you? You want to please me, don't you?” Jungkook ignored Jimin's pleading, slowing down the rhythm of his thrusts, but maintaining the forcefulness.

“Y-Yes, your good boy, wanna be good for you” Jimin affirmed, nodding frantically as he balled his hands into petite fists, the sound of their skin snapping against one another echoing in the room as Jungkook sped up his thrusts again.

Smirking, Jungkook hummed in satisfaction, “So, give me another one, baby, come on” he demanded, finally pressing his lips onto Jimin's nape, peppering kisses over the sensitive skin.

Jimin shook his head, “I-I caan't. Too much” he whimpered.

“I know you can, kitten” Jungkook responded.

The pink haired boy tried to dip his head down, yet was restricted in doing that as Jungkook was still grasping a bundle of his hair, not enabling such a motion on his behalf.

“Be a good boy”

Jimin gave a nod, eyes big and desperate as he looked back at Jungkook, the younger male having mercy as he leaned in and attached their lips in a kiss. Gasping, Jimin's heart fluttered as he moved his lips against Jungkook's, the latter humming as his big hands travelled down Jimin's stomach, fingertips tracing along the soft skin.

Without a warning, Jungkook wrapped one of his hands around Jimin's penis, giving his erection a gentle squeeze before he ran his thumb along the slit.

“Kook-ah! Oh my god!” Jimin sobbed, hunching forward in his attempt to reach for Jungkook's wrist, trying to prevent him from stimulating two of his most sensitive parts simultaneously, “T-Too much, N-No”

The younger male shook his head, spanking his upper thigh, “Behave”

Whining, Jimin parted his lips in a silent scream, body shaking vigorously as he fell back into Jungkook’s chest, head dizzy. Quickly, Jungkook moved his fist up and down, tugging on his hard length.

“I'm c-coming!” Jimin shrieked, eyes rolling back into his head.

“There you go, kitten, knew you were my good boy” Jungkook praised with a smirk, groaning at the way Jimin clenched around him.

Then, another orgasm hit Jimin, the feeling intense as it burst within him, ecstasy spreading through his whole body and making his toes curl.

For a moment, Jimin's vision was filled with black dots, a mantra of Jungkook's name slipping from his lips at the sweet haze he had been pulled into.

“Kook-ah!” Jimin screamed out, the black haired boy yet not stilling, but proceeding to jerk him off while simultaneously thrusting into him roughly.
“No, no, no” Jimin whined, tears rolling down his cheeks as he tried to move away, shaking his head vigorously.

Ultimately, Jungkook's penis slipped out of his hole, allowing Jimin to get away.

However, only for so long.

"Kitten" Jungkook whispered, rolling Jimin over onto his back, the pink haired boy just lying there with big, dazed eyes, cheeks flushed such a pretty shade of rose, “One more, kitten, can you do that for me?” Jungkook uttered breathy, lifting Jimin's legs straight up into the air, grasping his ankles to secure the boy in the position he desired him in.

Quickly, Jungkook rammed his penis back into Jimin's tight heat, groaning out at the soft walls around his erection.

“I wanna see you come again, kitten” Jungkook decided as he snapped his hips into him roughly, still holding his trembling legs up into the air.

"N-No"

Jimin squeezed his eyes shut, gasping as he clenched his hands into fists, grabbing the bedsheets tightly.

Somehow, it was all simply too much for Jimin, the discomfort not vanishing, the pain outweighing the sweet ecstasy he would be experiencing usually. Why was this more uncomfortable than anything else?

Jimin couldn't bear another one.

“Y-Thank you” Jimin whispered, vision still blurry, eyes teary as he rocked up and down on the bed at the forcefulness of Jungkook's thrusts.

The younger male proceeded to snap his hips into him, groaning out Jimin's name as he spanked his thigh again. In response, Jimin yelped, bottom lip wobbling.

Why wasn't he stopping?

Stop!

It hurts!

“Yellow!” Jimin sobbed out, squirming around as he cried.

Jungkook immediately halted. Stilling entirely as though he had been shot.

“Fuck” the black haired boy cursed, “Little one”

Then, he acted swiftly.

Carefully, he pulled out of Jimin, the latter wincing at the way his sensitive walls were stimulated at the movement, “I know, ssh, angel, I'll be quick” he assured, placing Jimin's trembling legs back down on the bed.

Then, he spread Jimin's legs apart, moving inbetween them and hovering above the crying boy by holding himself up on his hands.
“Shit, Jimin-ah, angel, hey, what's wrong?” Jungkook whispered, concern visible in his eyes as he reached down, wiping away Jimin's tears.

The smaller one sniffed, doe eyes big and watery as he only stared into Jungkook's brown orbs, focusing on the softness that was hidden in them.

“Little one, please talk to me”

“H-Hurts. I-It's too much, I-I don't think I can... No, no more” Jimin sobbed, shaking his head.

“Okay, ssh, okay, beautiful” Jungkook murmured, nodding as he leaned down to press a kiss to his forehead, his own heart clenching at the sight of the pink haired boy.

Frankly, it was tearing up his heart to know that he had caused Jimin to use a safeword, having misjudged the situation entirely. Truthfully, he had believed that Jimin would be able to push past his limit today, yet clearly, he had been wrong.

Fuck, did it hurt.

However, Jungkook was relieved that Jimin had spoken up instead of just enduring whatever discomfort he had been in due to Jungkook's actions. It assured him that he didn't need to fear Jimin not speaking up because his wish to please outweighed his own safety or comfort.

“I'm so sorry, Jimin-ah” Jungkook uttered, lowering himself down on the sheets next to Jimin in order close his arms around him, pulling him closer to his own body.

Immediately, the smaller one moved as close as it was possible, hiding his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck, his heart still pounding fast against his chest. Tenderly, Jungkook rubbed his warm hand along Jimin's back, the latter still silently crying as he was coming down from his high.

“IT-It's okay” he whispered, still trembling in Jungkook's arms.

“No, it's not” Jungkook sighed, shaking his head, “I'm so fucking sorry, little one”

“N-No, don't be. You-you didn't do anything wrong. I just couldn't handle anymore” Jimin assured him softly.

“Fuck, I should have sensed it and stop-”

Suddenly, the doorbell rang, interrupting Jungkook.

Chapter End Notes

Just a heads up that I can't say how my updating schedule is going to be over the next few weeks because of exam season. :( I'll try to update as often as I can, but I don't know whether time is going to be in my favour. :( Would you be fine with shorter chapters? I loooove writing longer ones, but shorter ones might be better than waiting for too long? <3

By the way, have you all seen the release of the webtoon of bts' fictional story (BU)?
Aaaaah I'm so excited to finally get answers! :)

I wish you wonderful days <3
Love you <3
See you in the next chapter <3
Jungkook takes Jimin to a place to have fun, yet in the midst of Jimin's every day life there might still be things that he is too oblivious to see, the boy not capable to put the puzzle pieces together.

The black haired one didn't move an inch, arms proceeding to stay wrapped around Jimin, holding the boy's trembling body close to himself as though he wanted to protect him.

"Y-You should check" Jimin whispered, nudging his nose against Jungkook's throat.

Vigorously, Jungkook shook his head, "No, I'm not going to leave you right now" he declined.

"What if it's important?" Jimin pointed out softly, figuring that no one would disrupt Jungkook this late at night, if it wasn't anything of certainly great significance. After all, if it wasn't urgent, it could at least wait until the morning.

"There is nothing more important but you in my life. Whatever- whoever it is can wait" Jungkook uttered, shaking his head yet again as he traced his fingertips along Jimin's back.

The smaller one's heart fluttered, but he pinched Jungkook's arm all the same, "It might be urgent, Kook-ah"

"Your comfort, safety and health is more significant to me than anything else, little one" Jungkook stated, locking eyes with Jimin, "I'm not going anywhere right now, Jimin-ah" he assured, leaning in to press his lips to Jimin's forehead, remaining in his touch for a moment longer – almost as though he was trying to convey something that words simply wouldn't be able to.

Gently, he ran the pad of his thumb along Jimin's cheekbone, wiping away the tears that had fallen from his pretty eyes – those exact eyes now filled with exhaustion and something that caused Jungkook's heart to clench.

Was it discomfort? Was it fear? Was it disappointment?

Whatever it was, it tore Jungkook's heart apart.

“Little one” Jungkook murmured, gaze flickering back and forth between Jimin's brown orbs, trying to search for answers, trying to find the fondness he knew had to be there, “Jimin-ah, I-”

“Just hold me” Jimin whispered back, averting his gaze as he hid his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck, “Please, just hold me and don't let go”

Without an ounce of hesitation, Jungkook wrapped his arms tighter around Jimin's delicate body, their hearts beating for each other, the sound audible to either of them in their close proximity.

The smaller boy focused on it – the beating of Jungkook's heart. He found comfort in it, his own heart calming.

Apparently, the person that had disturbed them hadn't been in urgent need for Jungkook, choosing to leave rather than to ring the bell again. Almost bewildered, Jimin wondered who it could have been.

Why had they left without trying again?

The two boys remained in their gentle embrace for awhile, neither of them aware how many minutes had gone by, yet not caring about that fact either, needing to hold each other as though it was their way of breathing – as though they would suffocate if they chose to part.

Jumin found himself slip away into a haze of sleepiness, exhaustion vivid in his body. However, his heart was still reminiscing about what had occurred a few moments ago.

“You didn't hear me” Jimin whispered, Jungkook proceeding to trace his fingertips along Jimin's back, caressing the skin.

“Hm?” Jungkook hummed in acknowledgement of Jimin's voice, yet not having registered his actual words.

“You didn't hear me” Jimin repeated softly.

Slightly confused, Jungkook titled his head to the side, “When? What did you say?”

Jimin gulped, “You didn't stop, when I used the safeword for the first time” he then revealed quietly, almost fearful to say those words out loud for a reason he didn't know.

The taller one stilled, faintly detaching himself from Jimin in order to lock eyes with him, emotion flashing in his brown orbs.

“Fuck, Jimin-ah” he cursed, “When did you use it? I-I didn't hear you use it before” he stated, shaking his head to underline those words. Eyes wide, Jungkook attempted to recall a moment where Jimin could have said the safeword prior to the one he took notice of, yet there was no occurrence that appeared in his mind.

There was only one explanation – he must have missed it, Jimin having said it too quietly or Jungkook having been too caught up in his own pleasure to register it.

Whatever it was – it made him sick to his stomach.
“Just a few seconds before the one you noticed” Jimin elaborated, catching his bottom lip between his teeth, “I... I thought you just ignored me” he uttered quietly.

Jungkook’s heart broke.

“What? No, no, little one, shit, no” he assured, withdrawing in order to cup Jimin's face with his warm palms, “I-I didn't hear you say it. I would have stopped immediately, you know I would have”

Jimin averted his gaze, “I thought it was part of my punishment. I thought that's why you didn't stop” he murmured.

“No, no, Jimin-ah, no” the younger male clarified, evidently horrified of what had happened, “Scream at me, shout the safeword as loud as you can, punch me, slap me to get my attention. As soon as you feel like you can't handle anymore or you're uncomfortable, please let me know” he added as he rubbed his thumb along Jimin's cheekbone, “As soon as you say the safeword, I'm going to stop whatever I'm doing, regardless of whether or not I'm punishing you in that moment”

The pink haired boy gave a faint nod, “I thought I could handle it. I... I tried to push myself past the limit, but I just couldn’t” he expressed, shrugging his shoulders as he pulled his brows together in a frown.

“And that's completely fine” Jungkook responded, leaning in to capture Jimin's lips in a soft kiss, “I'm so sorry, little one” he then whispered once they withdrew from one another.

Jimin shook his head at him, meeting his gaze, “Don’t be” he assured, reaching up to grasp Jungkook's bigger hand in his tinier one.

“I'm sorry, I didn't hear you, baby. I should have noticed your-”

“It's not your fault” Jimin interrupted him, voice gentle, but sure, “I wanted this. I want you to be this way during sex. Another day, I might be able to handle this. Just not... just not today”

Jungkook's gaze flickered back and forth between Jimin's doe eyes, “Are you scared now?”

“Of what?” Jimin uttered confused.

“Of me?” Jungkook clarified, something like fear flashing in his eyes.

Jimin widened his eyes, violently shaking his head, “No, Kook-ah, no. How could I?” Jimin assured him, “The safewords are there for me to use whenever it's too much for me. I-I didn't use them prior because I had been able to handle it, yet this one was just too overwhelming, but you couldn't have known that. You can't look into my head”

“Still. It-”

“No, don't blame yourself. Please don't do that. It's not your fault” Jimin interrupted him, leaning up to press a tender kiss to Jungkook's cheek, nuzzling his face into the curve of Jungkook's neck once he withdrew.

There was no way Jimin would allow Jungkook to blame himself for his discomfort. After all, Jimin had been taught that sometimes things would get too far and push him to his limits. In those moments, only Jimin was able to decide whether he would be able to handle it or if he needed to use a safeword for it to stop. That's why Jungkook had provided him with these safewords – to create a comfortable and safe environment for them.
“Okay, baby. Come here” Jungkook murmured, closing his arms around Jimin's slim body again to hold him tight.

Silently, they decided to cuddle one another until they were pulled into a haze of sleep.

However, not as quickly as Jimin had expected.

In their close proximity, Jimin noticed the semi-hard length that was pressed against his own body, a display of Jungkook’s still faintly lasting erection despite the amount of long minutes that had already passed since their sexual intercourse.

“You're still...” Jimin muttered, weakly pushing against Jungkook’s shoulder to roll him onto his back, allowing Jimin to sit up and straddle his lap, thighs still sore and faintly trembling due to the exhaustion that was blooming within him.

Confused, Jungkook’s hands found their way to Jimin's waist, grasping his hips as though it was the place they belonged to. The taller male titled his head to the side, arching up an eyebrow as he waited patiently for Jimin to explain his behaviour.

“You didn't come” Jimin noted softly as he traced his fingertips along Jungkook's stomach.

At that, Jungkook smiled warmly, “That's okay, little one” he responded, giving Jimin's hips a tender squeeze.

“S-Should I make it better?” Jimin whispered, looking at Jungkook through his lashes.

“No, Jimin-ah. I don't always need to come. I'm fine like this” he stated.

“I feel bad, though... Let me just-”

“Angel, no” Jungkook chuckled, “It's fine, really” he assured as he applied light pressure on Jimin's back, silently asking him to lean down on his body. The pink haired boy obliged, lowering himself down on Jungkook's upper body, cheek pressed against his broad chest as Jungkook wrapped his arms around him.

Gently, Jungkook rubbed his palm over Jimin's back, the latter titling his head to the side in order to lock eyes with Jungkook, only staring, yet not saying anything.

Smiling, Jungkook reached out to slide his other hand through Jimin's hair, tenderly scratching over his scalp as he proceeded to play with Jimin's pink locks. The smaller boy's eyes fluttered shut, a content breath slipping from his full lips as he nuzzled his head into the soft touch.

“Kitten” Jungkook snickered quietly, causing Jimin to smile shyly, “I need to clean you up, little one” he then noted, nudging his nose against Jimin's temple.

The other male grumbled in dissatisfaction, hiding his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck as he shook his head, “No”

“My cum is gonna dry on your body, Jimin-ah. I'm pretty sure it already has” Jungkook pointed out with a sigh.

Whining, Jimin clung onto Jungkook, “I don't want to get up. I'm sleepy” he mumbled against his skin, voice muffled.

Chuckling, Jungkook gave his butt a gentle pat, “I promise we'll sleep after a bath, okay?”
Wiggling on top of Jungkook, Jimin shook his head again, “I wanna cuddle you. Don't wanna get up” he murmured.

“I'll cuddle you all night, I promise” the younger male whispered into his ear, hot breath tickling on Jimin's skin.

“Just five more minutes, please” Jimin begged, voice soft and quiet, displaying the sleepiness that bloomed within him.

“Fine” Jungkook gave in, “Five minutes, angel”

It wasn't five minutes.

---

“No” Jimin whispered, vigorously shaking his head, “No, stop! Stop!” he screamed high-pitched, voice breaking as he wasn't capable to move at all, his heart clenching at the sight, tearing him apart from deep within.

Yoongi and Hoseok were standing there, repeatedly twisting a knife through Taehyung's heart, the latter crying, begging them to stop.

“Leave him alone! Why!” Jimin screamed, falling to his knees, trying to crawl towards them, yet something was holding him back.

Abruptly, Jimin jerked up into an upright position, chest heaving, the boy gasping for air.

Almost fearful, he clasped his hand over his heart, irritated by his rapid breathing, by the way his heart was clenching.

The smaller one quickly realised that it had only been a nightmare. Yet, that didn't stop it from torturing him.

Why that dream – again?

Why were Yoongi and Hoseok the culprits – again?

Was this dream trying to tell him something that he was too oblivious to see?

Jimin scanned his surroundings, heart dropping at the sight of an empty bed – Jungkook no longer by his side. Unmistakenly, that was the reason for the sudden coldness Jimin's body was enduring, no longer warmth and secure arms engulfing him.

“K-Kook-ah?” Jimin called out, lifting his hand up to his face in order to rub his fist along his tired eyes.

Silence.

Swallowing hard, Jimin tugged the blanket to the side, scooting closer to the edge of the bed.

The curtains hadn't been closed, allowing him to have a look at the skyline of Seoul – lights illuminating the city in the night that still lied among them.

Carefully, Jimin got up to his feet, a soft fabric sliding down his thigh and startling him. It was only then that he realised that he was wearing one of Jungkook's bigger shirts. Clearly, the latter must have put it on Jimin earlier.
The pink haired boy smiled shyly, also taking notice of the prominent scent of strawberries and vanilla that was filling his nostrils, surely enough clinging to his own body.

In that moment, Jimin faintly recalled Jungkook having picked him up and having carried him into the restroom earlier to wash him up – tenderly cleaning him from all the sweat, tears and cum.

Only a few images replayed in Jimin's mind, the boy having been too sleepy, causing him to fall asleep in Jungkook's arms.

"Jungkook-ah?" Jimin called out again, tip-toeing over into the restroom.

However, it was empty.

"Little one?"

Jimin jumped up with a yelp, startled by the sudden voice that didn't belong to himself, clasping his hand over his poor heart that had skipped a beat.

"Y-You scared me" Jimin stated, heart pounding fast against his chest at the shock.

The younger male chuckled, "Sorry" he muttered, entering the bedroom. Jungkook was dressed in a pair of briefs and a white shirt, walking over to the dresser.

As Jimin observed Jungkook, he noticed that he was carrying what appeared to be a piece of paper in his hand. In fact, at a closer look, it seemed to be some kind of picture, yet Jimin wasn't certain, assumed that his eyes must have deceived him.

"What is that?" Jimin wondered.

"Oh, nothing. Just... just work stuff" Jungkook replied, pulling the top drawer open to deposit it there, "Why are you up? Are you okay?"

The smaller boy was quickly reminded of the reason he had awoken – his heart still clenching at what it knew wasn't real, but that didn't stop it from hurting just as much.

"Oh, I... I had a nightmare" Jimin revealed softly, tip-toeing back over to the bed and kneeling down on it. "It was so vivid and... and I dreamed the same thing before. This is the second time it happened"

Frowning, Jungkook approached him, reaching out to place his hand against Jimin's cheek, "What happens in the dream?" he wanted to know.

"I... I... I don't even want to think about it" Jimin murmured, swallowing hard at the clenching of his heart.

The younger male gently grabbed Jimin's chin, guiding his face back up in order to lock eyes with the him, "Did someone hurt you?"

"No, not me, but... but Tae-yah" Jimin revealed, swallowing hard at the clenching of his heart.

"Taehyung-ssi?" Jungkook echoed, eyebrows arched up as he ran the pad of his thumb along Jimin's cheekbone, "What bastard hurt him in your dream?"

Oh, if he only knew...

"Hoseok and Yoongi hyung" Jimin responded, voice quiet and almost vulnerable, displaying the pain his heart was enduring for something that wasn't real at all.
“What?”

“It was just a dream so I know that it's not real, but it's just...” Jimin trailed off, something within him trying to tell him something that he was certainly missing, “It's just odd that it's them yet again, you know? Why are they the culprits in my dream?”

Jungkook tilted his head to the side, clearly attempting to find an answer to that question.

“Maybe one of your biggest fears is your closest friends hurting another one of your closest friends” Jungkook reasoned.

That was certainly true.

“Yes, but... but what triggered that fear? I don't think a nightmare like this happens out of nowhere, does it?” Jimin wondered, shrugging his shoulders.

It wasn't entirely common for a random dream as this one to appear out of nowhere, was it? Surely... there must be something more to this.

“What do you mean?” Jungkook asked, furrowing his brows, “Are you saying... do you wonder whether they've hurt him?”

“No! No, of course not” Jimin swiftly objected, frantically shaking his head, “I know that they would never do that, but... I don't know... I just thought that there must be a reason for this dream to reoccur”

Jungkook gave a faint nod, proceeding to caress Jimin's cheek, “What did they do to him in your dream?”

At the reminder, Jimin swallowed hard, inhaling a shaky breath, “Stab his heart with a knife”

The black haired boy's eyes went wide.

“Maybe... that stands for something?” Jungkook pointed out, confusion written on Jimin's face upon that suggestion.

“What do you mean?”

“Well, perhaps it resembles something else – maybe it conveys a message that's not actually referring to the physical thing you're seeing in your dream” Jungkook elaborated, yet not exactly decreasing Jimin's confusion.

“I... I don't understand” Jimin uttered.

“Maybe it represents an emotional way of hurting him. Maybe, they're not harming his heart with a knife physically, but with something else they did” Jungkook tried to explain, slowly bringing Jimin clarity to the situation.

Arching up his eyerbows, Jimin titled his head to the side, “You mean as in... they broke his heart? Not literally, but just... just by hurting him emotionally?”

Jungkook hummed in confirmation, but then lifted his hand up into the air to make another point, “Not in reality, though. They wouldn't”

Jimin swiftly nodded in agreement, frowning, “Yeah, no, they wouldn't. Besides, I saw Tae-yah days ago and he was excited to meet Yoongi hyung. Why would he, if something had happened, right?"

The taller boy reached up to brush Jimin's hair out of his face, half smiling, “Yeah, I don't see that happen either”

However, his eyes displayed a different emotion.

Concern.

-----

“Are you free tomorrow afternoon, little one?” Jungkook wanted to know.

The pink haired male shut his door close behind himself, slipping out of his shoes as he dropped his bag on his sofa with little care. Carefully, he switched the position of his phone over to his left ear as he walked over into the kitchen.

“Uhm, well I have dance practice with hyung, but we finish at around 4pm” Jimin answered, opening the refrigerator to get himself some food, but grimacing at the sight of essential emptiness – only a few items left for him to eat, yet nothing that he was really craving. In fact, he wasn't as hungry anyway, having eaten some snacks at dance practice with Hoseok earlier.

Oddly enough, Dongha still hadn't appeared at dance practice today, marking it the third occurrence of his absence – not that Jimin was counting or anything.

It was almost as though he had... left? Without a notice of when he was going to return? Surely, he could simply ask Hoseok whether Dongha would attend dance practice any time soon again, but frankly, he didn't want to be nosy. After all, it wasn't any of his business.

“Why?” Jimin finally wondered as he opened the cabinet and reached for a clean glass.

“Perfect” Jungkook simply responded, ignoring Jimin's question as the smaller one turned on the tap at the sink, the sound of water audible in the room, “Be ready by 6pm. I'll pick you up” Jungkook added, confusing Jimin even more.

As Jimin filled his glass with water, he furrowed his brows, “Why? What are we doing?” he then asked.

Why would Jungkook want to pick him up at that particular time? Why would he need to be ready by then?

“Well, it's a surprise” Jungkook chuckled, rustling audible in the background on his behalf, their phone call hopefully not disrupting any important meeting Jungkook would have to attend at work any time now.

A surprise?

The water stopped running as Jimin turned the tap off, the shorter male titling his head to the side as he pouted, “Can't you give me a hint?”

“Nope” Jungkook snickered, Jimin rolling his eyes, but smiling fondly.

Where would he take him to?

“Is it the company? Do I need to-” Jimin concluded, figuring that essentially there were only two places Jungkook would take him to – his own place or the company.
Right?

Maybe, his father's home?

Yet, for what?

“No, little one, you're not getting anything out of me” Jungkook interrupted him, chuckling at Jimin's attempt to draw more information from him, “But” he added, “It's not work related”

“Hmm” Jimin murmured in thought, diligently trying to figure out where Jungkook would take him to.

“I'll see you tomorrow, Jimin-ah” Jungkook uttered softly.

“Wait” Jimin objected, shaking his head despite Jungkook certainly not being able to see that action at all, “You can't just leave me hanging now! Come on, give me a tiny hint!” Jimin begged, jumping up and down in anticipation – almost spilling his water - leading him to place his glass down on the counter.

“No, little one” Jungkook snickered, “I need to attend a meeting now. I'll see you tomorrow”

“Fine” Jimin mumbled, pouting, “Goodnight, Kook-ah. See you tomorrow”

“Sleep well, angel” the younger male responded, a smug smile surely adorning his handsome features.

“You, too” Jimin replied softly, still smiling despite his urgency to find out what Jungkook's surprise was.

---

Jimin ran down the stairs, taking two steps at once in excitement, the boy apparently brave as though his clumsiness wouldn't really dare to make him trip tonight and cause an accident. However, somehow, he made it out of his apartment building without hurting himself on the stairs in his attempt to rush outside.

An affectionate smile appeared on his face as he caught sight of Jungkook's black Range Rover, his heart fluttering at the knowledge of Jungkook being not that far from him, Jimin hurrying over to the car and pulling the door to the passenger seat open.

“Hello, beautiful” Jungkook greeted him as soon as Jimin climbed into the car, leaning over to press his lips on Jimin's in a soft kiss, the black haired boy humming in contentment at the touch.

“Hi, bunny” Jimin uttered once they withdrew, Jungkook's hands finding their way back on the steering wheel as he pulled out of the parking spot.

The younger male sighed, “You're not gonna drop that, are you?” he asked as he rolled his eyes, yet a faint smile adorned his defined features all the same.

Jimin giggled as he fastened his seatbelt, “It's too cute not to use!” he stated, staring at Jungkook's profile.

Briefly, Jungkook glanced at him with an unamused expression before he forced his gaze back over to the road, driving off and leaving Jimin's apartment building behind, the smaller one barely taking notice of it flashing by out of the corner of his eye.
“I’m not cute, though” Jungkook noted, which Jimin dared to disagree with, believing wholeheartedly that Jungkook was very adorable in certain situations.

Surely, there were instances were Jimin would not exactly describe Jungkook's demeanor as cute at all... his dominant side during sex being any indication or certainly a great example of that.

“You are!” Jimin argued with a chuckle, but then slumped back into his seat as he considered that Jungkook was really not fond of the name at all. Perhaps, Jimin hadn't quite fathomed that fact in his choice to tease Jungkook lightheartedly with the pet name, “Do you really not like it? I don't want to make you uncomfortable” he swiftly noted, voice softer and unsure.

Jungkook shrugged his shoulders, “If it makes you happy, go ahead” he allowed, one of his hands reaching down to rest on Jimin's thigh, giving it a gentle squeeze, “Maybe just don't use it when other people are around”

“Just for us?” Jimin whispered.

“You like it that much?” Jungkook wondered, chuckling as he raised up his brows, locking eyes with Jimin who caught his bottom lip between his teeth to hide his grin, nodding vigorously.

“It's adorable”

Truthfully, it was fitting in a way, too, Jimin felt. Ever since he had been made aware of that name, he couldn't help but be reminded of similar features belonging to that of a bunny in Jungkook's face sometimes.

“Well, I would prefer Sir, but if it makes you that happy” Jungkook noted, shrugging his shoulders as he smirked.

“Of course you would” Jimin giggled and weakly slapped his arm, his cheeks heating up in a faint shade of rose.

“Careful, I'm driving, Jimin-ah” Jungkook reminded him, hissing as though Jimin had seriously injured him.

“I'm sorry” Jimin apologised, but chuckled as he noticed the smile on Jungkook's face, a clear display of him not actually having been hurt by Jimin's slap at all, amusement in his eyes.

“Oh, fuck, before I forget it-” Jungkook suddenly remembered, reaching back for something on the backseat as he paused mid-sentence, still proceeding to drive with his eyes fixated on the road and one hand gripping the steering wheel.

“What is it?” Jimin wondered, about to look back, yet stilling as Jungkook hummed in satisfaction, having found what he had been looking for.

“These are for you” Jungkook stated, handing Jimin the item in his hand.

“D-Daisies?” Jimin uttered with surprise in his voice, mouth agape as he took the bouquet of flowers into his own delicate hands, having immediately recognised the kind they were.

“Your favourite, right?” Jungkook wondered, arching up an eyebrow as he stole a glimpse at Jimin's expression before tearing his gaze back over on the road, smiling at the adorable surprised expression that adorned Jimin's face.

“Yes, but.. why did you buy me flowers?” Jimin wanted to know, confused as he eyed the flowers in his hands, heart skipping a beat at the sweet gesture.

“Why not?”

The smaller boy narrowed his eyes, glaring at Jungkook, “What have you done? Who did you fight? Who did you kil-”

“Jimin-ah” Jungkook chuckled, interrupting the rambling boy, “You really think that low of me? Why do I have to have such a reason for giving you flowers?”

Jimin leaned back into his seat, still staring at Jungkook with narrowed eyes as though he was trying to read him, “It's suspicious” Jimin responded slowly, “What happened to you?”

Laughing, Jungkook shook his head, “Little one, I just wanted to give some flowers to my flower”

At that, Jimin's facade broke, the boy breaking out in cute laughter as he shook his head, eyes turned into small crescents, “Oh my god, what happened to you?”

Surely, this gift was very nice and sweet, yet also so unexpected, no? Was it that reprehensible of Jimin to consider that there was a deeper meaning to it instead of being a simple cute gesture?

“Oh, shut up” Jungkook responded, “I know you like it”

Jimin smiled shyly, giving a nod as he smelled on the flowers, being reminded of beautiful times, “I do” he agreed, voice softer and quieter, Jimin not certain why as he hadn't intended for it to sound like that, yet figuring that the sweet gift melted his heart as it did his voice, “They smell good and they're very pretty”

“Just like you” Jungkook commented with a smirk.

“Oh, stop it!” Jimin giggled, shaking his head as he leaned back into his seat, cheeks tinging a darker shade of rose.

“What?”

Jimin tilted his head to the side, “Are you going to flirt like that for the whole night?” he then wondered, an amused smile still plastered on his pretty features.

“Of course, don't I always?” Jungkook replied with a smirk, “What else did you expect?”

“Well, to be fair, I didn't expect anything because you literally told me nothing to at least give me an idea!” Jimin complained, throwing his hand into the air to underline his previous frustration.

Honestly, he had spent all of last night trying to figure out where Jungkook would take him.

Yet, he had no clue at all.

“I did tell you that it's not work related” Jungkook defended, lifting his hand up as though he had made a valid point.

“That's not very much though” Jimin argued as it had not exactly helped him figure it out either.

“It's supposed to be a surprise. It wouldn't be one, if I told you right away now, would it, little one?” Jungkook made a fair point as he smiled at Jimin.

Sighing, Jimin gave a weak nod, “I guess” he mumbled, “But, can't you tell me now? Where are you driving us to? Are we going somewhere outside? Is it going to be cold there? Should I have put on some nicer clothes or do my hair differently?"

“Jimin-ah, you look as stunning as ever” Jungkook interrupted him with a chuckle, “But you’re really that curious, huh? Can’t even wait for twenty more minutes, baby?”

“Twenty more minutes?” Jimin echoed, arching up his brows, “Mhm, so it’s not that far away, is it?” he concluded, observing how Jungkook rested his palm on Jimin’s upper thigh again, giving it a tender pat.

“Little one, I-”

“Come on, just a tiny hint” Jimin begged, pouting as he jumped up and down in his seat, excitement and anticipation vivid in his delicate body.

Snickering, Jungkook shook his head, “Well, I’ve never been to this particular one” he revealed, Jimin jerking up in his seat at the information he was certainly going to receive now.

“This particular what?” Jimin dug.

“The place we’re going to” Jungkook simply replied, smiling at Jimin’s attempt to find out more.

“Mhm, well... that could literally be so many places!” Jimin expressed, his brain not managing to figure out where Jungkook was taking him, simply not capable to narrow it down to a certain palce with the lack of information.

“Yes” Jungkook simply agreed.

“Is it outside?”

“Yes”

“Is it-”

“Enough, angel” Jungkook interrupted him, shaking his head at Jimin's adorable excitement, “You’ve gotten enough clues now to play detective, but I don’t think you'll figure it out”

Jimin truly didn’t.

As predicted.

---

For the remainder of the car ride, it stayed almost silent between them – apart from the brief small talk among them every now and then. For the most part, Jimin was quiet, staring out the window as he was trying to figure out where Jungkook was taking him.

The pink haired boy’s heart was pounding fast against his chest, conveying the excitement that was blossoming within him.

“How long until we're there?” Jimin wondered – now the second time during their car journey.

Despite Jimin having lived in Seoul for almost half his life now, he couldn't exactly recognise the part of the city they were in – blaming it on the lack of proper sunlight and the way the city looked different during that time.
The sun was already starting to go down, street lamps and the different small shops the major source of light in the streets.

Smiling, Jungkook gave his thigh a gentle pat, “It's not too far now” Jungkook answered, taking a turn to the right on the road.

Jimin hummed, noticing the increasing amount of people that were walking the streets the closer they were to their destination, “There are many people around here” Jimin noted, observing a group of people with ice cones walking in the opposite direction.

“Mhm-mh” Jungkook hummed in agreement.

The smaller boy tilted his head to the side, wondering whether that could be a clue.

Suddenly, the car's speed decreased, Jungkook pulling to the side of the street as he found an empty spot, parking the vehicle next to a shop that had already closed.

“Are we-”

“We gotta walk the rest” Jungkook responded to his unspoken question, smiling as he unfastened his seatbelt, “I hope that's okay?” he wanted to make sure, pulling up his brow as he stared at Jimin.

“O-Of course” Jimin affirmed, giving a nod as he observed Jungkook climb out of the car, shutting the door close behind him before he walked around the vehicle, opening the door to the passenger seat for Jimin.

“Out, little one”

Smiling shyly, Jimin climbed out of the car, thanking Jungkook who shut the door behind him before he locked the vehicle by pressing a button on his car key.

“Come on, baby” Jungkook smirked.

With that, he reached for Jimin's hand, intertwining their fingers and watching their palms align.

“It's not too far” the black haired boy informed him as they started to walk, Jungkook leading the way through the little huddles of people gathered on the streets.

“Can't you tell me now? The suspense is going to kill me!” Jimin claimed, pouting at the lack of information he was receiving.

Jungkook chuckled, shaking his head at Jimin, “We're almost there”

Indeed, they were.

A huge crowd of people revealed itself as they turned the street, certain ones leaving the place, others arriving just now.

“Is that-” Jimin trailed off, titling his head up and noticing the huge sign of the place, certain attractions and the few booths that were visible to his eye from his particular spot, “A fair?” he wondered, heart skipping a beat as he put the puzzle pieces together.

“Yes” Jungkook confirmed with a grin, nodding as they proceeded to walk past the crowd of people, making their way onto the fair.

“A fair!” Jimin exclaimed again in joy, heart fluttering.
“Yes, little one, a fair” Jungkook chuckled, amused by Jimin’s display of excitement, the boy beaming at him.

However, his current expression was replaced by one of confusion, the smaller one titling his head to the side, “Why a fair?”

What were they doing here? Why had Jungkook taken him to a fair of all places?

They came to a halt, Jungkook sighing as he scratched over the back of his neck, “Well, I... If I'm being honest, I did some talking to Taehyung-ssi and Yoongi hyung to help me” he revealed, smiling fondly, “I was trying to think of places to take you to and although they said that you would appreciate anything, they were keen on the idea of taking you to a fair as you’re apparently-”

“I love fairs” Jimin interrupted him.

“Yes”

“So you thought of it?” Jimin concluded, arching up his brows.

The taller boy nodded, “I heard that there was one currently in Seoul and the guys assured me in my idea so I thought that this would be a great place to take you to” he elaborated, pointing to the fair around them.

Warmth bloomed within Jimin's chest, a soft smile curling up the corners of his lips, “That's... that's really cute” Jimin murmured, voice gentle, “But... but why?”

“What do you mean?”

“Why are we here?” Jimin wanted to know, his brain not catching on, clearly amusing Jungkook who reached out to brush Jimin's pink locks out of his face.

“Jimin-ah, little one, we're here to have some fun together” Jungkook then answered with a smirk.

The smaller one gulped, suddenly shy, “Is this... Is this a.. date?” he dared to ask, somehow scared that he was wrong with his assumption.

Jungkook chuckled, “It really took you awhile to catch onto that one, huh?”

“Oh, you're so mean, shut up!” Jimin whined, swatting his chest.

Laughing, the younger male wrapped his arms around Jimin, pulling him into a hug, “I'm just kidding” he muttered, pressing his soft lips to the top of Jimin's head.

Gently, Jimin closed his arms around Jungkook's back, nuzzling his cheek against his chest and inhaling the familiar comforting scent that clung onto Jungkook, a mixture of sandalwood and something Jimin could only describe as Jungkook filling his nostrils.

“So, where do you want to go first, hm?” Jungkook asked as they withdrew, Jimin resisting the urge to whine at the lack of contact between them.

Looking around, Jimin titled his head to the side, observing how several children started to leave as it was getting darker with each passing second, “I don't know” he mumbled, gaze flickering back and forth between the two paths one could take.

“Come on, let's have a look around” Jungkook decided, taking Jimin's petite hand into his own and pulling him along.
As they proceeded to walk through the fair, Jimin struggled to choose where to fixate his gaze on, the bright lights of each booth or attraction drawing his attention over onto them. To anyone there, Jimin surely appeared to be in utter awe as though he had never been to a place like this – as though it was magical.

Frankly, it had been years since Jimin had last visited a fair. However, he had loved it each and every time.

The pink haired boy couldn't be blamed as his heart fluttered at the realisation of this being a date, a shy smile adorning his pretty features as he stared down at Jungkook's and his intertwined hands.

_A date._

Their first ever real date, wasn't it?

Then again, had they not had a date before? Where their usual hang outs at each other's places not considered a date?

Probably not.

So, in conclusion, this was their first official date – after all the times they've been together, they've known each other for – this was now their first date.

Jimin smiled timidly.

"Do you want anything?" Jungkook interrupted his thoughts, pointing to one of the food stands, an intoxicating sweet scent filling Jimin's nostrils.

"Hmm?" Jimin hummed, arching up his brows as he stared at the stand, eyes scanning over the selection of different items of food.

"They have cotton candy" Jungkook noted.

"Oh, look, they have cotton candy!" the smaller one simultaneously exclaimed, pointing at the particular type of candy.

Jungkook chuckled and gave a nod, immediately aware that he had to buy Jimin some cotton candy as it was one of his favourites, Jungkook reminded of their time at Han River a long while ago.

However, Jimin wasn't as pleased with his idea.

"Don't!" Jimin protested, picking out some coins from his pocket as he observed Jungkook pull out his wallet, "I'll pay" he insisted, "What do you want?"

"Baby, I invited you. You're not going to pay for anything tonight" the younger male objected, shaking his head as he closed his hand around Jimin's tinier one.

"But-"

"No arguing" Jungkook interrupted him, ordering some cotton candy after the owner of the shop had greeted them.

Jimin crossed his arms over his chest, frowning and pouting in dissatisfaction.
The woman smiled at Jimin, handing him the cotton candy once Jungkook had paid for it, “Anything else?” she then wondered, pulling up a brow in curiosity.

“Baby?” Jungkook drew his attention over to Jimin.

Shyly, Jimin's cheeks tinged a shade of rose at the pet name, a display of affection in public still somehow causing him to feel timid.

“No, thank you” Jimin responded softly, shaking his head to underline his refusal as he was more than satisfied – in fact, very delighted - with the candy he had been given.

“That's all then” Jungkook replied to the owner of the shop, the woman nodding as Jungkook reached for Jimin's hand, gesturing for Jimin to follow after him.

“Thank you” Jimin smiled at his boyfriend, trying some of the cotton candy, his grin widening at the sweet taste in his mouth.

The taller boy smirked, fondness glistening in his eyes at the sight of Jimin being happy.

“You wanna try?” Jimin wanted to know, arching up an eyebrow as he lifted up the cotton candy to Jungkook's mouth.

“Mhm-mh” Jungkook affirmed with a hum, yet closed his palm around Jimin's wrist to pull it down, leaning in to press his lips on Jimin's in a gentle kiss.

In response, the breath hitched in Jimin's throat, the boy not having expected the action at all. Instead, he had assumed that Jungkook would taste the actual candy he had offered him.

However, he was definitely not complaining, heart fluttering as he kissed back, moving his lips against Jungkook's.

A moment later, they withdrew from one another – way too early for Jimin's liking.

“Sweet” Jungkook commented and ran his thumb along Jimin's cheekbone, causing Jimin to hide his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck. The latter snickered, resting his chin on top of Jimin's head as he caressed his back.

Slowly, Jimin detached himself from Jungkook, reaching down to take his hand, “Come on” he then uttered, gently tugging Jungkook along.

A group of children ran past them, screaming at each other to hurry up because they were late already – Jimin assuming that they had to be home, but hadn't noticed how swift time had went by in the fun they had spent here.

---

They walked for awhile, just holding hands while Jimin munched on his sweets, allowing the fair to just evolve around them, the boys taking everything in.

“You wanna try that?” Jungkook suggested, pointing towards the next booth that they were about to reach.

Jimin titled his heade to the side, swallowing down the cotton candy in his mouth as he observed the purpose of the booth, noticing how there were cute plush toys to win.

“You need to shoot at that?” Jimin asked, pointing at the plates.
Giving a nod, Jungkook hummed in affirmation, “Yes, you have to shoot the targets down”

They arrived in front of the booth, Jungkook already pulling out his wallet.

“Okay, let me try” Jimin decided, keen on winning something for Jungkook.

The smaller boy was handed a very real looking gun – at least it looked legitimate as long as Jimin was concerned – that was filled blanks. Carefully, Jimin closed his hands around it and eyed it for a brief moment.

For some reason, a shiver ran down his back at the sight, it somehow reminding him of an event that made his skin crawl.

It caused him to recall the night back in Busan, reminded him of the informant at the back of the gambling casino – the one that had threatened Jungkook with a gun. However, his gun had genuinely been real.

“Go ahead” the owner allowed, interrupting Jimin's unwelcome thoughts, the owner taking a step to the side as he revealed several targets to Jimin’s gaze.

“Okay” Jimin murmured to himself, narrowing his eyes as he tried to aim at the first target.

To Jimin's defense, he had never done this before – not even certain whether he was holding this gun in the right way, only aware that he was supposed to pull the trigger to shoot – which, well, wasn't that unapparent.

“No, no, baby” Jungkook chuckled, moving closer from behind and reaching for Jimin's wrists, fixing his posture and the way he was holding the gun, “Like this” he whispered, his cheek almost brushing over Jimin's in their close proximity, his chest already pressed to Jimin's back.

“O-Okay” Jimin whispered back, not certain why their voices had turned down in volume, yet not questioning it either.

Shyly, Jimin gulped, blinking as he noticed Jungkook's smile, the latter suddenly detaching himself and increasing their distance to enable Jimin enough space to move around.

“Now, shoot, little one” Jungkook instructed, pointing at the targets with an encouraging smile.

Nodding, Jimin fixated his gaze back on the targets, aiming the gun at the first one, pulling the trigger and-

“Missed” the owner announced, as though that wasn't obvious to Jimin at all.

“Try again, baby” Jungkook encouraged.

Smiling, Jimin nodded again, focusing on the target, pointing the gun at it, pulling the trigger and-

“Missed again” the owner informed him.

“I-I guess I'm not very good at this” Jimin chuckled, evoking a warm smile in Jungkook who hid his hands in the pockets of his jacket, shaking his head in disagreement at Jimin's statement.

“You're doing just fine, baby. Try again” Jungkook reassured him.

“Okay”
Well, Jimin did.

And again.

And again.

“Missed again” the owner let him know, irritating Jimin.

“I know” he mumbled to himself, doubting that it was necessary for that man to announce each of his fails as though they weren't obvious to Jimin to begin with, “Jungkook-ah, I'm really bad at—”

“Try to aim a little more to your right” Jungkook suggested.

Sighing, Jimin gave a nod, obliging and trying again.

This time, he shot the target down.

“Yes!” Jimin exclaimed happily, making a little jump in joy as he stole a glimpse at Jungkook who snickered at his cute excitement.

“Well done, little one” he praised, causing Jimin's heart to flutter.

“Good try, but no win for you, sorry” the owner announced, reaching for the gun.

To be fair, Jimin hadn't expected to be very good at it in the first place, hence he wasn't disappointed, but actually happy in a way that he had been able to shoot at least one target down.

Giving a nod, Jimin allowed the gun to slip from his grasp as the man pulled it to himself, reloading it.

“You did well, Jimin-ah” Jungkook praised as he approached the boy, leaning in to press a kiss to his temple.

The pink haired boy smiled, nudging his nose against Jungkook's cheek, “Now it's your turn!”

Arching up a brow, Jungkook titled his head to the side, “My turn?” he echoed.

“Yes! You go and try now” Jimin requested with a smile, keen on having Jungkook have a try, too. After all, Jungkook might be very good at it – well, essentially, it wasn't very difficult to beat Jimin's score there.

“Ohay” Jungkook agreed, nodding as he paid for another round.

The black haired boy was handed the same gun, Jungkook placing it almost skilfully in his grasp and aiming at the targets.

Well.

Jungkook shot every single target down. Effortlessly.

Jimin's eyes went wide, the boy utterly shocked, but also in awe, “You... You... Oh my god, you shot every single one of them down!” Jimin exclaimed as he pointed at the targets that were down.

“Congratulations” the owner expressed with non-existent joy, pointing at the prices, “What would you like?”
“That one” Jungkook grinned, pointing at a certain plush toy.

The owner picked it up for him and handed it to him, Jungkook thanking him before he approached Jimin who was still staring at him in bewilderment, but pure fascination, too.

“That was... amazing” Jimin murmured, eyes big as he stared up at Jungkook.

The younger male smirked, handing Jimin the little plush toy, “Here, little one, this is for you” Jungkook uttered.

A kitten.

It was a kitten.

Surprised, Jimin's eyebrows shot up, warmth spreading through his chest as he cooed at the sweet gesture, “That's sweet of you. It's so cute! Thank you, Kook-ah”

Jimin reached for the plush toy, smiling shyly as he patted its head.

“A kitten for my kitten” Jungkook commented with a smirk as he leaned in to press his lips to Jimin's forehead.

In response, Jimin's cheeks flushed a shade of rose, “Pssht” he uttered, scanning his surroundings to assure himself of no one having heard Jungkook refer to him as a kitten as it caused timidity to bloom within him.

“Cute” Jungkook commented, snickering as he pressed a kiss to Jimin's nose, the act causing the corners of Jimin's lips to curl up into a smile, “Let's go somewhere else, little one”

“Mhm-mh” Jimin agreed with a hum, distracted by the cute plushie he was observing, the fur of the item so very soft, the expression of the kitten utterly adorable.

Jungkook chuckled, closing his arm around Jimin's hips to pull him along.

---

“Oooh, let's go on that!” Jimin exclaimed, pointing somewhere as he reached for Jungkook's hand simultaneously, pulling on the younger male's arm.

“What is that?” Jungkook wondered as he followed after Jimin.

“A caroussel!” Jimin answered despite it unmistakenly being one, as though Jungkook hadn't actually figured that out already, “Those are horses! I love horses!”

“You do?” Jungkook questioned, arching up his eyebrows as the came to a halt, Jimin turning to face him with a bright grin on his face.

“Yeah!” he affirmed, giving a vigorous nod, “This one time we went on a trip in school and visited a pony farm and I loved it so much!” the pink haired boy beamed, reminiscing about that exact time, replaying the day in his mind.

Truthfully, things hadn't really gone as planned that day, Taehyung and him causing some trouble that had almost left Tae with a broken leg. Well, it had certainly ruined the fun for the other children, yet it hadn't entirely been their fault... Really, it had not!

“You really do seem to love animals a lot, hm?” Jungkook noted, reaching out to brush Jimin's pink locks out of his face, the breeze of wind having blown it into his face.

“I do” Jimin agreed with a chuckle.

“Did you ride on them?” Jungkook wondered, tilting his head to the side.

“No, we weren't allowed to” Jimin answered, digging his teeth into his bottom lip as he recalled how Taehyung had jumped on one of the horses without any one's permission, the two of them having sneaked away from the group. Well, obviously, that had not gone as planned – Jimin having to run back to the group and beg for help to save Tae who had entirely underestimated the act of riding a horse, having claimed he could just wing it.

Of course, he hadn't.

In the end, the owner prohibited their group to actually ride the horses, but they still had fun that day.

“But I really wanted to. I always wondered whether I would have been good at it” Jimin stated with a soft smile.

A smug smirk appeared on Jungkook's face, “Well, you certainly are now”

Jimin frowned, “Huh? How would you-” he asked confused, yet his eyebrows shot up as he finally caught on, “Oh, Kook-ah!” he whined as he swatted Jungkook's arm, but couldn't help and giggle all the same.

The taller boy chuckled, “Sorry, little one, I couldn't just not take that perfect opportunity” he expressed, rubbing his thumb along Jimin's cheekbone.

Fondly, Jimin shook his head, allowing his gaze to travel back over to the caroussel, Jungkook mirroring him.

“I'm pretty certain that's for children, though” Jungkook pointed out, Jimin noticing that there were indeed only children seated on the caroussel.

“Oh”

“Well, but you do have the perfect height for that, I guess, hm?” Jungkook teased him.

Offended, Jimin glared at him, mouth agape as he detached himself from Jungkook, crossing his arms over his chest, “You're so mean!” he claimed, pouting although he was aware that Jungkook was only teasing him.

Laughing – the sound warming Jimin's heart - Jungkook shook his head, closing his arms around Jimin's delicate body to hug him close, “I was just kidding, little one”

Obviously, Jimin forgave him easily, nuzzling his cheek into Jungkook's chest as he was embraced tightly, Jungkook's strong arms holding him close.

“Do you still wanna go on it?” Jungkook wanted to know, pointing at the caroussel, the children shrieking in joy as it went in circles.

The smaller boy shook his head, sighing, “No, I guess I am a little too old to ride that”

Jungkook smirked down at him, “Well, if it cheers you up, you can ride me if-”

“Don't you dare finish that!” Jimin warned him as he blushed, the boy swiftly clasping his hand over Jungkook’s mouth, the latter snickering as he wrapped his palm around Jimin’s wrist to pull it away from his mouth.

“Cute” he noted with a chuckle, nudging his nose against Jimin’s cheek.

---

“What about that one?” Jimin suggested, pointing towards the next attraction that revealed itself to their eyes.

Jungkook tilted his head to the side, frowning, “Are those cups?” he wondered as they arrived in front of it.

“Yes! Let's go on that!” Jimin affirmed with a nod, excited as he tugged on Jungkook’s sleeve.

The black haired boy hesitated, “Isn't that for children, too?” he asked, noticing the visible majority of children that were sitting in the cups.

“No!” Jimin exclaimed as he shook his head, “I see adults riding it as well! Come on, I don't see any height restriction” Jimin claimed, scanning his surroundings for any signs, yet not noticing any.

“I don’t know about this one, little one, it’s-”

“Oh, please!” the smaller one interrupted him with a pout.

Jungkook smiled, sighing as he gave a nod, “Fine” he agreed, “Go ahead, I'll pay”

With that, Jimin sprinted off, swiftly securing them an empty cup before someone else occupied it, taking his seat in one of them.

It didn’t take long for Jungkook to join him, the taller boy taking a seat across from him, looking around as though he was trying to get a hold of the situation, “Are these going to spin?” he then wanted to know, pulling up his brows in curiosity.

“Mhm-mh” Jimin hummed in affirmation, “Have you never been on something like this?”

“Nope” Jungkook responded, observing how a man who turned out to be a staff member approached them. The man shut their cup and advised – or rather demanded – for them to stay seated throughout the whole thing as they could potentially be injured if they chose to act opposed to the advice.

Frankly, Jimin hadn't planned on getting up while this thing was spinning anyway.

“It’s fun” Jimin stated as they watched the man walk over to the next cup.

Jungkook furrowed his brows, “It's going to make us dizzy” he noted, clearly not as amused by this whole idea, “If I throw up on you-”

“You wouldn't dare!” Jimin exclaimed with a gasp, lifting his plushie up to his face, pouting as he moved the kitten around.

“I can't guarantee for anything...” Jungkook mumbled, yet couldn't prevent the display of a soft smile to appear on his face, “Besides, what's even so fun about this? This shit is just spinning, isn't it?”

Jimin slumped down in his seat, “Well, but... it's still fun!” he then expressed, jerking up again.

“Is it?” Jungkook voiced his doubt.
“Just wait and see!”

Then, the attraction came to live.

Their cups started to spin, the whole thing slowly beginning to circle as well.

Jungkook didn't seem impressed, the boy leaning back in his seat as he waited for the whole thing to be over. Jimin, on the other hand, was beaming – a bright smile plastered on his face as the thing sped up.

Swiftly, Jimin pulled the plushie close to his body, keeping a tight grasp around it as he feared of it slipping from his hands in the midst of their fun.

The quick spinning forced the two boys back in their seats, Jimin giggling at Jungkook's expression, the boy appearing to be surprised by the sudden enhancement in speed.

Jimin's hair was blown out of his face, Jungkook's doing just the same.

The pink haired boy laughed brightly, eyes turning into little crescents as he couldn't keep himself from shrieking at the way the cups were spinning swiftly, making him all dizzy.

In that moment, Jungkook laughed too, his heart fluttering at Jimin's adorable expression – something about seeing him this happy and alive spreading warmth within his chest, endearing him.

They smiled at one another, the world around them blurred out – neither of them able to make out their surroundings anyway, even if they wanted to.

As their gazes were fixated on one another, they didn't notice the way the spinning slowed down, didn't notice how it came to a halt slowly, allowing their hearts to calm down.

Eventually, the whole thing stilled entirely, the two boys still laughing at each other's appearance, their hair a mess on either of their heads.

The man from earlier approached them, opening their cup before he went on to the next one.

Carefully, Jimin got up to his feet, keeping his balance by reaching out to the black haired boy. Somehow, his legs felt all wobbly, Jungkook chuckling at him as he grabbed him by his hips and lifted him out of the cup.

“And? How was it?” Jimin wanted to know, still smiling wide as Jungkook took his hand, both of them trying to ignore the stirring in their stomachs. Fortunately, they hadn't had any big meal before this as it surely wouldn't have stayed inside after this.

“Wasn't so bad” Jungkook responded, shrugging his shoulders as they left the attraction and walked back on the path.

Jimin narrowed his eyes, shaking his head, “Come on! I saw you smile! You had fun!” Jimin accused, chuckling when he saw Jungkook roll his eyes.

“Well, maybe a little” the younger male replied nonchalant.

Weakly, Jimin swatted his chest as he pressed his lips into a line, not buying Jungkook's statement.

In response, Jungkook laughed, wrapping his hand around Jimin's wrist in order to prevent him from trying to slap him again.
“You looked cute” he then uttered, “Do you still have your kitten?”

“Of course!” Jimin exclaimed, lifting his plush toy up to his face to prove that point.

---

Jimin closed his arms around his delicate body, the chilly air causing him to shudder, goosebumps forming on his skin.

“Are you cold?” Jungkook wondered as he noticed Jimin's discomfort with the temperature.

Swiftly, Jimin dropped his hands, shaking his head, “No”

The taller boy halted, his hands gripping Jimin's waist, “You're shivering” he noted as he lifted his hand up to place his palm against Jimin's cheek.

“My muscles are just excited” Jimin lied.

Smiling at the response, Jungkook dropped his hands and removed his own jacket, “Kitten, come here, take my jacket”

“No, then you're going to be cold” Jimin objected, reaching out to grab Jungkook's wrist in order to halt his movement.

“Don't worry, I won't” Jungkook assured him, proceeding to take his jacket off before he spun Jimin around and helped him into the jacket.

Immediately, warmth engulfed the pink haired one, Jimin smiling as the prominent scent of Jungkook filled his nostrils, comforting him, “Thank you”

Jungkook turned him back around, wrapping his arms around his back and pulling him closer, “I should have warned you that we're going to be outside for awhile. It is pretty chilly at night after all” he stated, rubbing his palm over Jimin's back as Jimin nuzzled his face into the curve of Jungkook's neck.

“It's fine” he assured softly, voice muffled, “Besides, I'm having so much fun” he noted, titling his head to the side in order to lock eyes with Jungkook.

Smiling down at Jimin, Jungkook arched up his eyebrows, “You are?” he wondered, gently grabbing Jimin's chin.

“Mhm-mh” Jimin affirmed with a hum, mirroring Jungkook's smile, “Thank you for taking me here” he added, voice softer.

Jungkook dipped his head down, pressing his tongue into his cheek, “Maybe there are better places than this one to take you on a first date, but I—”

“This is perfect” Jimin interrupted him, violently shaking his head as he placed his palm on Jungkook's chest, “I love it”

Honestly, Jimin had so much fun tonight, felt alive and happy. To be fair, he couldn't imagine a place better than this to have their first date at. For some reason, fairs where something almost magical to him.

Then again, so many places were that for him, each one evoking some kind of emotion within him.
As they withdrew from one another with their gazes fixated on the other one, they smiled, Jungkook giving his hand a tender squeeze.

Suddenly, someone bumped into Jimin, the force of it causing him to trip over his feet and fall into Jungkook, the taller boy swiftly wrapping his hands around Jimin’s waist to catch him. In the process of it all, Jimin’s kitten slipped from his grasp, falling on the dirty floor – to his luck, really, the universe loved to mock him every now and then – it fell into a spot of mud.

The two boys looked after the person, noticing that it was a tall man with broad shoulders who didn’t even take a glimpse back to assure himself of Jimin’s wellbeing. Either he hadn’t noticed their collision or he didn’t care at all. The former appeared unlikely to Jimin as he was certain that one would unmistakenly notice of walking into someone with that kind of force and essentially causing them to fall. The latter seemed a lot more apparent.

“Look where you're going, asshole!” Jungkook shouted at him, indicating to follow after him as he clenched his jaw, the boy clearly being angered by the man’s behaviour.

To Jimin’s horror, the man halted, turning around.

Apparently, Jungkook’s voice had been audible to him, resulting in the man stilling in his stance and searching for the voice. Frightened, Jimin widened his eyes, shaking his head as he reached for Jungkook’s wrist.

“Yes, you fucking-” Jungkook gritted through his teeth, but Jimin tugged on his arm, pulling Jungkook back.

“No, please, don't!” Jimin begged, rushing in front of him, “Don't go there” Jimin uttered, placing his palms on Jungkook's chest to stop him, a fearful expression on his face as he stared up at Jungkook.

“Little one, he-”

“Please” Jimin interrupted him, something in his voice conveying the desperation on getting Jungkook to stay he was currently experiencing.

The black haired one's gaze flickered back and forth between Jimin's eyes, Jungkook clearly deliberating over whether to give in, yet the urge to go after that dude and beat some manners into him very tempting.

In the end, his eyes softened as he gave a nod, Jungkook wetting his lips as he closed his hand around Jimin’s hips, pulling him closer to his body, “Okay, I won't do anything” he assured, resting his head on top of Jimin’s.

Jimin was very certain that Jungkook was currently looking after the guy, making sure that he would leave or maybe still considering to go after him in order to do god knows what to him. However, Jimin was just praying that he wouldn't leave his side and cause an argument or an unnecessary fight.

“Thank you” Jimin whispered, a relieved breath falling from his lips as Jungkook caressed his back.

“Are you okay, Jimin-ah? Are you hurt?” Jungkook then wanted to know, withdrawing to lock eyes with Jimin.

Nodding, Jimin hummed in confirmation, smiling faintly, “Yeah, I'm okay” he assured genuinely. Jimin wasn't in any physical pain, had only been shocked by the collision and the following fear of Jungkook going after that guy.
“Okay” Jungkook uttered, reaching out to brush Jimin's pink locks out of his face as his gaze trailed down to the floor. The younger male furrowed his brows at his sight, bending down to pick something up from the ground, “Your kitten, baby”

Jimin gasped, eyes going wide as he observed Jungkook brush the dirt off of Jimin's toy, yet not exactly succeeding in that matter.

“Oh, no! It's all dirty now” Jimin whined, pouting as he was handed the plushie, Jungkook having tried his best to clean it.

“I'm sure it will be fine after a good washing” Jungkook pointed out, voice soft, but sure.

Jimin eyed his now dirty plushie, “Poor kitten” he murmured, patting its head.

Jungkook chuckled at Jimin's empathy for the plush toy – something that wasn't exactly alive or capable of emotions anyway. Obviously, it didn't bother the plushie whether or not it had fallen into mud, yet it was adorable how Jimin pitied it, the sight endearing Jungkook.

“Cute” he whispered to himself with a smirk, his voice not audible to Jimin, making it unable for him to register the comment.

“I guess I tend to attract trouble” Jimin murmured, more to himself than anything else, the boy sighing.

After all, wasn't that true? For some reason, wherever Jimin went, bad luck always appeared to stay by his side, causing him to get in trouble in some way or another – or even worse, cause other people, especially his friends, to get in trouble for him.

The universe must enjoy to see him struggle.

“You do not attract trouble” Jungkook objected, shaking his head.

“Are you sure? I feel like, wherever I go, something horrible almost always ends up happening” Jimin responded, shrugging his shoulders, recalling just a few incidents to prove that point, a handful of them immediately replaying in his mind.

“The world is a cruel place” Jungkook simply noted, “That's not your fault though, Jimin-ah”

Jungkook tenderly played with Jimin's fingers, smiling soothingly at him.

“You just feel like you're causing all of this shit, but you don't”

“Maybe” Jimin sighed, digging his teeth into his bottom lip as he proceeded to allow his mind to run wild, truly believing that there-

“You're bringing light to people's life” Jungkook noted, Jimin's heart fluttering at the comment.

A shy smile curled up the corners of his lips, the boy dipping his head down, “Thank you”

It was kind of Jungkook to say something like that, yet that didn't prevent Jimin from doubting that statement. In fact, he was certain that there must be something that-“Stop pouting” Jungkook insisted, fingertips tracing up to Jimin's side in order to tickle him.

In response, Jimin broke out in giggles, hunching forward into Jungkook and hiding his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck.
“D-Don't” he chuckled, squirming around.

“Will you stop pouting?” Jungkook wanted to know, laughing simultaneously.

“I will, I will!” Jimin affirmed, swiftly nodding.

In the end, Jungkook did have mercy, stilling and dropping his hands, Jimin still chuckling, suddenly breathing unevenly as he slapped Jungkook's chest.

“That's so mean!” he accused, “You always use this because you know that it's one of my weaknesses!” Jimin whined.

Jungkook arched up one of his eyebrows, smirking, “Are you pouting again? Do I have to tickle you a-”

“No!” Jimin interrupted with a chuckle, detaching himself from Jungkook and running away.

The younger boy rolled his eyes, but the act still caused the corners of his lips to curl up in an affectionate smile, “Careful before you run into someone again, Jimin-ah” Jungkook warned him, rushing after Jimin.

It didn't take long for Jungkook to reach him, his longer legs enabling him to take bigger steps. As soon as Jimin was near him, Jungkook grabbed him by his hips and picked him up, Jimin shrieking as he was lifted into the air, but laughing all the same.

“And where do you think you're running off to, little one?” Jungkook asked with a smirk.

Almost subconsciously, Jimin clung onto Jungkook, closing his arms around his neck and his legs around his back, Jungkook securing him against his body. For a moment, they just stared at each other with smiles on their faces before they leaned in simultaneously, pressing their lips on one another in a passionate kiss, forgetting where they were.

It didn't take long for Jimin to notice though, the loud noises of his surroundings difficult not to note despite them being trapped in their little bubble.

Reluctantly, Jimin withdrew, placing a kiss on Jungkook's cheek before he was set down on the floor again, Jimin clearing his throat as he felt himself blush a faint shade of red, the very prominent display of affection in such a public place as this one suddenly making him feel timid.

A shy smile adorned his pretty features as Jungkook took his petite hand into his own, giving it a gentle tug, “Come on, baby. Let's have a look at the other stuff before I won't be able to stop myself and drag you back to the car” Jungkook insisted with a smirk.

In response, Jimin swallowed hard, the flush on his cheeks darkening as he bit down on his lip, his heart fluttering as he tagged along Jungkook.

---

They decided to try their luck – or prove their skills on Jungkook’s behalf – at the next booth, the mission being to throw balls at a small tower of cans. Surely, it sounded like a pretty easy quest. However, if you were as clumsy as Jimin, aiming at something and actually succeeding in hitting it with a throw of yours was not a talent of his.

Obviously, you would only win anything, if every single one of these cans fell down. It wasn't surprising that Jimin already gave up on winning, but decided to cheer Jungkook on instead.
In the end, he would still try. After all, he hadn't been that bad at shooting at the targets earlier – actually exceeding his own expectations. Perhaps, he wouldn't be that bad at this as he reckoned himself to be.

This time, Jungkook decided to go first.

After paying the owner of the shop for both of them, Jungkook was handed three balls before he straightened his posture, fixating his gaze at the cans intently.

As predicted, he hit the tower with his first two balls, leaving only two cans remaining.

Excited, Jimin jumped up, clapping his hands together as he cheered Jungkook on. The latter smiled smugly, stealing a glimpse at Jimin before he threw the last ball.

However, this time - he missed.

“Fuck” he cursed, pressing his tongue into his cheek, “I slipped” Jungkook claimed as Jimin giggled, approaching his boyfriend and pressing a kiss to his cheek.

“You did well” Jimin assured him, now handed three balls himself, Jungkook reaching for his kitten in order to hold it safely for him.

Not expecting much, Jimin fixed his posture, focusing on the tower of cans and blurring everything else out, barely noticing how Jungkook distanced himself in order to allow Jimin to have enough room to move freely.

The first throw was a success, Jimin hitting three cans down.

Gasping, Jimin smiled brightly as he locked eyes with Jungkook, the latter applauding him with a grin, endeared by Jimin's excited expression.

The second throw hit only one can down, leaving two cans to remain.

Taking a deep breath, Jimin lifted his arm, aimed at the two cans and threw his ball and-

Hit.

They watched the two cans fall down to the floor. To Jimin's eyes, it was a sight that happened almost slower in time, the pink haired boy just staring at the fallen cans and blinking, only ripped out of his state of trance by the sound of the can hitting the hard ground.

“Congrats” the owner smiled at him, Jimin's mouth agape as he realised that he had actually won.

Clearly, Jimin was struck by luck tonight – at least when it came to this one.

“You can choose one of these” the owner informed him, pointing at the several prices in his little booth.

Blinking again, Jimin took a step closer, scanning the different items for one he liked.

At a particular one, his eyes lit up, a smile curling up the corner of his lips as he noticed it in the far back.

“This one!” Jimin exclaimed, pointing at the item he desired.

The owner gave a nod, picking it up before he handed it to Jimin, the latter hiding it behind his back.
The smaller boy grinned, skipping over to Jungkook who was already waiting for him, a smile adorning his handsome features, one hand hidden in the pockets of his trousers while the other one was still grabbing the plushie.

“Well, this didn't go as planned” Jungkook chuckled, lifting his hand up and scratching over the back of his neck.

Jimin's smile only grew as he showed Jungkook the toy he had won.

“This is for you” he beamed.

Surprised, Jungkook's eyebrows shot up, the boy's gaze flickering from Jimin's doe eyes to the toy and back up to his eyes.

“Thank you” he then uttered, taking the toy from him and laughing as he realised what it was.

“A bunny for my bunny” Jimin stated sweetly.

Jungkook rolled his eyes, but couldn't hide the smirk on his face, “Of course” he breathed, shaking his head as he leaned in to press a kiss to Jimin's forehead.

That damn name was never going to leave him now, was it?

---

It was a little later that night, the two boys having decided to stop by at a little food stand and have a hot drink, simply talking to each other or enjoying the other one's company – neither of them requiring anything more as being with one another was simple, but everything all the same.

“Have you thought about the offer yet? Jungkook suddenly wanted to know, surprising Jimin who had not expected that question.

However, it wasn't anything he had not been thinking of for the past days – in fact, it was a topic that had occupied his mind for hours every single day ever since he had received it.

“Yeah, well... I have been thinking quite a lot about it” Jimin responded, giving a nod as he bit down on his bottom lip.

For a moment, his gaze stayed fixated on his cup of hot chocolate that was more of a source of warmth to his cold hands than anything else. Slowly, he ran his thumb along the side of the cup, the boy exhaling a breath.

Jungkook hummed, “And? Made a decision?” he asked, taking a sip of his coffee.

“I think I might have, I don't know” Jimin replied, shrugging his shoulders, “The offer your father made me is just... incredible. I would get to work in the same company as you, Hoseok and Jin hyung do while doing something that I love. How can I not choose that?” he added, aware that essentially his heart had made a decision already.

The black haired boy chuckled, “It is a pretty damn good offer. My father knows what he's doing” Jimin agreed with a faint smile, stroking the fur of his plushie absentmindedly as he was trying to organise his thoughts, “I just... I don't know, is it okay for me to work somewhere ... with you?”

Jungkook arched up his eyebrows, “Why wouldn't it?” he wondered, clearly surprised by that question.
“You're basically my boss then” Jimin answered, “I mean, you are my boss then, but we're also together” he elaborated, not sure what his heart was trying to get across there, but hoping that Jungkook was somehow capable to understand what he was attempting to say.

“Does that bother you?” the taller boy wondered, titling his head to the side, affection glistening in his eyes.

“No, just...” Jimin replied, sighing as he shook his head, “I don't know, whether we'll be able to differentiate between work and our personal feelings, you know?”

“Ah, I see” Jungkook uttered with a nod, fathoming what the obstacle for Jimin's decision was, “Well, don't worry about that” he swiftly assured, “I won't be your boss outside of work, thus I have no authority over you and honestly, I won't boss you around much at work either. I don't know shit about choreographing so you're independent and way more experienced in that field than me. Of course, I know what looks good and what doesn't, which enables me to determine my opinion on that and share it with you, but there is no way I would tell you how to choregraph. You and Hoseok hyung are more than capable to handle that on your own. My father and I will just check up on you, see what you've created and decide for certain concepts together with you. If we don't see anything as fitting, we'll tell you, but you're very free in that aspect” he added.

Jimin smiled, comforted by his words.

“If you don't want me to treat you any different than the other employees, I can try to do that. Is that what's worrying you?” Jungkook suggested.

“No, I... Well, I don't know what's really bothering me, if I'm being honest. I think I just can't comprehend what amazing offer this is” Jimin responded, smile widening as he shrugged his shoulders.

“You deserve it, Jimin-ah. You deserve even more than this”

Timidly, Jimin smiled, dipping his head down as he felt his cheeks heat up, “Thank you, Kook-ah”

“I mean it, little one. You deserve the whole damn world. I would love for you to take this offer, of course I would. Yet, I understand completely, if you want to take Yang's offer. I won't be mad at you, please don't forget that. Neither will my father. Please don't feel pressured. I will support you in your decision no matter what it may be”

“Thank you, Kook-ah. That means a lot to me” Jimin muttered sincerely, always amazed how easy the ability to comfort Jimin appeared to be for Jungkook, “I think... I think I already made my decision, though” the pink haired boy murmured.

Jungkook reached up to caress Jimin's cheek, “Yeah? Are you sure?”

Smiling, Jimin gave a nod, “I think, I am” he whispered.

---

Holding hands, they were reaching the end of the fair, something that you surely wouldn't be able to miss catching Jimin's gaze.

“Should we go on the ferris wheel?” Jimin suggested as they were approaching it, the boy pointing at the attraction that was at least thirty meters high.

Jungkook gave his hand a tender squeeze, his gaze trailing up and down the ferris wheel, something flashing in Jungkook's eyes that Jimin wasn't able to define in the darkness that lied among them, lights barely illuminating their surroundings, the moon almost the brightest source of light.

“Ah, well... Do you want to?” the black haired boy wanted to know, scratching over the back of his neck.

Jimin smiled as he nodded, “I'm sure the view is really nice from up there”

After looking back and forth between Jimin's eyes for a moment, Jungkook eventually agreed, “Well, then let's go”

It didn't take long for them to be seated in one of the passenger cars, mere minutes having gone by. After a few more seconds passing, they were sent off and the car started to move.

The beginning was a little rocky, their car buckling as it started to move. The pink haired boy scooted closer to Jungkook, unconsciously reaching for his hand that was resting on his thigh. Gently, Jimin intertwined their hands, yet not meeting Jungkook's brown orbs, but rather drawing his attention to the skyline that was slowly revealing itself to their eyes.

As their car rose up higher, Jimin's jaw dropped in awe, the sight so utterly beautiful, especially during night – Jimin reminded once again why Seoul was that precious to him, why he loved the city so dearly in all its glory and with all its flaws.

“Pretty” Jimin commented, voice barely above a whisper as he appreciated the view.

“Mhm-mh” Jungkook hummed softly in affirmation, Jimin titling his head to the side in order to meet Jungkook's gaze, noticing how the latter had already been staring at him.

Smiling shyly, Jimin leaned in to press a swift peck to Jungkook's lips, withdrawing way too early for the taller one's liking. Proving that fact, Jungkook closed his arm around Jimin's waist, preventing him from pulling back, but rather securing him in the position he was in. This enabled him to deepen their kiss, to prolong the sweet, but also spark erupting feeling of kissing Jimin as though he was the air he was breathing.

Surprised, Jimin gasped, his breath hitching in his throat as he placed his hand on Jungkook's chest. Jimin was more than delighted by the leading act, moving his lips against Jungkook's without an ounce of hesitation, their kiss turning hungrier.

The black haired boy hummed, but withdrew, his lips proceeding to stay hovering over Jimin's, brushing them, but not yet enough to call it a kiss. Involuntarily, Jimin whined, trying to close the distance between them, but Jungkook pulled back, shaking his head.

“If we keep doing this, you know exactly where that will lead, baby” Jungkook stated, reaching up to brush Jimin's hair that had fallen into his eyes out of his face, “I don't think you would appreciate my hand around your pretty dick when we get down again, little one”

Jimin's cheeks flushed at his words, the boy digging his teeth into his bottom lips as he drew his thighs together.

Jungkook smirked, his thumb running along Jimin's bottom lip, applying faint pressure as he titled his head to the side, amusement glistening in his eyes, “You would like that, huh, kitten?”

The pink haired boy's cheeks heated up a darker shade of red as he hid his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck, whining, “Shut up”
In response, Jungkook chuckled, sliding his hand through Jimin's pink locks as he leaned in to press his lips against Jimin's temple, leaving a gentle kiss there.

In the meanwhile, their passenger car had arrived at the highest point, Jimin lifting his head to appreciate the view, noticing that Jungkook was swallowing hard.

Arching up his brows, Jimin cocked his head to the side, glancing at Jungkook's expression that was somehow... conveying a rather uneasy feeling.

“Are you scared?” Jimin found himself wonder softly.

Jungkook frowned, “Me? No, I'm not scared of anything” he snorted, crossing his arms over his chest. However, there was an emotion flashing in his eyes that displayed something different.

“Oh my god, you are!” Jimin claimed, chuckling as he studied Jungkook's features.

Suddenly, their passenger car came to an abrupt halt, swinging back and forth at the sudden stilling. The two boys hunched forward, yet not far as they were secured by the solid and firmly locked bar in front of their upper bodies.

Jimin's eyes went wide, the boy gasping and reaching for Jungkook's thigh.

“Are you scared?” Jungkook teased him now, the smaller boy swallowing hard and swatting his arm.

“That's not funny! What's going on?” Jimin exclaimed, horror written on his face as his gaze flickered from Jungkook's eyes down to the ground and back up to Jungkook's eyes, amusement glistening in the latter one's.

Jungkook chuckled, pulling Jimin closer to his body.

“Maybe there are some technical difficulties” he reasoned, which was a rather valid and very legitimate sounding assumption of what was going on, Jimin figured.

“Oh-Oh” Jimin murmured, gulping as he grasped a fist of Jungkook's hoodie, holding onto it out of nervousness.

Inhaling a shaky breath, Jimin remained close by Jungkook's side, not moving another inch as he was scared of their passenger car swinging back and forth yet again. It was already scary enough to be stuck here as they were, this whole situation fearing Jimin to begin with.

However, having Jungkook by his side always comforted him and caused him to feel safe. That circumstance alone was able to keep him calm and feeling secure.

The taller boy sighed, “We shouldn't have come on here” he noted.

Jimin nuzzled his cheek into Jungkook's chest, “Are you scared of heights?” he wanted to know, having noticed Jungkook's earlier hesitation upon his suggestion of going on the ferris wheel.

Now, Jimin felt really stupid for that suggestion, wishing they had stayed down instead. Sometimes, he really wanted to scold past Jimin.

“No, I just don't like staying up here for who knows how long” Jungkook responded, shaking his head.

“I-It's nice, though, no?” Jimin uttered softly, “The view is pretty”
It was. So darn pretty. Truthfully, it was another circumstance that made this horrible experience a little more bearable.

“Well, it surely is, but it’s damn cold up here” Jungkook replied, pulling Jimin closer.

The latter gave a nod, his body shivering despite him wearing Jungkook’s jacket, proving that it was indeed very cold up here, “M-Mhm” he hummed in agreement, praying that the close proximity to Jimin’s body was somehow providing Jungkook with some more warmth.

“I like the floor beneath my feet and not some damn void” Jungkook added.

Jimin smiled, “Me too”

Only a few minutes had passed, silence having settled between them, yet it felt like an eternity to them. In the absence of anything happening around them, the voices within them were amplified, one of the many repercussions of being stuck up here as they were - not knowing how long they were going to have to stay here, not knowing when they were going to be saved.

“This sucks” Jungkook noted.

“Uh-huh” Jimin agreed, swallowing hard as he dared to take a glimpse down again, grateful that they weren’t up at the highest point of the ferris wheel.

People had gathered in front of the ferris wheel, staring up at it while other people rushed around – Jimin praying that they were working on a solution for this.

“Are you scared?” Jungkook asked, startling Jimin who had looked down intently, having focused his entire attention on the crowd on the ground he desired to join them on – alive, preferably.

The smaller boy glanced at Jungkook, meeting his gaze as he blinked, “N-No”

Smirking at Jimin’s lie, Jungkook arched up a brow, “You are”

Jimin pointed a finger at Jungkook, “So are you” he accused.

“I'm not scared at all” the younger male protested, leaning back in his seat as though this was not affecting him at all.

“Liar” Jimin claimed, crossing his arms over his chest. After all, he had seen the look in Jungkook’s eyes, had noticed his prior hesitation. Surely, being stuck up here without any knowledge of when they were going to come down was definitely getting to him, too.

“You’re calling me a liar now?” Jungkook asked, leaning closer to Jimin, smirking despite Jimin’s accusation.

“Yes!” Jimin exclaimed, giving a determined nod, but couldn't prevent the smile that danced around his lips either.

As Jungkook moved closer to him, their passenger car swung back and forth again, causing Jimin to shriek as he clung onto Jungkook.

“Don't mooove” he begged.

Chuckling, Jungkook wrapped his arm around Jimin’s delicate body, pulling him closer to his side, the smaller one wasting no time to hide his face in his chest, nuzzling against Jungkook.
“I hate this” he mumbled, “We're going to die”

“We're not going to die, baby” Jungkook reassured him, shaking his head as he rubbed his palm over Jimin's back, trying to soothe the boy.

“They will forget about us up here and everyone will go home and we will freeze to death or starve or this whole thing will crash and then-”

“Little one” Jungkook interrupted his rambling with a chuckle, “Nothing like that will happen. But, if it comes down to it, you can eat me before you starve, baby. I won't let you die out here”

“Jungkook-ah! I would never eat you!” Jimin exclaimed, whining as he slapped his chest at the suggestion.

The younger male shrugged his shoulders, proceeding to caress Jimin's back, “Well, I'm just saying that you could” he responded sincerely.

“No!”

Snickering, Jungkook pressed a kiss to his temple, “Okay, okay” he whispered amused, “They're probably already fixing it. I bet it won't even take five more minutes to get this thing on again”

Jimin sighed, swallowing hard, “Why did it have to happen to us?” he wondered quietly, pouting as he traced his fingertips over Jungkook's chest.

“Jimin-ah, hey, we're fine, okay? Nothing will happen. I promise you” Jungkook whispered into his ear, his breath tickling on Jimin's skin, causing goosebumps to form in that exact spot, but his heart fluttered all the same.

“You're scared, too, aren't you?” Jimin asked softly.

Slight hesitation on Jungkook's behalf before he parted his lips to answer, “No, little one, I told you that-”

“Your heart” Jimin noted, voice gentle, “It's beating so fast”

The beating of Jungkook's heart was audible to Jimin as though it was his own, Jimin somehow capable to feel each and every pounding of his vivid heart.

“It's not” Jungkook protested.

“It is”

The taller boy rolled his eyes, “Whatever” he murmured.

Jimin smiled warmly, deciding to drop the topic and instead attempting to concentrate on Jungkook's soothing words solely, “Don't worry. We're going to be fine”

Well, Jungkook was right.

As always, Jimin thought.

It didn't take long until the ferris wheel started to move, the two boys still cuddling as they arrived on the ground again, a relieved breath slipping from either of their boys as they detached themselves from one another – neither of them having noticed of holding that breath.
Maybe, they did hurry quite a bit as they left that thing, not entirely desiring to be stuck up there again.

---

“I was not scared” Jungkook claimed again, snorting as he shook his head, “My heart wasn’t beating fast because we were up there” he added, meeting Jimin's gaze, engaging in the smaller boy's still blooming curiosity.

The latter arched up his eyebrows, desiring to know the reason for that particular reaction of his heart. Certainly, there must be an answer, “Then why was it beating fast?” Jimin wondered.

Jungkook studied his features for a moment, “Well, think hard, little one” he replied eventually.

In response, Jimin tilted his head to the side, “You were panicked?” he figured. After all, his heartbeat had quickened, too, skipping several beats essentially upon the shock of being stuck up high on the ferris wheel.

“No, Jimin-ah” Jungkook answered.

Jimin pursed his lips, contemplating, “You... had difficulties breathing?” he reckoned. Surely, that was a plausible reason for his quick heartbeat, too, wasn't it?

Jungkook shook his head, sighing, “You're unbelievable” he mumured beneath his breath as they proceeded to make their way through the fair, heading back to the entrance.

“What? What was it?” Jimin uttered, still confused.

“You, Jimin-ah” the younger male replied, stealing a glimpse at Jimin before he forced his gaze straight ahead again, fixating his eyes on his surroundings so he wouldn't trip over anything or bump into anyone for that matter.

“Me?” Jimin echoed, clearly confused by that revelation.

Jungkook smiled softly, giving a nod, “Yes, you”

What did that mean? What was he implying with that statement? Was it possible that...

“You... your heart does that, too?” Jimin whispered, relating all too well to that particular reaction of his heart. After all, his own heart acted like that all the darn time – had already been affected by Jungkook in that way upon the first time they ever even got to know each other.

The black haired boy chuckled, “Yes, baby, my heart does that, too” he answered. However, despite his clear display of smugness and amusement, Jimin noticed the faint shade of rose that flushed his cheeks in the midst of it all, “Of course, it does” he added, wrapping his arm around Jimin's waist to pull him closer to his body.

“Oh” Jimin murmured, biting down on his bottom lip to hide his smile, scolding his heart to cut it as it fluttered yet again.

---

Jungkook's car came to a halt at the side of the street, the taller boy shutting off the engine once they had arrived.

“Thank you for taking me on a date tonight, Jungkook-ah. I really enjoyed it” Jimin uttered with a smile, “I had a lot of fun”

After that minor disaster at the ferris wheel – which fortunately hadn't turned into a major chaos – the two of them had decided to head home, the cold temperatures and the late hours of the night winning the battle in the end.

“Me, too” Jungkook responded, reaching over to caress Jimin's cheek. The latter nuzzled against the soft touch, blushing faintly, “I'm glad that you had fun”

Hesitantly, Jimin unfastened his seatbelt, staring into Jungkook's brown orbs as he leaned closer to the latter. Slowly, he attached their lips in a kiss, certain he would withdraw just a brief moment later, yet then urging to feel Jungkook's lips on his for longer.

Gently, Jungkook moved his hand to the back of Jimin's neck, pulling the boy even closer. Gasping, Jimin parted his lips to push his tongue into Jungkook's mouth, the younger male humming in satisfaction as he met Jimin's tongue in the middle, licking over it.

Allowing his heart to take over, Jimin climbed over to Jungkook's seat, hooking his leg over Jungkook's lap in order to straddle the taller one.

Surprised, Jungkook grasped Jimin's hips, the two boys simply staring into each other's eyes for a moment. Smiling, Jungkook reached out to brush Jimin's pink locks out of his face as he wet his lips, leaning in to press them onto Jimin's.

Whimpering, Jimin deepened their kiss, moving his lips against Jungkook's hungrily – longing for more. Softly, he wrapped his arms around Jungkook's neck, attempting to close even the slightest bit of distance that existed between them.

“Jimin-ah” Jungkook whispered against his lips, trailing open-mouthed kisses down his throat and nibbling on Jimin's fair skin ever so softly.

The smaller boy gasped, digging his teeth into his bottom lip as he titled his head to the side, exposing more of his neck to Jungkook who was more than delighted to pepper more kisses all over his soft skin.

Suddenly, a phone rang, startling the two boys.

Jimin whined, shaking his head, “Don't” he begged, aware that it was Jungkook's phone that had interrupted them.

Jungkook sighed, hiding his face in the curve of Jimin's neck, his palm rubbing over Jimin's side soothingly, “I'm pretty certain it's my father”

Pouting, Jimin gave a nod, watching Jungkook reluctantly pull his phone out, confirming his assumption. In the meanwhile, Jimin had decided to slide his hand through Jungkook's hair, tenderly playing with the soft locks.

Instead of accepting the call, Jungkook declined it. For a brief moment, he just stared at his phone before he lifted his head to lock eyes with Jimin.

“I really don't wanna go right now, little one” Jungkook groaned in frustration, leaning in to press a kiss to Jimin's forehead, “But I have to”

“Come upstairs with me” Jimin whispered, biting down on his bottom lip.
“Fuck, you're really not helping me here, kitten” Jungkook cursed, gaze flickering down to Jimin’s plump lips before he forced it back up to his doe eyes, “I don't have a choice. I forgot that I promised my father to help him with that thing”

“What thing?” Jimin found himself ask before he was able to stop himself.

Jungkook blinked, “A meeting-thing” he then answered.

“Okay” Jimin sighed, obviously sad that Jungkook wouldn't spend the night with him, but would have to leave now, yet still understanding that his work required his attention and time at certain times of the day that were unusual.

The taller boy pressed his forehead against Jimin's, “I'm sorry, little one. I totally forgot about it. I know, this day was supposed to be-”

“No” Jimin interrupted him softly, shaking his head as he placed a kiss on Jungkook's cheek, “Don't apologise. I understand. I had a really nice day, Kook-ah. Don't worry about it” he assured him.

“Okay” Jungkook muttered.

Smiling shyly, Jimin detached himself from Jungkook and climbed back over onto the passenger seat.

“I'll talk to you tomorrow then?” Jimin wondered as he opened the door.

“Mhm mh. Of course, baby” Jungkook affirmed, then remembering something and reaching for something on the backseat, “Don't forget these”

“Oh, right, thank you”

“Sleep well, Jimin-ah”

“You, too. Don't work for too long, Kook-ah”

“I won't” Jungkook assured him with a smile.

Then, Jimin climbed out of the car, rushing over to his apartment building and opening the door with his key.

Before he entered, he looked back over his shoulder, waving at Jungkook as he noticed that he hadn't left yet.

Smiling, Jungkook waved back at him, Jimin's heart still fluttering as it reminisced about their date.

Eventually, Jimin stepped inside the building, Jungkook's car only leaving once he had shut the door behind him – the sound of his enginge turning quieter as he drove off into the distance.

------

“I'm telling you!” Taehyung exclaimed, “She promised to send me the first preview pictures at 8pm because I begged her to!” he assured, snatching the bag of crisps from Jin's hand who glared at him with dark eyes at the theft of his snacks.

“We've still got some time to kill then” Namjoon noted, stealing a glance at his watch.

Taehyung hummed, pushing some crisps into his mouth as he plopped down on the sofa next to Yoongi, “How about we order some food?” the blond haired boy suggested.

“You're already eating snacks – that belong to me” Jin reminded him, snatching the bag from Taehyung’s hand, the latter pouting as he swallowed his bite down.

“Hyung, come on, sharing is caring” Taehyung whined, trying to get the snack back.

However, Jin shook his head, lifting the bag up into the air, out of Tae’s reach, “You always finish my snacks without leaving anything for-” he accused him.

“Guys, calm down” Hoseok interrupted them, chuckling as he slid his hand through Taehyung’s hair, the gesture appearing to calm Tae who nuzzled into the touch, “We’ve got enough snacks for everyone” he pointed out, which was very true, “But I wouldn't say no to a pizza either”

“Fine, I'll order some food so you idiots won't starve or kill each other” Yoongi stated, getting up to his feet and disappearing into the kitchen.

The other's snickered, Taehyung smiling in a pleased way as he used the opportunity in which Jin was distracted by Yoongi to steal the bag of crisps again.

“Yah!” Jin exclaimed as he noticed the theft, the oldest one furrowing his brows, “Stop stealing my snacks! Why do you-”

“Guys, please, can you shut up? I'll buy you all the fucking snacks in the world, if you stop now” Jungkook sighed, rubbing his digits over his temple, appearing to be irritated by their bickering – or simply acting to be as there was a faint display of a smile on his face.

“Fine, here, I'm going to wait for the pizza” Taehyung gave in, handing Jin the bag of crisps back.

“No, no, this is a special day for you, you can have them” Jin assured him, voice suddenly softer as he shook his head.

Correct. Today was a special day. Taehyung would receive a first preview of some of the pictures from his shoot today, having begged to see some early. They were all almost just as excited as him, having gathered at their usual hang out place – Yoongi’s house – to celebrate together.

“Really? Thank you, hyung” Taehyung smiled.

“That's how easy you give in? You're supposed to decline and allow me the snacks-” Jin bickered again, the other guys sighing as they slumped down in their seats, wondering how long they would proceed to argue over some darn snacks.

“Shut up now or I'll beat your ass with this bag of damn crisps” Yoongi threatened as he walked back in the room.

“Is that a promise?” Taehyung asked cheekily, grinning as Yoongi approached him, the latter rolling his eyes, but smiling nonetheless as he took a seat next to Taehyung again.

“That's... keep your kinky fantasies to yourself” Namjoon mumbled, the others chuckling in unison, Jimin clasping his hand over his mouth to hide his giggles.

“I ordered some pizzas for us” Yoongi informed them, changing the topic as he snatched the bag of crisps from Taehyung's hand, the latter stilling his hand mid-air, startled by the theft by Yoongi, “Probably takes awhile, though”
“Hyung” Taehyung whined as he watched Yoongi eat some crisps from the bag he had prior stolen from Jin.

Chuckling, Yoongi offered him the bag, Taehyung grinning as he happily ate some more crisps.

Jimin could only observe their interaction with a smile, somehow bewildered how they were able to bicker that much about some darn snacks – despite there being more snacks scattered over the table just a few feet away from them.

Yet, food that belong to your friends surely tasted better, Jimin figured.

---

“I'm staaarving” Taehyung whined, placing his hand over his stomach as he pouted, “How long is the delivery guy going to take?”

Jin pressed his lips into a line, Jimin very certain that he was about to bicker over those snacks again, surely wanting to voice his doubt of Taehyung being hungry despite him having finished Jin's bag of crisps.

“He'll probably be here soon” Yoongi responded, Hoseok simultaneously reaching out to pat Taehyung's head, the latter nuzzling into the touch.

“There is more snacks on the table, if you want any” Namjoon reminded him, pointing at the particular table he was referring to.

Eyes wide in curiosity, Taehyung hummed in satsifaction as he jumped up to his feet, waddling over to the table and rummaging through the different types of candy and snacks.

“He's just very nervous” Hoseok informed the others – although they were aware of just as much. After all, Taehyung having been to a photoshoot for such a big designer was amazing, but surely very nervewrecking, too. There was no doubt in any of their minds though that his pictures were going to look absolutely remarkable. Taehyung was way too gorgeous for them to look any less than that.

“Yeah, he can't stop checking his phone every five minutes” Yoongi agreed, Jimin giving a nod as he had noticed that behaviour, too, Taehyung somehow having fallen into a pattern of stuffing snacks into his mouth, engaging absentmindedly in their conversation, checking his phone and then cuddling to either Hoseok's or anyone else's side – that, well, had only been Yoongi so far.

“Distracting him isn't working out that well” Jin noted, perhaps having bickered with him intentionally to lessen his nervousness.

“Mhm-mh” Jungkook hummed in agreement, all of them attempting to keep their voices down, not desiring to have Taehyung eavesdrop on their slight concern over him.

The blond haired boy returned to the group, carrying a bag of gummy bears in his hand that he opened on his way over to them.

“I love these” he beamed, lifting up the bag to display what he was referring to.

Smiling, Taehyung sat down inbetween Yoongi's spread legs, leaning back against his chest and resting his head next to Yoongi's as he proceeded to eat his gummy bears. Evidently, Yoongi appeared to be surprised by the act, eyes wide as he cleared his throat. If Jimin wasn't mistaken – and surely, he must be – there was a faint display of a blush on Yoongi's cheeks.
Hesitantly, Jimin allowed his gaze to wander over to Hoseok, not exactly certain why he had the urge to do just that, yet not capable to resist that exact urge either as he studied Hoseok's features. The brown haired boy was only looking at the two boys with a smile – Jimin not able to define whether it was forced or genuine as Hoseok was pretty good at keeping a smile on his face despite there being something that bothered him - before he tore his gaze over to Jimin.

Swiftly, the latter averted his eyes, cheeks flushing as he felt like he had been caught doing something he shouldn't have - which clearly wasn't the case. After all, he had only stared at one of his very close friends. That wasn't prohibited.

“Hyung, I'm thirsty” Taehyung murmured, almost as though those words were only for Yoongi to hear, yet Jimin registered his words all the same, his close proximity to these two allowing him to, “Do you have some-”

“No alcohol” Yoongi interrupted him, shaking his head, “Some coke, though”

“Yeah, okay, I'll get me some then” Taehyung decided, handing Yoongi the bag of gummy bears before he got up to his feet, “Anyone else need anything?” he asked as he tilted his head to the side, interrupting the conversation the other four were having.

“No, thank you” they replied almost simultaneously, flashing Taehyung a soft smile that the latter mirrored.

As Jimin observed how Taehyung disappeared into the kitchen, he decided to follow after him – his body almost moving unconsciously, Jimn not quite certain why he had the urge to do that, almost as though it needed to something that he wasn't aware of yet, his brain only noticing a moment too late of what was occurring, Jimin already finding himself back alone with Taehyung in the kitchen.

The blond haired boy had just picked up a plastic cup, titling his head to the side as he noticed Jimin's figure entering the kitchen as well.

“Hey, Minnie” he smiled upon their encounter, Jimin returning the smile halfly, yet too distracted by the chaos that had suddenly erupted in his mind.

“Hey” he replied softly, walking closer to his best friend, “Are you okay? What's going on?” Jimin found himself wonder as he watched Taehyung fill his cup with coke.

“Huh?” the taller boy uttered, arching up his brows, yet his attention still fixated on his drink.

Jimin furrowed his brows, “You do know that Hoseok hyung is right beside you, right?” he reminded his friend.

At that, Taehyung halted, lifting his head to lock eyes with Jimin, “So?”

Swallowing hard, Jimin rested his hands on the counter, “Are you and Hoseok hyung... okay? I mean... is everything fine? You're essentially sitting on Yoongi hyung's lap this whole time, flirting with him and cuddling him and-”

“What are you trying to say?” Tae interrupted him, frowning at Jimin's words.

Guilt bloomed within Jimin, the boy shaking his head, not certain where he had actually desired to go with this, “Nothing” he responded, voice softer, “I'm sorry. I was just... I know that you're only doing this in a friendly way, but I just... I don't know... I thought Hoseok hyung might... Never mind”
Taehyung opened his mouth, but shut it right after as he closed the bottle of water, “It's fine, Minnie” he assured eventually with a smile, clearly not minding Jimin's nosiness, but brushing the whole thing off rather swiftly as he put the bottle of coke back in the fridge in its designated place before he returned to Jimin's side and picked up his cup, “I'm just very... nervous. I don't know why”

Jimin smiled sympathetically, “You don't have to be nervous, Tae. I'm sure your pictures will look absolutely stunning” he responded.

“Thank you” Taehyung muttered almost shyly, meeting Jimin's gaze as a timid smile curled up the corners of his lips.

As Jimin proceeded to look into Taehyung's brown orbs, a heartwrenching image flashed in front of his eyes, his own smile faltering.

“Tae-yah” Jimin uttered softly to gain the taller boy's attention, tugging the sleeves of his hoodie over his petite hands, a nervous habit of his that he had picked up on subconsciously.

“Mhm-mh?” Tae hummed as he lifted his head, arching up an eyebrow to convey his state of listening attentively.

“I keep having these weird dreams” Jimin stated, not entirely sure why his heart had decided to begin like this, not entirely sure why he was bringing this up at all.

The blond haired boy furrowed his brows, titling his head to the side, “About what?”

“About you?” Jimin answered, not certain why his voice sounded unsure despite him being more than aware that it had been Taehyung who had been attacked in his dream.

How could he doubt that for even a second with the vivid way it had been displayed in his dream – Jimin's heart clenching at the mere thought.

Taehyung's eyes went wide, sympathy flashing in his brown orbs as he chuckled and gave a nod, “Jimin-ah, that's okay” he assured, waving his hand at Jimin as though to brush Jimin's concern off, “I had that with you before, too. It was surprising, but of course it happened. It's just inevitable, honestly, we don't control our dreams. Don't worry about it” he added, shrugging his shoulders as he took another sip of his drink, affection glistening in his brown orbs.

Confused, Jimin blinked, “What do you mean?” he then wondered, not fathoming what Taehyung was implying there.

What was he thinking of?

Taehyung had seen Jimin being attacked by two of their friends in one of his dreams, too?

“A wet dream” he answered, ”Isn't that what you were referring to?” Taehyung asked, cocking his head to the side.

The pink haired boy widened his eyes, “No! No, I was referring to- Wait, you had a wet dream about me before?”

Taehyung's eyebrows shot up, potentially regret blossoming within him for talking too fast as he bit down on his tongue, “Well, this is awkward now” he mumbled, scratching over the back of his neck.

“Anyway” Jimin uttered, shaking his head to get back on track, “What I was trying to say was that I saw you in my dream. Hoseok hyung and Yoongi hyung were there, too” Jimin finally revealed.
“you sure this isn't a wet dream because it sounds pretty similar to mi-” Tae chuckled, interrupting Jimin, clearly trying to create a light mood.

“Tae! This is serious” Jimin expressed, shaking his head.

“I'm sorry” the blond haired one snickered. However, upon the expression on Jimin's face and the clear display of vulnerability, he went silent, concern visible in his eyes, “Hey, this is really serious, huh? What is bothering your heart?”

Jimin swallowed hard, a shiver running down his back as he was reminded of his dream.

“They hurt you in the dream. They... they stabbed you with a knife. It was horrible” Jimin stated, heart clenching at the picture in his mind, his voice soft.

“What?” Taehyung muttered, furrowing his brows, “Minnie, why do you look so scared? They would never do that to me” he swiftly assured his best friend, reaching out to place his hand on Jimin's delicate one.

“I know they wouldn't” Jimin agreed, giving a nod, yet noticing the stirring in his stomach all the same, “I know... I know that, but why do I keep dreaming about it?” he then wanted to know, not certain whether Taehyung would have an answer, but wishing that he would- wishing that someone would, “It happened three times already. Three. “ he emphasised, playing with the hem of his shirt, “I thought it would stop after I talked to Hoseok hyung when he assured me that everything was okay and I actually believed that it did, but it came back”

“It's just a dream, though, Minnie. Everything is fine. I promise you” Taehyung reassured him, smiling sympathetically at him to comfort Jimin.

“What if it's a sign?” Jimin suggested, moving closer to Taehyung, the voices of their friends coming from the living room muffled in the distance, “What if my heart is trying to tell me something that I... I don't know – that could happen in the future?”

“Like some psychic?” Taehyung clarified, titling his head to the side.

Now that Taehyung said those words out loud, it did sound ridiculous.

Jimin slumped down, resting his arms on the counter as he shook his head, “Well... No... I”

“I don't think so, Jimin-ah”

“I just wondered whether it's triggered by anything, you know? Whether I... I saw or heard anything that would explain this dream” Jimin attempted to explain his struggling heart.

“Well, when did it start?” the taller boy wanted to know.

That was a good question.

Frankly, Jimin couldn't quite recall the exact moment those dreams had first started...

“I'm not too sure” Jimin voiced his thoughts, “I had one yesterday and then a couple of days ago, but the first one... I think, yes, I think the first one was after the party. You know, the last one here at Yoongi's house. The one were I passed out”

Jimin widened his eyes, suddenly recalling something else.

“I remember my heart clenching at the mention of their names when Jungkook and I talked about them that night, but I just didn't know why” Jimin revealed.

That night, Jungkook had recited the events of the party after Jimin had passed out, causing Jimin's heart to react in a certain way that he didn't understand at that particular time.

“Well, now that I think about it, you did look pretty scared when I saw you” Tae remembered, giving a faint nod, “That was the moment before you vomitted”

This time, it was Taehyung's eyes that went wide.

“What did you see when you were upstairs?” his best friend urged to know, leaning closer.

“Upstairs?” Jimin echoed, visibly bewildered by that exact question. Why was it of any significance what he had seen upstairs?

“Yes, you went to search Jungkook-ah upstairs during the party, but you came down looking so fucking scared and then you just-”

Suddenly, something clicked within Jimin.

The remainder of Taehyung's words were muffled to Jimin's ears, somehow blurred out in the chaos that arose in his mind, a turmoil of noises and images amplified in his head.

Several images flashed before Jimin's eyes, in a way explaining the nightmare he had suffered numerous times now.

One particular image didn't want to vanish, almost engraved into Jimin's eyes, there for him to permanently stare at.

“Tae... Tae, oh my god, I...” Jimin whispered, violently shaking his head as he clung onto the counter.

Finally, there was clarity.

Oh, but how it tore his heart apart.

_Yoongi and Hoseok had kissed._

Chapter End Notes

_Uh-oh :o
Will Jimin tell Taehyung about what he saw? What do you think?_

_For that scene with the cups at the fair I was inspired by Jungkook's G.C.F in Tokyo
If you haven't seen it already (which I doubt haha) I would like to recommend it! It's so well done and sooo cute! <3_

_I hope your days are filled with happiness! <3
Beware of the cold weather, always remember to wear warm clothes and don't catch a cold! <3_

_See you in the next chapter :)_
I love you <3
Decisions

Chapter Summary

Will Jimin be brave enough to speak up about the kiss? If so, what happens then?

Chapter Notes

Hello, lovely readers :)

How are you? :)
I'm halfway through with my exams and veeeery exhausted, but it's not much longer and then I'm finally done, yaay ^^

Thank you so much for waiting for me and for always supporting me and for loving this story so much. I'm very grateful <3

I'm sorry it took me a little longer, I hope you enjoy this chapter <3

See the end of the chapter for more notes

It was as though Jimin had been hit by a truck at full speed, the collision shooting him up high flying through the sky, the boy ultimately crashing back down on the hard floor – in the midst of it all, someone was stabbing his heart.

It wasn't pain that he was enduring for himself, no, but for his best friend.

Jimin's heart shattered into pieces as he looked into Taehyung’s eyes.

“Tae, I... I don't... I” the smaller boy stuttered, somehow not capable to say those words out loud – frankly not even certain whether it was his place to interfere and share this revelation with Taehyung.

After all, wouldn't it bring everything to ashes?

“Minnie, you-”

“Did you two get lost?” a voice chuckled, interrupting Jimin's and Taehyung's conversation, the two boys startled by the sudden figure that entered the kitchen, “I mean, my house is large, but it's not a maze, is it? It's not your first time here either” he added, amusement in his eyes as he approached them.

Yoongi.

At the sight of one of their closest friends, Jimin's heart clenched, his stomach twisting as he met the older one's gaze. Almost involuntarily, as though he wasn't capable to bear the sight, he averted his gaze, turning his body away as he inhaled a shaky breath.

For some reason, the only thing Jimin was able to think about when looking at Yoongi was that heartbreaking image of the latter kissing Hoseok. Yet... was it just a twisted up creation of Jimin's mind?

However, Jimin doubted that, the image displayed way too vividly in his mind.

“Hyung” Taehyung smiled at him, “We... No, we just need to talk”

“I see” Yoongi responded with a warm smile, giving a nod as he walked over to the fridge to pick out the bottle of coke, waving at them before he exited the kitchen again, leaving the two boys to themselves.

“Minnie” Tae murmured softly, trying to gain Jimin's attention.

The pink haired boy was staring at the wall with a blank expression, gulping and squeezing his eyes shut as Taehyung called out his name.

What was he supposed to do now?

“Hey, Min-ah” Taehyung uttered, closing the distance between them, “What did you see upstairs that night?” he wanted to know, stepping in front of Jimin and cupping his face.

“I...” Jimin tried to murmur, but he simply didn't have it in him.

There was... there was no way he could tell Taehyung of what he had seen, was there? The mere thought alone broke his heart. It would tear Taehyung down entirely. No one had ever been as romantically important to him as Hoseok. In fact, he could very well be the love of his life. How could Jimin completely ruin that with this revelation? Wasn't he protecting Taehyung by staying quiet?

Yet, maybe, the refusal to share the truth with Taehyung just made Jimin a coward.

After all, Taehyung deserved to know, didn't he? If he didn't tell Taehyung about it, he would stay by Hoseok's side oblivious to what the boy had done behind his back.

That wasn't fair.

Jimin didn't know what to do.

Helpless. Utterly helpless is what he felt.

It was almost as though he was staring at something that would fall to ashes either way.

“Follow me” Taehyung interrupted his thoughts, Jimin noticing how the taller boy reached for his hand and tugged him along – the two of them exiting the kitchen and making their way upstairs.

Taehyung pulled him into the room that sent a shiver down his back – the room he had caught Hoseok and Yoongi kissing in.

Ironic, wasn't it?

Gently, he applied faint pressure on Jimin's shoulders as they halted in front of the bed, causing Jimin to take a seat on the soft sheets, Taehyung joining him as he sat down next to him.

“What is it, Jimin-ah?” Taehyung wanted to know, turning his body towards Jimin.

The latter was only staring at the shut door, biting down on the inside of his cheek as he dipped his “Taehyung, I... I don't know what to do. I... I saw... I saw...” he tried again, yet unable to go any further than that.

“Hey, calm down, Minnie” Taehyung comforted him, placing his hand on Jimin's, “Just tell me. Please”

Jimin squeezed his eyes shut, shaking his head, “I-I can't”

“Why?” Tae pressed softly, clearly desperately needing to know the answer.

Almost... almost as though he was sensing something.

“I don't... I don't want to be the one to ruin everything” Jimin whispered, finally lifting his head again to meet Tae's gaze, the blond haired one staring right back into his eyes, attempting to search for something that simply wasn't there.

Or... was it?

Taehyung blinked.

“Is it... is it related to Hoseok hyung?” he murmured, voice quiet and soft, neither of them aware why their voices had decreased in volume as they were the only ones in the room anyway.

Jimin gave a weak nod.

An emotion flashed in Taehyung's brown orbs, “Is it... related to Yoongi hyung?”

The smaller one widened his eyes as he parted his lips, a clear display of his bewilderment. What had given that away? Had he sensed something all along?

“How...”

Taehyung got up to his feet, suddenly approaching the door. Jimin couldn't help but believe that he was creating distance between them as though he was trying to protect himself from something.

For a moment, Taehyung just stared at the wooden door before he spun around, leaning back into the door as he locked eyes with Jimin.

“You saw them kiss, didn't you?” Tae concluded, his words sending a shiver down Jimin's back.

Jimin opened his mouth, only blinking at the other one.

It was as though all the air had been kicked out of his lungs, the smaller boy struggling to speak at all. For a reason he didn't know, he clasped his hand over his heart almost unconsciously - like he was experiencing physical pain within his chest.

“Taehyung, I-” Jimin whispered, empathy in his pretty eyes as he got up to his feet.

“I know” Taehyung muttered, pushing himself away from the door as he shrugged his shoulders.

“What?” Jimin expressed, furrowing his brows.

“I already know” the taller boy simply repeated, closing the distance between them.
“You... you do?” Jimin questioned, swallowing hard as his brain processed those words, “Wait, what?"

How could he be close to Hoseok and Yoongi, if... if that had happened? Did it not bother him at all? That appeared to be very unlikely.

“I know that they kissed at the party” Taehyung elaborated.

Jimin blinked, “How can you be... are you not-” he tried to voice his thoughts, shaking his head upon the chaos that had erupted in his mind.

“Mad? Angry? Disappointed? Hurt?” the blond haired one finished for him, smiling faintly as he sat down on the bed again.

Jimin gave a nod, pulling his brows together in a frown, “Yes, all of that”

Taehyung caught his bottom lip between his teeth, “Well, it's... it's a long story actually” he muttered gently.

“I'm very confused” Jimin revealed, shaking his head, almost dumbfounded as he lacked the ability to make sense of the situation.

Taehyung smiled softly, giving a nod, “I was, too” he chuckled, “I mean, I still am” he added softer.

“About what?” the pink haired one asked.

“About everything, really. It's all very... I don't know... new? Confusing?” Tae answered, meeting Jimin's gaze as he fidgeted with his shirt absentmindedly.

“I.. I..”

“I reacted just like you when I found out” Taehyung uttered, “Well, at least on the inside I did...”

“When did you find out?” Jimin wondered, figuring that he must have been confronted with the situation a while ago, if he was talking about it this calmly.

How was there not an ounce of anger in his voice or demeanor? There was no pain, no disappointment either.

How was that possible?

“That same night” Tae responded.

Jimin's eyes went wide, “Really?” he questioned softly.

“Yeah” Taehyung affirmed, “After Jungkook and you left the party, they pulled me into Yoongi's bedroom and sat me down. They were both very... very apologetic and seemed so hurt and I was confused of what was going on and then they just... they just told me” he recalled, moving his hands along while talking.

Jimin couldn't imagine how painful that moment must have been.

“And then?” he whispered, urging to pull Taehyung into a hug, yet resisting the urge as the other one didn't appear to be sad at all, but still somewhat confused.

What had happened that night after Jimin and Jungkook had left the party?
“They begged for my forgiveness, saying that they didn't mean to, but that it just kind of happened”
Tae went on, “I... I was drunk. I mean, you know I was. I... I... well, one thing led to another and... the night took a turn none of us expected I guess....”

Hoseok fell to his knees, reaching for Taehyung's hands as he stared at him with apologetic eyes, something like fear or guilt or potentially a mixture of both glistening in his gorgeous eyes as he stared at Taehyung, “Sunshine, I'm so sorry. Please, we didn't mean to hurt you, I-”

“Tae-yah, it's my fault. I'm sorry. I really am. It won't ever happen again. I... I'm horr-” Yoongi apologised simultaneously, their voices echoing in Taehyung's mind, the blond haired boy biting down on his bottom lip as his gaze flickered back and forth between their apologetic eyes.

“Let me kiss you, too” Taehyung found himself whisper.

“Huh?” the other two uttered in unison, both going silent upon Taehyung's request.

“What did you say?” Yoongi wondered, swallowing hard as he observed Hoseok getting up on his feet again, clearly also believing that his ears must have deceived him.

“Let me kiss you, too” the blond haired boy repeated, “That would be fair, wouldn't it?”

Somehow, it all made sense to Taehyung's drunk mind.

“Tae, I...” Yoongi stuttered, wetting his lips as he watched the taller boy approach him.

Hesitantly, Yoongi stole a glimpse at Hoseok who was staring at the scene with big eyes, not moving an inch though and not expressing his discomfort with the idea either.

“It's just a kiss” Taehyung whispered as he had closed the distance between them.

Yoongi looked back and forth between Taehyung's eyes, his heart doing a weird thing as the latter placed his hand in his neck, pulling him even closer.

"O-Okay"

The two were almost careful, feeling the other one's breath on their skin as they leaned even closer, their eyes fluttering shut.

Perhaps, it wasn't such a good idea, Taehyung decided as he felt Yoongi's lips on his, somehow reminded of a past crush he had had on the older one for the longest time – having felt as though Yoongi would never see him in that way and that staying close friends would essentially be better.

However, somehow, this kiss sparked an emotion that had long be gone – maybe never quite entirely, just suppressed by the fear of rejection or ruining their close bond that was similar to that of family.

They gasped, Taehyung licking over Yoongi's tongue as the latter pulled him tighter by his hips.

In the back, Hoseok cursed beneath his breath at the sight, plopping down on the bed almost mesmerised.

Carefully, they withdrew from one another, their lips proceeding to linger in the touch, brushing over the other one, yet not enough to call it a kiss.

Their gazes met, an emotion glistening in either of their eyes, but neither of them were able to define it – their drunk minds not allowing them to. However, they didn't need to, just knew... just knew that something had shifted.

“Fuck” Hoseok cussed, wetting his lips as he stared at the two boys, honestly slightly bewildered that the sight wasn’t evoking any jealousy in him at all, but was rather... causing something entirely different to bloom within him.

Taehyung’s gaze flickered down to Yoongi’s lips again, Yoongi swallowing as he felt his heart pound fast against his chest as though it was about to jump out of his ribcage. In fact, he was certain that Taehyung’s was currently doing the same thing, the heartbeat of the latter audible to him in their close proximity.

Gently, Tae leaned in again, crashing his lips on Yoongi’s in another swift kiss before he pulled away - almost like he was waiting for Yoongi to reject him - yet, he didn’t.

Instead, Yoongi gasped against him, attaching their lips once again to kiss back, silently permitting Taehyung to do whatever he wanted.

Suddenly, there was a warm hand on Taehyung’s back, Hoseok having appeared at their side, nuzzling his face into Taehyung’s nape and inhaling deeply before he rested his head on his shoulder.

Yoongi blinked, catching his breath as he observed the two boys, begging his heart to calm down as they stared at him with an emotion in their eyes that he simply wasn’t able to define – perhaps lacking that ability due to the prominent alcohol running through his veins.

“Oh okay?” Hoseok whispered into Taehyung’s ear, the blond haired one giving a determined nod.

“Oh yeah” he murmured back softly, but sure.

“Okay?” Hoseok then addressed Yoongi, titling his head to the side as he waited patiently for him to answer.

The boy nodded, not quite aware of what exactly he was agreeing to, yet more than certain that he didn’t care, just wanted this.

Hoseok pressed a kiss to Taehyung’s forehead before he turned to face Yoongi, the smaller boy unconsciously catching his bottom lip between his teeth as Hoseok flashed him a warm smile.

Carefully, Hoseok ran his hand through Yoongi’s hair, moving his hand down to the back of Yoongi’s neck and applying faint pressure to pull the boy closer.

Yoongi’s breath hitched in his throat as he felt Hoseok’s soft lips on his, his eyes fluttering shut as he kissed back without an ounce of hesitation, warmth spreading through his chest.

In the meanwhile, Taehyung had moved back to the bed, kneeling down on the soft sheets as he watched his boyfriend kiss another boy – not envious one bit, in fact, having kissed that same boy just a few moments ago as well.

This was... a unique experience.

Taehyung whined at the lack of attention, Hoseok smirking into the kiss with Yoongi as he placed his hands on the back of Yoongi’s thighs and picked the boy up. Yoongi yelped at the suddenness his feet lost the floor beneath them, the boy swiftly hooking legs around Hoseok as he wrapped his arms around his neck.
Smiling, Hoseok crashed his lips on Yoongi's again, carrying the boy over to the bed to take a seat next to Taehyung. In the process of it, Yoongi was forced to straddle Hoseok's lap, not daring to admit how good it had felt to be carried and held by – fuck, to kiss these two boys.

Hoseok trailed open-mouthed kisses down Yoongi's throat before he withdrew, the two boys catching their breath, only staring into each other's eyes. A smile adorned either of their handsome features, the brown haired one leaning back on his hands, observing how Taehyung moved closer to Yoongi.

“Hyung” Tae whispered, Yoongi appearing to know what he was asking for as he leaned in to capture Taehyung’s lips in a passionate, hungrier kiss, almost sloppy in a way as they moved their lips against one another.

In his position, Hoseok was able to see their exchange perfectly, the sight causing him to wet his lips as he noticed how the two boys reached out for him - as though they didn't want him to feel left out. Smiling, Hoseok took either of their hands into his own, giving them a tender squeeze as they proceeded to make out.

Neither of them questioned what they were doing, perhaps not completely understanding what their bodies – or their hearts – were desiring for in this moment. They just knew that they didn't want this moment to stop.

As they withdrew from one another, Hoseok reached for the hem of Yoongi's shirt, playing with it while Taehyung removed his own shirt and tossed it to the side.

“Okay?” Hoseok asked, merely pulling the shirt up.

Hesitantly, Yoongi gave a nod, lifting his arms up into the air as Hoseok tugged the shirt up and off of him, dropping it somewhere on the floor behind the boy.

“O-Okay, I don't think you have to go into detail, Tae” Jimin interrupted him, shaking his head.

Tae smiled shyly, “Sorry” he apologised softly.

“That's...” Jimin uttered, “So you three... had... had.”

“Yeah” Taehyung affirmed his unanswered question, a faint shade of rose flushing his cheeks.

It took a while to comprehend all of that information, Jimin’s brain not entirely possessig the ability to process all of this in this current moment.

Taehyung and Hoseok – who were in a committed relationship – have had sex with Yoongi – another one of their closest friends – after Taehyung had kissed Yoongi as a result of Hoseok and Yoongi having kissed?

Surely, it would take a while for all of that to settle in.

“What... what happened after that?” Jimin wondered, “I mean... what... did you do then?”

How do you address something like that? What are the repercussions of a threesome when two of the parts are in a committed relationship?

Taehyung bit down on his bottom lip, “We were all kind of drunk that night so when we woke up the next morning all cuddled up in Yoongi's bed it was...”

“Awkward?” Jimin finished for him, figuring that the situation surely must have been awkward.

“Funnily enough, no” Taehyung responded with a smile, “It was... I don't know. It's weird to explain. I mean, for a moment we were confused and stared at one another, but it was domestic in a way, too?”

“I-I-” Yoongi stumbled out of the bed, falling to the floor but swiftly getting back up to his feet, “I'll leave you tw-”

“Come back here” Hoseok grumbled sleepily, Taehyung smiling with his eyes only half opened as he gave a nod, somehow comforted by the warmth that the two boys were radiating at either of his sides.

Yoongi stared at them for a moment, a feeling spreading within his chest that warmed his heart as he gave a nod and laid back down in bed next to Taehyung. Gently, Hoseok tugged the blanket back over their bare bodies, his hand remaining on Taehyung’s stomach. Carefully, Yoongi placed his hand next to Hoseok’s on Taehyung’s soft skin, Hoseok’s hand brushing his before he placed his hand on top of Yoongi’s.

Slowly, they found their way back into that sweet haze of sleep, all huddled together, engulfed in each other’s warmth and comfort touch.

Perhaps, they would feel awkward and decide to never mention this again once they were entirely sobered up, yet for now...

this was nice.

“What happened once you were sobered up?” Jimin eventually asked.

Taehyung shrugged his shoulders, “We... we just ate breakfast and didn't really mention it. I guess we kind of brushed it off as something that happened because we were all drunk. It was weird. We... just acted as if it never happened, but.. I felt different and I sensed that they did, too. The air was different between us” he elaborated, fidgeting with his shirt again as he titled his head to the side, clearly reminiscing about that morning.

“Oh..” Jimin barely muttered out, somehow having lost his voice.

“Hoseok and I left after breakfast without a proper understanding of what had happened that night and we went over to my place to just get ready for the day” Tae added, “Then, we... we finally talked about what happened at Yoongi’s place and we both... we both admitted that we.. enjoyed it” Jimin gave a faint note to convey that he was listening attentively, waiting patiently for Taehyung to go on.

“Did you...” he wondered softly, leaving the remainder of his sentence hang in the air between them, frankly not certain what he had desired to ask the other boy.

“We talked to hyung again” Tae reavealed, “He... he was shy, not his usual being” Taehyung recalled, smiling softly as he drew shapes over his thigh, tracing his fingertips along the spot, “We... well, it happened again ”

“Again?” Jimin echoed, eyes big as he studied Taehyung’s features, noticing the way his cheeks flushed a shade of rose again. There was no judgement in Jimin’s voice, no, not all, only prominent curiosity.

“Yeah” Tae affirmed, giving a nod, “I mean- I mean, we agreed that it was just sex, but... things got odd once we didn't just have sex” he added, biting down on the inside of his cheek as he averted his gaze.

“What do you mean?”

“We started to cuddle a lot and... and slept at each other's places and stuff like that. It wasn't just sex. It was... it was full of care and... and even loving in a way? Once the sex was over – and fairly enough, sometimes even during – everything was so gentle”

Jimin blinked, the boy tilting his head to the side as he stared at Taehyung.

“How many times did you... I mean, how ofted did it...” Jimin struggled to ask, somehow nervous and frankly not wanting to be too nosy. After all, this was very private.

“Honestly, I don't know. I lost count, but... a lot. Enough to... enough to wonder what it all means, you know?”

“I... I don't” Jimin uttered sincerely, “What exactly do you mean?”

Yet, was that true? The pieces were all there for Jimin to combine. Was he simply too oblivious to see what Taehyung was trying to tell him?

“I don't know, but... but I'm sure Hyung didn't just kiss Hoseok hyung that night because they were drunk, but because he has some sort of feelings for him. Similar to that, I don't think Hoseok hyung just kissed back for no reason either”

Jimin's heart clenched, his heart already aware or perhaps assuming of where this was going to go – a place that woud potentially leave at least one of them hurting.

“And... and... I don't know, we have a lot of thinking to do, I guess” Tae added, biting down on his lip, “I know the three of us have been thinking quite a lot about it already, but none of us are brave enough to speak up. After all, I mean... this is very confusing. I never knew that...” the blond haired boy trailed off, his voice turning softer and quieter with each syllable of his, barely audible to Jimin's ears, yet he did register his words, waiting for the other one to go on.

Yet, he didn't.

“What do you mean?” Jimin eventually wondered, staring at Tae with soft eyes, trying to display his empathy for the situation.

“Do you think you can like more than one person?” Taehyung found himself whisper, almost scared to know what Jimin was going to say.

The pink haired boy gave a nod, humming, “Of course, I like all of you dearly and...”

“No, Minnie” Taehyung interrupted him, shaking his head, “Not in that way” he added, meeting Jimin's gaze.

Jimin's eyes went wide as he fathomed what Taehyung had been referring to, “Oh” he uttered.

“Yeah” Tae murmured, dipping his head down.

“Oh” Jimin breathed, only now understanding the entirety of that statement and what it implied,
“You... you think you like Yoongi hyung, too?”

“I-I... yeah” the blond haired boy admitted, catching his bottom lip between his teeth.

“Oh” Jimin muttered yet again, not capable to wrap his head around all of this, too bewildered and stunned by all of the information he had received in the span of the last thirty minutes.

“I'm fucked” Taehyung cursed beneath his breath, falling back on the soft bedsheets and glancing up at the ceiling as though it guarded the answers to his problems.

“N-No” Jimin protested, violently shaking his head before he fell back on the bed next to Taehyung, the two boys proceeding to stare up at the ceiling, not meeting the other one's gaze.

“What am I supposed to do?” Tae asked softly, “There seems to be no real answer to this. Maybe I'm just too scared? I mean, I have been thinking about us these past days and it's just... I know they've been thinking about it, too, but none of us want to speak up because... what happens then?” Taehyung expressed, stealing a glimpse at Jimin's face before he averted his gaze back up.

“What do you mean?” Jimin asked yet again, feeling like it was the only sentence his brain was able to create, like he was lacking a proper knowledge of more than these four words.

Then again, could he be blamed for his clear confusion?

“What are we supposed to do?” Taehyung wanted to know, “This isn't... people don't do that” he expressed, voice turning quieter with each of his syllables, barely audible for Jimin to register.

“Do what?” Jimin asked, glancing at Tae who proceeded to look up at the ceiling.

“Well... I don't know” he murmured, eyes falling shut, “Like more than one person? Date more than one person simultaneously? Have a relationship consisting of three people?” he listed.

Finally, Jimin understood.

This wasn't about the repercussions of the kiss or the numerous threesomes amongst themselves - this was about their hearts that had caught feelings in the midst of it all, feelings that Taehyung wasn't certain they would be able to live upon, perhaps not certain whether they even wanted to and if so, then how were they supposed to do that?

The pink haired boy felt his heart clench as he reached for Taehyung's hand, the latter not hesitating to interlace their fingers.

Surely, there must be a solution to this, Jimin believed.

“Well, if you like each other and you're comfortable with each other then... then why not all be in a relationship, if that's what you want to happen” Jimin suggested softly, “I mean, why... why not? If you're all fine with that idea then who's going to tell you that it's not right? Just because it's not common?”

Hesitantly, Taehyung met Jimin's gaze, fear glistening in his brown orbs, “What if they don't feel the same, though?” he whispered, “What if Hoseok hyung is going to be mad at me and is going to dump me? What if... what if I ruin my bond to Yoongi hyung by suggesting it?” Taehyung asked, his voice displaying his vulnerability, “How does one even... I mean, how would that work? A relationship with three people? That's... that doesn't happen”

To be fair, Jimin didn't know anyone who had ever been in a relationship involving three people.
Quite frankly, he had never even heard of that either, yet... did that matter?

Why should it be wrong just because it's not common? Why would something that makes them happy be reprehensible?

They are allowed - they are entitled to feel happiness in all its entirety.

Jimin believed wholeheartedly that there wasn't anything wrong with this idea – regardless of whether it was common or not.

“Says who?” Jimin objected.

“I... I don't know” Tae murmured, “That's not really something you see in society, you know? I don't even know, if that's possible. How can you like more than one person in that way? How is this supposed to work? Is this just a short-term thing? But then my feelings are telling me something different. Then how are things going to work out long-term? What will people think? What if... I mean, we could never have a fam…” he rambled, stating fears that are occupying his mind – most likely having haunted him for a while now.

“Tae, hey, calm down” Jimin comforted him, voice soft, “If you're concerned because of what other people think, then don't be. It's none of anyone's business, but yours three. This is your life and your decision. No one else has the right to interfere in that and tell you what is right and what is wrong. As long as it makes you happy and... and it's healthy, as long as all of you are fine and comfortable with it, then how can it be wrong?”

Taehyung shook his head, “How long will something like that last, huh? What if it doesn't work out?” he asked, appearing to have in fact thought about this for a very long time.

“Then that's what's supposed to happen” Jimin answered, rubbing his thumb along the back of Taehyung's hand soothingly, “But how can you know, if you don't try at all? If they both make you happy then there is nothing wrong with it. If they both make you happy, then allow yourself to live that happiness with both of them. It doesn't matter if it's long-term or short-term as long as you're happy while doing it”

A half smile adorned Taehyung’s gorgeous features, carrying something like sadness within it, “Should I try something that I already know is destined to fail?”

Taehyung appeared to believe that in the end, at least one of them was going to be left hurting. Jimin wasn't going to lie and ignore the possibility of everything falling to ashes – ultimately potentially even causing all of them to break off on bad terms, yet... wasn't that the case with every single relationship out there?

What, if the exact opposite was going to happen? What, if this decision was going to be one of the best ones in their life – filling them with happiness in a way they have never felt before?

Wasn't that feeling worth enough to fight for? To strive for, the least?

“Who says that it's destined to fail, Tae?” Jimin objected, giving his hand a tender squeeze, “What if it works out? What if it's going to be fulfilling? What if the three of you live happily together, huh?”

“Be realistic, Min-ah” Taehyung protested, shaking his head.

“I am” Jimin emphasised sincerely, “I am, Tae-yah” he uttered, “Do they make you happy?”

“So damn much” Tae whispered.
Jimin smiled warmly, “Then allow yourself to live that happiness. If they make you happy, why not at least try?” he added softer.

“You wouldn't think of us as... as weird?” the taller boy worried, meeting Jimin's gaze.

Jimin's lips curved in a sympathetic smile, “No, Tae, how could you even think that? I mean, I didn't expect this at all, but it's not weird”

Surely this was new to Jimin – quite honestly potentially not something that he would manage to understand wholly as of now, but would take a couple of days to really let this settle in – yet that didn't matter.

Jimin did wonder how a relationship consisting of three people was going to work out, yet he believed that they would find a way to enable it, if that's what they wanted to do.

“Thank you, Minnie. I love you” Taehyung murmured, rolling over to hug Jimin, the smaller boy wrapping his arms around his best friend to pull him tighter.

“I love you, too, Tae” Jimin whispered back, Tae hiding his face in the curve of Jimin's neck as they remained in their embrace.

“Tae! Baby!” someone yelled, the voice muffled in the distance, the person presumably somewhere in the hallway in search for the blond haired one, “Jimin-ah!”

The two boys stared at one another before they sat up, several knocks on the door audible in the silence of the room. Slowly, the door was opened, a head peaking inside. Once the figure found the two boys sitting on the bed, they smiled, fully opening the door to step inside.

“Hey, are you two okay?” Hoseok wondered, titling his head to the side, “Sunshine, your phone keeps ringing. I didn't want to be nosy, but I'm pretty sure the pictures have arrived”

Gasping, Taehyung jumped up, eyes wide as his gaze flickered from Hoseok to Jimin and back to Hoseok.

“Already? I- We'll be right downstairs” Taehyung expressed.

Hoseok chuckled, giving a nod, “Okay, baby”

The older one left the room, shutting the door behind him, yet leaving a gap remaining as he disappeared. Taehyung caught his bottom lip between his teeth, nervous, but also filled with excitement as he fixated his gaze back on Jimin.

“What are you waiting for?” Jimin grinned, getting up to his feet as well.

“I don't know” Taehyung replied as he smiled shyly, “I guess I wasn't sure whether our conversation was done yet”

Jimin reached for his hand, “We can talk about it later, if you want to”

Taehyung’s smile grew bigger, his eyes glistening as he gave a faint nod, “Yeah that... that would be nice”

---

It was odd to be in the presence of Yoongi and Hoseok, Jimin now aware of what had occurred during the past few weeks regarding their... love life?
Obviously, Jimin didn't think of them any differently now that he knew their secret. After all, they were always going to be part of his family – no matter whether they choose to become an item or not.

It was none of Jimin's business whether the three of them have had sex before and whether it would turn into anything more than that. In the end, all Jimin wished for was their happiness and if being together would bring them happiness, then Jimin would be more than delighted to support them in their doing.

“Damn... Tae-sssi, you look absolutely gorgeous” Namjoon stated, interrupting Jimin's thoughts and pulling him back into reality.

The pink haired boy smiled, giving a nod in agreement as he drew his attention back over to the photo. So far, it was only the third pic Taehyung had showed them – Tae having looked absolutely stunning in every single one of them.

“That is not part of korean tradition!” Yoongi claimed, pointing at the next picture of Taehyung dressed in a white, loose blouse, his lips parted sensually as he stared at the camera with blue contact lenses in his eyes.

Taehyung chuckled, “Well, she did request to take a few other pictures” he explained, “It was so much fun, really. I got to wear so many different clothes of her. I knew she would only send me a few pictures because she doesn't want anything to leak, but it's still nice to see this” he added with a smile, “That means you haven't even seen the best ones yet though!”

“Fuck, you look stunning” Hoseok commented, closing his arm around Taehyung's waist and pulling the boy closer to his side.

“Thank you” the blond haired boy uttered, his cheeks flushing a shade of rose.

Ultimately, there were only about six pictures that the boys got to see, the word preview really sticking to its meaning there. Evidently, they didn't mind that one bit, didn't complain at all as they were enjoying the time just being with one another, needing nothing more but each other's mere company.

Frankly, they used any excuse to have a reason to meet up, desiring to spend more time with each other despite it being difficult due to their very demanding schedules.

The pizza had finally arrived, all of the boys immediately diving in and stuffing their empty – well, not that empty as they did eat quite a lot of snacks - stomachs with the food. Just as Jimin took another bite from his piece, laughing along the other one's at a joke Jin had made, he noticed how Jungkook ran his hand through his hair.

“Jimin has made a decision on which company to choose” Jungkook informed the others.

The smaller boy halted his hand mid-air, chewing on the bite in his mouth as he blinked, noticing how the other boy's eyes widened as they fixated their gazes on him.

“He? Spill! Why haven't you said anything!” Taehyung gasped, excited as he jumped up and down in his seat.

Hesitantly, Jimin swallowed his bite down, his cheeks heating up at the sudden attention he had received, “Well, I... I wanted to wait until I signed the contract. Besides, today is your day!” Jimin answered, dropping his piece back in the box as he pointed at Taehyung.
“Tell us! Who is it, Minnie?” Taehyung wanted to know.

Smiling shyly, Jimin stole a glimpse at Jungkook before he trailed his eyes back over to the group, “I decided to go for... Jeon entertainment” he revealed the decision that had occupied his mind for the past weeks.

In the end, his choice might have always been evident, his heart having been aware of it long before he was.

The boys broke out in cheers, applauding Jimin as they congratualted him as though he had just won the lottery.

Well, maybe he had.

“That means we're going to be working together, Jimin-ah” Hoseok pointed out happily.

To be honest, that was just another perk of it all.

“Mhm-mh” Jimin affirmed with a grin, nodding at the brown haired one who ran his hand through Jimin's hair, ruffling it. Giggling, Jimin pulled away, Hoseok chuckling at Jimin's timidity.

“It's going to be great to have you there” Jin smiled at him, causing Jimin to be even more anticipant of this new chapter as they were all going to be working at the same company – despite Jin and him not particularly interacting in either of their professions there, yet surely still trying to make time to see each other often.

Jungkook wrapped his arms around Jimin's delicate body, pulling him to his chest as he rested his head on Jimin's shoulder.

“I can't wait” Jungkook whispered into his ear, pressing a gentle kiss to his nape.

---

Jimin and Taehyung spent the whole night together – talking about everything, but nothing at the same time.

Clearly, the topic concerning Hoseok and Yoongi was still on their minds, inevitable to not bring up as they proceeded to talk all night.

“Don't tell me that!” Jimin shrieked, blushing as he clasped his hands over his face.

“I'm sorry! I'm sorry!” Taehyung chuckled, rolling over onto his side in order to reach for Jimin's wrists. Gently, he pulled his hands away from his face, enabling them to lock eyes again, “I was just letting you know that Yoongi hyung knows what he's doing”

“Tae!” Jimin scolded him, slapping his arm, but still giggling as the other one snickered into his hand.

Taehyung lifted his hands up in defense, “Okay, sorry, I won't say any more than that” the blond haired boy apologised, pretending to seal his lips, but then still speaking up, “Just that... it's always nice” he added softer, catching his bottom lip between his teeth.

“The sex?” Jimin wondered, not certain what Taehyung had referred to.

“No. Well, yes, that part is mindblowing, but I meant... just being together with each other” Taehyung clarified, his soft smile growing as he recalled those moments, “Sometimes, we met up to fu-” he paused, clearly taking into consideration that it was Jimin who he was talking to, “you know, but we just ended up watching a bunch of movies while cuddling and making out in bed”

“That sounds sweet” Jimin whispered, smiling softly as he imagined them all huddled up in bed, engulfing each other in warmth as they allowed their hearts and bodies to express what their voices were too scared to say.

Somehow, it was reminding him of how he loved to just watch movies with Jungkook at night and cuddle with him until they fell asleep - those moments so incredibly precious to him.

“Mhm-mh. It is” Tae agreed with a hum, “I... feel so safe with them. I mean, I always felt that way with Hoseok hyung, but Yoongi hyung makes me feel safe, too, since... forever. From the day he promised to protect us I never felt anything less but safe with him. Hyung just fits so well to... to us”

Yoongi had truly been their guardian angel in a time that they had been very impressionable and scared of the future. Surely, they had caused a lot of trouble in their days, yet those actions had always caused repercussions that they weren't always as capable to handle on their own. Yoongi had always been there to look out for them, guiding them and holding their hands along the way of them growing up to become the people they were today.

Their bond had always been tight, a string of fate perhaps even connecting all of them - now having added four more ends for four more people, their family having grown bigger over the past months - to ensure them keeping each other happy and safe, almost like an unspoken promise between them.

Yet, he had never questioned how close Taehyung and Yoongi had actually been for a certain period of their lives.

Now that Jimin allowed the past years to replay in his mind, there were many instances that made a lot more sense to him.

All the times he had walked into Yoongi and Taehyung snuggling in bed, Taehyung having gone a good two months staring at Yoongi longingly whenever the other one wasn't looking, Taehyung having cuddled Yoongi whenever he had the opportunity... Back then, Jimin hadn't thought much of it, having cuddled the two of them often enough to not be suspicious of such behaviour.

Yet, perhaps he should have been suspicious the day all of that had suddenly stopped.

Not the cuddling part – they had still all cuddled whenever they felt like it. Yet, Taehyung hadn't been as clingy towards Yoongi anymore, Jimin just having assumed him to have grown a little older and not having needed that human connection from Yoongi any longer because he was receiving it from other men.

Maybe that was the day he had realised that he had a crush on Yoongi – Taehyung having tried to supress that feeling as he didn't want to ruin their friendship, potentially fearing that Yoongi wasn't even feeling the same way.

Somehow, that thought caused Jimin's heart to clench, the boy wishing he had known back then that Taehyung has had a crush on Yoongi.

However, Tae had never mentioned it, having appeared to be fine all that time and eventually having found Hoseok who made him so darn happy. Evidently, these feelings must have been gone after the years that had passed since they had ignited.

Yet, clearly, they had not vanished entirely, always having stayed deep within Taehyung's heart.
Had it just been a slight crush back then that years later had turned into something stronger after the kiss they had shared?

Whatever it had been – it had grown into a feeling that Taehyung no longer wanted to keep hidden.

“That's beautiful, Tae” Jimin finally commented.

“Yeah” the other boy uttered with a shy smile.

Rolling over onto his side, Jimin met Taehyung's gaze, “How did it start? I mean... your liking for hyung?” he asked curiously, wondering whether his assumption might carry some truth within them.

“Actually... I... I don't know” Taehyung answered sincerely, biting down on his bottom lip as he pulled his brows together in a frown, “I had a crush on him years ago. It started off as small, you know, I just thought he was handsome and he... he cared for us and I was just very endeared by that. It wasn't anything huge, but I found myself longing for his touch” he stated, tracing his fingertips along the space on the bedsheets between their bodies, drawing shapes that Jimin wasn't able to make out – certainly not trying either as he averted his gaze back up to Taehyung's eyes, “One night when the three of us were hanging out, I took my place right by his side the way I always did as if I belonged there” he added, chuckling as he recalled that night, “But... I found myself wanting to kiss him” he admitted softly.

“Oh” Jimin only responded, not knowing what else to say. That sudden urge to kiss the older one must have been confusing – perhaps even scaring him?

“Yeah. I mean, I never had that with him before. I always thought that it was just admiration, you know? Hyung was that boy that no one dared to disrespect at school, he always protected us, took care of us and he was good in everything he did” Taehyung expressed, shrugging his shoulders, “I soon realised that it wasn't just admiration, but something more”

“You liked him a lot?” the pink haired one concluded.

“Well... it never got to that part, I guess. I shut my heart off when it came to him. I didn't allow myself to feel that for him because I was scared” Taehyung answered, an emotion flashing in his eyes that Jimin wasn't able to define in the dim light that surrounded them.

“Why?” Jimin wondered.

“Hyung was like a brother to us and I didn't want to ruin that” Tae replied.

“So it was just a crush?”

Giving a nod, Taehyung rolled on his back again, staring up at the ceiling, “It was a small crush that grew into a bigger one and something I never admitted to myself because I was too scared to do that. I never allowed myself to fall into that feeling”

“You never said anything” Jimin whispered.

Smiling faintly, Taehyung stared at Jimin again, “I didn't think it would help” he explained, “Maybe I was scared to talk about it because that would mean that I would have to admit it to myself. I'm not sure” he added, frowning at his own confusion with his past decision, “After that day where I wanted to kiss him, I decided that it wasn't such a good idea to feel that way about him and I was able to suppress it”

“That must have been difficult” Jimin murmured, stating something that had undoubtedly been the “Well, it... it was a bit tough, but at that time I thought it was better that way” Taehyung expressed softly.

“Where you scared of him not feeling the same?”

“Yes. Fuck, I still am” the blond haired boy admitted, chuckling.

Jimin's eyebrows shot up in surprise, the boy tilting his head to the side, “You think he might not feel the same about you?”

The other one hesitated, averting his gaze up to the ceiling, “I'm very sure that he feels this way about Hoseok hyung, but I don't know whether he feels this way towards me. I mean, he treats us equally, does everything with me that he does with hyung, but...” he trailed off, allowing the remainder of the sentence to hang in the air between them.

“You can't help, but still be scared” Jimin finished for him, the taller one meeting his gaze as he said those words.

“Yeah” Tae affirmed softly, “After the kiss, I felt this feeling ignite in my heart that I had forgotten long ago. I haven't thought about hyung in that way for such a long time, but that kiss alone was enough to bring that back”

“Had you still felt that way when you met Hoseok hyung?” Jimin found himself ask.

“No” Taehyung denied, shaking his head, “I had long forced myself to forget about that feeling and it had actually worked quite well... until that night”

“I can't believe I never noticed” Jimin mumbled, rolling on his back as he stared up at the ceiling, feeling almost stupid for never having suspected anything like this at all.

How had he missed all of that?

Looking back on it now... the signs had been there all along.

“Seriously? You? It's not surprising for you to miss that. You're the most oblivious person I know!” Taehyung giggled, pointing accusingly at Jimin.

“What?” Jimin gasped, mouth agape in shock, the boy perhaps feeling slightly offended by those words there too.

“Yes! I could name at least ten instances right now of you being completely oblivious to what's essentially right in front of you” Taehyung claimed, nodding frantically as though he was very determined in his statement.

“That's... that's not true!” Jimin protested, not noticing the way he pouted.

Taehyung seemed unimpressed, a smile still curving his lips, “Remember back in arts school? We were on our way to grab lunch. Jaeun-ah walked past you and checked you out – literally bit his lip while looking at you – and you thought he was eyeing you because he was annoyed by you!” Tae recited the events of that particular occurance.

“Well, that... that was the case, though! How can you know that he checked me out?” Jimin argued, frowning at the other one.
Taehyung rolled his eyes, “Because I have eyes!” he exclaimed, throwing his hands in the air.

“That... that doesn’t...” Jimin mumbled in his defense, yet struggling to come up with anything, going silent as he remained pouting.

“Fine. Second incident” the blond haired boy went on with his list of evidence, clearing his throat as though he was about to make several more valid points, “We were in dance class, you were stretching, do you remember what Namil-ssi asked you?”

Jinm blinked.

“Tae, that is literal years-” Jimin commented, not at all possessing any minor memory of what incident Tae was referring to.

“He asked you whether you would show him how flexible you really are. Privately. Later, when everyone has left” Taehyung interrupted him, amusement glistening in his eyes.

“Oh, yeah... I remember” Jimin responded slowly, giving a faint nod as he finally recalled that exact moment despite it being that long ago.

“Now, what did you do?” Taehyung wanted to know.

Jinm blinked again.

“Well, I... I showed him right then and there by touching my toes” the pink haired boy uttered.

Taehyung clasped his hand over his face, “Exactly!” he exclaimed.

“Well, but that what he was asking for, no?” Jimin uttered confused, not managing to catch on to what Taehyung was trying to tell him with this example.

“Min-ah, he was referring to... He wanted to-...” Tae tried to uttered, yet appeared to refrain from his attempt as he shook his head, “God, anyway, my point is that you miss a lot of things that are going on right in front of you” he added, meeting Jimin's gaze.

“To be fair, you did hide it pretty well” Jimin pointed out, arching up a brow.

Surely, there had been many signs, yet Taehyung had been very adamant and diligent in his conviction to keep this part of him hidden.

“Fair enough” Tae agreed with a nod, “I didn't want to talk about it back then. Even if you'd noticed anything and had addressed it, I would have played it off”

Jinm dipped his head down, catching his bottom lip between his teeth, “I feel guilty now that I know that you dealt with those confusing feelings all on your own” he whispered.

Taehyung smiled softly, reaching for Jimin's hand, “Don't be. I was fine. I wasn't in love. Back then it was just a crush that I didn't allow to grow”

The smaller boy titled his head to the side, “And all of it got brought up with that kiss?” he asked almost in awe, somehow fascinated that a feeling as this one could ignite with a mere kiss – bringing back something that had long be gone, yet evidently never entirely.

“Yeah. Well, that was the first string. I guess. We three saw each other almost every day since then... It was inevitable for this crush to turn into something more, something that I had forced myself to forget or even deny a long time ago”
Jimin hummed in agreement, “Spending that much time with each other while even having the smallest fraction of attraction for each other surely does result in these feelings to grow”

“Yeah” Tae breathed, “I mean, especially when you touch each other emotionally and physically”

Jimin gave a nod, a voice inside of him wondering yet again how sex involving three people actually even worked, the boy somehow not capable to imagine that part.

Not that... not that he imagined his closest friends having sex, just... just... he was just curious.

However, Jimin was too timid to ask that question, not wanting to make Taehyung uncomfortable either.

Then again, this topic had never made Taehyung uncomfortable, that thought appearing almost silly to Jimin.

“You okay?” Tae whispered, having noticed Jimin's lack of attention, the latter having just stared at Taehyung's face absentmindedly.

“Oh, yes” Jimin assured with a nod, “I was just... I don't know... wondering about something” he revealed, his cheeks flushing a faint shade of rose.

“What is it?” the blond haired boy wondered, eyebrows shooting up in curiosity.

“Uhm...”

“You can ask me whatever it is, Minnie” Taehyung assured him.

Swallowing hard, Jimin pulled his sleeves over his petite hands, “I was just wondering... How does... I mean... during sex... does one part only watch while-... I just-... How does that work?” Jimin found himself utter, surprised that he dared to ask.

Taehyung stared at him for a moment before he giggled, arching up a brow as he tilted his head to the side, “Do you really want to know?” he asked cheekily.

“Maybe not” Jimin mumbled, taking Taehyung's words as a warning.

“Well, it depends, really” Taehyung still went ahead and responded, “Sometimes, one of us only watches or does... something else while the other two are... you know” Tae answered, Jimin now regretting having ever brought that question up, “But, you know, we have two holes for a reason”

“Oh my god, Tae!” Jimin exclaimed, eyes wide as he swatted Taehyung's arm.

“Sorry” Taehyung chuckled, his eyes glistening in amusement as he ran his hand through Jimin's hair, “We found a way to make it work” he added softer.

“No one feels... left out?” Jimin wanted to know, his voice carrying slight concern.

“No” Taehyung denied, shaking his head, “We always make sure all of us feel included and... and cared for. I mean, that's how I know how deeply I care for both of them. I just want them to be happy and feel satisfied. When I'm too tired, watching them for a while or making out with them is enough for me”

“I see” Jimin uttered, giving a nod as he averted his gaze, staring back up at the ceiling to hide his timidity – despite the fact that Taehyung had already noticed.
The taller boy chuckled, “Anything else you're curious about?”

“Uh... n-no” Jimin answered, shaking his head.

“you sure?”

“Yeah. I just... I just want you all to be happy” Jimin smiled softly, meeting Taehyung's gaze again, the other one having rolled over onto his stomach.

“I know” Tae responded, “Thank you, Minnie”

They smiled at one another, yet Taehyung’s smile faltered as he caught his bottom lip between his teeth, avoiding Jimin's gaze for a brief moment before they locked eyes again.

“Please don't tell the others that I told you about all of this. I mean, once we talked about it among us three and... and figure out what to do, I'm sure we will let all of you know anyway, but...” he requested.

“I understand, Tae. Don't worry” Jimin assured him, giving a nod.

“It's just that it's really something that's been sitting like a burden on my heart. I'm scared of what to do. So, I needed to talk to someone – needed to talk to you. I was too scared to approach you and speak up about it, but I'm glad the topic got brought up regardless” Taehyung elaborated, a relieved breath falling from his lips.

“I understand, Tae. This isn't easy and I'm sure it's very confusing” Jimin empathised with him.

“Yeah” Taehyung whispered, the two boys sharing a soft smile.

Gently, Jimin rolled closer to Taehyung, snuggling to his side.

Time went by fast. By the end of their all-nighter, Taeyhung felt more at ease, the two boys having laughed wholeheartedly about everything, but nothing at the same time, eventually falling asleep cuddling the other one.

Before Jimin fell asleep entirely, he prayed that the three of them would find a way to make this work – wishing for his friends to find the happiness they deserved.

-------

Bing.

The elevator doors opened, revealing busy people dressed in a formal attire walking around as they were doing their work. A chaos of voices that was audible in the entrance room filled Jimin's ears, none of it clear enough for him to decipher though.

Jumin noticed that he was the only person remaining in the elevator, the other people having already stepped out of it to head to their desired destination. Hesitantly, Jimin exited the elevator with wide eyes, scanning the huge entrance room on his way.

The pink haired boy almost tripped over his feet as he didn't focus his gaze on the floor, but on everything else as he walked towards Mr. Jeon's office – having been told where to find him in detail upon his question downstairs.

As he walked passed a desk where a woman was sitting at, he slowed down, meeting the woman's face. It only took a moment for him to realise that it was Minji.
Appearing to recognise Jimin, the girl waved him through, smiling at him.

Greeting her with a slight bow, Jimin gave a nod as he went ahead, lifting his head again and focusing his attention on the door of the office he was approaching.

Suddenly, he stilled in his steps, his heartbeat quickening.

To his surprise, there were two people standing right next to the door to Mr. Jeon's office.

Jungkook and Seoyun.

The two of them were currently having a deep conversation, Seoyun nodding along to something Jungkook had said to her. For some reason, Jimin's stomach stirred at the sight of Seoyun – being reminded of something that had broken his heart a long while ago.

Slowly, he walked closer, hesitant in his steps as he pulled his sleeves over his petite hands.

As he approached them, the two of them tore their gazes away from one another, their eyes falling on Jimin.

The corners of Jungkook's lips curled up into a fond smile at the sight of Jimin, his eyes glistening with affection as he turned his body towards the latter.

“Ah, you're Jimin-ssi, right?” a female voice asked, drawing Jimin's attention over to her.

“Y-Yes” Jimin responded, giving a faint nod as he met Seoyun's gaze, “You're... Seoyun-ssi?”

She smiled, something warm lying within it as she hummed in affirmation, “I am, yes. I'm sorry. I guess I never properly introduced myself. It's so nice to meet you without all of that- you know - mess” Seoyun chuckled as she gave a slight bow, clearly referring to that whole mess regarding their fake relationship – Jimin having believed for the longest time that all of that had been real, the thought having broken his heart.

“Y-Yeah” Jimin agreed, slightly bewildered by her sudden kind demeanor as she had never acted anything like this in Jimin's presence.

“Alright. I'm sorry, I gotta head down now” Seoyun sighed, brushing the dust of her clothes before she pointed towards the elevators, “Thank you, Jungkook-ah. I'll see you around” she uttered as she waved at Jungkook, then turning to look at Jimin “Nice to meet you, Jimin-ssi” she added as she walked past them, flashing them one last kind smile.

With that, she left, leaving behind a very baffled Jimin who looked after her, mouth agape.

What had just happened?

Had that really been Seoyun?

_The Seoyun that had made him cry? - Well, not her particularly, but the fact that she had been an item with Jungkook – or at least had appeared to be one._

“How, little one” Jungkook greeted Jimin, not hesitant to lean in and press a peck to Jimin's cheek, startling the boy who had been staring after Seoyun intently – still dumbfounded by their prior encounter.

At the display of affection, Jimin felt his cheeks flush, the boy blinking as he met Jungkook's gaze, “Hey, Jungkook-ah” he responded softly.
Chuckling, Jungkook reached up to caress Jimin's cheek, “Are you okay, baby? Nervous?”

“Was that just... was that really Seoyun-ssi?” Jimin asked instead, eyes big as he stared up at Jungkook.

“Yes, why do you ask?” the taller boy responded, pulling up his eyebrows.

“Well, she was... nice?” Jimin murmured, tilting his head to the side, not wanting to be rude, but still surprised.

Jungkook laughed, giving a nod as he brushed Jimin's hair out of his face, “She can be nice, yes”

“I mean, towards me?” Jimin clarified.

“Why wouldn't she? You're not annoying her like I was” Jungkook expressed, shrugging his shoulders.

“Well, she wasn't nice to me in the past” Jimin stated, not capable to name at least one incident where she hadn't essentially ignored his presence or had been rude in another way.

Jungkook hummed, giving a nod, “That is true. However, that is partially due to her anger towards me that she let out on you during the time and the fact that she believed you might snitch on us, if she didn't keep that act of mad girlfriend up” he explained.

“Mhm, yeah...” Jimin mumbled, catching his bottom lip between his teeth as he dipped his head down, clearing his throat, “What were you two... talking about?” he found himself ask, trying to sound nonchalant.

Jungkook smiled, amused by Jimin's attempt to be subtle, “Just boring work stuff. She had a question and I helped her”

Jimin gave a nod, nuzzling against Jungkook's chest, briefly forgetting that they were standing right in front of Mr. Jeon's office, clearly not at all hidden to anyone else on this floor.

Not that it mattered. In fact, they didn't have to hide, were proud and happy to be together.

“You're going in now?” Jungkook wanted to know, closing his arms around Jimin's body to hug him.

“Mhm-mh” Jimin hummed in affirmation, his stomach stirring at the realisation.

“Okay. Good luck, little one. Don't be nervous” the taller boy encouraged him.

“I'm not” Jimin lied, evoking another chuckle in Jungkook who pressed his lips against Jimin's temple.

---

“Good afternoon, Jimin-ssi” Mr. Jeon greeted him with a bright smile, immediately removing the glasses from his nose and dropping them on his desk before he got up to his feet and approached the smaller boy.

“Good afternoon” Jimin responded, bowing deeply at the man, “Thank you for having me” he uttered, shaking Mr. Jeon's hand.

“It's my pleasure. I was delighted when you called to inform me that you'd like to accept the offer”
Mr. Jeon shared as he gestured for Jimin to take a seat.

Smiling shyly, Jimin walked past the man to take a seat in front of his desk, noticing how Mr. Jeon shut the door close before he joined Jimin at the desk, taking a seat in his chair respectively.

“I will have to go over some basic things with you first. It’s a procedure that has to happen, you know, for the paper work” Mr. Jeon informed him, appearing to try and clean the slight mess on his desk, merely succeeding in his attempt to place each item in its designated spot, yet eventually giving up and simply reaching for a particular paper that he picked up, “Just to make it fair to the other employees, of course” he added, flashing Jimin a warm smile before he skimmed through the piece of paper.

Clearing his throat, Mr. Jeon narrowed his eyes in concentration, muttering words beneath his breath that Jimin wasn't quite able to register, the voice too quiet to be audible to his ears. Yet, Jimin was capable to pick up fractions of his sentences, somehow combining the syllables that were audible to him.

“Age... Previous jobs... Experience in the field...” Jimin partially heard him utter these words inbetween, the pink haired boy pulling the sleeves of his shirt over his petite hands as he waited patiently for the man to address him, not noticing the nervous habit of his own, “Well, that's it” Jimin blinked, “Huh?” he murmured confused, pulling his brows up in surprise.

Mr. Jeon removed his glasses, settling the sheet of paper down on the desk again as he chuckled, “This is just basic information that I'll have to write down, but I'm certain that we can skip these things as I'm already more than aware of all of these things when it comes to you”

“Oh” Jimin breathed.

“But, we haven't had a proper talk about your salary yet” Mr. Jeon pointed out, cocking his head to the side.

“Right” Jimin agreed, giving a faint nod.

Frankly, money wasn't that important to Jimin. Surely, he would need it to afford his living necessities like his monthly rent for his apartment, food and several other things, yet he didn't want it to be his number one priority.

If anything, Jimin just wanted to dance and teach.

“I've informed you that you will work as an assistant choreographer alongside Jung Hoseok, haven't I?” Mr. Jeon stated, arching up his eyebrow.

“Yes, Sir” Jimin affirmed with a nod.

Humming, Mr. Jeon put his glasses back on, having a look at a particular sheet of paper, Jimin assuming that it was the contract, “I've listed that as your official employment position. You will receive a set salary for your work as a choreographer. However, I've also listed the position of a back-up dancer in your contract. As we've discussed before, this payment will vary from artist to artist and also from how big your part in each of these performances is. Are you still agreeing with that?” he added.

“Yes, Sir” Jimin confirmed.

Mr. Jeon placed the contract back down on the desk, “We can set a limit of payment for each of the performances whether it be on stage or in music videos. That limit will be the least amount you receive for any of these performances no matter how small your part is. Of course, I can assure you to not abuse my power and never pay you way below average if you chose not to include this condition in the contract, but I would still recommend it to you” he noted.

Jemin blinked.

That was actually very nice of him, Jemin thought. Essentially, it was another piece of evidence that Mr. Jeon wanted to establish a fair and friendly bond and environment for Jemin - Not one where Jemin would be exploited.

As businessman that didn't care about his employees surely wouldn't have mentioned a condition as this one.

“Thank you, Sir. I... I would appreciate a limit” Jemin agreed, yet swiftly shook his head as he leaned closer, “It's not that I don't trust you, I just-”

“No” Mr. Jeon interrupted him with a warm smile, shaking his head, “You don't have to justify yourself. It would be an... unintelligent move to reject this condition. After all, in certain situations, I might not be in charge”

Well, that seemed unlikely, if Jemin was concerned. After all, hadn't Jungkook told him once that Mr. Jeon always made the final decision? Surely, there was nothing going on in this building, in this company, that he wasn't aware of. In fact, he had eyes and ears everywhere – wasn't that something else Jungkook had shared with him before?

“Let me give you an example of an amount that I have in mind” Mr. Jeon interrupted his thoughts yet again, reaching for an empty sheet of paper and a pen before he scribbled something down, “Tell me what you think about it”

With that, he slid the piece of paper over to Jemin, the pink haired boy picking it up and turning it around.

At the sight of the number, Jemin's jaw dropped, his eyes going wide as he met Mr. Jeon's gaze.

“This is-” Jemin murmured.

“Add another zero?” Mr. Jeon suggested, arching up his eyebrows as he smirked.

“No!” Jemin protested swiftly, “I mean, that's... that's a lot already. What if I only stand in the back of a video for like a second?”

Mr. Jeon dropped his pen on the desk, chuckling, “I wouldn't hire you to stand in a music video for a second, Jemin-ssi. It's a justified amount for the work you're going to put in beside the work you're already going to be doing as a choregrapher”

“This is... so much, though” Jemin whispered, staring at the digits on the paper in his hand.

The amount of money he would receive for being a back-up dancer for one performance was the same amount of salary he received for working at the library for three months. Honestly, he had never made much money at the library to begin with, but this was still a lot more than he had ever expected.

“You're talented, Jemin-ssi. That has its price” Mr. Jeon commented, lifting his hands up as though it was a valid point. Perhaps, it was to him, yet Jemin couldn't believe that he found him to be that
“Are you sure?” the pink haired boy asked softly, almost assuming that Mr. Jeon would break out in laughter any second now and tell him that this was a prank.

Mr. Jeon snickered again, giving a nod as he noted something down on another sheet of paper, “Yes, I am sure” he then voiced his determination.

Jimin blinked, wetting his lips as he scooted to the edge of his seat, “This is what I will receive besides a set salary?” Jimin asked for clarity, still not certain whether he had truly understood this part or whether his brain was deceiving him.

“Yes. The amount of money you receive for your work as a choregrapher is written down in the contract already. You can have a look at it” Mr. Jeon affirmed, searching through several sheets of paper before he slid one over to Jimin, “Here you go”

“Thank you” Jimin uttered, picking the piece of paper up, searching for what he was looking for. Upon him finding the desired information, his eyes went wide again, the poor boy almost choking on his own spit.

Okay. There was no doubt in Jimin's mind now – this was definitely a prank. Subtly, he tried to scan the room for any signs of something recording them, yet couldn't find anything that looked like a camera in the short span that he was searching for.

Slowly, his gaze trailed back down to the digits, Jimin advising himself to double check just in case his eyes had in fact deceived him.

Yet, surely enough, it was still the same number.

“No” Jimin breathed.

“No?” Mr. Jeon echoed, chuckling as he leaned back in his seat.

“This is...” Jimin trailed off, shaking his head.

“A lot more than your work at the library, hm?” Mr. Jeon noted.

“Yes” Jimin affirmed softly, nodding his head absentmindedly as he stole a glance at Mr. Jeon before he averted his attention back down on the sheet of paper, staring intently at it as though it was about to tell him a secret, as though it was about to vanish.

This was crazy.

“Of course, you'll have to work hard to earn that money, Jimin-ssi” Jungkook's father reminded him, “The choreography and dance itself are a very important part of why the artists I create are as successful as they are” he added, “A great choreography catches people's eyes, can legitimately be the reason for or at least be a huge influence on a song to be popular or not at all. A lot depends on it”

Jimin swallowed hard, being reminded yet again that this job was very important. Evidently, Jimin had already been aware of that fact. After all, dance had always been significant to him and his happiness, proving the effect it can have on someone's life.

“I would hope for you to be successful in the teaching process of our trainees” Mr. Jeon added. What if he couldn't live up to that?
“I will give it my all, Sir” Jimin promised him, bowing slightly despite him still being seated in the chair across from Mr. Jeon.

Certainly, this was a task Jimin would take very serious.

“You have Jung Hoseok-ssi by your side” Mr. Jeon stated with a grin, “I know you two will make a great team” he added, appearing to be more than pleased to hire the two of them in his company.

“I'm sure we will” Jimin uttered, bowing again.

The smaller boy was over the moon – wanted to jump around and hug the whole world, wanted to run and dance as his heart was beating for it.

“When would I start to work?” Jimin wanted to know.

Mr. Jeon's smile grew, “As early as tomorrow, if you see that as fitting” he answered, pointing his flat hand at Jimin.

“That sounds perfect”

“Great. I'll adjust the conditions in the contract regarding the salary for your work as a back-up dancer” Mr. Jeon informed him, organising the pieces of paper and scribbling something down on it, “Any other condition you would like to set? Any more questions regarding your work here - or anything else for that matter?”

“Uhm, no... No, not that I know of, Sir” Jimin murmured, shaking his head to underline that answer.

“Okay, fair enough” Mr. Jeon smiled, giving a nod before he got up to his feet, Jimin immediately mirroring him, “Are you busy now? For how long are you free this afternoon?”

“I switched my shifts, so I'm free the whole afternoon, Sir” Jimin answered as he followed the taller man to the door.

“I'll make sure to send the contract with it's adjustments over to Minji-ssi who will get a new one ready for you to sign. It won't take long at all. If you'd want to, you can wait in the artists lounge while we get everything ready” Mr. Jeon suggested.

Jimin smiled, giving a nod, “That would be nice, Sir”

“Once we have everything ready, I'll make sure to send someone qualified in who can answer any of your question in case there may arise one when you read over the contract – which, please do” Jungkook's father informed him with an almost fatherly stern look, clearly interested in Jimin knowing entirely what he was getting himself into – which was nice of him, Jimin thought.

“Of course” Jimin responded swiftly.

“Unfortunately, I won't be able to join you again as I'll have to attend a meeting shortly, but I'll be available for any questions, if my assistant won't be able to answer them” the older man assured him.

“Okay. Thank you, Sir” Jimin uttered, bowing at the man.

Mr. Jeon's eyes trailed over to the door, a smile adorning his defined features.

“I bet my son is waiting outside, isn't he?” Mr. Jeon then noted.

Jimin smiled as his gaze flickered from Mr. Jeon to the door and back up to Mr. Jeon's eyes, “Well, he did sit down in front of your office before I went in, but I'm not sure if he's still there”

Mr. Jeon hummed in acknowledgement, “Jungkook-ah wanted to be present during all of this” he shared with Jimin.

“Did he?” Jimin questioned, arching up his eyebrows in surprise.

“Yes, but I forced him to leave” Mr. Jeon elaborated, “I believed he would have been too biased to have a clear mind when it comes to things as this one for you. My son is a smart boy, but... well, we all have our weaknesses. It's fair to say that you cloud his mind”

“I-I-”

“I'm not blaming you. I'm happy that he's found you” the man interrupted, “We are all searching for someone like that”

Jimin felt his cheeks heat up, “Yeah, I... I'm happy with him, too” he murmured, voice softer and an ounce quieter.

“I must say, I might have been a little biased with you, too” Mr. Jeon chuckled, “Please don't be offended by that. You're very talented, Jimin-ssi. I would have wanted you to join my company either way – even if you weren't in a relationship with my son. You're an amazing dancer, Jimin-ssi, please don't forget that. Don't let you be told any different, either” he assured Jimin, reaching out to pat his shoulder.

“Thank you, Mr. Jeon” Jimin smiled shyly, a faint blush appearing on his cheeks.

Giving a nod, Mr. Jeon opened the door for Jimin, “I'll send the documents right over to Minji-ssi who will get everything ready for you”

“Thank you, Mr. Jeon”

“In case any questions arise and my assistant isn't able to answer them, don't hesitate to ask me” Mr. Jeon repeated.

“Okay, Sir, thank you” Jimin uttered yet again.

Humming, Mr. Jeon gestured for Jimin to leave first, the latter bowing at the man before he exited his office.

Immediately upon him stepping out of the office, a figure got up from its seat next to him, startling Jimin.

“Hello, Mr. Park” Jungkook greeted him, smirking as Jimin met his gaze.

The smaller boy giggled, “Hello, Mr. Jeon” he responded, waving at the other one.

“How did it go?” Jungkook wanted to know, moving closer to grab Jimin's hips.

“It went well” Jimin responded, stealing a glimpse at Mr. Jeon who was standing right beside them, “I have to wait for a new contract as there need to be some adjustments”

“Really?” Jungkook asked, glancing at his father, “Well, then Mr. Park can join me for a very late lunch in my office, right? As he has to wait anyway”

Mr. Jeon sighed as he checked the time on his watch, “Jungkook-ah, we have a meeting in about ten minutes, I don't-"

Suddenly, Jungkook lifted his fist up to his mouth, coughing into it, “Ah, appa, I don't want to disrupt the meeting with my coughs, you see”

“Do you have a cold?” Jimin worried, reaching up to place his palm against Jungkook's cheek.

Mr. Jeon shook his head, humming in dissatisfaction, “No, my son is just trying to ditch the meeting” he corrected.

“Appa-”

“Jeon Jungkook, you're not missing this-”

“I won't be making any decisions anyway” Jungkook interrupted his father, “Let's be honest here, you just want me in there to please his daughter” he claimed.

The older man blinked before he sighed, “Well, she does like you”

“Well, good for her” Jungkook commented.

“He's an important business partner” Mr. Jeon reminded his son, clearly not pleased with his current act.

“And he'll choose to stay with us even without his daughter trying to fuck me with her eyes” the black haired boy stated, Jimin's eyes going wide as his gaze flickered back and forth between their faces.

“Jungkook-ah, langu-” Mr. Jeon was about to scold him, yet went silent upon Jungkook speaking up.

“Don't pretend to be all innocent in front of Jimin-ah” Jungkook accused, “You're the one that's always swearing. Do you know who taught me all the cuss words-”

“Enough” Mr. Jeon interrupted him, clearing his throat as he fixed his tie, “Fine. I'll go see Min without you” he eventually gave in, evidently truly not that in need for Jungkook's presence, “It's nothing new anyway. If his daughter complains though, that's on you” he added, pointing at Jungkook.

“Yeah, yeah” Jungkook smirked as he waved it off, his father rolling his eyes, but still smiling as he sent the two of them off to Jungkook's office.

Jungkook reached for Jimin's hand, interlacing their fingers as they entered the elevator. Jungkook pressed the button for the desired floor before he lifted Jimin's hand up to his mouth and placed a kiss against his knuckles, causing Jimin to smile softly.

“What was that?” Jimin then asked.

“Min is a loyal and long business partner of my father. For each meeting they have, his daughter tags along” Jungkook answered him, proceeding to play with Jimin's delicate fingers.

“Why?” Jimin wondered, tilting his head to the side, “Is she working with him, too?”

“No, she's an english major in college” Jungkook denied, shaking his head, “I'm pretty sure she has no clue of what we talk about in the meetings, but she still tags along”
“Why? Because of you?” Jimin wanted to know, furrowing his brows, trying to ignore the now no longer unfamiliar feeling blooming within his stomach.

“Apparently” Jungkook affirmed with a sigh, rubbing the pad of his thumb along the back of Jimin's hand, “Min told my father that his daughter has a crush on me. I mean, it wasn't difficult to see anyway. She never pays attention to anything else but me”

“Did you...” Jimin trailed off, voice suddenly a lot quieter.

“No, hell, no” Jungkook answered his unspoken question, “I'm not keen on getting my head cut off by her father. I'm not one for relationships - I mean, I was not before I met you. Besides, I wasn't interested in her anyway, but I'm sure her father wouldn't have appreciated me having a one night stand with her either way”

Jimin only hummed, giving a faint nod.

Bing.

The elevator doors opened, revealing a man and a woman impatiently waiting for the elevator to arrive. However, upon their realisation that Jungkook was present, their demeanor changed, a polite smile plastered on their face as they bowed at him.

Jungkook and Jimin returned the action, stepping out of the elevator and walking past them. The black haired boy lead the way, his hand on the small of Jimin's back as they arrived in front of his office.

“After you” Jungkook insisted as he gestured for Jimin to enter.

“Thank you” Jimin smiled at him, stepping inside the office room that was quite similar in size to the one of Mr. Jeon, the slightest bit smaller, “It looks nice” he commented softly as he scanned the room.

“Thank you”

The younger male shut the door close behind them, pointing at the seating area to their side where the table was filled with a few dishes.

“I already ordered food from downstairs” Jungkook informed him upon Jimin's surprised look.

“Downstairs?” Jimin echoed, slightly confused as he walked further into the room, spinning around to face Jungkook.

Jungkook hummed in confirmation, “Yeah, from the cafeteri” he then answered.

“You have a cafeteria downstairs?” Jimin asked with wide eyes like that was such an unbelievable thing to imagine.

“Yes, of course” Jungkook chuckled, “They sell pretty nice food down there. Everything from snacks to warm meals” he informed Jimin, giving a nod as he leaned against the wall, crossing his arms over his chest.

“Really?”

“Mhm-mh, tastes pretty good” the black haired boy affirmed, “I'll show you around the company properly once you have signed the contract” Jungkook then decided with a nod, more to himself than Frankly, Jimin couldn't wait until he got the chance to see the practice rooms. Would they look as amazing as the ones in Busan? Surely. Potentially even better. Then again, Jimin just wished for a place to feel comfortable in – needing not much more than that.

“That would be nice” Jimin uttered.

Jungkook returned the smile, pointing at the table, “I might have ordered more than I was supposed to, so we can share” he stated, drawing their attention back over to the food.

“Thank you” Jimin responded, yet didn't take a seat to eat, but rather allowed himself to check out Jungkook's office room.

The taller male proceeded to remain leaning against the wall, observing Jimin intently, yet with fondness and perhaps even slight amusement in his eyes.

“Are you searching for anything?” Jungkook wanted to know as he watched Jimin walk past the shelves on the wall behind his desk, big eyes observing each item.

“No” Jimin answered with a chuckle.

Suddenly, Jimin halted, eyebrows shooting up as he reached for a particular thing.

“What is this doing here?” the pink haired boy wondered as he picked up the item, smiling as he showed it to Jungkook.

The latter's eyes went wide as he pushed himself away from the wall, approaching Jimin with swift steps, “That’s... what?”

“The bunny?” Jimin clarified, waving around the plush toy that he had won for Jungkook at the fair, having exceeded his own expectations that day.

Gently, Jungkook snatched the plush toy from Jimin's hand, the smaller boy allowing it to slip from his grasp with a smile, “Well, it’s... yeah, whatever” Jungkook mumbled, clearing his throat as he placed it back in its designated place, his cheeks flushing the faintest shade of rose.

Jimin really wanted to know the answer to why Jungkook had palced the plush toy in his shelf at his office, wondering whether it had a certain meaning or reason. However, Jimin didn't want to make the boy uncomfortable or put him on the spot.

On his hand, Jimin had allowed his kitten plush toy that Jungkook had won for him to sleep in his bed – cuddling it at night when Jungkook wasn't around to hold him. Fortunately, after a good two washings, the toy had been freed from any dirt or mud stains, looking as new as ever.

“Cute” Jimin whispered, giggling as he walked over to the glass wall, glancing down at the streets – people busy and going about their daily lives.

Every single time Jimin watched over the city and had the chance to appreciate the sight of Seoul, there was this sense of affection blooming within him.

Jimin envied people who had such an astonishing view as this one, believing that it was nice to work in an environment like this one.

For a moment, Jimin wondered whether there would be an office room provided for Hoseok and him as well, yet then again, it wasn't essentially anything they would require as they would probably spend most of their time in the practice rooms.

Suddenly, Jungkook was right behind him, his strong arms wrapping around Jimin's delicate body as he pressed his chest to Jimin's back, hugging him close. The unexpected close proximity and contact of their bodies startled Jimin for a brief moment, yet he smiled fondly and leaned back against Jungkook right after.

“It's pretty” Jimin noted, referring to the part of the city they were able to see from their spot.

The younger male pressed a kiss to his nape, his hot breath tickling on Jimin's skin as he brushed his lips along his nape, “Mhm-mh” Jungkook agreed with a hum, voice soft, but low as he spoke, “You're pretty” he added with a smirk, rubbing his palm over Jimin's stomach.

“No” Jimin murmured, shaking his head as a breath slipped from his lips, Jungkook pressing another kiss to his neck.

“What no?” Jungkook asked, his lips right against Jimin's ear, all of this causing Jimin's heart to skip a beat.

“We're not going to have sex in your office” Jimin decided, determined as he gulped.

Jungkook halted, hesitating before he smirked against Jimin's skin, “I wasn't going to” he revealed with a chuckle.

Oh.

“But now that you mention it...” Jungkook added, his palm trailing down to Jimin's pants, playing with the waistband as he ran his other hand through Jimin's hair.

The shorter male gasped, “No”

“You were thinking about it, hm?” Jungkook whispered into his ear, “Would look so pretty when I bend you over my desk, wouldn't you, kitten?”

Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth, merely capable to contain the whimper that had threatened to slip from him. The air between them had taken a complete one hundred and eighty turn in the span of a minute.

“S-Stop” Jimin uttered quietly, not wanting to admit that he didn't want this to stop at all.

Jungkook smirked smugly, satisfied with how responsive Jimin was already, how he was affected by the smallest gestures or words, “Why? Is my kitten all excited now, hm?”

“I-I have to go through the contract soon, don't distract me” Jimin whined quietly, not trusting his voice in this current moment, certain that it would break.

Jungkook chuckled, allowing Jimin to slip from his grasp as the smaller boy fled away on the sofa, a faint shade of rose adorning his pretty face.

“Cute” Jungkook commented softly before he joined Jimin in the seating area, sitting down on the armchair across from Jimin.

Shyly, Jimin met Jungkook's gaze, the taller boy smiling fondly back at him and reaching out to caress Jimin's cheek.
Then, he dropped his hand and pointed at the food, “Eat, little one. I'm sure you're hungry” Jungkook insisted as he handed Jimin a pair of chopsticks.

In that moment, Jimin's stomach grumbled, confirming that statement.

---

“Do you think it's going to take much longer?” Jimin wondered after he had swallowed down his bite, not wanting to be impatient, but clearly not capable to contain that feeling as he waited for the contract.

“What, baby?” Jungkook asked, pulling up his brows in curiosity.

“For the contract to be ready?” Jimin clarified, setting his plate down on the table.

Jungkook shook his head, “No, I'm sure Minji-ssi will come up here any moment now” he answered.

“Oh. Okay. Do-”

Suddenly, there was a knock on the door, said door swinging open a brief moment later as a figure entered the room, carrying several sheets of paper in its hands.

The tall man halted as soon as he noticed that he wasn't alone in the room.

Jin.

Jin's gaze fell on Jimin and Jungkook, his eyes widening in surprise before he narrowed them, crossing his arms over his chest.

“Aren't you supposed to be in a meeting now?” Jin asked suspecting, appearing to have skipped over his manners, not mentioning a greeting, but getting straight to the point. Then again, they were too close of friends to care much about mannerisms.

“Yes” Jungkook confirmed, giving a nod before he lifted his chopsticks up to his mouth.

“Then why aren't you?” Jin then pressed.

The younger male shrugged his shoulders, chewing on his food, “I didn't want to” he simply responded after swallowing his food down.

Jin huffed, “Jungkook-ssi, that's-” he scolded, about to cuss at Jungkook, yet going silent upon Jungkook interrupting him with a chuckle.

“I didn't just skip it” Jungkook clarified, placing his chopsticks down on the table next to his plate, Jimin still munching on his food as his gaze flickered back and forth between Jungkook and Jin, “I let my father know. Don't worry, hyung”

“Mhm...” Jin grumbled, then allowing his gaze to fall on Jimin, his eyes softening, “Jimin-ah, hey” he greeted the pink haired boy with a smile.

Jimin returned the smile, waving at his friend as he swallowed his bite down, “Hey, hyung. Nice to see you”

“You, too” Jin responded, smile widening.

Jungkook frowned, pointing at Jin, “What about me? I don't get one?” he asked offended.
Jin smirked, shaking his head, “Well, I’m not particularly happy seeing you here as you’re ditching one of the meetings” he noted, making a fair point he believed.

The black haired boy rolled his eyes, sighing, “It's Min again, hyung. It's basically the same thing every damn time and we all know my father doesn't need me in there for anything business related, but for... you know” he defended, eyebrows shooting up at the end as he was indicating something that Jimin was now aware of, too.

“Fair enough” Jin agreed, giving a nod as he approached Jungkook's desk, “Well, I was just dropping by to leave these papers here for you. Your father wants you to have a look at them first” he informed Jungkook as he placed the papers on his desk.

Jungkook gave a hum, wiping his napkin over his mouth, “Okay, I'll take care of it after lunch”

“Yes, yes” Jin smiled, waving it off as he moved back to the door.

“You want anything, hyung?” Jimin asked, lifting his plate up to Jin, the latter smiling bright at him, but shaking his head.

“No, I already ate” he declined, “Thank you though, Jimin-ah”

“Okay” Jimin uttered with a smile, placing his plate back on the table as he proceeded to eat his food.

“You two enjoy your meal. See you later” Jin grinned at them, about to leave just as another figure entered the room.

Minji.

“Ah, there you are” she noted, barely acknowledging Jin's presence with a slight bow before she approached the two boys on the sofa, her high-heels clicking on the floor with each of her steps.

She halted in front of Jungkook's table, having invited herself in his office room without Jungkook's permission, yet she didn't seem bothered by that fact at all.

“Park Jimin, this is your contract” Minji informed him, handing him several sheets of papers, “An employee is waiting downstairs in Mr. Jeon's personal meeting room for you to help you with the contract, in case you don't understand anything”

Hesitantly, Jimin reached for the contract, taking it from her as he blinked, “Thank you” he uttered, bowing politely at her.

“Once you've gone through it, sign it and bring it back to me” she added.

“Okay” Jimin responded with a nod.

Minji gave Jungkook a once over, smirking at him, “Don't forget to stop by later, Jungkook-ah. Sir.” she reminded him, “It needs to get done today”

The black haired boy rolled his eyes, “I know. Don't worry”

Fiercely, Minji flipped her hair back before she spun around and exited the room, swinging her hips from side to side on her way out.

Jin was still standing in his prior spot, now having placed his hands on his hips as he watched after her, then fixating his gaze on the two boys on the sofa.
“Why does she treat me like thin air?” the older one wanted to know.

Jungkook snorted, “Minji-ssi treats any male like thin air, if she doesn’t want to fuck them” he claimed, shrugging his shoulders as he chewed on his food.

“Jungkook-ah!” Jimin exclaimed, swatting his arm.

“What? It’s true. If she isn’t forced to interact with you through work or any other circumstance, she won’t pay you dust – unless she wants to hop in bed with you” Jungkook stated.

“That-” Jimin was about to talk, yet went silent upon Jin speaking up.

“So what? I’m not attractive enough for her to want me?” Jin wanted to know, throwing his hands in the air.

Jimin and Jungkook furrowed their brows.

“Hyung, do you want to have sex with her?” the younger male asked with a chuckle, confused by Jin’s choice of words.

Jin pulled his head back as he frowned, “No, fuck, what is wrong with you, Jungkook-ah?”

Jungkook blinked, “Well, you-”

“I’m taken - just to remind you! How dare you assume that?”

“I wasn’t assuming-” Jungkook swiftly tried to defend himself, yet Jin didn’t give him an opportunity to.

“I’ll see you two later” Jin interrupted him, waving at them before he spun around and left, pulling the door shut behind him.

“Later” the boys responded in unison despite the other one being out of their sight already, the two of them slightly flabbergasted by Jin’s conflicting demeanor regarding Minji.

“Well, that...” Jungkook trailed off, still staring at the door with a dumbfounded expression.

Jimin titled his head to the side, humming before he suggested, “Maybe hyung hasn’t slept much last night”

Jungkook gave a nod, “Yeah, seems about right”

In that moment, the door burst open again, Jin peeking inside with a nervous chuckle.

“Hyung, I was just messing with you” Jungkook swiftly took the chance to amend the situation, figuring that Jin had actually been offended by his banter.

“I know. I was just kidding” Jin assured him.

“Okay”

Jin cleared his throat, “Just wanted to let you know that I was just kidding”

“Okay?” Jungkook repeated, tone displaying the faint confusion due to Jin’s behaviour.

“You know, you’re my boss after all” the older one then noted, clearly referring to the way his behaviour towards Jungkook just moments ago could potentially appear disrespectful as Jungkook was his superior at work, “Sorry about that” he added.

Jungkook rolled his eyes, smiling, “Hyung, shut up” he responded, seemingly not having minded Jin acting that way towards him – well, they were very close friends after all – but taking the situation with humour.

Perhaps, Jin had reconsidered their banter regarding Minji and had felt that it might have come off the wrong way, thus deciding to come back to ease the air and make light of the situation – just to be certain that they were all on the same page.

Jin gave a nod, “Right. I'll see you later”

“Later” Jungkook waved him off, Jin leaving and shutting the door behind him.

A silent moment passed.

“Idiot” the black haired boy then commented as he shook his head, a smile still adorning his handsome face.

“Jungkook-ah!” Jimin scolded, swatting Jungkook’s arm again.

“What? He is an idiot – well, sometimes” Jungkook responded with a shrug of his shoulders, “So am I. It's not like he never called me that” he added, ”Besides, he was just fucking with me because of my position again"

Jimin rolled his eyes.

“I know, your relationship to him is different than mine” Jungkook then stated, reaching for the trash on his table and cleaning up the mess as he appeared to be done with his lunch.

“Well, you know him a lot longer than I do” Jimin noted – which was true.

“Fair point” Jungkook agreed, “However, hyung grew to like you very quickly” he added with a smile, “You just-... well, damn, how do you do that, huh?” Jungkook wanted to know, meeting Jimin's gaze.

Confused, Jimin only blinked at him, “Do what?”

“How do you wrap everyone around your pretty little finger?” Jungkook explained with a smirk, nodding at Jimin – yet, not particularly decreasing Jimin’s confusion with that answer.

The smaller boy furrowed his brows, tilting his head to the side, “What do you mean?”

“Well, every man that meets you falls to his knees for you”

Jimin's eyes went wide, “That is not true at all” he protested with a shaking of his head.

Certainly, that was not the case. In fact, the opposite appeared more likely than that. Immediately, there were a just few instances that replayed in Jimin's mind – those men having threatened to harmed him during those occasions.

“You just have something about you that makes it impossible to not be fond of you” Jungkook noted, drawing Jimin out of his thoughts.

“Oh really?” Jimin wondered, a faint smile curving his lips at the compliment.
Jungkook's smirk grew, “Yes, really” he affirmed.

The pink haired boy shook his head, “You're the one talking, having both men and women fall to their knees for you”

Smugly, Jungkook shrugged his shoulders, “Well, what can I say-”

At that, Jimin broke out in laughter, “Oh, shut up” he expressed with affection displayed on his face.

“There is only one that I want, though” Jungkook stated softer, leaning closer to press his lips against Jimin's forehead, evoking another set of butterflies within Jimin's stomach.

Shyly, Jimin made himself smaller, “Stop” he mumbled, his cheeks flushing a faint shade of rose.

“Cute” Jungkook chuckled with fondness in his eyes.

---

Jimin stared at the contract in his hands, a feeling of nervousness blooming within him for a reason he didn't know. Certainly, there was excitement, yet Jimin wasn't sure why there was this sense of nervousness.

“Are you okay, little one?” Jungkook wanted to know, clearly having noticed Jimin's current state.

“Mhm-mh” Jimin affirmed with a hum, “I think I should head down now to go through this” he decided, pointing at the contract.

Jungkook titled his head to the side, “I could help you with the contract” he suggested.

Jimin arched up his eyebrows, “Can you?”

“Yeah” the other one answered.

Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth, this offer surely being tempting, yet then again, Jimin didn't want to bother him despite Jungkook being the one who had suggested the idea in the first place, “Don't you have anything more important to do?”

Jungkook smiled, “First of all – there is nothing more important to me than you. Secondly, I can do my paper work now while you read through the contract and whenever you have a question, just ask me”

“Are you sure?” Jimin still asked.

“Yes, of course” Jungkook responded with a determined nod, “Unless, you want it to be someone else. I mean, I see myself qualified enough to explain the details and conditions of the contract in case you don't understand anything, but I wouldn't mind for you to prefer a neutral person” he added.

“No, this is fine” Jimin declined, smiling softly as he leaned back on the sofa, delighted by the idea of having the chance to spend even more time with Jungkook today.

“Get comfortable then” Jungkook insisted, pointing at the sofa as he noticed how Jimin had swiftly backtracked on sitting on the piece of furniture as though it was his own, but rather maintaining a straight posture.

The smaller boy glanced at him, “I don't want to ruin your sofa” he explained.
“Just take your shoes off, if you want to get your feet up, and you'll be fine” Jungkook assured him with a wave of his hand, smiling encouraging at him.

“Thank you” Jimin uttered, “Oh. What about the person that's waiting for me downstairs?” he then remembered with a gasp.

“I'll let them know that you won't come down” Jungkook responded, getting up to his feet and approaching his desk in order to pick up his phone.

---

“What does 'working hours in company building' mean exactly? Will there be times where I won't work in the building?” Jimin wondered as he read over that part of the contract, having managed fairly fine in understanding bits and pieces on his own for the vast majority, yet still struggling every now and then and having preferred to ask Jungkook just to make sure that he wasn't off with his assumption of a certain meaning.

Jungkook looked up from his own sheet of paper, clearing his throat, “It's only necessary for you to be here during training period and for meetings regarding the steps of the teaching process of certain trainees or artists. In the case of creating a choreography, working as a back up dancer or the paper stuff, you can choose to do that from home or any other required place – as long as you get the shit done when it's due” he explained.

“Oh” Jimin uttered.

“Of course, you can choose to do all of that here, but you have the possibility of doing certain work from home as well” Jungkook then added.

The pink haired boy gave a slow nod, pulling up his brows in curiosity, “Does every employee have that option?” he wanted to know.

The possibility to work from hom was very tempting. Not that Jimin was lazy and would use any chance he got to stay home rather than to come here – after all, this company was a dream itself, Jimin couldn't wait to come here every day to work – yet, it was nice to know that whenever he wasn't feeling that well, he wasn't required to force himself to come and stay here for the whole day, but could choose to stay home and get certain work done from there.

That was a nice option.

“No, certain employees are required to work solely from here” Jungkook responded, shaking his head.

“What about you?” Jimin wondered with big eyes.

Jungkook smiled at Jimin's curiosity, the latter's expression adorable, “Only minimal work. For the vast majority, I have to work from here, but I mean-”

“You own all of this” Jimin finished for him, concluding that Jungkook as the CEO couldn't just decide to work from home whenever he desired to, but would have to be here to run this company.

“Yeah. I gotta take care of stuff that no one else – if you exclude my father – can essentially take care of to run all of this” Jungkook affirmed Jimin's thoughts.

“True” the smaller boy agreed with a nod, trailing his gaze back down on the contract in his hands to proceed reading through it thoroughly.
Comfortable silence settled between them.

“I have to have medical check ups?” Jimin asked surprised as he read over those words a few moments later.

The younger male looked up and met his gaze, ‘Yeah. You're going to tire your body out physically - as you’re not only a choreographer, but also a back-up dancer. We need to make sure you stay healthy’

“Oh. Okay” Jimin responded with a faint nod, glancing down at the paper again.

“It's nothing major. Don't worry, little one” Jungkook assured him.

Although Jimin didn't glimpse at him this time, he still acknowledged his encouraging words and uttered a soft “Okay”

It didn't take much longer for Jimin to come across another condition that surprised him.

The smaller boy furrowed his brows as he lifted his head, staring at Jungkook who was fixated on his own work, “Dating a trainee is prohibited? Why is that in my contract? Your father knows that we are dating” Jimin wondered, confusion written on his face.

Humming in affirmation, Jungkook gave a nod, “Of course, he does. However, it's a condition that is part of every contract. In case you would ever break up with me, that would enhance the chance of you dating a trainee” Jungkook reasoned, locking eyes with Jimin.

The way Jungkook worded that statement made Jimin's heart skip a beat, but caused it to clench all the same.

In case you would ever break up with me.

That implied that Jungkook did not consider ever breaking up with Jimin on his own – meaning that he chose to believe that they would stay together forever as long as he was concerned.

Surely, Jungkook had only meant it in the way of the only possibility of them ever breaking up being by Jimin chosing to leave him as Jungkook wouldn't do that himself, yet that also indicated that he did consider the possibility of Jimin leaving him.

“I will never” Jimin found himself whisper.

Jungkook cocked his head to the side, “Never what?” he echoed as he skimmed through his own paper stuff absentmindedly.

“I will never break up with you” Jimin elaborated firmly, but still with a hint of softness that his voice always carried along.

For a moment, Jungkook just stared at him. Then, he leaned over to crash his lips on Jimin's in a swift peck, yet appeared to refrain from that action in the midst of withdrawing as he leaned back in to attach their lips in another kiss. This time, he moved closer to Jimin, placing his hand in the back of his neck to pull the pink haired boy closer to him.

It was as though Jimin was a sweet drug, Jungkook having only meant to have a taste, yet the boy not capable to stop just there, but craving for more and falling completely into the sweetness of Jimin.

He couldn't get enough. Never.
“I-I need to get this done” Jimin mumbled inbetween the kiss, yet not chosing to detach himself from Jungkook either, but rather longing for more as he moved his lips against Jungkook's. Unfortunately, the sane side of him did currently not have the upper hand.

The younger male grumbled in dissatisfaction, trailing open-mouthed kisses down Jimin's throat, “Just a moment” he whispered against his skin, Jimin biting down on his bottom lip.

“Kook-ah” Jimin whined, capable to grab the sane part and shake it awake.

After all – anyone could come in right now and they were both quite aware of where this would lead, if they didn't choose to part. Besides, Jimin really wanted to go through the remainder of the contract to finally sign it.

“Bunny” Jimin called out softly.

Jungkook halted, groaning at the pet name as he withdrew from Jimin, “That fucking nam-” he cursed, falling back against the backrest of the arm chair.

The smaller boy giggled in his delicate hand, Jungkook rolling his eyes but still smiling at the other one.

“You are really enjoying that, hm?” Jungkook wanted to know, arching up a brow as he wet his lips – still tasting Jimin on them.

Jimin chuckled gently, “Well, it worked” he answered with a weak shrug of his shoulders.

“Mhm, well, we will see, whether you'll still call me that tonight, hm?” Jungkook noted with a low tone.

“What do- O-Oh ” Jimin whispered, swallowing hard as he realised what Jungkook was implying.

The black haired boy smirked smugly as he got up from his seat, approaching his desk while Jimin fixed his posture, blushing at Jungkook's suggestiveness.

Swiftly, Jimin picked up the contract again, choosing to ignore the heat that had bloomed in the pit of his stomach. If he wasn't mistaken, Jungkook was still staring at him intently, endeared by Jimin's shy reaction to his teasing.

Diligently, Jimin worked through the last part of the contract, focusing solely on the words he read to not miss anything important.

“The salary is... so high ” Jimin whispered as his gaze fell on the large number again, something within him still doubting that what he saw was real, certain that his eyes must deceive him.

“It's a justified amount, baby” Jungkook commented.

Jimin looked up, meeting Jungkook's gaze, “Your father said that, too, but how can that be? It's so much for... for doing something that I love so dearly? I don't know whether I deserv-”

“Don't you finish that, Jimin-ah” Jungkook interrupted him with a stern tone, shaking his head at the smaller boy. “You're not being handed that money for free, little one. You're working here – and that for several long hours, which is physically as well as mentally exhausting. This is an eminently respectable company – one of the biggest one's in Korea – that has established a certain level of power and influence. Every artist we manage is successful in a rather large extent – there is only excellency occupied in this building and for that we require qualified people who will know how to and will play a great part in turning someone into a star. That has its price, Jimin-ah. You fit right in. You're worth every penny”

Jimin dipped his head down, a faint flush adorning his cheeks.

“Thank you, Kook-ah” Jimin murmured timidly, not wanting to argue, yet still not quite agreeing with that whole statement. Surely, this company was in fact just that what Jungkook had described, but Jimin didn't believe he was anywhere near that level yet, “You haven't even seen me teach, though. What if I suck?” Jimin voiced his doubt.

“You won't suck, baby” Jungkook assured him, “Besides, Hoseok-ssi will be there to lead you for a while. You're starting as an assistant and will surely quickly pick up the necessities and be able to do all of that on your own”

“Maybe” Jimin uttered.

“Certainly” Jungkook added.

Jimin only smiled bashfully, his eyes trailing back down to the paper to finish it.

Only mere minutes later, he had finally finished reading through it.

“I think... I'm done” Jimin announced slowly, a relieved breath falling from his lips. There wasn't anything in it that worried him or needed adjustments on his behalf. In fact, Jimin was more than pleased with the contract and its condition. Surely, there were rules that partially confused him, yet he didn't mind them and was certain to be capable to follow them.

“Yeah?”

“Mhm-mh” Jimin affirmed as he stole a glimpse at Jungkook, the latter already staring at him with soft eyes.

“Any more questions?” Jungkook wanted to know, pulling up an eyebrow in curiosity.

Jimin shook his head, “No”

Giving a nod, Jungkook pointed at the contract with an encouraging smile, “Well, then you can go ahead and sign it now”

Jimin blinked, staring down at the sheet of paper.

Taking a deep breath, the smaller boy reached for the pen Jungkook handed him.

Slowly, he placed the tip of the pen on the contract, applying faint pressure on his wrist.

Then, he signed it, the letters of his name curving over the paper.

For a brief moment, he just stared at his own signature.

It was official now.

“Welcome to Jeon entertainment”
Taegiseok!!!
Well, it's out now!
I was very conflicted on how to tag the story concerning Tae/Hoseok/Yoongi. I came up with this twist halfway into the story, but I wanted to keep it a surprise so I didn't tag it right away.
I want to apologise in case any one is mad at me for not tagging this from the beginning. I'm still not very sure how to tag this because I don't want to give away just yet how the whole thing plays out between them. Does anyone have suggestion on whether I should tag it and if so, in what way? Thank you <3

Jimin is part of Jeon entertainment now! Did you all guess that he was going to pick Jeon entertainment? ^^

See you in the next chapter :)

Love you <3
Trepidation

Chapter Summary

Jimin's nerves get the best of him, leading him to ask Jungkook for a favour...

Chapter Notes

Hiii, lovely readers <3
I missed all of you! <3
I'm finally done with my exams! Yaay ^^

Thank you so much for your lovely comments wishing me good luck and caring about my health! That means so much to me, really, from the bottom of my heart <3

As I was very busy during my exams, I didn't get to answer all of your comments and I want to apologise for that. :( Now that I'm not anxious or stressed because of my exams anymore, I finally have the time to respond to all of your lovely comments. <3

There are quite a lot piled up in my inbox, but I promise that I'll eventually get to all of them! <3 I handled it in a chaotic way by responding to the ones at the top first when I should have replied to the older ones first... :(

So, I'm very sorry, if my reply is very late (for some comments very very very late), but I did read all of your comments and I will always do that! <3

I apologise again, I hope you can understand <3

I hope you enjoy this chapter <3

See the end of the chapter for more notes

“Welcome to Jeon entertainment” Jungkook stated, the tone of his voice warm, welcoming.

The pink haired boy's gaze lingered on his signature for a moment longer, the significance of this very moment erupting within him.

Now, he was officially a part of Jeon entertainment.

Wasn't that insane?

Jimin's smaller self – Jungkook would surely remark on his height that hadn't changed that much compared to his sounger self, if he'd share this thought with him - would be absolutely dumbfounded by this. Hell, present Jimin was just as flabbergasted!

This was exceeding any dream past Jimin had ever had. Frankly, Jimin's younger self would have never even dared to dream of such a step as this one – would never even believe Jimin, if he'd possess the ability to go back in time and tell past Jimin about all of this.

Then again, he wouldn't believe Jimin claiming he had a boyfriend in the future, either. No, Jimin's younger self had never even imagined a life as the one Jimin lived today. A lot of the things that had happened to present Jimin could be considered a miracle to his past self.

“Thank you” Jimin uttered softly.

Jungkook reached out to him, his fingers gently grabbing Jimin's chin to guide his face up, enabling them to lock eyes, “Are you okay?” he wondered, his brows knitted.

“Huh?” Jimin murmured.

“You look dazed” Jungkook noted, patting his lap.

Understanding, Jimin obliged Jungkook's silent command and got up from his seat as he moved closer to the other one. Tenderly, Jungkook grasped his hips and pulled Jimin onto his lap, the latter straddling him.

“Do you regret signing it?” Jungkook asked him concerned, lifting his hand up to Jimin's face, brushing his fringe out of his forehead as his fingertips traced over Jimin's skin.

“No!” Jimin swiftly denied, shaking his head, “No, not at all” he added softer, “I don't know, I just thought about this new chapter of my life. I'm both hopeful and excited, but also nervous” Jimin elaborated, lowering his head as he played with the hem of his shirt, faintly shrugging his shoulders.

Evidently, Jimin did not regret signing the contract – No, that was far from what Jimin was currently feeling. Opposed to that emotion, he was filled with anticipation for what was awaiting him in his future.

“I understand” Jungkook noted, his hand finding its way to the small of Jimin's back, playing with the hem of his shirt before he allowed his hand to slip beneath the fabric, his warm palm resting on Jimin's soft skin. At the immediate contact, Jimin's heart fluttered, “It's great to have you here” the taller boy added as he leaned closer, “Gives me an excuse to see you every day” he whispered against Jimin's lips before he captured them in a slow kiss.

Jimin smiled into the touch of their lips, “I wouldn't want to disturb you during your important work, though” he still objected with a faint shaking of his head.

Jungkook hummed lowly, the sound vibrating in his chest, “Work is important, but I can make an exception for you, baby” he declared with a smirk, “I will find time to see you” he added, wetting his lips.

The smaller boy blinked as his eyes rushed down to Jungkook's lips, following the motion of his tongue. Gulping, Jimin closed his arms around Jungkook's neck as he leaned in, “You're going to get us both in trouble,” he predicted quietly, his gaze flickering back and forth between Jungkook's eyes.

“I'll be good, I promise” Jungkook muttered against Jimin, something suggestive in his voice as his smirk deepened, the boy then attaching their lips in another kiss - this one longer, hungrier.

Jimin's breath hitched in his throat as he kissed right back, his eyes fluttering shut as Jungkook pulled him impossibly closer – his embrace soft and warm, evoking a feeling of comfort within Jimin.

Gently, Jungkook trailed open-mouthed kisses along Jimin's throat, the latter digging his teeth into his bottom lip to muffle any embarrassing sounds that had threatened to leave him, “I-If you're going to distract me-” Jimin attempted to note, yet went silent upon Jungkook licking over his skin, a whimper slipping from Jimin's lips instead.

“Then what? Hm?” Jungkook whispered into his ear, daring him to answer, but quite aware of his effect he had on Jimin – enjoying the reaction he was receiving.

Whining, Jimin nuzzled against Jungkook, “T-That's unfair” he stuttered softly, swallowing hard as Jungkook’s lips were still very notably lingering above his skin, the smallest amount of distance between them.

“What is, kitten?” Jungkook asked him, pretending to be unaware of the answer to that question, although he knew – oh, how he knew.

“I can't concentrate when you do that” Jimin murmured, blushing at his declaration.

It was inevitable for Jimin to lack the ability to concentrate when Jungkook was being even remotely suggestive or flirting with him – his charming being simply too affective on Jimin. Evidently, it was one of Jimin's weaknesses.

Jungkook hummed lowly, “Do what, baby? Tell me” he insisted, his breath tickling on Jimin's skin as he closed his hand around his hip, giving it a tender squeeze.

“Kiss me, touch me, talk to me like- Just all of it ” Jimin responded with something that could be considered a near whine.

The black haired boy smirked, giving a nod, “Hm, then you need to concentrate on work” he concluded.

“Exactly” Jimin agreed with a determined nod of his head, but proceeded to stay close to Jungkook, not desiring to detach himself from the other one.

“I see. You're right. I'll stop then” he stated, withdrawing from Jimin as he gripped his hips again, indicating to lift Jimin off of his lap.

“W-What?” Jimin murmured, eyes wide as he stared at Jungkook, the latter refraining from pulling Jimin off of his lap, but leaning back into his seat instead.

The younger male chuckled at Jimin's shocked expression, the look making him appear even more adorable.

Of course, Jungkook was enjoying this, Jimin thought, He just loved to tease Jimin.

“Meanie” Jimin pouted, crossing his arms over his chest.

“Me?” Jungkook wondered, arching up an eyebrow as though there was anyone else Jimin could currently address.

“Yes” Jimin affirmed.

Jungkook's hands caressed his back, the man titling his head to the side, “Isn't this what you asked me to?” he wanted to know, pointing out that Jimin had essentially implied that he wanted him to stop as he was distracting him.

Jimin blinked.
“Yes, but... not now. I won't start working until tomorrow” Jimin protested with a pout, leaning in to hide his face in the curve of Jungkook’s neck.

The black haired boy's eyebrows shot up in surprise, his hand sliding through Jimin's hair to gently grab a bundle of his pink locks, “What are you proposing, hm? Want me to fuck you right here?” Jungkook whispered into Jimin's ear, giving his hair a soft tug.

Jimin swallowed hard, his cheeks turning a shade of rose as his guts stirred in arousal, heat building in the pit of his stomach.

Suddenly, the door burst open.

“O-Oh” a man mumbled, Jimin being startled by the sudden presence of another figure, causing him to be entirely frozen in his place instead of detaching himself from Jungkook as quickly as possible, “Hello. I'm here to get Mr. Park” the man announced, clearing his throat. Jimin didn't recognise the voice.

The smaller boy looked back over his shoulder, figuring that this was the man that had been instructed to wait for him downstairs to get over the contract.

“Minji-ssi sends me” the man added, pushing his glasses up his nose.

“Oh, yeah” Jimin murmured, finally snapping out of his trance and lifting himself off of Jungkook's lap.

Reluctantly, Jungkook allowed the pink haired boy to slip from his grasp, his eyes following Jimin's movement before they trailed back over to the man that had barged in the room just a moment ago.

At Jungkook's stare, the man froze in his place, his eyes going wide. Swiftly, he bowed deeply, uttering out an apology, “I'm sorry. I didn't mean to disrupt”

“Are you aware of the decent mannerism called knocking before you enter a damn room?” Jungkook asked the man, furrowing his brows at him, but not sounding annoyed, rather just appearing to want to remind the man of simple decency.

However, the employee didn't seem remotely calm, rather nervous as he took another bow, “I-I am terribly sorry, Mr. Jeon” “Mhm” Jungkook only hummed, “Don't say a word about what you saw or you're fired” he demanded as he got up from the sofa, fixing his tie before he straightened his back, his shoulders broad in his straight posture.

The black haired boy held so much power – was displaying that in the effect he had on the employee. There was something so authoritative and dominating to his demeanor that had always intrigued Jimin. Sometimes, he was intimidating, yet to Jimin it represented something entirely different - safety and protection.

Surely, it depended on the situation. During certain events – particularly regarding the bedroom – Jungkook's demeanor exuded something demanding, something that forced you to obey - at least it had such an effect on Jimin.

With a mere stare, he would drop to his knees for Jungkook and oblige.

Yet, it caused Jimin to feel safe and protected all the same.
“I won’t” the man answered, “I assure you, Mr. Jeon”

“Mhm-mh” Jungkook only hummed again, waving him off.

Jimin blinked, a faint display of a blush still adorning his pretty features. It was slightly embarrassing to have been caught straddling Jungkook’s lap by an employee – now colleague of Jimin – with the potential of this having turned into something way more explicit.

What if the man had seen them having sex?

The smaller boy gulped at the thought.

For some reason, Jimin was scared of the man sharing what he had burst into with the rest of the employees – word spreading quickly until the whole company was aware of the news.

It wasn't that Jimin was concerned by the fact of them knowing about their relationship – No, that was far from the truth. Jimin was more than happy to be with Jungkook, wanted to whole world to know.

However, Jungkook was now his boss. Frankly, Jimin couldn't help but feel scared that the other employees would judge him for being in a relationship with Jungkook. Maybe, they would think that he wasn't deserving of working here. Maybe, they would think that he had only been hired because he was having sex with Jungkook.

Yet maybe, he was just reading too much into the situation – being paranoid for a reason he didn't need to be.

“Mr. Park, would you please follow me?” the employee asked him, gesturing for Jimin to follow him with a wave of his hand.

Gently, Jungkook reached for his wrist, pulling Jimin closer to himself to press a kiss to his forehead, “I'll see you later, little one”

“Later” Jimin responded with a soft smile, heart fluttering at the touch of Jungkook's soft lips on his skin.

Hesitantly, Jimin detached himself from Jungkook, picking up his contract and waving at the taller boy before he made his way over to the employee.

“Follow me” the man repeated again, the two of them exiting the office room collectively.

---

“Don't worry” the man spoke up, breaking the almost awkward silence that had settled between them once the elevator doors had shut in front of their eyes and had reduced their space to a relatively small cubicle, “I won't say a word to anyone”

Jimin met his gaze, smiling shyly as he gave a nod, “O-Oh. Thank you” he uttered out, the flush on his cheeks turning a darker shade of rose. To be fair, it wasn't any less embarrassing to now address the events that had occurred just moments ago. In fact, the mere mention of the incident painted a flush on Jimin's cheeks.

“I mean, besides liking my job enough to not want to be fired – I do have some decency and respect for Mr. Jeon's and your lives” the man added with a warm smile, scratching over the back of his neck.
Surely, the sight alone had made him a little flustered himself to say the least. Well, Jimin could relate to that all too well. After all, Jimin wouldn't want to walk into his own boss during one of his very intimate moments involving anyone - but particularly another employee - himself.

At his words, Jimin's heart eased, a soft smile curving his lips, “Oh. Thank you”

Evidently, Jimin's earlier concerns regarding the man telling anyone of what he had barged into at the office had been unsubstantiated. Actually, the particular employee appeared rather nice and had clearly assured Jimin of not sharing what he had seen with anyone.

The man shrugged his shoulders, “It can be tough here” he stated.

“What do you mean?” Jimin asked, frowning at his choice of words.

What was he referring to? How was it relating to their prior topic regarding Jungkook's and Jimin's intimate moment?

“The industry isn't fairy tale like” he wanted to enlighten Jimin, yet it wasn't exactly anything Jimin wasn't already aware of – or hadn't been told quite a lot before. Despite Jimin believing that this was a beautiful job, that sole narrative simply wasn't the whole truth. There were parts that weren't easy, weren't as enjoyable.

Jimin's perception regarding this job wasn't an entire starry-eyed one anymore as it had been years ago.

Well, at least that's what Jimin told himself.

“I know” the pink haired boy finally responded with a weak nod, stressing his answer.

The employee pointed his flat hand at Jimin, “If wrong people find out about you and Mr. Jeon, it might not play in your hands” he elaborated, causing Jimin to knit his eyebrows.

“What do you mean?” he then wondered.

“People tend to be jealous” the man emphasised as though it was an obvious point – and perhaps, to him it was, “ Mr. Jeon isn't particularly unwanted by several employees and trainees, especially in this company. In fact, the list of people who do want to be with him is quite long”

Jimin tilted his head to the side, “How do you know that?” he asked softly. Surely, Jimin wasn't blind and had noticed quite a lot of people turning their heads and staring longingly at Jungkook whenever he had walked past them, yet... he had never been quite certain whether those people were only intrigued by his power or his attractiveness – either way, he couldn't blame them.

“Well, everyone knows” the man snickered, “I have eyes” he then added, “You see girls drooling over him whenever he walks past them – a mile away”

Jimin smiled faintly, lowering his head as he gave a nod, “Can't blame them” he noted.

The employee chuckled.

“I mean, he is Jeon Jungkook after all” he stressed.

“So... I won't exactly be welcome here?” Jimin eventually figured, meeting the other one's gaze again.

The man shook his head, “That's not what I mean” he protested, “There are enough civil and decent people working here. Like me” he declared, pointing at himself with a grin, “You don't have to worry about that. Sure, some people might be jealous, but just ignore them. They'll probably choose not to be your friend anyway or they will pretend to be your friend”

“Why would they do that?” Jimin wanted to know. After all, why would someone pretend to like Jimin's company, if that was actually opposed to what they were really feeling? What would they gain from it? Jimin could comprehend the idea of treating someone in a kind way even if you didn't particularly like them – in order to maintain a respectful and polite environment. Yet, why would someone go as far as to pretend to be his friend?

Bing.

The elevator doors opened, interrupting their conversation, the prior silence that had surrounded them before now filled with chatter and numerous other chaotic noises audible on the entrance floor.

The employee went ahead and exited, Jimin stepping out of the elevator and catching up to him in order to walk beside him.

“To receive advantages? To be closer to Jeon Jungkook? I don't know. Just be careful once the company does know about you two” the man answered his question as they headed towards an office.

“I see…” Jimin murmured, an unsettling feeling blooming within him.

“Again, don't worry” he repeated as he came to a halt, Jimin barely capable to prevent himself from bumping into his back. The man spun around, flashing him a genuine smile, “That's really only a small fraction of people here. I mean, I guess it depends on the people you work with in your closer environment, but the majority of people are very nice. At least the ones I associate and interact with. There are rarely any arguments between employees”

Jimin gave a nod, not quite sure what to reply to that, “What do you do here?” he changed the topic, actually quite curious about that, too.

The man pushed his glasses up his nose, “I'm an accountant. Can't you tell?” he chuckled.

Smiling, the smaller boy tilted his head to the side, “Well, it would be a little prejudiced to assume your profession solely based on your behaviour and appearance, wouldn't it?”

“Fair enough” the man agreed with a smirk, “Well, but it isn't hard to guess what you've been offered here. Are you a trainee? A dancer? A model?” he wanted to know, turning back around and walking ahead.

Swiftly, Jimin rushed after him, “Assistant choreographer” he answered as he had caught up with the man, almost tumbling into another person that had hurried past him.

“Aah, I see” the man hummed, “I wasn't so far off, then”

“No, you weren't” Jimin agreed, “I do dance”

“I figured” he grinned at Jimin.

“Why?” Jimin wondered, arching up his eyebrows, curiosity written on his face. After all, Jimin had not said a word about why he was here. Then again, Minji might have told him? Yet, why would she?
“I have a sense for that” the man claimed with a smug expression on his face, shrugging his shoulders, “You've got the face and the body for that”

Jimin chuckled, shaking his head as he called his bluff, “You have no idea about dancing, huh?” he noted, amusement glistening in his brown orbs.

“Nope”

“Minji-ssi told you?” Jimin figured eventually.

The man met his gaze, “Yep” he replied, his smile growing.

Jimin giggled, rolling his eyes at the man, “How long have you been working here?” he then wondered.

“Just a year” the other one responded after a moment of hesitance, potentially having taken some seconds to think of when he had first been hired here.

“Interesting” Jimin commented, the two of them coming to a halt again.

“Yeah. It's nice here” the taller man claimed, “Well, if you exclude the people that are rude” he added with a weak shrug of his shoulders.

“That are?” Jimin wanted to know, assuming that it would be better to stay away from these people, if they were considered rude.

“I'll let you be a judge of that on your own” the employee simply responded, shaking his head.

“Thank you” Jimin mumbled, yet reckoned that he should base his opinion of of his own experiences rather than the claims of someone else – especially if they've only just encountered each other mere minutes ago.

“I'm Ryan, by the way” the man finally introduced himself, reaching out to shake Jimin's hand.

The pink haired boy shook his hand, cocking his head to the side, “Ryan?” he echoed.

“Yes, half-korean” Ryan replied proudly, dropping his hand again.

“And the other half?” Jimin asked curiously, pulling up his eyebrows as he waited patiently for the other one to respond.

“Take a guess” Ryan insisted with a smirk.

Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth as he narrowed his eyes, certain that there was no way he would be able to pin it down to the exact one, “Australian?” he tried, taking an utterly wild guess.

“Damn, you're good” Ryan breathed, eyes wide, “How did you know?”

Attempting to uphold the false narrative of Jimin having been very sure of his answer, he shrugged his shoulders with a grin, yet was actually dumbfounded by the fact of having been correct – Perhaps, Ryan was just fooling him, though, “I have a sense” he simply responded, referencing Ryan's earlier answer. The other man smiled at him, “I'm Jimin” the smaller boy introduced himself, despite the other one surely already being aware of that.

“Nice to meet you, Jimin”
“You, too” Jimin smiled at him.

“Well, here you go” he then announced, pointing at the doors behind them, “Minji-ssi is waiting in the meeting room”

Giving a nod, Jimin's gaze wandered from Ryan to the door and back to Ryan's eyes, “Okay, thank you” he muttered as he walked past the taller man.

“I'll see you around, Jimin-ssi” Ryan waved at him, watching Jimin approach the door.

“See you around” Jimin responded, waving at the other one before he lifted his hand up to the door, knocking gently on the hard material.

However, there didn't come an answer, causing Jimin to hesitate.

Nervously, he knocked again, dropping his hand as he pressed his ear against the door, waiting patiently for someone to grant him access. Silently standing there, Jimin even held his breath in hopes to pick up any noise from inside of the room.

Yes, he was aware that his behaviour could be considered rude – potentially... most likely - but he couldn't help but worry that the room was empty, thus wanting to make sure that it was even occupied at all.

Suddenly, the door was pulled open, almost causing Jimin to fall to the floor as he had balanced his weight on the door, the sudden absence of the material against his body resulting in him falling forward.

Fortunately, he didn't tumble into the person that had allowed him entrance either, Jimin swiftly capable to balance himself and fix his posture.

“Hello?” Jimin uttered, lifting his head to lock eyes with the figure.

“Ah, Mr. Park” Minji responded, flashing him a faint smile. Curiously, Jimin studied her features, noticing how flushed her cheeks were, but figuring that it might be her make-up that had painted them in a rose colour. Minji's eyes were glassy, her hair pulled up into a ponytail as she stared at Jimin impatiently.

The smaller boy blinked, “Yes, hello” Jimin uttered, “I'm here to bring you the contract”

She raised her eyebrows at him, holding out her hand, “Ah, yes. You signed it?” she asked him.

“Yes” Jimin answered, giving a nod.

“Great. Hand it over” she insisted with a wave of her hand.

Jumin stepped closer, handing her the contract. Swiftly, she snatched it from him, taking a short glance at it, “I'll inform Mr. Jeon about it once he's done with the meeting”

“He's still in there?” Jimin found himself wonder, recalling Mr. Jeon having to attend the meeting even before Jimin and Jungkook had started eating their lunch. Did it really take that long? What were they discussing that profoundly – considering how he had claimed that it wasn't actually that significant, resulting in Jungkook being allowed to skip it?

“Yeah. Those can take a while” Minji informed him casually with a shrug of her shoulder.

Jumin only gave a weak nod, “Oh. Okay” he murmured.
Minji blinked at him, arching up her eyebrows as though she was irritated by the fact of Jimin not being absent already, “Well, you don’t have to wait” she expressed, waving her hand at him again, “You are free to go home now,” Minji added, “Be on time tomorrow morning”

The pink haired boy parted his lips in confusion, “When exactly do I have to be here? And where do I have to go?” he then wanted to know, pulling his brows together in a frown.

“You’ll have to check up with Mr. Jung” she answered like it should have been obvious – well, she did make a valid point there as Jimin was going to be Hoseok's assistant after all, “You’re his assistant and he’ll inform you where to meet, when to be here, all that stuff”

“Okay” Jimin responded, bowing politely at her, “Thank you. Goodbye”

“Goodbye” she uttered, flashing him another smile before she waved him off again.

Taking the sign, Jimin finally spun around and exited the room, the door being shut behind him as soon as his butt was out.

Slightly bewildered, Jimin shook his head, distancing himself from the meeting room and taking slow steps towards the entrance desk.

Replaying that prior moment in his head now... Jimin was almost certain that there had been a person in the back of the room this whole time, yet Minji had blocked the sight to actually establish that fact by standing right in front of Jimin. Perhaps, it had just been a shadow, but then again Jimin couldn’t brush off the feeling of an actual third person having been present in the room.

Shaking his head again, Jimin sighed, scanning the room to figure out where to go now.

Suddenly, he caught a bundle of brown locks run past him.

“Hyung!” Jimin called out with a grin, skipping over to the person that took an immediate halt in their tracks and spun right back around in search for the source of the voice.

Hoseok’s eyes widened as he met Jimin's gaze, his brown orbs glistening with affection, “Jimin-ah, hey! What are you doi- Ah! You signed the contract today?” he assumed, reaching out to pull Jimin into a warm hug.

“Yes!” Jimin affirmed with a chuckle, nodding in joy as he rested his chin on Hoseok's shoulder, the other male rubbing over his back before they detached themselves from one another.

“Amazing” Hoseok grinned at him, running his hand through Jimin's hair, “Welcome”

Frankly, it still hadn’t quite hit Jimin just yet that he was now officially a part of Jeon Entertainment. Surely, it would take a little longer to settle in entirely, his heart still keeping it's guard up just in case it had been deceived and this whole thing somehow turned out to be just a prank.

A shy smile adorned Jimin's pretty features as he lowered his head down, “Thank you”

“Are you staying?” Hoseok wanted to know, “Or are you on your way out?”

“Well, I just got done here” Jimin answered, locking eyes with the taller man, “I was about to head home now, but I actually meant to call you, too. I'm your assistant and I was told to ask you when to be here?”

“Ah, yes” Hoseok nodded, “Well, I get here by 9am and get started on my own first. Usually, I meet the trainees at around 10-ish, if there is a practice period planned. If there isn't, I'm working on some new choreography on my own” he explained.

Jimin hummed and gave a nod, “Okay. Then, I'll be here by 9, too?”

“Perfect” Hoseok grinned at him, “Well, I gotta head back down now. I'm so excited for you to meet everyone tomorrow” he added, pointing at the elevators. Surely, he had been in a rush to get down before Jimin had interfered by stopping him, considering how he had essentially ran down the room just a brief moment ago.

“Me, too” Jimin agreed with a smile.

Truthfully, he could not wait to finally start working here. Although it was only a mere day away, it felt like an eternity. Presumably, that lack of patience was caused by Jimin's very prominent excitement, yet he couldn't contain that feeling.

In fact, Jimin believed that he was that excited that he wouldn't be able to find any sleep at all tonight.

“See you tomorrow, kid” Hoseok interrupted Jimin's thoughts, waving at him before he stepped away.

Swiftly, Jimin lifted his hand to mirror his action, waving at the other one who made his way over to the elevators, “Tomorrow, hyung”

With that, Hoseok disappeared into an elevator, leaving behind Jimin who still hadn't figured out what to do now.

At the realisation of Hoseok's absence, Jimin found himself regret the fact of not having asked him about Taehyung or Yoongi. You know, regarding their... situation.

Then again, Jimin had promised Taehyung to not let the others know about him being aware of the whole thing and he was not going to break that promise. After all, they might not even have come to a solution yet, potentially still just attempting to uphold a platonic relationship between the three of them as none of them were brave enough to speak up.

However, Jimin hoped to be wrong with that assumption as it caused his heart to clench.

“Little one, are you lost?”

At the low voice that didn't need any introduction, but would be recognised by Jimin in a crowd of a thousand people, the pink haired boy spun around and lifted his head.

Jungkook smirked at him, closing his hands around Jimin's hips to pull the boy closer to his body.

“Hey, are you okay, Jimin-ah?” Jungkook wanted to know, his voice softer as concern flashed in his gorgeous brown orbs, his hand reaching up to Jimin's face, caressing his cheekbone with the pad of his thumb.

“Mhm-mh” Jimin hummed in affirmation, still faintly startled by the interruption of his thoughts regarding three of his closest friends, “I was just thinking”

“Okay” Jungkook murmured, leaning in to press a gentle peck to Jimin's lips, “Did you drop off the contract?” he then wanted to know.
“Yes, just now” Jimin confirmed softly with a nod, his cute tongue poking out to wet his lips, the taste of Jungkook still lingering on them, causing Jimin to long for more. The taller man's eyes followed the motion of his tongue, a smirk curving up his lips as he leaned in again to capture Jimin's lips in another swift kiss, “What are you doing down here?”

“I was about to head over to Minji-ssi because she asked me for help earlier” Jungkook informed him, pointing at her desk. However, it was empty as Minji was currently present in the meeting room.

“Oh” Jimin breathed, giving a nod as he recalled Minji having asked Jungkook for help earlier, “Yeah” he added, dipping his head down.

Gently, Jungkook grabbed his chin, guiding his face back up to lock eyes with the shorter male, “Are you jealous?” he wondered, raising up his brows.

“Huh?” Jimin murmured.

“Are you jealous, angel?” Jungkook repeated, slight amusement glistening in his eyes.

Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth, “N-No” he mumbled, not exactly choosing to allow this emotion of envy to blossom within him, yet certainly not capable to simply banish it either.

“We're just going to talk” Jungkook told him, caressing Jimin's cheek, “It won't take long” he assured his lover, his smile conveying a feeling of comfort.

“I know” Jimin huffed, not wanting Jungkook to notice his slight jealousy regarding something this petty. It was such a minor thing- In fact, something very kind of Jungkook to do as he was willing to help her. Yet, for some reason, the whole thing did bother Jimin's heart a fair bit as the two of them did have a sexual past.

Then again, it was just that – the past.

Jungkook was now his, Jimin being his just as much. A prior fling of Jungkook's shouldn't bother him.

“Cute” Jungkook commented with a chuckle, brushing Jimin's hair out of his face.

The comment caused Jimin to pout almost unconsciously, warmth spreading through Jungkook's chest as he ran the pad of his thumb over Jimin's bottom lip before he pressed a tender kiss to his pouting lips.

“I love you, little one” Jungkook whispered into the kiss, “Only you”

Jimin's heart fluttered, the corners of his lips curling up in a shy smile.

“Jungkook-ah, there you are!” a female voice screamed, interrupting their intimate moment.

Involuntarily, Jimin narrowed his eyes, almost urging to whine at the realisation of the temporary loss of Jungkook as the sound of high-heels clicking on the marble floor beneath their feet was audible to their ears, the volume increasing with each step the person took.

“I guess I gotta go now” Jungkook sighed, not tearing his gaze away from Jimin, but remaining just as close to his body, his eyes fixated on Jimin's delicate features.

“Okay” Jimin murmured softly.
“You're done here now, hm? Are you going to head home?” Jungkook wanted to know, the previous sound of the high-heels suddenly having disappeared. Neither of them cared enough to check why there was a lack of that particular sound, “I mean, you could wait until I get done, but I don't want to pull you through that. It's several more hours until I can leave work. As much as I would love to have you here, I would want for you to be home and rest for a bit, hm?” Jungkook suggested, his palms roaming down Jimin's body to rest on his hips again.

“I could wait, if you want me to” Jimin offered with a smile, not minding to wait for Jungkook as he didn't have anything planned for the remainder of the day anyway.

“If I have you for the remainder of the day all by myself in my office, I can't promise to keep my hands to myself, baby” Jungkook noted, his voice lower as he leaned closer, “I won't be able to get any work done”

Jimin's cheeks tinged a shade of rose, but he also found himself giggling, “O-Okay” he gave in, “Yeah. I'll head home then” he added, reckoning that his presence might actually affect Jungkook's concentration as it wasn't exactly an unproven fact that they couldn't keep their hands off of each other for long – their earlier attempt to go through the contract just one of the many instances to validate that point.

Jungkook smirked, pressing a kiss to Jimin's forehead, the touch soft, “I'll head over to your place once I'm done here, hm?” the younger male suggested, delighting Jimin's heart.

“Okay” Jimin agreed to that idea, “Will you call me later once you're done?” he wanted to know, detaching himself from Jungkook, the other male only reluctantly allowing Jimin to slip from his embrace.

“Of course, Jimin-ah” Jungkook assured with a smile, giving a nod as he watched the smaller boy walk away from him.

“Okay. Have fun. I'll talk to you later” Jimin uttered, waving at him.

“Later, little one” Jungkook responded, waving back at him until Jimin disappeared into the elevator.

The black haired boy didn't tear his gaze away, their eyecontact only breaking once it was forced to as the elevator doors shut right in front of them.

---

It was much later that day, Jungkook having kept his promise of stopping by at Jimin's place once he had got done at work. However, it had become quite late already, Jimin having almost fallen asleep on his bed, yet then having been shaken out of his sleepy state with a ringing of his doorbell.

The two boys were now snuggled up in Jimin's bed, cuddling while watching a movie, but Jimin wasn't quite capable to focus much on the events occuring in his TV. Rather than that, he couldn't help but allow his mind to imagine at least a thousand different scenarios - obviously, that was not exaggerated - of how his first day at Jeon Entertainment would go. After all, that particular moment was only mere hours away now.

The thought excited Jimin, but made him very nervous all the same, although he didn't quite know why. Surely, it was just the common nervousness one experienced whenever there was a change in one's life, right? After all, this was a major step in Jimin's life that could entirely shift and shape his career and future.

No, it would certainly do that.
That scared him - as much as it excited him. It was an odd mixture of emotions.

The smaller boy wished there was something to calm him down... something to distract him.

Well, maybe there was? There were certainly some ideas that appeared in Jimin's head...

You know what, a voice accused him, making him blush, Just ask.

However, Jimin was just too timid to ask for it out loud.

“Jungkook-ah” Jimin whispered and rolled onto his side in order to lean closer to Jungkook. The latter met his gaze, eyebrows arched up expectantly as he hummed in acknowledgement of Jimin addressing him.

As Jungkook reached out for him, Jimin leaned up to crash his lips on Jungkook's, his breath hitching in his throat at the sweet touch. Immediately, Jungkook placed his hand on Jimin's side, rubbing it soothingly as he kissed right back without an ounce of hesitation.

A soft breath slipped from Jimin's lips as he withdrew for just a brief moment, his eyes then fluttering shut as he captured Jungkook's lips in another kiss. Swiftly, his hand wandered up to the back of Jungkook's head, tenderly playing with his black locks.

“What is it, little one?” Jungkook wanted to know, peppering kisses down his throat and then back up to Jimin's plump lips.

The pink haired boy took a deep breath, bundling up all the courage he could muster, “Would you... Please, spank me?” he asked softly, feeling his cheeks heat up immediately.

Jungkook's eyebrows shot up in surprise, clearly not having expected that request as he halted the movement of his hand, “You want me to spank you?” he repeated, a slight ounce of doubt causing him to ask for clarification.

“Y-Yeah” Jimin breathed, wetting his lips as he averted his gaze, “Please”

“Is there a reason?” Jungkook wanted to know, reaching up to grab Jimin's chin, guiding his face back up in order to lock eyes with the shorter male.

“I just...” Jimin murmured, but didn't finish his thought, “No, it's weird”

Jungkook hummed in disagreement, “No, baby. Whatever it is - it's not weird, little one. Tell me” he urged him gently, moving closer to Jimin.

“Well, I... It helps me release stress?” the smaller boy declared, not even certain of that reason himself, but deciding it was the closest one to express this feeling, “I... I don't know. Whenever we have sex and you're- you're a little rougher with me, you know, in the way of breaking me down and putting me back together, I always feel so relieved and calmed afterwards. I feel taken care of and safe. I... I like that feeling”

It wasn't exactly a fact either of them were unaware of. In fact, the two of them knew very well that Jimin had a liking in being spanked. Despite Jimin never actually being quite able to pin the reason to that down to one particular thing, he had always just believed that he was intrigued by the pain and being disciplined, finding enjoyment in it.
Certainly, that was still the case. The pink haired boy had found a liking in a specific amount of pain, only being capable to handle so much, but finding pleasure in it combined with the fact of being disciplined by Jungkook.

However, those feelings always ended with Jimin feeling so... so small and taken care of. In those moments, Jimin didn't feel anything less but safe and protected, was able to forget about anything else and live in that current moment as if it was ever lasting.

By the end of it, Jimin felt blissful, felt happy and comforted as odd as that may sound.

Surely, any of their most intimate moments lead to that particular feeling... yet some more intensely than others.

“Why are you stressed, baby?” Jungkook interrupted his thoughts, “Did someone-”

“No” Jimin swiftly interfered, having assumed Jungkook was concerned about someone having harmed Jimin, “No, it's just... I don't know. I think it's the nerves” he admitted softly.

“As it's your first day?” Jungkook clarified, referring to Jimin's first day at the company tomorrow.

“Yeah” Jimin breathed, giving a faint nod, “Y-You don't have to. I'm sure you're tired after-” he swiftly added.

“No, I'm not” Jungkook protested, shaking his head as he brushed Jimin's hair out of his face, “I will do anything for you- or to you – that you ask me to, baby. You know that”

Jimin smiled shyly, hiding his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck. As predicted, the prior courage that Jimin had experienced was now fading away, his timidity outweighing that feeling.

“Please, can you...” he trailed off, gulping as Jungkook's hand caressed his back, but then wandered down to his butt in order to give it a tender tap.

“Yeah” Jungkook breathed, giving a nod, “Whatever you want, little one”

Gently, he pushed Jimin away from him, the latter observing how Jungkook got up from the bed entirely and unbottened his shirt cuffs. Then, he rolled up the sleeves of his shirt, exposing his bare arms to Jimin's eyes, the pink haired boy swallowing hard at the sight of his defined veins.

The younger male titled his head from side to side before he took a seat on the edge of the bed.

“Come here, kitten” Jungkook ordered softly, patting his lap, “I want you over my lap”

Swallowing hard, Jimin lifted himself up, obeying Jungkook's demand and crawling over to Jungkook's side. The latter did not hesitate to grip Jimin's waist, pulling the boy over his lap, his ass up in the air.

“You weren't naughty, but you still want me to spank you, hm?” Jungkook commented, placing his hand on Jimin's clothed butt and giving it a gentle squeeze.

“Y-Yes” Jimin breathed, gulping hard as he felt his heartbeat quicken in anticipation.

Carefully, Jungkook reached for the waistband of his trousers, “Colour?” he asked once he had hooked two of his fingers around the fabric.

Taking a shaky breath, Jimin titled his head to the side and rested his cheek on the soft bedsheets, “Green” he assured.
At that, Jungkook tugged firmly on his trousers, pulling them below his butt, his briefs sliding down right with them. Jimin's breath hitched in his throat at the sudden action, his hands gripping the bedsheets beneath him.

Slowly, Jungkook's fingertips traced over Jimin's milky skin, goosebumps raising beneath the touch of his digits. “So pretty” Jungkook whispered, wetting his lips as he admired the sight of Jimin's round, perky cheeks. The skin of the smaller boy was so fair, almost urging Jungkook to paint it a gorgeous rose colour to contrast that image, “Are you sure you want this, little one?”

“P-Please, spank me, Kook-ah” Jimin found himself beg, involuntarily pushing against Jungkook's hand in a silent request to finally be spanked.

Swoosh.

“Ah” Jimin gasped, eyes fluttering shut at the suddenness of the hit, Jungkook's palm having come down on his left buttcheek in a harsh smack. The pink haired boy sucked in a breath, digging his teeth into his bottom lip to muffle his sounds.

“You get what I give you, understood?” Jungkook reminded him.

Swiftly, Jimin gave a nod, grabbing the bedsheets tighter as he nuzzled his face into the bed.

Swoosh.

“Answer me when I talk to you, kitten” Jungkook pressed, his voice low and attractive, sending a shiver down Jimin's back.

It was fascinating how swifty Jungkook had fallen into a state that exuded pure dominance. Jimin assumed that it was due to the fact of it being anchored in his very nature, but it was still admirable to Jimin that Jungkook did this for him – for Jimin, who had asked him to be like this.

“I understand, Jungkook-ah” he uttered softly, the urgency and desire to behave blooming within him.

“Good boy” Jungkook praised as he hummend in satisfaction, Jimin's heart fluttering at the praise, “How many do you want, hm?” the younger male went on, rubbing his hand over the spot he had prior spanked, the pinkish colour causing Jungkook to lick his lips.

Jimin blinked, taking a shaky breath as he tried to organise his thoughts. It was embarrassing to Jimin how he was already lacking the ability to think clearly despite them only having started mere seconds ago. The usual submissive state he fell into during those moments was already drawing him in, resulting in a struggle to form a coherent sentence, “I-I-”

Swoosh.

“K-Kook-ah” Jimin mewled, clinging onto the bedsheets.

“Always so pretty” Jungkook admired, his voice sounding raspy to Jimin's ears. The younger male's smacks didn't carry unbearable force, but enough to be considered painful. Well, as painful as something could be that Jimin found pleasure in.

Swoosh.

“Oh god!” Jimin cried out, jerking away from the touch, yet it took mere seconds until jolts of pleasure filled his body, causing him to push right back into Jungkook's hand.
“Sssh, baby, you don't want to wake your neighbours, hm?” Jungkook insisted, rubbing his palm over Jimin's butt, the colour now a faint shade of rose. The taller boy wasn't done yet, wanted the shade to be prominent, wanted Jimin to break down so he could put him back together – just as he had asked him to.

“I-I- Sorry” Jimin uttered, gulping as his body trembled in anticipation for the next strike.

“Mhm-mh” Jungkook hummed, his hands withdrawing from Jimin's bottom, the latter squeezing his eyes shut.

Swoosh.

The next smack was placed below Jimin's buttccheek, Jungkook's hand coming down on Jimin's upper thigh. In that particular spot, the pain was remotely more vivid, causing Jimin to shriek.

“A-Ah Kook-ah, oh, please” Jimin whimpered, twisting his fists in the bedsheets until his knuckles turned white. With each of Jungkook's spanks, Jimin's body rocked forward at the force of the strikes, causing his private area to brush against Jungkook's leg. The friction was faint, but it was enough to result in Jimin's penis to harden.

Swoosh.

“Kitten, be quiet” Jungkook ordered sternly, tugging on Jimin's pants again to pull them further down, eventually allowing them to drop to the floor. Now, Jimin's lower body was entirely bare and at Jungkook's mercy.

Jimin took another shaky breath, his thighs shaking at the realisation of there being no cover whatsoever to protect his lower region from Jungkook's smacks.

“I-I'm trying- ah !” the pink haired boy whined, then inevitably shrieking as the next spank was delivered to his upper thigh.

Swoosh.

“Be a good boy, hm?” Jungkook insisted with a certain amount of dominance, yet his voice still carried the faint softness that Jimin adored so much, “Do I have to gag you, kitten?”

The high-pitched whine that slipped from Jimin at those words was embarrassing, but he couldn't help himself. The thought of being gagged by Jungkook had always been something that had intrigued Jimin – ever since he had first found out about what that implied.

Jungkook swore beneath his breath, sliding his hand through Jimin's hair to grab a bundle of his pink locks. Gently, he gave it a tug, forcing Jimin to lift his head.

“Do you want that, kitten? Want me to fill your mouth so you can keep quiet?” Jungkook asked, having leaned close enough to whisper into Jimin's ear.

Jimin sucked in a breath at the uncomfortable position he was manhandled into, but couldn't deny the arousal that spread right through his body, “I-I-” he attempted to voice again, but simply couldn't.

“Answer me” the taller boy urged him, tugging harsher on his hair.

“Yes” Jimin moaned, eyes fluttering shut.

Jungkook loosened his grip, yet didn't let go entirely, “Yes what?”
“Yes, please” Jimin begged softly, his voice just above a whisper, barely loud enough for Jungkook to register, but he did.

Satisfied, Jungkook allowed Jimin’s hair to slip from his grasp, the smaller boy too weak to hold it up, causing him to drop back down on the soft bedsheets.

Suddenly, there was rustling next to Jimin, the taller boy's hands no longer on his hot skin, resulting in Jimin to whine at the loss.

“Be good, kitten” Jungkook warned him, having noticed Jimin's dissatisfaction with the lack of contact, yet his hands were occupied with another task.

Slowly, Jimin titled his head to the side, attempting to steal a glance at Jungkook. In that moment, Jungkook ran his hand through Jimin's hair again, pulling on the pink locks to tug his head back up.

“Open your mouth” Jungkook demanded.

Without an ounce of hesitation, Jimin complied, not needing a word of reason or clarification. Instead, he acted accordingly to what his heart told him, almost subconsciously.

“Good boy” Jungkook praised him, “I'm going to gag you know, little one. You won't be able to speak – which also means that you won't be able to use your safewords” Jungkook informed him, meeting Jimin's gaze, the latter's eyes glassy and dazed, desperation glistening so very visible in them, “If you need me to stop, tap on the bed three times, okay?”

Jimin gave a nod, only blinking after having processed Jungkook's words.

“No, baby, do you understand?” Jungkook pressed, “You won't be able to use your safewords. I need to trust that you will tap on the bed, if you really want me to stop” he added, slight concern displayed in his beautiful brown orbs.

“O-Okay” Jimin promised.

The other male stared deeply into his eyes for a moment longer, studying his features as his gaze flickered back and forth between Jimin’s eyes.

Apparently, Jimin's promise wasn't enough to ease Jungkook's concern.

“Show me, little one” Jungkook demanded, “What if it gets too much, what do you do?”

Hesitantly, Jimin lifted his weak arm up, bringing his hand down on the bedsheet three times in a row. The sound was audible, yet could easily go unnoticed in Jimin's cries or Jungkook's voice.

“I might be able to see that, but the sound it makes isn't loud enough” Jungkook uttered, appearing to talk more to himself than anything, “I'm not sure this is safe enough” he added, furrowing his brows as he looked around in search for another solution, “Slap my side, little one, okay? If it gets too much for you and you need me to stop, I want you to slap my side three times”

Jimin blinked again, giving a nod, “O-Okay, Kook-ah”

“Show me, Jimin-ah”

Carefully, Jimin reached for Jungkook's body, gently slapping his side. The hit carried only weak strength as Jimin didn't want to hurt Jungkook, but that didn't seem to please Jungkook.

“No, baby, harder than that” Jungkook objected, shaking his head, “I need to feel that you actually need me to stop. If that is the case, you're going to slap me as hard as you can, okay?” he urged, reaching out to brush Jimin's hair out of his face.

At the soft touch, the smaller boy's eyes flutered shut, Jungkook's fingertips then tracing down to caress Jimin's flushed cheeks. Almost unconsciously, Jimin nuzzled into the touch, nearly forgetting that he was supposed to answer.

Jimin opened his eyes again, Jungkook patiently waiting for him to reply. It wasn't until Jimin allowed his words to replay in his mind that he registered them entirely, a frown appearing on his beautiful features.

“W-Why? I don't want to hurt you” Jimin murmured gently, his voice sounding almost foreign to him already, but it still carried the softness Jungkook adored so much.

A soft smile adorned Jungkook's handsome features at his words, “And I don't want to hurt you either, little one. I'd rather have you hurt me than me hurting you. Your gentle slaps might go unnoticed by me. I need this to be safe”

The pink haired boy's gaze flickered back and forth between Jungkook's eyes, “Okay. Fine” he agreed eventually, understanding the significance of safety and trust during those very special intimate moments between them.

Jimin always felt safe with Jungkook, was certain that he could always rely on Jungkook to establish a safe and comfortable environment for him – with each and every circumstance. In those moments, Jimin's lack of experience was displayed by him not quite contemplating over certain repercussions of particular decisions or actions.

Right now, for instance, Jimin was way too aroused to have even considered the impossibility of the ability for him to use his safewords as he would be restricted in speaking at all by the piece of fabric in his mouth.

However, Jungkook was always there to protect him.

“Promise me” Jungkook demanded, cupping Jimin's face to lock eyes with him.

“I promise” Jimin uttered.

A pleased smile curved Jungkook's lips, “Good boy” he praised Jimin again, leaning down to place a tender kiss to Jimin's shoulder, “Now” he added, “Open your mouth”

Jimin obliged right away, Jungkook grabbing his jaw with one hand while he stuffed a piece of fabric into Jimin's mouth with the other hand. The shorter male bit down on the bundle of fabric in his mouth, now fully aware that he wouldn't be able to scream out his safeword – or anything for that matter.

It wasn't utterly horrifying or as scary as Jimin had first imagined it to be – partially, or rather especially, because Jungkook had enabled another way for him to put a final stop to this, if he really needed to.

“Is that okay, little one?” Jungkook asked for reassurance, determined to make sure that Jimin felt comfortable.

Swiftly, Jimin gave a nod, humming around the piece of fabric.

Jungkook smirked, then he placed his hand on Jimin's back and applied faint pressure. The latter understood the nonverbal command and went slack on Jungkook's lap again, lying down on him and the bed entirely.

“Good boy”

Jimin inhaled a shaky breath through his nose, swallowing around the piece of fabric in his mouth as his hands found their way back to the bedsheets. He grabbed onto them tightly, clenching his hands into fists as he noticed the rapid beating of his heart simultaneously for it was awaiting the next blow in anticipation.

Gently, Jungkook rubbed his palm along Jimin's soft skin again, satisfied at the sight of goosebumps raising beneath his touch. Firmly, he gave his buttocks several taps with his fingers, the action causing Jimin's body to tremble in excitement.

Swoosh.

The pink-haired boy shrieked around the fabric in his mouth, nuzzling his face into the sheets as he jerked away from Jungkook's hand, but pushed right back against him a brief moment later.

“Fuck, you love this so much, don't you?” Jungkook cursed, licking his lips as he could no longer ignore the arousal in his own body.

Jimin's cheeks flushed a darker shade of rose, the boy almost grateful that he was restricted to talk at all - that way unable to answer Jungkook, even if he wanted to. Genuinely, Jimin did love this so much, but it was almost humiliating for him to admit to that.

Then again, Jungkook was already aware of this fact anyway.

After all, Jimin had conveyed his liking in being spanked by requesting Jungkook to do this to him in the first place just moments ago. Yet, his leaking hard length rubbing against Jungkook's leg over the course of the past minutes was simply another evidence of that fact.

Swoosh.

Jungkook swore beneath his breath, “Love being disciplined so much, don't you, kitten?” he then commented as he rubbed his palm over Jimin's pink buttocks, caressing the spots he had prior smacked before he lifted his hand into the air again.

Swoosh.

“Love when I spank your pretty little ass, hm?” the black-haired one noted, his tone low and so utterly attractive to Jimin that it caused just another shiver to run down his back.

Swoosh. Swoosh. Swoosh.

“Ow Gwahd!” Jimin shrieked around the piece of fabric in his mouth, the whine that slipped from him high-pitched as he squirmed away from Jungkook's hand.

“Stop moving, kitten” Jungkook ordered firmly.

Jimin nodded, breathing unevenly through his nose, his chest heaving as he awaited the next strike of Jungkook's hand.

Frankly, Jimin wasn't sure how many smacks he would be able to bear tonight, yet he was aware that his brain and his heart were already debating over that question. While his heart desired more, his brain wasn't quite certain how much more he would be capable to take, thus resulting in his body to jerk away every now and then.

Suddenly, the other male pulled Jimin's buttcheek to the side, exposing Jimin's pink hole to his eyes, instead of delivering another spank to his skin.

“Shit” Jungkook cussed at the sight, licking his lips.

Without any warning, Jungkook spat right on Jimin's rim, the act so obscene, yet somehow arousing to Jimin as he felt his stomach stir, his penis twitching all the same. The pink haired boy gasped, twisting the sheets in his fists as his body trembled in anticipation for what Jungkook was going to do to him – Then again, he already had an idea...

Slowly, Jungkook pressed two of his fingers against Jimin's entrance, playing with it for a moment before he pushed one finger past the tight ring of muscles.

At the touch, Jimin's eyes went wide as he grabbed the bedsheets tighter, “Koo-ah!” he tried to moan, but his voice was muffled due to the fabric in his mouth.

“Sssh, kitten” Jungkook hushed him, pushing his digit further inside of Jimin's hole, the latter biting down hard on the piece of fabric in his mouth as his eyes fluttered shut. The pain of being fingered with only spit as a usage of lube was very faint to Jimin by now, the feeling more just welcome as he couldn't deny the pleasure that spread right through his body, “Remember what to do, if you need to stop, baby. Just slap my side, okay, little one?” Jungkook added softer, having leaned down to Jimin to be closer to him.

Jimin's heart fluttered as he gave a determined nod, grateful for Jungkook reminding him throughout this in case Jimin would forget about his new way of putting a final stop to this.

The younger male pressed a kiss to the top of his head before he straightened his back again, his finger still very much resting inside of Jimin's hole, Jungkook now picking up a pace again as he moved his digit around.

“I love playing with your little hole, kitten” Jungkook revealed with a smirk as he loosened Jimin's hole by pushing his finger from side to side, “You love it, too, don't you? Love when I play with you, hm?”

The pink haired boy's blush deepened as he nuzzled his face further into the sheets, too embarrassed to admit to that either, but... yes. Yes, oh god, he loved it so much.

It didn't take long for Jungkook to add another finger alongside the one that was already penetrating Jimin, the taller one spitting down on Jimin's hole again before he pressed two of his digits past the tight ring of muscles. He was able to push them inside with only little resistance, Jimin's hole granting his fingers entrance as it clenched around them.

Simultaneously, Jimin pushed back into the touch as he moaned around the piece of fabric in his mouth, the stretch so utterly nice, Jimin feeling so full already.

Jungkook chuckled at Jimin's notable desperation, “Fuck, you're that aroused, hm? So needy for my fingers, kitten”

Swoosh.

The next spank was delivered right on Jimin's sensitive hole, causing Jimin to shriek as he squirmed around on Jungkook's lap, the pain sending jolts of pleasure through his body.
“Stay still, kitten”

Obeying, Jimin gave a nod, not able to prevent his body from trembling though – despite how hard he was trying. It was nearly impossible – well, it was impossible to him!

“Do you want another one, hm? Want to feel full, kitten, don't you?” Jungkook asked, although he didn't exactly expect an answer anyway. It was more just to tease Jimin, to evoke anticipation in Jimin – well, it worked.

The pink haired one lifted his hips up, silently begging Jungkook to grant him a third finger. However, it was a clear violation of Jungkook's command – that Jimin obviously didn't disobey on purpose!

Swoosh. Swoosh.

“What did I tell you, kitten? Stop. Moving” Jungkook demanded sternly, withdrawing his fingers from Jimin's hole entirely. Now, the latter felt all empty, his hole clenching around nothing but air.

Jimin whined at the loss as he looked back over his shoulder to steal a glimpse at Jungkook. Yet, that too wasn't the smartest move either as he was just violating Jungkook's order – again.

“Kitten” Jungkook warned as he grabbed a bundle of Jimin's pink locks and tugged harshly on them, “Don't make me use my belt” he threatened with a growl, those words whispered right into Jimin's ear.

In that moment, Jimin was almost grateful that Jungkook's fingers were no longer pressed into his sensitive hole as he was nearly certain that he would have came right on the spot, if that had been the case.

Jimin whimpered around the ball of fabric in his mouth, noticing how pre-cum leaked out of the tip of his penis at that threat, surely staining Jungkook's trousers, but the other boy didn't seem to care at all.

For a moment, Jimin wondered whether there was something wrong with him, whether he was sick. Shouldn't the threat of being spanked with a belt absolutely horrify him? Yet, here he was, being even more aroused than he already was.

“Are you going to be good?” Jungkook asked him, interrupting Jimin's thoughts.

Swiftly, Jimin nodded, breathing heavily through his nose as his gaze flickered back and forth between Jungkook's brown orbs, Jungkook's pupils dilated, displaying his lust, but also the familiar and comforting affection that was always hidden in there.

“Then stay still now, kitten” the black haired boy insisted as he pushed Jimin's head back into the sheets, Jimin spreading his legs further in the process, but then trying his utmost best to keep entirely still – if you exclude the shaking of his body, “Good boys receive rewards, remember?”

Jimin gave another nod.

The younger boy hummed as he placed his fingers back against Jimin's rim, not hesitating to push three of his digits past the tight ring of muscles this time, thus evoking another shriek in Jimin who grasped the sheets beneath him.

“Aw Gaaawhd, Kooo-aah!” Jimin moaned around the piece of fabric in his mouth, Jungkook dragging his fingers along his sensitive walls as he pushed them further inside.
As Jungkook was more than familiar with Jimin's anatomy and knew where his sensitive areas where located, it obviously didn't take long for him to find Jimin's prostate. In fact, he had found it after mere seconds, Jimin screaming out and jerking up as Jungkook's fingers brushed the sensitive nub of nerves.

“There it is. The spot that drives you absolutely insane, hm?” Jungkook chuckled as he pushed his fingers firmer against Jimin's prostate, deliberating over whether or not to tease him for much longer and avoid his prostate, but then deciding that he preferred to play with Jimin's prostate until the smaller boy cried from overstimulation.

Slowly, he picked up a steady pace, rubbing his fingers against Jimin's sensitive prostate in a circular motion. The action caused Jimin to cry out, the sensation utter bliss, but also so very overwhelming.

Jungkook sped up the motion of his digits, rubbing them against Jimin's prostate swifter and firmer, resulting in Jimin to squeeze his eyes shut as he tried his utmost best to not move an inch, but how was he supposed to do that with the absolute intense mixture of sensations he was experiencing simultaneously?

Jimin was doomed.

“That's it, kitten”

The smaller boy's eyes rolled back into his head as he felt his orgasm approach him much faster than he wanted it to.

It was inevitable for Jimin to move. It really wasn't his fault though! His body didn't behave accordibly to what his brain told it to do! In fact, his brain didn't seem to be certain on what it wanted either. One second, it was all too overwhelming, causing it to prefer to jerk away from the touch, yet the next second it longed for even more.

“Look at you, look at how naughty you're being” Jungkook scolded him as he dabbed his fingers against Jimin's prostate, rubbing over the sensitive nub firmly, “What did I tell you? Stop disobeying”

Swoosh.

Jimin cried out, too many sensations stimulating him simultaneously. The poor boy was squirming around on Jungkook's lap, humping his leg, yet also not certain whether to pull away from his fingers or push back against them. It was all so confusing, too overwhelming.

Swoosh. Swoosh.

The black haired boy altered between spanking Jimin's butt and absolutely abusing his poor prostate with firm dabs of his digits, Jimin leaking pre-cum all over his leg without any ability to prevent himself from doing that.

Involuntarily, Jimin was making a big fuss on Jungkook's lap, not capable to stay still at all as Jungkook continued to stimulate his prostate while also spanking his sensitive skin.

Swoosh. Swoosh. Swoosh.

Crying out, Jimin's hands flew back to his bottom as he kicked out his legs, tears prickling in the corner of his eyes as he tried to cover his butt.

“Isn't this what you begged me to, hm? You wanted this, kitten, now take it” Jungkook demanded as he grabbed Jimin's wrists with one hand and pinned them to his back as he proceeded to fuck him with his finger simultaneously.

The pink haired boy sobbed, humping Jungkook's leg in a desperate chase for his orgasm, but he halted immediately at the realisation of Jungkook not having given him permission to come. At that, Jimin sniffed again, not sure how much longer he would be able to take this without coming.

Swiftly, Jungkook let go of Jimin's wrists, slowing the movement of his fingers, “Sorry, little one” Jungkook uttered softer, confusing Jimin who barely registered his words, but then didn't quite fathom what Jungkook was apologising for, “Fuck, you're leaking all over my lap, kitten” Jungkook added, voice audibly lower and raspier again as he picked up a quicker pace of his fingers.

Jimin couldn't even ask for permission to come! How was he supposed to warn Jungkook that he was so close already? The poor boy sobbed as he tilted his head to the side, attempting to steal a glance at Jungkook.

“Aww, are you crying, kitten?” Jungkook cooed, soothingly rubbing his palm over Jimin's back, “Is it too much? Can't stay still, can you?”

The shorter male shook his head, sniffing as a tear trailed down his cheek.

“Go ahead, baby, make a fuss, if you want to” Jungkook permitted, giving a nod as he figured that he had tortured Jimin long enough, the latter always having struggled to stay still when he was this aroused.

Upon the permission to move, Jimin sobbed in relief, nuzzling his face back into the sheets as he rolled his hips against Jungkook's leg, the younger male still very much playing with his prostate as he delivered spanks to his pink cheeks and upper thighs, altering between each spot as Jungkook didn't want to actually harm his baby.

The heat in the pit of his stomach grew exponentially, bundling up in a knot that was destined to explode and fill his entire body with pure ecstasy very soon.

“My pretty baby” Jungkook commented, curling his wrist in just the right way, ignoring the aching of his hand or the presence of his own hardness of his dick, but focusing solely on Jimin's pleasure.

The pink haired boy cried out, wanting to scream out in order to warn Jungkook that he wouldn't be able to prevent himself from coming, if the taller boy was going to proceed with the fast and skillful movement of his hands and fingers.

“What? Are you close?” Jungkook asked, smirking as he noted Jimin's frantic squirming in his lap, the trembling of his body as he made a real effort to contain his orgasm.

It was so hard though. Oh god, Jimin couldn't bear much more. It was all too good, too overwhelming. Jimin was right at the edge, wouldn't need much more to tip over the edge and crash right down into a state full of bliss.

“Are you going to make a big mess for me, hm?” the black haired male commented, observing how Jimin attempted to reach back for his wrists, presumably trying to stop his action as he didn't want to come without permission.

Yet, Jungkook wanted that, wanted Jimin to come just like this.

Harshly, he delivered two more spanks to Jimin's upper thigh before he pulled out his fingers with a loud squelch that accompanied Jimin's muffled cries and whimpers in the room. The smaller boy squeezed his eyes shut, twisting his fists in the sheets.
In that moment, Jimin finally tipped over the edge, not capable to stop himself as the intense feeling burst within him, sending jolts of pleasure all throughout his body. The poor boy was shaking vigorously as he kicked his legs, still humping Jungkook to prolong the sweet, but also very overwhelming feeling that he had been granted.

“There you go. Good boy” Jungkook praised him, rubbing his palm over Jimin warm skin as he watched the pink haired boy get lost in a feeling of ecstasy, “What a good boy you're being, baby” Jimin sobbed at the praises, his heart fluttering all the same as he went entirely slack on Jungkook's lap, too weak to hold himself up, too overstimulated to proceed his self-pleasuring on Jungkook's leg.

“Did so well, little one” Jungkook whispered as he ran his hand through Jimin's hair, playing with the soft locks as he observed Jimin's back falling and rising rapidly, a visible display of his heavy breathing.

Inhaling deep breaths, Jimin titled his head to the side, his sight still faintly touched by blurriness due to his tears that he had shed while being pleasured and punished simultaneously – the mixture of pain and pleasure always confusing and overwhelming him, but it felt so darn good.

Gently, Jungkook grabbed Jimin's jaw, pulling out the piece of fabric that had gagged Jimin over the course of the last moments. The smaller boy wrinkled his nose at the feeling of his now empty mouth, noticing the dryness of it that caused him to wet his lips immediately.

Cautiously, Jungkook picked Jimin up from the bed, lifting him on his lap in order for the smaller boy to straddle him, “Sssh, don't cry, little one” he comforted him, cupping his face and wiping his tears away, “It's all good now. You took it so well, didn't you? You were such a good boy for me, Jimin-ah” Jungkook praised Jimin, brushing his fringe away from his sweaty forehead, the words whispered right against his lips before Jungkook pressed a sweet kiss on them.

“T-Thank you” Jimin uttered softly into the kiss.

Jungkook smiled as he placed more sweet kisses on Jimin's cheeks and forehead, “Did it hurt a lot?” “F-Felt so good” Jimin answered as he leaned down to hide his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck.

“Yeah?”

“Mhm-mh” Jimin affirmed with a soft hum.

Tenderly, Jungkook closed his arms around the small of Jimin's back, allowing his warm palm to stroke over Jimin's back to comfort him, “Cuddles or a bath first, little one, hm?” he asked, the words whispered into Jimin's ear.

The pink haired boy only blinked, but didn't respond.

Carefully, Jimin got up from his position instead, body still shaking all over, but feeling so relaxed at the same time. The pink haired boy was floating again, trapped in a state of pure bliss and a haze of utter sweetness.

Once Jimin had gotten up, he dropped right back down on his knees, moving inbetween Jungkook's spread legs – the sudden act surprising Jungkook.

“What are you do-” he asked, but went silent as Jimin spoke up.

“You took such good care of me” Jimin declared softly, his voice carrying slight raspiness due to him screaming and crying so much as he reached for the waistband of Jungkook's trousers, “Want to take care of you, too. Wanna make you feel good, too” he expressed, staring up at Jungkook through his eyelashes.

“Little one-” Jungkook wanted to object, yet didn't get to finish as Jimin beat him to it.

“Please, let me?” Jimin begged, “Please, I really want to... really want to suck you off, Kook-ah”

Jungkook wet his lips, his gaze flickering back and forth between Jimin's beautiful doe eyes. Fuck, what was he supposed to do? Say no?

“Okay, kitten” the younger male gave in, leaning back on his hands as he stared at Jimin intently.

Delighted, Jimin zipped down Jungkook's pants, tugging on them almost frantically in an attempt to pull them off quickly. However, Jungkook gripped his wrist to halt his movement, Jimin complying immediately as he stilled entirely, glancing up at Jungkook curiously.

“Careful, baby, take your time” he instructed softly.

Giving a nod, Jimin reached for the waistband again, pulling on his pants gentler now. In the midst of his action, he noticed a stain of sperm on Jungkook's trousers, Jimin feeling a wave of guilt washing over him as his cheeks flushed a shade of rose.

“S-Sorry about your trousers” Jimin whispered in embarrassment, true apology glistening in his eyes.

“Don't be” Jungkook reassured him with a soft smile.

Eventually, Jimin had removed his trousers and briefs entirely, watching Jungkook's hard length spring free, the tip a shade of red, the veins defined. Right away, Jimin felt his mouth water at the sight.

Frankly, Jungkook was almost certain that he wasn't going to last long anyway, having watched Jimin break apart in pleasure always being so fucking hot to him. The combination of Jimin humping his leg and squirming around on his lap had brought him to full hardness quickly, the friction of it having stimulated Jungkook as well.

“May I?” Jimin still found himself ask, a habit that was a part of his submissive nature.

Jungkook smirked in encouragement, giving a nod, “Go ahead, kitten”

The smaller boy didn't need to hear any more than that, instantly kneeling closer and nearly losing his balance in the process of his hastic movement. It was a clear display of the excitement that was vivid within him, his streak to please so very prominent in his body.

Jimin's mouth lingered above Jungkook's erection, a shaky hand reaching up to close around Jungkook's throbbing member, yet his delicate hand not fully grasping around the entire girth.

Gently, Jimin placed his unoccupied hand on Jungkook's thigh for leverage, poking out his cute tongue to twirl it around the tip of his penis and collecting some pre-cum on his tongue. At the taste, Jimin hummed in satisfaction, parting his lips further to push Jungkook's hard length past them.

A breath escaped Jungkook at the feeling of Jimin's wet heat around his length, his head falling back in his neck as he retained any ounce of self-control he could muster as to not thrust right up into Jimin's mouth. Truthfully, it wasn't as difficult to prevent himself from such an act, to contain the urgency and desire to use Jimin's mouth for his pleasure as that would never beat his number one priority – Jimin's comfort and safety.

Yet, Jimin was out to tease him. Jungkook could assess that by the way he sank down further on Jungkook's dick, simultaneously glancing up the black haired boy through his eyelashes with the utmost innocence glistening in his brown orbs despite the obscene act he was performing.

“Fuck” Jungkook cursed as he licked his lips, Jimin breathing heavily through his nose as he squeezed his eyes shut. Forcefully, Jimin sank down further on Jungkook's erection, desperately needing to deepthroat Jungkook. In the midst of it, he essentially ignored the burning in his throat, ignored the rejection of his gag reflex that caused him to cough and splutter around Jungkook's penis, “Little one-”

Upon Jimin hollowing his cheeks and sucking on Jungkook's penis, the latter went silent and groaned in pleasure instead. The sound pleased Jimin all the more, the boy's heart fluttering at the praise that was conveyed by an audible display of Jungkook enjoying what Jimin was doing to him.

“Don't- Don't force me down, Jimin-ah” Jungkook warned him as he wet his lips again, but Jimin didn't oblige, was too lost in the desire to please Jungkook. Instead, he pumped the remainder of Jungkook's hard length that didn't quite fit into his mouth just yet while he bobbed his head up and down.

The room was filled with the obscene noises that were created by the motion of Jimin's mouth on Jungkook's erection and the little whimpers that slipped from him every now and then.

Involuntarily, the pink haired boy was drooling all over Jungkook's penis, developing an even bigger mess in his groin that contained of a mixture of pre-cum and Jimin's spit. It was messy, but somehow, that was even more arousing to Jimin.

For leverage, Jimin tightened his grasp on Jungkook's thigh, digging his fingers into his flesh as he forced more of Jungkook down his throat, making a real effort to relax his throat so his gag reflex wouldn't reject, yet it didn't behave accordingly and thwarted that plan.

Unfortunately, Jimin had to pull off as he began to cough and sputter, a streak of spit connecting Jungkook’s erection to his mouth that broke apart as Jimin licked his lips. It frustrated Jimin to this day that his stupid gag reflex didn't allow him to just deepthroat Jungkook without any struggles. Was that really too much to ask for?

“Careful, little one” Jungkook noted softly, Jimin pouting, but giving a nod as he dived right back in, not wasting another moment of Jungkook's penis not filling his mouth.

This time, he sank down rather quick, not remotely minding the burning of his throat as he moved inch for inch until he had nearly reached the base, pride swelling in his chest at the realisation.

“Holy shit” Jungkook groaned, almost bucking his hips up as Jimin bobbed his head up and down in a quick pace, but was capable to contain the urge with the utmost self-control he could muster.

Jimin was drunk on his desire to please, was still trapped in a rather submissive headspace that intoxicated all of his senses. He wanted Jungkook to use him, to use his mouth for his own pleasure until he filled him with his sperm.

Perhaps, Jimin had turned insane.

Perhaps, he was just addicted, addicted to a drug named Jungkook.

“G-Good?” Jimin asked softly once he had pulled off again, still tugging on Jungkook's length, his fist loosely wrapped around his erection as he jerked him off, “I'm good?”

“Yes, fuck, baby, you're good. You're doing so good” Jungkook affirmed in low tone, nodding as he brushed Jimin's fringe out of his face, his fingertips then tracing down to caress his flushed cheek, “The best boy. My pretty baby”

The praises made Jimin euphoric, his heart pounding so fast against his chest as it fluttered in joy all the same.

Slowly, Jimin reached for Jungkook's wrist, wrapping his tiny hand around it before he pulled it up to the top of his own head. Slightly confused, Jungkook ran his hand through Jimin's pink locks, playing with his soft hair and placing a gentle pat on his head before he indicated to refrain from the touch and pull his hand back.

However, that's not what Jimin wanted.

“N-No” he uttered softly, shaking his head as his cheeks tinged a darker shade of rose, “Please” he begged as he took Jungkook's hand again and moved it up to his head, making him grab a bundle of Jimin's pink locks.

“Baby-” Jungkook went silent as Jimin pushed his dick back into his mouth, the wet heat welcoming him and evoking a groan in him.

The smaller boy was too timid to ask for what his heart truly desired. To be honest, Jimin wished for nothing more than for Jungkook to just force his head down his length and use his mouth relentlessly. Frankly, Jimin wasn't quite aware where that desire came from, just knew that he had been intrigued by that idea for a while now.

“So fucking good, kitten” Jungkook noted with another groan, apparently getting too hot in his clothes as he reached for the front of his shirt and unbottoned it with a quick motion of his fingers, “You always suck me off so well, baby”

Unconsciously, Jimin stared up at Jungkook through his lashes, still occupied with pleasuring him with his mouth, yet becoming temporarily distracted as the piece of fabric slid down Jungkook's shoulders and exposed his bare upper body.

At the absolutely breathtaking sight, Jimin swallowed hard, his gag reflex kicking in and forcing him to pull off of Jungkook's penis. After the coughing and spluttering had subsided, Jungkook cupped his face, wiping away the tears that Jimin hadn't even noticed of rolling down his cheeks prior.

“Are you okay, little one?”

Jimin wet his lips, his gaze rushing down to Jungkook's abs before he forced it back up to Jungkook's eyes. The younger male smirked as he realised how affected Jimin was by his naked body – it wasn't exaggerated to say the least that it fed Jungkook's ego quite a bit to see what an effect he had on Jimin.

Instead of responding, Jimin leaned forward and pressed his full lips on Jungkook's chest, surprising the latter who dropped his hands back on the sheets, observing what his lover was doing with an intent stare.

Slowly, Jimin trailed open-mouthed kisses down Jungkook's torso, peppering kisses over his skin in an erratic path down to his stomach. Perhaps, Jimin did remain a little longer above his strong muscles that adorned his stomach with abs, but could you really blame him?
The sight of Jungkook's naked body always made Jimin weak – reminded him of the difference in their size and the fact of how strong Jungkook actually was.

A breath escaped Jungkook as Jimin nibbled on his skin, licking over his stomach before he proceeded to place kisses on his skin.

“Little one” Jungkook murmured gently, lifting his palm up to Jimin’s head to slide it through his hair, but only resting his hand in his pink locks, not exactly grabbing a bundle of it.

The shorter male withdrew, closing his hand around Jungkook’s erection as he lingered above it. Sensually, he pressed the tip against his bottom lip, parting his lips and poking his tongue out to twirl it around the head before he pushed the tip past his lips.

Jungkook groaned, his head falling back in his neck as he tightened his grip in Jimin’s hair, the action causing Jimin to whimper.

Over the course of the past minutes, Jungkook's penis had received enough stimulation to bring him right back up to the edge as Jimin forced him down his throat right away. Swiftly, Jimin bobbed his head up and down, squeezing his eyes shut as he noticed tears prickling in the corners of them.

His throat was probably going to retaliate against him – at last by tomorrow when his voice would be touched by raspiness – because of the reckless abuse he was forcing it to endure by pushing Jungkook’s penis down his throat.

It was just- He was so keen on pleasing, so entirely striving to be good and to please Jungkook that the thought alone caused his heart to flutter.

“Jimin-ah, I’m close” Jungkook warned him.

The pink haired boy hummed in acknowledgement, speeding up the bobbing of his head and ignoring the aching of his neck and knees, having completely forgotten about the pain on his bottom, but still lingering in the sweet haze of his prior orgasm.

“Kitten, I wanna come on your face” Jungkook announced, wetting his lips as he forced Jimin up with a tug on his hair, Jimin whimpering as he was being manhandled, his stomach stirring in arousal.

“Y-Yes, please, Kook-ah” Jimin begged, proceeding to jerk Jungkook off as he pressed his tip against his tongue.

“Yeah? Want me to come all over your face?” Jungkook asked with a smirk, “You love being messy, don’t you?” he noted, stating a rather true fact there as Jimin loved it so darn much, “My messy boy”

Jimin nodded frantically, whining as he drew his thighs together, finally noticing that he was hard again – despite his mindblowing orgasm just moments ago.

“K-Kook-ah, please, come on my face” Jimin begged softly.

And Jungkook did – He came hard as sperm spurted out of his penis and shot right in Jimin's face, only some of it falling on his tongue. The pink haired one shrieked as the sticky substance hit his face, but he didn't hesitate to swallow down the puddle that had fallen on his tongue, savouring the taste.
Jimin desired to lean over to lick over Jungkook's penis again, but was nearly caught in awe as he stared up at Jungkook.

“Shit, little one” Jungkook groaned again as he fell on his back, then closed his hand around Jimin's wrist to still his movement as the smaller boy had still proceeded to jerk him off to prolong his orgasm.

Jimin halted and obliged, pulling his hand away and dropping it back to his side as he observed Jungkook's chest heaving, his breathing uneven as he pushed his hand through his hair, his muscles tensing at the motion.

Curiously, Jimin propped his chin on Jungkook's thigh, trying to ignore the aching of his penis, making a real effort to focus on anything but his throbbing member – but he simply couldn't, somehow still lost in the arousal that drew him right back in.

As he moved even closer to Jungkook, his erection brushed Jungkook's leg, the friction oddly stimulating, causing Jimin to whimper. Almost unconsciously, Jimin pushed his hips forward again, mewling at the jolts of pleasure and the near relief that bloomed within him. Carefully, he grabbed Jungkook's thighs, rocking his hips forward repeatedly.

Obviously, Jungkook noticed his movement, the taller boy sitting up on his elbows and glancing at Jimin with a frown on his face. For a brief moment, he just observed Jimin with intent eyes.

Watching the pink haired boy use his leg to pleasure himself was very fucking hot, if Jungkook was being honest, yet also rather unexpected, “Are you fucking humping my leg?”

Jimin stilled, his cheeks flushing as he realised what he had done there – and that he had been caught doing it, “I-I-” he stuttered, not certain what he was supposed to answer to that as there really was no way to make it appear anything else than it really was or to justify his almost primal action. It was quite obvious what he had done there – despite him not fully noticing it himself prior to Jungkook mentioning it.

“Fuck, you're unbelievable” Jungkook chuckled, shaking his head as he bent over to grab Jimin's hips. Effortlessly, he picked the smaller boy up on his lap, “Come up here, let me take care of you, baby”

Nervously, Jimin gulped, the flush on his cheeks deepening, “I-I'm sorry, I didn't mean to”

“It's okay, little one. I will help you” Jungkook assured him as he crashed his lips on Jimin's in a gentle kiss, simultaneously wrapping his big hand around Jimin's sensitive erection. At the touch, Jimin gasped, whimpering into the kiss as he moved impossibly closer as though he needed to close even the smallest fraction of distance that existed between them.

“Jungkook-ah” Jimin whispered as he held onto Jungkook's shoulders for leverage, his eyes fluttering shut as the younger male tugged on his penis, the pad of his thumb tracing over the tip to play with the considerable amount of pre-cum that had already leaked out, “A-Ah” Jimin whimpered, catching his bottom lip between his teeth as Jungkook smirked, giving his hard length a tight squeeze.

“You're insatiable, hm? Always so needy for me” Jungkook noted, his voice low again as he pressed his lips to the back of Jimin's ear, “No matter how many times I fuck you, you always want more” he added, speeding up the pace of his movement.

“I-I-” Jimin tried to utter, not capable to form a coherent sentence as he was lost in the distraction that was embodied in Jungkook jerking him off in just the way he knew would drive Jimin insane.
Jungkook's dirty words always had an effect on Jimin – one that Jimin still couldn't quite explain nor pin-point to a certain reason, but he had long decided to just take it for what it was, no longer eargently needing a reason. Those words and the way Jungkook said them – the fact that he was the one that said them – always sent a shiver down Jimin's back, just as much as it caused his stomach to twist in arousal.

The black haired boy just knew how press his buttons – with a touch, his tone in voice, the way he exuded himself, a stare, a damn word – you see, the list could go on and on and on.

Jungkook just knew how to make Jimin feel alive in every fibre of his very being.

“Hm, kitten?” Jungkook urged, nudging his nose against Jimin's cheek, “Got all hard again because you sucked me off? You love having my dick in your pretty mouth, don't you?” he asked as he reached up to grab Jimin's chin with his unoccupied hand, a smirk curving his lips as he ran the pad of his thumb along Jimin's bottom lip, applying faint pressure. It was enough for Jimin to react, his lips parting instinctively as his gaze flickered back and forth between Jungkook's doe eyes.

“I-I do” Jimin affirmed breathy.

“You do what?”

“I love-” Jimin's breath hitched in his throat as Jungkook pushed his thumb past his lips, the shorter male almost frozen in his place as he forced himself to stay entirely still – especially not to suck on Jungkook's finger like a voice within him urged him to do.

Jungkook arched up an eyebrow, proceeding to jerk Jimin off with a quick motion, the latter digging his fingers into Jungkook's shoulders as he moaned around his finger.

“ Aren't you going to answer me, baby? Forgot how to use your voice after I gagged you?” Jungkook wondered, clearly teasing him now – if the slight amusement in his eyes was any indication.

Shyly, Jimin shook his head, Jungkook pulling his thumb out of his mouth, “I love sucking you off, Kook-ah” he whispered, the blush on his cheeks darkening.

“Good boy” Jungkook praised him with a smirk, stroking the pad of his thumb over the sensitive tip of Jimin's penis, the touch causing Jimin to whimper in pleasure.

“K-Kook-ah, I'm close” Jimin announced with a gasp, squeezing his eyes shut as he rolled his hips into Jungkook's fist.

The younger male brushed Jimin's fringe out of his face, wetting his lip at the sinful, but also heavenly sight of Jimin falling apart on his lap – again, “Yeah? Humped my leg like a little dog in heat, didn't you? My naught-”

Jimin came with an embarrassing shriek, curling in on himself as he pushed Jungkook's hand away to avoid any more stimulation. The sudden abscene of Jungkook's hand and the way Jimin had pushed it away caused his penis to bounce from side to side, his sperm spurting out in thick streaks that painted Jungkook's stomach and the sheets white. Jimin's vision turned blurry for a moment, black dots appearing in front of his eyes at the intense orgasm washing over him.

“Ssh, I got you, little one” Jungkook whispered as he closed his arms around Jimin's back, embracing the smaller boy who was still shaking vigorously as he nuzzled against Jungkook, “Cuddles?” Jungkook suggested softly, pressing a kiss to his temple as he caressed his back.

“Mhm-mh, please” Jimin murmured back, hiding his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck as the black haired boy laid down on his back, not detaching himself from Jimin for even a split second.

Carefully, Jungkook moved up the bed to lay down on the soft pillows, Jimin's body nearly entirely slack on top of him, all the energy that he had possessed earlier now drowned from his small being.

“Jimin-ah, are you good?” Jungkook wanted to know, running his hand through Jimin's hair as he tightened his grip around Jimin's back.

“Mhm-mh” Jimin hummed, his eyes fluttering open as he lifted his head in order to meet Jungkook's gaze, “Are you good?”

Jungkook chuckled as he gave a nod, affection in his eyes, “Yeah, little one. I'm good, too” he responded as he leaned in to press a peck to Jimin's full lips, “Tired you out, hm?”

“Yeah” Jimin breathed in affirmation.

“Sleepy?” Jungkook asked him, stroking Jimin's cheek as he tilted his head to the side.

“Mhm-mh” the pink haired boy mumbled as he went limp again, lowering his head back down on Jungkook's warm chest to rest, his eyes falling shut.

The younger male snickered at the adorable sight, shaking his head as he leaned closer to Jimin's ear, “Can't fall asleep yet, baby. We have to take a bathe, hm?” he reminded him, pressing a kiss to the back of his ear.

Jimin grumbled in dissatisfaction, shaking his head as he clung onto Jungkook, hiding his face further in the curve of Jungkook's neck, “Don't wanna” he protested, inhaling a deep breath that comforted him as it was filled with Jungkook's familiar and soothing scent.

“Little one, you have my cum all over your face. Don't you want me to clean that up?”

Oh.

Well, Jimin had definitely forgotten about that.

What a waste, he thought. If he hadn't been as desperate and needy earlier, he would have clearly cleaned that mess up himself by licking the cum off.

The smaller one lifted his head again, propping his chin on Jungkook's chest as he stared at him with his big doe eyes. Smiling, Jungkook reached over to the nightstand and picked up a tissue.

“Close your eyes, baby” Jungkook demanded softly.

Jimin obliged and shut his eyes, feeling the soft tissue rubbing over his skin as Jungkook cleaned up his face, removing any left over tears or sperm.

“Thank you” Jimin murmured once Jungkook was done, the latter tossing the tissue somewhere on the floor beside the bed with little care.

“How is your butt? Does it hurt a lot?” Jungkook then wanted to know.

As always, Jimin had entirely forgotten about the pain his bottom had endured for a certain amount of time. Actually, he had not even counted how many spanks he had received, not that it really mattered. However, now that Jungkook mentioned it, it was as though Jimin finally noticed the stinging on his butt and upper thighs.
The pink haired boy wrinkled his nose, reaching back to rub his palm over his butt cheek, “Hurts” he whined.

“A lot?” Jungkook asked, concern in his eyes as he nudged his nose against Jimin’s cheek, his hand reaching back to Jimin’s butt to tenderly rub his palm along the reddened skin.

“No, just a bit” Jimin assured him with a shaking of his head.

Jungkook hummed as he pressed a kiss to Jimin’s temple, smiling against his skin, “Took it so well, baby. Were such a good boy for me, Jimin-ah”

“Was I?” Jimin whispered back, meeting Jungkook’s gaze.

“Yeah, always so good for me, little one” Jungkook responded, his smile deepening, “The best boy”

At the compliment, Jimin found his cheeks flush a shade of rose again, the smaller boy catching his bottom lip between his teeth as he nuzzled his face in Jungkook’s neck again, “I love when you say that” he admitted quietly, just for Jungkook to hear.

“Yeah?” Jungkook breathed.

“Mhm-mh. I love when you... when you praise me” Jimin added.

Frankly, it wasn’t anything Jungkook was unaware of. The younger male definitely knew that Jimin had a praise kink – long before the other had ever even began to comprehend what that was. However, it was still nice that Jimin felt comfortable enough to share that with him and admit to it in the first place.

“What about the gagging? Was that too much?” Jungkook wondered.

For a moment, Jimin allowed his mind to think before he answered, “N-No, it... it was odd for a moment and very foreign, but it wasn't too much” he answered genuinely.

Jungkook smirked, “I must say, I missed hearing your voice and pretty noises. You always make the most adorable sounds for me, kitten”

“Thank you” Jimin murmured, touched by faint embarrassment. It was nice to know that it was something that Jungkook found a liking in and that it wasn't anything that irritated him. After all, it was very difficult for Jimin to contain these sounds. Despite him feeling embarrassed by it, it was a comforting contrast to hear that Jungkook didn't share that view, but had actually missed his noises in their absence.

Suddenly, the mood shifted, the endearment on Jungkook's face being replaced by something that evoke uneasiness within Jimin. The shy smile on his own face faltered as he met Jungkook’s gaze, trying to search for the answer to his change in expression in his eyes.

“I'm sorry, Jimin-ah” the younger male apologised, unsettling Jimin even more as he wasn't able to understand what Jungkook was apologising for – wasn't even capable to imagine any reason for it.

“Sorry for what?” Jimin wanted to know, furrowing his brows.

The black haired boy pressed his lips into a line before he answered, “Earlier, I... I got a bit lost in the moment and I held onto your wrists” he answered.

“That's okay, Kook-ah” Jimin reassured him, figuring that he should be honest and admit to how much he actually enjoys Jungkook manhandling him in order to soothe the other one's concern, “I... I like that. I mean, I like when you manhandle me”

For a moment, Jungkook just stared at him, a faint smile curling up the corner of his lips, but then he reached out for Jimin face and shook his head, “In that moment, I shouldn't have done it though, little one. I temporarily forgot that I had gagged you just a moment prior, thus also having restricted you in using your voice” he elaborated, yet didn't decrease Jimin's confusion, “I'm so fucking sorry”

“I still don't understand” Jimin murmured, partially distracted by Jungkook's soft hand against his cheek that was caressing his cheekbone tenderly. Yet, even if it wasn't for that, Jimin still wouldn't be able to fathom what exactly had been wrong in that certain moment. Was Jimin really that oblivious?
Perhaps, just stupid? Essentially, the incident had been very arousing to Jimin, so what could have been wrong?

“I held your wrists to your back, Jimin-ah. I reduced you to.. to having no possibility to tell me to seriously stop” he went on, sincere concern in his eyes, “I told you to slap my side in case it gets too much, but then I restricted you from doing that, I.”

“Kook-ah” Jimin interrupted him, placing his delicate hand on Jungkook's cheek, “I appreciate your concern, but I didn't even notice that. I was so lost in that moment... in my passion that I really didn't notice at all. In fact, I didn't even care-”

“That doesn't matter” Jungkook objected firmly, appearing to be more angered by his own behaviour
- that was inevitably displayed in his tone, “I know in what headspace you fall into in those moments” he added softer, “I'm supposed to make sure you're okay. I'm supposed to establish a safe environment for you”

The smaller one shook his head, not agreeing with that statement, “You're not supposed to do that.
You-”

“I am” Jungkook pressed, “That's why you trust me”

Jungkook's fingers still caressed Jimin's cheek, but Jimin fixated his sole attention and focus on Jungkook's eyes and the urgency to mend his blaming heart, “I still trust you, Kook-ah. This isn't-Don't dwell on that one moment. It was so minor. In fact, you realised two seconds in that you had done it and had quickly removed your hands from my wrists. You ensured a safe environment. You always do. This is one instance in so many where you have been nothing but protective and comforting”

There was no way Jimin was going to stay here and allow Jungkook to blame himself for such a minor thing. Well, at least it was minor to Jimin. After all, everyone is ought to make mistakes.
People tend to make bad decisions or do something that could potentially put them or someone else in danger.

Yet, that was human. That's what made them human. That's what made them living beings that feel and learn - that are flawed in a lot of ways. Jungkook was no different. Neither was Jimin.

The two of them had never went as far as to restrict not only Jimin's sense of touching, but also his usage of voice. Matter of fact, this was a new area for both of them to explore together. Obviously, mistakes could arise – would arise. However, they were only learning as they went.

As long as Jungkook realised what he had done wrong – even if it was only a false action in his own eyes – and fixed it as early as he was capable to, then wasn't that entirely comprehensible?
“Nothing happened, Kook-ah” Jimin finally responded.

Something flashed in Jungkook’s eyes, yet Jimin lacked the ability to define it in his current state, “It could have” Jungkook stated softer.

“This was new for both of us” Jimin pointed out, determined to convince Jungkook to forgive himself, “We learn as we go, hm?” he added, pressing his lips to Jungkook’s cheek.

The other one was silent for a moment, turned his head to the side as though he wanted to kiss Jimin, yet he halted. Their lips were brushing one another’s, but the smallest fraction of distance remained between them that it wasn’t quite enough to title it a kiss. They could feel the other one’s breath on their skin, felt so close as though they were one.

“I...” Jungkook started, but paused before he went on, “Fuck, I don’t know. The idea of having proceeded without noticing it scares the shit out of me” he admitted, his voice almost quieter as though those words were only meant for Jimin to hear, “I would never be able to forgive myself, if I'd went on while you were trying to get me off of you” Jungkook added as he tightened his grip around Jimin’s back, their chests pressed to one another, each of them feeling the warmth the other one was radiating.

“Kook-ah, please don't do this to yourself” Jimin pleaded, his heart clenching, “I'm the one who you think who was in danger, right? I'm telling you that I'm fine” he assured as he cupped Jungkook’s face to allow them to lock eyes, “See, I'm fine. I'm more than fine. I'm so happy because of you. To me, you did nothing wrong”

Yet, to Jungkook, this was fucking him up. Hurting Jimin would break his heart – he was certain of that. Mistakes like this shouldn't happen to him - especially not with Jimin. He was so fucking mad at himself for letting something like this happen, even if he did notice it so damn quickly.

“Kook-ah” Jimin interrupted his thoughts, having leaned closer to nudge his nose against Jungkook’s, “We're fine” he added softly, capturing Jungkook’s lips in a sweet kiss as he placed his hand in the back of Jungkook’s neck.

The black haired boy slid one hand through Jimin's hair while the other one rested on his back to caress his soft skin. Goosebumps formed beneath his touch as his fingertips traced over Jimin's milky skin, the latter exhaling a shaky breath inbetween their kiss before he withdrew and pressed his forehead against Jungkook’s.

“You would never blame me for something like this so please have the same forgiveness for yourself” Jimin whispered against his lips.

A soft smile curved Jungkook’s lips as he pressed a sweet peck to Jimin's full lips.

“I love you” Jungkook declared, Jimin's heart fluttering in the way it always did when it heard those words from the boy that owned his heart.

They leaned in simultaneously to crash their lips together in another kiss, this one longer, deeper to express what their words sometimes lacked.

Jungkook was the one to withdraw, his lips tracing over Jimin's skin to place kisses down his throat and back up. Certain areas on Jimin's skin were particularly sensitive, some even ticklish, causing him to giggle as he jerked away.

The younger male smiled against his skin, his hand finding its way back up to Jimin's hair to play with his pink locks. That action always evoke comfort in Jimin, his eyes fluttering shut as he lowered his chin back down on Jungkook's chest.

“You like me playing with your hair, hm?” Jungkook commented with a chuckle after Jimin had purred as Jungkook had gently tugged on his hair, “Love when I tug on it, don't you?”

Jimin's eyes fluttered back open, “Yes, I do” he responded with a sleepy smile, Jungkook proceeding to tenderly scratch over his scalp every now and then.

Suddenly, a thought resurfaced in Jimin's mind, something his heart had desired earlier in the heated intimate moment between them, yet his timidity had prevented him from actually voicing his desire. The pink haired boy swallowed hard as he averted his gaze and traced his fingertips over Jungkook’s chest to draw shapes on it that he wasn't able to define himself as he was distracted by the attempt to bundle up all the courage he could muster, “Actually, earlier I... I wanted you to... I-” Jimin murmured, but went silent as his shyness reminded him of its existence.

“What is it, baby” Jungkook encouraged him, pressing a kiss to his temple as he rubbed his hand over Jimin's back.

Jimin inhaled a shaky breath, his cheeks flushing a faint shade of rose, “I really wanted you to- Nevermind. It's odd”

“Little one, look at me” Jungkook insisted as he grabbed his chin, guiding Jimin's face back up to lock eyes with him, “Nothing you want me to do to you is odd, okay? Whatever it is, it's totally fine. You can trust me, yeah?” he assured him.

The smaller one sighed, biting down on his bottom lip as he gave a weak nod, “I know I can. It's just... Sometimes I'm scared of myself because of the things that you.. that you make me want” he admitted softly, displaying his vulnerability.

“What do you mean?” Jungkook asked.

“Well, it's not that you force me to like them” Jimin clarified, “But the... the dominance you exude just makes me want to obey” he tried to explain.

Jungkook smiled as he stroked his thumb over Jimin's cheek, “That's okay, Jimin-ah. As long as it stays in a healthy state and you don't feel obligated to have to obey to anyone outside of the bedroom, that's totally fine”

“It's more than just obeying, though” Jimin revealed, “I-I told you before that I... like it when you use me” he reminded Jungkook – well, not that it was anything Jungkook needed to be reminded of in the first place as he surely would never forget about it - “Earlier, I... I wanted you to use my mouth by forcing my head down and thrusting into me” Jimin admitted quietly.

Jungkook's lips parted, his eyebrows shooting up in surprise (or maybe shock, Jimin wasn't sure) for a split second before his prior attentive expression replaced it.

“You want me to fuck your mouth?” the younger male echoed, choosing slightly different words than Jimin.

Jimin whined, embarrassed as he hid his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck, “Yes, I- I want you to do that to me someday. I don't know why, I just... I just do” he affirmed softly, his voice just above a whisper and muffled into Jungkook's skin, yet the taller one registered every single word of his.

“Little one, that's fine” Jungkook reassured him, wetting his lips as he was almost certain he would’ve gotten hard at the thought, if he hadn't just come by Jimin giving him head some minutes ago, “That's- Fuck, it's actually so damn hot” he added as he rubbed his warm palm over Jimin's back, “You don't have to have a reason for liking something. I won't ever force you to have a reason either. Sometimes, we just like stuff for the sake of it”

Curiously, Jimin lifted his head again, stealing a glimpse at Jungkook’s face to assure himself that he was genuine – and he was, clear sincerity glistening in his brown eyes – before he hid his face back in the curve of Jungkook's face.

“Okay” he whispered, earning him a chuckle from Jungkook who pulled him even tighter before he pressed a kiss to the top of Jimin's head.

“Cute” Jungkook commented, “Come on now, little one, let's take a bath, hm?”

------

Jimin sipped on his iced Americano, hoping to wake up from the cold liquid. Inevitably, his eyes fluttered shut every now and then, but he forced them back open each time. Hopefully, the caffeine was going to banish the sleepiness from his body.

As he walked through the hallway, his steps were audible on the wooden floor, the old material creaking in certain spots under his weight. Perhaps, that noise was going to help him stay awake, he thought.

Jungkook and him had stayed up very long last night, only having fallen asleep far into the hours of the next day. Despite Jimin having loved nothing more than to cuddle Jungkook and having fallen asleep all snuggled up to his side, dawn had risen so utterly fast. It was as though Jimin had just shut his eyes as the irritating sound of his alarm had ripped him out of his peaceful sleep already.

Before arriving at Jeon Entertainment this morning, Jimin had to get some things done first. Well, one major thing.

It was his last day at the library.

After turning in his resignation just moments ago, it was now time for him to empty his locker of any belongings he had stored here. The farewell with his superior hadn't actually been as awful as he had imagined it to be. It had been rather short and quick like she was trying to get done with it fast, the woman only shaking his hand and wishing him success in his decision and further career – which was kind, Jimin believed.

Carefully, Jimin entered the staff room, the door falling shut behind him with a thud. The room was empty, as he had expected. Usually, there was no one around here this early in the morning apart from his superior or rarely one other employee.

To be fair, Jimin knew that it was Somi's shift this morning, allowing him to talk to her before he left. Actually, Jimin had already texted her days ago to share his decision with her. After all, they had been colleagues for years now. It was different to leave this place behind now - with her still being stuck here. It was almost odd in a way to say goodbye to her and to know that he wouldn't see her nearly every day at work from now on.

Jimin set his cup of coffee down on the table before he crouched down to his locker and opened it one last time.

There weren't many of his belongings in there. In fact, it was only an umbrella and a jacket he had forgotten here a long time ago. Apart from that, his locker was empty.
Once he had emptied the locker and had put the stuff in his bag, he got back up and threw the bag over his shoulder. Sighing, he picked up his iced Americano again, his gaze lingering on his locker for a moment longer before he spun around and exited the room.

It didn’t take long of him scanning the hall of the library to find Somi’s brown haired head sorting books back into their designated places on the shelves. Smiling, he skipped over to her, tapping on her shoulder to gain her attention.

“Somi-yah” he made his presence known by voice, too, causing the girl to spin around with a shriek.

An expression of horror was replaced by one of affection as she realised who the intruder was. Her face lit up as she threw her arms around him to pull him into a hug, “Jimin-ah! I would have killed you, if you’d just left without saying goodbye”

“How could I ever” Jimin chuckled as they detached themselves from one another, her hands resting on his shoulders as she shook her head in disbelief, yet a smile was still curving her lips.

“I can't believe you're going to leave” she stated.

Jimin dipped his head down, smiling as he gave a nod, “Yeah, I've worked here for such a long time”

“Yes!” she exclaimed, swatting his arm, “You were the first one that was nice to me around here”

The smaller boy surpressed the urge to whine at the smack he had received, but simply rubbed his hand over his irritated spot, “I will miss you a lot” Jimin expressed, his smile almost carrying some sadness, but he didn't want this moment to be sad.

“I can't even express how much I'm going to miss you!” Somi noted.

However, Jimin found his composure again, “It's not like we won't be seeing each other anymore, though” he reminded the two of them, both of their smiles softer again.

“I know, but it's going to be weird to not see your beautiful face every day I come to work” she stated as she booped him on the nose. The act caused Jimin to giggle as he shook his head at her.

“I thought the same thing” he agreed, “It's going to take some time to adjust to not seeing you at work every single day. It's definitely going to be weird for a while”

After all, they had worked together at this place for such a long time. In all honesty, it wasn't the most exciting job there was which usually tended to lead to boredom very swiftly, yet with Somi around, it had made the job all the more bearable and fun at times.

“You're leaving me all alone around here, hm?” she sighed, propping her chin up on her fist after she had rested her ellbow on the little carrier of the books.

“Don't say it like that” Jimin uttered, “You know that I dreamed of this for so long”

Truthfully, Jimin had always known that this was only a temporary stay for him. Yes, he had enjoyed working here, but his heart beat for something entirely different. All of his life, Jimin had practiced and strived to be a dancer, it had been inevitable for him to choose this path and make this decision one day.

It was luck, too.
A lot of luck to have been giving this opportunity in the first place.

“I know” Somi smiled at him, “I can't express how proud and happy for you I am” she responded, but then her smile faltered, “It's just that I feel weird... because I'm still here, you know?” she murmured, “Is this going to be my life?” she asked as she lifted her hands up to her surroundings, her brows knitted, “Sorting books for fifty years?”

“It can be fun at times” Jimin pointed out with warm smile, intending to cheer her up.

Somi rolled his yes, but chuckled, “Jimin-ah, be serious”

“I didn't hate the job” Jimin responded genuinely, “It's just not...” he trailed off, leaving the remainder of his sentence hang in the air between them.

“Not your dream” Somi concluded, finishing his sentence for him.

“Yeah” he affirmed with a nod.

The girl caught her bottom lip between her teeth, “Well, it definitely isn't mine either” she mumbled.

“What is your dream?” Jimin asked her, titling his head to the side. Surely, their bond had been close, yet they had never been as close to exchange their deepest thoughts or desires – neither their dreams.

Well, that wasn't entirely true. Jimin had shared his dream with her. Now, he felt utterly horrible for never having asked Somi about her dream, yet then again, she hadn't asked either, it had been Jimin who had revealed his to her.

Perhaps, she just didn't have one? Surely, not everyone had one. People weren't ought to have one – weren't forced to have such a deep desire as a dream.

“I don't know” she admitted with a sigh, shrugging her shoulders, “I want to travel the world. That's for sure”

Jimin smiled brightly, “That sounds like so much fun. That's going to be an adventure”

“Yeah, but it's pretty damn expensive, too” she chuckled as she nodded, “I've been saving up for it for the past year and I've got quite a lot already”

“What are you waiting for then?” Jimin wondered, eyebrows arched up.

“I don't know” she murmured, shaking her head more to herself than anything, “Now that I've actually got the money, I'm too fucking scared to go along with it” she shared with Jimin, frowning at herself.

In all honesty, Jimin was almost certain that he would be too scared to go all on his own, as well. What if he wouldn't be able to communicate well with people? What if he was going to get lost somewhere and never return home?

However, Jimin didn't want to project all of his own fears on to her. After all, they were two completely different people. Jimin was timid and a little scared of a lot of things by nature whereas Somi had always seemed more open and braver than him.

Then again, Jimin had also been scared in deciding to walk this path – to sign with Jeon Entertainment and start an entirely new chapter of his life. Frankly, he was still scared. Yet, this was what he had always dreamed of – this feeling alone was enough to surpress the fear and spread hope through his very being.

If this was Somi's dream, overcoming that fear would surely be easier, too, as there was something awaiting her at the end of the road that was worth fighting the fear for – something she had always desired.

“You'll meet so many people, be inspired by so many things. Learn about cultures, history, traditions and so much new-

“Food! I know” she added with a chuckle, “That's why I want to go so bad”

“Then don't let your fear get the best of you. I was scared to choose this path, too. Hell, I'm still scared. What if I suck so bad? What if I'm going to disappoint them all? But how can I know, if I don't try? I've always dreamed about this and now the day has finally come. I'm so grateful that I have people around me that support me and inspired me to do this” Jimin revealed to her.

She smiled at him, but then laughed, “Yeah, well, my parents think I'm crazy”

“It's not crazy” Jimin assured her, “It's an adventure that's waiting for you to be explored”

“I might do it” Somi noted eventually.

“I want pictures from every place!” the smaller boy expressed.

“Okay, you will get them, don't worry. I promise” she chuckled as she pulled Jimin into another hug. Jimin joined her laugh, resting his chin on her shoulder in their embrace before they pulled apart.

They stared at each other for a moment longer, but their peaceful silence was disrupted by a rahter loud yell from the hall of the library. The two of them scanned the room for the souce of the voice, on their toes already as they were about to rush over to that person and remind them to be quiet. However, they noticed a woman getting up to their feet, a phone pressed to her ear as she rushed out of the building.

“Well, at least she had the decency to leave the library entirely to have that phone call. Some people have their loud ass conversation in here” Somi noted, reminding Jimin of oh so many instances that had left them to maintain silence in the room.

“Yeah” Jimin agreed with a snicker, observing how Somi picked up a book to place it back on the shelf, her gaze still ingering on the reading area of the library.

“Herpes isn't here today. That's new” she noted with a frown on her face, proceeding to sort the books on the shelf.

“Herpes?” Jimin echoed, not familiar with that name. Who was she referring to? Was that a codeword for something? Well, it didn't ring any bell in Jimin.

“Yeah” Jimin listed.

“Never has taken a book to his seat? Bald?” Jimin finished for her, almost certain that he knew who she was referring to now.

“Yes, him” she affirmed with a chuckle.

“Well, because he never leaves. Like herpes. And even if it leaves - It comes back every damn time” she laughed at her own joke, appearing to find herself being very witty.

“Mhm, yeah, he never missed a day” Jimin mumbled, knitting his brows in thought, suddenly remembering something occurring weeks ago, “Actually, do you remember him talking to you a long while ago?”

It had always nagged Jimin somehow.

“About what?” she asked, her eyebrows shooting up in curiosity.

“That one day he asked me to carry some books with him to his car and I was surprised because he knew my name” Jimin shared with her, “He said you told him?”

“Your name?” she clarified.

“Yeah” the pink haired boy affirmed with a nod.

Somi shook her head, “I never talked to him”

“You didn't?” Jimin asked, his eyes going wide.

“No, I never did”

“O-Oh” the smaller one breathed, dumbfounded upon receiving the information.

Why had that man lied about that?

“Weird” Jimin commented.

“Did he say that?” Somi wanted to know, refraining from sorting the book on the shelf, but dropping the one in her hand back down on the carrier.

“Yeah” Jimin breathed.

Somi titled her head to the side, “Why would he?”

“I don't know” the pink haired boy responded. After all, why would he?

“Strange” she mumbled.

“Mhm-mh”

They proceeded to stare off into the distance for a fraction longer, but Jimin was then reminded of him having to arrive at his first day at his new workplace on time. There was no way he could even dare to be late today!

“I guess I should get going now” the smaller boy announced.

“Let's meet up for lunch next week to catch up” Somi suggested with a grin.

“Great idea” Jimin agreed.

“Okay. I'll see you around, Jimin-ssi”

“See you, Somi-ssi” Jimin responded, the two of them embracing each other one last time before they pulled apart.
Somi waved at him as he left, the smaller one waving back as he walked off into the distance.

Slowly, Jimin stepped out of the building, inhaling a deep breath of the fresh air that wasn't poisoned by dust pollution today. It was such a nice day, actually, the sun shining brightly in the morning as it illuminated the city.

The pink haired boy stood there for a moment longer, the door falling close behind him with a thud.

A smile curled up the corners of his lips to adorne his pretty features.

As he shut a chapter of his life, a new one was just awaiting him.

Jimin was happy.

Chapter End Notes

I'm sorry that it wasn't as eventful, but I hope you enjoyed it regardless <3

Please stay healthy and I hope you are all happy <3

See you in the next chapter <3

Love you <3
Broken Heart

Chapter Summary

Finally, Jimin starts working at Jeon Entertainment, yet in the midst of his happiness, there are also struggles.

Chapter Notes

Hii, lovely readers <3

How are you feeling? :)

I was actually able to finish this chapter a little quicker this time! Yaaay :)

I hope you enjoy it <3

See the end of the chapter for more notes

“Wow, this practice room looks amazing” Jimin uttered in awe as he entered the room with big eyes, impressed by the interior design and the advanced equipment that was visible to his eyes.

“Jimin-ah, you're early” Hoseok greeted him, flashing him an affectionate smile as he was in the midst of crouching down to rummage through his bag.

The pink haired boy mirrored his smile, lifting his hand up into the air to wave at his friend, “Good morning, Hyung. I brought us some breakfast” Jimin announced as he pointed at the small paper back he was carrying in his hand, having stopped by at a bakery to buy some food for them.

“Waah, you're an angel” Hoseok exclaimed with a grin, jumping back up to his feet to rush over to Jimin's side, “I wasn't able to eat anything this morning” he revealed as Jimin handed him the paper back.

“Why?” Jimin wondered, titling his head to the side as he observed Hoseok opening up the paper back to pick out a sandwich.

“I overslept” the brown haired boy answered him, “Cheese?” he asked and arched up an eyebrow, referring to the sandwich in his hand.

“Mhm-mh” Jimin affirmed with a hum, “Why did you oversleep? Didn't hear your alarm?” he assumed.

It wasn't anything Jimin had never experienced, either. On certain days, he had been drawn too deeply into his slumber, not even the irritating sound of his alarm managing to rip him out of a sweet haze of sleep.

“I-... Well, we had a long night” Hoseok elaborated as he unwrapped the sandwich and took a bite, Jimin almost certain that he noticed a faint display of a flush on his cheeks at those words.
Truthfully, Jimin was merely capable to resist the urge of asking any further questions to dig deeper into the subject. What had only been an act of curiosity and a way for him to keep the conversation going had swiftly tipped over into an area that flashed red lights at him.

Surely, it could be something entirely innocuous – embodied in Taehyung and him having watched too many movies or having been too caught up in a conversation, thus staying up longer than previously intended.

Yet, with the information Jimin had received from Taehyung regarding Hoseok being entangled in an issue involving Taehyung and Yoongi, the reason for his lack of sleep could also be something entirely different.

Essentially, it wasn't far-fetched to imagine a very intimate moment between the three of them having lead to them only going to bed way into the hours of the next day – especially with the display of faint timidity represented in the flush on Hoseok's cheeks and the usage of the word 'we.' As Yoongi was now also a part of their intimate bond – in whatever way – it wasn't reprehensible to include him into a possible scenario.

Whatever reason it was, Jimin didn't even want to risk crossing any appropriate line by asking further questions regarding this issue, potentially putting his very close friend on the spot who might not feel comfortable enough to talk about this issue. Besides, Jimin had a promise to keep.

However, Jimin couldn't deny his curiosity either. Frankly, he did wonder quite often whether the three of them had unveiled their feelings to one another. If so, what were the repercussions of that decision? Had the three of them found a solution?

Clearly, it was a very vulnerable action – to confess one's feelings.

Certainly, neither of them were aware of how the other one felt – could only assume it by assessing the way they treated each other.

To Jimin, it sounded as though they felt deeply for each other. Taehyung's vivid discription of most of their days ending with them all cuddled up in bed and falling asleep next to each other was something that appeared to be more than just a platonic act.

Perhaps, they knew, Jimin thought. Perhaps, they knew what the other one felt because their bodies conveyed what their hearts were too afraid to say.

“Well, I say we stretch first before the trainees arrive” Hoseok suggested, interrupting Jimin's thoughts. The smaller boy shook his head to snap out of it, scanning the room for the other one and noticing that Hoseok had moved over to the other side of the room, “They are scheduled to be here in about half an hour” he added as he took another bite of his sandwich, stealing a glimpse at his watch to confirm the time.

“What are we showing them?” Jimin wondered, his heart skipping a beat at the horror of being unprepared.

There was only half an hour left? How was he supposed to learn anything that swiftly and then possess the ability to teach it to someone else?

“Oh, yes” Hoseok nodded, chewing on his food before he swallowed it down, “Well, the group of trainees we'll meet today already knows the choregraphy as I have taught it to them over the past week” he informed him as he picked up his phone, “Today, they're just supposed to show us the finished product and we will assess their performances”
Surprised, Jimin titled his head to the side, not having expected such a task on his very first day. In fact, he wasn't even certain what this would imply, “In what way?” he asked.

“Well, Mr. Jeon is in the works of a new group he wants to debut” Hoseok elaborated, “Currently, he's looking for the most talented people in this company to include in that group. We're responsible for their dance performances and have to evaluate their skills in that field” he informed Jimin who knitted his brows at those words.

“Wait, so... so our opinion can determine their future?” he wondered for clarification, but realised a brief moment later that it had been a redundant question. After all, he was already aware of the answer.

Mr. Jeon had emphasised that Jimin was ought to teach these trainees and create choreographies for them. This wasn't anything minor at all.

Jimin reminded himself once again of what significance his job truly held.

“Of course” the brown haired boy chuckled, “We're also responsible for developing their choreographies. If we fail to create something that catches people's attention, that could also determine their future. This job comes with responsibility, Jimin-ah. We should take it very seriously”

“I know, hyung” Jimin responded, giving a determined nod, “Of course. I understand”

“Mr. Jeon has created sheets for us to have a certain amount of guidance of what he's looking for” Hoseok let him know, finishing his sandwich and skimming through several sheets of paper that were scattered over a small, but high table, “For instance, we should pay attention to how powerful their executions are, whether they are conveying emotion with their dancing, things like that”

“Mhm” Jimin murmured, furrowing his brows, “Is it supposed to be entirely objectively?”

“Well, we are supposed to assess their skills, but you might see something in one of the trainees that I don't see” Hoseok responded, pointing his flat hand at Jimin, “You can scribble it down on your evaluation sheet and bring it up in a meeting with Mr. Jeon. In the end, he will make the final call, but our opinion is valid and he will take it into consideration”

“Wow” Jimin breathed, slightly intimidated by the magnitude of all of this, “That's what we do everyday?”

“No, not every day” Hoseok denied with a grin, shaking his head, “It depends. It's a little hectic these days because of the preparations for a new group. Usually, we have evaluations every two weeks between the particular teams for dancing, singing and rapping. Then, once a month, Mr. Jeon and Jungkook-ah evaluate the trainees themselves”

“I see” Jimin uttered.

To be fair, Jimin had been aware that his job wasn't going to be meaningless, but he hadn't known that his opinion regarding a trainee's performance would be that valid and could determine their future that much. Then again, despite Mr. Jeon claiming that their opinions were valid, he might not actually take them into consideration that much.

“In between those times, we create choreographies for the existing artists, have dancing classes with the trainees or receive a certain task from Mr. Jeon in a meeting” the taller man added.

“Okay, so today, we just evaluate how far they've come with the choreography you've taught them?” Jimin asked just for reassurance, closing the distance between them by walking over to Hoseok's “Correct” Hoseok affirmed, “I’ve prepared the sheets already. We are going to stretch now and then it’s not long until the trainees arrive. Don’t worry, I won’t push you into deep water on your first day. We’ll take it slow today. Just write down what you think of their performance, okay?” he comforted Jimin, the latter’s concern depicted on his face notable to Hoseok as he handed him the evaluation sheet.

How was Jimin entitled to determine whether someone was worthy of debuting, when he barely had any experience himself?

“Mhm-mh” Jimin mumbled, dipping his head down, “I just don’t... I don't know” he sighed, struggling to voice what was bothering his heart, “I don't feel like I'm deserving of doing this. I'm barely a professional dancer. I don't have that much experience. How can I—”

“Jimin-ah, stop that” Hoseok interrupted him sternly, but with affection in his eyes, “I don't want to hear you putting yourself down, okay? You're deserving of being here and you're deserving of doing the same work I'm doing. You are a professional dancer. Mr. Jeon wouldn't have chosen you, if it wasn't for that. It's my first time being a part of this process, too. I haven't been here long enough to watch any of them debut yet. If I want to include you, that's what I'm going to do, hm?” Hoseok expressed.

“Thank you, hyung” Jimin responded bashfully, his cheeks flushing a shade of rose, “Okay, hyung” Hoseok ruffled through Jimin's hair with a grin, the latter chuckling and pulling away, “Great. Then let's start.”

---

It wasn't much later when the room was suddenly filled with presumably thirty more people, multiple of them appearing to be a lot younger than Jimin. They were divided into rows of six, fixing their postures and standing there patiently, waiting for further instructions.

“Good morning, kids” Hoseok greeted them with a nod of his head, “This is Park Jimin, a new addition to our team. He's a choreographer and will work by my side from now on” he added as he pointed at Jimin with a grin.

Warmth spread within Jimin's chest at the way Hoseok was introducing him. There was not one occurrence where he mentioned the word 'assistant' – despite that being exactly what Jimin was. For some reason, Jimin found himself wonder whether Hoseok had done that because he wanted to establish the norm of the trainees seeing Hoseok and him as equals.

The trainees gave a deep bow as they greeted Jimin with a “Hello” in unison. The pink haired boy smiled at them, a faint blush adorning his pretty features at all the attention he had suddenly received.

“Say something, Jiminnie” Hoseok encouraged him softer, flashing him a smile.

Nervously, Jimin pulled the sleeves of his shirt over his delicate hands, giving a weak nod as he cleared his throat.

“Hi” Jimin uttered, waving his small hand at them, “I'm Jimin” he declared, but regret washed over him as soon as those words had slipped from his lips. After all, Hoseok had already introduced him, thus it wasn't exactly necessary for him to repeat his own name, “Uhm... Well, I'm excited to be here. I'm looking forward to teaching you and seeing you perform today. I hope you've worked hard and give it your all today. Always remember to have fun and... and don't forget what you're doing this Hoseok grinned at him before he drew his attention over to the crowd of trainees.

“Today, Jimin-ssi and I will evaluate your performances. Every week, your group grows smaller as certain people are eliminated from the final line up of the new group Mr. Jeon is planning to debut. This week is no different. It is important for you to work hard and show us your everything. Don’t disappoint us” Hoseok stated, a serious expression on his face, but there was always something so soft behind his eyes despite the stern and strict demeanor he exuded whenever he was teaching.

The brown haired boy possessed the ability to convey the seriousness of a moment, but never forgot to establish a comfortable environment for the students around him. It was admirable to Jimin. That's what made him such a great teacher, Jimin thought – Besides all the knowledge, experience and utter talent he owned, of course. Jimin could only wish to be a teacher like him someday.

“Yes, Mr. Jung” the trainees responded in unison.

Hoseok smiled brightly as he clapped his hands together, “Great. Then let's get started”

---

“I like his expressions” Jimin noted quietly as he had leaned closer to Hoseok, subtly pointing at the boy in the centre.

The second group of trainees was currently performing, the entire group of them having been split up in ones of five. Randomly, to mention. Just minutes ago, to mention.

As long as Jimin was concerned, that appeared to be a challenging task itself. After all, you were immediately and inevitably compared to the people performing in your group. Besides, you had no chance at all to practice with the exact group of people you were chosen to perform with today, thus not enabling you to match up your synchronisation with the other's or adjust to the position you were asigned to.

It was harsh, Jimin believed, but Hoseok had explained that it was a request by Mr. Jeon.

“Jeong-ah's?” Hoseok whispered back, arching up an eyebrow.

“Yeah” Jimin breathed, his gaze fixated on the boy's movement.

“I agree” Hoseok uttered, humming in approval, “I'm pretty sure Mr. Jeon is going to pick him as one of the members. Kid is in the top ranks”

“I can definitely see why” Jimin murmured as he made notes regarding the boy's performance.

Soon, the next group of trainees aligned in a row before they took their respective positions and the music echoed in the room once more, amplified by the numerous speakers installed in the walls.

There was a kid in the back, somehow drawing Jimin's attention over to him every couple of seconds. The poor boy was struggling, Jimin could sense it, but could also see it in the way he wasn't able to control his facial expressions, causing his fear to be depicted.

The execution of his steps was... sloppy. The boy was slightly slower than the others, hence creating a faintly visible display of unsynchronisation that didn't go unnoticed to Jimin's eyes – and surely not to anyone else, if they were watching.
He's too nervous, Jimin thought.

Every now and then, he appeared to be able to lower his anxiety and catch up to the others. In those moments, Jimin was baffled by his sudden change. From one second to the other, he was an entirely different person. No longer shy, no longer lacking, but strong and powerful. There was emotion in his execution – He was feeling what he was trying to convey.

Jimin was in awe.

Yet, he fell right back into his shell, all of that gone again as he lacked what the others were performing.

The pink haired boy narrowed his eyes.

Certainly, he had seen a glimpse of what that boy was actually capable of, but it was gone way too quickly. There was definitely something holding him back from showing his full potential.

“Hootak-ah” Jimin whispered to gain Hoseok's attention.

“Yeah?” the taller man responded, but his gaze remained on the performance of the trainees as he scribbled something down.

“How young is he?” Jimin wanted to know.

Hoseok glanced at him before he averted his eyes again, “Fifteen” he answered.

“Wow” Jimin breathed, his gaze somehow still attached to Hootak's movements, “He's incredibly young”

“Yeah” Hoseok agreed, a sad expression on his face, “I don't think he's going to make it” he added quietly, shaking his head as he sighed, “I've been pulling him along – tried to give him another chance, but the other kids are just better”

Jimin knitted his brows, but gave a nod as he pressed his lips into a line.

There was something to him, Jimin felt that in his core.

“Ah, Ong-ssi, a great candidate, too” Hoseok informed him with a grin, interrupting Jimin's thoughts. The smaller boy scanned the row to find the particular trainee Hoseok was referring to. Once he did, Jimin tilted his head to the side while he studied his movements, “Amazing vocals” Hoseok added.

“His dancing is...” Jimin trailed off, not finishing his sentence as he wasn't certain how he should voice his thoughts.

“He's a perfectionist” Hoseok claimed.

“The steps are clean” Jimin praised.

“Yeah, they always are” the brown haired one agreed.

The way the boy executed the steps was remarkable. They were clean and there was nothing Jimin could criticise regarding the technics. However, there was... there wasn't emotion, at all.

Now, Jimin finally understood what Mr. Jeon had alluded to with his words when he had praised Jimin's ability to evoke emotion in someone when dancing. It wasn't just about executing certain movements in a clean way. It was about conveying a story, making the audience feel something.
Not everyone possessed that ability.

“Do you think he's good?” Jimin wondered, raising up his eyebrows.

“Yeah” Hoseok responded with a nod, still taking notes.

“Okay” Jimin replied, giving a nod before he focused on the trainees again.

The taller one frowned, turning his head to the side to stare at Jimin, “Don't you?” he asked.

“He's great” Jimin uttered.

“But?”

Shyly, Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth, aware that he was only Hoseok's assistant and that his opinion might be more valuable than Jimin's. The smaller boy didn't want to offend Hoseok by disagreeing.

Then again, he was angered by himself for even allowing a thought like that to arise. After all, Hoseok was one of his closest friends and had never been anything but nice and supportive. Why would he be offended by Jimin sharing his opinion? – Especially after emphasising that he wanted to include Jimin in this task and that his opinion was just as valid.

“Well... I don't feel anything” Jimin finally responded.

“What do you mean?” Hoseok asked, titling his head to the side.

“Technically, he's amazing, but he doesn't feel anything when he dances, thus I don't feel anything either” Jimin tried to explain, “To me it seems as though he's too focused on executing the steps in the way he was being taught, rather than conveying an emotion”

Hoseok studied his features for a moment longer before he averted his attention back over to the trainees.

“Interesting” he expressed, a smile curving his lips.

“Sorry, I didn't mean to-” Jimin swiftly apologised.

“No, never apologise for voicing your opinion, Jimin-ah” Hoseok interrupted him, shaking his head as he met Jimin's gaze, a smile still apparent on his face.

Jemin smiled shyly in return.

“Write it down” the brown haired boy encouraged him, pointing at Jimin's sheet.

---

“What happens now?” Jimin wanted to know as he handed over his evaluation sheets, the students slowly scattering and leaving the room to go eat lunch as the evaluation of their performances had finished.

There had been no words of assessment for the individual trainees. All they had been granted with was this one performance – one simple chance they had been provided with – and now they were left to pray and hope that it had been enough.

“We turn the evaluation sheets over to Mr. Jeon who will have a look them over course of the next days” Hoseok responded as he organised the sheets, “Once he went through them, he might call for a meeting with us to discuss them and then we collectively decide about the next steps”

Jimin gave a nod, watching the students exit the room after waving goodbye at Hoseok and him as a hopeful smile curved their lips, determination and esperance glistening in their young eyes.

For some reason, Jimin's heart clenched.

To imagine that soon, someone would have the heartwrenching task to deliver the message to them that some of them wouldn't make it and were going to be eliminated was just... – Their dreams were going to shatter right in front of their eyes... just like that.

_Painful._

This was a lot harsher and tougher than Jimin had prepared his heart for it to be.

“Isn’t it harsh to just decide who to choose according to these sheets? What if they have been amazing before and simply lacked today because they were nervous?” Jimin commented, furrowing his brows as he pointed at the evaluations sheets.

“Well, prior performances will be taken into consideration, too, but at this point into the race, you can’t allow major mistakes to happen. Besides, their dance performance isn’t the only field they will be evaluated in. They will have evaluations in singing and rapping, as well. Hence, they have chances to make up for what they lacked today” Hoseok explained, running his hand through Jimin’s hair before he gave his shoulder a tender squeeze, “I’ve grown close to all of them and I wish they all could debut, but that’s just not the reality”

The pink haired boy half smiled as he gave a nod, but then stared off into the distance to steal another glimpse at the crowd of trainees. Jimin’s gaze fell on Hootak, the boy plopping down on his butt to tie his shoes.

“Some of them will have to leave then?” Jimin asked, although he already knew the answer.

“The group, yes” Hoseok affirmed, “They will be eliminated from the possible line-up of the next group, but they are not eliminated from the company” he informed Jimin, increasing Jimin's curiosity.

“What happens with them?” Jimin wondered, meeting Hoseok’s gaze again.

“They stay trainees and keep practicing” Hoseok replied.

“For how long?”

Hoseok pursed his lips, glancing at the crowd of trainees as he answered, “Until another opportunity arises for them to debut. Mr. Jeon might hire them as back-up dancers though so they aren't unemployed”

“That’s...”

“It's sad, but that's what they sign up for” Hoseok reminded him, “It's not uncommon that people leave the company eventually. Sometimes, they train for years and years and years, but just don't get to debut because Mr. Jeon chooses someone else. It's tough. It really is, thus why some of them leave to try their luck at another company in hopes that they have a better shot there”

_It's not as fairy tale like as you think._
Suddenly, Jungkook's words echoed in Jimin's mind. Those exact words he had said to Jimin back then in Busan in regards to Jimin having received interest from Mr. Jeon who had implied his consideration of Jimin becoming a trainee at his company.

Clearly, Jimin wasn't as naïve any longer to believe that narrative that being a part of the industry was something utterly magical with sole happiness. That was just not the truth.

However, to be in the midst of it all now and be made aware of it first hand was just a slap in the face to shake the last bit of starry-eyed behaviour out of him.

“How many will be eliminated this week?” Jimin found himself ask.

“I'm not sure” Hoseok responded with a sigh, scratching over the back of his head, “I think about six of them”

“Six?” Jimin echoed, brows shooting up in surprise.

“Yeah” Hosoeok confirmed, “Come on now, let's get some lunch”

With that, he reached for Jimin's wrist and gave it a gentle tug to pull him along, yet Jimin's gaze wandered back over to Hootak who was standing there isolated from everyone else as he was about to make his way out.

“Hyung, I think I might stay a little longer” Jimin announced, pulling his wrist out of Hoseok's grasp, the latter not hesitating to allow that action.

“What do you want to do?” Hoseok asked, curiosity written on his face.

Jimin hesitated, stealing one last glance at Hootak, but then being certain of the decision his heart had made, “I want to talk to Hootk-ah about his performance”

“Jiminnie-”

“I will be quick, I promise” Jimin interrupted him, clasping his hands together as though he was praying, “I will join you for lunch once I'm done here”

“Why are you so adamant?” the brown haired boy wondered, arching a brow up, but there was a faint display of a smile on his face.

“I think he has a lot of potential, hyung” Jimin responded, assuring himself that Hootak hadn't left yet before he met Hoseok's gaze again.

After a moment of hesitance, Hoseok gave a nod, “Okay, I trust you. Go ahead. I'll meet you in the cafeteria, yeah?”

“Okay, hyung”

With that, Jimin rushed over to Hootak in order to talk to him before it was too late. Swiftly, he arrived at his side, clearing his throat to make his presence know, “Hey, Hootak-ah, right?”

The boy lifted his head up, visibly surprised to see Jimin as his eyes went wide, “Uh, yes, Mr. Park” Jimin pointed back over his own shoulder, “Would you mind staying for a little longer?”

Hootak blinked, swallowing hard as he scanned his surroundings, clearly assuming a scenario that evoke nervousness in him, “Uhm.. I-I-”
“It's nothing bad” Jimin assured him with a warm smile, “It won't take long either”

Hootak's gaze flickered back and forth between Jimin's eyes before he gave a nod, “Okay, Mr. Park”

Soon, the room had cleared, all the trainees having exited except for Hootak, leaving behind only him and Jimin who remained in the practice room.

The boy appeared to be rather nervous, pulling the sleeves of his shirt over his hands to hide them – a nervous habit that was more than familiar to Jimin.

“How long have you been a trainee for?” Jimin asked as he sat down on the floor.

The other male proceeded to stand in front of Jimin, perhaps preferring to stay on his feet or to remain above Jimin in order to create a sense of safe distance – the pink haired boy wasn't certain.

Yet, perhaps Hootak was just too nervous to have even noticed that Jimin had sat down. Whatever reason it was, Jimin didn't mind at all.

“Three years” Hootak replied after taking a moment to think.

“Wow, that's a long time” Jimin uttered with wide eyes.

“If you compare it to how long some of the other trainees have been training for, it's not that long” Hootak objected, shrugging his shoulders, “Joon hyung has been a trainee for eight years” he shared with Jimin, despite that being someone that Jimin didn't know.

“Wow” the pink haired one breathed, his heart wondering how that boy was able to bear such a long training period without any promise of a soon to come debut. Surely, that boy must be so utterly strong – both emotionally and mentally.

Hootak caught his bottom lip between his teeth, seemingly waiting for Jimin to unveil the matter for calling him back.

“Would you mind dancing for me again?” Jimin wanted to know, smiling softly.

The other boy's eyes went wide at the request, “N-Now?”

“Yes” Jimin affirmed with a chuckle, giving a nod.

“Uhm...” Hootak mumbled as he wet his lips, the boy scanning the room before he met Jimin's gaze again, “What should I dance?”

“Whatever you want” Jimin responded, somehow not nervous or shy at all himself.

It was as though Hootak's display of nervousness was evoking a sense of urgency in Jimin to comfort the boy and to restore his calmness. In a way, there was no room for Jimin to be shy as the urge to soothe Hootak was superior.

“Okay” Hootak uttered with a nod.

---

“You were under pressure earlier, hm?” Jimin asked with a smile, getting back up to his feet before he closed the distance between them.

After watching the boy perform without anyone else in the room, Jimin was in awe. The way he had executed the steps was a lot better than earlier – almost as though he had improved in the course of the past hour without any practice at all. However, Jimin could imagine why there was such a significant difference in his performances.

The corners of Hootak's lips curled up in a shy smile, “Yeah, I... I was very nervous”

“I can understand that, but in those moments you have to try and blur that out” Jimin advised him, coming to a halt in front of him, establishing enough room between them to assure Hootak feeling safe and comfortable, “If you're too nervous, people will see that. If you let your anxiety win, your performance will be affected” Jimin added, titling his head to the side, “In those moments, think of what you're doing this for. Think of what you want the people to feel when they see you dance. Focus on that and not how nervous you are or how many people are watching you. You can dance and you definitely convey emotion, when you do. That's valuable”

Hootak's smile grew, something flashing in his eyes at the compliment, but also at the advice he had received, “Thank you, Mr. Park” he expressed as he gave a bow.

“Do you look at your own performances?” Jimin wanted to know.

“Huh?” Hootak murmured, presumably considering that his ears must have deceived him.

“Do you look at yourself when you dance?” Jimin repeated, titling his head to the side.

“N-No...” the younger boy responded, shaking his head, “Well, sometimes when I rehearse, but only until I learned the steps. It makes me nervous to watch myself dance. I get distracted” he added, biting down on the inside of his cheek.

“Hootak-ah, it's important to look at yourself while dancing” the pink haired boy noted, certain that Hootak's reason for lacking in executing all of the steps the way they had been taught being attributed to him not monitoring his own performances, “There's so many things you catch that you won't notice, if you just dance without any attention on your reflection”

“The others keep telling me, too, but... it distracts me and it's awkward” Hootak reasoned, shrugging his shoulders.

A soft smile curved Jimin's lips, “Not looking at your own performance is putting you at a disadvantage, though. There are things you don't see that you would notice, if you’d look at your reflection while dancing” Jimin added gently, “You are a little slower than the others when you dance, thus creating an unsynchronisation”

Hootak pressed his lips into a line as he scratched over the back of his neck, “How can I fix that?” he wanted to know.

“Besides monitoring your own performances, to even catch a mistake like this, I think counting to the rhythm in your head might be beneficial. It will help you to stay on beat” Jimin advised him.

The other male gave a nod, “Thank you, Mr. Park”

“I think you have potential, Hootak-ah” Jimin revealed, “You convey emotion and that's rare”

It's fascinating how this one evaluation had contributed to Jimin understanding the meaning behind Mr. Jeon's words. During their conversation, Jimin had been too bashful to fathom the entirety of Mr. Jeon's statement and had simply thought of them as compliments regarding his skills. However, Mr. Jeon had emphasised that Jimin possessed an ability that not everyone appeared to have.
Today, he had finally seen it himself.

“I will work hard, Mr. Park” Hootak promised as he gave a deep bow, flashing Jimin a smile.

Maybe, Hootak reminded him a little bit of himself.

---

The remainder of the day went by fast, Jimin having lunch with Hoseok before the two of them returned to the practice rooms for Jimin to be introduced to another set of trainees that had been hired as back-up dancers for an artists tour.

It had been their duty to teach them the choreography Hoseok had been working on over the course of the past weeks. Jimin hadn't been prepared for that task as he hadn't been taught the choreography himself, thus leaving him to stay by Hoseok's side for most of the time and watch him dance.

However, Jimin was a fast learner, causing him to have saved the choreography in his memory while watching Hoseok teach it to the trainees in no time.

It enabled Jimin to pay more attention to the trainees and notice whether or not they were able to follow along quickly and what they were lacking. Hence, it allowed Jimin to notice issues that Hoseok might not have caught in the midst of the concentration on teaching the steps. That way, they had been able to discuss where they needed to lay their focus on during their next lesson regarding teaching them the choreography.

Before Jimin realised it, Hoseok announced the finish line of his first day, flashing Jimin a smile that carried fondness. The brown haired boy appeared to be satisfied – in fact, even more than delighted that Jimin was now working with him. After praising Jimin's work and expressing how suitable they were as co-teachers, he sent Jimin off.

“Aren't you coming, too?” Jimin found himself ask in disbelief, pointing to the door as he got up to his feet.

The brown haired boy smiled at him as he shook his head, “No, I gotta finish some stuff before I can leave”

Jimin blinked.

“Then I'm staying, too, until you're done” he decided, crossing his arms over his chest to underline his determination as he plopped back down on the floor.

“As much as I appreciate that, Jiminie, that's not necessary” Hoseok objected, shaking his head at Jimin's behaviour as he approached him, “I need to get over some paper work and sent it over to Mr. Jeon before I head home” he informed him, his voice soft, but carrying slight firmness to convey his seriousness.

“I can help you” Jimin suggested with a smile, the other one mirroring it, but protesting yet again.

“Jiminie, really, that's-”

“I'm your assistant now, Hoseok hyung, but even more than that, I'm your friend” Jimin interrupted him as he titled his head to the side, “I don't mind staying longer and helping you. If we do this together, you'll be done way faster”

Hoseok flashed him a smile, shaking his head as he ran his hand through Jimin's hair, “Fine” he eventually gave in, “You're an angel. Let's start”

In the end, Jimin had been right. The task was done in no time, Hoseok having to explain some terms to him regarding certain ways of how to revise the paper work, but they were still done rather fast. Besides, now that Jimin had learned about it, he would be capable of helping Hoseok whenever this needed to be done, thus saving Hoseok time on those days, too.

Soon, it was time to leave, Jimin almost baffled at how fast the day had gone by.

The smaller boy was rather sad that he hadn't been able to talk to Jungkook – or even catch a glimpse of him – at the company at all. Surely, he hadn't expected either of them to have much time to hang out with each other as their schedules might overlap, yet he hadn't doubted to at least see him once or twice – even if it was only something as minor as walking past him.

However – Apparently, someone was soon going to make up for it.

“This isn't the route to my house” Jimin pointed out, watching familiar houses flash by, yet realising that they weren't leading to his own apartment.

Slowly, he caught on to what the true destination appeared to be.

Beomsoo met his gaze in the rearview mirror, “I'm aware, Jimin-ssi, but Mr. Jeon requested for me to drive you to his place” he revealed.

The pink haired boy furrowed his brows. Clearly, he was delighted to see Jungkook, but also quite confused why Jungkook hadn't asked him first or at least let him know about this. After all, they had texted just minutes prior to Jimin leaving the company, yet Jungkook hadn't mentioned a word about this.

“Why can't Mr. Jeon let me know about that first?” Jimin wanted to know, but already predicted Beomsoo's answer.

“I'm afraid I don't know, Jimin-ssi” the other male replied – Jimin having been accurate with his assumption of what his respond was going to be like, “I apologise”

“It's not your fault” Jimin noted with a soft smile before he pulled out his phone and tapped on the chat with Jungkook.

If you wanted me to come over to your place anyway, I could have waited for you until your meeting is finished – Jimin

It didn't take long for Jungkook's reply to appear and flash up on Jimin's phone display.

I don't want you to have to wait here all on your own until I'm finished. I don't know how much longer this meeting is going to last. My apartment is a lot more comfortable and safer than waiting here – Bunny

Jimin frowned at his choice of words. Safer? Save from what? From whom?

I don't even have any stuff with me to wear tomorrow – Jimin

I can tell Beomsoo to stop by at your place – Bunny

The smaller boy stole a glimpse at Beomsoo before he glanced outside, noticing that they weren't far from Jungkook's apartment. Certainly, it wouldn't make much sense to stop by at his own apartment and then drive all the way back here.

_We’re almost at yours now, I don’t want him to drive all the way back to mine... – Jimin _

_Are you angry? – Bunny _

Well, Jimin wasn't angry. However, he still wished that Jungkook would have asked him before making such a decision without a word to Jimin.

_No, I just wish you would have asked me first – Jimin _

_I want to see you. I haven’t seen you today at all after you left early this morning. I want to spend some time with you, baby – Bunny _

_I want to see you, too – Jimin _

_Great. I can't really text right now, little one. I'll talk to you later, hm? I'll try to be home soon – Bunny _

_Okay – Jimin _

The pink haired boy locked his phone and lowered it down on his lap before he lifted his head back up, meeting Beomsoo's gaze in the rearview mirror, “Mr. Jeon just requested for me to stop by at your place to receive some clothes for you, Jimin-ssi” he informed Jimin.

“No! No, that's not necessary, Beomsoo-ssi” Jimin protested, shaking his head, “I will steal some of Kook-ah's tomorrow”

“Alright” Beomsoo responded, an amused smile curving his lips.

---

After taking a shower and thoroughly washing himself, Jimin wrapped a soft towel around his delicate body and waddled back into Jungkook's bedroom. On his way back, drops of water cascaded from his hair, causing him to lift the towel up to his head and ruffle it through his hair until it was damp.

Once he was satisfied, he wrapped the towel back around his body, engulfed by warmth again as he approached Jungkook’s dresser. Carefully, he pulled the top drawer open, rummaging through it and picking out some socks and a fresh pair of briefs. As he had just closed his hand around the piece of fabric, his fingers brushed over a slightly different material that brought a frown to his face.

Curiously, he lowered his head to find out what it was, surprised when he realised that it was something that appeared to be a document or a picture – he couldn't tell as it was almost blank, only a few letters scribbled on to it that he wasn't able to decipher from the distance.

Just as he was about to reach for it, his phone vibrated loudly on the nightstand, interrupting the heavy silence of the room. Startled by the noise, Jimin jerked away, shutting the drawer again and carrying the underwear and socks over to the bed before he picked up his phone.

_Meeting is going to take longer than expected. I'll try to be quick, little one – Bunny _

The pink haired boy sighed, tossing his phone on the bed before he dropped the towel from his body and put on the underwear and socks he had provided for himself to wear just seconds ago.

Then, he walked back over to the dresser and opened the lower drawer to pick out a white shirt from Jungkook. Once he had found one, he slipped into it, the fabric reaching just below his butt.

The familiar scent of Jungkook’s detergent filled his nostrils as he inhaled a deep breath, yet his heart was slightly disappointed that it didn't smell like Jungkook entirely as his cologne and a scent that Jimin could only describe as Jungkook was missing. Unfortunately, he wasn’t able to deceive his heart to make it believe that Jungkook was present by wearing his shirt.

Jimin scanned the room, dropping his hands back to his side.

What was he supposed to do know?

Sighing, Jimin plopped down on the bed, staring up at the ceiling as he waited for minutes to pass by. There wasn’t very much he could do. Surely, Jimin could watch some TV, but somehow, he wasn't really keen on doing that right now.

Perhaps, he could take a nap until Jungkook arrived. After all, the last night's sleep he had received had been rather short as the two of them had stayed up way into the hours of the next day after Jimin had requested Jungkook to... take care of him.

At the thought, Jimin's stomach stirred in arousal, the remainder of the past night sending a shiver down his back as he felt his cheeks tinge a shade of rose.

Swiftly, he shook his head, sitting up before something within him developed some dangerous ideas that would lead to naughty actions. Carefully, he got up from the bed, deciding to clean the minor mess he had created before and after taking a shower.

Diligently, he cleaned Jungkook's floor of any laundry or towels he had dropped earlier and carried them over into the bathroom to toss them into the laundry basket. Then, he decided to turn on the washing machine and to do the laundry entirely as he was already at it anyway.

As soon as the washing machine was running with a good amount of clothes, Jimin left the bathroom and returned to the bedroom. After blowing his hair out of his face, Jimin's stomach grumbled, reminding him that he hadn't eaten anything since lunch.

The smaller boy caught his bottom lip between his teeth, but then decided that Jungkook surely wouldn't mind, if Jimin was going to have a look at what's inside his refrigerator. It was probably going to take awhile until he arrives anyway.

Cautiously, Jimin tip-toed downstairs into the kitchen, somehow not very comfortable to be in such a huge apartment all on his own.

Perhaps, his discomfort was caused by his slight fear of... well, frankly, he didn't know. After all, this apartment building was high on security. This flat itself was locked with a password and cameras were installed in every single hallway of the building.

There was no one that could enter this building unnoticed and intrude this apartment.

There was nothing that could happen to him.

Perhaps, Jimin's discomfort was just caused by the lack of Jungkook's presence. Honestly, Jimin simply didn't particularly enjoy being apart from Jungkook for long. It was as though they were connected by an invisible string, being apart from one another for too long causing them to hurt, urging them to be back together.

Jimin approached the refrigerator and opened it up, the sudden wave of low temperatures sending a shiver down his back.

“What should I eat...” Jimin mumbled as he skimmed through the inside of the fridge, ignoring the chills running over his arms, his gaze falling on some eggs.

It wasn't anything unknown that Jimin's wasn't the best chef out there. In fact, he had a fair share of burned food and dangerous incidents having occurred in the kitchen under his name. However, he was just so very hungry and cooking some scrambled eggs certainly wasn't the most difficult task.

Well, Jimin hadn't been that wrong.

Surely, he had predicted to mess up the food somehow, but it was going rather well so far – at least as long as Jimin was concerned.

The eggs weren't burned – and neither was the pan! That was a success itself, Jimin thought.

Soon, Jimin decided that the food was ready, the eggs having a nice shade of yellow and just the right texture, causing him to pick a plate from the cabinet in order to serve the food on it.

Suddenly, the sound of the front door falling shut echoed in the room with a loud thud. The abrupt noise startled Jimin who lost his balance, the plate slipping from his hand and crashing on the floor in his attempt to grab onto the counter to keep his balance.

In the midst of his action, he somehow managed to swat his arm down in just an unfortunate way that caused him to come in contact with the handle of the pan, resulting in that pan to go flying up into the air before it dropped down to the floor in a loud clank, merely missing Jimin's feet.

The egg was now scrambled, but scattered all over the kitchen floor in the mess of the broken plate.

“Little one? What happened?” Jungkook's concerned voice spoke as his figure appeared in the room, Jimin catching sight of him out of the corner of his eye.

The pink haired boy blinked, watching the mess on the floor with blown eyes. Somehow, the sight just evoke the feeling of crying within him. It was frustrating that his clumsiness just always found a way to thwart his plans and make his day harder.

“I tried to cook” Jimin responded, gaze still fixated on the floor rather than meeting Jungkook's eyes. In a way, Jimin hadn't even been able to entirely process Jungkook's presence at the shock of his little accident.

Hastily, Jimin dropped down to his knees, reaching for the pieces of the broken plate in an attempt to clean up the shambles.

“Baby, are you okay?” Jungkook wanted to know, his footsteps audible on the floor as he closed the distance between them. Apparently, Jungkook hadn't removed his shoes yet, had hurried into the kitchen as soon as he had heard the noises echoing from here.

“Yes...” Jimin murmured, picking up another broken piece, yet not expecting it to be as sharp as it was. As the smaller boy picked up the piece of the plate in a way that caused it to cut into his digit, he hissed at the faint jolt of pain, dropping the piece as though it was burning hot, “No” he added quietly as he watched a drop of blood trailing down his finger.

“Don't touch that” Jungkook insisted firmly, crouching down next to Jimin and wrapping his hand around Jimin's wrist. Gently, he turned his palm over, resulting in the pieces on his hand to drop back down on the mess. Then, Jungkook grasped Jimin's hips and picked the boy up effortlessly, “Come
The pink haired boy caught his bottom lip between his teeth, feeling apologetic for breaking a plate of Jungkook's and for being responsible for such a mess in his kitchen.

“I'm sorry” Jimin uttered softly, intending to hide his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck, yet in that exact moment, he was already set down on one of the stools in front of the counter.

“Don't be” Jungkook assured him, his gaze flickering back and forth between Jimin's doe eyes before it trailed down to Jimin's hands. As soon as Jimin noticed what his eyes were focused on, he pulled the sleeves of his shirt over his delicate hands in an attempt to hide them, “Are you hurt?” the younger male asked, reaching for Jimin's hands and rolling his sleeves back up in order to unveil his palms.

“I cut my finger” Jimin mumbled, flushing at the revelation. It was just Jimin's luck to cut his digit on a stupid piece of a plate that he had prior dropped on the floor.

Tenderly, Jungkook lifted Jimin's delicate fingers up in order to have a proper glimpse at them. It was inevitable for him to catch the minor injury, the droplets of blood a clear display of Jimin having hurt himself.

“Wait here, little one. I'll be right back” Jungkook demanded, pressing a kiss to Jimin's forehead before he exited the kitchen.

The pink haired boy lowered his head, swinging his legs back and forth as he waited for Jungkook to return.

Suddenly, a tear rolled down his cheek, dropping down on his naked thigh without any prior warning. It was odd, but Jimin simply couldn't explain the minor turmoil within his heart that had brought tears to his eyes.

“Why are you crying?” Jungkook wanted to know, asking the exact same question Jimin had wanted to ask himself. The sudden appearance of Jungkook startled Jimin who jerked up and glanced at the other male who had returned back to his side.

“Why am I such a mess? I can't even cook some stupid scrambled eggs” Jimin found himself whine, meeting Jungkook's gaze with wide, glassy eyes. Gently, Jungkook placed his palm on Jimin's bare thigh, giving it a tender squeeze as he shook his head at Jimin's words.

Was that the actual reason for Jimin's tears? Jimin wasn't certain. Yet, what else would it be?

“Jimin-ah, you can cook” Jungkook protested, “It's not your fault that I scared you by entering the apartment. Dropping something on the floor happens to all of us, hm? It's not a reason for you to cry, little one” he comforted Jimin, rubbing the pad of his thumb along Jimin's skin.

Jimin blinked, giving a faint nod as he sniffed, “I don't even know why I'm crying”

“Was your first day harsh?” Jungkook wanted to know, seemingly assuming that Jimin's tears might be related to his overall experience of the day or a certain even that had occurred today, “How was hyung? Do I have to have a word with him?” he added, a smile curving his lips at his clear attempt to lighten up the mood.

After all, the two of them were aware that Hoseok certainly wouldn't be the reason for Jimin's tears. Surely, he was a stern teacher sometimes, but he was never rude or mean – to anyone, really, but especially never to Jimin.
“No, it was such a great day” Jimin objected, shaking his head as he sniffed again, “I loved it so much. I was so scared, but hyung was as nice as ever and I had a lot of fun, despite it being a lot tougher emotionally than I had expected it to be” he revealed, the mixed feelings that had blossomed within him earlier resurfacing.

“That's good to hear” the black haired boy uttered, his hand reaching up to Jimin's face to caress his cheekbone, “Yeah, it is quite tough. I can imagine that it's even tougher on someone as kind hearted as you, hm?”

Jimin sniffed again, a half smile adorning his pretty features.

“Stop crying, Jimin-ah” Jungkook whispered, closing his arms around Jimin's petite body to pull him against his warm body. Immediately, Jimin found himself find comfort and safety in the close proximity to him, “It's all good. I'm here now and you did nothing wrong” Jungkook added as he pressed a kiss to the top of Jimin's head, the latter inhaling a deep breath, his eyes fluttering shut at the comforting scent of Jungkook. This time, it wasn't necessary for Jimin to deceive his heart into believing that Jungkook was present – This time, he really was, “I'll clean up the mess and then we'll cuddle, hm? Please, I hate seeing you cry like that”

Then, the younger male withdrew, Jimin surpressing the whine that had threatened to slip from his lips at the loss. Carefully, Jungkook stuck a plaster to Jimin's injury after having wiped away the blood with a tissue, Jimin not even having noticed that Jungkook had carried these items with him upon reappearing in the kitchen.

Jimin's heart fluttered as he observed how Jungkook pressed a kiss to his finger, the latter reaching up to wipe away Jimin's tears, “Better?” he wanted to know.

“Mhm-nh” Jimin affirmed with a hum, “I'm hungry”

Well, that was random.

Jungkook chuckled, running his hand through Jimin's hair before he pressed a kiss to his temple, “I brought some left-overs with me. I had some chinese food for dinner” he noted, Jimin's mouth watering at those words, hunger still vivid within him, “Baby, why didn't you tell me that you didn't eat yet? I could have stopped by at a restaurant to get you some more food”

“I didn't know I was hungry until after I took a shower” Jimin responded with a pout.

The taller boy hummed lowly as he leaned in, “Mhm, you smell good” he noted, his lips brushing over the back of Jimin's ear as his hand found its way back to Jimin's thigh.

“Thank you” Jimin uttered softly, nuzzling into Jungkook's touch.

For a moment, they just remained in that stance, Jimin believing that he wouldn't mind staying like this for an eternity, if it meant that Jungkook would be this close to him through all of it.

“Why don't you go upstairs and get comfortable in bed while I clean up the mess in here and warm up the food for you, hm?” Jungkook suggested as he withdrew, his fingertips tracing over Jimin's fair skin on his thigh.

Warmth spread within Jimin's chest and he nearly found himself crying again at Jungkook's sweetness.

It was so fascinating how many layers Jungkook posseessed.
On some occasions, he exuded such dominance and power that it was almost intimidating, in others he was just a teenage boy cracking some jokes or being as vulnerable as everyone else – and then during certain moments, he was the most sweetest and protective being there was.

Jimin couldn't believe that the universe had allowed him to have an angel as this one.

“No, I made this mess” the smaller boy declined, shaking his head as his hands stroked over Jungkook's sides, “I'm going to clean up” he decided.

However, Jungkook hummed in dissatisfaction, “I don't want you to hurt yourself, Jimin-ah” he protested, “Go upstairs and wait for me, hm?”

“You've had a way longer day than I did. You're probably tired, Kook-ah” Jimin objected.

Having Jungkook clean up the mess that Jimin had created wasn't fair in Jimin's eyes – in fact something that Jimin wouldn't be able to square with his conscience – Especially as Jungkook has been working the whole day with barely any breaks and had only just returned home.

“I'm not tired” Jungkook stated, “Come on now, up with you. I'm not going to say it again” he insisted as he gave Jimin's thigh a tender tap. Despite Jungkook's clear order, his voice remained a soft tone.

There was no use in arguing with him, Jimin figured.

The smaller boy rolled his eyes, but leaned up to press a peck to his lips, “Thank you. I'll go upstairs then”

“Good boy” Jungkook praised him, watching Jimin hop down from the stool and giving his butt a gentle tap on his way out.

---

Soon, Jimin was all snuggled up in bed, his delicate body hidden beneath the soft blankets as he waited patiently for Jungkook to arrive. In the meanwhile, he had turned on the TV, the silence in the room having made him feel lonely.

It didn't take that long for Jungkook to enter the bedroom, the younger male appearing at Jimin's side with a plate of food in his hand.

“Here, little one. I'll go and take a shower. Eat up, hm?” Jungkook informed him as he handed Jimin the plate, the latter smiling at him as he reached for the dish.

“Thank you” Jimin uttered, his stomach threatening to do some flips and turns in delight and joy at the knowledge of soon being filled with a meal.

“I'll be quick” Jungkook promised, pressing a kiss to the top of Jimin's head before he disappeared into the bathroom, not caring to shut the door before he removed his clothes and stepped into the shower.

As soon as the water was running, Jimin dived right into his meal, his eyes fluttering shut at the taste of the warm food, his stomach thanking him.

The pink haired boy sat there in silence as he munched on his food, his gaze fixated on the events on the TV, yet barely keeping up as he hadn't paid much attention to the beginning of the show, the sudden turn of events too confusing for him.
It wasn't long until the water stopped running, Jimin finishing the last bite of his food and swallowing it down before he placed the dish on the nightstand. A mere minute later, Jungkook walked into bedroom, barely covered by a towel wrapped around his waist as he approached his dresser.

Jimin observed Jungkook’s movements, his eyes fixated his broad back as the younger male opened the top drawer to pick out some underwear.

“Did you take some of my clothes?” Jungkook wondered, turning around to look at Jimin with furrowed brows. The latter smiled shyly as he pulled the blanket up higher to hide his delicate body, figuring that Jungkook hadn't noticed him wearing a shirt of his upon their encounter downstairs in the kitchen.

To be fair, there hadn't been much time to really study each others appearances in the midst of the chaos that Jimin had been responsible for downstairs.

“Yes, I didn't have any clothes with me to change and I wanted to take a shower” Jimin answered, watching Jungkook have another glimpse into the drawer before he shut it and closed the distance between the two of them.

“Well, you know how I feel about you wearing my clothes” Jungkook noted with a smirk as he came to a halt in front of the bed, Jimin's eyes still glued to his handsome face, but rushing down to his exposed upper body, the sight causing Jimin to swallow hard. A few drops of water were cascading from Jungkook’s hair, his chest still faintly depicting dampness as the light fell on it.

Swiftly, Jimin forced his gaze back up, his cheeks flushing a shade of rose at the amusement glistening in Jungkook's eyes, the latter having caught Jimin staring at him in a clear display of him being distracted by Jungkook's naked body.

“Kitten”

“Mhm?” Jimin murmured, blinking as the flush on his cheeks darkened, Jungkook's smirk growing as he dropped the underwear on the bed next to Jimin.

It was entertaining to see Jimin be affected like that and earn such an adorable reaction from him, yet it also fed Jungkook's ego quite a bit.

“Well, you know how I feel about you wearing my clothes” Jungkook noted with a smirk as he came to a halt in front of the bed, Jimin's eyes still glued to his handsome face, but rushing down to his exposed upper body, the sight causing Jimin to swallow hard. A few drops of water were cascading from Jungkook’s hair, his chest still faintly depicting dampness as the light fell on it.

Swiftly, Jimin forced his gaze back up, his cheeks flushing a shade of rose at the amusement glistening in Jungkook's eyes, the latter having caught Jimin staring at him in a clear display of him being distracted by Jungkook's naked body.

“Kitten”

“Mhm?” Jimin murmured, blinking as the flush on his cheeks darkened, Jungkook's smirk growing as he dropped the underwear on the bed next to Jimin.

It was entertaining to see Jimin be affected like that and earn such an adorable reaction from him, yet it also fed Jungkook's ego quite a bit.

“Well, you know how I feel about you wearing my clothes” Jungkook wanted to know, cocking his head to the side as his fingers casually played with the hem of his towel, the taller boy hooking two of his digets around it as though he was about to drop it any second now to expose the entirety of his god-like figure.

"Oh god."

“Y-Yes” Jimin affirmed, his eyes involuntarily following the movement of Jungkook's fingers as he gulped at the sight. Unconsciously, Jimin drew his thighs together, aware of Jungkook's mischievous behaviour as he was cleary trying to tease Jimin.

Well, he was succeeding.

With a smirk adorning his handsome features, Jungkook dropped the towel without any warning. The smaller boy's eyes went wide at the sight, his stomach stirring as he felt the blush on his cheeks darkening. Swiftly, he pulled the blanket up higher to hide his face, too shy to remain eye contact with Jungkook who exuded such self-assurance.

At Jimin's reaction, Jungkook chuckled, putting on his underwear before Jimin was going to have a heart attack, “Cute” Jungkook noted softly, shaking his head at Jimin's timidity.
Just a day ago, Jimin had essentially begged Jungkook to be spanked until he came as a crying and babbling mess for him, then had dropped to his knees for Jungkook and had begged to suck his dick off as though his life depended on it.

The mere thought caused Jungkook to wet his lips, the image of Jimin's full lips wrapped around his dick such a sinful one. An angel as Jimin doing such obscene things shouldn't be as fucking arousal to him as it was.

Now, here he was was – that same endearing boy too shy to even look at Jungkook's naked body despite him having seen and touched it numerous times now – having done things to it that would make Jimin blush, if Jungkook were going to mention them now.

“I'm dressed now” Jungkook announced, reaching down to tug on the blanket in order to unveil Jimin's pretty face, “Little one, why are you hiding?” Jungkook chuckled once he had pulled away the duvet.

The smaller boy lowered himself down on the bed, swallowing hard as his eyes trailed over Jungkook's figure to ensure that he was in fact dressed – at least covered by some black briefs.

“I'm not hiding” Jimin protested softly, shaking his head as he met Jungkook's gaze.

“Good” Jungkook noted, brushing Jimin's fringe out of his face before his fingertips traced over his flushed cheek, “There is no reason to”

Clearly, Jungkook would never force Jimin to anything – not even something that was rather minor in Jungkook's eyes, like staring at the naked body of his boyfriend. The taller boy was aware that Jimin's timidity wasn't caused by him being scared by Jungkook.

No, on some occasions he just tends to be shy because that was part of his nature and Jungkook would always respect that.

After all, Jimin appeared to trust him enough and felt comfortable enough with him to allow his walls to fall down every now and then.

“I just... I was surprised” Jimin claimed.

Jungkook arched up and eyebrow as he lowered himself down on the bed next to Jimin, “Surprised, huh?” he echoed, lying down beside Jimin and propping himself up on his elbow sideways to enable himself to stare at Jimin.

“Yes” Jimin affirmed, clearing his throat, “You can't just... can't just do that” he added quieter, stealing a glimpse at Jungkook, yet averting his gaze right away as he caught the smug expression depicted on Jungkook's face.

“I can't?” Jungkook asked, leaning closer, “Why can't I?” he wanted to know, placing his hand on Jimin's covered stomach.

“Because...” Jimin whispered, swallowing hard as he observed Jungkook's hand, his palm remaining in its spot, but then rubbing slow circles over his stomach.

“Because?” the younger male repeated, urging Jimin to complete his sentence as he studied his features, endeared by Jimin's adorable expression.

The smaller boy wet his lips, inhaling a shaky breath as he noticed the way of goosebumps rising on his skin as a result of Jungkook caressing his stomach.
“You... You were doing that on purpose” Jimin answered eventually, forcing his gaze up to Jungkook's eyes, but his eyes rushed back down to Jungkook's hand as he felt the latter's palm wander beneath the fabric to touch Jimin's soft skin.

“Doing what?” Jungkook asked, Jimin gasping as Jungkook's fingertips traced over his bare skin, daring to move lower. The motion caused Jimin to draw his thighs together as he clenched his hands into petite fists in anticipation, yet Jungkook never went along with it entirely, was only teasing him and moved his hand back up, “Hm, kitten?”

“You dropped your towel on purpose” Jimin finally answered, his brain having completely forgotten about Jungkook's question upon the gentle caress on his skin that had utterly distracted him. His brain had needed a moment to organise its thoughts and prevent a shut down.

“Me?” Jungkook wondered, his eyes wide as though he was surprised by such an accusation, but the smug smirk on his handsome face gave him away, “Why would I do that?”

“Because you know” Jimin responded.

Slowly, Jungkook leaned in, pressing his lips to the back of Jimin's ear before he whispered, “I know what, little one?” His hot breath tickled on Jimin's skin, the latter's eyes fluttering shut as a whimper threatened to slip from his lips.

“That I... That you...” Jimin stuttered, but gave up.

“Yes?” Jungkook pressed, smirking against Jimin's skin before he pressed a kiss to his neck.

Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth, “It's naughty” he whispered.

“It's naughty?” Jungkook echoed, his voice a tone lower as his lips brushed over Jimin's ear, his palm proceeding to caress Jimin's stomach.

Those two mere sensations were already driving Jimin absolutely insane, causing arousal to bloom within him. Frankly, it was embarrassing how Jimin became utter putty in Jungkook's hands and was affected by him.

“Yes” Jimin affirmed softly.

Jungkook hummed lowly as his tongue licked a small stripe over Jimin's neck before he pressed a kiss to that exact spot, “Is this naughty, too?” he whispered into Jimin's ear with a smirk.

The pink haired boy whimpered, “Y-Yes”

“And this?” Jungkook asked, his palm trailing down to the waistband of Jimin's underwear, daring to wander below the fabric.

Unconsciously, Jimin arched up into the touch, his body silently begging for something before his voice was, “Mmh-mh”

“Was it naughty when you sucked me off yesterday, hm?” Jungkook wanted to know, stilling his hand as he waited for Jimin to reply.

“No” Jimin denied softly, shaking his head.

“No?” Jungkook echoed, pulling up his brows as he glanced at Jimin's face.

“I was being good” Jimin expressed, meeting Jungkook's gaze.
“You were” Jungkook agreed with a smile, “Such a good boy, hm?” he added as he leaned back in and peppered open-mouthed kisses over Jimin's throat.

“T-Thank you” Jimin breathed, tilting his head to the side in order to expose his neck to Jungkook, the boy smirking against his skin at how responsive Jimin was being.

“Good boys deserve to be rewarded, don't they?” the younger male reminded him as his fingers played with the waistband of Jimin's briefs.

At the action, Jimin gasped, his gaze rushing down to Jungkook's hands, but his eyes fluttered shut at the way Jungkook was kissing his neck, “I was already rewared” Jimin noted, “You... you made me come. Two times”

As soon as Jimin reminisced about that night, his stomach stirred in arousal. The images of Jungkook taking such good care of him resurfacing in his mind sent a shiver down his back. The pink haired boy had already been rewarded with mindblowing orgasms which had been more than fulfilling.

Jungkook hummed as he lifted his head, “You were being such a good boy” he stated, his pupils dilating in lust, “I want to reward you again”

Unconsciously, Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth, his heart pounding fast against his chest as he observed Jungkook's movement with big eyes. For a moment, Jungkook just stared at him as though he was awaiting for Jimin to permit him to touch him any further than this.

Gently, Jimin gave a nod in a nonverbal permission, yet Jungkook only smirked at him with dark eyes, but didn't play with him – like Jimin had hoped for.

“When was the last time you played with yourself, hm?” the black haired boy wanted to know instead, appearing to enjoy teasing Jimin a little too much.

“K-Kook-ah, please” Jimin begged, arching up into Jungkook's touch in order to convey how much he needed him.

How had it turned into this? Just half an hour ago, Jimin had cried after messing up Jungkook's kitchen. Now, here he was, begging Jungkook to touch and play with him as though Jungkook hadn't granted him two mindblowing orgasms just last night.

Was Jungkook right? Was Jimin really insatiable?

Yet, could you really blame him? How was he supposed to resist Jungkook?

“Want me to, hm?” Jungkook commented, needing Jimin to say it out loud.

“Y-Yes, please” Jimin whispered, mewling as soon as Jungkook's palm had wandered beneath the black briefs he was wearing.

“Aren't you going to answer me?” Jungkook wanted to know.

For a moment, Jimin believed that his brain had actually shut down. Somehow, he couldn't recall the question Jungkook had asked him just seconds ago. The desperation and sexual frustration of being touched was simply clouding his mind.

Suddenly, he remembered, relief washing over him as Jungkook's words rang in his mind.

Yet, Jimin couldn't recall the last time he had played with himself. Honestly. The sex with Jungkook was more than fulfilling – every single time.

Besides, Jimin preferred Jungkook's touch in comparison to his own by far. Surely, Jungkook had emphasised that he wanted Jimin to know his body just as well as Jungkook did, yet Jimin was never able to evoke the same intense feelings as Jungkook did – no matter how hard he tried.

The way Jungkook could make him feel just went beyond anything else Jimin had ever experienced.

“I-I don't know” Jimin responded breathy, “I can't remember” he added sincerely.

Tenderly, Jungkook closed his hand around Jimin's semi-hard length, giving it a squeeze before he ran the pad of his thumb along the sensitive tip.

“A-ah” Jimin gasped, twisting the sheets in his fists as he arched up his back.

“Sssh, little one” Jungkook cooed, pressing a kiss to Jimin's temple, but then lifting himself back up in order to be able to look at Jimin's face while he pleasured him. It was a sight itself to watch Jimin's pretty features scrunch up in pleasure, was a sensation itself to listen to the cute noises that slipped from his plump lips as he begged Jungkook for more. The black haired boy would never get enough of this.

“Feels good?” Jungkook asked as he tugged on Jimin's erection, intrigued to evoke more of those heavenly sounds from Jimin as though they were a beautiful melody he wanted to listen to for the rest of his life.

“Uh-huh” Jimin responded breathy, whimpering as he bucked up into Jungkook's fist, his penis now having grown to full hardness in Jungkook's hand.

“There you go” Jungkook praised him, speeding up the pace of his hand, his motion as skillful as ever as he curved his wrist in just the right way and tightened his grip at the tip to earn a moan from Jimin, “That's it, kitten”

“K-Kook-ah” the pink haired one mewled, his body shivering at the hot jolts of pleasure that Jungkook evoke in him. Involuntarily, his spread his legs further apart, deliberating whether to bend his knees or leave them be, yet then distracted by Jungkook's tight grasp around the tip of his erection, “O-Oh”

“What a good boy” Jungkook whispered into his ear after he had leaned close enough, the close proximity, the heat that was radiating from Jungkook's body and his breath that was fanning against Jimin's hot skin made this all the more effective.

Slowly, Jungkook tugged on the waistband of Jimin's black briefs, indicating to pull them down his legs in order to have better access to Jimin's intimate parts. The smaller boy's body twitched at the sudden act, Jungkook's hand immediately stilling.

“Okay?” he asked softly, refraining from touching Jimin and waiting for him to permit him to be touched again.

Inhaling a shaky breath, Jimin met Jungkook's gaze, searching for the softness that was hidden behind his gorgeous brown orbs. The younger male smiled at him in reassurance before he pressed a kiss to his forehead.

“Okay” Jimin whispered, permitting Jungkook to do whatever he desired. It's not that Jimin had hesitated due to his dislike or discomfort of Jungkook's touch or actions. No, he had simply been surprised by his intention to remove Jimin's briefs.
Evidently, Jungkook had touched and seen his bare body often enough for Jimin to be in a state where he felt entirely comfortable with the other one's touch or the fact of him seeing him naked. Yet, he couldn't suppress or deny the faint presence of nervousness that bloomed within Jimin whenever they were intimate.

Sometimes, he still felt shy for Jungkook to see him in his most vulnerable state. Not because he didn't trust him, but simply because... well, frankly, Jimin didn't know why. Certainly, he was just timid without any knowledge of why or how to banish it from his nature.

Gently, Jungkook pulled down his underwear to reveal Jimin's boner to his eyes, a smirk curving up his lips as he closed his hand around the erection.

“All good, hm?” Jungkook uttered, forcing his gaze away from Jimin’s dick that disappeared between his fist up to his beautiful brown eyes to ensure that he felt the utmost comfort.

“Y-Yes” Jimin affirmed with a nod, immediately drawn into the previous state of absolute pleasure as Jungkook began to pump his hard length.

The black haired boy proceeded to play with Jimin's penis for several minutes, loving how responsive Jimin was and how swiftly Jungkook was able to push him close to the edge.

“Lift your shirt up, baby” Jungkook insisted, watching drops of pre-cum leak from the slit of Jimin's dick. “We don't want you to get all messy again, hm?” he added with a smirk.

Jimin whimpered as he reached for the hem of his shirt with a shaky hand, obliging and pulling it up to reveal his bare upper body and to ensure that the piece of clothing wouldn't get dirty in the process of this.

“There you go, kitten” Jungkook murmured, “Are you close?” he asked, noticing the way Jimin's body was trembling in pleasure, his dick essentially throbbing in Jungkook's hand and the pretty sounds Jimin was making having increased in pitch and frequency.

“K-Kook-ah, please, a-ah,” Jimin begged, twisting the sheets in his hands as he arched up his back, his thighs shaking as he accelerated towards the edge, merely tipping over and falling into a state of utter ecstasy.

“Go ahead” Jungkook permitted, leaning in to lick over Jimin's sensitive nipple as he ran the pad of his thumb along the tip of Jimin's erection.

The smaller boy shrieked as he came, sperm spurting from his hard length as he rolled in on himself, the heavenly feeling exploding within him and sending jolts of pleasure through his entire being.

“Good boy” Jungkook praised him as his tongue lapped over Jimin's nipple, proceeding to tug on his hard length to prolong Jimin's orgasm.

“Jungkook-ah, o-oh god” Jimin whimpered, his body shaking vigorously as his hand reached up to slide through Jungkook's black locks. Gently, he gave it a tug in a silent request to get Jungkook to stop.

However, Jungkook looked up at him with arched up eyebrows, lifting his flat palm into the air before it came back down on Jimin's inner thigh as a warning. The pink haired boy gasped at the smack, another drop of cum leaking from his tip at the pain.

“Careful, little one” Jungkook whispered into his ear, his fingertips tracing over the puddle of cum on Jimin's stomach and collecting a good amount of it on his digits.
“P-Please, Kook-ah, n-no more” Jimin begged, realising he should have used his voice prior to tugging on Jungkook's hair. Yet, his mind was clogged with all of Jungkook and the mindblowing pleasure he had been granted. Frankly, it wasn't easy for Jimin to have any clear thought at this point. The haze of the pleasure was simply too sweet.

“Mhm-mh” Jungkook hummed in acknowledgement, pressing his fingers to Jimin's lips, “Open” he ordered as he stared deeply into Jimin's eyes.

Without hesitance, Jimin parted his lips to comply, his eyes fluttering shut as Jungkook pushed his digits past his lips with a smirk.

“Suck” Jungkook demanded.

The pink haired boy obeyed, closing his lips around his fingers and twirling his tongue around them. In the midst of his desire to behave, Jimin completely overlooked the fact that he was tasting his own cum on Jungkook's fingers.

Attentively, Jungkook studied Jimin's features, his eyes rushing up and down from Jimin's pretty eyes where something sultry was glistening in them to his pretty plump lips that were wrapped around his fingers.

Slowly, Jungkook removed his digits from Jimin's mouth, wetting his own lips at the sight of a streak of spit connecting his fingers to Jimin's mouth.

“Good boy” he praised, the other one smiling shyly.

“Thank you” Jimin uttered, swallowing hard at the intent stare of Jungkook.

“Let me clean up the rest” Jungkook decided with a smirk before he lifted himself up above Jimin, moving inbetween Jimin's spread legs and placing his hands on either side of Jimin's head.

For a moment, he was distracted by Jimin's angelic features, his hair having fallen in his face, yet the remainder of the pink locks sprawled out on the pillow and creating the image of a halo. The flush on his cheeks was pretty and matching the colour of his hair and his lips.

So fucking beautiful.

Jungkook reached down to brush Jimin's fringe out of his face before he lowered himself down and pressed his lips to Jimin's throat, “K-Kook-ah” Jimin breathed, catching his bottom lip between his teeth.

Tenderly, Jungkook placed a line of open-mouthed kisses down his upper body until he reached the faint display of a v-line on his body. Goosebumps had risen beneath his lips, the smaller boy unconsciously arching his back up into the touch of Jungkook's lips.

Slowly, Jungkook licked a trail up Jimin's torso to collect any left over sperm. The action tickled Jimin, causing him to giggle. As soon as he did, he clasped his hand over his mouth, seriously wanting to slap himself for ruining the mood. This was supposed to be a sensual moment – and it was, in all its entirety – but Jimin's giggling really wasn't the most appropriate reaction – yet don't blame Jimin for being ticklish!

The black haired boy glanced up at him with arched up eyebrows, the image of Jimin's crescent eyes and the sweet sound of his giggles doing that shit to his heart again that made it flutter.

“Sorry” Jimin apologised, his cheeks tinging a darker shade of rose as he made himself smaller.
Jungkook smiled at Jimin and shook his head, still lingering above Jimin's. The other one's arms closed around Jungkook's neck as he kissed right back, a breath slipping from his lips as Jungkook licked over his bottom lip before he pushed his tongue past his lips and met Jimin's.

They pulled apart too early for Jimin's liking, Jungkook withdrawing after pressing one last kiss to Jimin's nose.

Gently, he rolled off of Jimin and lowered himself down next to his lover before he reached for his briefs and pulled them back up to cover Jimin's private parts. In the meanwhile, Jimin slid down the shirt again, Jungkook then reaching for the blanket to tug the two of them in.

Jimin blinked, a soft breath falling from his lips as he rolled onto his side to snuggle up against Jungkook.

“Kook-ah” Jimin whispered, his hand moving beneath the fabric of the blanket to touch Jungkook's stomach. Then, his fingertips traced over his skin, down towards his most private parts, “Should I-”

“No, little one” Jungkook interrupted him, appearing to be aware of what Jimin had meant to ask and answering his unspoken question.

“Why?” Jimin wondered, meeting Jungkook's gaze with his innocent eyes.

Certainly, Jungkook had rejected Jimin's touch a few times before. The insecure and vulnerable part of Jimin tried to convince him that it was due to Jungkook's lack of interest and attraction to him.

Yet, the part that trusted Jungkook and felt secure in their relationship emphasised that Jungkook had declared his love for him during numerous occasions, had displayed his attraction to Jimin and the effect Jimin had on him during several incidents.

Somehow, it still caused him to feel insecure sometimes though. Evidently, Jungkook wasn't ought to allow Jimin to touch him whenever Jimin asked for it. On some nights, he might just not feel like it. In case Jimin would ever reject his touch, Jungkook would surely respect that, too.

Maybe, Jungkook just wanted Jimin to learn and understand that he didn't owe Jungkook anything back? Every time Jungkook had touched him, Jimin had desired to take care of him as well. However, not because Jimin felt obligated to, but because he wanted to.

Yet, perhaps Jungkook believed that Jimin did in fact feel forced to repay the favour.

“I wanted to reward you, baby” Jungkook responded, his hand gripping Jimin's chin to guide his face back up, “This isn't about me” he reminded him softly, stroking the pad of his thumb along Jimin's cheekbone.

“It can be” Jimin pointed out.

The younger male smiled, but shook his head, “Jimin-ah” he stressed, his voice carrying faint sternness in it.

“You always take care of me... I-” Jimin tried to reason, but went silent as he attempted to look for the right words.

“You take care of me, too. I just don't need to come right now, hm?” Jungkook noted, tilting his head to the side, “When I give, Jimin-ah, you don't have to give back, okay? I find enough pleasure in making you happy, little one” he added.
To be fair, Jimin found pleasure in making Jungkook happy as well. There was just something about being good and having such an effect on Jungkook that caused his heart to burst in joy.

“I know, but I want to give back” Jimin replied with a pout.

Jungkook smiled at him before he pressed a kiss to his cheek, sincerity visible in his brown eyes, “You give back by being mine, little one”

At those words, Jimin's heart fluttered, yet he also whined in disagreement. The pink haired one wanted to give him more than just that. Yes, all of Jimin belonged to him, but that wasn't enough in Jimin's eyes to justify the way Jungkook made him feel as alive as he did.

“Kook-ah” Jimin emphasised his name with a pout.

“You give back to me on other nights, hm?” Jungkook expressed, leaning closer to Jimin's ear, “And how you give back, baby”

The smaller boy's cheeks flushed at the low tone in Jungkook's voice, Jimin swiftly hiding his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck, “Just cuddles then?” he murmured.

“Sounds perfect”

At that, Jungkook closed his arms around him to embrace the boy, Jimin nuzzling his face into the crook of Jungkook's neck and inhaling his comforting scent, his eyes fluttering shut at the safety and warmth that engulfed him.

For minutes, they just remained in that stance, neither of them aware of how much time had passed, yet not caring either as they desired nothing more than to be as close as this to one another.

They could fall asleep like this, all snuggled up together, their hearts beating to the same beat, but Jimin wasn't as tired just yet. Despite his eyes falling shut every now and then, his mind was still wide awake.

“Did you have a hard day at work?” the pink haired boy asked quietly after several moments of silence.

Gently, Jimin reached up to slide his hand through Jungkook's hair, playing with his black locks as he waited for the other one to answer.

“No, just long” Jungkook answered, “Two meetings and I had to do some revision. There is a potential investor my father has his eyes on” he informed Jimin.

The smaller boy hummed to display that he was listening, his fingertips gently scratching over Jungkook's scalp as he was proceeding to play with his hair.

At the tender touch, Jungkook's eyes fluttered shut, his features softening simultaneously. Curiously, Jimin tilted his head to the side, studying Jungkook's face that appeared a lot younger that way.

Sometimes, Jimin forgot how young he was, forgot that he was actually two years younger than Jimin himself. However, Jungkook was just so much more mature, had so much more authority and power that it slipped from Jimin's memory sometimes that he was only in his early twenties. Despite his young age, he was already the head of such an impactful company, all of those people dependant on him and his father.

That must be burdensome, Jimin thought, although Jungkook surely wouldn't ever admit to that. The black haired boy was simply too determined to uphold a strong demeanor.

“I met a lot of trainees today” Jimin shared with him, “I didn’t expect to feel that way” he added softer, a faint display of a pout adorning his beautiful features.

“What way?” Jungkook wanted to know.

“It was kind of... I don't know, I can't explain it, but my heart ached at the realisation of all of them sharing the same dream, but only some of them making the final cut. That must be so mentally challenging” Jimin responded, his voice carrying sadness.

“It is” Jungkook agreed, his fingertips tracing over Jimin's back, “I talk to my father quite often about the necessity of a psychologist that would be provided for the trainees to talk to, check on their mentality and stuff” he informed Jimin.

The smaller boy's eyebrows shot up in surprise, his hand stilling its movement as he met Jungkook's gaze, “What did he say?”

“It's one of the things we argue about quite often” Jungkook revealed with a sigh, shaking his head, “My father doesn't think it's necessary and that the trainees can choose to see a therapist or psychologist themselves, if they see the need to” he added and wet his lips, “The thing is, that shit is expensive and these kids might not have the means to see one or even realise that seeing a psychologist is helpful or even necessary. I just don't get why he doesn't get that into his head. We've both been through therapy so he's one that should know about what wonders it can do”

“Kook-ah, it's amazing that you thought of something like that” Jimin commented, his heart warming. After seeing the trainees today, Jimin wouldn't disagree with the necessity of a psychologist to help them in any way they could, “Your father might not agree with you because he believes your situations are different. After all, you two experienced a trauma”

Obviously, one wasn't only entitled to see a psychologist at the premise of having experienced a trauma. There was no such thing as a requirement that you had to fulfill in order to be allowed to talk to someone professional about whatever bothered your heart.

In any case, you were entitled to see one, if you felt the need to or simply because you wanted to. Perhaps, Mr. Jeon didn't agree with that narrative, though. Perhaps, his perception on this issue was different. Perhaps, he believed that one was only ought to see a psychologist, if they've experienced some heavy stuff.

Apparently, what the trainees experienced mentally every single day wasn't enough for him.

After all, Jimin couldn't even assume that Mr. Jeon didn't want to hire a psychologist because of the necessity to pay them and the refusal to do that. For that, Mr. Jeon possessed way too much money. There were so many assets to his name, a whole fortune that belonged to him. It was unlikely that his rejection would be attributed to his lack of money – especially at the knowledge of how many accountants he had employed.

One psychologist wasn't much to ask for, was it?

“That's stupid” the taller male ranted, anger displayed on his face as he frowned.
Jimin shook his head at Jungkook, proceeding to play with his hair in hope of calming him down, “Kook-ah, don't insult your father”

“I'm not insulting him” Jungkook claimed, “I'm annoyed by his actions”

Well, Jimin would be lying, if he'd say that he wasn't able to understand Jungkook. Frankly, Jimin couldn't comprehend why Mr. Jeon was so keen on refusing this idea.

“I really like your idea” Jimin stated, smiling softly as he propped his chin up on Jungkook's chest, “Seeing those trainees today was just...” Jimin expressed, his smile faltering as the images of today resurfaced in his mind, “They were all so nervous. I think some of them even cried. I felt so bad... It must be so utterly challenging. Physically, mentally and emotionally. They must be so scared of the uncertainty of their future. Talking to someone professional to not lose yourself in all of that might really help” Jimin noted.

Jungkook hummed lowly, the sound vibrating in his chest, “Thank you. Can you come upstairs next time we argue about that shit and say that again? You might be able to talk some fucking sense into my father” “Can't you make that decision on your own?” Jimin wondered, figuring that Jungkook had a major influence himself. After all, he had been the CEO of that particular building for as long as Mr. Jeon had been absent. Surely, now that he had merged the two separate headquarters into one sole one in Seoul, he had returned to the final spot as the CEO with the utmost power, but Jungkook was still a co-owner. In the end, he was even the heir, wasn't he? Surely, he possessed a certain amount of power, too.

The taller boy's hand moved below Jimin's shirt, his warm palm rubbing over Jimin's soft skin on his back, “Well, technically, I can go behind his back and organise that stuff on my own, but he's the one who makes the final call on things so he'll be pissed off, if I do that without his permission” Jungkook answered, but then furrowed his brows, “Fuck, I might just do it”

Swiftly, Jimin shook his head, giving Jungkook's chest a gentle smack, “Don't get yourself in trouble, Kook-ah” he warned the other one, “Maybe you can convince him during another conversation with him” Jimin suggested, believing that intentionally violating his father's refusal might not be the most beneficial move for Jungkook.

In the end, he might even be in a lot of trouble for that and increase the distance between them despite all the work they've put into rebuilding their bond over the past months. Frankly, Jimin didn't want to see them be distant. That relationship was important for both of their hearts that had needed such a long time to mend.

After all, Jungkook was the only son he had – and Mr. Jeon was the only parent Jungkook had left. They needed one another.

Jungkook snorted, “Yeah, right”

Jimin titled his head to the side, “I thought your father listens to you”

“Sometimes” the younger male answered with a shrug of his shoulders, “I wouldn't be where I am today, if he didn't value my opinion and actions somehow, but he values his own opinion more – which I guess I can understand” he added.

The smaller boy stared at Jungkook's face for a moment longer before he lowered his head again and rested his cheek on Jungkook's broad chest, “I hope you can convince him” he noted softly.
“Me too” Jungkook sighed.

Gently, Jimin nuzzled his cheek against Jungkook's chest, still playing with Jungkook's hair while the other one was caressing his back. For a moment, they just remained in that stance, not noticing how much time was passing by, but not really caring either.

In the silence surrounding them, it was inevitable for Jimin's mind to run wild as it always did, thoughts resurfacing that he had surpressed or hidden somewhere for them to not occupy his mind too much.

Somehow, Jimin couldn't help but wonder how Tae, Hoseok and Yoongi were doing. Every moment that Jimin spent thinking and worrying about them, he wished to be able to simply ask them and find out how things were going.

The pink haired boy withdrew his hand from Jungkook's hair, refraining from playing with it as he lifted his head up. However, the black haired one hummed in dissatisfaction, appearing to dislike Jimin's loss. Tenderly, Jungkook closed his hand around Jimin's wrist and moved it back up to his own hair, his eyes still pressed shut as though he was soon going to fall asleep.

Softly, Jimin smiled, giggling as he ran his hand through Jungkook's hair again to play with his black locks, obliging Jungkook's nonverbal request.

“Jungkook-ah?” Jimin then asked quietly, averting his gaze and instead resting his head on Jungkook's chest again.

The other one hummed in acknowledgement of Jimin addressing him, “Yes, little one” he then murmured.

“How do you feel about threesomes?” Jimin found himself wonder before he was able to withhold his heart.

Jungkook knitted his brows as soon as those words had slipped from Jimin's lips, “What did you just say?” he wanted to know, clearly believing that his ears must have deceived him.

“What do you think about threesomes?” Jimin repeated his question, clearly not catching on to the red lights that were flashing at him, trying to warn him. Instead, Jimin was proceeding to play with Jungkook's hair, almost casual about the question.

Well, Jimin's lack of timidity was attributed to Jimin's curiosity regarding something that three of his closest friends were involved in. Usually, Jimin would find himself be a blushing and stuttering mess by now, if this was anything sexual that he would want to try with Jungkook.

Suddenly, Jungkook's eyes shot back open as he met Jimin's gaze, “What I think about them?” he asked, his hand on Jimin's back having long stilled, no longer caressing his soft skin.

Jimin blinked, “Yes” he responded softly.

“Why do you ask?” Jungkook wanted to know, his gaze flickering back and forth between Jimin's eyes.

Abort. Abort. Abort misson!

The smaller boy swallowed hard, trying his utmost best to resist the urge to be honest – sincerity just being a trait within his nature, thus making it difficult and a real effort to not just burst out the truth.
However, Jimin needed to protect Tae, Hoseok and Yoongi. After all, Taehyung had asked him – even begged him to promise him – to not say a word to any of the others. Obviously, Jimin was going to keep that promise.

“I'm... just curious” Jimin answered, which wasn't even that far from the truth as he had asked Jungkook in the first place in an attempt to subtly learn about how Jungkook viewed such a situation.

“Jimin-ah, are you trying to propose something here?” Jungkook asked him, “If you are, then fuck no” he declined, shaking his head.

Jimin furrowed his brows, “Huh?”

“We are not going to have a threesome” the younger male decided, his grasp around Jimin tightening, “There's no fucking way I'm sharing you with anyone”

The pink haired boy's eyes went wide.

Well, this had backfired. Clearly, Jimin had not mentioned this topic because he wanted to have a threesome!

“I was-” Jimin tried to clarify, but went silent upon Jungkook speaking up again, the latter appearing to not even have registered Jimin's voice.

“There will not be one fucking person on this planet that will see you in your most vulnerable state like that, but me” Jungkook stated, seemingly angered by the mere thought of it as he pulled Jimin even closer to himself as though he was trying to close even the smallest fraction of distance between them, “Fuck no. That's not going to happen. You're min-”

“Kook-ah!” Jimin interrupted him, raising his voice in volume in an attempt to gain Jungkook's attention, “I wasn't asking you because I want one” he clarified, his cheeks flushing a shade of rose.

Finally, Jungkook met his gaze again, his eyes staring deeply into Jimin's, “Good” he simply uttered, loosening his grasp around Jimin.

At his behaviour, Jimin rolled his eyes, but couldn't contain the smile that curved his lips, “You're unbelievable” he murmured, nuzzling his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck.

“And you're mine” the younger male repeated, pressing a kiss to Jimin's temple.

“Silly” Jimin mumbled, although his heart fluttered at the sweet action.

Jungkook gave his butt a tender tap, “What was that?” he asked.

The pink haired boy giggled as he lifted his head to meet Jungkook's gaze, “I said you're silly” he repeated, his voice no longer muffled.

Jungkook arched up an eyebrow, a smirk adorning his handsome features, “Careful, little one” he warned as he gave Jimin's bottom another gentle tap.

“Be quiet” Jimin chuckled, swatting Jungkook's chest, “I was just asking you out of curiosity” he added softer, addressing the topic once more as he was very curious after all. In fact, he wondered whether Jungkook had ever have one himself, “Did you ever have one?” he asked after mustering enough courage.

A moment of hesitance.
Jungkook stared into Jimin's eyes for a moment, studying his features before he decided to answer. Due to that reaction, Jimin wondered whether there had been an ounce of hesitation as Jungkook had seriously needed to contemplate whether or not he had ever been involved in one – which, well, seemed unlikely as Jimin was certain that one would surely remember such an experience, no? – or wether Jungkook had to think about whether or not he wanted Jimin to know the truth – Perhaps assuming that it might hurt Jimin.

“Yes, I have” Jungkook responded with a nod, his hand moving below Jimin's shirt again to rub his palm over his back.

Jimin furrowed his brows, “Wait, so you're allowed to have one, but I'm not?” he concluded. Just moments ago, Jungkook had clearly displayed his dislike of threesomes and his refusal of allowing Jimin to have one, yet he had had one himself?

Jungkook gripped Jimin's chin, guiding his face up in order to lock eyes with him, “Do you fucking want one?” Jungkook asked, frowning at Jimin, but as soon as Jimin shook his head, his features softened, “Dammit, Jimin-ah, stop that”

The smaller boy wrapped his delicate hand around Jungkook's wrist to softly pull his hand away from his chin, “I don't want one, but you had one and that's...” Jimin trailed off, digging his teeth into his bottom lip, “I never knew that”

Jungkook wet his lips, “Well, I don't remember much of it anyway” he declared, frowning as he appeared to be reminiscing about that incident – or at least attempting to do so, “I was pretty drunk that night” he revealed.

“That was the only time?” Jimin found himself ask, not able to contain his curiosity.

“Yes” Jungkook affirmed with a nod, his gaze flickering back and forth between Jimin's eyes again before he added, “I won't ever have a threesome again”

At that, Jimin pulled up his eyebrows, “Never?”

“No, not as long as you're mine. I can't share you. The thought alone makes my blood boil. Fuck, just imagining you moaning out another name makes me sick” the black haired boy responded, his jaw locking as he digged his fingers into Jimin's soft flesh.

“I don't want one, really” Jimin reassured him softly, leaning in to press his lips to Jungkook's neck, the action appearing to calm Jungkook who loosened his grip, “I was just... I don't know... I just thought about some things and that's one thing that occupied my mind” he elaborated, attempting to convey that he wasn't interested in having a threesome himself, yet aware that he wasn't capable to tell the entire truth as that could put Tae's 'secret' and the promise Jimin had made at stake, thus Jimin tried to be subtle.

Jungkook knitted his brows, “You thought about threesomes?” he clarified, “How so?” he wondered, curiosity depicted on his face.

“Well, I...” Jimin uttered, but went silent as his mind was racing in an attempt to establish an answer that would not give away Tae's secret.

However, whenever Jimin tried to think of anything else, but that one particular thing he didn't want to think about it, it appeared that his mind couldn't manage to think about anything else but that certain thing.

“I saw something that.” Jimin eventually murmured, reckoning that it wasn't reprehensible or that it lacked in probability to have come across a topic as this one somewhere – anywhere. In fact, Jimin had actually done some research on polyamorous relationships just out of curiosity and in hope of confirming his desire that a relationship like that could truly work out.

“Did you watch porn?” Jungkook interrupted him, his brows shooting up in surprise.

What?

Jimin's eyes went wide, the boy vigorously shaking his head, “No! No, I didn't see it in porn! Kook-ah!” he exclaimed, almost whining.

Jungkook chuckled at Jimin's adorable reaction, amusement glistening his eyes as he rubbed his palm over Jimin's back for comfort, the latter's cheeks flushing a shade of rose at Jungkook's accusation.

“Have you ever... even watched porn?” the younger male then wondered, arching up an eyebrow as he cocked his head to the side.

There was no doubt that this was an intimate question, but somehow Jungkook couldn't even imagine Jimin having ever watched anything pornographic at all – Not with the lack of knowledge and experience he had possessed prior to their relationship.

“No, I haven't” Jimin answered, his blush darkening as he shook his head, resisting the urge to hide his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck, but remaining eye contact instead.

“Interesting” Jungkook noted.

“Have you?” Jimin found himself ask, not certain whether he actually wanted to know the answer to that question, though.

Jungkook smirked, brushing Jimin's fringe out of his face, “Well, I'll leave that up to your imagination” he responded.

“Answer me!” Jimin pressed with a whine, giving Jungkook's chest a gentle smack.

At the action, Jungkook chuckled again, closing his hand around Jimin's wrist to restrain him from hitting him any more than that, “Feisty today, hm?” he commented teasingly, his voice lower.

“Kook-ah!” Jimin expressed, pouting.

“I have” the taller boy answered, allowing Jimin's wrist to slip from his grasp after having pressed a kiss to his knuckles, “Of course, I have”

“Do you... do you still watch it?” Jimin wanted to know, dipping his head down in timidity and faint embarrassment.

“No, kitten, I don't” the other one responded without an ounce of hesitation.

“Be honest. It's okay, if you... if you do” Jimin pressed softly, figuring that Jungkook might have lied because he believed Jimin might be hurt or feel insecure by learning about the truth.

Frankly, Jimin didn't understand why someone would voluntarily even watch porn at all because he was certain that the thought of watching other people have sex was frightening. Then again, it might not be the case for other people.

“I am honest, little one” Jungkook reassured him.
“Okay” Jimin uttered, giving a nod.

After all, Jungkook was always truthful with him, wasn't he? Hence, there was no reason for him to lie about something as petty as this.

Gently, Jungkook grabbed Jimin's chin to guide his face back up, “Now, do you want to tell me why you brought up threesomes?” he asked.

“I just read something about polyamorous relationships” Jimin responded softly.

In fact, Jimin had read quite a lot of things about relationships of that kind. All the more did it ease Jimin's heart to learn that people were able to make a relationship like that work and that it wasn't actually as uncommon as Jimin had believed for it to be.

“Oh?”

Jimin cleared his throat, “I was curious about what that was and then I just wondered about how threesomes work and... and so on” Jimin reasoned as he wet his lips, “I was curious to know what you think about that”

Hopefully, Jimin hadn't made it so obvious.

For a moment, Jungkook just stared deeply into his eyes. Perhaps, he was trying to find more answers in Jimin’s eyes. Perhaps, he was able to catch that there was more to this than Jimin gave away.

The smaller boy shifted in his position, remaining eye contact with Jungkook to maintain the subtle demeanor. Fortunately, it seemed to work.

“I mean, I don't remember much, but it was an interesting experience” Jungkook stated eventually, furrowing his brows as he appeared to recall the night, “Slightly more work to pleasure both, but I have good stamina-”

“Of course” Jimin mumbled, shaking his head, but smiling at Jungkook's answer.

Jungkook chuckled, “Yeah, we both know how much you enjoy that for yourself, kitten” he pointed out with a smirk, brushing Jimin's hair out of his face.

“Be quiet” Jimin murmured, indicating to swat Jungkook's chest again, yet the latter closed his hand around Jimin's wrist, managing to restrain him from smacking him.

“I guess everyone has to decide for themselves whether that's something they want to do and whether they actually enjoy it when they try” Jungkook added, resuming the conversation about the topic at hand, “I wasn't romantically into those girls, so having a threesome in a polyamorous relationship is surely a completely different experience than mine was. I've told you before that sex with you is different to any sex I've had before. I'm sure it's the same in that case”

The pink haired boy hummed after he had processed those words, finding himself agreeing with that statement. Clearly, Jimin had never had that experience himself, yet Jungkook's words seemed plausible.

“Do you think it could work?” Jimin found himself whisper.

“What?”
“A relationship like that?” Jimin clarified.

Jungkook tilted his head to the side, “If they can make it work somehow where all of them feel included, sure. It might not be the most common thing, but fuck that. For me, that's not a possibility though. I will never be able to share you with anyone else” he expressed, shaking his head again. For a moment, he studied Jimin's beautiful features, furrowing his brows at the concern he was able to define in Jimin's eyes, “You're worrying me, angel. Are you sure you don't want to tell me something?”

“Yeah, it's nothing” Jimin assured him, brushing it off as he wasn't allowed to talk about the actual reason for his curiosity.

“There is no other boy I need to look out for?” Jungkook wanted to know, his grasp around Jimin tightening again.

The smaller boy giggled, shaking his head, “Kook-ah, don't be silly. There is only you, I promise you”.

The thought of there being someone else was... impossible for Jimin. Truthfully, he didn't believe that there would ever be someone that could make him feel as alive and happy and loved and... and safe and taken care of and... and so much more. No one, but Jungkook. There was no one that could compare to that.

“Good” Jungkook commented smugly.

As they were at the topic of rare sexual practices – well, maybe they weren't as rare, but to Jimin they were – his brain couldn't help but bring up another thought that had occupied his mind for a while now...

“Can I ask you something else?” Jimin wondered softly, “Something entirely different, but something I've been thinking about, too?”

Jungkook's gaze flickered back and forth between Jimin's brown orbs, amusement flashing in his own eyes, “What's up with all of these questions today? Did you do some research, little one?” he asked.

“No” Jimin chuckled, shaking his head, “Just... I don't know, I thought about it before, but I was too scared to ask you” he added quieter, sounding almost unsure as he lowered his head down.

“Why?” Jungkook asked, pulling his brows together in a frown as he grabbed Jimin's chin, guiding it back up to lock eyes with him.

“I don't know” Jimin answered genuinely.

“Baby, you don't ever have to be scared, understood?” Jungkook stated, caressing Jimin's cheek.

Of course, Jimin was aware that Jungkook would never judge him or laugh at him for raising any of his many questions regarding any topic at all, but especially their most intimate moments. However, he couldn't help the timidity that bloomed within him whenever he was curious about stuff like this.

“I know” Jimin murmured, giving a nod as he inhaled a deep breath, “I just... Have you ever thought about bottoming?” he asked softly, having bundled up all the courage he could muster and deciding to just ask away as long as the bravery hadn't faltered yet.

The younger male's eyes went wide as he choked on his own spit. Swiftly, Jimin sat up, concerned by Jungkook's behaviour and determining that allowing him enough space to move around freely was the most beneficial thing.

“Are you okay?” Jimin asked, his voice full of worry as he reached over to the nightstand for a bottle of water that he opened up and handed Jungkook. Carefully, he reached out to caress Jungkook’s cheek, wondering whether he shouldn’t have asked that question. However, a small percentage of Jimin assumed that this reaction might have been caused by another phenomenon or event.

Yet, that seemed to be less probable.

“B-Bottomed?” Jungkook echoed, still coughing.

Hesitantly, Jimin gave a weak nod, feeling his cheeks heat up as he watched Jungkook jug down his water in order to calm his throat.

Once he set the bottle down again, Jungkook appearing to have been able to banish the irritating itch in his throat, his gaze rushed back and forth between Jimin's doe eyes, the boy studying his features intently.

“Y-Yeah...” Jimin affirmed quietly, “Have you?”

From the first day on, Jimin had never even considered to be the one penetrating Jungkook – ever. Right from the get go of their encounters, Jimin had always only desired for Jungkook to be the one penetrating him. For some reason, Jimin had never even seen himself playing the other part, had lacked the ability to even imagine that scenario.

After Jungkook had first had sex with him, the pink haired boy had realised that he enjoyed sex in that particular dynamic so much that he never wanted to change it and had been determined in that decision. In the end, Jimin had believed that he had found his part and would be a bottom through and through.

Yet, one conversation with Taehyung had evoke curiosity in Jimin. As soon as Jimin had learned about the term 'switch' he had realised that people didn't have to be squished into boxes. One didn't have to label themselves as only a bottom or a top, no, one could enjoy being both simultaneously.

Nevertheless, Jimin hadn't desired to be the one penetrating Jungkook. Yet, he couldn't help but feel curious whether Jungkook had ever been active as the other part. From the very first day, their dynamics had fallen into place like perfect puzzle pieces, Jungkook having known from the very beginning that he would be the one penetrating Jimin without even having to ask Jimin.

However, perhaps he had never asked Jimin because being a bottom was not an option for Jungkook himself.

Quite frankly, Jimin wondered whether he could even decide entirely whether being a bottom was the only imaginable way for him, if Jimin had never tried being active as the other part.

“No. No, I haven’t” Jungkook eventually answered, shaking his head.

Interesting, Jimin thought.

Maybe, Jungkook just enjoyed the dominant top role way too much to even consider being the other part. Maybe, it was just not part of his nature just like being dominant wasn't in Jimin's.

“Oh” Jimin uttered, “Never never?”
“Yes, never” Jungkook affirmed with a nod.

“Why?” Jimin found himself wonder.

Surely, he didn't need to have a reason for not doing something, yet Jimin was curious whether there was one.

Was he scared? That seemed very unlikely.

Just not interested? Potentially.

Enjoyed being active as the other part way too much? Probably.

“I just never wanted to” the black haired one answered, shrugging his shoulders.

“Oh, okay” Jimin responded, giving a nod as he snuggled closer to Jungkook again, the latter closing his arm around his delicate body to caress his back.

“Why do you ask, little one?” Jungkook wanted to know, glancing down at Jimin, but the other one didn’t meet his gaze.

“I was just... curious” Jimin answered.

“Are you thinking about topping?” Jungkook asked, arching up his eyebrows. There was no humour in his voice, just plain curiosity.

“N-No. No, I just...” Jimin stuttered, the flush on his cheeks darkening as he shook his head.

“Tell me” Jungkook insisted softly, his fingertips tracing over Jimin's back.

“I just wondered what it felt like” Jimin replied, “Honestly, I love our sex life the way it is, but I just wondered... what it would feel like to... you know, be the other part for once. I'm not sure, if it's really for me, but... yeah”

The feeling of being penetrated by Jungkook was utter bliss, but Jimin wondered how it felt like to be the other part for once – whether he found pleasure and enjoyment in that, too.

“So, you want to try it?” Jungkook concluded, not amused or mocking at all, just attentive and taking Jimin serious.

“I don't know” Jimin murmured, digging his teeth into his bottom lip, “Maybe? One day? I understand, if you don't want to, especially if you've never done it before... It must mean that you enjoy the way things are”

For a moment, Jungkook just stared at Jimin, the other one feeling shy under the intense gaze, thus not capable to meet Jungkook's gaze, but nuzzling his face into the curve of Jungkook's neck instead.

“I don't see myself bottoming” Jungkook decided, breaking the silence, “I don't know why”

“That's okay” Jimin uttered, half smiling, “I understand” he added, shaking his head at himself, “It was a stupid thought anyway” he mumbled, his voice carrying something vulnerable within it.

“No, little one-” Jungkook protested swiftly, pulling the boy closer to himself and grabbing his chin to lift his face back up in order to lock eyes with Jimin, “Fuck, let me think about it, okay?” he suggested, the pad of his thumb gently running along Jimin's cheek.
“Really?” Jimin asked, eyes wide as a smile curved his lips.

“Yeah” Jungkook affirmed, giving a nod before he pressed a kiss to Jimin's forehead.

------

“What a coincidence to see you here, Jimin-ssi” a male voice noted, earning Jimin's attention, the boy having been focused on the papers in his hands that he had offered to get for Hoseok who had forgotten them upstairs at Mr. Jeon's office.

The smaller boy smiled at the realisation of who the voice belonged to, a familiar face getting on the elevator with him.

“Ah, Ryan-ssi, hey” Jimin uttered, “It's nice to see you again”

Meeting Ryan again was definitely a pleasant sight. Today was only Jimin's second day working at the company, meaning he hadn't met that many people yet to befriend. Aside from Jungkook, Jin and Hoseok, there was no one he was really close to.

“You, too” Ryan responded with a grin, as he pushed his brown hair back, “How's your second day going?” he wanted to know.

“Good so far” Jimin responded truthfully.

Earlier, Hoseok and him had completed their task of teaching a new part of a choregraphy to a certain group of trainees. Honestly, it had been so much fun to be as involved as he was today. The pink haired boy couldn't wait for more experiences like that.

“Haven't pushed over a stack of important papers that someone has spent two hours to organise yet? Or spilled coffee all over someone? Wow, then your day must be going incredibly well” Ryan commented, causing Jimin to raise up his eyebrows in surprise at the very specific description and questions.

“What?” Jimin uttered, “Did that happen to you?”

Ryan remained silent, only clearing his throat.

Jimin narrowed his eyes in suspicion.

“It might have” Ryan responded eventually, “It definitely isn't one of my proudest days” he added with a chuckle, scratching over the back of his neck.

The smaller boy giggled, parting his lips in the midst of voicing his pity for Ryan, yet went silent as the elevator came to a halt again before the doors opened to grant another figure entrance.

Jungkook.

Immediately, Jimin's heart fluttered at the sight, a soft smile adorning his beautiful features as he observed Jungkook getting on the elevator with them.

“Hello, Mr. Jeon” Ryan greeted the black haired one, managing a polite bow at his boss.

“Ah, hello, Sir” Jimin uttered softly as he bent forward to bow at Jungkook as well.

Clearing his throat, Jungkook stared at Jimin for a moment before he arched up an eyebrow at Jimin's suspicious smile, then coming to a halt next to Jimin and turning around to face the elevator doors that were about to shut, yet Ryan swiftly put his feet between the doors to prevent them from closing.

“I have to get off now” Ryan announced, appearing to remember that it was the floor he had desired to go to, “See you around, Jimin-ssi” he smiled at Jimin before he addressed Jungkook with a nother bow, “Mr. Jeon”

With that, he left the elevator, Jimin watching the doors shut close in front of his eyes, thus being left behind with Jungkook who cleared his throat again.

“See you around, huh?” he noted, stealing a glimpse at Jimin, “So you two are friends now or what?” he wanted to know.

The pink haired boy met his gaze, his eyebrows shooting up in surprise, “Mhm? Ryan-ssi?” he clarified, although he was aware that Jungkook was referring to him.

“Yes” Jungkook responded firmly, wetting his lips.

“Well, he's being nice to me” Jimin reasoned with a sweet smile.

“I see” Jungkook murmured, his gaze rushing down to Jimin's lips before he forced it back up to his eyes.

“Is that bad?” Jimin wanted to know, finding himself frown at the way Jungkook was appearing to be a little annoyed.

“No” Jungkook replied, turning to the front again and looking at the elevator doors, “As long as he doesn't make a move on you” he added.

“Kook-ah” Jimin emphasised his name, the other one turning to stare at him again.

“What?”

“Nothing” Jimin muttered, shaking his head and leaning against the wall.

The taller boy turned his entire body towards Jimin, crossing his arms over his chest, “You're going to tell me, understood?” he insisted firmly.

“Tell you what?” Jimin asked, confused by the sudden demand.

“If he makes a move on you – or is mean to you. Whatever. Matter fact, let me know, if anyone in this company at all is rude or mean to you” Jungkook elaborated, his eyebrows knitted.

“Kook-ah” Jimin murmured again.

Certainly, Jimin was not going to rush off to Jungkook and inform him, if anything like that would occur. There was not a doubt in Jimin's mind that hell would break loose as soon as Jungkook knew.
Then again, they had established a prominent level of trust and honesty in their relationship and it might not be a good idea to keep something like that from Jungkook either.

After all, what if something as frightening as the incidents with Dongha would occur again?

A shiver ran down Jimin's back at the thought of Dongha. The two of them hadn't seen each other in a while. Frankly, it was almost as though the brown haired boy had vanished entirely without a word.

It was weird.
Jimin shook his head, drawing himself out of the thoughts about Dongha and forcing his concentration on Jungkook who was staring at him intently.

“What?”

“What would you do, if anyone is mean to me?” Jimin found himself ask – although he could already assume the answer to that question. It wasn’t difficult to assess Jungkook’s behaviour and conclude that there would be bad repercussions for the culprit that would be mean to Jimin.

“Well, fire them” the other male responded nonchalantly.

“Kook-ah!” Jimin exclaimed again, shaking his head at the statement.

“What? I don't need anyone working for me that's a piece of shit” Jungkook stressed firmly.

“What if they just don't like me?” Jimin pointed out, titling his head to the side, “Not everyone has to like me”

“First of all, if anyone doesn't like you that's already suspicious behaviour” Jungkook claimed, frowning as though it was a ridiculous thought for someone to dislike Jimin, “How can anyone not like an angel like you? Secondly, not liking someone and being rude or mean towards someone are two different things” he explained.

“I'm not going to tell you” Jimin decided, crossing his arms over his chest, “I would feel awful running off to you like a little kid telling their parent that they've been teased in school. I'm old enough to handle a conflict on my own, if any should arise”

After all, Jimin wasn't a child anymore. The pink haired boy possessed the ability to take care of himself. Surely, other employees didn’t run off to Jungkook, if there was a minor conflict either. Jimin didn’t want to use his relationship to Jungkook like that. That was unfair.

“Jimin-ah-” Jungkook pressed.

“Kook-ah, please” Jimin interrupted him softly.

“I don't want you to have to work in an uncomfortable environment like that” Jungkook stated, “If anyone is mean to-”

“Then let me handle it on my own” Jimin interfered again, taking a step closer, “Please”

The taller boy’s gaze flickered back and forth between Jimin’s eyes before he groaned and shook his head, yet couldn't hide the smile that curved his lips, “Fuck, you're damn stubborn” he commented.

“You're the one talking” Jimin giggled, shaking his head.

They stared at each other for a moment longer, Jimin certain that he was getting lost in Jungkook’s gorgeous eyes, yet fortunately, the taller boy averted his gaze down to his arms.

Still smirking, Jungkook reached for the cuffs of his shirt, opening them up before he rolled up his sleeve, then repeating the action for his other arm.

At the sight of Jungkook’s bare, veiny arms, Jimin found himself gulp. Swiftly, he forced his gaze back up to Jungkook’s eyes, his cheeks flushing a shade of rose as he noticed the amusement in Jungkook’s brown orbs as the boy had caught Jimin staring longingly at him.

“What's up with that Sir, hm?” Jungkook asked, his stare intent as he wet his lips.
The smaller boy swallowed hard, surprised by the sudden question, “You're my boss now” Jimin responded softly, “I was just being polite” he reasoned.

In fact, the two of them had decided that Jimin didn't need to refer to him as Sir whenever they encountered one another at work. For some reason, Jungkook just didn't want Jimin to feel inferior to him at work – despite Jungkook just genuinely being his boss and simply being superior in his position in comparison to Jimin's.

Yet, it was a kind and sweet gesture of Jungkook to be as considerate at that. In the end, Jimin had managed to convince him to refer to him just like every other employee, thus at least going along with calling him by his last name.

However, somehow, Jimin couldn't help, but use the term Sir intentionally – too curious to see how Jungkook would react.

Was he being naughty?

“I know what you were doing, baby” Jungkook commented, closing the distance between them. The smaller boy gasped, pushing himself into the wall to enable more space between them, yet Jungkook placed his hands on either side of Jimin's head, leaning closer until their faces were mere inches away.

How long is this darn elevator ride?

Abort. Abort.

This was tipping into territories Jimin didn't know he would be capable of resisting – which was bad, as they were present in a public place and could be exposed to strangers any moment now.

“H-Huh?” Jimin stuttered, his gaze flickering back and forth between Jungkook's eyes as he tightened his grasp around the papers in his hands to resist the urge to touch Jungkook, yet then watching something glisten in Jungkook's eyes that spurred Jimin on to play along.

“Come on, kitten” Jungkook whispered, brushing his lips over Jimin's as his hand found its way to Jimin's hip, curling around it and grabbing it tight to secure Jimin in the position he desired.

“I'm not doing anything, Sir” Jimin responded innocently, proud of himself for having managed to speak without stuttering or using a shaking voice that was usually attributed to his timidity.

The pink haired boy was making progress.

Jungkook cursed, wetting his lips as he turned his head to the side to lean closer to Jimin's ear, “Fuck, you really want to play, hm?” he whispered lowly into Jimin's ear, his hot breath tickling on Jimin's skin and sending a shiver down his back.

Determinately, Jimin tried to uphold his unaffected demeanor and to not crumble, yet his knees began to get weak already and it took everything in him to not whimper out, “Sir, I—”

“If you like calling me Sir so much, how about you call me that when I fuck out your brain next time, huh?” Jungkook interrupted him, almost growling into Jimin's ear.

Jimin swallowed hard, his breath hitching in his throat as Jungkook's hand played with the hem of his shirt, daring to wander below the piece of fabric.

Oh please, Jimin thought, touch me.
They were swift to distach, increasing the distance between them before the elevator doors opened. Jungkook fixed his tie, Jimin clearing his throat as the flush on his cheeks darkened.

“I have to get off now” Jimin announced, flashing Jungkook a flustered smile before he stepped outside.

Jungkook gave a nod, smirking at him as he waved him off, clearly satisfied with the way Jimin was affected by him, “I’ll see you later, little one”

“Later, Sir” Jimin responded innocently, waving at Jungkook as he smiled sweetly.

The younger male poked his tongue into his cheek, a daring emotion flashing in his eyes as his smirk grew.

Oh, Jimin was going to be in so much trouble for that.

---

The pink haired boy inhaled a deep breath of the air that carried the scent of a rainy day, a smile curving his lips at the pleasant smell. For a moment, Jimin deliberated whether or not to speed up and rush home or whether to enjoy the feeling of utter freedom and the beautiful weather.

Just as the first day, the second day at work had flown by so fast, Jimin already finding himself walk home, liveliness and happiness still vivid in his body.

As soon as Jimin took a turn, his phone rang, indicating that he was receiving a call. Swiftly, he pulled out the device, smiling at the sight of the heartfluttering name flashing up on his screen. With a quick swipe of his thumb, he accepted the call.

“Where the fuck are you?” Jungkook nearly yelled through the phone, startling Jimin who had expected a sweet or kind greeting the way he always received whenever Jungkook called him.

“What do you mean?” the smaller boy uttered, his voice conveying the confusion that had erupted in his heart.

“Where are you, Jimin-ah” Jungkook pressed, something unsettling audible in Jungkook's voice.

Maybe, Jimin's ears were deceiving him. Yet, there appeared to be something having evoked uneasiness or even anger in Jungkook. Clearly, there was something bothering him. The sudden fear of something awful having happened to Jungkook struck Jimin.

“I'm on my way on home, Kook-ah” Jimin answered gently, “Are you okay? What is-”

“Why the hell are you not with Beomsoo-ssi?” Jungkook interrupted him sternly, decreasing Jimin's confusion and allowing him to understand what this was all about.

The pink haired boy furrowed his brows, merely able to prevent the impulse to answer sincerely. However, judging by Jungkook's temper and his audible display of anger, Jimin feared that Beomsoo's absence would result in negative repercussions regarding his job.

Earlier, Beomsoo hadn't been present, hadn't been waiting for Jimin in front of the building the way he would usually be. Each day, his car would already be parked in front of the place that Jimin was at before Jimin even left the building. Within seconds, Jimin would be settled inside the car and be driven to wherever he desired to be.

Yet, not today. Somehow, not today.

It was unusual, but Jimin had believed that Beomsoo might have been caught up with another task somewhere. In the end, he had waited several minutes for Beomsoo to arrive – yet, he never did. Ultimately, Jimin had decided to walk home, not minding the weather and in fact having missed to walk to places on his own without Beomsoo.

Not that Jimin disliked Beomsoo or his presence – not at all – but Jimin had long started to feel as though he was constantly being looked after like he was a child. Surely, the act of providing a driver for Jimin was kind, yet also unnecessary.

As Jimin wasn't in possession of Beomsoo's number, there was no way for him to contact him either. Of course, Jimin could have simply called Jungkook to check on Beomsoo's destination, yet he feared that Beomsoo might have gotten in trouble, if he had done that.

“Jimin-ah. Answer me” Jungkook pressed, dissatisfied with Jimin's hesitance.

“Well, it's a beautiful day” Jimin responded eventually, deciding to not mention that Beomsoo hadn't picked him up.

“It's fucking raining” Jungkook pointed out.

“It stopped” Jimin objected, noticing that a few raindrops were still falling down on him, but he didn't mind them, “Kook-ah, what's the matter?” Jimin wanted to know, proceeding to walk home.

It was already dark, the streets nearly cleared of any other living soul walking by. Well, it was a rather small street to begin with that was rarely busy at all. It wasn't surprising that it was almost empty around this time of the day. In fact, Jimin was certain that he was the only one around for several blocks.

“Stay where you are” Jungkook demanded.

The pink haired boy stilled for a brief moment, but then proceeded to walk as he shook his head at Jungkook's silly request.

“What? That's ridiculous, Jungkook-ah” Jimin responded, “I'm almost home”

“Stay where you are” Jungkook repeated firmly, “I'm not going to say it again”

“Jeon Jungkook, I'm not going to wa-” Jimin objected, intending to scold Jungkook any moment now for his odd behaviour. Surely, Jimin wasn't new to Jungkook ordering him around, yet he didn't understand what the fuss was about.

Why was it so horrible for Jimin to walk home by himself?

“Please, Jimin-ah” Jungkook tried to convince him again, his voice softer as he spoke, “Stay and wait for me”

The smaller boy checked the road before he crossed it, noticing the very familiar buildings he was walking by that were announcing the close destination of his own apartment. It would only take about two more minutes for Jimin to be home. Waiting for Jungkook to get here and drive him home would be ridiculous and very unnecessary.
“I can almost see my apartment” Jimin responded, “It would be utter nonsense for you to drive all the way here just to drive me that last bit home, Kook-ah. The weather isn't even that bad and I'm perfectly capable to walk on my own” he added softly.

“I-” Jungkook tried again.

“Goodbye, Jungkook-ah” Jimin interrupted him, assuming that Jungkook wouldn't stop arguing with him until Jimin would finally give in, “I will text you when I'm home”

With that, he hung up.

---

“Are you mad at me?” Jimin asked softly, resisting the pout that had threatened to adorn his pretty features.

Once Jungkook had finished his work for today, he had immediately rushed over to Jimin's place as though it was the place he belonged to.

Well, it was.

However, there was definitely some tension in the air between them – Not the good kind. Not the sexual kind of tension that Jimin had accustomed to and had learned to deal with – Well, had he really, though? The poor boy ended up whining and begging for Jungkook to touch him whenever he was horny and sexually frustrated... So maybe scratch that prior statement again.

Anyway.

No, instead a rather uncomfortable and unsettling tension had settled between Jungkook and him. The two of them had eaten dinner in silence, barely even exchanging any words or stares.

It was hurting Jimin.

For what? Why was there this sense of tension between them?

Was it all due to their minor argument on the phone earlier?

“Kook-ah” Jimin whined, crawling closer to Jungkook who had barely acknowledged Jimin's presence.

“I'm not mad” Jungkook claimed, poking his tongue into his cheek.

“Don't lie” Jimin insisted softly, shaking his head.

Weren't they working to try things out regarding their communication? They should talk about what bothered their hearts, should address issues that arose in their relationship and try to find solutions in order to solve them.

The younger male turned his body towards Jimin, knitting his eyebrows in anger, “Why do you have to do the exact opposite of what I tell you? That's not the first time this happened” he accused Jimin.

“I'm sorry” Jimin apologised, lowering his head as he fidgeted with the hem of his shirt, “I didn't.. I didn't mean to” he added quietly.

However, wasn't Jungkook at fault, too? In fact, Jimin wasn't forced to do whatever Jungkook advised – no, demanded – him to do.
“But why do you expect me to do what you tell me to?” Jimin asked, meeting Jungkook's gaze again, the other one's eyebrows raising, “Weren't you the one that taught me that I don't have to obey anyone outside of the bedroom? Where did that go, huh?” Jimin elaborated, crossing his arms over his chest.

All this time, Jungkook had been so adamant to make Jimin understand and learn that their dynamics in the bedroom weren't the same in their daily lives. Each time, Jungkook had been certain to stress that Jimin would never have to obey anyone like that and be as submissive as he was outside of the bedroom.

“I-” Jungkook uttered, but went silent, “Jimin-ah, I didn't... I didn't mean it like that” he added softer, reaching for Jimin as he shook his head, something flashing in his brown orbs.

Suddenly, the door bell rang, interrupting their conversation.

The irritating noise startled Jimin who jerked up in his seat, stealing a glimpse at the door before he averted his gaze back on Jungkook.

“I should check” Jimin noted, placing his feet back on the floor and standing up.

“You should” Jungkook agreed, giving a nod as he leaned back against the armrest, waiting for Jimin to go ahead.

Hesitantly, Jimin approached the front door of his apartment, wondering who would require him this late at night. After all, Jimin could only imagine the dearest people in his life to need him at this time of the day, yet even then, they had access to Jimin's phone number and could simply ring him up.

Cautiously, Jimin opened the door.

Surprise and heartclenching pain bloomed within his chest simultaneously upon the sight of the figure standing in front of his apartment.

“Tae?” Jimin uttered, not certain whether his eyes weren't deceiving him there.

The blond haired boy sniffed, tears cascading down his cheeks, “Can I come in?” he asked, his voice strained and quiet, Jimin's heart aching even more.

“You aren't” Jimin assured him, “What is going on?”

Taehyung blinked, staring at Jimin for a moment before he addressed Jungkook, “I need to... need to talk to Minnie, please” he requested softly, “Would you mind?”

The black haired one shook his head, “No, of course not” he answered, grabbing his jacket while Taehyung dragged his body over to the sofa to take a seat, “I guess, I'll- Yeah, I will go and catch some fresh air” Jungkook decided, following Taehyung's movement before his gaze fell on Jimin.

Gently, Jimin pulled Jungkook further away from Taehyung, increasing the distance between them to ensure that their voices weren't audible to him. Fortunately, the TV was still running in the background, Taehyung staring at it with a blank expression as he wiped away his tears.

Jimin's hand was still on Jungkook's shirt, his gaze fixated on Taehyung's poor appearance, yet he forced his eyes back up to Jungkook's face, “Kook-ah, it looks like it's serious” Jimin stated quietly, “Taehyung-ah rarely cries, unless it's really bad”

“What does that mean?” Jungkook wanted to know, arching up his eyebrows, “Do you want me to stay? Should I wait until he reveals what happened and then go beat the shit out of whoever hurt him?”

“No, I mean that he really needs me tonight and that this might take a lot longer than you think” Jimin responded, shaking his head at Jungkook's suggestion.

There had rarely been any times Jimin could recall where Taehyung had cried like this – over anything, really. This was definitely unsettling and causing Jimin's stomach to stir in fear.

Whatever it was. It wasn't good at all.

“I don't mind waiting” Jungkook assured.

“Kook-ah, I need to be here for him and I can't guarantee you that he'll feel any better, when you return” Jimin expressed, dropping his hand back to his side, “I can't expect you to wait outside for hours. It's cold and it's pretty late already. You have work tomorrow and-”

“You want me to leave” Jungkook concluded, having interrupted Jimin who parted his lips, but couldn't manage to say a word.

“I... It's not that” Jimin then protested, shaking his head, “Maybe I'm reading him wrong. I'll text you once I know, okay?” he suggested.

“No, I understand, little one” Jungkook assured him, “I'll head home. Don't worry about me. Take care of him now. Call me in case you need me, okay?” he added, leaning in to press a kiss to Jimin's cheek before he withdrew and slipped into his shoes.

“Okay. Thank you” Jimin answered, watching Jungkook leave before he fixated his gaze back over on Taehyung.

Carefully, he approached his best friend, closing the distance between them, “Tae, what's wrong?” the pink haired boy asked as he sat down on the sofa next to Taehyung.

“We talked” Tae answered quietly.

“Who?”

“I... confessed” Taehyung revealed softly.

To whom? Jimin had nearly meant to ask, yet was able to resist the urge as it was redundant. After all, it was obvious who he was referring to.

“O-Oh” Jimin breathed, swallowing hard as he studied Taehyung’s features, trying to find answers that were clearly displayed there, but Jimin didn't want to assess the situation without Taehyung officially declaring anything as Jimin's heart already ached at the assumptions it created, “What... what happened?”

“I admitted to what I feel” Taehyung expressed with a smile that carried pain, “I told them how I feel about both of them and that I... that I want us to be more than just a platonic thing” he added.

“What did they say?” Jimin wondered quietly, his heart scared of learning the truth, but it was too late.

“Hey, can we talk?” Taehyung asked softly once he reentered the bedroom, Hoseok withdrawing from kissing Yoongi, the smaller boy lying on top of Hoseok the way Tae had left them to be before he had went to the restroom.

The two boys stared at him affectionately, nodding their heads. Gently, Yoongi lowered himself down on the bed next to Hoseok in order to make room for Taehyung, yet the latter remained standing in the center of the room.

“What is it, baby?” Hoseok asked him, rubbing his hand over Yoongi's back as he waited patiently for Taehyung to proceed.

Taehyung swallowed hard, playing with the hem of his shirt – a nervous habit of his – as he inhaled a shaky breath.

Frankly, there weren't many incidents Taehyung could recall where had been this nervous. The blond haired boy was just someone that rarely felt that way as he was self-assured and optimistic regarding most things in life.

However, right now, he was almost shitting himself.

“I'm just going to say it before I'm too scared again and can't utter out a single word. I just- I want you to- IlikeyouYoongihyung” Taehyung blurted, believing that it would somehow make this confession easier to get over with, if he spoke swiftly.

Surely, a part of Taehyung had wished and also imagined this moment to be romantic, yet a big fraction of him was scared of what the other two were going to say, thus resulting in him blurting his words out.

Upon that revelation, Yoongi parted his lips, the boy sitting up slowly, “I like both of you so damn much. In a way that makes my heart skip when I even think about the two of you. I never thought that it would turn into this, but it did” Taehyung elaborated, his gaze flickering back and forth between Hoseok and Yoongi, “I realised that you both own my heart and I want nothing more than to be with both of you”

Cautiously, Yoongi got up from the bed, just standing there like a deer caught in head lights.

“Hyung” Taehyung breathed, a soft smile on his lips as he took a step closer, his heart rate picking up as it imagined Yoongi to return his feelings and to confess to them, “I know that this... this is not-”

“I-I-” Yoongi uttered, interrupting Taehyung, but then going silent as he wet his lips instead.

“Hyung” Taehyung whispered, watching something flash in Yoongi's brown orbs.
No, Taehyung thought.

The blond haired boy's heart clenched.

“N- I ca- I’m sorry” Yoongi responded, shaking his head. Out of the corner of his eye, Taehyung noticed how Hoseok sat up on the bed, observing the scene in front of him.

“W-What?” Tae uttered quietly, somehow no longer trusting his own voice, maybe not even capable to speak any louder than this.

Yoongi stared deeply into his eyes, another emotion glistening in his orbs, but then he averted his gaze, “I’m sorry” he whispered.

With that, he rushed past them, leaving the room without another word.

For a moment, Taehyung just stood there, frozen in his place as Yoongi’s words rang in his mind, his apologetic face engraved in Tae’s eyes.

Then, Taehyung snapped out of his trance.

“Hyung!” the blond haired boy called out, urging to run after Yoongi, but right in that moment, the thud of the front door falling shut echoed in the apartment, indicating that Yoongi had left already.

No.

Yoongi would come back.

Right?

Yes, he would. Yoongi loved them. Yes, he did. He did.

The taller boy inhaled a shaky breath, staring at the door with a blank expression, desperately trying to convince himself that Yoongi had not just walked out and had left them behind because he didn’t return the feelings that Taehyung had confessed.

What about the past weeks? What about the shared intimate moments between them? All the kisses? The sweet promises? The cuddles?

Had it all been a lie?

A tear rolled down on Tae's cheek, two strong arms embracing him from behind to pull him closer.

“I don’t think he’ll come back, baby”

“Tae, I...” Jimin tried, but couldn’t muster to finish that sentence. The smaller boy was lost for words, to say the least. Jimin’s poor heart clenched as he studied Taehyung’s features, the latter’s eyes displaying how heartbroken he was.

The eyes were really the door to one's soul, Jimin thought.

“Yoongi hyung just left” Taehyung whispered, his bottom lip wobbling, “Just... just like that”

“I'm so...” Jimin attempted again, but he was speechless.
Frankly, Jimin couldn't believe what had happened. All this time, he had been convinced that Yoongi returned their feelings and wouldn't hesitate to confess back to them. The only issue Jimin had considered of might arising was the way to make a relationship like that work.

Not this.

“I was so stupid” Tae murmured, shaking his head at himself.

“No, Tae, you were not stupid” Jimin stressed, furrowing his brows at his friend.

The blond haired boy met his gaze, “How had I been so foolish to think that this could work?” he expressed, a tear rolling down his cheek.

“Tae-yah, stop that” Jimin begged, shaking his head, “You were not foolish” he emphasised.

“I ruined everything” Taehyung claimed.

“No, you didn't ruin anything” Jimin protested, not bearing to watch his best friend blame himself and be in utter sorrow and heartbreaking pain.

“I really thought he felt the same way” Tae whispered, lowering his head down as a sad smile curved his lips.

“Oh, Tae” Jimin breathed, gently pulling him into a hug and wishing that he possessed the ability to mend Taehyung's heart that way.

The smaller boy teared up as Taehyung trembled in his embrace, muffling his cries by clinging to Jimin's shirt.

“I'm so sorry, Tae” Jimin whispered.

Chapter End Notes

Poor Tae :(

I hope you liked the chapter :)

I'll try to update as quickly as I can ^^

Please stay healthy and happy <3

See you in the next chapter :)

Love you <3
Distance

Chapter Summary

Distance - The amount of space between things.
You can choose to distance yourself from people - physically or emotionally - in order to protect yourself, even if you don't want to.
Yet, sometimes, you are forced to stay distant due to other circumstances, even if you don't want to.
Then, which one is more painful?

Chapter Notes

H-Hello, it's me... I-I hope you haven't forgotten about me? <3
First of all, I need to apologise. I'm terribly sorry for being gone for literal ages without a word. I was busy and a little stressed which then influenced my motivation to write. I needed some time away from writing to recollect my love for it and I'm so glad I did because I came back to writing loving it as much as I ever have.
Thank you so much for your lovely comments! They motivated me a lot and they meant the world to me, really. I thought you all might be a little mad at me for being gone for so long, but you all were so encouraging and made me feel so comfortable and emotional <3
Thank you so much <3
How have you been this past month? I hope you had days filled with happiness <3
This chapter is very long, so I hope it can make up for my absence. <3
P.S. I'm sorry for my poor summary, but there are so many different things happening so I never know how to summarise them shorty. Please forgive me and please enjoy the chapter <3

See the end of the chapter for more notes

“I'm pathetic” Taehyung whispered, staring up at the ceiling, his head resting on Jimin's lap as the latter played with his hair in a soothing manner.
Neither of them were aware of how much time had gone by, yet that certainly wasn't important to either of them right now. For the majority of the time, Taehyung had cried in Jimin's arms while the smaller boy had whispered comforting words into his ear to soothe him. In the end, Tae had refused to cry anymore and had actually managed to resist the urge to do that, reducing his mourning to faint sniffing and blank stares.
“Tae, what?” Jimin uttered, shaking his head in disagreement as he stilled the movement of his hand, “No, you’re anything, but pathetic” he stated. If anything, Taehyung's reaction to the earlier event was more than justifiable. After Jungkook had rejected Jimin, the pink haired boy had cried for days.

“Look at me” Taehyung insisted, jerking up and turning to face Jimin, “I look disgusting” The blond haired boy's eyes were glassy and puffed, a faint shade of redness depicted in them. Due to his prior crying, his cheeks were still damp from him shedding tears, snot still resting below his nose as he couldn't be bothered to remove it.

Gently, Jimin pulled the sleeve of his shirt over his petite hand, thus creating a sweater paw that was usually a display of a nervous habit of his. With a tender touch, he reached out and wiped his covered palm over Taehyung’s face to remove his snot and tears. The other male squeezed his eyes shut, sniffing at Jimin’s action.

“No, you look as gorgeous as always” Jimin reassured him softly, not lying one bit, his voice carrying sole sincerity. Frankly, Jimin doubted that there would ever come a day where Tae would not look gorgeous. That was just something that appeared to lack even the smallest fraction of probability.

“Don't lie to me” Taehyung murmured, swatting Jimin’s arm – although his smack carried only little strength nor real heat – yet there was still a display of a faint smile curving his lips.

For some reason, that slight image of a smile on Taehyung's face eased Jimin's heart and created a new wave of hope that Tae was going to be happy again.

“Minnie” he whispered softer, dipping his head down as he fidgeted with the hem of his shirt. Subconsciously, Jimin's eyes followed the movement of his hands and noticed the nervous habit.

“Yes?”

“Do you think hyung might change his mind?” Taehyung asked shyly, his voice full of insecurity and vulnerability that it pulled on Jimin's heart strings, yet there was a fraction of hope in his voice that conveyed that he believed in the possibility of a happy end.

The smaller boy blinked, an ounce of hesitation bubbling within him as he parted his lips to answer, but it was as though he lacked the ability to speak.

Honestly, Jimin wasn't certain whether or not Yoongi would change his mind.

All this time, Jimin had been so adamant and convinced that Yoongi did in fact have feelings for them and would confess those at one point – but he had been utterly wrong.

Hence, Jimin didn't know what to believe at this point.

However, he wasn't able to be honest with Taehyung and share such uncertainty with him. Yes, maybe that did make Jimin a coward as he should be truthful with his best friend, but he couldn't bear to hurt Taehyung's heart any more than it already was this night. The poor boy had suffered enough.

Maybe, Jimin wasn't wrong with his initial conviction though? Maybe, Yoongi did truly have feelings for them, but simply wasn't ready? After all, neither of them were aware of why Yoongi had rejected the two of them.

“I... Maybe” Jimin responded eventually, giving a weak nod, “Yoongi hyung might want to talk to you again” he noted, seriously believing that it should be a considered option. Perhaps, Yoongi had simply been overwhelmed by the sudden confession, thus having needed to increase the distance between them to clear his mind and make up his heart.

At those words, Taehyung's head snapped back up, his eyes going wide as he shook his head, a state of horror depicted on his face, “I don't think I can face him again” he declared, making himself smaller as he leaned against the backrest.

“Tae” Jimin whispered, placing his hand on Taehyung's thigh in an attempt to calm him down, hoping to establish a safe environment for him and make him understand that he wasn't alone.

“I feel so... humiliated” Taehyung stated, “I feel foolish for having believed that he might love us, too. No, I can't face him again. It would hurt too much”

Puzzled, Jimin's eyebrows shot up at Taehyung's choice of words. For a moment, Jimin even considered that his ears had deceived him.

“You love him?” he echoed, his voice soft as he met Taehyung's gaze, “You love both of them?”

The blond haired boy averted his gaze, sliding a hand through his blond locks in distraught as he stared at the ceiling, “Fuck, I don't know, Minnie” he admitted, wetting his lips as he proceeded to glance at the ceiling for several seconds before he stole a glimpse at Jimin, “If this isn't love, then what is it?”

Jimin's heart clenched as he studied Taehyung's features. How much more painful must it be to have your feelings be rejected, when it was the emotion of love for that person that was vivid in your very being?

“Have you told Hoseok hyung?” Jimin wondered.

“What?” Taehyung asked, appearing to be confused by what exactly Jimin was referring to.

“That you love him?” Jimin clarified softly.

“No...” Taehyung denied, shaking his head before he lowered it, “No, I haven't”

The smaller boy wished that he knew.

Each day, Jimin waited for a sign that would declare to him that he was in fact truly, madly and deeply in love with Jeon Jungkook.

Yet, there never came one.

“Why?” Jimin asked.

“I don't know” the other one replied with a faint shrug of his shoulders, “I guess... I've only truly realised it today” he added with a frown on his face, appearing to be bewildered by the sudden confession himself, “Just now I said those words out loud for the first time. I mean, I've thought about it for weeks now, but I just didn't have the guts to say it. I never felt like this before and I didn't want to rush anything, you know?” Taehyung elaborated, meeting Jimin's gaze again.

Oh, how Jimin could relate.

“Yeah, I know what you mean” Jimin stated with a nod.

For a moment, silence settled between them, the two boys staring at the TV that had long been muted, yet was still running in the background as neither of them had been bothered to shut it off.

“Is Jungkook-ah coming back?” Taehyung broke the silence, sinking down on the sofa again in order to rest his head on Jimin's lap, mirroring the stance he had prior been lying in.

“No, I sent him home” Jimin responded quietly.

Being reminded of how he had essentially kicked Jungkook out of his apartment sent a wave of guilt over Jimin's being. Surely, Jungkook had offered to leave, but Jimin couldn't deny the guilt that bloomed within his chest at the image of Jungkook leaving.

However, Taehyung needed him and Jungkook had been understanding of the situation.

“Damn” Tae mumbled, “I'm sorry”

“Don't be” Jimin reassured him, taking a mental note to call Jungkook as soon as Taehyung fell asleep, but then changing his mind and preferring to text him as the taller boy might already be sleeping whenever Taehyung was going to go to bed and he definitely didn't want to wake his boyfriend up, “By the way – Where is Hoseok hyung?” Jimin then wondered.

“Home” the other one replied with a sigh, “At his place”

“Why isn't he with you?” Jimin wanted to know, estimating that it was a valid question. After all, Taehyung hadn't expressed at all how Hoseok had responded to the whole situation back during the confession.

“I told him that I wanted to be alone tonight” Tae stated, fidgeting with his fingers again, “I just wanted to talk to you tonight” he added softer.

“How did Hyung react, when you confessed?” Jimin found himself ask.

The blond haired boy hesitated, meeting Jimin's gaze with a faint shaking of his head, “We haven't talked about it yet” he admitted quietly.

“You haven't?” Jimin echoed, arching up his eyebrows in surprise. Honestly, Jimin would have expected Hoseok to respond to the confession in any kind of way – at least reassure Taehyung and declare his own feelings.

“No, I started bawling as soon as Yoongi hyung left and Hoseok-ssi just hugged me for like an hour while whispering comforting words to me” Taehyung expressed, “I decided to leave because it all just got too much”

“So you don't know how he feels about Yoongi hyung?” Jimin concluded.

“I have no clue” Taehyung affirmed Jimin's assumption, causing a wave of concern to bloom within Jimin. It must be utterly painful on top of everything to not be certain about how Hoseok felt either. In the midst of all of this chaos, Taehyung was hurt and surely confused.

If there was only something Jimin could do to mend his broken heart. - He would. In a heartbeat.

“Minnie?” Taehyung murmured, nuzzling his cheek against Jimin's thigh as his eyes fluttered shut.

“Mhm-mh?” Jimin hummed in acknowledgement of his voice, stealing a glimpse at his best friend before he slid his hand through his hair and played with his blond locks.

“I'm tired” Tae mumbled sleepily, a yawn falling from his lips.
The smaller boy smiled warmly, “Then sleep, Tae”

Taehyung gave a faint nod, silence settling in the air between them as Jimin was allowing Taehyung to fall asleep on his lap, not minding the position they were in as long as Taehyung was comfortable.

“Minnie?” Tae whispered, breaking the silence with his soft voice again.

“Yes?” Jimin responded, awaiting for the other one to speak.

“Hyung loves us, right?” the blond haired one wondered quietly, his voice carrying such hope and vulnerability that it caused Jimin's heart to clench.

“I'm sure he does, Tae” Jimin reassured him.

A soft smile curved Taehyung's lips, Jimin believing that he was going to dream of a place where him, Yoongi and Hoseok were living their happy ever after the way that they deserved.

---

The pink haired boy hummed a melody to himself as he revised the choreography he had observed Hoseok dance along yesterday and had been quick to memorise in little time.

Just as Jimin had spun around to execute a certain step, the elevator came to a sudden halt and the familiar bing echoed in the small space, announcing that he had reached his desired floor.

Immediately, Jimin stilled his movements, straightening his posture and clearing his throat as the elevator doors opened and revealed a familiar face.

“Mr. Jeon” Jimin uttered at the sight of Jungkook's father, exhibiting a polite, deep bow before he flashed him a sweet smile and exited the elevator.

“Ah, Jimin-ssi” Mr. Jeon replied as he returned the smile, stepping into the elevator, but then spinning back around as he appeared to have remembered something, “I just talked to Hoseok-ssi to deliver the message to him that I have scheduled a meeting for this afternoon regarding the evaluations of the trainees” he revealed as he pressed one palm to the side of the elevator doors in order to prevent them from shutting, “I would like to discuss your assessments and consider further steps. As you've contributed to the evaluations as well, I would require you to be present, too” he added.

At his words, Jimin pulled up his eyebrows in surprise, “Oh. Y-Yes, of course, Mr. Jeon” he replied, giving a swift nod.

Well, declining this demand wasn't exactly an option anyway, but even if it had only been an offer or suggestion, Jimin wouldn't have hesitated to accept as it was an honour for him to be even considered, let alone join such an important event.

“Excellent” Mr. Jeon expressed with a smile, waving his hand at Jimin as though he was gesturing to send him off, “I'll see you later, Jimin-ssi”

The pink haired boy managed to execute another polite bow before the elevator doors shut in front of his eyes, “Later, Mr. Jeon”

As soon as Mr. Jeon was absent, Jimin spun back around and rushed along the hallway in order to reach the practice room on time. With fast steps, Jimin hurried into the room, hoping that Hoseok wouldn't mind him being late – even if it was only mere minutes – as his arrival had been delayed by Mr. Jeon starting a minor conversation with him at the elevator.

Upon Jimin's presence – having caught Jimin's reflection in the mirrors – the brown haired boy turned around and faced Jimin with an affectionate smile.

“Hey” he uttered, pushing his hands into the front pockets of his sweatpants as he closed the distance between them, an emotion glistening in his eyes that unsettled Jimin.

“Good morning, hyung” Jimin responded with a faint smile, “I'm sorry for being late” he apologised, pulling the sleeves of his shirt over his hands as he pressed his lips into a line.

Hoseok brushed it off with a wave of his hand, “Don't worry about it. It's just a minute” he reassured Jimin, shaking his head before he scratched over the back of his neck, “Taehyung-ah was at your place last night, right?” he changed the topic, catching Jimin off guard who parted his lips in a display to answer, but shut them again.

“Yes” Jimin affirmed eventually, not bearing to lie, “Did you... two talk?” he wanted to know, clearing his throat as he walked further into the room, approaching the table and dropping his bag on the piece of furniture before he turned to face Hoseok again.

“He didn't answer my call this morning” the taller boy revealed, “Is he okay?”

No.

Well, yes?

Maybe?

He will be?

Hopefully.

The pink haired boy swallowed hard as he caught his bottom lip between his teeth, “Well, he...” Jimin tried to speak, but went silent as he allowed the remainder of his sentence to hang in the air between them.

“You know, don't you?” Hoseok accused him softly, both of them aware of what he was referring to without him having to spell it out specifically.

“Hyung, I-” Jimin tried to defend, refusing to let this damage their bond as Hoseok was way too important to him.

“It's okay” Hoseok assured him with a smile, “It would be weird, if you didn't. I know how tight you two are. Tae-ssi always talks about how he believes that you two are soulmates” he elaborated, closing the distance between them.

“I don't want to lie, Hyung, but I don't want to...” Jimin trailed off, hoping that Hoseok was comprehending what he was attempting to say. Certainly, Jimin didn't want to lie to Hoseok and pretend that he didn't know about their relation to Yoongi, but there was also the promise to Taehyung that Jimin didn't want to break.

“It's fine” the other one uttered, “I understand. Don't say anything then” he suggested, waving his hand at Jimin who shut his mouth with a weak smile, “But... please, tell me this. Is he okay? Was he able to sleep? Did he eat?” Hoseok wanted to know, concern glistening in his eyes.
At the sight of his faint display of distress, Jimin's heart ached.

“‘We talked a lot and I forced him to eat’ Jimin responded softly, “Yes, he did sleep, but not much. I woke up a couple of times during the night, when I heard him cry” he added, believing that it was only right for him to be honest and not to sugar coat the truth, “I cuddled him until he fell asleep again”

“Fuck” Hoseok cursed, running his hand through his brown hair. It seemed as though Hoseok was tearing up, this whole chaos clearly having had its toll on him as well. Clearly, Hosoek couldn't handle the image of his boyfriend crying and being in emotional distress without any way of reaching him and helping him bear the pain or mending his poor heart, “Why doesn't he answer my calls?”

“I think he might still be sleeping” Jimin answered, estimating that it was the most probable case, “When I left this morning, he wanted to stay in bed and told me that he was going to sleep a bit more” he explained, but then added softer, “I think he's scared, hyung. Scared and hurt”

Hoseok met his gaze at those words, “Scared of what?”

Of losing you.

Of having ruined everything.

“You should talk to him, hyung” Jimin suggested, shaking his head in an attempt to resist the urge to allow his heart to speak entirely.

Clearly, Taehyung was scared of having ruined everything and maybe even losing both of them as a repercussion of his confession, but those were things that Taehyung had entrusted to Jimin and Jimin wasn't going to blatantly reveal all of that to Hoseok without his permission. After all, it was better for Hoseok to talk to Taehyung about everything face to face so the two could find their closure.

“I want to” Hoseok expressed, “Fuck, I tried to, but he doesn't answer my calls or respond to my texts” he explained, pulling out his phone and staring at it with furrowed brows.

“You could go over to my apartment” Jimin offered softly, certain that Taehyung was still asleep in his bed anyway.

“Now?” Hoseok clarified, eyebrows shooting up at the suggestion, “I can't leave now, Min-ah” he protested, pointing at their surroundings.

For a brief moment, Jimin had forgotten that they were in fact at work and supposed to meet the scheduled set of trainees soon.

However, that shouldn't be that big of a problem... right?

“You taught me the choreography, right? I will manage, hyung, I promise” Jimin assured him, not exactly aware of where he was going with this, but his heart was quicker than his brain, “I will teach the trainees and I won't disappoint you. You go and comfort Taehyung. Just make sure you're back until the meeting with Mr. Jeon and no one will notice. I won't say a word to anyone and I'll tell the trainees that you are stuck doing another task today”

The other male blinked, shaking his head at Jimin's suggestion, “I can-” he was about to object, but Jimin interrupted him.

“Go, hyung” Jimin insisted firmly, but with a warm smile.
For a moment, Hoseok just stared at him, but then he smiled, “Fuck, thank you, Minnie. I owe you”

“You don’t” Jimin assured him, shaking his head as he opened his bag and pulled out his keys, “Take my keys” he added, tossing them over to Hoseok who caught them in his right hand.

“Thank you” Hoseok expressed again, “I'll be back for the meeting”

“You better or we're both in trouble” Jimin warned him with a chuckle, not desiring to be yelled at by Mr. Jeon for Hoseok's absence.

Hoseok pressed a kiss to the top of Jimin's head before he picked up his stuff and rushed outside of the room, on his way to comfort his lover.

As soon as he was gone, the pink haired boy went limp, crouching down on the floor as he gasped for air.

What had he done?

How was he supposed to pull this off now?

It was only his third day and he was now ought to teach the trainees all on his own?

Jimin was doomed.

---

“This is my first ever meeting” Jimin revealed quietly, nervousness but anticipation all the same blooming within him as he pulled the sleeves of his shirt over his delicate hands.

“Is it?” Hoseok wondered, pulling up an eyebrow as he met Jimin's gaze.

“Yes” the smaller one affirmed with a nod, “Well, I've only ever worked at the library before and we never had any meetings there. I've never worked in such a huge and prestigious company as this one. To think that my first ever meeting is such an important one already...” he trailed off, a shiver running down his back at the reminder.

“Don't worry, Min-ah” Hoseok comforted him with a grin, reaching out to pat Jimin's head, “Hyung will lead you”

Grateful, Jimin returned his smile shyly, but it faltered as his heart remembered Taehyung.

“How did... How did things go with Tae-yah?” Jimin found himself ask.

“Well, I-” Hoseok wanted to answer, but was interrupted as another sudden voice was audible to their ears.

“Minji-ssi, I need you to reschedule my meeting for 5pm” Mr. Jeon requested, “I'll be going over to Min's company today”

“Of course, Mr. Jeon” Minji responded.

“Am I joining you?” Jungkook wanted to know.

“No, I need you to be here” Mr. Jeon declined, shaking his head as he appeared in the room.

Immediately, Hoseok and Jimin got up from their seats, simultaneously executing a bow at their bosses that had entered the room to join them for the meeting.

For some reason, the sight of Jungkook caught Jimin off guard, causing his heart to skip a beat. Upon Mr. Jeon's demand earlier this morning for Jimin to attend the meeting regarding the evaluations of the trainees, Jimin hadn't considered Jungkook's attendance at all.

“Ah, Jimin-ssi, Hoseok-ssi” Mr. Jeon greeted them with a nod of his head, a polite smile curving his lips as he gestured for them to sit down again, “What a pleasant sight. Please, have a seat. We'll start right away”

Jimin's gaze flickered over to Jungkook, the black haired boy's eyes already fixated on Jimin in an intent stare. Feeling his cheeks flush a shade of rose, Jimin flashed him a shy smile before he averted his gaze and plopped down on one of the chairs next to Hoseok.

“Thank you, Mr. Jeon” Hoseok responded with a faint bow.

“Minji-ssi, would you mind?” Mr. Jeon addressed her, waving his hand at her.

The woman smiled sweetly at Mr. Jeon before she approached the center of the long wooden table, reaching for the tray that had been deposited there ever since Jimin had entered the room ten minutes ago.

Ten minutes weren't a long duration on most of Jimin's days, yet this time, Jimin had been extremely anxious over the course of the past ten minutes.

The poor boy had fidgeted with the hem of his shirt, had checked the time a million times, hadn't managed to prevent his legs from wobbling as he had whispered prayers of Hoseok making it on time.

Just one minute prior to the scheduled time of the meeting, Hoseok had rushed in with messy hair and a relieved smile on his face, Jimin having to comb through his hair with his fingers and restore his usual appropriate appearance for the meeting. Honestly, Jimin couldn't express what a burden had fallen from his shoulders as soon as he had caught sight of Hoseok.

“Would you prefer water, tea or coffee?” Minji asked them.

“Coffee” Hoseok responded, “Water” Jimin answered simultaneously, causing their voices to overlap.

Minji smiled at them before she filled either of their cups with their desired drinks, then heading over to Mr. Jeon and Jungkook and filling their cups with coffee without even having to ask them. Apparently, she was already aware of what they preferred to drink.

“I didn't know Jungkook-ssi was going to be here, too” Hoseok revealed with a grin, appearing to be calm and comfortable – opposed to Jimin who was utterly nervous. The brown haired boy lifted his cup up to his lips and took a sip as he remained eyecontact with their bosses who were seated across from them.

“My meeting got cancelled so I had some spare time” Jungkook replied, the low tone of his voice evoking comfort in Jimin who inhaled a deep breath before he fixed his posture and took a sip from his water. The cold liquid flowed down Jimin's dry throat, freshing his senses.

“Minji-ssi, please distribute the sheets over to them” Mr. Jeon insisted, pointing to several sheets of paper lying in a small stack in front of him.
“Yes, Mr. Jeon” the woman uttered, giving a nod before she picked up the sheets and approached Hoseok and Jimin.

“I’ve had a thorough look at your evaluations over the past two days. I’ve made my decision for three trainees who will be permanently eliminated from the final line-up as of tomorrow” Mr. Jeon expressed conversationally, Minji placing the sheets in front of Hoseok and Jimin as Jungkook’s father proceeded to talk to establish an equal knowledge of the circumstances, “If you have a look at the sheets in front of you, I've highlighted their names in red. I'm uncertain about the performances of three more trainees as their vocal or rap performances are extraordinary, yet their dance performances don't come remotely close. They lack in that field” he added, Jimin reaching for his set of papers, “What would you two suggest? Their names are underlined as well. Please, go ahead and have a look. Feel free to share your thoughts with us”

Diligently, Jimin skimmed through the papers, recognising the faces on the sheets. Fortunately, Jimin had a fairly good sense of memory, thus enabling him to remember dance steps very fast, but also names and faces.

Upon a red circle around a certain name, Jimin's heart dropped.

Hootak.

Hootak had been eliminated?

“I have noticed that the two of you assessed Ong's performance very differently” Mr. Jeon spoke again, drawing Jimin's attention back over to him, “He is one of our best new vocalists. In fact, I would even go as far as to say that he's one of the best we've ever had” he elaborated, leaning back in his seat with a smile, “Hoseok-ssi, would you mind to share your thoughts about him?”

“No, Mr. Jeon, of course not” Hoseok responded calmly with a smile.

The pink haired boy admired how calm and collected Hoseok appeared to be. Maybe, Hoseok had been part of a meeting as this one often enough to allow him to have a grasp of the situation and remain comfortable.

Jimin, on the other hand, was somehow anxious due to the foreign situation and wasn’t quite certain what to expect or how to carry himself. A slight fraction in Jimin's very being even prayed that he wasn't even going to be addressed or asked about his opinion as he was sure that he would end up stuttering – Perhaps even lack the ability to talk at all as his mind was nearly blank.

“I believe that Ong has a successful future ahead of him” Hoseok stated, “Whatever he's being taught, he executes it in a professional and clean way. He is a fast learner and very ambitious. Definitely one of the upper ones” he added with a determined nod.

Mr. Jeon hummed, Jimin not sure whether it was in acknowledgment of his opinion or whether it was in agreement. Either way, there was a smile on his face as he turned his head to Jimin, “Jimin-ssi”

The smaller boy cleared his throat as he straightened his posture, clenching his hands into petite fists in an attempt to release some nervousness, “Yes, Mr. Jeon?” he responded softly.

“I saw your evaluation and I believe you don't share that view?” Jungkook’s father noted, arching up an eyebrow.

Swallowing hard, Jimin's gaze flickered from Mr. Jeon to Jungkook and back to Mr. Jeon, “I-I-” “Don't be nervous” Jungkook interrupted him softly, “Just be honest. We want to hear your opinion so don't be shy”

Inhaling a shaky breath, Jimin gave a nod, trying to banish the nervousness within him and brush that feeling off entirely, “Ong is a good dancer when you look at his performance from a technical perspective” he stated, stealing a glimpse at Ong's picture on the evaluation sheet, the boy's performance replaying in Jimin's mind.

Certainly, Ong was a great dancer. There was no way Jimin would deny that. However, the prior hesitance and doubt when it came to his overall performance resurfaced in Jimin's mind, reinforcing his initial decision as to why he had criticised Ong's performance.

“I cannot argue that he executes the steps in a clean way” Jimin added as he locked eyes with Mr. Jeon again, “I agree that he seems ambitious, but I feel as though he's... well, he's doing it with such concentration that he blurs out his heart” Jimin noted.

For a moment, he feared that they would laugh at him for his choice of words. After all, this wasn't exactly a very technical or professional way to express one's opinion regarding a certain matter – especially not during a meeting as this one, Jimin figured. However, none of them laughed at him. Instead, the other men stared at Jimin attentively, waiting for him to resume.

“This song was emotional as much as it was supposed to be powerful, but he danced as though all he could think about was being good and going further in this competition. To me it seemed as though he didn't connect with the song, thus his movements weren't conveying any emotion at all” Jimin explained his heart, sharing his genuine opinion with the group and hoping that his sincerity wouldn't be misunderstood. After all, this was only Jimin's third day and he certainly didn't want to offend anyone.

Mr. Jeon stared at him for a moment, the intent gaze causing Jimin to avert his eyes, “Would you eliminate him?” Mr. Jeon wanted to know.

Hesitantly, Jimin lifted his head again, parting his lips to answer, yet very caught off guard by the sudden question, “I—”

“Be honest” Mr. Jeon insisted.

To be honest, it wouldn't be quite fair to eliminate Ong – and frankly, it wouldn't make much sense either. In the end, Ong was a good dancer and there was no arguing that. However, there was a part that required some improvement, Jimin believed.

“No, Sir” Jimin responded eventually, shaking his head, “I think he might be able to learn how to convey emotion, if someone teaches him”

After another intent gaze, Mr. Jeon waved his hand at Minji, “Minji-ssi”

“Yes, Mr. Jeon?” the girl uttered, still present in the room, standing by the door and awaiting further instructions.

Upon Mr. Jeon addressing her, she immediately approached the table, her steps echoing in the room due to her high-heels clicking on the material of the floor.

“Note down Ong's name for me” Mr. Jeon insisted.

“Yes, Mr. Jeon” Minji replied, having carried a big planner in her hands this whole time that she opened up. Then, she noted something down, Mr. Jeon drawing his attention back over to Jimin and Hoseok.

“Alright. Next we have-” Jungkook’s father went on.

“Mr. Jeon?” Jimin interrupted him softly.

Everyone in the room lifted their heads at Jimin's voice, their gazes falling on Jimin's face.

“Yes, Jimin-ssi” Mr. Jeon responded.

Clearing his throat, Jimin scooted closer to the edge of his seat, “I'm sorry to interrupt you, but I would like to ask why Hootak has been eliminated?” he found himself wonder, hoping that he wasn't going to be in trouble for raising this question as Mr. Jeon had mentioned right from the get go that he was set on these decisions already.

Mr. Jeon titled his head to the side, “Hootak has been lacking for weeks now” he stated indifferently, “I've been close to eliminating him in the last round, but Hoseok-ssi had convinced me to give him a second chance” he elaborated, pointing his flat hand at Hoseok, Jimin stealing a glimpse at him before he drew his attention back over to Mr. Jeon who proceeded, “Hootak just doesn't have it in him. His vocals are average and could certainly improve with more vocal training to have him become a solid vocalist, but he's lacking in dance” he explained, pressing his lips into a line, “I had to eliminate him”

Clearly, Jimin wasn't entitled to judge Hootak's vocal abilities as he had never heard the boy sing, yet Jimin had watched him dance. Maybe, he lacked in comparison to the other trainees, but he had definitely potential, Jimin felt that in every fibre of his very being.

Didn't he deserve a chance?

“So, let's move on to-” Mr. Jeon went on, but Jimin wouldn't forgive himself, if he'd just drop this topic without trying at all.

“Mr. Jeon, I saw him dance on my own” Jimin interrupted the man again, shaking his head as he clasped his hand over his heart, “I saw that he has potential. I think he's-”

“I'm sorry, Jimin-ssi, but he's not going to-” Mr. Jeon intererefered this time, raising his hand up in a nonverbal demand to shush Jimin, but the smaller boy didn't oblige despite the clear display of dissatsifaction in Mr. Jeon's demeanor.

“Please, Mr. Jeon” Jimin stressed, “Hootak-ssi was nervous and I think he just needs a little boost of confidence to unveil his full potential” he added with a warm smile, “If I could just-” “Enough” Mr. Jeon interrupted him firmly, the stern tone startling Jimin, “I made my decison” he expressed with a wave of his hand.

“Appa” Jungkook warned him, impulsively straightening his posture as he glared at his father with a frown, clearly not satisfied with the way he had raised his voice at Jimin.

The pink haired boy had went silent, making himself smaller as he gave a nod, fearing that he might have crossed any appropriate line and had unintentionally tipped over into inappropriate territory.

Jungkook's father stared at Jimin for a moment longer before he gestured for Minji to step closer again, “Minji-ssi”

“Yes, Sir” the girl responded.
“Remove Hootak's name from the elimination group for now” Mr. Jeon insisted, surprising Jimin who lifted his head again, eyes wide as he glanced at his boss, “Note down his name on the list as well”

What list? Jimin thought, but didn't dare to ask, frightened that he was going to be scolded for speaking up, if not being addressed.

“Let's move on now” Mr. Jeon decided, Jimin stealing a glimpse at Jungkook who was already staring at him intently.

---

Soon, the meeting was over, a breath of relief slipping from Jimin's lips as he got up from his seat. Minji collected the remaining sheets that were scattered all over the table before she left the room.

“Come on, Minnie” Hoseok uttered, placing his hand on the small of Jimin's back as he urged him to follow him outside. The pink haired boy hummed softly as he walked beside Hoseok, glancing back at Jungkook who was looking at him with an unreadable expression.

The two of them hadn't really spoken since last night. After comforting Taehyung, Jimin had fallen asleep without texting Jungkook as he had planned on doing.

Earlier, Jungkook had talked to him during the meeting, yet only regarding the purpose of the meeting and not their minor argument they did have last night, thus Jimin wasn't certain how the air between them was.

“Jimin-ssi” Mr. Jeon's voice interrupted Jimin's thoughts, the smaller boy halting and turning his head towards Mr. Jeon's direction, “You are going to join me now” he stated, gesturing for Jimin to leave the room beside him.

Slightly puzzled by the request, Jimin glanced at Hoseok who only shrugged at him before he rushed after Mr. Jeon as he didn't want to be in trouble.

“Join you for what, Mr. Jeon?” Jimin wondered quietly as he had caught up with Mr. Jeon, pulling the sleeves of his shirt over his delicate hands, unconsciously embodying his timidity.

Jungkook's father looked at him, fixing his tie as he stilled his steps in front of the elevators, Jimin mirroring him and halting next to him, “Sometimes, I'm not certain about a decision regarding a particular trainee, so I call them down for an individual evaluation and watch them perform myself” Mr. Jeon explained, pressing a button next to the elevators in order to call them up, “If I'm satisfied, they get another chance, if not then, well you get it” he added with a wave of his hand.

Despite Mr. Jeon not spelling it out for him specifically, Jimin got the gist of it. If the trainees that did in fact obtain another opportunity to dance individually for Mr. Jeon succeeded in their performance, they were allowed to go a round further. Yet, if they didn't, they were eliminated entirely.

“Yes, Mr. Jeon” Jimin muttered, giving a nod to convey that he did understand what Mr. Jeon had referred to, “If you don't mind me asking, why am I joining you?” he found himself ask.

Bing.

The elevator doors opened, revealing an empty space to them that they stepped into simultaneously.

“Your evaluations contributed to my uncertainty” Mr. Jeon responded, pressing another button for the designated floor the desired place was located, “I thought my decisions were set, but I might have “Why, Mr. Jeon?” Jimin asked softly, not able to contain that question from slipping from his lips.

“Why what, Jimin-ssi?” Mr. Jeon responded.

The pink haired boy met Mr. Jeon's gaze, “Why did you listen to me?”

At that, Jungkook's father smiled again, “I know a lot of things, Jimin-ssi, but even I can be wrong sometimes” he declared.

Jimin blinked, giving a faint nod as he averted his gaze.

“But, never do that again” Mr. Jeon warned him.

Nervously, Jimin guided his face back up and stole a glimpse at Mr. Jeon's defined features, “D-Do what?”

“Don't interrupt me” Mr. Jeon demanded, his voice carrying slight firmness, but more just a justified seriousness, “I don't allow my employees to talk to me like that. I know that you're my son's boyfriend, but I won't make an exception for you, Jimin-ssi” he added.

The smaller boy executed a deep bow, swiftly nodding his head, “I'm sorry, Mr. Jeon” Jimin apologised sincerely, not having meant to interrupt or offend Mr. Jeon with his behaviour, “I apologise. I didn't mean to”

Mr. Jeon gave a nod, the elevator doors opening up and revealing the long hallway of practice rooms, “Just don't let it happen again”

“I won't” Jimin assured him, following Mr. Jeon who had stepped out of the elevator, “I promise”

Jungkook's father hummed in acknowledgment of Jimin's genuine apology as he headed towards a certain practice room. Frankly, Jimin still wasn't quite sure what exactly his task was going to be, but he was too shy to ask. For now, he was just going to follow Mr. Jeon and await further instructions.

---

“Ong” Mr. Jeon called out, getting up from his seat and fixing his tie.

Earlier, Ong and Hootak had been sent into this room to perform yet again – this time being evaluated by Mr. Jeon himself for their individual performances in order to conclude a final decision.

This whole time, Jimin had wobbled with his leg, the action attributed to his vivid nervousness while watching Hootak perform.

Hootak had still been anxious – if not even more anxious as he was being watched by Mr. Jeon himself. For a moment, Jimin had wondered whether the two of them were aware of this being a chance to save themselves or whether Minji had left them in the dark about the whole narrative and the significance of this performance.

Then again, surely, they were able to assess the circumstances of this situation themselves and assume what this was all about. At least, that's what Jimin hoped was the case.

Unfortunately, Hootak hadn't managed to control his facial expressions during his performance, his executions lacking in close comparison to Ong's, yet Jimin was still determined in his decision that Hootak did have potential.

“Yes, Mr. Jeon” the boy responded, bowing at the CEO as soon as he was being addressed and then straightening his posture, his hands clasped in front of his body, chest heaving and sweat dripping from his face in a clear display of him having exercised.

Mr. Jeon crossed his arms in front of his chest, “You’re one of the top trainees and in close consideration to debut” he revealed to the boy who smiled at those words.

“Thank you, Mr. Jeon” he uttered, performing another deep bow to convey his gratitude.

“It's a pity that you lack this close to making the final cut” Mr. Jeon added, Jimin observing how the smile on Ong's face faltered, “You’ll have individual lessons with Mr. Park who will teach you how to convey emotion when dancing” he decided, pointing at Jimin who gave a nod as his brain needed a moment to register and fully process those words. As soon as he did, his eyes went wide as he glanced at Mr. Jeon with parted lips, “You look like a machine when you dance” Mr. Jeon commented, still addressing Ong.

The boy gave a nod, his gaze flickering over to Jimin, a faint smirk curving his lips as he bowed yet again, “Yes, Mr. Jeon”

The taller man cleared his throat, waving his hand at them, “You two can leave”

Swiftly, the two boys bowed in polite respect, then exited the room to oblige Mr. Jeon's demand.

For a moment, Jimin just stood there with a blank expression.

What had just happened?

“What about Hootak-ssi, Mr. Jeon?” Jimin found himself ask, his voice soft as he turned to look at Mr. Jeon who was already approaching the door.

Maybe, it was obvious.

Maybe, Jimin already knew, if he'd just allow his heart to listen to his brain that had already assessed the situation.

Obviously, Hootak had not been addressed at all, thus there didn't appear to be any change in Mr. Jeon's prior decision.

However, Jimin refused to allow his heart to listen to that objective assessment – it ached at the mere probability of that thought.

No, he needed to hear Mr. Jeon say it out loud.

“Eliminated” Mr. Jeon responded nonchalantly.
At those words, Jimin's heart clenched, “Mr. Jeon, please-” he tried, but went silent upon the sight of Mr. Jeon's raised hand.

“My decision is final” Mr. Jeon stated firmly, “I'm sorry, Jimin-ssi, but he's just not good enough” he added softer, pressing his lips into a line and tapping his flat hand on the wall before he left the room.

For a moment, Jimin just stood there, the image of Hootak's heartbroken face reappearing in his mind, causing his heart to ache yet again.

This job was harsh.

---

“No, I need three copies of this” Jungkook instructed, pointing at the sheets of paper the employee was carrying, “Right now” he stressed to convey the urgency of this task as the employee appeared to not having understood it the first time around.

“Yes, Mr. Jeon” the employee responded, bowing before he spun around and hurried off to exhibit the order.

In that exact moment, a figure stepped out of the elevator in a fast pace, the sight drawing Jungkook's attention over as he couldn't prevent being curious why one was in such a rush.

As soon as Jungkook recognised who it was, he furrowed his brows.

Jimin.

Why was he in such a hurry? What was going on?

The black haired boy narrowed his eyes to take a closer look, his heart clenching upon the sight of Jimin's face.

Swiftly, he approached the boy, grasping his wrist and withholding him from running away, “Hey, are you okay?” Jungkook asked, his voice full of concern as he pulled Jimin closer to him, studying his features.

The smaller boy tumbled into his chest, his bottom lip wobbling as he glanced up at Jungkook with big eyes. For a moment, he just stared at Jungkook, tears cascading down his pretty cheeks before he shook his head.

Fuck.

After scanning his surroundings, Jungkook pushed the door beside them open with little care and entered the room, his hand still curled around Jimin's wrist as he pulled the boy along.

A gasp was audible in the room, Jungkook noticing that they weren't alone. The employee Jungkook had prior asked to copy some files was startled upon Jungkook and Jimin bursting into the room without any warning.

“Mr. Jeon” the man uttered, executing a bow at Jungkook's appearance as he stared at him in surprise, clearly not having expected nor able to explain them barging into the room like that.

Hesitantly, the man's gaze flickered over to Jimin's teardrenched face before he forced it back over to Jungkook again, his eyes wide in shock.

“Out” Jungkook demanded, nodding his head towards the door.
The pink haired boy sniffed, his hand grabbing a bundle of Jungkook's shirt as he nuzzled his face into Jungkook's back. At the action, Jungkook's heart ached again, making it difficult for him to resist the urge to kick his employee out violently, if he wasn't going to hurry up.

"But, I have-" the man tried to reason, but went silent at the sight of Jungkook's face.

"Leave" Jungkook insisted through gritted teeth, annoyed by the man not immediately complying his order and preventing him from comforting Jimin, "Right now. I'm not going to ask you again".

The employee gave a swift nod, dropping his papers on the table next to the printer before he rushed past the two boys and shut the door close.

As soon as he was gone, Jungkook turned towards Jimin, reaching out to brush his fringe out of his face, "What's wrong, little one?" he wanted to know, his gaze flickering back and forth between Jimin's glassy eyes as he tried to search for answers that simply weren't there.

"I don't know" Jimin whispered, lifting his sweaterpaw up to his face to wipe away his tears, yet it was useless as more drops of tears rolled down his cheeks right away.

"Don't cry, look at me, baby" Jungkook uttered softly.

However, Jimin averted his gaze and shook his head, somehow ashamed of his tears or maybe too timid for allowing Jungkook to see him in such a state despite the younger male having seen him cry so often already.

"Little one" Jungkook whispered, leaning in to nudge his nose against Jimin's cheek as he reached down and picked the boy up by his thighs without effort. Impulsively, the pink haired boy hooked his legs around Jungkook's body as he clung onto him, hiding his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck.

For a brief moment, Jungkook scanned the small room, deliberating over whether or not there was a place for him to sit. In the end, he decided to choose the table, approaching it while carrying Jimin in his arms. As soon as he was seated, Jimin straddled his lap, still clinging onto him, his face nuzzled into Jungkook's neck.

"Jimin-ah" Jungkook murmured, his hand rubbing over Jimin's back, "Jimin-ah, look at me" Jungkook insisted gently, the shorter male withdrawing, yet not meeting Jungkook's gaze.

Tenderly, Jungkook gripped Jimin's chin and guided his face back up in order to lock eyes with him.

"Talk to me, baby" the younger male whispered, stroking the pad of his thumb along Jimin's chin.

Sniffing, Jimin reached up with his sweaterpaw to wipe his tears away as he inhaled a shaky breath, not quite certain how to voice his sadness- not even certain what exactly was harming his heart to begin with and creating these tears.

"Maybe this isn't for me" Jimin murmured, allowing his heart to speak.

Maybe, all of this was too harsh on Jimin's heart. Maybe, he wasn't strong enough to bear such a burden and responsibility.

"What isn't for you?" Jungkook wanted to know, not yet understanding what the reason for Jimin's tears appeared to be.

"I feel so bad" Jimin expressed, "My decision could contribute to deciding whether or not any of these people with beautiful dreams succeed and will be able to fulfill their dreams” he added, his voice carrying sorrow as he pointed back to the door at no one in particular, “How do I have the right to do that?” he emphasised, clasping his hand over his chest as he shook his head, clearly not believing that he was entitled to do exactly that.

The other male furrowed his brows, his palm proceeding to caress Jimin's back to comfort him, “You have the right because my father chose you. My father hired you for this job, Jimin-ah” Jungkook reminded him with slight firmness in his voice, just to underline his statement.

A sad smile curved Jimin's lips as he shook his head, “I didn't know that it was going to be this tough” he whispered, dipping his head down, “I feel... I feel-” he trailed off, allowing the remainder of the sentence to hang in the air between them.

“You feel pressured” Jungkook concluded, leaning in to press his lips to Jimin's forehead.

“Y-Yes” Jimin breathed, his eyes fluttering shut as he made an effort to contain any more tears that threatened to leak from his eyes.

At the sight, Jungkook's heart ached again, Jimin's pretty features adorned by tears of sorrow such a heartbreaking image. Gently, he wrapped his arms around Jimin's body and pulled him closer to his chest, “Come on, baby, come here”

For a moment, Jimin just remained in that stance, inhaling a deep breath, Jungkook's comforting scent filling his nostrils and soothing him.

“I didn't want Mr. Jeon to notice that Ong doesn't convey emotion when he dances” Jimin stated, his voice muffled as his face was nuzzled into Jungkook's neck, “Prior to my stupid comment he was so convinced of him being amazing and I flawed that because I didn't keep my mouth shut” he elaborated, lifting his head again to lock eyes with Jungkook.

“Don't you dare say that, Jimin-ah” Jungkook protested sternly, shaking his head at Jimin's words, “I don't ever want to hear you blame yourself like that again, okay? My father asked for your opinion and you were honest. That's what he wants. If he wanted you to lie, he would have asked you to lie. If he didn't care about what you think, he wouldn't have asked for you to speak”

Jimin's brain took a moment to comprehend Jungkook's words, yet even as it did, Jimin couldn't help but doubt them. After all, Jimin wasn't wrong with his assertion. If he'd just not said anything, Ong wouldn't have been judged again and be forced into the situation he is now.

Then again, maybe Jungkook did make some valid points there as well. In the end, Jimin never wanted to lie – in fact, refused to lie for as long as he was capable to maintain his honesty. Frankly, Jimin wasn't able to promise to never tell a lie as he might turn to lie in order to protect or save someone he loved, yet he would always prefer the pure way of being truthful.

Hence, upon Mr. Jeon asking Jimin for his opinion regarding the evaluations, telling a lie hadn't been an option for Jimin. No, to him, there had been no other way but being entirely honest.

Thus, hadn't he just done what Mr. Jeon had asked him to?

Be honest?

“You telling him what you noticed about Ong's performance was what he requested for you to do and it's good that you did because maybe it would have gone unnoticed to his eyes until a week or a month later” Jungkook interrupted his thoughts, his hand wandering below the fabric of Jimin's shirt to rub his warm palm over Jimin's soft skin, the immediate contact sudden to Jimin, but more than welcome, “That late into the decision, he would be eliminated immediately. Now, you gave the kid an opportunity to improve and learn how to do what he flaws” he added softer, a small encouraging smile adorning his handsome features.

“What if I fail?” Jimin whispered, “What if I can't teach him how to convey emotion?”

Would Jimin be able to forgive himself, if he was going to fail that certain task?

After all, it was partially his own fault for Ong having to attend those lessons now in the first place and it would be heartbreaking for Jimin to be the reason for him not improving and eventually being eliminated.

“You can, baby” Jungkook reassured him, “You need to believe in your abilities, Jimin-ah” he stressed, “You're such a talented boy. You will be a great teacher. If Ong isn't able to learn what you teach him, then that's his fault, not yours”

The smaller boy found himself smile shyly, his cheeks turning a shade of rose, the effect attributed to his bashfulness.

However, even if Jimin was going to succeed in teaching Ong how to convey emotion... what about Hootak? To Jimin's sorrow, he hadn't managed to save Hootak from being eliminated.

Was there really nothing Jimin was able to do?

“What about Hootak-ssi?” Jimin whispered, meeting Jungkook's gaze.

Confused, Jungkook titled his head to the side, “What about him?”

“He's been eliminated” Jimin revealed, his voice carrying sadness.

Jungkook leaned in to press a kiss to Jimin's cheek as he hummed in acknowledgment of Jimin's words, “That's not your fault” he assured softly.

“I wish he could get a second chance” Jimin stated with a sigh, catching his bottom lip between his teeth as he shook his head, “I think he's just very nervous. Hootak-ssi can dance. I know he can. If I could just help him out, maybe he would be able to come out of his shell”

In Jimin's eyes, Hootak had potential.

So much potential.

So much raw potential that just needed some sharpening to unveil the diamond that lay below.

“Baby, let him go” Jungkook murmured, shaking his head as he brushed pink strands of Jimin's hair out of his face, “You won't be able to convince my father and it will break your heart to hold onto him and think that you can fix this somehow. You tried everything you could. Without you, Hootak-ssi would have been eliminated right away. There is nothing you can do” he stressed with a warm smile.

Was it just over?

Just like that?

Was there really nothing Jimin could do to help Hootak in some way?

“Can't you... Can't you talk to your father again?” Jimin asked, not able to prevent the faint vividness of hope he still possessed to speak.

After all, if there was anyone who could influence this situation in any way and save this somehow – it was Jungkook. The black haired boy was the only one with a true impact on his father- on this company- on anything significant regarding this issue.

It was only Jimin's third day here working at the company – what sort of strings was he really capable to pull in order to help Hootak – or regarding anything, really - for that matter?

Frankly, none.

At least, there was nothing unveiling itself to Jimin's mind.

There was only Jungkook who could help him at this point.

“What is it about that kid?” Jungkook wanted to know, a slight display of a smile on his face as he tilted his head to the side, his voice curious, yet still carrying a hint of firmness.

“I don't know…” Jimin responded sincerely as he truly wasn't sure why he was so adamant to help Hootak.

Yes, he was talented, but so were all the other trainees, weren't they? Was it fair for Jimin to treat Hootak differently?

Maybe, he did in fact possess an ability that Jimin had perceived to fail to see in any other trainee.

Maybe, he did in fact remind Jimin a little of himself.

Maybe, that was the fragment that drew Jimin to him.

Maybe, that evoke a sense of protectiveness in Jimin.

Frankly, Jimin wasn't sure what the reason for his reluctance or denial regarding Hootak's elimination was, he just knew that he didn't want Hootak to go without a chance to pursue his dream.

“I think he reminds me of myself” Jimin whispered, aware of the words that were going to slip from Jungkook's mouth in response. Clearly, it wasn't difficult to assume what Jungkook was going to reply to that statement.

After all, Jimin was supposed to be a choreographer, but also a teacher.

A teacher that was fair and didn't favour any trainees in any way – but certainly not by begging their boyfriend to use his connection to his father to save that particular trainee – thus Jimin's behaviour was inappropriate.

This wasn't professional.

Was it?

“Don't do that” Jungkook murmured, shaking his head.

“Do what?” Jimin wondered, daring to meet Jungkook's gaze despite the fear of watching disappointment glisten in his brown orbs.

Yet, there wasn't.
Instead, Jungkook stared at him with soft eyes, a sympathetic expression adorning his handsome features.

The black haired boy leaned in to press a kiss to Jimin's forehead.

“Don't allow such a deep bond to evolve” Jungkook advised, “It will break you, Jimin-ah. You can't control how my father is going to decide and if you bond too deeply with each of these kids, a kind heart like yours will break apart” he added softly, shaking his head.

For a moment, Jimin just stared at him, his heart taking a moment to register those words.

Jungkook was right.

The smaller one lowered his head down, a breath slipping from his lips as he caught his bottom lip between his teeth, “Maybe I'm just not strong enough for this”

Gently, Jungkook placed his index finger below Jimin's chin and guided his face back up in order to lock eyes with him, “Little one, you're one of the strongest people I know” he stated with a frown on his face, “You've been through so much shit. After all the damn shit that life has put you through, after all the many ways it has fucked you over, you came out smiling and happy and kind” he elaborated, “You're such a pure soul. You are strong, Jimin-ah. So fucking strong, baby”

Shyly, Jimin smiled as his cheeks flushed a pretty shade of rose, “Thank you, Kook-ah” Jimin murmured timidly, not sure how to feel about his words.

Was Jimin really strong? Was there truth to Jungkook's words?

At least, there was sincerity glistening in Jungkook's eyes proving Jimin that he was in fact genuine.

However, Jimin wasn't sure whether he was capable to agree with him.

“Don't be discouraged” Jungkook interrupted his thoughts, “This job is tough, but you will learn to adjust to it and how to handle it”

In the end, it was only Jimin's third day of working in this foreign and quite severe industry. Perhaps, he should be more lenient with himself. Perhaps, Jungkook was right and it was going to be easier for when Jimin had adjusted to this new environment and responsibility.

Of course, Jimin had been aware that it wasn't going to be an easy profession, but he had not quite believed that it was going to be this emotionally challenging this early on. Potentially, that had been foolish of him as it had lacked the narrative he had created for this job.

However, there was no real way to prepare your heart for such a job, Jimin believed.

“No more crying, hm?” Jungkook insisted, “Come on, little one”

Tenderly, he wiped away Jimin's tears, the shorter male's eyes fluttering shut as he sniffed again and gave a nod. Fortunately, he had actually been able to withhold his heart of causing any more tears.

Jungkook was a vast reason for that.

The boy simply possessed the ability to mend Jimin's heart and comfort him so easily. It was fascinating, made Jimin's heart flutter all the same.

“I have to get back to work” Jimin announced with a sigh, reminding himself that he was still present at the company as he was currently required to work, yet not doing what he was being paid to do.
“Okay, little one” Jungkook replied as he got up from the table and set Jimin down on his feet, “Promise me to stop crying now, hm?”

The pink haired boy wiped his sweaterpaw over his face before he fixed his appearance by straightening out his shirt.

“Little one” Jungkook emphasised, leaning closer to Jimin's face.

“I will try to not cry anymore” Jimin responded softly, meeting Jungkook's gaze, “I promise”

Satisfied, the other male hummed as he reached for Jimin's hand and interlaced their fingers, “Alright. Then let's go”

As the two of them approached the door, Jimin realised how it could potentially look like to anyone currently present on the other side of that door, if they chose to leave together after having been in here for several minutes on their own.

“M-Maybe we shouldn't leave together” Jimin noted gently, halting in his steps and turning to Jungkook, “It might look weird” he whispered.

For a moment, Jungkook just stared at him before he smirked, “Mhm, like what?” he wondered, his voice a tone lower.

Jimin swallowed hard, but only nudged his shoulder, “Kook-ah”

Amused, the other male chuckled, but gave a nod as he leaned in to press a peck to Jimin's plump lips, “Okay, baby. You go first”

Reluctantly, Jungkook allowed Jimin's hand to slip from his grasp as the shorter male reached for the door handle.

“Thank you, Jungkook-ah” Jimin uttered with a shy smile, waving at his boyfriend, “I'll see you later”

Jungkook smiled back at him, his eyes glistening in affection, “Later, angel”

---

“You did well, Jimin-ah” Hoseok assured him, reaching out to give Jimin's shoulder an encouraging squeeze as he flashed him a sweet smile.

“I felt like I was going to faint” Jimin admitted, chuckling softly as he replayed the earlier event of having to teach the trainees all on his own. At first, he had been utterly terrified, had wanted to hide himself in the corner and make himself as small as possible.

In the end, it hadn't been as bad as he had imagined, but it had still been an occurrence that had proved to him that he still lacked in possessing the ability that Hoseok had.

The brown haired boy carried himself with self-assurance and calmness, exuding such a sense of authority, yet then never seeming as superior to the point of intimidating anyone. No, he was serious, if he needed to be, but established a sense of comfort.

Opposed to that, Jimin had not been calm at all, frozen in his stance for the first five minutes, the students chattering and laughing as they had waited for the lesson to start. Apparently, at the absence of Hoseok, they had assumed the lesson had been delayed for several minutes, thus not taking Jimin's presence serious or perhaps having disregarded it entirely.

After collecting all the courage Jimin could muster, he had inhaled a deep breath and declared the beginning of the lesson, having stared into the confused faces of the trainees, their unimpressed expressions and mumbling having thrown Jimin off.

However, one of the students had scolded the other ones, Jimin having felt grateful for his interference. Presumably, he was one of the older ones, perhaps possessing a sense of leadership as they had went silent right away – allowing Jimin to finally start the lesson properly.

As it had just been a practice of a choreography the trainees had already learned, Jimin simply asked them to perform and pointed out certain mistakes, if they occurred.

Fortunately, that had enabled him to move some of the attention away from himself, thus obtaining the opportunity to calm down and ultimately finding comfort in the situation.

“I know you did well, Min-ah. Thank you, by the way. Again. For stepping in, hm” Hoseok smiled at him, the two of them stepping out of the company building, the long day finally having come to an end.

A fresh breeze of air brushed past the two boys, blowing Jimin's pink locks out of his face, a smile curving his lips as he turned to Hoseok.

“You're welcome, hyung. I'm glad I could contribute in some way” Jimin responded, “Are you going over to Tae's place?”

“No” Hoseok denied, shaking his head as he hid his hands in the pockets of his denim jacket, “I asked him whether he wanted to spend the night at my place. I think he's already waiting for me”

At his words, Jimin grinned, happiness blooming within him at those soothing words. - They were going to spend the night together.

Hoseok snickered, scratching over the back of his neck as his gaze trailed over to something behind Jimin, his eyes going wide in surprise before a smile curled up the corners of his lips.

“I think there's someone waiting for you” Hoseok noted, nodding his head towards a spot behind Jimin.

Puzzled by Hoseok's words, Jimin spun around, his eyes falling on Beomsoo who was standing in front of a black Range Rover, awaiting Jimin's arrival the way he naturally would. As their gazes met, Beomsoo exhibited a polite bow, smiling at Jimin as he lifted his hands up in to the air.

Conspicuously – without any probability of Jimin missing it – there was a huge bouquet of flowers secured in Beomsoo's grasp.

“I'm gonna head home then, Min-ah” Hoseok announced, “I'll see you tomorrow, hm?”

“Y-Yes, hyung” Jimin uttered, still distracted by the sight of the huge bouquet of flowers resting in Beomsoo's palms as he turned back to Hoseok, “I'll see you tomorrow. Have a good night”

“You, too” Hoseok replied, pulling Jimin into a tight hug before they withdrew, the taller male waving at him as he distanced himself, off and heading home to see his lover.

Once Hoseok had turned around the corner of the block, Jimin spun back around and approached Beomsoo who was still standing in his exact spot as though he hadn't moved an inch at all.
“Hello, Beomsoo” Jimin greeted him with a smile, his eyes still big as they glanced at the flowers.

“Good afternoon, Jimin-ssi” Beomsoo returned, handing Jimin the bouquet of flowers without a word.

Hesitantly, Jimin reached for them, taking them from Beomsoo's grasp, the man then walking past him and opening the door to the back seats for Jimin to enter the car – which he did right away.

As soon as Jimin was seated inside, Beomsoo shut the door and walked around the vehicle in order to take his respective driver's seat in the front.

“Who are these for?” Jimin found himself wonder, a soft smile curving his lips.

Perhaps, that question was redundant, yet Jimin wasn't going to assume that those flowers were meant for him simply for the fact of it being the most obvious assessment.

“For you, Jimin-ssi” Beomsoo revealed, meeting Jimin's gaze in the reaview mirror with a chuckle, “Mr. Jeon asked me to get these for you” he added, twisting the key in the ignition, the engine coming to life.

“Why?” Jimin asked, furrowing his brows.

“I'm afraid I don't know” Beomsoo expressed, giving a weak shrug as he pulled out of the parking spot.

Still puzzled, Jimin stole a glimpse at the flowers again.

Daisies.

Inevitably, the pink haired boy's heart fluttered at the realisation of Jungkook still remembering that those held a certain meaning to him and were one of his absolute favourites.

“Thank you” Jimin uttered softly in spite of Jungkook not even being present at all.

Carefully, Jimin deposited the flowers beside him, enabling him to pull out his phone a lot easier. With a swift motion of his digit, Jimin opened his chat with Jungkook.

Why flowers? – Jimin

It didn't take long for Jungkook to reply.

Why not? – Bunny

At his simple answer, Jimin chuckled, rolling his eyes.

Is there a reason? – Jimin

Surely, there must be a reason for Jungkook's gesture. In no means was Jimin suspicious or anything like that – no, not at all. However, there was definitely curiosity blooming within him as to why Jungkook had gifted him these beautiful flowers.

You were upset earlier because of Hootak. I wanted you to smile, little one. You look so pretty, when you smile, Jimin-ah – Bunny

As if on cue, Jimin smiled softly, nearly giggling at how giddy his heart felt at the sweet gesture of Jungkook and his endearing words. It was almost as though it was an inevitable reaction of Jimin after all the stress he had to endure today.

Evidently, it had been a rather harsh day on Jimin's emotional state. In the morning, he had still been worried about Tae. Later, he had to lead a lesson all on his own. Then, there had been the terrifying experience of his first meeting and then the elimination of Hootak that had caused his heart to ache all the more.

Yeah, by all means not an easy day on Jimin's heart at all.

You're sweet. – Jimin

I try. – Bunny

Jimin chuckled softly at Jungkook's response, shaking his head as he caught his bottom lip between his teeth.

Will you come over once you're done at work...? – Jimin

To fall asleep in Jungkook's arms tonight sounded like pure heaven. In a way, Jimin was certain that it would make him feel so much better, would allow his day to end in a comforting and positive way.

You know I would love to. Fuck, I would leave right now, if it meant I could just spend the rest of the day with you. I can't, though. My father leaves early next morning for a meeting in Busan and we're probably going to end up working the whole night once he returns from the meeting with Min. – Bunny

The smaller boy would be lying, if he claimed that his heart didn't clench at Jungkook's reply. Indeed, Jimin was aware that this was Jungkook's profession and when duty called, Jungkook was obligated to answer. After all, he was the co-CEO, thus his attendance, skills and opinion were required a lot. However, Jimin couldn't help but feel the slightest bit disappointed at the thought of not falling asleep in Jungkook's arms tonight.

Busan.

Jungkook's father was going to Busan?

Would Jungkook join him?

Will you accompany your father? – Jimin

No, I will not accompany him. He needs me to run the company for the time he is absent. – Bunny Plausible.

You work so much... I won't be able to see you tonight then? :( – Jimin

Maybe, it was useless to ask as Jungkook had initially stated that he was going to work for the whole night, thus implying that he wasn't going to sleep much – or at all - anyway. However, a boy could hope... no?

I'm sorry, little one. I would love to be with you, especially after you had such a bad day, but I can't. – Bunny Jimin sighed, pouting as he read over those words.

Can I stay with you? - Jimin
For a split second, that suggestion appeared clingy to Jimin. Then again, could you really blame him? The two of them hadn't spend the previous night together either as Taehyung had needed Jimin, Jungkook having decided to leave to allow the two of them to have some space.

To be without Jungkook another night was... was hurting his heart.

Was Jimin sick?

After all, it wasn't as though they were never going to see each other again... The world wasn't going to stop.

Yet, here his heart was, crying at the thought of spending another night without Jungkook as it was longing to be with him.

Maybe, it was simply attributed to the fact of Jimin having had a tough day...

However, frankly, this wasn't the first time his heart felt like this...

Lately, his heart always ached the longer he had to stay without Jungkook.

Perhaps... was this... was this-

The buzzing of Jimin's phone startled Jimin, drawing him out of his thoughts as he averted his gaze back down on the screen of the device in his hands.

You need to sleep, baby. I don't want you to bore yourself sitting in the office with us, hm? I'll see you tomorrow. – Bunny

It was only another night, Jimin reminded himself. Somehow, he would manage.

In the end, Jungkook was right. If he chose to stay in the office with Jungkook, he wouldn't quite know what to do with himself as he surely wouldn't be included in the confidential conversation Jungkook and his father were going to have anyway. Essentially, he wouldn't be allowed to spend actual time with Jungkook – although the mere close proximity to Jungkook was enough for Jimin's heart.

I understand. I'll see you tomorrow. Don't work for too long, Kook-ah. – Jimin

Sleep well, angel – Bunny

-----

“Hyung?” Jimin called out, hesitantly pushing the door further open and stepping inside with caution as someone had definitely opened the door for him to allow him entrance – yet barely a gap wide as though they had pulled the door open and then sprinted away – and was now nowhere to be found.

Slightly puzzled, Jimin scanned the entrance hall, noticing the noises that were audible from the living room. For a moment, he paid close attention, trying to decipher the voices. Just as he was about to-“Jimin-ah, hey, come on in” Yoongi yelled from the living room, a breath of relief slipping from Jimin's lips as he shut the door close.

In the end, there was no intruder then.

Yoongi was still alive.
Thank God.

Slowly, Jimin’s heart rate steadied again as he removed his shoes and placed them next to the other pairs that were scattered around next to the door.

With hesitant steps, Jimin entered the living room, a musty scent filling his nostrils as soon as he passed the doorway.

There were two figures present in the living room. For one, there was Yoongi who was munching away on some piece of pizza, an earphone sitting in his left ear as he nodded along to the song he was listening to.

As Jimin's gaze followed the string of the earphones, he noticed that it was connected to a laptop that was placed on the other figure’s lap – Namjoon's.

In that moment, there were several emotions blossoming within Jimin.

The pink haired boy was relieved as a small fraction of him had partially believed that Yoongi might have been murdered as he had essentially vanished for several days. Fortunately, he appeared to be fine – at least, alive and in flesh, smiling along as he listened to a song.

However, Jimin was also confused as to what the reason for Yoongi's sudden lack of contact could be.

But... was he really?

Truthfully, Jimin's heart already knew.

Surely, Yoongi wasn't ought to text them every second of the day, but he had cut of almost any contact for the past four days. That was out of character – even for Yoongi – who had never been fond of communication through devices to begin with, but preferred to be face to face with his dear ones whenever possible and spend some quality time with them. Yet, he had always replied to them whenever they had reached out.

Well, not these past days.

For the majority, Jimin was just concerned - concerned in every fibre of his very being.

Concerned as to why Yoongi had isolated himself – Well, scratch that as he had cleary not isolated himself entirely, but had cut himself off from only a few selective people – Tae, Hoseok and Jimin included.

For a small fragment within Jimin, it even scared him to know why Yoongi had chosen to not contact any of them aside from Namjoon.

“Jimin-aaaah! Hey, how are you?” Namjoon beamed at him with a grin, interrupting Jimin's troubling thoughts.

The smaller boy shook his head to snap out of his trance, a smile adorning his pretty features as he approached the two other boys, “I'm great, hyung, how are you?”

“Amazing” Namjoon responded, his voice carrying joy, “Hyung and I are working on some sick beats” he claimed, lifting the earphones up to Jimin, “You wanna listen?”

“I would love to, but I've actually stopped by to talk to hyung” Jimin replied, shaking his head at his friend, “Is that okay?” he wanted to know, certainly not wanting to interrupt anything, yet needing to talk to Yoongi as he had come here to thoroughly check on him and his well-being.

So far, his behaviour was suspicious.

Immediately, Yoongi got up from his seat, flashing Jimin a smile as he gestured for him to follow him, “Sure, of course”

Namjoon waved them off with a smile, placing the earphones in his ears as he proceeded to work on his laptop, Jimin’s gaze lingering on him for a moment longer before he forced it over to Yoongi’s back, the boy already approaching the kitchen. Swiftly, Jimin followed after him, entering the kitchen alongside him.

At the sight of the room, Jimin halted abruptly in the doorway.

“What’s up, Min-ah?” Yoongi wanted to know, opening his fridge and pulling out a can of coke, “Do you want anything?” he asked, arching up an eyebrow.

The smaller boy shook his head, “I’m fine, thank you” he responded, the other male giving a nod as he shut the fridge again and opened his can, “How are you?” Jimin wondered softly, his gaze trailing over the mess that was the kitchen.

There were several old pizza boxes scattered over the counter, the dirty dishes all pushed into the sink into a dangerous pile and old, empty coke cans left standing next to the sink as though there had not been anyone cleaning in here for at least a week.

“I’m... well, we’re working a lot these days” Yoongi answered, taking a sip from his coke, his eyes on Jimin, yet as soon as Jimin met his gaze, the other one averted his eyes.

Genuinely, Yoongi was one of the closest and crucial people in Jimin's life – Jimin would go as far as to refer to him as a brother, that was something that had already been established within Jimin a long time ago.

There was definitely something going on with him – Jimin could assess that by a mere look at his kitchen, yet also by a thorough look at Yoongi.

The older one's hair was hidden beneath a snapback, Jimin assuming that he had not cared about doing his hair for days now. There were several stains on his white shirt, Jimin presuming that he had not cared to change his clothes for days. Additionally, there was an unpleasant scent in the air, a mixture of musk and sweat, Jimin guessing that Yoongi had not taken a shower in days.

This was not Yoongi.

“You are” Jimin agreed, not doubting that Yoongi was in fact working a lot – as he was always doing that, “When was the last time you took a shower? Or cleaned your house?” he wanted to know, deciding to be honest.

“Yah!” Yoongi scolded him, placing his can on the counter as he furrowed his brows at Jimin, but his facial expression softened immediately, so did his eyes as he sighed and scratched over the back of his neck, “I don't know... Is it bad?” he mumbled.

The pink haired boy scanned the room, wrinkling his nose at the sight of a particular pizza box – or rather the pieces of old pizza that had been left in there.

“Hyung, there is mold growing in your old pizza boxes and- How old is this?” Jimin noted, pointing at the certain spot before he crossed his arms over his chest.

Flustered, the other one cleared his throat, “I haven't paid attention to the mess in my house” he murmured before a proud smile curved his lips, “Namjoon-ah and I have continuous creative epiphanies. We've made like three songs in the last four days”

“Your hygiene has suffered through that then, hm?” Jimin uttered with a soft smile, but shook his head.

The older one mirrored his smile, but rolled his eyes, “I'll take a shower. I get it” he chuckled.

Scanning his surroundings once more, Jimin believed that he wouldn't bear to leave this place a mess as it was. Slowly, he approached the trash can and picked it up. Without another word, he collected the left over pizza boxes and tossed them away.

“Jimin-ah, why are you really here?” Yoongi wanted to know after several seconds, just having observed Jimin move around, the latter proceeding to clean up his kitchen, “You're not here to clean my kitchen. I can do that on my own”

Jimin narrowed his eyes as he stole a glimpse at Yoongi, an amused smile adorning his pretty features, yet something that conveyed doubt depicted on his face, “Can you?” Jimin challenged.

“I can, if I want to” Yoongi assured him, approaching Jimin and snatching the trash can out of his hand, “Stop cleaning” he insisted softly, placing the trash can back on the floor before he crossed his arms over his chest and stared at Jimin with intent eyes.

For a moment, Jimin's gaze flickered back and forth between Yoongi's eyes, attempting to find answers that were somewhere within them, yet not clear enough for Jimin to define them.

“Hyung, what's wrong?” Jimin found himself ask, his voice soft and almost unsure.

Yoongi frowned, “What do you mean?”

“You're not like this usually” Jimin expressed, pointing at him before he gestured towards the door, “I'm sure Namjoon hyung has noticed it, too” he added, dropping his hand back to his side.

“Noticed what?” Yoongi wanted to know, Jimin not certain whether he was actually not figuring out what this was all about or if... perhaps, he was just pretending to be unaware.

The pink haired boy inhaled a deep breath, bundling up all the courage he could muster for where he was going to take their conversation now – despite all the risks it would imply.

This could go either way – awful or utterly fine.

You could guess which one Jimin would prefer by, well, by everything.

Nevertheless, Jimin would have to live with the repercussions – whatever they might be.

“You've invested all of your time and heart into your work for the past days” Jimin stated, “You barely stay in contact with us or answer any of our texts. I know that you're not fine. Please don't lie to me, hyung” he urged softly, taking a step closer.

“I am fine, Min-ah” Yoongi stressed, “Don't worry about me” he assured him, yet there was something glistening in his eyes that told Jimin otherwise.

“Why don't you-” Jimin tried, but went silent before the damage was done.
If Jimin really wanted this to go anywhere lasting and pleasant, the right wording for his sentences was crucial.

Why don’t you allow your heart to feel? is what he had meant to say.

Where the three of them all that messed up? In the same way? In at least a similar way?

Where they all cursed with the issue of being unable to committ to a serious relationship and allow yourself to fall into it in all its entirety, allow your walls to crumble down and unveil your heart to feel each and every emotion that may bloom along the way?

For all that Jimin knew, Yoongi had only had one serious relationship.

However, it had not been going on for long, thus Jimin had always wondered whether it had been that serious to begin with. Yet, who was he to define that? No one, but Yoongi and his partner were entitled to judge the significance and validity that their relationship had held.

Yoongi had never explicitly talked about his prior relationship.

Ever since, Yoongi had either been too busy with work and making his dream of being a producer a reality or preferring casual hook-ups that were completely without any sort of feelings involved – no strings attached.

Maybe, he was scared of allowing his heart to feel.

Just as Jimin had been scared.

Just as Taehyung had been scared.

Maybe, the three of them shared that fear.

“How don't I what?” Yoongi wanted to know.

How was Jimin supposed to address this issue in a subtle way?

Telling Yoongi straight up that he knew everything about him and his intimate relation to Taehyung and Hoseok wasn't an option.

For one, there was the promise he had made to Taehyung to not tell another soul until they themselves chose to let the others know. Secondly, Yoongi might close in on himself even more, if Jimin approached the issue that way.

No, there needed to be another way.

Even if it was going to be brutal.

“I saw you that night at the party” Jimin revealed quietly.

The older boy knitted his brows at Jimin's revelation, seemingly not fathoming what he was referring to – or perhaps simply pretending to be unaware, “What?”

“Upstairs” Jimin clarified, “I saw you”

“Saw me doing what, Min-ah?” Yoongi pressed, still confused.

There was no turning back now.
“You kissed Hoseok hyung” Jimin stated, his heart rate picking up as soon as those words had slipped from his lips.

Immediately, Yoongi's eyes went wide, but he tried to play it off, a confused expression replacing the one full of horror. However, Yoongi was not very good at upholding such a facade in front of Jimin – For that, the two of them knew each other way too long and deeply. There was visible shock depicted in his brown orbs, a sign of him knowing very well what Jimin was referencing.

“W-What?” Yoongi blurted, snorting as he shook his head as though the accusation was absurd, “How much did you drink that night? I'm pretty sure you-” he added, crossing his arms over his chest as he attempted to maintain a nonchalant demeanor, but his body language embodied a defense mechanism, conveying his actual vulnerability he tried to hide.

“Hyung” Jimin pressed softly, his gaze never leaving Yoongi's.

For a moment, Yoongi just stared at him – his facade eventually crumbling under Jimin's stare. Slowly, his arms dropped back to his side as he averted his gaze, the boy shaking his head as he caught his bottom lip between his teeth.

“It's not what you think it is” Yoongi claimed, meeting Jimin's gaze again, “I didn't... I wasn't... Tae-ssi knows” he assured, clasping his hand over his heart, “I apologised” he added with sincerity in his eyes, not aware that Jimin already knew all of these things, “We-”

“Why did you kiss Hoseok hyung?” Jimin wanted to know, desperately clinging onto the fraction of hope within him that Yoongi would be truthful and allow his heart to unveil the emotion that Jimin simply knew he felt towards these two boys.

The blond haired one hesitated, avoiding Jimin's eyes as though he feared they possessed the ability to look right into his soul and expose all the answers that Yoongi was too scared to admit to himself.

“I... I was drunk” Yoongi expressed.

“You were drunk?” Jimin echoed, titling his head to the side, “That wasn't the first time you were drunk. Do you go out and kiss your friends in a segregated place all the time once you had one too many drinks?”

“Fuck, what is this, Jimin-ah?” Yoongi cursed, glancing at Jimin with a frown on his face, clearly angered by Jimin's behaviour, “A damn interrogation?” he raised his voice at the other.

Apologetic, the smaller boy shook his head as he took a step back, realising that he might have taken this too far and shouldn't corner Yoongi as he was by accusing him, “No, hyung” Jimin responded softly, “I'm sorry. Of course, not” he added, averting his gaze as he made himself smaller.

There were only a few instances Jimin could recall where Yoongi had yelled at him – all of them naturally in regards to protecting Jimin or scolding him for putting himself in danger by doing something stupid.

Of course, Jimin had understood that Yoongi had only acted that way because he had been scared of Jimin being in danger and potentially hurting himself in some way, thus they had always made up right away.

There were rarely any occurrences of Yoongi raising his voice at Jimin because he had a soft spot for the pink haired boy.

All the more did it hurt Jimin to be yelled at by him for having crossed a line.
Yoongi's features softened at the sight of Jimin, “I'm sorry” he uttered gently as he took a step closer, “I didn't mean to snap at you” he added, his eyes displaying a mixture of guilt and fear, conveying that he regret losing his temper or maybe his lack of honesty – Jimin's wasn't certain – yet that he was scared of something all the same, “It's just... I can't talk about this” he expressed, his voice turning quieter and more vulnerable with each syllable.

“Why?” Jimin breathed.

The other one parted his lips as he tried to answer, but shook his head as he oppressed his heart, “I don't... I can't”

“Why?” Jimin wanted to know softly, refusing to leave this without trying to help Yoongi in some way.

Yoongi increased the distance between them, his back hitting against the refrigerator. For a moment, he just remained there, lifting his head up and staring at the ceiling, “It will just... It will cut deeper” he whispered, clasping his hand over his chest.

“What will cut deeper?” Jimin asked, his heart pounding fast against his chest at the chance of Yoongi possibly opening up to him and allowing Jimin into his own heart.

“The wound” Yoongi responded, meeting Jimin's gaze again, “The damage is already done, but I can prevent it from turning worse by-”

“Ignoring it?” Jimin interrupted him, “Investing yourself in work? Hyung, you're going to break yourself apart” he added, his voice carrying concern.

Why was he wounded?

What had created such wound?

Was Yoongi comparing the vivid phenomenon of having feelings for someone to being damaging?

Why?

The older boy didn't respond, just stared at Jimin's face.

“Hyung, do you like Hoseok hyung?” Jimin found himself ask, no longer capable to resist the urge.

Yoongi appeared to be caught off guard, his eyes going wide as he shook his head, “Don't be-”

“Hyung, stop that” Jimin pressed, grabbing a fist of his own shirt and pulling on it as he stepped closer, “Please, I'm begging you, be honest with me”

“What if I was?” Yoongi responded with a shrug of his shoulder, “Does it even matter?”

“It does” Jimin replied with a determined nod of his head, “You know, it does” he added softer.

At those words, Yoongi's head snapped back up in order to lock eyes with Jimin.

For a moment, his intent gaze flickered back and forth between Jimin's eyes, the boy studying his features before his own eyes grew big.

It was as though he had an epiphany, no longer just suspicious of Jimin's behaviour.

It all made sense now.
“You know, don't you?” Yoongi accused Jimin, his voice quiet.

Shoot.

Without any warning, Jimin's heartbeat quickened, a voice within him screaming at him to turn around and run away as fast as he could. That certain voice urged him to leave because Jimin had been exposed in the midst of it all.

Abort. Abort.

Yet, maybe, he was referring to something else.

Maybe, he wasn't talking about Jimin knowing about their relationship.

Maybe, it was something entirely different.

That was plausible. Yes, it was. Right?

A small percentage within Jimin refused to do anything but cling onto that ounce of oblivion in order to maintain a subtle demeanor.

“W-What?” Jimin stuttered, shaking his head as he swallowed hard.

“Of course, you know” Yoongi breathed, “Why didn't I think of that? How stupid of me” he added, talking to himself more than anything, a humourless laugh slipping from his lips.

“Hyung-” Jimin tried to defend himself, but went silent upon the sight of Yoongi parting his lips in order to speak.

“I didn't want anyone to find out” Yoongi commented with a frown, Jimin not certain whether he was angry or hurt or... perhaps just both simultaneously.

“What was he supposed to do, hyung?” Jimin responded, slightly frustrated, “Taehyung-ah appeared in front of my apartment in the middle of the night crying! He was hurt, hyung! He needed to talk to someone” he reasoned.

At those words, Yoongi's expression softened, concern in his eyes as he took a step closer, “Tae-ssi was... he cried?” Yoongi asked quietly.

“Yes, he cried” Jimin affirmed, “Taehyung-ssi is hurting and you're ignoring him because you're scared” he accused the other boy.

“I'm not scared” Yoongi claimed with a frown.

For some reason, Jimin found himself turning mad at Yoongi's lack of acknowledgment of his own feelings. Clearly, his absence and intentional isolation from the other two boys was hurting them and he chose to ignore that.

For what? For what was he actively ignoring them?

“You are!” Jimin exclaimed, not noticing that he had raised his voice, “You're scared of committing yourself to them!”

The blond haired one shook his head, “I'm not scared, Jimin-ah!” he yelled.

“Stop lying to me!” Jimin yelled back, having had enough of his lies, “Stop lying to yourself! You are scared of being hurt! You are scared of ruining everything, if it doesn't work out because you don't want to lose them as friends!” he added firmly, “They make you happy, hyung. I know they do. I see it in your eyes when you talk about them”

Yoongi averted his gaze, but he couldn't see what Jimin saw, couldn't see the glistening in his eyes when he talked about Hoseok and Taehyung.

“You love them” Jimin whispered, “You love them, but you're scared of admitting it because you've never felt that way before – Especially not for two people at once” he elaborated.

Obviously, Jimin was aware that this situation might scare Yoongi, might be obscure to him as evolving feelings for one person was already overwhelming enough to begin with, let alone have those feelings amplified as they were residing in your heart for two people simultaneously.

Yet, was that justifying the act of pushing everyone around you away despite their love for you?

“You didn't plan on it to happen, but it did” Jimin noted softly, “And hyung, that's okay. You're allowed to feel that way. You're allowed to love them and be with them. You're allowed to feel happiness by being with them” he reassured him, “Why don't you see that? Why don't you see that you deserve them and that they deserve you?”

“I-” Yoongi tried, but couldn't muster to finish, choosing to shut his mouth.

Perhaps, there was no answer.

“If you actually don't return their feelings or don't want to be with them, at least have the guts to tell them” Jimin insisted, “They're your friends first and foremost. They'll love you no matter what.
Whatever you decide, you won't lose them. But ignoring them like this is hurting them. And it's hurting you. And I can't stay at the side any longer and watch you ruin yourselves like that”

The majority within Jimin was certain that Yoongi did in fact return their feelings, but there was something that scared him that much from allowing himself to fall into that feeling entirely.

Yet, the small percentage of Yoongi not returning their feelings did exist. Despite Jimin not believing in that possibility, only Yoongi knew the full truth and the entirety of the emotions his heart withheld.

However, even if he didn't feel the same about them, it wasn't fair of him to simply ignore them.

After all, they were his friends at last. They were hurting the longer Yoongi chose to ignore them – not as potential partners, but as his closest friends.

Although Yoongi surely didn't want to admit to it – maybe would never – he was hurting, too.

Jimin couldn't bear to watch them hurting any longer.

“Don't lose them just because you're scared” Jimin uttered, “Don't let your fear withhold your heart from finding what it deserves” he pressed, “Even if you think that it won't work out, then at least allow your heart to feel that happiness and love for what it's worth”

For a moment, Yoongi just stared at him, blinking as he stood there frozen in his place.

“Jimin-ah” Yoongi muttered, but went silent again.

Perhaps, he was puzzled. Perhaps, he needed time to process those words. Perhaps, he would scream at Jimin any moment now because he felt disrespected.
Yet, perhaps, he did in fact agree and just wasn't ready to admit to that out loud.

“Go and take a shower before Namjoon hyung suffocates in here” Jimin advised with a sigh, a small smile on his face as he glanced into the living room and caught Namjoon standing by the doorway, “And clean up your kitchen before your dishes grow into their own living beings” Jimin added, pointing at the stuffed sink before he turned around and headed towards the door.

Before leaving, Jimin turned back to the oldest one, a soft smile adorning his pretty features.

“I love you, hyung” the pink haired boy expressed quietly, “Call me when you're ready to talk”

With that, he spun back around and left, slipping into his shoes as silence settled in the house, Jimin aware that Yoongi and Namjoon were both staring at him.

“Jimin-ah” Yoongi uttered, Jimin’s hand grasping the handle of the front door in order to pull it open.

“Yes” Jimin responded, turning his head towards the other boy.

“I love you, too” Yoongi whispered.

---

“What is this doing here?” Taehyung wanted to know, picking up an item that Jimin wasn't capable to identify from his spot. Diligently, Jimin narrowed his eyes, attempting to figure out what the questionable thing was and nearly dropping the two mugs he was currently carrying upon the realisation of what Tae was holding there in his hand.

Swiftly, Jimin placed the two mugs down on his nightstand before he rushed over to Taehyung's side and reached for the item, “I-I forgot that I left it there” he stuttered, his cheeks tinging a shade of rose.

His collar.

_How long has that actually been lying there?_ Jimin found himself wonder, not exactly remembering the moment he had depicted or rather _left_ the item lying there on his dresser _that_ openly and clearly visible for anyone to find, if they were to enter Jimin's bedroom.

It must have been some time, Jimin estimated, recalling running out of Jungkook's apartment upon Mr. Jeon's arrival one day and entirely forgetting that it had still been wrapped around his throat.

The blond haired boy jerked his hand back, hiding the item from Jimin's reach, thus withholding him from snatching it from Taehyung's possession as he had tried to.

“Don't be embarrassed, Min-ah” Taehyung reassured him with a chuckle, inspecting the item in his hand as he increased the distance between them.

“I-I'm not” Jimin murmured, swallowing hard as he studied Taehyung's features, attempting to figure out what he was thinking about.

“It's really pretty” Tae commented with a smile, his fingertips brushing over the little pendant that had Jungkook's name engraved into it.

Frankly, Jimin couldn't even explain how utterly embarrassed he felt. Honestly, he wished that the ground would open up and swallow him whole in order for him to vanish from this conversation.

Clearly, Taehyung had no reluctance regarding this topic at all, did not feel flustered or at least reserved about this one bit. In a way, he was rather casual about all of this, whereas Jimin was blushing and digging his teeth into his bottom lip.

Naturally, the pink haired boy was more reserved when it came to things such as this one, wasn't as open as Taehyung was despite there being no reason to feel shy in Tae's presence. After all, he was his best friend, a comfortable environment always being established when they were together and Tae always being understanding.

“Mhm-mh” Jimin murmured timidly.

“Jungkook-ah loves spoiling you, hm?” Taehyung noted with a grin, stealing a glimpse at Jimin, amusement glistening in his eyes.

“H-He- That's...” Jimin stutered yet again.

Maybe, there was faint truth to that.

The black haired boy definitely always insisted on paying for Jimin, loved showering him in gifts and whatnot... but, that didn't imply that he was spoiling Jimin... was it?

“Well, he definitely knows what you like and what suits you” Taehyung commented, his index finger trailing over the soft inside of the collar.

“Yeah” Jimin agreed, giving a nod as he reached for the collar again.

This time, Taehuyng allowed for it to slip from his grasp, enabling Jimin to have it back in his possession. For a moment, he eyed the item in his hand with big eyes, his heart fluttering at the mere thought of it being wrapped around his throat.

“Do you like wearing it?” Taehyung wanted to know, his voice softer as he studied Jimin's features, clearly having noticed the endearment and fondness displayed on Jimin's face when he looked at the collar.

“Yes” Jimin breathed with a smile, “So much”

The feeling of the collar being wrapped around his throat was one of pure bliss. In a way, Jimin couldn't quite explain why he adored it so much, just knew that he loved what it embodied and represented.

There was a sense of belonging.

Evidently, that certain feeling of belonging to Jungkook was there without wearing the collar just as much, but there was a small fraction of enhancement in that feeling for when Jimin wore it – as though it just underlined and maybe highlighted what Jimin always felt in an embodied form.

Jimin belonged to Jungkook.

At the thought of Jungkook, Jimin's heart fluttered but clenched all the same.

Lately, the black haired boy had been immensely busy at the company. Each day, he had to stay long overtime and work throughout the whole night alongside his father. According to Jungkook, it was attributed to a potential new investment that required all of their time aside from the already huge amount of preparations of the new idol group they were dealing with.

In addition, Mr. Jeon would fly to Singapore in a couple of days for a meeting that was going to address and finalise a new vast project the company was currently working towards. It was huge,
Jimin had heard from several employees that were keen on gossiping in the lunch room, yet then he had also heard it from Jungkook himself.

In the end, all of it had prevented Jimin and Jungkook from having spent much time together these past few days, the two of them actually not having shared a bed since even before that day Taehyung had appeared in front of Jimin's appartment crying over Yoongi.

It's been a while.

At the thought, Jimin's heart ached as it was missing Jungkook so much.

Surely, the two of them called each other every day, inevitably encountered one another at the company to talk for a while or intentionally met up in the lunch room to share a meal, yet it just wasn't the same as falling asleep in each other's arms by the end of the day.

In order to fill that void Jimin's heart was enduring these past days during the night, Jimin had snuggled his little kitten plushie that Jungkook had won for him at the fair as a substitute, having intently tried to make himself believe and deceive his heart that it could make up for Jungkook's loss.

Obviously, that didn't work out that well.

The plushie didn't resemble Jungkook, didn't carry the scent that Jungkook possessed that comforted Jimin so much, could evidently not replace Jungkook by no means – nothing would ever.

Yet, it was still a reminder of Jungkook in some way as it was a gift of his, having mended Jimin's heart a little at least.

However, this pain wasn't going to last forever, Jimin reminded himself as he remained professional and respected Jungkook's work. Soon, this period was going to be over, allowing them to finally spend more time with each other again.

Frankly, Jimin's heart was already so utterly excited for the night he would be able to fall asleep next to Jungkook again.

In a way, Jimin felt giddy at the mere thought, an inevitable soft smile curving his lips.

“I really want one, too” Taehyung drew Jimin out of his thoughts, a small sigh slipping from Tae's lips as he stared at it, “I might ask hyung for one”

The smaller boy smiled at him, but found himself giggling as well.

This was quite a new situation for both of them. Usually, it wasn't Jimin's sex life that would inspire Taehyung to try something new. So far, it had always been Taehyung who had shared his intimate moments quite too explicitly during certain conversations that it had lead Jimin to be curious to explore them as well.

Taehyung chuckled at him before he approached the bed and took a seat. In the meanwhile, Jimin placed the collar back on the dresser, staring at it for a moment longer.

For some reason, at the sight of Jimin's neglected collar, an ounce of guilt blossomed within the pink haired boy. All these days, it had just been lying there on Jimin's dresser without being used or even looked at.

Maybe, keeping it here wasn't the best option...
Silence settled in the room.

Averting his gaze from the collar, Jimin turned towards Taehyung.

The taller boy fell back on the soft sheets, staring up at the ceiling while Jimin's gaze was fixated on him.

Whenever Jimin looked at Taehyung, having the image of his teardrenched face standing in front of Jimin's apartment upon the rejection from Yoongi resurface in his mind was inevitable.

Jimin wondered whether that would end someday, whether his mind would stop replaying that heartwrenching image in front of his eyes.

“Did... Did Yoongi hyung answer your texts? Did he call you?” Jimin found himself ask, deciding to keep his visit at Yoongi's house a secret for now.

“No, still no word from him” Taehyung responded quietly, his voice soft, carrying a hint of vulnerability.

“Are you okay?” Jimin wanted to know, contemplating whether that question was redundant or potentially even stupid as this whole issue certainly wasn't easy to deal with.

The blond haired boy sat up on his elbows, Jimin approaching him and taking a seat next to him, “Every single day I have this... this burning urge to just run to his house and slam at his door until he lets me in and talks to me, but... I don't want to corner him” Taehyung expressed his troubling battle within his heart, “Yet, then I feel as though his absence and clear refusal of any form of contact might just be his way to convey his rejection” he added, lowering his head down, “Maybe, I should just put an end to my misery and give up. Waiting and praying that he will turn around and change his mind might be more painful than letting him go”

The smaller boy blinked, averting his gaze and staring down at his lap, “Tae, I-”

“I know” Taehyung interrupted him, “You agree. You think I should let him go so I'll stop hurting” he uttered, falling back on the soft sheets as he ran his hand through his hair.

“No” Jimin protested, following Tae and lying down on the soft bedsheets beside him, “I... I just want you to be happy” he stated softly, “I don't know which decision in this confusing matter might be the right one and which might be the wrong one” he admitted.

Yet, did such a thing even exist?

Was there a right decision for this matter?

After all, there were somany factors one would have to take into consideration and that would contribute to finding a definite choice for one self, but even then – who had the right do decide whether the choice being made was a wrong one?

Were right and wrong even existing in the matter of love?

“In the end, there might not be a certain answer as that one” Jimin elaborated with a small frown, “Maybe, there is no right or wrong. Only you can decide what more your heart is able to endure” he added softer, turning his head to the side in order to stare at Taehyung's face.

The other one met his gaze, his eyes big, “Would you wait?” Tae wanted to know, his voice quiet.
“I-” Jimin tried, but went silent upon his brain rethinking his choice of words.

Well, Jimin had, hadn't he?

For Jungkook.

Oh, and how his heart had waited and prayed despite Jimin's desperate attempt to forget him.

“Sorry, don’t answer that” Taehyung mumbled, shaking his head at himself and forcing his gaze back up to the ceiling.

Jemin stared at his profile for a moment longer before he mirrored his stance and looked up to the ceiling, “I don't think it's of any significance whether I would wait for him because you're the only one who can make this decision for yourself, Tae” he responded softly.

Jemin's heart had waited for Jungkook even if it had been an impulsive and subconscious act.

Yet, Jemin didn't want to project his own situation and decision onto Taehyung. In the end, that wasn't fair. In the end, it was Taehyung who would have to bear the burden of that decision and have his heart be forced to endure such pain – in one way or another.

However, it would be solely his choice for which path he ultimately had decided to walk on.

“I know” Tae agreed with a sigh, “You're right. I just... I don't know what to do”

The smaller boy tended to feel the same way in certain situations where there didn't seem to be an obvious – or more so endurable – way out of the dark tunnel that had suddenly surrounded him.

What were you ought to do in such situations where you felt absolutely helpless?

Desperately, Jimin wished he possessed the ability to mend Taehyung's heart in some way – by a simple hug, some wise words that would cause all the pain to vanish – yet that was just not the reality.

“We always feel that way at times” Jimin uttered, drawing a shape on the soft fabric of the sheets, not quite paying attention to what form he was creating, rather too distracted by his own thoughts and voice, “Sometimes, there just doesn't seem to be an answer. We might not see it at all or we choose to not want to see it” he added, “However, in the end, our heart always knows. You might not realise it now, but if you allow yourself to listen to your heart, you might already know the answer”

What if there was no answer at all though? Weren't there times where you just simply could not find an answer despite how desperately you longed for it to unfold itself?

Yet, your heart knew, right?

It had to know.

“Shouldn't I listen to my brain?” Taehyung questioned.

“I guess that's a decision each and everyone has to make for themselves” Jimin replied, “Whether you listen to your heart or your brain is solely your choice, but I believe that your brain is going to look out for you on a wider, more sane spectrums – even if it means withholding you from things that will bring you happiness” he expressed.

Perhaps, listening to your brain was the more logical solution and perhaps even considered more sane, but your brain also withheld you from certain situations and decisions that might actually be Wholesome for you, but your brain was just way too scared to allow yourself to fall into them.

Would Jimin have gotten with Jungkook, if he'd chosen to listen to his brain?

“A situation as yours will make any logical person turn around and walk away because it is unique and scary” Jimin elaborated, reaching for Tae's hand that was resting between their bodies, “Your brain might advise you to save yourself from what it believes won't work out as it wants to spare you from that pain”

“But not my heart” Taehyung uttered, giving Jimin's hand a tender squeeze.

“Exactly” Jimin agreed, “Your heart knows what you really need. It sees what you desire and it urges you to go for things even if they do seem hopeless or... or scary because it wants you to find that happiness for what its worth. Even if it doesn't last, even if it seems hopeless, that doesn't mean that it can't be beautiful for the time it lasted”

Weren't things that weren't lasting forever just as worthy to strive for? After all, they could be just as beautiful for the time they were existing for.

In no means did Jimin want to imply that having a polyamorous relationship wouldn't last. However, he did want to remove such fears from Taehyung, if they were to exist within his heart.

Maybe, this wouldn't lead to anywhere. Maybe, Yoongi would not change his mind.

Yet maybe, he was right around the corner, waiting to confess his love to them.

In the end, Taehyung would obtain such happiness and love from being with them, if it were to work out between the three of them – regardless of whether or not it would last a year or an eternity.

It was beautiful, in every single shape and form.

Taehyung proceeded to look up the ceiling for quite some time, his chest rising and falling in a steady beat, his hand remaining in Jimin's grasp.

Then, he turned to Jimin, a small smile on his face.

“I want to fight for him” Taehyung uttered, “I want to be with him, Min-ah”

---

Upstairs. My office. Right now. – Bunny

For a brief moment, Jimin just stared at the letters that were displayed on his phone screen, confusion settling within him upon reading the message he had just received from Jungkook.

What could-

Suddenly, realisation bloomed within him. The pink haired boy's eyes went wide as he nearly choked on the food in his mouth. Coughing, he dropped his phone down on his lap and picked up his water bottle in order to jug down some of the cold fluid, thus hoping to calm down his throat.

“Min-ah, are you okay?” Hoseok worried, lowering his chopsticks down on his plate as he stared at Jimin with concern in his eyes.

Swiftly, the smaller boy nodded, taking one last sip before he placed the bottle back down on the table next to his plate.
“I'm fine, hyung. Thank you. I just ate too quickly” Jimin found an excuse, way too shy to admit to the actual reason that had caused the reaction of his body.

The brown haired one smiled at him before he reached for his chopsticks again and proceeded to eat his food.

Perhaps, Jimin had done something rather naughty earlier – something that would explain Jungkook’s message.

However, it wasn't of low probability that Jimin was wrong with his assumption... right? There might be another reason for his message. After all-

No. It had to be attributed to Jimin's earlier action.

Oh god.

Swallowing hard, Jimin picked up his phone again, his fingers swiping over his phone screen in order to open the chat with Jungkook. Hesitantly, he created a response, not noticing the quickening of his heartbeat.

I'm eating lunch with hyung, Kook-ah. Is everything okay? I'll be done in like ten minutes. – Jimin

Ten minutes. My office. – Bunny

Despite Jungkook's cute nickname depicted at the top of the screen, Jimin found himself gulp at the thought of going upstairs into Jungkook's office and facing him, an inevitable shiver running down his back.

It wasn't fear. It was... anticipation.

Jimin might have stuffed his food into his mouth a little faster after that last message he had received, nearly choking on the amount of rice in his mouth again as he barely chewed on his meal in order to swallow it down faster.

Hoseok might have given him some weird looks, clearly puzzled by Jimin's sudden behaviour.

“I'm done, huyng” Jimin announced, wiping the napkin over his mouth before he cleaned up his spot at the table, “I'll meet you for the next practice” he uttered before he got up to his feet and collected his plate and trash.

The taller boy titled his head to the side, furrowing his brows at Jimin, “Are you okay, Min-ah?”

“Mhm-mh” Jimin hummed in affirmation, flashing him a warm smile.

“Okay” Hoseok responded with a nod, waving him off, “Later, then” he chuckled.

Swiftly, Jimin turned around and rushed out of the lunch room.

---

The smaller boy knocked on the heavy wooden door before he captured the door handle and twisted it in order to open the door and grant himself entrance to Jungkook's office. Hesitantly, he peeked inside, swallowing hard as he caught sight of his boyfriend sitting at his desk, “Kook-ah?” he called out softly.

Jungkook looked up from his papers, something flashing in his eyes upon the sight of Jimin, the action sending another shiver down Jimin's back. The black haired one got up to his feet, dismissing his papers and waving Jimin inside, “Sit down, kitten”

Kitten.

That petname was usually reserved for moments revolving around their most intimate times.

“Y-Yes” Jimin uttered, his heart rate picking up as he entered the office and shut the door behind himself.

Shyly, Jimin approached the designated chair and sat down, Jungkook leaning against the desk rather than taking a seat again, his stare intent as he looked at Jimin. Under his dark eyes, Jimin felt vulnerable and timid, causing him to avert his gaze, his eyes glued to his lap instead as he fidgeted with the hem of his shirt.

"Look at me" Jungkook demanded, Jimin swift to oblige as he lifted his head, meeting Jungkook’s dark eyes, “What is this doing in here?” Jungkook wanted to know, picking up an item and displaying it to Jimin.

Oh.

Jimin's pink collar.

In the end, Jimin had in fact been right with his assumption.

Inhaling a shaky breath, Jimin’s gaze flickered from the collar in Jungkook’s hand up to his brown orbs that had never left Jimin's face – almost as though he was proceeding to study Jimin's features, trying to read his eyes.

“I... I wanted to give it back to you” Jimin responded softly, squirming in his seat under the intense stare, the boy digging his teeth into his bottom lip.

Maybe, Jimin omitted the fact of why he had actually placed it there. The prior courage and excitement that had been present in his body earlier this morning had now vanished, replaced by timidity under the intent gaze of Jungkook’s.

“Give it back to me?” Jungkook echoed, titling his head to the side, confusion visible on his handsome face.

“Yes” Jimin affirmed with a faint nod.

“Why would you give it back to me, little one?” he wanted to know.

At the thought of his answer, Jimin found his cheeks tinge a faint shade of rose, “I... I like the thought of you having it” he revealed, avoiding eye contact.

However, Jungkook wasn’t having it.

Gently, he reached out and grabbed Jimin’s chin, guiding his face back up in order to lock eyes with him, “And why is that?” he wondered.

“You can put it on me whenever you want, if it's in your possession” Jimin reasoned, his blush darkening.

At those words, Jungkook arched up his eyebrows, a slight display of a smirk adorning his handsome features, “Whenever I want, hm?”
“Y-Yes” Jimin affirmed breathy.

The black haired male ran the pad of his thumb along Jimin's bottom lip, his gaze fixated on Jimin's plump, pink lips, “What a naughtly little thing you are, aren't you, baby? Sneaked into my office just to give me this? Placed it on my desk so there was no way I wouldn't find it, didn't you, kitten?” Jungkook stated, his voice low and attractive, “What about the note, hm?”

Oh.

The note.

Jimin parted his lips in an attempt to answer, but couldn't find any words, seriously lacked the ability to form a coherent sentence – or any sentence for that matter. The poor boy only blinked as he observed how Jungkook slid the piece of paper over to Jimin.

I miss you. Please play with me tonight, Kook-ah.
- Kitten

“Isn't that what you wrote, Jimin-ah? Want me to play with you, hm? Even signed it with Kitten, didn't you?” Jungkook expressed, Jimin's cheeks flushing a darker shade of rose.

Oh.

The pink haired boy had been missing Jungkook so much, had missed his close proximity, falling asleep next to him, his hands on Jimin's body, his sweet, but sometimes dirty words, his arms around Jimin's delicate body, having sex with him. All of him.

Yes, maybe Jimin had been tempted – had been tempted to evoke a reaction in Jungkook by his behaviour, the thought of a potential punishment maybe having lurked him into this idea, the thought of Jungkook playing with him so addicting.

Could you blame him?

It has been so long.

After Taehyung had made him aware of the presence of the collar in his room, Jimin hadn't been able to stop his imagination from running wild, having craved Jungkook to play with him in whatever way he wanted.

Make him wear the collar. Punish him. Be rough. All of that beautiful stuff.

“I-I didn't sneak in” Jimin protested, shaking his head, “I wanted to give it to you, but you were in a meeting so I asked Jin hyung whether it would be okay for me to drop something off” he declared.

“What if hyung would have came in to check what it was?” Jungkook asked.

The pink haired one parted his lips, but shut them right after.

“Fuck, you would have loved that, hm?” Jungkook whispered, wetting his lips at the sight of Jimin's flushed cheeks.

For a moment, Jungkook just stared at Jimin, but then he forced his gaze down to the collar in his hand.

“Whenever I want?” Jungkook repeated, his digits playing with the pendant that had his name engraved into it, his eyes rushing back up to Jimin's, “Want me to play with you, baby? Want it rough? Just say the word, little one, and I'll do anything”

Yes. Yes. Yes. Oh, please.

“Yes, please” Jimin whispered, his heart almost knowing where this was going, unconsciously triggering a wave of arousal, but there was also gratitude and happiness blooming within Jimin.

“What if I put it on you right now, hm?” Jungkook prompted, his pupils dilating as he leaned closer, “Made you wear it for the rest of the day”

The smaller boy gasped, subconsciously drawing his thighs together as he bit down on his bottom lip in order to muffle the whimper that had threatened to slip from his lips as well.

Apparently, Jungkook enjoyed that reaction, his smirk growing as he wet his lips, “Are you getting horny, baby? Love the thought so much, don't you? Love showing everyone who you belong to?”

“Yes” Jimin replied breathy.

There were plenty of reasons for why Jimin adored wearing the collar so much.

The fact of it displaying a sense of belonging was definitely a huge fraction of it.

Jimin loved it so much.

“Yes what” Jungkook pressed, Jimin not quite certain what he desired for Jimin to say, yet then assuming that he might needed for Jimin to say more than just a simple yes to convey his consent.

“Yes, I-I do love that, Kook-ah” Jimin elaborated, his gaze falling on the collar in Jungkook's hand, the taller male dangling the collar from one side to the other before he pushed himself off from the desk and walked past Jimin.

“Mhm, no, kitten” Jungkook protested, humming in dissatisfaction as he unfastened the collar, “It's Sir” he added, clearly emphasising the term and sending a shiver down Jimin's back as the boy felt how Jungkook wrapped the collar around his throat, “Do you understand?” he asked, leaning in to whisper those words right against Jimin's ear, his breath tickling on Jimin's hot skin as the younger male fastened the collar around Jimin's neck.

“Yes” Jimin breathed, swallowing hard.

“Yes what” Jungkook reminded him.

“Y-Yes, Sir” Jimin stuttered, swiftly correcting himself.

Frankly, Jimin had always waited for that day when Jungkook would finally make him call him that – had waited for it ever since the day that title had first been brought up in the midst of a conversation about their working relationship upon noticing the visible effect it had on Jungkook, yet also on himself.

However, now the usage of this word was not related to their work environment at all, but was used in a whole nother context – a sexual one.

Jimin was ecstatic.

In a way, it was just a simple word. Maybe, not one of particular huge significance, but then it had the same or at least a similar effect to the one Jimin felt whenever he was called a good boy or was referred to with any of the many petnames Jungkook called him by.
These words did hold a certain significance – at least to the two of them – despite them potentially just appearing to be simple words to anyone else.

There was something so beautiful and appealing to that.

“There you go” Jungkook praised, pressing his lips to the back of Jimin's ear, “Good boy”

At the praise, Jimin's heart fluttered as it was entranced, his hand reaching up to the collar, his fingertips brushing over the item wrapped around his throat. Pure happiness bloomed within Jimin upon the realisation of finally wearing the collar again.

It was intriguing.

“T-Thank you” Jimin whispered, “Thank you, Sir” he added, meeting Jungkook's gaze.

The black haired boy smirked, an emotion that appeared to be one of lust flashing in his gorgeous brown orbs. At the sight, Jimin's stomach stirred in arousal.

“Up, come on” Jungkook insisted, distancing himself from Jimin and taking a seat on his respective chair on the other side of the desk, across from Jimin.

Puzzled, Jimin blinked, observing Jungkook for a moment and watching him unbotten the cuffs on the wrists of his shirt before he rolled up his sleeves.

“W-What are you-” Jimin murmured.

“You were naughty, kitten, weren't you?” Jungkook interrupted him, not meeting his gaze, but rather focused on rolling up his sleeves or at least pretending to be, “Come here, you know what happens to naughty boys” he added.

The pink haired boy whimpered, the front of his pants growing tighter at the implied promise that had left Jungkook's lips.

“Bend over the desk” Jungkook ordered, pointing at his wooden desk.

“N-Now?” Jimin clarified.

“Did I stutter?” Jungkook wanted to know, arching up an eyebrow.

Hesitantly, Jimin approached Jungkook's side, halting in front of his chair, his eyes big in innocence, yet touched by a grasp of lust as he stared at Jungkook for the boy to manhandle him into the position he desired.

“Down” Jungkook demanded.

With that, Jungkook placed one of his palms on the small of Jimin's back, applying faint pressure in order to push him down, causing Jimin to bend over the desk the way Jungkook had ordered him to.

“There you go” the younger male uttered, his hand brushing over Jimin's inner thigh, “Your colour?”

Inhaling a shaky breath, Jimin looked back over his shoulder, “G-Green” he assured, Jungkook's palm resting on Jimin's bottom.

“You have to keep quiet” Jungkook informed him, his gaze fixated on Jimin's perky ass, almost urging him to deliver several spanks on it.
The pink haired boy nodded, swallowing hard, his adams apple bobbing against the collar around his neck in the process.

“Do you understand, Jimin-ah?” Jungkook wanted to know, sending a gentle tap to Jimin's butt in order to earn his attention, “Answer me”

“Y-Yes” Jimin breathed, giving another nod, “I'll keep quiet” he promised.

“Try again” Jungkook insisted, wetting his lips as he raised his hand up into the air.

Swiftly, Jimin tried to fathom what he had done wrong, his heart skipping a beat in horror. For a moment, his mind was racing, yet then he realised, “Sir” Jimin added, “Yes, Sir” he whispered.

“Good boy” Jungkook praised, kneading the flesh of Jimin's right buttccheek before he delivered a gentle smack to it, Jimin gasping and rocking forward at the blow, “Stay still” Jungkook commanded.

“Yes, Si-”

Suddenly, there were several knocks on the door.

For a moment, Jimin was frozen in his stance, caught off guard by the abrupt intruder, causing his mind to be blank for multiple seconds. Yet then, he acted quickly upon feeling Jungkook's hands on his hips that pulled him away from the desk.

“Baby, up” Jungkook uttered, Jimin obliging and fixing his posture, the door bursting open with Jimin barely able to create enough distance between the two of them to not make it seem too suspicious.

A sighing Jin walked into the room, carrying several sheets of paper in his hands, “Jungkook-ssi, I need your signature for these- Oh, hello, Jimin-ah” Jin changed the course of the sentence upon the sight of Jimin standing beside Jungkook, the smaller boy's cheeks flushed.

“How are you?” Jin wanted to know, a bright grin adorning his face as he started a conversation with Jimin in spite of the latter preferring to disappear from this moment as swiftly as human possibly, “I have barely been able to see you ever since you started to work here”

Unfortunately, that was actually true. The two of them had not been able to spend much time together at all, had barely caught sight of the other one whenever they were present in the company building simultaneously.

“Uh, y-yes, that's true. I'm good, thank you, hyung. How are you?” Jimin responded.

“I would be a lot better, if Jungkook-ssi would finally sign these” Jin commented with a faint hint of frustration, dropping the papers down on Jungkook's desk, “You left them downstairs, JK”

“Shit, right” Jungkook cussed, giving a nod as he picked them up with a swift motion of his hand, “Thank you, hyung”

“I-I'll go back down then” Jimin murmured, embarrassed by what Jin had nearly walked into. If the other male would have actually caught them in such an intimate moment, Jimin would have wanted to leave this planet for good, “See you around”

“Wait, I didn't mean to interrupt” Jin noted, an apology audible in his voice as he turned to Jimin, “Why don't you-”

“I have to go back down to Hoseok hyung anyway” Jimin interrupted him swiftly, walking past the boy with a wave of his hand, not courageous enough to meet either of their eyes, missing Jungkook's smug smirk, “Bye” he muttered before he rushed out of the office, heading back downstairs as quick as possible.

---

To Jimin's dismay, the poor boy did not quite notice that he was still very much wearing the pretty collar around his neck. In the midst of his embarrassment and his hurry to get back to work, he completely omitted that particular fact from his awareness.

Surely, it was pure bliss to have it on, yet Jimin wasn't certain whether this was the most appropriate environment.

It was the moment upon entering the practice room that Jimin realised, fortunately no one else currently occupying the room and catching him. As soon as Jimin saw his own reflection, he gasped, his hand rushing up to the collar around his neck, Jungkook's name dangling from side to side.

There was something almost daring about this...

Suddenly, Jimin's phone vibrated, startling the boy who immediately pulled it out from his trousers and checked his phone screen, a message having popped up on it.

You may take it off, little one, if you feel more comfortable that way. I don't want it to interfere with your work. – Bunny

The smaller boy caught his bottom lip between his teeth, lowering himself down to the floor and adjusting his position against the wall by leaning his back against it.

I like wearing it... – Jimin

I know you do, pretty. I love seeing you wear it, too. Just remember that you're present in the company building, hm? – Bunny

Evidently, Jungkook was right.

There was a fair line between wanting something and something being right or considered appropriate. Maybe, that line wasn't as obvious some times, but this occurrence definitely was one of those moments where it was not appropriate despite how much Jimin loved wearing it.

After all, what if someone saw him wear it? Clearly, there was Jungkook's name dangling from his throat. Undoubtedly, that would catch the attention of someone and might cause rumours to evolve in the company that would spread like wild fire until the two of them were in some deep trouble.

You're right... May I wear it later? – Jimin

Gently, Jimin reached up to his neck and unfastened the collar.
The smaller boy’s gaze trailed down to the front of his pants, noticing that it was still rather tight around the groin area due to Jungkook’s promise of punishing Jimin. The arousal was still very much vivid within Jimin, causing him to anticipate a continuation of that moment later on.

Kitten, you can wear it all day every day, if that’s what makes you happy. – Bunny

I wanna wear it later, when we get home... – Jimin

You’re gonna put it back on as soon as we leave this building. I wasn’t done with you yet. - Bunny

At those words, Jimin's heart fluttered in excitement.

The pink haired one caught his bottom lip between his teeth, pulling his knees up to his chest as he inhaled a shaky breath.

Was I very bad? – Jimin

You were, kitten. – Bunny

What are you going to do to me? – Jimin

Jimin blushed at the mere thought of being spanked tonight, Jungkook manhandling him over his lap, his big hands smacking his bottom a pretty shade of rose before he-

Maybe, it wasn't as favourable to allow his mind to run wild like this in his current environment.

You'll find out soon enough, kitten. – Bunny

“Jimin-ah, you're already here” Hoseok's voice startled Jimin, causing the boy to jerk up and drop his phone on his lap.

“A-Ah, hyung, yes” Jimin stuttered, giving a nod as he clumsily got up to his feet and brushed the dust off of his trousers.

“Great” Hoseok grinned at him, “Would you mind going over the choreo already?”

The pink haired boy shook his head, returning the smile, “No, not at all. We can start right away”

---

“Mr. Jeon, you can't leave yet” a female voice noted, having approached Jimin and Jungkook who were heading towards the elevators on their way home.

It was much later that same day, the two of them finally having gotten off work after dealing with the heavy sexual tension and quite large extent of sexual frustration on Jimin's part. The poor boy couldn't wait to get home, had struggled to focus during practice and force his imagination to create anything but thoughts about a certain black haired boy.

Jungkook’s warm palm was resting on the small of Jimin’s back, keeping the boy close to his side and exuding a sense of safety for Jimin.

“And why is that?” Jungkook wanted to know, having halted upon hearing the voice, then turning towards the source of that particular voice.

“Your father needs you” Minji simply responded, not elaborating at all, once she had arrived at their side.
In a way, such an answer would frighten Jimin for at least a fraction of a moment. After all, what exactly was he needing Jungkook for, if they had just seen each other fifteen minutes ago?

Was he in urgent need? Was he in danger? Was he not feeling well?

“Now?” Jungkook wanted to know, Jimin's gaze flickering back and forth from Jungkook's to Minji's face in the midst of their exchange.

“Yes” Minji affirmed, giving a nod.

“What for?” the taller boy wanted to know.

Visibly, Minji hesitated, her gaze rushing to Jimin before she met Jungkook's eyes again, “This is confidential information, Mr. Jeon, I-”

“Jimin-ah won't spill shit” Jungkook interrupted her, his grasp around Jimin's waist tightening, “I trust him”

“Well, you can trust whoever you want, but I have my job and my orders” Minji replied, rolling her eyes at him.

It was odd to see her behave like that in Jungkook's presence. In the end, Jungkook was the son of her immediate boss and technically her boss just as much as he was the co-CEO of this entire company. Did she not fear him firing her for talking back to him like that?

Apparently, she felt very safe in her position.

Jimin couldn't imagine anyone else daring to speak like this with Jungkook.

“It is related to his trip” Minji revealed eventually, “It is crucial for you to do this right now. It's urgent, Jungkook-ah” she stressed, ultimately leaving Jungkook with little choice as it was his father that had demanded for him to meet him once again.

“Mr. Jeon” Jungkook corrected her, slightly annoyed by her addressing him with his first name – in an informal way.

“Yes. Right” she uttered, yet appeared to not care much about such reminder, “So, would you mind?” she pressed, pointing back over her shoulder.

Jimin bit down on his bottom lip, slightly bummed out that he had to wait even longer for Jungkook to take him home.

However, Jimin comprehended the urgency of this issue and was aware that Jungkook's profession required him to be available during times of the day that were supposed to be considered his free time. Co-owning a company had many perks, yet also many more obligations.

Besides, especially the last few days had demanded Jungkook's presence at the company a lot more than before as he was more than simply necessary as the co-CEO, thus this wasn't that surprising to Jimin.

With a sigh, Jungkook turned to Jimin, the smaller boy staring up at him with big eyes, “Little one, I'll be as quick as I can, I promise” Jungkook assured him, leaning in to press a kiss to Jimin's cheek, then lingering close to Jimin's ear, “You're going to wait downstairs in the car for me, understood? No touching yourself” he whispered into Jimin's ear, his hot breath tickling on Jimin's skin before he pressed another kiss on the spot behind Jimin's ear. At the touch and that order, a shiver ran down Jimin's back and his cheeks flushed a shade of rose.

“Yes, Sir” Jimin whispered back, Jungkook humming in satisfaction and giving Jimin's waist a tender squeeze before he withdrew and followed after Minji.

---

“Good afternoon, Beomsoo” Jimin greeted the man with a bright smile, Beomsoo returning the smile and executing a deep bow before he opened the door to the back seats in order to allow Jimin access.

“Jimin-ssi” Beomsoo replied joyful, “It is a wonderful afternoon indeed” he noted, giving a nod as he watched Jimin climb into the car. As soon as the smaller boy was seated inside, Beomsoo shut the door close.

Then, he climbed into the car as well, taking the driver's seat and twisting the key in the ignition, the engine coming to life a brief second later.

“Your place or Mr. Jeon's, Jimin-ssi?” Beomsoo wanted to know, meeting Jimin's gaze in the rearview mirror.

“Uh, neither” Jimin responded, shaking his head as he placed his delicate hands in his lap, “Not yet, Beomsoo. Jungkook-ah wants me to wait here until he's finished” he declared.

“I understand” Beomsoo replied as he shut off the engine, silence settling in the small space between them, “Would you want some music, Jimin-ssi?” he suggested.

“Uhm, whatever you want. I don't mind” Jimin uttered softly.

If anything, Jimin was longing for Jungkook solely – didn't want anything else, but that certain black haired boy. In the midst of his desire, he couldn't think of many other things, wasn't sure he wanted anything else at all.

Beomsoo hummed in acknowledgement, deciding to ultimately switch the radio on, a soft and quiet melody audible in the background a brief moment later, breaking the silence that had fallen upon them.

Hopefully, Jungkook wasn't going to take too long.

It wasn't that Jimin was turning impatient, it was just... okay, maybe a little bit – a tiny bit. The sexual frustration just didn't want to vanish from within him.

Yet, could you blame him?

Sighing, Jimin wobbled his leg up and down, pulling out his phone and checking whether he had received any new messages from Jungkook that he might have missed. However, he didn't.

Approximately fifteen minutes later, Beomsoo climbed out of the car, the sound of his door shutting after he had left waking Jimin who had been drowsing, his head leaning against the cold window of the vehicle, yet then jerking up at the noise.

Sleepily, the smaller boy rubbed his petite fist over his eyes, a cold breeze of air suddenly washing over him upon the door to the back seats being pulled open. At the low temperatures, Jimin shuddered, chills running down his skin as he glanced at the culprit.

A figure climbed into the car next to Jimin, the latter's heart skipping a beat as he realised that it was Jungkook who took a seat beside him.

“Hey, little one” he greeted Jimin, leaning in to press a kiss to his temple, “I’m sorry you had to wait”

A content breath slipped from Jimin's lips as he nuzzled against Jungkook, shaking his head at his apology, “Don’t be. It's fine” he assured his boyfriend, Beomsoo returning to the driver's seat before he started the engine and pulled out of the parking spot, “Is everything okay?”

“I believe so” Jungkook answered, yet didn't elaborate.

Frankly, Jimin surely wouldn't understand much of their business related issues anyway, thus he didn't ask any further questions, but decided to rest the topic there.

Tenderly, Jungkook took Jimin's hand and interlaced their fingers, a smile curving Jimin's lips at the sweet gesture.

“Are you hungry, Jimin-ah?” Jungkook wanted to know, pressing his lips to Jimin's knuckles, “Should we have dinner at a restaurant, hm?”

At the suggestion, Jimin found himself whine.

Surely, it sounded endearing to have dinner with Jungkook at a restaurant, yet... yet Jimin just wanted to have Jungkook all for himself for the remainder of the night.

“I... That's a nice idea, but... but I just want to go home with you” Jimin responded, “Please” he added softer.

Jungkook smirked, humming in approval, “Okay, little one”

As the pink haired boy stole a glimpse at Jungkook, he noticed the lacking of the latter's seatbelt. Eyes blown wide, Jimin reached over and pulled at his respective seatbelt, causing Jungkook to raise an eyebrow at him.

“Safety” Jimin commented softly, fastening Jungkook's seatbelt with a gentle hand, then resting his palm on Jungkook's chest for a moment longer, his eyes still glued to Jungkook's handsome features before he met the other one's gaze.

“Thank you, kitten”

Hesitantly, Jimin leaned up, his eyes fluttering shut as he intended to press a kiss to Jungkook's lips, yet he never did. Instead, Jungkook grabbed his chin and halted his movement, Jimin's eyes fluttering back open.

“No?” Jimin whispered, nearly pouting at the rejection.

For a moment, Jungkook's gaze just flickered back and forth between Jimin's eyes, then a smirk adorned his defined features, “Beomsoo, the window”

“Yes, Mr. Jeon” Beomsoo responded, appearing to understand what Jungkook had referred to without further elaboration – opposed to Jimin who was lacking the knowledge. With a swift movement of his hand, a black window rolled up and segregated the backseat area from the front, allowing Jimin and Jungkook some privacy.

Oh.

“K-Kook-ah” Jimin breathed, leaning closer again in desperate esperance to be granted a kiss this However, Jungkook hummed in dissapproval, his hand brushing Jimin's fringe out of his face before he leaned in, “Try again, kitten” Jungkook insisted, speaking right against Jimin's ear.

Gulping, Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth, containing the gasp that had threatened to slip from his lips, “I'm sorry” he apologised, immediately comprehending why Jungkook was dissatisfied with him.

“Mhm-mh”

“Sir, p-please-” Jimin tried again, yet then he wasn't quite certain what exactly he was begging for.

Was it a kiss? Was it a touch?

Frankly, Jimin would adore anything – at all.

“Yes?” Jungkook urged him, satisfied as he watched Jimin slip into that familiar submissive state, slowly but steadily. It was always such an intriguing, but beautiful sight to observe it happening. Slowly, Jimin's cheeks flushed a pretty shade of rose, his pupils dilated as there was lust and desperation visibly glistening in them and his sounds- Fuck, those pretty sounds.

“Please touch me” Jimin murmured, nuzzling against Jungkook's hand that was still caressing his cheek.

“I am” Jungkook pointed out smugly, amused by Jimin's response as the smaller boy huffed in frustration and shook his head at his words.

“N-No, more” Jimin begged.

“Do you think you deserve that?” Jungkook challenged, arching up his brows at Jimin.

Innocently, Jimin blinked, parting his lips to answer, but shutting them again as he didn't know what to say.

Jimin was a good boy, wasn't he? Yes, he was!

“I.”

“After trying to tease me today, hm?” Jungkook added, tilting his head to the side in a concentrating manner, “Placing the collar in my office like that? You wanted a reaction, kitten. Here it is”

No.

This is not what Jimin wanted!

Yes, Jimin wanted Jungkook to play with him, but... but not like this!

Jimin wants to be touched. So badly.

The smaller boy whimpered, his heart pounding fast against his chest as he turned to Jungkook. Hastily, Jimin fidgeted with his seatbelt, unfastening it in order to straddle Jungkook's lap.

However, as soon as Jimin had hooked one leg over Jungkook's lap, the latter hummed in dissatisfaction, shaking his head and giving Jimin's thigh a gentle tap.
“No, kitten” Jungkook protested, gripping Jimin's hips and lifting him back over into his respective seat.

“Kook-ah” Jimin whined.

“Safety, hm?” Jungkook reasoned in clear reference to Jimin's earlier concern, reaching over for the seatbelt and securing Jimin back in his seat, his hand brushing over Jimin's chest with the tips of his fingers, the touch sending a shiver down Jimin's back.

Somehow, Jimin couldn't help but believe that it was just a poor excuse for Jungkook to deny Jimin any ounce of control and restrict him from having any further contact like he desired.

The black haired one just wanted to tease Jimin.

“Stay still” Jungkook demanded, his voice firm, but the softness in his eyes always evoking comfort in Jimin.

“Yes” Jimin mumbled, “Yes, Sir” he swiftly added.

“Where is your collar, kitten?” Jungkook asked him, placing his hand on Jimin's thigh and giving it a tender squeeze before he rubbed it lower and caressed Jimin's inner thigh, thus so dangerously close to Jimin's most private parts.

For a moment, Jimin was distracted by Jungkook's touch, the poor boy blinking and stealing a glimpse at Jungkook's hand before he swallowed hard.

“Kitten?”

“My bag” Jimin answered softly, “It's in my bag”

In little to no time, Jungkook had fished the collar from Jimin's back, glancing at the item as a smirk curved his lips before he met Jimin's gaze, “Lean forward for me, baby”

Without an ounce of hesitation, Jimin complied and leaned forward, not needing a verbal explanation for what Jungkook was going to do as his behaviour didn't leave much room for imagination.

“Good boy” Jungkook praised him, his smirk growing upon noticing the whimper that slipped from Jimin's lips.

Gently, Jungkook wrapped the collar around Jimin's throat, fastening it in a skilfull motion and humming in satisfaction.

“Colour?” Jungkook wanted to know, curling two of his digits around the collar and giving it a tender tug.

“Green” Jimin breathed, gulping at the anticipation that was vivid within him, his adam's apple bobbing against the material around his throat.

“Up, kitten” Jungkook insisted, giving the collar another pull, forcing Jimin up in his position. The pink haired boy gasped at how he was being manhandled, his stomach stirring in arousal.

“Thank you, Sir” Jimin whispered, digging his teeth into his bottom lip.

“Now stay still, hm?” the younger male demanded.

“Yes, Sir” Jimin responded with a faint nod, placing his delicate hands in his laps, his chest rising and falling quickly.

How was he supposed to stay completely still for the entire car ride?

Jimin was doomed.

Without any warning, Jungkook's hand found its way back on Jimin's inner thigh, his warm palm rubbing over it before he traced it further up towards Jimin's most priva-

“Ah” Jimin breathed, his thighs twitching at the feeling of Jungkook's hand brushing over his clothed penis that was already semi-hard – as embarrassing as it was, “K-Kook-ah”

“Sssh, kitten” Jungkook shushed him, his voice soft as he murmured those words right against Jimin's ear.

“Please” Jimin whispered, digging his teeth into his bottom lip as he bucked his hips into Jungkook's hand, frantic to be granted more of that heavenly feeling.

“What did I tell you?” Jungkook asked him, delivering a faint smack to Jimin's inner thigh, “Still, baby. Stay still” he reminded Jimin, the latter whimpering as he gave a nod.

“I-I'm sorry, Sir” Jimin apologised softly, inhaling a shaky breath as he clenched his hands into petite fists, trying his utmost to refrain himself from moving an inch.

The taller male hummed in acknowledgement, proceeding to caress Jimin's inner thigh, yet never moving closer to where Jimin needed him the most.

This was torture.

An eternity later – at least, that's what Jimin swore he had to endure – the car came to a halt, the engine shutting off before Beomsoo left the car and walked to the other side of the vehicle to open the door for them.

In order to exit the car, Jungkook withdrew from Jimin, the smaller boy suddenly no longer engulfed by the warmth the man was radiating or his prominent touch on his inner thigh that had not only teased him, but had also evoke a sense of comfort and protection.

From one second to the other, Jimin was feeling so cold – so cold, and lonely. The lack of contact was evidently having a physical effect on him.

Truly, an awful one.

The temporary loss was painful on Jimin's heart.

Maybe, the collar did have an emotional impact on Jimin? Maybe, it influenced his emotional capability, amplifying certain emotions and accelerating the approach towards his submissive state?

“Jungkook-ah” Jimin whined, swiftly unfastening his own seatbelt and scooting closer to the edge of the seat.

Suddenly, Jungkook lifted Jimin out of the car and tossed him over his shoulder, causing Jimin to shriek at the abrupt event, “Kook-ah!”

The black haired boy chuckled as he gave Jimin's bottom a gentle smack, silencing him immediately. In response, Jimin giggled, clinging onto Jungkook as the other one headed towards the apartment building – at least for what Jimin believed of occurring.
“Aren’t we going to say goodnight to Beomsoo?” Jimin wondered, a faint display of a blush on his face at the realisation of Beomsoo still being present by the car and surely witnessing the scene.

“Goodnight, Beomsoo” Jungkook called back, lifting one of his hands into the air in order to wave at the man.

“Goodnight!” Jimin yelled, merely managing to lift his head just as much as to catch a glimpse of Beomsoo, a fond smile plastered on the man's face as he waved back at them, “Are you going to carry me upstairs?” Jimin then wanted to know as soon as they had entered the building.

“Yes” Jungkook responded plainly.

“I can walk” Jimin pointed out, his head upside down, causing all the blood to rush down into it and making him feel slightly dizzy.

“I know you can, but you don't have to” Jungkook replied.

The pink haired male only rolled his eyes, but in all honesty – he didn't mind this at all.

Soon enough, they were upstairs in front of Jungkook's apartment, Jungkook still carrying Jimin as though he weighed nothing at all.

 Upon exiting the elevator, Jungkook set Jimin back down on his feet and took his hand into his own, the pink haired boy giggling again as he followed after Jungkook.

As Jimin lifted his head, his gaze fell on a man dressed in all black that was standing in front of Jungkook's apartment door.

For a moment, Jimin froze, a wave of fear washing over him for a reason that he couldn't explain. Frankly, it might just be the shock of the unexpected sight of another figure apparent in front of Jungkook's apartment, yet a shiver ran down Jimin's back all the same.

Who was this? What was he doing here?

“Joon” Jungkook addressed the man, giving a faint nod as he headed towards his apartment door, Jimin right at the heels of his feet, the hands of the two boys still interlaced as he flashed the man that Jungkook had referred to with 'Joon' a polite smile.

Seemingly, Jungkook appeared to know the man, thus Jimin didn't need to be concerned... right?

The other man returned the bow, Jimin almost certain that there was even a slight smile depicted on his face as he stared at Jimin, his strong features softening for a mere second before they retreated to his prior expression.

“Who is that?” Jimin wanted to know after he had entered the apartment, Jungkook shutting the door behind him.

“Joon” Jungkook simply answered as though that would decrease Jimin's curiosity solely. After all, Jungkook had just said his name five seconds ago to greet the man. Evidently, Jimin was now aware of the man's name, but that didn't elaborate who he was at all.

What was he doing here?

However, Jungkook didn't appear to be keen on having that conversation right now – Frankly, Jimin didn't need to know much more right now either. In the end, he was way too aroused to care much at all, just wanted Jungkook.

“Now, come here” Jungkook prompted.

A few seconds later, Jungkook had Jimin pushed up against the bedroom wall in a swift and effortless motion, his hands curled around Jimin's thighs, his fingers digging into Jimin's soft flesh.

Slowly, Jungkook leaned in, lingering close to Jimin's lips, yet not close enough to call it a kiss, just gently brushing over Jimin's lips and evoking a whimper in the smaller boy who longed for more than this – already so entranced.

One of Jungkook's hands found it's way to the back of Jimin's neck, the taller man then finally crashing his lips on Jimin's and attaching them in a heated kiss.

Firmly, Jungkook pushed his hips forward, rubbing their groins together and creating such friction that earned him a moan from Jimin.

“Off, off” Jimin begged, pulling on Jungkook's shirt, yet Jungkook didn't seem pleased by his behaviour for he grasped Jimin's wrists and pushed them up against the wall, holding them secure above Jimin's head.

Jimin whined high in his throat, desiring to touch Jungkook everywhere.

Suddenly, the sound of Jungkook's phone ringtone echoed in the room, the two boys groaning in frustration as Jungkook distached his lips from Jimin's.

“Noo, Kook-ah” Jimin whined, shaking his head as he observed how Jungkook pulled out his phone.

“Fuck, it's my father” Jungkook revealed, his eyebrows furrowed upon the sight.

“Noo, Jungkook-ah, no” Jimin begged, leaning in to press his lips to Jungkook's throat in an attempt to convince him to stay, “Please” he added softly, poking his tongue out against Jungkook's neck before he placed another open-mouthed kiss in the sensitive area.

“Little one” Jungkook emphasised his name.

“I need you in me” Jimin whispered into his ear.

“Fuck, stop, baby” Jungkook groaned, approaching the bed and allowing Jimin to slip from his grasp by setting him down on the soft bed sheets, “I'll be quick” he assured Jimin, the phone in his hand still ringing.

Please don't leave.

“Don't play with yourself” Jungkook warned Jimin, his voice stern, yet somehow soft as he exited the room.

The pink haired boy huffed and kicked out his legs in sexual frustration, rolling onto his stomach and wailing into the pillow.

This was so unfair!

Jimin has been waiting the whole day. The whole day!

Sighing, Jimin rolled onto his side.
It was so darn hot in here, Jimin felt like he couldn't breathe.

Hastily, Jimin fidgeted with the buttons of his trousers before he managed to pull them down his milky legs and eventually kicked them down the bed. For a moment, he deliberated over whether or not to remove his shirt as well, yet decided against it.

Gently, he rolled back on his stomach, pressing his face into a soft pillow and inhaling a deep breath before he whined again.

Due to the position he was currently in, his semi-hard penis was pushed into the sheets beneath him, creating slight pressure that was merely uncomfortable. Carefully, Jimin adjusted his position, shifting around in an attempt to lie down differently, yet then brushing his groin into the sheets in a way that evoke stimulating friction.

“Ah” Jimin breathed out, biting down on his bottom lip to muffle his sounds.

Perhaps.... Perhaps, Jimin could release some of the tension by-

No. No, Jimin was a good boy. Yes, he was! Jimin wasn't going to-

Yet, Jungkook had only prohibited him from touching himself...

There had been no word of dry humping a pillow.

Digging his teeth into his bottom lip, Jimin reached for the pillow beside him and placed it further down on the bed. Cautiously, he straddled the pillow and returned to his prior position by lying down on his stomach, but this time his groin was pushed into a pillow, Jimin's legs spread around it, that way straddling it.

Gently, he pushed his hips forward into the pillow, gasping at the friction the motion created.

Finally.

The smaller boy repeated the movement, this time applying more pressure into his thrust, mewling out Jungkook's name as he hid his face in the pillow, his eyes fluttering shut at the sweet jolt of pleasure.

Tightly, Jimin grasped the sheets beneath him, twisting his fists into them and speeding up the motion of his hips, rolling them forward in a frantic manner, too focused on the sensation, controlled by the ecstasy.

No. No, Jimin-ah. Naughty!

“K-Kook-ah, please, yes” Jimin moaned, humping the pillow as he imagined it to be Jungkook.

Stop before you'll get in troub-

“What a naughty little thing you are” a male voice noted firmly, but still carried a teasing tone. The suddenness of the voice startled Jimin who halted his movement immediately, jerking up in his position and turning towards the door, “Couldn't even wait for me, huh?”

The black haired male was standing in the doorway, leaning against it with his arms crossed over his chest.

Jimin blinked, swallowing hard as he studied Jungkook's features in an attempt to define the emotions that were displayed in it, yet struggling to succeed. There was a slight smug smirk adorning Jungkook's handsome features, but then it was gone – Gone and replaced by a rather firm expression, the man poking his tongue into his cheek as he pushed himself away from the wall and approached Jimin.

“I-I-” Jimin stuttered, trying to muster an apology, but lacking the ability to do so.

As Jungkook closed the distance between them, Jimin felt his heart rate pick up, a shiver running down his back as his eyes were glued to Jungkook's every move. There was such a vast sense of power exuding from Jungkook in that moment, causing Jimin to feel weak – weak and submissive.

Jungkook turned his head from side to side as he fumbled with the cuffs on the sleeves his shirt and opened them up.

“Take your clothes off” Jungkook demanded, not meeting Jimin's gaze, but proceeding to open the buttons of his cuffs, the act then enabling him to roll up his sleeves.

For a moment, Jimin just stared at Jungkook, blinking before he tugged on the hem of his shirt and removed it from his body almost subconsciously, tossing it to the floor next to the bed.

It was intriguing, yet also entrancing to witness the effect Jungkook had on him. With a mere demand or stare, Jimin would drop to his knees and oblige without needing a word of reason or clarification. In a way, Jimin was just acting accordingly to what his heart was telling him – and his heart was more than delighted to follow Jungkook's orders.

By all means, it was beautiful how happy and precious Jimin truly felt whenever he was obeying Jungkook.

“T-This, too?” Jimin asked softly, pulling on the waistband of his underwear.

“Yes” Jungkook responded, finally meeting Jimin's gaze, the latter barely capable to contain the gasp upon Jungkook's intent gaze.

Inhaling a shaky breath, Jimin laid back down on the bed and lifted his hips up into the air in order to pull down his underwear that he dropped on the floor as well, leaving him completely bare aside from the rosy-pink collar around his neck and his pretty pastel-pink socks.

Evidently, the colour scheme for Jimin was pink, his hair matching his remaining attire.

Nervously, Jimin stole a glimpse at Jungkook again, feeling timid under the intense stare as his naked body was now entirely on display, exposed to Jungkook's dark eyes.

“Touch yourself” Jungkook suddenly demanded, looking at Jimin as though he was his prey.

“H-Huh?” Jimin uttered, eyes big.

“Touch yourself” Jungkook repeated, wetting his lips as he walked backwards in the direction where the sofa was located, then halting as he had arrived in front of it, his eyes never leaving Jimin's figure.

The smaller boy swallowed hard, his heart skipping a beat, just to pound twice as fast against his chest, almost daring to jump out of his ripcage any moment.

To be fair, Jimin was not certain whether his ears had not deceived him there.

Was Jungkook really asking him to masturbate in front of him?
“Don't make me tell you again, kitten” Jungkook warned him, his eyes dark.

“I'm sorry” Jimin apologised swiftly.

Carefully, Jimin spread his legs, bending them at his knees as he rested his head on the pillows.

The younger man wet his lips, his pupils dilating as he leaned back against the backrest of the sofa. Opposed to Jungkook who was still fully dressed, Jimin was lying on the bed spread out, his bare skin on immediate contact with the soft bedsheets.

“J-Jungkook-ah” Jimin breathed nervously, lifting his delicate hand up and placing it on his fair stomach. Softly, he trailed his palm down lower, biting down on his lip as he observed his own hand move towards his most private parts.

“Your dick” Jungkook demanded, “Play with your little dick, kitten”

Jimin gasped at his order, aroused by his choice of words that was so obscene, yet had such an effect on Jimin. The pink haired male's eyes fluttered shut as he closed his petite hand around his penis, his cheeks tingling a faint shade of rose at the shyness that bloomed within him.

“Go on, kitten” Jungkook pressed.

Gently, Jimin gave his own penis a minor squeeze, the boy parting his lips as he whimpered at the touch, repeating the motion before he gave his throbbing member a quick tug.

It was odd to be aware that Jungkook was just standing there – watching Jimin play with himself. In a way, it caused Jimin to feel all the more timid, yet... yet then it also allowed a huge fraction of thrill and arousal to blossom within him.

Tenderly, Jimin ran the pad of his thumb over his sensitive tip, his thighs twitching at the sensation, a breathy moan slipping from his lips.

“K-Kook-ah” Jimin whimpered, his hips bucking up into his fist, his eyes fluttering shut at the jolts of pleasure residing in his body.

The pink haired boy got lost in the moment, his mind nearly omitting the fact that Jungkook was still very much present in the room and staring at him intently, not missing one movement of Jimin's.

“A-Ah” Jimin mewled, tugging on his erection as he arched up his back.

Surely, it was satisfying to finally be enabled some ounce of release, but Jimin desired Jungkook to be the one touching him. There was nothing that could compare to how Jungkook made him feel, thus Jimin's own hand just simply wasn't enough.

Jimin needed Jungkook.

Suddenly, there was a warm hand pressed against Jimin's cheek, the latter's eyes fluttering back open.

The black haired male was standing next to the bed, hovering above Jimin as he observed him playing with himself, a smirk curving his lips, such lust glistening in his gorgeous brown orbs.

Jimin sucked in a breath as he met Jungkook's gaze, still playing with his penis, yet now focused on Jungkook's handsome features. There was such a daring expression adorning Jungkook's face, somehow exuding such authority that it sent a shiver down Jimin's back.
Shyly, Jimin averted his gaze, his eyes falling on the front of Jungkook's trousers. Surprisingly, there was a tent visible in his groin area, a clear display of how affected Jungkook truly was. In a way, Jimin couldn't miss the bubble of pride that swelled within his chest, his heart fluttering at the realisation of having such an effect on the other one.

Softly, Jungkook traced his fingertips over Jimin's flushed cheek, then moving them closer to Jimin's full lips. Almost impulsively, Jimin parted his lips as he was anticipating Jungkook to push his fingers into his mouth.

Yet, he didn't.

Instead, Jungkook only smirked at the response, adoring how submissive Jimin was. Then, he grabbed Jimin's jaw and manhandled his head further back, causing Jimin's throat to be exposed to his eyes – hence, also his pretty pink collar.

The pendant with Jungkook's name dangled from side to side at the force of Jungkook's motion, Jimin gasping at the way he was being manhandled, his own hand having halted upon his focus having trailed over to Jungkook's behaviour entirely.

The response fed Jungkook's ego, the man wetting his lips at the sight of his name around Jimin's throat. For a moment, he just stared at the collar, yet then he studied Jimin's pretty features, not capable to resist that action upon being this close to his lover.

So goddamn beautiful.

Fuck, was he lucky.

A fond smile adorned Jungkook's features at the thought of Jimin being all his.

Then, Jungkook shook his head, not meaning to be distracted by Jimin's angelic features, but primarily intending to punish the sweet boy.

“Give me your hand, kitten” Jungkook uttered, straightening his back and clearing his throat, his entire aura one that exuded dominance again.

Immediately, Jimin lifted his hand up into the air and moved it close to Jungkook's body, assuming that it was what Jungkook had meant for him to do. Perhaps, Jimin should ask for elaboration, but he didn't.

It was only then that Jimin noticed the small bottle that Jungkook had been carrying in his unoccupied hand this whole time. Gently, Jungkook took Jimin's hand into his own as he opened the bottle up simultaneously.

“Colour” Jungkook asked, squirting a sticky substance on two of Jimin's fingers, the smaller boy digging his teeth into his bottom lip as he rubbed his two fingers against one another to warm the cold lube up.

“Green” Jimin ultimately assured, having been partially distracted by the act of Jungkook coating two of his fingers in lube.

“Play with your hole, baby” Jungkook ordered, wetting his lips, “I want to see you play with yourself, go on”

Carefully, Jimin obliged, moving his hand down inbetween his legs. In the meanwhile, Jungkook had walked around the bed again, coming to a halt at the edge of the bed, his gaze fixated on Jimin.
“Two fingers” Jungkook prompted.

Jimin blinked, staring at Jungkook with big eyes as he pressed two of his fingers against his rim, “N-Now?”

“Did I stutter?” Jungkook responded, clearly asking a rhetorical question as he raised up his eyebrows.

“N-No, Sir, I'm sorry” Jimin found himself whisper an apology, shaking his head as his cheeks flushed a darker shade of rose.

Cautiously, Jimin pushed his fingers past the sensitive ring of muscles, his mouth agape in a silent scream as his hole opened up around his digits and granted them entrance with only little resistance.

“Oh god” Jimin whimpered, arching up his back as his fingers dragged along his sensitive walls in the process of pushing them further inside of himself.

The black haired boy cursed at the sight, the sinful image having his dick grow to full hardness in no time. Jimin parted his full lips – those pretty sounds slipping from them, embodying a sweet melody to Jungkook's ears – his eyes were pressed shut, his nose scrunched up in pleasure.

“Pretty” Jungkook commented quietly, more to himself than anything, the boy having temporarily forgotten that he was still in the midst of his initial will to punish Jimin.

As soon as Jimin had two of his fingers settled within him entirely, he moaned out Jungkook's name, longing for more at the realisation of his digits being plainly too short to reach his most sensitive spot.

Frantically, Jimin pulled out his fingers again just to thrust them back inside, picking up a fast pace that was controlled by his desperation.

“P-Please, Kook-ah” Jimin begged, not certain what exactly he was begging there for.

Essentially, it didn't even matter.

In the end, he just wanted Jungkook.

Perhaps, this was his way of punishing Jimin?

For a moment, Jimin had completely forgotten that Jungkook had meant to punish him. After all, Jimin was now receiving quite a lot of pleasure. In spite of him being the one providing it himself, it had been Jungkook who had permitted him to touch himself.

Maybe, Jungkook was going to punish him by not touching him at all?

The smaller boy's eyes shot back open at the thought, a whine slipping from his lips as he scanned the room for Jungkook, a state of horror depicted on his own face.

“Kook-ah” Jimin whimpered, pouting as he proceeded to play with himself.

“Faster, kitten” Jungkook commanded, “Curl your wrist up”

Right away, Jimin complied, speeding up the motion of his fingers as he curled his wrist in just the way he believed Jungkook would usually do whenever he played with Jimin's hole.

The pink haired one shrieked at the sensation, but was quite aware that he still hadn't found his own prostate. It was as though it was a hidden place located in an area that was too far to reach, Jungkook the only one who was able to detect it.

“Don't come” Jungkook decided, warning Jimin with a stern expression.

Jimin whined, his hips bucking up into his hand in order to reach deeper, yet it just wasn't enough.

Not knowing what to do with his other hand, Jimin just grabbed a fistful of the sheets beneath him, twisting them in his palm and crying out again as he proceeded to thrust his fingers in and out of his hole.

“Stop” Jungkook suddenly insisted.

Naturally, Jimin obliged, refusing to purposely misbehave again. No, instead, he was impelled to obey as his heart urged him to. The will to be a good boy was simply too strong for him to deny.

Immediately, Jimin stilled the movement of his hand, his chest heaving as he pulled out his fingers and dropped his hand to the side.

Slowly, Jungkook closed the distance between them, the self-assurance and dominance he exuded in his walk sending a shiver down Jimin's back. As a result of his confident demeanor, Jimin couldn't force his gaze away, was too mesmerised by the power he held.

In a way, it evoke a sense of comfort in Jimin, yet in moments as this one it made him feel so small and all the more anticipant of what Jungkook was going to do to him.

“Down” the taller man demanded, pointing towards the spot on the floor in front of the bed.

Hesitantly, Jimin lifted himself up from his position, staring at Jungkook for a moment before he complied, the boy dropping down on his knees, the soft rug right beneath his body.

“Turn around” Jungkook ordered, hooking two of his fingers around Jimin's collar and manhandling him back up, “Over the bed”

The smaller boy gasped, whimpering as he was pushed to bend over the bed, his upper body resting on the soft sheets, his butt up in the air.

“Like that” Jungkook insisted, satisfied with the position, “Stay”

“Y-Yes, Sir” Jimin whispered, his entire body trembling in anticipation as he pressed his cheek into the sheets, his palms grabbing a fistful of the soft fabric and twisting it into his hands.

“Tell me your colour” Jungkook urged, delivering a swift smack to Jimin's bottom.

Yelping, Jimin rocked forward, his stomach stirring in arousal as he tried to look back at Jungkook, “Green” Jimin reassured him, not certain what Jungkook was going to do, but aware that he would adore anything – whatever Jungkook desired to do to him.

Gently, Jungkook pulled Jimin's buttcheek to the side, cold air brushing over Jimin's sensitive rim, sending a shiver down his back. Without any warning, Jungkook pushed a cold and sticky item against the sensitive ring of muscles.

“K-Kook-ah” Jimin breathed out, shrieking as Jungkook thrusted the item past his rim, a loud squelch echoing in the room. Involuntarily, Jimin arched up, his eyes fluttering shut at the stretch.

In response, Jungkook placed his hand on the small of Jimin's back, applying faint pressure in order to push him back down on the bed entirely, Jimin immediately obeying.
The width of the item was nothing compared to Jungkook's penis, was approximately as thick as two fingers of Jimin's, yet the stretch was still heavenly.

However, Jimin was curious about what exact identity the item possessed. It wasn't any sex toy Jimin had ever felt inside of him before – At least he couldn't recall any moment where this particular item had been settled within him.

This was new.

“A-Ah, o-oh god” Jimin cried out.

“Sssh” Jungkook cooed, still pushing the item inside of Jimin until it was settled inside of Jimin's hole entirely, a small part remaining outside that appeared to be slightly thicker than the remainder of the item, “There you go, pretty”

Jungkook ran his hand through Jimin's hair, brushing strands of his pink hair out of his face before he leaned closer, his lips against Jimin's ear.

“This is going to stay, kitten, understood?” he demanded, his hot breath tickling on Jimin's skin before he pressed his lips to the back of Jimin's ear.

“Yes” Jimin whimpered.

Smack.

“Yes, Sir” Jimin shrieked.

“I was going to eat you out for being such a good boy. For waiting so damn patiently” Jungkook revealed, straightening his back again with a sigh, “Was going to let you sit on my face until you came for behaving like the good boy I thought you were after I had to leave for my phone call” he added, Jimin whimpering at the thought of being eaten out, yet then whining at the disappointment in Jungkook's voice, “What a pity, hm?” Jungkook noted, his palm rubbing over Jimin's soft back, “You just had to misbehave and touch yourself, hm? Couldn't wait like a good boy, could you?”

Swallowing hard, Jimin looked back over his shoulder, “I'm sorry, Sir” he whispered sincerely in shame, not having meant to disappoint Jungkook.

“I didn't tell you to speak” Jungkook remarked.

Eyes wide, Jimin blinked, “I-” Jimin barely managed to catch himself and prevent himself from misbehaving again by pressing his lips into a line.

“What if you just don’t come at all, hm?” Jungkook suggested, faint amusement audible in his voice, “Would you learn then?”

No! That was so mean!

“N-” Jimin whined, shaking his head.

“No?” Jungkook muttered, “Too desperate, aren't you?”

As Jimin wasn’t allowed to speak, the pink haired boy only gave a weak nod, his cheeks tinging a darker shade of rose as he admitted to how desperate he actually was.

“Answer me” Jungkook pressed.
“Yes, p-please, let me come” Jimin begged, pushing his hips back against Jungkook.

Smack.

“Sir, please” Jimin swiftly corrected himself after gasping at the smack.

Smack.

“Behave” Jungkook demanded sternly, “Stop moving without permission”

The smaller boy whined, “Yes, Sir”

It wasn't that Jimin was intentionally disobeying, but it was so darn difficult to behave and stay still despite how desperately he tried. The two of them were aware that it was one of Jimin's weaknesses whenever they shared one of their most intimate moments.

“Down” Jungkook ordered.

Body still shaking, Jimin obeyed and got up from the bed, his back bumping into Jungkook's chest in his clumsy execution.

“S-Sorry” Jimin uttered, intending to turn around, yet Jungkook curled his hand around Jimin's hip and secured him in his position.

“Careful” Jungkook murmured against his ear, pushing his body against Jimin's, the smaller boy gasping at their close proximity, feeling the warmth Jungkook was radiating so incredibly near.

Tenderly, Jungkook pressed his lips to the back of Jimin's ear, Jimin's eyes fluttering shut as he tilted his head to the side in order to expose more of his skin to Jungkook. The latter smirked against him, placing more open-mouthed kisses on Jimin's sensitive nape before he withdrew.

“Turn around. On your knees”

Immediately, Jimin dropped to his knees, whimpering as the item shifted inside of him, pushing right against his sensitive walls. In his haze and will to obey, Jimin's mind must have disregarded the fact that Jungkook had prior – in fact, just mere seconds ago – settled an item inside of Jimin's hole.

Jungkook slid his hand through Jimin's hair, grabbing a bundle of his pink locks and forcing his head back into his neck. The smaller boy sucked in a breath, yet then caught his bottom lip between his teeth as his penis twitched in excitement.

“So pretty, aren't you?” Jungkook commented, his voice low, the boy proceeding to run his hand through Jimin's hair. “And all mine” Jungkook uttered, “Aren't you?”

“Y-Yes, Sir” Jimin affirmed breathy.

To Jimin's dismay, Jungkook withdrew, removing his hand from Jimin entirely.

In his anticipation, Jimin's chest rose and fell quickly, his breathing uneven as he waited for Jungkook to touch him again, to say something, to do anything at all.

Shyly, Jimin lifted his head, stealing a glimpse at Jungkook's handsome features with big, innocent eyes.

“Sir, I-” Jimin whispered, but went silent upon the sight of Jungkook opening his mouth to speak.
“You only speak, when I address you” Jungkook decided, “Understood, kitten?” he pressed, grabbing Jimin's chin to remain eyecontact with him.

“Y-Yes, Sir, I understand” Jimin responded with a faint nod, the lower region of his stomach stirring in agitation at the unfamiliar order.

Jungkook withdrew his hand again, dropping it back to his side as he proceeded to stare at Jimin with dark eyes.

The smaller boy blushed under the intent stare, not certain where to look, feeling almost helpless and vulnerable as he didn't know what to do with himself.

Was he supposed to beg?

Was he allowed to touch?

However, Jungkook didn't say anything. Nothing. At all.

_Maybe, this was his punishment._

“Close your eyes” Jungkook demanded.

Jimin obliged, his eyes fluttering shut as he inhaled a shaky breath. Inevitably, his heart skipped a beat, expecting something – _anything_ – to happen.

Yet, it didn't.

It took every ounce of self-control that Jimin could muster within him to refrain himself from opening his eyes again and violating Jungkook's order.

Suddenly, the taller man placed his hand against Jimin's flushed cheek, the tips of his fingers tracing over Jimin's soft skin before he ran his hand through Jimin's pink locks. The gentle touch sent goosebumps over Jimin's milky skin, a gasp slipping from his lips as his head was manhandled back into his neck.

Jimin attempted to maintain calmness, his desire pleading for him to verbally beg for more.

But, Jimin wanted to be good.

Tenderly, Jungkook ran the pad of his thumb along Jimin's bottom lip, the latter parting his lips nearly impulsively, his eyes still pressed shut despite the urgency to open them.

Slowly, Jungkook pushed his thumb past Jimin's full lips, his other hand still tangled in Jimin's messy pink hair, securing his head in the position he desired as he proceeded to slide his thumb into Jimin's mouth.

Subconsciously, Jimin wrapped his lips around Jungkook's digit, his tongue curiously poking against it before a breath slipped past his lips. Carefully, he sucked on Jungkook's thumb, but the other one indicated to remove his digit.

As a result, Jimin chased after him, violating the prior order and moving his body. As an immediate punishment, the item within Jimin's hole pushed against his sensitive walls, evoking a high-pitched moan in Jimin who allowed Jungkook's thumb to slip from his lips.

“Be good, kitten” Jungkook warned.
The pink haired boy nodded, determined to behave.

Jungkook’s hand was gone entirely, warmth no longer engulfing Jimin, that fact upsetting him. The poor boy wasn't sure whether he was permitted to open his eyes, thus deciding to keep them shut until Jungkook verbally allowed him to do just that.

There was some rustling audible, Jimin assuming that Jungkook was walking around in the room. Yet, even then, Jimin didn't dare to open his eyes and affirm his assumption, refused to misbehave.

For a few minutes – that felt like a torturous eternity – Jimin just remained sitting there on his knees, his heart pounding fast against his chest, his arousal simply too vast and urging his heart to act.

The pink haired one whined, reaching out to Jungkook with a pout in his prominent need for attention and for obtaining even the slightest touch.

But, Jungkook took a step back, humming in disapproval and denying Jimin any kind of touch, “No, kitten”

In response, Jimin whimpered, every fibre of his very being begging to touch Jungkook, to be touched by him.

However, instead, he was served with absolute disregard, punished with silence.

“P-Please” Jimin uttered, his voice just above a whisper, “Please, Sir”

“Look at me” Jungkook insisted, Jimin quick to comply, his eyes fluttering back open.

Due to the sudden exposure to light, Jimin blinked several times until his eyes had adjusted to the illumination of the room. Frankly, the light in the room was dimmed to begin with, the bedroom illuminated in only faint light that inhibited absolute darkness to lie upon them.

They shared a glance, an emotion flashing in Jungkook's eyes that Jimin lacked the ability to define in his prominent desire. However, there wasn't much time for him to contemplate anyway, Jungkook already speaking up again.

“Go on” Jungkook permitted.

Slightly puzzled, Jimin only stared at Jungkook with big eyes.

“Work for what you want, kitten” Jungkook insisted, pointing at his own crotch, resulting in Jimin's eyes to grow even wider as he finally understood.

Delighted, Jimin reached up with shaky hands, almost hastily unbuttoning Jungkook's belt and zipping down his pants. Too eager to finally please Jungkook, Jimin didn't even manage to tug down his trousers to his ankles entirely, but pulled them just low enough to reveal Jungkook’s erection.

At the sight of the throbbing member, Jimin’s mouth watered, his own penis twitching in excitement. There was always such a sense of pure happiness blossoming within Jimin whenever he was allowed to give Jungkook a blowjob.

However, despite the urgency that bloomed within him, Jimin did not move an inch until he was permitted to go further.

“Suck, kitten” Jungkook commanded.

Jimin didn't need to hear any more than that.
Eagerly, he reached out for Jungkook's erection, wrapping his petite hand around it in order to guide the tip to his mouth. Poking out his tongue, Jimin licked a stripe over Jungkook's hard length, humming in joy.

Slowly, he twirled his tongue around the tip before he pushed it past his plump lips.

“Hands behind your back” Jungkook insisted.

The smaller boy whimpered around the length in his mouth, his eyes fluttering shut as he tasted the pre-cum on his tongue, savouring it in delight. Diligently, Jimin pushed the erection further into his mouth, relaxing his throat as he sank down on Jungkook's throbbing member.

As Jimin was supposed to restrict his own hands to his back, the poor boy held onto his wrist with one hand while he clenched the other one into a small fist. Carefully, he forced his head further down, ignoring the burning in his throat and the prominent rejection of his gag reflex.

In a way, it was quite more difficult to suck Jungkook off without using his hands at all. Naturally, Jimin would hold onto Jungkook’s thighs for leverage or pump the remainder of his hard length while he took his time to adjust to his size.

This was different.

In fact, it was quite a new experience that Jimin would need to accustom to.

However, it surely was intriguing.

Curiously, Jimin bobbed his head up and down, the foreign position of kneeling in front of a standing Jungkook also requiring some adjustment for Jimin.

“Such a good boy” Jungkook praised, exhaling a content sigh at the heavenly feeling of Jimin's sinful lips being wrapped around his dick, the wet heat surrounding it.

Inevitably, Jimin hummed at the praise, his heart fluttering in joy as he squeezed his eyes shut tighter, simultaneously sinking down lower on Jungkook's erection.

As always, Jimin was diligent to deepthroat, aware that-

Suddenly, something buzzed within Jimin's hole, sending jolts of pleasure through his entire body without any word of warning. At the abrupt and unexpected stimulation, Jimin's eyes shot back open, the boy gasping, causing him to choke around Jungkook's penis.

In response, he ended up coughing and spluttering around Jungkook's hard length, forced to pull off in order to calm his throat down.

What was this?

A vibrator?

“Mhm, your new toy, kitten” Jungkook commented with a smirk, answering his unspoken question. The taller man's palm was closed around a small device, his thumb pressing a certain button on the particular item.

At that, the vibration of the toy increased, causing Jimin to jerk up, “W-Wh- Ah!” he shrieked, his eyes rolling back into his head.

“What a fun little thing, hm?” Jungkook noted smugly, wetting his lips at the sight of Jimin crying
“K-Kook-ah, I- Oh god!” the poor boy whimpered, reaching out to grab Jungkook's thighs for leverage as he attempted to move away from the intense vibrations within his hole – yet, he just couldn't. Obviously.

“Tell me your colour, little one” Jungkook insisted, his voice softer.

“G-Green” Jimin assured, digging his teeth into his bottom lips as he pressed his forehead against Jungkook's thigh.

The pink haired boy whined high-pitched in his throat, his entire body shaking at the overwhelming sensation. Gently, Jungkook ran his hand through Jimin's messy hair, petting his head before he gave the bundle of pink locks a tender tug and manhandled Jimin back into his prior position.

“Keep going” Jungkook insisted.

Swiftly, Jimin wrapped his lips around the tip of Jungkook's penis again. This time, he was capable to sink down on his hard length a lot faster as his throat had already adjusted to a big fraction of Jungkook's size. Thus, Jimin was almost certain that he wouldn't need much more until he would finally reach the base.

“A-Ah, ngh, oh gahd” Jimin cried out around Jungkook penis, squeezing his eyes back shut as he had somehow managed to shift in his position that clumsily that forced the toy inside of his hole to push right into his prostate.

“Don't come” Jungkook warned, sensing Jimin's fast approach.

Somehow, Jimin had an idea of where this was going.

The mere thought alone caused Jimin to whine high in his throat, the poor boy staring up at Jungkook with needy eyes.

Desperately, Jimin attempted to focus on anything else, but the intense vibrations against his sensitive bud that were driving him absolutely insane. Willing to please, Jimin concentrated on satisfying Jungkook, bobbing his head up and down in a fast pace.

However, it definitely wasn't easy. No, not at all.

Subtly, Jimin tried to change his position, wiggling his butt around in an attempt to remove some high pressure on his prostate. Carefully, he moved his hands down to his butt in an endeavor to pull on the toy ever so slightly.

Yet, Jimin wasn't subtle at all.

Firmly, Jungkook hooked two of his fingers around the back of Jimin's collar and gave it a harsh pull, forcing Jimin off of his hard length. The smaller boy whined, a streak of spit connecting his mouth to Jungkook's erection.

“What did I tell you, kitten?” Jungkook wanted to know, his eyes dark as he observed Jimin.

At this point, Jimin's brain needed some seconds to process Jungkook's words, then requiring a little more time to try and form a coherent sentence. The toy that was still very much buzzing within him was not helping at all.
“I-I-” Jimin stuttered, failing to recall what Jungkook was referring to as he was caught off guard by the question.

“Answer me” Jungkook pressed, giving Jimin's collar another tug.

The pink haired boy gasped, his penis twitching at the way he was being manhandled. However, he was diligently attempting to remind himself of what Jungkook had demanded for him to do.

“No moving” Jimin recited eventually, “H-Hands behind my back” he added, swallowing hard as he met Jungkook's dark gaze.

“There you go” Jungkook responded, pulling on Jimin's collar again, “Is it so damn difficult for you to follow some fucking orders?”

“I-I... The toy, it- It's too high” Jimin whined, digging his teeth into his bottom lip as he blushed, ashamed and disappointed in himself for not managing to obey, but then also needing Jungkook to know that he was making such a big effort, wanted to behave so badly.

“Too high, huh?” Jungkook echoed, poking his tongue into his cheek, a faint smirk adorning his handsome features.

Then, Jungkook pushed a button on the device in his hand again, increasing the vibrations of the toy inside of Jimin to spur a reaction.

“A-ah!” Jimin shrieked, jerking up in a poor attempt to move away from the intense stimulation, “N-No, please” he begged, erratically shaking his head.

Jungkook slid his hand through Jimin's hair again, the latter finding comfort in the touch. Frankly, Jimin wasn't certain whether it was Jungkook's intention to soothe Jimin by playing with his hair, but he did all the same.

“Is it pushing right against your prostate, hm?” Jungkook wanted to know, Jimin crying out as he gave a swift nod.

“Y-Yes, Sir” he gasped, involuntarily pushing down into the toy as though he was seeking for more stimulation, too lost in the feeling.

In a way, his arousal was telling him one thing while his brain was telling him a whole nother thing. There was something not adding up there, his heart and brain in a constant battle of which to follow.

“Look at that” Jungkook noted, his tone low, “Look at how much you're leaking, kitten. Is it too much?” he added, intrigued by the sight of drops of pre-cum leaking from the tip of Jimin's dick, making a mess he just knew Jimin loved.

Hesitantly, Jimin followed Jungkook's gaze, whimpering at the sight of the mess he had created – inevitably, to mention.

“I-I, please, Sir” Jimin whispered, stealing a glimpse at Jungkook's face, “M-May, I come?”

For a moment, Jungkook stared at him, his gaze flickering back and forth between Jimin's desperate eyes.

“No” he then denied.

The smaller boy sobbed, convinced that he wasn't going to last much longer with how absolutely intense the stimulation of the toy was.

It was as though he had been forced to accelerate towards his big release by a hundred miles, tipping close to the edge in mere seconds despite how diligently he tried to withhold that feeling and refrain himself from coming.

This toy was torture, yet pure bliss simultaneously, Jimin not certain whether it had brought him to heaven or hell.

Maybe, just both.

“P-Please, I-I can’t” Jimin sniffed, shaking his head, “It's- Too much, please”

“Don't come” Jungkook still denied, his voice calm and collected, opposed to Jimin's that was full of desperation and touched by slight vulnerability. Attributed to having sucked Jungkook off for several minutes already, Jimin found his voice to be sounding somewhat foreign to his own ears, strained in a way – even if only to a small degree.

The pink haired boy parted his lips in a silent scream, clenching his hands into petite fists as his entire body was trembling at the intensity of the feeling.

“P-Please” Jimin begged, his voice just above a whisper as he tossed his head back into his neck.

For a moment, Jungkook just proceeded to observe Jimin with intent eyes, just as entranced as he was turned on by the sight of Jimin being in utter pleasure and bliss, his pretty features scrunched up in ecstasy.

However, the poor boy naturally struggled to contain his releases, if Jungkook wasn't there to restrict him in some way, thus he was trying so damn hard to behave and prevent himself from tipping over the edge.

Suddenly, the vibrations decreased, Jungkook appearing to have mercy, having lowered the vibrations just as Jimin had stumbled towards the edge.

The smaller boy sobbed, only then realising the tears that were prickling in the corner of his eyes upon the inevitable overwhelming feeling and the desperate will to behave despite how darn difficult it was.

“Ssh, good boy” Jungkook praised, playing with Jimin's hair to soothe him, only a soft buzzing lasting in Jimin's hole that was rather bearable and not too dangerous.

“T-Thank you, Sir” Jimin whispered, nuzzling up into Jungkook's touch.

Slowly starting to get distracted by Jungkook's gentle touch, Jimin found his heart feel guilty at the realisation of having disrupted Jungkook's pleasure for the second time now. In the midst of satisfying him, Jimin had been forced to pull off two times, thus preventing Jungkook from finding his release.

Hastily, Jimin reached for Jungkook's erection again, sliding it past his lips without needing to hear a demand from Jungkook. The taller boy groaned at the sudden feeling of Jimin's wet heat surrounding his dick, sending jolts of pleasure through his body as Jimin sank down lower on his hard length without taking his time to adjust to his size.

Determined to deepthroat quickly this time, Jimin ignored the rejection of his gag reflex, disregarded the burning of his throat as he squeezed his eyes shut and forced Jungkook's erection down lower.
As the vibrations of the toy weren't as intense anymore, it was a lot easier for Jimin to focus on pleasing Jungkook, no longer distracted by his own stimulation or his neglected penis that was begging to be permitted to find its release.

Eagerly, Jimin bobbed his head up and down, his hands pressed to his back again as he was trying to obey solely.

The sounds that Jimin was making were obscene, echoing in the room that was dipped in silence aside from Jimin's gagging and his pretty whimpers, an occasional groan or curse word from Jungkook audible in the room as well.

“Good boy” Jungkook growled, tightening his grasp in Jimin's hair.

The slight pain these occasional tugs created caused Jimin to moan around Jungkook's penis each time, Jimin's stomach stirring in prominent arousal as he stared up at Jungkook with big, begging eyes.

A particular desire was still vivid in Jimin's core, every fibre of his very being longing for it ever since he had first imagined it. Now, in the midst of such an intimate moment, Jimin couldn't contain that severe craving to erupt in his heart.

At the sight of Jimin's innocent eyes, Jungkook wet his lips, his gaze trailing down to the image of his dick disappearing past Jimin's sinful lips. Then, his gaze rushed back up to Jimin's eyes, an emotion flashing in his beautiful doe eyes – carrying a nonverbal request – that sparked Jungkook's interest.

“Off” Jungkook insisted, Jimin obliging and withdrawing, his hands still bound to his back, his chest heaving as Jungkook's penis slipped from his mouth.

For a moment, they just stared at one another, Jungkook's hand still tangled in Jimin's pink locks, the smaller boy then bundling up all the courage – or perhaps foolishness – he could muster and reaching up to Jungkook's larger hand.

“P-Please, Sir” Jimin begged, the two of them already perceiving of what Jimin was begging there for without Jimin having to spell it out for Jungkook.

After all, it was something Jimin had mentioned before, had in fact shyly requested for Jungkook to do to him one day.

_Maybe, today was finally the day?_

“Are you sure, kitten?” Jungkook asked for reassurance, aware that Jimin was too far gone in his haze of hot pleasure and pure submissiveness, resulting in a potential desire or request that he wouldn't voice in a sober state.

“Y-Yes, please” Jimin whispered, frantically nodding.

“Colour, baby” Jungkook urged, brushing strands of Jimin's pink hair out of his face, refusing to go any further until he was certain that Jimin was earnest in his wish, as well as comfortable and safe.

At Jimin's eager state, Jungkook couldn't help but smirk, the man wetting his lips as he ran the pad of his thumb along Jimin's pink bottom lip, “If you want me to stop, you slap my thigh three times. Okay, little one?” he prompted.
Right, Jimin thought, almost intending to slap himself at his utter ignorance. Well, maybe it was still attributed to his lack of experience, but Jimin had completely forgotten that he would not be capable to call out his safeword, if Jungkook was to grant his wish.

Fortunately, Jungkook was there to always establish a save environment and protect Jimin before the pink haired boy even realised it.

Swiftly, Jimin nodded.

“No, baby. Use your words” Jungkook pressed, humming in disapproval of Jimin’s nonverbal agreement as he gripped Jimin's chin.

“Yes, Sir, I understand” Jimin assured him genuinely.

However, Jungkook didn't appear to be pleased at all, staring at him for a moment longer with narrowed eyes. “What will you do, if you need me to stop?” Jungkook asked again.

“Slap your thigh three times” Jimin responded, his neediness and urgency to finally realise his request nearly causing him to roll his eyes at how overprotective Jungkook was.

Yet, it was sweet. Comforting. Heart fluttering.

“As hard as you can, okay?” Jungkook pressed, his gaze still intent, but now the affection glistening in them was a lot more prominent, the lust brushed to the side for as long as Jungkook wasn't sure of Jimin's safety.

“As hard as I can” Jimin echoed softly, “I promise, Kook-ah”

After staring into Jimin's eyes for a moment longer, Jungkook gave a nod.

Gently, Jungkook slid his hands through Jimin's hair, then firmly grasped a bundle of his pink locks. The smaller boy stared up at Jungkook with big eyes, breathing heavily through his nose, his eyes fluttering shut in anticipation.

Then, Jungkook thrusted into Jimin's mouth, the latter gagging around his hard length.

For a fraction of a moment, Jimin's heart skipped a beat in anxiety.

Surely, giving a blowjob wasn't anything foreign to Jimin at this point. In fact, he adored sucking on Jungkook's penis so darn much, was almost certain that he could spend hours doing it just for the sake of having his mouth filled.

If anything, even deepthroating wasn't a huge obstacle for Jimin anymore, the boy finally capable to force Jungkook's hard length down his throat with only little struggle. Evidently, Jimin had learned to relax his throat, but he was still learning each and every time. It always required some time for Jimin to adjust to the size, to get accustomed to the faint burning in his throat and the tears in his eyes.

But, he loved it – loved it so much.

However, this – this was different.

Naturally, Jimin would be the one to set the pace. Naturally, Jimin was able to pull off, if it all got too much for him to bear. Naturally, Jimin was capable to decide how far down he managed to go.

Then again, to be fair, Jimin always tended to inevitably be frantic and eager in his movements either way. Yet, even that was a decision that Jimin made – if you could call it a properly sane decision for Jimin was always driven by his will to be good.

Now, he was at Jungkook's mercy solely.

Jimin was secured in Jungkook's grasp, forced down on his knees and held in position while Jungkook was going to use his mouth for his own pleasure.

In a way, there was no control that Jimin possessed over the situation at all.

No, all Jimin could do was kneel there and be used.

That thought excited him, a wave of thrill and anticipation running through his body as much as there was a faint fraction of nervousness.

However, Jimin felt safe.

The shorter male trusted Jungkook with his entire heart, was aware that he would stop any moment, if Jimin chose to smack his thigh.

“Fuck” Jungkook cursed, groaning out as he pulled his hips back before he repeated the prior motion and thrusted into Jimin's mouth. Slowly, Jungkook picked up a steady pace, not yet relentless, but still maintaining a certain force in his thrusts.

In his will to please, Jimin tried to relax his throat, disregarding the faint burning of his throat or the aching of his jaw at the way Jungkook was thrusting his penis into Jimin's mouth repeatedly. In a way, Jimin didn't even need to try to ignore those feelings much at all, was so high on euphoria and the very vivid pleasure he was receiving himself by pleasing Jungkook, but also by the toy that was still buzzing inside of him.

Despite the dominance that Jungkook was exuding, he was still rather careful in his movements, possessing such a sense of self-control that allowed him to refrain from using Jimin's mouth relentlessly.

The vast will to protect Jimin and the urgency to withhold himself from hurting his lover was simply too large for him to go any further than this.

At least, for now.

After all, this was only the first occurrence of them doing this in spite of how long Jimin had been craving this.

The black haired boy would never intentionally hurt Jimin and was aware that things like this definitely required some adjustments – especially on Jimin's part due to his still inexperienced nature.

At one particular thrust, Jimin whimpered, clenching his hands into petite fists as he stared up at Jungkook with teary eyes. At the sight, Jungkook cursed beneath his breath, wetting his lips as he proceeded to slam his hips forward, slowly speeding up.

At the image of Jungkook's satisfaction, Jimin felt such a sense of joy that made his heart jump, something so fulfilling to that fact.

Inevitably, Jimin had to gag around Jungkook's hard length, impulsively trying to pull off as a defense mechanism, yet then remembering that he wasn't able to as he was restricted by Jungkook's hands still being entangled in his pink locks.
As a result, the poor boy coughed and spluttered around Jungkook’s erection, deliberating for a split second whether or not to put an end to this, but then being too attached to this feeling – certain that he could go on for hours, if he was allowed to feel this good through all of it.

“So good, kitten, you're being such a good boy” Jungkook praised, his grasp in Jimin's hair tightening, Jimin whimpering in happiness.

Everything felt so much, too much.

Jimin was so heated, his skin felt like it was on fire, hot jolts of pleasure spreading through his body.

Yet, he didn’t want anything else – wanted this. All of this.

A tear rolled down Jimin's flushed cheek, his jaw and neck aching at the position he was manhandled into, but Jimin simply chose to ignore these things, too keen on pleasing Jungkook.

Jungkook was invading each and every one of his senses.

Gently, Jungkook wiped away Jimin's tear, “You're doing so good, kitten. My best boy”

At the praise, Jimin sobbed, another tear rolling down his cheek as he shifted in his position, the toy inside of him pushing against his sensitive walls again and reminding him of its presence.

“A-ah” Jimin shrieked, his eyes rolling back into his head, his poor dick leaking a puddle of pre-cum on the rug beneath him – Jimin feeling guilty for that fact, but then being way too aroused to seriously care much right now.

“So pretty, baby, look at you” Jungkook commented, his tone so low and attractive.

As Jimin got off on being praised and being used – this moment was ultimate bliss for him. The smaller boy was in a haze of pure pleasure, felt as though he was in heaven itself.

It was so overwhelming – all of this.

Jimin wasn't sure of how much longer he could contain his orgasm, trying his utmost to behave and refrain himself from finding his release, but then too affected by all of these intense sensations.

Suddenly, Jungkook pulled off, startling Jimin who spluttered at the abrupt detachment. Swiftly, the taller male wrapped his hand around his own erection and tugged on it, his other hand still secured in Jimin's pink locks.

“I'm gonna come on your face, kitten” Jungkook announced, Jimin whimpering as he gave a swift nod, opening his mouth without needing to be told, “Tongue out”

Just as Jimin obliged, Jungkook came. Hard. The black haired boy cursed, groaning out Jimin's name as white stripes spurted from his hard length, shooting on Jimin's face, most of the drops falling on Jimin's tongue.

Despite having been warned, Jimin still shrieked, but remained in his position without jerking away – which surprised him.

“Fuck, that's it” Jungkook swore, exhaling a content breath as he pushed his dick past Jimin's plump lips again, Jimin humming around it before he licked it clean, swallowing down Jungkook's cum in delight, “Good boy”

Jungkook withdrew again, his penis slipping from Jimin's mouth, the latter still on his knees, his hands behind his back the way he had been ordered to.

The smaller boy caught his breath, his chest heaving as he nearly slumped down on the rug, too weak to hold himself up any longer, yet then still seeking his own release as he was still visibly aroused.

“P-Please, may I-” Jimin begged, his voice just above a whisper.

“I don’t recall allowing you to speak” Jungkook interrupted him firmly, shaking his head at Jimin’s disobedience, “And no, you are not permitted to come. I’m not done with you yet” he answered Jimin’s unspoken question.

The pink haired boy whined, sniffing as he stared up at Jungkook.

Jimin's gaze rushed down at the movement of Jungkook's hands, the boy observing Jungkook's long digits playing with his belt for a brief moment. Then, Jungkook removed the belt from his trousers, his eyes intent, his gaze still fixated on Jimin as he bent the belt in half before he stretched his neck from side to side.

“Bed. Ass up” the black haired boy demanded.

Jimin hesitated, his eyes big as he stole a glimpse at the item in Jungkook's hands.

“Don't make me tell you again, kitten” Jungkook warned at the clear display of Jimin's hesitance.

“W-” Jimin dared to ask, yet was swift to silence himself as he reminded himself of Jungkook having prohibited him to speak, if not addressed to.

Was Jungkook going to punish Jimin with his belt?

"Kitten, you're just prolonging your punishment, hm?” Jungkook pointed out, poking his tongue into his cheeks as he nodded towards the bed, “I thought you were my good boy” he added, tilting his head to the side, his voice carrying disappointment, “Go on and behave like one”

Swiftly, Jimin turned around, lying down on the soft sheets with a nervous heart. Firmly, Jungkook grasped Jimin's hip and pulled it up, manhandling Jimin up on his knees, his bottom up in the air the way Jungkook desired.

The pink haired boy was trembling, somehow scared of being punished with a belt.

Surely, the spans that were usually delivered with Jungkook's flat palm were never lacking quite the force either, the pain evidently blooming within Jimin's body each time, but there was always such a vast sense of pleasure, jolts of ecstasy spreading through Jimin's veins with each smack.

Yet, this wasn't just Jungkook's hand – where it was quite a lot easier to adjust the strength of the blows and control the power the boy possessed.

This was a belt.

A belt that would be whipped on Jimin's bottom in mere seconds, perceived to be hurting a lot more than a flat hand as it held a lot more force.

Jungkook's hand came down on Jimin's left butcheek in a quick smack, the smaller one gasping at the sudden blow. Gently, Jungkook caressed the spot he had prior spanked, kneading the flesh ever so slightly.

Then, his hand was gone.

Jimin was frightened.

Nervously, Jimin gripped the sheets tighter, his knuckles turning white at the pressure he applied into his grasp.

Calm down.

Inhaling a shaky breath, Jimin squeezed his eyes shut as he waited for the first blow, his body still trembling despite his solid efforts to calm his heart down.

Jimin was frightened.

It was as though a million thoughts were racing through Jimin's mind, refusing to go silent although Jimin was begging them to.

Was it going to hurt very bad?

Was he going to bear it?

Jimin was frightened.

“Y-Yellow” Jimin found himself whisper, falling flat on his stomach, body shaking all over.

Immediately, Jungkook dropped the belt on the bed beside Jimin, leaning down to him without hesitation, “Baby” he murmured, brushing Jimin's fringe out of his face as he pressed a kiss to his nape.

“I'm sorry” Jimin apologised, feeling guilty for calling out his safe word – in spite of Jungkook always being so adamant in making him understand that he should never feel sorry for needing to stop.

The black haired boy grasped Jimin's hips and rolled him onto his back, allowing them to lock eyes, “Hey, no, little one” Jungkook uttered, shaking his head at Jimin's apology, “There's no need to be sorry” he assured, placing his hand against Jimin's cheek, caressing the soft skin in order to soothe the boy.

Unconsciously, Jimin nuzzled against the touch, exhaling a shaky breath as he wet his lips, “I'm just... I'm a little scared” he admitted.

Pain was bliss. At least, to an extent. At least, for Jimin. At least, when Jungkook was the one delivering it and providing a safe environment for Jimin.

Yet, this was new. This was scary. Jimin wasn't certain whether he would be able to bear such an intense new experience.

“It's okay” Jungkook assured, a soft smile adorning his handsome features as he leaned in to press a peck to Jimin's pink lips, “Sssh, hey, pretty, it's fine” he whispered, noticing how Jimin was trembling – this time not in anticipation, but in fear.

Nervously, Jimin gave a nod, brushing his lips over Jungkook's and finding comfort in their soft exchange.
“Do you want to stop?” Jungkook wondered, curiosity in his eyes, his voice not sounding disappointed or frustrated at all. No, instead, he was understanding and attentive, waiting patiently for Jimin to take his time.

“No, please don't stop” Jimin begged, shaking his head, “Just... just-”

“No spanking using a belt, yeah?” Jungkook concluded, arching up his eyebrows in a questioning manner, yet not the slightest bit annoyed, but simply wondering.

Well...

Honestly, Jimin would lie, if he claimed that he wasn’t curious about the feeling of being spanked with a belt.

“Can you just... can you go slow and warn me before you do it?” Jimin asked, wanting to try new things so desperately, but then feeling anxious all the same.

“Okay, little one” Jungkook affirmed, giving a nod before he pressed a kiss to Jimin's forehead, “On your stomach, baby”

The smaller boy complied, rolling back over on his stomach before he propped himself up on his knees, his bottom up in the air.

Out of the corner of his eye, Jimin saw Jungkook pick up his belt again, an immediate wave of goosebumps running over Jimin's milky skin at the sight. Inhaling a shaky breath, Jimin gripped the sheets beneath him, clenching his hands into fists as he waited for Jungkook to go on.

“Do you want me to count to three?” Jungkook suggested, his warm palm pressed to the small of Jimin's back, his thumb soothingly rubbing over Jimin's skin.

“O-Okay” Jimin uttered, giving a small nod.

“Sssh, it's okay, baby” Jungkook whispered, proceeding to caress Jimin's back until the latter had calmed down, the trembling of his delicate body not as prominent anymore, “One” Jungkook began.

Jimin sucked in a breath.

“Two” he counted.

Jimin squeezed his eyes shut.

“Three” he added.

Swoosh.

The pink haired boy gasped, jerking away from the touch as he whined at the pain his bottom suffered from.

Somehow, Jimin was so high on his haze of sweet pleasure that the pain wasn’t as bad as he had imagined it to be. In a way, it was quite a lot more intense than a simple smack of Jungkook's hand, but then it also covered a smaller area on Jimin's butt.

The hot jolts of pleasure that followed right after the blow were worth it.

Definitely. Without a doubt.
Frankly, Jimin's brain was reminding him that he would only notice the actual pain upon the moment he eventually came down from his high, hours later when he was sleeping in the bed next to Jungkook.

Yet, Jimin didn't care, aware that cuddling Jungkook would make everything better.

Maybe, Jimin was insane – was going insane whenever Jungkook was invading all of his senses, the pleasure running through his veins causing him to feel as though he was floating in pure bliss.

It didn't matter, though.

Jimin adored this. All of this.

“Colour?” Jungkook asked, interrupting Jimin's thoughts, his deep voice drawing Jimin back to reality.

“G-Green” Jimin assured after the moment it took for his mind to organise it's thoughts.

Jungkook hummed in acknowledgement, his hand still placed on the small of Jimin's back to secure him in his position, “Do you want me to count to three again?”

The smaller boy blinked.

Then, he shook his head.

Now, Jimin was aware of how painful the belt was, thus he was able to adjust to the circumstances and prepare his heart. No longer did he need a warning – at least, he didn't believe he did.

There was something so intriguing and exciting of not knowing when he was going to be punished... Surely, it was driving Jimin wild in anticipation and faint nervousness to plainly be assuming when the smack is going to be delivered, but there was such a sense of thrill in those moments.

“No, just... just do it” Jimin uttered, pressing his flushed cheek against the soft sheets.

The black haired boy gave a nod in spite of Jimin not being able to see that. Then, he studied Jimin's appearance for a moment, his gaze glued to Jimin's fair-skinned butt cheeks that were begging to be painted a pretty shade of rose.

There, right inbetween those perky cheeks, was a pink buttplug still settled inside of Jimin's tight hole. For a moment, Jungkook was distracted, deliberating over whether or not to tease Jimin a little with it by increasing the vibrations or by thrusting the toy in and out of him, but then he decided against it.

Honestly, Jungkook couldn't believe how the fuck Jimin still hadn't come all over himself despite all the stimulation he had received over the course of the whole day. Naturally, Jimin was coming within mere minutes, if Jungkook played a little with his little dick, hole or nipples.

Yet, here he was, being such a good boy and obeying.

Clearly, Jimin was so desperate to come. The poor boy had in fact begged numerous times already to be permitted to finally find his release, was even crying at the overwhelming intensity of all these sensations.

However, no matter how needy he was, Jimin was still obeying.

What a good boy.
The taller male smirked, wetting his lips at the thought of rewarding Jimin by the end of this.

Surely, he was in the midst of his initial will to punish Jimin, but the latter was taking it so damn good – a lot better than Jungkook had honestly expected. To be frank, he had estimated Jimin to have come a least a good two times by the time he was going to spank him due to the lack of self-control and his ability to contain such intense emotions.

After all, he had been teasing Jimin the whole day, had refrained from touching Jimin in the midst of the other one falling into his submissive state two times, thus having left him all needy and frustrated.

Maybe, Jungkook was going to end up eating Jimin out in the end – for being such a good boy. Yeah, he might make Jimin sit on his face once he was done with him.

The thought of Jimin's crying and begging face as he was riding Jungkook's face was nearly having him back to full hardness without requiring any physical contact and in spite of having blurted his load over Jimin's face just mere minutes ago.

Jimin whined high in his throat at the lack of attention, pushing his bottom back against Jungkook who shook his head, snapping out of his own imagination.

“K-Kook-ah” the pink haired boy whimpered, almost pouting at the loss of the other.

Swoosh.

“A-Ah, Sir” Jimin gasped, pushing his face into the sheets as he hadn't expected such a swift response of Jungkook.

“Exactly” Jungkook hummed, raising his hand again, “It's Sir, kitten” he reminded the smaller one.

Swoosh.

“Ngh, K-Koo- Sir” Jimin cried out, wincing and jerking away from the touch as he bit down on the sheets beneath his delicate being, “W-Wait” he warned, twisting the sheets his hands were entangled in, his penis twitching as though it was warning Jimin of his close release. The faint buzzing that was still very much present in Jimin's bottom was not helping. Not at all, “I-I'm- Please, so close”

Swoosh.

“O-Oh” Jimin gasped, falling flat on the bed, too weak to hold himself up any longer, the trembling of his thighs having been a visible indication of the lack of strength his delicate body possessed at this point.

As Jimin had slumped down on the bed, Jungkook's flat palm came down on his inner thigh in a firm smack.

“Don't speak” Jungkook gritted through his teeth, “Do not come, understood?”

“Y-Yes, Sir” Jimin whispered, sniffing as he lifted a shaky fist up to his face and wiped away his tears.

Swoosh.

“S-Sir” Jimin whimpered, nearly indicating to shield his bottom with his hands, but then impulsively turning his body to the side in a defense mechanism.

“Good boy” Jungkook praised, his voice an ounce softer as he rubbed his warm palm over Jimin's back in a soothing manner.

The pink haired boy was breathing heavily, the tip of his neglected penis such a dark shade of red at this point as it was begging to be permitted to come. Frankly, Jimin wasn't certain how he was managing to refrain himself from finding his release at this point. Naturally, he wasn't able to withheld his own orgasm at all, if Jungkook wasn't there to stop him in some way.

Yet, today, he was.

Maybe, the prominent desire to be good just simply outweighed his lust to come? Maybe, Jimin had have enough training to have learned how to withhold his orgasm?

Honestly, Jimin wasn't sure.

“N-No more?” Jimin found himself wonder softly, not actually sure whether he was relieved by that thought or bummed out.

“No more, kitten” Jungkook affirmed, “However, I'm not done with you” he added with a smirk.

“W-W-” Jimin stuttered, but went silent as soon as Jungkook spoke up.

“Hands to your back” Jungkook interrupted him.

Without an ounce of hesitation, Jimin complied, pressing his hands to his back as he looked back at Jungkook over his shoulder.

Suddenly, Jungkook wrapped the belt around Jimin's delicate wrists, tying it around them several times before he fastened it. Curiously, Jimin pulled on the restrains, trying to return his arms to his sides, but then swiftly realising that he wasn't able to move his arms at all.

“Colour?”

The pink haired boy swallowed hard, not able to fathom what Jungkook was going to do to him, but finding himself agree to anything as though his heart simply believed that it wasn't of any significance what Jungkook had in store for him as it was going to make Jimin feel good either way, “G-Green” he whispered.

Firmly, Jungkook curled his fingers around the base of the toy, pushing it from side to side before he pulled it out tortorously slow, the toy dragging along Jimin's sensitive walls as the item was still buzzing.

Sucking in a breath, Jimin arched his back, nearly relieved of the toy being gone, but then finding himself whimper as he felt Jungkook thrust the toy back inside of his hole.

“N-N-” Jimin tried to beg, yet went silent at the reminder of Jungkook's rule that Jimin refused to purposely violate.

Jimin was so close.

Primarily, Jimin just wished to be allowed to come, but if he were to chose the way, he would prefer Jungkook to be within him. There was something so intimately touching about being connected in such a vulnerable way that it always caused warmth to bloom within Jimin's chest, when they did.

“You're going to be good, kitten, hm? You're going to be my good boy and behave. You're not coming” Jungkook insisted.
“Y-Yes, Sir”

Humming in satisfaction, Jungkook repeatedly thrusted the toy in and out of Jimin’s hole, loud squelches echoing in the room alongside Jimin's breathy moans with each motion of his, causing Jungkook to turn impatient as he couldn't wait any longer to finally fuck Jimin stupid.

Ultimately, Jungkook pulled the toy out of Jimin entirely, dropping it on the bed beside the pink haired boy with little care. His gaze was still fixated on Jimin's perky cheeks, a few pink stripes depicted on Jimin's fair skinned bottom attributed to Jungkook having punished him with his belt.

Gently, Jungkook reached out, his fingertips tracing over Jimin's soft butcheeks, then down lower to caress the skin of his inner thighs. In response, Jimin's thighs twitched, a small breath slipping from his lips at the tender touch in such a sensitive area. As goosebumps formed beneath Jungkook’s fingers, the man smiled in satisfaction, adoring how responsive Jimin always was.

“Up, kitten” Jungkook then insisted, gripping Jimin's tied wrists and forcing the boy up to his feet, Jimin not defying Jungkook's order.

The smaller boy got up on wobbly legs, his body too weak to hold himself up for much longer, his head dizzy and high on arousal as it was begging to be permitted to find his release soon.

Needy, Jimin turned around, leaning in and nuzzling his face into the curve of Jungkook's neck, “Please” he whispered, not quite knowing what he was begging for, but then hoping that Jungkook would somehow comprehend what he desired.

In a swift motion, Jungkook had Jimin pushed against the wall, his clothed chest pressed to Jimin’s back as he curled his hands around Jimin's hips. The smaller male hissed, tilting his head to the side as he placed his cheek against the wall, not having expected such a position.

“I'm going to fuck you like this, baby” Jungkook stated, his tone low as he spoke those words right into Jimin's ear, his hot breath tickling on Jimin's skin as the latter was trapped against the wall, “Do you want that, kitten?”

“P-Please, Sir” Jimin begged, digging his teeth into his bottom lip as he nodded frantically.

“Beg for it. Properly” Jungkook demanded, pushing his hips forward into Jimin's butt, “You can do better than that” he claimed.

“Please, Sir, I-I've waited so long” Jimin pleaded, clenching his hands into petite fists, “I need you inside of me, Sir. I've been good” he sniffed.

“Have you?” Jungkook questioned, raising up an eyebrow as he wrapped his palm around his own erection, giving it a few tugs.

“I-I... I- Yes, Sir” Jimin responded, his voice sounding like a sob in spite of Jimin not having intended for it to do that as he found himself be hurt by Jungkook doubting whether or not Jimin had actually been a good boy, “I was good, wasn't I? I was a good boy for you. I behaved and didn't come. Please, Sir. Oh, please just- Aaah!” Jimin shrieked out by the end of his sentence, Jungkook suddenly having thrusted into the pink haired boy without a warning.

“There you go” Jungkook groaned into his ear, his fingers digging into Jimin's flesh as they were still curled around Jimin's hips.

“T-Thank you, Sir” Jimin moaned, his eyes fluttering shut at the sweet stretch he felt, Jungkook's penis filling him up so nicely.
“Fuck, you're always so tight around me” the younger male growled, slamming his hips forward, his throbbing member reaching even deeper.

“S-Sir” Jimin whimpered, his body pushed into the wall, his entire being trembling at the hot jolts of pleasure that bloomed within him upon Jungkook finally thrusting into him.

As Jungkook was so familiar with Jimin's anatomy at this point, he was quick to locate Jimin's prostate, ramming his lower body forward in a skillful manner and hitting the sensitive bud of nerves dead on.

“O-Oh god!” Jimin cried out, hunching forward, but not exactly going anywhere as he simply pushed his own body further into the hard wall.

“There it is, kitten” Jungkook uttered, leaning in to pepper Jimin's sensitive nape with open-mouthed kisses, his teeth nibbling on Jimin's pink collar for a brief moment as he repeatedly thrusted into Jimin.

Jimin parted his lips in a silent scream as Jungkook picked up a faster pace, his body rocking forward with each slam of Jungkook's hips, Jimin's penis bouncing up and down at the intensity of the thrusts.

This position was new, somehow foreign. In a way, Jimin wasn't allowed to see nor touch Jungkook at all, was forced to hold his bodyweight up all on his own as he was being taken from behind.

“You always feel so fucking good around me, baby boy” Jungkook groaned into Jimin's ear, his hands still curled around Jimin's waist, his body pressed close to Jimin's as though he was trying to close even the slightest fraction of distance between them, maintaining the nearest proximity possible to him.

“Y-Yes, Sir?” Jimin whispered, looking back over his shoulder as his heart fluttered at the petname.

“Yes, kitten, so good” Jungkook affirmed, lifting one hand up to Jimin's collar and closing his digits around the back of the material of the item as he gave it a gentle tug.

“I feel so full” Jimin expressed with a whimper, “You're s-so big, Sir”

The younger male always filled Jimin up so nicely, the stretch sending him closer to the edge immediately. With each of Jungkook's thrusts, Jimin's prostate was abused dead on, making it near inevitable for Jimin to fall into his orgasm.

“O-Oh god, Sir, yes, please” Jimin cried out.

“Just like that, kitten” Jungkook growled, licking over Jimin's nape before he nibbled on his skin ever so softly.

Naturally, Jimin's legs gave in, all of these overwhelming sensations too much for him to bear at this point.

“I-I can't, Sir” Jimin whined, sniffing as he shook his head.

“You can't what?” Jungkook wanted to know, still proceeding to thrust into Jimin.

“T-Too- It's all too much, I-I can't stand up like this” Jimin elaborated, looking back over his shoulders with teary eyes.
The poor boy was plainly too weak to hold himself up any longer, his body urging him to go slump on the floor or hold onto something for leverage, yet his hands were tied to his back and restricting him from doing just that.

Jungkook pulled out of him, grasping Jimin's hips and spinning the boy around. In a swift motion, he grabbed Jimin's thighs and picked the boy up, holding him close to his chest and approaching the bed.

The black haired boy dropped Jimin down on the soft sheets, quick to grab his ankles and bend his body in half before he thrusted back into Jimin, slamming his hips forward.

“Yes, yes, yes” Jimin moaned out, disregarding the fact of how his arms were jammed between his back and the sheets, creating a rather uncomfortable position. The shorter male was just so happy to be used, to have his hole filled with Jungkook, that he didn't care.

“You look so pretty like this, baby” Jungkook commented, sweat dripping from his forehead, “Always so pretty”

“T-Thank you, Sir” Jimin sniffed at the praise, his penis proceeding to leak pre-cum all over his fair-skinned stomach, creating yet another mess.

Firmly, Jimin grasped the sheets beneath his delicate body, twisting his fists into them as he arched his back and squeezed his eyes shut, “Sir, I-”

Suddenly, Jungkook withdrew, his penis slipping from Jimin's hole without any word. The smaller boy whined high in his throat at the loss, his hole clenching around nothing but air as his eyes shot back open.

“S-Sir” Jimin gasped, trying to chase after Jungkook, but failing as he scooted merely an inch closer with his lower body, yet then stilling at the sight of Jungkook's dark and unimpressed eyes.

“Be patient, kitten” Jungkook ordered sternly.

Slowly, Jungkook removed his trousers and underwear, the pieces of clothing having hung below his butt over the course of the past hour as he hadn't been bothered to pull them off entirely.

As though he was trying to tease Jimin, Jungkook's digits were playing with the soft fabric for a moment before he tugged them down, then stepping out of them and kicking the clothes to the side.

“S-Sir” Jimin gasped, trying to chase after Jungkook, but failing as he scooted merely an inch closer with his lower body, yet then stilling at the sight of Jungkook's dark and unimpressed eyes.

“Be patient, kitten” Jungkook ordered sternly.

Slowly, Jungkook removed his trousers and underwear, the pieces of clothing having hung below his butt over the course of the past hour as he hadn't been bothered to pull them off entirely.

As though he was trying to tease Jimin, Jungkook's digits were playing with the soft fabric for a moment before he tugged them down, then stepping out of them and kicking the clothes to the side.

“Sir” Jimin whispered, arching up his back as he pushed his hips closer to Jungkook, “Please don't be mean” he expressed softly, but found himself regret those words a mere moment later.

“Mean?” Jungkook echoed, raising up his eyebrows.

“I-I- Ah” Jimin gasped, involuntarily drawing his thighs together as they twitched at the harsh slap that Jungkook had delivered to his thigh.

“Careful, kitten” the taller male warned, his gaze intent as he studied Jimin's figure.

“I'm sorry, Sir” Jimin whispered.

“I thought so” Jungkook responded, humming in acknowledgement as he grabbed the hem of his shirt and tugged it off before he tossed it somewhere to the side without a care.

At the sight of Jungkook's bare body, Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth, his eyes wide as his gaze trailed over Jungkook’s defined muscles, his strong features and his handsome face.

All his, Jimin thought, how was that possible?

Gulping, Jimin drew his thighs together, merely able to contain the whine that had threatened to slip from his lips.

The younger man smirked as he noticed the effect he had on Jimin, Jungkook then reaching up to slide his hand through his black locks and exposing his forehead before he placed his hands on Jimin’s knees and pulled them apart.

“Spread you legs, baby”

Jimin complied, his legs falling back open, allowing Jungkook to steal a glimpse at his pink rim, gaping and inviting. At the sight, Jungkook cursed beneath his breath.

Teasingly, Jungkook caressed Jimin’s milky skin instead of thrusting back into him, the tips of his fingers tracing gently over Jimin’s legs and his pastel-pink socks that adorned Jimin’s delicate softness so well.

“K-Kook-ah” Jimin whispered, bucking up his hips.

“Speak up” Jungkook demanded, his hand coming down on Jimin’s thigh in a gentle smack.

“I-I-” Jimin stuttered, but went silent as he chose to shut his mouth, only blinking.

It was as though Jimin lacked the ability to speak, a result of the incompetence of his brain managing to organise his thoughts or think properly at all. The poor boy was way too aroused, driven by his desperation and immense need for Jungkook.

“Speak up for what you want, kitten” Jungkook ordered.

“Please, Kook-ah, please, just-” the smaller boy sobbed.

“Loud and clear” Jungkook urged, giving his inner thigh a smack.

“Please, Kook-ah, fuck me hard” Jimin begged, arching up his back, Jungkook wetting his lips as those obscene words left Jimin’s mouth. Naturally, Jimin was never one to use such filthy words, Jungkook rarely hearing those dirty words slip from his angelic being.

It was hot – Something so obscene about Jungkook being the one to get Jimin to act opposed to his purity and use those dirty words for him.

Firmly, Jungkook curled two of his fingers around Jimin’s collar as he wrapped his palm around Jimin’s hips simultaneously. In a quick motion, he rolled Jimin over onto his stomach, propping him up on his knees.

At the way he was being manhandled, Jimin gasped, his face pressed into the soft sheets as Jungkook pinned him to the bed. Slowly, he pushed the tip of his throbbing member against Jimin’s entrance, sliding it in ever so slightly, yet then ultimately ending up withdrawing before he granted Jimin that heavenly feeling.

Meanie.

Jungkook’s digits were still curled around Jimin’s collar, securing him in his place as he teased him with the tip of his erection, “Fuck you? Hard?” Jungkook echoed, leaning closer to say those words right into Jimin's ear.

“P-Please” Jimin whined, sniffing as he was being teased to the point of tears.

Harshly, Jungkook thrust into Jimin, the latter crying out as he bit down on the bedsheets, clenching his hands into tiny fists as he was quick to adjust to Jungkook's size, allowing Jungkook to bottom out swiftly.

“T-Thank you, Sir” Jimin whimpered, tears pricking in the corner of his eyes as Jungkook snapped his hips forward repeatedly, never missing Jimin's prostate in his skilful execution.

The two of them were aware that Jimin wouldn't last much longer – by all means surprised that Jimin was even managing to refrain himself from coming after all of the stimulation he had received over the course of the day.

“Good boy” Jungkook praised, leaning in and pressing his lips to Jimin's sweaty back, a salty taste on his lips as he peppered kisses up to his nape, feeling as though he just couldn't get enough of Jimin – never.

The taller male inhaled a deep breath as he nudged his nose into the curve of Jimin's neck, the sweet scent of Jimin filling his nostrils, a mixture of strawberry and vanilla.

“All mine” Jungkook whispered.

“Yes, Sir” Jimin affirmed as Jungkook straightened his back again, Jimin only then realising that he was still visibly standing next to the bed rather than having joined Jimin on top of it, chosing to thrust into Jimin in that position.

_How exhausted must he be?_

After such a long day at work, Jungkook has been on his feet ever since the two boys had made out against the wall a good two hours ago. At that fact, Jimin found his heart clench in guilt as he was out here crying for not being able to hold himself up any longer while Jungkook has been taking care of him for such a long duration while never taking a second to sit down either.

Then again, Jungkook was much stronger than Jimin, clearly had a very good physique – so perhaps, this wasn't as difficult on him as it was on Jimin.

“Say it” Jungkook insisted, giving Jimin's collar a harsh tug to pull him further up, manhandling Jimin in a rather uncomfortable position as the boy was drawn out of his thoughts.

“I'm yours” Jimin gasped, his eyes fluttering shut, “Only yours” he whispered as he was pulled against Jungkook's chest.

Carefully, Jimin turned his head to the side, daring to lean closer as his heart begged him to silently ask for a kiss.

To his surprise, Jungkook crashed his lips onto Jimin's, attaching them in a hungry kiss as he proceeded to slam his hips against Jimin's, the sound of their skin slapping against one another echoing in the room.

Gently, Jungkook ran his hand through Jimin's pink locks as he pulled him even closer, his tongue licking over Jimin's as he deepened the kiss, not wanting to part.

“Please, please, please oh, Sir” Jimin whimpered into the kiss, a moan slipping from his lips at the relentless pace Jungkook had set, his body rocking forward with each snap of his hips, yet he tried to remain in his stance, his lips close to Jungkook's.

“Are you close, kitten? Hm?” Jungkook asked, brushing his lips over Jimin's.

“Y-Yes, please, may I come?” Jimin cried out, hunching forward, face pressed into the sheets as he wasn't able to bear the overwhelming feeling in an upright position, forced down on his stomach again.

“Come for me, baby boy” Jungkook permitted, delivering another smack to Jimin's perky cheeks.

At that, Jimin finally came. Hard.

The poor boy cried out, shrieking out Jungkook's name and tossing his head back as the intense feeling burst within him and set his entire skin on fire. Involuntarily, Jimin kicked out his legs and rolled to the side, arching his back as multiple loads of sperm spurted from the tip of his penis and made a huge mess on his upper body.

To prolong his orgasm, Jungkook proceeded to thrust into Jimin, the latter's eyes rolling back into his head as he curled in on himself, the feeling too intense and overwhelming for him to bear as black dots adorned his vision.

“Fuck, kitten” Jungkook swore, finding his own orgasm and releasing inside of Jimin, painting his walls white as he slammed his hips forwards three- four more times.

“T-Thank you, Sir” Jimin whispered, hot jolts of pleasure spreading through his body as he felt as though he was floating on soft clouds, in a haze of sweet bliss.

The black haired boy pulled out of Jimin, immediately reaching for Jimin's wrists and unfastening the belt in a swift motion.

Jimin's chest was heaving, the boy breathing heavily as he observed Jungkook with big eyes, yet almost feeling dazed – as though he wasn't even physically present.

As soon as the belt was off, Jungkook dropped it to the floor, Jimin stretching out his limbs before he rolled in on himself, feeling so sleepy.

“Kitten” Jungkook uttered, rolling Jimin onto his back as his hands curled around his hips.

The smaller boy only blinked, watching Jungkook lean down to him with curious eyes. Suddenly, Jungkook licked over Jimin's stomach, startling the boy who gasped at the unexpected feeling. Inevitably – Jimin was just very ticklish by nature – he giggled at the sensation.

Jungkook chuckled against his skin as he licked a fat stripe up his chest and collected all the left over sperm on his tongue, humming as he savoured Jimin in his mouth before he swallowed down his cum.

At the sight of Jungkook licking his stomach clean, Jimin blushed a pretty shade of rose, the boy blinking as Jungkook moved back up to his face, locking eyes with Jimin.

“You were such a good boy, Jimin-ah” Jungkook whispered into Jimin's ear, his fingers brushing Jimin's fringe out of his face, “These past days, you waited so patiently, didn't you?” the black haired male added, “Will you let me eat you out, kitten? You deserve a big reward, baby” he asked, a small smirk curving his lips as he pressed a kiss to the back of Jimin's ear.
“I-I-” Jimin stuttered, only blinking as he titled his head to the side, nuzzling into Jungkook's touch.

“I'll let you sit on my face, hm?” Jungkook offered, his voice low, “You can set your own pace, baby”

Oh, that sounded so good.

The way Jungkook ate him out was just... The smaller boy whimpered at the thought of being allowed to feel that heavenly sensation. However, Jimin had just been granted such a mindblowing orgasm after starving for days – was he even capable to bear more?

“T-Too sensitive” Jimin whispered, swallowing hard as he felt his stomach stir in excitement all the same.

“Okay, baby-” Jungkook uttered, not pressuring Jimin as he pressed his lips to Jimin's forehead.

“B-But... but I really want to” Jimin murmured, his cheeks flushing, “M-May I try? If it's too much, I can just...” he trailed off, leaving the remainder of the sentence hang in the air between them.

“You can call out your safeword, of course” Jungkook finished for him, giving a nod as he pressed another peck to Jimin's lips before he rolled off of Jimin, lying down on his back beside the smaller one, “Come on up, kitten”

Hesitantly, his body still shaking, Jimin got up on his knees, his heart rate still fast, yet then picking up an even quicker pace as he looked down at Jungkook who was biting down on his bottom lip as he studied Jimin's delicate figure, waiting for Jimin to sit on his face.

Gulping, Jimin straddled Jungkook's chest, the latter reaching out and grasping his hips, encouraging Jimin by giving his waist a tender squeeze. Jungkook's grasp was soft, yet somehow firm simultaneously, his strong hands securing Jimin on top of him.

“Come here, little one” Jungkook uttered, “Let me make you feel good”

Giving a faint nod, Jimin lifted his lower body up, slowly scooting back and closing the distance to Jungkook's face. The taller male didn't hesitate to pull Jimin's butt cheeks apart, a low hum vibrating in his chest as he watched his own cum leak from Jimin's gaping hole.

For a split moment, Jungkook deliberated whether or not to pick up the buttplug and shove it back into Jimin in order to keep his own sperm inside the boy, yet then he was too keen on eating Jimin out, fond of drawing his boy into another wave of pure pleasure.

Firmly, Jungkook leaned forward and licked a fat stripe over Jimin's sensitive hole, the pink haired boy gasping and hunching forward at the touch, “A-Ah” he moaned out, mouth agape in a silent scream at the oversensitivity.

Jungkook smirked against him, twirling his tongue around Jimin's rim before he slid it inside his hole, evoking another moan in Jimin who clenched his hands into petite fists as he squeezed his eyes shut.

“K-Kook-ah” Jimin whimpered, his penis not obtaining an opportunity to go soft, forced to stay hard as his body proceeded to be stimulated by Jungkook.

Jimin's thighs were still trembling, resulting in Jimin to visibly struggle quite a bit to stay up the way he was, his body urging him to just go limp and not move another inch for the night.

The taller male sucked on Jimin's rim before he pushed his tongue back inside of the boy, tasting his own cum on his tongue, but disregarding the bitter taste. Slowly, his hands loosened their grasp on Jimin's buttocks, moving down to his thighs as he noticed the shaking of Jimin's body. Gently, Jungkook gripped Jimin's inner thighs and prevented him from falling, simultaneously thrusting his tongue in and out of Jimin.

“O-Oh, Kook-ah” Jimin mewled, involuntarily jerking away and shrieking at the overwhelming feeling.

Somehow, his brain wasn't certain on whether or not it wanted more or couldn't bear any more of this. In a way, Jimin was way too sensitive, his penis not having ceased to leak, a trail of pre-cum proceeding to drop down on Jungkook's chest as he was being eaten out, yet then his skin was on fire, the slight pain the overstimulation brought him accompanied by hot jolts of pleasure that drove him insane and made his head dizzy.

“Sssh, kitten” Jungkook hushed him softly, his palm caressing Jimin's inner thigh as he licked several more stripes over Jimin's sensitive ring of muscles.

The smaller boy whined, squirming on top of Jungkook and digging his teeth into his bottom lip. The aching of his body got too much at all of these sensations, thwarting his solid effort of keeping his body up throughout all of it.

“I-I'm too... my thighs- hurts, Kook-ah” Jimin sniffed, tears pricking in the corner of his eyes as he shook his head.

Gently, Jungkook grasped Jimin's hips, effortlessly turning him over before Jimin even realised of what was occurring, only obtaining a sense of the circumstances once he was already laid down on his back, Jungkook hovering above him inbetween his spread legs.

With big eyes, Jimin stared up at Jungkook, a smile curving Jungkook's lips as he leaned down to press a kiss to Jimin's forehead before the boy moved further down, his palms roaming over Jimin's delicate soft skin in the process. Then, he curled his hands around Jimin's thighs, spreading them open as he settled down on his stomach, his face close to Jimin's – Oh.

Tenderly, Jungkook licked a stripe over Jimin's sensitive hole, twirling his tongue around the ring of muscles before he pushed his tongue past Jimin's rim.

“K-Kook-ah” Jimin mewled, arching his back, impulsively entangling his hands into the sheets, twisting them in his petite fists.

“Mhm-mh” Jungkook hummed against him, Jimin managing to feel the vibrations of his voice against his skin as the man turned his head to the side and peppered open-mouthed kisses on Jimin's inner thigh.

“Ah-” Jimin breathed out as Jungkook nibbled on his soft skin, sucking on it ever so slightly to leave a faint mark in that certain spot before he returned to Jimin's most private area, his tongue lapping over Jimin's rim again.

It felt so good. Jimin was in heaven.

“S-So good” the pink haired boy whimpered, reaching down to run his hands through Jungkook's black locks, gently grabbing a bundle of his hair as he pushed his butt further into Jungkook's face.

The younger male growled, thrusting his tongue in and out of Jimin before he proceeded to lick over Jimin's rim. Digging his fingers into Jimin's thighs, Jungkook tilted his head in a way that fucked with his neck, but shit, he couldn't care less, was high on the pretty sounds Jimin was making for him, couldn't get enough of how Jimin's body was trembling beneath him as he was bringing Jimin closer to another mindblowing orgasm.

Jungkook felt so alive.

“Oh, god” Jimin cried out, “Yes, please, d-don't- don't stop” he moaned, impulsively tugging on Jungkook’s hair the way he would, if he were to naturally grasp the sheets beneath him.

However, it earned him a gentle tap to his thigh, a nonverbal warning that Jimin immediately complied, a soft apology falling from his lips as he loosened his grip in Jungkook's black locks.

As Jimin was way too sensitive, still high on his prior orgasm, it didn't take long for him to find his next release, the heat in the pit of his stomach having grown so incredibly fast, announcing his quick approach and threatening burst.

“I-I'm going to come, Kook-ah” Jimin warned, tossing his head back, involuntarily trying to draw his thighs together, yet then restricted by Jungkook's firm grasp around his thighs.

“Go on, little one” Jungkook permitted, thrusting his tongue into Jimin's hole two- three more times before Jimin cried out his name.

“Jungkook-ah!” the smaller boy shrieked, a poor trail of cum dropping from the slit of his penis as he squeezed his eyes shut, black dots having blurred his vision, “Oh god!”

Satisfied, Jungkook licked over Jimin's rim a few more times in order to prolong his orgasm before he lifted his body up on his hands and cleaned Jimin's stomach, collecting the minor puddle of cum on his tongue and swallowing it down.

“T-Thank you” Jimin whimpered, staring at Jungkook with big eyes before he slumped down on the sheets, making himself even smaller. His chest was heaving as he tried to close his legs, but was unable to as Jungkook was still hovering above him, lying inbetween his spread legs.

Carefully, Jungkook placed his hands on either side of Jimin’s head, hovering above him as he stared down at his lover, Jimin's pink hair a mess on top of his head, yet then spread out on the pillow and creating the image of a halo nonetheless, adorning his angelic features. The shorter male was looking at Jungkook with big eyes, his brown orbs shining, but somehow conveying a sense of his daziness all the same, his cheeks flushed a pretty shade of rose.

Gently, Jungkook pressed his lips to Jimin's temple, the latter nuzzling into the touch as his eyes fluttered shut.

“Are you okay, little one?” Jungkook murmured into his ear, lying down next to Jimin and closing his arms around the smaller boy as he pulled him closer to his chest.

“Mhm-mh” Jimin hummed softly, hiding his face in the curve of Jungkook's neck, inhaling his comforting scent that naturally made him feel safe and protected.

“Did I go too far?” Jungkook asked, his warm palm caressing Jimin's back, drawing shapes on his soft skin that Jimin was too sleepy to define them for in his current state.

“No” Jimin uttered, shaking his head, “No, it was... it was everything I hoped for and more” he admitted, blushing as he replayed the past hours in his mind. In his will to be a good boy and his almost primal urge whenever he was high on arousal, Jimin found himself to act rather... naughty.

“That's good” the taller male murmured.
“Thank you, Kook-ah” Jimin whispered, placing his lips to Jungkook's throat before he tilted his head up and pressed a kiss to his cheek.

In response, Jungkook smiled, yet he shook his head all the same, “You don't have to thank me” he stated, “I enjoyed it just as much” he assured, placing his index finger below Jimin's chin to guide his face further up, allowing them to lock eyes.

Shyly, Jimin smiled, his heart fluttering as he was staring deeply into Jungkook's brown eyes. The pink haired boy's heart was so in delight to finally be this close to Jungkook again, having him by his side and being certain that they were to fall asleep in each other's arms tonight.

Tenderly, Jungkook's fingers played with the pendant on Jimin's collar, an affectionate yet also proud smile dancing around his lips before his fingertips traced back to Jimin's neck, implying that he was going to remove the collar from Jimin.

“N-No” Jimin uttered, shaking his head and jerking away from Jungkook's touch.

At his response, Jungkook arched up his brows, an emotion similar to one of concern flashing in Jungkook’s eyes as this reaction of Jimin had occurred before – weeks ago when Jimin had refused to take the collar off in spite of their sexual moment having ended, almost as though he had been scared that it would equal losing Jungkook.

“Little one” Jungkook whispered, his knuckles caressing Jimin's flushed cheek as his gaze flickered back and forth between Jimin's eyes, “You know that losing the collar doesn't-”

“I know” Jimin interrupted him softly, aware that removing the collar wouldn't change anything between them – Jimin still belonging to Jungkook just as much regardless of whether or not he was wearing the collar. A small smile adorned Jimin's pretty features as he tilted his head to the side, the boy timidly biting down on his bottom lip, “I just... I like wearing it. I like the feeling it gives me. Please, may I wear it for a little longer?”

“Baby, I have to check for any marks on your neck, hm?” Jungkook reminded him.

“Just a little longer?” Jimin whispered, simply adoring the feeling of the collar around his throat so very much.

For a moment, Jungkook just stared into Jimin's innocent eyes, but it – fuck, he didn't stand a chance with how Jimin was looking at him, “Okay. Yes, okay” he agreed, giving a nod.

Jimin smiled sweetly, nuzzling his face into the curve of Jungkook's neck as the other male caressed his back, the tips of his fingers tracing over Jimin's soft skin. Slowly, Jimin found his heart rate to steady, beating to the same beat as Jungkook's as their eyes fluttered shut almost simultaneously, sleepiness vivid in Jimin's delicate being.

Gently, Jungkook nudged his nose against Jimin's temple, “Let's go away for a weekend” he suddenly suggested, “Let me take you somewhere, little one. Just you and me. No work”

At his words, Jimin opened his eyes again.

A trip? Just the two of them? For a whole weekend?

“What?” Jimin uttered, lifting his head up in order to lock eyes with Jungkook.

“I've been so caught up with work these past days that I unintentionally neglected you” the younger male reasoned, “I was barely able to see you, let alone spend some quality time with you. I was absent for a while and I'm sorry for that – despite it having been out of my control” he elaborated, “I'm sorry, baby”

“That's not your fault, Kook-ah.” Jimin replied, shaking his head as Jungkook pressed another kiss to his temple, “This is your job and I knew what I was getting myself into. I... I was sad that we barely saw each other, but I would never blame you for that. You have a lot of responsibilities and obligations and I understand and respect that”

Jungkook smiled fondly, “I'll still try to find more time for you” he promised, “It was... it was actually very fucking... unpleasant to be away from you for that long” he mumbled.

“Unpleasant?” Jimin echoed, chuckling at Jungkook's choice of words.

It wasn't unprecedented that Jungkook wasn't that good in voicing his feelings during certain occasions. It wasn't that he lacked the ability to voice his emotions per say, but... well, frankly, Jimin wasn't sure.

After all, during particular moments he had such a way of expressing his feelings for Jimin that it made the smaller boy's heart jump like crazy. Maybe, Jungkook just struggled with the way of how to express them sometimes.

“It was fucking tough”Jungkook corrected, a small smile dancing around his lips at the sight of the amusement that glistened in Jimin's eyes, “I missed you a lot” he added softer.

“I missed you, too” Jimin responded, leaning in to attach their lips in a sweet kiss.

Once they withdrew, Jungkook nudged his nose against Jimin's, his fingers sliding through Jimin's pink locks to play with them, “So, what do you say? I want us to go somewhere for a weekend”

Then... he was serious with that suggestion? For a whole weekend, he wanted to take Jimin somewhere and spend the whole time together with him solely?

The idea sounded absolutely beautiful to Jimin, his heart fluttering as he imagined it, a bright smile curling up the corner of his lips.

Yet... the execution might be the real problem here.

Jimin's smile faltered as his heart lacked the ability to estimate this plan to possess major probability.

“This weekend?” Jimin wanted to know.

“No, not this one” Jungkook denied, humming in negation, “I can't leave this weekend, if my father is absent as well” he expressed, reminding Jimin of the significant meeting that would take place in Singapore very soon, “Once my father returns from Singapore, the deal is settled and the stress has calmed down a bit, let me take you away for a weekend” he elaborated.

The smaller boy propped his chin up on Jungkook's chest before he titled his head to the side, resting his cheek on Jungkook's skin.

“May I think about it?” he uttered, not exactly in the right mind set to properly examine this idea and contemplate whether it was possible for them to realise a trip like that with their demanding professions – Jungkook's even more than Jimin's, yet then Jimin bound to work to earn money and prevent himself from being fired whereas Jungkook, well he owned the whole darn company.

“Of course” Jungkook responded, “You don't have to answer me now”
“Thank you” Jimin uttered, pressing another kiss to Jungkook's cheek.

“Now, it's time for a bath, hm?” the younger male prompted.

“Mhm” Jimin grumbled, shaking his head as he clung onto Jungkook, hiding his face in the curve of his neck, “No” he whined, refusing to leave the comfort of this spot, all cozy and protected next to Jungkook, the warmth and safety the boy was radiating engulfling Jimin.

“Little one” Jungkook pressed, but chuckled at how adorable Jimin was, “Come on, kitten” he insisted, giving the small of Jimin's back a gentle tap.

“Not yet” Jimin mumbled.

The taller male leaned closer to Jimin's ear, his hot breath tickling on Jimin's fair skin, “Mhm, do I need to spank you again, hm?” he uttered, his tone low.

In response, Jimin swallowed hard, the pit of his stomach stirring in arousal as he found himself gasping, “K-Kook-ah, that's unfair” he whined, pinching Jungkook's chest.

“I wouldn't” Jungkook assured him, a soft laugh falling from his lips as he curled his hand around Jimin's wrist in order for him to refrain from physically scolding Jungkook for his mischievous teasing.

The smaller boy lifted his head again, meeting Jungkook's gaze with soft eyes, “Just... ten more minutes?” he requested, his voice gentle as he titled his head to the side, streaks of his pink hair falling into his face.

For a moment, Jungkook just stared at him, his fingers then reaching up to brush Jimin's fringe out of his face, “Five” he negotiated.

Jimin shook his head, “Nine” he suggested sweetly.

“Six” Jungkook responded, narrowing his eyes, “No more than that”

However, Jimin wasn't going to give up!

“Seven and you'll cuddle and kiss me through all of it?” Jimin asked, leaning in to press a kiss to Jungkook's cheek in an attempt to convince him to give in.

“You're demanding quite a lot there, kitten” Jungkook warned, but amusement glistened in his brown orbs all the same, “Careful before I change my mind and carry you into the restroom over my shoulder”

Oh.

“Pretty please?” Jimin begged, pouting.

The younger male groaned, way too whipped for Jimin to resist his sweet demeanor, “Seven, but not one second more than that” Jungkook gave in.

“And cuddles?” Jimin wanted to make sure, jerking up in delight.

“Yes, baby” Jungkook replied, giving a nod as he smiled affectionately, his hands returning to Jimin's back, caressing the soft skin.

“And kisses?” Jimin whispered, leaning in to brush his lips over Jungkook's.
“All the kisses you want, angel” Jungkook murmured against him before he attached their lips in a soft and slow kiss, Jimin's heart fluttering at the sweetness of the touch.

As predicted, Jimin fell asleep five minutes into their cuddling session, Jungkook smiling fondly as he noticed the peaceful expression on Jimin's face.

“Jimin-ah” he whispered, but didn't earn a response – which, frankly, he hadn't actually expected to hear anyway.

Silently, Jungkook got out of the bed before he picked up his lover in his arms, hugging him tight to his chest as he walked into the restroom. Jimin shifted in his embrace, causing Jungkook to halt in his stance as he didn't intend for his baby to wake up.

“K-Kook-ah” Jimin whispered in his sleep, his eyes still pressed shut as he clung onto Jungkook and hid his face in the warmth of Jungkook's neck, “I... I...” he murmured, lifting his tiny fist up to his eyes to rub over them, yet then dropping it to his side again as he fell right back to sleep.

Jungkook chuckled softly, pressing his lips to Jimin's temple before he entered the restroom, scanning the dimmed lit room before he approached the shower and turned on the water, never loosing his tight grasp around Jimin with one arm.

Once the water was running, Jungkook turned to the counter, opening the drawer and picking out a towel. In the midst of it all, a small package revealed itself to Jungkook's eyes, a smile curving his lips at the sight of the black box.

“K-Ko-o” the smaller boy mumbled sleepily, still fast asleep, but appearing to dream of the black haired one.

Adorable.

How can one be this adorable?

“How cute” Jungkook uttered with a smile as he placed another towel on top of the box before he shut the drawer and headed towards the shower.

Well, Jimin was.

Cute and kind and sweet and everything inbetween.

Yet, more than anything – he was Jungkook's. All his.

And Jungkook – well, he was Jimin's just as much.

Chapter End Notes

I hope you enjoyed this long chapter :)

As I'm done with my essay now and have recollected my motivation for writing, I hope to be able to update the next chapter faster this time around <3

Please stay healthy and don't forget to take rests! I will see you in the next chapter :)
Love you <3
Rough Beginnings

Chapter Summary

Jimin has his first individual lesson with Ong, but things really don't go as planned...

Chapter Notes

Hello, lovely readers <3

Time flies by so fast! How have you been? I hope you're all happy and healthy <3

Today I'm posting a double update! The chapter just got sooooo long and I think it's more convenient to read them when they're split into two parts. ^^

A few of you have even told me that you stay up extremely late just to finish the chapters, which is very cute by the way, but we can't have that! You need to sleep, loves! <3

I need to do some finishing touches on the second chapter I'm posting today, but you can definitely expect it somewhen later :)

I hope you enjoy the chapter <3

P.S. There was a lovely person that asked me to translate my story into Arabic. You left your instagram, but I'm unable to contact you because I don't have an instagram myself. I answered below your comment in hopes you see it! :) <3

See the end of the chapter for more notes.

The smaller boy rolled onto his side, the sound of water running drawing him out of his drowsiness, sleep still very much vivid within him, yet the boy then shaken awake by the sudden noise that broke the silence that had laid upon Jimin.

Sleepily, Jimin lifted his petite fist up to his face, rubbing it over his tired eyes before he untangled himself from the velvety sheets that had engulfed him with utter cosiness and warmth.

For a moment, Jimin was dazed, the boy blinking several times to allow his eyes to adjust to the faint illumination of the room, his vision no longer blurry once he sat up.

At the sudden low temperatures, Jimin found himself shudder, chills running down his skin as he noticed the lack of clothing on his delicate body. In fact, Jimin wasn't wearing anything at all.

It was of high probability that it had been Jungkook who had removed Jimin's collar and his socks, Jimin assumed. After all, there was a fair trace of sandalwood in the air, Jimin inhaling a deep breath as the scent lingered in his nose – the boy certain that it was Jungkook who had washed him last night and was responsible for this odour.
Carefully, Jimin got up to his feet, picking up Jungkook's shirt from last night that was still deposited on the floor and throwing it on. As he was buttoning the shirt up, Jimin headed towards the bathroom, curious to see where Jungkook was.

“You're already up and dressed,” Jimin noted once he entered the bathroom, tilting his head to the side as he observed the taller boy, Jungkook already dressed in his usual work attire.

The latter turned his head towards Jimin upon hearing his voice. A smile curved his lips at the sight of the pink haired boy – his gaze wandering down Jimin's delicate figure as the shirt of Jungkook was barely covering his pretty features – before his eyes trailed back up to Jimin's, meeting his gaze.

“Mhm-mh,” he hummed as he turned off the tap. As a natural result, the water was no longer running, establishing a sense of silence in the apartment that was broken by Jungkook's deep voice. “I have to leave earlier this morning.”

Jimin gave a faint nod, approaching Jungkook on his tiptoes. “I fell asleep again last night while cuddling, didn't I?” he wanted to know, quite frankly not remembering anything after their conversation regarding that weekend trip that Jungkook had suggested.

“You did,” Jungkook affirmed, a soft chuckle slipping from his lips as he met Jimin's gaze in the reflection of the mirror.

“I'm sorry,” Jimin mumbled, pulling on the hem of his shirt as he caught his bottom lip between his teeth, faintly recalling the promise of their cuddles only lasting for a few more minutes before the two were going to take a bath...

Well, that hadn't worked out that well, had it? In the end, Jungkook had been the one to take care of Jimin again without Jimin even realising it during the particular moment.

“Don't be,” Jungkook objected, shaking his head.

A soft smile adorned Jimin's pretty features as he closed his arms around Jungkook's upper body, nuzzling his cheek against his back and inhaling his comforting scent.

“You smell good,” Jimin whispered, staring at Jungkook's reflection in the mirror.

The black haired male flashed him a soft smile, Jimin returning it before he detached himself again, not exactly capable to afford to be distracted right now by the comfort he found in Jungkook or by the sight of his handsome appearance.

“I'm gonna take a shower,” Jimin decided with a sigh, aware that he was required to leave for work very soon in order to make it on time.

Jungkook hummed in acknowledgement, turning around as he watched how Jimin approached the shower, his delicate fingers fumbling with the buttons on his shirt.

“Are you already going to be gone by the time I'm finished?” Jimin wanted to know.

“No, I don't think so,” Jungkook responded, shaking his head as he crossed his arms over his chest. “I'm going to check some of my mails before leaving,” he informed Jimin, his eyes glued to Jimin's small figure.

“Okay,” Jimin uttered, giving a weak nod as he focused on the task at hand – opening this stupid shit that was giving him a hard time.
“It's a pity that I already showered,” Jungkook muttered, wetting his lips at the sight of Jimin's pretty back, the smaller boy finally succeeding in his task and allowing the shirt to slide down his shoulders. “It's a nice view,” he added gently.

The pink haired boy halted his movement, preventing the shirt from sliding down his body entirely as he looked back over his shoulder. “Are you just... going to stand there?” he asked quietly.

At his question, Jungkook smirked, amusement glistening in his eyes as he inclined his head to the side. “If you want me to,” he noted.

Shyly, Jimin swallowed hard, his cheeks flushing a faint shade of rose before he whined, “Kook-aaah, leave.”

In response, the other male snickered, amused by Jimin's timidity. “Are you embarrassed?”

Jimin shook his head despite his clear display of bashfulness. “No...”

“Got it,” Jungkook chuckled, sensing Jimin's slight embarrassment in spite of him denying it as it was plainly natural for Jimin to tend to be shy in certain situations as this one.

The taller male approached Jimin and pressed a kiss to his temple before he exited the bathroom, leaving Jimin to himself and allowing him to shower on his own.

Several minutes later, Jimin stepped out of the shower, wrapping a soft towel around his wet body as he approached the sink in order to brush his teeth. For a moment, Jimin allowed himself to study his own appearance in the mirror, a few droplets of water cascading down his hair and falling on the sink.

“All done?” a male voice noted lightly.

The pink haired boy jerked up at the sudden voice, startled as he noticed the silhouette of a figure out of the corner of his eyes. Upon the sight of Jungkook, Jimin's heart rate steadied, a soft smile curving his lips as Jungkook closed the distance between them.

“You scared me,” Jimin mumbled.

“I'm sorry,” Jungkook chuckled, reaching up to brush Jimin's damp fringe out of his face.

Jimin nuzzled against the touch, but then his gaze trailed back over to the mirror, precisely his neck, a few red marks adorning his skin as a trace left on his skin from last night.

“My throat,” Jimin noted softly, his delicate fingers trailing over his skin as he observed his reflection in the mirror.

“Does it hurt?” Jungkook uttered, titling his head to the side as a faint display of concern glistened in his brown orbs.

“Only a bit,” Jimin murmured, wrinkling his nose at the slight aching of his throat.

Gently, Jungkook wrapped his arms around Jimin, hugging the smaller boy from behind and resting his head on Jimin's shoulder as he met his gaze in the mirror.

“I-”

“No, I didn't say that to make you feel guilty,” Jimin swiftly interrupted, having sensed Jungkook wanting to apologise. “I wanted you to... to use my mouth and I wanted to wear the collar. Please, don't apologise for giving me what I want.”

If anything, it was Jimin's own fault for requesting such an action. However, he didn't regret it one bit – had loved every single moment of it.

“I might have been a little too rough, though,” Jungkook stated, nudging his nose against Jimin's shoulder.

“No, you weren't,” Jimin reassured him, placing his hands on Jungkook's as they were placed on Jimin's stomach. “Does it look bad?” he wondered, not entirely keen on attracting any attention for the marks on his throat.

Jungkook smiled warmly. “Well, the collar definitely left some marks this time around,” he responded, the tips of his fingers tracing over Jimin's throat as he spoke.

“Oh...,” Jimin whispered, distracted by the soft touch. “Well, I... I think I should wear something to hide them?” he suggested. “I don't want anyone to believe that you choked me,” he murmured.

An emotion that Jimin wanted to define as smugness flashed in Jungkook's eyes, a chuckle falling from his lips before he the boy wet his lips. “Well...

At his response, Jimin's eyes went wide. “I mean, that you choked me to hurt me,” he clarified, aware that Jungkook had essentially choked him by tugging on the collar various times last night. Yet, he hadn't exactly done that to harm Jimin, but just to discipline him.

“Well...,” Jungkook muttered again, amusement glistening in his eyes.

“In an evil way,” Jimin corrected, his cheeks flushing a faint shade of rose. “Not intentionally to fulfil my wish,” he added, somehow timid as he was forced to lay it all out for Jungkook, admitting yet again to how much he had enjoyed last night.

“I got it the first time around,” Jungkook snickered, rubbing his palm over Jimin's stomach to pacify him. “I just love to see you blush, when you try to explain yourself,” he whispered into Jimin's ear, pressing a kiss to the spot behind his lobe.

At his words, Jimin's blush deepened, the smaller one swatting Jungkook's arm as he pouted, “Meanie,” he mumbled, indeed already used to Jungkook's playful teasing, but then still feeling all flustered whenever he did it all the same.

“Mhm-mh,” Jungkook hummed lowly, peppering open-mouthed kisses over Jimin's nape as though he was trying to comfort him. A soft breath slipped from Jimin's lips; his eyes fluttering shut at the gentle caress of Jungkook's lips on his skin. “How about your wrists?” Jungkook wanted to know, interrupting Jimin's peaceful silence as he reached for the pink haired boy's hands.

“The belt...,” Jimin stated, examining his own wrists. “Well, it was a harsher material in comparison to your ties,” he elaborated, inspecting the faint red marks on his wrists as well. “Do you think the marks will be left for long?” Jimin wanted to know, slightly worried.

Evidently, Jimin loved the marks Jungkook left on his body – adored the thought of having a visible sign on his skin that he belonged to the black haired boy.

Yet, all the same, he was concerned about how this might look to anyone else from an outside perspective. They lacked the knowledge of the actual narrative, didn't know that Jimin hadn't been harmed intentionally, but that he had asked to be treated this way because he adored it.
Surely, this expression of intimacy might be unique, might not be understood by everyone as the thought alone could potentially seem obscure to certain people.

However, Jimin... Jimin loved the marks, loved that Jungkook treated him the way he did during certain moments, loved... all of it.

Was that wrong?

Was there something wrong with him because he found pleasure in the pain – in being disciplined – in having marks on his body?

The smaller boy shook his head, his heart scolding him for allowing such thoughts to be raised. After all, all these months, Jungkook had been so adamant to have Jimin understand that there wasn't anything wrong with the idea of finding pleasure in pain.

This profound emotion of belonging and... and of allowing yourself to fall into a state where someone else captured all the control and took care of you in a way that you weren't capable to was just... Jimin loved it.

Loved...

“Little one?” Jungkook whispered into his ear, interrupting Jimin's thoughts and drawing him back to reality.

“Huh?” Jimin murmured, meeting Jungkook's gaze in the mirror.

“I said I think they will be gone by tomorrow,” Jungkook repeated his previous statement that Jimin must have missed in the midst of his own thoughts. “I made sure to leave enough room around your wrists so the belt wouldn't cut into your skin too deeply,” he added, pressing his lips to Jimin's bare shoulder.

Jimin smiled softly as he gave a nod, finally reaching for his toothbrush and turning on the tap, the sound of water running echoing in the small of the room a brief moment later.

“You're probably going to work long today again, hm?” the pink haired boy asked as he rinsed out his toothbrush before he opened the toothpaste and squeezed some of it on his brush.

“Most likely,” Jungkook answered, giving a faint nod as he observed Jimin, watching the boy push the toothbrush past his lips. “I gotta make up for what I missed yesterday,” he added with sigh, scratching over the back of his neck. “My father was pissed that I left early last night”

At his words, Jimin's eyes went wide. “Was he?” he uttered, concern flashing in his eyes.

If Jimin hadn't been so needy last night, Jungkook wouldn't have felt forced to leave earlier for him... Stupid emotions, Jimin thought, learn to control yourself.

“Yeah,” Jungkook affirmed. “I told him right from the morning that I was going to leave earlier that day. I had planned on doing it anyway, but he forgot about it, so he was mad when I just wanted to leave,” he elaborated, shrugging his shoulders.

“Is that why he called you?” Jimin wondered, still brushing his teeth as he studied Jungkook's handsome features in the mirror.

There was an ounce of hesitance.
“No,” Jungkook answered, shaking his head. “That was about something else,” he revealed.

“Oh,” Jimin murmured. “Well... I’m sorry for getting you in trouble,” he apologised softly, believing that it was partially his fault for Mr. Jeon to be mad at him for leaving as Jimin had been very clingy and needy.

“You didn't,” Jungkook reassured, his grasp still tight around Jimin's upper body as he pressed his lips to Jimin's temple. “I missed you. I wanted to be with you. It was worth it, trust me.”

Inevitably, Jimin's heart fluttered, a soft smile curving his lips.

“What about you, angel?” Jungkook wanted to know, shifting the attention over to Jimin. The latter rinsed out his mouth before he cleaned his toothbrush and placed it back in its designated spot.

For some reason, Jimin's heart rate picked up at that question as it remembered what lesson was scheduled for today. “I have my first individual lesson with Ong today,” he replied, turning around in Jungkook's embrace to face the boy.

“Are you nervous?” Jungkook asked, curling his hands around Jimin's hips and lifting him up on the counter, the smaller one gasping at the sudden movement, his hands quick to secure the towel around his delicate body as Jungkook spread Jimin's legs and moved in between them.

“Yes,” Jimin uttered, staring at Jungkook as the latter rested his hands on Jimin's thighs. “A lot,” he admitted.

“Don't be, hm?” Jungkook encouraged him, rubbing the pad of his thumbs along Jimin's soft skin, a warm smile embellishing his handsome features.

“It's just a completely new experience,” Jimin expressed, digging his teeth into his bottom lips as he lowered his head. “I'm not exactly used to teaching someone yet – let alone teach them all on my own,” he elaborated.

Frankly, Jimin still hadn't adapted to the whole teaching duty. Surely, he had accustomed to the overall idea of standing in front of a group of trainees that were ought to practice and learn something from him and Hoseok, yet it appeared as though Jimin still needed time to adjust to the narrative of him being a part of the process solely now.

“Just get to know him first,” Jungkook suggested. “Ask him to perform and get a good impression of what he truly lacks. It won't be bad, hm?” he added as he leaned in. “I know you'll do well. Believe in yourself, little one,” he encouraged Jimin as he pressed his lips to the latter's cheek.

“I will try,” Jimin mumbled.

The other male nudged his nose against Jimin's cheek. “Stop pouting,” he insisted softly.

“I'm not,” Jimin claimed – despite the visible display of his bottom lip sticking out in a pout.

The black haired boy studied Jimin's features, his palms still caressing Jimin's thighs as he titled his head to the side. “Want me to help you release some stress before I leave for work?”

“H-How?” Jimin wondered, his eyes big and glistening in curiosity.

Jungkook smirked, something flashing in his eyes as he opened his mouth to speak, but Jimin was quick to reach up and cover his mouth with his petite hand.
“O-Oh,” Jimin uttered, swallowing hard as he blushed upon his mind being aware of where Jungkook was going with this one. “No, Kook-ah”

“No?” Jungkook echoed, the smug expression on his face causing Jimin to try and draw his legs together yet being unsuccessful as Jungkook was still very much standing right in between them.

This was bad.

“I-If you start now and then just leave because you have to head to work- I will die,” Jimin expressed, vigorously shaking his head. “This time, I won't make it,” he asserted.

In response, Jungkook chuckled, reaching up to brush strands of Jimin's pink hair out of his face before the tips of his fingers traced over Jimin's cheekbone. “Don't you think you're a little dramatic there, baby?” Jungkook objected, humour depicted in his eyes. “You won't die”

Yes, Jimin will die.

Okay... Maybe, he won't actually die.

However, it wasn’t easy on his poor heart to be edged and left hanging for the whole day.

“You- Yesterday you-,” Jimin stuttered, pointing at Jungkook as though he was out to make a valid point of accusing him, but then going silent as he seemed to lack the ability to form a coherent sentence.

“I what?” Jungkook wanted to know, arching up an eyebrow, a smug smirk still plastered on his handsome face.

“You were so mean,” Jimin accused, crossing his arms over his chest.

“I was?” Jungkook responded, sucking in a breath as though he was in physical pain upon the nod that Jimin gave. “Damn, that hurts,” he claimed, clasping his hand over his heart.

“You edged me for so long,” Jimin elaborated quietly, pouting, yet then trying to disregard the slight display of arousal in the pit of his stomach as the events of last night resurfaced in his mind.

“And? Wasn't that what you wanted?” Jungkook remarked, pulling up his brows. “Wasn't it worth in the end, hm?” he muttered, the tips of his fingers tracing closer to the hem of the towel that barely covered Jimin's delicate skin. “Didn't you come for me like the good boy you are?” he noted, his tone husky and alluring.

“I-I... Well... well, I...,” Jimin stammered, his legs twitching as Jungkook's digits trailed over his inner thighs.

“There you go,” Jungkook commented, smirking as he was satisfied with the effect he had on Jimin. “Besides, who said that I would just leave?”

No. This was bad. They could not do this right now! Jimin was going to be late!

Resist! Resist!

“I-I don't think... We will be late to work, if-,” Jimin objected, shaking his head, but sucking in a breath as Jungkook's hands grabbed Jimin's thighs, his fingers digging into Jimin's soft skin.

“I can be quick, hm?” Jungkook interrupted him, something challenging flashing in his brown orbs as he leaned closer.
“Trouble,” Jimin commented, shaking his head as he dodged down, somehow managing to escape Jungkook's grasp and slide down the counter. “You mean trouble,” he added, pushing past Jungkook with flushed cheeks. “No, I-I have to get ready,” Jimin decided, nodding determinately as he avoided eye contact, instead heading towards the bedroom.

The taller male chuckled, following after Jimin. “Adorable,” he stated beneath his breath, watching Jimin approach the dresser in swift steps as though he was trying to maintain the largest distance capable in this room between them, evoking another snicker in Jungkook who was amused by Jimin's cute timidity.

For a moment, Jungkook just observed Jimin with intent eyes, the boy picking out some clothes from the dresser and returning to the bed where he put on his underwear and socks – diligent to preserve the towel secured around his body so it wouldn't budge and expose his most private parts to Jungkook's eyes, causing a fond smile to adorn Jungkook's defined features.

“Little one,” Jungkook called out softly, leaning against the wall. “Did you think about my proposal?”

At his words, Jimin halted his hands mid-air, refraining from tugging the shirt over his head, but leaving it covering his face as he was caught off guard by the question.

P-Proposal...?

Did he mean-

Had he not... Had Jimin been so very deep in subspace last night that he couldn't remember Jungkook proposing to him?

What?

No, this... it must refer to something else... It...

“H-Huh?” Jimin stuttered, his eyes big as the shirt was lifted from his head, exposing his shocked expression to Jungkook's eyes, the latter having closed the distance between them, now holding Jimin's shirt in his hand.

“The trip?” Jungkook elucidated with a smile.

“Oh,” Jimin whispered, not exactly certain what feeling it was that resided in his chest upon Jungkook's clarification. “Uhm... Well, not really,” he answered sincerely, shaking his head at his confusing heart, genuinely not exactly having had the time to think about the plan of the trip, yet then aware that... it was unlikely to actually happen anytime soon. “However, I'm not sure about whether we can really do that...”

“Why not?” Jungkook wanted to know, furrowing his brows.

“Jungkook-ah, I just started working here, I can't already be taking two days off;,” Jimin expressed, shaking his head at the somewhat absurd idea.

“Three,” Jungkook corrected.

“Three days?” Jimin echoed, his eyes going even wider.
“Yes,” Jungkook simply affirmed, giving a faint nod.

“That’s even- No, I can’t do that, Kook-ah,” Jimin objected, reaching for his shirt and tugging it over his head to put it on. “That would be so rude. I might be fired,” he pointed out, fixing the shirt on his upper body as he shook his head again.

After all, Jimin could very well lose his job, if he just disappeared for three days that early into working at the company.

“Did you forget who I am?” the black haired boy noted, pointing at himself with a chuckle. “Angel, who do you think is going to fire you?”

Jimin blinked.

Fair point...

“Well, but...,” Jimin murmured, but went silent as Jungkook spoke up again.

“I’m your boss,” Jungkook reminded Jimin. “If I ask you to come on a trip with me, you don’t have to worry about losing your job,” he added, making a valid point there.

For a fair moment, Jimin's brain must have omitted the fact that Jungkook truly was his boss, thus he wouldn’t have to be concerned about being fired. Then again... it could put a bad light on Jimin, couldn’t it? Not regarding the perception of his boss, but of the other employees that were in immediate contact with him and could potentially judge Jimin for being allowed a couple of days off because of his relation to Jungkook.

“Yeah, but... what about the other employees?” Jimin voiced his concern. “They might feel like I’m receiving a special treatment which could be considered unfair in comparison to them,” he emphasised, crossing his arms over his chest. “And what about Hoseok Hyung? I can’t just leave him to himself.”

“Little one, people are allowed to take days off,” Jungkook stated. “You’re not forced to work every day of every year, if you’d check your contract,” he reminded Jimin, placing his index finger below Jimin’s chin to prevent the other one from averting his gaze. “Taking three days off is not a crime.”

“Yeah, but... that early?” Jimin objected, feeling as though he didn't quite deserve to take a weekend off already.

“I don’t see a problem with that,” the younger male responded, shrugging his shoulders.

“What if I wasn't your boyfriend?” Jimin wanted to know, frowning as he tilted his head to the side. “Wouldn’t you perceive someone that takes days off as early as that into working for you in a somewhat negative light?”

In a way, Jimin felt as though he was sheltered by a special shield for being Jungkook's boyfriend, essentially safe and sound, protected by Jungkook himself. Somehow, Jimin couldn't help but believe that the faults he would do might be observed in a different light in comparison to any other employee that made a mistake or crossed a line.

There was an ounce of hesitation on Jungkook's behalf.

“No,” the taller boy responded. “People can have valid reasons.”

“Taking a short vacation is not a-”
“Do you just not want to go with me?” Jungkook interrupted him, dropping his hand back to his side. “I thought it would make you happy—”

“No! Kook-ah, it's not that, I promise,” Jimin swiftly interfered, getting up to his feet and closing his arms around Jungkook's neck. “I- I would love to go with you, you know that,” he assured, his delicate fingers playing with the black locks at the back of Jungkook's head. “I just... I don't know, I feel like I don't deserve to do that this early into working here.”

“Jimin-ah, you've worked so hard these past months – with your previous job and your constant dance practices, the big competition you were part of.” Jungkook commented, a warm smile curving his lips as he leaned in to press a peck to Jimin's plump lips. “You barely take any breaks. It's okay to treat yourself for once and not work in any shape or form,” he elaborated, brushing Jimin's fringe out of his face. “Hoseok Hyung will manage without you somehow. I'm sure he'll understand,” he stated. “And regarding the other employees- if anyone talks shit about you, let me know and I'll take care of it.”

The smaller boy caught his bottom lip between his teeth.

To be fair, Jimin believed that Hoseok would truly be fine with Jimin leaving for a few days as he had managed quite well before Jimin had ever been present at the company to begin with.

However, right now definitely wasn't the appropriate time for that. After all, Hoseok had enough going on in his own life right now, had to deal with the whole chaos of his broken bond to Yoongi and his heartbroken boyfriend Taehyung.

“Let me think about it a little more?” Jimin asked softly.

“Sure, little one,” Jungkook responded, giving a nod before he pressed his lips to Jimin's forehead. “Take your time.”

“Thank you,” Jimin whispered, nuzzling his face into the curve of Jungkook's neck.

***

You can do this. You can do this. You can do this. You can do-

“Good morning, Ong-ssi,” Jimin found himself utter upon the sight of Ong stretching his limps as Jimin entered the room, Jimin being surprised at the sound of his own voice as it was almost as though his brain had managed to function just fine while his heart still wasn't ready for this lesson.

The younger boy looked up, meeting Jimin's gaze, “Good morning to you, too, Mr. Park,” Ong responded with a grin, executing a faint bow.

Politely, Jimin returned the bow as a natural mannerism of his, then heading towards the table depicted in the room and dropping his bag on it. “I have received the task from Mr. Jeon regarding y-,” he expressed on his way in, carrying some sheets in his hand that he had obtained from Minji this morning, Mr. Jeon having written down what exactly he wanted Jimin to do and providing a list of song choices for him that appeared to be crucial in Mr. Jeon's eyes to establish an improvement in Ong.

“I'm aware,” Ong interrupted him, crossing his arms over his chest as he leaned against the wall, throwing Jimin off for a brief moment as he wasn't used to being interrupted by one of the trainees. “I was present when he scolded me for my lacking,” the boy explained. “I'm grateful that you're going to teach me, Mr. Park – although I don't exactly see where the problem is,” he added, pointing at Jimin with a smirk.
Jimin should have assumed this... Well, frankly, he had in a way.

Ong appeared to be very self-assured and convinced of his own skills and talent, thus potentially not entirely open-minded to another narrative as the one he is determined to uphold.

No, his demeanor screamed indifference.

“The problem is that you...,” Jimin stated, trying to find the right words. “Well, you don't convey emotion when you dance,” he noted, hoping that he hadn't hurt Ong's pride as insulting him was absolutely not Jimin's intention. “Surely, there are different styles of dancing, but for the next group Mr. Jeon is going to debut, he demands people that possess that ability to include in that group. I assume, it is a necessity,” he explained with a soft smile.

Ong only stared at Jimin. “I see.”

The smaller boy blinked, somehow not that certain anymore of what he was supposed to do, if Ong didn't seem to be interested at all – In fact, not even truly admitting to lacking that ability.

“Why don't you- Why don't you just dance?” Jimin suggested, clearing his throat as he skimmed through the list of songs, already having chosen one upon having received the list. “I'm going to play a song for you, and I want you to express what you feel with your movements,” he instructed, meeting Ong's gaze again and awaiting his approval.

The younger male shrugged his shoulders but pushed himself off the wall as he moved to the center of the room. “Sure,” he agreed, eventually giving a nod as he stretched his neck from side to side.

In the meanwhile, Jimin rushed and put on the song, a slow melody echoing in the room, amplified by the various speakers that were installed in the walls of the room. Then, Jimin hopped up on the table, his eyes fixated on Ong's every movement as he started to dance.

There was no solid effort apparent in Ong's performance – it was as though he wanted to visibly display that he didn't want to be here, as though he wanted to portray his lack of interest and denial of the significance of this lesson.

In his eyes, this wasn't necessary.

In fact, he refused to listen to any comments Jimin made after his performance.

The smaller boy hopped off the table, approaching Ong as he titled his head to the side, “How does that song make you feel?” Jimin wanted to know, crossing his arms over his chest.

Clearly, each and every person was entitled to feel a different emotion – some potentially unable to explain how a melody or certain lyrics moved them in every fiber of their very being – when they listened to a song, thus Jimin was curious to find out what Ong felt when he heard that song as it seemed to be an emotion opposed to the one that resided in Jimin's heart when he listened to the song.

“I don't know,” Ong responded, shrugging his shoulders.

For a moment, Jimin just studied his features, trying to define whether he was sincere and truly didn't know or whether he just chose to not even try to decipher the emotion conveyed in the song.

Perhaps... could it be that he lacked the ability to define an emotion?

“How do you think it's supposed to convey a rather irritating or… or fuming emotion?” Jimin wondered, arching up his brows as he halted in front of Ong, having decreased the distance between them by a fair bit, now standing right in front of the younger male. It was only then that Jimin noticed that Ong was nearly taller than him – potentially just a few inches, but still remotely taller.

The brown haired one's gaze flickered back and forth between Jimin's doe eyes as he hesitated to answer. In fact, he just proceeded to stare at Jimin for such a duration that resulted in Jimin to wonder whether he had disregarded his question altogether, hence parting his lips to repeat it.

“No,” Ong eventually answered, shaking his head. “No, I doubt that,” he added, clearing his throat. “I get a sense of... I don't know... longlines? Kind of...,” he trailed off, scratching over the back of his neck.

Nostalgic, Jimin thought.

“Shit, I'm not sure,” Ong cursed.

At least, he was trying, Jimin thought.

It was odd that his words were expressing an opposed emotion to the one he had conveyed while dancing. “Then why are you expressing a sense of anger?” Jimin wanted to know.

“I'm not angry,” Ong asserted, snorting.

“You looked very angry,” Jimin pointed out, not averting his gaze despite the intent eyes that were piercing through him.

“I see,” Ong murmured quietly.

Perhaps, he was angered by the fact of having been forced to do this, by the fact of having disappointed Mr. Jeon and having been scolded by him. Perhaps, that's why he conveyed such an emotion – even if it was more subconsciously than intentionally.

“You might not notice it, but your face is very expressive,” Jimin explained. “I was able to see that you were very concentrated, and it even appeared that you were angry,” he expressed. “I would like for you to try and let loose,” Jimin advised with a soft smile. “Just try and... Well, try not to think for a moment. Try not to think about what you're doing, but feel solely,” he added, clasping his palm over his heart.

“I don’t think that will... that will look good, Mr. Park,” Ong objected, frowning at the suggestion.

“It will,” Jimin reassured with a smile. “You just have to allow yourself to try, Ong-ssi”

The younger boy stared at him for a moment longer, yet then he gave a nod, pushing his hair out of his face while Jimin restarted the song from the beginning.

***

It was a little later into their lesson, the two of them sitting on the floor beside one another, taking a small break from their practice.

Somehow, the events had evolved in a rather positive way, Ong actually having tried to listen to the comments Jimin had mentioned which resulted in the whole air between them to be less tensed.

“Well, I can think of better things than being stuck and punished in a practice room right now, Mr. Park,” Ong noted, pulling the hem of his shirt up to his face to wipe away his sweat, his heavy breathing filling the room.

Once he was satisfied, he proceeded to have his shirt lifted just enough to expose the faint image of his abs, Jimin wondering whether he was doing that on purpose as there was a smug smile depicted on his face as Jimin met his gaze again.

“You're not being punished, Ong-ssi,” Jimin reassured him with a smile, picking out a box of cookies from his bag before he closed the distance between them again and sat down next to Ong, “Please, don’t see it like that. It's just... it's supposed to help you. I want to help you,” he elaborated softly.

“Thank you, Mr. Park,” Ong declared, his tone sounding somehow the most delicate Jimin had ever registered it. Yet his face radiated a sense of struggle as though it was a difficult task for him to express his gratitude.

Somehow, that made it even more valuable to Jimin.

Returning the smile, Jimin opened the bag of cookies and handed it to Ong. “Here, have one”

For a moment, Ong eyed the cookies, but then he shook his head. “I'm on a diet”

“Oh,” Jimin uttered, catching his bottom lip between his teeth as guilt blossomed within him. “One won't be so bad, right?” he wondered, smiling sweetly. “Besides, you danced a lot so you can definitely have one”

Ong hesitated for a brief moment, but then he gave a nod, picking out a cookie and taking a bite from it before he reached for his water bottle and sipped down a good amount of his water.

The smaller boy found himself smile as well, in some way glad and maybe even a little proud that Ong wasn't pushing Jimin away anymore but was actually trying to improve.

“So, why don't we go and have some lunch together?” Ong suddenly suggested, an emotion flashing in his eyes that Jimin wasn't able to define. “Or some dinner later? You know, to get to know one another and stuff,” he added with a grin.

At his words, Jimin blinked, his eyes going big as he studied Ong's features. “Are you... Are you asking me out?” Jimin asked for clarification, not entirely sure whether his ears haven't deceived him there, but then also puzzled whether his statement had even implied what Jimin was assuming as the pink haired boy was very miserable at deciphering things such as that.

“I can, if you want me to,” Ong responded, titling his head to the side.

“Ong-ssi, stop being silly,” Jimin chuckled as he shook his head, figuring that he was just joking around.

“I'm being serious, Mr. Park,” Ong emphasised, leaning back on his hands as he stared at Jimin intently.

The smaller one’s eyes went big, his gaze flickering back and forth between Ong’s brown orbs.

What?

“Ong-ssi, I'm your teacher,” Jimin reminded him, baffled by the sudden turn of events.

Jimin must have misunderstood him.
After all, besides the fact that Jimin was already taken as he was in a committed relationship with Jungkook, he was Ong’s teacher just as much – the brown haired boy not even being an adult yet.

This was wrong. By all means – Legally and morally.

“So?” Ong uttered, arching up his brows as though he didn't fathom were the problem laid, as though Jimin's objection was absurd.

“You're a trainee,” Jimin added in an attempt to get his point across.

“So?” Ong plainly responded again, clearly not convinced by Jimin's opposition and by all of this being very wrong.

“I'm t-...” Jimin tried again, his cheeks flushing a faint shade of rose as he shook his head again, merely refraining from exposing his relationship to Jungkook. Yet then again – being already taken wasn't the major problem here, it was the circumstances of their current relation and Ong's clear refusal to comprehend that. “I'm flattered, but you're too young”

“I'm sixteen,” Ong pointed out as though that would change anything.

However, somehow, Jimin found himself smile warmly at the determination in Ong’s eyes – almost as if he was the slightest bit offended by Jimin mentioning the issue of age which lead him to try to prove himself.

“Not an adult yet,” the pink haired boy commented, shaking his head again.

“I can be,” Ong stated, puffing up his chest like he was trying to appear stronger. “I can be anything you want me to be, Jimin-ssi,” he added, his voice carrying something alluring as he moved closer.

Hastily, Jimin got up to his feet, shaking his head again. “It's Park,” he reminded the trainee again. “I'm your teacher, Ong-ssi,” he stressed, crossing his arms over his chest as Ong remained sitting on the floor, Jimin certain to maintain a safe distance between them.

“That is kinda hot,” Ong commented with a grin.

Perhaps, it was just some innocent flirting?

After all, Ong was still a teen, potentially just a little cocky and cheeky in his demeanor by nature, thus testing how far he was allowed to go.

Maybe, he was just messing around with him?

Frankly, Jimin didn’t know.

At his remark, Jimin frowned, but couldn't help and smile weakly as he was simply lacking the ability to take Ong's attempt to flirt with him serious. After all, it didn't appear to be actual interest, but harmless flirting to prove himself in some sort of way.

“Do you talk to all of your teachers like that?” Jimin wanted to know, almost certain that Ong didn't dare to talk like that to any other teachers.

In a way, it hurt Jimin to be taken less seriously, yet then it also made him wonder whether that meant that Ong felt comfortable enough with him to allow himself to be himself entirely and be less nervous or stressed than with the other teachers?

Wasn't that... a good sign?
“Just the cute ones,” the other one promised with a wink.

The pink haired boy rolled his eyes.

“So?” Ong urged, cocking his head to the side. “Are you not taking me serious, Mr. Park?”

“Ong-ssi, stop that,” Jimin demanded, his voice not firm, but rather soft as it naturally tended to sound like, but still carrying a hint of seriousness to convey that Jimin didn't appreciate the way he was proceeding to treat Jimin. “You're being unprofessional. This is not going to happen,” he emphasised, pointing back and forth between their figures.

In response, Ong smiled. “Only time will tell, Mr. Park,” he claimed as he got up to his feet.

“I'm your teacher and that's it,” Jimin repeated. “There will never be anything more than that between us. I would like for you to treat me with some more decent respect as I'm sure you treat Hoseok Hyung or any other teacher of yours,” he elaborated, hoping that Ong would refrain from behaving that mischievous and quite unprofessional in Jimin's presence.

Why wasn't he taking Jimin serious?

There was no way he would ever talk to Hoseok like that.

Honestly, his behaviour wasn't making Jimin uncomfortable per say as he didn't feel endangered or cornered by his harmless flirting, yet Ong's demeanor was still uncalled for.

“I understand,” Ong ultimately answered, executing a slight bow as he gave a nod.

A warm smile embellished Jimin's pretty features as he was glad that Ong was actually listening to him and not crossing any boundaries.

“Now, let's focus on your dancing,” Jimin decided, convinced that Ong would drop the topic, but then appearing to have assessed the situation in a wrong light.

“Yes, Mr. Park,” Ong uttered. “But, how about I ask you once the lesson is over?” he suggested, crossing his arms over his chest. “We earned us some fun then, no?” he commented.

“Ong-ssi,” Jimin pressed, shaking his head. “No, I'm your teacher,” he stressed, very close to simply expressing that he was taken already to set a boundary that Ong would potentially understand as he appeared to lack the ability to understand this one.

Yet then Jimin still deliberated whether his relationship status was truly of any significance during this incident. After all, Ong needed to understand that the true issue resided in the fact of Jimin being his teacher and that Ong was not at a legal age here.

Hopefully, that way Ong would understand that his behaviour wasn't just wrong in this particular case, but in any relating scenario that was similar in the way where he was flirting with a teacher of his.

“Okay, so, then how about I ask you again once our individual lessons are over?” the brown haired boy noted, seemingly trying to find a loophole.

“Would you focus now, Ong-ssi?” Jimin insisted, shaking his head again as he sighed.

“Would you answer me, Mr. Park,” Ong demanded. “Please,” he added swiftly upon the stare that Jimin had given him.
“If you don't stop right now, I might have to talk to Mr. Jeon, Ong-ssi,” Jimin found himself threaten, not keen on pulling that card, but still figuring that it was necessary in this case as Ong was way too playful for his own good.

“Got it. I’m sorry,” Ong muttered, clearing his throat as he fixed his posture. “I will shut up now,” he promised, Jimin appearing to have found a threat that would result in Ong to listen to him.

***

“M-Mr. Jeon,” Ong stuttered as he bowed deeply upon the sight of Jungkook entering the practice room.

Politely, Jimin executed a slight bow, a soft smile curving his lips as he met Jungkook's gaze. “Sir,” the pink haired boy greeted him, an emotion gleaming in Jungkook's eyes as that title fell from Jimin's lips.

“Good morning to you, too,” Jungkook responded.

“What are you doing here?” Jimin wanted to know, titling his head to the side.

Certainly, Jimin was delighted by the fact of seeing Jungkook, but having the black haired male stop by and pay them a visit today hadn't been brought up in any initial conversation regarding this individual lesson, thus Jimin was surprised to see him here.

“I was just down here and wanted to stop by for a brief moment just to check how your individual lesson is going,” Jungkook replied, his gaze flickering back and forth between Jimin and Ong, the latter fidgeting with the hem of his shirt as though he was rather nervous – not even remotely behaving like his confident self a few minutes ago where he had shamelessly flirted with Jimin.

“It's going pretty well,” Jimin replied sincerely.

Despite Ong's minor distraction of asking Jimin out, he had actually tried to work on the points that Jimin had commented on and was really listening to what Jimin was saying in spite of his earlier refusal.

So far, Jimin was hopeful.

“Y-Yes. Yes, it's great,” Ong agreed, perhaps slightly in awe by the authority and power that Jungkook was exuding. In fact, clearly more shocked by the sight of him than Jimin. “Ji- Mr. Park is amazing. Truly amazing,” he asserted.

The black haired boy glanced at Jimin, affection glistening in his eyes as he hummed in agreement. “He is,” he coincided.

At the compliment, Jimin's cheeks flushed a faint shade of rose, but he blamed it on the high temperatures in the room as dancing for that long really got them heated rather than his definite bashfulness.

“Your lesson should be over soon?” Jungkook wanted to know, arching up an eyebrow as he was addressing Jimin.

“Oh, yes,” Jimin replied, giving a nod. “We were just about to wrap it up”

“Great,” Jungkook noted. “Go ahead then”
For a moment, Jimin just stared at Jungkook, expecting him to leave.

Yet, he didn't.

Instead, he leaned against the wall, his eyes fixated on Jimin as he waited for him to end the lesson.

“Well, Ong-ssi,” Jimin addressed the trainee, turning his body towards the brown haired boy. “I think our first lesson went pretty good,” he noted with a smile. “You did very well. Thank you for listening to me and for trying. I'll see you on Thursday,” he dismissed the younger male.

“Thank you, Mr. Park,” Ong muttered, executing a bow before he turned around with the purpose of collecting his belongings.

The smaller boy crossed his arms over his chest as he approached Jungkook, closing the distance between them. At the sight of Jimin, a smirk curved Jungkook’s lips, his eyes glistening in affection.

“Why are you really here?” Jimin wanted to know, narrowing his eyes in suspicion.

The taller male chuckled as he curled his hand around Jimin's hip, pulling him closer as he leaned in simultaneously. “You know me so well, hm?” he murmured.

At the touch, Jimin gasped, swatting Jungkook's arm away. “Not here,” Jimin whispered, stealing a glimpse at Ong, the latter collecting his belongings and minding his own business.

“Right,” Jungkook responded, giving a nod as he fixated his gaze on Ong, appearing to wait for him to leave. “Would you join me for lunch?” he then wanted to know, meeting Jimin's gaze again.

The pink haired boy pouted. “Oh, I would love to, but I have to take a shower now before I have to meet up with Hoseok-ssi. We need to plan the next lesson,” Jimin answered, catching his bottom lip between his teeth as his heart clenched at having to decline Jungkook's offer.

“Let me walk you?” Jungkook suggested instead.

“To the showers?” Jimin clarified, furrowing his brows.

“Yeah,” the younger male affirmed, smiling as he rested against the wall.

Jimin blinked before he narrowed his eyes. “Jeon Jungkook, we are not going to have sex in the-” he whispered, shaking his head in determined resistance, but his voice turning even quieter and unsure with each syllable at the entertained expression on Jungkook’s face.

“I wasn't planning on,” Jungkook snickered as amusement gleamed in his brown orbs.

Oh.

The younger boy leaned in, curling his hand around Jimin's hip again to draw him closer. “But, fuck, would you want that?” he whispered into Jimin's ear, his hot breath tickling on Jimin's skin. “Me fucking you up against the shower wall, kitten?” he murmured, pressing his lips to the back of Jimin’s ear.

The smaller boy gasped, his stomach stirring in arousal as he found himself blush at Jungkook's words, quick to detach himself from his boyfriend and establish a safe and non-suspicious distance between them.

“Shut up,” Jimin mumbled, blushing deeper as he turned away, meeting Ong's gaze as the latter was approaching the door.
“Thank you, Mr. Park. I'll see you on Thursday,” Ong uttered as he executed two bows consecutively – one in regard to Jimin and the next in regard to Jungkook. “Mr. Jeon,” he murmured before he walked past the two boys and left the practice room.

Immediately, Jungkook closed the distance between them and grabbed Jimin's hips, spinning the pink haired boy back around and pushing him against the wall as he leaned closer. “I can kiss you now,” he decided, brushing his lips over Jimin's.

The latter swallowed hard; his eyes fluttering shut at the slight touch.

“Jungkook-ah, I'm all sweaty,” Jimin whined, but didn't budge, his heart to attached to the feeling of Jungkook's close proximity and the promise of a kiss.

“Won't stop me,” Jungkook remarked with a smile, crashing his lips on Jimin's in a deep kiss.

In response, a soft breath slipped from Jimin's lips, his heart too weak to withhold the craving of kissing back. Carefully, Jimin kissed back, his heart fluttering as Jungkook embraced Jimin's delicate body as though he was his guard, his lips peppering open-mouthed kisses down his throat.

“Kook-aah, not here, not now,” Jimin objected, shaking his head. “I have to- shower and meet Hyung,” he reminded the two of them.

“Right. You're right,” Jungkook groaned, withdrawing the slightest bit as he placed his hands on either side of Jimin's head against the wall. “I've got a whole load of shit to do, too, but fuck, I couldn't resist seeing you,” he declared, smiling as he pressed another peck to Jimin's lips.

“You're sweet,” Jimin stated, placing his petite hand against Jungkook's cheek. “Let me just get my stuff,” he then noted, walking past Jungkook and collecting all his belongings that he pushed into his bag before he returned to Jungkook's side.

As soon as Jimin was back at his side, Jungkook's hand found its way to the small of Jimin's back, the latter smiling at the tender touch. However, upon their exit of the practice room, Jimin pushed Jungkook's arm away as gently as he could muster, smiling softly at him.

“We shouldn't,” he uttered, aware of their surroundings and the work environment they were currently present in. It wasn't of low probability that someone would appear in this hallway any moment and catch sight of them – potentially starting a rumour that would spread like wildfire.

“Right,” Jungkook retorted, giving a weak nod as he cleared his throat. “So, how did your lesson go?”

“I already told you,” Jimin reminded him.

The taller male turned his head to the side to meet Jimin's gaze. “Now, be genuine,” he insisted. “I know that you wouldn't talk badly about Ong-ssi in his presence because you fear it might hurt his feelings. You're way too kind-hearted for that,” he expressed, shaking his head.

“I was honest,” Jimin stressed, being entirely sincere there as the lesson had been a lot better than Jimin had expected it to go. “The lesson itself was... was good. At first, he wasn't taking me serious because he didn't believe that he needs help, but I think he is trying to open up to this idea in spite of him being very self-assured and maybe even doubtful of this situation,” he added, tilting his head to the side. “I mean, he even called it a punishment at first,” Jimin uttered, pressing his lips into a line. “He's trying, though. I hope things will turn out well”

Jimin's first experience as being a sole teacher during an individual lesson hadn't been an utter disaster like a hurtful voice within him had made him believe throughout the course of the past days.

Certainly, Jimin aspired to be a much better teacher someday – as professional and talented as Hoseok was – but for now, he felt as though it hadn't been too bad. No, there hadn't been any severe differences or struggles that resulted in Jimin being in absolute distraught. Aside from Ong's initial partial rejection and his harmless flirting, things had gone rather smoothly and a lot better than Jimin had essentially estimated.

By all means, Jimin was hopeful that with thorough ambition and devotion on either of their behalf, they would make it work somehow.

“What do you mean by that? He didn't take you serious?” Jungkook wanted to know, frowning as he came to a halt, turning his entire body towards Jimin.

The pink haired boy mirrored his stance, scanning the hallway before he grasped Jungkook's elbow and gestured for him to proceed walking. However, Jungkook didn't move an inch, studying Jimin's features with intent eyes as he awaited a response.

Jimin blinked. “Well, he... he didn't want to learn much,” he answered, shrugging slightly. "I don't know, he didn't seem to think that it was necessary,” he expressed, presuming that it was favourable not to mention Ong asking him out.

“What did he do?” Jungkook pressed.

“It wasn't anything that he did...,” Jimin murmured, averting his gaze.

“What did he say?” the younger male prompted, placing his index finger below Jimin's chin in order to guide his face back up, allowing them to lock eyes.

“It's nothing really... just-,” Jimin mumbled, shaking his head.

“Jimin-ah, tell me,” Jungkook demanded.

“He asked me out to dinner,” Jimin responded quietly, swallowing hard at the emotion that flashed in Jungkook's eyes as soon as those words had slipped from Jimin's lips.

“What?” Jungkook exclaimed with furrowed brows.

“Ong-ssi asked me out to dinner,” Jimin repeated softly.

The black haired boy stared at him for a moment longer before he laughed humourlessly. “I see,” he retorted calmly.

Jimin blinked.

This was… astonishing? To be honest, Jimin had feared a whole different response – one filled with anger and jealousy. “Are you not…”

“Oh, I am,” Jungkook stated, stretching his neck from side to side. “That little shit is going to regret acting like that,” he threatened, pushing his tongue into his cheek as his strong hands curled around Jimin's hips.

“Kook-ah,” Jimin uttered softly, placing his palms on Jungkook's chest in an attempt to mollify him.

“Jimin-ah, who does he think he is? Bastard is supposed to be learning some shit and not hit on you,” Jungkook ranted, his hands not leaving Jimin's hips, but rather tightening as though he needed to make sure that Jimin was close to him, truly present in his grasp. “Does he think my father is paying for his training fees so he can fuck around?” he asked, clearly rhetorically as he furrowed his brows in anger. “If he even laid a finger on you, I’m-

“Jungkook-ah, he's still a child,” Jimin reminded him, not sure \textit{why} Jungkook was truly reacting to that information the way he was.

Was he mad that Ong didn't concentrate during the lessons? \textit{Presumably}. In a way, Jimin could understand that as he hadn’t been approving of Ong’s lack of interest earlier either, yet it still wasn’t a justification for Jungkook's outrage, was it?

Was he jealous? \textit{Maybe}. If so, there was no reason to. There was not one person on this planet that could play a threat to Jungkook. No, Jimin wanted Jungkook and no one else. There was not one human being in this whole universe that could make him feel the way Jungkook did.

“Jimin-ah, he's sixteen, not a child,” Jungkook interrupted his thoughts.

“I don't think he was even being serious,” Jimin uttered, yet not entirely certain whether he was truly convinced of that himself.

For one thing, it appeared to be more probable that Ong had just messed around with him, maybe having flirted with Jimin for the sake of being able to do it but hadn’t \textit{actually} been serious about the whole thing. Then again... he had been very adamant, hadn't he?

Truthfully, Jimin wasn't sure what to make of this, his heart not capable to decide what to believe. “I think he just wanted to prove himself,” Jimin reasoned eventually.

“Prove himself?” Jungkook echoed, frowning.

“Yeah, I think... I think it hurt his pride to be forced to take some individual lessons as he was very sure of his own skills and seems rather confident by nature,” Jimin explained his own thoughts, surely not certain whether there was any truth to them, but still finding them to be presumable. “I think he wanted to regain some of his broken pride by hitting on a teacher – \textit{any} teacher for that matter – but it just happened to be me. I think he only dared to do it because it was \textit{me} and I'm new, so he’s not scared of me,” he added.

The other male didn't seem impressed, disagreement apparent on his handsome face. “Doesn't make-”

“Maybe, he got a thrill out of hitting on his teacher,” Jimin interrupted him, assuming that it wasn't anything unprecedented for a student to hit on his teacher just for the sake of doing it and evoking a reaction in them.

After all, Jimin wasn't oblivious to an event like that occurring, having been present whenever a student had continuously flirted with their dance teacher back in arts school just for the kick of it. Later, in the locker rooms, Jimin would listen to them fantasise about what they would do to her, if-\textit{No}, Jimin wasn't going to replay those moments in his mind, disgust and pity blooming within him at the thought of them talking about their teacher in such a degrading way.

Admittedly, they had been teens at that time, and maybe their behaviour could be considered plain immature talking attributable to their age and puberty, but it had still been degrading – at least as long as Jimin was concerned, the boy always having been swift to get dressed and leave the room with the intention of not having to listen.

The pink haired boy wondered whether they were ashamed of their conversations today, all grown up and potentially more mature. Then again, he wondered whether they even remembered those laughs in the locker rooms, whether they even cared enough to remember.

Maybe... Jimin was just too prim in that sense? Maybe, he lacked the ability to view this situation from a different perspective.

“Isn’t that a fantasy?” Jimin uttered, meeting Jungkook's face again. “You know, to... to have an affair with a teacher?” he tried to reason, hoping it would calm Jungkook in some way.

Jungkook arched up his eyebrows in surprise. “Of you?” he wanted to know, clearly caught off guard by Jimin's words.

In response, Jimin's eyes went big as he vigorously shook his head. “No!” he exclaimed, not missing the faint display of amusement in Jungkook's eyes upon the shade of rose that flushed Jimin's cheeks at his accusation. “I don't know... some people?” Jimin murmured.

“Did you w- Never mind,” Jungkook commented, shaking his head to get back on track. “Doesn't make it right, though,” he stressed, pointing to the side at no one in particular. “He can forget about receiving a special treatment now, if he’s kicking it with his feet like that,” he threatened.

What?

“Jungkook-ah, don't,” Jimin begged, closing the minor distance between them. “Ong-ssi really tried to learn and I think he might be able to improve, if he is just granted a little more time,” he elaborated. “I made it clear that there was nothing going to happen between us”

Regardless of whether Ong had been serious or not, whether it had just been harmless flirting or a solid attempt on his behalf – Jimin would never go out with him.

No, he had voiced that distinctively.

“What did he say, when you set a boundary?” Jungkook demanded to know.

The smaller boy averted his gaze, choosing to stay silent.

“Jimin-ah, tell me what he said,” Jungkook urged, his digits gently grabbing Jimin's chin and guiding his face back up.

“Well, he said that I’m cute and... and only time will tell,” Jimin retorted softly, his voice barely above a whisper, the boy perhaps hoping that Jungkook wouldn't be able to register it and decipher his words, yet his tone was just loud enough to be considered audible.

“That little shit thinks he can have you,” Jungkook laughed humourlessly through gritted teeth, turning away as he poked his tongue into his cheek.

“Kook-ah!” Jimin belted out, closing the distance between them with the intention of having Jungkook face him again, but tumbling right into Jungkook as the other male turned back to him in the exact same moment.

The two crashed into one another, Jimin trying to grab a bundle of Jungkook’s shirt in his petite hand as the force of their encounter caused Jimin to slip in a way that wouldn't be considered very gracefully, but Jimin didn't find the will in him to care.

At the fear of Jimin falling, Jungkook was swift to close his hands around Jimin's delicate hips, securing him close to his own body. In their close proximity, Jimin noticed the fast rising of Jungkook’s chest, a prominent display of his rage.

For a moment, they stared into each other’s eyes, but Jimin detached himself from Jungkook before his heart got lost in his gorgeous brown orbs, the boy shoving against Jungkook’s chest instead.

“This is why I don’t want to tell you about these things!” Jimin complained. “You turn mad and make impulsive decisions!”

“I do not,” Jungkook protested.

“Yes, you do,” Jimin objected. “I told you about this as my boyfriend because you asked me, not as my boss.” he claimed, shaking his head. “It’s unfair for you to use any information I give you against the people that they are about”

It was apparent that Jungkook was angered.

His entire demeanor was exuding a mixture of jealousy and anger. In those moments, Jungkook tended to make impulsive decisions as his mind and judgement were clouded by these vibrant emotions.

In a way, Jimin could sympathise with how Jungkook felt. After all, the effect jealousy had on your very being – even if it was only a small fraction of it – was rather difficult to control.

“You’re jealous and that’s the only reason you’re behaving like that,” Jimin accused, frowning as he crossed his arms over his chest.

“That is not true,” Jungkook protested, perhaps truly failing to see or admit to his own jealousy or simply pretending to have another reason validating his behaviour. “I want to cancel his special treatment because of his lack of some fucking gratitude and decent respect. In addition, because he violated the strict no teacher-trainee-relationship policy”

That policy did in fact exist – for whatever reason. Fair enough. However, how could Jungkook claim that Ong had violated that rule, if there wasn’t even any relationship between them that could have been established?

Jimin shook his head. “Jungkook-ah, he didn't violate anything because nothing happened between us,” he reminded the taller one.

“He tried to,” Jungkook remarked, an emotion glistening in his eyes that pulled on Jimin's heart strings.

“Kook-ah, please, stay fair for a moment,” Jimin uttered softly. “You're my boyfriend right now, okay? Not my superior,” he expressed, clasping his hand over his heart as he took a step closer. “Ong-ssi is not even an adult yet. It might be his hormones that caused him to act like that. Honestly, I don't think he was being serious,” he repeated his earlier assumption, gently placing his hands on Jungkook’s chest as he looked up at him. “Give the boy a chance. Please, don’t take away this chance for him. I handled it on my own. I think he got the note now and won't ask me out again”

For a moment, Jungkook just stared at him, his eyes softening.

“Did he touch you?” he then wanted to know.

“No,” Jimin answered sincerely.

“Did he corner you?” Jungkook asked.
“No, not at all,” Jimin responded genuinely, the reminder reinforcing his initial conviction that Ong's demeanor and behaviour were harmless and nothing dangerous at all, that he would never hurt Jimin.

“If he does anything at all that makes you feel-”

“I definitely won't tell you about it,” the pink haired one interrupted.

“Jimin-ah,” Jungkook emphasised his name.

“I see that telling you about these things makes you mad and causes you to make impulsive decisions and that was not my intention,” Jimin expressed, catching his bottom lip between his teeth.

The younger male reached up to brush Jimin's fringe out of his face, his pink locks having fallen in his face and to embellish his pretty features. “I want to protect you, little one,” he uttered, his voice warm.

“I know,” Jimin whispered, his heart fluttering, but clenching all the same.

Maybe, that is why Jungkook reacted the way he did...

It wasn't just jealousy. No, not solely. It was the fear of Jimin not being safe. It was the fear of someone hurting Jimin.

Whenever Jungkook wasn't certain of Jimin's safety, he did everything in his power – anything he could muster – to make sure that Jimin was guarded.

However, he simply wasn't capable to control everything that would occur in their lives... That just wasn't possible.

Maybe, it was the lack of control that caused Jungkook to be this impulsive.

Yet maybe, it was a combination of all of these circumstances that evoke such demeanor and behaviour in him.

“I know you do, but I handled this on my own, Jungkook-ah, so I don't... you don't need to fix this for me, okay? This one time, you don't. Please, Kook-ah,” Jimin begged.

The taller male's gaze flickered back and forth between Jimin's doe eyes.

“I'm sorry. I... didn't mean to,” Jungkook apologised with a sigh, taking Jimin's petite hands into his own. “I guess I am jealous. I admit, I am. I get jealous at the thought of someone else having you,” he declared. “However, more than that, I need to make sure that you're safe. I can't bear the thought of someone touching you or hurting you, Jimin-ah. I need you to be honest with me, okay?”

How ironic, Jimin thought, looking back on it now... If only he had known what storm was heading his way...

“I need you to tell me, if someone hurts you or makes you feel uncomfortable, little one, so I can make sure to protect you,” he added, allowing Jimin's hands to slip from his grasp in order to curl his own palms around Jimin's hips and pull the smaller one closer. “You're the most significant being in my life and I can't bear the thought of something happening to you”

At his words, Jimin's heart quivered, a soft smile curving his lips as he dipped his head down.

“I understand,” Jimin responded gently. “I don't want to hide anything from you, but I don't want you to go out and act impulsively either. If I tell you that I can handle something on my own, I would like for you to respect that, Kook-ah,” he requested. “I know that... I know that you want to protect me, and I feel grateful that you do. It is sweet and makes me feel safe, but... but it's not necessary in every situation I go through. I don't want to... I need to learn how to handle things on my own, don't you think? I don't want to be dependent on you solely.”

The pink haired boy appreciated Jungkook caring for him the way he did, but how was Jimin supposed to ever take care of himself in certain instances, if he depended on Jungkook in every situation of his own life?

It wasn't that Jimin believed that they would part eventually at last, leaving Jimin absolutely helpless at Jungkook's absence, but it was a simple need for independence as each person should be entitled to possess that ability.

“’You're right,” Jungkook agreed, his tone softer as he gave Jimin's hips a tender squeeze. “I get it. I fucked up. I shouldn't have... You're right. This is new to me, Jimin-ah. It might take a while for me to differentiate between me being your boss and me being your boyfriend. I shouldn't use my power like that, if you tell me something as your boyfriend and not as your boss,” he noted, somewhat surprising Jimin that he didn't proceed to argue with him but was actually agreeing with him.

Clearly, it wasn't easy for Jungkook to decide how to behave in a relationship – the black haired man only continuously learning how and if an action of his affected Jimin, whether it was appropriate or not. The smaller boy couldn't blame Jungkook, if he was being entirely honest; fairly understanding that it was difficult.

In no way did own Jimin any more knowledge than he did as this was his first relationship as well, thus why they needed to work on those things collectively – as an item.

By all means, the two of them were simply figuring out how to make things work each day – most things falling into place like puzzle pieces, yet others requiring a little more work on either of their behalf – such as this one.

The only solution for them to fix these things was to talk about them in order to learn how the other one felt, why they acted the way they did and what they believed validated their behaviour.

“Ong-ssi is still a teen, you're right,” Jungkook interrupted Jimin's thoughts. “It wasn't fair of me to consider a cancellation of his individual lessons for flirting with you. However, I would like to make sure that he understands that this is not a vacation, but a prestigious opportunity that not everyone has. Ong-ssi needs to understand that he needs to work hard and can't go around hitting on his teacher. I don’t appreciate him hitting on you at all. If you think he got the message, then that's enough for me. For now.”

In response, Jimin smiled softly, his eyes turning into small crescents in a visible display of his happiness at Jungkook's words. “Thank you, Kook-ah. That's all I ask for,” Jimin uttered, leaning up on his tippy-toes to brush his lips over Jungkook's. “I will tell you, if someone does make me uncomfortable or hurts me. I promise,” he whispered against his lips.

“Thank you,” Jungkook smiled, embracing Jimin's delicate body as he attached their lips in a sweet kiss. “That's all I ask for,” he murmured then.

Jimin giggled. “Well, look at us working things out like adults without running away or punishing each other with silence,” he grinned. “I like that. It feels good,” he added softer.

This was so much better – so much... healthier.
The younger male's smile faltered – only the slightest bit, merely enough for Jimin to really register it as there was still a faint smile depicted on his face. “Yeah, it...,” he trailed off, an emotion flashing in his eyes that unsettled Jimin for a split second, but it was gone as swiftly as it had appeared. “Jimin-ah, I-”

Suddenly, there was laughter audible down the hallway, the sound causing them to detach immediately, the two boys establishing a safe distance between one another.

A group of trainees appeared around the corner, their laughter dying down upon the sight of Jungkook, the boys fixing their postures and exhibiting a polite bow and uttering small greetings as they passed by them.

In response, Jimin and Jungkook returned a greeting, clearing their throats before they proceeded to walk ahead.

“I'll go and shower now, Kook-ah,” Jimin informed him.

“Mhm-mh,” Jungkook hummed, swift to chase after Jimin and press a kiss to his cheek. “I'll see you later, little one”

“Later,” Jimin uttered, waving at him.

***

The pink haired boy changed the page of his book, his eyes glued to the words on the sheet as he was sucked into an imaginary world, drawn out of his own stressful daily life. Honestly, it has been a while since Jimin has had the time to just sit down and read a book.

During his intent focus, Jimin didn't even notice the vanishing of the sound of water running, didn't notice Jungkook returning to the bedroom a few minutes later.

“Are you still mad at me?” Jungkook wanted to know, his deep voice breaking the silence that had fallen upon the room.

His voice startled Jimin, the boy jerking up in his seat and accidently shutting his book close in the midst of it. The smaller boy looked up, turning his head to the side to meet Jungkook's gaze.

The younger male was leaning against the wall, dressed in some sweatpants, but naked apart from that. His bare upper body was glistening in water, a few droplets cascading down his hair as he stared at Jimin with attentive eyes.

Jimin forced his gaze back up to meet Jungkook's eyes, caught off guard by that question for a moment.

To be fair, the two of them hadn't talked much since their encounter at the company earlier today. They had been too caught up with work throughout the whole day, Jimin having returned back to Jungkook's apartment long before he did. As soon as Jungkook had come home, they had exchanged a few words before the other one went on to shower.

“Hey, little one,” Jungkook greeted him, stretching his neck from side to side as he entered the bedroom.

“Hey,” Jimin noted, smiling softly as he met his gaze.

“Did you eat already?” Jungkook wanted to know, walking past the bed as he commenced to
“I did,” Jimin uttered, giving a faint nod. “Did you?”

“Yes, I did,” Jungkook responded, running his hand through his hair. “I’m going to take a shower.”

Of course, you would wait here, Jimin thought. It wasn’t like Jungkook had invited you to join.

The smaller boy’s cheeks flushed a faint shade of rose as soon as those words had left his mouth, yet he tried to act as though he wasn’t bashful at his own assertion and proceeded to read his book although he didn’t quite register any of the words on any line, simply pretending to read.

Jungkook chuckled as he headed over into the bathroom. “You can join me, if you want to,” he called out, Jimin's blush deepening as he made himself smaller, hiding his face behind the book in his hands.

Why would Jimin be mad?

As soon as that question appeared in Jimin's mind, a voice within him reminded him of their earlier argument about Ong.

Presumably, Jungkook was referring to that one.

“First of all, I was never mad at you,” Jimin responded, smiling softly as he shook his head. “Secondly, we talked about Ong-ssi already and I’m happy that we did. There is no reason to be mad,” he added.

“Good,” Jungkook commented, giving a nod. “That's good”

With that, he closed the distance between them, joining Jimin on the bed and pressing a peck to his lips. In their near proximity, Jungkook’s comforting scent filled Jimin’s nostrils, his eyes fluttering shut as he chased after Jungkook and crashed his lips on his for another kiss.

Jungkook smiled into the kiss before he withdrew, lying down beside Jimin and reaching for his laptop in order to get some work done.

The pink haired one wondered whether work just ran through Jungkook’s veins, whether he just urged to work whenever possible – as there were just too many things to organise and necessary to take care of.

For a while, Jimin proceeded to read his book in silence beside Jungkook, but then he stole a glimpse at Jungkook, his heart clenching at the thought of him constantly working with merely any breaks.

“What are you doing?” Jimin wanted to know, shutting his book and placing it on the nightstand before he rolled over onto his stomach, propping his chin up on his fist as he stared at Jungkook with soft eyes.

The black haired one looked up from his screen. “Skimming through some profiles of possible new trainees,” he responded.

“More trainees?” Jimin asked, his eyebrows shooting up at the information.

“Yes,” Jungkook affirmed, giving a nod.
“Aren’t there... so many already?”

At his words, Jungkook chuckled, reaching out to brush Jimin’s fringe out of his face. “The industry doesn’t sleep or stop, baby,” he reminded Jimin of the wolves that were running the industry, obtaining new talent in order to shape them into a narrative they wanted to convey and making money with them like there was no tomorrow. “New talent is out there, and my father wants to scout it”

Jimin gave a faint nod, pursing his lips in thought as he found himself frown.

More trainees equalled an even lower probability for the current trainees to debut, didn't it? Was that fair? Then again, Jimin could understand that these new people were aspiring to enable their dreams as well. Why should they be withheld from such an opportunity? They were deserving just as much.

“You wanna have a look?” Jungkook suggested, leaning down to press a kiss to the top of Jimin's head.

“No, it's fine,” Jimin uttered, sighing as he shook his head, Jungkook's face still very close to his own. The smaller one swallowed hard as he inhaled a soft breath, tilting his head up to Jungkook and allowing their lips to brush over one another. “I... wanna... kiss you,” Jimin whispered.

A smile curved Jungkook’s lips as he nudged his nose against Jimin’s cheek. “You really don't want me to work, huh?” he murmured against his skin, his tone lower as he attached their lips in a slow kiss but withdrew a brief moment later.

In response, Jimin whined, not fond of the loss. “You can work,” Jimin noted, chasing after Jungkook in an attempt to crash his lips on his, but failing as the other one grabbed his chin to prevent him from moving.

“How are your marks?” Jungkook asked instead, amusement glistening in his eyes as the other one huffed at the lack of kisses he was showered in, Jungkook not allowing him to move any closer by proceeding to have his chin secured in his grasp, the touch gentle, but still conveying that Jimin should refrain from hunching forward again.

“The one’s on my wrists are nearly gone,” Jimin informed him, lifting one of his wrists up into the air, studying his fair skin. “I’m not sure about my throat, though,” he added.

To be honest, Jimin had almost disregarded the fact of his skin being adorned by red marks, hadn’t exactly paid much attention to them throughout the day as he had been so very busy with other things over the course of it.

The taller male titled Jimin’s head up, exposing his throat to his eyes in order to have a better look. Gently, he traced the tips of his fingers over Jimin’s soft skin, glad that the red marks had nearly vanished.

There was something to intriguing to mark Jimin’s body, the sight affecting Jungkook in a way he wasn’t able to explain – yet at the same time, he didn’t want his baby to be exposed to any pain, may it be physical or emotional.

“It’s not too bad,” Jungkook noted. “I think you’ll be fine by tomorrow”

“Oh,” Jimin uttered.

At the tone of Jimin’s voice that carried a hint of sadness, Jungkook met the smaller one’s gaze, “Does that make you sad?” he wondered, raising up his eyebrows in curiosity.
“No, just…,” Jimin tried to answer, but went silent instead as he averted his gaze, his cheeks tingling a shade of rose. “I don’t know,” he mumbled, somehow feeling too timid to answer sincerely.

“What is it,” Jungkook pressed softly, his digits grasping Jimin’s chin to guide his face back up, his touch tender.

As their gazes met, Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth. “Maybe not that one specifically,” Jimin expressed, referring to the mark on his throat. “But I like having marks on my body – marks that you gave me,” he emphasised, closing his petite hand around Jungkook’s wrist in order to give it a gentle squeeze.

“Yeah?” Jungkook breathed, the corners of his lips curling up into a smirk.

“Mhm-mh,” Jimin hummed in affirmation, the blush on his cheeks darkening.

Gently, the black haired one curled his hands around Jimin’s hips, heaving the boy on top of him, the latter naturally straddling his lap. “Come here, little one,” Jungkook whispered, his hand finding its way to the back of Jimin’s neck while his other palm remained wrapped around Jimin’s hips to secure in him in his grasp. Tenderly, Jungkook applied some pressure in his touch, Jimin compelled to lean down to him, but more than delighted to comply.

Instead of attaching their lips in a kiss the way Jimin had expected – and genuinely yearned for – Jungkook pressed his lips to the curve of Jimin’s neck. As a result of the unforeseen touch, a gasp slipped from Jimin’s lips, his eyes fluttering shut as Jungkook commenced to suck on his skin ever so softly.

Yes, please.

“K-Kook-ah,” Jimin breathed, digging his teeth into his bottom lip as he clenched his hands into petite fists, the feeling so lovely as he found himself rolling his hips forward into Jungkook’s unconsciously.

The other male halted Jimin’s hips, the tight grasp around Jimin’s waist a silent demand for Jimin to still – which he obliged.

Beautiful.

“There you go, angel,” Jungkook whispered against his skin once he was satisfied, licking over his mark on Jimin’s body.

The sense of pride and affection that bloomed within Jungkook at the sight of the hickey on Jimin’s skin was interesting. The younger male felt as though he was staring at a piece of art – one that belonged to him solely.

Well, he was.

Jimin was a living piece of art.

Yet, even more importantly, he was his.

“Thank you,” Jimin uttered, his eyes fluttering back open.

Inevitably, warmth spread within Jimin’s chest at the fact of Jungkook having left another temporary mark on his body to display a sense of belonging.
Jimin loved it.

As their gazes met, fondness glistened in either of their eyes, a smile curving their lips. “May I?” Jimin asked shyly, his voice barely above a whisper.

“Go ahead,” Jungkook permitted without an ounce of hesitation.

Carefully, Jimin leaned closer, nuzzling his nose into the curve of Jungkook’s neck as he searched for the perfect spot to place his own hickey in. After being partially distracted by the soothing scent of Jungkook that was especially prominent in this location, Jimin stilled at a particular area, pleased with the spot.

Gently, he sucked on the skin the way Jungkook had taught him, not too harshly, but still enough for it to be able to create a mark.

“Good?” Jimin wondered, his voice soft once he withdrew.

“Mhm-mh,” Jungkook hummed in affirmation – despite not being able to see it, he praised Jimin all the same. “Very good, little one”

Naturally, Jimin’s heart quivered at the praise, a delicate smile adorning his pretty features as he examined his creation on Jungkook’s skin. There was a sense of pride and innocent happiness swelling in his chest that were difficult to explain.

The sight of a hickey that Jimin had shaped embellishing Jungkook’s skin while there was a counter piece by Jungkook decorating Jimin’s skin simultaneously was… was embodying a sense of connection, representing their close bond and belonging to one another.

In a way, it was heart-rending.

To Jimin, it was.

The smaller boy leaned in again, hesitantly rolling his hips into Jungkook’s as he pressed his lips to Jungkook’s neck – almost careful in his behaviour.

Suddenly, the irritating sound of a ringtone broke the comfortable silence among them, startling Jimin who winced at the noise, Jungkook caressing Jimin’s thigh to soothe him as he reached for his phone simultaneously.

“Yes?” Jungkook answered the call, Jimin biting down on his bottom lip to contain the whine in frustration that had dared to slip from his lips at the disruption.

From one second to the other, Jungkook’s expression changed from one of annoyance to one of alarm – his eyes going wide for a split second. However, the taller male was swift to calm, a collected expression replacing the prior one.

Gently, he pushed Jimin off his body, sitting up. “What do you mean- Yes, I’ll be right down,” he informed the person on the phone, ending the call and pushing the device into the pocket of his sweatpants.

“What’s wrong?” Jimin asked, his eyes big as he sat up on the bed as well, suddenly concerned.

“Nothing,” Jungkook responded, getting up on his feet. “Stay here, little one, I’ll be right back,” he insisted, approaching his dresser where he picked out a shirt that he tugged over his head, the piece of clothing veiling his upper body.
Then, he returned to Jimin’s side, pressing a kiss to Jimin’s temple before he withdrew and exited the room, leaving Jimin behind who found himself be puzzled by the sudden turn of events.

For a moment, Jimin deliberated whether he should follow after Jungkook, his body itching to get up from the bed and rush after him with the intention of making sure that he was alright.

The smaller boy scooted closer to the edge of the bed, his feet dangling above the ground as he indicated to hop off from the bed, but he discovered himself to lack the ability to move any further than that.

Jungkook’s words were echoing in Jimin’s head: Stay here, little one.

Carefully, Jimin pulled his feet back up on the bed, returning to the headboard and sitting against it before he drew his legs up to his chest, propping his chin up on his knees as he hugged his legs close.

Seconds passed by – seconds that turned into minutes – minutes that felt like an eternity, Jimin left alone with his thoughts that were amplified in the silence of the room, not decreasing his concern in even the smallest fraction.

Slowly, Jimin laid back down on the bed, estimating that it might take longer for Jungkook to return than he had initially believed. The pink haired boy rolled over onto his side, nuzzling his cheek into the pillow as he stared at the door with sleepy eyes.

As Jimin’s eyes had nearly fluttered shut, a figure entered the room again, the smaller one’s heart rate picking up at the sight of Jungkook.

“Is everything okay?” Jimin found himself worry despite Jungkook’s earlier claim of there not being anything to worry about.

“Yes, it is,” Jungkook replied, giving a nod as he approached the bed, Jimin observing his every moment, studying his features as he way searching for anything that would hint at Jungkook being hurt – yet, there wasn’t anything.

Thank God.

“Are you sure?” Jimin doubted, unable to allow a sense of mistrust to arise. By no means did Jimin suspect Jungkook to lie to him with an evil intention, but for the sake of protecting Jimin and refraining from worrying him.

However, Jimin aspired to know the truth; refused to have Jungkook be forced to deal with an issue all on his own, when Jimin could be by his side to help – may it be by being an emotional support system or perhaps even managing to find a solution and physically help in some way.

“Yes,” Jungkook assured.

“Kook-ah,” Jimin pressed softly. “Please, be honest”

“I am,” Jungkook claimed. “There were some technical issues with the security system, but we got it figured out,” he elaborated, his tone sincere. “You don’t need to worry, little one,” he promised, reaching out to run his hand through Jimin’s hair once he joined him on the bed, sitting down beside him.

The way there was no hesitation in Jungkook’s voice calmed Jimin, causing him to believe that Jungkook’s answer was genuine as Jimin doubted that Jungkook would be capable to make up such an answer immediately on the spot without requiring at least a few seconds to gather his thoughts and form a lie.

“Okay,” Jimin uttered, giving a faint nod before he rolled back over on his side, tugging the blanket up to his chin.

“What are you doing?” the black haired boy asked, arching up his eyebrows as he observed Jimin.

“I’m… going to sleep,” Jimin replied softly.

“Are you tired?” Jungkook wondered, playing with Jimin’s pink locks.

“A little,” Jimin answered, his tone gentle as he nuzzled into the tender touch.

“You don’t want to finish what we started?” the younger male wanted to know, leaning closer, his voice alluring.

“What… did we start?” Jimin whispered.

Jungkook chuckled. “I see,” he noted with a hum. “You tend to get worked up quickly, little one,” he stated a very valid fact there as he withdrew from Jimin, his hand no longer entangled in Jimin’s pink locks to play with them, the warmth he was radiating farther away. “I thought you might need me to take care of you”

“O-Oh,” Jimin breathed as he realized that they had been in the midst of an intimate moment when that call had interrupted them. “I…,” he trailed off as he swallowed hard, his cheeks flushing a shade of red.

Was there ever really a time where Jimin did not long for Jungkook to touch him?

“Good night then, angel,” Jungkook retorted, lying down beside Jimin before he reached over to the nightlamp and switched it off, causing the room to no longer be illuminated, but darkness having settled among them.

No…

Wait…

Please…

The pink haired male rolled over onto his other side, stealing a glimpse at Jungkook’s profile, yet struggling to observe his face clearly in the absence of illumination in the room.

“K-Kook-ah,” Jimin whispered, closing the distance between them.

“Yes?” Jungkook muttered, turning his head to the side in order to meet Jimin’s gaze.

“I… I do want… Please,” he murmured softly, allowing the remainder of his sentence to hang in the air between them, hoping that Jungkook was able to decipher his yearning.

“Want me to take care of you?” Jungkook asked for clarification.

“Y-Yes, please,” Jimin uttered.

A soft chuckle fell from Jungkook’s lips as he leaned in and pressed a peck to Jimin’s cheek before the younger male sat up on his knees.
“On your back, little one,” Jungkook insisted.

Despite Jimin being swift to oblige, he furrowed his brows as he observed Jungkook’s movement, the latter hovering above Jimin. “What are you- “

“Just relax, angel,” Jungkook whispered, leaning down to press his lips to Jimin’s collarbone before he moved further down and spread Jimin’s legs with the intention of settling down in between them.

Gently, his fingers played with the waistband of Jimin’s briefs before he tugged on them and removed them from Jimin’s milky legs. Without much care, he tossed the piece of clothing to the floor, his gaze fixated on Jimin’s private parts as he placed his warm palms on Jimin’s inner thighs.

Slowly, his hands roamed over Jimin’s soft skin, the tips of his fingers tracing closer to Jimin’s penis that had grown to semi-hardness in little to no time.

“Kook-ah,” Jimin breathed, inhaling a shaky breath as he stole a glimpse at Jungkook’s face, a smirk adorning his handsome features as he sank down on the bed entirely, his mouth hovering above Jimin’s hard length.

“Be good,” Jungkook noted softly before he spat on Jimin’s hard length, the action evoking a gasp in Jimin who twitched at the obscenity of it. “I’m going to make you feel good, hm?”

“T-Thank y- Ah,” Jimin whimpered, throwing his head back into the pillow as Jungkook had wrapped his large palm around Jimin’s penis to give it some firm tugs.

“I know,” Jungkook cooed, his gaze flickering back and forth between Jimin’s erection in his fist and his pretty features that were scrunched up in pleasure.

“A-Ah,” the pink haired boy gasped.

“Sssh,” Jungkook murmured, slowing down his hand.

“Kook-ah, please,” Jimin begged.

“There you go,” Jungkook commented, picking up a quicker pace as he frequently ran his thumb along the sensitive tip of Jimin’s hard length to increase the stimulation.

At the touch, Jimin’s eyes fluttered shut, the boy becoming lost in the sweet haze of the moment, not noticing how Jungkook had leaned down to wrap his mouth around his hard length.

“Ah,” Jimin shrieked at the sudden warm wetness around his erection, involuntarily bucking up his hips into Jungkook’s mouth which earned him a warning smack to the thigh. “I’m s-sorry,” Jimin stuttered, digging his teeth into his bottom lip as he entangled his hands in the bedsheets, clenching his hands into petite fists.

The black haired one was swift to pick up a fast pace, bobbing his head up and down Jimin’s length without much struggle, opposed to Jimin who rarely managed to fit much of Jungkook into his mouth from the get-go, but required a little more time to adjust to his size.

“F-Feels so good,” Jimin mewled.

Jungkook hummed around Jimin’s length, the latter able to sense the vibration of that particular sound in his own body.

The smaller boy was quick to find his release, bucking up his hips as he tugged on Jungkook’s hair, simultaneously kicking out his legs and tossing his head back into the pillow, his pink locks falling into his face. “Jungkook-ah, oh god!” he shrieked, sperm spurting into Jungkook’s mouth as the latter proceeded to bob his head up and down.

Jimin’s chest was heaving, his body shaking all over, the boy trying to draw his thighs together at the intense stimulation but discovering that it was impossible due to Jungkook’s presence in between his thighs.

“K-Kook-ah, please, no more,” he begged softly.

Slowly, Jungkook pulled off, allowing Jimin’s penis to slip from his lips and fall flat on his stomach, the act causing a wet sound to echo in the room. The taller male moved up, hovering above Jimin, their faces mere inches apart.

For a moment, they just stared into each other’s eyes, but then Jungkook leaned in to attach their lips in a kiss, pushing his tongue into Jimin’s mouth without any warning. At the sudden taste of his own sperm on his tongue, Jimin gasped, the pit of his stomach stirring as he moved his lips against Jungkook’s.

“Swallow,” Jungkook demanded, his tone tender as he brushed his lips over Jimin’s.

The latter was swift to comply, swallowing down his own sperm and managing to refrain from wrinkling his nose at his own taste. They remained eye contact, Jungkook visibly satisfied, lust gleaming in his brown orbs.

“Good boy,” Jungkook praised, smirking as he pressed a few small kisses on Jimin’s full lips.

“T-Thank you,” Jimin murmured breathy, chasing after Jungkook’s lips to attach them in another kiss.

The younger male smiled into the kiss, swift to move his lips against Jimin’s as he rolled off onto his side, Jimin quick to oblige his nonverbal request and follow after him, now on top and straddling his body, yet never breaking their kiss.

Jungkook’s hands found their way to Jimin’s waist, the latter allowing his hands to roam over Jungkook’s broad chest, goosebumps forming beneath his touch.

“Weren’t you tired?” Jungkook noted in between their lips, brushing his lips over Jimin’s chin as he awaited an answer.

Catching his breath, Jimin gave a faint nod as he wet his lips, the intoxicating taste of Jungkook lingering on them. “I was,” Jimin responded.

Jungkook titled his head to the side, studying Jimin’s features as his palm caressed Jimin’s waist before his hand wandered below the soft fabric of Jimin’s shirt to rub over his velvety skin.

“You’re always even sleepier after an orgasm,” Jungkook pointed out with a smile, Jimin almost certain that he was implying for them to go to bed.

“’m not,” Jimin protested quietly, but found himself yawn a second later.

In response, Jungkook chuckled, brushing Jimin’s fringe out of his face. “We can have more fun tomorrow, hm?” he suggested.

“Okay,” Jimin mumbled, aware that he didn’t stand a chance in arguing with Jungkook regarding Jungkook leaned up to press a kiss to Jimin’s forehead before the smaller one lowered himself down on Jungkook’s body entirely to rest his cheek on his chest. The taller male refrained from caressing Jimin’s skin for a split moment, reaching for the blanket and veiling their bodies.

As soon as the warmth was engulfing their figures, Jimin’s eyes fluttered shut, Jungkook’s hand finding its way on Jimin’s back again while Jimin drew undefinable shapes on his chest, the tips of his fingers tracing over his skin.

“Jungkook-ah,” Jimin whispered, his eyes fluttering back open.

“Mhm-mh,” Jungkook hummed in acknowledgement, the sound vibrating in his chest, Jimin capable to feel it against his ear in their close proximity.

“You were honest, right?” Jimin wondered, his voice quiet and unsure as he titled his head up, glancing at Jungkook’s chin, but merely managing to define his silhouette in the darkness among them.

“With what?” Jungkook wanted to know.

“With the security system?” Jimin elucidated, noticing how Jungkook halted the movement of his hand. “There was nothing else, right?” Jimin murmured. “You didn’t lie, did you?”

“I didn’t lie,” Jungkook responded, his palm on Jimin’s back commencing to caress his velvety skin again.

“You promise?” Jimin spoke softly.

An ounce of hesitation.

“I promise,” Jungkook whispered, pressing a kiss to the top of Jimin’s head.

The pink haired one pulled his tray close to his upper body, hesitant steps adorning his walk as he passed several occupied tables, chattering and laughter audible in the room.

This was Jimin’s first time to be all alone during lunch as Hoseok was currently busy and Jin and Jungkook usually ate up in their offices – Jungkook having joined him only for a few times when barely anyone was around in the lunchroom.

It wasn’t that Jimin minded eating alone, it was just... _foreign_ that no one was by his side.

“Jimin-ssi, hey!” a male voice called out, earning Jimin's attention as there was no way to disregard the volume of his voice. “Why don't you sit with us?”

The smaller boy turned his head to the side, a soft smile curling up the corners of his lips as he realised who the voice belonged to.

“Ryan-ssi, hey, how are you?” Jimin responded, approaching the boy.

“I'm great,” Ryan answered, patting the seat on the bench beside him. “How have you been? I haven’t seen you in a few days,” he noted. “Have you adjusted to the job yet?”

At his prominent curiosity, Jimin chuckled, giving a faint nod as he sat down next to him, placing his tray on the table in the process. “Well, it's definitely a lot more emotionally challenging than I had imagined it to be,” he answered sincerely, not feeling as though he needed to hide anything in front of Ryan but could be honest with him.

Perhaps, it could be considered naïve or strange to trust Ryan as he barely knew anything about the boy – had vaguely assessed his personality by what Ryan conveyed and allowed Jimin to see, was aware of his name, his nationality and his profession – but Ryan appeared to be such a kind person, had been so very welcoming and sweet that Jimin's heart was certain that it could trust him.

“It's not really a something I had thoroughly thought about before signing the contract” Jimin elaborated, a soft laugh falling from his lips. “However, it's... well, it's what I wanted” he added softer, smiling at the thought. “I love dancing, so I'm happy with my decision. I think I need a little more time, though, to adjust to this life completely and adapt to every bit of it”

Ryan hummed, giving a nod. “I get that,” he replied. “It can be tough in the beginning for people like you”

At his choice of words, Jimin's eyebrows shot up, curiosity written on his face as he titled his head to the side. “People like me?” he echoed.

“Well, people with your kind of profession,” Ryan explained. “I'm an accountant; there's nothing really challenging for me,” he then claimed, meeting Jimin's gaze, amusement gleaming in his eyes.

They chuckled at his words, although Jimin didn't quite agree with his statement. Surely, only he was entitled to judge how he perceived his own job to be, yet Jimin was nearly certain that his job had its challenges as well.

Suddenly, Ryan's laughter faltered, his eyes going wide as he pointed at the other people sitting at the table – a fact that Jimin had completely missed upon the initial sight of Ryan – clearly not intentionally, but it had still occurred in the midst of his focus on Ryan.

“Oh, shit, sorry, I forgot to introduce my friends,” Ryan swore, dropping his chopsticks down on his tray. “This is Sejun-ah, he's an accountant as well and works alongside me for most of the day,” Ryan introduced the male who was sitting beside him.

The boy was somehow the remarkably splitting opposite image to Ryan – light blond hair instead of Ryan's raven hair, slightly more narrowed and smaller eyes and a little buffer than Ryan was, truly confounding the prejudiced narrative of the appearance of an accountant that Ryan himself had projected on Jimin by questioning whether it wasn't absolutely obvious that he was in fact an accountant.

“These are Jisu-ah and Sungmin Hyung, they are responsible for hair and make-up,” Ryan added, interrupting Jimin's thoughts as he pointed at a girl and a boy that were sitting across from them. “And this- this is Ara-ssi, she's part of the digital production – stuff that I couldn't tell you about, even if it were to save my life,” he expressed, grinning as he saw her roll her eyes at his words.

“Well, same goes for hair and make-up,” the girl that Jimin now had learned to be called Ara pointed out with a snicker. “Ryan-ssi has no clue about these things either. That's a fact,” she added, glancing at Jimin as she shared that information with him.

Well, to be fair, Jimin didn't either.

Opposed to Jimin's lack of knowledge, Taehyung was someone who knew a bit about make-up, likely having obtained that knowledge in the midst of his passion for fashion, a big fraction of his life revolving around people who worked in that area and industry.

A few times, he had-

“Thank you,” Ryan remarked, pushing up his glasses on his nose, clearly not fond of those comments, yet then amused by them all the same as there was humour glistening in his brown orbs.

“Well, he’s a good accountant though,” Sungmin noted as though he was out to save Ryan’s image.

“Nice to meet you,” Jimin uttered with a soft smile, lifting his delicate hand up as he waved at the new group of people. “I’m Jimin,” he introduced himself. “Assistant choreographer”

“Well, then welcome Jimin-ssi,” Sejun responded, his gentle voice catching Jimin off guard for a split second as he had estimated his voice to sound a lot rougher and deeper judging by his appearance – which, now that Jimin thought about it, might have been prejudiced by him.

“Thank you,” the pink haired boy smiled, appreciating their nice welcome and frankly very grateful for Ryan approaching Jimin and inviting him to his table.

The others picked up their chopsticks again, proceeding to eat their food before it turned cold. Mirroring them, Jimin reached for his own set of chopsticks, a soft smile still embellishing his pretty features as he started his own meal.

Several minutes of chattering had passed – Jimin having stayed silent for the majority of it while listening to their conversation and eating to himself, only having responded every once in a while whenever he had been addressed, yet then somehow feeling shy to properly invest himself into their conversations about topics that Jimin was unfamiliar with, a few of their inside jokes leaving Jimin confused while the rest of them were laughing.

Ryan was sweet to explain each of their jokes aside from already trying to include Jimin in their conversations in the first place. The smaller boy was grateful that he did, flashing him a soft smile.

“Well... would you look at that,” Ara suddenly commented, her voice carrying interest as her eyes were fixated on something – or someone – behind them.

“Jeon Jungkook himself,” Jisu hummed, biting down on the end of her chopstick as her eyes were glued to his figure.

Swiftly, Jimin followed their gazes, nearly snapping his neck in his hasty execution, his eyes falling on Jungkook and Jin who were currently talking to the woman serving food, presumably ordering their meals up to their offices.

At the sight of his boyfriend, Jimin’s heart naturally fluttered, a small smile curving his lips that he tried to hide.

“Fuck, he's hot,” Jisu noted breathy, propping her chin up on her hand as she stared longingly at him.

“I rarely see him down here,” Sejun stated, proceeding to eat his food with only little interest regarding Jungkook's location, opposed to the others who were all looking at Jungkook intently.

The black haired male had his back turned to them, still occupied by his conversation with the lady and Jin.

“I heard he always orders his food upstairs into his office because he’s so goddamn busy,” Sungmin shared the information he had received somewhere.

“Did you?” Sejun wondered.

“Mhm-mh,” Ara hummed, Jimin barely paying attention to their conversation as his focus was drawn over to Jungkook solely. “With Mr. Kim and that choreographer – What's his name again?” she added, frowning as she attempted to remember the name. “Jimin-ssi, you work with him, don't you?”

“H-Huh?” Jimin stuttered, caught off guard as they were addressing him in the midst of their conversation regarding Jungkook, a voice within Jimin sending out warning signals and urging him to be careful with his words as he could potentially tip over into dangerous territory.

“The choreographer,” Jisu clarified. “Aren't you his assistant?”

_right_.

“Right,” Ara stressed, giving a nod. “That's his name. Yeah, I saw them eat down here a few times,” she repeated her earlier statement.

Jimin gave a faint nod, having seen them eat down here as well – having joined them to eat down here a few times, in fact.

“Fuck. Look at that ass, though. I would-,” Sungmin declared.

“Sungmin-ssi!” Ryan emphasised his name, kicking his leg from below the table – at least that was what Jimin assumed by the _thud_ that was audible and the clear exclaim of an _Ouch_ by Sungmin.

“What?” he murmured, evidently not understanding why nor agreeing with deserving that kick. “I know a handsome man when I see one,” he justified, shrugging his shoulders.

“He’s your boss,” Ryan reminded him.

“So? A man can dream,” Sungmin commented. “Besides, I'm not saying anything _bad_”

“What do you think, newbie?” Jisu wanted to know.

For some reason, Jimin's brain lacked the ability to comprehend the fact that it was Jimin who was being addressed.

It was him.

He was the _newbie_.

As soon his brain caught on, his eyes went big, Jimin swallowing hard. “Huh?” he uttered softly, his voice barely above a whisper.

At her question, Ara snorted. “Is there anyone who would ever choose anything but hot?” she wanted to know, her interest in Jungkook apparent on her face as much as in her demeanor.

“Well, he might disagree,” Sungmin noted, huffing at Ara who simply rolled her eyes, but smiled all the same. “So, Jimin-ssi, what do you say?” he wanted to know.
“I-I-” Jimin stuttered, feeling his cheeks tinge a faint shade of rose as they were all staring at him – waiting for him to reveal his answer.

“Shit, be quiet,” Ara whispered, swatting Sungmin's arm despite the boy not having said a word. “He's walking past us,” she warned them.

Carefully, Jimin lifted his head.

As though they were connected by a string of fate – frankly, Jimin was confident that they were – Jimin's gaze met Jungkook's, a smile adorning the latter's handsome features as affection glistened in his brown orbs.

Inevitably, Jimin smiled shyly, managing to maintain eye contact with him for until Jungkook had left the lunchroom instead of averting his gaze the way he naturally tended to whenever Jungkook looked at him that intently.

“He was looking right at us,” Jisu claimed, gasping as her eyes went wide.

“He wasn't looking at us, idiot,” Ara whispered, nudging her arm. “He was looking at newbie,” she revealed, all of their gazes falling on Jimin who found himself blush at her words.

“Jimin-ssi?” Sungmin wondered, arching up his eyebrows.

“Uh-huh,” Ara affirmed, crossing her arms over her chest as she smiled.

“Oh my god, you're blushing,” Jisu noted, chuckling at the sight of Jimin's flushed cheeks.

“W-What?” Jimin stuttered, shaking his head.

“Do you have a crush on him?” Sungmin wanted to know, leaning closer.

“Who doesn't?” Ara noted.

“Maybe Jeon Jungkook found his new prey,” Jisu commented, wiggling with her eyebrows as though she was teasing Jimin, implying something that the latter didn't quite fathom.

“Jisu!” Ryan scolded her.

“What do you mean?” Jimin found himself wonder, not quite certain whether he truly wanted to know, but failing to refrain from allowing his curiosity to act upon it's urge.

“Oh, that's just a stupid rumour,” Sungmin waved off, shaking his head upon the gaze he shared with Ryan, Jimin noticing Ryan's expression that conveyed a sense of warning out of the corner of his eyes, indicating that he wanted them to stay silent.

“Guys, enough,” Ryan warned them verbally as well.

“Well, what is it?” Jimin wanted to know, somehow itching to know the answer, but then concerned that his heart might not enjoy the answer that much.

“Some employees started a rumour that everyone Jeon Jungkook makes intent eye contact with for more than five seconds has ended up in bed with him,” Ara explained. “They like to call them his prey”

Five seconds?
So... everyone, essentially?

Who had developed such a stupid rumour?

Why were they spreading it?

“Have any of you...?” the smaller boy asked, his voice soft and unsure as he trailed off, allowing the remainder of his sentence to hang in the air between them as he was convinced that they comprehended what he was referring to.

“Sadly, not,” Jisu denied.

“Nope, not yet,” Ara responded, shaking her head.

Not yet?

“Do you know... whether there is any truth to that?” Jimin asked, catching his bottom lip between his teeth.

No, there wasn't. It was just a stupid rumour. Why did a small fraction of Jimin even allow such a thought to arise?

“Guys, cut it. I think that's enough now,” Ryan scolded them, placing his flat hand on the table.

“I wanna know,” Jimin decided, his voice carrying slight firmness.

“No, we don't know,” Ara responded. “It's just a rumour, but it's a nice one. I like the fantasy of that”

“What is so nice about that?” Jimin wondered.

“What do you mean?” Ara asked, furrowing her brows at his question.

Why were they reducing him to that rumour? Why were they intrigued by the idea of him being nothing else but someone that puts his dick into anyone that looked at him?

Somehow, the way they were thinking about Jungkook and obviously talking about him upset Jimin but caused him to be angry all the same.

“Jeon Jungkook is-” one of the kindest and caring people I know, Jimin had intended to say, but hesitated at the reminder of him wanting to keep their close relationship a secret. “He's not like that. There is a lot more to him than just his looks and he's not hopping in bed with everyone that looks at him. He's so much more-”

“Sorry, we... we didn't mean it like that,” Ara interrupted him, her voice softer at Jimin’s verbal rant that displayed his anger.

“Yeah,” Jisu agreed, nodding vigorously. “We don't even know whether that rumour is true... I mean, I never saw him with anyone”

“It's just interesting,” Ara elaborated, shrugging her shoulders.

“Guys, why are we talking about Jeon Jungkook so fucking much?” Ryan tried to defuse the situation. “Your food is cold by now”

The pink haired male reached for his chopsticks again, not intending to start a scene, thus staying silent. However, instead of actually eating like the others had begun again, Jimin only moved his food from one side to the other, somehow having lost his appetite.

“I’ll leave first,” Jimin announced, wiping his napkin over his mouth. “Thank you for letting me join you for lunch. It was nice meeting you,” he added before he got up to his feet and picked up his tray. “I’ll see you around”

With that, he left.

However, not alone, as it seemed.

As soon as Jimin had deposited his tray on the little carrier for the dirty dishes, he exited the lunchroom, but was pulled back as a hand curled around his wrist and gave it a gentle tug.

“I'm sorry about them, Jimin-ssi,” Ryan apologised, pity depicted on his face as he turned Jimin to face him.

“No, don't be. It's not your fault,” Jimin responded, smiling weakly as he shook his head.

After all, it truly wasn't Ryan's fault, thus he clearly wasn't to blame, and he shouldn't apologise for their behaviour.

“They didn't mean it like that,” Ryan claimed. “They weren't... It's just a rumour. They like a little drama”

“I know,” Jimin uttered.

Of course, it was.

Yet, does that make it alright?

What if it was Jimin – what if it was Ryan? What if someone would spread stuff like that around about them? How would Ryan feel? Jimin was certain that he definitely wouldn't appreciate his employees talking about him like that behind his back.

“They don't really think of him like that,” Ryan expressed, shaking his head to underline his words. “They're just trying to be funny”

“I guess...,” Jimin mumbled.

“You aren't going to...,” Ryan trailed off, the remainder of his sentence hanging in the air between them.

“No,” Jimin answered, aware of what Ryan had meant to say without requiring for him to verbally convey it. “No, of course not, Ryan-ssi. I won't run off to Jungkook-ah and tell him”

To be honest, Jimin didn't want Jungkook to know about this – the way his employees were talking about him in a rather degrading way. Despite Jungkook upholding such a strong demeanor all the time and surely never admitting to it, Jimin just knew that it would still affect him to be made aware of this.

Jimin wanted to protect him.

“Thank you,” Ryan stated, a breath of relief falling from his lips.

“Thank you for not bringing... that up just now,” Jimin responded, genuinely thankful that Ryan had not mentioned a word about having seen Jimin and Jungkook make out in his office.
“It's not my place to tell anyone,” Ryan declared, a small smile curving his lips.

“I'm grateful that you haven't told anyone about it,” the smaller boy noted.

“It's nothing, really. Don't worry. Your secret is safe with me,” Ryan promised him, lifting his hand up into the air.

***

The smaller boy hummed a melody to himself, moving his head from side to side along to the rhythm as he reached out to grasp the door handle in order to push the door to the restrooms open.

Yet, someone beat him to it.

Suddenly, the door was pulled open from the inside, a figure rushing past him and nearly bumping into Jimin, if it wasn't for the latter who dashed to the side in order to make room for the person and prevent them of crashing into one another.

Puzzled, Jimin stole a glimpse at the person, staring into a familiar face. “Oh, Minji-ssi?” he noted, his tone carrying surprise.

Why had she been in the men’s bathroom?

However, the woman didn't respond at all. In fact, she didn't even notice Jimin's presence at all – or at least pretended not to. No, instead, she hurried past him, pushing the hem of her blouse back into her skirt.

“ Weird...,” Jimin mumbled, frowning as he entered the restroom, heading towards an open stall.

Suddenly, the only occupied stall opened up, revealing a figure that stepped out of it – the astonishing sight causing Jimin to freeze, the boy halting in his steps.

Mr. Jeon.

Maybe it was odd, but it had never crossed Jimin's mind that there would ever be a day where he would encounter Jungkook's father in one of the restrooms at the company – which, now that Jimin contemplated about it, had been a foolish action of his.

Upon the sight of the CEO, Jimin’s eyes went big as they met Mr. Jeon's gaze.

“Hello,” Jimin uttered softly, executing a deep bow.

“Hello, Jimin-ssi,” Mr. Jeon replied, averting his gaze with a clearing of his throat as he approached the sink to wash his hands.

For a moment longer, Jimin stared at him.

From one second to the other, something clicked within Jimin.

Minji. In the men's bathroom. Her slightly messy appearance. Mr. Jeon the only other being present.

Could it be...

No. No, that was nonsense.

Yet...
No! No, she’s had a thing with Jungkook before – the two had sexual history! She wouldn’t go for his father!

Right...

Right?

“Jimin-ssi?” Mr. Jeon addressed him, startling Jimin who had been drawn into his own thoughts way too deeply, omitting his surroundings and where exactly he was currently present.

“Y-Yes, Sir?” the smaller boy stuttered, fixing his posture.

“Is everything okay?” Mr. Jeon wanted to know, arching up his brows as he dried his hands with some paper.

No.

“Yes. Yes, Sir,” Jimin responded, vigorously nodding his head. “I… I will- Yeah, I will go and- Have a nice day, Sir,” he uttered, executing another deep bow before he spun around and rushed into one of the stalls, shutting the door close as soon as he was inside.

Inhaling a deep breath, Jimin pushed his body against the wall, his mind racing.

Was it really possible that…?

The smaller boy shook his head, deciding to banish that thought from his mind.

It was utter nonsense.

After remembering what he had initially entered the bathroom for, Jimin quickly used the toilet before he left the stall and washed his hands at the sink, somehow wanting to leave this place as fast as possible.

Once he exited the bathroom, he nearly bumped into someone else.

“I’m sorry,” Jimin apologised softly, stepping to the side as he passed the person and lifting his head up in order to meet the person’s gaze, but then somewhat distracted by another familiar face he caught sight of a few feet away from him.

A smile curved Jimin’s lips as he hurried over, curling his petite hand around the person’s wrist to maintain a close proximity and make them aware of Jimin’s presence.

“Namjoon Hyung,” Jimin beamed, said boy turning around to meet Jimin’s gaze. “How are you? What are you doing here?” he wanted to know, the sight of Namjoon surprising him as he hadn’t expected to see him here at all.

“Jimin-ah, hey,” the taller male greeted him with a grin, pulling him into a tight hug. “I’m good and I’m here to see Jin-ssi,” he responded as they detached from one another.

Of course.

That should have been obvious. The pink haired one wanted to slap himself for not catching onto that right away. To his defence, Jimin had been too distracted by the happiness that had bloomed within him at the sight of Namjoon for him to really ask himself what he was doing here.

“Isn’t he working?” Jimin pointed out.
After all, Jin and Jungkook were working nearly non-stop these days to finalise the last bits and pieces before Mr. Jeon would depart and leave for Singapore. With their heavily busy schedule, you never knew when these two had some free time.

“He is, but he has a break in a couple of minutes, so we decided to eat lunch together,” Namjoon explained, checking the time on his watch before he pointed back over his shoulder – precisely towards the location of Jin’s office.

“That sounds great,” Jimin smiled at him, the adorable thought of them going out to eat lunch together as a small date delighting Jimin. “Where are you two going?”

“Just a little restaurant around the block,” the older one replied. “Not too far away so we have more time to spend together,” he expressed.

At the mention of the word restaurant, Jimin was suddenly reminded of Jungkook’s suggestion a few days ago. On their way home, Jungkook had asked Jimin whether he would want for them to have dinner at a restaurant, yet in his desperation and longing for Jungkook to touch him, Jimin had declined.

However, now the thought excited Jimin somehow. Evidently, the Jungkook and him had shared a lot of meals together, but they had never gone out to eat at a place alone – just the two of them.

“That sounds wonderful, Hyung,” Jimin commented with a sweet smile.

“I thought so,” Namjoon agreed with a soft laugh, wrapping his arm around Jimin’s shoulder and pulling him along. “I haven’t seen you in a while, Min-ah. How are you holding up at the company? Jin-ssi told me that you’ve been doing a wonderful job,” he stated, the two of them heading towards Jin’s office.

How would Jin know- Jungkook. It had to be.

The pink haired boy smiled bashfully. “Well, I’m still adapting, but I like it here. I really do,” Jimin responded. “I’m doing… okay? I’m still learning, but Hyung is leading me well”

“I’m glad to hear that,” Namjoon noted.

“What about you, Hyung?” Jimin wanted to know.

“I’m doing wonderful,” the older one answered with a grin.

“Still working on music?”

Maybe, that question was redundant. After all, music ran through Namjoon’s veins – he was living for music. It was an utterly impossible thought to imagine Namjoon without music.

“Of course. Always,” Namjoon chuckled. “Hyung and I are actually working on some of our own stuff at the side”

At the mention of Yoongi, a shiver ran down Jimin’s back. The smaller boy hadn’t seen nor talked to Yoongi ever since he had essentially stormed up all on him and confronted him regarding his feelings for Hoseok and Taehyung.

As Jimin wanted to respect Yoongi’s decision of keeping his distance for as long as he needed to, he had only texted him a few more times, receiving merely one-worded replies. They weren’t much, but at least it was a step and a sign that Yoongi was still alive.
“Are you?” Jimin uttered, excited at the information of the two of them working on their own music.

“Yes, it’s a lot of fun, actually,” Namjoon affirmed, humming.

“How is… How is…,” the pink haired boy trailed off, allowing the remainder of the sentence to hang in the air between them as he failed to move on, almost as though it would physically hurt to have Yoongi’s name slip from his lips.

“He’s doing good,” Namjoon answered Jimin’s unspoken question, his smile faltering and not as prominent, but still vaguely depicted on his face. “I mean, he’s doing better,” he corrected. “After your visit, he started to clean up his house and he takes showers more frequently again,” Namjoon elaborated, laughing softly, trying to make light of the situation – perhaps in an attempt to calm Jimin as he had noticed his concern.

That was good, wasn’t it?

“Hyung still doesn’t really…”

Talk to us. Answer us. Call us.

“I know,” Namjoon muttered. “You see, I don’t want to force him to call you, you know? It’s just- “

“No, Hyung, I get it,” Jimin interrupted him, shaking his head. “Really. I don’t want to force him to contact us either. I want him to take his time. I just… yeah,” he added, his voice going quieter with each syllable of his.

The smaller boy just wanted him back – wanted his Yoongi back that he knew was still somewhere in there.

“We talked a few nights back and… well, he- “

“Namjoonie!” another male voice called out, a figure appearing beside them in the exact moment Namjoon and Jimin had turned their heads to the side simultaneously in order to scan the entrance area and search for the source of the voice.

At the sight of Jin, a smile curved Namjoon’s lips, his face lighting up.

“Babe,” he muttered, closing his arms around Jin to pull him into a hug.

“There you are,” Jin noted, pressing a kiss to Namjoon’s cheek before they detached themselves from one another, Namjoon’s hand remaining on the small of Jin’s back as the latter turned to face Jimin. “Jimin-ah, hey!” he exclaimed with a bright smile, reaching up to ruffle his hand through Jimin’s hair in an affectionate way his older friends always did.

“Hi, Hyung,” Jimin giggled, lifting his petite hand into the air to wave at him despite their close proximity. “How are you?”

“I’m great. Joon-ah and I are on our way to have some lunch,” he informed Jimin, clearly not aware that Namjoon had already enlightened Jimin about that fact.

“I know,” Jimin revealed with a smile. “You two go and have fun”

Jin grinned, giving a nod, “I would ask you to join, but…,” he chuckled, stealing a glimpse at Namjoon who smiled at him.

“I already ate my lunch, Hyung, don’t worry,” Jimin assured him, shaking his head.
Despite that being true, Jimin would have declined his offer of joining them either way as he didn’t want to disrupt their sweet time they were about to spend together – Surely struggling with finding the time to spend much time together these days as well for Jin was working alongside Jungkook.

“Hey, is Jungkook-ah in his office right now?” Jimin found himself wonder.

“He is,” the oldest one affirmed, giving a nod.

“Do you think he would mind, if I stop by for a moment to say hello?” Jimin wanted to know.

After all, he was already up here, he might as well make an excuse to see Jungkook – even if it was only for a minute. The smaller boy couldn’t help himself, couldn’t refrain from allowing his heart to act upon its longing.

“Min-ah, are you seriously asking, if Jeon Jungkook would mind seeing you?” Jin doubted, furrowing his brows in a playful manner as he pushed his hands into his hips, smiling. “The boy can’t stop talking about you throughout the whole day and you- “

“Babe, calm down,” Namjoon whispered into Jin’s ear, Jimin capable to register his words as they were audible to his ears in their close proximity.

“You’re right,” Jin stressed, clearing his throat. “Don’t tell Jungkook-ah that I said that,” he requested quietly, checking his surroundings as though he was trying to make sure that Jungkook hadn’t appeared by their side.

The pink haired one giggled, giving a nod.

“Let’s just leave, Jin-ssi,” Namjoon suggested, giving Jin’s waist a gentle squeeze as he pulled him along – As a result, Jimin found himself wonder whether he was trying to prevent Jin from spilling anything else.

“Yes, let’s go,” Jin agreed, snickering as he scratched over the back of his neck.

“Go and have fun,” Jimin insisted, a smile adorning his pretty features.

The two gave a nod. “You, too,” they responded in unison.

“I’ll see you later,” Jimin stated, waving at them as they walked past him.

“Later,” Jin waved back, grinning widely as he proceeded to stare at Jimin – nearly walking into a wall in the process, having Jimin almost yell at him to be careful, but fortunately, Namjoon was there to look out for him and protect him by pulling him closer to his side.

The oldest one stumbled into him, Namjoon rolling his eyes, but the smile on his face never vanished. “Hey, Min-ah, let’s try and organise another hang somewhen over the next days, hm?” Namjoon suggested before they stepped into the elevator.

“Sure, Hyung,” Jimin agreed, giving a determined nod as his heart skipped a beat in excitement – the thought of all of them hanging out again spreading warmth through his chest.

“Bye!” Jin shouted before the elevator doors shut.

“Bye,” Jimin giggled, shaking his head at his adorable Hyungs as he skipped over to Jungkook’s office.

Somehow, his friends were always able to raise Jimin’s mood by a good amount, managing to make him feel all bubbly and happy by spending time with them – no matter how short of a duration it was.

Carefully, Jimin lifted his petite fist up as soon as he had arrived in front of Jungkook’s office and knocked on the door several times, then waiting for Jungkook to grant him entrance.

“Come on in,” Jungkook called out, the smaller one obliging and gently pushing the door open, peeking inside the room, but not yet entering.

“Hey, Kook-ah,” Jimin uttered softly.

At the sound of his voice, Jungkook’s head snapped up, the corners of his lips curling up into a smile. “Little one”

“Are you busy?” Jimin wondered, pulling up his brows as he saw the stack of papers on Jungkook’s desk, the latter sitting at it the way Jimin had expected, a pen in his right hand.

“You can come in, baby,” the younger male permitted.

Smiling, Jimin complied, stepping inside and pulling the door shut on his way in. “I was just up here anyway and I wanted to stop by for a moment,” Jimin reasoned as he closed the distance between them, pulling the sleeves of his shirt over his petite hands in the midst of it, the boy suddenly feeling shy for coming here for no reason at all – just for the sake of being close to Jungkook as his heart was desiring.

“I’m glad to see you,” Jungkook commented, dropping the pen on his desk as he leaned back in his seat, spreading his legs out.

“Are you?” Jimin uttered, his eyes big as he halted in front of the desk, playing with the hem of his shirt.

“I am,” Jungkook confirmed, studying Jimin’s features.

“Why?” the pink haired one asked, tilting his head to the side.

Jungkook’s smile grew. “I’m always happy to see you, Jimin-ah.”

“I’m always happy to see you, too,” Jimin returned, walking around the table to close the last fraction of distance between them, stilling in front of Jungkook, the other one spinning around in his chair to face Jimin. ‘May I stay for a little? I won’t disturb you,’ he asked softly, his voice barely above a whisper.

“Of course, you can.”

Gently, Jimin lowered himself down on the chair, straddling Jungkook’s lap without a word of warning. The black haired boy was swift to close his arms around Jimin’s waist in order to pull him closer and secure him in his grasp before he turned back to the desk and picked up a sheet of paper to proceed working.

“Namjoon Hyung is here,” Jimin informed him conversationally, wrapping his arms around Jungkook’s neck before he rested his head on his shoulder, his nose close to Jungkook’s nape, his comforting scent filling Jimin’s nostrils.

“Is he?” Jungkook questioned, his hand that was still curled around Jimin’s back moving below the fabric of his shirt in order to caress his soft skin.
“Mhm-nh,” Jimin hummed in affirmation, but then titled his head to the side. “Well, he was,” he corrected, reminding himself that Jin and him had already left to eat lunch. “He’s taking Jin Hyung out to lunch.”

“I see,” the taller boy commented with a hum.

“What are you up to?” Jimin wanted to know, looking back at the thousands of papers that were stacked on Jungkook’s table – okay, maybe, Jimin was overexaggerating a little there, a tiny bit.

Yet, the amount of papers Jungkook had to work through caused Jimin’s eyes to go wide all the same, his poor heart clenching at the thought of Jungkook having to complete these for the remainder of the day.

“I just got done with the preparations for my meeting,” Jungkook answered.

“Is it now?” Jimin asked.

The younger male checked the time on his watch around his wrists, pursing his lips in thought before he shook his head. “No, I’ve got- approximately thirty more minutes,” he responded then.

Jimin gave a small nod. “Oh, okay,” he muttered.

Inquiringly, Jungkook studied Jimin’s features, the image of a faint frown depicted on his face as he gave Jimin’s hip another gentle squeeze. “Is everything okay, little one?” he wanted to know.

Surprised by the question, Jimin gave a nod. “Yes,” he replied. “Why?”

Why wouldn’t it?

“Is there a specific reason you came to visit me?” Jungkook wondered.

“No,” Jimin answered, shaking his head, but then found himself frown at his own words. “Well, yes, I wanted to see you,” he rectified as it was a valid – and frankly true – reason for why Jimin had appeared here. “But now that I’m here I…” he trailed off, his digits tracing over the fabric of Jungkook’s button-up shirt. “Jungkook-ah, can I ask you something?” the pink haired one murmured.

“Of course, you can, angel.”

“You asked me out to dinner a couple of days ago, remember?” Jimin wanted to know, his voice small. “I... I declined because...,” he went silent, his cheeks flushing a shade of rose as he replayed the events that had attributable to his declination that night in his mind. Due to Jimin’s profound neediness a few days ago – or accurately always, when it came to Jungkook – he had refused to go anywhere, but home with Jungkook. “I wanted to go home with you,” he voiced his thoughts, hoping that it would assist Jungkook to remember the suggestion he had initially made.

“I do remember,” Jungkook replied, amusement gleaming in his eyes as a soft chuckle fell from his lips at the way Jimin blushed in timidity as they both recalled that night.

Inhaling a deep breath, Jimin met Jungkook’s gorgeous brown eyes again, assembling all the courage he could muster. “Could we... could we go today?” he found himself ask.

“You want me to take you out to dinner?” Jungkook clarified, raising up his brows in interest.

“I can take you out to dinner, too,” Jimin expressed, smiling shyly. “Only if you’re not too busy today” he added, though.

After all, Jungkook was tremendously busy, nevertheless – just look at all of these papers on his desk! Thus, he might not have the time to go out with Jimin tonight.

“I would love to,” Jungkook responded.

“Really?” Jimin questioned, his eyes big as a delighted smile curved his lips.

“Yes,” Jungkook affirmed, snickering at Jimin’s endearing expression.

“Then, that’s… a date then?” Jimin dared to ask.

The two of them had not been on many dates per say. Evidently, they spend a lot of time together, but their journey to becoming a couple was potentially a little different than the one of a more traditional way. They had not been on many dates prior to becoming an item, truthfully shared a very unique way of coming together.

“It is,” the younger male affirmed.

Somehow, those words resulted in Jimin’s grin to grow even wider, his eyes turning into small crescents. The sight was more than lovable, Jungkook finding himself smile at how absolutely beautiful Jimin was.

“Why are you smiling so much, angel?” Jungkook asked.

“I don’t know,” Jimin responded, shrugging his shoulders as he giggled. “I’m just… I don’t know – happy,” he expressed.

The knowledge of going on another date with Jungkook made Jimin feel all giddy inside – which was… interesting? After all, they saw each other every day, didn’t they?

Yet, it was exciting to go somewhere and not be stuck inside their apartment for once as they usually tended to do after their long days at work. By all means, Jimin adored to just lie next to Jungkook by the end of the night and do nothing at all as simply being with him was… was everything he needed. But the thought of going on a date to spend some time as just the two of them – with one another – once in a while was… was nice.

“You’re beautiful,” Jungkook commented, brushing Jimin’s fringe out of his face, his touch gentle as his fingertips traced over Jimin’s skin.

“Stop,” Jimin mumbled, bashful at the sudden compliment.

“But you are,” Jungkook stressed, inclining his face closer to Jimin’s.

“Kook-ah,” the smaller boy whined, shaking his head before he leaned in and hid his face in the curve of Jungkook’s neck in an attempt to veil his flushed cheeks that displayed his coyness.

At his timidity, Jungkook laughed softly, the sound of his chuckle vibrating in his chest as it warmed Jimin’s heart all the same.

“You are, Jimin-ah,” Jungkook emphasised, his fingers curling around Jimin’s chin to guide his face back up as though he was adamant to have Jimin apprehend that he was being entirely sincere.

“You’re the most beautiful person to walk this earth. If I were to- “

With the intention to silence Jungkook – and prevent him from showering Jimin’s bashful being with any more compliments – Jimin leaned in to crash his lips on Jungkook’s.

The younger male didn’t hesitate to kiss back, his grasp around Jimin tightening as he moved his lips against Jimin’s, the two of them parting their lips to allow their tongues to touch.

“Kook-ah,” Jimin whimpered against him, his heart fluttering at their connection.

From one moment to the other, the air shifted, their kiss turning hungrier as the pit of Jimin’s stomach stirred in desire.

Unconsciously, Jimin found himself roll his hips into Jungkook’s in a careful and tender way, the movement ruled by his need to be closer to the black haired one. As a result, Jungkook groaned, withdrawing, but remaining close enough to Jimin for their lips to brush over one another.

“We shouldn’t,” Jungkook warned softly, nudging his nose against Jimin’s cheek.

“Jin Hyung isn’t here,” Jimin repeated his earlier statement.

As his words, Jungkook arched up his brows, puzzled as to why Jimin was restating that fact – especially now.

“You said that before, little one,” Jungkook reminded him as though Jimin had genuinely forgotten that he had mentioned that information previously. “Why do you say that- “

The smaller boy blinked, leaning in to press his lips to Jungkook’s throat.

“Oh,” Jungkook breathed. “Oh, you...” he trailed off, catching on to what Jimin had intended to imply with the reverberation of that statement. “I should have known it meant trouble to let you in, hm?” Jungkook whispered into Jimin’s ear before he nibbled on his lobe.

“Why?” Jimin wondered, his eyes big in innocence.

“How am I supposed to resist you?” the black haired one wanted to know, titling his head to the side as his gaze flickered back forth between Jimin’s alluring eyes, his stare intent as though he was seeking for answers in them.

“Don’t,” Jimin whispered, placing open-mouthed kisses on Jungkook’s throat before he poked his cute tongue out to lick over his skin.

“Shit,” Jungkook cussed as he gathered up all the self-control he could muster. “Jimin-ah, angel,” he emphasised the pet name, his grasp around Jimin’s hips tightening.

“Yes?” Jimin murmured softly.

“Little one, I have a meeting very soon and I have to get some stuff done before that,” Jungkook reminded him. “I cannot afford to be distract- “

“Please,” the smaller one begged, not entirely aware of what exactly he was pleading for but finding himself do it all the same.

“You want to kill me, huh?” Jungkook groaned in frustration, sinking back into his seat.

“I just want you,” Jimin uttered, the tips of his fingers tracing over Jungkook’s strong arms as he caught his bottom lip between his teeth.

“You just can’t get enough, can you?” the younger male stated.
“Never,” Jimin responded. “Want… want you in me,” he added, whispering those words right into Jungkook’s ear.

“Little one,” Jungkook pressed, his tone warning, but simultaneously conveying the effect Jimin had on him as there was clear frustration audible in his voice.

The taller man was struggling to resist – aware that he had to leave in a couple of minutes to be on time for his crucial meeting, but then finding indifference to bloom within him in regard to the significance of the conference, if he was allowed to have all this – Jimin. Solely.

“Now,” Jimin muttered. “Please.”

“Do you really want that? Wanna get all hot and bothered; needy for me to fuck you just to beg for it on your knees?” Jungkook wanted to know, his tone husky and attractive.

“Y-Yes, please,” the smaller boy spoke softly.

“Yes?” Jungkook echoed. “Want me to bend you over my desk and fuck you while gagging you so you keep quiet for me?” he proceeded to whisper into Jimin’s ear, his hot breath tickling on Jimin’s skin, a shiver running down Jimin’s back.

“O-Oh, please,” the other one breathed, nodding vigorously as he rolled his hips forward.

However, Jungkook was swift to halt his movement, his grasp tightening as a nonverbal demand for Jimin to refrain from squirming around, causing the latter to oblige and stay put.

“Mhm, no, kitten,” Jungkook denied.

At his response, Jimin’s eyes went wide, an embarrassing whine slipping from his lips. “W-Why?”

Having obtained the control over the situation again, Jungkook smirked at how desperate Jimin had grown by simply teasing the boy for a little through striking his imagination of what Jungkook would do to him, if he were to play with him, the smaller one so very affected by Jungkook that it was intriguing.

Amusement gleamed in Jungkook’s eyes as he studied Jimin’s features, his cheeks flushing a shade of rose at the intent stare Jungkook was giving him.

Their dynamics had shifted too quickly for Jimin to comprehend the entirety of the situation, finding himself slip into his submissive state despite being the one who had taken the initiative by kissing and urging Jungkook to touch him.

Well, here he was now. Again. Begging.

“Two can play this game, kitten,” Jungkook declared lowly.

“But-,” Jimin tried to protest, but found himself lacking the ability to form a coherent sentence. “Don’t be mean,” he whined, yet swiftly corrected himself by adding a soft, “Please”

“Careful,” Jungkook warned him, delivering a gentle smack to Jimin’s thigh, the latter wincing at the act, but gasping all the same. “You know that you don’t actually want me to start touching you right now just to have to stop, when I have to leave,” he prompted.

“I want… I…,” Jimin stuttered, not capable to identify what exactly he wanted, but knowing that it was Jungkook.
“Later, little one,” Jungkook declared, pressing a kiss to Jimin’s temple before he inclined his mouth closer to Jimin’s ear, his lips brushing over the soft flesh of Jimin’s lobe. “If you’re going to be a good boy now, I’ll fuck you all you want later”

The pink haired one swallowed hard, his heart rate picking up as he attempted to draw his thighs together but failed as he was still very much straddling Jungkook’s lap.

“So, don’t make a fuss now and be good, okay?” Jungkook demanded; his voice not stern or mean, still carrying a hint of softness, but conveying that Jimin should oblige all the same.

“Okay,” Jimin whispered, giving a faint nod as he pouted, but complied nevertheless and refrained from touching Jungkook anymore.

At his endearing expression, Jungkook smiled, a soft laugh falling from his lips as he leaned in to press a kiss to Jimin’s forehead. “Fuck, you’re cute,” he commented, his palms rubbing over Jimin’s thighs and caressing them as he met the pink haired one’s gaze. “I’ll let you sit on my face later,” he promised with a smirk.

“Kook-ah, that’s unfair,” Jimin whined, shoving at Jungkook’s shoulder.

Swiftly, the other one reached out to curl his hand around Jimin’s wrist to prevent him from swatting Jungkook, snickering at Jimin’s sulky appearance.

“What is?” Jungkook wanted to know, in spite of being aware of what an effect he had on Jimin.

“If you say that now, I… I won’t be able to…,” he huffed, but trailed off as he found himself to be too timid to say those words out loud and admit to the influence Jungkook had on him.

“You have something to look forward to, little one,” Jungkook noted with a smirk. “Trust me,” he added lower.

Oh, Jimin did.

Chapter End Notes

I hope you enjoyed the chapter!

See you in the next one <3

Love you <3
“Wow,” Jimin breathed in awe, his heart rate picking up as he allowed his gaze to inspect the room with big eyes.

The black haired boy gave his hand a tender squeeze before it slipped from his grasp, Jungkook placing his palm on the small of Jimin’s back instead and leading him along the way while Jimin was occupied with the mesmerising sight around him.

The room was illuminated by fairy lights hanging from the ceiling, the entire wall crafted from glass which enabled them to look at the skyline of Seoul, the huge window depicted in an area of the city that permitted them to even see a fraction of Han River.

“It looks fancy and…,” expensive, Jimin thought, still all innocent and starry-eyed at the sight of the inside of an upper-class restaurant as they came to a halt in front of one of the tables, Jungkook swift to pull the chair back for Jimin and assist him in taking a seat. “Thank you,” Jimin expressed his gratitude softly once he sat down.

“Only the best for you, angel,” Jungkook commented with a grin.

“It’s really beautiful up here,” Jimin whispered, stealing a glimpse outside of the window – a sight that was similar to the one Jimin was able to see, when he looked through one of the windows at Jungkook’s apartment or his office.

Truly magnificent.

“It is,” Jungkook agreed as he sat down across from Jimin.

“Why is no one else here, though?” Jimin wondered, scanning the area of the restaurant that was entirely empty aside from them – a fact that Jimin appeared to have disregarded upon their arrival. “Isn’t that a bad sign?”
Surely, if there was a prominent absence of people, their lack of presence might be attributable to the food not tasting particularly good in this place, right?

“I reserved this area just for us,” Jungkook revealed conversationally, not at all impressed by that fact the way Jimin was, the latter’s eyes going even wider as he leaned closer.

“Kook-ah, are you craz-,” the smaller boy tried to scold.

“I’m crazy in love with you, yes,” Jungkook finished his sentence, if not even remotely close to what Jimin had intended to say.

However, his words caused Jimin’s heart to flutter all the same, a bashful smile curving his lips as he lowered his head down.

“Thank you for doing that, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin uttered, his tone gentle. “You’re very sweet”

“I try,” Jungkook retorted with a smug smirk, evoking a giggle in Jimin who shook his head at him.

Suddenly, the sound of footsteps echoed in the silence of the room, amplified on the marble floor as the noise enhanced in volume with each step. The two boys turned their heads towards the source of the patter, realising that the culprit of the sound was a man that appeared to be a waiter, carrying two menus in his hands as he closed the distance between them.

As soon as he had arrived in front of them, he smiled at Jungkook. “Welcome, Mr. Jeon,” the man greeted, exhibiting a deep bow in regard to Jungkook.

“Hello, Sang,” Jungkook responded, slightly returning the bow in his seat, Jimin quick to mirror him and execute an even deeper bow as a polite mannerism in spite of the stranger not even having recognised Jimin’s presence.

“What a pleasure to see you here,” the man – who Jimin now had discovered of being named Sang – noted as he handed Jungkook two menus over. “Can I get you any refreshments or beverages already?”

“Just water for me,” Jungkook answered before he turned to glance at Jimin. “Little one, do you want any champagne? Wine?”

At the public display of affection embodied in the usage of a pet name, Jimin found his cheeks tinge a shade of rose, the boy lowering his head down as his heart quivered in fondness.

“We have fabulous cocktails,” Sang suggested, giving a nod.

“Oh,” Jimin muttered, shaking his head. “No alcohol for me, please. I think I’m good with some sparkling water,” he decided, reminding himself of his poor conformity with alcohol. After all, there were not just a few instances his mind was reminiscing about in that moment, a feeling of remorse residing in Jimin’s heart.

“No fun, huh?” Sang joked at Jimin’s decline of having any alcoholic beverages.

The black haired boy glared at him at that remark, Sang’s expression immediately turning to one of regret. Politely, Sang executed a deep bow as he uttered out an apology simultaneously.

“Anything else I can get you already?” Sang wanted to know, trying to defuse the situation by altering the topic.
“No, we’re good,” Jungkook decided, shaking his head before he waved him off.

“I’ll be right back to receive your orders,” the other man stated before he turned around and went his way, leaving Jimin and Jungkook back to themselves.

The shorter male observed him leave before he stole a glimpse at Jungkook again, curiosity apparent on his face. “Do you know him?” Jimin wondered. “Do you come here often?”

Seemingly, Jungkook was on familiar terms with Sang, presumably having met him on various occasions prior to tonight.

“My father did some business with him,” Jungkook revealed as he handed Jimin a menu. “You could say he’s a friend of our family,” he added.

“I see,” Jimin hummed and gave a nod as he acknowledged that statement, then accepting the menu from Jungkook before he opened it.

As soon as Jimin read over the first letters on the very first page, he furrowed his brows.

_Was there an issue with his eyesight?_

The smaller boy blinked a few times before he read over the words again. However, he still failed to decipher the letters on the page, causing him to realise that they were in fact written in a foreign language.

“It’s not in Korean,” Jimin voiced his comprehension.

At his words, Jungkook pulled up his brows. “Oh, shit, right,” he apprehended, lowering his own menu down on the table as he gave a nod as though he had just remembered that fact. “It’s Chinese,” Jungkook revealed.

“Oh,” Jimin uttered, his eyes big as he stole a glimpse at the letters again, now aware of what language they belonged to, yet obviously still failing to decipher any of it.

“I’m sorry,” the taller male apologised. “I should have warned you. I chose this restaurant because the food is exceptionally good, and the area is nice,” he reasoned. “Besides, it’s rather secluded and I know the people around here, so I don’t need to worry,” he added, Jimin meeting his gaze again.

_Worry about what?_

“It’s fine, Kook-ah, I don’t mind that,” Jimin assured him, a soft smile embellishing his angelic features as he shook his head.

“I can translate for you, baby,” Jungkook suggested, flashing Jimin a grin.

“I will just take whatever- _Wait. You speak Chinese?”_ Jimin wondered, arching up his brows in visible surprise.

_How had he never mentioned a word about that?_

“Not much, but enough to hold a proper conversation and understand some basics,” Jungkook responded with a chuckle, Jimin’s adorable shocked expression simply too endearing.

“Wow,” the pink haired boy uttered in awe. “I didn’t know that”

“Well, there was never really any situation to bring that up,” Jungkook justified, which was a valid point, Jimin figured.

“Fair enough,” Jimin noted, giving a nod. “I’ll just go with whatever you take.”

Jungkook hummed, shutting the menu before he set it down on the table. “Have you ever had Chinese food? You know, that stuff that is popular for their cuisine?” the younger male wanted to know, inclining his head to the side as he stared at Jimin attentively.

In response, Jimin shook his head. “I don’t think I have,” he answered sincerely.

As Jimin wasn’t confident in what kind of food was known to be popular or special in the Chinese cuisine, he wasn’t quite certain whether he had ever tasted anything particularly being a part of that. Thus, he was unable to positively assert that he had.

“I wouldn’t be surprised, if it’s similar to ours, though, don’t you think?” Jimin noted, not doubting that it was probable for the cuisines to might be related.

“Ah, y-,” Jungkook indicated to reply, but went silent as the two of them noticed the reappearance of Sang, the man approaching their table with their drinks.

“Have you decided on what to order yet, Mr. Jeon?”

“We have indeed,” the younger male responded. “We would like a plate of Kung Pao Chicken, some Sweet and Sour Pork and- Ah, yes, a plate of Chow Mein, some Spring Rolls and Dumplings,” he listed, Jimin’s eyes going wider with each item, yet his stomach twisted in excitement all the same. “Little one, do you prefer any particular filling?”

“I don’t mind any,” Jimin retorted, slightly puzzled by the amount of food Jungkook was ordering, but not complaining.

“Then get us some vegetables and chicken fillings, Sang,” Jungkook decided, handing Sang the menus.

“Anything else?” Sang wanted to know once he had received the menus, shutting his little notebook.

“That’s everything,” Jungkook answered.

The waiter exhibited a deep bow before he turned around and left.

For a short moment, Jimin just looked after Sang, but then he returned his entire attention back on Jungkook, meeting the other one’s gaze as the black haired boy had already been staring at Jimin with a fond expression.

“What else are you hiding?” Jimin wanted to know, propping his chin up on his fist as he squinted his eyes, his face adorned by a soft smile.

All this time, Jungkook’s language skills had been hidden from Jimin. As a result, Jimin couldn’t help but wonder what other talents there were that Jungkook had refrained from mentioning.

Jungkook blinked. “What?”

“Any other talents I don’t know about?” Jimin elucidated, chuckling.

“Oh,” Jungkook muttered, a soft laugh falling from his lips as he leaned back in his seat. Comprehending, Jungkook titled his head to the side. “You know about everything else, I guess,” he then claimed. “There is nothing I can think of,” he elaborated, shaking his head. “What about you?
Any talents you’ve been hiding from me?”

To be honest, Jimin wasn’t very talented to begin with, he believed. Well, the smaller boy was confident enough to say that he did possess the ability to dance, yet aside from that, Jimin was rather clumsy in executing anything else, thus tending to consider himself to be untalented in most fields apart from anything art related.

“No, I don’t really have many talents,” Jimin asserted, shrugging his shoulders.

“You do,” Jungkook protested, furrowing his brows as he rested his arms on the table, leaning closer in the process.

“Not any you don’t know of,” Jimin clarified sincerely, but then his face lit up as he recalled a talent of his – at least one that he believed to be deserving of being titled a talent. “I can do the splits,” he noted with a proud smile.

“You- The splits?” Jungkook echoed, pulling up his brows in astonishment – Jimin not certain whether it was attributable to Jimin being capable to do the splits or to Jimin stating that he was capable to do the splits as a worthy mention of one of his talents. “You can do that?” he wondered, something flashing in his brown orbs.

“I’m pretty flexible,” Jimin uttered.

At his words, a smug smirk appeared on Jungkook’s handsome face, a chuckle falling from his lips as he gave a nod. “Well, I’m more than aware of that,” he noted, wetting his lips.

“Sssh,” Jimin shushed him, feeling his cheeks heat up at Jungkook’s naughty reference.

The taller man snickered at Jimin’s cute reaction, the blush on his cheeks that displayed his timidity simply too endearing for Jungkook to handle. However, as Jungkook lowered his head down, he noticed the absence of an item on his body. From one moment to the other, his smile faltered as he lifted his hand up.

“What’s wrong?” Jimin wanted to know, concern audible in his voice as he followed Jungkook’s movement with intent and worried eyes.

“I seem to have lost my watch,” Jungkook responded.

“Oh no, let's search for it,” Jimin suggested, indicating to stand up, but halting his movement upon the sight of Jungkook raising his hand up into the air.

“It might be back in the car,” Jungkook remarked. “Or I might have lost it earlier on the way here and haven't noticed,” he added, shrugging his shoulders.

“I'm sorry,” Jimin apologised in spite of him having absolutely no fault in the loss of Jungkook’s watch, yet he still felt sorry for Jungkook having lost one of his beloved belongings. “Did it mean a lot to you?”

“No, it didn't have any emotional value, it was just a watch,” Jungkook retorted, shaking his head as he reached for his glass to take a sip from his water. “I'll just buy another one,” he commented once he had set the glass back down on the table, not sounding the slightest bit affected by the loss of the watch.

It must have been expensive, Jimin thought.

Then again, money had never been an issue for Jungkook, hence losing a watch that might cost a fortune in Jimin’s eyes wasn’t potentially as valuable to Jungkook.

***

Soon, their food was served, Jimin’s eyes wide at the number of dishes that were depicted on the table, the various plates covering nearly the entire space. At the sight of the food, Jimin discovered his own stomach to grumble, reminding him that the last meal he had was hours ago.

“Go ahead, little one,” Jungkook permitted, chuckling at how Jimin was just staring at the food with big eyes, appearing to wait for Jungkook to allow him to eat.

Without an ounce of hesitance, Jimin picked up his set of chopsticks and immediately went for a piece of pork, swift to push it past his lips. At the heavenly taste, his eyes fluttered shut, Jungkook snickering as he reached for his own chopsticks.

“Hand me your plate, please,” the black haired boy requested, Jimin slightly puzzled by those words, but still complying and handing Jungkook his plate.

Diligently, Jungkook served him a little of everything, appearing to be keen on Jimin trying all of it while the smaller one had already picked up another piece of pork to devour.

“Thank you,” Jimin smiled as Jungkook set the now covered plate down in front of him before he went to fill his own plate.

“Is it good?” Jungkook wondered, grinning as Jimin vigorously nodded his head, his eyes big as he chewed on another bite. “That’s good, angel”

A few minutes passed, the two of them relishing their food alongside one another, peaceful silence having settled between them with a few comments here and there. Yet, they didn’t need to talk much to appreciate each other’s company, adoring the moment they were able to spend together as it was.

“I’ve never done this,” Jimin admitted, setting his chopsticks down on the table next to his plate with the intention of simply taking a moment to just appreciate all of this.

“Done what?” Jungkook wanted to know, arching up his brows in curiosity as he pushed another piece of dumpling into his mouth, chewing on it as he awaited Jimin’s response attentively.

“Go out to eat at a fancy restaurant,” Jimin elucidated, smiling softly as he observed Jungkook, grateful for the taller boy to have taken Jimin here to enable them to experience all of this together.

It might not be the most adventurous or extraordinary situation to anyone else, but it somehow meant a lot to Jimin.

“You haven’t?” the younger male questioned, frowning at Jimin’s revelation.

“No, we…,” Jimin trailed off, suddenly reminded of his scarring past.

Certainly, Jimin’s father had never taken him to a restaurant – In fact, had never went to eat with him anywhere else but their own home, Jimin never really having learned whether it had been attributable to their poor financial situation or whether he just plainly never had wanted to go out with Jimin.

Years later, Jimin had never owed enough money to afford to eat at a fancy restaurant for his time living in the orphanage, either. Once he had met Taehyung and the two of them had attended arts school together, they had never really managed to go and eat at any fancy restaurants because of their busy schedules, neither, yet frankly, they had never possessed much money in their pockets anyways to enable such an action.

“Fuck, I’m sorry, I-,” Jungkook apologised swiftly, dropping his chopsticks on his plate before he reached over to place his bigger hand on Jimin’s tinier one that was resting on an empty spot on the table.

“No, don’t be,” Jimin assured with a soft smile, shaking his head. “You couldn’t have known that,” he pointed out, stating a valid note there. However, somehow, Jimin wondered whether Jungkook was apologising for reminding Jimin of his sad past rather than not considering that he had not experienced the same kind of upbringing Jungkook had.

“No, don’t be,” Jimin assured with a soft smile, shaking his head. “You couldn’t have known that,” he pointed out, stating a valid note there. However, somehow, Jimin wondered whether Jungkook was apologising for reminding Jimin of his sad past rather than not considering that he had not experienced the same kind of upbringing Jungkook had.

“Do you like it?” Jungkook wanted to know as he gave Jimin’s hand a tender squeeze, trying to shift Jimin’s attention away from his past, the latter appreciating his quick response to the situation.

“It’s nice,” Jimin answered, his voice gentle as he gave a nod. “It’s-… There are a lot of firsts. With you, I mean,” he noted, smiling at Jungkook.

“There are, yeah,” Jungkook agreed, giving a nod as a soft smile curved his lips.

“I like that,” the pink haired one declared.

“I like that, too”

For a moment, they just stared into each other’s eyes, a delicate smile embellishing either of their faces. The smaller boy was the first to avert his gaze, naturally tending to feel nervous the longer he stared into Jungkook’s beautiful brown orbs, his intent stare inevitably affecting Jimin in a heart-rending way.

Wasn’t that special? Wasn’t that… fascinating?

Jungkook somehow managed to touch Jimin’s heart by simply staring into his eyes.

How was he doing that?

How had he achieved to have such an effect on Jimin?

“This probably isn’t anything special for you, though, because you do this often, hm?” Jimin asked, pulling up his brows as he propped his chin up on his petite fist, lifting his gaze again in order to glance at the other male sitting across from him.

“Every moment with you is special, Jimin-ah,” Jungkook responded, inevitably causing Jimin’s heart to flutter – yet again.

The smaller boy smiled timidly, dipping his head down as he picked up his chopsticks again with the intention of proceeding to eat, but then changing his mind and setting the utensils back down on the table beside his plate.

“I made a decision,” Jimin revealed softly.
Jungkook blinked.

“Regarding your suggestion,” Jimin clarified.

“My…” Jungkook trailed off, furrowing his brows as he tilted his head to the side, appearing to lack the memory to fathom what Jimin was referring to.

“About the trip!” Jimin exclaimed, chuckling.

“The trip, yes,” Jungkook remembered with a grin, giving a nod as he dropped his chopsticks down on the table next to his own respective plate. “What do you say?”

“I want to go,” Jimin declared softly, smiling – always having been aware that his heart had already made a choice from the moment Jungkook had suggested it.

“You do?” the taller male echoed.

“Yes, I… I really want to go,” Jimin affirmed, nodding erratically. “Please”

“When do you want to go?” Jungkook asked, clearly delighted by Jimin’s response.

“Whenver fits best for you,” Jimin replied. “I mean, I would have to talk to Hyung first and make sure that he doesn’t need me for those days, but I think it’s probably more difficult for you to find the right time,” he added.

After all, with Jungkook’s demanding schedule as the co-CEO, it definitely wasn’t effortless to find a way to arrange a trip and make sure that the company was still running the way it was supposed to while Jungkook was going to be absent.

Finding a substitute for Jungkook was impossible, thus they were ought to verify each and every necessity prior to leaving in order to prevent any issues to arise during Jungkook’s lack of presence.

“I’ll manage,” Jungkook guaranteed. “I’ll find the perfect date for us to leave that would require the least inconveniences for my father, Jin-ssi or Hoseok-ssi. We’ll find time. As early as I can, angel.”

The pink haired one beamed, giving a nod.

“I’m happy that you agreed,” Jungkook asserted, reaching over to Jimin’s hand that was resting on the table between them, the taller man playing with Jimin’s delicate fingers.

“Me, too,” Jimin retorted softly. “Did you… Do you already know where you want to go?” he asked, unable to refrain from allowing his curiosity to speak.

“I do,” Jungkook answered, giving a nod as he hummed in affirmation.

“Really?” Jimin questioned with big eyes.

“Yes, I… I have a place I want to take you to,” he elaborated, a smile adorning his handsome features.

“Can I know now?” Jimin asked, slightly dipping his head down as he looked at Jungkook through his lashes, somehow hoping that would benefit him in his effort.

“I would like to surprise you,” Jungkook noted, chuckling at Jimin’s adorable attempt to affect Jungkook in a way that would lure him into revealing the destination of their trip.
Well, the pink haired boy just knew his weakness, Jungkook thought.

“However, if there is another place you want me to take you to, I can do that instead. Just tell me where you want to go and we’ll go there,” he added, giving Jimin’s hand a gentle squeeze.

“Anywhere?” Jimin clarified, his eyes big as they stared into Jungkook’s brown orbs.

“Anywhere, angel,” Jungkook confirmed, giving a nod. “Just say the word and I’ll take you there.”

“What?”

“What if I said I wanted to go to- I don’t know, Paris?” Jimin found himself ask, naming the first city that had popped into his head.

Surely, the black haired boy was audibly saying one thing, but Jimin couldn’t help but consider that his ears had deceived him. After all, Jungkook couldn’t possibly mean anywhere— not truly, right? Perhaps, they had a different understanding of the word?

“Do you?” Jungkook wanted to know, arching up his eyebrow as he took a sip from his water.

“Just hypothetically,” Jimin elucidated.

“Well, I hope you know some French then,” the younger male insisted, shrugging his shoulders, clearly not affected or shocked by the suggestion at all.

“We would go there?” Jimin questioned, still not quite certain whether the two of them were on the same page— and Jungkook was not just messing with him— and that Jimin was in fact apprehending his words correctly.

“Of course, little one,” Jungkook affirmed, amused by Jimin’s shocked expression. “Anywhere,” he prompted.

“Portugal…,” Jimin stated as another instance— just for the sake of validating Jungkook’s claim there.

The smaller boy tilted his head to the side, the infinite amount of options sounding very inviting, yet… his heart had already decided on a convincing choice. “Then I… I would like to go to the place you want to take me.”

“Are you sure?” Jungkook asked, pulling up his brows, astonishment depicted on his face as he visibly had not expected such an answer.

“Yes,” Jimin confirmed without an ounce of hesitation, having been aware of which decision his heart was going to make upon those words having left Jungkook’s lips.

“You can go anywhere in the world and you want to-,” Jungkook tried to remind him.

“I will follow you everywhere, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin promised, smiling warmly. “If there is a place you want to go to, I’m going with you. I don’t even have to think about it.”

Evidently, there was a place that Jungkook appeared to adore, thus why he suggested for them to go there. Jimin didn’t even need to think twice about joining Jungkook and visiting that exact place— Wherever it may be.
Those were big promises, a voice within Jimin commented, quite a large commitment.

However, somehow, that didn’t scare Jimin at all.

No, his heart was certain – more than certain.

Jimin would go to the moon with him.

Wasn’t that a sign… that Jimin…

“Oh, okay,” Jungkook muttered, his voice drawing Jimin back to reality, affection gleaming in his eyes as Jimin met his gaze again.

“Well, you tell me now?” Jimin tried his luck once more, smiling innocently.

“I won’t,” Jungkook chuckled at Jimin’s adorable attempt. “But I’ll let you know that it’s still located in Korea”

“Is it?” Jimin wondered, pulling up his brows as though he was closer to finding the answer now – well, truthfully, he was in a way as he was able to eliminate quite a lot of cities, but he still didn’t possess enough knowledge in order to locate the exact place Jungkook would take him to.

“Yes,” Jungkook affirmed, tilting his head to the side. “Does that affect your choice? Do you want to change your decision?”

“No, I stand by what I said,” Jimin responded, shaking his head. “I’ll follow you anywhere, Jungkook-ah. I don’t need to go miles away. I’m happy as long as I’m with you”

At his words, something flashed in Jungkook’s eyes, a soft smile curling up the corner of his lips. “I don’t need anything more than you, either”

Jimin’s heart quivered at those words, his smile growing as he dipped his head down, his cheeks flushing a faint shade of rose as he picked up his chopsticks again.

“That sounds great,” the pink haired boy then noted. “I have some money saved up. I hope it will be enough-, “

“Little one,” Jungkook interrupted him. “I invited you on the trip,” he reminded Jimin despite the other one being more than aware of that. “You don’t actually believe I’m going to let you pay, do you?”

“But- “

“I’m paying,” Jungkook interfered before Jimin even obtained the opportunity to protest. “I’m not negotiating about that part”

“You can’t just do that,” Jimin whined.

“I can. That part is out of discussion,” the younger male decided.

The smaller boy sighed. “Stubborn,” he whispered, dropping his hands back to his side, a delicate smile curving his lips. However, as it was a shared trip, Jimin did feel guilty for not paying for it as well – so this conversation was only put on pause for now. “Regardless of who pays and where we’re going- I’m happy to be able to spend some time just with you”

“We have a whole weekend just for ourselves,” Jungkook stated, giving a nod.
“That sounded heavenly.”

“No work?” Jimin wondered, the idea of them spending time without any other responsibilities simply sounding too good to be true.

Certainly, there was something going to occur to interfere.

The pink haired boy couldn’t help but consider that.

“No work,” Jungkook assured him, giving a nod.

“You promise?” Jimin prompted, his eyes big. “Not even any calls? No e-mails?” he wanted to know.

There was an ounce of hesitation.

“Kook-ah,” Jimin whined at his slow response.

“I’ll see what I can do. I can’t leave Jin Hyung just like that, angel,” he defended, causing Jimin to go slack in his seat as he didn’t manage to disagree with Jungkook.

That was definitely a valid point. After all, Jimin couldn’t leave Hoseok just like that either, if the older one required his presence. With Jungkook’s absence being way more crucial than Jimin’s, it was undoubtably more difficult for him to establish a weekend without any disturbances. “I’ll see how things are, when we decide to leave. I promise you that I’ll only allow calls in case of emergencies, okay?” he negotiated.

“Deal,” Jimin agreed, giving a determined nod as he smiled at the compromise. “You need to tell me how much to pack, though! And what to pack!” Jimin then commented. Due to the lack of knowledge in regard to their destination, Jimin was clueless as to what necessities he needed to provide for their trip.

The younger male leaned back in his seat. “I mean, you just need yourself, really”

“What about my clothes?” Jimin wondered, raising up his brows.

“Well, you could borrow some of mine, but quite frankly, wearing nothing suits you just fine,” Jungkook brazenly remarked as he leaned closer again, a smirk curving his lips as he looked at Jimin with alluring eyes.

“Kook-ah!” Jimin exclaimed with a shy smile, throwing his napkin at him.

“What?” Jungkook chuckled, catching the napkin and dropping it on the table before he shrugged his shoulders. “You’re stunning,” he commented softer.

“We’re not- I have to wear something, when we- I mean, aren’t we going outside- or- or,” the smaller boy stammered, his cheeks flushing a shade of rose as his imagination ran wild at the various things Jungkook could have implied with his comment.

“You decide once we get there,” Jungkook retorted, a smug smirk still plastered on his face as he was satisfied with how flustered he had managed to have Jimin with a simple remark. “I want you to enjoy yourself. Whatever you choose, we are doing. You might want to go to places. You might want to stay in bed, who knows?”

“In… In bed?” Jimin echoed, swallowing hard.
They couldn’t possibly stay in bed the whole time… could they?

“The whole time,” Jungkook added, giving a nod as his gaze rushed down to Jimin’s plump lips, the latter unconsciously having caught his bottom lip between his teeth.

“Just… just to rest or…,” Jimin murmured, his voice decreasing in volume with each syllable of his, his eyes still blown wide.

“What do you think I implied?” the younger male wondered as he wet his lips.

“I-,” Jimin breathed, not certain whether it was smart for him to answer that – potentially exposing his own deepest desire as to what Jungkook might have suggested.

Not that… not that Jimin had any naughty thoughts or anything like that… No, not at all.

“Hm?” Jungkook asked, leaning closer.

“S-Stop,” Jimin whispered, his heart rate picking up at the closer proximity.

If Jungkook was going to move any closer, the situation might turn more dangerous than Jimin was able to bear in their current environment. In the end, they were still in public and at the risk of someone else watching them.

“I’m not doing anything,” Jungkook chuckled, lifting his hands up in defence. “I’m just saying that we can do whatever you want. It’s your call, angel. I’m all yours,” he declared, his fingers playing with his black tie, the veins on the back of his hands drawing Jimin’s attention down. “Whether you want to stay in bed or not, you decide, and I follow”

Jungkook was just… teasing him, right? After all… three days in bed? What did… what did he think they would do in bed for that long?

“Three whole days?” Jimin echoed softly, forcing his eyes back up to Jungkook’s brown orbs, trying not to be distracted by the sight of his strong hands. “In bed?” he added with big eyes, his blush darkening. “Isn’t that- We would… I”

What could they potentially do for three whole days? In bed?

Oh.

Was Jungkook implying that… Did he really want to…?

Oh.

“Are you blushing?” Jungkook noted with a smirk, a soft laugh slipping from his lips, amusement gleaming in his eyes.

“No,” Jimin murmured, despite the clear display of his flushed cheeks.

“What are you imagining?” the black haired boy wanted to know, intrigued by the sight of Jimin being that affected.

“Nothing…”

“Be good and tell me,” Jungkook demanded, something flashing in his eyes as he stared at Jimin intently.
The smaller boy swallowed hard, inhaling a shaky breath. “I- I-,” he stuttered.

“Go on,” Jungkook insisted, his pupils dilating as he took a sip from his water.

“I’m thinking of you… of you playing with me,” he whispered, naturally needing to oblige Jungkook’s order with every fibre of his very being. Although Jimin found himself to be timid, he couldn’t refrain the urgency that bloomed within his core.

“Yes?”

“Three days are such a long duration,” Jimin noted quietly, digging his teeth into his bottom lip. “You would… you would touch me the whole time?”

“If you want me to play with you through all of it, then I’m more than ready to comply,” Jungkook declared, nodding his head, visibly sincere.

“I don’t think- I… I can’t come that often,” Jimin whispered, his blush darkening at the thought of how overstimulated he usually tended to feel after two or three orgasms.

“We’ll see, won’t we?” Jungkook challenged, smirking at Jimin who gulped at the determination in Jungkook’s eyes and the feeling of smugness that was depicted in them.

Oh.

The younger male was visibly enjoying this – if the amusement in his eyes was any indication of that fact.

“Well, I could also be very mean and edge you, couldn’t I?” he suggested, his voice low and attractive, sending a shiver down Jimin’s back. “Fuck you, eat you out, but never let you come; no matter how much you cry or beg for it”

At his obscene words, Jimin nearly found himself whine, the thought of being edged by Jungkook bittersweet – both blissful, yet so frustrating.

The pink haired boy drew his thighs together, whimpering quietly at the smug expression that embellished Jungkook’s defined features.

“You would love that, wouldn’t you?”

“K-Kook-ah,” Jimin whispered, averting his gaze to scan their surroundings, fearing that someone was near to potentially eavesdrop.

However, there was no one around, but them.

“Answer me,” Jungkook insisted.

“Yes,” Jimin breathed, giving a nod as he admitted to adoring the idea a lot more than he had initially thought.

In fact, his body appeared to be more affected than Jimin had partially estimated, the front of his pants having grown noticeably tighter – a visible display of his inevitable interest and arousal.

“What’s wrong, hm?” Jungkook wanted to know, sensing that there was something going on by the bashful expression on Jimin’s face.

“N-Nothing,” Jimin lied, too embarrassed by the semi-hard erection apparent in his pants that had grown through a few simple comments from Jungkook.

“Be honest, kitten,” the black haired boy ordered, leaning closer on the table. “I don’t like it, when you lie”

“I’m sorry,” Jimin apologised softly for being dishonest, pulling the sleeves of his shirt over his petite hands before he pressed his palms in between his thighs, trying to release some of the sexual tension by himself. “I-I… I’m… My-,” Gosh, why was this so hard? – No pun intended, but also- literally. “Down there… I need you,” he revealed. “Kook-ah, don’t make me say it, please,” Jimin begged.

The taller boy smirked. “Good boy,” Jungkook praised him for being honest before he wet his lips. “I would fuck you in one of the bathroom stalls right now,” he noted lowly, Jimin gasping at his words. “But you wouldn’t be able to keep quiet, would you?”

“I-I-”

“No, I’m not going to let anyone else hear those beautiful sounds you make. I’m going to take you home,” he decided before he ordered, “Be patient until then”

“Yes,” Jimin uttered, giving a nod and managing to refrain from whining at the thought of having to wait for so long.

“Finish your food,” Jungkook insisted, pointing at Jimin’s still partially filled plate.

“I’m full,” Jimin objected sincerely, somehow having lost his appetite, yet frankly having eaten enough to feel replete to begin with.

“You really want to go home now, hm?” Jungkook chuckled in amusement.

“Please,” Jimin whispered.

“Alright. I’m going to pay then,” Jungkook responded as he lifted his hand up as though he was intending to call over the waiter.

“What about the food?” Jimin asked, nodding towards the number of dishes that were still depicted on the table, merely any of it finished. What a waste, Jimin thought. “There is still so much left”

“We’ll take it home,” Jungkook decided. “I would like to pay, Sang,” he then called out, his gaze fixated on someone to their side, clearly no longer addressing Jimin.

At the realisation, Jimin’s eyes went big, his stomach stirring in embarrassment. “Was he there that whole time? Did he hear-”

“No, he wasn’t there that whole time, little one,” Jungkook interrupted him with a smirk, answering Jimin’s unasked question. “I asked for privacy,” he elaborated, Jimin’s heartbeat steadying. “You don’t need to worry about anyone finding out about how naughty you are,” he added, winking at Jimin. “That’s just for me, hm?” he uttered quieter.

“Did you enjoy your dinner, Mr. Jeon?” was the first thing Sang wanted to know as soon as he had arrived at their table.

“Yes, it was good. Please wrap up the left-overs. We’re taking them home,” Jungkook retorted, pointing at their remaining dishes.

“Of course,” Sang noted, executing a slight bow before he handed Jungkook the bill.
The drive home was surprisingly quiet, the two boys exchanging only a few words here and there to break the silence. Somehow, Jimin had managed to contain his neediness, refraining from whining out or touching Jungkook, the latter not teasing him either with his alluring words.

However, although Jimin had initially believed that their lack of conversableness was attributable to their sexual tension the two of them were trying to control, he found himself noticing Jungkook’s prominent attention on the rear-view mirror, causing Jimin to assume that Jungkook was too focused on that duty to involve himself into a longer conversation.

Certainly, it might just be Jungkook’s way of establishing a safe drive, yet Jimin still assessed that his particular behaviour was exceptionally more frequently than on a usual day – which essentially wasn’t odd, just… interesting?

Then again, Jimin might be reading way too much into things where there was in fact truly nothing going on.

Soon, the vehicle came to a halt, Jungkook twisting the key in the ignition, resulting in the engine to shut off. For a moment, the taller male proceeded to just sit there and stare at the steering wheel, whereas Jimin had already unfastened his seatbelt and indicated to exit the car.

“Kook-ah?” Jimin uttered softly, stealing a glimpse at the younger male who met his gaze before he flashed Jimin a warm smile. “Are you okay?”

“Of course,” Jungkook answered, unfastening his seatbelt before he turned around and reached back for the little paper bag with their left-overs. Then, he opened the door to the driver’s seat and climbed out of the car, Jimin mirroring him and exiting the vehicle as well.

The black haired boy walked around the car to join Jimin, swift to grasp his hand and interlace their fingers as though they were a perfect puzzle piece.

“Let’s go,” Jungkook insisted, nodding towards his apartment building after he had locked his car with his key.

Jimin hummed, smiling to himself as he glanced at their interlocked hands, giving Jungkook’s palm a gentle squeeze as they headed towards the entrance door.

“Little one,” Jungkook suddenly uttered, his steps slowing down, causing Jimin to halt as well.

“Yes?”

“Will you go upstairs already?” the younger male asked, lifting Jimin’s hand up to his lips to press a peck to his knuckles before he allowed Jimin’s hand to slip from his grasp.

“Why?” Jimin wondered, furrowing his brows.

“I need to check something at my car. I forgot to do that earlier,” Jungkook retorted as he handed Jimin the paper bag with their food and the keys to the entrance door.

“I can wait for you,” Jimin suggested as he reached for the bag and the keys.

“Not necessary, angel,” Jungkook declined his offer with a smile, leaning in to press a kiss to Jimin’s temple. “Please, go ahead,” he murmured against Jimin’s skin.
“Okay,” Jimin agreed, figuring that there was no use in arguing with Jungkook as the latter would not change his mind anyway, the discussion most likely leading to nowhere.

“I won’t take long,” the taller male promised.

“Oh, okay,” Jimin smiled softly, giving a nod before he headed towards the apartment building and granted himself entrance.

The pink haired boy stole a glimpse back at Jungkook before he entered the building, the latter still in the very same spot he had sent Jimin off. Jimin was puzzled by the sight yet assumed that Jungkook might just wanted to ensure that Jimin managed to get inside.

***

Bing.

The elevator doors slid open, revealing the familiar hallway to Jimin’s eyes. The smaller boy stepped outside, pulling the sleeves of his shirt over his petite hands in the midst of it as he approached the front door to Jungkook’s apartment.

As predicted, Joon – Jungkook’s security guard – was present as well, standing in front of the door the way he usually would be. Frankly, anything else would have astonished Jimin.

Did Joon ever rest? Was he actually guarding Jungkook’s apartment for the whole day? Was there someone else he switched places with, but Jimin simply had never met the other person?

So many questions – so few answers.

“Mr. Park,” the security guard greeted Jimin, exhibiting a minor bow.

“Hello, Joon,” Jimin uttered with a soft smile as he returned the bow, pointing back over his shoulder. “Jungkook-ah is still downstairs. He needs a few more minutes,” he informed the man of Jungkook’s whereabouts.

“I see,” Joon responded, giving a faint nod, but then proceeding to stare straight ahead, right above Jimin’s head towards the shut elevator doors.

“Uhm… May I?” Jimin asked, his tone delicate as he gestured for himself to enter the apartment. Joon didn’t meet his gaze.

“I’m afraid I can’t let you enter, Mr. Park,” Joon revealed, shaking his head. “I have my orders to not permit anyone entrance as long as Mr. Jeon is absent,” he elaborated, pressing his lips into a line, the action causing Jimin to believe that he felt sorry towards Jimin for refusing to let him enter.

“Oh, okay,” Jimin uttered, giving a nod to underline his understanding.

After all, he was familiar with Jungkook’s associates having to follow the orders the black haired male gave them. They were ought to oblige, thus Joon’s hands were tied, even if he wanted to permit Jimin entrance.

“Then I’ll just… wait here,” the smaller boy decided, leaning against the wall as he scanned the hallway, wondering how much longer Jungkook would need.

Joon cleared his throat. At the noise, Jimin’s gaze trailed back over to the taller man.
“How was your day?” Jimin wanted to know, figuring that it wasn’t reprehensible for them to exchange a few words for the time they were waiting. Surely, Joon couldn’t possibly be prohibited to have a bit of small talk, could he?

Apparently, he was.

“Excuse me?” Jimin uttered softly, arching up his eyebrows at the lack of attention he was receiving, Joon appearing to plainly disregard Jimin’s presence entirely as he wasn’t even sparing him a glance. “Are you not allowed to talk to anyone either unless to inform them that they’re not permitted to enter?” Jimin voiced his thoughts, titling his head to the side. “Or do you just not like me? I mean, I can understand, if you just don’t want to talk to me, but—"

“I’m not supposed to talk, Mr. Park,” Joon informed him, startling Jimin who had absolutely not expected Joon to speak up, having been very certain in his profound assertion that Joon had been proscribed to converse. “It’s not because I don’t like you”

Well, he had now broken that rule – because of Jimin.

Way to go, Jimin.

“Oh,” Jimin murmured, catching his bottom lip between his teeth. “I won’t tell Jungkook-ah,” he promised, pressing his index finger to his plump lips with a soft smile.

“What are you not going to tell me?” another male voice suddenly asked, startling Jimin yet again who flinched at the sound of Jungkook’s voice.

How had Jimin not noticed his presence upon his arrival?

“Nothing,” Jimin responded, flashing Jungkook a delicate smile.

The younger male smirked, appearing to sense Jimin’s bluff as amusement gleamed in his brown orbs. “Mhm-mh,” he hummed as he approached them.

“Mr. Jeon,” Joon immediately greeted, exhibiting a deep bow before he stepped to the side to enable Jungkook to enter his own apartment.

“Joon,” Jungkook acknowledged his presence before he placed his hand on the small of Jimin’s back. “Why aren’t you inside already, little one?” he then wanted to know as he pressed his lips to Jimin’s temple, clearly addressing the latter.

“I wasn’t allowed to enter,” Jimin responded with a chuckle.

“You weren’t allowed to,” Jungkook echoed before he raised up his brows and gave a nod. “Joon, Jimin-ah is always allowed to enter my apartment – even at my absence. No need to have him waiting outside, understood?”

“I understand, Mr. Jeon. I apologise,” Joon retorted, giving a nod before he executed another bow.

“No need to,” Jungkook assured him, rubbing his palm over Jimin’s back, the simple touch causing Jimin’s heart to flutter. “Let’s head inside, angel”

As soon as Jimin indicated to move forward, Joon cleared his throat, leaning closer to Jungkook. “Mr. Jeon, I’m very sorry to interrupt, but I’m afraid I need to talk to you for a moment,” he uttered, appearing to attempt to establish a low volume in his voice with the intention of only Jungkook being able to hear him, yet unsuccessful in his execution as Jimin managed to register his words in their close proximity just as fine. “It won’t take long,” he added quietly.

Jimin nearly whined in frustration.

The black haired boy’s hand wandered below the fabric of Jimin’s shirt, his warm palm caressing Jimin’s soft skin as he leaned in. “Kitten, go upstairs. Bedroom. Clothes off. On your knees,” Jungkook ordered, those words whispered right into Jimin’s ear. “Don’t you dare touch yourself or I’m going to punish you. Understood?” he warned, a shiver running down Jimin’s back at the low and dominant tone of his voice.

“Yes,” Jimin breathed, giving a faint nod as he inhaled a shaky breath.

Humming in dissatisfaction, Jungkook delivered a gentle tap to Jimin’s thigh.

“Yes, Sir,” Jimin found himself correct, his subconscious appearing to be aware of what Jungkook’s minor punishment had referred to before his brain did.

“Good boy,” Jungkook praised as he pressed his lips to the back of Jimin’s ear. “I’ll be quick, I promise,” he assured Jimin, his voice an ounce softer as he gently tapped Jimin’s bottom before he entered the password on his lock and granted Jimin access to his apartment.

***

As soon as Jimin stepped into the bedroom, he fidgeted with his shirt, excitement and anticipation vivid within his very being, causing him to be rather clumsy in the process of removing his clothes.

Hastily, Jimin tugged the shirt over his head, tossing it to the floor before he fumbled with the button on his trousers, swiftly zipping down his pants and trying to pull them down in the midst of proceeding to approach the bed – a bad choice, as Jimin had to learn.

The poor boy lost his balance, resulting in him to tumble over and fall flat on the bed – less gracefully than he could have hoped for, but at least he hadn’t fallen to the hard floor and hurt himself in the process, but had landed on the soft sheets.

_Unit God Jungkook wasn’t present_ – he would never let Jimin live this clumsy moment down.

Huffing, Jimin pushed himself back up, his cheeks tingling a shade of rose at the humiliating moment, but he swiftly regained his composure and resumed the task of removing his trousers. Once they were off, Jimin kicked them to the side, puffing his fringe out of his face before he plopped down on the bed.

However, instead of kneeling down the way Jungkook had ordered Jimin to do, the smaller boy scanned the mess he had created on Jungkook’s bedroom floor. Despite his burning desire to be touched by Jungkook, Jimin inevitably found a feeling of guilt to bloom within him at the sight.

Carefully, he got back up to his feet, collecting his clothes and folding them neatly before he put them down on the sofa. Before he returned to his spot on the bed, Jimin removed his briefs as well, adding them to his remaining clothes on the sofa.

Entirely stripped naked, Jimin tip-toed back over to the bed, climbing up on it and kneeling on it the way Jungkook had ordered him to.

A shiver ran down Jimin’s back – the smaller one not certain whether the effect was attributable to his itching desire and racing imagination or to the low temperatures that were now surrounding him, his bare body no longer engulfed by the warmth of his clothes.
Somehow nervous, Jimin placed his palms in his lap, inhaling a shaky breath as his eyes fluttered shut.

Naturally, Jimin tended to obey, yet it was still rather difficult for him to refrain from touching himself the longer he was forced to wait for the black haired boy.

Time went by rather slow, the pink haired boy not confident how many minutes had passed, but then certain that the time felt like an eternity – Any second without Jungkook did.

How much longer was Jungkook going to take?

Was he purposely increasing the duration Jimin was supposed to wait here like a good boy just to see how good Jimin was actually being?

Perhaps, it was his way to test whether Jimin had learned from the previous time Jungkook had demanded for Jimin to wait for him without touching himself? – Which had obviously ended in a punishment as Jimin had not been able to comply, not at all.

Somehow, that caused Jimin to feel even more diligent to comply and refrain from touching himself in spite of how desperately he yearned for it. – Just to prove that he can be good boy for Jungkook.

“Look at you, kitten,” a low male voice broke the heavy silence in the room, the sudden voice startling Jimin who flinched at the noise, his eyes fluttering back open. “You’re being so good, aren’t you?” Jungkook praised, the tone of his voice husky and alluring, sending another shiver down Jimin’s back – this time in arousal.

“T-Thank you,” Jimin uttered, meeting Jungkook’s gaze.

The latter was leaning against the doorway, a smirk embellishing his defined features as he stared at Jimin with intent eyes, Jimin managing to define the lust that was glistening in Jungkook’s orbs by the way his pupils were dilated at the sight of Jimin’s bare body.

Feeling timid at the intent stare, Jimin covered up his penis, his cheeks flushing a darker shade of rose as Jungkook’s eyes followed the movement of his hands.

“Don’t,” the younger male ordered, clearly referring to Jimin’s prior action of hiding his private parts from his gaze. “Don’t cover yourself, kitten. Not for me. Never for me,” he added, his voice an ounce softer as he pushed himself off the wall and walked further into the room, simultaneously opening the buttons on the cuffs of his shirt.

The soft tone of his voice comforted Jimin, the smaller one giving a faint nod as his hands found their way back to his thighs, complying Jungkook’s order.

“I’m sorry,” Jimin uttered a soft apology as he followed Jungkook’s every movement with his eyes, his heart rate picking up.

“Never do that either, little one. Not for that,” Jungkook insisted, approaching Jimin as he rolled up the sleeves of his shirt.

As soon as Jungkook had closed the distance between them, Jimin couldn’t resist the longing to reach out to touch Jungkook, yet the latter shook his head and hummed in disapproval. “Hands back on your thighs,” he ordered.

Obeying, Jimin placed his hands back on his thighs, his eyes big as they stared up at Jungkook.

Gently, Jungkook grabbed Jimin’s chin, enabling them to lock eyes without allowing Jimin to obtain the opportunity to avert his gaze.

“Did you play with yourself?” the black haired boy wanted to know, arching up an eyebrow. Swiftly, Jimin parted his lips to respond, but remained silent as Jungkook warned, “Don’t lie to me, kitten” as he ran the pad of his thumb along Jimin’s bottom lip.

“I didn’t,” Jimin answered, vigorously shaking his head.

No! Jimin had been such a good boy!

He needed Jungkook to know that!

“I promise, Kook-ah,” he assured, his voice gentle.

Jungkook smirked. “Good boy,” he praised, brushing Jimin’s fringe out of his face before he caressed his cheek, the smaller one naturally nuzzling his face into the touch. “What should I do to you, hm?” Jungkook asked, but Jimin was not confident whether he was actually being addressed and allowed to answer or whether Jungkook was just talking to himself – perhaps teasing Jimin by voicing the various things he was considering of doing to Jimin. “Fuck you up against the wall? Fuck your mouth? Bend you over the dresser?” he listed as he titled his head to the side. “So many options”

The smaller boy whimpered, his heart skipping a beat.

Oh, all of that sounded so wonderful.

Just touch me, please. Anywhere.

All over again, Jimin parted his lips to answer, but then remained silent as he simply chose to gaze at Jungkook with big and pleading eyes, arousal and prominent need vibrant within his delicate being.

“You were such a good boy for me earlier, weren’t you?” Jungkook stressed, dropping his hand back to his side. “Behaved so well, when you visited me in my office,” he added.

“Thank you,” Jimin whispered, his tone soft as his heart quivered in pure delight at the compliment.

“Remember what I promised you?” the younger male inquired.

For a split second, Jimin’s mind was racing in an attempt to replay their prior conversation and recall the promise that Jungkook had made. Then, he did.

Oh.

“Y-Yes,” Jimin breathed, drawing his thighs together as his penis twitched in anticipation.

“Well, tell me,” Jungkook insisted.

“You… You promised I would be allowed to sit on your face,” the pink haired one recited, his cheeks flushing a darker shade of rose upon those words slipping from his lips.

“Mhm-mh, very good,” Jungkook praised, the hum vibrating deeply in his chest, the tone so low that it sent another shudder down Jimin’s back.

“W-Will you?” Jimin uttered, digging his teeth into his bottom lip as he glanced at Jungkook with hopeful eyes.

For a moment, Jungkook just proceeded to stare at Jimin, clearly deliberating whether or not to grant Jimin’s wish – or perhaps simply teasing Jimin by having him wait for it a little longer.
Yet then, it was a promise he had initially stated, hadn’t he? In addition, Jimin had met the premise of his promise – had behaved so well throughout the day, not whining, not touching Jungkook nor himself. No, Jimin had been so good.

“You deserve a reward, don’t you?” Jungkook decided with a smirk. “You were the best boy for me today, weren’t you? Didn’t even touch yourself although you really wanted to, hm?” he elaborated, the pride that was conveyed in the tone of his voice allowing a sense of happiness to bloom within Jimin.

“P-Please, Kook-ah,” Jimin breathed.

“I want you to wear your collar,” Jungkook stated, heading towards the nightstand and opening the top drawer. “Will you let me put it on you?” he asked for Jimin’s consent in spite of being more than aware of how much Jimin absolutely adored to wear his collar.

In fact, at the sight, Jimin’s heart inevitably skipped a beat. “Please,” he uttered softly as he gave a nod, Jungkook returning to his side and fastening the collar around his throat.

As soon as it was on, Jimin naturally found himself reach up to it as his heart filled with delight, his petite fingers playing with the material of the item that was now wrapped tightly around his throat.

However, Jimin swiftly noticed that Jungkook hadn’t bound it as tight as a few days ago, causing the pink haired boy to wonder whether his action was attributable to him having felt apologetic for the marks that he had left on Jimin’s throat the previous time – a representation of how significant Jimin’s well-being was to him.

“Good?” Jungkook wanted to know, his eyes fixated on the pendant that had his name engraved into it, dangling from the collar Jimin was wearing as an embodiment of his belonging.

Jungkook was never going to get tired of the sight.

“Yes,” Jimin affirmed, his tone delicate as he gave a nod.

Gently, the black haired boy applied some pressure on Jimin’s side, a nonverbal command for Jimin to scoot over. Carefully, Jimin moved to the side, allowing Jungkook to join him on the bed – still entirely dressed, Jimin may add, which… well, was something Jimin really wanted to change.

The taller male laid down on the bed beside Jimin. “Come here, little one,” he demanded, patting his chest as he stole a glimpse at Jimin.

Nervously, but itching to obey, Jimin crawled closer to Jungkook, swinging his leg over the latter’s upper body to straddle his chest. Shyly, Jimin remained in his position, not yet close enough for Jungkook to be able to eat him out as Jimin’s bottom wasn’t near enough.

“Closer, kitten,” Jungkook insisted, giving Jimin’s thigh a tender tap.

Inhaling a shaky breath, Jimin obliged and moved further back, Jungkook not hesitating to grab his butt cheeks and pull them apart to reveal Jimin’s pink hole to his sight before he wet his lips.

“Can you stay still for me, pretty?”

“I-I’ll try, yes,” Jimin uttered, his cheeks flushing a shade of rose at the realisation of Jungkook being that intimately close to him.

The smaller boy was probably never going to really get accustomed to that rather vulnerable feeling of such close and intimate proximity – each time feeling like it was the first.

“Good boy,” Jungkook praised.

Timidly, Jimin placed his palms on Jungkook’s covered chest, his gaze trailing down to his semi-erection. At the view of the tip of his penis resting on Jungkook’s black button up shirt, Jimin whimpered and lifted himself up to prevent Jungkook from eating him out.

“What’s wrong?” the latter immediately inquired; his voice full of concern. “Can you tell me your colour, angel?”

“I just… Maybe, you should remove your shirt before you… before you start, Kook-ah,” Jimin warned him as it wasn’t exactly unprecedented for Jimin to tend and leak a good amount of pre-cum… essentially everywhere, when Jungkook was touching him that intimately.

The younger male chuckled, the sound vibrating deep in his chest as he hummed in acknowledgement of Jimin’s request. “You know that I don’t mind that, kitten. I love how messy you are for me, hm?” he reminded Jimin, but still reached down to loosen the tie around his neck, sending a gentle tap to Jimin’s thigh in a silent command for Jimin to move further down.

Swiftly, Jimin complied and got off from him, enabling Jungkook to remove the tie around his neck ahead of him tearing his button shirt apart with little care nor any visible effort – evidently not discovering a care in him to remove his shirt entirely nor in a usual way.

At the demonstration of Jungkook’s strength, Jimin swallowed hard, the boy merely capable to contain the whimper from slipping past his lips. However, Jimin couldn’t refrain from imagining Jungkook to use his strength in another way; particularly by fu-

“Now, you can be messy all you want, hm?” Jungkook stated with a smirk, patting his chest again. “Up, kitten, let me make you feel good”

However, Jimin was partially distracted by the divine view of his muscular upper body, his heart skipping a beat at the image of Jungkook’s toned chest, the clear display of his defined abs and the v-line that disappeared somewhere below the waistband of his brand briefs.

Not managing to resist, Jimin reached out, allowing the tips of his fingers to trace over Jungkook’s chest.

Somehow, the sudden tender touch appeared to surprise Jungkook, the dominance in his demeanor decreasing, his eyes softening as they observed Jimin’s movement with an attentive stare.

The smaller boy caught his bottom lip between his teeth as his digits trailed down to Jungkook’s stomach, goose bumps rising beneath his touch before he traced his fingers back up to his chest.

“Little one,” Jungkook uttered.

Carefully, Jimin tugged on the shirt that still hung around Jungkook’s body, his arms covered by the soft fabric that irritated Jimin. “Off, off,” he begged softly.

Obliging, Jungkook sat up, enabling Jimin to remove the shirt from his body entirely before he tossed it somewhere to the side with little care. “Better?” Jungkook wondered, pulling up a brow as he stared at Jimin with slight amusement gleaming in his eyes.

“Yes,” Jimin whispered, giving a nod.
The taller male hooked one of his fingers around the front of Jimin’s collar, giving it a gentle tug to pull Jimin closer. Impulsively – yet also forced to by the pressure of the yank – Jimin leaned in to attach their lips in a soft kiss, his heart inevitably fluttering at the sweet touch.

“You don’t want it rough today, hm?” Jungkook noted, his voice soft as he spoke against Jimin’s lips, his own lips brushing over Jimin’s chin before he nudged his nose into Jimin’s cheek and curled his hands around his waist. Effortlessly, he lifted Jimin back on top of him, the latter straddling his upper body the way he previously had. “Want it softer, little one?”

Frankly, Jimin wasn’t sure about what he wanted.

After all, he loved both – the sweet and sensual moments, yet also the rougher ones that included a little punishment; the pain always being so bittersweet.

Primarily, Jimin just… just wanted Jungkook – yearned for his touch in any way Jungkook would grant him.

“I don’t know,” Jimin responded sincerely, having slipped into a rather submissive state already, causing him to require some time to properly contemplate and form a coherent sentence. “I just… I just want you. I want you to touch me, please. In any way”

“Ohay,” Jungkook smiled, brushing Jimin’s fringe out of his face before he pressed his lips to his forehead. “Just talk to me, if you don’t like something today, okay? Can you tell me your safe words, angel?”

“Red for stop, yellow for pause and green for good,” Jimin recited the familiar and established way for him feel protected – Jungkook having been very adamant for Jimin to learn these to provide a safe environment for them.

“Good boy,” Jungkook praised as he pressed another peck to Jimin’s shoulder. “Still want me to eat you out?”

“Please,” Jimin whispered, shy to admit to his profound desire, but… oh, please, do that.

The younger male smirked, giving a nod before he fell back on the soft sheets, gesturing for Jimin to turn around. Carefully, Jimin obeyed, turning the other way and moving further back towards Jungkook’s face.

Once the distance between them was closed, Jungkook’s hands found their way back to Jimin’s butt cheeks, pulling them apart for them to return to their prior state that Jimin had interrupted with his minor concern about Jungkook’s shirt.

Devoid of hesitance, Jungkook leaned in, his hot breath tickling on Jimin’s sensitive skin before he licked precisely over Jimin’s rim, the latter twitching at the touch, a gasp slipping past his lips.

“K-Kook-ah,” Jimin breathed out, his eyes fluttering shut as Jungkook repeated the motion, twirling his tongue around the sensitive ring of muscles prior to poking his wet tongue past Jimin’s rim. “O-Oh,” Jimin mewled, clenching his hands into petite fists as he tossed his head back.

At that, Jungkook hummed lowly, the sound vibrating against Jimin’s skin and sending another hot jolt of pleasure through Jimin’s delicate being.

Steadily, Jungkook picked up a faster pace, altering between thrusting his tongue in and out of Jimin’s little hole and licking fat stripes over his rim, the pink haired one moaning breathily on top of him as he tried to stay entirely still.
“O-Oh, god, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin whimpered, hunching forward as he noticed the twitching of his penis, another streak of pre-cum leaking from the slit, causing Jimin to be somewhat grateful that he had asked Jungkook to remove his shirt as to not ruin yet another piece of clothing of his.

The younger male delivered a gentle smack to Jimin’s bottom, the latter gasping at the blow as he caught his bottom lip between his teeth and rocked forward.

“Stop fussing around, kitten,” Jungkook warned him. “Can you do that for me?”

“Y-Yes,” Jimin uttered, giving a nod in his urgency to comply.

However, it was easier said than done.

Inevitably, Jimin hunched forward again, the way Jungkook was thrusting his tongue in and out of Jimin’s hole so very skillfully and effectively with the aspiration of sending Jimin over the edge was very intense, the stimulation so overwhelming on the poor boy who naturally found himself to be easily brought to orgasm by Jungkook.

Firmly, Jungkook grasped Jimin’s thighs, intending to restrict Jimin from squirming around on top of him too much. The smaller one whimpered, his skin feeling as though it was on fire – the only cure being Jungkook.

“Be good,” Jungkook insisted.

“Y-Yes, a-ah,” Jimin moaned out, squeezing his eyes shut as Jungkook pressed his thumb against Jimin’s rim, applying faint pressure to watch it slip past the ring of muscles with zero resistance. “O-Oh”

Slowly, Jungkook pushed his digit further into Jimin’s hole, his tongue resuming with its prior action and licking over Jimin’s rim to increase the stimulation the smaller one was experiencing.

In his haze of sweet ecstasy, Jimin merely noticed the way Jungkook switched his finger, too distracted by the heavenly feeling his tongue was granting Jimin. It was only once the new digit reached a lot deeper, brushing over a certain sensitive bud of nerves that caused Jimin to shriek and tremble.

“Yes, yes, please,” Jimin whimpered, his eyes shooting back open as he tried to grab something, but only found himself clenching his hands into tiny fists again.

The pink haired boy noticed the prominent bulge in the front of Jungkook’s pants, reminding him of the lack of stimulation Jungkook was receiving throughout all of this.

Naturally, Jimin bent forward, placing his delicate hand on Jungkook’s bulge and grabbing his hard length through the fabric. At the sudden and clearly unexpected touch, Jungkook’s legs twitched, a groan slipping past his lips and vibrating against Jimin’s skin.

Slowly, Jimin began to massage Jungkook’s erection, the need to satisfy Jungkook residing in his heart and ruling his behaviour.

“F-Fuck,” Jungkook growled, involuntarily bucking up into Jimin’s hand, causing the latter’s heart to quiver in delight, pride swelling in Jimin’s chest at the realisation of being good – adoring the effect he had on Jungkook.

Hastily, Jimin zipped down his pants and merely pushed them down before he closed his petite hand around Jungkook’s hard length and pulled it out.
At the sight of his veiny penis, Jimin whimpered, the sudden desire to suck on Jungkook’s erection blooming within him. Deprived of any hesitation or shyness for a fraction of a moment, Jimin leaned down without permission, poking his tongue out to lick over the tip.

Swoosh.

“Ah,” Jimin gasped and bit down on his bottom lip, flinching at the sudden smack that had been delivered to his inner thigh as a clear nonverbal demand for Jimin to cease his action.

“Did I tell you to do that?” Jungkook inquired, undoubtedly not anticipating for Jimin to answer as they were both aware that Jimin had absolutely not been permitted to suck Jungkook off. In fact, Jimin had been ordered to stay entirely still – this visibly being the complete opposite of that order.

“I’m sorry,” Jimin apologised softly, yet… quite honestly, he wasn’t that sorry for his action.

“Don’t make me punish you, kitten,” Jungkook warned him. “Were such a good boy today, hm?” the black haired boy noted, rubbing his palm along the soft skin of Jimin’s inner thigh and caressing the spot he had prior spanked to soothe the pain.

“Please, wanna…,” Jimin asked softly, “Please, want to suck you off.”

However, Jungkook hummed in disapproval. “Don’t be greedy,” he demanded. “Take what I give you, understood? If you misbehave, I will have to punish you.”

The pink haired boy dug his teeth into his bottom lip, his stomach stirring in arousal.

Now, Jimin realised what he wanted; the appeal distinctive within his very being.

Despite the clear order, Jimin pushed the tip of Jungkook’s erection past his plump lips, twirling his tongue around the head before he sank down forcefully in one swift go, disregarding the burning of his throat or the rejection of his gag reflex that naturally kicked in – In fact, finding enjoyment in the slight pain he experienced, spluttering around Jungkook’s erection, yet still not pulling off.

“Holy F- Shit, Jimin-ah,” Jungkook groaned, tossing his head back into the pillow as his grasp around Jimin’s thighs tightened. “Stop,” he ordered again.

Humming in disagreement around Jungkook’s hard length, Jimin bobbed his head up and down several times, simultaneously forcing Jungkook’s penis deeper in a diligent and desperate attempt to deepthroat Jungkook in one go.

Swoosh.

“I’m not going to warn you again- Fuck,” Jungkook growled after he had sent another smack to Jimin’s bottom as a punishment, the former’s thighs twitching at the stimulation he was receiving once Jimin had achieved to fit Jungkook’s entire erection into his mouth – astonishing both him and Jungkook.

After all, the pink haired boy had never managed to deepthroat Jungkook this swiftly. Evidently, that fact allowed a sense of pride to swell in Jimin’s chest, his heart fluttering in joy.

However, inevitably, Jimin was compelled to pull off, coughing and spluttering once he was up, gasping for air as a trail of spit connected his mouth to Jungkook’s boner.

“Kitten, sit up,” Jungkook demanded, the sound of his voice lacking the ability to exude the heavy authority it usually tended to, conveying how affected he truly was by the way Jimin was sucking him off as he was breathing heavily.

The smaller one shook his head in refusal, swift to push Jungkook’s erection past his lips again and bobbing his head up and down in a quick pace, desperate to have Jungkook come in his mouth.

As a way to punish Jimin, Jungkook had long refrained from proceeding to eat Jimin out, his little hole and penis neglected from any touch or friction, yet Jimin was solely focusing on satisfying Jungkook now anyway.

“Shit, kitten, don’t make me tell you again,” Jungkook groaned, lifting his hand up and delivering another smack to Jimin’s thigh. “S-Stop”

“No,” Jimin uttered softly, yet determinately as he had pulled off for a split second to speak, but was quick to resume to his task of sucking Jungkook off.

Oh, Jimin was going to regret his disobedience – his clear verbal and nonverbal misbehavior.

Yet… was he? The thought of Jungkook punishing Jimin intrigued him too much – even prevailing his natural tendency- No, his natural need to obey and be good.

Jimin was not being a good boy right now… Yet… being naughty sometimes was somehow alluring as well.

Swoosh. Swoosh. Swoosh.

“O-Oh god!” Jimin shrieked, flinching and trying to get away from Jungkook who had delivered three consecutive spanks right on Jimin’s sensitive hole.

However, Jungkook was swift to grasps Jimin’s thighs again, restricting him from squirming around and fleeing, but securing him in the position he desired.

“You really want to be punished, don’t you?” Jungkook stressed, his tone low and dominant, clearly warning Jimin of a potential – or rather very expected – punishment he would obtain, if he were to proceed with his disobedience.

Well… maybe Jimin wanted that.

Though, Jimin wasn’t going to admit to that out loud.

Carefully, Jimin pushed the tip of Jungkook’s penis past his full lips again, disregarding Jungkook’s vibrant demand as he forced his hard length back down his throat.

“Fuck,” Jungkook growled out, Jimin whimpering around his erection at the flavour of Jungkook’s pre-cum that Jimin tasted on his tongue, the two sounds of their voices intermingling in the room and creating an adoring melody to either of their ears. “Stop, kitten”

No.

Having picked up a rapid pace again, Jimin bobbed his head up and down, squeezing his eyes shut as tears prickled in the corner of his eyes as a result of him omitting the fact that his gag reflex was majorly rejecting the action.

“Be good and behave- Shit,” the younger male cursed, his hands curling around Jimin’s waist as he tossed his head back into the pillow. “Obey,” he commanded.

For a split moment, Jimin stilled around Jungkook’s erection. Somehow, his heart was aching at the way he was deliberately disobeying Jungkook and not acting accordingly to his natural tendency and need of complying.

Jimin was a good boy… wasn’t he?

Yes, he was… Yes. Just… just not now.

The pink haired boy pulled off and shook his head, proceeding to have his petite hand curled around Jungkook’s shaft and jerk him off slowly. “I… I am good,” Jimin argued softly, his cheeks flushed a pretty shade of rose as he looked back over his shoulder, his eyes glassy as they found Jungkook’s. “I’m a good boy. I’m just taking care of you”

“I didn’t permit you to- to do that,” Jungkook reminded him; his chest heaving in a visible display of how close he was to his own release. “You’re being bad, kitten”

“Maybe… maybe I want to be… want to be a little naughty,” Jimin whispered.

At his words, something daring flashed in Jungkook’s eyes, the taller male parting his lips to say something, yet appearing to be lost for words as he just stared at Jimin with intent eyes.

Deprived of wanting to waste another moment, Jimin promptly turned back around, leaning down to slide Jungkook’s hard length back into his mouth to twirl his tongue around the tip before he sank further down.

“I’m gonna- Fuck, kitten, stop or I’m gonna- Jimin-ah”

Jungkook came. Hard.

The smaller one shrieked at the suddenness, but didn’t withdrew at all. Instead, he proceeded to bob his head up and down, swallowing down the cum that had spurted from Jungkook’s shaft.

Slowly, Jimin pulled off, licking over his lips as he played with Jungkook’s hard length a little more, tugging on it a few more times before he allowed it to slip from his grasp.

Now, he waited.

In the twinkling of an eye, Jungkook heaved Jimin off and spun them around, pinning Jimin into the sheets as he hovered above him. The smaller one giggled softly at the turn of events, now lying on his back with Jungkook on top of him.

Oh, Jimin was going to be punished for that…

Why did he love that thought so much?

At the sight of Jungkook’s hardened features, Jimin’s stomach stirred in arousal.

“Are you giggling?” Jungkook inquired despite the audible sound of Jimin’s adorable giggles and the sight of his crescent eyes, the man arching up his eyebrows as he stared at Jimin intently.

“No…” Jimin uttered, pressing his lips into a line as he shook his head, yet not capable to hide his smile that embellished his pretty features.

“You’re smiling,” Jungkook noted, grabbing Jimin’s chin to guide his face closer.
“’m not,” Jimin whispered, shaking his head as he caught his bottom lip between his teeth.

Slowly, Jungkook ran the pad of thumb along Jimin’s bottom lip, the latter forced to release it from between his teeth as he stared deeply into Jungkook’s eyes, attentive for his every movement.

The black haired boy leaned in, pressing his lips to the back of Jimin’s ear before he nibbled on his little lobe. “Shit, you really want me to fuck that smile off your face, huh?” he threatened, his voice husky as he whispered them into Jimin’s ear. “Want it so bad, don’t you?”

At his words, Jimin gasped, drawing his thighs together as the smile vanished from his face, replaced by an expression of pure submission.

“I-I-,” Jimin stammered, suddenly lost for words.

“There you go,” Jungkook noted, giving a nod, smug at the response he had received – a demonstration of how swiftly Jungkook had Jimin on his knees again.

“Kook-ah,” Jimin breathed, nuzzling his face into the curve of his neck.

Touch me already, the smaller one nearly insisted, but was merely capable to refrain from saying those words out loud – Jimin was already in enough trouble.

“Tell me your colour,” Jungkook demanded as he sat up; no longer at eye level with Jimin, but somehow embodying his dominance in their position by having Jimin below him.

In his new stance, the two of them noticed that Jungkook’s lower body was still covered by fabric, his trousers having prior been pulled open by Jimin to expose his penis that was not yet tugged back in, but on display even now.

At the view of his half naked body, Jimin swallowed hard, almost impulsively spreading his legs further apart as if to silently ask for Jungkook to use him. The black haired boy undeniably noticed, smirking smugly as Jimin’s reaction was feeding his ego.

Unconsciously, Jimin reached down to his own private parts, reminding himself of the lack of stimulation he had been granted due to him having disobeyed Jungkook’s orders.

However, before Jimin was even able to obtain the opportunity to curl his tiny hand around his penis, Jungkook hummed in dissatisfaction, shaking his head as he grabbed Jimin’s wrist to halt his movement.

“Hands above your head, kitten,” Jungkook demanded, Jimin hesitant as he deliberated whether or not he should disobey, but naturally finding himself obliging before his brain had made up his mind, crossing his wrists over one another as he lifted them above his head. “They stay there, understood?”

“Y-Yes,” Jimin breathed, giving a gentle nod.

The younger male got up to his feet, tugging down the remainder of his clothes and kicking them to the side once he had removed them from his body entirely.

At the view of his bare body, Jimin whimpered, drawing his legs together as he observed how Jungkook joined him back on the bed, the man grasping Jimin’s ankles and pushing them back, thus resulting in Jimin to bend his knees.

“Your colour, little one,” Jungkook reminded Jimin of his prior question as he spread the latter’s legs apart in order to settle down in between them, Jimin now restricted from drawing them together – absolutely at Jungkook’s mercy.

“Green,” Jimin whispered, certain of that answer without the knowledge of what Jungkook had in store for him.

The black haired boy poked his tongue into his cheek as he titled his head to the side, his palms roaming over Jimin’s stomach and leaving an inevitable trail of goose bumps behind. “Adorable, aren’t you?” he commented, the tips of his fingers tracing over Jimin’s inner thighs, the latter twitching at the soft touch.

“H-Huh?” Jimin uttered, blinking at Jungkook.

The other one chuckled. “The way your pretty mind believed that you can do whatever you want without any repercussions of your actions”

“I…I…” Jimin stuttered, gulping.

“I would have pinned you down to the bed in a second and spank you until you’re crying and begging me to stop,” he stated almost conversationally, the threat sending a shiver down Jimin’s back as his penis visibly twitched. “But I wanted to see how far you would go to be punished and- fuck, you just love to be punished, don’t you?”

Slap.

“O-Owh,” Jimin shrieked, his eyes wide as his hands subconsciously came down to cover himself.

From one moment to the other, Jungkook had delivered a slap right against the top of Jimin’s erection – the sudden action shocking Jimin.

The sensation was foreign – different to being smacked on his bottom or thighs, somehow so much more intense and receptive, yet then also… also sending such a hot jolt of pleasure through Jimin’s body that it chased a shudder down his back.

“Colour?” Jungkook wanted to know as he wrapped his large hand around Jimin’s penis, giving it a firm squeeze that caused Jimin to whimper.

“G-Green,” Jimin gasped.

Jungkook stared at Jimin for a moment longer, studying his beautiful features before he met his gaze again, looking deeply into Jimin’s doe eyes – almost as though he was trying to assure himself of Jimin being more than certain with his answer.

“I promise,” Jimin whispered, giving a nod to convey his consent.

The younger male pressed his lips to Jimin’s knee before he gave a nod as well.

Jimin’s heart fluttered at his considerate action that caused him to never fear that he was part of an unsafe environment during their intimate moments. No, Jimin felt comfortable and protected.

Teasingly slow, Jungkook tugged on Jimin’s hard length, drawing Jimin back to reality. The black haired boy wet his lips at the view of his lover below him – Jimin digging his teeth into his bottom lip as he observed Jungkook with big eyes, his hands above his head the way Jungkook had instructed him to, his milky legs spread apart for him to rest in between them.

“You just can’t behave, can you?” Jungkook sighed, shaking his head as he slapped the tips of his fingers across the head of Jimin’s erection once more.

“Kook-ah!” Jimin exclaimed, arching his back as his hands shot back down to cover himself again.

“Up,” Jungkook ordered. “Above your head, kitten. If you don’t behave, I’ll have to tie you up,” he warned.

The smaller boy inhaled a shaky breath, complying and returning his hands to their prior spot above his head.

Slap. Slap. Slap.

“N-No, aah!” Jimin shrieked, curling in on himself and covering his erection.

“Kitten,” Jungkook called out, his tone dominant and warning as he reached for something on the bed that was depicted beside Jimin. “Hands,” he ordered.

Whining, Jimin obliged the command without an insightful explanation of what Jungkook truly wanted, the pink haired one crossing his wrists over one another as he displayed them to Jungkook.

As predicted, Jungkook wrapped the tie he had previously removed from his neck around Jimin’s wrists, fastening the fabric tightly before he pulled on them and pinned them to the bed above Jimin’s head.

“These stay here, understood?” Jungkook insisted, hooking two of his fingers around Jimin’s collar and tugging on it, allowing their faces to be that much closer.

Impulsively, Jimin wet his lips, his gaze rushing down to Jungkook’s full lips. In their close proximity, Jimin couldn’t deny the yearning to kiss Jungkook, but he managed to refrain from that action as he was currently being scolded and punished – He shouldn’t push it.

“I asked you a question,” Jungkook growled.

Swiftly, Jimin gave a nod.

“No, do you understand?” the taller male urged. “If you don’t stop misbehaving, I’ll tie you to the bed and not touch you until tomorrow,” he threatened, his tone low.

“No, please don’t,” Jimin whined, vigorously shaking his head.

That punishment did not sound good at all!

Well…. Then again, that’s what a punishment was for…

“I understand. I-I’m sorry,” Jimin apologised softly.

For a moment, Jungkook’s gaze flickered back and forth between Jimin’s eyes. “Can you tell me your colour again?” he asked, his voice an ounce softer.

“Green,” Jimin assured.

“If it gets too much, you’ll call out your safe word for me, okay?” Jungkook reminded him, brushing Jimin’s pink fringe out of his face.

“Yes, Kook-ah,” Jimin uttered, his tone gentle as he gave a nod.
Jungkook straightened his back, allowing Jimin’s collar to slip from his grasp, causing the pink haired boy to fall flat on the soft sheets again. Devoid of any hesitance, Jungkook curled his hand around Jimin’s erection, his thumb rubbing over Jimin’s sensitive slit.

“Jungkook-ah,” Jimin mewed at the touch, arching his back into it.

_Slap. Slap._

“Wanted to be punished so badly, didn’t you?” Jungkook remarked after delivering two consecutive slaps to Jimin’s hard length in between his fist, then proceeding to jerk him off teasingly slow.

Involuntarily, Jimin attempted to draw his thighs together at the punishment and shield himself from any further rough treatment, yet was unable to do just that as Jungkook was resting in between them. Surprisingly, Jimin managed to obey and maintain his hands pressed to the bed above his head.

_Slap. Slap._

“N-No, Kook-ah!” Jimin cried out, tears prickling in the corner of his eyes as he squirmed around in an attempt to roll onto his side to hide his private parts.

However, Jungkook was swift to grab Jimin’s hips and push him back into the sheet, his grasp firm to convey his silent demand for Jimin to refrain from squirming around.

“Stop fussing,” Jungkook ordered, sending a smack to Jimin’s thigh as a warning.

Sniffing, Jimin gave a nod, his chest heaving as he spread his legs further open again, his body shaking in nervous anticipation, but pure arousal all the same.

It was odd – the mixture of those paradox feelings, baffling Jimin as to which one to strive for, which one was prevailing the other. There was the vibrant emotion of pain that belted out at Jimin to hide away and shield himself, yet then there was this vivid feeling of pure bliss and ecstasy, anticipation for more running through his veins that didn’t want this to end – the hot jolts of pleasure too good to let go.

_Slap. Slap._

The pink haired one gasped at the smacks, drawn out of his thoughts as a wave of pain spread within his body, just to chase a bigger series of jolts of pleasure down his core. “Answer me,” Jungkook insisted.

_Slap._

Jimin moaned high-pitched, tossing his head back into the sheets as his body flinched yet again at the smack he had received to his sensitive erection. “I… I just… wanted to… suck you off, Kook-ah,” Jimin sobbed, shaking his head.

The younger male hummed lowly. “Couldn’t resist, hm?”

“Jungkook-ah, please,” Jimin whined, not aware of what he was begging for, yet finding him do it all the same.

_Slap. Slap._

“Such a slut for my dick, aren’t you?” Jungkook remarked, the degrading term shocking Jimin, but somehow arousing him simultaneously.
“A-Ah, o-oh my god!” Jimin cried out as he curled in on himself, making a mess all over himself as he reached his orgasm without any warning; not having begged for permission either.

Frankly, Jimin certainly had not obtained any chance to ask Jungkook for his approval to begin with as he had not seen himself coming this swiftly either.

“Jungkook-ah!” he shrieked as he arched his back, his body vigorously shaking at the intensity of the feeling.

The taller male jerked him off through it, prolonging Jimin’s mind-blowing orgasm, yet then withdrawing to deliver a smack to Jimin’s bottom to scold the latter.

“Did you ask to come?” Jungkook wanted to know, his palm caressing the spot he had prior hit.

Sniffing, Jimin shook his head. “N-No,” he whispered.

“Did I permit you to come?” Jungkook inquired in spite of them both being aware of the answer already.

“No,” Jimin uttered, his cheeks flushing a darker shade of rose in shame.

It wasn’t even Jimin’s fault, though! No, Jimin wasn’t to blame! The pink haired boy had taken his punishment so well, his body just hadn’t warned him!

Jimin had been a good boy…

This was unfair!

“You just keep disobeying, baby boy,” the younger male sighed, shaking his head. “Can’t even take your punishment without misbehaving?”

“I-I’m sorry,” Jimin whispered, digging his teeth into his bottom lip as he sniffed again.

Firmly, Jungkook rolled Jimin over onto his stomach, freeing him from the restraint around his wrists before he grabbed his arms and pushed them to Jimin’s back.

In the twinkling of an eye, Jungkook had tied Jimin’s hands to his back, the smaller one disoriented as he was still up high in his sweet haze of ecstasy.

Breathing unevenly, Jimin pressed his cheek into the soft sheets beneath him, trying to steal a glimpse back at Jungkook, but ultimately being unsuccessful in the execution.

There was some rustling audible behind Jimin, causing him to wonder what was going on, but then not daring to speak without being allowed to open his mouth.

“On your knees, little one,” Jungkook ordered, positioning himself behind Jimin as he hooked one of his fingers around the back of Jimin’s collar as the other hand curled around Jimin’s tied wrists, applying enough pressure on them to tug the boy up to his knees.

At the harsh treatment, Jimin gasped, digging his teeth into his bottom lip as Jungkook pressed his chest against Jimin’s back, securing the latter against his body as he curled his hand around his own erection.

“I’m going to fuck you,” he stated, whispering those words right into Jimin’s ear, pumping his hard length a few times.

The smaller boy whimpered; his eyes fluttering shut as he found himself push his hips back into Jungkook’s nearly unconsciously.

“Your colour, baby, I need your colour,” Jungkook insisted, pressing the tip of his hard length against Jimin’s rim as he pulled on Jimin’s collar simultaneously in a nonverbal demand for him to refrain from moving.

“Green,” Jimin breathed out.

Without any hesitance, Jungkook slammed his hips forward and thrusted into Jimin, the latter gasping at the action, his hole granting Jungkook entrance with burning resistance, but Jimin found himself whimpering at the stretch, his abdomen clenching in arousal.

“Fuck,” Jungkook groaned, one of his hands curled around Jimin’s waist as the other one was hooked around Jimin’s collar to maintain him up on his knees – the two of them positive that Jimin wouldn’t manage to hold himself up with the way his body was trembling. “So damn tight,” he commented through gritted teeth.

“Ngh, Kook-ah,” Jimin whimpered, his lips parted to allow the sweetest moans to slip from them, Jungkook pressing his lips to the pink haired boy’s nape to nibble on his soft skin.

The black haired boy picked up a rapid pace, snapping his hips forward relentlessly, appearing to avoid Jimin’s prostate intentionally to tease him as he would naturally have located it in mere seconds by the vast knowledge of Jimin’s anatomy he possessed – an ability that Jimin himself lacked.

“P-Please,” Jimin cried out, feeling himself go limp in Jungkook’s strong embrace at the overstimulation his body was enduring – a phenomenon both bittersweet.

“What are you begging for, kitten? Speak up,” Jungkook ordered, tugging on Jimin’s pink locks to guide his face closer to his own.

“I-,” Jimin tried, but went silent as Jungkook proceeded to slam his hips forward, having slipped into his submissive state so deeply that it was difficult for him to comprehend any words the other one spoke. “I- Just- Please”

The taller male chuckled, amused by Jimin’s disoriented and frustrated being, the poor boy fucked into overstimulation that deeply and that far gone to the point of him lacking the ability to articulate himself.

One of Jungkook’s hands reached up to Jimin’s nipple, brushing over the sensitive bud, evoking a whine in Jimin as his body shuddered at the touch. “So responsive, aren’t you?”

“Koo,” Jimin whispered, his hips rolling back into Jungkook’s.

Jimin’s body was immensely receptive to each and every touch of Jungkook’s, as though he was the perfect drug – the impeccable intoxication to make Jimin feel alive in every fiber of his very being.

Suddenly, Jungkook delivered a slap to Jimin’s erection, his penis bouncing up and down at the force. The smaller boy hunched forward, shrieking at the punishment.

“You did this to yourself, kitten,” Jungkook remarked, tugging Jimin back up to his chest by his collar. “You asked for this. Now take it,” he demanded, curling his hand around Jimin’s sensitive penis – all red and leaking and so, so sensitive.
“No more, please,” Jimin begged, sobbing as he shook his head.

The younger male hummed in dissatisfaction, his thumb rubbing along the slit of Jimin’s erection before he pinched the head in between his index finger and thumb, evoking another whine in Jimin who squirmed around in his embrace.

“No!” Jimin cried out, shaking his head as he drooled all over himself.

“Take it,” Jungkook ordered, proceeding to snap his hips forward as he delivered another slap to the tip of Jimin’s hard length, showing no mercy.

Yet, he was correct – Jimin had in fact asked for this by pushing Jungkook, deliberately having disobeyed the latter’s orders because he had wanted to be punished so badly.

“Use your safe word, if you need me to stop,” Jungkook added, his tone softer as he pressed his lips to Jimin’s ear, the smaller one sniffing as he gave a faint nod.

“A-Argh, Kook-ah!” Jimin cried out again, Jungkook having thrusted that deeply into him, hitting his prostate with such a force that kicked the air out of Jimin’s lungs, his body going slack in Jungkook’s arms. “Oh god,” he sobbed, titling his head to the side to pant into the curve of Jungkook’s neck.

“There you go,” Jungkook noted, proceeding to jerk Jimin off while he rammed his hips forward, altering between pinching the tip of Jimin’s erection or slapping it with the tips of his fingers.

“A-aah!” the smaller boy shrieked, shaking his head as he squirmed around, his heart not managing to decide whether it needed to stop or whether it wanted more, the continuous battle within him puzzling him even more.

Yet, his heart... suddenly itched for something entirely different.

Abruptly, Jungkook stilled, his hand around Jimin’s neck applying enough pressure to force Jimin down on the sheets, the taller male pinning him into the bed as he pulled out of him.

Inhaling a shaky breath, Jimin bit down on the sheets beneath him, clenching his hands into petite fists as he discovered a change in heart.

“Kook-ah,” the pink haired boy found himself whisper.

“Yes?”

“Can you please untie these?” Jimin asked, his tone soft.

“I’m not finished with you, kitten,” Jungkook declared, his warm palm rubbing over Jimin’s thigh, leaving a trail of goose bumps behind.

“Please?” Jimin uttered, pressing his cheek into the sheets.

“Are you... are you hurt?” Jungkook wanted to know, concern audible in his voice, the boy immediately reaching out to unfasten the tie around Jimin’s wrist. “Did I hurt you, angel?”

The smaller boy shook his head, rubbing over his wrists before he sat up and placed his delicate hands on Jungkook’s broad shoulders. Gently, he applied some pressure, pushing Jungkook down on the soft sheets before he swung his leg over his body and straddled him.

“I just... May I ride you?” Jimin asked softly, the tips of his petite fingers tracing over Jungkook’s

Endeared, Jungkook smiled warmly at him, his hands curving around Jimin’s hips. “Of course, little one,” he uttered, no ounce of refusal or anger at Jimin’s change of heart. “Come here, angel”

Shyly, Jimin lifted his hips up, Jungkook curling his hand around his own erection with the intention of pushing the tip to Jimin’s rim. Carefully, the smaller one sank down on his hard length, his eyes fluttering shut at the welcoming stretch.

“A-Ah,” Jimin breathed out, catching his bottom lip between his teeth as Jungkook assisted Jimin in rolling his hips down against his own, his large palms curled around Jimin’s waist.

“Jimin-ah,” Jungkook uttered, sitting up to be even closer to Jimin, their bodies pressed against one another as Jimin proceeded to roll his hips around. “So good, angel, you’re doing so good,” the younger male praised softly, Jimin being fascinated by the absolutely different feeling he now exuded in comparison to just minutes ago.

Gently, Jungkook reached for Jimin’s wrist, lifting it up to his mouth to press his lips to the reddened skin, almost as if to soothe the marks that were attributable to Jimin’s hands having been tied by him.

“Jungkook-ah,” Jimin whimpered, wrapping his arms around Jungkook’s neck as he leaned in to attach their lips in a hesitant kiss.

The black haired boy breathed into the kiss before he moved his own lips against Jimin’s, swift to close his strong arms around Jimin’s upper body and pull him even tighter.

Their kiss grew deeper, passionately – They didn’t withdraw from one another; not even for a split second with the purpose of catching their breath. No, the thought of parting for another even minor duration sounded worse than suffocating.

At one particular motion of his own hips that stimulated his prostate, Jimin gasped as he squeezed his eyes shut, pushing his forehead against Jungkook’s. “Kook-ah,” Jimin whispered, inclining down and panting in the curve of Jungkook’s neck.

“Sssh, it’s okay,” Jungkook murmured into his ear, peppering kisses over Jimin’s shoulder as he assisted Jimin in bouncing up and down on his lap.

Somehow, it was peculiar for Jimin to replay the sudden turn of events in his mind – what had started in such a dominantly rough and power-filled way had grown into something so intimately sweet and heart-rending in a few minutes.

There was no longer a sign of their prior dynamics – no submission, no authority, no precipitancy in their movements, just purity. Yes, purity by the sensually intimate way they were connected with one another.

“Ngh,” Jimin gasped, digging his fingers into Jungkook’s shoulders as his abdomen clenched to announce his swift approach to his orgasm. “I-I’m- Kook-ah, please-”

“I got you, little one,” Jungkook declared, his lips still pressed to Jimin’s shoulder. “Just let go,” he whispered.

Hiding his face in the curve of Jungkook’s neck, Jimin rolled his hips forward two, three more times before he froze and shrieked, his body vigorously trembling in Jungkook’s comforting embrace as he found his release.
“There you go,” Jungkook noted, proceeding to roll Jimin’s hips back and forth to prolong his sweet orgasm as the other one was gasping for air, his chest heaving.

The smaller male whined, going slack in Jungkook’s strong arms, but then determined to have Jungkook come for him as well. Disregarding the overstimulation he was forcing himself into, Jimin rolled his hips back and forth, nuzzling his face into Jungkook’s neck.

“Come for me,” Jimin then whispered into Jungkook’s ear. “Please,” he added, clenching around Jungkook’s hard length.

“Fuck,” Jungkook cursed, his grasp around Jimin tightening as he attained his own orgasm, releasing into Jimin who moaned breathily at the feeling of being filled by Jungkook.

The younger boy fell back on the sheets as he caught his breath, sweat glistening on his chest, a small puddle of Jimin’s sperm displayed on his stomach. Gently, Jimin traced the tips of his fingers along Jungkook’s chest, smiling shyly as he met the other’s gaze.

Sleepily, Jimin lowered himself down on top of him, not bothered by the sperm that was now sticking to his own body.

“All good?” Jungkook wanted to know, brushing Jimin’s fringe out from his sweaty forehead before he pressed his lips to his temple.

“Mhm-mh,” Jimin hummed, giving a faint nod as he nuzzled his cheek into Jungkook’s chest.

Carefully, Jungkook pulled out of Jimin, but the pink haired one whined in disapproval and chased back after him.

“No,” he mumbled, shaking his head. “Stay,” he requested softly. “Please, just… just for a little”

“Oh, my goodness,” Jungkook uttered, giving a nod as he captured Jimin’s lips in a small peck. “Okay, little one,” he added before he placed his hand on Jimin’s back, caressing his soft skin. “Are you really okay, angel?”

“I am,” Jimin retorted. “I promise”

“I want you to be honest. Was I too harsh? Is that why you- “

“No,” Jimin interrupted him, shaking his head. “I don’t know…. I just, I wanted to be closer to you. I didn’t do that because you were too rough. I… I enjoyed that. All of it,” he assured with a gentle smile. “I didn’t… didn’t do that to escape my punishment either”

“I didn’t think you did, angel,” Jungkook stated with a smile.

“I guess I didn’t know what I wanted today,” Jimin expressed, propping his chin up on his fist as he met Jungkook’s gaze.

“That’s okay, little one,” the taller male asserted, stroking Jimin’s cheek.

Timidly, Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth as he tilted his head to the side. “Do I still need to be punished?”

At his question, Jungkook chuckled, amusement gleaming in his eyes as he arched up his brows. “Do you want me to punish you?” he wondered, his hand roaming down Jimin’s back, moving closer to his bottom.
The smaller boy’s cheeks flushed a shade of rose as he hid his face in the curve of Jungkook’s neck.

“You’ve taken enough for today, baby,” Jungkook chuckled, shaking his head.

“So, I’m good again?” Jimin whispered.

“You’re always good, little one,” Jungkook stressed softly. “My good boy”

Jimin’s heart quivered at the praise, a bashful smile embellishing his pretty features.

“Let’s wash you up, hm?”

The pink haired boy grumbled in dissatisfaction, clinging onto Jungkook tighter, yet didn’t verbally protest the way he naturally tended to because he didn’t want to leave the comfort of Jungkook’s embrace.

Being used to Jimin’s frequent objection of leaving the bed after their intimate moments, Jungkook chuckled in amusement, bribing Jimin with the promise of cuddles and kisses before got up from the bed. Effortlessly, he heaved Jimin up, the smaller one gasping as Jungkook’s penis slipped from his hole, impulsively curling himself around Jungkook’s upper body.

“You only won because of the cuddles,” Jimin murmured, resting his head on Jungkook’s shoulder as he was carried into the bathroom. “Without them I wouldn’t have left the bed”

Laughing, Jungkook gave a nod. “I know,” he retorted. “Then again, you’re not exactly difficult to pick up”

“Using that weapon was unfair,” Jimin whispered as he was sat down on the counter.

“All is fair in love and war,” Jungkook stated with a smile.

The smaller boy giggled, shaking his head. “You’re silly.”

“You’re pretty”

Jimin rolled his eyes, but his heart fluttered all the same as he lowered his head, trying to hide the shade of rose that adorned his cheeks at the compliment as Jungkook turned to fill the bath.

******

Quietly, Jimin shut the door close to the apartment, stepping out into the hallway as he smiled to himself, still silently giggling at the stories of Taehyung’s shenanigans during their school days that they had reminisced over together.

Suddenly, a silhouette moved beside Jimin, some rustling audible in the small hallway that startled Jimin, causing him to turn his head to the side in order to enlighten himself on the identity of the person.

“Hyung?” Jimin uttered astonished, his eyes going wide upon the sight of Yoongi.

The older boy halted; his back turned to Jimin as though he had intended to leave but was forced to freeze upon being caught. Slowly, he turned back around, a flustered smile adorning his face.

“O-Oh,” Yoongi breathed, clearing his throat. “Hey, Jimin-ah”

Why was he here?
“What are you doing here?” Jimin wanted to know, puzzled by the sight of him.

“I...” Yoongi tried but went silent instead.

“Yes?” Jimin urged, arching up his eyebrows.

Maybe, it was obvious, but Jimin didn’t want to assess the situation without hearing Yoongi verbally admit to it himself – until then, Jimin wasn’t going to believe in his own assumption.

“I came to talk to Tae-ssi,” Yoongi revealed.

At his words, Jimin’s heart skipped a beat.

“Then... why are you leaving?” the smaller boy asked, frowning at Yoongi’s contradicting words and action.

If he was truly here to talk to them – if he had the guts to turn up here after that many days of utter silence and lack of any contact that had left Tae and Hoseok in heartbreak, his decision must be more than vivid within him, anchored that deeply and wholly in his heart that there was no doubt in his mind.

Yet, if that was the case, then why had he meant to leave?

Why come here now, if he wasn’t absolutely certain in his choice?

“I... I wasn't,” Yoongi responded, trying to convince Jimin – or maybe himself.

Unimpressed, Jimin crossed his arms over his chest, shaking his head. “Hyung,” he emphasised the title, not allowing Yoongi to attempt and fool him – especially as it wasn’t even a solid effort. No, not by all means.

“I wasn't sure whether he was already asleep,” Yoongi reasoned, clearing his throat.

“He's not,” Jimin informed him, having just talked to him a few seconds ago before he had decided to leave.

“Oh,” Yoongi breathed.

They stared at one another, neither of them averting their gazes.

“Are you going in then?” Jimin wondered, not exactly minding their eye contact, but then certain that this wasn’t leading anywhere either.

“Is Hoseok-ah there?” the older one asked.

“No, but he's coming over soon,” Jimin replied, recalling Taehyung having mentioned that Hoseok was intending to come over later during their conversation.

“Oh, Yoongi uttered, giving a nod. “Maybe, I'll just... I'll just wait then,” he added, scanning his surroundings as though he was searching for something particular. “For him to arrive, you know?”

“In Tae's apartment?” Jimin concluded, pulling up his brows in curiosity, but also surprise.

“No, just... just here,” he replied, shaking his head. “On the stairs,” he elaborated, indicating to sit down on the cold floor, the stairs beneath his feet creaking as he moved around – The sound reminding Jimin of how old the building was.
“Why?” Jimin asked, frowning.

After all, if he was already here, he might as well talk to Taehyung now, right?

“I want to talk to both of them,” Yoongi explained.

“Why didn't you call?” the pink haired boy wondered, asking a valid question there – at least as long as Jimin was concerned.

If Yoongi had called them first, they would have been able to negotiate a time and place for them to meet up, establishing a set situation for them to talk and allow themselves to pour out their hearts.

This way, Taehyung and Hoseok were going to be hit by a truck at full speed – not expecting Yoongi to appear in front of Tae’s apartment in the middle of the night to talk to them after all these days of absolute silence.

Yet, he was here now… he was here.

Better late than never, right?

Yoongi wet his lips. “It was... it was a rather intuitive decision,” he expressed, grasping a bundle of his white shirt – Jimin noticing that it was drenched, causing it to be sheer.

Why was his shirt all wet?

“I wasn't... I wasn't even planning on coming here,” Yoongi added in distraught, running his hand through his hair. “I was just- I was grocery shopping,” he revealed frustrated, lifting his hand up into the air, Jimin realising that there had been a grocery bag dangling from his fist this whole time. “And then- Fuck, I couldn't bear it any longer,” he swore, shaking his head. “I found myself running here like a madman,” he stressed. “It's raining. It's fucking pouring,” that explained his wet shirt, Jimin thought. “And I didn't even take a cab or my car or anything because I just wanted to do a quick run to the grocery store down my street, but then-,” he blurted, Jimin struggling to decipher every syllable of his, but managing to register just enough to put the pieces together and form a coherent sentence.

Suddenly, the door to Taehyung’s apartment opened up.

Through it all, Yoongi was still talking, but went silent as soon as Tae’s head peeped out of the small apartment.

“Hyung?” Tae whispered; his eyes big at the sight of the older one.

Silence.

“Tae,” Yoongi breathed.

Thud.

The grocery bag had slipped from Yoongi’s grasp, falling to the floor. However, he clearly couldn’t be bothered to pick up his belongings, a can of beans rolling towards Jimin’s feet. The smaller boy didn’t even flinch at the sound, the tension so high in the air that he didn’t dare to move, didn’t dare to even make a tiny sound.

Jimin was holding his breath.

It was as though time no longer existed – a few seconds feeling like an eternity, the two boys just proceeding to stare into one another’s eyes without a word.

“I heard your voice,” Taehyung whispered eventually, stepping outside to reveal his entire figure, his delicate body adorned by his pyjamas that he had put on earlier to be comfy, Jimin finding himself smile at the images of little puppies on the fabric.

“Tae-yah, I-,” Yoongi uttered, taking a step closer, but halting again.

Despite Jimin not being involved at all – frankly, he was nearly certain that Taehyung had disregarded Jimin’s presence entirely as he was not sparing him a glance at all, not that Jimin minded that, though – his heart was beating so incredibly fast, causing Jimin to fear that it was going to break out of his ribcage and fall into his hands any moment.

“Hyung, what... what are you doing here?” Taehyung interrupted him, his voice barely above a whisper, his tone carrying a hint of fragile vulnerability – enough to evoke a sense of aching in Jimin’s heart.

“I-”

Bing.

In the twinkling of an eye, the elevator doors had opened up, revealing… Hoseok.

“Sunshine, you're already-,” Hoseok’s light voice pierced through the heavy tension in the air between them.

Yet then, the boy lifted his head up, immediately stilling as though he had crashed into a wall.

“Hyung?” he whispered at the sight of Yoongi.

The pink haired boy felt as though he was caught in the midst of it all, having been teleported right into one of those dramatic scenes in a rom-com movie that contained a little too much angst for his poor heart to bear.

Nervously, Jimin pulled the sleeves of his hoodie over his petite hands, creating the image of sweater paws as his gaze flickered back and forth between their three faces.

For a split moment, Hoseok stole a glimpse at the mess to their feet, but the sight didn’t affect him at all. Instead, he met Yoongi’s gaze.

“I-”

Hoseok studied his features, an emotion flashing in his eyes that Jimin wasn’t capable to define, but it was the same one he had observed depicted in Taehyung’s eyes upon the sight of Yoongi. “We haven’t seen you for... for so long”

“I know, I-,” the oldest one uttered.

“You didn't respond at all,” Hoseok elaborated.

“I know, I'm sorry, I-,” Yoongi tried again.

“It hurt,” Taehyung interrupted him, his voice just above a whisper.

“I'm sorry,” Yoongi whispered, squeezing his eyes shut as he pressed his fist to his forehead. “I know... can we- is it okay for me to come inside?” he asked, his eyes flickering back and forth from Taehyung’s to Hoseok’s face. “Please, just... I need to talk to you,” he begged.

Silence.

The smaller boy held his breath at the high tension.

Hoseok and Taehyung shared a gaze.

Then, Taehyung turned around and walked back inside his apartment, smashing his door close on his way in.

The audible thud startled Jimin and Yoongi, the two of them wincing at the sound that was still ringing in their ears, somehow amplified in the silence among them, and the emotional representation of the act – the nonverbal display of Taehyung’s refusal to allow Yoongi to talk to them.

Carefully, Jimin stole a glimpse at Yoongi, his heart breaking at the sight of his defeated expression.

“Please,” Yoongi whispered.

Suddenly, the door to Taehyung’s apartment opened up again, the blond haired one returning to the hallway.

“Okay,” Taehyung uttered, giving a nod before he spun around and stormed back into his apartment.

This time, the door was left open, allowing Hoseok to follow after him.

The oldest one stared at it for a moment longer before he rushed after them, presumably scared that they were going to change their minds again and kick Yoongi out.

Thud.

The door fell shut.

From one moment to the other, Jimin was left all alone, standing there in the hallway by himself. Yet, he found himself smiling, not minding them ignoring his presence, if it was for them to obtain the deserving chance to talk to one another.

Exhaling a breath Jimin hadn’t noticed of holding, he crouched down to the floor, collecting Yoongi’s scattered groceries and returning them into the bag. Fortunately, nothing of it had broken or spilled – somehow managing to stay whole.

Stealing another glimpse at Taehyung’s apartment door, Jimin headed towards his own place, pushing the door open before he went inside and shut it behind himself, lastly pressing his back against the wall with a hopeful heart.

***

The smaller boy furrowed his brows, setting his mug down on the table and approaching his front door. After grabbing the door handle, he pulled his door open, revealing a figure standing in front of his apartment.

Yoongi.

“Hey,” the older one greeted, flashing Jimin a soft smile.
“Hyung,” Jimin uttered, studying his appearance – his messy hair and tired eyes a clear display of his lack of sleep, yet… there was happiness gleaming in his eyes.

Jimin’s heart fluttered, hope residing in his chest.

“I didn’t know whether you were still asleep,” Yoongi stated, presumably referring to him having chosen to knock on Jimin’s door instead of using the bell.

“I’m not,” Jimin smiled, itching to ask how things had went, but then not certain whether it was right for him to do just that.

“My groceries,” Yoongi reminded him with a clearing of his throat. “By any chance, have you- “

“I put them in my fridge,” Jimin retorted with a soft smile. “Come on in”

“Thank you,” the older one uttered as he entered Jimin’s apartment, the latter shutting the door behind him.

For a moment, Yoongi just awkwardly stood there, but then he closed the distance between them and pulled Jimin into a warm embrace, his grasp tight as he hid his face in the curve of Jimin’s neck.

Slightly puzzled by the sudden action, Jimin’s eyes went big, but he didn’t hesitate to return the hug, snuggling against Yoongi as he rested his head on his shoulder.

What was this for? Jimin nearly found himself ask but was merely capable to refrain from speaking at all.

 Somehow, it didn’t seem right to talk right now, the moment possessing something so intimately fragile and silent that Jimin didn’t want to disrupt it with his voice.

“Thank you,” Yoongi whispered again, this time a lot quieter and softer, almost as though those words were just meant for Jimin to hear – despite them being the only ones present in the room anyway.

Slowly, they withdrew from one another, Jimin reaching for Yoongi’s hand and pulling him over to his sofa, not saying anything to explain his behaviour, but Yoongi didn’t resist.

“Hyung,” Jimin uttered softly, feeling as though it was wrong for him to raise the volume of his voice any louder than this, as they sat down on the cushions.

“Yes?”

“May I ask what changed your mind?” Jimin wanted to know.

The older one furrowed his brows. “What do you mean?” he questioned instead.

“Why did you decide to talk to them in the end?” Jimin clarified.

For a moment, Yoongi just stared at a spot somewhere behind Jimin, a gentle smile curving his lips as he met Jimin’s gaze again. “Well... there were many factors that contributed to that,” he responded, scratching over the back of his neck. “I just- …. You and Jungkook-ah were right. I was scared,” he admitted.

Wait... Jungkook?

“Jungkook-ah?” Jimin echoed, his eyes big as he titled his head to the side. “Did he talk to you?”
When did that happen?

Why had Jungkook not said a word?

Then again, Jimin had not mentioned a word about all of this either, so it was unfair for him to be shocked by Jungkook not talking to him about it.

“Yes, he... he talked some sense into me like you did...,” Yoongi uttered, giving a nod as his smile carried something gloomy.

“I might have fucked up big time,” Yoongi declared, slightly slurring his words, an audible display of his intoxication.

“What did you do?” Jungkook wanted to know, sipping on his coke as he stole a glimpse at Yoongi. However, the other one didn't meet his eyes, but appeared to prefer to stare at the wall across from them, maybe too focused on his own thoughts.

Yoongi hesitated, taking some time to answer.

“Fell in love,” Yoongi revealed eventually, catching Jungkook off guard as he had expected some actual fucked up shit.

“That's not fucked up, Hyung,” Jungkook commented, chuckling at his revelation.

If anything, Jungkook was just as fucked up then as he was head over heels for a certain pink haired boy. Fuck, he was whipped. Well, he would kick himself in the ass before he would ever admit to that in the presence of anyone else, but it was true.

Jungkook loved Jimin more than anything else in this world – more than he had ever loved anything at all.

“With Hoseok-ssi,” Yoongi added, interrupting Jungkook's thoughts that had started to revolve around Jimin, his adorable face and giggles having appeared in Jungkook's mind and creating a fond smile on his face.

However, as soon as his ears registered Yoongi's words, his brain was quiet.

For a moment, there was utter silence.

The black haired boy halted his hand mid-air, blinking before he turned his head toward the other male. In a way, his brain was almost certain that his ears might have deceived him, yet then Yoongi's eyes were telling him that it was in fact nothing but entirely true.

Frankly, this wasn't anything Jungkook had not assumed for a long time. After all, he had seen those stares that he had given Hoseok, had known about their shared kiss. Despite it being ages ago, Jungkook had always believed that it had been valuable to Yoongi.

“Oh,” Jungkook responded, clearing his throat. “Well, you were for a while, weren’t-”

“And Tae-ssi,” Yoongi interrupted him, his voice quieter and barely piercing through Jungkook's words, causing Jungkook to proceed with his own sentence for a good three seconds.

“So, I guess that- Wait, what?” Jungkook exclaimed, furrowing his brows upon registering those words.
This time, his ears were definitely fucking with him.

“Welcome to the chaos that is my life,” Yoongi stated, a humourless laugh slipping from his lips as he raised his hand up into the air before he emptied his drink in one shot.

“Hyung, what did you just say?” Jungkook pressed, turning his body towards his friend.

Finally, Yoongi met his gaze, an emotion flashing in the blond haired boy's eyes. For a moment, it appeared to be pain, but it was gone as soon as Jungkook had managed to define it, causing him to doubt whether it had ever been there at all to begin with.

“I'm in love with Hoseok-ah and Taehyung-ah,” Yoongi declared. “Might have felt that way before they ever even kissed me, but just never realised it,” he elaborated conversationally, shrugging his shoulders.

In way, it seemed as though Yoongi was trying to uphold an almost nonchalant demeanor, tried to maintain the picture of him being casual about this as though it wasn't possessing the significance it actually did.

To be honest, Jungkook was still majorly caught off guard.

Was Yoongi fucking with him? Was he that drunk that he thought it was funny to pull this kind of shit?

Yet, there was something glistening behind his eyes that Jungkook knew had to be-

“I knew it was going to happen,” Yoongi added. “The first time Tae-yah kissed me I felt it in my heart. I knew I was going to fall, and I knew I should have stopped it, but I just couldn't. I tried to convince myself that it could stay platonic, but that- Fuck, we both know that shit like that doesn’t work out. It was foolish of me to think that,” he went on. “Did I tell you before that I'm pretty fucking stupid?” he wondered, scoffing at himself.

“How long?” Jungkook simply asked.

“A couple of weeks,” Yoongi responded, somehow glad that Jungkook was ignoring his prior words and didn't make a big fuss about him revealing the deeply anchored feelings that were residing in his heart for two of their closest friends.

In his drunken state, Yoongi struggled to contain certain thoughts and feelings – potentially revealing shit he hadn't intended to ever say out loud.

However, in a way, it wasn't as horrible to finally say those words out loud.

At least, Jungkook didn't make it into such a big deal, thus treating it as though it was a simple matter and not something uniquely chaotic that was fucking with Yoongi's heart and brain.

“You fucked?” the taller male wanted to know.

“Take a guess,” Yoongi replied, rolling his eyes at the question he believed was redundant.

“Hyung-,” Jungkook tried but went silent as soon as Yoongi opened his mouth again.

“I know,” Yoongi sighed, appearing to be aware of what Jungkook had meant to say before the latter even knew.

“Did you tell them?” Jungkook wondered.
The older one dipped his head down, shaking his head. “No”

“Do they know?” Jungkook pressed.

“Tae-yah confessed that he likes me,” Yoongi stated, a small smile on his face at the thought of his adorable expression, but then Yoongi shook his head and the smile on his face faltered as soon as Jungkook had believed of having seen it.

“Shit, then what are you mourning over?” Jungkook asked, frowning at his friend. “They want you just as much, so what’s the issue?”

Why was Yoongi saying that he fucked up? What was the problem? If they confessed to him and he loved them, too, then-

Oh.

Maybe, Jungkook had an idea as to why Yoongi was struggling with all of this.

“Then what, Jungkook-ah?” Yoongi urged.

“Get together with them,” Jungkook answered, as though it was the most obvious answer there was — as though that decision was that easy.

Perhaps, it was to him, yet not to Yoongi.

“I... That's- I can’t,” Yoongi stuttered, shaking his head like it was the most absurd idea he had ever been made aware of.

“Why can’t you?” Jungkook wanted to know, but there was an assumption blooming within him that he estimated held some truth.

“Because,” the older one simply uttered, but then averted his gaze.

It wasn’t difficult for Jungkook to assess the situation. To him, it was easy to understand where the problem was located.

“Shit, you’re a fucking coward,” Jungkook accused.

“Shut the fuck up,” Yoongi cursed, frowning at Jungkook's words. “I'm not a coward,” he defended, appearing to be insulted, yet also avoiding eye contact which caused Jungkook to believe that he felt vulnerable — thus, he might not agree with his own statement entirely either.

“You are,” Jungkook emphasised. “You're scared of letting yourself fall like that again,” he added. “You're scared of trusting them, but having them break your heart in the midst of it”

It wasn't anything Jungkook had never felt before either.

Fuck, it wasn’t easy to trust someone that much — wasn’t easy to allow your heart to open up to someone like that and invite them in, allowing them to see all of your flaws, allowing them to be your everything.

“What are you, huh?” Yoongi mumbled, poking his tongue into his cheek as he rubbed his index finger along the cup in his hand. “Some fucking psychologist? Go fuck yourself”

“Dammit, Hyung,” Jungkook responded. “You know Hoseok Hyung and Taehyung-ssi. Why can't you trust them?”
“I do trust them,” Yoongi protested, frowning as he leaned forward.

“What’s holding you back then?” Jungkook wanted to know.

Yoongi caught his bottom lip between his teeth. “I don’t know. Fuck, I don’t know,” he sighed, rubbing his palm over his face as he sank back into the sofa.

“You do know,” Jungkook disagreed.

“No, Jungkook-ah, I-,” Yoongi protested.

“You know that you’re scared, Hyung, but you have to stop believing that you’ll be put through that shit again,” Jungkook interrupted him, aware that he was stepping into dangerous territory now, but fuck it. Damn, he needed to say this. “Not everyone is like Yuri-ssi, okay?”

Yoongi’s head snapped up, his gaze piercing through Jungkook, an emotion flashing behind his brown orbs as soon as his ears had registered that name.

“Don’t you dare-,” Yoongi warned through gritted teeth, clearly tensing at the name.

“Yuri was fucked up and used your heart, Hyung,” Jungkook added, potentially crossing a boundary there, but he didn’t care. “Just because-”

“Shut up, Jungkook-ah,” Yoongi demanded firmly, his voice having raised in volume.

“No, Hyung,” Jungkook replied, not intimidated by Yoongi’s demeanor at all. “I won’t just shut up. I’m not going to sit here and watch you be miserable. Yuri didn’t deserve you and you know that,” he stressed. “Hoseok Hyung and Taehyung-ssi do. They deserve you and you deserve them. If you don’t want to see that, then-”

“I said shut up!” Yoongi shouted, tossing his cup away as he got up to his feet, spilling his drink all over his floor. “Don’t talk about Yuri-yah! This is not about her!” he warned through gritted teeth.

“Then what is it about?” Jungkook challenged, knowing so damn well that he was right. “Hyung, stop lying to yourself,” Jungkook insisted, pointing his flat hand to the side at no one in particular. “You know it’s about her. You know she broke you years ago and you’ve been too scar-”

“Leave!” Yoongi demanded, clearly angered as he interrupted Jungkook yet again. “I don’t want to hear any of that shit!” he exclaimed, running his hand through his messy blond hair, his chest heaving.

“Hyung-,” Jungkook tried, not having intended to cause Yoongi’s temper to go through the fucking roof as he fucking lost it entirely. In a way, he had meant to get him mad, yes, but just in order for him to realise his own lies and see the truth.

“Fuck, no,” Yoongi interrupted, swallowing hard as he shook his head, studying Jungkook’s features for a moment as he took a step back. “Just- Jungkook-ah. Don’t. I don’t want to hear that,” he almost begged, his voice no longer full of anger, but rather quiet and almost vulnerable. “Just-Leave”

Jungkook couldn’t bear to just sit here and listen to him pity himself while he had those two boys waiting for him to return their feelings – which he evidently did. No, it was fucking Jungkook up to see his brother be this miserable over something that had happened years ago.

Fuck, Yoongi deserved to feel love again – deserved it so damn much.
Maybe, having this conversation with a drunk Yoongi hadn’t been the smartest idea, though. Clearly, he was shit full and not capable to deal with this.

It might be better for Jungkook to leave so Yoongi could calm down and sober up.

“You deserve to be happy,” Jungkook commented as he got up to his feet. “You deserve to love and be loved, Hyung”

“Hyung,” Jimin whispered, a tear rolling down his cheek. “I… You…”

“I know,” Yoongi sighed. “I… fucked up. I was drunk and I lost my temper. I don’t usually act like that, you know that, I just… I get sensitive when she is brought up and it gets even worse when I’m drunk as shit,” he explained his behaviour – appearing to believe that Jimin’s tears were attributable to the way he had treated Jungkook.

Frankly, Jimin was unable to undoubtably assert why exactly he was crying – a fact that he had only noticed by the wetness on his palms that he was now hiding by pulling the sleeves of his shirt over his petite hands – but he believed that it was a mixture of all of this; the bottled up emotions over the past days regarding the uncertainty of Yoongi’s feelings towards Tae and Hoseok, the potential revelation of him having a past relationship that had still haunted him years later and the thought of him trying to kill his sorrow with alcohol.

“Hyung, who is she?” Jimin wanted to know, sniffing as he wiped his sweater paw over his own nose.

“Yuri-yah was my girlfriend,” Yoongi responded.

“You never… told me about her,” Jimin uttered, his voice soft, but not accusing at all.

“I tried not to think about her,” Yoongi expressed. “It happened years ago, but I couldn’t deal with what it did to my heart, so I just tried to oppress any thought about her and forget about her,” he elaborated.

“What happened between you two?”

“It…”

“I’m sorry, you don’t have to tell me,” Jimin swiftly commented.

“I thought I loved her,” Yoongi declared. “I thought she… I thought she was my first love. I thought she loved me, too, but… well, she didn’t,” he added, his voice turning quieter with each syllable of his.

“It ended badly?” Jimin concluded.

“Very bad,” the older one affirmed, giving a nod. “She always had a way with words, twisting everything in her favour, but I never quite saw that because- fuck, love makes you blind, I guess,” he cursed. “She was good at getting people to do what she wants”

“She was manipulative?”

“Yes, in a way,” Yoongi agreed, pressing his lips into a line as he clearly deliberated over whether or not to elaborate. In the end, he inhaled a deep breath before he spoke up again. “I found out she was cheating on me,” he revealed, Jimin’s heart clenching as soon as those words had fallen from his lips. “She was for a while and when I found out I confronted her. However, she didn’t admit; twisting my words and making it seem like I didn’t trust her, that I trusted a friend of mine more than her despite him swearing that he had seen her make out with another man before she disappeared into a room with him at a party that I was absent at,” he expressed, his gaze fixated on the floor rather than Jimin, his eyes appearing almost hollow as he reminisced over that time of his life.

The pink haired boy found himself reach for Yoongi’s hand, interlacing their fingers as though he needed to make sure that Yoongi was aware of his presence, that he was aware that they were connected in a way.

“I… I believed her. I thought that I might have overreacted, that my friend might have seen someone else, not her, not Yuri-ssi,” he whispered. “I wanted to believe her so bad, so I just convinced myself that she was telling the truth despite of what my gut was telling me”

Somehow, that was a familiar feeling to Jimin…

For quite a few weeks, Jimin possessed a rather similar feeling – Not regarding anything cheating related, but… just… about something unsettling that he couldn’t define nor figure out.

The smaller boy shook his head at his own thoughts.

“Well, things just kept piling up. I saw her less; I heard more rumours about her. But every time I confronted her, she started crying and she... she screamed at me- she screamed at me for being a bad boyfriend and not believing her, when that was supposed to be my obligation,” Yoongi elaborated. “She was mad at me for not trusting her and she claimed that she would never mistrust me that way. It fucked with my mind. I blamed myself. I started to… to look at myself and search for stuff that I did wrong that could have caused her to cheat on me. How fucked up was that?”

Jimin didn’t answer, feeling as though his question was rhetorical – or perhaps not even addressed at Jimin as Yoongi was remaining to stare at the floor.

“I didn’t know what to believe- who to believe. The worst thing is- I saw her. I saw her make out with another man right in front of my eyes. I broke up with her, but not for long. I was trapped. I… I couldn’t leave, my feelings for her were too deep for me to let her go,” he added, shaking his head at himself. “We broke up and got back together numerous times – too many for me to count. It was a constant back and forth. We argued nearly every day and I just never had the guts to end it completely. It just got heavier and heavier. Neither of us wanted to leave – I didn’t want to lose her, and she didn’t want to lose the convenience of having me, of knowing that she could always have me.”

Yoongi’s voice sounded so raw and vulnerable, depicting how fragile he was truly feeling.

A continuous circle that had led nowhere, but put them into pure misery the longer they had proceeded to stay on.

“I never had it in me to leave, but in the end, she was the one that left me for another boy. One of the guys she had hooked up with behind my back. It broke me. I was young and I really thought she was my first love, you know? It hurt when things ended although I knew that it was for the better. I was freed from her game. Finally.”

“Hyung, I’m… I’m so sorry, that- “

“Don’t be, Min-ah,” Yoongi interrupted as he met Jimin’s gaze with a warm smile. “It’s been a while. I’ve… I’ve thought about us a lot for the past days and I think I finally found my closure”

Jimin was aware of how a scarring past was able to haunt your life even years later. Hence, he was more than relieved to hear that Yoongi had managed to fight his demons and find his closure, finally capable to put an end to that and allow himself to find the love he deserved.

“I’m happy to hear that, Hyung,” Jimin whispered genuinely.

“Yeah, me… me, too,” Yoongi uttered, giving a small nod. “I know that I can trust Hoseok-ah and Tae-yah. They’re… Fuck, I’ve known them for such a long time. I loved them before I ever touched them. How had I not seen that from the start?”

There it was.

Finally, the oblivious void had been filled with Yoongi’s enlightenment.

All this time, he had in fact been in love with them.

“Don’t blame yourself, Hyung,” Jimin assured him, giving his hand a gentle squeeze. “Your heart was damaged. You were scared”

“I’m just glad that they took me back,” the older one noted, a soft chuckle falling from his lips.

They did.

Thank God, they did.

“I can’t express how happy I am for you, Hyung. For all three of you,” Jimin declared with a bright smile.

“Thank you, Min-ah,” Yoongi responded, pulling Jimin into another warm embrace.

“I love you, Hyung,” Jimin whispered into the curve of his neck.

“I love you, too,” the older one muttered back, smiling against Jimin.

******

“Min-ah, hey,” Hoseok greeted through the phone, his voice sounding somehow unfamiliar as it was slightly huskier, yet still undoubtably belonging to him.

“Hyung, you don't sound very good,” Jimin noted, his eyes going big at the realisation of Hoseok possibly being sick.

“I don't feel that great either” he chuckled, “I'm sick. A cold and the flue – just my luck. I won't be able to make it today, I'm incredibly sorry,” he informed Jimin, his voice carrying a fraction of guilt, causing Jimin’s heart to clench.

There was absolutely no reason for Hoseok to feel guilty for being sick!

“I'll send you the schedule for today, it's really nothing major. The trainees are just ought to repeat the choreography,” he expressed, turning away from the phone to cough – a fact that was displayed by the quiet sound of his coughs in comparison to his voice – before he added, “We were also supposed to do some of the paperwork today, but I'll take care of that from home, so you don’t have to worry about that.”
“Do you need anything?” Jimin wanted to know, leaning against the wall. “Should I come over?” he suggested.

“No, Hyung is here and playing nurse despite my request for him to leave because I don't want him to get sick as well,” Hoseok retorted, an ounce of humour audible in his voice.

“Yah!” another male voice scolded from the back, Jimin capable to recognise that it belonged to Yoongi, that fact curling up the corner of his lips.

Hoseok chuckled. “I'm in good hands,” he assured Jimin, fondness dripping from his voice. “Tae-yah told me he would stop by later as well,” he added.

“Okay,” Jimin uttered, giving a nod in spite of Hoseok being unable to see the action. “Don't worry, Hyung, I'll manage somehow,” he assured him as he pushed himself off the wall and approached the table in the back of the practice room.

“I know you will,” Hoseok declared, affection depicted in his tone, causing Jimin to smile softly.

At the realisation of Hoseok not making it to work today, Jimin suddenly recalled a conversation of theirs a few days back.

“Hyung, didn't you tell me about that little charity thing?” Jimin remembered, arching up his brows.

“Yeah, that's today. I will have to cancel that, I guess – which really is, well, a problem,” the other male sighed, audibly affected by the compulsion of having to cancel his attendance.

“What was it again?” Jimin wanted to know, titling his head to the side as he hopped up on the table, his legs dangling above the floor.

“It's an orphanage that a friend of mine is working at,” he enlightened Jimin. “Hyung is doing that little charity event in collaboration with someone he knows that works at an animal shelter. They're raising money while simultaneously enabling the kids to have some deserving fun with some of the pets from the shelter,” he elaborated. “I was supposed to organise the food, but I won't be able to pick it up later and bring it over.”

_Somehow, that hit close to home._

“I could go,” Jimin found himself suggest softly, his heart having made a decision ahead of his brain.

“No, you don't have to-”

“I don't mind,” Jimin asserted. “I'm just supposed to get the food and bring it there, right?”

“Yes, but, really, Jimin-ah, you're doing so much already,” Hoseok objected.

“Hyung, really, that's nothing,” Jimin stressed, his tone gentle, yet determined. “I would love to help.”

***

“Let me carry that, little one,” Jungkook insisted as he reached for the box Jimin was holding, appearing to have sensed that Jimin was already noticeably struggling with the weight of the box despite the short period of time he had been holding it.

“Thank you,” Jimin uttered softly as he grabbed the paper bag from inside before he shut the trunk of Jungkook’s car. “It’s right over there – I think,” he informed Jungkook, pointing towards the door of the large building a few feet away from them.

“I’ll follow you, angel.”

The pink haired boy smiled delicately at the pet name before he gestured for them to head towards the building, Jungkook right beside him as they approached the big entrance door.

Sweetly enough, Jungkook had offered to help Jimin with the task of delivering the food for the charity event in place of Hoseok as Jimin didn’t own a car himself and hadn’t exactly planned far enough ahead to consider how to move the food from one spot to the other.

Luckily, Jungkook was there to save him, sacrificing his break for Jimin in spite of his demanding schedule.

“We just have to bring it inside, right?” Jungkook wanted to know once they had arrived at the door.

Jimin hummed in affirmation as he noticed the rather big gap in the doorway, causing him to realise that they weren’t required to ring the bell, but were allowed to enter the building by simply pushing the door open.

“Yes, Hyung told me the guy is called Yeonjun and that he knows we're coming in his place,” Jimin informed the younger male as he stepped inside, the immediate mixture of laughter and children screaming audible in the hallway.

A shiver ran down Jimin’s back at the realisation of their surroundings, his heart clenching at the memories of his past. The smaller boy hadn’t been to an orphanage ever since he had finally managed to leave his own.

With hesitant steps, they headed down the light hallway. “Hello?” Jimin called out, not intending to scare anyone with their presence and make them fear of an intruder despite the fact that their arrival had been announced prior.

“In here!” a male voice exclaimed to their side, Jimin swift to turn towards the source of the voice and push the door open to the room he estimated the man to be present.

A huge room revealed itself to their eyes, the children’s laughter and screaming turning up a notch as soon as they stepped a foot into the room.

“Hey, I'm Yeonjun, nice to meet you,” the same male voice introduced as the man approached them with a bright smile, holding out his hand to Jimin.

Swiftly, Jimin shook his hand, returning the smile. “I'm Jimin and this is Jungkook,” he introduced, pointing at the black haired boy to his side who nodded at Yeonjun, clearly restricted from shaking his hand as he was carrying the heavy box. “It's very nice to meet you, too,” Jimin uttered.

“Thank you for doing this,” Yeonjun uttered, sliding his hand through his messy hazel hair, sweat visible on his face in a distinct display of his exhaustion and stress. “I was so busy this morning that I didn't have the time to drive to the caterer and get all the stuff,” he revealed with a sigh, a soft chuckle falling from his lips as he added, “I hope it didn't cause you any inconveniences?”

“Oh no, not at all,” Jimin assured him sweetly, shaking his head.

“Please, put the stuff down here,” Yeonjun insisted as he pointed at the large table to their side. The two boys nodded simultaneously as they set the box and the paper bags down on the table. “Well, I-”
As soon as Jungkook’s hands were free, an item came flying through the air, hitting Jungkook at his shoulder.

“I’m sorry!” a high voice exclaimed, a little girl running over to their side with wide eyes, her dress flowing in the air at her fast steps.

It was only then that Jimin noticed the larger area of the room that was separated by an intermittent wall, a few children and animals revealing themselves to his eyes – a sight that Jimin had not noticed upon their arrival at all, somehow having omitted the fact that the sounds he had registered must be created somewhere.

A few children rushed outside, passing the glass door to the patio with the purpose of playing in the backyard.

Was Yeonjun here all by himself? Was he the only supervisor? The only one looking after this many children?

“Is that yours?” Jungkook asked, his voice drawing Jimin back to reality.

The taller male was holding a plush toy in his hand, visibly referring to that particular item as he looked at the little girl.

“Yes, but I didn't throw that, I swear!” the little girl defended herself, pouting. “Oppa, Mingyu keeps stealing my dolls to throw them around!” she complained with a whine. “I want him to stop!”

“Aaaah!” came a scream from the back area of the room.

“I guess, yeah, I have to check- Mingyu!” Yeonjun yelled, his eyes wide as he sprinted over to the boy.

The two men looked after him, Jimin digging his teeth into his bottom lip as a little boy started crying in the far as soon as Yeonjun arrived by his side, Jimin’s heart clenching at the sight.

“Oppa, did it hurt you?” the sweet voice of the girl asked, drawing Jimin’s and Jungkook’s attention down to her.

“What?” Jungkook wondered, arching up his brows.

“My toy?” the girl clarified as she pointed at the little plushie in Jungkook’s hand.

“Oh,” Jungkook uttered, chuckling as he shook his head. “No, it didn't. Don't worry-,” he trailed off, realising that he wasn’t aware of the girl’s name. “What's your name, princess?”

The little girl blushed at the pet name, giggling into her hand. “Haneun,” she introduced herself sweetly.

“What a pretty name,” Jungkook complimented her as he crouched down, allowing them to be at an equal eye level.

“Thank you,” she whispered, her eyes twinkling as they stared at Jungkook who was now so much closer to her, the shade of rose on Haneun’s cheeks darkening at their close proximity as she giggled again.

“It didn't hurt at all, Haneun-ah,” Jungkook assured her.

“I'm glad,” she uttered sweetly, her eyes growing bigger as Jungkook smiled at her.
Jimin silently giggled into his hand, observing how the little girl slowly but surely found herself falling for Jungkook’s charming nature.

Well, Jimin couldn’t blame her, had been there himself.

In fact, Jimin was falling each and every day as though it was the first time whenever Jungkook stared at him like that.

There was no way to escape the inevitable effect Jungkook had on you.

“How old are you?” Jungkook asked her, Haneun playing with the hem of her dress as she swung from side to side, the vibrant yellow of the fabric such a contrast to her raven hair that was tied up into a ponytail.

“This much!” she exclaimed as he lifted her hand up into the air, displaying her five tiny fingers. “How old are you?” she wondered then.

“This- and this- and this much,” Jungkook retorted, chuckling as he held up his own two hands before he reached for Haneun’s palms and lifted them up as well, lastly holding his index finger up to display his own age.

“Waah,” Haneun breathed, her eyes big.

“Is Mingyu-yah being mean to you?” Jungkook asked her, nodding towards the boy that was sitting on his butt in the back area of the room, staring at Haneun intently.

“He… he steals my dolls and throws them around,” she declared, pouting as she gave a nod.

The black haired man stole a glimpse at the boy in the back again, pointing at him. “Is that him?” he asked Haneun, the little girl following his gaze and before she turned back to Jungkook, crossing her arms over her chest.

“Yes,” she mumbled, giving a faint nod.

“Maybe, Mingyu-yah just wants to play together with you?” Jungkook suggested, smiling at her.

At his words, her features softened, her eyes going bigger. “Do you think?” Jungkook gave a nod as he laughed softly. “Who wouldn’t want to play with you, hm?” he inquired Haneun giggled again, her eyes turning into small crescents as she lowered her head down.

“Will you play with me, Oppa?” she wondered, reaching for Jungkook’s hand and placing her smaller palm in his, giving it a gentle tug.

The younger male glanced back at Jimin with a chuckle, the latter giggling at the situation Jungkook had somehow managed to fall into.

“Uhm, well, we’re actually not staying for long,” Jungkook retorted, meeting Haneun’s gaze again.

“Oh, okay,” she uttered, pouting nevertheless as she gave a weak nod.

Suddenly, another figure appeared at their side, having run up to them without their notice.

“Haneun,” a little boy addressed Haneun, tugging on her dress to gain her attention.
“Mingyu?” she murmured in surprise, facing the boy.

“I’m sorry for being mean to you,” he apologised, stumbling closer and embracing Haneun, wrapping his arms around her delicate body.

At the sight, Jimin smiled, stealing a glimpse at the back of the room – Yeonjun leaning against the wall and staring at them with a proud expression before he pushed himself off the wall and approached Jimin and Jungkook.

“Should we play together?” Mingyu suggested.

Haneun smiled brightly, giving a nod before the two of them ran off, returning to the back of the room and joining the other children and pets – the animals having remained astonishingly quiet, Jimin perceived, not having made any noticeably loud noise thus far.

The black haired boy straightened his back again, joining Jimin at his side and placing his hand on the small of Jimin’s back.

“I’m sorry for leaving mid-conversation, but Ryu-ssi was crying and Mingyu-yah was obviously treating Haneun-ah a little harshly,” Yeonjun apologised, scratching over the back of his neck. “However, they’re all better now and hopefully behaving”

“Are you all here by yourself? It must be utterly stressful to take care of all of these children yourself,” Jimin noted, his eyes big in awe.

If Yeonjun was in fact the only supervisor looking after all of these children, that was more than just impressive.

“We’re a team of three, but one of my fellow colleagues is sick and the other one is organising a few things out of town before she returns – hopefully before the first guests arrive,” Yeonjun revealed, checking the time on his watch with a distraught expression.

“Is there any way we could help you?” Jimin found himself offer.

The brown haired boy smiled at him, executing a slight bow. “That’s very sweet, but I wouldn’t want to cause any more inconveniences”

“You aren’t,” Jimin assured, shaking his head.

“Well, I got most of the things covered, but if you’d like to stay and help, you could assist me in serving all of the food you’ve brought here,” Yeonjun prompted after scanning their surroundings, gesturing at the table Jimin and Jungkook had deposited their deliveries on. “Again, it’s completely fine, if you are busy and really don’t have the time to help me. I’ve still got some time left before the guests arrive,” he added.

“Jungkook-ah?” Jimin uttered, turning to face his boyfriend with a sweet smile.

The taller male pressed a kiss to his temple. “I still got a few more minutes before I gotta head back to work,” Jungkook noted, giving a nod. “We would love to help”

“Great, then-“

“Oppa!” a small female voice exclaimed, little footsteps padding on the floor as a girl ran up to them.

Not any girl – Haneun to be particular.
“Are you staying?” the little girl inquired with big eyes once she had arrived at Jungkook’s side. “I thought you’d have to leave!”

“I have to leave in just a moment, princess,” Jungkook responded, flashing her a warm smile.

“Can’t you play with me and Mingyu until you leave?” she requested, pouting as she bounced up and down.

“I think someone has a crush on you,” Jimin whispered with a giggle, nudging Jungkook in a nonverbal appeal for him to go and play with her.

“Pleeeeeease?” she begged, reaching for Jungkook’s bigger hand, her own appearing that much tinier compared to his.

“I mean, I- Okay, I guess,” Jungkook agreed, Haneun already tugging on his arm.

The smaller boy giggled as he watched the two of them head towards the back area of the room, Jungkook gazing back at Jimin apologetically.

“You two really must be sent from heaven today,” Yeonjun stressed as he opened the big box, revealing a mixture of various finger foods to their eyes, the pleasant scent filling Jimin’s nostrils. “It would have been a mess without your help,”

“Oh, really, there is no need to thank us,” Jimin responded, shaking his head as he accompanied Yeonjun and picked out the small plates from the box with the intention of displaying them on the table in a pleasing pattern. “You’re are the one who deserves all the glory. What you’re doing is just... It’s beautiful,” he emphasised.

“Thank you,” Yeonjun muttered, smiling at Jimin.

“How old are you, if I may ask?” Jimin found himself wonder. “You don’t seem a lot older than me”

“I’m twenty-seven,” Yeonjun responded. “I’ve been working here for about four years,” he revealed.

At his information, Jimin’s eyes grew bigger. “Wow”

“Time flies by so fast,” the other male chuckled. “I remember my first month was a hell of a time. I was struggling so bad with the chaos that was literally bound to happen each and every day with the number of children in this orphanage, but I found himself adapting to it a little more each day until I knew how to handle each and every situation, you know?” he explained, shrugging his shoulders.

“Yeah,” Jimin uttered, giving a small nod to convey that that he did apprehend what Yeonjun was trying to convey.

“I love my work. These children have grown to become a part of my life and they light my world – as cheesy as it sounds,” Yeonjun stated, a warm smile curving his lips. “It’s funny to look back at myself before I started working here. I never wanted to have children. Yet, here I am: adoring each and every one of them. They really made me a better person,” he expressed.

At his words, Jimin found himself smiling warmly.

The description did sound absolutely beautiful – a feeling many people surely aspired to be allowed to experience.

However, near each light was a shadow to be found.
“The job must be tough as well, though,” Jimin noted empathetically.

“I would be lying, if I said it wasn’t,” Yeonjun declared with a nod. “I’m trying to exude as much love and admiration for every single child in here, but I can never replace a true family,” he expressed. “The younger ones are more accepting of my care and love, but the older ones are a little hesitant. They don’t like to be in here – which I can absolutely understand. The longer they stay in here, the more they feel as though no one wants them to be a part of their family. Some feel repelled and lonely, which causes them to shut themselves off more and more,” he elaborated, a heart aching emotion gleaming in his eyes. “I try to form a real bond to each and every child, so when some of them do end up leaving because a family adopts them, it’s bittersweet. I’m eternally happy for them to have found a family, yet I would also be lying if I claimed that I wasn’t sad to know that I would never see them again”

The smaller boy gave a weak nod, feeling as though he had travelled back in time, reminded of his scarring past and the years he had been stuck in an orphanage himself.

Aside from Taehyung, Jimin had never obtained such a vivid and distinctive sort of love for the time living in the orphanage. Whereas it was partially his fault to be shy to approach people, the supervisors at the orphanage had never portrayed such a deep sense of affection and bonding to him.

No, Yeonjun was different than them on so many levels – actually loving his job and radiating that in his demeanor.

By all means, Jimin didn’t want to accuse his past supervisors in his orphanage to have hated their job, yet he lacked the ability to assert that they had been positive, encouraging and supportive in their behaviour towards him – but quite honestly neither in general.

“You’re doing amazing work, Yeonjun-ssi. Thank you for treating the children that way,” Jimin uttered softly, not noticing that his voice was barely above a whisper, breaking in the midst of his sentence.

Despite it being painful to reminisce over those past times, Jimin was able to find some happiness in them. After all, without them, he would have never met Taehyung – his soulmate, his best friend who adored him to bits – the two of them later meeting Yoongi – a lasting brother that had promised to protect them forever – then getting to know Hoseok and Namjoon and Jin – the three of them swiftly having grown to be a part of Jimin’s small family as though they were the puzzle pieces Jimin had never known he was missing – and… and…

Jungkook. – The boy that had completely and utterly turned his world upside down; the boy that undeniably owned his heart.

The pink haired one stole a glimpse at Jungkook who was sitting on the floor beside Haneun, appearing to have allowed her to play with his hair as she was trying to tie his black locks up in tiny ponytails, his expression a mixture of regret but delight.

At the sight, Jimin giggled, his heart warming at the image of Jungkook being that lovely with children.

Suddenly, he envisioned himself at Jungkook’s side ten years into the future, the two of them in the backyard of their shared home, the black haired boy having their little girl on his shoulders as he ran around in the grass, allowing her to feel as though she was flying, while Jimin had their little boy pressed to his chest as he was sleeping against Jimin’s body.

A family of his own.
A family with Jungkook – whole and healthy and loving and… all his.

Did Jimin just… did he…

Clumsily, a plate slipped from the smaller one’s grasp as he was too distracted by his thoughts. Luckily, it didn’t fall to the floor and crash, yet it dropped precisely on another dish, squishing the food on top.

Jimin gasped, swift to lift the plate back up.

“Are you okay?” Yeonjun worried.

“Y-Yes, I’m sorry, is that-” Jimin stammered, setting the dish down on the table as he stared at the minor mess he had created.

“It’s fine,” Yeonjun chuckled, waving his little accident off. “Don’t worry about it. It’s still edible,” he assured, appearing to be amused by the sight and not mad at all, that fact calming Jimin.

“I’m sorry,” he uttered a soft apology again, flashing Yeonjun a gentle smile.

The sudden noise of wailing broke the air between them, their heads snapping to the sight to enlighten themselves about the situation.

It didn’t take long for them to find the source: Haneun was crying, kneeling on the floor, appearing to have tripped over something.

Naturally, Yeonjun indicated to rush over to her side, yet Jungkook was already pacifying her, wiping her tears away as he spoke to her softly.

The little girl displayed her elbow to Jungkook, the latter blowing on it as though her pain was going to vanish that way. Haneun’s tears stopped, her eyes big as she stared at Jungkook attentively, her eyes twinkling again.

Jungkook smiled at her, pulling her into a hug and caressing her back to soothe her.

Frankly, Jimin would have never considered Jungkook to be this wonderful with children – That fact wasn’t attributable to Jimin’s lack of belief in Jungkook’s kind nature as Jungkook was undoubtably considerate and caring, yet simply because… well, he had never thought about Jungkook and children in the same sentence.

“Your boyfriend is good with children,” Yeonjun voiced Jimin’s thoughts, drawing his attention back over to the brown haired boy. “Sorry- I mean, your friend? I didn’t mean to assume-”

“Don’t worry,” Jimin chuckled as he shook his head. “Jungkook-ah is my boyfriend,” he declared softly, his cheeks flushing a light shade of rose. “He is good with children,” he agreed, his tone gentle.

The pink haired one had never even contemplated over having children himself, let alone how his future would be like in a few years to come – Yet, here he was, such a vivid and descriptive image engraved into his mind that contained Jungkook and two children.

Jimin swallowed hard, his heart pounding fast against his chest.

The man Jimin wanted to have by his side was Jungkook – undoubtably.

For ever.
Maybe, that should scare him – to be that certain about something although he had never been that sure about anything else in his life before but dancing.

Yet, it didn’t.

No, it didn’t scare him at all.

It was beautiful.

Suddenly, the irritating sound of an alarm went off, the two boys startled by the noise.

Yeonjun was swift to pull out his phone from his back pocket, his eyes going big as he pointed at the device in his hand. “I gotta take that real quick. Is that okay?”

“Of course,” Jimin responded, giving a nod.

The brown haired boy flashed him a smile before he turned around and headed outside, leaving Jimin to himself.

However, not for long.

After Jimin had placed the last dish down on the table, he turned to face the room again, his eyes going big as he watched a little puppy head his way.

Subconsciously, Jimin crouched down, smiling at the light-furred puppy that was running towards him, tripping over his short legs, but quick to catch himself.

“Hello,” Jimin greeted the dog with twinkling eyes as he reached out to pat its head. “Look at you, pretty,” he chuckled. “We’re both quite clumsy, huh?” he added as he plopped down on his butt, the puppy swift to lie down in between Jimin’s legs, appearing to be fond of Jimin’s proximity or presumably just enjoying the treatment of being pat.

The smaller boy giggled, rubbing the puppy’s ear.

“I see you have found a new friend, little one,” a male voice noted, Jimin not needing to check to be aware that it was Jungkook, recognising the voice of his anywhere, yet also confident by the pet name he was addressed by – a name only reserved for Jungkook to call him by.

“He just ran towards me and tripped,” Jimin responded as he met Jungkook’s gaze. “He’s just like me,” he chuckled. “I couldn’t resist. I just love animals too much”

“You do, hm?”

The pink haired boy hummed in affirmation. “We had a dog at the adoption centre pass by and play with us from time to time,” Jimin revealed, smiling as he reflected over those times.

Opposed to the Corgi puppy Jimin was patting now, it had been a grown Labrador that had joined them for their playtime on the street every now and then. However, the appearances decreased each day until from one day on, he just didn’t visit them anymore – As though he had completely vanished.

All these years, Jimin had lived in uncertainty as to why he hadn’t appeared any longer. Then again, Jimin did not particularly dwell on these days that much during his daily life, thus he hadn’t mulled over his Labrador friend in quite a while.

“I’ve always loved animals,” Jimin elaborated, proceeding to pat the puppy that was lying calmly in between his spread legs. “My grandmother had a cat, but she died fairly soon,” he added softer, a sad smile curving his lips at the memory. “I missed her a lot because I adored cuddling her. It comforted me,” he declared, recalling those days he was allowed to visit his grandmother that were filled with sunshine, even if it was only for such a short period of time. “I always knew I wanted to have a dog and a kitten when I’m older”

“A dog and a kitten?” Jungkook echoed, his brows shooting up in surprise. “Both,” he stressed.

“Yes,” Jimin giggled at Jungkook’s astonished expression, giving a nod. “I love animals”

“I always thought you were more of a cat person,” Jungkook remarked, leaning against the wall behind him as he titled his head to the side.

“Why?”

“Because you basically look and behave like one,” the younger male reasoned.

“I do not behave like a-,” Jimin protested.

“You do, kitten,” Jungkook interrupted with a smirk. “I don’t think you’d like me proving my case in public,” he added quieter, his smug expression causing Jimin to narrow his eyes.

The pink haired boy huffed. “Fine, maybe... a tiny bit, whatever,” he mumbled. “I am an animal person,” Jimin explained, shrugging his shoulders. “Don’t you like animals?

“I mean, I do,” Jungkook answered, giving a nod. “I just don’t have the time nor will to take care of one right now,” he expressed.

Jimin found himself pout, staring at Jungkook.

“No,” Jungkook denied before Jimin even obtained the opportunity to ask anything.

“What?” the smaller boy asked, his eyes big.

“You're not actually asking that, are you?”

“I didn't say anything,” Jimin pointed out, chuckling.

However, was... was Jungkook referring to them...

“We’re not getting a fucking dog or a cat together,” Jungkook decided, shaking his head.

_He was!

“But look at him!” Jimin exclaimed, picking the puppy up and nuzzling his face against the puppy’s head. “It’s a puppy!” the pink haired boy stated the obvious.

“No, Jimin-ssi,” Jungkook emphasised, shaking his head. Yet, there was a slight display of a fond smile that embellished his handsome features.

“He’s really... really calm,” Jimin noted, trying to convince Jungkook. “See”

As if on cue, the puppy barked, refuting Jimin’s statement within a second.

“Sssh,” Jimin whispered, as though the dog was capable to understand him. “You gotta be quiet for this to work,” he added softly, smiling at the puppy.
However, the dog barked again, squirming around in Jimin’s embrace before he ran off, heading towards the other puppies with the intention of playing with them.

Well, that hadn’t worked out as planned.

The smaller boy pouted, sitting there on the hard floor by himself as he glanced up at Jungkook through his lashes.

“Little one,” Jungkook called out his name with a soft laugh, endeared by Jimin’s adorable expression. “We don’t even live together, hm?”

“We could switch?”

The black haired boy closed the distance between them, crouching down beside Jimin. “A pet is a big responsibility and I just don’t think it’s a good idea to get one right now,” he stated, brushing Jimin’s fringe out of his face.

Right now.

So… in the future, maybe?

“We don’t have the time to take care of it the way it deserves and needs, hm?” he elaborated, stating another valid point.

Jimin sighed, giving a nod. “Why are you always right?”

“I’m not always right,” Jungkook snickered, getting back up to his feet before he held out his hand to Jimin.

Carefully, Jimin placed his delicate hand in Jungkook’s larger one, the latter tugging him back up to his feet before he dusted off Jimin’s trousers.

“You said not right now, so…” the pink haired one trailed off.

Jungkook smiled, looking up at Jimin with raised up brows. “So, we can talk about it one day, little one,” he explained, straightening his back again once Jimin was clean.

“That’s not a no, right?” Jimin elucidated, his eyes big in essence.

“It’s not a no,” Jungkook affirmed, closing his arms around Jimin’s upper body to pull him closer, pressing a kiss to his forehead. At the tender touch, Jimin’s eyes fluttered shut.

“Is everything okay around here?” Yeonjun wanted to know as soon as he returned to their side, the two boys detaching themselves from one another to face the man.

“That’s not a no, right?” Jimin assured him, smiling at him.

“Well, I should head back to work now,” Jungkook announced, pointing back over his shoulder.

“Of course, yeah,” Yeonjun uttered, giving a nod. “Thank you so much for helping me out today,” he expressed, executing a faint bow.

“You’re welcome,” Jimin uttered.

“Have a nice day,” Jungkook wished, shaking his head.
“You, too,” Yeonjun returned with a smile, waving them off.

The black haired boy grabbed Jimin’s hand and interlaced their fingers, the two of them heading towards the door. On their way out, they stole a glimpse at the children and pets in the back area, Haneun and Mingyu standing in the doorway and waving at them to say goodbye.

Suddenly, Jungkook stilled, Jimin forced to mirror him and halt as well.

“Kook-ah, are you okay?”

The taller male turned back to face Yeonjun.

“Actually, where can I make a donation?”

******

The smaller boy stepped out of the building, his eyes big at the heavy droplets of rainfall that were pouring down on him, the pleasant scent of rain filling Jimin’s nostrils.

“Jimin-ssi,” a male voice greeted him, Jimin having grown so familiar with the source of the voice that it was only natural for him to recognise the man behind it.

“Beomsoo, hello,” Jimin uttered, slightly puzzled by the sight of Beomsoo as he would usually be waiting right in front of his car opposed to awaiting Jimin’s arrival at the entrance door.

Yet, here he was, standing in the rain and waiting for Jimin.

“I wasn’t able to halt in front of the building today, Jimin-ssi,” Beomsoo informed the pink haired one with an apologetic tone. “I’m here to get you and guide you to the car”

“That’s fine,” Jimin assured. “We can walk the distance,” he added as he glanced up at the sky filled with dark clouds far above them, rain pouring down on them.

“It really isn’t such a nice day today, hm?” Beomsoo stated, walking Jimin to the car as he was shielding Jimin from the rain by holding an umbrella up for him, proceeding to be soaked himself, but refusing to get below the umbrella beside Jimin despite the smaller one’s request.

“I like the rain,” Jimin revealed with a soft smile.

“Do you?”

“Mhm-mh,” Jimin affirmed, giving a nod. “Well, not every day, though,” he elucidated with a chuckle. “I like the scent of it and just the… the whole atmosphere it conveys,” he elaborated as they had arrived at the car, Beomsoo swift to pull the door to the back seats open for Jimin.

As soon as Jimin had climbed inside, Beomsoo shut the door close and ran around the car before he got into the vehicle as well, sitting down on the driver’s seat and depositing the wet umbrella on the passenger’s seat next to him.

“We’ll leave in just a moment, Jimin-ssi,” Beomsoo informed him as he unbuttoned his soaking jacket and removed it from his body – Jimin noticing that he had never seen Beomsoo without that particular jacket as it was a part of his work attire.

“That’s fine,” Jimin retorted as he fastened his seatbelt, allowing Beomsoo to get comfortable without any pressure.
As Jimin placed his delicate hands on his lap, patiently waiting for Beomsoo to be ready, the latter folded his jacket before he set it down on the seat next to him.

In the midst of Beomsoo moving around, Jimin spotted some sort of belt wrapped around his stomach, a metal item depicted in some kind of- ….

Was that…

The smaller one squinted his eyes, wondering whether-

Jimin froze.

A gun.

That was… That was a gun.

Undeniably.

Jimin gasped silently.

Oh.

“Your place or Mr. Jeon’s?” Beomsoo’s voice spoke, yet it appeared to be somewhat distant, muffled in the chaos that had erupted in Jimin’s head.

The smaller boy dug his petite fingers into his thighs, swallowing hard as his heart rate picked up.

“Jimin-ssi?” Beomsoo addressed him with a smile. “Where would you like to go?”

“Jungkook-ah,” Jimin whispered, his eyes big in shock, his heart beating so fast that he feared it was going to break out of his ribcage any moment now.

“Of course,” Beomsoo responded with another smile, twisting the key in the ignition, the engine growling to life a brief moment later.

Nervously, Jimin pulled the sleeves of his hoodie over his palms that had become clammy within seconds.

A gun.

Beomsoo owned a gun.

This was insane.

Jimin couldn’t breathe.

Chapter End Notes

Uh-oh... what's going to happen now? :o What could it all mean?

Thank you for your lovely comments and encouraging words! They keep my spirit up! They also tend to make me emotional <3 I'm very grateful for all the love this story is receiving. So, thank you <3
I hope you enjoyed this double-update :)

I wish you happiness and health <3

See you in the next chapter! ^^

Love you <3
Discoveries

Chapter Summary

Jimin makes a few interesting discoveries... regarding people close to him, himself and personal desires.

Chapter Notes

Hello, lovely readers! <3

Aah, it seems like it never quite works out the way I want it to, so this chapter is up a lot later than I hoped for :( I hope you can forgive me <3

It's already been a year since I've uploaded the first chapter to this story! I can't believe how fast time flew by! I'm so very grateful for the amount of love this story has received and keeps receiving. Thank you, for being that patient and staying by my side. I appreciate each and every comment and kudo. I'm very thankful for your support <3

Now, I hope you enjoy the chapter <3

See the end of the chapter for more notes

Jimin couldn’t breathe.

Throughout the entire car ride, Jimin felt as though he was suffocating, even the last ounce of air kicked out of his lungs – almost as if breathing properly would make this moment so much more real.

Jimin didn’t want it to be real.

“Have a good night, Jimin-ssi,” Beomsoo wished with a smile, having been determined to guard Jimin to the entrance door of Jungkook’s apartment building as he shielded Jimin from the rain with his umbrella.

“Thank you,” Jimin merely whispered, not facing Beomsoo as he headed inside, pushing the door close behind him before he pressed his back against it.

The smaller boy inhaled a deep breath, his eyes fluttering shut as he clasped his hand over his chest, his rapid heartbeat gradually steadying.

This was insane.

Slowly, he pushed himself off the wall, approaching the elevator with fast steps, heading up to Jungkook’s apartment as swift as he could muster.

“Mr. Park,” Joon greeted the pink haired boy as soon as Jimin stepped into the hallway, executing a slight bow for him.
However, Jimin only muttered a small Hello as he entered the password to Jungkook’s apartment, harshly pushing the door open and stepping inside before he shut the door close behind him and scanned his surroundings with the intention of locating Jungkook.

Then, he found him.

“Why does Beomsoo have a weapon, Jungkook-ah?” was the first thing Jimin belted out as he stormed towards him, omitting a polite greeting the way he would usually tend to – a gesture attributable to his deeply anchored mannerisms that he seemed to have temporarily forgotten.

The black haired male met his gaze. “Good afternoon to you, too, little one,” Jungkook responded conversationally, an affectionate smile curling up the corner of his lips at the sight of Jimin.

Jungkook had a phone pressed to his ear, his hand covering the microphone as he was addressing Jimin. The latter wasn’t certain whether Jungkook had simply not registered Jimin’s words, pretended for them to have been inaudible to him or blatantly chose to ignore them.

“I asked you a question,” Jimin urged, disregarding Jungkook’s greeting.

“I’m on the phone,” Jungkook pointed out – as though Jimin hadn’t already noticed that fact, as though Jimin could currently truly find a care in any fibre of his very being by how the horrifying mixture of pure shock, absolute fear and utter anger was simultaneously residing in his chest. “Give me a sec,” he requested.

No. Jimin needed answers.

Within the twinkling of an eye, Jimin found himself beside Jungkook, snatching the phone from his grasp. “He’ll call back,” the pink haired boy commented into the phone, ending the call without leaving Jungkook any opportunity to properly say his goodbye.

In a sane state, Jimin would have never even dared to do or think of doing something like this; would have felt way too rude to behave even remotely close to this, but he was so emotionally agitated right now that he simply couldn’t find a care nor genuine remorse to bloom within him.

“No, you don’t get to be mad right now,” Jimin interrupted him, shaking his head. “Why does Beomsoo own a gun, Jungkook-ah?” he repeated his prior question. “This whole time, there was this... this weapon in his possession while I was around him and I didn't even know about it?”

“Beomsoo carries a gun because I asked him to. It's for protection purposes of course,” Jungkook retorted casually as he leaned back in his seat, his voice calm opposed to Jimin’s.

Of course.

At his words, Jimin grew even angrier, now confirmed in his initial conviction that Jungkook was aware of Beomsoo’s possession – and had always been – and was the one who had asked him to carry one.

Somehow, a small fraction within Jimin had prayed that Jungkook hadn’t known about the circumstances of Beomsoo carrying a gun at his body throughout his work hours. Despite the issue regarding the question why the hell Beomsoo would even carry a gun around, if it wasn’t for the sake of complying his orders, at least, Jimin would be able to assert that Jungkook had not kept that major information hidden from him – In fact, would be able to confidently declare that Jungkook wouldn’t ever keep anything this huge from him.

This right here was just an instance of how well he had actually reserved that information to himself – leaving Jimin in absolute darkness.

“Jungkook-ah, he's a driver,” Jimin stressed. “You live in one of the most high-class and expensive areas of Seoul. What does he or you need protection for?” he pointed out, refuting Jungkook’s statement – at least, that’s what he believed.

“Beomsoo is your driver just as much, Jimin-ah,” Jungkook reminded him as he got up to his feet, tossing his phone on the sofa. “Your area isn't the most... safe one there is,” he expressed.

Maybe, Jimin’s area wasn’t as high-class as Jungkook’s, potentially a little shabby in comparison to his, but it wasn’t exactly one of high crime, either.

“I want you to be safe, when he takes you home,” Jungkook reasoned, his tone gentle as he reached for Jimin’s delicate hands. Yet, the smaller boy took a step back as he shook his head, thwarting that wish.

“So?” Jimin pressed as he crossed his arms over his chest, something heart aching gleaming in Jungkook’s eyes upon the rejection of his touch.

For a split second, vibrant guilt blossomed within Jimin, his heart begging him to allow Jungkook to reach out to him, but he shook his head and banished that thought from his mind.

“It's just a safety measure, angel,” Jungkook assured him.

“Wouldn’t some...- I don’t know- pepper spray be just as suitable?” Jimin suggested as he was confident that it was a valid usage to ensure safety just as much.

Why a gun? Why of all things a gun?

“Jimin-ah, there are some fucked up people out there,” the younger male declared, shaking his head as though Jimin’s suggestion was absurd. “Trust me, some pepper spray wouldn't stop them from hurting you,” he added, frowning.

“Does he even have a permit to own one?” Jimin wanted to know, essentially confident of knowing the answer already, but still finding himself ask for validation as though it would change anything.

After all, Jimin admittedly didn’t possess profound knowledge about every single law of their country – which, well, could be considered foolish of him – yet he was aware of quite a few, even if not in any distinctive way.

“Gun laws are strict in Korea,” Jungkook plainly stated, affirming Jimin’s objections as he walked past the smaller one.

“Exactly,” Jimin agreed, turning to observe Jungkook’s movements. “So, he doesn't?” he concluded.

“Technically, he does,” Jungkook claimed as he leaned against the wall, increasing Jimin’s confusion.

“Elaborate,” Jimin insisted, furrowing his brows.

“Beomsoo does own a licence for the usage of guns,” the taller male expressed, meeting Jimin’s gaze
That didn’t justify the private possession, though.

“The private ownership is illegal, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin stressed, shaking his head.

“Correct,” Jungkook retorted with a nod.

Jimin blinked.

Was he being serious right now? Did he lack the ability to see where the issue was? Did he simply not care?

Here Jungkook was; affirming that Beomsoo was behaving in illegal terrain, yet being absolutely casual about all of this – as though it wasn’t anything to be outright alarmed by at all.

“Then why does he carry a gun, let alone own one?” the pink haired boy pressed, taking a step closer.

“Again, for protection purposes,” Jungkook repeated his prior reasoning.

“Jungkook-ah, this is insane,” Jimin commented with a humourless laugh, shaking his head. “You do know that, right?”

“It was either a knife or a gun,” Jungkook stated with a sigh. “He isn’t just my personal driver. Beomsoo is a retired police officer and was well trained in the military. He knows how to handle a gun so that’s where his choice fell,” he reasoned, catching Jimin off guard, expanding the latter’s shock and confusion.

What?

Retired police officer?

Why was he retired?

Besides that, shouldn't he of all people know that owning and carrying a gun was illegal by all means?

“He chose to own a gun?” Jimin echoed.

“Yes, he did,” Jungkook affirmed, giving a nod. “It's for safety measures only, Jimin-ah. I promise you,” he prompted as he pushed himself off the wall. “I prohibited him to ever use it unless for protection, unless there is a case of immediate danger. If he does use it in any other case, he's fired”

“This... I…” Jimin stammered, but went silent as he found himself to be speechless.

Surely, this was all just a prank, right? A silly joke? A dream?

“I know, it's scary,” Jungkook coincided as he closed the distance between them. “You don’t need to be scared, though,” he added once he was that much closer to Jimin, the latter not withdrawing this time around – Jimin being too baffled to move at all. “Many people in the industry do this. You never know what maniacs try to attack you,” he stated with a gentle smile as he pressed his forehead against Jimin’s. “It's for protection, nothing else. I promise you, angel,” he whispered before he placed a kiss to Jimin’s temple.

This was all so... overwhelming.
The pink haired boy was silent.

Somehow, his brain had stopped functioning, his heart pounding fast against his chest at the confusing information he had obtained and the shocking sight he had witnessed today.

For a moment, Jimin considered his own reaction to be at fault here.

Was he overreacting? Was he exaggerating? Was this not as alarming as he found it to be?

With the way Jungkook was being entirely casual about it, Jimin felt as though he was making a fuss over absolutely nothing – over something so petty.

Yet, this was a gun.

By all means, this was a weapon – a weapon that could kill someone.

“This is… I don’t know… what to say,” Jimin whispered.

“Why do you even know about it?” Jungkook wanted to know, titling his head to the side as he brushed Jimin’s fringe out of his face.

“Huh?” Jimin uttered, taking a step back.

“About Beomsoo’s gun,” Jungkook elucidated, his gaze flickering back and forth between Jimin’s doe eyes. “Did something happen? Did he have to draw it?”

“No, I just saw it when he took his jacket off,” Jimin retorted absentmindedly, a million thoughts proceeding to cloud his mind and begging for answers. “Why didn’t you say anything? Why didn’t you tell me about this?”

“I didn’t think that’s something you’d want to know,” the black haired boy answered.

“Oh, that is definitely something I would want to know, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin declared with furrowed brows, crossing his arms over his chest.

After all, this decision of having Beomsoo carry a weapon did affect Jimin as he was in immediate contact with Beomsoo – has been for weeks now – and that gun had always been just a few inches away from him.

“I didn’t want you to be scared, angel,” Jungkook elaborated, his tone soft and genuine. “I wanted to make sure that you were safe, but I didn’t want you to be afraid,” he reasoned before he cleared his throat. “Besides, Beomsoo works for me, little one. This is confidential information,”

“I just don’t- “

Suddenly, Jimin’s phone rang, the irritating sound piercing through the tension of the room. Slightly frustrated, Jimin pulled his phone out of his pocket with the intention of silencing it, yet halting as he read the name on the screen of the device.

Tae.

The smaller boy pressed his eyes shut, remembering that he was supposed to meet up with Taehyung tonight. In the midst of his earlier shocking sight, Jimin’s mind had turned blank, resulting in him to completely omitting anything else, including his promise to Tae.

“I… I have to leave. Tae is probably already wondering where I am,” Jimin uttered with a sigh, staring at his phone screen for a moment longer before he dropped his hand back to his side, meeting Jungkook’s gaze.

“What?” Jungkook expressed, his brows shooting up as he closed the distance between them. “You’re not actually leaving right now, are you?” he inquired, frowning as he shook his head.

“I promised to spend time with him tonight,” Jimin revealed as he caught his bottom lip between his teeth. “I just- I forgot about literally everything, when I saw that gun in Beomsoo’s possession,” he added, pressing his fist to his forehead as he shook his head, the image of that gun deposited at Beomsoo’s body sending another shudder down Jimin’s back.

Admittedly, this was a horrible time for Jimin to leave.

However, for one, Jimin had promised to hang out with Taehyung tonight – and Jimin refused to break his promises – Secondly, quite frankly, Jimin needed to provide some time for himself absent from his situation, some time to let all of this sink in.

“Little one- “

Devoid of establishing a moment for Jungkook to obtain the opportunity to finish his sentence, Jimin had already spun around, heading towards the front door.

“Jimin-ah, you’re not leaving right now,” Jungkook insisted, following after the smaller one. “We’re having a conversation”

“You already said everything you wanted to say, didn’t you?” Jimin responded, turning back to face Jungkook – a fact that appeared to catch Jungkook off-guard as he nearly bumped into Jimin, merely managing to keep his balance at the unexpected turn of Jimin and come to a halt in front of the boy.

“I-,” Jungkook tried, but remained silent.

“Is there anything else you want to tell me regarding this?” Jimin wanted to know, raising his brows. “Jimin-ah,” Jungkook uttered all over again, but trailed off, not finishing his sentence.

“I thought so,” Jimin commented, turning towards the door again.

However, Jungkook curled his hand around Jimin’s wrist, giving it a gentle tug. “Don’t leave now. Not like this, please,” he asked, his tone soft.

The smaller boy caught his bottom lip between his teeth, shutting his eyes close before he faced Jungkook again. “I promised to see Tae and… and quite honestly, I need some… need some time to let all of this sink in,” Jimin expressed softly, leaning up on his tip-toes to press his lips to Jungkook’s cheek.

“Are you coming back later?” Jungkook wanted to know, indicating to close his palms around Jimin’s waist, but ultimately refraining from the movement, appearing to be undecided whether his action was appropriate right now, whether Jimin might be comfortable with it.

“I don’t know,” Jimin responded sincerely.

“Will you let Beomsoo-”

“No, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin answered his unasked question, certain that Jungkook had meant to inquire whether Jimin would allow Beomsoo to drive him over to Tae’s place. “I’m going to take the “Let me drive you,” Jungkook suggested, seemingly not fond of the idea of Jimin going over to Tae all on his own. “It’s pouring outside, Jimin-ah”

“No, that’s not helping right now, Kook-ah,” Jimin stressed, shaking his head.

Right now, Jimin didn’t want to be in either Beomsoo’s or Jungkook’s presence. Primarily, Jimin just wanted to be alone… be alone and reflect over all of this, try to find a way to apprehend and comprehend this mess, to make sense of the situation somehow.

“Please, let me drop you off at his place,” Jungkook insisted, an emotion flashing in his brown orbs.

The irritating sound of Jimin’s ringtone pierced through the tension of the room again, the pink haired boy stealing a glimpse at the screen of the device in slight frustration.

Tae.

This time, Jimin accepted the call, assuming that Taehyung wouldn’t refrain from calling him various more times until Jimin would finally pick up.

“Hey, Tae-yah,” Jimin greeted as he pressed his phone to his ear, turning away from Jungkook.

“Min-ah, are you already on your way home?” Taehyung wanted to know, little pants slipping from his lips, displaying that he was lost for breath.

“I’m sorry, no, I’ll be quick,” Jimin answered, shaking his head in spite of Tae being unable to see him as he bit down on the inside of his cheek.

“Thank god, fuck, the weather is horrible right now. I didn’t know it was supposed to rain, so I ran back to the company through the fucking pouring rain with new designer clothes that I wasn’t able to wrap up, thinking the weather would be good. I messed up and I need to stay longer to fix it,” Taehyung declared with a sigh, some angered muffled voices audible in the background. “I’m not sure, when I can leave,” he added, his tone apologetic. “I’m sorry. I’ll try to be quick, but I might not be able to leave anytime soon. I’ll call you later, okay?”

“Oh. Okay, yes, of course. Don’t worry, Tae-yah,” Jimin assured him softly, giving a nod although Taehyung was not actually present. “I’ll talk to you later”

“Thank you. Later, Min-ah”

With that, they hung up.

For a moment longer, Jimin stared at the display of his phone, watching the screen go dark before he lifted his head again to meet Jungkook’s gaze. “I guess I’m not seeing Tae now,” he stated quietly.

The taller male’s gaze flickered back and forth between Jimin’s eyes as he uttered a soft, “Okay”, appearing to be grateful and relieved at the knowledge of Jimin not leaving now. “Jimin-ah-”

“Please,” Jimin interrupted him, lifting his flat hand up into the air as he pressed his eyes shut again, certain that Jungkook would resume to the topic about the gun – which, quite frankly, was plausible as it was not just finished altogether – but somehow Jimin was not capable to have this same argument all over again. Not right now. Maybe, it was some sort of defence mechanism for his heart to refuse to talk about this anymore until it had all settled in. “Can… can you give me some room? I just- I need to think,” he requested, his tone gentle, yet somehow vulnerable.
Jungkook studied his features, the softness in his eyes mixed with distinctive concern. “Are you mad?” the younger male wanted to know.

Jimin hesitated.

“I’m not mad,” he retorted eventually, shaking his head as he averted his gaze.

Truthfully, Jimin wasn’t angry at Jungkook. However, there was a particular mixture of emotions vivid within his very being – shock, confusion, slight disappointment, and even fear. The combination of these feelings was somehow complicated, puzzling Jimin even more at the burning question of how to handle them.

How was he supposed to deal with this situation?

“I’m just saying that it- I’m sorry, little one,” Jungkook interrupted Jimin’s thoughts. “Talk to me, please,” he asked.

“I’m not mad, I promise,” Jimin assured him all over again, meeting his gaze once more. “I just... I have to think. It’s a lot, Jungkook-ah. It’s going to take a while for that to settle in,” he declared.

They looked into each other’s eyes.

Silence. One of those that was amplified, in some way so much louder than any irritating sound could be.

Jimin stole a glimpse at the entrance door. Jungkook noticed.

“Please, stay,” he asked softly, assuming that Jimin was deliberating whether or not to leave. “The… The weather is horrible”

The smaller boy gave a faint nod.

“I don’t want to talk right now,” Jimin stated, hoping that Jungkook would understand and respect his wish. “Can I… can I be alone?”

“I-”

“Please,” Jimin added softly, staring at Jungkook again as he pulled the sleeves of his shirt over his delicate hands, naturally hiding them as a nervous habit, even if it was subconscious.

“Okay, yes, of course,” the younger one agreed with a nod as he ran his hand through his black locks, appearing to just be appreciative of Jimin staying. “If you want to, you can go upstairs into the bedroom,” he suggested. “I’ll leave you alone and work in here,” he expressed, pointing at the sofa where Jimin had stormed up on him earlier.

A new trace of guilt washed over Jimin at the reminder of him having ended Jungkook’s phone call that rudely.

However, for some odd reason, Jimin couldn’t muster to apologise.

Maybe, his agitated being was prevailing his natural polite mannerisms.

“Okay,” Jimin uttered. “Okay, thank you.”

For a moment, they stared at one another.
The black haired boy indicated to move closer, but refrained from the action as he pressed his lips into a line, seemingly using any last bit of self-control he could assemble to respect Jimin’s request for some space. “I’ll be here, if you need me,” he stressed, not managing to resist the urgency to press a kiss to Jimin’s forehead before he turned around and headed over to the sofa.

Jimin blinked.

Carefully, he took off his shoes and deposited them beside Jungkook’s. Then, he approached the set of stairs, his gaze fixated on Jungkook who was already sitting on the sofa, his phone in his right hand.

Jungkook turned back to steal a glimpse at Jimin, their eyes meeting.

Naturally, Jimin’s heart fluttered.

However, he averted his gaze, walking up the stairs without another word and heading into the bedroom.

As soon as Jimin entered the bedroom, he halted.

Was this right?

In a way, this situation was peculiar. Now, Jimin was going to arrogate Jungkook’s bedroom in his apartment for himself while the other one was compelled to stay downstairs.

Then again, to be fair, Jungkook was the one who had offered this solution as he was very adamant for Jimin to stay.

Carefully, Jimin approached the bed, climbing up on the soft sheets and lying down on his back, his gaze fixated up to the ceiling.

Darkness.

There was no ounce of illumination in the room, Jimin having refrained from switching the lights on, having believed that he would prefer it this way.

However, now Jimin found himself to be afraid of the absence of light, pure darkness never having been his friend. It might be embarrassing, but as long as Jimin could remember, he had always feared the dark – never managing to surmount that fear.

Cautiously, Jimin reached over to the nightstand and switched on the little lamp, dim lights illuminating the room, the faintness of it being just comfortable enough.

Silence – aside from the rain drops pitter-patting against the window, that particular noise somehow so uniform that Jimin managed to barely take any notice of it.

Sometimes, the absence of any major noise could be quite pleasant, Jimin often finding comfort in the silence that surrounded him in certain situations.

Yet, not this one.

No, not this one.

Jimin’s thoughts were that much louder, intensified in the quietness of the room, ringing in his mind without any hint of hushing.
The image of that terrifying gun proceeded to appear in Jimin’s head, nearly engraved into the back of his eyes for him to permanently stare at.

_What was it that scared Jimin so much?_

The fact that the private ownership was illegal?

The fact that it was a weapon at all?

The fact that... it _looked just like the gun that guy in Busan had aimed at Jungkook’s head in that gambling casino back then?_

A shiver ran down Jimin’s back at that memory, his heart clenching.

_For a few minutes back then, Jimin had actually believed that they were ought to shoot him. Just like that._

Just like that, Jungkook would have been gone.

In those few minutes, Jimin had been scared to death, scared of losing Jungkook forever.

After all, that’s what that gun was capable of causing – with a mere shot. _Kill_ someone. Tear them out of this life _forever_.

Yet, was Jimin simply overreacting?

Was this something common in the business and entertainment industry? – A world that Jimin was now a part of as well and had to discover, not yet possessing all the knowledge it held.

The smaller male sighed, sliding his hand through his pink locks in frustration before he rolled over onto his side, nuzzling his face into the pillow.

_It’s for protection purposes._

_Just a safety measure._

_Beomsoo knows how to handle a gun._

_I didn’t want you to be afraid._

Jungkook’s voice went on to echo in Jimin’s mind, his words repeating themselves again _and again and again_ like a continuous loop.

The pink haired boy wasn’t certain for how long he was actually lying there, left alone with his confusing thoughts in Jungkook’s bedroom. It was as though time didn’t exist anymore, hours feeling like a few minutes.

Suddenly, the doorbell rang, the irritating sound cutting through the heavy stillness of the room and startling Jimin, interrupting his thoughts.

Naturally, Jimin sat up, indicating to rush to the front door, yet then reminding himself that this _wasn’t_ his own place, but Jungkook’s.

Slowly, Jimin lowered himself back down on the sheets, staring up at the ceiling with hollow eyes.

A few minutes later, the sound of some gentle knocks on the door was audible in the room.
“Little one?” Jungkook called out softly, his voice having the inevitable effect on Jimin to cause his heart to skip a beat. “Can I come in?”

This is your bedroom, Jimin thought, but he only nodded, causing the taller one to enter the room.

“Who was at the door?” Jimin found himself ask without stealing a glimpse at Jungkook, not capable to contain his curiosity as to who it could be.

“I ordered some pizza,” Jungkook retorted, the scent of freshly oven-baked pizza filling Jimin’s nostrils. “Do you want any?” he wondered.

“I’m not hungry,” the smaller one uttered, shaking his head.

“When is the last time you ate something?” Jungkook wanted to know, inclining his head to the side.

“I don’t know… This morning,” Jimin responded, shrugging his shoulders, quite frankly not recalling his last meal due to how blank his mind felt.

“Little one, you need to eat,” Jungkook insisted with a sigh, his tone soft as he approached Jimin.

“I’m not hungry,” Jimin stressed, rolling over onto his side, turning his back to Jungkook.

The taller male halted. “Okay,” he whispered, giving a nod. “I’ll leave some here in case you do get hungry, okay?” he added as he closed the distance between them and placed something on the nightstand – the scent so much more vivid now.

Then, Jungkook left, the sound of his footsteps padding on the floor decreasing with each step until they were gone entirely, leaving Jimin all alone again.

Somehow, Jimin’s heart clenched.

Was he being too harsh?

After all… was it right for Jimin to interfere in Jungkook’s business and safety related decisions?

If it was truly such a common thing in the industry, maybe Jimin was in fact being a little tough on Jungkook.

Pressing his eyes shut, Jimin sat up against the headboard as he dug his teeth into his bottom lip, a feeling of remorse so much more distinctive within him now.

At the prominent scent of the pizza, Jimin’s stomach audibly grumbled, reminding him of his actual hunger and the lack of any proper meals he has had throughout today due to his busy schedule.

Hesitantly, Jimin stole a glimpse at the plate deposited on the nightstand. There were four pieces of pizza presented on it.

Extra cheese – Jimin’s favourite.

At the sight, Jimin smiled softly, but he shook his head as he reached for a piece. Hungrily, Jimin took a big bite of the piece, his taste buds jumping in euphoria as he chewed on the delicious bite.

Silently, Jimin munched on the piece, finishing it in no time at all before he picked up another piece and took another bite.
All of a sudden, there was a loud roar outside the window, the unforeseen noise startling Jimin who nearly dropped his piece of pizza.

Oh no.

Thunder.

Carefully, Jimin got up to his feet, tip-toeing over to the window and pulling the curtains to the side to steal a glimpse at the world outside.

The heavy rain was still pouring down on the city that was illuminated by the various lights deposited in the numerous buildings or street laps, the moon hidden behind some dark clouds this night.

Splat.

A bright lightning strike, followed by another deep roar embodied in a thunder.

Honestly, Jimin couldn’t quite recall the time he had last witnessed a thunderstorm. Surely, rain was no stranger to Seoul, yet the last real thunderstorm must have been quite a while ago.

Despite Jimin’s knowledge of thunder simply being a natural phenomenon caused by lightning, the smaller boy found himself to feel uneasy whenever a thunderstorm occurred.

It wasn’t that he felt endangered… It wasn’t really any fear either…

It was just… reminding him of his past.

“Jimin-ah, come back inside!” Jimin’s father belted out, swinging his beer bottle around as he stood in the doorway, waving Jimin back inside.

The little boy giggled, jumping around with spread arms. “It’s raining, Appa!” Jimin yelled, his tone so bright and joyful, the droplets of rain that were falling down on him making him feel so very alive.

“Exactly, so come back in right now!” his father repeated his prior order, visible annoyance depicted on his face.

“Look at the little puddles!” Jimin gasped, jumping from one puddle into the other, dirty water splattering up and splashing onto his trousers, but Jimin didn’t mind as he was entirely soaked already anyway.

“I’m not going to tell you again!” the older man warned through gritted teeth.

“Just another minute, please!” Jimin begged, pouting at his father as he jumped up and down.

Splat.

A bright light up in the sky.

“How?” Jimin uttered, his eyes big as he glared up at the sky as though he was undecided whether his eyes had deceived him, or the sky had actually just lit up. “What was that?”

“I said: Get back in!” Jimin’s father yelled, suddenly right beside Jimin and dragging him by the back of his shirt, the smaller boy nearly tumbling over and falling to the floor, but compelled to stay up by the force of his father’s grasp. “You’re not going out again. Understood?”
“Yes, Appa,” Jimin whispered as soon as they were inside, his father smashing their front door close before he walked back into the living room. Hesitantly, Jimin followed after his father, the man swift to disregard Jimin and turn back to the TV.

The little boy shivered, his soaking wet clothes sticking to his delicate body, his damp fringe veiling his eyes.

“Appa, I’m cold,” Jimin murmured, shuddering again as he tip-toed closer.

Jimin’s father didn’t spare him a glance, ignored Jimin’s presence and his complaint altogether.

A loud roar.

At the sudden noise, Jimin flinched, his eyes going big in fear.

“Appa, what is that?” Jimin wanted to know.

No response.

“Appa?” Jimin uttered, taking a step closer.

Another roar.

“Appa, it’s so loud,” Jimin whined, rushing to his father’s side. “I’m scared. Why is it so loud?”

The taller male applied faint pressure on Jimin’s side in a nonverbal demand for him to back off. Hurt, Jimin increased the distance between them all over again, having hoped to find some safety in his father’s close proximity.

“It’s God punishing naughty children like you who don’t listen to their parents,” his father belted out.

At that, Jimin’s eyes went big.

“What? But… but Appa, I’m sorry,” Jimin apologised, tears prickling in the corner of his eyes. “Please, tell him to stop,” he begged.

Was the world being attacked because of him?

No! Please no! Jimin hadn’t meant to do this!

“Can you shut up now?” his father complained in annoyance, tossing a pillow at Jimin who allowed it to fall to hit his chest, somehow not capable to move right now. “For fuck’s sake. I’m trying to watch this fucking football game. If this fucking TV would work! Why am I paying for this shit?”

“Can I help you, Appa?” Jimin offered softly, trying to wipe away his tear he had been certain of having rolled down his cheek, yet discovering that his whole face was wet from the rain in the first place, causing that action to be redundant.

“You can help me by being quiet,” his father belted out. “Can you do that?”

The smaller boy sniffed, spinning around and running into his bedroom where he hid himself beneath his covers, hoping that God would forgive him for being a naughty child.

“I’m going to listen to Appa from now on. I promise. Please, stop, please,” Jimin whined.
Another loud roar.

Luckily, Jimin’s grandmother had resolved that bluff, sweet to explain to Jimin how thunder was actually created despite Jimin struggling to understand all of it at his young age. However, that hadn’t stopped Jimin for believing his father’s lie for a good six months of his life until his grandmother refuted his father’s myth.

Somehow, the memory of his own pure starry-eyedness and a naïve, young Jimin – who still tended to be rather naïve even today – caused Jimin to smile faintly.

Obscure, yet beautiful, Jimin thought as the realisation of his own smile.

Surely, it had taken quite a long time, but Jimin was finally capable of finding happiness even in the times that had scarred him the most.

The reminder of his father’s harsh treatment and his hate towards Jimin did no longer possess such negative power over Jimin, did no longer owe the ability to haunt Jimin and scar him even years later.

No, this was just another past memory of his father like all the other ones – bygone, valueless.

However, it didn’t surprise Jimin that he still wasn’t that fond of thunderstorms.

After all, some scars never heal entirely.

Slowly, Jimin tip-toed back over into the bed, hiding his delicate being beneath the covers before he finished his meal – the boy feeling a little gloomy at the realisation of him having devoured all of the pieces already.

The again, he did feel replete. – A fact that was displayed by the slow but steady sleepiness that vividly sneaked up on Jimin’s gentle being.

As a result, Jimin rolled back over to his side, nuzzling his cheek into the pillow as his eyes fluttered shut.

While Jimin was lying there, entangled in the soft sheets of Jungkook’s bed, the pink haired boy found himself wonder what Jungkook was doing downstairs.

Was he waiting for Jimin to come back down and talk to him?

For how long was he going to stay there?

Another loud roar outside the window.

The smaller boy flinched at the growling sound, pulling the blanket up higher to hide his petite being beneath the velvety blanket as though it would provide any real protection – as though Jimin even needed any physical protection from the thunder.

When was this thunderstorm going to be over?

“Angel,” Jungkook’s deep voice suddenly spoke, startling Jimin yet again as Jungkook’s footsteps had not been audible to Jimin’s ears at all, thus his unexpected appearance caught Jimin off-guard.

“I’m sorry,” Jungkook apologised, having noticed the way Jimin had flinched beneath his covers because of his silent arrival.

Swallowing hard, Jimin remained in his stance, not facing Jungkook.
“You finished your food,” Jungkook noted, almost as though Jimin wasn’t aware of that in the first place – which he obviously was, as he was the one who had emptied the plate.

At his comment, Jimin found himself wonder whether he had just meant to say something – anything at all – to break the ice, an attempt to commence a conversation between them, or whether he was actually that interested in the matter regarding Jimin’s meals.

“That’s good,” he added.

“Mhm-mh,” Jimin hummed softly.

“Jimin-ah, please,” the younger male asked, his tone so gentle as he closed the distance between them, Jimin not entirely certain what exactly he was asking for, yet then having a credible assumption.

“I’m tired,” Jimin murmured, which wasn’t a sole lie. After all, Jimin was truly very sleepy. Then again… it wasn’t the genuine reason for his refusal.

“Please, talk to me,” Jungkook begged, the tone of his voice physically wounding Jimin’s chest, his heart pleading to make amends with Jungkook.

Why was Jimin serving Jungkook with utter silence?

Wasn’t he the one who had been so adamant in them trying to fix their issues through communicating?

Now, here he was himself, pushing Jungkook away.

_Hypocritical._

“I’m still thinking about it,” Jimin expressed softly, rolling over onto his back. “I just… I can’t wrap my head around the idea of- A _gun_, Jungkook-ah. A gun. That’s insane,” he stated, shaking his head.

“I know it is, little one,” Jungkook coincided, appearing to be appreciative of Jimin talking to him as his eyes gleamed with hope and affection. “But the world isn’t as safe as you think it is, Jimin-ah. There are bad people-” he tried to reason, but Jimin sat up with a shaking head.

“I’m not a child anymore, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin stressed, not insulted by Jungkook’s argument, yet then not entirely enthusiastic of it either. After all, Jimin was more than aware that the world wasn’t a fairy tale. “I know- I know that there are evil people out there, but that doesn’t justify that you own a gun”

There were various different ways to ensure safety and protection – multiple _legal_ alternatives one could switch to. A firearm really wasn’t the only approach to validate safety – beyond the fact that it was illegal in the first place.

At least, that’s what Jimin perceived.

Was his narrative really that incomplete? Was there more to this situation that he failed to apprehend?

The black haired male wet his lips, tilting his head to the side as he arched up his eyebrows. “I do not own a gun,” he corrected Jimin. “I will never own a gun. It belongs to Beomsoo, not me,” he added.

“You asked him to carry one,” Jimin pointed out.

_Fine._ Jungkook wasn’t the one who was actually in the possession of a gun, but he was the one who had asked Beomsoo to carry one. That wasn’t exactly anything legal either, now was it?

“I asked him to carry a weapon,” Jungkook stated, shaking his head all over again. “Beomsoo preferred a gun over a knife and provided it for himself,” he informed Jimin.

Where does one even buy a gun from?

Then again, Jimin didn’t really want to know.

Somehow, this whole conversation was so peculiar to Jimin.

Throughout his whole life, Jimin had been very careful to try and stay away from violence as well as he could muster. Evidently, Jimin was not appreciative nor supportive of any form of violence.

To imagine Jungkook having a casual conversation with Beomsoo regarding the question what kind of weapon he would prefer to own was outright absurd to Jimin – so surreal.

“Are you listening to yourself, Jungkook-ah?” Jimin wanted to know with furrowed brows, shaking his head once more. “This is insane”

“It is,” Jungkook agreed softly, giving a faint nod. “I never claimed that it isn’t”

They stared at one another.

“What if it got into the wrong hands?” Jimin asked, believing he was stating another valid objection. “What if it got lost somewhere and someone would have used it to kill?”

Anyone could have stolen that gun, Beomsoo could have lost it somewhere by being a little unwary. Just like that, someone else could have taken advantage of the gun and use it.

To hurt someone. To kill someone.

“Jimin-ah,” Jungkook uttered softly, his tone conveying that he didn’t agree with Jimin’s objection, but appeared to view it as something of low probability.

“It can kill you, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin emphasised.

“No, the person that carries it is the one that kills, not the gun,” Jungkook argued, shaking his head as he sat down on the bed beside Jimin, the smaller one remaining in his position, disregarding the fluttering of his heart at their close proximity. “Beomsoo would never kill someone with it. Beomsoo was obligated to carry one and use it in immediate danger. If he ever draws it, he must have a valid reason of you being in immediate danger. I’m more than certain that Beomsoo will not enable anyone else to get hold of that gun,” he elaborated.

Well… That was true.

After all, a gun alone really was unable to kill someone just like that. It was the person who pulled the trigger that owned such ability, that possessed such power over the item.

“I just…” Jimin whispered, not sure of what else to say.

“Are you scared?” Jungkook then wanted to know, his question catching Jimin off-guard.

“I… I don’t know,” Jimin responded sincerely, his tone soft, the boy not certain whether he was truly scared or perhaps just overwhelmed by all of this.
After all, Jimin knew Beomsoo, knew that he could be trusted.

Beomsoo wasn’t impulsive or violent, didn’t appear to be someone that would use a gun just because he could.

No, Jimin could only see him carry one with the intention of protecting someone.

“Are you scared of me?” Jungkook wanted to know, his voice somehow so much quieter, Jimin almost positive that there was even a hint over vulnerability in his tone, but it was gone that fast that Jimin was undecided whether it had genuinely been there to begin with.

The smaller boy hesitated.

“Little one,” Jungkook whispered.

“No,” Jimin retorted, shaking his head. “No, I’m not scared of you,” he assured. “I just- I’m scared of a gun. I understand that it’s just- I get that it can’t kill someone by itself, but the thought of someone possessing something that could kill by them simply pulling a trigger does frighten me,” he elaborated, finding himself reach out to place his delicate hand on Jungkook’s thigh nearly subconsciously.

The black haired male’s gaze rushed down to his tiny hand, an emotion glistening in his eyes as he lifted his head again to lock eyes with Jimin.

“I understand that,” Jungkook commented, giving a nod. “I’m sorry,” he apologised again, his eyes so genuine that Jimin was more than certain that he wasn’t just saying that to make amends with Jimin as though it was what he believed Jimin wanted to hear, but that he was actually remorseful.

Silence.

“Does Beomsoo really need a gun?” Jimin found himself whisper, catching his bottom lip between his teeth. “I don’t want to be anywhere near one. It scares me,” he admitted, his voice turning softer with each syllable.

Jungkook studied Jimin’s features for a moment longer.

Then, he gave a nod. “Okay, little one, I will talk to him” Jungkook decided. “Maybe, we can negotiate and find another solution. However, I do want him to be weaponised in some way at least, preferably a knife, if you don’t like the thought of a gun at all,” he added.

Both weapons were extremely dangerous and scared Jimin, but... if he were to choose, the idea of a knife that Beomsoo was going to carry around for protection purposes was less unsettling than that death-thing embodied in a gun. The mere thought of a firearm caused Jimin’s core to freeze in fear.

“You promise?” Jimin whispered, his eyes big.

“I promise,” Jungkook expressed, giving a determined nod before he got up to his feet. “I will call Beomsoo right now,” he decided despite the late hours of the day.

They stared at each other for a moment longer before Jungkook turned around and left the room.

Jimin blinked.

Then, he rolled over onto his back again, staring up at the ceiling, listening to the uniform pitter-patter against the window that had a calming effect on him.
A few minutes later, Jungkook returned to the bedroom, halting in the doorway and leaning against the frame. “Okay, little one, all done,” Jungkook informed him upon his reappearance.

Thank you.

The smaller one rolled onto his side, meeting Jungkook’s gaze, yet not saying anything.

“It’s late already, angel,” Jungkook noted before he pointed to the windows. “The weather still hasn’t calmed down. Please, stay for the night,” he requested softly.

Frankly, Jimin was rather sleepy already, nearly falling asleep in this very moment.

Jimin gave a faint nod.

“Do you want to be alone tonight?” Jungkook wanted to know, tilting his head to the side as here stared at Jimin intently. “I can sleep on the sofa,” he offered, pointing back over his shoulder.

What?

“This is your place, Kook-ah,” Jimin reminded him softly, judging by Jungkook’s offer that he must have temporarily omitted that fact from his mind.

“I know,” Jungkook smiled. “But your comfort is more important to me, so I don’t care whose place this is,” he added, shrugging his shoulders. “I can sleep on the sofa tonight, if you’d like to be alone”

Hesitantly, Jimin’s gaze flickered back and forth between Jungkook’s eyes, the pitter-patter of the raindrops falling against the window the only noise in the room at the absence of their voices.

Jungkook was offering to sleep on the sofa in his own apartment just because he believed that Jimin didn’t want him at his side tonight?

Gently, Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth, his heart clenching at the realisation.

Of course, Jimin wanted him here.

Always. Forever.

“You can sleep wherever you want…” Jimin found himself mumble, his tone tender and quiet, the boy somehow discovering a small fraction within him to be too proud to admit to his profound need of Jungkook’s close proximity – which was an occurrence in every situation of his life at this point, that longing appearing to be even prominent when they were on difficult terms.

“Jimin-ah,” Jungkook uttered, indicating to move closer, but pressing his lips into a line and stilling entirely, seemingly refraining from the desire of closing the distance between them. “Okay. Good night, little one;” he wished, his tone soft as he dropped his hands back to his side, turning to leave the room.

Jimin’s heart ached.

A roar outside the window.

“Stay,” Jimin found himself whisper.

The younger male halted.

“Please, stay,” Jimin repeated, sitting up in the bed.
Jungkook turned to face him. “Are you-”

“Please,” Jimin interrupted him, Jungkook not obtaining any opportunity to finish his sentence, but that wasn’t significant to either of them right now.

Slowly, Jungkook closed the distance between them, Jimin scooting over to make room for him, allowing the other one to join him on the bed who didn’t hesitate to lie down next to Jimin beneath the blanket.

They faced one another, a few inches remaining between their bodies, enabling them to stare at one another at a comfortable angle.

Jimin’s heart begged him to reach out to touch Jungkook, but somehow, Jimin was hesitant.

Another loud roar outside.

At the growling sound, Jimin flinched.

“Are you scared of thunder?” Jungkook wanted to know, pulling his brows up in curiosity, not any humour or mockery conveyed in his tone.

“No…” Jimin lied, shaking his head as he pulled the sleeves of his shirt over his petite hands.

Carefully, Jungkook moved closer, closing the last inches of distance between them and closing his arms around Jimin’s delicate being before he pulled the boy closer to his chest.

At the close proximity, Jimin’s heart fluttered in delight and affection, Jungkook’s comforting scent and the warmth he was radiating having an immediate soothing effect on Jimin.

Naturally, Jimin hid his face in the curve of Jungkook’s neck, the sense of safety and belonging that fell upon him making him wonder why he had been that harsh with Jungkook in the first place.

“I’m sorry for not telling you about it,” Jungkook stated, rubbing his palm along Jimin’s back as he pressed his lips to the top of Jimin’s head, Jimin’s eyes fluttering shut at the soft touch.

“It’s… it’s okay,” Jimin uttered, his tone gentle.

Frankly, in a way, Jimin could comprehend why Jungkook hadn’t shared this information with him. Primarily, Jungkook had just intended to protect Jimin and prevent him from being scared. Despite Jimin’s preserved conviction that he would have preferred Jungkook to be honest with him from the beginning, he could understand why he had acted the way he did.

Jimin was simply appreciative of his apology.

After all, Beomsoo was working for Jungkook – any business related decisions were predominantly only their concern, not Jimin’s. In the end, Jimin wasn’t even aware for how long Beomsoo has been carrying that gun around with him – potentially even long before Jimin had even appeared in Jungkook’s life. Hence, Jungkook might have simply forgotten to share that fact with Jimin as it had already been such an established circumstance between the two of them.

“I thought I was doing the right thing,” Jungkook expressed, interrupting Jimin’s thoughts as he proceeded to caress Jimin’s back. “I… didn’t think it would be that much of an issue to you. I’m really sorry, little one,” he added.

The smaller one smiled softly, turning his head to the side to press his lips to Jungkook’s skin.
“I’m sorry... sorry for overreacting,” Jimin then muttered, catching his bottom lip between his teeth. “I guess... I don’t know... Beomsoo is working for you, so I shouldn’t interfere and tell you what to do,” he sighed, his voice turning quieter with each syllable as he shook his head at himself.

“No, stop that,” Jungkook objected, his tone an ounce firmer to convey his disagreement with Jimin apologising, the softness in his voice never vanishing entirely, though. “You haven’t overreacted, angel,” he assured Jimin. “Your feelings are valid in any situation. Never say that again, okay?”

“Okay,” Jimin murmured, giving a faint nod before he withdrew just enough to lift his head and meet Jungkook’s gaze. “Thank you for calling Beomsoo”

Jimin couldn’t express how relieved and grateful he was that Jungkook had been that considerate to call Beomsoo immediately and have him change his weapon.

An odd sentence, Jimin thought.

Then again, Jimin did understand that they were just doing this for protection being part of this industry. Despite his utter refusal to support any form of violence, he was grateful that they were that adamant to keep themselves, but also Jimin safe.

By no means would Jimin be capable to confidently state that he would ever be content with Beomsoo owning a gun and carrying it around whenever they were together, yet Jimin was also positive that he would manage to someday accustom to the thought of Beomsoo owning a knife for protection.

“You don’t need to thank me for that,” Jungkook stated, shaking his head before he pressed a kiss to Jimin’s temple.

As they were at the matter of apologising, Jimin was reminded of his earlier behaviour, a trace of remorse blooming within him as he recalled his rude action.

“I’m sorry for ending your call like that earlier,” Jimin apologised, digging his teeth into his bottom lip. “That was immature of me. I hope... I hope it didn’t get you in trouble,” he added quietly.

At the thought of Jungkook having lost a potential associate, investor or anything else of high significance because of Jimin’s rude behaviour, Jimin’s abdomen clenched in guilt, his heart dropping.

“No, angel,” Jungkook uttered. “You were emotional, and we tend to make impulsive decisions in these states,” he explained, brushing Jimin’s fringe out of his face. “I’m the perfect example,” he noted as he pointed at himself, humour audible in his voice.

The two of them chuckled, Jimin’s eyes turning into small crescents, that sight having the inevitable effect of heart fluttering on Jungkook.

“It’s okay,” Jungkook reassured him. “I was able to fix everything so it’s not an issue anymore,” he added.

Thank God.

“Okay,” Jimin whispered, giving another nod, relief blooming within him.

They stared at one another for a moment longer before Jimin leaned closer again to nuzzle his cheek against Jungkook’s chest, the latter’s grasp still tight around him.
“Is Beomsoo some sort of special agent?” the pink haired boy found himself wonder.

“What?” Jungkook asked amused, seemingly confused whether his ears had truly deciphered Jimin’s words correctly or whether he had misunderstood him.

“I don’t know, Beomsoo always seemed… strong and composed – a little mysterious, you know? I… do feel safe with him,” Jimin stated as he tilted his head to the side. “Now that I know he’s a retired police officer – which I didn’t know before and couldn’t have guessed – I could actually see him be some kind of special agent as well,” he explained, a soft laugh slipping from his lips.

“No, Jimin-ah,” Jungkook chuckled, shaking his head. “He’s not a special agent,” he refuted Jimin’s presumption. “Well, at least not that I know of. Beomsoo is just my driver and guard,” he added.

The pink haired boy pursed his lips before he smiled brightly. “I’m gonna think of him as a special agent now,” Jimin decided.

“Why?”

“That’s kinda cool,” the smaller one claimed. At his words, Jungkook withdrew, his grasp around Jimin tightening as he arched up his brow. “What?” Jimin asked with a chuckle.

“I don’t have to worry about Beomsoo being a threat, right?” Jungkook wanted to know, narrowing his eyes at Jimin as he poked his tongue into his cheek, his smile never vanishing from his face, amusement still gleaming in his eyes. “You’re not going to leave me for him, are you?”

Jimin giggled. “Well…” he uttered, biting down on his bottom lip.

“Excuse me?”

“I’m kidding,” Jimin chuckled, shaking his head as he reached up to cup Jungkook’s face in his tiny hands. “I’ll never leave you for another man. Not even if they’re a special agent,” he promised.

“For no one?” Jungkook echoed, leaning closer. “Not even a soldier?”

“A soldier? Hmm…” Jimin hummed in thought, titling his head up as he smiled teasingly. “Have you seen their uniforms?” he inquired; his eyes big. “They do-”

“Jimin-ah, don’t make me-,” Jungkook interrupted him warningly as he brushed his lips over Jimin’s. The smaller one giggled yet again. “No one, Jungkook-ah,” he repeated his prior promise. “No special agent, no soldier, not even any wizard in this world would make me leave you,” he declared.

“A wizard?” Jungkook echoed, raising up his brows in amusement.

“They can do magic, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin pointed out with big eyes. “That’s pretty cool,” he claimed.

“You do know that wizards don’t actually exist, right?” Jungkook commented with a smile, clearly teasing Jimin now as he shook his head.

“What?” Jimin whispered, his eyes big as he pouted, playing along with Jungkook. “But… but… all this time… I thought…,” he whined.

Another roar outside the window.
At the sudden noise, Jimin flinched, nuzzling closer to Jungkook.

“Fuck, you’re adorable,” Jungkook commented with a chuckle, pressing his lips to the top of Jimin’s head as he pulled the boy closer, Jimin swift to hide his face in the curve of his neck.

Not long after, the two of them fell asleep in each other’s embraces, their hearts beating to the same beat as they entered a world of beautiful, worry-free dreams.

***

“Good morning, Jimin-ssi,” Beomsoo greeted him, flashing him a faint smile that didn’t quite reach his eyes as he executed a deep bow, conveying a sense of nervousness.

“Hey...” Jimin uttered once the taller male had opened the door to the backseats of the vehicle, allowing Jimin to climb inside.

A brief moment later, the two of them were inside the car in their respective seats, Jimin swift to fasten his seatbelt before he rested his hands on his lap.

Beomsoo’s fingers were curled around the key that he had already slid into the ignition, yet he didn’t turn his keys to start the engine but was focused on Jimin by staring at him through the rear-view mirror.

“Beomsoo-ssi?” Jimin murmured, slightly puzzled by his unreadable behaviour.

“I’m sorry,” Beomsoo apologised, clearing his throat as he dropped his hand back to his side, now refraining from commencing the engine altogether. “Is it- Is it okay for me to talk to you about what happened last night?”

Oh.

The pink haired boy gave a faint nod.

“I'm sorry, Jimin-ssi,” Beomsoo declared, turning back to face Jimin entirely instead of meeting the gaze of his reflection in the rear-view mirror. “Mr. Jeon informed me that you dislike the idea of me carrying a gun by my side for protection”

Jimin remained silent, choosing to listen to what Beomsoo wanted to say.

“Obviously, I can understand your concern entirely. I don't want to be forced to use it, but I believe that it is necessary to carry one in case of an urgent matter,” he stressed.

“I... That’s your business and your life, Beomsoo-ssi. I don’t want to interfere in your decisions,” Jimin responded softly, pulling the sleeves of his shirt over his petite hands. “It’s just that... I don’t like the idea of being around one,” he admitted.

“I understand,” Beomsoo stated with a nod. “Mr. Jeon and I collectively decided to change the weapon from a firearm to a knife. I hope you understand that I need to carry a weapon with me for safety measures,” he emphasised, “It is solely for protection purposes”

“I...”

“You were always safe,” Beomsoo promised. “The gun- I know how to handle one,” he assured, pressing his eyes shut. “You were never in danger; I would have never used it on you or accidently trigger it. I'm trained”
“I heard...” Jimin murmured.

“I understand that you don't like guns, so I'm only carrying a knife with me from now on,” he stressed all over again, as though he wanted to establish that fact distinctively between them.

“Thank you,” Jimin declared.

“I hope this... I hope this won't affect...” Beomsoo trailed off, clearing his throat again.

The smaller boy smiled softly, apprehending what Beomsoo had meant to say even nonverbally. “It won't,” he assured him. “I was shocked and scared, but I understand that it is just for protection. You are just doing your job. I'm not mad at you, Beomsoo-ssi”

“That's... Okay, that's – Thank you,” Beomsoo retorted, returning Jimin’s smile as a relieved sigh fell from his lips.

“There is no need to thank me,” Jimin chuckled, somehow endeared by the fact of Beomsoo having been nervous whether their bond would be affected by yesterday’s events.

“I'll hurry up now, so you won't be late,” Beomsoo decided with a determined nod, finally twisting the key in the ignition, causing the engine to roar to life a brief moment later.

“Thank you” Jimin giggled, giving a nod.

******

Luckily, the individual lessons with Ong were growing more prosperous with each of their meetings, the two of them spending their time majorly efficient – with the occasional attempts of Ong’s fliting that Jimin was able to tone down – and devoting their ambition to improving Ong’s abilities.

The pink haired boy entered the practice room with a little paper bag in his delicate hand, having picked up some breakfast on his way to work.

Ong was already up on his feet, stretching his limps without any fabric veiling his chest, causing his upper body to be entirely bare and exposed, his chest glistening in slight sweat as a display of his persistent training.

“Ong-ssi, put your shirt back on,” was the first thing Jimin remarked upon his arrival, shaking his head as he smiled faintly.

As soon as Ong registered Jimin’s voice, he halted, turning to face the boy.

“Yes, Mr. Park,” Ong muttered with a nod, swift to pick up his shirt and tug it over his head, Jimin not paying much attention to him as he was heading towards the table in the back where he set down his belongings.

“How was your day?” Jimin wanted to know, meeting Ong’s gaze again.

The younger boy cleared his throat, pushing his hands into the pocket of his sweatpants as he approached Jimin.

“It was... It was good, thank you,” Ong retorted, nodding at himself. “How was yours?”

“Pretty good, thank you,” Jimin answered with a sweet smile, tilting his head to the side. “Well, today is our third lesson, Ong-ssi. Do you remember what I asked you to do in our last lesson?”

“Of course, Mr. Park,” Ong assured with a nod. “I was supposed to listen to a few songs you gave me and write down what feelings they convey,” he recited the task Jimin had assigned him to a few days ago.

Proudly, Jimin smiled, giving a nod.

The pink haired one was grateful that Ong had taken this assignment serious and had actually completed it despite the fact of it might sounding very silly or potentially being way too simple for him to even bother wasting his time with.

“Well, then let’s sit down and go through them,” Jimin decided with a smile as he kneeled down on the floor, Ong swift to join him.

“You’re already practicing,” Jimin noted upon entering the practice room another day.

Ong stilled, meeting Jimin’s gaze with a smile as he caught his breath. “You can never practice enough, Mr. Park,” he asserted, wiping his shirt over his sweaty face.

The smaller boy crossed his arms over his chest as he sat down on the floor. “Taking breaks is important, too. Your body needs to obtain a chance to regain some energy. Please don’t forget that,” he reminded Ong.

“Yes, Mr. Park,” the boy uttered, giving a nod as he picked up his water bottle from the floor.

“Well, you did practice the choreography we learned together, then?” Jimin wanted to know, arching up an eyebrow.

“Of course, Mr. Park,” Ong answered.

“Please, go ahead and show me,” Jimin insisted softly, pointing at the centre of the room.

“Goodbye, Ong-ssi. Until next time,” Jimin sent him off another day, waving his hand at the younger boy.

“Later, Mr. Park,” Ong returned, executing a deep bow before he exited the room with his belongings.

As soon as he was gone, Jimin checked his phone, realising that he still got enough time to take a quick shower before he was meant to meet up with Hoseok in another practice room to have a trainee evaluation.

This time around, it wasn’t for the group that was ought to debut fairly soon, but just one of those routinely assessments of some newer trainees which would decide whether or not they were permitted to stay in the company – according to their level of ambition, talent and particular skills that was required to meet Mr. Jeon’s standard.

After Jimin had gathered his stuff, he went on and left the practice room, heading over to the showers that were completely empty, that fact calming him. It wasn’t unusual to expect another soul to be in here, yet being the only one present was rather comforting to Jimin as the company of someone else tended to make him feel slightly timid.

A few minutes later, Jimin was dressed in fresh clothes, a mixture of strawberry and vanilla engulfing him, a scent he quite adored – Well, if not as much as Jungkook’s trace that left him feel absolutely comfortable and endeared.

The pink haired boy headed back to the practice rooms, searching for his phone in the midst of it, but realising that it was nowhere to be found.

_Dammit._

Jimin came to an abrupt halt, a sudden wave of nervousness blooming within him that was rather odd, presumably attributable to the possible loss of his phone. Hastily, Jimin checked his pockets and bag all over again, yet failing to locate it anywhere near.

“No,” Jimin huffed, narrowing his eyes as he tried to recall where he could have dropped his phone.

In the showers?

On his way there?

After all, he had definitely had it during his lesson with Ong…

Maybe, Jimin had never picked it up from the table in the practice room?

Figuring it was worth a try, Jimin headed over to the practice room he had prior been in with Ong for their individual lesson. If Jimin’s calculations where right – or rather, his memory of the schedule he had received from Hoseok this morning – there was no one supposed to occupy this practice room for the first half of the day except for Jimin.

Hence, if Jimin had truly left it there, it should still be deposited in its same spot!

In his rush towards the practice room, Jimin clumsily lost his balance, stumbling over his own two feet, but merely capable to prevent himself from falling – even if not in a very graceful way.

In the process of his truly _elegant_ safe, Jimin dropped his bag right in front of the door. Huffing at himself, he crouched down and picked it back up before he straightened his posture again.

As soon as he had lifted his head and had entered the room, Jimin gasped and came to an abrupt halt, startled by the sudden sight of another figure being present in the practice room.

_Jungkook._

The black haired boy was leaning against the table in the back of the room, his arms crossed over his chest as an amused smile curved his lips, his eyes almost teasing as they met Jimin’s.

_Oh, please don’t say you saw that._

“Hello, beautiful,” Jungkook greeted him, pushing himself off the table. “Are you okay?” he wanted to know, chuckling.

_Dammit._

“I… Yes,” Jimin murmured before he huffed again, stomping with his feet. “What are you even doing down here? You scared me,” he whined, clasping his hand over his heart as he approached Jungkook.
“I’m sorry, I didn’t mean to,” Jungkook snickered, swift to have closed the distance between them and press his lips to Jimin’s cheek as they met in the center of the room.

“You saw me fall, didn’t you?” Jimin mumbled, pressing his eyes shut.

“I might have,” the younger male retorted, leaning in to nudge his nose against Jimin’s cheek.

“Ugh,” Jimin groaned in frustration.

“Cute,” Jungkook whispered, inclining his head further down to capture Jimin’s lips in a soft kiss. “Are you okay?” he wanted to ensure.

Jimin gave a faint nod, humming in affirmation.

“Is it possible that you’ve lost something?” Jungkook then wanted to know, raising up a brow as he titled his head to the side.

Jimin gave another nod. “I did,” he sighed. “My phone. I was hoping that it would be in here, but—” Jimin tried to explain, stealing a glimpse at the table behind Jungkook and having to discover – to his evident luck, really – that his phone was not left in here either.

As Jimin was about to whine in frustration, Jungkook held up his hand, displaying a small device to Jimin’s eyes.

“My phone!” the smaller boy exclaimed, his eyes going big in relief as he reached out to take it, but ended up ultimately failing as Jungkook lifted his arm up even higher. “What are you doing?”

“I wanted to change this for so fucking long now,” Jungkook revealed with a smirk, unlocking Jimin’s phone with no difficulty at all – which, well, was partially Jimin’s own fault for using Jungkook’s birthday as the safety password.

“Jungkook-ah, what are you doing?” Jimin wanted to know, moving up on his tippy-toes in an attempt to reach even higher, yet learning that it still wasn’t enough to snatch his phone from Jungkook’s grasp. “If you don’t give me my phone back, I’ll—”

“You’ll what?” Jungkook challenged, arching up a brow as he stole a glimpse at Jimin, amused but also endeared by his adorable boy threatening him with the least intimidating voice or demeanor he could imagine.

The pink haired boy crossed his arms over his chest, pouting as he shook his head. “Meanie,” he mumbled.

Another soft laugh fell from Jungkook’s lips as he finally completed whatever mischief he had meant to do before he curled his hand around Jimin’s hip and pulled him closer, their chests bumping into one another as a result.

Slowly, he slid Jimin’s phone into the back pocket of his trousers, Jimin swallowing hard as Jungkook placed a gentle tap to his bottom once the phone was inside the pocket.

“There you go. All yours again,” he commented as he leaned in to attach their lips in a tender kiss. “You gotta be more careful, hm?”

“I don’t usually lose my stuff around here,” Jimin defended himself with a pout. “I’m glad it was here, though,” he sighed.
Jungkook titled his head to the side. “So, are you busy right now?” he wondered, caressing Jimin’s waist.

“Well, I just ended my lesson with Ong and now I’m waiting for Hyung to arrive for our evaluation,” Jimin informed Jungkook of his schedule.

“How did it go?”

“Very good, actually,” Jimin responded, smiling brightly at the reminder of his lesson with Ong, the latter opening up to him more and more with every meeting of theirs.

“Good”

“Why are you here?” Jimin wanted to know, his eyes big in curiosity.

The younger male smiled. “Well, to see you,” he answered, brushing strands of Jimin’s pink hair out of his face.

“Why?”

“Just because”

“Well, I’m not complaining to see you,” Jimin noted, smiling as he closed his arms around Jungkook’s neck.

The thought of seeing one another just for the sake of it – without any interior motives or true plans on what to do – was somehow so beautiful and admirable to begin with; the two of them not needing much more than this, sharing one another’s company being everything already.

“Aren’t you busy, though?” Jimin asked, figuring that Jungkook surely wouldn’t be able to stay down here with him for much longer as he was required to do more significant work in the upper floors rather than being down here in the practice rooms with Jimin.

“I have a few minutes,” he responded, shaking his head.

For a moment, he just stared at Jimin.

“Actually… I just talked to my father and I… wanted to tell you about it,” Jungkook then stated.

“About what?” Jimin wondered, his eyes big in inquisitiveness as he titled his head to the side.

“We are sponsoring a charity ball in a few weeks,” Jungkook revealed, catching Jimin off-guard.

A charity ball?

What?

“You are?” Jimin murmured, his eyes growing bigger at the realisation.

“Yes,” Jungkook affirmed, his own smile soft, his eyes gleaming in something so affectionate and displaying such a pure sense of happiness that it caused Jimin’s heart to flutter.

“That’s amazing, Kook-ah,” Jimin commented with a joyful smile.

The younger male gave a nod, his thumbs caressing Jimin’s hips. “I first brought it up to my father after we went to that orphanage a few days ago,” Jungkook expressed. “Coincidently, a friend of his is hosting a charity ball in a few weeks, but his sponsor jumped off last minute – fucking douche, if you ask me. Now, he has the whole event planned with no money to finance it. So, surprisingly my father didn’t need much convincing of me for him to suggest us to sponsor it and be a part of it that way,” he elaborated. “It just… felt so good – to give back I mean. It reminded me of those moments I shared with my mother,” he added, his tone an ounce gentler.

Jimin’s heart quivered in bittersweet affection, the reminder of Jungkook’s passed mother having a gloomy effect on either of them – undoubtedly more on Jungkook as it was his own mother – yet Jimin was always moved by the display of such heart clenching emotions Jungkook displayed as it was rather unusual for him, and the boy possessed such a vivid and deeply anchored spot in Jimin’s heart that it was inevitable to affect him as well.

“That’s beautiful, Kook-ah,” Jimin noted sincerely. “You did make a really generous donation that day,” he recalled, goose bumps running down his skin at the memory.

Yeonjun’s eyes were big in absolute shock, a vibrant ounce of disbelief depicted in his eyes as though he wasn’t certain whether his eyes weren’t deceiving him in this very moment.

“Are you sure?” he asked for reassurance, his lips parted as he shook his head, clearly lost for words. “That’s- Oh my god, are you- You two are send from heaven, aren’t you? You have to be!” he exclaimed, sliding his hand through his now messy hair. “Or is this- a prank- Did Hoseok-,” he commenced to doubt the generous act, seemingly finding this too good to be true – unreal.

“It’s not a prank,” Jungkook assured with a chuckle, shaking his head as he stole another glimpse at Haneun and Mingyu who were still very much frozen in their prior spot, grinning at the three of them. “I want you to use the money to ensure that these children have a good life in here – in every possible way,” he expressed.

“Thank you,” Yeonjun whispered, his eyes suddenly glassy, conveying a sense of immense gratitude that it caused tears to prickle in the corner of his eyes. “I- Just- Thank you, so much,” he added.

As soon as Jimin and Jungkook had left the orphanage and headed towards Jungkook’s car, Jimin came to an abrupt halt, turning to face Jungkook.

“Jungkook-ah, you’re- That was incredibly sweet of you,” he stated softly, his eyes big as they met Jungkook’s.

The black haired male crossed his arms over his chest as he wet his lips. “Why do you sound so surprised?” he wondered, a smug smirk displayed on his face as he raised an eyebrow.

“Well, because you just donated more money than I will probably make in a whole year?” Jimin exclaimed, swatting Jungkook’s chest.

“First of all, that’s not true, if you’d just wait for your first salary,” Jungkook disagreed, shaking his head at Jimin before he curled his hands around Jimin’s waist and pulled the boy closer to his body. “Secondly… what’s all this money good for in my bank account, if I could be using it for purposes like this, hm?” he added.

Smiling, Jimin leaned up to crash his lips on Jungkook’s in a gentle kiss. “You’re amazing,” he whispered against his lips before he captured them in another peck.

The younger male smiled into the kiss, moving his lips against Jimin’s for a few seconds before he withdrew to press his forehead against Jimin’s. “Let’s go, pretty,” he insisted as he nodded towards his car.

As soon as they had arrived in front of the vehicle, Jungkook opened the door to the passenger seat for Jimin. "Fuck, Haneun-ah was so damn cute," Jungkook commented as he shook his head at himself; his smile never vanishing from his face as though it was going to stay there forever – a beautiful sight, Jimin thought, such a gorgeous look on him.

"Thank you," Jimin uttered softly in regard to Jungkook’s kind gesture of opening the car for him as he climbed into the vehicle. "Well, she did have a crush on you as well," he noted with a soft laugh, glancing at Jungkook who propped his arm up on the car door before he leaned in to Jimin.

"Well, what can I say," Jungkook remarked smugly, shrugging his shoulders as he wet his lips.

“Oh, shut up,” Jimin giggled, shaking his head as he indicated to slap Jungkook’s arm, yet the latter was swift to dodge his hand, laughing alongside Jimin as he withdrew and shut the door close.

Once he had walked around the car and had climbed into the driver’s seat beside Jimin, the two of them fastened their seatbelts. However, Jungkook didn’t start the engine, but stole a glimpse back at the orphanage.

"It’s weird," Jungkook stated, furrowing his brows in thought, his smile softer.

“What is?”

“I never really wanted children myself, but after being in there with you and Haneun…” he trailed off, shaking his head as he met Jimin’s gaze.

Jimin’s brows shot up in curiosity. “That changed?” he wondered; his tone soft.

For some reason, at the mention of children, Jimin discovered his heart to do an odd skip, just to pound against his chest twice as fast, the sudden raise of his heart rate unforeseen, yet also inexplicable.

“I don’t know,” Jungkook retorted, shrugging his shoulders as he pushed the key into the ignition. “I don’t know,” he repeated, shaking his head this time. “I’m too young to really think about children yet, you know?” he expressed, his frown deepening.

“Yeah… I … I guess,” Jimin uttered, giving a faint nod.

After all, they were still fairly young indeed.

Months ago, Jimin had never really thought about children himself; had never wondered what his life would look like with a family of his own. Hell, he was in his early twenties and had barely gotten a hold of his own life.

However… somehow, all of that had changed when Jungkook had appeared in his life. The black haired boy was illuminating yet another layer of Jimin that the latter hadn’t been aware of before.

Now, Jimin did wonder about how their lives would look like in the future, wondered where the two of them would live, wondered… yes, wondered whether or not the two of them would have children.

By all means, just a few minutes ago, Jimin had found himself imagining a life with Jungkook in years to come, with a family of their own – theirs and beautiful and whole. Just like that. That image had appeared without any warning. So loving. So picturesque.
That change in Jimin’s perception had altered so suddenly, yet then also slowly and steadily in a way that it didn’t truly surprise Jimin that much? So easy. So… not at all frightening.

If anything, it just assured Jimin that Jungkook was… he was the….

“Do you want any?” Jungkook interrupted his thoughts, turning his head to meet Jimin’s gaze.

The smaller boy smiled softly as the earlier image reappeared in his mind. “I… I think I do, yes,” he uttered, his tone gentle and barely above a whisper although it wasn’t intentional as he gave a nod.

“N-Now?” Jungkook stammered, his eyes big as he swallowed.

Jimin giggled, shaking his head. “No, not now,” he retorted, catching his bottom lip between his teeth before he added softer, “One day, though. I think.”

The other boy gave a nod, the two of them simply staring at one another for a moment.

“How many?” Jungkook then wanted to know, his gaze flickering back and forth between Jimin’s doe eyes.

“I don’t know,” Jimin answered genuinely, tilting his head to the side as he contemplated.

Earlier, in that beautiful image of his, there had been two children among their family, living alongside Jimin and Jungkook. Did that imply that Jimin… subconsciously wished for two children with Jungkook?

“Two? Three?” Jimin responded eventually, not entirely certain of his answer.

“Three? Fuck,” Jungkook cursed, his eyes growing even bigger, a slight display of… was that horror in his eyes?

The smaller boy giggled. “What?”

“That’s… like a lot,” Jungkook stressed.

“It’s actually not that many,” Jimin objected, shrugging his shoulders as he smiled softly. “I’ve always wanted a sibling when I was younger,” he revealed.

The thought of someone else having been by his side throughout the traumatic experiences of his childhood did sound as though it would have made all of it more bearable.

Then again, Jimin didn’t wish his own childhood spent with his father upon anyone else.

“Children are…” Jungkook interrupted Jimin’s thoughts as he trailed off all over again, allowing the remainder of his sentence to hang in the air between them.

“Do you not like them?” Jimin wondered, tilting his head to the side as he couldn’t quite decipher in what way Jungkook had meant to finish his sentence.

“I mean… I do, but…” he retorted, furrowing his brows.

“Just not your own?” Jimin assumed, raising his eyebrows in curiosity.

“Fuck, it’s too early to talk about this shit, Jimin-ah,” Jungkook commented, shaking his head.

Hesitantly, Jimin placed his hands in his own lap, giving a faint nod. “I guess, you are right. This conversation is way too early. We can... we can decide... one day. Once we’re ready to really talk about this,” he decided.

After all, it wasn't reprehensible for Jungkook to not have made up his mind about this at all yet. In the end, they were still fairly young, and it was a decision that one day would absolutely change his life. Forever.

“You do want children with me?” Jungkook then inquired despite his prior remark of this conversation being way too soon, twisting the key in the ignition, the engine growling to life a moment later.

“I... Yes, I do,” Jimin uttered softly, giving a nod.

There was no doubt in his heart about that.

“Good,” Jungkook commented, giving a nod as he pulled out of the parking spot.

Jimin blinked.

“Do you?” the pink haired boy wondered.

“Huh?”

“Do you want children with me?” Jimin clarified.

Jungkook checked the mirrors before he sped up and drove down the street, wetting his lips as he sighed. “We shouldn’t talk about this yet-”

“Kook-ah,” Jimin pressed, his tone gentle.

“I’m not sure, if I even want children in the first place,” Jungkook stressed, meeting Jimin’s gaze again, softness in his eyes. “But if I were to have some, there is no doubt it my mind that I would want it to be with you” to Jimin’s nape.

At the gentle touch, Jimin’s heart fluttered, his hand moving to the back of Jungkook’s head to play with his black locks as the latter peppered a few more open-mouthed kisses over Jimin’s nape.

_Ahem._

The sound of someone clearing their throat startled the two boys, Jungkook lifting his head to meet the person’s gaze whereas Jimin was compelled to look back over his shoulder with the intention of even obtaining the opportunity to see the figure that was now present in the room as well as Jungkook’s grasp around his body didn’t loosen at all.

_Hoseok._

“Well, you two lovebirds should make out somewhere else,” he noted, an amused smile curving his lips as he leaned against the wall, crossing his arms over his chest. “Or at least shut the door before you eat each other’s faces,” he teased, pushing himself off the wall.

Jungkook rolled his eyes at him. “Fuck off,” he cursed, but chuckled as he rubbed his palm over Jimin’s back. “I’ve seen you do worse shit,” Jungkook reminded him.

Hoseok cleared his throat again, pretending for Jungkook’s statement to having been inaudible, but the two of them smiled, Jimin left puzzled as he wasn’t aware of what they were referring to.

Then again, he probably didn’t even want to know.

The pink haired boy’s cheeks were flushed a pretty shade of rose – a fact he discovered as he saw his own reflection in the mirror, the sight attributable to his faint sense of timidity at the thought of Hoseok having caught them sharing such an intimate moment.

Yet, Hoseok was one of his closest friends, thus a display of affection between Jungkook and him in front of Hoseok shouldn’t cause Jimin to feel this bashful as it had been one filled with purity.

“I’m sorry for interrupting,” Hoseok then stated softer, appearing to genuinely not having meant to disrupt them. “Jimin and I have an evaluation in a few minutes, though, so we should probably prepare some stuff”

“It’s all good. Don’t worry,” Jungkook assured him with a nod, leaning in to press his lips to Jimin’s temple. “I gotta head up to meet Jin now anyway,” he informed them, reluctantly withdrawing from Jimin and heading towards the door.

“I’ll see you later,” Jimin uttered, smiling at the younger male as he waved him off.

“Later, little one,” Jungkook retorted, returning Jimin’s smile before he addressed Hoseok. “See you around, Hyung,” he added as he nodded towards the latter.

“Sure will,” Hoseok responded, waving him off.

Then, Jungkook exited the room, leaving Jimin and Hoseok to themselves.

Hoseok crossed his arms over his chest again, smiling as he stared at Jimin, the smaller one still gazing at the door as though Jungkook would reappear any moment now. Shaking his head, Jimin forced his eyes away from the door, meeting Hoseok’s gaze.

“So, that was cute,” Hoseok noted, chuckling as he allowed his hands to drop back to his sides before he approached the table in the back of the room, dropping his backpack on it before he turned to steal a glimpse at Jimin again. “I hope I didn’t ruin anything.”

“Oh, no,” Jimin asserted, shaking his head as his cheeks tinged a darker shade of rose, the boy feeling all sorts of shyness as he pulled the sleeves of his shirt over his delicate hands. “We were just talking”

“Talking,” Hoseok echoed, his tone teasing as he looked at Jimin.

“So, evaluations are today,” Jimin changed the topic, clearing his throat as he tried to hide his flushed cheeks with his sweater paw. “Are the sheets ready?”

The brown haired boy snickered, but gave a nod, deciding not to tease Jimin as he opened his backpack and pulled out a stack of sheets – one resembling a profile of each trainee and a few specific assessment sheets for Jimin and Hoseok to take their notes on.

“Of course,” Hoseok responded as he waved Jimin over. “I just picked them up from Mr. Jeon’s assistant. We have to organise them, though,” he informed Jimin, depositing the papers down on the table as Jimin closed the distance between them.

“Have you met these trainees before?” Jimin wanted to know, observing Hoseok skim through the first couple of sheets.

“A few of them,” he revealed with a nod. “Some of them a very new though,” he added, handing Jimin a few sheets. “So it’s going to be my first time meeting them, too”

“How can there be these many trainees?” Jimin inquired as he took the sheets from Hoseok’s grasp.
“Why do they sign several new ones with all the other ones still being around?”

Hoseok flashed Jimin a warm smile. “It’s actually not uncommon for quite a few trainees to leave. It tends to be an even number, with the trainees that leave and the new trainees that come,” he explained as he leaned against the table. “Mr. Jeon seeks for new talent and does that in many countries and through various age groups. When he sees someone he’s interested in, he’s not going to wait until older trainees have left to scout them,” he elaborated.

“That does make sense… I guess,” Jimin uttered, giving a nod as he glanced down at the first profile.

Kang Ryu.

Eleven years old.

Korean/Chinese.

“He’s so young,” Jimin breathed, his eyes big as he skimmed through his profile.

“Some of them start at a very young age,” Hoseok stated, giving a faint nod as he stole a glimpse at the sheet of paper in Jimin’s hand. “It enables them to train for a longer period of time and receive more experience, but without any validation of debuting any time soon. It’s quite a huge risk – especially at such a young age. They spent their childhood in here. Is it worth it in the end? For most of them, it is. They will walk their paths either way,” he expressed, sliding his hand through his brown hair. “It truly displays their vivid ambition and aspiration for achieving their dreams,”

“It’s admirable,” Jimin noted with a half-smile. “That they’re willing to do all of that for their dream.”

“It is,” Hoseok agreed.
Suddenly, some footsteps and muffled voices were audible in the room, implying that people were moving closer. A brief moment later, the first trainees walked into the room.

“Well, then let’s start,” Hoseok muttered, flashing Jimin another smile before he picked up the stack of papers and headed to the center of the room.

Swiftly, Jimin skimmed through the profiles in his hands in an attempt to at least catch a glimpse of each of the trainee’s names before they were going to begin the evaluation.

***

The pink haired boy rolled over to his side, his delicate hand reaching out for his plush toy, closing his arms around the kitten to embrace it tightly as a substitute for Jungkook’s presence – a small fraction of resemblance in it as it reminded him of Jungkook for the reason of him having gifted it to him. If only Jungkook’s scent would linger to it as well, that would make the deception of his heart even more authentic.

Yet, his heart wasn’t fooled.

Nothing could replace Jungkook.

Gloomy, Jimin sighed, missing Jungkook by his side and finding himself to be rather upset by the fact of having to spend this night without him.

Originally, Jungkook was meant to come over to Jimin’s place tonight – had essentially already been on his way – but had been forced to head back to work due to a mistake in his schedule.

Now, Jimin was going to spend the night without him – To his own sorrow.

Each time they were forced to spend a night without one another, Jimin discovered his heart to ache in longing – as though it couldn’t bear the thought of being without Jungkook. Somehow, it was impossible to recall a time before Jungkook.

How had Jimin ever managed to survive a longer duration without anyone – particularly Jungkook – by his side?

Now, he felt such a prominent sense of need, of vibrant yearning for the black haired boy to be with him.

There must be something amiss with Jimin’s heart.

Suddenly, Jimin’s phone vibrated beside him, his screen lighting up and illuminating the room, his display functioning as a short provider of light in the dark bedroom.

Hesitantly, the smaller boy picked up his phone, rolling over onto his back as he stared at his phone display, slightly blinded by the brightness of his screen as his eyes had accustomed to the prominent darkness among him.

Are you already in bed, little one?

– Handsome

At the sight of the contact name, Jimin knitted his brows.

What now?

Just like that, something clicked within the boy.
Now, it all made sense!

That’s what Jungkook had done to his phone earlier upon him finding it in the practice room ahead of Jimin!

Jungkook had changed his own contact name, had replaced the dear term “Bunny” that Jimin had chosen for him.

The smaller boy giggled, shaking his head as he tugged his blanket up higher, the velvety fabric engulfing him in warmth.

_Handsome? Really?_
– Jimin

It didn’t take long for Jungkook to reply.

*Mhm-mh.
What’s going on?*
– Handsome

Oh, so he was just going to pretend this was entirely ordinary.

Your name in my contact list!
– Jimin

_Right._
– Handsome

Jimin rolled his eyes, but the amused smile on his face never quite vanished, displaying the humour and joy he discovered in this moment.

_Not very original…*
– Jimin

Gently, Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth, awaiting Jungkook’s response to his own slight teasing.

Excuse me?
– Handsome

The pink haired boy chuckled into his delicate hand, rolling over onto his side.

I like Bunny.
– Jimin

There was something very special to that pet name. In a way, it represented Jungkook’s upbringing, possessed a fraction of that childlike innocence that had surrounded him in his youth. The name was pure and sweet, reminding Jimin of a side to Jungkook that the younger male rarely allowed others to see.

Then again, the name Jungkook had chosen for himself was rather intriguing itself… After all, the black haired boy was evidently just that – handsome.

However, Jimin wasn’t going to admit to that out loud…

_Do you, now?_
“Mhm-mh... I’m going to change it back...”
— Jimin

Potentially.

Maybe, Jimin was going to leave the name Jungkook had chosen for himself for a while...

Fuck, you’re never going to get rid of that, hm?
— Handsome

The pink haired boy snickered again, shaking his head.

Apparently, Jungkook really wasn’t that fond of that name himself. Well, in the end, he had permitted Jimin to use it, if he really loved it that much, yet that didn’t imply that Jungkook himself was that keen of it. Hence, probably why he had changed his name in Jimin’s contact list.

Nevertheless, Jimin didn’t even know how Jungkook had him saved as in his contact list...

In fact, Jimin was remotely curious to find out.

“Well, what name do you have me saved as?”
— Jimin

I guess you’re never going to find out.
— Handsome

Jimin pouted.

“I like the name Bunny... It’s cute.”
— Jimin

I’m not cute.
— Handsome

Arguably, Jimin believed.

After all, there were so many beautiful, different layers to Jungkook – such a vibrant, variant spectrum of sides that he possessed; each one having conquered a spot in Jimin’s heart in such a natural way.

Certainly, Jungkook was usually adamant to uphold his profound demeanor consisting of strength and authority, yet there were numerous moments of him being an absolute silly dork and a cute little bean.

“You are, Bunny!”
— Jimin

“Hm, you’re lucky I’m stuck at work right now.
How many spanks for you to forget that name, hm?”
— Handsome

Oh.

Maybe, scratch that cute little bean part.
Well, this had taken a drastic turn – one that Jimin had to defuse before his heart commenced to long for something that he was unable to fulfill tonight.

Abort!

Bunny…
– Jimin

Great.

Way to go, Jimin.

Well, this was just another beautiful example of how well Jimin’s heart and brain coordinated with the other one, a true dream team that always found a way to listen to one another.

Clearly not at all, to emphasize the repercussions of his poor attempt to contain the arousal that had ignited within him.

This was going to backfire, wasn’t it?

You’re testing me, huh?
– Handsome

The smaller boy swallowed hard, heat blooming in the pit of his stomach.

Noo…
– Jimin

Well, I see some cock slaps might be more efficient on you, hm?
– Handsome

Affected, Jimin gasped, those obscene words sending a shiver down his back, reminding him of a night a few days ago, Jungkook having done just that to him to discipline him.

Inevitably, Jimin drew his thighs together, his abdomen clenching in arousal.

Unfair, Jimin thought, for Jungkook to do this to him right now, aware that there was no way for them to see one another tonight.

Yet, what was going to happen, if Jimin was ought to play along?

Kook-ah…
– Jimin

There you go.

My good boy, hm?
– Handsome

Stop… That’s unfair, Bunny. :(
– Jimin

Maybe, Jimin was pushing his luck there.

In the end, he was going to be the one left needy and lonely…

Yet, he couldn’t stop.
Fuck, you would want that, wouldn’t you?
Want me to punish you, hm, kitten?
– Handsome

They were both more than aware of the answer to that… weren’t they?

Sir…
– Jimin

Yes, Jimin went there.

They were both aware of the effect this term had on Jungkook.
Little one, don’t.
– Handsome

Was… Jungkook affected by him now?

Somehow, that thought allowed a sense of pride to swell in Jimin’s chest, an emotion encouraging him to proceed just to see what Jungkook would do.

Then again, it was Jungkook who had started all of this… Technically, Jimin hadn’t done anything naughty, had he?

Wasn’t he a good boy?

Don’t what? I’m not doing anything :(
– Jimin

I’m still stuck at work, angel.
– Handsome

The pink haired boy was aware of that.

However, that didn’t stop him.

After all, Jungkook had commenced all of this, had evoked a prominent trace of arousal in the pit of Jimin’s stomach, the latter longing for a touch that he knew he wasn’t going to receive tonight by their present distance.

Maybe, Jungkook had planned this mischief all along by choosing that particular name in Jimin’s contact list? Maybe, he had intended to tease Jimin tonight from the start…?

You started this, meanie. :(
– Jimin

Be good, baby.
– Handsome

Good?

Jimin was good!

Digging his teeth into his bottom lip, Jimin rolled over onto his back all over again, noticing the already visible bulge in his crotch area.
Of course.

At this point, Jimin wasn’t exactly surprised anymore by the evident display of the prominent effect Jungkook had on him in various ways.

This was one of them.

Suddenly, a dangerous idea bloomed within Jimin.

No, a voice inside of him refused, that’s naughty.

Yet... was it?

Carefully, Jimin traced his fingertips over his stomach, moving them further down to his trousers. Gently, his digits fidgeted with the waistband of his pajama pants, tugging on them ever so slightly.

Just do it, a confident voice within him encouraged him – Jimin not certain whether it was such a good idea to listen to that particular one, but then quite frankly noticing that the arousal residing within him had already started to rule his behaviour.

Frantically, Jimin tugged on the fabric, lifting his hips into the air and wriggling his butt around as he pulled his pants down his milky legs. As soon as he had removed them from his body, he kicked them down his bed.

The smaller one’s heart skipped a beat as he stole a glimpse at his lower region, his crotch still veiled by the fabric of his underwear. Nearly unconsciously, he found himself tugging down his briefs before he kicked them down his bed as well, causing his lower body to be entirely bare.

Inhaling a shaky breath, Jimin reached out to touch, allowing the tips of his fingers to trace up his semi-erection before he applied faint pressure against the head, a trail of pre-cum leaking from the slit.

Why wasn’t Jungkook here?

Why wasn’t he here to touch Jimin?

To tell him that he was being a good boy – or maybe not – that he was pretty.

Nervously, Jimin picked up his phone again, digging his teeth into his bottom lip as he spread his legs further apart.

Just do it, the voice repeated.

That’s what Jimin did.

Look what you did...
– Jimin

Alongside his next message was an image of himself, picturing his fair-skinned stomach and spread legs, the red tip of his penis such a contrast to everything else.

Jungkook’s replies consisted of a consecutive mix of swear words.

Holy Shit.
Fuck.
You...
This time, Jimin sent a picture of his pouting face, his pink hair having fallen into his face, his eyes already glassy and somehow simultaneously conveying a sense of desperation, yet then also displaying something so sultry, the room illuminated in such dim lights that caused Jimin to simply appear so sinful, but angelic at the same time.

A phenomenon that only Jimin possessed – as Jungkook had learned, the man more than certain of that fact.

You’re going to be the death of me.
– Handsome

Why?
– Jimin

You’re absolutely…
Fuck, you’re so goddamn pretty, baby.
– Handsome

At the compliment, Jimin’s heart fluttered, a soft smile embellishing his pretty features.

However, that didn’t prevent his longing to demand attention.

May I touch myself?
– Jimin

You really want to torture me, hm?
– Handsome

The black haired boy was about to have a meeting with the thought of his little boy being home alone and playing with himself? That was torture in Jungkook’s books.

Please, answer me.
– Jimin

Suddenly, Jimin’s phone vibrated in his grasp, indicating that he was receiving a call.

Without an ounce of hesitation, Jimin accepted the call, not even requiring seeing what name was lit up on the screen – already aware of who it was.

“K-Kook-ah,” Jimin whispered, his heart skipping a beat as he caught his bottom lip between his teeth.

A chuckle was audible on the other end. “My naughty kitten, hm?” Jungkook’s low voice spoke, his tone sending a shiver down Jimin’s back.

“It’s all your fault,” Jimin accused – if not wrong, as Jungkook was in fact responsible for Jimin to feel this desperate now. Well, if you disregard the detail of Jimin simply turning needy very quickly when it came to Jungkook.
“Is it?” Jungkook questioned, amusement conveyed in his tone.

“Make it better,” the pink haired boy insisted softly, his cheeks flushing a shade of rose as he wondered whether he was being even naughtier now by ordering Jungkook around – even if not intentionally, but simply being ruled by his neediness that resided within him.

“Demanding now, are we?”

“’m sorry…” Jimin apologised, his tone gentle as he made himself smaller. “Please?”

Jungkook chuckled again. “Cute,” he commented, his voice softer.

“Kook-aaah,” Jimin whined.

“Sssh, I know,” Jungkook hushed him, some rustling audible in the background, Jimin assuming that Jungkook was adjusting his position. “Are you naked, little one?” he then asked, his tone lower again.

“No,” Jimin retorted, shaking his head in spite of Jungkook being unable to see him as he lowered his head to study his own appearance.

“What are you wearing?” the black haired male inquired.

“Your shirt… Just your shirt,” Jimin answered, tugging on the fabric of the white shirt covering his upper body, the piece of clothing way too big on his delicate being, but he preferred it that way – okay, Jimin primarily liked it that much because it was Jungkook’s shirt.

“Leave it on,” Jungkook demanded, Jimin not quite sure whether he hadn’t registered a curse word to slip from the other boy’s lips at the mention of Jimin’s attire, yet then too distracted by his arousal to really wonder whether his ears hadn’t deceived him. “Spread your legs for me, kitten,” Jungkook ordered, swift to attract Jimin’s entire attention.

The pink haired one caught his bottom lip between his teeth as he obliged.

“Aren’t you… What about your meeting?” Jimin then found himself wonder, partially considering slapping himself for ruining the mood, but then unable to refrain from asking that question.

After all, Jimin wasn’t keen on being the cause of Jungkook being late to his meeting.

“I have a few minutes,” Jungkook assured him.

“Are you alone?” Jimin inquired, titling his head to the side.

Clearly, this was heading down a rather intimate path, Jimin not exactly admiring the thought of being in such a vulnerable state with the knowledge of someone else potentially overhearing any part of their conversation.

A moment of hesitance on Jungkook’s behalf.

“Maybe,” Jungkook then responded, humour audibly conveyed in his tone.

“Jungkook-ah!” Jimin exclaimed, his cheeks flushing a darker shade of rose.

“I’m alone, kitten. Of course, I am,” the taller boy snickered, evidently amused by teasing Jimin the way he always did. “I’m not going to let anyone else hear how pretty you sound for me,” he added lower.
The smaller boy swallowed hard.

“Now, put me on speaker and set down the phone next to you. I want you to use both of your hands,” Jungkook insisted, Jimin’s stomach stirring in excitement as his heart skipped a beat.

“Yes, Sir,” Jimin uttered softly.

“Fuck,” Jungkook cursed breathily.

Then, Jimin complied, adjusting the phone on the pillow beside him and putting Jungkook on speaker. Thus, he established a way for him to hear Jungkook while simultaneously managing to use both of his hands.

For... whatever Jungkook had in mind.

“Where is your lube?” Jungkook wanted to know.

“In my drawer,” Jimin responded, knitting his brows at the question as he failed to realize why Jungkook was asking that in the first place.

Oblivious, Jimin.

“Get it for me, little one,” the black haired boy instructed.

Oh.

“Okay,” Jimin declared ahead of him carefully pulling his drawer open, rummaging through it before he closed his delicate fingers around the particular item and picked it up. Then, he rolled over onto his back again, not caring to shut his drawer. “I got it, Kook-ah,” he informed the other man.

“Good boy,” Jungkook praised him.

Oh.

“Pull up your shirt for me, baby, just enough to expose your chest,” Jungkook ordered, Jimin gulping again as he naturally found himself obliging without needing any clarification for the reason behind the command.

“Okay,” Jimin retorted once again, glancing down at his exposed body, spreading his milky legs further apart as he reached out to touch the red tip of his erection.

“I want you to play with your nipples, baby, just softly,” Jungkook demanded, causing Jimin to still his hand immediately.

Inhaling a shaky breath, Jimin complied, the tips of his fingers tracing over the sensitive bud devoid of any big ounce of hesitance, a trail of goosebumps rising on his skin at the touch.

“Kook-ah,” Jimin breathed out, his eyes fluttering shut as his hands wandered lower nearly involuntarily, desperate for more than this.

“Don’t touch yourself anywhere else,” Jungkook warned him, almost as though he had expected Jimin to.

Well, he wasn’t wrong.

Inevitably, Jimin obeyed, despite his own desire for supplementary stimulation.
“Mhm, but… but I want… more,” the smaller one whined, dropping his hands back to his sides.

“You’re so demanding tonight, hm?” Jungkook noted, a hint of amusement in his tone, yet primarily a trace of dominance adorning his voice that sent a shiver down Jimin’s back. “What a naughty baby you are,” he added lowly.

“I’m sorry,” Jimin apologised softly, catching his bottom lip between his teeth.

“Mhm-mh,” he hummed in acknowledgement of Jimin’s apology. “Now, play with your nipples,” Jungkook insisted all over again.

Jimin complied, his hands returning to his chest, the tips of his fingers brushing over the sensitive buds on either side, Jimin careful to pinch them, evoking a whimper in himself.

“Good boy,” Jungkook praised him. “Keep going”

The pink haired boy contained the whine that had threatened to slip from his lips, longing to touch his neglected penis that was begging for attention, yet then naturally finding himself deciding to listen to the prominent sense of obedience residing within him.

“Kitten, keep going with one hand, but I want you to play with your little hole for me,” Jungkook insisted. “Can you do that for me?”

Yes. Yes. Yes.

Delighted, Jimin picked up the bottle of lube, opening it up before he squirted a good amount of it onto his index finger.

Slowly, Jimin bent his knees and spread his legs further apart. Carefully, his hand moved down in between his spread legs, swift to locate his hole and press his digit against his rim.

“J-Jungkook-ah,” Jimin mewled, catching his bottom lip between his teeth as he pushed his finger past his sensitive ring of muscles, muffling the sounds that had loomed to slip past his lips.

“Are you biting your lip?” Jungkook wanted to know, appearing to have noticed that fact rather quickly. “Let me hear you, baby boy,” he demanded.

“Jungkook-ah,” Jimin moaned out, tossing his head back into his pillow as he didn’t hesitate to press his finger further into himself, dragging it along his sensitive walls.

“I’m right here, kitten,” the younger male assured him. “Use two fingers, baby, go on,” he then demanded.

Whimpering, Jimin gave a nod in spite of Jungkook being unable to see him, too desperate in obliging to be bothered with applying more lube to his fingers. Instead, he simply pressed another digit against his rim, sucking in a breath as he pushed it in alongside the other one already penetrating him.

“A-Ah, Kook-ah!” Jimin cried out at the slight ounce of pain spreading within him, that sensation swift to commute into a sweet trace of pleasure, the smaller one mewing out Jungkook’s name all over again.

“My good boy,” Jungkook praised him, some rustling audible in the background, Jimin assuming that he was adjusting his position.
Slowly, Jimin picked up a steady pace, thrusting his fingers in and out of himself with a certain force, moaning at the sweet sensation.

_It wasn’t enough – nowhere near as good as Jungkook’s touch – but at least it was something._

Hesitantly, Jimin roamed his palm over his fair skin, moving closer to his erection that was begging him to be touched with the intention of finally fulfilling that desire.

“Don’t touch your dick, baby, just play with your little hole for me,” Jungkook demanded, Jimin now at a point where he was seriously wondering how Jungkook was doing that – _did he really know him that well?_

“N-No,” Jimin objected, shaking his head as he curled his hand around his sensitive penis, giving a gentle squeeze before he ran his thumb along his slit, collecting a drop of pre-cum on his digit.

“What did you say?”

“I want… want more,” Jimin stressed breathily, tossing his head back as he tugged on his penis, simultaneously proceeding to thrust his fingers into his own hole.

“Fuck, I should be there, kitten,” Jungkook cursed, clicking his tongue, clearly dissatisfied with Jimin’s disobedience.

“You should,” Jimin whined.

Why wasn’t he?

Jimin needed him… _so badly._

“You’re being so _goddamn_ naughty tonight, aren’t you?” Jungkook stated. “I should punish you for being that bratty,” he added, his tone husky and attractive, sending another trace of chills down Jimin’s skin.

“You should,” Jimin agreed again, digging his teeth into the bottom lip at the intriguing thought of Jungkook punishing him.

“Fuck, kitten,” Jungkook cursed breathily at Jimin, allegedly just as affected by the smaller boy as he was by Jungkook. “Tell me your color,” Jungkook insisted.

“Green,” Jimin assured him, not aware why exactly Jungkook was asking him for his safe word in this particular moment, but finding himself respond without any hesitance all the same.

“Spank yourself,” Jungkook suddenly demanded.

_What?_

The pink haired boy’s ears were deceiving him, weren’t they?

“Huh?” Jimin breathed, stilling his movement.

“Slap your thigh, kitten,” the younger male elaborated, his tone dominant.

Cautiously, Jimin lifted his hand into the air, swift to bring it back down and deliver a spank to his inner thigh.

“Ah,” Jimin whimpered, hissing at the minor sting of pain and the poor jolt of pleasure that spread within his body a brief moment after.

Weird.

Somehow, it didn’t possess the same effect it naturally tended to whenever Jungkook was the one disciplining and punishing him physically – it was just not as… effective or intense.

Obviously, Jungkook had been the one to instruct Jimin to do this, but it just wasn’t the same… result.

Maybe, that was attributable to the fact of Jimin’s brain knowing when the spank would be delivered to his skin? Maybe, that inhibited the full potential of that particular stimulation?

Perhaps, it was due to Jimin simply enjoying Jungkook’s touch more than anything.

Frankly, Jimin wasn’t sure.

“Now, behave,” Jungkook demanded, drawing Jimin back to reality.

“Yes, Kook-ah,” Jimin uttered softly, resuming to move his fingers, carefully thrusting them into his hole as he commenced to pick up a steady pace.

As he proceeded to moan and whimper out, Jimin dabbed his fingers in a frantic attempt to locate his prostate – aware, that he wasn’t going to succeed, yet still trying as he yearned to touch it.

At the pretty sounds that slipped from Jimin’s lips, Jungkook cursed as he leaned back in his seat, seriously considering to just shit on his meeting and head over to Jimin’s place to finish what the little boy had started.

Inevitably, Jungkook was hard at this point himself, too affected by the noises Jimin created and the possible images that appeared in Jungkook’s head of his little baby touching himself as he was squirming around on his bed, begging Jungkook to just come home and fuck him.

Shit, he would.

In a heartbeat, Jungkook would leave to be there, if he wasn’t forced to have that stupid emergency meeting with his father before he was going to leave for Singapore tomorrow morning.

It was urgent, Jungkook was aware of that, but… fuck, it was Jimin, how could he resist the itching desire to be with him? – Regardless of it being anything sexual.

“Kook-ah, please,” Jimin begged, bucking his hips up as he sped up the movement of his fingers.

“Go ahead, kitten, play with your dick for me,” Jungkook finally permitted, Jimin whimpering in relief as he didn’t hesitate to curl his hand around his erection, swift to jerk himself off, simultaneously proceeding to stimulate his hole.

The black haired male wet his lips at the shriek that was evoked in Jimin at the overwhelming sensation he experienced.

“You looked so pretty in that picture,” Jungkook complimented him, catching his bottom lip between his teeth as the image reappeared in front of his eyes, Jimin’s beauty captured in the photo, his fair skin on display, begging Jungkook to be marked with hickeys, his dick resting on his stomach, already leaking a trail of pre-cum as it was pleading for attention.

Then, his face – Oh, fuck, what a pretty face – those flushed cheeks, these doe eyes and those sinful
Ah, fuck, he was gone.

Gone for Jimin – long gone – entranced by even the smallest things.

“Thank you,” Jimin whimpered out at the compliment, his heart fluttering despite the sexual atmosphere.

“My pretty boy, aren’t you? All mine,” the younger male stressed.

“Yours,” Jimin declared, his chest rising and falling quickly.

It wasn’t long until Jimin noticed the familiar burning heat in the pit of his stomach, either of his hands proceeding to stimulate his most private parts in desire to find his release while Jungkook had continued to talk to him in a mixture of dominantly dirty words and sweet encouragements whenever Jimin’s voice had turned too high-pitched.

“I-I’m gonna come, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin cried out. “May I?”

“Go ahead, pretty,” Jungkook permitted after a few seconds of consideration.

Then, Jimin came.

The smaller boy shrieked, his eyes rolling back into his head as a streak of sperm spurted from his hard length, covering his stomach in white trails. Overwhelmed by the ecstasy igniting within him, Jimin arched his back as he kicked out his legs, his eyes fluttering shut as a mantra of Jungkook’s name slipped from his lips.

“Sssh, you’re good, little one,” Jungkook comforted him, his voice softer as he listened to Jimin’s little pants, the latter in the midst of catching his breath as he had rolled in on himself.

“Kookie,” Jimin breathed out.

“Yes, baby?”

“I came,” Jimin whispered, as though Jungkook wasn’t aware of that, as though he couldn’t have noticed that by Jimin’s familiar response to finding his intense release.

At that, Jungkook laughed softly, amused by Jimin’s words. “I know, beautiful,” Jungkook chuckled, turning his head to the wooden door to his side after registering an audible knock. “Yes?”

Slowly, the door was pulled open, Minji entering the room without a word, Jungkook already aware that she was here to prepare the documents for his father.

“Little one, I gotta leave now,” Jungkook uttered, disregarding the way Minji stole a glimpse at him at the pet name he used.

“Okay, thank you, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin murmured, still panting. “Don’t work for too long,” he insisted softly, “Go to bed as soon as you are home, okay?”

“I will, baby,” Jungkook retorted, amusement conveyed in his tone.

“Promise me,” Jimin urged.

“I promise,” the taller male uttered, his tone softer, “Goodnight, angel, dream of me” “Always do,” Jimin noted.

“Mhm-mh,” Jungkook hummed.

“Goodnight, Kook-ah,” the pink haired one wished, ending the call a brief moment later with a smile curving his lips.

******

Hurriedly, Jimin bounced from one foot to the other, impatiently waiting for the elevator doors to open up. “Hurry up, please,” he murmured, inhaling a deep breath.

Bing.

Deprived of any hesitation – and caution in his surroundings – Jimin sprinted out of the elevator, turning the corner at a rather high pace and nearly colliding with another figure that headed his way.

“Careful,” a male voice warned as Jimin came to an abrupt halt to prevent the two of bumping into each other.

At the familiar voice, Jimin’s eyes went big, the boy swift to execute a deep bow in lightspeed as he uttered out an apology, “I’m sorry, Mr. Jeon”

“Are you in such a hurry?” Mr. Jeon chuckled as he had recognized Jimin’s identity fairly quickly as well.

Nervously, Jimin swallowed hard.

Well, there was no point in lying, in spite of the truth potentially painting Jimin in a bad light. Hopefully, Mr. Jeon’s perception about him wouldn’t be altered because of his slight – and candidly unintentional – mistake.

“I… I’m sorry,” Jimin uttered out, his chest heaving in a display of his minor exhaustion attributable to him having ran a fair bit. “I was sure that my lesson with Ong would start in an hour, but I happened to be wrong. It already started,” he expressed, catching his bottom lip between his teeth as he partially feared to be scolded for being unpunctual.

“Ah, I see,” Mr. Jeon commented, giving a nod as he reached up to his tie, his digits fumbling with the fabric as he fixed its position. “How are the lessons going? You’ve had a few already,” he then inquired, titling his head to the side, appearing to completely disregard Jimin’s revelation, or perhaps not having registered his words entirely, perhaps choosing to connive it and let this one – atypical, to mention – mistake slip without any repercussions.

Slightly baffled by Mr. Jeon’s question, Jimin required a few seconds to organise his thoughts, his eyes big as he parted his lips without any words slipping from them. “They’re going great, Mr. Jeon,” Jimin managed to respond eventually, smiling softly as he gave a determined nod.

“I’m interested to see the results next week,” Mr. Jeon stated, the corners of his lips curling up in a slight smile as he inclined his head down.

Oh.

Right.
Yesterday, Jimin had been made aware of Ong’s individual evaluation occurring next week, Mr. Jeon himself the one who was ought to assess his performance with an immediate decision regarding Ong’s further career path concerning the soon to debut group.

Admittedly, it was slightly terrifying.

“Me… Me, too, Sir,” Jimin retorted politely, flashing the man another warm smile.

Mr. Jeon pointed down the hallway. “Well, go ahead and leave for your lesson,” he sent the boy off with a wave of his hand.

“Thank you,” Jimin muttered as he exhibited another bow before he walked past Mr. Jeon, not entirely keen on being immersed in a conversation any longer and being another second late to his lesson with Ong.

Jimin despised being late – to anything.

However, the taller man turned to face Jimin, stopping him by lifting his hand into the air. “Actually, before you leave. I’m sure you’ve already heard about the charity gala we’re sponsoring?” he wanted to know.

The smaller boy stilled, locking eyes with Mr. Jeon. “I have, Sir,” Jimin affirmed, giving a nod.

What a beautiful cause, Jimin thought, reminded of Jungkook’s pure expression as he had shared this information with Jimin, reinforcing Jimin’s profound conviction that Jungkook had such a deeply anchored kind heart.

“I hope we can expect to see you there,” the taller male suddenly noted with a smile, titling his head to the side. “You’re joining my son?”

To be honest, Jimin initially hadn’t believed he was allowed to attend the gala.

In fact, neither had Jungkook.

Yet, that hadn’t prevented him from inviting Jimin, nonetheless.

“Little one?” Jungkook said, his voice echoing in the apartment, his footsteps audibly turning closer.

“Mhm-mh?” Jimin murmured, stealing a glimpse at Jungkook who had entered the room before he averted his attention back down on his phone, in the midst of replying to Taehyung’s text message.

“I want you to join me for the gala,” Jungkook decided, catching Jimin off-guard.

The smaller boy lifted his head, meeting Jungkook’s gaze with knitted eyebrows. “Huh?”

“The charity ball,” Jungkook elucidated, leaning against the wall as he crossed his arms over his chest. “Please, attend it with me,” he inquired.

For some reason, Jimin’s heart skipped a beat.

“Are you… sure?” Jimin wondered, his eyes big as he sat up. “I thought only your father and you are going because you’re sponsoring it? Are you even allowed to bring anyone else?” he wanted to know, titling his head to the side.

Undoubtedly, Jimin would love to go together with Jungkook, yet he wasn’t quite certain whether Jungkook was even permitted to take anyone as only people who had received a personal invitation – obviously Jungkook and Mr. Jeon met that premise anyway as they were sponsoring the whole night in the first place – were allowed to attend the charity gala.

Clearly, Jimin had not obtained such an invitation.

“I don’t know,” Jungkook retorted, shrugging his shoulders. “I don’t really care, though,” he added, indifference written across his face before a smile embellished his handsome features as he added, “I want you to attend it at my side. It’s… I haven’t done shit like that in quite a long time – aside from donating for the orphanage a few days ago. It’s going to be a significant night for me, although it’s not going to be about me at all, but…” he trailed off, trying to convey what he was thinking.

“I understand what you mean, Kook-ah,” Jimin assured him, smiling softly as he gave a faint nod.

“I want you by my side for that,” Jungkook expressed, pushing himself off the wall as he closed the distance between them.

“I would love to go, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin stated, giggling as Jungkook climbed on the bed and hovered above Jimin, his hands on either side of Jimin’s head as he leaned in with a smile.

“Good,” Jungkook whispered before he attached their lips in a kiss.

“Oh, of course, Mr. Jeon!” Jimin expressed with big eyes, performing a polite bow. “I would love to come. I’d be honoured,” he added, a bright smile adorning his pretty features as he clasped his hand over his heart.

“Wonderful,” Mr. Jeon retorted, clapping his hands together before he waved Jimin off all over again. “Then go ahead to attend your lesson”

“Yes, Sir. Thank you,” Jimin uttered, exhibiting another deep bow before he rushed past the man and hurried down the long hallway in order to arrive at the correct practice room that Ong was presumably already waiting inside for him.

“I’m sorry, Ong-ssi, I-” the pink haired boy apologised upon him entering the room, yet he went silent as soon as he noticed that Ong shook his head at him and waved it off.

“It’s all good,” Ong assured him, getting up to his feet. “I already plugged in my phone for the music. We can start right away,” he revealed, lifting his hand up to display his phone to Jimin’s sight.

“Great,” Jimin stated, his chest heaving as he caught his breath, a visible and audible demonstration of his exhaustion attributable to him having run here as though his life depended on it.

***

An hour later, Ong plopped down on the floor, falling flat on his back as he stared up at the ceiling, his chest heaving in a display of his previous prominent activity and resulting exhaustion.

The smaller boy smiled softly, picking up two water bottles before he closed the distance between them and lowered himself down on the floor beside Ong.

“Here,” Jimin made his presence known to Ong, handing him a bottle of water.

The younger one sat up on his elbows, taking the item from Jimin with a nod. “Thank you,” he uttered out as he opened the bottle, swift to bring it up to his lips and take several sips until his bottle was entirely empty as though the boy had been completely dehydrated.

Jimin chuckled, mirroring his action and emptying his own bottle – that hadn’t been filled much anymore to begin with – before he set it down on the floor next to him and crossed his legs over one another.

“You did well,” Jimin complimented him. “I liked your incorporation of your own moves. It went really well with the music”

A smiled adorned Ong’s features as he set down his water bottle on the floor beside him. “Thank you,” he retorted, placing his palms on the ground behind him before he leaned back on his arms. “I learned from the best,” he claimed, winking at Jimin.

The pink haired boy rolled his eyes, but couldn’t contain the chuckle that fell from his lips.

Shaking his head at Ong, Jimin picked up his little notebook and opened it in order to check his schedule for today – as it appeared to be flawed, proven by the mistake of the individual lesson with Ong that he had attended unpunctual.

Maybe, he should call Hoseok to reconcile their schedules and make potential adjustments.

“Mr. Park?” Ong then addressed him, his voice an ounce softer.

“Yes?” Jimin responded, lifting his head to meet Ong’s gaze, finding himself to be astonished by the rare emotion of nervousness to gleam in Ong’s eyes – at least, that’s what Jimin defined it as in their proximity.

“Thank you,” the younger boy suddenly stated, puzzling Jimin.

The pink haired boy shut his notebook and lowered it down on his lap.

“For what?” Jimin wondered, furrowing his brows as he tilted his head to the side.

“For… doing this,” Ong explained, pressing his lips into a line before he elaborated, “I know I was kind of a dick in the beginning, but I am actually grateful that you’re doing this,” he added.

A soft smile embellished Jimin’s pretty features. “You don’t have to thank me for that,” Jimin objected, shaking his head. “And you weren’t… well, that,” he assured, chuckling at Ong’s choice of words.

Certainly, Ong had been rather… difficult in the beginning of this.

There had been no solid effort apparent in his movements, no ambition, no devotion to these individual lessons at all. No, instead, he had been distinctively indifferent about the whole thing – potentially somewhat angry to being compelled to do this in the first place.

However, fairly swiftly, there had been a change noticeable in his behaviour, the boy trying to listen to the comments Jimin had made and working diligently to improve.

“I think I am improving,” Ong claimed, interrupting Jimin’s thoughts.

The pink haired boy met his gaze again, smugness glistening in Ong’s brown orbs as he stared at Jimin, awaiting a reaction.

“You are,” Jimin coincided with a nod.
In comparison to the first time Jimin had seen him dance, Ong had truly enhanced a particular part of him that had been veiled prior to their lessons. Now, Jimin could confidently assert that he conveyed a sense of emotion when dancing. There was no longer simply a clean-cut execution of the choreography that was nearly machine like.

It definitely reinforced Jimin’s initial conviction that Ong was in fact very talented.

However, it also altered his perception on this being an ability that not everyone possessed.

Maybe, the true narrative was that each dancer did in fact owe the ability to convey emotion when they performed, yet certain dancers simply weren’t aware of how to unveil their whole potential without a little help.

“I’m fucking sick now,” Ong then expressed, a cocky expression adorning his features as he poked his tongue into his cheek and shrugged his shoulders.

Of course, this slightly sentimental moment – that was unusual for Ong – had to be ruined by his self-assurance.

Jimin chuckled.

“Right?” Ong inquired, titling his head to the side as he waited for acknowledgement from Jimin.

“I’m not going to use those words, but yes, you’re very good, Ong-ssi,” Jimin snickered, giving another nod. “You always have been,” he added softer. “There was just something… not unveiled to show your full potential,” he elaborated.

“You thought I would suck, right?” Ong accused, humour in his eyes as he smirked.

“What?”

“You didn’t believe that I was going to pull it off,” the younger one explained.

“That’s not true,” Jimin objected, shaking his head. “I knew you were good. I just thought you were missing something,” he elaborated.

Maybe, Jimin had believed that Ong had been missing something all along, yet that didn’t equal him considering Ong being bad or him simply not possessing the ability to improve that certain part of him.

“Turns out that you just hid it all along,” the pink haired boy stated, his tone gentle.

The other male smiled, an emotion flashing in his brown orbs, but it was gone too fast for Jimin to label it.

“We’ve only got one more week left,” Ong then reminded the two of them, his posture slightly slacking as though an emotion had a physical effect on his body that was depicted by his alteration in his posture. “Mr. Jeon wants to see the results then,” he added.

Was he scared?

“I know,” Jimin uttered softly, giving a nod.

“Do you think I’ll pass?” Ong wondered, inclining his head to the side.

Jimin blinked.
“Honestly…I don’t know,” Jimin chose to share his thoughts sincerely. “Mr. Jeon is very… strict and unreadable? I think he’s very precise in what he wants the members to be like,” he stressed, catching his bottom lip between his teeth as his digits fumbled with the etiquette of his water bottle. “I just know that he was already very impressed by you, so I do…I do hope you’re going to make it,” he added.

For the duration of their individual lesson, Jimin had established a sense of emotional attachment to the boy. By no means was it anything romantic, but there had been such a change in his demeanor and an improvement in his dancing apparent that caused Jimin to feel proud of him, a particular bond somehow causing him to wish to see Ong succeed.

“You hope so?” Ong echoed, raising his eyebrows, appearing to not have expected such a response.

“I do,” Jimin affirmed, giving a nod.

The other boy smirked. “Man, I knew I was going to have you by the end of this,” he chuckled, amusement in his eyes as he shook his head.

“Shut up, Ong-ssi,” Jimin snickered, throwing his empty water bottle at him.

“I’m joking,” Ong uttered as he dodged the item, his smile softer. “Thank you for not kicking me in my ass for that”

“You don’t need to thank me for that,” Jimin retorted, shaking his head.

Despite Jimin having been very adamant in his perception that Ong’s flirtation was unprofessional and very uncalled for during their lessons, it had never been harmful or truly faltered their lessons.

In the end, Jimin had never truly felt uncomfortable or in danger either, so a simple reminder in regard to Ong to refrain from flirting with him had been more than efficient to have him stop.

“Are you scared?” the younger one then asked, drawing Jimin back to reality all over again.

“Of…what?” Jimin wondered, inclining his head to the side.

“Of what Mr. Jeon is going to say?” Ong clarified.

To be fair, Jimin would lie, if he asserted that he wasn’t.

“A little,” he responded genuinely. “I mean, he didn’t give me this task for no reason at all.”

Undoubtedly, when Ong was going to be evaluated next week, Mr. Jeon was simultaneously going to judge whether or not Jimin had been successful in his teaching duty.

Admittedly, Jungkook had emphasised that Ong’s failure – if it were to occur – wouldn’t be attributable to Jimin’s training, yet Jimin wasn’t certain whether Mr. Jeon would perceive that in a similar way.

This assessment was surely going to affect Jimin as well.

At least, that’s what the smaller boy believed.

Needless to say, Jimin couldn’t contain a fraction of fear to bloom within him at the pressure he was facing.

“Are you scared?” Jimin found himself wonder.
“A little,” Ong answered, the two of them smiling at his choice of words, clearly in reference to Jimin’s prior answer to that identical question. “This is my dream,” he stressed, giving a nod. “I want to debut more than anything else in this world”

Everything was hanging on the line for him.

Somehow, Jimin felt an overwhelming mixture of fear, hope and pressure blossom within him.

Hopefully, Jimin’s instructions had been enough to fulfil Mr. Jeon’s premise and meet the standard that resided within him.

Hopefully, Ong would impress him.

Jimin wasn’t sure how he would deal with Ong’s failure...

Inevitably, feeling guilty.

Quite frankly, Jimin didn’t even want to think about that.

“Don’t be scared,” Jimin reassured him, his tone soft as he flashed him a warm smile. “You worked hard. You’ll do well either way,” he asserted, not doubting that Ong would find another path to take in this field, if he were to be eliminated next week, even if that inquired him to leave this company.

Certainly, he would find a way.

“Thank you, Mr. Park,” Ong uttered, sincere gratitude depicted on his face.

“You’re welcome,” Jimin responded with a soft smile.

The other one’s smile grew bigger. “Will you let me ask you out once this is over?”

Here we go again.

Well, Ong was definitely persistent.

“No,” Jimin chuckled, shaking his head as he got back up to his feet. “We’ve gone through this already,” he reminded him.

“I just thought I’d try again,” Ong claimed with a shrug of his shoulder, snickering as he followed after Jimin.

*****

“He had a what now?” Taehyung exclaimed, his eyes big as he knitted his brows at Jimin, clearly certain that his ears had deceived him.

“Sssh,” Jimin hushed him, shaking his head as he pressed his index finger to his full lips. “Don’t be that loud,” he warned softly, not entirely keen on attracting any attention regarding this issue and having anyone else find out about this.

Then again, Jimin could comprehend the reasoning behind Taehyung’s reaction to the information of Beomsoo owning a gun that he had just shared with him a few seconds ago.

After all, he had responded to it in a very similar way.

The pink haired boy scanned their surroundings, relieved to notice that the other costumers were busy with themselves, appearing to not be having eavesdropped or heard any of their prior conversation.

“I’m sorry,” Tae swiftly apologised, leaning closer. “But… what?”

“I know,” Jimin uttered softly, wetting his lips as he grasped Tae’s elbow, applying gentle pressure to impel him to proceed walking. “That’s how I reacted,” he revealed, a shudder running down his back at the mere reminder of that night, the image of that gun never quite leaving Jimin’s mind.

“That’s… crazy. Fuck,” Tae expressed breathy, shaking his head as they made their way through the aisle.

“Well, he doesn’t have it anymore,” Jimin informed him, clearing his throat. “Beomsoo carries a knife around now – which, well, is still slightly intimidating, but I guess I can understand their validation behind it,” he elaborated, having been very grateful for the change they had made according to Jimin’s wish.

The thought of any weapon being that near to Jimin was slightly terrifying, but the smaller boy was learning to accustom to it, deciding that it was beneficial to just blur out that fact or remind himself that a knife could be a simple kitchen utensil as well.

“Hm, yeah,” the other one hummed, titling is head to the side as he slid his straw past his lips, taking sip from his mango smoothie. “To be fair, if I was in his position, I wouldn’t want to walk around without any weapon either,” he remarked once he had swallowed his drink down.

Jemin furrowed his brows. “What do you mean?”

“Jungkook’s family is one of the richest in all of Korea,” Taehyung explained, meeting Jimin’s gaze again. “His father is the fucking CEO of Jeon Entertainment – the biggest entertainment company in the whole country,” he stressed, moving his hands around as he talked, Jimin vaguely concerned about him being too forceful in his nonverbal expression and causing his drink to spill all over the floor – or worse, the expensive clothes of the boutique. “I don’t doubt that there are people out there who want to harm them, if they got the chance”

Somehow, even after processing Tae’s words, Jimin discovered his confusion to not having decreased at all. “What do you mean?” he inquired again, inclining his head to the side.

After all, there was certainly no doubt in Jimin’s mind that Taehyung’s statement was factual. In the end, Jeon Entertainment was indisputably one of the most profound, crucial and eminently respectable entertainment companies in Korea – if not the biggest.

Needless to say, that attracted a lot of attention – good and bad.

Evidently, various people had their eyes on the company, scrutinised every single move they made, criticised even the smallest decisions they presented.

Yet, did that justify the urgency of carrying a weapon around?

“They’re envious, I guess, or have a problem with them,” Taehyung reasoned. “Maybe, they believe that’s a way to blackmail them into being famous – by threatening them. Who really knows? I’m really not surprised that he’s having his driver be weaponised, just in case for anyone to pull some shit, you know?” he added, presumably stating a few valid points there.

Primarily, it was just a safety measure to cease their concern about potentially being attacked without a proper way to ensure protection.
By no means was it aggressive or meant to attack anyone intentionally. It was a simple defence mechanism for what the industry projected on them.

The business and entertainment industry might be a darker place than Jimin had initially imagined it to be.

If only at that time he had been aware of how dark it actually was…

“Yeah, I understand that now as well,” Jimin agreed, giving a weak nod as he observed Taehyung come to an abrupt halt as his eyes went big in joy.

“This is cute!” the taller male exclaimed, pointing at a grey suit depicted on a mannequin. “I’m sure it would look pretty on you,” he stressed, locking eyes with Jimin as he awaited a response from the latter.

“Is it okay to wear grey at such an event?” Jimin found himself wonder, tiling his head to the side.

The pink haired boy was quite the stranger to fancy events such as a charity ball. Thus, he didn’t owe any appropriate attire for such a significant night nor did he possess much knowledge about how to dress accordingly.

Luckily, Taehyung was there to save him.

The two of them were currently out on a shopping trip, heading from one store to the other in order to find a suit for Jimin – that was in his financial means, to mention – but also to spend some time together to make up for the fact that their plans of hanging out alone a few nights ago had been thwarted by the weather and Taehyung’s accident at work.

“Do they have any dress code?” Tae wanted to know, raising his brows in curiosity as he skimmed through the various suits on the hangers in search for Jimin’s size.

“Not that I know of…” Jimin murmured, shaking his head as he tried to recall either Mr. Jeon or Jungkook mentioning anything about a particular theme, but failing to remember anything like that. “Jungkook said a simple suit would be appropriate enough,” he added, shrugging his shoulders.

“He’s going to wear a tuxedo, I guess”

“Yeah, of course he is,” Taehyung chuckled, giving a nod as he stole a glimpse at Jimin. “I’m sure he owns a few costume-made ones,” he assumed.

Well, he wasn’t wrong.

“Those are expensive, huh?” Jimin noted, catching his bottom lip between his teeth as he leaned against one of the shelves behind him, but swiftly refrained from the action as he felt something move behind him and merely lost his balance, causing him to straighten his posture again as he cleared his throat, his cheeks flushing a faint shade of rose.

“Fuck, yes,” Taehyung snickered, nodding once more to affirm that assumption. “I’m sure his definitely are”

Well, to be fair, Jimin had actually deliberated over whether or not to have a suit custom-made for himself. Then again, those were definitely at a very high financial range that was fairly new to him. Surely, Jimin could retain some patience and wait for his first salary to arrive, yet then the pink haired boy was undecided whether the suit would be finished in time for the charity ball in the first place.

Thus, he had attained this decision of buying a simple suit that would hopefully fit him.
“You look good in anything, though,” Taehyung claimed, interrupting Jimin’s thoughts. “So, we’ll find one that fits you without any trouble,” he asserted, giving a determined nod. “Don’t you worry,” he assured, his tone softer as he flashed Jimin a sympathetic smile.

“Thank you for helping me,” Jimin uttered, returning Taehyung’s smile.

“Don’t be silly,” Taehyung chuckled, shaking his head. “Nothing to thank me for,” he reassured. “So, let’s try this one,” he decided, picking one of the grey suits off the hanger and handing it to Jimin.

***

A few suits later – all of which hadn’t quite fit Jimin in a way that he felt comfortable in – Jimin was exhausted and sweaty, the process of having to move in and out of various suits fairly stressful.

However, Taehyung was making it all the more entertaining and fun, his enthusiastic comments having made it seem as though Jimin was on a runway and presenting a new suit collection.

“You look hot!” he exclaimed; his eyes big as the straw from his smoothie slipped from his lips.

“Yees, Min-ah, gorgeous!” he gasped, giving a vivid nod. “The sleeves are too long, though,” he added with a pout.

“No, no, no, that colour does not go well with your hair. Next,” he decided, shaking his head as he wrinkled his nose, waving his hand around.

“Not that one. The pants are way too long. Next”

“I don’t like the fabric of the trousers, let’s try another one,” he commented, his palm tracing over Jimin’s thigh to feel the material of the trousers.

“Hmmmm, maybe try a size smaller. Let me go and grab it for you”

At this point, Jimin was about to give up, feeling as though he was never going to find a suit he felt comfortable in and that looked remarkably pleasant on him as well.

Never had Jimin imagined it to be such a difficult procedure to buy a simple suit.

“Why are there that many types of suits?” Jimin inquired, sighing as he shook his head, removing another underwhelming piece. Slightly frustrated, his digits fumbled with the buttons of the shirt that he opened before he allowed the shirt to slide from his shoulders ahead of him hanging it back on the hanger. “I didn’t think there would be that many?”

“Let’s try this simple black one; should be your size,” Taehyung suggested; his voice audible through the curtain of the fitting room that was veiling Jimin from the remainder of the store. “It’s not as special, but I think it would match your hair better than a navy blue or grey one,” he reasoned.

“Okay,” Jimin agreed, giving a nod in spite of Taehyung being unable to actually see him.

A few moments later, a hand pulled the curtain to the side to present a black suit to Jimin. Gently, Jimin clothed his delicate hand around the hanger, not even having a proper glimpse at it as he honestly possessed merely any hope in succeeding today.

“Are you ready?” Taehyung wanted to know after a few minutes, Jimin having struggled to put on his trousers in his slight frustration, tugging the piece of clothing over his butt before he zipped up the
“Just a moment,” Jimin retorted, bending over to fix the bottom of his trousers.

Once he was dressed entirely, the pink haired boy puffed his fringe out of his face before he jerked the curtain to the side, revealing his own appearance to Taehyung’s eyes.

“And?”

Leisurely, Tae looked up from his phone, his eyes going big at the sight of Jimin, a smile slowly curling up the corner of his lips as he pushed his phone back into the pocket of his jeans.

“Min-ah,” he breathed and wavered closer to Jimin. “You look absolutely stunning in this one,” Tae claimed as he circled Jimin with the intention of examining the suit from every angle. “Fuck,” he cursed with a grin.

The smaller one stole a glimpse at his own reflection, the image of him wearing a suit a fairly rare one as he had only worn an outfit as this one less than a handful times in his life – opposed to someone like Jungkook who was seen in a suit every single day, a fact attributable to it simply being his work attire.

“The fabric feels nice on my skin,” Jimin stated, allowing his palm to trace over his arms, Taehyung reflecting his movement with a hum.

“It goes well with your hair, the trousers aren’t too long, neither are the sleeves of the jacket, it sits just perfect around your curves,” he listed with a smile as he gave a nod, his compliments causing Jimin’s cheeks to tinge a shade of rose. “It looks really good on you, Minnie”

“Thank you,” Jimin expressed with a bashful smile, digging his teeth into his bottom lip as he stared at his own reflection. “I think I like it,” he revealed softly.

“I like it, too,” Taehyung coincided, his own smile growing wider. “Please, you have to wear a pink tie with this. Please,” he stressed, Jimin chuckling at his enthusiasm.

***

Successfully having obtained a suit for Jimin – a fact to be acclaimed by the two of them and quite frankly allowing a sense of relief to bloom within Jimin who had nearly lost all hope – they had been ready to leave.

However, as they headed through the store with the intention of exiting, Taehyung came to an abrupt halt as his gaze fell on a particular area of the huge store that they had entirely disregarded upon their arrival.

Not saying a word, Tae approached the area, Jimin’s eyes going big as he followed after his best friend as he didn’t want to lose him.

“Tae-yah, what are you doing?” Jimin found himself wonder.

“I remembered that I was looking for something particular for a while now,” Tae simply responded.

…Here?

“Taehyung, I think we are- I mean, aren’t we in the wrong corner?” Jimin uttered softly, swallowing hard as he tugged the sleeves of his shirt over his delicate hands, his gaze flickering from one shelf to the other, some of the other customers eyeing them for a brief moment – yet maybe, an insecure part of Jimin was only imagining that.

“Nope,” Taehyung retorted, proceeding to skim through the clothes on the shelf as though he was searching for a particular size.

“I… I mean, I guess you can…” Jimin trailed off, his cheeks tingling a shade of rose as his eyes went big. “Are you… are you getting this for yourself… or… or…”

“For myself,” Tae responded, his voice casual opposed to Jimin’s who was conveying a sense of timidity.

“Oh… I… I didn’t know you wear lace and… and lingerie,” Jimin commented softly as he halted beside Taehyung who had picked up a black lacy panty.

“It’s pretty,” Taehyung stressed with a smile, stealing a glimpse at Jimin before he diverted his attention back over to the underwear, appearing to decide against it and put it back in its designated spot.

For a moment longer, Jimin’s gaze lingered on the lacy panties, the boy swallowing hard as his heart skipped a beat for a reason unknown to Jimin, the pit of his stomach stirring in an emotion he was unable to define.

It did look pretty.

Hesitantly, Jimin reached out to touch it, surprised by the soft fabric. For some reason, Jimin hadn’t imagined it to be that velvety.

“It is,” Jimin agreed, his tone gentle as he gave a faint nod, following after Taehyung who had already walked ahead to pick up another item.

“You wanna try for yourself?” Taehyung asked him, arching up his eyebrows as he glanced at Jimin with a smirk.

What?

Try it on… himself?

“O-Oh, no, thank you,” Jimin stammered, shaking his head as his blush darkened.

Jimin wearing lace? Lingerie?

The mere thought caused his cheeks to flush in shyness.

Honestly, Jimin had never visualised himself to wear anything like this – potentially because of lingerie and lace being something stereotypically being associated with women in society.

Yet… why?

Now, that Jimin thought about it, that norm was really stupid.

Why should clothes be associated with gender?

Why don’t allow people to wear, act and define who they want to be themselves?

Obsolete gender norms that simply shouldn’t exist in society anymore.
“Min-ah?” Taehyung uttered, waving his hand around in front of Jimin’s face as he inclined his own head to the side.

“Huh?” the pink haired one mumbled, shaking his head as he was drawn out of his thoughts.

“I was deliberating whether you’ve fallen asleep or whether your brain just shut off,” Tae expressed, laughing as he studied Jimin’s features.

“Oh, no,” Jimin chuckled, shaking his head. “Sorry, I was just thinking,” he added.

The other one hummed, lifting up his hands and displaying two pairs of underwear to Jimin, the latter immediately blushing at the sight. “I was just asking you whether to get this one in red or black,” Taehyung wondered.

“Uhm… they’re both pretty,” Jimin commented, his gaze flickering back and forth between the two items.

Why was Jimin that timid about this?

“You’re right,” Taehyung agreed, giving a determined nod. “I should just get both,” he decided with a shrug of his shoulders, dropping his hands back to his side.

Jimin giggled, giving a nod as he followed after his best friend who proceeded to walk ahead.

A few moments later, Taehyung stilled, focused on another shelf as Jimin allowed his gaze to wander as he waited for him, scanning his surroundings for a brief moment.

To his left, there was a mannequin dressed in a pink lingerie set, lacy panties adorning its private area, some stockings embellishing its long legs and something that Jimin had to admit he was unaware of covering its hips as it was connected to the stockings.

Pretty. Very pretty.

Suddenly, Jimin wondered how it would feel to wear that, how he would look… how… Jungkook would react, if he saw him wear this.

The smaller one’s stomach stirred in excitement.

Oh.

“That’s a garter belt,” Taehyung explained to him without Jimin having even obtained the opportunity to say something – quite honestly not even having noticed that Tae was back at his side and paying attention to him.

“Huh?”

“You’ve been staring at it,” the other boy noted, pointing at the mannequin.

“Oh,” Jimin whispered, giving a nod.

Well, he truly had.

“Pretty, hm?” Tae stated, smiling as he examined the clothes on the mannequin.

“Oh… yeah, I guess,” Jimin agreed, his voice barely above a whisper as he proceeded to stare at the pink fabric.
Attentively, Taehyung titled is head to the side – a movement Jimin noticed in his peripheral vision, yet one he didn’t quite pay much attention to, somehow mesmerised by the clothes on the mannequin and honestly too distracted by them – the blond haired one studied Jimin’s features in interest.

Suddenly, Jimin’s phone rang, startling the two boys.

“It’s Hyung,” Jimin revealed once he had pulled his phone out of his pocket to see who was calling him.

“Which one?” Taehyung wanted to know with a chuckle.

Right.

Jimin should probably be more specific than that.

“Namjoon Hyung,” he elucidated.

Namjoon!

That’s when Jimin remembered.

In their mission to buy a suit for Jimin, the two of them had completely forgotten about their plans for the remainder of the day!

“Oh, we’re probably in trouble now,” Taehyung snickered, placing his hand on Jimin’s shoulder.

“Go ahead and pick up. I’ll go and pay for this,” he added as he pointed at his stuff.

The smaller boy gave a nod, turning around with the intent of leaving the store as he finally accepted the call. “Hyung,” he uttered.

“Min-ah, hey,” Namjoon expressed with a relief sigh, some rustling audible in the background. “Did you and Tae got lost somewhere? You were supposed to be here half an hour ago,” he chuckled.

“I know,” Jimin sighed, biting down on his bottom lip once he had left the store. “We’re so sorry. It all took a lot longer than we intended to,” he explained.

It was an established fact that Jimin refused to be late intentionally – or ever in general, really, for whatever reason.

Naturally, he felt a wave of guilt bloom within him at the thought of being late because he had disregarded the time in his frustration of buying a fitting suit.

“It’s all good,” Namjoon assured. “Just wanted to check on you”.

“Is everyone already there?” Jimin wanted to know, somehow discovering a fraction within him hoping that at least one of the other’s hadn’t arrived yet either – consequently Tae and him wouldn’t be the only ones late.

“No, Jungkook and Jin Hyung are stuck in traffic, but they texted me that they’ll be here in about ten minutes,” he informed Jimin.

“Okay,” Jimin retorted, giving a nod in spite of Namjoon being unable to actually see him. “Tae and I will leave right now,” he stated.

“Okay, see you then,” Namjoon responded, some muffled voices audible in the background, but Jimin wasn’t capable to decipher what they were saying.
“See you later, Hyung”

With that, they hung up.

As Jimin pushed his phone back into his pocket, he headed back inside, watching Taehyung pay for…

Wait, was that…

Before Jimin managed to properly define that particular piece of clothing, it was already pushed into a paper bag ahead of being handed over to Taehyung by the assistant.

The taller male flashed them a smile before he turned around and approached Jimin.

Slightly puzzled, Jimin walked beside Taehyung as they left the store, still wondering whether his eyes hadn’t deceived him just a moment ago.

“Here,” Taehyung then uttered, handing Jimin one of the paper bags he was holding. “These aren’t for me,” he revealed.

Baffled, Jimin closed his delicate hand around the bag, titling his head to the side as he stole a glimpse inside the paper bag.

It was the pink lingerie set.

Oh.

Taehyung stared at him, slowly nodding his head at Jimin. “They’re for a friend,” he elaborated leisurely, his tone conveying that he was trying to imply something.

“A friend?” Jimin echoed.

Needless to say, Jimin was even more dumbfounded now.

“Yes, a friend,” Tae affirmed, pointing at the bag, his eyes big as a smile curved his lips.

“Oh,” Jimin breathed, giving a nod.

Taehyung blinked.

Finally, Jimin’s brain caught on.

“O-Oh, you mean me?” the boy realised, his eyes big as he pointed at himself.

The taller one rolled his eyes, veiling his face with his palm as he shook his head at Jimin’s obliviousness. “Yes, stupid, I mean you,” he then chuckled, giving a nod as he dropped his hand back to his side. “I saw you eyeing them in the store. I knew you were too shy to get them,” he added.

“Tae, I-I- don’t-” Jimin stammered, shaking his head as he indicated to hand the bag over to Tae again.

The other boy shook his head, closing his hand around Jimin’s wrist and stilling his movement.

“Take them. It’s a gift,” Tae insisted softly. “You don’t have to wear them, but you might want to try them on and see how it feels,” he expressed.
For a moment, Jimin just stared at him.

Then, his gaze trailed down to the bag, his heart doing a weird skip.

“Thank you, Tae,” the pink haired one uttered, his tone gentle as a shy smile adorned his pretty features.

Satisfied, Taehyung’s smile grew, his eyes sparkling as he wrapped his arm around Jimin’s shoulders and gestured for them to leave.

“We should probably head over now, hm?” he decided.

“Yeah, we’re already late,” Jimin coincided, giving a nod as he reminded himself of the call with Namjoon just a few moments ago. “We should leave right now,” he added.

“We have to get some snacks and beverages, don’t forget about that,” Taehyung noted, lifting his hand up into the air.

“Oh yeah, right. Let’s hurry up then,” Jimin gasped, giving an erratic nod as they established a faster pace, making their way back to the parking lot where Beomsoo was awaiting them.

***

“Finally!” a male voice exclaimed – sounding remotely like Jin, but Jimin wasn’t entirely certain as his voice was muffled and distant.

The pink haired boy entered the house after Taehyung, the latter groaning in frustration at the weight and discomfort of the several bags he was carrying at either of his hands – Jimin not looking any different.

“Let me help you, sunshine,” Hoseok offered as he approached the two of them, reaching for Taehyung’s bags without awaiting any response.

“Thank you, Hyung,” Taehyung uttered with a sigh, handing him two of his bags before he flashed him a smile.

“That, too,” Hoseok insisted as he nodded towards the other bag in Taehyung’s embrace.

“No,” Tae protested, shaking his head as he hid the bag behind his back. “Not this one,” he added, a smirk curving his lips as he walked past the older one.

Hoseok looked after him, raising his brows at his boyfriend as an intrigued grin danced around his lips. “What’s in there?” he inquired; his eyes fixated on Tae.

Suggestive, Taehyung looked back over his shoulder. “Wouldn’t you like to know?” he retorted before he headed towards the staircase. “I’ll bring this upstairs really quick,” he informed them before he disappeared.

The smaller boy chuckled at Hoseok’s appearance, the latter still staring after Taehyung with a charmed expression on his face in spite of the other one being absent already.

“He’s gone, Hyung,” Jimin giggled, removing his shoes from his feet before he approached his friend.

“I know,” Hoseok responded, wetting his lips as he turned to face Jimin, his eyes going wide at the sight of him. “Let me take that,” he insisted, swift to reach for two of Jimin’s bags to ease some of the weight Jimin was carrying.

“Thank you,” Jimin uttered, allowing the bags to slip from his grasp before he followed after Hoseok who headed towards the kitchen.

“We did think you got lost somewhere,” Hoseok revealed, a soft laugh slipping from his lips as they entered the kitchen, revealing the other guys to their eyes who were gathered around the kitchen island, in the midst of a conversation.

“Min-ah!” Namjoon exclaimed, disregarding Jin who had been speaking, earning him a swat to his arm before the latter turned to face Jimin as well, a bright smile curving either of their faces as they waved him over.

“Hey, guys,” Jimin retorted, chuckling as he set down his bags on the counter, then suddenly being surrounded by Namjoon and Jin who each pulled him into a hug as though they hadn’t seen each other in forever. “How are you?” he chuckled at them.

Well, frankly, it had been quite a while since all of them had managed to meet up together.

Luckily, they had been capable to arrange a hang at Yoongi’s.

Inevitably, Jimin noticed the warmth that spread within his chest at the mere presence of his friends that he considered family.

It was nice.

This moment. This feeling.

It was nice.

As soon as Namjoon withdrew and returned to Jin’s side at the counter, Jimin’s gaze fell on Jungkook, the latter leaning against the wall, his eyes already fixated on Jimin.

“So, as I was saying, the pieces you cut are way too thick, babe,” Jin commented, addressing Namjoon and appearing to resume with their prior conversation as he pointed at a particular item on the counter that Jimin didn’t bother to define as his eyes were glued to Jungkook.

Smiling, Jimin closed the distance between him and Jungkook.

“Hello, beautiful,” the black haired male greeted him, not hesitating to close his arm around Jimin’s waist and pull the boy closer to his chest, his lips pressed to Jimin’s forehead.

“Hey, Kook-ah,” Jimin retorted, inclining his head up to place a kiss on Jungkook’s cheek.

“Not like that!” Jin exclaimed with a gasp. “You’re going to cut yourself, babe,” he warned his lover, shaking his head as he closed his hand around Namjoon’s wrist, presumably assisting him in whatever task he was implementing.

“What are they up to?” Jimin found himself ask, titling his head to the side as his gaze flickered from Jungkook to them and back to Jungkook.

“They already started preparing the food,” Jungkook responded, nodding towards them. “Hyung complained about being hungry”

Jimin chuckled again, giving a nod. “Well, let me just-” the smaller one suggested, yet then going silent as another voice cut through the room.
“Guys, how are you?” a happy Taehyung exclaimed as he entered the kitchen, a bright smile adorning his handsome face as he was swift to head to Hoseok’s side after waving at everyone else.

The brown haired boy leaned in to press a kiss to Taehyung’s temple as he closed his arm around his side to pull him closer.

“We’re good, but starving,” Jin answered, narrowing his eyes at him. “You guys took ages”

“Sorry about that,” Jimin declared out, lifting his hand as he caught his bottom lip between his teeth, an apologetic smile curving his lips. “It took quite long to find a suit”

Jin’s eyes softened as he met Jimin’s gaze, a small “It’s fine” slipping from his lips as he flashed Jimin a smile.

“Did you get everything you wanted?” Jungkook then inquired, his voice soft as he leaned down to press his lips against Jimin’s cheek.

“Yes, Tae helped me pick a suit,” Jimin responded, pointing at his best friend who flashed them a proud smile, his eyes gleaming in smugness as he nodded towards Jimin.

“Your boy looks stunning in it,” Taehyung claimed, addressing Jungkook who’s smile grew at the comment as he gave Jimin’s waist a tender squeeze.

“Well, he always does,” Jungkook stressed, Jimin’s heart fluttering as he felt his cheeks flush a shade of rose as the compliments and stares he was receiving.

“Agreed,” Taehyung chuckled, giving a nod.

Their collective laughs subsided a moment later as Jin spoke up again.

“I’m going to eat one of you, if we don’t start preparing the meal right now,” Jin threatened, waving his knife around as he spoke, his tone an ounce higher and his dialect thicker, clearly displaying his impatience.

Apparently, he was very hungry.

“Taehyung would be the first one,” Jin noted, gesturing at said boy.

“Excuse me?” Tae remarked, raising his brows at Jin.

“You took so long,” Jin reasoned – as though it was a validation for wanting to eat your friend.

“So did Jimin?” Taehyung pointed out, pushing his hand into his hip as he squinted his eyes at Jin.

The oldest one stole a glimpse at Jimin, blinking before he met Taehyung’s gaze again.

“I couldn’t kill him,” Jin whispered.

“And what? You could kill me?” Taehyung gasped, clasping his hand over his heart as though he was offended – maybe, he was, yet then neither of their voices were conveying any poison, causing Jimin to be firm in his belief of them simply messing around with one another.

“Guys, stop fighting – over food. Every. Single. Time,” Namjoon defused the situation, a sigh slipping from his lips as he shook his head.

“Exactly,” Hoseok agreed. “Go ahead and help him, Tae-yah,” he instructed, patting Taehyung’s Rolling his eyes, Taehyung headed over to Jin’s side, rolling up the sleeves of his shirt in the midst of it, Jimin finding himself giggling at Taehyung’s sour expression.

“I’m going to wash my hands,” Jimin decided, walking over to the sink where he cleaned his hands ahead of him joining the others at the kitchen island, Namjoon proceeding to cut onions – a fact primarily displayed by the prominent scent in the room rather than the actual sight of the vegetable as Namjoon was shielding nearly the entire onion with his hand, appearing to disregard Jin’s advice or simply having forgotten about it already.

A few minutes later, each of them had their tasks assigned to them, having found a spot at either the kitchen island or the counter to execute their respective tasks.

“Who suggested for us to make pizza ourselves, when we’re all bad as shit at cooking,” Taehyung then pressed, slightly frustrated with the dough that was sticking to his fingers, the boy wagging his hand around in a poor attempt to remove the dough from his digits, but failing, as Jimin had predicted, because the substance was way too gluey.

“First of all, you don’t cook a pizza, you bake it,” Jin corrected, smiling at Taehyung. “Secondly- Excuse me, talk for yourself,” he then remarked, swatting Tae’s arm.

The other ones chuckled at their banter.

Taehyung mumbled something beneath his breath, pouting as he examined his dirty hands and the… not-very-pleasant-looking-but-surely-made-with-a-lot-of-love raw ball of dough on the kitchen island.

For a moment, Jin studied Taehyung’s features, his face softening.

“Well, you can roll out the dough once I finished it, Tae,” Jin suggested, flashing him a delicate smile, the other one swift to nod his head as he returned the smile.

Just like that, all was fine between them again.

***

“Where is Yoongi by the way?” Jimin found himself inquire, having noticed Yoongi’s absence upon his arrival, yet then simply figuring that he had been showering or something similar like that.

However, it was slightly suspicious of him to not at all be having appeared since their arrival.

“He’s down in his studio,” Hoseok was the one to answer, appearing to be the only one who had even registered Jimin’s voice as the other ones were emerged in a conversation, Jimin sensing that Taehyung and Jin were about to pick up another argument by the way their dialects were thickening and their speaking pace quickened.

Admittedly, they argued sometimes, yet it was never in any harmful way – the two of them were just passionate about their food.

“Is he okay?” Jimin wondered, stealing a glimpse at Hoseok with big eyes, concern blooming within him at the knowledge of Yoongi being down there all by himself as he clearly hadn’t seen him at all despite Yoongi having been the one who had invited all of them to his house – and all of them visibly being present by now.
“He’s a little pissed off,” Hoseok revealed.

“What?”

“There was a song we worked on for the past weeks,” Namjoon explained, Jimin turning his head to meet his gaze. “Hyung really likes it, but we got told that it just doesn’t fit the artist’s colour that we wrote it for,” he added, pressing his lips into a line.

“Oh,” Jimin breathed.

“You can go downstairs to say hi,” Hoseok suggested.

The smaller one gave a nod. “Yeah, I’ll do that,” he decided.

After washing his hands at the sink, Jimin exited the kitchen and headed downstairs into Yoongi’s studio. To be fair, Jimin had only been down here on rare occasions, never truly having wanted to disturb Yoongi whenever he was in the midst of his creative process, but then also recalling Yoongi to prefer to refrain from working whenever they hung out as he primarily wanted to spend time with his friends solely.

Carefully, Jimin knocked on the door, awaiting a reply that never came.

Hesitantly, Jimin pushed the door open, peeking inside too see whether Yoongi was actually even inside.

He was, indeed.

“Hyung,” the pink haired boy made his presence known, slowly entering the room before he gently shut the door behind him.

Startled, Yoongi jerked up in his seat, turning around to face Jimin.

At the sight of the latter, a smile curved up the corners of Yoongi’s face. “Min-ah, hey,” Yoongi greeted him, removing his headphones and placing them down on his mixing console.

“Are you okay?” Jimin then found himself ask, his tone soft as he titled his head to the side and approached the other one.

“Yeah… Well, things could go smoother at work, I guess,” the other one retorted, a faint smile curving his lips as he scratched over the back of his head.

“I heard about your song,” Jimin declared, pulling the sleeves of his shirt over his petite hands as he came to a halt, a few feet of distance remaining between them. “I’m sorry about that. I’m sure you’ve put a lot of work into it,” he elaborated.

Surely, Yoongi must feel more than frustrated at the rejection he had received today – especially at the thought of how much work he must have put into that song. Naturally, he might feel rather gloomy about the whole thing as well.

“Yeah,” Yoongi coincided, giving a weak nod before he sighed, “Well, shit like that happens all the time. You work on stuff for a long period and it just ends up not being good enough or it doesn’t fit a certain colour of an artist or whatever,” he claimed, shrugging his shoulder as he leaned back into his chair. “It’s just that… I don’t know, I had a good feeling about this one. I really like it, it’s kinda dear to my heart,” he added softer, pressing his lips into a line as he stared at the wall across from him ahead of meeting Jimin’s gaze again. “It’s quite annoying because it passed the first round, but now that it’s as good as finished it is being rejected. Annoying as fuck,” he cursed, shaking his head as he wet his lips, clearly displaying the mixture of emotions that was currently residing within him.

“I’m sorry, Hyung,” Jimin expressed, closing the distance between them to place his delicate hand on his shoulder, giving it a tender squeeze to console him.

A faint smile adorned Yoongi’s features as he looked up at Jimin, shaking his head. “Don’t be, Minah,” he noted. “Shit happens”

Well, perhaps, that simply was a factor that was inevitable to occur in this industry. This was the harsh reality. Sometimes, even when one put their everything into a job, that didn’t guarantee that they would succeed in what they looked out for.

At times, life just didn’t work that way.

However, that didn’t mean that one should refrain from working hard. After all, even if they don’t receive what they were looking for, they achieve something just as valuable on the way.

Experience – by learning from their mistakes, gaining knowledge, enhancing their abilities, obtaining a new perspective.

At times, a song was rejected, yet on others, one would be approved.

In the end, hard work and a pure heart always paid off.

The end would be prosperous.

A quiet melody was audible in the background, Jimin realising that Yoongi hadn’t paused the song he had been listening to prior to the former entering his studio.

“Is that the song?” Jimin found himself wonder, pointing at Yoongi’s headphones.

“Yeah,” the other one affirmed.

“May I listen to it?” the smaller one requested.

Frankly, it had been a while since Jimin had listened to any of Yoongi’s songs that hadn’t made the final cut or were officially released. It was rare for Jimin to listen to songs that were still considered guides or hardly finished.

By no means was it because of any lack of interest – Jimin loved to hear what Yoongi created – yet the other one could be considered a perfectionist when it came to music. The older one preferred to share his songs when they were nearly finished, which Jimin respected.

“The song?” Yoongi elucidated, causing Jimin to chuckle because – Yes, the song, wasn’t that obvious?

“Yeah, I would really like to,” Jimin responded, giving a nod.

“I…,” the other one trailed off, his brows raised as he reached for the headphones. “Of course. I would love for you to listen to it,” he stressed, handing Jimin the headphones before he turned to his mixing console to pause the tune.

“Thank you,” Jimin uttered as he put on the headphones, watching Yoongi press a button on the mixing console to restart the record.
A slow and tender, yet somehow so melancholic melody filled Jimin’s ears, the sound of layered strings and a piano mixing together so complementary as they slowly built up.

Then, a voice was audible.

Yoongi.

Unmistakably, it was Yoongi who rapped the first verse, his voice so distinctive, so unique that Jimin would be able to identify it in a hundred – way too familiar with it to not recognise it.

There was something so vulnerable to his voice, the rawness that was audible in his tone conveying something so painful that it pulled on Jimin’s heart strings.

At the words he was rapping, Jimin’s heart clenched, the message so real, so… Yoongi.

The smaller boy didn’t move, didn’t blink, was simply too focused on the melody ringing in his ears to pay attention to anything else around him.

Suddenly, Yoongi’s voice was gone, replaced by another male voice that sang the chorus.

At the first syllables, a shiver ran down Jimin’s back, his heart skipping a beat at the soothing and breathy voice that filled his ears.

It almost sounded like…

Jimin’s eyes grew bigger.

Wait… this…

No.

Right?

Was this…

No.

Was it?

“Jungkook-ah?” Jimin breathed, his heart rate picking up as he discovered himself having placed his own hand over his chest as though to touch his own heart.

“Huh?” Yoongi muttered, raising his brows.

“Is that… is that Jungkook?” Jimin clarified, meeting Yoongi’s gaze as he pointed at his headphones.

“Yeah,” the other one affirmed, giving a nod.

What?

Just like that, Jungkook’s voice was gone again, Yoongi going on to rap another verse.

However, somehow, Jimin lacked the ability to pay much attention to his words this time around, too dumbfounded by the knowledge of Jungkook singing on this track.

Was this real?
To be fair, Jimin recalled a few moments regarding Jungkook mentioning having sung on some guides for Yoongi, yet Jimin had to admit that it had never quite hit him of being something real.

Yet, this was real.

This was Jungkook.

The black haired one’s voice was so gorgeous, so attractive and touching, then also so pacifying.

Jungkook could sing so well.

Within the twinkling of an eye, the song was already over, Jimin finding himself longing to repeat the track immediately to listen to it all over again.

This song was…

“The song is… it’s…. beautiful,” Jimin breathed, his eyes still wide, his lips parted as he met Yoongi’s gaze.

The older one chuckled at Jimin’s expression. “Thank you,” he uttered, getting up to his feet to remove the headphones from Jimin’s head as it appeared that the latter had entirely frozen. “I’ve been working on it for weeks now. Jungkook was kind enough to sing on the guide for me,” he declared, sitting back down again.

“What happens to it now?” Jimin wanted to know. “I mean… now, that it won’t be used for the artist?”

This song was truly beautiful.

The thought of this song not ever being released was unimaginable to Jimin.

This needed to be heard – by the whole word.

“I’m thinking about keeping it,” Yoongi revealed, a small smile embellishing his features. “For myself, you know? I’m working on a project of my own at the side. I kind of wanna release some of my own stuff one day,” he elaborated. “Just like the earlier stuff I did, when I was in underground with Namjoon-ah,” he explained.

At his words, Jimin smiled.

This track shouldn’t belong to anyone else.

This was Yoongi. Solely.

The message was heart-rending, so raw and real, so utterly inspiring.

Jimin had always been aware of how talented Yoongi was, but hearing this song just reinforced that prior conviction. The older one had such a way with words, such a unique delivery that simply touched you – he was truly an artist.

“You should, Hyung,” Jimin prompted, giving a determined nod.

“Well, I might,” he chuckled, shrugging his shoulders.

The pink haired one found himself itching to ask to listen to the song one more time, simultaneously yearning to hearing Jungkook sing again – a fact that still had not entirely sunken in yet because it was simply so peculiar to imagine Jungkook singing – and to hear Yoongi’s touching rap.

“Can I have that?” Jimin asked before he even realised it.

Evidently, Jimin wanted to listen to that song very badly.

If Yoongi would grant him this wish, Jimin would be allowed to listen to this record every single day – listen to Jungkook sing to him whenever he longed for it.

How exhilarating.

“What?” Yoongi wondered, arching up his brows in curiosity as he inclined his head to the side, appearing to either not be aware of what Jimin was referring to or potentially not having registered his question entirely.

“That file?” Jimin clarified. “Can I…” he trailed off, digging his teeth into his bottom lip.

“You wanna listen to it again?” Yoongi inquired.

“Yeah, it’s… It’s beautiful, Hyung,” Jimin declared, giving a nod. “I mean it,” he assured.

The older one stared at him for a moment, his gaze flickering back and forth between Jimin’s doe eyes before a soft laugh slipped from his lips.

“I’ll send you the file,” he eventually decided with a smile, then lifting his index finger up into the air as though to warn Jimin, “But don’t you dare release it anywhere”

Jimin chuckled, clasping his hand over his chest. “I won’t. I promise,” he declared, his tone soft.

At the sudden noise, the two boys flinched, simultaneously forcing their gazes over to the door that was pushed open a brief moment later.

A smiling Taehyung peeked inside, his eyes gleaming in affection as he permitted himself entrance, shutting the door behind him before he approached Yoongi. “Here you are, Hyung”

“Tae-yah,” Yoongi uttered, his smile growing as Taehyung hugged him from behind, leaning over the backrest of his chair, his arms resting on Yoongi’s chest, his lips pressing a kiss to the top of Yoongi’s head.

“I heard you’re in a bad mood?” Taehyung revealed, titling his head to the side as he allowed his palms to wander below the fabric of Yoongi’s shirt – the latter not flinching at all, not rejecting the touch either; why would he? – with the intention of rubbing his palms over Yoongi’s chest as though it was a way to comfort him – maybe, it was. That was something that Jimin was unaware of; a fact attributable to his close, but not quite that intimate bond to Yoongi when it was compared to Taehyung’s and Yoongi’s bond.

“I’m better now,” Yoongi reassured him, titling his head to the side to press his lips to Taehyung’s arm, the touch evoking a soft chuckle in Taehyung.

“Because of me?” Tae wanted to know, raising his brows as he leaned closer to Yoongi’s face.

“Always,” Yoongi whispered, giving a faint nod as he crashed his lips on Tae’s, a breath slipping from the latter’s lips as he kissed right back.
The smaller boy blinked, standing there awkwardly a few feet away from them, wondering whether they had simply disregarded his presence or just didn’t mind having such a display of affection in front of Jimin.

Clearing his throat, Jimin pulled the sleeves of his shirt over his delicate hands, noticing that the two weren’t withdrawing from one another.

“Allright. This is… yeah, that’s new,” Jimin stated with a chuckle, giving a nod, even if more to himself than anything as the other two were currently evidently not paying attention to him at all, but were focused on tasting the other one’s mouth. “I’m going back upstairs while you two… can finish that,” he added, his cheeks flushing a shade of rose as he pointed to the door behind him.

To see two of his longest friends kiss one another – being aware that they were in a committed relationship now – was somehow very… novel.

More than anything, it was… beautiful.

Just… simply not something Jimin particularly wanted to disrupt or ruin with his own presence right now.

The sight allowed prominent warmth to ignite in Jimin’s chest, happiness blooming within him.

Taehyung giggled at Jimin’s words, reluctantly withdrawing from Yoongi. “We should all go upstairs now,” Taehyung decided, giving a nod as he straightened his back.

“You’re right,” Yoongi agreed, clearing his throat as he rose to his feet beside his lover.

“Let’s go then,” Jimin chuckled, his heart skipping a beat as he saw Yoongi interlacing his hand with Taehyung.

***

The pizza was surprisingly well done – not that Jimin had have any doubts about-

Okay, maybe a little.

After all, Taehyung had been partially correct with his earlier statement. The majority of them did not possess any profound cooking skills.

A few minutes after they had all tried their creations, they found themselves gathered in the living room, sitting on the sofa or the floor as they munched on their pieces of pizza, Jimin humming at the taste.

“How wants some wine?” Taehyung suddenly exclaimed, anticipation dripping from his voice as he returned to the sofa with two bottles of red wine. “We bought a lot,” he revealed to the others, Jimin recalling Taehyung’s big thrilling eyes in the liquor store comparable to the expression of a little kid present in a toy store, poor Beomsoo having to carry all of the alcohol back to the car ahead of driving them over to Yoongi’s house.

Jin was the first one to raise his glass, giving a determined nod as he watched Taehyung pour wine into his glass before he turned to the others.

“I’m not drinking,” Jungkook expressed, shaking his head. “I’m driving,” he reminded the others.

After dropping Jimin and Taehyung off here at Yoongi’s place, Beomsoo had been allowed to leave, Jungkook having decided to drive them back home later whenever they chose to leave.

“Min-ah?” Taehyung wanted to know, titling his head to the side.

The pink haired boy forced his gaze away from Jungkook’s face in order to lock eyes with Taehyung. “Uhm…” he mumbled.

Instinctively, his brain knew better at this point.

Alcohol and Jimin were not a good match, not at all. There were too many incidents to reinforce that conviction within Jimin.

Then again, this wasn’t a huge party where trouble seemed inevitable to arise.

This was a cosy hang out with his close friends – his family – that would surely look out for him to not do anything stupid or put himself in danger. By no means did Jimin even remotely consider for them to try and take advantage of his drunken state in any way. No, Jimin trusted them with his life.

Maybe… it would be okay?

“Go ahead, little one, if you want to,” Jungkook assured him, his palm that was resting on Jimin’s thigh giving it a tender squeeze.

The smaller one caught his bottom lip between his teeth.

Naturally, Jimin felt guilty at the thought of being able to drink liquor when Jungkook wasn’t, simply for the fact of him having to drive them back home.

Then again, Jungkook rarely – no, never drank – did he?

“I feel bad drinking, when you don’t because you’re driving us home,” Jimin voiced his thoughts, shaking his head.

“If I really wanted to drink, I would,” Jungkook declared with a smile, reaching for Jimin’s glass and handing it to him. “I could call Beomsoo and have him pick us up later, if I really wanted to. Go ahead, angel,” he added, leaning in to press his lips to Jimin’s temple.

“Uhm, okay, maybe a glass,” Jimin uttered softly, giving a nod as he raised his glass to Taehyung who smiled brightly. “I wanna try it,” he expressed, truly curious to find out how wine tasted like.

“Yaay,” Tae exclaimed in delight, swift to fill Jimin’s glass with the red liquid, expectant eyes fixated on Jimin as Tae waited for Jimin to have a sip.

At his big eyes, Jimin giggled, bringing the glass up to his lips to take a sip.

Intrigued, Jimin allowed the wine to rest in his mouth for a brief moment before he swallowed it down, the fluid trailing down his throat and leaving behind the slightest burning.

“It’s… interesting,” Jimin revealed, titling his head to the side as he squinted his eyes at the taste, not quite certain whether he liked it that much. “I don’t know how I feel about it,” he declared, taking another sip.

Beside him, Jungkook chuckled, amused by Jimin’s wrinkled nose and his flushed cheeks.

Narrowing his eyes, Jimin turned to meet Jungkook’s gaze.
“What?” Jimin mumbled quietly.

The taller male shook his head, a smirk curving his lips. “You’re cute,” Jungkook remarked, his eyes gleaming in affection.

“I prefer red over white wine,” Taehyung drew Jimin’s attention over to him, in the midst of filling Hoseok’s glass with wine. “Man, I should have bought some white one to have you try, though,” he added with a sigh, appearing to be frustrated with himself.

“No, it’s fine,” Jimin assured him, taking another sip. “This isn’t bad,” he decided after he had swallowed down his wine.

What started off with Jimin being merely tipsy and a little bubblier, escalated quite quickly as Tae and him had emptied an entire bottle and a half together with no indication of stopping there.

That night, Jimin learned that he had a really, really low alcohol tolerance.

Well, the remainder of the night was a blur…

At one point into the night, Taehyung demanded for the other ones to clear the sofa as it was supposed to be their stage, the taller boy intertwining his and Jimin’s hand as he pulled the boy up on Yoongi’s sofa with him.

The other guys – all still remotely sober and aware of their surroundings opposed to Taehyung and Jimin – leaned against the wall, amusement in their eyes as they observed the two boys on the sofa.

Then, Tae broke out into singing.

“There's a boy I know, he's the one I dream of,” he sang at the top of his lungs, staring over at the crowd of boys – particularly Yoongi and Hoseok – as he pointed at them before he locked eyes with Jimin. “Looks into my eyes, takes me to the clouds above, mmm-hmm”

Somehow, Jimin caught on swiftly, humour glistening in his eyes.

“Oh, I lose control, can’t seem to get enough, uh-huh,” Jimin joined Taehyung, the two of them smiling brightly, their hands still interlaced. “When I wake from dreaming, tell me is it really love?”

The two boys giggled, stealing a glimpse at their group of friends before the broke out into the chorus.

“How will I know if he really loves me?” they sang in unison, jumping up and down on the sofa as though it was a bouncy castle, Yoongi almost interfering and telling them to come down because – Fuck, that sofa was not cheap at all for them to fuck it by jumping around on it – but then finding himself to be too amused and honestly endeared by the sight to truly care much.

“I say a prayer with every heartbeat,” Taehyung chanted the next part, placing his unoccupied hand over his chest and pretending for it to beat like his heart.

“I fall in love whenever we meet,” Jimin sang, spinning around and glancing back at his group of friends as Tae united with him for the next part, “I’m asking you what you know about these things”

Jungkook crossed his arms over his chest, amusement and affection gleaming in his eyes as he stared at Jimin intently, not missing a movement of his.
“How will I know if he's thinking of me?” Jimin and Taehyung sang in unison, pointing at their respective significant others before they proceeded to jump around on the sofa, the cushions beneath them suffering from their continuous bouncing. “I try to phone, but I'm too shy,” the pink haired one sang alone as he pressed his hand to his ear as though it was a phone, Taehyung adding a higher “can't speak.”

“Are any of you filming this?” Jin uttered breathily, almost in awe as they all proceeded to observe the scene in front of them with big eyes.

“They would kill us, if we do,” Hoseok noted, chuckling.

“I wouldn't care. This is gold,” Jin stressed, shaking his head as his smile grew bigger, Jimin having stumbled into Taehyung, causing the two of them to fall over on the sofa.

However, that didn’t stop them, the two boys giggling as they were swift to get up to their feet and break out in their next number as though nothing had happened in the first place.

“Cute,” Jungkook chuckled, his heart doing some weird shit as Jimin danced on the sofa as though he was the most carefree being in this world, glowing in this very moment and simply feeling absolute happiness.

It was like Jimin was truly shining, his pretty features adorned by a soft smile, his eyes turned into crescents.

So goddamn beautiful.

Wow.

“We're breaking free!” Taehyung suddenly yelled at the top of his lungs before him and Jimin sang in unison, “We're soaring, flying! There’s not a star in heaven that we can't reach!”

***

The black haired male returned to the living room after catching some fresh air on the patio, discovering Jimin on the sofa, cuddled up to the side of it as he sleepily watched Taehyung proceeding to perform his next number in the center of the room, having gone to pick up an empty wine bottle to use as a microphone – at the horror of Yoongi who had tried to stop him, clearly unsuccessfully – and was now bouncing around as he sang the lyrics to “I Wanna Dance With Somebody” at the top of his lungs.

At this rate, Jungkook was partially concerned for Yoongi’s neighbours to come over at any point now. Then again, fuck that, this was the seventh number they – or rather now only Taehyung – were performing tonight. If they hadn’t appeared ‘til now, it was of low probability that they would come over at all to tell them to shut up before they would call the cops on them for a noise complaint.

Jungkook walked past Hoseok and Yoongi who were observing Taehyung like he was the fucking stars and the moon at once, Namjoon and Jin were still out on the patio, probably having started to make out beneath the night sky now that Jungkook had left them alone to themselves.

“Hey, little one,” Jungkook uttered softly as he had closed the distance between him and Jimin, taking a seat on the sofa next to him.

The smaller boy met his gaze, a delicate smile adorning his features as he realised that it was Jungkook who had sat down beside him. “Hey, big one,” Jimin whispered, his tone gentle as he placed his petite hand in between them as though he had meant to touch Jungkook, but hadn’t quite managed to succeed.

At the new and surprising nickname slipping from Jimin’s lips, Jungkook laughed, his eyes glistening in fondness as he studied Jimin’s pretty features.

How fucking adorable.

“Are you okay?” Jungkook wanted to know, placing his larger hand on Jimin’s.

“‘m sleepy,” Jimin mumbled quietly, rubbing his sweater paw over his eyes.

“You are?” Jungkook asked – despite of it being more than apparent that his baby was tired – as he reached out to brush Jimin’s fringe out of his face, the tips of his fingers tracing down to caress Jimin’s flushed cheek.

“Mhm-mh,” the smaller one hummed.

“Should I take you home?” Jungkook suggested, smiling at the sight of his sleepy baby.

“I don’t wanna go yet,” Jimin objected, shaking his head as he pouted.

“You don’t?” Jungkook echoed, arching up his brows, amusement in his eyes as he studied Jimin’s features.

“No,” Jimin decided. “I have… have to perform with Tae. We’re… you booked us to perform, hm?”

What?

“Little one, we-” Jungkook tried to correct, but fuck, Jimin was so out of it – and honestly way too loveable to burst his bubble right now. “You already performed, baby,” he decided to say instead, playing along with Jimin’s supposed narrative.

“I did?” Jimin wondered, his eyes big.

“Yes,” Jungkook affirmed with a nod.

“Oh”

Jungkook’s heart urged him to take Jimin home and tuck him into bed, the smaller one simply too drunk for his brain to form any coherent thought or differentiate reality from imagination.

“It’s late already,” the black haired one noted.

“Mhm… Just…,” Jimin murmured, his head feeling so heavy, causing him to rest it on the sofa, his eyes fluttering shut before he forced them open again.

“You’re going to fall asleep, little one,” Jungkook chuckled, scooting closer to Jimin. “Let me take you home, hm?” he whispered into Jimin’s ear, his breath tickling on Jimin’s skin.

“Mhm-kay,” the pink haired one breathed, giving a faint nod as his eyes fell shut again.

***

The smaller boy nuzzled his face against Jungkook’s chest, the latter adjusting Jimin in his embrace as he approached his own apartment door.
“Joon,” Jungkook greeted the man, Joon executing a deep bow upon his sight.

“Mr. Jeon,” Joon then retorted. “Mr. Park,” he addressed Jimin, appearing to be unaware that Jimin was asleep in Jungkook’s arms.

“Could you open the door for me,” Jungkook asked, nodding towards his front door as he was obviously unable to as his hands were occupied with carrying Jimin.

“Of course, Mr. Jeon,” Joon was swift to respond, turning towards the door and entering the password before he pushed the door open, granting Jungkook access to his own apartment.

“Thank you,” Jungkook uttered politely, walking past Joon who performed another deep bow.

“Goodnight, Mr. Jeon,” the security guard muttered.

“Goodnight, Joon,” Jungkook returned before he kicked the door shut with his foot.

Thud.

“Fuck,” the black haired male cursed at the loud noise his action had created, his features scrunched up in panic as he looked down at Jimin who had flinched in his embrace at the sound.

“Kook-ah?” Jimin whispered, his voice breaking as he tried to find Jungkook’s eyes, blinking several times to adjust to the brightness among them.

“Hey, little one, sorry about that,” Jungkook apologised softly as he headed towards the staircase, carrying Jimin upstairs into his bedroom.

“Where are we?” Jimin wanted to know, appearing to fail to realise what their current location was, his vision still merely blurry.

“In my apartment,” Jungkook revealed, entering his bedroom and switching the lights on in the process, dim illumination falling upon them.

“Oh, okay” Jimin uttered, giving a faint nod as he rubbed his fists over his tired eyes, scanning his surroundings to discover that they were already in Jungkook’s bedroom. “I can walk,” he whispered as he noticed that Jungkook was holding him in his arms.

In fact, he must have carried him all the way upstairs from the car – and prior into the car, presumably, as well.

“You cannot,” Jungkook chuckled, shaking his head.

“I can,” Jimin objected. “I can prove it”

Amused, Jungkook raised his brows at him, carefully setting Jimin down on his feet before he brushed his hair out of his face.

“Thank you,” Jimin murmured, turning around and heading towards the bed.

The smaller boy’s fingers fidgeted with the button on his trousers in the midst of trying to make it to the bed in a straight line, then zipping down his pants once he had succeeded before he tugged on the fabric to remove the piece of clothing from his legs.

“Jimin-ah, that’s not going to-” Jungkook meant to warn him but went silent a brief moment later as he saw Jimin tumble.
As predicted, Jimin stumbled over his own two feet, clumsily slipping and falling flat on the bed.

In the back, Jungkook chuckled at his accident, swift to close the distance between them and grab Jimin’s waist with the intention of rolling him onto his back.

“Are you okay? Did you hurt yourself?” the younger one wanted to know, brushing strands of pink hair away that had fallen into Jimin’s face.

“No,” Jimin murmured, feeling his cheeks tinge a shade of rose at the slight embarrassment that bloomed within him.

“No, you’re not okay or no, you didn’t hurt yourself?” Jungkook asked for clarification, titling his head to the side, humour gleaming in his eyes.

Jimin blinked.

Frankly, his drunk mind was not functioning that well, clearly not cooperating with him and making it a rather difficult effort to register Jungkook’s words.

“Uh… I’m not hurt.” Jimin eventually answered, his eyes big as they stared up at Jungkook.

“I see,” Jungkook stated, his smirk growing as he leaned down to Jimin.

The black haired boy was amused – and fucking endeared – by every little thing Jimin did.

How could someone be that cute?

_Honestly, tell him – He wanted to know._

For a moment, Jimin proceeded to stare up into Jungkook’s brown orbs as though he was searching for something, as though he wasn’t capable to tear his gaze away, mesmerised by what he saw.

Slowly, Jimin reached up, the tips of his fingers tracing over Jungkook’s cheek, so softly, so careful almost as though he wasn’t certain whether Jungkook was real.

“Handsome,” Jimin breathed.

Jungkook’s smile grew. “Pretty,” he then returned, the smaller one digging his teeth into his bottom lip as his blush darkened.

Appearing to be timid, Jimin averted his gaze, his fingers tugging on the fabric of his trousers again as he hadn’t managed to pull them down in his first attempt.

“Let me help you,” Jungkook offered, reaching down to assist Jimin in removing his trousers, but the other one hummed in disapproval, shaking his head.

“I got it,” Jimin whispered, wriggling his butt around before he kicked down his pants, watching them drop to the floor at Jungkook’s feet.

Now, the pink haired boy was only dressed in his long-sleeved shirt and his underwear, the fabric of his shirt merely veiling Jimin’s most private part as he was lying there on Jungkook’s bed.

“Better now?” Jungkook wanted to know, having noticed how diligent and frantic Jimin had been in the process and near urgency to remove his trousers – almost as though he didn’t want to spend another second with them on; perhaps because of the heat, perhaps because he wanted to get ready for bed quickly, Jungkook wasn’t sure.
“Hmm-no”, Jimin decided, shaking his head as he got back up to his feet.

“Where are you going now, little one?” Jungkook inquired, looking after Jimin with raised brows.

The smaller boy waddled over to the dresser, pulling the top drawer open and picking out a white shirt from Jungkook. Appearing to be entertained, Jungkook crossed his arms over his chest, his eyes fixated on Jimin as he observed him intently, affection and humour glistening in his eyes as he smirked.

Slightly disoriented, Jimin headed back over to the bed, plopping down on it in front of Jungkook before he removed his own shirt and dropped it on the bed beside him ahead of him pulling Jungkook’s shirt over his head.

Now dressed in Jungkook’s clothes, Jimin met his gaze again, his eyes sparkling as a pretty smile curved his lips.

“Happy now?” Jungkook asked, reaching out to place his palm against Jimin’s flushed cheek.

The smaller boy inclined his head to the side, furrowing his brows as he seemed to contemplate.

“Hmm-no,” Jimin decided, shaking his head.

“What else?”

Jimin pointed to his own lips, titling his head up to Jungkook.

Chuckling, Jungkook leaned in to attach their lips in a soft kiss, a tiny breath slipping from Jimin’s lips at the sweet touch.

“How does wine make you even cuter?” the younger male wanted to know, studying Jimin’s features as though the answer was hidden in there.

“Am I cute?”

“Mhm-mh,” Jimin hummed in delight, giving a nod as his heart fluttered at his words. Yet then, he caught his bottom lip between his teeth. “I don’t wanna be just cute, though…” he murmured.

“How does wine make you even cuter?” the younger male wanted to know, studying Jimin’s features as though the answer was hidden in there.

“Am I cute?”

“Wanna- Wanna be-” the pink haired boy attempted to sit up on his knees, yet losing his balance in the process of it, causing him to hunch forward to lean on Jungkook for leverage.

“I think you’ve had a little too much, angel,” Jungkook chuckled, applying faint pressure on Jimin’s shoulder to silently ask him to lie down again. Complying, Jimin fell back on the soft sheets, staring up at Jungkook with big eyes. “Come on, let’s tuck you in, hm?” he noted, indicating to lift Jimin further up on the pillows in order to tuck him into bed, but Jimin hummed in dissatisfaction, shaking his head.

“Jungkookie Hyung, I don’t wanna sleep yet,” Jimin objected, his voice soft, but also containing a little whine.

“Hyung?” Jungkook echoed, eyebrows raised at the term Jimin had used in reference to him.

“Mhm-mh”

“Baby, you do know you’re older than me, hm?” the younger male reminded him, an amused smirk embellishing his handsome features as he leaned down to Jimin. “But I mean, I would be okay, if you-”

“Right,” Jimin mumbled, remembering that he was indeed older than Jungkook. As soon as he recalled that fact, Jimin swatted Jungkook’s arm, “You thought, huh?” he expressed with narrowed eyes at Jungkook’s mischief. “I’m your Hyung,” he stated.

“I know, Jimin-ah,” Jungkook snickered, giving a nod, clearly not caring that Jimin was his Hyung, but proceeding to call him without that certain respective term.

Jimin squinted his eyes at him.

“Why don’t you call me Hyung?” Jimin found himself wonder, his tone gentle as his gaze flickered back and forth between Jungkook’s eyes.

For a moment, Jungkook just stared at him.

“I… I’m not sure, actually,” he then answered, his own brows knitted. “It just kind of happened that way?” he elaborated, then placing his hand on Jimin’s thigh. “Does that bother you? Do you want me to call you Hyung, little one?”

“No,” Jimin found himself answer before he even realised, his heart appearing to have been quicker than his brain. “I like it, when you talk informal to me,” he revealed.

“Do you?” Jungkook questioned, a smug expression written on his face.

“It’s just… I don’t know… makes me feel closer to you?” Jimin explained. “As long as I remember, you’ve referred to me like that and it never bothered me. I… like it, a lot. It does something to my heart that… I like? I can’t explain it,” he added, frustrated with his inability to express his feelings in a solid and comprehensible way.

Jimin’s drunk mind wasn’t helping at all.

“You don’t have to explain yourself, baby,” Jungkook reassured him, his smile warm as he leaned down to press his lips to Jimin’s forehead.

“Okay,” Jimin murmured, grateful that Jungkook didn’t view him as weird because of his unique fondness regarding this part of their dynamics.
“Now, will you let me take you to bed?” Jungkook asked, leaning further down to brush his lips over Jimin’s earlobe. At the touch, a soft breath slipped from Jimin’s lips.

“For what?”

“To sleep, little one,” Jungkook elucidated with a chuckle.

“I’m not sleepy,” Jimin objected, shaking his head.

“You told me you were, at Hyung’s and in the car,” the black haired one reminded him – which, well… Jimin couldn’t quite recall, if he was being honest. Then again, he was a little sleepy…

“I don’t wanna sleep yet,” Jimin mumbled.

No, Jimin wanted to do something different…

“What do you want to do?” Jungkook then wanted to know, observing Jimin lift his hands up to his chest…

“I… I wanna suck you off,” Jimin blatantly requested, the tips of his fingers tracing over Jungkook’s upper body, down towards the waistband of his trousers.

Well, this had just taken a good one-hundred-and-eighty turn.

“Jumin-ah,” Jungkook stressed his name, merely refraining from cussing beneath his breath at the unexpected temptation.

“Please?” Jimin begged, pouting as he spread his legs apart.

“How can you ask me that looking as angelic as you do?” Jungkook asked as he shook his head, the pad of his thumb running along Jimin’s bottom lip.

Fuck, those lips were sinful.

No, Jimin was drunk.

“May I?” Jimin uttered all over again, his cute tongue poking out to lick over Jungkook’s thumb.

“Angel, you’re drunk, I-” Jungkook managed to assemble all the self-control he could muster, determined to not permit Jimin to give him head tonight.

However, before Jungkook was even able to finish his sentence, the smaller boy had already rose to his feet to place his delicate hands on Jungkook’s shoulders and turn their bodies around.

In the twinkling of an eye, Jimin had pushed Jungkook down on the soft sheets before he had dropped to his feet on the rug in between Jungkook’s legs.

“In the twinkling of an eye, Jungkook had pushed Jungkook down on the soft sheets before he had dropped to his feet on the rug in between Jungkook’s legs.

“Please?” Jimin pleaded again. “I… I have been good today, haven’t I?” he murmured, titling his head to the side as he rubbed his palms over Jungkook’s thighs, his hands traveling north to the waistband of Jungkook’s trousers where his fingers fumbled with the zipper.

Yet, Jungkook was swift to halt Jimin’s movement, his own hands curling around Jimin’s wrist to still him.

“You’re always good, little one,” Jungkook reassured him as he reached down to grasp Jimin’s hips, effortlessly heaving him up on his lap a moment later, the pink haired boy finding himself straddling
Jungkook’s lap before he even realised it. “But you’re way too drunk, hm?” he added, closing his arms around Jimin’s back to secure the boy in his embrace.

“’m not,” Jimin objected, shaking his head.

Maybe, a little….

“Trust me, you are,” Jungkook emphasised, not stern at all, softness displayed in his voice.

“You don’t have any proof,” Jimin protested.

“You don’t even know how you got here, do you?” Jungkook accused him, raising his brows in amusement.

Jimin narrowed his eyes.

Well, that... Jimin did...

Fine.

“You’re a meanie,” Jimin whined, swatting Jungkook’s arm.

Swiftly, Jungkook closed his palms around Jimin’s wrists again, preventing him from trying to swat his arm again. At the sight of Jimin’s pouting face, Jungkook’s heart clenched.

“Stop pouting,” Jungkook whispered, gripping Jimin’s chin and leaning in to brush his lips over Jimin’s.

“No,” Jimin huffed, turning his head to the side as he crossed his arms over his chest.

The taller male sighed, smiling as he pressed his forehead against Jimin’s shoulder.

“Fuck, how can you be this adorable while asking me to suck on my fucking dick? Science, explain,” Jungkook expressed, frankly unable to apprehend how this was possible.

“Kook-ah,” Jimin mumbled breathy, poking Jungkook’s arm, his eyes big as he stared at Jungkook through his lashes.

Fuck.

The black haired boy leaned closer to Jimin’s ear, not fond of the sight of his little baby being upset for being unable to execute his own desire.

“How about this,” Jungkook whispered into his ear, his palm caressing Jimin’s back. “I’ll eat you out until you’re all sleepy and then we’ll cuddle, hm?” he suggested, his hand wandering below the fabric of Jimin’s shirt to stroke his soft skin.

Oh.

Jimin’s stomach stirred in excitement.

That was…

No!

“No, I wanna… wanna take care of you now,” Jimin stressed, shaking his head all over again.
“You won’t stop begging, hm?” Jungkook sighed with a smile.

“No,” Jimin whispered, his petite hands roaming over Jungkook’s shoulders before they wandered down to trace over Jungkook’s chest.

Jungkook’s gaze flickered back and forth between Jimin’s eyes.

“Okay, angel, go ahead,” Jungkook finally gave in, nodding as he leaned back on his hands.

“Really?” Jimin exclaimed, his eyes wide in delight.

“Yes, really,” Jungkook chuckled.

Frankly, there had never been anyone in his entire fucking life asking him to suck off his dick this cutely.

Deprived of any hesitance, Jimin fidgeted with the zipper of Jungkook’s trousers, struggling a fair amount in his frantic execution ruled by his mixture of joy and zeal.

“Let me help you, kitten,” Jungkook offered, reaching down to open his trousers and tug them down just enough to expose his dick to Jimin’s eyes.

Satisfied, Jimin placed his delicate hands on Jungkook’s shoulders and applied enough pressure in his touch to convey the nonverbal demand for Jungkook to lie down on the soft sheets.

The black haired boy complied, lowering himself down on the bed as Jimin simultaneously scooted down enough to rest in between Jungkook’s legs and bent forward with the intention of hovering above Jungkook’s erection.

In the midst of finding the right position, black dots appeared in front of Jimin’s vision, warning him to refrain from any hectic movements – especially ones where he was bending over or getting up too quickly – causing him to lose his balance and fall flat on his stomach.

Stupid alcohol, Jimin thought.

“Careful, angel,” Jungkook uttered softly, reaching out to brush Jimin’s fringe out of his face as Jimin lifted his head again, stealing a glimpse at Jungkook and flashing him a delicate smile before he curled his hand around Jungkook’s erection.

At the touch, the younger male sucked in a breath, resting his head back down on the pillow as he allowed Jimin to jerk him off slowly.

Leisurely, Jimin leaned down, poking his tongue out to lick a stripe up from the base to the tip, his tongue twirling around the slit to collect some pre-cum that he was more than delighted to swallow down.

“Jimin-ah,” Jungkook groaned. “Good boy,” he praised.

At the praise, Jimin hummed in happiness, parting his lips to push the tip of Jungkook’s penis past his lips, swift to sink down on his member as he disregarded the faint burning of his throat.

However, somehow, with each movement, Jimin turned sleepier, black dots proceeding to blur his vision as though it was a defense mechanism of his body telling him to stop; warning him that he was too drunk and exhausted for any of this.

Carefully, Jimin bobbed his head up and down, his stomach stirring – this time not in arousal, but to caution him of a possible repercussion of his current behaviour embodied in Jimin having to puke.

Reluctantly, the smaller boy pulled off, resting his cheek on Jungkook’s thigh as he caught his breath, slowly jerking Jungkook off; attempting to stay awake and calm his stomach.

After a few lazy strokes, Jimin’s hand stilled entirely, his fluffy hair spreading on Jungkook’s thigh as his face plopped to the side.

Curiously, Jungkook sat up on his elbows, stealing a glimpse at his lover.

“Jimin-ah?” Jungkook uttered out, slightly concerned.

Was he…?

“Little one, hey, are you-” Jungkook wanted to know, reaching down to brush Jimin’s fringe out of his face, unveiling his pretty eyes that were shut.

The pink haired one’s lips were parted the slightest bit, allowing soft breaths to slip from them, indicating that he was in fact…

Asleep.

Jimin had fallen asleep – in the midst of sucking him off.

This was new.

Definitely.

The black haired boy had never experienced anything like this.

Why was this image… so darn cute to him?

Was his heart alright?

There must be some fucked up shit going on for him to be this whipped for someone that the sight of them falling asleep beside his dick as their hand was curled around it didn’t disturb him, but had his chest warm up.

Jimin had him wrapped around his finger – and he didn’t even know it.

Slightly amused, Jungkook gently pushed Jimin off of him, careful to get up from the bed as silently as he could muster before he picked up the smaller boy and laid him down on the soft sheets in a more comfortable position, placing his head on the velvety pillows before he tucked him in.

“I told you, you were too sleepy,” Jungkook remarked with a smile, shaking his head as he observed Jimin’s peaceful face, the latter reaching out to the side as though he was looking for something.

“Kookie,” fell from his pretty lips, the softest tone adorning his voice.

Smiling, Jungkook removed his trousers from his body, kicking them off to the side before he unbuttoned his shirt and dropped it to the floor, tucking his erection back into his briefs before he joined Jimin on the bed.

Jungkook was still popping a boner, but fuck, he couldn’t be bothered to take care of it right now.

“I’m right here, little one,” he promised, moving beneath the covers and pulling Jimin close to his chest, the latter even managing to nuzzle his face in the curve of Jungkook’s neck the way he always did. Subconsciously.

Chapter End Notes

cute Jiminie ^^

I tried something new with the arrangement of their messaging, I hope it made everything a little more organised and clearer and not worse ^^

I also wanted to apologise for not revealing that many answers to everything yet. I know that I'm only dropping some crumbs here and there with certain things, but please forgive me, I promise there will be answers eventually! <3

I hope you enjoyed the chapter <3

Please stay healthy and happy <3

See you in the next chapter! :)

Love you <3
On My Way

Chapter Notes

Hello, lovely readers <3

How have you been? I hope your days were filled with happiness! ^^ Are you enjoying the summer so far? These days it's incredibly hot, so please stay hydrated wherever you are! <3

I'm currently busy with exam season, so I'm a little stressed out, but I've been able to find a few moments to write this next chapter. As you may see, it's a little shorter than usually, but I didn't want you guys to have to wait for too long, please forgive me <3

I hope you'll enjoy this chapter <3

See the end of the chapter for more notes

The pink haired boy’s eyes fluttered open, the morning sunlight illuminating the bedroom and blinding him, causing him to press his eyes shut all over again. At his now wake state, a terrible headache announced its presence to him, evoking a groan in the poor boy who rolled over to his side and nuzzled his face into the velvety pillow.

Slowly, Jimin blinked a few times, allowing his vision to adjust to the light before he scanned his surroundings, locating the taller boy not far from him, standing by his dresser and putting on a white button-up shirt.

“Kook-ah?” Jimin murmured, his voice raspy and foreign, still touched by sleepiness and the events of the past night.

At the tone of his voice, Jungkook lifted his head, his gaze immediately fixated on Jimin, the man not hesitating to close the distance between them.

“Hello, beautiful,” Jungkook noted, a warm smile adorning his handsome features as he sat down on the bed beside Jimin, refraining from buttoning up his shirt as he dropped his hands to his side. The vivid scent of sandalwood lingered in the air, the familiar trace indicating that Jungkook had just showered. “How are you?” he wanted to know, reaching out to brush strands of pink hair out of Jimin’s face.

“My head hurts so bad,” Jimin mumbled, pressing his palm to his forehead before he rubbed his digits over his temples, somehow hoping it would magically decrease the aching or even cause it to vanish entirely.

It didn’t.

“I have some painkillers for you,” Jungkook prompted as he pointed at the nightstand, Jimin’s gaze following his movement and affirming that statement.

Despite Jimin’s preference of staying below the covers, engulfed by the warmth they provided for him, the smaller boy sat up, closing his delicate palm around the glass that Jungkook handed him. “Thank you,” Jimin uttered out, swift to swallow down a painkiller and take several slips of his water.

Jungkook studied his features, smiling as he rubbed his palm along Jimin’s thigh to comfort him.

“I barely remember anything,” Jimin stated, knitting his brows as he stole a glimpse at his lap. “How bad was I?” he found himself inquire, running his index finger along the side of the glass as he locked eyes with Jungkook.

Then again, did Jimin really want to know?

Naturally, it wasn’t a good sign, if Jimin couldn’t recall anything – or at least the vast majority – of the past night. Admittedly, that was a rare occasion as Jimin didn’t drink alcohol very often, yet it wasn’t exactly an occurrence Jimin was enthusiastic about.

“You weren’t bad,” Jungkook reassured him, shaking his head.

Yet then, opposed to his own words, a smirk curved his lips as amusement gleamed in his eyes, implying that he was entertained by his own thoughts and not revealing the entire truth.

“What?” Jimin pressed softly, containing the whine that had loomed to slip from his lips at the conceivable scenarios that were now haunting him.

What had he done?

“Well… you and Tae did get up on Hyung’s sofa at some point last night to perform an interesting rendition of How Will I Know. Then you and Tae had an argument about who loves the other one more and then you were hitting on me like I wasn’t already your boyfriend. Oh, and you fell asleep sucking my dick – which, well I don’t know how to take that,” Jungkook listed, Jimin’s horror increasing with each syllable that slipped from Jungkook’s lips.

The shorter male choked on his own spit, the defence mechanism of his body immediately attacking at the action, causing him to cough up multiple times.

Jimin had done what now?

Jungkook was lying, right?

He was only teasing him, wasn’t he?

“I did what?” Jimin wanted to know for validation, almost as though Jungkook’s response would vary from his prior statement, a small fraction within Jimin praying that it would.

The younger male chuckled at Jimin’s adorable expression. “All of that, yes,” he affirmed, giving a nod as he reached out to caress Jimin’s cheek to soothe him.

A performance on the sofa?

An argument with Tae?

Hitting on Jungkook?

And… and… falling asleep while sucking him off?

All of that?

No, that….
The smaller boy did vaguely recall them dancing on–

Oh.

Oh, no.

Suddenly, Jimin did remember…

All of it.

At one point, Taehyung and he had given quite the performance on Yoongi’s sofa, Whitney Houston’s How Will I Know, High School Musical’s Breaking Free and Elton John’s Can You Feel the Love Tonight just a few of the hits that they delivered in their tiny show.

In that moment, their little concert had been moderately solid judged in Jimin’s drunk mind – considering their intoxicated state, to emphasize.

Then again, Jimin didn’t exactly distinctively remember any of it… so, he wasn’t really one to define that, was he?

Naturally, the two of them had plopped down on the sofa at one point, exhaustion vivid within them.

For some reason, they had in fact argued – not ruled by any true heat or poison, but then fairly passionately, nonetheless.

“I love you, Minnie,” Tae declared.

The smaller one turned his head to face his best friend. “I love you, too, Tae,” Jimin responded with a smile.

Taehyung met his gaze, narrowing his eyes.

“Well, I love you more,” the blond haired one claimed as though it was a competition.

This time, Jimin squinted his eyes at him.

“Noo... I love you more,” Jimin asserted, vigorously shaking his head as he pointed at himself.

“I love you to the moon and back,” Tae promised, a smug expression embellishing his gorgeous features as though he believed he had won this battle.

“Well, I love you to the moon and back and everything beyond that,” Jimin declared, wagging his hands around as he talked to validate his statement by pointing at the sky and all around him.

It had gone on for quite a while.

To ice the cake, Jimin had actually believed that he was not in a relationship – that flawed perception equating that Jungkook was not his boyfriend.

In that altered narrative, the alcohol within Jimin’s veins had somehow ignited a wave of confidence within him, causing him to acquire the initiative and be the one hitting on Jungkook – something he had never done prior in his life, with anyone, to mention.

After their performance in the center of the room, Jimin dragged his body over to the sofa where the other guys were already resting, still entertained by Jimin’s and Taehyung’s bubbly behaviour.
The smaller boy halted at the sight of Jungkook, his eyes big and fixated on the younger male, his heart skipping a beat.

Jungkook was in the process of taking a sip from his drink but stilled his hand mid-air as he noticed Jimin staring at him. Amused, Jungkook raised a brow at him, a smirk dancing around his lips.

Slowly, Jimin closed the distance between them, lowering himself down on the sofa beside Jungkook, the latter not hesitating to place his arm on the backrest behind Jimin to establish an intimate and comfortable environment among them as they locked eyes.

“Hey, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin uttered softly, catching his bottom lip between his teeth as he studied his features.

“Hey, little one,” Jungkook responded, his smirk growing wider as his eyes rushed down to Jimin’s full lips.

At the pet name, Jimin found himself giggle, feeling his cheeks flush a shade of rose. Shyly, the boy covered his face with his sweater paws, leaning back in his seat, his gaze never leaving Jungkook’s gorgeous eyes.

For a moment, Jimin didn’t even blink, swallowing hard at the sight in front of him as he leisurely lowered his hands back down in his lap.

So unbelievably stunning, Jimin thought, was Jungkook even real?

“You… look very handsome,” the pink haired boy whispered, his blush darkening as he realised that those words had slipped from his lips.

At the compliment, Jungkook chuckled. “Thank you, Jimin-ah,” he noted, reaching out to brush strands of Jimin’s pink hair out of his face. “You look as pretty as always,” he declared.

Inevitably, Jimin giggled again, his heart fluttering at his words.

The taller male ran his hand through his own black locks, his fringe falling back in its prior place, parted the way it usually was, revealing a part of his forehead.

Somehow, Jimin couldn’t refrain from allowing each and every of his thoughts to be disclosed the way his heart was itching to.

“I like your hair parted like that,” Jimin revealed as he leaned his head against the backrest.

“Do you?”

“Mhm-mh,” Jimin hummed in affirmation, giving a faint nod.

The black haired male smirked. “What else do you like, little one?” Jungkook wanted to know, tilting his head to the side.

“Your eyes, they’re very pretty,” Jimin responded without an ounce of hesitation, not even requiring a moment to contemplate, a million things he could say already flooding his mind. “They’re brown like hazel, make me feel safe,” he added softer, his voice barely above a whisper, yet still audible to Jungkook who was drawn to each and every syllable that slipped from Jimin’s pretty lips.

Cautiously, Jimin’s gaze wandered lower past Jungkook’s broad shoulders to his arms, the latter’s sleeves rolled up to expose how strong they appeared, his defined veins on display.
“Your… You work out, don’t you?” Jimin found himself whisper in inquisitiveness, swallowing hard before he dug his teeth into his bottom lip.

“I do,” Jungkook chuckled, slightly confused as it was something Jimin was already aware of.

“You’re strong,” Jimin added, reaching out to trace his finger over Jungkook’s lower arm, somehow very intrigued by the sight.

“Mhm-mh,” Jungkook hummed, his eyes following the movement of Jimin’s delicate fingers gently caressing his skin, the man merely refraining from reminding Jimin of the various times he had fucked him up against a wall to emphasise the strength he truly possessed.

Was this Jimin’s way of proposing exactly that?

At the thought, Jungkook smiled.

Fuck, if Jimin wanted him to take him up against a wall again, all he had to do was ask.

“And… and your lips,” Jimin breathed, drawing Jungkook out of his thoughts, the former’s eyes rushing down to Jungkook’s rosy lips. “They look so soft,” he whispered.

“Is that your way of asking me to kiss you?” Jungkook asked in amusement, arching up his brows as he leaned closer to Jimin.

At their nearer proximity and the blatant question, Jimin found himself blush in bashfulness all over again. “Will you?” he wondered, his gaze flickering back and forth between Jungkook’s eyes as though he was searching for something that would depict that Jungkook was just teasing him, that he wasn’t truly interested.

“Cute,” Jungkook whispered, his smile growing at Jimin’s adorableness as he brushed his fringe out of his face.

At the soft touch, Jimin’s heart fluttered yet again, the boy hiding the faint disappointment that bloomed within him at the realisation that Jungkook wasn’t kissing him already.

“Are you… Are you dating anyone?” Jimin inquired, believing that it might be the reason for Jungkook’s disregard of Jimin’s fairly obvious request.

The taller male furrowed his brows. “Huh?”

“Are you… single?” Jimin elucidated, his eyes growing bigger.

“Jimin-ah, stop fucking with me,” Jungkook insisted, shaking his head as he laughed softly.

Jimin blinked at him.

The black haired boy’s laugh subsided, even his smile faltering.

“Shit, how much wine did you have?” Jungkook wanted to know with a frown, blaming Jimin’s odd behaviour on the prominent intoxication that was undeniably present within him.

“I don’t know…” Jimin murmured sincerely, truly not recalling how many drinks he had have, solely remembering the addictive taste. “It tasted so good,” he added.

“Mhm-mh,” Jungkook hummed as he placed his hand on Jimin’s thigh, then lifting his head to steal a glimpse at the other boys. “Don’t any of you assholes give Jimin any more alcohol. He’s pissed as fuck,” he stressed, raising his voice to ensure that they would all register his words.

Yoongi met his gaze, chuckling as he nodded towards Jimin who was only staring at Jungkook, lost in his gorgeous eyes. “Well, Sherlock, early for you to realise that,” Yoongi teased.

Well, he didn’t know how pissed Jimin truly was.

“Jimin just hit on me thinking we’re not already dating,” Jungkook revealed, evoking a loud laugh in Yoongi before slight concern replaced his humour filled expression. “He’s full as shit,” Jungkook added.

The smaller boy gasped at his words. “We’re dating?” he echoed, his eyes big.

“Oh my god,” Jungkook breathed, smiling as he shook his head, meeting Jimin’s gaze again.

“You’re mine?” Jimin wondered softly.

Fuck, adorable.

“Yes, I’m yours,” Jungkook declared, giving a nod as he rubbed his palm along Jimin’s inner thigh. Then, Jimin remembered.

How silly of him.

How had his drunk brain omitted that wonderful fact from his memory?

“Kook-ah, I’m yours, too,” Jimin recalled with big eyes, a smile adorning his pretty features.

Jungkook’s own smile grew. “I know, little one,” he uttered, leaning in to press his lips to Jimin’s forehead.

Then, to make it even worse, Jimin had begged to suck Jungkook off as soon as they were back at his apartment, just for him to fall sleep on top of him.

This was humiliating.

“Oh my god,” Jimin whined, hiding his face in his sweater paws once the haunting images of the events of the past night finally stilled.

“Angel, hey,” Jungkook comforted him, reaching out to close his hands around Jimin’s wrists, unveiling his pretty face, his cheeks flushed a shade of rose.

“That’s so embarrassing,” Jimin stated, shaking his head. “I’m so sorry, I—” he was swift to apologise.

“There’s no need to apologise,” Jungkook interrupted him with a frown, his smile warm as he rubbed his thumb along the back of Jimin’s hands to pacify him. “You were very cute, baby,” he claimed with a chuckle, appearing to be amused by the images that reappeared in his mind – the equivalent ones that were haunting Jimin simultaneously.

“Cute?” Jimin echoed in disbelief, certain that his actions and behaviour had been far from cute. “I must have been so annoying,” he stated.

The smaller one just prayed that he didn’t ruin their little hang, prayed that his friends had a lot of fun last night.
“You weren’t at all,” Jungkook reassured him. “The other guys and I were very entertained, to say the least,” he added with a smirk, his eyes gleaming in amusement. “You looked like you were having a lot of fun and we all enjoyed that sight. You know that nothing in this world is better for me than seeing you be happy. I loved to see you smile so much,” he asserted, lifting Jimin’s hand up to his lips to press a kiss to his knuckles.

“Why do I always fall for alcohol again?” Jimin wanted to know as though Jungkook possessed an answer to that question, the boy sighing as he pressed his eyes shut.

Note to self: No. More. Alcohol!

The pink haired one gave a determined nod to himself.

Yet then, his resolve faltered.

Well… Maybe, one day again, Jimin thought, he shouldn’t promise something he already knew he undoubtably wasn’t going to keep for the entire remainder of his whole life.

Sooo….

Note to self: No. More. Alcohol! No more alcohol for a while. A long while.

“Actually, wine wasn’t that bad on you, was it?” Jungkook objected, drawing Jimin out of his thoughts as he tilted his head to the side. “It just made you even cuter, all bubbly and carefree. As long as there is someone around you looking out for you, everything is fine,” he stressed, shrugging his shoulders.

Cute, bubbly and carefree?

Well, these did all sound like positive qualities, causing Jimin to consider that his demeanor might not have been that annoying…

Yet then, he recalled how he had fallen asleep in the midst of giving Jungkook a blowjob.

Oh, no.

“I fell asleep while… while I gave you… Oh my god,” Jimin whispered, shaking his head again as he indicated to hide his face in his sweater paws, but Jungkook was quick to still his movement, leaning closer to him.

“You did, yes,” he affirmed, his half buttoned-up shirt shifting as he had closed the last fraction of distance between them, revealing his upper body to Jimin’s eyes, the smaller one actually having managed to disregard that view and not fall into the distraction.

Well, until now.

Gulping, Jimin forced his gaze back up to Jungkook’s eyes.

“I… I don’t know what to say,” Jimin murmured, Jungkook’s hands still curled around his wrists. “I’m really sorry,” he apologised, catching his bottom lip between his teeth. “That… I didn’t mean to, I swear. It wasn’t… It was not because of you or anything like that, I mean-“ he tried to explain, but evidently lacked the ability to express his thoughts cohesively.

“Baby, hey, stop,” Jungkook interrupted him. “I know. I knew you were sleepy, but you were so persistent and cute when begging me that I couldn’t say no to you,” he added, reaching out to brush
Jimin’s fringe out of his face before he leaned in to press his lips to his forehead.

At the tender touch, Jimin’s eyes fluttered shut, Jungkook’s lips lingering against his skin for a moment longer.

“Did you at least… I mean, did you finish?” Jimin found himself wonder.

The pink haired boy felt guilty.

Repeatedly, he had begged Jungkook for the latter to permit him to suck him off until he had eventually given in just for Jimin to fall asleep on him?

Oh, please, if Jungkook had just found his release, maybe Jimin wouldn’t feel as guilty as he currently did.

“No, baby, I’m not going to use your body without your consent,” Jungkook expressed as he knitted his brows, his tone the slightest bit sterner, a fact that was not eminently notable, yet still audible to Jimin who was intimately familiar with Jungkook’s voice and certain mannerisms. “You fell asleep, so I picked you up and tucked you in bed before I cuddled you,” he added, his voice softer.

Jimin felt so guilty.

Hopefully, Jungkook didn’t believe that… the reason for Jimin to fall asleep on him last night was in any way or constellation related to him.

To be fair, Jungkook had fallen asleep on Jimin before – multiple times, to mention – as he was often very exhausted from work when he came home. It wasn’t unprecedented for him to fall asleep in the midst of them cuddling on bed while watching a show or during a conversation, his voice turning softer and quieter with each syllable until there was no more response at all.

Understandably, it wasn’t reprehensible for Jungkook to fall asleep that way after having another stressful day at work.

Needless to say, those times were not exactly comparable to this one.

The black haired boy had never fallen asleep in the process of them sharing an intimate moment – especially not while granting Jimin pleasure.

Gently, Jimin dug his teeth into his bottom lip as he studied Jungkook’s features.

Carefully, he sat up on the bed, Jungkook’s gaze intent and fixated on his every move, observing how Jimin crawled closer to him and straddled his lap.

Naturally, Jungkook’s hands found their way to Jimin’s waist, the smaller one closing one arm around Jungkook’s neck while the other one played with the collar of his unbuttoned shirt.

“Will you let me finish what I started?” Jimin found himself ask, his voice soft as he stared at Jungkook through his lashes, the tips of his fingers tracing down Jungkook’s chest, halting at the first button that wasn’t undone. “I promise I won’t fall asleep this time,” he assured as he fidgeted with the button, his eyes never leaving Jungkook’s as he managed to open the button, Jungkook’s pupils dilating at the proposal, the latter’s eyes rushing down to Jimin’s full lips. “And if I ever do again, just… you know, you can finish, if you want to… just so… because I feel guilty,” Jimin added softer, dipping his head down.

At those words, Jungkook curled his hand around Jimin’s wrist, stilling his movement.
“Don’t feel guilty about that. Never, Jimin-ah,” he uttered, shaking his head. “And don’t say that,” he added, his voice firmer as he placed his finger below Jimin’s chin and guided his face back up, meeting his gaze.

“Why?” Jimin whispered.

“It’s dangerous to allow someone else such infinite power over your body,” Jungkook explained, seemingly not approving of Jimin’s permission to use his body even if he was asleep.

Frankly, Jimin wasn’t quite aware of what exactly he was truly saying there himself, some remaining alcohol presumably still running through his veins and clouding his rational state the slightest bit.

“I trust you, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin reminded him with a smile. “I told you… I… told you that I like the thought of you… of you using me,” he added, his voice just above a whisper.

“It’s different when you’re awake,” the younger male stated, observing how Jimin was trying to touch his chest again, but this time preventing the action fairly swifter, wrapping his hand around Jimin’s wrist and halting his movement as he wanted Jimin to listen to what he was explaining to him without being distracted.

This was significant.

“When you’re awake, you have the possibility to call out a safe word, if it gets too much. If you’re asleep, you have no fucking consciousness of what that someone you granted such power with is doing to you,” Jungkook emphasised.

“You wouldn’t hurt me, I know that,” Jimin expressed with big eyes, affection and trust gleaming in his eyes, the smile that embellished his pretty features doing that weird shit to Jungkook’s heart, but fuck, it scared him.

The thought of Jimin trusting someone else this much with his body scared the shit out of him – aside from how his blood boiled at the mere notion of Jimin ever being that intimate with anyone else but him.

Jimin was so fucking gullible.

The trust he would have for people could be used against him in a heartbeat by some fucked up people, them truly using his body without giving one shit about his feelings, hurting him until- Fuck.

Jungkook would kill them.

“I’m not talking about me,” the taller male stated, shaking his head.

Fuck, no, Jungkook would never hurt Jimin like that.

“If you were to ever break up with me and meet someone new-”

“What are you saying, Jungkook-ah?” Jimin interrupted him with furrowed brows, clearly not fond of Jungkook mentioning such nonsense yet again.

If you were to ever break up with me.

Why would he say that?

“Why do you say that as if I would leave you?” Jimin wanted to know. “I’m not going anywhere. I’m never going to break up with you. I will never meet someone new. I want you. Only you. I trust you, okay?” Jimin emphasised, his tone turning softer with each syllable as he cupped Jungkook’s face.

Was Jungkook truly fearing that? Did he sincerely believe that there was even the smallest probability of Jimin ever leaving him?

There wasn’t.

The taller male smiled warmly before he leaned in to attach their lips in a gentle kiss, Jimin’s eyes fluttering shut as he indicated to deepen their touch but was dismayed to feel Jungkook withdraw a brief moment later.

Gently, Jungkook pressed his forehead against Jimin’s, the pad of his thumb running along Jimin’s bottom lip. “I just… I don’t…” he trailed off.

That’s when it clicked within Jimin.

Oh God.

Jimin was so stupid!

“Jungkook-ah,” Jimin breathed, his eyes wide. “I’m so sorry. That was so insensitive of me,” he whispered, vigorously shaking his head.

Jungkook’s mother had been raped in her sleep, shaken awake by two men who took her life.

“I shouldn’t have- I didn’t mean it, I’m so sorry,” he apologised, tearing up at the potential of having wounded Jungkook. “Your mother and-”

Surely, Jimin had triggered that past memory with his stupid remark.

“Hey, hey, there, little one,” Jungkook comforted him, shaking his head. “Sssh, it’s all good. I didn’t say that because of my mother,” he explained. “It was just… a general thing I wanted to say. I’m just scared that you’ve grown to believe that everyone will treat you the way I do in bed, if you ever were to meet a new one,” he added, rubbing his thumb along Jimin’s soft cheek to wipe away his tear drop, the smaller boy’s eyes glassy as they stared into Jungkook’s. “There are people out there who don’t give a shit about consent. If you tell them to use you, they might take it very literally and don’t give a fuck about your feelings,” he stressed, needing Jimin to comprehend this.

“I… I didn’t… I should think before…” Jimin whispered as he lowered his head down, his heart clenching all over again.

“Hey, hey, there, little one,” Jungkook comforted him, shaking his head. “Sssh, it’s all good. I didn’t say that because of my mother,” he explained. “It was just… a general thing I wanted to say. I’m just scared that you’ve grown to believe that everyone will treat you the way I do in bed, if you ever were to meet a new one,” he added, rubbing his thumb along Jimin’s soft cheek to wipe away his tear drop, the smaller boy’s eyes glassy as they stared into Jungkook’s. “There are people out there who don’t give a shit about consent. If you tell them to use you, they might take it very literally and don’t give a fuck about your feelings,” he stressed, needing Jimin to comprehend this.

“Hey, don’t be sad now, baby,” Jungkook insisted, tightening his grasp around Jimin to pull him closer to his chest, the pink haired one not hesitating to hide his face in the curve of Jungkook’s neck. “I’m grateful for your trust, but I won’t ever touch you like that in your sleep, okay?” he emphasised, Jimin giving a nod. “If I please you, I actually want you to be awake and feel what I do to you,” he whispered, nudging his nose against Jimin’s cheek as he traced the tips of his fingers over Jimin’s back, moving closer to the hem of his shirt, his digits playing with the fabric before his palms moved below the piece of clothing to touch Jimin’s soft skin. At the tender touch, a soft breath slipped from Jimin’s lips, the boy nuzzling his face further against Jungkook. “I want to hear how responsive you are,” he added, his lips brushing over Jimin’s ear. “But, most importantly, it’s too dangerous for me”
Despite Jimin’s profound conviction in regard to Jungkook never harming him, even if he were to touch him in his sleep, Jimin did understand his concern.

“I’m sorry, Kook-ah,” Jimin declared, pressing his lips to Jungkook’s nape. “I just wanted to convey that I… trust you a lot. I also felt guilty for last night. I should think more before-”

“Little one, there is no reason to apologise, really,” the younger male reassured him as he withdrew a small fraction, enabling the two of them to lock eyes. “There is no reason to feel guilty either. I knew you were sleepy. It’s all good, okay?”

“Okay,” Jimin whispered, giving a nod as Jungkook placed his palm against his cheek, the former naturally nuzzling against the gentle touch.

The irritating sound of an alarm broke the comfortable silence between them, Jimin startled by the noise as he clung closer to Jungkook who chuckled at the reaction.

“It’s just my phone,” Jungkook informed him as he reached over to the nightstand, picking it up with the intention of silencing it, the irritating sound vanishing in the twinkling of an eye. “It’s just a reminder for my meeting,” he elaborated, tossing his phone back on the bed before his hand returned to Jimin’s waist.

“So, is that why you’re already up?” Jimin inquired, titling his head to the side as his delicate fingers played with the collar of Jungkook’s shirt.

The taller male smiled at him as he curled his hand around Jimin’s wrist, the other apprehending the nonverbal request and refraining from fidgeting with Jungkook’s shirt, dropping his hand back to his side, thus allowing Jungkook to button up his shirt.

“I do have to go to work,” Jungkook responded, closing the last button on his shirt before he reached over to pick up his tie. “How do you feel, though? There are no official schedules for you today. You and Hyung only have paperwork to do, so you could stay home, hm?” he suggested, wrapping the tie around his collar.

Unconsciously, Jimin found himself reach out to grab the tie, the taller male intently staring at Jimin for a moment before he smiled and dropped his hands back to his side, permitting Jimin to tie the fabric around his collar.

“Little one?” Jungkook emphasised softly, his smile growing at the adorable expression that adorned Jimin’s features, his cute tongue poking out as he concentrated on tying the piece of clothing around Jungkook’s neck.

“Huh?” Jimin uttered, then swiftly recalling that Jungkook had prior asked him a question. “No, Hyung and I wanted to work on a new choreography,” he stated, shaking his head. “I can’t leave him hanging. I will take some painkillers with me and drink a lot of water and then I should manage,” he decided.

“Okay,” Jungkook retorted, slight concern in his voice, the man taking a mental note to check up on Jimin several times throughout the day – despite that being something he tended to do anyway.

“Done,” Jimin then beamed at him, referring to the tie around Jungkook’s neck, a proud grin embellishing his pretty features as he patted Jungkook’s chest.

“Thank you,” Jungkook chuckled at Jimin’s endearing expression, leaning in to attach their lips in a soft peck before he indicated to get up to his feet, yet Jimin grasped the opportunity to chase after Jungkook’s lips to capture them in another kiss, the taste too sweet to resist.
The black haired male didn’t break the kiss, but rose from the bed, Jimin yelping as he was effortlessly lifted up into the air in the process, naturally clinging onto Jungkook, spun around by the latter who laid him down on the soft sheets all over again, hovering above him as he deepened the kiss.

A soft whimper slipped past Jimin’s lips as he closed his arms around Jungkook’s neck, spreading his legs for Jungkook to move in between them.

Carefully, Jimin reached up to Jungkook’s shirt, insinuating to unbutton the piece of clothing, but Jungkook was swift to wrap his palm around Jimin’s wrist to halt his movement.

“No, little one,” he breathed, placing another peck on Jimin’s lips before he straightened his posture all over again, fixing his tie as he cleared his throat, appearing to have recovered his natural self-control that had abandoned him for a temporary moment.

The smaller boy pouted, but found himself nodding, reminding himself that they both had to leave fairly soon.

“You’re leaving now?” Jimin wondered, raising up on his elbows, gaze fixated on Jungkook who pushed the hem of his shirt into his trousers.

“I have to, yes, I have quite a few meetings on my agenda today,” he informed Jimin with a nod. “Jin scheduled one fairly early because of the difference in time zones. If I miss that one, it’s gonna mess up the whole schedule”

The pink haired boy got up to his feet, giving another nod. “I guess I’m going to take a shower then,” Jimin decided as he walked past Jungkook.

“Mhm,” Jungkook hummed in thought, looking after Jimin with a smirk. “Maybe I should stay a little longer…,” he suggested, his tone lower, Jimin raising his brows as he stole a glimpse back at him.

The suggestive expression on Jungkook’s handsome face evoke timidity in Jimin, the smaller one’s cheeks tinged a shade of rose as he apprehended what Jungkook was insinuating.

“Leave, Bunny,” Jimin insisted with a soft laugh, catching his bottom lip in between his teeth at the way Jungkook arched his eyebrows at him, poking his tongue into his cheek before he smirked, approaching Jimin, causing the other one to shriek and spun around with the intention of sprinting towards the bathroom.

_Jimin was in trouble now._

“Where do you think you’re running off to, hm?” Jungkook asked, amused as he watched Jimin run into the restroom before he shut the door close behind himself, his sweet giggles audible in the space between them.

The taller male knocked on the door.

“Careful, little one, hm?” Jungkook warned him, his tone soft. “I have to leave now, are you fine on your own?”

“Yes, Kook-ah,” Jimin assured him with a warm smile, in spite of the other one being unable to see that.

“Call me, if you don’t feel good, promise?” the younger one insisted.
“Okay, I will,” Jimin responded, his heart fluttering at Jungkook’s concern, his caring tendency always touching him. “I’ll see you later, Kook-ah”

“Later, little one”

***

After his refreshing shower, Jimin returned to the bedroom of Jungkook’s apartment, now all alone in the large space. Needless to say, the shower alone didn’t magically cause Jimin’s hangover to vanish, but he admittedly did feel a little better now.

The smaller boy tip-toed over to Jungkook’s dresser, picking out an outfit for the day as he certainly didn’t have any of his own clothes with him, quite honestly not having estimated to wake up here after the party last night – which, now that he reflected over it, had been foolish of him.

As soon as he was dressed – not minding the clothes that were a size too big on him, actually quite fond of them, a fact attributable to them being Jungkook’s clothes – Jimin searched for his phone, relieved to find it on the nightstand, but then somewhat shocked at the sight of the multiple text messages he had received.

Min-ah, here you go. Enjoy.
– Yoongi Hyung

The next message was an audio file.

Well, Jimin was definitely missing something here…

Why had he sent him an audio file?

What was on that particular audio file?

Could they have talked about it at the hang at his place last night?

Don’t release it anywhere or I’ll have to kill you.
– Yoongi Hyung

Okay… we both know I would never, but just don’t, yeah?
– Yoongi Hyung

Jimin chuckled, somehow amused by the fact of Yoongi correcting himself and clarifying that he would never hurt Jimin like that – as though even the smallest probability of Yoongi ever even considering that existed.

Wasn’t it established that he had a rather soft spot for the smaller boy?

Then again – Yoongi wouldn’t kill any soul in this world, either.

Thank you for saying all of that yesterday, by the way. Meant a lot to me.
– Yoongi Hyung

The pink haired boy vaguely remembered them talking about a song of his that didn’t-…

Finally, it clicked.

The song!
Not any song – the song!

That beautiful masterpiece – composed, produced and written by the talented Min Yoongi himself.

Yet, the fact that had struck Jimin the most – Jungkook sang on it.

At the thought, Jimin’s heart skipped a beat, reminded of the turmoil of emotions that had bloomed within him upon the first listen of that song yesterday.

Devoid of any hesitance, Jimin played the audio file, unable to resist the urge, the familiar yet still somewhat novel melody distinctive in the room.

Smiling, Jimin lowered himself down on the bed nearly trance-like, lying down on the soft sheets as he listened to Jungkook’s airy voice and Yoongi’s deep rap.

Beautiful.

Thank you, Hyung.

I’ll listen to it every day. It’s beautiful.

- Jimin

Genuinely, Jimin was certain that he would listen to this masterpiece every single day from now on.

Well, every song you make is beautiful, but this one is… very special.

- Jimin

Of course, Jimin had listened to various of Yoongi’s songs before, each one evoking a different vivid emotion within Jimin, but this one was simply touching him in a way that Jimin was unable to express in words.

I won’t release it anywhere, hehe. :)

- Jimin

Jimin would never do that Yoongi.

I did mean all of it last night.

– Jimin

The smaller boy was sincere.

Despite his faint memory of yesterday’s events, he did distinctively recall their conversation about this song.

As he listened to the song on repeat, Jimin didn’t notice how fast time passed, didn’t realise that he was running late for work already, too intrigued and drawn by Jungkook’s voice.

After another few minutes passing, Jimin went to repeat the song all over again, yet did take a glance at the clock this time around, horror blooming within him at the sight.

Gasping, Jimin jumped up, nearly losing his balance in the process as he ran around the room to collect his belongings, stuffing all of it into his bag with a lack of tenderness due to him being in such a rush to leave.

After all, he didn’t want to be late!

Swiftly having collected his belongings, Jimin rushed downstairs and put on his shoes before he left Jungkook’s apartment, then outside being greeted by Beomsoo who had waited in front of his car the way he usually was.

***

The smaller boy listened to the song for the entire day, almost as though it had replaced the air he needed to breathe, as though it was the necessity Jimin required to prevent himself from suffocating.

Jungkook’s deep voice was singing to him in such an airy way, as though he was whispering those words right into Jimin’s ear – so close, so intimate – before Yoongi’s voice joined him with meaningful lyrics rapped in such a heart wrenching way, creating such an emotional ambience that it caused Jimin tear up with each listen.

“What are you listening to there, little one?” the black haired male wanted to know as he entered the room and leaned against the wall, inquisitiveness depicted on his face, his eyes fixated on Jimin.

“You’ve been sitting there with your earphones plugged in ever since we got home from work,” he noted before he took a sip from his water bottle, a smile embellishing his handsome features.

The pink haired boy removed one of his earphones, Jungkook’s voice having barely been audible to him, attributable to him playing the song at such a high volume, his ears merely having registered enough syllables of Jungkook’s statement to form a coherent and credible sentence.

“You,” Jimin answered softly, a gentle smile curving his lips at his revelation, a part of him wondering how Jungkook was going to react.

“Me?” Jungkook echoed, raising his brows in surprise before he furrowed them, confusion illustrated on his face. “What do you mean?”

Well…

“Yoongi sent-”

Prior to Jimin even finishing his sentence, Jungkook choked on his water, his eyes wide as he swallowed down the fluid before he coughed a few times.

“What?” he expressed, wiping the back of his hand over his mouth.

The smaller boy sat up on the bed. “It’s a song that Hyung wrote,” Jimin elucidated, slightly amused, but then also partially concerned by Jungkook’s reaction. “You’re singing on it”

Jungkook blinked.

“Why- But-”

“I never knew you…” Jimin trailed off, shaking his head, his eyes gleaming in affection as they met Jungkook’s all over again. “You sound absolutely beautiful, Jungkook-ah,” he claimed, his tone sincere.

Usually, a smug remark would leave Jungkook’s lips, a cocky expression adorning his handsome features before he would tease Jimin.
Yet, not this time.

Now, he was only staring at Jimin almost speechless.

“You lied to me,” Jimin decided to speak, chuckling as he got up to his knees. “You said there were no more hidden talents you had,” he reminded the other one of their conversation during their dinner date weeks ago. “You can sing so well - Gosh, you can sing like an angel,” he added softer, pointing up to the sky like it was the place Jungkook originated from.

“I didn’t lie,” Jungkook responded, clearing his throat. “You knew I sang on guides for Hyung every now and then,” he stated, pushing himself off the wall as he approached Jimin, setting his water bottle down on the nightstand.

“I didn’t know that you were singing this well,” Jimin revealed, genuine in his remark.

By all means, Jimin had in fact believed Jungkook when he had shared that he sung on Yoongi’s guides sometimes, yet Jimin hadn’t quite comprehended the entirety of that statement.

No, Jimin hadn’t estimated for Jungkook’s voice to sound this beautiful.

Needless to say, having heard Jungkook sing had hit his heart like a truck at full speed – In a good way. In all the good ways that statement could be expounded in.

“Thank you,” Jungkook responded, clearing his throat again, a warm but somehow bashful smile dancing around his lips, causing Jimin’s own smile to turn even softer.

“Why aren’t you… Why aren’t you exploring this? I mean, this field?”

Stupid question.

As soon as those words had left Jimin’s mouth, the smaller one wanted to slap himself and retract those words.

“I chose to help my father with the company,” Jungkook reminded him of a fact Jimin had recalled a few seconds too late. “Besides, singing in front of people is not really my cup of tea. I do it to help Hyung, but that’s all it is,” he added with a shrug of his shoulder.

The Jeon Jungkook not feeling confident?

“Will you sing to me one day?” Jimin found himself ask softly, catching his bottom lip between his teeth as he reached up to close his arms around Jungkook’s neck, faintly recalling having asked Jungkook that question before, but failing to remember his response.

The thought alone evoked a collection of butterflies to spread within his stomach.

“Jimin-ah,” Jungkook responded, emphasising his name, his palms naturally curling around Jimin’s waist to pull him tighter to his body.

The smaller one pouted. “What?”

“I don’t sing unless it’s for Hyung’s guides,” Jungkook expressed.

“Oh,” Jimin uttered, giving a nod. “Okay… I don’t want to force you,” he added, not intending to make Jungkook feel uncomfortable about this topic, despite there not being a reason for him to feel that way as his voice was absolutely gorgeous.
“You have that file so you can listen to my voice, hm?” the younger male noted, pressing a kiss to Jimin’s forehead before he withdrew entirely and reached for his water bottle.

“I know, but... listening to you singing live would be different,” Jimin explained, playing with the hem of his shirt as he observed Jungkook.

The black haired male walked over to the dresser, picking out a shirt and some briefs, indicating that he was going to take a shower, Jimin figuring that it was his way to nonverbally signal the end of their conversation.

Slightly gloomy but respecting of Jungkook’s decision, Jimin lowered himself back down on the bed, in the midst of plugging his earphones back in as Jungkook walked past him, approaching the bathroom.

“Maybe,” Jungkook then uttered, halting in the doorway.

“Huh?”

“I will sing to you,” he clarified. “One day, maybe”

The smaller boy smiled.

******

“I’m going to shit my pants, Jimin-ssi,” Ong revealed with a quiet tone, his expression a mixture of discomfort and anxiety, his usual smugness vanished and nowhere to be found as though it had never existed.

The pink haired one flashed him a soft smile, attempting to hide his own nervousness and project encouragement and comfort onto Ong.

After all, this was all about him.

“You’re going to be fine, Ong-ssi,” Jimin reassured him, his eyes sincere, his voice not shaky as he had initially feared, allowing him to uphold his uplifting demeanor.

It was the day of his final evaluation – the day that could potentially change everything.

Needless to say, they were both nervous.

In fact, Jimin would be lying if he asserted to not be scared.

Suddenly, heavy footsteps were audible in the silence among them, their heads snapping up, the two boys sharing a glance as the noise of the footsteps grew louder, implying that the person was moving towards them.

Then, a figure entered the room, an immediate authoritative atmosphere established in the room, the power the man was exuding notable among them.

“Mr. Jeon,” the brown haired male greeted the CEO politely, executing a deep bow to illustrate his respect and mannerisms.

“Ong-ssi,” Mr. Jeon responded, not meeting his gaze, but glancing at Jimin instead.

Naturally, Jimin exhibited a deep bow as well. “Hello, Sir,” he uttered softly.
“Good morning, Jimin-ssi,” Jungkook’s father retorted, reaching out to give his shoulder a squeeze as another figure entered the room.

Minji approached them, her ponytail swinging from one side to the other as she closed the distance between them at a rather fast pace, her high heels clacking on the floor with each of her steps.

“We can start then,” Mr. Jeon decided after sharing a gaze with Minji.

Jimin swallowed hard.

As did Ong.

The two of them shared one last stare, Jimin flashing him another warm smile before he followed after Mr. Jeon and Minji who had taken a seat on the prepared chairs at the wall, joining them and sitting down beside Mr. Jeon.

Then, the piercing melody of a song filled the room, Ong present in the center, his head low as he fixed his posture, awaiting the beat to pick up to commence his performance.

***

The tension was high in the room, Jimin’s heart pounding fast against his chest as though it was insinuating to break out of his rib cage any moment.

Ong was down on his knees, his chest heaving as a visible demonstration of his activity and the illustrated passion he had clearly immersed into his performance.

Somehow, a wave of pride swelled within Jimin’s chest, a soft smile curving his lips.

The younger male had reinforced Jimin’s conviction – Ong was a great dancer. A remarkable one.

Slowly, Ong lifted his head, appearing to prefer to stay down on his knees – or perhaps being too tired to get up.

Carefully, Jimin stole a glimpse at Mr. Jeon, his face as unreadable as it always tended to be, not a muscle in his face having moved throughout Ong’s performance, limiting Jimin to define his thoughts.

_It was so silent._ – That heavy silence. That one that was somehow so much louder than any sound could be, amplified in the pressure among them.

“Minji-ssi, remove Ong’s name from the list,” Mr. Jeon finally spoke up, his voice piercing through the tension among them, startling Jimin and Ong, the latter appearing to snap out of some sort of trance as he rose to his feet at last, his chest still heaving.

Jimin’s heart dropped, the boy swallowing hard, biting down on his tongue with the intention of refraining to object against whatever Mr. Jeon was indicating with that order.

Unsuccessfully.

“Sir-”

Mr. Jeon got up from his seat, fixing his tie before he cleared his throat, causing Jimin to go silent all over again.

“Congratulations, Ong-ssi”
The smaller boy held his breath.

“You’re not being eliminated,” Mr. Jeon added, Jimin’s heart doing a little jump, delight blooming within him – such pure joy that he couldn’t hide the smile on his face.

Ong parted his lips, yet no worlds left him, the boy seemingly speechless.

“Jimin-ssi,” Mr. Jeon suddenly addressed him. “Good job”

Surprised, but relieved and grateful, Jimin executed a deep bow after raising to his feet. “Thank you, Sir”

“Oh, thank you, Mr. Jeon,” Ong finally spoke, appearing to have regained his ability to talk.

Jungkook’s father gave a faint nod, gesturing for Minji to follow after him. Deprived of any hesitance, she got up to her feet as well, observing how Mr. Jeon approached the door.

“Keep on practicing, Ong-ssi,” Mr. Jeon insisted, halting in the doorway. “The final evaluations are in three weeks,” he revealed.

“Yes, Mr. Jeon, of course,” the brown haired boy promised, giving an erratic nod.

Mr. Jeon gave another nod before he left the room, causing Jimin and Ong to exhibit another bow.

For a moment, Minji remained beside them, stealing a glimpse at the two boys.

“Congrats,” she uttered, little enthusiasm adorning her voice. “Good job, Jimin-ah”

“Thank you,” Jimin and Ong responded in unison.

The woman smiled at them before she headed after Mr. Jeon, her high heels audible with each step, slowly distancing as she disappeared.

Once she was gone, Ong sank down to the floor as though he had lost all strength in his legs, spreading out on the ground with his cheek pressed to the floor, his back rising and falling quickly as he exhaled a deep breath.

“Holy fucking shit this is so motherfucking-”

“Stop swearing,” Jimin scolded him, chuckling as he lowered himself down on his knees beside Ong.

The younger male rolled over onto his side, exclaiming a loud scream – one that Jimin wasn’t certain was one to release stress or perhaps simply to display his happiness – regardless, Jimin giggled, shaking his head.

“Oh my god, I passed, Jimin-ssi,” Ong expressed quietly, a bright smile dancing around his lips.

“You did,” Jimin coincided, giving an erratic nod.

Ong stared at him for a moment.

“Thank you, Mr. Park,” he then uttered, his tone unnatural soft and gentle.

“You don’t have to thank me, Ong-ssi,” Jimin retorted, shaking his head, although he would be lying, if he claimed that it didn’t touch him each time Ong thanked him.
Ever since any improvement had been apparent in Ong’s performance, the boy had been certain to express his gratitude towards Jimin – a behaviour somehow so paradox to the person Jimin had defined Ong to be upon their first few encounters.

Then again, Jimin should be thanking Ong as well. Despite Jimin not being the one to having been chosen to gain anything from these individual lessons, he had learned quite a lot – not exclusively about Ong, but rather himself as well.

Truthfully, Jimin felt as though he had learned more about himself as a teacher, how to approach certain issues, how to grow more confident in his own opinion and teaching method, how to express himself in front of someone without shying away.

Undoubtedly, those were wonderful alterations to acquire.

“It was you who did all of that,” Jimin asserted, his tone genuine.

“Not without your help,” Ong objected.

Jemin smiled bashfully.

“I’m happy for you, Ong-ssi,” he revealed.

The brown haired one smiled brightly, getting up on his elbows as he raised his brow in inquisitiveness at Jimin.

“I have to take you out to dinner tonight,” Ong prompted with a smirk.

“Stop!” Jimin scolded him with a giggle, shaking his head as he got back up to his feet, long having accustomed to Ong’s harmless flirting.

“I just thought I’d try one last time,” Ong chuckled. “To come full circle, you know?” he added with a warm smile.

Well, it had been a rather bumpy ride, but Jimin wouldn’t have it any other way.

*****

The pink haired boy hummed along to the music playing from the radio, his hips swaying from side to side to the soft melody in the background as he seasoned his chicken according to the instruction.

“What a nice view, little one,” Jungkook’s deep voice pierced through the music, startling Jimin who jerked up before he glanced back over his shoulder, a smile curving his lips at the sight of his boyfriend leaning against the wall as he stared at him, Jimin’s cheeks flushing a shade of rose.

“Hello, big one,” Jimin greeted with a giggle.

“Are you going to call me that from now on?” Jungkook wondered, raising his brows at him as he crossed his arms over his chest.

“Maybe,” Jimin decided with a smile, turning his head to the side to catch a glimpse of Jungkook in his peripheral vision, the boy approaching him. “I like it,” he expressed softly.

“Mhm-mh,” the black haired male hummed, curling his arms around Jimin’s stomach as he embraced him from behind, pressing his chest to Jimin’s back as he rested his head on Jimin’s shoulder.

“Jungkook-ah, I’m trying to cook!” Jimin exclaimed with a chuckle, trying to free himself from Jungkook, but failing as the other one tightened his grip with a snicker, evidently a lot stronger than Jimin was.

“You mean you’re going to burn my kitchen down?”

At his remark, Jimin gasped, swatting his arm. “Hey!” he scolded, Jungkook laughing, the endearing sound vibrating in his chest. Naturally, Jimin’s heart quivered at the sweet noise of Jungkook’s laughter, evoking immediate forgiveness within him.

“I’m sorry, I’m just kidding,” Jungkook assured, pressing his lips to Jimin’s nape as he ran his palm along Jimin’s stomach to comfort him.

“I’m not as helpless this time around. Jin gave me this cooking book,” Jimin revealed, pointing at the book that was spread out on the counter beside him, the smaller one having diligently tried to follow the instructions of the recipe.

Jimin distinctively recalled the way he had obtained this book…

“Here,” Jin expressed, dropping something on the table beside Jimin, the smaller one raising his head from the papers spread out in front of him, meeting the older one’s gaze.

“What’s that for?” Jimin wanted to know, his brows arched up as he identified the item on the table in front of him.

“It’s a cooking book,” Jin retorted.

Well, yes, Jimin was capable to define it as such.

Yet, why had he given him that?

“For what?” Jimin wondered, his eyes big in curiosity, but slight bewilderment as well.

“To cook, Jimin-ah. To cook,” the older one stated the obvious.

Jimin blinked at him.

“Well, I know, but I mean… why are you giving me that?” Jimin asked slowly, his confusion not having decreased at all.

Jin stared at him for a brief moment.

“To cook, Jimin-ah,” Jin simply repeated.

“Hyung,” Jimin pressed, emphasising his name with a whine as he wasn’t entirely answering his questions here.

Jin smiled at him, crossing his arms over his chest. “You asked me to help you, remember?”

Oh. Right.

The smaller boy had in fact asked Jin to assist him in the dangerous and complex field of cooking – a world yet to be discovered by Jimin, the unknown territory frightening him the slightest bit.

Well, at the mere notion of potentially causing any more accidents or ruin another meal, Jimin’s stomach twisted in discomfort.
“I do,” Jimin recalled, giving a nod.

“Well, this book contains very simple recipes,” Jin revealed, pointing at the book. “I think those would be great for you to start”

“All on my own?” Jimin wondered, his eyes growing bigger.

That was doomed to end in a disaster. Inevitably.

“Yes, that’s the most efficient way to learn something,” the older one claimed, making a fair point there. Considering certain abilities and traits, it was in fact more beneficial to practice on your own rather than watch someone else do it. “If it doesn’t help, I can still teach you”

“Thank you, Hyung,” Jimin expressed with a smile, picking up the book.

So far, Jimin was doing quite a good job, if he were to say so himself.

“Why do you want to cook so badly?” Jungkook wanted to know, furrowing his brows as he stole a glimpse at the chicken Jimin was cooking, the sound of it sizzling in the pan audible among them.

Admittedly, the food did smell quite amazing.

“Well, because…” Jimin commenced to answer, flipping the piece of chicken over onto the other side, his tongue poking out as he concentrated on not messing up. “We can’t live off of instant noodles for the rest of our lives?” he then reasoned, believing to make a valid point there.

“I can cook for you,” the younger male suggested, his warm palms playing with the hem of Jimin’s shirt, the latter swallowing hard at the way his digits brushed over Jimin’s soft skin ever so gently.

“You already work so much,” Jimin protested, shaking his head, disregarding the fluttering of his heart.

“We can just order delivery the way we always do, or I’ll take you out to dinner every single day,” Jungkook offered, Jimin not quite certain whether Jungkook really was just scared of him actually burning his kitchen down or whether he simply didn’t want the boy to work that much, when there were easier alternatives to go by.

“I just think home-cooked meals would be nice once in a while,” Jimin stated, shrugging his shoulders.

“I love your instant noodles,” Jungkook claimed.

“You’re sweet,” Jimin smiled at him, turning around the slightest bit to press his lips to Jungkook’s cheek. “I want to try something new, though,” he decided, determined to succeed this one time.

“Okay, fair enough,” Jungkook responded, giving a nod.

“Well, now leave my workspace,” Jimin sent him off, waving his hand around. “I need to concentrate. You’re distracting me”

“Am I?” Jungkook questioned, amusement gleaming in his eyes as his palms wandered below the fabric of Jimin’s shirt, the smaller one twitching at the intimate touch.

“Kook-ah!” Jimin exclaimed, dropping his hands to his side as he pouted.

“Mhm-mh, I’m sure you can grant me your attention for a minute, huh?” Jungkook prompted, raising his brows at him.

“Kook-aaah,” Jimin whined all over again.

The black haired male chuckled, turning Jimin around and lifting him up into the air within the twinkling of an eye, spinning them around and sitting Jimin down on the counter, then spreading his legs to move in between them.

“Jimin-ah,” Jungkook emphasised his name, resting his hands on Jimin’s thighs, his thumb caressing Jimin’s legs as he stared at him intently. At the tender touch, Jimin’s legs twitched almost involuntarily, affected by the immediate contact and their close proximity.

“What are you doing? I-I-” Jimin stammered, swallowing hard as his cheeks tinged a darker shade of rose.

“I want to take you away on the weekend,” Jungkook revealed. “In two weeks”

The smaller boy blinked.

Well, this had taken a turn Jimin definitely had not expected.

“In two weeks? Already?” Jimin echoed, his eyes big as they stared into Jungkook’s.

“Yes,” Jungkook affirmed with a nod.

That was so soon!

Besides… wasn’t the charity gala that week?

“Is that such a good idea?” Jimin voiced his slim concern.

“What is?” Jungkook inquired, furrowing his brows at him.

The pink haired boy caught his bottom lip between his teeth. “The charity ball is that week,” he reminded the other one.

“We are going away for the weekend; the gala is a day after we come back,” Jungkook stated.

“There is no need to worry,” he reassured, rubbing his palm along Jimin’s thigh. “I think it’s a pretty good time for us to go”

At the mere mention of the trip a wave of butterflies was unleashed within Jimin’s stomach, a fluttering cluster of colourful beings vivid in anticipation.

However, somehow, Jimin didn’t quite want to get his hopes up too high, in case their plans might needed to be cancelled at last.

“Don’t you need to organise anything?” Jimin found himself ask.

The taller male shook his head, leaning in to brush his lips over Jimin’s. “No, everything is set,” he whispered against Jimin, insinuating to crash his lips on Jimin’s, yet the other one turned his head to the side, causing Jungkook’s lips to press against his cheek.

“Are you sure?” Jimin wondered, raising his brows.

“Yes, Jimin-ah, I’m sure,” Jungkook chuckled, nudging his nose against Jimin’s cheek. “We’re free to go,” he promised, capturing Jimin’s full lips in a soft kiss. “So, what do you say?”
“I would love to go!” Jimin exclaimed, his eyes big, gleaming in excitement.

Smiling in delight, Jimin leaned in to crash his lips on Jungkook’s for a deeper kiss, the other one deprived of any hesitance, kissing right back with a smile, his hands moving up to Jimin’s hips.

A soft breath slipped from Jimin’s lips as he closed his arms around Jungkook’s neck, the latter licking over his bottom lip before he pushed his tongue past Jimin’s full lips, meeting Jimin’s.

Unconsciously, Jimin drew his thighs closer, pushing forward the slightest fraction to press his crotch against Jungkook’s who smirked into the kiss, satisfied with Jimin’s desperate movements.

However, the black haired male withdrew a moment later, way too early for Jimin’s liking who pouted at the loss, his eyes fluttering back open.

“Why did you stop?” he murmured softly.

Attentively, Jungkook wrinkled his nose, turning his head to the side.

“What’s that smell?” he asked, knitting his brows.

Now that Jungkook was mentioning that, it did in fact smell as though something was burning-

“No! The chicken!” Jimin exclaimed, hopping off from the counter and pushing past Jungkook to rush towards the pan.

No…

Swiftly, Jimin pushed the pan back on the stove, eliminating the heat beneath the food as though that would save anything.

At least, it couldn’t make it any worse.

The chicken had somehow managed to burn in the short period of Jimin and Jungkook making out on the counter – now a very dark shade of black illustrated, the smell in the air no longer inviting, but unpleasant.

“Well…” Jungkook uttered beside him, eyeing the burned food.

“You did it again!” Jimin accused, swatting Jungkook’s chest several times. “You distracted me!”

“You kissed me,” Jungkook pointed out with a chuckle, lifting his hands in defence before he examined the food all over again. “It might still be good?” he suggested, placing his hand on the small of Jimin’s back.

The two boys stared at it again.

It wasn’t.

“Delivery?” Jungkook offered, leaning in to press a kiss to Jimin’s temple.

“Yeah,” the pink haired one mumbled, giving a gentle nod.

Yet another unsuccessful attempt.

*****
“Hello, beautiful,” Jungkook greeted him as soon as Jimin stepped out of his apartment building, the man leaning in to capture Jimin’s lips in a soft kiss.

“Jungkook-ah,” Jimin beamed at him, the assembly of fluttering butterflies within his stomach having accompanied him for the entire day as he had waited for Jungkook to lastly text him that he was going to pick him up for their trip. “Thank you,” he uttered then, referring to the kind gesture of Jungkook reaching for his bags and carrying them instead of him.

“Excited?” the black haired male wanted to know, turning his head to the side in order to steal a glimpse at Jimin as they headed towards his car.

“I am!” Jimin exclaimed, giving an erratic nod. “I haven’t been able to sleep properly!” he asserted, entirely genuine with that statement and not exaggerating at all. The pink haired one had been so anticipant for these past days that he had have trouble sleeping.

In a way, it was as though a part within Jimin found this trip to be sort of necessary, as though their bond required this time of just the two of them after… some sort of distance and unresolved matter had been present among them, yet Jimin was unable to define the exact tension nor declare that it was truly there in the first place and not simply a one-sided imagination a small fraction within Jimin had created.

“Good,” Jungkook noted, maintaining eye contact with the other boy for a moment longer, endeared by Jimin’s adorableness, and chuckling at Jimin’s enthusiasm before he glanced back at the car and walked to the back of it in order to open the trunk. “I’m excited to spend some time away with you, as well”

“I just… felt a little distant from you for a while now,” Jimin found himself say as he observed Jungkook storing his belongings in the trunk of his car, fidgeting with the hem of his shirt as he pressed his lips into a line.

The taller male shut the trunk close, frowning at Jimin’s words and meeting his gaze.

“What do you mean?” he wanted to know, titling his head to the side.

“I can’t really explain it…” the other one expressed, shaking his head as he was trying to find the right way to phrase this, yet then truthfully not entirely certain of his own feelings either nor why he had revealed this in the first place. “I don’t mean that to blame you in any way,” he reassured Jungkook. “I just mean that… I don’t know, it just felt like there was something… in between us? Does that make sense?” he answered, furrowing his brows at himself, doubting that it was easy for Jungkook to apprehend what he was attempting to convey, if he was struggling to comprehend it himself.

“I think I know what you mean,” Jungkook retorted with a faint nod, leaning against his car. “I was busy with work for a while now,” he added, dropping his hands to his side as he went on to close the distance between them.

Was it truly work related? Jimin wasn’t sure.

“I wasn’t really as present mentally as I should have been,” Jungkook elaborated, reaching up to brush Jimin’s fringe out of his face, the soft breeze among them having blown his pink hair into his face. “I’m sorry,” he uttered, leaning in to press his lips on Jimin’s in apology.

“No, please don’t apologise,” Jimin objected once they withdrew, shaking his head at Jungkook. “I didn’t mean it like that. I just… I’m very happy to be just with you this weekend,” he expressed with a delicate smile.

The black haired male smiled back at him. “Me, too, little one,” he returned, pressing his lips to Jimin’s forehead before he gave his butt a little pat. “Let’s go, then, hm?”

“Yeah,” Jimin breathed, smiling brightly. “Let’s go”
Leave

Chapter Summary

A weekend full of surprises and delight, nothing could potentially go wrong.... right?

Chapter Notes

H-Hello... it's me, I hope you haven't forgotten about me yet?

Wow, it's been quite a long while. Why does it feel weird to be back?

I'm sorry for being gone for that long. :(

It's completely fine if you skip this part and go ahead to read the chapter - I mean, you've waited long enough! (please enjoy it, I worked hard on it <3) - But for anyone who is interested why I was gone for that long, I have a few words to say :)

Some of you might have already read the comments to see what was going on. It's nothing major, nothing horrible, just a writer that had reached a down point and needed some time off? I had to turn away from the story for some time to regain my motivation and do some adjustments - fix? - some stuff in my personal life.

I was very grateful and touched by all the lovely comments you left for me. Honestly, I can't even express how your sweet words touch and motivate me to go on. They mean the world to me <3

I am back now! Happy, healthy and motivated to write on the story to finish Jikook's journey together with you! <3

I can't promise that the next updates will be quick, but I want you to know that no matter what, I will always come back. I won't just leave you without a goodbye, nor will I leave this story behind unfinished. <3

I would also quickly like to address that you don't have to feel sorry about not leaving a lot of comments at all. Although I appreciate your comments a lot and they mean the world to me, I want everyone to enjoy the story the way they feel comfortable in. So, if you'd like to enjoy the story not commenting, then that's completely fine <3

I would also like to know how you have been, my beautiful readers? :)

Now, I'm going to finally shut up and let you read the chapter you've all been waiting for so patiently ^^

P.S. I missed you <3

See the end of the chapter for more notes.
“Jungkook-ah, is that…” the pink haired boy trailed off, his eyes big in amazement as he climbed out of the vehicle, nearly dropping his backpack at the vastly unpredicted sight in front of him.

“It’s a cabin,” Jungkook stated casually, chuckling at Jimin’s astonished expression, the man placing his finger below Jimin’s chin to close his agape mouth.

The smaller boy remained in his stance, blinking as his gaze was fixated on the sight across from him.

Then, he awoke from his trance-like state.

“That’s not a cabin!” Jimin exclaimed his objection, vigorously shaking his head as he shut the door close and followed Jungkook to the trunk of his car. “That’s a whole mansion!” he expressed – only partially exaggerating – as he pointed up to the large house.

“It is. It’s my cabin.” Jungkook retorted, emptying the trunk, but then stilling for a brief moment to meet Jimin’s gaze. “Well, it belongs to my family,” he elucidated with a title of his head before he proceeded with his prior task.

Jimin blinked.

“This is not what I imagined when you said we were going to stay in a cabin,” Jimin noted, his eyes still big as his gaze trailed back up to the house tinted in a comforting shade of hazel.

“Where are you taking me, Kook-ah?” Jimin inquired, supposing it was worth an attempt to elicit some revealing answers from Jungkook – despite the low probability of the taller male truly enlightening Jimin prior to their arrival.

So far, they’ve been in the car for approximately three hours, spending their time talking to one another or allowing the soft melody resounding from the radio to fill the air between them.

“It’s a surprise, little one,” Jungkook responded with a smile, turning his head to meet Jimin’s gaze before averted his eyes back over on the road.

“There are no people around here – at all,” Jimin pointed out with raised brows, crossing his arms over his chest at the notable suspicious environment they were present in.

“There are people,” Jungkook protested, rolling his eyes in amusement. “A few at least,” he added, nodding towards a car that drove past them on the other side of the road.

Suddenly, Jimin gasped. “You’re taking me to an abandoned place to kill me!” he joked, placing his palms against his cheeks.

The black haired male chuckled. “Well, you got me there,” he went along with the joke, but then shook his head. “No, little one, I’m not killing you,” he clarified.

“Well, that’s what a killer would say,” Jimin stressed, squinting his eyes at Jungkook, but smiling all the same.

“We’ve known each other for months now,” Jungkook reminded the other one.

“You might be very persistent in killing me,” Jimin emphasised, leaning closer to Jungkook.
The taller one met his gaze, the two of them staring at one another before they broke out in soft laughter.

Slowly, their laughter subsided, the couple only gazing at one another with affectionate smiles on their faces, Jungkook swift to break their eye contact to fixate his gaze back on the road for their safety.

“Can’t you tell me?” Jimin tried all over again.

“Tell you what?”

The pink haired boy placed his hands in his lap. “Where you’re taking me?” he clarified, although it was obvious that Jimin was referring to that question.

“We’re almost there,” Jungkook answered, shaking his head.

“Pleaaaase,” Jimin begged, pouting at the other one.

“Baby,” the younger male emphasised, reaching over to place his hand on Jimin’s thigh.

“Pleeeaaaase, Kook-ah,” Jimin begged some more, clasping his hands together as he glanced up at Jungkook through his lashes, hoping that an innocent expression might be efficient in this situation.

“Little one, no.”

“Please, Sir, tell your good boy,” Jimin then whispered sweetly, those words slipping from his lips so naturally, so much faster than his brain was even capable to grasp.

Jungkook’s head snapped to the side, the man visibly gulping. “Fuck,” he cursed, his palm moving lower to Jimin’s inner thigh, causing the latter to inhale a shaky breath.

The smaller boy caught his bottom lip between his teeth, refraining from giggling at Jungkook’s reaction, but then not quite certain how to handle the effect Jungkook’s touch had on him either.

“It’s a cabin,” Jungkook revealed at last.

“A cabin?” Jimin echoed, raising his brows at the information.

“Yes,” the other one affirmed with a nod.

“What kind of cabin? Who does it belong to? Are there other people living there or-” Jimin fired ahead with various more questions, Jungkook’s revelation not having been vastly enlightening.

“That’s all you’re getting for now,” Jungkook interrupted him with a smile.

Jimin pouted. “Fine”

“Are you disappointed?” Jungkook wanted to know. “It’s not Paris, nor a five-star.”

“No! Not at all!” Jimin was swift to assure, shaking his head at the question before he pressed a kiss to Jungkook’s cheek. “I’m just… wow,” he added, somehow baffled and so very amazed by the actual narrative of their surroundings.

Jungkook chuckled. “Let’s head inside,” he decided, nodding toward the house.
The pink haired one gave a nod, following after Jungkook who walked up the green path on the way to the house, the yard filled with various sorts of flowers blooming away, their vibrant colours depicted in the illumination of the evening sun.

Inquisitive, Jimin turned his head from side to side in an attempt to establish a proper understanding of their environment. Undeniably, the setting appeared somewhat picturesque – a beautiful large house built in the centre of a field of flowers, a long path leading up to it, no other soul around for miles, but a few animals that adorned the nature around them.

It was quiet. It was comforting.

“This whole property looks so-… Is there no one around here?” Jimin found himself ask, recalling how he had not seen another person cross their path for a while now.

Who took care of this house, if Jungkook and his father weren’t around?

“Not this weekend, no,” the younger male informed him.

Jimin raised his brows. “So, there is usually?” he concluded, titling his head to the side as they halted in front of the entrance door.

Carefully, Jungkook set his bags down on the floor to pick out his keys. “Well, we have people look after the cabin,” he elaborated, unlocking the door. “But this past week especially I asked Beomsoo to come here to prepare some things,” he added, pushing the door open with a light tap to the wooden material.

Just like that, they headed inside.

“Wow,” Jimin breathed as he followed the latter into the house.

“We don’t have any neighbours,” Jungkook revealed, the smaller one admittedly too distracted by the interior design of the cabin to truly focus on the words that slipped from Jungkook’s lips.

Despite Jimin’s initial prediction of a rather traditional design due to his definition of the term ‘cabin’ he was fairly surprised by the actual appearance.

The colour scheme was a mixture of shades of grey and black, an occasional splat of brown and a distinctive shade of white establishing a fairly comfortable ambiance. The living room was immediately to Jimin’s left with no wall separating it from the entrance space. Then, to his right, there was a door leading to another room – Jimin capable to ascertain that it was the kitchen as the door was wide open. At last, there was a staircase right across from him leading up to the second floor.

“I mean, we do have neighbours, but they’re not around this time of the year,” Jungkook elaborated, his voice somehow muffled to Jimin’s ears as the latter’s attention was fixated on his surroundings. “Then again, I’ve never really talked to any of them either. I think my father invited them over once, when I was younger”

“Kook-ah, this is huge,” Jimin emphasised, his eyes still big in amazement.

“I always felt that way when I was a child as well,” the black haired boy chuckled, giving a nod.

Slowly, Jimin walked further into the house.

“It has a fireplace!” Jimin exclaimed as though he had never seen one before – Well, he truly had not, for that matter, at least not in real life.
“Yeah, it does,” Jungkook affirmed with a laugh despite it being undeniably apparent, the man endeared by Jimin’s excitement. “We can set it up later, if you want to,” he suggested.

“That sounds wonderful,” Jimin noted, giving an erratic nod as he imagined the two of them cuddling by the fire tonight.

“The bedrooms are upstairs,” Jungkook informed him. “Just drop your stuff by the stairs, I’ll carry everything upstairs later,” he decided.

“I can do that, too,” Jimin offered.

The other male shook his head, causing Jimin to roll his eyes, but he refrained from arguing with Jungkook and simply obliged by placing his belongings down by the staircase, allowing him to investigate a little more.

“If we’re going to stay here in the cabin for a while, shouldn’t we go grocery shopping somewhere?” Jimin wondered as he walked into the large kitchen, the room illuminated by the sunlight shining through several big windows depicted around him.

“Have a look into the fridge,” Jungkook insisted with a warm smile, following after Jimin.

The smaller boy complied, opening the refrigerator with furrowed brows.

“When did you….? There is so much food,” Jimin noted with big eyes as soon as he had pulled the door open, surprised by a variation of food, a constellation of multiple colours and shapes revealing themselves to his eyes.

“I had Beomsoo go grocery shopping and fill the fridge for our trip,” Jungkook informed him, Jimin recalling Jungkook having mentioned Beomsoo stopping by here a few times to prepare some things earlier.

“Are we going to cook later?” Jimin wondered, turning around to meet Jungkook’s gaze.

If Jimin was going to be anywhere near a cooking pan – chaos was simply inevitable – and that might not be such a wonderful occurrence for their trip that was supposed to have some sort of healing effect on them.

“Well, Jiyoo actually prepared some meals for us,” Jungkook declared with a smile. “She made them this morning. They’re in the fridge already,” he added, nodding towards the refrigerator.

“Jiyoo? Is she here?” Jimin inquired, his eyes lighting up at the mention of her name.

Truthfully, it had been some time since Jimin had seen her. In fact, the last time they have encountered one another must have been that dinner at Mr. Jeon’s apartment weeks ago, prior to Jimin ever even signing the contract with Jeon Entertainment.

“No, she’s not here,” Jungkook replied, shaking his head. “Beomsoo brought it here, as well,” he informed him.

“Oh,” Jimin uttered, giving a nod. “That’s so sweet of her,” he added with a smile, this kind gesture of her reinforcing his predominantly conviction that she possessed such a pure and considerate soul.

“I’m going to thank her when we go back,” he decided.

“You could thank her right now,” Jungkook suggested, raising his brows at Jimin. “Call her”
“No,” Jimin objected, shaking his head.

“Why not?”

“Because – We’re both going to turn our phones off,” Jimin retorted, approaching Jungkook as he crossed his arms over his chest.

“What?” Jungkook expressed, furrowing his brows. “Jimin-ah, I told Jin that he can call me, if there is an urgency,” he revealed, curling his hands around Jimin’s hips as soon as Jimin had closed the distance between them.

“Kookie,” Jimin whined, pouting at his objection. “I thought this was a weekend just for us?”

“It is,” Jungkook assured him, leaning in to press his lips to Jimin’s forehead. “I promise you; it is. I’m not going to text or call anyone. I’m not even going to check my e-mails. However, I can’t turn it off entirely in case Jin calls me. His calls are the only ones I’ll be receiving,” he promised, reaching up to brush strands of pink hair out of Jimin’s face.

“Okay…” Jimin mumbled, giving a faint nod.

“Little one,” Jungkook uttered, nudging his nose against Jimin’s cheek, not having intended to upset Jimin.

“It’s fine, really,” the smaller one assured, aware of Jungkook’s profession and having presumed that it wasn’t going to be simple for him to exonerate himself from every responsibility for an entire weekend.

In any case, Jungkook even had to work during their trip back in Busan months ago, thus this current situation wasn’t exactly surprising Jimin.

“Then stop pouting,” Jungkook insisted softly.

“I’m not,” Jimin claimed. “See,” he added, smiling brightly at Jungkook, his eyes turning into small crescents.

In the end, Jimin was simply way too joyful and giddy to be here at all and be granted this weekend solely with Jungkook, far away from their daily lives.

The black haired male chuckled, leaning in to press his lips on Jimin’s in a sweet kiss. “I love you,” he declared.

At those words, Jimin’s heart quivered as though it was the very first time, a shy smile embellishing his pretty features as he captured Jungkook’s lips in another kiss.

“Let me show you around,” Jungkook suggested once they withdrew, Jimin swift to nod as he was anticipant to see the rest of the house.

***

“Do you want a drink?” Jungkook called out from the kitchen.

“Yeah, some water, please,” Jimin responded.

The pink haired boy picked up a picture frame deposited on the small grey dresser below the windows, the variation of photo frames placed around the house not having gone unnoticed to him.
In a way, it was such a divergence to Jungkook’s and Mr. Jeon’s usual tendency of not exactly presenting any personal pictures anywhere or parading any information revolving around their past inside of their homes.

Somehow, Jimin would have never imagined them to display such personal photos in this space. Naturally, it made him wonder why they chose to place these photos in a cabin they barely visited these days instead of their homes.

“You were adorable,” Jimin expressed with a soft smile as he noticed Jungkook walking back into the room, the picture evoking such a heart-rending feeling within Jimin’s chest.

It was a photo illustrating Jungkook and his parents, the former presumably around the age of five, his parents smiling brightly as they looked at Jungkook as though he held the stars themselves in his eyes, something so affectionate gleaming in their own eyes.

_Jungkook looked so happy._

They all did.

“I mean, you still are now, but… you looked like such a cute and happy family,” Jimin corrected his prior statement, lifting his head to meet Jungkook’s gaze.

As the black haired male had closed the distance between them, he smiled upon the sight of the picture frame in Jimin’s hand.

“My Mom was obsessed with having photos of us around the whole damn house in Busan and here in the cabin,” Jungkook revealed, his eyes fixated on the photo as though he was reminiscing over the moment the picture was taken in.

“Was this taken here?” Jimin found himself ask.

“Yeah, we came here often,” Jungkook replied after a fraction of hesitance. “My family, I mean,” he elucidated despite Jimin having apprehended what he had referred to. “My mother loved to come here during spring especially,” he added, his smile growing as he recalled his mother’s traits.

The pink haired boy proceeded to gaze at the photo, almost certain that he was capable to hear the joyful laughter of the happy family illustrated in the frame, as though their happiness was audible as it was conveyed in the still frame.

Then, he lifted his head to stare at Jungkook, the latter continuing to glance at the photo. “She loved to work in the garden and plant a shit load of plants that I couldn’t name even if I tried to,” he expressed, pointing outside to the yard, Jimin having noticed the excessive number of flowers upon their arrival earlier as well. “Every time we left, she would pick some of the flowers and take them back home with us to place them around the house until they withered,” he elaborated, chuckling at the memory.

Was that the reason there were so many flowers in the yard? Yet then, his mother wasn’t here to take care of them any longer. Perhaps, Jungkook and Mr. Jeon had established a liking in the flowers themselves — or, they had simply chosen to carry on the interest of Jungkook’s mother by having a gardener take care of them.

“At some point, my father was too busy to come here, so frequently it was just me and my mother that stayed here,” Jungkook added, reaching for the picture frame to place it back down in its designated spot.
“How long did you stay each time?” Jimin asked curiously.

“Depended,” Jungkook replied with a shrug of his shoulder. “When I was little, several weeks even. More often, just a weekend,” he explained, walking past Jimin to head towards the sofa, taking a seat in front of the fireplace that wasn’t lit just yet.

For a brief moment, Jimin proceeded to stare at the picture before he followed after Jungkook and joined him on the sofa.

“She was very pretty,” Jimin noted softly, reaching for the glass of water that Jungkook handed him. “Your mother, I mean”

The black haired male smiled, stealing a glimpse at Jimin before he averted his gaze down to his own hands that were curled around a glass of water. “Yeah, she was,” he coincided, his voice somehow so much quieter than it usually tended to be.

At the realisation, Jimin’s heart sank, the boy not having intended to cause such a sad atmosphere among them.

Carefully, Jimin set his glass down on the coffee table, gazing at Jungkook for a moment longer before he reached for his glass as well and mirrored his prior action. Confused, Jungkook observed him, titling his head to the side.

Hesitantly, Jimin crawled closer to Jungkook, straddling his lap and placing his palms against his cheeks. “You have god-like genes,” Jimin complimented him with big eyes, genuine with his words, yet primarily attempting to raise the mood and distract Jungkook from those sad memories he had reminded him of. “No wonder you look like a Greek god.” he added with a smile, Jungkook meeting his gaze, smirking at the smaller one as he leaned in to attach their lips in a sweet kiss.

As soon as they withdrew, Jimin nudged his nose against Jungkook’s cheek, digging his teeth into his bottom lip. “I’m sorry, if I lowered the mood with my questions,” Jimin apologised, placing another kiss on Jungkook’s cheek.

“You didn’t.” Jungkook assured him with a smile. “After all, I assumed that it was going to happen here, with all these pictures, this place being what it is. You don’t need to apologise. It’s not… It is hard to talk about her, but it’s nice to remember these times where everything was well, you know?”

Jimin returned the smile. “I think I do”

“It’s okay for you to ask, baby, okay?”

Faintly, Jimin gave a nod, the boy titling his head to the side as he allowed the tips of his fingers to trace over Jungkook’s shoulder. “I’ve always wondered about the charity work you and your mother did,” Jimin stated, his tone gentle, his smile never leaving. “I mean, you’ve talked about it before, but it seems as though it was truly something that connected you with her. Your eyes always light up when you talk about it. It’s such a nice sight”

Immediately, Jimin recalled a prior conversation of theirs regarding his mother and the charity work Jungkook and her had been involved in together. There had something so endearing and heart-rending been evoked within Jimin by Jungkook’s words, but even more so by the light that had been visible in his eyes.

“I never knew I would love it so much, honestly, but she truly illuminated something within me – a… a passion, if you will, that still lingers within me to this day. It might sound stupid, but it feels like she’s telling me to do this – to help, the way we did together,” he expressed before he shook his head. “For so long, I have been missing to do this, but I never was able to bring myself to do it. Not until the orphanage. That day sparked what had once been so vivid within me. All because of you, because you took me there with you”

Jimin smiled, but shook his head. “You are carrying on her legacy, Kook-ah. It’s all you”

“It’s just that… Fuck, it feels like nothing I do now will ever make up for the years that I didn’t do anything to help. When I donated for that orphanage it just didn’t feel like it was enough – like nothing would ever be enough”

“You made them so happy, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin declared, closing his arms around Jungkook’s neck. “The gala in a few days is just an example of how generous you are”

“I guess…”

Jimin leaned in to nudge his nose against Jungkook’s. “You don’t give yourself enough credit, Jungkook-ah. What you’re doing is truly beautiful”

“I just… I felt like shit for having neglected that part for so long just because of my own issues. Just because… Fuck- Just because I see her face every time I only go so far as to think about it”

Jimin parted his lips, but it seemed as though he was lost for words.

“At first, I believed that… fuck, that I didn’t want that – that it would just cut deeper into a wound that I didn’t want to reopen,” he explained, but then shook his head at himself. “But I realised how it’s truly healing. I see her face, but I’m not– It’s not hurting anymore. It makes me feel as though I’m doing something good– something right”

“You are,” Jimin breathed, his fingers playing with the hair on the back of Jungkook’s head. “You are doing something truly beautiful, something very altruistic,” he added. “This gala is going to help so many people”

“I’m really glad you’re joining me for the gala this Monday,” Jungkook declared with a smile.

“I’m very happy to join you,” Jimin returned, genuinely really endeared by Jungkook having asked him to join him to such an important and beautiful event.

Smiling at one another, they leaned in to attach their lips in a soft kiss.

Suddenly, the sound of a stomach grumbling ruined the sweet moment between them.

At the noise, Jungkook chuckled, Jimin’s eyes going big as his cheeks flushed a shade of rose, the boy swift to hide his face in the curve of Jungkook’s neck.

“’m sorry”

“You’re hungry, hm?” Jungkook noted, caressing Jimin’s hip.

“Yeah, a bit,” Jimin answered bashfully, giving a faint nod.

Their drive had been rather long, the two of them not having eaten anything during their road trip. By now, it was already past seven in the afternoon. Neither Jimin nor Jungkook had eaten any proper meals since breakfast.

“Come on,” Jungkook urged him softly, raising to his feet with Jimin in his arms, setting the boy back down on the ground and reaching for his hand.
Deprived of any hesitance, Jimin placed his hand in Jungkook’s bigger one, allowing the taller one to lead him into the kitchen.

“I loved Jiyoo’s self-made meals,” Jimin expressed. “I can’t wait to have them again,” he claimed with a smile.

“She made us some kimchi, some tteokbokki and some jjajangmyeon,” Jungkook listed, Jimin’s mouth commencing to water with each food he named.

“She’s an angel,” Jimin declared with a smile.

Jungkook chuckled, giving a nod as he pointed towards the table.

“Sit down, little one,” he insisted. “I’m gonna heat up the food.”

The pink haired boy hummed, taking a seat at the table and observing how Jungkook prepared their dinner.

Soon, the two of them were seated at the dinner table, the trace of home-cooked meals lingering in the air, their plates filled with delicious food that they savoured without hesitance.

Aside from the sound of their chopsticks brushing over their plates or their occasional exchange of words, it was silent between them, either of them valuing the comforting time they were able to spend with one another as it was, not needing to say much to fill the space between them.

“Why did you want to take me here, Kook-ah?” Jimin then found himself wonder as it was a question that had lingered in his mind upon their arrival; his eyes big in inquisitiveness.

“I haven’t been here in quite a while,” Jungkook stated slowly, dabbing his napkin over his mouth. “This place is kinda… special to me. I wanted to share that with you, if that makes sense,” he added, tilting his head to the side as he lowered his chopsticks down beside his plate.

The smaller boy smiled warmly; his heart touched by his words. “It does,” Jimin reassured him softly.

Frankly, Jimin was very appreciative for Jungkook to allow him to visit this place that was so dear to his heart. In a way, it was a sign that Jungkook was permitting Jimin to see a little more into his heart and past – something that the younger male rarely did as he was scarred by his past the way Jimin was and occasionally struggled with displaying his emotions to Jimin.

“I just wanted you to see the place that I spent quite a lot of time at during my childhood with my family,” he elaborated. “Back then, when everything was still… wholesome,” he expressed.

Undeniably, the death of his mother had contributed to his absence in this particular place. It might not be the reason primarily, but undoubtably a factor for the lack, Jimin supposed.

“Your father probably doesn’t really have time to come here now, does he?” Jimin asked, trying to refrain from mentioning his mother.

“No, not really,” Jungkook noted, shaking his head. “Then again, maybe he just doesn’t want to come here because it reminds him of my mother way too much,” he uttered with furrowed brows. “The last time he came here was five years ago”

“Five years?” Jimin echoed.
That was such a long duration. Why would they keep this place, if they barely came here?

“Yeah,” Jungkook affirmed with a sigh. “The last time I’ve come here was… last year,” he recalled, lifting a piece of kimchi up to his mouth to push it past his lips and chew on it.

“Why do you keep this place, if you’re barely here anyway?” Jimin voiced his thoughts. “Isn’t it way too expensive to take care of this place?”

Well, money probably wasn’t exactly an issue for them anyway.

“I guess it’s hard to let go,” Jungkook expressed after he had swallowed his bite down. “Besides, it’s nice to know that we can come here, if we need some time to get away – If that makes sense,” he added with a slight smile.

“Yeah, it does,” Jimin replied with a nod.

Their lives were vastly stressful, hence possessing a space far away from their daily lives that enabled them a few days absent from any pressure or tension was certainly comforting. Thus, Jimin could comprehend why they chose to keep this place.

In the end, it was a beautiful place, Jimin honestly wouldn’t mind visiting this cabin more often.

***

After their dinner, the two of them had snuggled up on the sofa, talking about anything, yet nothing at the same time. At one point, Jimin excused himself, sneaking off and rushing up into one of the bedrooms to retrieve a little something from his bag.

“I have a surprise for you,” Jimin declared once he had made his way down into the living room all over again, lowering himself down on Jungkook’s lap with a nervous heart, his hands clasped behind his back to hide the surprise.

“A surprise? For me?” Jungkook questioned, raising his brows at Jimin as his hands naturally curled around his hips.

“Yes,” Jimin affirmed with a nod, smiling sweetly.

“Why?”

“Well, simply because I want to give you a present,” Jimin explained, titling his head to the side. “Besides, you organised this whole trip and you always have presents for me,” he elaborated.

The taller male smiled but furrowed his brows all the same. “Jimin-ah, you don’t have to give me any presents. You’re mine, that’s all I need,” he reassured, leaning in to press his lips on Jimin’s, yet the other one withdrew with a pout.

“Please,” Jimin begged, his hands returning to his front, revealing the little package to Jungkook’s eyes.

For a moment, Jungkook’s gaze flickered up and down from Jimin’s eyes to the present.

Then, he reached for it, reluctantly.

Slowly, he unveiled the package, the boy arching up his brows as he identified the item.

“It’s… It has something engraved into it,” Jimin expressed quietly, playing with the hem of his shirt as he discovered his heart to be nervous, praying that Jungkook didn’t found this gift to be stupid or valueless.

Curiously, Jungkook picked the item out of the box, turning it around to steal a glimpse at the back.

My Safe Haven.

“You lost yours, remember?” Jimin reminded him softly, swallowing hard as Jungkook didn’t say anything, but simply smiled at the watch. “I don’t know whether you’ve bought a new one already- I mean, you probably have- and it’s nowhere near as expensive as yours was, but I just—”

The black haired male shut him up by crashing his lips on Jimin’s, smiling into the kiss before he withdrew to respond. “Little one, I love this one,” he reassured. “Thank you”

“Really?” Jimin questioned, not intending to doubt Jungkook’s sincerity, yet then wondering whether it was truly a gift that could live up to Jungkook’s standard.

The smaller boy was relieved, feeling joyful because of Jungkook’s endeared expression, the latter appearing to genuinely be touched by the present – maybe not because of what it was, but because Jimin had given him a present at all, maybe because of the significant words that were engraved in the back – Jimin wasn’t certain, but it didn’t matter.

Smiling, Jimin leaned in to press his lips on Jungkook’s, his heart skipping a beat as it called out a reminder of another plan that Jimin had set himself to unfold tonight.

“Actually, I… have another present for you,” Jimin whispered, swallowing hard as his heart pounded fast against his chest, causing the smaller one to wonder whether Jungkook could hear or feel that certain phenomenon.

“Little one-” Jungkook intended to protest, but Jimin was swift to interrupt by pressing his index finger to Jungkook’s lips.

“Please, take it,” he asked softly.

Jungkook’s gaze flickered back and forth between Jimin’s eyes as he reached up to brush his fringe out of his face. “What is it?”

The smaller boy caught his bottom lip between his teeth.

“You can… you can unwrap it yourself or I can show you,” Jimin suggested quietly.

Jungkook inclined his head to the side, raising his brows at Jimin. “Show me, baby”

Cautiously, Jimin rose from Jungkook’s lap and got up to his feet with an anxious heart, the boy swallowing hard as he took a few steps back, establishing a slight distance between them.

Slowly, Jimin reached for the hem of his shirt, tugging it up above his head and removing the piece of clothing from his body. Carefully, he tossed the shirt over onto the sofa beside Jungkook, the latter’s eyes widening at the sight of Jimin’s naked upper body.

“What…” Jungkook tried, but went silent all over again.

Inhaling a shaky breath, Jimin dug his teeth into his bottom lip, his digits playing with the waistband of his trousers as he turned around, causing Jungkook to face his back.

Teasingly – Jimin was honestly bewildered by the fragment of confidence that was suddenly distinct within him despite his nervousness – the pink haired one tugged on his trousers, bending forward as he pulled the piece of fabric down his legs.

As soon as the pants were down, Jimin kicked them to the side, stealing a glimpse back over his shoulder through his lashes before he rose to his tip-toes and spun back around to face Jungkook entirely.

Inevitably, it required every ounce of confidence within Jimin to not cover himself up, but allow Jungkook to see him without any form of shield.

There he was – Jimin. In all his beauty. Dressed in a pink lingerie set.

Fuck, he was stunning.

The black haired boy wet his lips, his eyes big and dark, glued to Jimin’s delicate figure.

“I’m your present,” Jimin whispered, closing the distance between them and lowering himself back down on Jungkook’s lap. “Tonight, you can do to me whatever you want,” he permitted, his cheeks tinged a faint shade of rose.

“Fuck, kitten,” Jungkook cursed again, his gaze trailing over Jimin’s legs that were covered in pink fabric, the colour adorning his appearance so well. “When did you…. Shit. You look sinful; absolutely stunning,” he complimented as his fingertips traced over Jimin’s thighs, Jimin’s heart fluttering at his words.

The black haired male hooked one finger around a string of the garter belt, pulling on it before he allowed it to slip from his digit all over again, watching it snap back against Jimin’s skin into its prior place.

At the slight sting, Jimin whimpered, his thighs twitching as a jolt of pleasure ran through his body.

“I want to ruin you in this, kitten,” Jungkook declared, whispering those words right into Jimin’s ear, his lips brushing over his lobe.

Oh.

“I’m all yours,” Jimin uttered softly, reminding the other one that his heart belonged to him already, simultaneously allowing him to have his way with him tonight, if that was his desire.

“Say that you want it, too,” Jungkook demanded. “Say that you want me to ruin you”

The smaller boy leaned closer, brushing his lips over Jungkook’s.

“Please, Sir, ruin me,” Jimin whispered against his lips.

Smirking, Jungkook crashed his lips on Jimin’s, not hesitating to raise to his feet. In the midst, he grabbed Jimin’s thighs to secure him against his body, the pink haired one gasping into the kiss as he closed his arms around Jungkook’s neck, his stomach stirring in anticipation.

As though Jungkook possessed a mental map of the interior design of the cabin, he found his way to the stairs without bumping into anything, proceeding to kiss Jimin passionately.
Whimpering in arousal, Jimin briefly withdrew, pressing his lips to Jungkook’s nape as the man walked up the stairs. Hastily, Jimin’s digits fidgeted with the buttons of Jungkook’s shirt, the boy insinuating to open the piece of clothing to remove it, yet Jungkook was swift to curl his palm around Jimin’s wrist, stilling his motion.

“No,” he denied, shaking his head. “You ask for what you want, kitten. Understood?” Jungkook insisted, his voice such a deep and dominant tone, causing Jimin’s stomach to twist in excitement and submissiveness.

Swallowing hard, Jimin gave a faint nod, his eyes big as they met Jungkook’s.

“Use your words, kitten,” Jungkook ordered.

“I understand, Kook-ah,” Jimin responded softly, catching his bottom lip between his teeth as a vibrant fraction within him ignited, urging him to misbehave just to spark Jungkook’s dominance a little more and be punished by the black haired male. “May I… May I undress you?”

“No, not yet,” Jungkook responded, Jimin merely able to contain the whine of a complaint.

“Yes, Sir,” he uttered obediently instead.

“Good boy,” Jungkook praised him as he proceeded to walk up the stairs, Jimin leaning in to press his lips to Jungkook’s neck, his hands still for a moment before they trailed lower to the buttons of his shirt all over again, almost unconsciously, fumbling with them despite Jungkook’s vibrant order to refrain from doing just that.

Suddenly, Jungkook spanked Jimin’s bottom, causing the latter to yelp. “Stop being naughty, or I’ll teach you why you shouldn’t, kitten,” Jungkook warned, his lips pressed to Jimin’s ear, his hot breath tickling on Jimin’s skin and sending a shiver down his back.

Oh.

In the twinkling of an eye, they were inside one of the bedrooms, Jungkook lowering Jimin down on the soft sheets of the bed as he hovered above him, leaning down just enough to have his lips linger over Jimin’s.

“Do you trust me?” Jungkook wanted to know, reaching up to brush Jimin’s fringe out of his face.

“I do,” Jimin promised after a moment of hesitance – that hesitance not attributable to Jimin’s lack of certainty, but to his surprise by the sudden question, when all he truly wanted was Jungkook on him – preferably inside of him – soon. “Of course, I do,” he added.

“Will you let me blindfold you?” Jungkook asked, raising his brows at Jimin as the tips of his fingers traced down over Jimin’s arms.

The smaller boy gulped.

“It’s okay to say no, baby,” Jungkook assured him softly, his gaze never leaving Jimin’s doe eyes.

Hesitance.

Essentially, this wasn’t anything unspoken between them. The two of them had talked about the possibility of Jimin being blindfolded one day, thus being entirely at Jungkook’s mercy that way. In fact, Jimin had been the one to blindfold Jungkook before, recalling how he had wondered how it would feel to be in his place instead during that time.
“Will you tie me to the bed?” Jimin found himself wonder rather than answering.

The taller male gave a nod. “Yes, if you’re content with it,” he retorted, Jimin’s stomach stirring in arousal.

“Will you… Will you gag me as well?” Jimin whispered, his eyes big.

“No, not today, kitten,” Jungkook answered, smiling at Jimin’s question as he nudged his nose against his cheek, the smaller one disregarding the slight fragment of feeling crestfallen at the response. “Remember that you do have your safe words, hm?”

“Yes, I know,” Jimin uttered, giving a nod, aware of his safe words as Jungkook was permanently adamant to remind him – a fact that Jimin appreciated. “Okay, Kook-ah. Please, blindfold me,” he permitted.

Slowly, Jungkook straightened his back, his palms tracing over Jimin’s soft legs and the pink lingerie that covered a vast majority of them.

“Up on the bed, little one,” Jungkook insisted, turning around to head towards his opened bag – the two of them not having obtained any opportunity to organise their belongings and clothes into the dresser just yet.

As soon as Jungkook had found what he had been looking for, he returned to Jimin’s side and placed the things down on the edge of the bed. In the meanwhile, Jimin had crawled up on the bed, lying down on the pillows, his chest rising and falling quickly as a sign of his anticipation.

Softly, Jungkook traced his fingertips over Jimin’s stomach, the latter twitching at the sudden contact, lifting his head to observe Jungkook.

“Close your eyes, angel”

Naturally, Jimin complied, his eyes fluttering shut, his vision met with utter darkness.

“What do you say, if you need me to stop, little one?” Jungkook wanted to know, tying a piece of fabric around Jimin’s head to cover his eyes.

“Yellow or red,” Jimin recited, assisting Jungkook by slightly raising his head.

“Good boy,” Jungkook praised, applying faint pressure on Jimin’s forehead in a silent demand for him to lower his head back down on the pillows entirely.

Curiously, Jimin opened his eyes, not surprised to discover that it was still only darkness that welcomed him.

For a moment, Jimin’s heart skipped a beat, reminding him that he would be unable to see anything of Jungkook’s doing, causing it to be much more difficult to be aware of his surroundings.

However, Jimin trusted Jungkook.

“Your colour, Jimin-ah?” Jungkook inquired all over again.

“G-Green,” Jimin responded softly, wetting his lips as Jungkook closed his palm around Jimin’s wrist.

“I’m going to tie you to the bed now, kitten,” the younger male informed him.
Inhaling a shaky breath, Jimin gave a nod to illustrate his consent, slight nervousness depicted on his face, nevertheless. “O-Okay,” he uttered.

“Your colour?”

“Green,” Jimin assured him.

Carefully, Jungkook wrapped a piece of fabric around each of Jimin’s wrists, the latter relieved to feel the velvety material against his skin, assuming that it was some sort of silk.

Tenderly, Jungkook tied Jimin’s hands to the headboard, restricting the smaller one to move his arms at all. Instinctively, Jimin tugged on the restraints, not astonished to discover his inability to move his arms, rather being compelled to remain in this position.

Inhaling another shaky breath, Jimin dug his teeth into his bottom lip, merely refraining from whining out Jungkook’s name as the other one appeared to be simply standing beside him without any further action.

Devoid of any sort of warning, there was a hand on Jimin’s ankle, causing the pink haired one to flinch and pull his foot back.

“Sssh, baby, it’s okay,” Jungkook comforted him, rubbing his palm over Jimin’s ankle. “I want to tie your legs to the bed as well,” he revealed softly. “Is that okay, little one?”

“M-My legs?” Jimin echoed, his brows shooting up.

“Yes, baby,” Jungkook affirmed.

That notion was simultaneously scary as it was thrilling.

“I…”

Patiently, Jungkook’s gaze was fixated on Jimin’s full lips, awaiting a response as he proceeded to caress his ankle.

“Please, Kook-ah, go ahead,” Jimin allowed quietly.

“As soon as you want anything off, you tell me, okay? Just use your safe words, if needed,” Jungkook reminded him, adamant to establish a safe environment among them.

“Yes, Kook-ah,” Jimin muttered with a nod.

Softly, Jungkook wrapped another piece of fabric around either of Jimin’s ankles, tying his legs to each short bed post at the bottom of the bed.

Now, Jimin was lying on the velvety bedsheets, each limp tied to the bed, his eyes veiled by a piece of fabric blinding him.

As a natural defence mechanism, Jimin tugged on each of the restraints, not surprised to learn that he wasn’t able to move much at all, wasn’t able to cover himself up nor draw his legs together to hide his private parts that were barely veiled by some pink lace.

“K-Kook-ah,” Jimin whispered, swallowing hard at the way his heart rate picked up. “I-I-”

“Hey, are you okay, little one?” Jungkook asked, concern audible in his voice.
“I’m just… a little scared,” Jimin answered quietly, not intending to ruin the mood, but simply too nervous to allow himself to fall into this situation entirely just yet. Despite his vivid surge of submissiveness already clouding his mind, his nervousness was prevailing his submissive control.

Delicately, Jungkook removed the blindfold from Jimin’s eyes by pushing it up to his forehead, allowing Jimin to meet his gaze, his doe eyes big in anxiety.

“Little one, hey, it’s fine,” Jungkook comforted him, taking a seat beside Jimin as he placed his palm against Jimin’s cheek. “You can trust me, hm? I won’t do anything you don’t want me to. If you want me to stop, all you have to do is call out your safe word and I’ll immediately untie you. I promise you, Jimin-ah,” he declared, his eyes sincere, soothing Jimin.

“I… I trust you,” Jimin assured him, wetting his lips. “It’s just… I don’t know, we’ve never gone this far… so… – My heart is just being… stupid. I’m just nervous,” he murmured in an attempt to convey his confusing feelings.

“It’s okay to be nervous, baby, but you don’t have to be,” Jungkook calmed him, slowly leaning in to capture Jimin’s lips in a soft kiss. At the tender touch, Jimin’s eyes fluttered shut, the boy not hesitating to return the kiss by moving his lips against Jungkook’s, pouting when the other one withdrew. “Should we leave it off?” Jungkook suggested, brushing strands of pink hair out of Jimin’s face.

“N-No, you can… it’s okay,” Jimin decided, shaking his head.

“Are you sure?”

“Yes, Kook-ah,” Jimin promised with a nod. “Green,” he stated prior to Jungkook even asking such question, having sensed the other one inquiring just that upon noticing him parting his lips to speak.

“Okay,” Jungkook uttered, his gaze flickering back and forth between Jimin’s eyes before he gave a nod and pressed one last kiss to Jimin’s forehead prior to insisting, “Close your eyes, little one”

Complying, Jimin shut his eyes, allowing Jungkook to move the blindfold down to cover Jimin’s eyes all over again.

Then, the black haired boy rose to his feet, his gaze trailing over Jimin’s delicate figure.

Jimin was so goddamn- Fuck, no words were enough to describe the utter beauty Jimin possessed and the infinite surge of pure sensuality he conveyed.

For a split moment, Jungkook was wondering whether he wasn’t just fucking dreaming this – whether Jimin was truly dressed in a pink lingerie set, tied to his bed for him to use.

Jimin was indeed full of surprises.

Nearly inevitably, Jungkook reached out to place his palm on Jimin’s fair skinned stomach, the latter jerking at the contact, then digging his teeth into his bottom lip. Tenderly, Jungkook’s fingers traced over Jimin’s skin, down to his inner thighs and the garter belt that veiled his skin and was connected to the pink lacy stockings.

Fuck, Jimin was going to be the death of him.

How sinful, yet angelic at the same time.

“My-My collar,” the smaller boy suddenly murmured.
“What about it?” Jungkook wanted to know, raising his brows in curiosity – although Jungkook would be lying, if he claimed that he wasn’t aware of what Jimin was trying to beg for.

“Please, want to… please, want to wear it as well, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin requested softly.

Fortunately, Jungkook had taken his collar along – in conjunction with a few other items they tended to use in their most intimate moments.

Smirking, Jungkook hummed in satisfaction, approaching his bag and rummaging through it with the intention of locating Jimin’s collar. After a rapid search through his belongings, Jungkook picked up the item, straightening his back again and returning to Jimin’s side.

“Here you go, kitten,” Jungkook noted as he tied the collar around Jimin’s throat.

Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth, satisfaction and excitement blooming within him at the realisation of the collar being wrapped around his throat, representing a sense of belonging.

“Thank you,” Jimin whispered, his plump lips a rosy shade, matching the colour of his flushed cheeks.

The black haired male wet his own lips at the sight of Jimin’s appearance, not managing to resist the urge to touch as he found himself kneeling in between Jimin’s spread legs, leaning down to press his lips to Jimin’s milky stomach.

Gasping, Jimin arched his back at the touch, Jungkook smirking against his skin as he caressed Jimin’s soft stomach with his lips. Teasingly, he ensured to avoid Jimin’s dick, his lips trailing down to Jimin’s inner thigh where he sucked on Jimin’s skin the lightest bit.

“A-Ah,” Jimin whimpered, his leg twitching at the faint sting of Jungkook creating a hickey on his inner thigh, marking his skin a shade of red in utter contrast to his paleness. “Kook-ah”

Slowly, Jungkook licked over the mark, humming in satisfaction as he peppered several more open-mouthed kisses over Jimin’s inner thighs, his palms roaming over Jimin’s delicate legs, the man hooking his fingers around the strings of the garter belt with the intention of tugging on them, then allowing them to snap back into their prior place a brief moment later.

“Mhm,” Jimin mewled, exhaling a shaky breath at the slight sting of pain that was followed by a hot jolt of pleasure.

The younger male lifted his head, his palms still caressing Jimin’s legs before they moved up to his pink lacey pants that were covering Jimin’s now semi-erection.

_Damn. Say that again?_

Honestly, Jungkook was never going to forget about this image.

To be allowed to ruin Jimin in this sinful pink lingerie set was something Jungkook would have never even fucking envisaged. The two of them had never talked about anything like this – especially as Jimin tended to be rather bashful when it came to sex.

Consequently, to imagine Jimin’s shy and innocent nature to choose to wear this all by himself without mentioning a word to Jungkook prior was just – _Fuck, Jungkook was so fucking hard._

“You look so goddamn stunning, little one,” Jungkook complimented, his tone low as his eyes had turned a darker shade of brown. “All pretty for me, aren’t you?”
“Thank you,” Jimin breathed, his heart fluttering at his sweet words – Jimin loved to feel pretty, loved when Jungkook praised him for it.

Softly, Jungkook curled his fingers around the fabric of Jimin’s panties, inspecting the attire and discovering that he would have to unclasp the garter belt, if he were to remove his panties entirely.

_Fuck, no. Not yet._

Carefully, Jungkook tugged on Jimin’s panties, the smaller one gasping and twitching at the sudden act, unconsciously pulling on his restraints in an attempt to cover himself, but ceasing rather swift as he realised that it was useless.

“J-Jungkook-ah,” Jimin whined, arching his back while he tried to spread his legs further apart, but was unsuccessful. Jungkook had pulled Jimin’s panties down to his stockings to unveil his penis, causing him to simultaneously limit Jimin’s movement even more.

“Tonight, you’ll be permitted to come as often as you want,” Jungkook allowed with a smirk, his gaze trailing over the various toys to his side that he had provided for tonight. “We’ll see how much of a good boy you really are; how many times you can actually come for me, hm?”

Oh.

That… that implied inevitable _overstimulation_ for Jimin.

Naturally, Jimin whimpered, insinuating to draw his thighs together to cover himself, yet that attempt being ineffective – expectedly.

“Can you tell me your colour?” the younger male inquired, softer.

“Green,” Jimin uttered quietly, enticed to learn how many multiple orgasms his body could bear.

“Now,” Jungkook added, titling his head to the side. “What should I do to you first, hm?” he wanted to know, causing Jimin to believe that he had a choice in it.

The pink haired boy parted his lips, intending to respond, but appearing to lack the ability to talk – In fact, comprehending Jungkook’s words and forming a coherent response accordingly seemed to be a deficiency for Jimin’s brain in this current moment.

“Tell me, kitten,” Jungkook pressed with a little tap to Jimin’s inner thigh, the latter gasping. “Tell me what you want”

“I- Just-” Jimin tried all over again, but ended up stammering, ultimately going silent again.

“Want me to eat you out?” Jungkook suggested, smirking at the way Jimin whimpered. “Blow you? Fuck you right away?”

“Please, just- I-” the smaller one stuttered, arching his back as he tugged on his restraints, Jungkook’s words so obscene, yet arousing.

“I haven’t even touched you yet and you already can’t answer me?” Jungkook teased, evoking a whine in Jimin whose cheeks flushed a darker shade of rose, but then creating another gasp from Jimin as he traced the tips of his fingers over Jimin’s stomach in a tender manner, not managing to resist the near urgency to caress his soft skin for a while, watching goose bumps rise beneath his touch, his gaze fixated on the absolutely breath-taking beauty of Jimin.
Despite the action being moderately pure in its entirety, Jimin found himself craving for more, his breathing uneven as he arched his back into Jungkook’s touch, silently begging for him to never stop, yet then simultaneously, to touch him further.

“So, can you answer me now, little one?” Jungkook asked all over again, his hands proceeding to roam over Jimin’s skin, the touch somehow so much more intense as Jimin’s vision was blinded, increasing his remaining senses.

“I-I-”

Well done, Jimin – Certainly, Jimin was still deficient in the ability to respond.

“Well, vibrator it is, then,” Jungkook decided.

“Huh?” the smaller one gasped, bewildered by the words that had slipped from Jungkook’s lips, causing him to consider whether his ears hadn’t just deceived him.

Yet, in the twinkling of an eye, Jungkook had picked up a small vibrator, pressing it against Jimin’s semi-erection before he switched it on. Simultaneously to the low buzzing filling the room, Jimin flinched, a yelp slipping from his lips as he was startled by the sudden touch.

“K-Kook-ah,” he moaned, tossing his head back as Jungkook trailed the vibrator up to his sensitive tip, humming in satisfaction as Jimin cried out.

“There you go,” Jungkook uttered, satisfied with Jimin’s responsive being, the latter feeling as though he was hit by a truck of pleasure, such pure and tender touches having evolved into an intense form of stimulation in the blinking of an eye.

It didn’t take long for Jungkook to increase the vibrations, Jimin mewling at the way Jungkook stimulated his penis with the toy, moving it up and down his hard length in a teasing way.

“Ah, Kook-ah!” Jimin whimpered, gasping and squirming around as Jungkook applied more pressure against his penis, enhancing the sensation that was so much more intense as Jimin’s vision was blinded.

“Too much already?” Jungkook cooed, titling his head to the side as he placed his unoccupied hand on Jimin’s inner thigh, caressing his soft skin. “I’ve barely even started, baby boy”

At the pet name, Jimin cried out, his thighs twitching at the stimulation he was receiving that early into the night, the boy not having expected such an overwhelming sensation that promptly.

Yet then, Jungkook did change his mind fairly soon, deciding to go a little more gradual into ruining Jimin instead of bringing him to the edge in a mere minute.

Slowly, Jungkook withdrew his hand, switching the vibrator off and dropping it down on the bed before he reached for the lube. At the absence of the toy, Jimin found himself whine, but then not quite certain whether he was truly crestfallen at the toy being gone or relieved that they were taking this a little slower.

Ahead of even opening the tiny bottle of lube, Jungkook spat in his own hand, the sound startling Jimin who jerked in his position, having expected to feel Jungkook’s spit somewhere on his body, but discovering that it wasn’t the case.

Suddenly, Jungkook curled his hand around Jimin’s hard length, giving it a tight squeeze before he moved it up to the tip, allowing his thumb to rub over Jimin’s sensitive slit, a drop of pre-cum leaking “Mhm-ah,” Jimin whimpered, digging his teeth into his bottom lip as he clenched his hands into petite fists, arching his back as Jungkook picked up a steady pace, jerking him off while he managed to coat some lube onto a digit of his unoccupied hand.

Carefully, Jungkook pressed his finger against Jimin’s rim, twirling it around in a teasing manner before he pushed his digit past the sensitive ring of muscle, Jimin crying out as he bucked his hips into the air.

Jungkook provided a few moments for Jimin to adjust to the new sensation, if not for long.

The younger male commenced to thrust his finger in and out of Jimin’s hole in a rather fast pace without much hesitation, watching his lover squirm around at the increasing stimulation he was receiving.

“Yes!” Jimin shrieked, somehow grateful for Jungkook having mentioned earlier that they didn’t have any direct neighbors.

It wasn’t long for Jungkook to add another digit, not long for him to locate Jimin’s prostate in a heartbeat, attributable to him being more than familiar with Jimin’s anatomy.

“O-Oh God-” Jimin whimpered, tugging on his restraints, his hips pushing against Jungkook’s fingers as though to silently beg for more.

In a way, every touch was significantly more intense; Jimin’s lack of vision and movement somehow enhancing each trace on his body, causing him to be so much more aware of the feelings they evoke within him.

“You’re leaking so much for me, aren’t you?” Jungkook noted, Jimin only whining at his remark, now capable to feel the little puddle of pre-cum on his own stomach, seemingly having omitted that fact prior to Jungkook’s words.

The taller male curled his fingers in just the right way, evoking a shriek in Jimin who attempted to draw his thighs together, too overwhelmed by the abuse on his prostate.

“I-I’m gonna- Kook-ah, I’m going to come,” Jimin warned, the prior intensity of the vibrator and the amplified stimulation that he was simultaneously receiving now in two of his most sensitive areas were simply too much for him to handle.

“Yes? Is my kitten going to make a mess all over himself, hm?”

“Yes, please, I-” Jimin moaned, giving a vigorous nod, the heat in the pit of Jimin’s stomach too distinct for him to omit, Jungkook’s obscene words and his low tone not quite helping in diminishing that feeling, but rather enhancing Jimin’s arousal.

“Come for me, doll,” Jungkook insisted, his tone husky as he was just as fucking turned on by the sight of Jimin as Jimin was by being directly stimulated.

As though Jimin was trained to come on demand, the poor boy shrieked, his orgasm slamming through him, causing him to make a mess all over himself. From one second to the other, Jimin was ascending into a sweet haze of ecstasy as he cried out a mantra of Jungkook’s name.

The younger male prolonged the hot jolts of pleasure, his hand not abandoning Jimin’s hard length, but proceeding to jerk him off in a rapid pace.
“Kook-ah!” Jimin whined, squirming around in an attempt to move away, a nonverbal request for the other boy to withdraw his hand as he was slowly commencing to slip into a state of overstimulation. However, Jungkook didn’t still his movement, albeit humming in dissatisfaction at the way Jimin was squirming around.

“A-Ah, Kook-ah, n-no,” Jimin cried out as he shook his head, tears prickling in the corner of his eyes as Jungkook sped up the pace of his hand, relentless in his movement.

“No?” Jungkook asked, raising a brow as he tilted his head to the side.

“T-Too much, please,” Jimin begged, still shaking his head as he tugged on his restraints in an attempt to cover himself up, his hips bucking from side to side.

“Stop fussing around, kitten,” Jungkook insisted, delivering a smack to Jimin’s inner thigh, causing the latter to whine and halt immediately, his body trembling, but then not moving much more as Jimin craved to obey.

The black haired male slowed down the movement of his hand, dropping it back to his side at last and watching Jimin’s dick fall down on his stomach, a smirk curving his lips at the sight of the little puddle of cum on Jimin’s skin, his thighs shaking at the aftermath of his orgasm.

For a slight moment, Jungkook was distracted by the sight of his lover, the poor boy already drooling all over himself as his chest was heaving, his tiny hands clenched into fists as he awaited the next move.

Fuck, Jungkook wanted to watch him fall apart so badly, wanted to eat him out until he cried and begged him to stop.

Slowly, Jungkook rose to his feet, walking to the edge of the bed with the intention of untying Jimin’s legs from the bed posts. At the sudden touch, Jimin flinched, startled by Jungkook’s hands on his ankles.

“What-”

“Ssh, it’s all good, kitten,” Jungkook comforted him, the fabric around Jimin’s ankles not having vanished, but the absence of the restraint around the bed posts allowing the smaller one to draw his thighs together, evoking a sense of dissatisfaction within Jungkook. “No, baby,” he ordered, delivering a soft smack to Jimin’s inner thigh in a nonverbal demand for him to spread his legs apart.

Naturally, Jimin obliged, his legs falling back open, enabling Jungkook to see his pretty dick and his tight hole that Jungkook couldn’t wait to play with.

The black haired male kneeled down in between Jimin’s spread legs again, his hands grasping Jimin’s inner thighs, permitting him to lift Jimin’s legs into the air and bend them closer to Jimin’s chest.

“K-Kook-ah,” Jimin whined, not harmed by the way Jungkook was bending his body due to him being reasonably flexible, but then feeling a sense of nervousness within him attributable to the uncertainty of what the other male was going to do to him.

Smirking, Jungkook lowered himself down on his stomach, positioning himself closer to Jimin’s bottom, his perky ass cheeks practically begging him to be spanked until they were colored a rosy shade in order to match his sinful attire.
Maybe, later, Jungkook decided.

Jimin inhaled a shaky breath, digging his teeth into his bottom lip as he-

Suddenly, Jungkook licked right over Jimin’s sensitive hole, evoking a gasp in the poor boy who squirmed around, supposing that Jungkook was going to compel Jimin into multiple orgasms – a bittersweet sensation; both thrilling, albeit overwhelming.

“N-No, Kook-ah, please,” Jimin begged, not sure what he was truly pleading for as he had declared Jungkook to be his present tonight, permitting the taller male to use him in whatever way he desired.

“Yes, kitten,” Jungkook retorted, pressing his thumb against Jimin’s rim ahead of applying faint pressure in his touch to widen it further, having made adequate measures already to prep Jimin’s hole a good amount in order to slip his digit into him easily.

“I-”

“Color?” the younger male wanted to know, interrupting Jimin.

“G-Green, but- I don’t- Just-”

Deprived of any hesitance, Jungkook lapped over Jimin’s sensitive rim all over again, savoring the trace of cherry the lube had left behind, his tongue poking past the ring of muscles.

“K-Kookie”

Jungkook hummed in acknowledgement, the sound vibrating against Jimin’s skin as the latter found himself push his hips closer to Jungkook nearly involuntarily, Jungkook’s tongue skillful as it stimulated Jimin in all the right places.

Too good to stop, Jimin thought, the hot jolts of pleasure simply prevailing the faint pain of being overstimulated. “Jungkook-ah, yes, I-”

The taller male’s grasp around Jimin’s inner thigh tightened as he thrusted his tongue repeatedly into Jimin’s hole, intrigued by the sounds he evoke in his lover that appeared to be unable to refrain from squirming around.

Fuck, how much he loved that, how much he loved to watch Jimin fall apart beneath him, loved to hear those sounds he made whenever Jungkook touched him.

Soon enough, Jungkook added a finger into Jimin’s hole, swift to push it inside far enough to brush over Jimin’s prostate, the latter gasping at the action. As Jungkook proceeded to finger Jimin, he slipped his tongue into Jimin alongside his digit in order to increase the sensation he was providing for Jimin.

By now, Jimin had already been compelled into a state beyond overstimulation, the poor boy drooling all over himself as his eyes were watery – despite the other male not noticing that –, his hard length had not obtained an opportunity to soften at all, instead still leaking a trail of cum into the puddle that had already created a mess on Jimin’s stomach.

Was it too much or simply not enough? Frankly, Jimin couldn’t tell.

“Kook-ah, stop, I’m going to- Please, no,” Jimin found himself warn, certain that his second orgasm was going to hit him soon enough.
Despite Jimin’s begging, Jungkook proceeded to thrust his finger into him – in fact speeding up the motion of his digit and tongue, his other hand still grabbing Jimin’s thigh and bending his leg closer to his chest.

At the relentless tempo of Jungkook’s action, it was inevitable for Jimin to refrain from reaching his second orgasm, no matter how hard he tried to withhold it.

“No! Oh- Kook-ah, I’m going- Aah!” Jimin cried out, his body shaking all over as he squirmed around on the bed, yet not capable to move much as he was restraint by the fabric around his wrists and Jungkook’s strong hand grasping his thigh.

Jimin came with a scream, another orgasm slamming through him – if not even more intense than the first one.

“Jungkook-ah!” Jimin moaned, tossing his head back as he came all over himself – again.

“There you go, good boy,” Jungkook praised, placing several open-mouthed kisses on Jimin’s inner thigh as he prolonged Jimin’s orgasm by continuing to thrust his finger into him.

“S-Stop,” Jimin whined, tugging on his restraints as he shook his head.

Displaying mercy, Jungkook withdrew his hand, albeit making sure to drag his digit along Jimin’s sensitive walls before he dropped his hand back to his side.

The smaller boy’s chest was heaving, his breathing rapid as he wet his lips, his body continuing to tremble as he waited for Jungkook to talk to him, to touch him, to do something to exhibit his presence.

Suddenly, the fabric blinding Jimin’s vision was lifted from his eyes, allowing him to see again, his gaze meeting Jungkook’s right away. At the sight of the younger male, Jimin’s heart skipped a beat, his lips parting to say something.

“Such a good boy, aren’t you?” Jungkook praised, sliding his hand through Jimin’s pink locks, the smaller boy staring up at him with dazed eyes, only blinking as he watched Jungkook untie the fabric around his wrists, his brain too mushy to decipher the meaning of Jungkook’s actions. “Came so much for me, didn’t you?”

As soon as the restraints around Jimin’s wrists were gone, Jungkook’s fingers played with his belt around his waist leisurely, Jimin’s gaze trailing down at the notable movement. Once Jungkook unbuckled his belt, Jimin swallowed hard, inhaling a shaky breath.

“Up, kitten,” Jungkook demanded, removing his trousers and kicking them to the side.

Jimin’s inability to breathe accurately was impeded even more as he observed Jungkook tug down his briefs, exposing his hard length that evoke a surge of obedience within Jimin, almost urging him to drop to his knees immediately to suck him off.

Then, he watched Jungkook pick up the little bottle of lube, squirting a good amount of it on his erection before he tossed the bottle back over onto the bed.

“W-What are we-” Jimin stammered as he complied and sat up.

The smaller boy went silent as he was lifted up into the air, Jungkook swift to hug Jimin to his body as he walked over to a wall, Jimin’s stomach stirring in arousal as it assumed of where this was leading.
“Hands behind your back,” Jungkook ordered with a tap to Jimin’s bottom.

“Y-Yes,” Jimin whispered, bringing his hands to his back as he was pushed against the wall, gasping at the sudden contact, the close proximity to Jungkook causing his heart to skip a beat.

Slowly, Jungkook snapped his hips forward, rubbing his crotch into Jimin’s, the friction evoking a whimper in Jimin whose eyes fluttered shut.

“No, kitten, keep your eyes open,” Jungkook demanded, nudging his nose against Jimin’s cheek as he pressed one palm to the wall beside Jimin’s head while he grasped the soft flesh of Jimin’s thigh to secure him in his desired position, Jimin’s legs curled around Jungkook’s waist. “Wanna see your pretty eyes,” he added.

The black haired male was swift to wrap his hand around his throbbing member, pushing the tip against Jimin’s rim, but then not sliding it into him just yet.

“P-Please,” Jimin whispered, digging his teeth into his bottom lip as he tried to lower himself down on Jungkook’s penis, undeniably unsuccessful in that attempt.

“What is it, kitten?” Jungkook inquired, in spite of being aware of what Jimin was begging for, but fuck, Jungkook loved to see him squirm, loved to tease his baby.

“Please, Kook-ah, just-” Jimin begged, almost sobbing at Jungkook not granting him his penis.

“Say it, baby. Tell me what you need,” Jungkook demanded, smacking Jimin’s thigh, causing the latter to yelp.

“You,” Jimin breathed.

The younger male hummed in disapproval, hooking a finger around the back of Jimin’s collar before he tugged on the pink item, forcing Jimin to title his head back, the boy gasping at the harsh treatment.

“Where?” Jungkook whispered into his ear, his hot breath tickling on Jimin’s skin. “Tell me what you want”

“Just-” Jimin stammered, his cheeks tinging a darker shade of rose. “Just- Please, fuck me, Kook-ah” Satisfied, Jungkook thrusted into Jimin without wasting another moment, unable to hold back any longer, having assembled every last ounce of self-control he had managed to muster to refrain from fucking Jimin’s brain out in that sinful lingerie set from the moment the boy had taken off his clothes earlier in the living room.

As soon as Jungkook had slammed his hips forward, Jimin had cried out his name, his eyes going bigger at the way he suddenly felt so full.

Although Jimin was long past the point of feeling just overstimulated, he was thrilled to finally be filled with Jungkook, the stretch and the notion of their close and intimate proximity causing him to feel as though he was flying.

“That’s it, kitten,” Jungkook growled. “Always so tight around me”

“T-Touch?” Jimin begged, wanting to finally touch Jungkook again so badly.

“No, kitten,” Jungkook denied, shaking his head at Jimin’s request.
At the rejection, Jimin sobbed, but then found himself yelping at a particularly harsh thrust of Jungkook, his penis filling Jimin so nicely, brushing over his prostate with every single slam of his hips.

“Kook-ah!” Jimin cried out, his lips parted as breathy whimpers proceeded to slip past them, Jungkook’s gaze trailing over Jimin’s features, then down to his hips and the pretty pink lingerie that was still veiling a vast majority of his legs. “M-More!”

The black haired male delivered another smack to Jimin’s thigh, pushing his tongue into his cheek at Jimin’s demanding behaviour. “You take what I give you, understood?” Jungkook reminded him with a harsh tug on his collar, snapping his hips forward in a rough pattern, Jimin not capable to refrain from screaming out at the overwhelming sensations.

Another smack was delivered to Jimin’s thigh, causing him to cry out.

“Answer me,” Jungkook ordered, sweat dripping from his forehead as he continued to tug on Jimin’s pink collar.

“Y-Yes, I understand, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin gasped out, his penis bouncing around with each slam of Jungkook’s hips, his pace too relentless for Jimin to stay sane, the poor boy only managing to cry out Jungkook’s name as he rocked back and force in his embrace.

“You love this so much, don’t you? Love it so much, when I fuck you up against a wall, hm?”

“A-Ah!”

“Answer me,” Jungkook insisted, his tone husky and dominant, his eyes such a dark shade of brown.

“Yes, I love it so much!” Jimin shrieked, giving a vigorous nod, a fraction within him demanding more, nevertheless, despite Jungkook fucking him hard already – the naughty part within him urging him to misbehave, but the obedient fragment fighting against it as he had declared himself to be Jungkook’s present tonight.

However, Jimin’s naughty part did in fact win the battle at last.

Hastily, Jimin reached out to touch Jungkook, his digits fidgeting with the buttons of Jungkook’s shirt as he leaned in to press his lips to Jungkook’s throat.

“Don’t,” Jungkook warned him, smacking Jimin’s thigh again, continuing to thrust into him. “Behave, kitten”

“W-Wanna touch you,” Jimin begged, proceeding to unbutton Jungkook’s shirt until he was able to touch his broad chest and his distinctive set of abs.

As a response to Jimin’s disobedience, Jungkook pulled on his collar harsher, bringing his hand down on Jimin’s penis to deliver a smack to the sensitive tip. The pink haired boy cried out, hunching forward at the treatment, his stomach stirring in arousal.

“What did I tell you?” the younger male demanded to know.

“I- I-” Jimin stammered, swallowing hard as he gasped for air.

“What did I tell you, kitten? Hm?” Jungkook reiterated his question, the pace of his hips having slowed down, albeit possessing a forceful pattern, nonetheless.
“I-I get what you give me,” Jimin whispered.

“Louder,” Jungkook ordered, sending another smack to Jimin’s erection.

“I get what you give me,” Jimin repeated, louder this time to oblige Jungkook’s command.

“There you go,” Jungkook responded, giving a nod. “Then fucking behave, understood?”

Jimin gave a nod, a tiny “Yes,” slipping past his lips, despite a part within him still pressing for him to disobey, just to see how Jungkook would choose to punish him this time.

Slowly, Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth, his eyes fixated on Jungkook’s as he stared at him through his lashes, deciding to push his hips towards Jungkook’s, his palms remaining on Jungkook’s chest despite the latter’s order for Jimin to keep his hands behind his back.

Jungkook’s eyes darkened, the man clicking his tongue as his grasp around Jimin’s thighs tightened, thrusting into Jimin in a more relentless pace. “Why do you always want to be punished so badly,” Jungkook growled into his ear. “Do you want me to hurt you? Are you that needy to be put back in your place?”

The pink haired boy shrieked out, unable to respond as his hands grabbed Jungkook’s shoulders, his body rocking back and forth with each snap of Jungkook’s hips, his hard length never failing to hit Jimin’s prostate, causing stars to adorn his vision.

“Oh my god, Jungkook-ah!” Jimin cried out as another orgasm was building up in the pit of his stomach, in fact heating up in such a rapid and exponential rate that Jimin was certain that he was coming a third time in mere seconds.

“That’s all you can do, hm? Look pretty and scream my name?” Jungkook growled, leaning in to suck on Jimin’s neck, the latter whimpering at the sweet singe of pain, followed by a heart-rending realization of belonging as Jungkook licked over the hickey he had created on Jimin’s skin.

At Jungkook’s teasing words, Jimin’s cheeks tinged a darker shade of rose, the flush no longer just attributable to the heat, but to a surge of humiliation and embarrassment that resided within Jimin – but it was true, so true.

Currently, Jimin was in fact lacking the ability to respond in any other way aside from breathy moans, quiet shrieks and cries of Jungkook’s name.

The taller boy pulled on Jimin’s collar all over again. “Come for me, kitten. I want you to come with me,” Jungkook insisted, the smaller one presuming that Jungkook was close as well, the boy simultaneously inquisitive to know whether Jungkook wasn’t going to punish him for his prior disobedience, yet then still clenching around Jungkook. “Shit, kitten,” he cursed, thrusting into Jimin a few more times until Jimin couldn’t bear any more.

“Y-Yes, Jungkook-ah, p-please,” Jimin mewled, squeezing his eyes shut as another orgasm slammed right through him, the poor boy sobbing as a tiny drop of cum leaked from the tip of his erection, his penis such a prominent shade of red as it twitched pathetically in between their sweaty bodies.

Smirking, Jungkook leaned his forehead against Jimin’s, obscene curse words slipping from his lips as he found his own release, ejaculating inside of Jimin as he proceeded to thrust into him. “Shit, so fucking good,” Jungkook breathed out, the pace of his hips slowing down before he withdrew from Jimin entirely.

Immediately, Jimin went limp in Jungkook’s arms, too overwhelmed to maintain any form of balance. The pink haired boy clung onto Jungkook, nuzzling his face in the curve of Jungkook’s neck as he sobbed again, whining out Jungkook’s name.

However, Jungkook hummed in disapproval, delivering a spank to Jimin’s ass that evoked a yelp in the latter, Jimin reaching back to rub his red bottom that had endured a few smacks tonight.

“I’m not done with you yet, baby boy,” Jungkook laughed teasingly, manhandling Jimin down, the smaller one finding himself bent over the dresser in the blink of an eye, gasping as Jungkook pulled his arms to his back. “Did you really think that you can just continue to disobey and disrespect me without any punishment? Come on, kitten, think again,” he added with a snarl, bringing his hand down on Jimin’s ass three consecutive times, causing him to shriek with each smack.

“I was just… playing,” Jimin whispered, swallowing hard as he clenched his hands into petite fists.

“What was that?” Jungkook wanted to know, Jimin not certain whether his words had truly been inaudible to Jungkook or whether it was a way for him to exude his dominance and discipline Jimin.

“Playing,” Jimin repeated softly. “I was just playing. I-I wanted to touch you, Kook-ah, so badly. I didn’t mean to disrespect”

“I don’t recall asking you to justify yourself,” Jungkook retorted, bringing his hand down on Jimin’s ass all over again. “You did this to yourself, kitten. Isn’t this what you wanted?”

Blushing, Jimin pressed his lips into a line, merely refraining from uttering out an apology.

Smack. Smack.

The black haired male delivered two more spansks to Jimin’s bottom, the pain so sweet, but not enough – no, too much? Frankly, at this point, Jimin couldn’t decide, his heart telling him one thing while his body was claiming another.

Smack. Smack. Smack.

At a particularly harsh blow, Jimin squirmed around in his position in an attempt to move away from Jungkook, his hands flying down to his ass to shield it from any further punishment.

“Don’t,” Jungkook warned him, closing his hand around Jimin’s wrists to push them away from his ass. “These stay here, understood?” he demanded, pressing Jimin’s arms to his back.

“K-Kook-ah,” Jimin whined, wiggling his butt around since any other movement of his was restricted.

Smack.

“Understood?” Jungkook repeated, his tone lower.

“Y-Yes, Kook-ah, I understand,” Jimin whimpered, giving a nod as he stilled his hips.

“Can you give me your color?”

“Green,” Jimin found himself reply without an ounce of hesitation, partially wondering what fragment within him had decided for that answer in such a swift way.

Suddenly, Jungkook pushed his hard length back inside of Jimin’s hole, causing the latter to gasp, his eyes going wide at the unforeseen action.
“N-No more,” Jimin cried out, noticing the tears on his cheeks whilst he shook his head. “I can’t!” he claimed, squirming around on the dresser.

Swiftly, Jungkook curled his hands around Jimin’s hips, his grasp strong and capable to secure Jimin in a still position. “You can and you will,” Jungkook prompted, bringing his palm down on Jimin’s bottom in a harsh smack again.

The smaller boy sobbed, clenching his hands into delicate fists as Jungkook pulled out of him just to thrust back into him a mere moment later, the man not hesitating to pick up a forceful pace.

Whining, Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth, rocking back and forth at the harsh way Jungkook slammed his hips against him, causing Jimin to wonder whether this was his chosen punishment.

“Look at you,” Jungkook growled, sliding his hand through Jimin’s pink locks, tugging on the bundle of hair to manhandle Jimin up into an uncomfortable position. “Fuck, if you could see yourself right now. My naughty little kitten bent over for me to use,” he added, wetting his lips as his unoccupied hand trailed down Jimin’s back, reaching his perky ass cheeks that were tinged a pretty shade of red.

“Please,” Jimin begged, sniffing as he tried to meet Jungkook’s gaze, but was unable to fulfil that wish. “Please, Kook-ah”

“Give me one more, kitten,” Jungkook insisted, his hand trailing down Jimin’s chest, his thumb brushing over Jimin’s sensitive nipple before it moved further south, ultimately curling around Jimin’s hard length.

“N-No, it- it hurts, Kook-ah,” Jimin protested, shaking his head as Jungkook commenced to jerk him off.

“You have your safe words, baby,” Jungkook whispered into his ear, softer, a tender reminder that Jimin could stop this, if he really needed to. “I know you can give me another one, though. Come on, angel”

Sobbing, Jimin squeezed his eyes shut, whining with each thrust of Jungkook, the heat in the pit of his stomach already present – or perhaps, never having vanished entirely.

“There you go, kitten. Be good,” Jungkook growled, Jimin’s trembling body and the way he clenched around him an indication that his lover was close to a fourth orgasm.

The smaller boy came without any form of warning, screaming out Jungkook’s name as he found another release, no cum leaking from his penis this time, his muscles spasming as he went limp on the dresser.

Slowly, yet forcefully, Jungkook proceeded to snap his hips forward, prolonging Jimin’s overwhelming orgasm.

“Good boy,” Jungkook praised him, removing himself from Jimin for a brief moment, no longer pressed tightly against him.

Trying to regulate his breathing, Jimin turned his head to the side, searching for Jungkook as his heart longed for his close proximity, for his strong arms to hold him, make him feel safe.

However, prior to Jimin even locating the taller male, Jungkook pushed a hard item back inside of Jimin’s hole without any warning, the buzzing picking up right away, enlightening Jimin on what it was that penetrated him – the vibrator.

_Oh God._

“You said only one more, Kook-ah,” Jimin cried, wiggling his butt around while he tried to reach for the toy in an attempt to remove it, positive that his body was too sensitive for another orgasm.

“Then don’t come, kitten,” Jungkook plainly stated, thrusting the toy into Jimin a few times before he withdrew his hand, allowing the vibrator to remain tightly settled within Jimin, the latter naturally clenching around it.

“But- I It’s too much, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin gasped, squeezing his eyes shut as he pressed his forehead against the hard wood of the dresser.

_This was too much – Jimin felt as though he was going to pass out._

“Take it”

“It hurts,” Jimin whined, shaking his head.

“Isn’t that what you love, hm?” Jungkook noted teasingly, titling his head to the side. “You love, when it hurts, don’t you?”

Jimin only sobbed, aware that Jungkook didn’t truly anticipate a response – after all, they were both more than familiar with the answer, various times proving that Jimin possessed a certain fondness in receiving a punishment from Jungkook.

“Fuck, you’re so full, aren’t you?” Jungkook remarked, pressing his thumb next to the vibrator, threatening to thrust it into Jimin alongside the toy. “You love being full, don’t you?” he asked, curling his other hand around the vibrator to tug it out, enabling him to deliver two consecutive spanks to Jimin’s sensitive hole, evoking a shriek within Jimin. “Could probably put my whole fist into you one day and you would love it so much, wouldn’t you?”

At his words, Jimin only sobbed.

“On your knees,” Jungkook ordered.

The smaller boy inhaled a shaky breath, straightening his back on wobbly legs before he was manhandled down on his knees, Jungkook not hesitating to slide his hand through Jimin’s pink locks to grab a bundle of his hair, forcing him to stay in a particular position.

A fraction within Jimin was certain of where this was going, his heart naturally skipping a beat at the intriguing notion of sucking Jungkook off – an act that Jimin retained a profound and established adoration for.

Yet, right now, after everything, Jimin wasn’t confident whether he was truly capable of fulfilling his own desire.

“I want you to ride the vibrator, kitten,” Jungkook demanded, interrupting Jimin’s thoughts.

“H-Huh?”

“Did I stutter, baby?” the younger male inquired, raising his brows at Jimin’s hesitance.

“N-No,” Jimin whispered, shaking his head as he stared at Jungkook with big eyes.
“Then go ahead”

His blush darkening, Jimin somehow managed to secure the base of the toy in between his heels, slowly lifting his hips before he lowered himself back down on the vibrator, whimpering out.

Satisfied, Jungkook observed him, his own dick twitching at the sight of Jimin riding the toy.

“Faster”

Sobbing, Jimin shook his head, the feeling already too overwhelming for him to handle, prevailing his natural tendency of obeying.

As a punishment, Jungkook tugged on his hair, Jimin wincing at the pain. “What was that?”

“Don’t make me tell you again,” the younger boy warned.

Obliging, Jimin lifted his hips in a quicker pace before he commenced to bounce up and down, the toy proceeding to slide into him whilst it continued to buzz.

“Now, suck,” the black haired male ordered, one hand closed around his penis that he guided towards Jimin’s plump lips, slapping the tip against his bottom lip, a nonverbal demand for Jimin to open his mouth. “Slap my thighs, if you need to stop, little one,” Jungkook was sure to remind Jimin, the smaller boy giving a gentle nod to convey his acknowledgement before Jungkook pushed his penis past his lips.

Carefully, Jimin moved further down Jungkook’s erection, keen on complying, but simultaneously troubled as his body was declaring a caution for him to cease, looming to retaliate against him as soon as he were to wake up in the morning tomorrow, if he was going to proceed.

Exhausted, Jimin insinuated to wrap his palms around Jungkook’s erection for assistance, but reminded himself that Jungkook hadn’t retracted his prior order for Jimin’s arms to remain on his back, thus they were still in exactly that position.

Squeezing his eyes shut, Jimin forced Jungkook’s hard length down his throat, circling his hips around on the toy, his body hurting – everywhere.

Naturally, Jimin gagged around Jungkook’s penis, but disregarded the burning in his throat, instead continuing to lower himself down on Jungkook, the taller man cursing out at the wet tightness around his dick.

“Good boy,” he praised. “So good for me, kitten.”

At the praise, Jimin’s heart fluttered – yet, Jimin couldn’t breathe; his penis was leaking so much was hurting so bad; it was too overwhelming, too intense for him to bear any longer.

The black haired male’s grasp in Jimin’s hair tightened, restricting Jimin in moving his head, but compelling him to remain with his lips wrapped around Jungkook’s hard length, deepthroating his erection – a fact that excited Jimin, a surge of pride swelling within his chest as it usually tended to – but, right now, his throat was burning so much; it hurt – too much.

As a defence mechanism, Jimin tried to withdraw, his lungs begging for him to gasp for air, the pain and overwhelming sensation his body was enduring no longer bearable. Almost as predicted, Jimin’s attempt to stop this by pulling back was futile, Jungkook not budging, but commencing to snap his hips forward to fuck into Jimin’s mouth.

At this point, Jimin’s body fought back, the boy gasping for air with Jungkook’s dick still down his throat, causing the poor boy to gag and splutter around his erection, more tears rolling down his cheeks as a surge of fear resided in his chest.

A fraction within Jimin refused to stop – reminded himself that he was Jungkook’s present tonight, that this wasn’t about him, that he wanted to be good and please Jungkook so badly.

However, that thought scared him even more.

This was your body, a voice that sounded like Jungkook’s reminded him.

At last, Jimin cried out around Jungkook’s throbbing member as he slapped Jungkook’s thigh, only gentle at first as he didn’t intend to hurt the boy, but then harsher as the other male didn’t withdraw.

Immediately, Jungkook stilled as he removed himself from Jimin’s mouth, his hand no longer entangled in Jimin’s pink locks as he parted his lips to ask whether Jimin was okay, but remained silent as he watched Jimin crawl away from him before he fell to his side with tears streaming down his face.

“Red,” Jimin whispered, curling in on himself. “No more, please, no more.”

“Little one,” Jungkook breathed out, his heart clenching at the sight of his lover.

Swiftly, Jungkook lowered himself down on his knees beside Jimin, reaching for his back in order to remove the vibrator that was still buzzing within Jimin.

Yet, as soon as Jungkook’s fingers curled around the toy, Jimin grabbed his wrist, sobbing as he shook his head, fear gleaming in his eyes.

“I just want to take it out, angel, I promise you,” Jungkook whispered, his tone so soft and gentle, no longer filled with dominance or disappointment. “Is that okay?”

His voice calmed Jimin, causing him to withdraw his hand in a silent way to convey his permission.

Carefully, Jungkook removed the toy from Jimin’s hole, switching it off before he tossed it somewhere to the side with little care, his heart pounding fast against his chest as he observed Jimin’s trembling body beneath him.

“Little one, can you talk to me?”

Jimin didn’t respond.

“Angel, hey, can you tell me what I did wrong?”

The smaller boy shook his head, only sobbing.

Carefully, Jungkook brushed Jimin’s pink locks away from his face, testing whether Jimin felt consent with Jungkook’s touch. Since his lover didn’t withdraw or twitch at the contact, Jungkook’s palms trailed down to Jimin’s hips, careful, and tender, as they curled around his waist, picking up the crying boy without any effort.

Immediately, Jimin clung onto Jungkook, the younger male embracing him and carrying him over into the bathroom while Jimin hid his face in the curve of Jungkook’s neck, still crying.
“It’s all good, little one,” Jungkook whispered into his ear, his palm caressing Jimin’s back in a comforting manner.

Gently, Jimin was lowered down on the counter, whimpering at the low temperature and the slight surge of pain that bloomed within him as his abused bottom touched the hard material.

“I’m sorry,” Jungkook apologised quietly, pressing his lips to Jimin’s nose before his digits reached for the strings of the pink garter belt. “Is that okay? I just want to remove it, little one, yeah?”

Jimin only blinked, giving a faint nod as he observed Jungkook’s movement with big eyes, almost feeling as though he wasn’t truly present – not mentally, at least, somehow only half-awake.

It scared him.

Was he okay?

What had happened to him?

“Fucking- Get the fuck-” Jungkook cursed beneath his breath, appearing to struggle with removing the garter belt, Jimin faintly recalling the troubles of getting into it this morning all on his own – somehow, that seemed so far away now. “Sorry,” Jungkook uttered softly, Jimin not aware whether his apology was referring to him swearing, although it was silly since it wasn’t exactly an unprecedented event, in fact a rather natural occurrence for the taller one.

Slowly, Jungkook rolled down the stockings from Jimin’s milky legs, allowing them to fall to the floor with little attention, then careful to close his fingers around the pink panties that were still tied around Jimin’s thighs, yet too loose and stretched now due to the events over the past hour, potentially no longer truly fitting Jimin. In a soft motion, Jungkook removed the panties as well, not hesitating to curl his digits around the last piece of clothing that adorned Jimin’s delicate figure.

“Can you lift your hips for me, angel?” Jungkook requested softly, such a different tone in his voice and a diverse way for him to appeal something to Jimin compared to just a few minutes ago.

The pink haired boy admittedly struggled, using the last bit of strength he could muster to lift his hips in order to assist Jungkook in removing the garter belt from his hips.

As soon as it was off, Jungkook pointed to the collar still tied around Jimin’s throat.

“Do you feel comfortable with me removing that? Is that okay, Jimin-ah?” he inquired, aware that there were times were Jimin had requested to wear it even after sex – the taller man having assessed his behaviour as presumably being something Jimin simply needed to feel comfortable, when calming down.

The smaller one gave a faint nod, his eyes fluttering shut as he felt Jungkook untie the collar around his throat, placing it down on the counter beside him before he closed his hands around Jimin’s hips all over again to pick him up.

“You’re shaking so much,” Jungkook whispered, concern audible in his voice as he carried Jimin into the shower. It was only then that Jimin noticed that the bathroom didn’t possess any bathtub, not that it mattered, really.

A few moments later, water streamed down from the shower, Jungkook waiting for a comfortable temperature to set before he went beneath the water.

As soon as the stream hit Jimin, the boy gasped, his grasp around Jungkook tightening as he nuzzled his face into his nape.

“Little one, can you stand on your own? Do you think you can do that?” Jungkook asked softly.

Jimin didn’t respond.

Apprehending Jimin’s silence as a lack for him to articulate himself in his current state, Jungkook managed to reach for the shower gel while proceeding to secure Jimin in his embrace.

“I’m going to touch you, yeah? I’m just going to clean you, little one,” the black haired male assured him, his hands roaming over Jimin’s back and arms to wash all the sweat away, the boy able to clean Jimin’s stomach as well without having to push Jimin back too much in order to remove the cum sticking to his skin.

Jungkook’s touch was gentle, and careful, almost as though he was scared of Jimin being fragile, that he was going to break any moment; yet Jungkook always was – tender. Aside from their time spent in the bedroom, Jungkook never treated Jimin anything but delicately.

“Is that okay? I’ll be quick,” Jungkook promised, nudging his nose against Jimin’s cheek as his hand had halted at the bottom of Jimin’s back, indicating to move lower to clean his private parts.

Jimin gave a faint nod, Jungkook not hesitating to wash his hole as gentle as could be, remaining in the area only for as long as necessary before he withdrew his hand to clean the other parts of Jimin’s body.

Not long after, the water stopped running, Jungkook carrying Jimin back out of the shower, the latter shivering at the sudden alteration in temperature. On his way back into the bedroom, Jungkook picked up a towel from the counter, swift to wrap it around Jimin’s wet body, comfortable warmth immediately engulfing Jimin.

Ever since calling out his safe word, Jimin hadn’t spoken another word.

Frankly, that scared the shit out of Jungkook.

It scared Jimin just as much, but he was somehow grateful that Jungkook didn’t force him to talk, that he comprehended what Jimin needed before he even did.

Softly, Jimin was lowered down on the bed, Jungkook hovering above him as he dried Jimin’s body, disregarding his own moist skin, but fixating his attention on Jimin solely. The pink haired one observed him with big eyes, itching to talk, wanting to say something so badly, but… he couldn’t. For some reason, he was unable to speak at all.

There was a mixture of guilt and concern depicted on Jungkook’s face, his handsome features no longer embellished by a teasing smirk or lust-filled eyes.

At the sight, Jimin’s heart ached, his consciousness barely present any longer, but his feelings for Jungkook too fervent and deeply anchored within Jimin to omit, the thought of Jungkook blaming himself or being hard on himself because of Jimin using his safe word hurting him.

The black haired male tied the towel around his body, not caring to dry himself properly. Tenderly, Jungkook picked him up all over again instead, puzzling Jimin who wondered where they were going, yet not protesting but nuzzling his face into Jungkook’s nape instead as he clung onto him.

Jungkook carried him outside of the room, walking down the hallway and into another bedroom, kicking the door shut on his way in before he approached the bed.
After pulling the blanket to the side, Jungkook set Jimin down on the soft sheets, drying his own body with the towel before he dropped it to the floor, quick to move into the bed beside Jimin and tug the duvet over both of their bodies.

Jimin was still shivering, causing Jungkook to conclude that his trembling wasn’t attributable to the alteration in temperature, but perhaps to the exhaustion his body had endured.

Gently, Jungkook closed his arms around Jimin’s delicate figure, the latter hiding his face in the curve of Jungkook’s neck the way he always did – as though it was a place of comfort; well, it was – his safe haven. The sound of Jungkook’s heart beat was a surge of safety as well, consoling Jimin.

“Do you want to talk to me now?” Jungkook asked, his palm finding its way to Jimin’s back, caressing his soft skin.

Jimin didn’t respond.

“Just want me to hold you?” Jungkook uttered, pressing his lips to Jimin’s temple.

The smaller one gave a faint nod.

“Okay,” Jungkook whispered, his strong arms securing Jimin closely, their intimate proximity and the pure environment pacifying Jimin.

At last, Jimin’s eyes fluttered shut, the events of the past hours taking a final toll on him, causing him to fall asleep in the safety of Jungkook’s arms.

***

A few hours later, Jimin awoke from a short sleep, his eyes fluttering open to darkness adorning his vision, a pitch-black scheme among them. After blinking a few times, Jimin’s eyes had adjusted to the absence of illumination, allowing him to distinguish silhouettes in the dark.

Slowly, Jimin lifted his head, noticing the strong arm that was still wrapped around his figure, causing him to wonder whether Jungkook hadn’t let go of him at all. Carefully, Jimin studied Jungkook’s features, startled as he noticed that his eyes weren’t shut, but open and fixated on Jimin already.

Had he been awake this whole time?

“Why aren’t you asleep?” Jimin inquired, his voice quiet and foreign, touched by roughness attributable to his slumber, but potentially additionally to the earlier events of their shared intimate moments.

The black haired male smiled, rolling onto his side to meet Jimin’s gaze, then leaning close to press his lips on Jimin’s cheek in a tender kiss.

“I wasn’t tired,” he responded, reaching out to brush Jimin’s fringe out of his face. “I was just… thinking,” he added with a slight shrug of his shoulder.

“How? About what?” Jimin found himself wonder, tilting his head to the side as he snuggled closer, silently asking Jungkook to touch him, the latter appearing to apprehend his nonverbal request as he placed his palm on Jimin’s arm before he traced his fingertips over his delicate skin.

What thoughts could keep Jungkook awake this night?
“How are you?” Jungkook asked instead. “Are you feeling better?”

The former incident replayed in Jimin’s mind, the boy recalling the primarily thrilling moment that had turned into an overwhelming experience that had compelled Jimin to his limits.

“I… Yeah, I think so,” Jimin whispered, knitting his brows as he reflected over his feelings and notions, somehow not confident to assert that he was definitely feeling good again, but certainly feeling better than earlier – whatever state it was that he had fallen into. “I don’t know what happened to me,” he murmured, confused and curious simultaneously as he averted his gaze, noticing that the room was different from the one they had left all of their belongings in. “Why did you move us into this room?” Jimin voiced his thoughts.

“The bed was messy with the toys and restraints, all sweaty and full of cum as well,” Jungkook reasoned, his hand stilling for a brief moment. “I… I also thought you needed to be removed from that situation entirely… if that makes sense. I don’t know,” he elaborated, shaking his head at himself as he frowned, seemingly not quite sure of his action either or perhaps unable to express himself cohesively – yet, somehow, Jimin did understand. “Do you think you can talk to me now?”

Jungkook wanted to know then, his eyes soft, but concern illustrated in them all the same. “Can you tell me why you used your safe word, so I know what I did wrong and won’t do it again?”

The pink haired boy parted his lips to respond, intending to reassure Jungkook that it hadn’t been anything that he had done, but… how could he? How was Jimin supposed to elucidate the turmoil of emotions and thoughts that had been running through his mind and were evidently still present within him, if he wasn’t even capable of understanding the entirety of it himself?

“It wasn’t… I just…” Jimin still tried to express, but went silent a few syllables later.

“It’s okay to be honest, angel,” Jungkook encouraged him, perhaps assuming that Jimin was refraining from responding because he didn’t want to hurt Jungkook. “Whatever I did, please let me know”

“I don’t know,” Jimin uttered, shaking his head at himself, slightly frustrated with his deficiency of expressing himself so he could reassure Jungkook. “I don’t think… It was just… Too much. It was too much. I’ve never had that many multiple orgasms and- and I’ve never been tied to the bed entirely. I guess I was so excited of trying something new that I didn’t realise that I was pushing myself too far. I wanted to be good so badly, so I just… I wanted to see how many times I could come, I wanted to take each and every punishment you gave me… I just wanted to… I don’t know – make you proud? I’m not sure, if that makes sense,” Jimin explained, exhaling a long breath of frustration. “But I just… I couldn’t handle any more. It hurt – no longer in a good way, but in a way that I couldn’t bear,” he whispered.

The younger male moved closer, leaning in to place a gentle peck to Jimin’s lips. “I’m sorry, angel,” he uttered, whispering those words right against Jimin’s lips before he pressed his forehead against Jimin’s, his arm curling around Jimin’s delicate body to embrace him tightly.

“You don’t have to be, Kook-ah,” Jimin declared, reaching up to place his petite palm against Jungkook’s cheek.

“I am, though,” Jungkook objected, shaking his head at himself. “With pain, there is a fair line between it being enjoyable for you and… and actually harming you,” he explained. “Sometimes, it’s difficult to see that line, but I should have.”

“You’re not able to see it, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin interrupted him. “Please, don’t blame yourself. We’ve talked about this before. I asked you to do this to me, only I can know how much I can handle and this time, I was wrong”

Jungkook’s gaze flickered back and forth between his eyes, his palm trailing down to Jimin’s hand to interlace their fingers. “I’ve never had anyone call out red,” he revealed.

“Never?” Jimin whispered as his eyes went bigger, not certain why that statement astonished him that much.

“Never, no,” he affirmed. “Well, I’ve never… never had such an intimate bond with anyone either,” Jungkook elaborated.

The smaller boy was grateful for how Jungkook had handled the situation, considering that he had never experienced a similar incident prior to tonight. Somehow, Jungkook always knew how to console Jimin, simply possessing a comforting effect on Jimin.

“I want you to use your safe word as soon as you feel uncomfortable, Jimin-ah. Please, angel, don’t push yourself too far past your limits. It can be dangerous,” Jungkook emphasised, drawing Jimin out of his thoughts.

“There just was a part of me that… that didn’t want to say it,” Jimin revealed softly.

Jungkook’s hand stilled all over again. “Why?”

“I don’t know,” Jimin retorted truthfully. “It was as though… as though I shouldn’t think about how I was feeling but focus on your pleasure solely. It was as though my body wasn’t mine, but…”

“Jimin-ah, don’t,” Jungkook interrupted him. “Please, don’t-”

“It was just for a split moment; and it was only a tiny part within me,” Jimin was quick to elucidate.

“When you say that you want me to use you, that doesn’t mean that your body belongs to me, little one,” Jungkook reminded him.

“I know,” Jimin uttered, giving a nod. “I promise, I know,” he added.

Yet, did he?

Well, he did. Yes, Jimin did.

However, when his consciousness was ruled by his submissiveness, Jimin tended to fall into a state where… where that notion might not truly reside within him – where he… enjoyed the thought of his body not belonging to him entirely, but to Jungkook.

Should that scare him?

“I’m glad you did call it out, angel,” Jungkook drew Jimin out of his thoughts. “It’s a way for you to return to a safe environment. It’s significant for me that you realise that. As soon as you don’t feel safe anymore or – or are in pain – No, for any reason, in any case, for that matter – use it. Never feel bad for using it. Never feel like there is a moment where you shouldn’t or you can’t use it,” he stressed.

“Yeah,” Jimin breathed, giving a nod. “I know, Jungkook-ah, I promise”

Jungkook returned to caressing Jimin’s skin, pressing another kiss to Jimin’s lips before the latter nuzzled his face in the curve of Jungkook’s neck, the safety he exuded and the comfort he evoke in Jimin always pulling him right back in.
“Was I a nice present?” Jimin whispered.

The black haired male hummed, nudging his nose against Jimin’s temple. “You are the best thing to have ever happen to me, so yes, you were”

At his words, warmth spread within Jimin’s chest, his cheeks tinging a faint shade of rose as he turned his head to the side to press his lips to Jungkook’s cheek.

“I hope it was enjoyable for you as well?” Jimin mumbled as he drew tiny shapes on Jungkook’s chest, his eyes not meeting the taller one’s. After all, Jimin had been adamant to be Jungkook’s present tonight, having permitted him to use him in whatever way he desired. Evidently, it would dishearten Jimin to learn that Jungkook hadn’t found any enjoyment in tonight. That would thwart the whole purpose of Jimin’s plan… Had Jungkook even come at all? “I mean, until… yeah”

“It was,” Jungkook assured him with a nod. “I promise,” he added, grabbing Jimin’s chin to guide his face back up, allowing him to meet his gaze before he leaned in to attach their lips in a kiss. “Did it scare you a lot to be tied up?” he wanted to know, titling his head to the side.

At the mere thought, a shiver ran down Jimin’s back, his stomach stirring in a mixture of arousal and nervousness.

“It… did scare me a little at first, but I trust you,” Jimin stated.

“How did it feel?”

“It was… interesting,” Jimin responded, furrowing his brows as he smiled faintly. “I didn’t like the part where I couldn’t touch you, but… I wouldn’t… I mean, we could do it again someday,” he elaborated.

“Yeah?” Jungkook breathed.

“Mhm-nh,” Jimin hummed, his gaze flickering back and forth between Jungkook’s eyes and his soft lips that were just close enough to have Jimin long for them to kiss him.

“Good,” the younger male noted before he furrowed his brows, his fingers not having vanished from Jimin’s chin. “Where the hell did you even get that lingerie from?” he wanted to know.

Jimin chuckled, his blush darkening as he tried to lower his head, but failed to exhibit that action as Jungkook didn’t remove his hand, smirking instead. “It’s a gift from Tae,” Jimin mumbled.

“I see”

“Did you… like it?” Jimin asked, his voice just above a whisper.

Jungkook blinked. “Are you- Did I not make clear how much I liked it?” he inquired, clearly bewildered by Jimin’s question. “Do I need to prove my case again by-” he noted whilst his hands moved down to Jimin’s waist as he went to close even the last fraction of distance between them.

The pink haired boy giggled, shaking his head as he rolled onto his back in an attempt to save himself from Jungkook. The latter was swift to chase after him, hovering above Jimin in the blink of an eye, his arms on either side of Jimin’s head as he smirked down at him.

“You always look beautiful – naked or dressed,” Jungkook declared as he leaned down to brush his lips over Jimin’s. “Preferably naked,” he added against his lips.
Jimin smacked his arm, causing Jungkook to chuckle.

“I’m just teasing, little one,” Jungkook noted, his eyes gleaming in affection. “You look pretty no matter what, but that fucking lingerie was… Fuck, you looked sinful; so goddamn sexy that the mere thought has me half hard for you all over again,” he elaborated, his obscene words embellishing Jimin’s cheeks with a darker shade of rose as he caught his bottom lip between his teeth.

“I was a little scared you weren’t going to like it,” Jimin admitted, his fingers tracing over Jungkook’s strong arms absentmindedly.

“Little one, I’m never not going to like something you decide to do,” Jungkook assured him, brushing strands of Jimin’s pink hair away from his forehead, a delicate smile curving Jimin’s lips at his comforting words. “Is that something you enjoy? Do you like wearing lingerie?”

Well…

“I…”

“You never told me that you do,” the younger male pointed out.

Undeniably, Jungkook was very open in that sense – or with anything, really – and was always adamant to remind Jimin that he could voice even his darkest desires to Jungkook, enabling them to find a way to realise them.

However, to Jimin’s defence – he hadn’t known about this trait of his prior to slipping into that lingerie for the first time.

“I didn’t know I did,” Jimin responded with a small shrug of his shoulder. “I never wore it before. When I put it on for the first time, I… felt really pretty and… I thought of what you were going to do to me in it,” he added, Jungkook’s eyes patient as they stared at him, an emotion glistening in his eyes upon those words slipping from Jimin’s lips. “I… liked the way it made me feel,” he uttered, his voice turning softer with each syllable of his. “Is that weird?”

Jungkook furrowed his brows. “Why would you think that?”

“I don’t know…”

“There is nothing weird about it at all, little one,” Jungkook reassured him. “I know, society is fucked up with its gender norms and their blatant obsession to put labels on you, but deciding what to wear and why you wear it is a choice solely yours, okay? If you want to wear lingerie, then that is completely fine. It doesn’t say anything about you, nor about your gender identity or your sexuality”

The smaller one gave a nod, smiling as he leaned up to crash his lips on Jungkook’s in a soft kiss.

“I liked it a lot,” Jimin then uttered. This time, his voice was filled with a whole lot more confidence.

At his self-assurance, Jungkook smiled, placing his palm against Jimin’s cheek, the pad of his thumb caressing his soft skin. “Do you want to wear your lingerie more often from now on, little one?”

Jimin pursed his lips, contemplating. “A whole set is quite difficult to get into all on your own,” he stated, replaying the horror of getting into it this morning all on his own in his head. “At least, it was for me,” he mumbled, wondering whether Tae was struggling with such troubles as well.

Jungkook laughed, giving a nod. “Yeah, it was a pain in the ass to get them off you, too,” he coincided.
“Maybe just… some lace panties. Not every day, but… but on some, maybe. They weren’t uncomfortable at all,” Jimin decided.

“Mhm, so every day I undress you, you’ll surprise me,” Jungkook hummed lowly, running his thumb along Jimin’s bottom lip.

The pink haired one giggled, the flush on his cheeks increasing as he curled his arms around Jungkook’s neck. “I am full of surprises,” he whispered.

“I know you are,” Jungkook grinned. “That’s why I love you”

“Is it, now?” Jimin questioned with a smile, raising his brow. “That’s the only reason?”

Jungkook was silent for a moment, appearing to deliberate over his next answer before he responded with a plain, “Yeah,” as he smirked teasingly.

Insulted, Jimin swatted his arm again with a gasp, causing Jungkook to laugh sweetly, the sound warming Jimin’s chest.

“No, of course not, just one of them,” Jungkook corrected swiftly, nudging his nose against Jimin’s temple.

“One, huh?” Jimin echoed, his fingers playing with the black locks of hair at the back of Jungkook’s head. “How many are there?” he wanted to know, truly inquisitive to discover what the reasons for his love were, yet then also teasing the man.

“Millions,” Jungkook stated.

“Tell me,” Jimin requested softly, chuckling at Jungkook’s response, aware that Jungkook was only exaggerating.

Jungkook raised his brows, a smirk curving his lips. “I see how it goes,” he noted, insinuating to roll off Jimin, but the latter was swift to pull him back down on him.

“What?”

“I mean, I know you have a praise kink, but-”

“Shut up!” Jimin gasped, his eyes big as he swatted Jungkook’s arm all over again, yet laughing all the same, the younger joining him.

As their laughter subsided, affectionate smiles remained, Jungkook pressing his nose against Jimin’s as he whispered, “I love you for a million reasons. I’m serious. I couldn’t name them in a day, even if I tried to. You bring out the best in me, little one. Beyond everything, you make me want to be a better man”

“You are a good man, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin whispered, shaking his head at Jungkook’s words.

The black haired male looked back and forth between his eyes. “Promise me?”

“Promise you what?”

“That you’ll never stop thinking that”

Jimin frowned, silent for a split moment.
“Jungkook-ah, how could I ever not think that about you?” he then wanted to know, leaning up to capture Jungkook’s lips in a gentle kiss. The younger didn’t hesitate to kiss back, moving his lips against Jimin’s, the touch passionate and sweet as he rolled them over, Jimin on top of him this time.

As they withdrew from one another, Jungkook’s lips lingered close by, brushing over Jimin’s as he tucked Jimin’s pink hair behind his ear.

“Well, the first night didn’t quite work out the way I had planned,” Jungkook noted, a slight chuckle falling from his lips as he nudged his nose against Jimin’s cheek.

The smaller boy tilted his head to the side. “What had you planned?” Jimin wondered, raising his brows in inquisitiveness.

After all, the cabin was rather secluded, no restaurants or malls around them for miles.

Smiling, Jungkook reached up to slide his hand through Jimin’s pink locks. “I wanted to take you out and go down to the lake to watch the stars with you,” the younger male revealed then, his words astonishing Jimin.

“There is a lake?” Jimin echoed, his eyes going bigger – despite that not being the most surprising fact of Jungkook’s statement. Frankly, Jimin hadn’t expected for Jungkook to dispose such a cute event for them. Not that it went beyond Jimin’s belief entirely to imagine Jungkook doing sweet gestures, but it was just… a nice notion.

“Yeah, it’s really pretty,” Jungkook chuckled, giving a nod.

“Kook-ah, that’s… such a cute idea,” Jimin asserted, smiling softly as he leaned in to press his lips to Jungkook’s chin.

“Another time,” Jungkook decided, Jimin’s heart skipping a beat as his statement insinuated that he was intending to take Jimin here someday again.

“We could still go now?” Jimin suggested, the notion of watching the stars with Jungkook being vastly heart-rending, causing him to disregard the hour of the night.

“You should sleep some more, hm? I… was a little rough on you,” Jungkook uttered, pressing a kiss to the back of Jimin’s ear.

Well, Jimin would definitely struggle to move much more tonight…

“Tomorrow?” the pink haired one proposed then. “I would love to”

“Okay, noted,” Jungkook affirmed with a smile. “Now sleep, angel”

“Only, if you are going to sleep, too,” Jimin proposed, shaking his head before he hid his face in the curve of Jungkook’s neck.

Jungkook chuckled, giving a nod. “Okay, baby, I will,” he uttered.

Soon, they fell asleep snuggled up with one another, Jungkook’s fingers tracing over Jimin’s back, aiding Jimin to find comfort and fall into a state of sweet haziness.

***

“K-Kook-ah,” Jimin moaned out, arching his back up into the air, silently begging Jungkook for more – to do him faster, deeper, harder.
The younger male smirked against him, his tongue lapping over Jimin’s hole before he spun them around, Jimin finding himself on top of Jungkook a few moments later, his back facing Jungkook. Apprehending the nonverbal command, Jimin leaned down without an ounce of hesitation, wrapping his lips around Jungkook’s hard length.

“Good boy,” Jungkook praised him, returning to eating Jimin out, evoking more of those sweet sounds in Jimin who was pushed into a state of pure ecstasy.

“P-please, yes. Yes, right there, Jungkook-ah!” Jimin shrieked, his hands entangled in the bed sheets as the heat in the pit of his stomach grew bigger.

“My pretty boy, being so good for me, hm?”

The smaller one’s eyes fluttered open, a rose flush adorning his cheeks, his lips plump and pink due to him having dug his teeth into them during his slumber. There was a noticeable heat radiating from his body, his skin hot and sweaty as though he had been active in his sleep, his chest heaving.

Swallowing hard, Jimin pressed his eyes shut all over again, shy and fairly embarrassed as his dirty dream replayed in his head. The way Jungkook’s tongue had- No, Jimin probably should not recall his dream in such detail, regardless of how thrilling it had been.

The true question was – why had Jimin dreamed about that in the first place, considering the intense events of the past night?

Maybe, Jungkook was right indeed, Jimin was insatiable when it came to his touch…

Then again, he recalled how he hadn’t quite finished sucking Jungkook off last night, which really was a bummer for Jimin since it was definitely one of his favorite things to do – whatever that said about him.

Slowly, Jimin rolled over onto his other side, lifting his head to locate Jungkook who he had expected to still be fast asleep, bearing in mind that he had been awake quite a lot longer than Jimin had last night.

However, Jungkook was already wide awake, a smirk curving his lips as their gazes met.

At his amused eyes, Jimin froze, a shiver running down his back.

Oh no… Had Jimin…. Had he talked in his sleep? Had he- had he done anything more embarrassing than that?

“G-Good morning,” Jimin uttered softly, leaning closer to press his lips to Jungkook’s cheek.

The black haired male wrapped an arm around his delicate figure, pulling him closer to his warm body. “Good morning to you, too,” he responded, his voice a lot lower than it usually was, touched by huskiness and heavy sleep. “What were you dreaming about, little one? Wanna share?” Jungkook whispered into his ear, his hot breath tickling on Jimin’s skin.

Jimin’s blush deepened.

Oh no, Jimin had definitely done something horrible during his sleep.

“You don’t have to leave for work this morning?” Jimin noted with a gulp, delighted at the realisation, yet simultaneously relieved to having found a question to avert the attention away from him and changing the subject entirely.
“I don’t,” Jungkook affirmed with a nod, amused by Jimin’s subtleness.

The pink haired one hummed, nuzzling his face deeper into the curve of Jungkook’s neck. “Then we can cuddle?” he asked quietly, curling his arm around Jungkook’s back.

“We can,” Jungkook chuckled, pressing a kiss to the top of Jimin’s head. “If that’s what you want to do,” he added lower. “Or, you can tell me what you dreamed about so I can help you out’”

“I… I didn’t… Help me how?” Jimin stuttered, too bashful to raise his head and meet Jungkook’s gaze.

“You moaned so pretty in your sleep, almost had me go down on you,” Jungkook revealed, his lips pressed against Jimin ear, a smirk curling up the corners of his mouth. At his suggestive words, Jimin nearly whimpered, catching his bottom lip between his teeth to keep quiet.

“O-Oh,” Jimin breathed, drawing his thighs together.

The taller male sat up with a chuckle, swift to press a kiss to Jimin’s temple before he grabbed the blanket and insinuated to leave the bed, puzzling Jimin who reached out to close his delicate hand around Jungkook’s wrist. “W-Where are you going?” he asked with big eyes, tugging on Jungkook’s arm to pull him back down on the bed beside him.

“I’m going to take a shower,” Jungkook responded with a smile, placing another kiss to Jimin’s shoulder before he indicated to leave again.

However, Jimin didn’t want him to go.

Whining, Jimin closed his arms around Jungkook, hiding his face in the curve of Jungkook’s neck as he shook his own head. “No,” he mumbled, brushing his lips over Jungkook’s throat tenderly, nibbling on his skin ever so softly.

A sweet laugh fell from Jungkook’s lips as he raised his brows at him. “Little one, when I teased you about spending the entire weekend in bed back at the restaurant, I was just joking,” he chuckled, his palm tracing lower to Jimin’s bare bottom – neither of them dressed, their naked bodies only covered by the velvety blanket.

The smaller boy blushed at the reminder of that night, hiding his face against Jungkook’s arm, yet then pressing his lips up to his throat all over again.

“I want to take you outside,” Jungkook noted, but didn’t even insinuate to push Jimin away – how could he, ever?

Eventually, Jimin bundled up all the courage he could muster, sitting up while he placed his hands on Jungkook’s shoulders, applying faint pressure to push him down on the bed entirely.

“I wanna… wanna suck you off,” Jimin declared softly, the desire too distinct for him to disregard. “Please,” he added.

Jungkook arched up his brows, titling his head to the side as he observed Jimin’s movement. “You want what now?” he asked, either believing that his ears had deceived him or Jimin’s words had truly been inaudible to him.

“You. In my mouth. Now,” Jimin elaborated, swinging one leg over Jungkook, allowing him to straddle Jungkook’s lap.
Naturally, Jungkook’s hands found their way to Jimin’s hips, grabbing the delicate skin as he wet his lips. “Demanding, hm?”

“Please, I will be good, Kook-ah,” Jimin promised, his gaze trailing down Jungkook’s fit body, the muscles on his stomach spasming as he sat up to be on eye level with Jimin.

As their faces were mere inches away, Jimin inhaled a shaky breath, his gaze flickering back and forth between Jungkook’s doe eyes. “Will you?”

“I-I will,” Jimin stammered, giving a faint nod.

The younger male brushed strands of Jimin’s pink hair out of his face, tilting his head to the side. “What did you dream about for you to be that needy, hm?”

Timidly, Jimin pushed Jungkook down on the bed again, not managing to respond as the flush on his cheeks darkened. There was no way Jimin was going to declare what naughty things he had dreamed of.

“Kitten?”

“Kook-ah,” Jimin whined, bending over to hover right above Jungkook’s penis, wetting his lips before he met Jungkook’s gaze again. “Please?”

“Fuck, go ahead, baby,” Jungkook permitted with a nod.

Delighted, Jimin closed his petite hand around Jungkook penis, no longer embarrassed by the fact that his palm didn’t cover the entire girth. Devoid of any hesitance, the smaller one brushed his wet lips over Jungkook’s penis, tracing them up to the tip where he lingered for a brief moment, careful to poke his cute little tongue out to twirl it around the tip.

“Shit, kitten,” Jungkook cursed, his hand sliding through Jimin’s pink locks to grab a bundle of his hair, the latter humming in satisfaction.

Slowly, Jimin lowered himself down on Jungkook’s length, his eyes fluttering shut at the breath that slipped past Jungkook’s lips, indicating his enjoyment of this moment. In contrast to last night, Jimin was careful and slightly more playful with his execution, twirling his tongue around the head as he simultaneously moved his hand up and down the part that wasn’t inside of his mouth just yet.

It was intriguing to feel Jungkook’s dick harden inside of his mouth, electrifying Jimin whose heart fluttered as he continued to alternate between little kitten licks over the tip of Jungkook’s dick and taking the head in between his lips to suck on it.

There was only so much self-control Jimin could gather before his desire prevailed, causing him to sink down on Jungkook’s faster, carelessly. At the sweet burning of his throat, Jimin whimpered, squeezing his eyes shut as he allowed his throat to adjust to the size of Jungkook.

It was only natural for his gag reflex to reject, compelling Jimin to pull off. However, the smaller one refused, ignoring the defense mechanism of his body and proceeding to remain in his stance.

A brief moment later, Jimin pulled off just enough to lower himself down again, a loud squelch in addition to the sound of Jimin gagging echoing in the room, albeit neither of them were paying much attention to those particular noises – Jungkook too focused on the pleasure, Jimin too focused on pleasing him.

Yet, the sweet little whimpers that left Jimin where always a pretty melody to Jungkook, the latter swearing he got even harder as he listened to how much Jimin loved to suck him off.

“Such a good boy,” Jungkook praised him, giving Jimin’s hair a tender tug.

Skilfully, Jimin bobbed his head up and down, drool trailing down Jungkook throbbing member and creating a mess that neither of them minded.

The pride and pure delight vivid within Jimin whenever he was praised for sucking Jungkook off was always simply valuable to him, simultaneously a vast enjoyment for either of them.

Unlike yesterday, Jungkook didn’t thrust into Jimin’s mouth, allowing the latter to set the pace at his own comfort, albeit Jimin wasn’t exactly anything close to slow or careful in his execution, too high on pleasing Jungkook.

It wasn’t long until Jungkook was close to his release.

“Kitten, I’m close, careful, if you don’t want to swallow,” Jungkook warned him as his grip in Jimin’s hair tightened.

Jimin blinked at the absurd idea – him not wanting to swallow?

That was new.

A few moments later, Jungkook came.

“Jimin-ah, fuck,” Jungkook cursed, tossing his head back as cum spurted from the tip of his erection, the man coming inside of Jimin’s mouth.

Moaning, Jimin pulled off slowly, parting his lips to watch a mixture of his own saliva and Jungkook’s cum dribble down from his mouth, trailing down on Jungkook’s dick. Devoid of any hesitance, Jimin wrapped his lips around his hard length again, licking it clean and savoring the taste of Jungkook on his tongue.

“Fuck, kitten, that was- Shit, that’s hot,” Jungkook breathed out, wetting his lips at the sight of Jimin playing with his cum.

Carefully, Jimin lifted his head, allowing Jungkook’s penis to slip from his mouth and fall back down on his stomach with a smack.

“You did so good, little one,” Jungkook complimented him as he sat up on his elbows, his black hair a mess of curls on top of his head, somehow causing him to appear adorable.

“Thank you,” Jimin whispered, his cheeks flushing as he wiped his hand over his mouth. “Now you can take a shower,” he noted with a sweet smile, evoking a laugh in Jungkook who gave a nod.

“I definitely need a shower now,” he remarked as he got up from the bed. “You can join me?” he suggested, his hand reaching out for Jimin.

The smaller one glanced at it but shook his head with a smile. “I don’t think we’ll get to leave the house today, if I join you,” he pointed out, picking up the velvety blanket to throw it over his shoulders, enabling him to cover his naked body.

“I will behave,” Jungkook promised, lifting his hands with a smirk.

Jimin blinked.
Taking a shower together was not beneficial for their intention of leaving the house tonight. Evidently, Jungkook had assured him of behaving, yet... Jimin wasn’t certain he could promise the same thing.

Certainly, Jimin didn’t strive to be naughty, but... this weekend he felt especially needy, causing him to long for Jungkook’s touch all over again by now.

Maybe, Jimin’s increased desperation was caused by the lack of intimacy between them and the privation of time absent from any sort of responsibilities over the past weeks? After all, Jimin couldn’t recall the last weekend – if they had one, ever – spent between just the two of them deprived of any distractions or schedules.

Jungkook lowered his hands down to his side again, amusement gleaming in his eyes. “You might not behave, huh?” he remarked, almost as though he could read Jimin’s mind.

“I’m a good boy, remember?” Jimin whispered, his cheeks tinging a shade of rose.

“Oh, I know you are,” Jungkook coincided with a smirk.

Shaking his head at himself, Jimin pointed towards the bathroom. “You can take a shower,” he decided. “I will try to make us some breakfast,” he added.

The younger male halted in the doorway, wrinkling his nose as he lifted his hand to say something. “Are you sure it’s such a good idea for you to cook-” “Shut up,” Jimin exclaimed with a gasp, tossing a pillow at Jungkook.

Dodging the item, Jungkook chuckled at Jimin’s adorableness. How could one look that fucking cute while trying to appear angry? “Joking, baby,” Jungkook assured before he pointed to the nightstand. “Besides, have you seen what time it is? We’re long past breakfast time,” he informed Jimin.

“Then some brunch,” Jimin corrected with a shrug of his shoulder.

It couldn’t possibly be much later, could it?

Jungkook snickered, leaning against the wall as he pointed at the clock on the nightstand again. “Check the time, angel,” he insisted softly.

Finally, Jimin obliged.

2pm

Jimin’s eyes went big.

What? How? When?

“Oh my god, why didn’t you wake me up?” Jimin exclaimed, intending to jump out of the bed, but falling flat on his stomach instead.

Swiftly, Jimin sat back up on the bed, restoring his balance and pretending that this incident had not just happened.

“I was doing god knows what to you in your dream – I ain’t gonna wake you up from that,” Jungkook responded with a smirk.
At his words, Jimin’s eyes went big, the flush on his cheeks turning a darker shade of rose. Groaning in embarrassment, he hid his face behind his hands, hoping the ground would open up and swallow him alive.

“I hate you,” Jimin whined in his hands.

The black haired male had closed the distance between them, curling his hands around Jimin’s wrist to unveil his beautiful face, the latter staring up at him with a pout.

“You don’t,” Jungkook responded with a smile, leaning down to press a kiss to Jimin’s pouting lips. Inevitably, Jungkook was quickly forgiven at the touch, Jimin chasing after him with the intention to deepen the kiss, all the gloomier when Jungkook only smiled as he grabbed Jimin’s chin to still his movement.

“I will make it up to you tonight, hm?” Jungkook promised, nudging his nose against Jimin’s cheek.

“How?”

The younger male leaned closer to Jimin’s ear. “I’ll let you sit on my face,” he answered, his tone lower. “No overstimulation, no edging, all your control,” he added.

Jimin swallowed hard.

Abort!

Tenderly, Jimin pushed Jungkook away, getting up from the bed with the blanket wrapped around his delicate body. “Leave, troublemaker, or we’re really never going to see the sun today,” he warned, pointing at the bathroom with a smile.

Chuckling, Jungkook saluted, distancing himself from Jimin and heading towards the bathroom to take a shower, not caring to shut the door on his way in.

Prior to moving downstairs, Jimin headed towards the other bedroom, discovering the mess they had left behind last night.

For a brief moment, Jimin halted in the doorway, replaying the events of the past night in his mind. A shiver ran down his back at the reminder, his heart still partially bewildered of what had happened to him.

Shaking his head, Jimin walked further into the room, picking up the clothes from the floor and folding them neatly before he placed them on top of the dresser, aside from one – Jungkook’s worn shirt.

Since Jimin was too lazy to rummage through his own clothes, he decided to wear Jungkook’s button up shirt, dropping the duvet on the bed and throwing the shirt on in no time.

Once dressed – well, half-dressed, for that matter – Jimin headed downstairs into the kitchen, deciding to take care of the mess in the bedroom after they had a chance to fill up their empty stomachs.

***

The black haired male walked into the kitchen a few minutes later, fully dressed in a pair of sweatpants and a simple white shirt – his usual business attire nowhere to be found; well, if you disregarded the button up shirt of his that adorned Jimin’s delicate body.

“It’s smells nice in here,” Jungkook noted upon his arrival.

“Well, I decided not to burn your kitchen down,” Jimin stated as he looked back over his shoulder, meeting Jungkook’s gaze.

“How generous of you,” Jungkook teased with a chuckle.

At his response, Jimin tossed a tea towel at him, narrowing his eyes at his remark, but smiling all the same.

“I heated up some of the food Jiyoo made for us,” Jimin informed him then, nodding towards the presented meals on the dinner table, the boy having found quite a lot of food in the fridge for them to devour.

“There is so much food in here,” he noted as he opened the fridge again, revealing the overly filled interior. “We’re never going to finish all of it this weekend”

“We’ll just take it home again,” Jungkook decided as he watched Jimin shut the refrigerator again, taking a seat at the dinner table. “My father or Beomsoo might enjoy some of it. Or you can take some with you,” he suggested as he picked up an apple instead of the heated food.

Jimin smiled at his idea, giving a nod. “Well, now that you’re done, I’m going to take a shower,” he noted, walking past Jungkook.

The black haired male frowned, looking after Jimin. “You didn’t even eat anything, little one,” he stated as he nodded towards the barely touched plates on the table.

“I did,” Jimin objected, flashing Jungkook a sweet smile as he leaned against the doorway. “A bit, when you were showering,” he elaborated.

“You’re going to leave me here all on my own?” Jungkook asked with raised brows.

Jimin giggled, shaking his head. “You’re going to manage”

“Not when I think about you; upstairs, naked and wet all on your own,” Jungkook claimed, wetting his lips as something glistened in his eyes.

The smaller one’s cheeks tinged a shade of rose, causing him to swiftly spin around to head outside. “Right, who knows what I’m going to do, huh?”

“What was that?” Jungkook called after him.

“I’m joking!” Jimin exclaimed with a chuckle as he walked up the stairs.

***

After taking a shower, Jimin returned to the bedroom where they had deposited their belongings, his body only veiled by the white fabric of a towel. As Jimin walked into the room, he halted in his stance upon the sight of Jungkook being present as well.

“You scared me,” Jimin gasped, having been startled by Jungkook’s presence since he had expected him to be eating some food downstairs in the kitchen.

The younger male looked up from the bed, chuckling at Jimin. “I’m sorry,” Jungkook apologised, observing Jimin approach his bag to pick out some clothes. “I just wanted to clean up a bit”

“I wanted to do it earlier, but I was too hungry,” Jimin noted as he tugged a hoodie over his head, careful to drop his towel as soon as he was certain that the piece of clothing was long enough to cover his private parts.

Swiftly, Jimin put on a fresh pair of briefs, followed by a pair of ripped jeans.

Once fully dressed in comfortable clothes, Jimin turned back around to face Jungkook, stilling as he noticed that the latter was already staring at him with a smirk while leaning against the wall, having long disregarded his intention of cleaning up.

“Kook-ah!”

“I didn’t see anything,” Jungkook claimed with a chuckle, pushing himself off the wall to close the distance between them. “Although, it’s not like I haven’t before”

“You cleaned up most of the mess already,” Jimin realised, changing the subject as he felt his cheeks tinge a shade of rose at Jungkook’s remark.

The younger boy chuckled, but decided to drop the topic. “Yeah, I was the one who was responsible for it,” he reasoned as he watched Jimin approach the bed, the latter’s eyes going big as he noticed the sheets that haven’t been changed. “I’ll have a cleaner come over as soon as we leave, little one,” Jungkook informed him as he closed his hand around Jimin’s wrist.

“Did you- The sheets, Kook-ah, I don’t want them to see the sheets like that,” Jimin whispered, despite the two of them being the only ones present in the entire house.

“They’ve seen worse,” Jungkook snorted.

“What?”

“Not from me,” Jungkook elucidated, chuckling at Jimin’s expression. “I’m just sure that they’ve seen worse shit around here. All of these rich bastards around here with their fancy parties each weekend have undoubtedly left a horrible mess behind before. This is not the worst they’ve seen,” Jungkook remarked, pointing at the sheets that Jimin had commenced to remove from the bed.

“I don’t mind washing them,” the smaller one noted, deciding to wash them as he was too embarrassed to leave a mess such as that one behind – in spite of the cleaner not even being aware of who he was.

Jungkook only smiled, figuring there was no use in arguing with Jimin, in fact deciding to go ahead and help Jimin.

“So, is there anything else you’d want to do today?” Jungkook inquired as he removed the sheets from the bed with Jimin. “There is a pretty restaurant a few miles down the road. I know the owner. I could call him and reserve a table for tonight,” he added.

At the suggestion, Jimin lifted his head with a smile, yet then being reminded of Jungkook’s proposal from the previous night.

“Actually, I really liked your idea of going down to the lake to watch the stars,” Jimin asserted. “Maybe, we could do a little picnic by the lake until the sun goes down and then when we get back to the cabin we could just sit by the fire and cuddle?”
“Sure, everything for you,” Jungkook retorted with a nod as he leaned closer to press his lips to Jimin’s temple. “I think I have to go and collect some wood for the fireplace, but you don’t have to come with me, I can go and do a quick run down to the forest and get some,” he remembered as he titled his head to the side.

“You don’t have to go on your own, I’ll join you,” Jimin noted, shaking his head.

“I could go and do a quick run now while you finish here?” Jungkook offered, guessing it would save them some time.

“Are you sure?”

The black haired male gave a nod, placing the sheet back down on the bed. “Only, if you don’t mind taking care of this on your own,” he added as he pointed at the sheets.

“No, not at all,” Jimin assured him with a smile.

“Okay, see you in a bit,” Jungkook noted as he pressed another kiss to the top of Jimin’s head before he exited the room.

***

After having finally figured out how to get the stupid washing machine running – seriously, it had taken Jimin ages, but don’t tell Jungkook – Jimin headed back downstairs, discovering that Jungkook hadn’t returned yet.

“Kook-ah?” Jimin called out, but doubted that Jungkook was truly present, considering how it was out of character for him to not make his presence known to Jimin in some way.

Furrowing his brows, Jimin approached the window at the back of the living room, looking out at the cluster of trees embellishing the place.

The younger male had intended to leave to collect some wood for the fireplace, yet that must have been half an hour ago now.

Did it truly take that long to find some sticks? Was he okay?

Catching his bottom lip between his teeth, Jimin lowered himself down on the large windowsill adorned by a soft duvet and some pillows.

Maybe it just took a little longer than Jimin had predicted.

Surely, Jungkook was completely fine, and the surge of concern vivid within Jimin was utterly ridiculous…. Right?

The smaller male got back up to his feet, a part within him urging him to go and search for Jungkook. However, as soon as he reached the front door, he realised that there was a forest down that direction as well, denoting that Jungkook could be anywhere in either of those.

“Great,” Jimin whispered, pressing his lips into a line as he allowed his gaze to wander along the scenery, nearly insinuating to avert his eyes, yet then… noticing a silver car down the street.

Odd…

After all, hadn’t Jungkook mentioned that there were no direct neighbours around?
Evidently, this wasn’t Beomsoo either, bearing in mind that he wasn’t driving a silver vehicle in the first place nor would Jungkook ever order Beomsoo to wait in a car for an entire weekend until he called for labour.

Who was that?

Yet then, they might have just gone down a wrong street, were lost in the middle of nowhere or searching for another house.

Maybe, they simply wanted to go on a hike around here, potentially take a trip to the lake?

Jimin closed the last bit of distance to the window, narrowing his eyes in an attempt to decipher whether anyone was inside the car.

However, as soon as Jimin had reached the window, the car suddenly drove off, the ringing sound of the engine the only thing left behind, although having vanished a mere moment later all the same.

Even stranger...

The pink haired one shook his head, intending to walk back into the house as he noticed a figure far down a path near the forest. After a moment of squinting his eyes, Jimin identified his boyfriend, recognising his clothes and the black mess of locks on top of his head.

A singe of relief was distinct within Jimin as he opened the door, exhaling a breath he hadn’t even noticed of withholding as he shut the door behind himself and ran down the street towards Jungkook.

In the meanwhile, Jungkook had turned away from Jimin, seemingly having caught sight of something in the distance, causing him to be unaware of Jimin.

“Kook-ah,” Jimin expressed as he had closed the distance between them, the younger male looking up at the sound of Jimin’s voice.

A sudden grunt was audible to Jimin’s left, the noise not human-like, startling Jimin who slipped on a couple of leaves just to fall to his knees.

“Little one, you're a scaredy cat,” Jungkook laughed, crouching down to help Jimin back up to his feet, having dropped the pieces of wood he had collected.

“I'm not,” the smaller one pouted, huffing as he pushed Jungkook away, crossing his arms over his chest.

“You were scared by a deer,” Jungkook noted, pointing at the graceful animal that was eating away on some grass to their left, warmth blooming within Jimin’s chest at the sight, simultaneous relief and faint embarrassment washing over him. “I thought you love animals?” the younger male teased him, raising his brows at Jimin.

“I do, but... but it still scared me,” Jimin mumbled, his cheeks tinged a darker shade of red.

Chuckling, Jungkook approached him, embracing Jimin and pulling him tighter to his chest. “What are you even doing here?” he wanted to know, pressing his lips to the top of Jimin’s head, the trace of vanilla still lingering in his pink locks. The scent possessed such a comforting effect on Jungkook, attributable to him associating the familiar smell with Jimin.

“You took so long. I thought something might have happened to you,” Jimin uttered into his chest.
“What should have happened to me, angel?”

That car…

“I don’t know,” Jimin whispered, shaking his head. “I just… wanted to run down to you,” he added with a slight shrug of his shoulder.

“Well, I can’t complain,” Jungkook smiled, his palm rubbing over Jimin’s back. “Are you okay?” he wanted to know.

“Yeah… Yeah, I’m good,” Jimin answered. The black haired male withdrew the smallest bit, allowing him to study Jimin’s features. “Are you sure, little one?” he asked, grabbing Jimin’s chin to guide his face up, enabling them to lock eyes.

“I am,” Jimin assured with a nod. “I’m just a little… shaken up by the deer” Jungkook chuckled, giving a nod. “I guess I gotta show you some self-defence techniques, huh?” he decided, puzzling Jimin. “So you don’t have to feel scared at every little sound you hear” Self-defence?

“What?”

“Do you remember that night at Han River some months ago? We talked about self-defence that night,” Jungkook reminded him of a prior conversation of theirs.

How could Jimin ever forget that day?

Although it hadn’t been anywhere near anything official back then, Jimin liked to consider it some sort of date, when he thought about that night.

“You remember that day?” Jimin wondered, his eyes big as he inclined his head to the side, somehow astonished by the fact of Jungkook remembering that incident.

“Of course, I do,” Jungkook snickered, amused by Jimin’s surprised expression.

“I slapped you that day,” Jimin mumbled, flushing at his own reminder.

“You did. I recall.”

“Sorry about that,” Jimin apologised sincerely all over again, despite that event having occurred months ago.

Jungkook laughed, shaking his head. “It’s fine. Come on, let’s have a little lesson,” he insisted as he picked up the wood, Jimin swift to crouch down and to assist Jungkook before they headed back to the cabin.

***

“When did you learn about self-defence?” Jimin wanted to know as he watched Jungkook push the sofa further back, allowing them to have more room to comfortable move around without fearing of ruining the expensive furniture around them. “In the fights you were involved with, when you were younger?” he asked, supposing it was a justified question.

Where would Jungkook have learned some self-defence, if not from experience of fighting other people, considering how he had mentioned various times before that he had fought a lot in his younger ages.

“No, one of the things my therapist advised for me to do was to do martial arts to get rid of my anger,” Jungkook responded, Jimin’s heart clenching at the mention of the therapy sessions that had been necessary for Jungkook to attend after his mother’s murder. “I took some self-defence classes,” he added.

“Oh, really?”

“Yeah,” he affirmed with a nod. “Actually, I did think a lot about showing you some self-defence techniques every now and then, but I promised myself to protect you, so I just… thought I didn’t need to,” he expressed, warmth spreading within Jimin’s chest at the notion of Jungkook swearing to protect him. “However, there… might come a day where I won’t be there to protect you. I want to show you some basic techniques that I think everyone should know,” he added.

Albeit Jimin didn’t want to imagine ever having to use any of these, he did believe that it wouldn’t hurt him to learn more about this. After all, they could come in handy one day – one day, when he really, really needed them.

“Oh, so, first things first,” Jungkook stated as he waved Jimin closer to him.

Hesitantly, Jimin took a step closer, wondering whether they were already commencing with the moves – that Jimin hadn’t even learned yet.

“If you’re ever being attacked – and I pray to god that you’ll never – you only have a few seconds to decide what to do. Before the aggressor has gained full control of you, you have to do everything you can to inflict an injury so you can get away,” Jungkook explained, staring at Jimin intently, appearing quite serious in this matter – a contrast to his earlier playfulness near the forest where he had teased Jimin. “In that case, there is no time to be civil, don’t feel guilty for hurting them”

“Kook-ah,” Jimin intended to interrupt, but went silent a heart beat later.

“You are going to be hurt, if you don’t hurt them first,” Jungkook stressed, the thought alone causing Jimin’s stomach to stir. “So, aim for the parts of the body where you can do the most damage easily: the eyes, nose, neck, groin, knee, and legs,” he explained, pointing at each body part of Jimin’s that he listed.

“O-Okay,” Jimin uttered softly, giving a nod.

“So, first of all, poking or scratching the attacker’s eyes with your fingers or knuckles-”

“Doing what now?” Jimin interrupted him with big eyes, certain that his ears had deceived him. “S-Scratching? Eyes?”

“Yes, it’s effective,” Jungkook plainly reasoned.

“I couldn’t… That’s-” Jimin stammered, shaking his head.

The black haired male placed two of his fingers below Jimin’s chin, guiding Jimin’s face up in order for them to lock eyes.

“Baby, you have to understand that this is meant for self-defence,” Jungkook expressed. “The man that were to be standing in front of you is not your friend, they won’t have mercy on you the way you naturally tend to. He is ought to hurt you, potentially even kill. Although you think it’s horrible to do any of this, what they want to do to you might even be worse,” he elaborated.

“Yeah… I… I understand,” Jimin uttered with a nod.

After pressing a kiss to Jimin’s forehead, Jungkook returned to the lesson. “Okay, so, besides causing a lot of pain, going for the eyes should also allow you to escape easier by at least temporarily interfering with his vision”

A shiver ran down Jimin’s back at the thought of scratching someone’s eyes.

How absolutely appalling.

Yet, if it were to occur in a vastly dangerous situation, it could aid to save his life.

“The nose,” Jungkook proceeded. “If the aggressor is close in front of you, use the heel of your palm to strike up under his nose,” he explained, having wrapped his hand around Jimin’s wrist to lift it up, pointing at the heel of Jimin’s palm. “Pitch the whole weight of your body into the move to cause the most pain and force him to loosen his grip on you. If he’s behind you, you can strike his nose with your elbow.

“All of that sounds so violent,” Jimin uttered.

“It’s supposed to be, baby,” Jungkook responded.

True…

“The side of the neck is a bigger target, where both the carotid artery and jugular vein are located,” the younger male went ahead. “You could possibly temporarily stun your attacker with a knife hand strike at the side of the neck,” he stated, naming a term Jimin had never heard of before – knife hand what?

The smaller one blinked.

“What’s that?”

Jungkook smiled. “Hold your fingers out straight and tightly together, yeah, like that, your thumb needs to be tucked and slightly bent at the knuckle,” he expressed, Jimin obliging his instructions, both of their gazes fixated on Jimin’s petite hand. “Perfect,” Jungkook noted, appearing to be satisfied with Jimin’s execution. “Even more efficient would for you to thrust your elbow into your assailant’s throat while throwing the weight of your body forward in order to move away from him as fast as possible”

Jimin swallowed hard, his stomach squirming in discomfort and horror as he imagined to be stuck in a terrifying situation such as that one, essentially trapped in their grasp.

“Next would be the knee,” Jungkook drew Jimin out of his thoughts again. “It’s an ideal self-defence target, vulnerable from every angle and easily kicked without any risk of your foot being grabbed. Kick the side of the knee to cause an injury,” he advised.

The pink haired one only gave a nod, hoping his subconsciousness would recall any of this in a true moment of danger.

“Okay, those are the parts of the body that are most sensitive when hit,” Jungkook outlined. “Now you’ll learn about the parts of the body used most effectively for inflicting damage: your elbows, knees, and head”
“Jungkook-ah, but… I mean, I guess all of that does sound like it would work, but in a situation like that, I don’t think I would be able to react that quickly. Aside from that, what if he acts quicker than me and grabs my arms? I won’t be able to defend myself in that case,” Jimin pointed out, doubting that when it came down to it, he had a real chance to protect himself against someone who was much taller and broader than him, easily managing to grab Jimin’s wrists and restrict him in defending himself.

“If he grabs your wrist, squat down into a strong stance, then lean forward and bend your elbow all the way towards his forearm until he is forced to let go,” Jungkook taught. “Or bend your elbow in to get out of the wrist hold, but then push upwards to break free.”

“That’s quite a lot of information to comprehend,” Jimin mumbled, his brain trying to process each and every information that slipped from Jungkook’s lips.

“We’ll try some of it out in just a moment,” Jungkook assured him.

“Try it… out?” Jimin echoed, his eyes big.

Try it out on whom?

Jungkook didn’t respond, but went on with the lesson instead. “The assailant could also front choke hold or back choke hold you. In that case, swing one arm across to break the attacker’s hold then use your other arm’s elbow or hand in a knife hand strike position to hit the attacker,” he explained.

“What if he doesn’t choke me, but holds my entire body from behind? There is no way I can get out of that,” Jimin pointed out.

“When someone holds you from behind, you need to drop your weight and try to hit his head with your elbows or stomp his feet with your feet. If that doesn’t work, pull his fingers back to force him to release you, rotate out of his hold, and attack him with your knees or feet.”

For some reason, it didn’t sound that utterly difficult, but as soon as Jimin imagined himself to be in such a decision, he failed to envision himself use any of these techniques.

“Now, for the last part, in the event of a possible sexual assault,” Jungkook proceeded.

At his words, Jimin swallowed hard, an alteration visible in Jungkook’s expression, an emotion gleaming in his dark eyes.

“Kook-ah,” Jimin whispered, taking a step closer to place his palm against Jungkook’s cheek.

“Fuck, it just… It fucks me up to think about someone hurting you like that,” Jungkook apologised, shaking his head at himself. “Especially when I think about what happened to my…”

Mother, Jimin finished in his head.

“I think I’ve learned enough, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin uttered. “It’s okay, really. Although, I-I don’t think I’m even strong enough to do all of that-”

“It’s not about strength, little one,” Jungkook objected.

The pink haired one knitted his brow, doubting that Jungkook’s statement was valid.

“Are you sure?”

“Yes, it’s about where you target and how you use your body,” Jungkook claimed. “Come on, let’s
“Have a try?”

“Yes, you’re going to imagine that I’m an attacker, yeah?” Jungkook decided, waving Jimin even closer to him. “Come here, angel, you gotta get closer”

Hesitantly, Jimin decreased the distance between them with a nervous heart, uncertain of what he was supposed to do with himself.

“Don’t be scared, Jimin-ah, we’re just imagining it,” Jungkook assured him.

“I know,” Jimin uttered, giving a nod. “Okay, so, what should I do?”

“I’m going to attack you know – not literally – and you’re going to try and defend yourself, okay?”

“O-Okay,” Jimin stammered.

Carefully, Jungkook turned Jimin around, the latter facing away from him. “No need to be scared, yeah? It’s just me,” Jungkook whispered as he wrapped his arm around Jimin’s throat, essentially choking him, if he were to apply some pressure.

However, he didn’t.

Undeniably, it was difficult for Jimin to imagine this to be a dangerous situation that called for self-defence, due to him being aware that this was Jungkook. Nevertheless, Jimin somehow felt safe in the close proximity to the boy – in spite of the younger male choking him.

“Now, try to utilise what I taught you,” Jungkook insisted.

Jimin gave a faint nod, inhaling a deep breath as his brain tried to recall Jungkook’s words, his lecture about self-defence replaying in Jimin’s mind, but somehow the points were entangled, mixed up and interchanged into a mess that only partially made sense.

Hadn’t Jungkook mentioned something about the groin being a place where you can inflict the most damage?

Cautiously, Jimin squirmed around in the embrace, pushing his body forward as he lifted his foot to the back to hit Jungkook, yet somehow applying more force than he had initially intended to, causing what had been denoted to be a simple pretend-move to an actual kick into Jungkook’s groin.

“Oh my god!” Jimin exclaimed upon their collision, Jungkook’s embrace immediately faltering as he grunted.

“Fuck,” Jungkook cursed as he covered his groin area.

Spinning around, Jimin’s eyes went big as he noticed Jungkook’s pain-filled expression. “I’m so sorry,” Jimin apologised, his heart clenching.

Not again.

“No, that- Fuck, that was good,” Jungkook complimented him instead of voicing some sort of anger. “That’s, shit, yeah, that’s effective,” he added, hissing at the pain he was experiencing.

“Kook-ah,” Jimin whined, tears swelling in his eyes. “Do you need something? I-Ice or anything?” he inquired, not waiting for a response, but turning around and running into the kitchen where retained a bag of frozen food – not caring to identify the food.

As soon as Jimin had returned to the living room, he hurried over to Jungkook’s side.

“Sit down, Jungkook-ah,” he insisted as he tugged on his arm, guiding him over to the sofa where the younger took a seat, Jimin swift to lower himself on the sofa beside him and press the frozen bag to Jungkook’s groin.

The black haired male sucked in a breath, pressing his eyes shut as his head sank to the backrest of the sofa.

“Is it very bad?” Jimin whispered, feeling very apologetic for what he had done.

“No, it’s- Fuck, don’t worry, angel, I will be fine in a few minutes,” Jungkook reassured him, but his expression illustrated something dissimilar. Clearly, he was only trying to comfort Jimin so the boy wouldn’t be concerned or blame himself.

However, Jungkook was visibly in pain.

The smaller one leaned closer, pressing a kiss to Jungkook’s cheek as he proceeded to press the frozen bag to Jungkook’s groin. “Can I make it better?” Jimin whispered, nudging his nose against Jungkook’s cheek before he nuzzled his face in the curve of Jungkook’s neck.

“This is good,” Jungkook noted. “Just stay like this, little one, and give me a few minutes.”

“Okay,” Jimin uttered, giving a nod.

Apparently, the pain caused by a kick in the groin was one of the more severe for men to experience. The aching must be awful, albeit Jimin’s kick hadn’t been vastly forceful.

It was silent for a moment.

“You’re not going to lose your ability to… have children, right?” Jimin broke the silence between them.

At his question, Jungkook smiled.

“I don’t think so, no, baby,” Jungkook responded, slight amusement gleaming in his eyes as he lifted his head just enough to meet Jimin’s gaze. “Besides, you could still be the one to provide a child by using your sperm”

Jimin titled his head to the side, his heart doing a small skip at the notion of Jungkook’s words insinuating that he had considered the idea of either of them using their sperm to have a child together one day.

“Have you thought about that?” Jimin inquired softly.

“About what?”

Jimin was careful how to word his sentence. “Well, about… if you were to have children, whether you’d want it to be your own sperm or perhaps by adopting a child?”

“Oh, well… I don’t know,” Jungkook responded with a shrug. “I haven’t thought about it, no.”

Well, frankly, Jimin had never went ahead to really contemplate about each option one could consider for having a child in the future either. After all, the idea of having a child in the first place had been one Jimin had rarely even thought about at all, let alone take a step further to establish how he would realise that wish, if it were one.

In a way, there was something so endearing about the idea of holding a child in your arm that you were aware of having your genes, that would look a little like you.

Yet then, Jimin couldn’t help but think about the orphanage and all of those sweet children who deserved and needed a family just as much. There was something so beautiful in the idea of embracing one of those children and become their family.

In any case, Jimin had experienced the identical pain of waiting, praying that someone would choose him, would love him and become his family. For years, Jimin had waited for someone to find him and be the family he had always wished for.

However, life happened in the most unexpected ways.

There was no way Jimin would have ever imagined that he would find a family years later, six boys walking into his life and becoming his best friends, but brothers all the same and be the family he had always prayed for.

How should Jimin have known that after the agony of being raised by his father there would bloom something so beautiful in years to come?

His father.

No, the man that had raised him.

Jimin’s father was somewhere out there – living his life in Busan, unaware of Jimin being his son, potentially even being unaware of having a son at all.

To this day, Jimin was still uncertain what misfortune had led him to the man that had raised him.

Had his mother truly been his biological mother?

Had he been legally adopted?

Had he been dropped off in front of a random set of stairs, forced to live with a man that never wanted him?

“I wonder whether I was adopted,” Jimin suddenly found himself whisper, causing Jungkook to lift his head to meet his gaze again.

The black haired male parted his lips at Jimin’s words, but he remained silent, simply studying Jimin’s features at the rather unexpected turn of conversation.

“We haven’t talked about your father in a while,” Jungkook then pointed out.

“Yeah…. I-I know,” Jimin mumbled with a nod, averting his gaze.

Why had he brought that up in the first place?

“Do you want to?” Jungkook wanted to know, grabbing Jimin’s chin to guide his face back up.

The smaller boy shrugged his shoulders. “I don’t know”

“Your father might know the answer; whether or not you were adopted by the man that raised you, whether your mother was truly your mother,” Jungkook stated, the pad of his thumb caressing Jimin’s cheek.

“Yeah,” Jimin breathed, giving a nod.

Jungkook’s gaze flickered back and forth between Jimin’s eyes. “You’re not ready to talk to him yet, are you?”

It had been months – months – since Jimin had visited him in Busan.

Yet, somehow, he still wasn’t ready.

“I… I’m not sure,” Jimin murmured.

“It’s okay to take your time,” Jungkook asserted with a gentle smile, leaning up to press his lips to Jimin’s forehead.

“I do think about him every now and then, but I don’t think I’ve fully grasped my… my heart around all of it yet, if that makes sense,” Jimin expressed. “I understand that he’s my biological father, but it doesn’t quite… it doesn’t quite feel like he truly is,” he explained.

After all, they had only shared a small encounter, had exchanged a few words devoid of any depth – Jimin barely knew anything about him, he knew absolutely nothing about Jimin.

“There are times where I do want to talk to him, but… I just don’t want to ruin the image I have right now,” he elaborated. “I don’t want him to tell me that he didn’t want me – or that he wished I never found him. I don’t want to ruin his life that appeared so whole and beautiful either. I wouldn’t want to crash into it and cause a horrible chaos,” he added, his voice turning softer and quieter with each syllable until it was only just above a whisper, barely audible for Jungkook to register, but he did.

The younger male reached up to brush Jimin’s fringe out of his face. “First of all, you could never ruin anyone’s life, you are not a chaos either,” he objected. “If you ever decide you’re ready, I’m sure your father is going to welcome you. However, you might feel content already, by simply knowing he exists. That’s your decision to make,” he responded, Jimin faintly recalling them having a similar conversation before.

“Yeah,” Jimin breathed, giving a nod. “Sometimes I just… I just worry that when I finally do make the decision to meet him, it’s going to be too late,” he uttered.

Time was cruel.

Clearly, Jimin’s heart required some more time to be ready, yet with each passing second, time was ticking, potentially impeding Jimin from ever talking to his father, if his heart finally were to be ready.

“What do you mean?”

“What if he moves somewhere else?” Jimin named an example.

“We’ll find him, anywhere,” Jungkook assured him with a smile.

“What if he passes away?” Jimin whispered.

For a moment, Jungkook just stared at him.

Then, he sat up and turned his body towards Jimin. “Time is one of the most valuable things we spent,” he declared, puzzling Jimin who hadn’t envisaged such an answer. “Sometimes, it feels like we have an infinite amount to spend, but sooner or later we realise that we can never have enough time to expend”

“So… you’re saying I should talk to him before it’s too late?” Jimin concluded slowly.

The other one smiled. “No, I’m telling you to talk to him, when you’re ready to,” Jungkook expressed. “If you fear you might regret it, don’t rush into it; accept that you prefer to take that step only once you’re comfortable with facing him and all of the repercussions that follow along”

The smaller one returned the smile, giving a faint nod.

Fate worked in wonderful ways.

Admittedly, Jimin believed that things that were meant to happen, would happen.

Just like fate had allowed him to meet six of the most wonderful people in the world, it would guide him to his father one day, sending him a sign to illustrate the right moment.

They stared at one another for a moment longer, Jimin being the one to break their eye contact and point at Jungkook’s lap. “So, how is your… groin?” Jimin inquired, lifting the frozen package.

“It’s all good again,” Jungkook assured him. “You’re a good nurse,” he complimented Jimin – for the bare minimum, considering how Jimin had essentially done nothing but provide a frozen bag of – beans, as it turns out.

Jimin giggled. “I’m just glad you’re feeling better,” he noted. “I’m sorry. Again,” he added as he caressed Jungkook’s cheek.

The black haired boy grabbed Jimin’s waist and pulled Jimin onto his lap, swift to lean in and crash his lips on Jimin’s. It was a gentle, but deep kiss, conveying a sense of passion and affection that had Jimin gasp for air when Jungkook withdrew a few moments later.

“You don’t need to apologise, okay?” Jungkook pressed softly, tucking Jimin’s hair behind his ear.

“I’ll keep kissing the absolute shit out of you until you finally stop being sorry,” he threatened as he nudged his nose against Jimin’s cheek.

“Well, if that’s the case, then… I’m really sorry,” Jimin whispered against his lips.

Jungkook grinned, shaking his head. “You little shit,” he muttered against Jimin before he attached their lips in another kiss.

***

“Why won’t you let me help you carry that again?” Jimin wanted to know, crossing his arms over his chest as he walked through the cluster of trees, the scent of wood and mud filling Jimin’s nostrils.

They were currently on their way down to the lake, having provided a small basket with food and drinks, and a blanket to take along as soon as Jungkook had felt better after being kicked in the groin by Jimin – or rather, their long making-out session having followed right after.

“It’s not heavy, baby,” Jungkook noted.

“Still,” Jimin pressed.

Smiling, Jungkook pointed at his shoulder. “You can carry the blanket, if you really want to,” he
The smaller boy rolled his eyes but didn’t hesitate to remove the blanket from Jungkook’s shoulder and carry it over his arms.

“When was the last time you were down at the lake?” Jimin wanted to know, stealing a glimpse at his boyfriend that walked right beside him.

“I had a look at the lake earlier, when I went on to get some wood for the fireplace,” Jungkook responded.

Jimin raised his brows. “That’s what took you so long,” he remarked with a chuckle, finally having solved the mystery.

“I just wanted to see whether it still looked the same,” Jungkook reasoned with a soft smile.

Seemingly, Jungkook associated pleasant memories with the place, at least judging by the smile that adorned his handsome features. After all, Jungkook had mentioned that this place was significant to him, that it possessed a certain emotional value.

“And?”

“Well, not exactly as I remember it,” the younger male stated. “Then again, to be fair, it has been years since I went down to the lake the last time,” he added.

Occasionally, Jimin wondered how that felt like – to return to a place of your childhood, to a place that you connected a happy and wholesome time with.

Would it allow those joyful emotions to rebloom?

Would it create nostalgia?

Would it pain to see that the place was no longer the same you remember it as?

Yet, wasn’t that simply part of life? – To realise and accept that things changed, that they were in motion; all the time.

It was natural. It was inevitable. It denoted that we were alive.

“There was no one down at the lake earlier,” Jungkook drew Jimin out of his thoughts.

“Do you think there might be anyone around now?”

“I doubt it,” Jungkook responded. “As I mentioned earlier, it’s mainly rich old guys that buy a cabin around here. Their spoiled children would frequently throw parties over the weekend, but I’ve never seen anyone else be at the lake whenever I was down here,” he elaborated.

Somehow, it was a peculiar concept for Jimin to imagine staying here in a cabin belonging to your parents over the summer just to throw one party after the other.

“Did you ever host a party here?” Jimin inquired, inquisitiveness depicted on his face as he glanced at Jungkook.

“No”

“Did you ever attend anyone else’s?”
“Maybe,” the younger retorted.

“So, you do know the people around here?” Jimin concluded, pointing to the side at no one in particular.

“No, not really,” Jungkook claimed, shaking his head. “You see, they don’t invite just five people to their party, but at least fifty – and those fifty invite their friends. Soon enough, it’s a party of more than a hundred people and there is no way in hell you’ll know everyone, not even the host,” he explained.

Well, Jimin did recall the various parties Yoongi has thrown over the years. Despite it never quite being a few hundred people that had attended the party, it had always been a good fifty or sixty people there, including strangers.

“Sounds like fun,” Jimin noted ironically.

“Well, back then, it was,” Jungkook chuckled.

“Mhm,” Jimin grumbled, not certain he could envision himself to consider a huge party such as that one as something similar to fun.

“Not now,” Jungkook elucidated with a smile. “I mean, not now, when I look back on it”

“I’ve never been a fan of those huge parties,” Jimin asserted with a sigh. “I mean, I haven’t exactly attended enough to form a proper judgement, but even Hyung’s party were too overwhelming for me”

Suddenly, Jimin tripped, barely managing to remain his balance and refrain from falling.

Chuckling, Jungkook closed an arm around Jimin’s waist. “Your shoes are untied,” he noted.

“Oh,” Jimin mumbled, swift to crouch down and tie the laces of his shoes, his short-term memory lacking the ability to recall their prior conversation as he rose to his feet again.

“So, why did you ask whether there would be anyone around now?” Jungkook wanted to know.

“Do you think we could take a swim in the water?” Jimin asked.

“A swim?” Jungkook echoed.

“Yeah,” Jimin affirmed with a nod, neither of them having commenced to walk again, but both proceeded to stand there and gaze at one another.

“We could go… skinny dipping,” Jungkook suggested as he closed the distance between them.

Swimming? Naked??

“N-Now?” Jimin stammered, swallowing hard as he tugged the sleeves of his shirt over his delicate hands. “N-Naked?”

“Would you want to?” Jungkook uttered, leaning down to press his lips to the back of Jimin’s ear, a visible smirk embellishing his handsome features.

Oh, he was definitely doing this one purpose – simply teasing Jimin to evoke a reaction.

The smaller boy inhaled a shaky breath, nonetheless.
“There is no one around here for miles,” Jungkook noted with a smirk, his tone too seductive for Jimin’s own good, albeit Jimin’s awareness of Jungkook teasing him, he was still dangerous. “If you want to, I could even take you right here, little one,” he added, his palms trailing down to Jimin’s bottom, the latter suddenly not as certain anymore whether Jungkook was truly only teasing him or whether he was sincere in his suggestion.

“H-Huh?” Jimin breathed, digging his teeth into his bottom lip.

There was a noise to their left, startling Jimin who flinched and turned to observe their surroundings.

“It’s just another animal, little one,” Jungkook assured him, chuckling at Jimin’s timid expression as he pulled him closer again. “It won’t hurt you. It’s just you and me,” he added, his hand trailing lower to Jimin’s bottom as he brushed his lips over Jimin’s, evoking a whimper in Jimin.

The black haired male smirked, satisfied with how responsive Jimin was, and deliberating whether he was going to tease his lover a little more or whether he was truly going to tug Jimin’s pants down and eat him out right here and there.

“Behave, bunny,” Jimin suddenly whispered, smiling as he detached himself from Jungkook, the latter raising his brows at him as he wet his lips.

Swiftly, Jimin spun around, heading down the stone path they were on, giggling to himself as he skipped away.

“If you keep that up, I might have to change my mind of letting you sit on my face tonight,” Jungkook called after him.

Gaspin, Jimin turned to face him, pressing his index finger to his plump lips as another pretty rose flush adorned his cheeks. “Psht!”

The younger male smirked, but shook his head at Jimin’s reaction. “Right, oh no, the deer might hear what dirty shirt I’m going to do to you tonight”

Jimin rolled his eyes, but ignored Jungkook’s remark as he proceeded to head down the path, a surge of delight and anticipation distinct within him as he witnessed a wave of blue water crash into the small hill they were currently heading towards.

They were that close to the lake now that Jimin could practically feel the droplets of water hit him, the scent around him a mixture of mud and wooden traces, creating a rather comforting ambience that evoke a sense of carefreeness within Jimin.

As Jimin reached the small hill, he stole a glimpse at the water, somehow itching to just jump into it and go for a swim.

“The water is too cold to go in by now, angel,” Jungkook remarked, almost as though he possessed the ability to read Jimin’s mind. “I don’t want you to get sick,” he noted softly.

“It looks absolutely stunning though,” Jimin uttered, his eyes big as he allowed the scenery to awe him. The view was jaw-dropping, the hill just high enough to enable a beautiful sight on the lake, a distorted picture of the sun reflected in the water. “Wow,” he breathed, the sky a rosy shade, the sun slowly setting. “The sun will set soon, it’s going to look so beautiful,” he claimed as he walked closer to the cliff.

“Don’t walk too close, angel,” Jungkook warned him from the back.
“Why?” Jimin wondered, stealing a glimpse back over his shoulder at Jungkook before he averted his gaze back to the sky.

“The ground is uneven at that part; the dirt might be a little—”

“It’s fine, Kook-ah,” Jimin interrupted him with a chuckle, endeared by Jungkook’s caring demeanor, then gasping as he saw a few swans land on the water, creating an even prettier image. “Look at that, Kook-ah, it’s—”

Suddenly, the floor beneath Jimin crumbled.

The smaller boy slipped in the mud, causing him to fall to the floor, forced to slide down the small hill and roll towards the water.

In the twinkling of an eye, Jimin had disappeared.

“Jimin-ah!” Jungkook exclaimed, dropping everything to the floor and running towards the edge of the cliff, staring down at Jimin who was lying by the shore.

Jungkook’s heart dropped.

“Jimin-ah!” he shouted as the smaller one didn’t reply, not moving at all as he was lying in a little puddle of water. “Fuck,” Jungkook cursed, jumping down the hill and running towards Jimin. “Little one”

Frightened, Jungkook dropped down to his knees, embracing Jimin with the intention of removing him from the ice cold water, the latter coughing up a few times, signalling that he was still conscious.

“Jimin-ah, little one, talk to me,” Jungkook begged, horror written on his face as he placed his palm against Jimin’s cheek. “Are you okay?”

The pink haired one coughed again, grumbling, “The edge was uneven,” smiling faintly.

“Shit,” Jungkook cursed, smiling back at his lover, relieved to establish that he wasn’t hurt to the point of being compelled to feel mentally absent. “Angel, you scared the absolute shit out of me,” he added, not hesitating to lean in to press several kisses to Jimin’s damp forehead.

“I’m sorry,” Jimin mumbled in apology, pressing his lips into a line.

“Are you okay? Are you hurt?” the black haired male wanted to know, his hands touching each part of Jimin’s figure as though they would locate a wound.

“No, just… just wet,” Jimin retorted, shaking his head. “I’m not hurt,” he assured with a soft smile, yet then furrowing his brows as he realised that he was potentially unable to feel any injuries in this current moment as the adrenaline within him was impending such ability.

“Let’s get you back inside,” Jungkook decided, raising to his feet again with Jimin in his arms, not lowering the boy down to his own feet, but choosing to carry him back up the hill.

“I can walk,” Jimin offered, a surge of guilt washing over him as Jungkook headed up the hill.

“No, I’ll carry you,” the younger male objected, shaking his head at Jimin’s offer.

Deciding that it was futile to argue with Jungkook’s stubborn tendency, the pink haired boy remained silent, clinging onto Jungkook who walked towards their stuff, capable to pick the basket up with one hand while he proceeded to carry Jimin with his other arm.
A few minutes later, they were back inside the cabin, the sudden alteration in temperature causing Jimin to be so much more aware of his state, his soaking clothes sticking to his cold body, evoking a shudder in the poor boy.

“You’re fucking shivering,” Jungkook noted, his tone concerned as he walked into the living room, setting Jimin down to his feet. “You’re going to be sick, little one”

“No, I’m not going to be sick. Not now,” Jimin objected, vigorously shaking his head, refusing to become sick during their trip.

“Let me set up the fireplace,” the black haired male offered, heading towards the fireplace while Jimin curled his arms around himself in an attempt to engulf himself in some sort of warmth. “Sit down, baby,” Jungkook insisted once he had lit up the fireplace, the sound of fire cracking filling the room, the faint illumination of the ignition the only source of light in the room aside from the rosy shade of light of the setting sun glistening through the windows.

The smaller boy gave a faint nod, his gaze travelling over to the sofa, then down to the floor. Frankly, Jimin didn’t want to ruin their sofa with his dirty clothes, yet then he didn’t want to ruin their white rug adorning the vast majority of the living room either.

“I’ll go and get you some towels and new clothes,” Jungkook decided once he had straightened his back, swift to walk past Jimin with the intention of acquiring those particular things, but pressing a kiss to Jimin’s forehead before he rushed upstairs. “I’ll be right back,” he called out from the stairs.

A few moments later, he returned to the living room, Jimin having remained in his same position throughout his absence.

“Little one, why are you still standing?” Jungkook wanted to know, furrowing his brows as he dropped the stack of clothes down on his sofa, only retaining the towel in his hand.

“I didn’t want your furniture to be ruined,” Jimin mumbled softly.

Jungkook only smiled, shaking his head as he pressed a kiss to Jimin’s forehead. “We gotta get you out of your wet clothes,” he then stated.

The smaller boy gave a nod, insinuating to grasp the hem of his shirt, but Jungkook beat him to it, his hands grabbing the fabric and tugging it up over Jimin’s head before he dropped it to the floor.

Jimin shivered, his bottom lip wobbling as he met Jungkook’s gaze again. The younger male didn’t hesitate to wrap the towel around Jimin’s shoulders before he unzipped his pants and pulled them down Jimin’s legs.

“Step out of it, baby,” Jungkook insisted, Jimin swift to comply, allowing Jungkook to toss his soaking trousers to the side.

Once Jungkook rose to his feet again, he hooked one finger around the waistband of Jimin’s underwear, yet then not tugging on the piece of clothing, but staring into Jimin’s eyes.

Apprehending the nonverbal question, Jimin gave a gentle nod, permitting Jungkook to remove the very last piece of fabric that veiled his private area. Slowly, Jungkook pulled Jimin’s underwear down his milky legs, the latter stepping out of them before he shielded his body with the soft towel around his shoulders.

“Are you okay?” Jungkook wanted to know as he rubbed his palms along Jimin’s arms, assisting him in drying his body, simultaneously engulfing him with some warmth.

“Yeah. Just... just cold,” Jimin muttered, giving a faint nod.

“Come here,” Jungkook insisted, his tone gentle as he picked Jimin up into the air, then approaching the sofa and lowering himself down on the piece of furniture, causing Jimin to straddle his lap. “I’m gonna help you stay warm”

Jimin smiled at his caring gesture, snuggling up against him as Jungkook reached for a blanket to cover both of their bodies. Jungkook’s strong arms curled around Jimin’s delicate body a moment later to embrace him, his lips finding their way to Jimin’s temple to press a peck to it.

“I’m sorry,” Jimin apologised, his tone soft and muffled against Jungkook’s skin. “You warned me, but I still walked closer. That was stupid of me. I ruined your plans – again.”

The black haired male’s palm caressed Jimin’s back, the tips of his fingers drawing shapes on Jimin’s skin that he wasn’t capable to define. “Little one, you didn’t ruin anything,” Jungkook objected, shaking his head. “We can look at the stars another day, don’t worry. Now, we need you to heat up, so you won’t be sick, hm?” he noted, nudging his nose against Jimin’s cheek.

Sometimes, Jimin was way too inquisitive and enthusiastic over the smallest things for his own good. This one right here was… Exhibit... T? U?

At this point, there were too many incidents for Jimin to count or explicitly name all of them.

The soft crackling of the fire in the background was a rather pleasant sound, the only form of resonance among them, establishing a comfortable silence between the two boys.

Despite their plans having been thwarted – due to Jimin, thank you very much – this was a nice replacement, Jimin decided. After all, he had asked Jungkook to cuddle by the fire too, just... well, after a cute picnic by the lake. Now, their plans had simply been rearranged, which wasn’t that bad.

“I like this,” Jimin voiced, pressing his lips to Jungkook’s nape, completely disregarding the fact that he still hadn’t put on any clothes, but was only veiled by the fabric of a towel and a blanket.

“Shivering after falling into ice-cold water?” Jungkook guessed, amusement glistening in his eyes.

“No, silly,” Jimin chuckled, swatting Jungkook’s chest. “Just... sitting here with you, by the fire, knowing we don’t have to be anywhere tomorrow nor that either of us have to leave to their own place, knowing we get to wake up together tomorrow morning,” he elucidated.

“Yeah,” Jungkook breathed in agreement, pressing his lips to the top of Jimin’s head, this time longer, lingering in the touch for so long that it had Jimin chuckle and ask whether his hair smelled bad after having fallen to the dirty ground by the water. “No,” Jungkook was swift to reassure, shaking his head. “I just...” he trailed off.

“Yeah?”

“Move in with me,” the younger male whispered into Jimin’s ear.

“Huh?” Jimin mumbled, raising his head.

His ears must have deceived him, Jimin was certain, they were trying to fool him.

“Move in with me, Jimin-ah,” Jungkook repeated, his voice sincere.
“You want to… want to live with me?” Jimin questioned, his eyes big. “Are you… serious?”

The black haired boy smiled, placing his hand against Jimin’s cheek. “I don’t want to spend another day not waking up by your side,” he whispered, brushing Jimin’s fringe out of his face. “So, Park Jimin, will you move in with me?”

Jimin’s heart had skipped a couple of beats, back to pound in a regular pace, if only a lot faster than it usually tended to; his eyes were still wide in utter shock, his lips parted as he was lacking the ability to respond.

“Move into… into your place with you?” Jimin uttered.

“If you want to,” Jungkook responded, titling his head to the side. “However, I’ve… looked at some places around in Seoul,” he revealed, clearing his throat as he averted his gaze down to Jimin’s hand, reaching out to play with Jimin’s delicate fingers. “There are some places I have my eyes on, but I want us to decide together,” he added, meeting Jimin’s gaze again. “We can get a new place together, Jimin-ah”

“An apartment of our own?” Jimin breathed, his heart still uncertain whether this wasn’t just all a dream – a beautiful dream of them starting a new chapter of their life, together, happily, healthily.

“Or… a house,” Jungkook suggested.

“A house?” Jimin echoed, his eyes going even wider.

“I found a few ones that looked like you would like them,” the younger male stated with a nod.

“Kook-ah, I…” Jimin murmured, lost for words.

Jungkook’s eyes went bigger before he averted his gaze again. “It’s… I get it, if you’re not ready for that,” he was swift to note, shaking his head at his own idea. “I just thought, it might be-”

The pink haired one shut him up by crashing his lips on Jungkook’s.

“I want to,” Jimin whispered. “Yes, I want to move in with you, Kook-ah,” he grinned, those words falling from his lips so easily, so natural, almost as though there was nothing else Jimin had ever been that sure of.

Relieved, Jungkook returned the smile, not hesitating to attach their lips in another kiss – this one deeper, longer, full of passion and affection. A breath slipped past Jimin’s lips, Jungkook licking over his bottom lip before he tugged on it with his teeth, Jimin whimpering out his name.

A few minutes later, what had started off as a pure kiss had slowly turned into something hungrier, something more demanding that neither of them wanted to end.

Carefully, Jimin rolled his hips forward, his hand entangled in Jungkook’s black locks at the back of his head, the latter’s hands curled around Jimin’s waist, their lips never parting.

In the span of a few minutes, Jimin’s skin temperature had risen enough by Jungkook’s touch and kisses to have a rose flush adorn his skin, illustrating the heat that had replaced any form of chilliness.

“Is this okay?” Jungkook whispered, his fingers playing with the blanket around Jimin’s shoulders.

The smaller boy gave a nod, observing how Jungkook slid the soft fabric down his shoulders before he pulled it to the side, unveiling Jimin’s naked body.
Slowly, Jungkook leaned closer, pressing his lips to Jimin’s shoulder, then peppering a trail of open-mouthed kisses up to Jimin’s chin, a shiver running down Jimin’s back at the tender treatment.

Silently, Jimin tugged on the hem of Jungkook’s hoodie, the latter smiling as he removed it over his head and dropped it to the floor, his palms quick to return to Jimin’s hips.

This time, it was Jimin that leaned closer, capturing Jungkook’s lips in a soft kiss as the tips of his fingers traced over Jungkook’s defined muscles that embellished his stomach, reminding Jimin of the past night when Jungkook had taken him up against the wall.

At the gentle touch, Jungkook smiled, placing his digits below Jimin’s chin to guide his face back up to his mouth, quick to press his lips to Jimin’s again.

As their lips aligned with one another they way their hearts had learned to love, Jimin’s fingers fumbled with the hem of Jungkook’s sweatpants.

“It’s okay, go ahead,” Jungkook uttered, lifting his hips in order to enable Jimin to pull the sweatpants down just enough to expose Jungkook’s semi-hard length. “Fuck, before you- Let me just head upstairs and get the lube,” he decided, closing his hand around Jimin’s wrist to still his movement.

“I think- I think it’s okay, if we do it without,” Jimin noted softly, dropping his hands back to his side as he gazed at Jungkook through his lashes, slightly bashful.

“Just my spit?”

Jimin gave a nod, his cheeks flushing.

“Let me prep you first, through,” Jungkook prompted.

The smaller boy curled his arms around Jungkook’s neck, pressing their foreheads against one another as he smiled. “I think, after last night, I really don’t need to be prepped today, Kook-ah,” he whispered, reminding the other boy of how much Jimin had been stretched the past night.

“Are you sure?” Jungkook still wanted to ensure.

“Yes,” Jimin affirmed with a nod.

“Okay, little one,” Jungkook uttered, leaning back just enough to spit into his hand, then curling it around his erection to lubricate it.

At the sight of Jungkook touching himself right in front of Jimin, a shiver ran down the smaller one’s back, his stomach squirming in arousal. Swallowing hard, Jimin lifted his hips in anticipation, but Jungkook hummed in disapproval.

“Let me just make sure,” Jungkook stated, placing two of his fingers to Jimin’s lips.

Apprehending the nonverbal command, Jimin parted his lips, allowing Jungkook to push his fingers into Jimin’s mouth, the latter not hesitating to suck on them.

“Good boy,” Jungkook praised as he withdrew his fingers, a trail of spit connecting them to Jimin’s lips that he broke apart by lowering his digits to Jimin’s bottom.

Carefully, Jungkook pressed his fingers to Jimin’s rim, gentle when he thrusted them inside with no resistance at all.
“A-ah,” Jimin breathed, pressing his forehead against Jungkook’s shoulder as his eyes fluttered shut, Jungkook’s digits slipping into him so easily, thrusted into him a few times before they were removed. “N-Now, please”

“Yeah, little one,” Jungkook whispered with a smile, closing his hand around his hard length that he guided towards Jimin’s entrance, not teasing, but pushing the tip past the tight ring of muscles without hesitance.

“T-Thank you,” Jimin mewled, sinking down on Jungkook’s erection slowly, enjoying the sweet stretch that sent jolts of pleasure through his body.

“Whenever you’re ready,” Jungkook murmured against Jimin’s chin, leaning up to capture Jimin’s lips in a kiss, catching the soft little breaths that slipped past Jimin’s lips as he lowered himself down further until he had reached the base. “There you go”

Without any ounce of hesitance, Jimin moved his hips back and forth, too drunk on the taste of Jungkook’s lips on his, yet then not frantic or quick in his movement, allowing his hips to roll in a tender pace, Jungkook guiding him by his hands on Jimin’s butt cheeks.

Soon enough, the room was filled with a mixture of Jimin’s pretty moans and the sound of the fire crackling in the background, Jungkook whispering sweet nothings into Jimin’s ear.

There was no punishing, no orders or rules, no safe words.

It was pure and sweet.

The smaller one loved this.

“Jungkook-ah,” Jimin moaned, his hands grabbing onto Jungkook’s shoulders for balance.

“Sssh, it’s okay, little one,” Jungkook whispered against his throat, leaving kisses on every part of Jimin’s skin that he managed to reach with his lips, his tongue poking out every now and then to lick over Jimin’s soft skin, tickling the latter.

“Kook-ah,” Jimin whimpered, digging his teeth into his bottom lip as he proceeded to roll his hips forward.

The black haired male lifted his head to gaze at Jimin, the image of Jimin too beautiful to describe in simple words. Fuck, Jungkook needed to invent something to convey the utter beauty that Jimin possessed.

“You look so fucking beautiful,” Jungkook complimented him, wishing Jimin could see himself like he did, wishing Jimin knew that he held all the stars of the galaxy in his eyes, that he was the rarest star of them all.

“T-Thank you,” Jimin whimpered.

“You’re doing so good, baby, my good boy, aren’t you?” the younger male praised, observing how Jimin decided to bounce up and down on his lap instead, his little desperation prevailing.

Soon enough, the heat in the pit of their stomachs was too vast to ignore, signalling that the two of them were close to finding their release.

“Please, Kook-ah,” Jimin begged, neither of them aware what he was begging for.
“It’s okay, little one, go ahead,” Jungkook encouraged all the same, presuming that Jimin was asking for permission.

“Yeah. Yeah, okay, angel,” he coincided with a nod, his grasp around Jimin’s hips remaining the same – tender, not too tight – as he proceeded to guide Jimin up and down on his dick, the smaller one clenching around him to have him curse out at the tight wet heat.

A few moments later, they were both coming, the name of the other one leaving their lips as they pressed their foreheads against one another.

Their movement slowed down, both of their chests heaving, their breathing uneven.

The pink haired one collapsed on top of Jungkook, his body going limp as he nuzzled his face into the curve of Jungkook’s neck.

“There you go, my good boy;” Jungkook whispered, brushing Jimin’s fringe out of his face before he pressed his lips to Jimin’s temple. “Are you okay? All good?”

Jimin hummed softly, giving a faint nod.

“I gotta go and clean that up,” Jungkook uttered, pointing at his stomach that was adorned by strips of white.

The smaller one grumbled in dissatisfaction, shaking his head.

“I also gotta pee,” Jungkook chuckled, gentle when he lifted Jimin from his lap and set him down on the sofa beside him. “I’ll be right back,” he promised as he rose to his feet, Jimin watching after him, his eyes essentially glued to Jungkook’s handsome body until he was out of sight.

A few minutes later, Jungkook returned to the living room.

“Well, you really didn’t move at all, huh?” Jungkook teased as he crouched down next to Jimin, not having cared to put on any clothes. “Can you roll over for me so I can clean you up, baby?”

“I’m too sleepy to move,” Jimin murmured, but still obliged and rolled over onto his side, enabling Jungkook to pull his butt cheek to the side and clean him up with the wet cloth.

As soon as he was done, he dropped the cloth on the dresser beside the sofa, sitting down on the blanket that had fallen to the rug spread out on the floor.

“Well, I was about to ask you whether you’d still like to go outside and watch the stars now?” Jungkook inquired, sliding his hand through Jimin’s pink locks, the latter’s eyes falling shut at the familiar, comforting gesture.

“Like this?” Jimin murmured, blinking at Jungkook’s suggestion.

The younger male chuckled. “Well, if you insist on me taking you out naked, but that’s actually a sight I’m not very keen on sharing, hm?” he stated, his fingers tracing over Jimin’s arm.

Jimin smiled at him as he sat up.

“I would love to go, Kook-ah, but I’m too sleepy to go anywhere now,” he mumbled, his expression apologetic as he lowered himself down on the blanket beside Jungkook, the rug beneath them a soft foundation.
“Not even upstairs into the bedroom?” Jungkook asked, raising his brows at Jimin as he smiled.

“Mhm,” Jimin grumbled, nuzzling his face in the curve of Jungkook’s neck, the unexpected force of their collision causing Jungkook to tumble back on the velvety blanket, pulling Jimin down with him.

Snickering, Jungkook gave a nod, securing Jimin on top of him. “We can sleep here by the fire,” he suggested. “It’s cosy”

What a sweet idea.

“Your back,” Jimin objected, though, shaking his head. “It’s going to ache, when you wake up in the morning,” he elaborated, his fingers playing with Jungkook’s hair.

“It won’t,” Jungkook assured him, curling his arms around Jimin’s back to tighten his embrace around him.

Naturally, the close proximity to Jungkook and the safety he exuded evoke comfort within Jimin, having him turn sleepier with each passing second.

“Don’t fall asleep yet, little one,” Jungkook chuckled, nudging his nose against Jimin’s cheek, then turning his head to the side to steal a glimpse at his clothes in search for something.

Why the fuck did the mere notion make him so damn nervous?

Swallowing hard, Jungkook reached for his hoodie in an attempt to locate his pocket.

“I’m not asleep,” Jimin uttered, his face hidden in the curve of Jungkook’s neck, his tone so soft, adorned by sleepiness.

“Little one,” Jungkook whispered, smiling as he closed his hand around the small item, intending to pull it out. “I have… I-

“See, I’m fully awake,” Jimin asserted, albeit his eyes were still pressed shut, his head not leaving the comfort of Jungkook’s close proximity. “Not… not… sleepy… at all, I-” he mumbled, his voice turning softer with each syllable of his until he went silent entirely.

Chuckling, Jungkook leaned in to press a kiss to Jimin’s forehead.

“Okay, then, tomorrow,” he whispered, his fingers allowing the little box to drop back into his hoodie, his own heartbeat steadying.

***

A few hours into the night, Jimin awoke, having rolled over to the side, causing him to slide down to the floor, thus leaving the comfort of Jungkook’s chest or their duvet spread out on the rug, the sudden alteration in his sleeping position tearing him away from his sweet haze of sleep.

Jimin lifted his head, rubbing his delicate fist over his tired eyes before he scanned his surroundings, discovering the taller male to be fast asleep beside him, the fire still ignited to his right side, quietly crackling away in the background.

Cautiously, Jimin crawled closer to Jungkook again, the younger male’s expression so very peaceful, his arm spread out as though it was missing Jimin.

The smaller boy smiled softly, reaching out to brush Jungkook’s black strands of hair out of his face, allowing his fingertips to trace down to his cheekbones.
At the tender touch, Jungkook’s nose scrunched up, causing him to resemble a bunny. Quietly, Jimin giggled, observing how Jungkook shifted in his position, rolling onto his back. The movement caused the blanket to slide down his chest, exposing his bare upper body.

In that exact moment, the light glistening from the ignited fire flickered on his body, illuminating him in a golden shade.

Jungkook was so... beautiful. Absolutely breath-taking.

Smiling, Jimin’s fingertips traced down to Jungkook’s chest to caress his skin.

Inevitably, Jimin couldn’t tear his eyes away.

How could he? Ever?

Jungkook was his, was his safe haven, was his family.

The pink haired one wanted to be with him for an eternity and beyond, wanted to spend the rest of his life being his just as much.

Jimin halted his hand, his heart skipping a long beat.

Oh.

“I—” Jimin found himself whisper, but no words slipped past his lips, his heart was going too crazy at the realisation that had finally hit him.

Suddenly, there were loud knocks on the door.

At the noise, Jimin flinched, instinctively reaching for Jungkook’s hand as he lifted his head.

Who would knock on their door in the middle of the night in the center of absolutely nowhere?

Carefully, Jimin sat up, the blanket sliding down to his lap as he stole a glimpse at the front door that he managed to see from his current position.

“What’s wrong?” Jungkook grumbled, rolling over onto his side, his arm curled around Jimin’s waist to pull him back down to his chest.

“There was some knocking,” Jimin responded quietly.

The black haired male opened his eyes, his brows furrowed.

“Maybe, I should check?” Jimin uttered, insinuating to get up again, but Jungkook’s grasp around him tightened.

“You’re not going anywhere,” he protested, getting up instead and putting on his sweatpants. “You’re staying here, understood?”

Jimin gave a faint nod.

Then, Jungkook headed towards the front door and pulled it open.

There were no voices, no movement at all, the door hiding Jungkook from Jimin’s vision.

“Who is it?” Jimin called out.
Silence.

Slowly, Jimin got up to his feet, throwing the blanket over his shoulders and curling the soft fabric around his body as he tip-toed over to Jungkook, his bare feet padded on the soft rug spread out on the floor.

“Kook-ah?” Jimin whispered, finally managing to see Jungkook who was in the midst of putting something in the pocket of his sweatpants, the man forcefully kicking the door shut. “What is it?” he dared to know, flinching at the sound of the door shutting with a loud thud, then furrowing his brows at Jungkook’s alarmed expression, a sudden surge of fear blooming within him.

Jungkook disregarded his question.

“Kook-ah?” Jimin pressed, bewildered by Jungkook’s cryptic behaviour.

Jungkook ran his hand through his black locks, appearing to be in distraught.

“Was it your neighbour? Were they annoyed?” Jimin asked, closing the distance between them with the intention of making Jungkook aware of Jimin’s presence as he seemed to have omitted that fact.

“Go and get dressed,” Jungkook demanded, finally meeting Jimin’s gaze. “You need to leave”

“What?” Jimin exclaimed in disbelief, knitting his brows as he shook his head at the absurd idea.

“I’m not going to ask you again,” Jungkook repeated his prior order, interrupting Jimin’s objection with dark and commanding eyes. “Go and get dressed. Now.”

“Will you talk to me, Jungkook-ah?” Jimin begged, not apprehending the entirety of this situation, nor why there appeared to be a reason to insist on Jimin leaving this place. “What’s going on?”

Jungkook turned his back to Jimin to open the drawer of the dresser, pulling out his phone.

Who had been in front of that door? – or, what had been in front of that door?

Were they not welcome here?

Yet, if so, then why was Jungkook not simply telling him what was going on?

Why was he so cryptic? – Why was he hiding something? – What was he hiding?

“What are you hiding?” Jimin whispered, scared to learn the answer.

“Get. Dressed. Right. Fucking. Now.,” the black haired male ordered through gritted teeth, the usual softness in his eyes nowhere to be found, instead a mixture of anger and fear gleaming within his brown orbs.

Swallowing hard, Jimin turned around, somehow not capable to argue with Jungkook. Ruled by confusion and anxiety, Jimin did hurry up into the bedroom, swift to put on clothes although he didn’t want to leave.

What could Jungkook be hiding?

Why did he not want to enlighten Jimin on what was going on?

Why had he been so quick to search for his phone? Who could he have messaged?
The smaller one was certain his brain was going to shut off any moment now, too many questions lingering in his head, overwhelming him.

Why was Jungkook treating him like this?

So cold, so suspicious, so hostile.

As soon as Jimin was dressed, he ran back downstairs, noticing that Jungkook was talking on the phone with someone.

The black haired male met Jimin’s gaze, but only for so long, averting his gaze to fixate his attention back on his phone call. “I will call you back, yes,” Jungkook stated, Jimin halting on the last step of the staircase, confused and frustrated.

“Is someone mad that we’re here?” Jimin uttered as he observed Jungkook end the phone call before he pushed the device into the pocket of his sweatpants – the only piece of clothing that veiled his skin –, turning to steal a glimpse outside of the window. “Is there someone you don’t want to see me? Did I do something wrong?”

Jungkook didn’t respond.

“Jeon Jungkook, will you talk to me,” Jimin begged, walking up to his boyfriend, curling his delicate hand around his arm to tug on it.

“Just shut up and go,” Jungkook interrupted him, snatching his arm out of Jimin’s grasp.

The smaller one took a step back, hurt by Jungkook’s treatment.

“Why are you not talking to me?” Jimin whispered. “What the hell is going on?’

“I don’t want to talk, Jimin-ah,” Jungkook remarked. “I want you to go. Is that so fucking difficult for you to understand?”

How had everything turned into this?

Just a few hours ago, Jungkook had asked him to move in with him.

Just a few minutes ago, Jimin had… had– Hell, it didn’t even matter anymore.

Where was that Jungkook now?

Who was this in front of him?

“If you make me leave like this without telling me what’s going on, then don’t expect me to talk to you when you’re finally in the mood to talk to me again,” Jimin claimed, fairly puzzled, but also angered by Jungkook’s cryptic behaviour. “What happened to your promise of wanting to talk about everything? To be honest? About communicating with one another? I’m sick of you treating me like this”

What could be so horrifying that it required Jimin to leave this place immediately?

“Jimin-ah, you’re being immature,” Jungkook remarked, shaking his head.

“I am being immature?” Jimin echoed, a humourless laugh slipping from his lips. “Oh, and you’re the one being mature right now? You can just treat me however you like, huh? I’m just your stupid little pet? Is that what you think of me?” he accused, knitting his brows. “You can push me away, you can treat me like this, you can hide your whole life from me? I’m not a child!”

The younger male blinked, an emotion flashing in his eyes, but it was gone as soon as it had appeared, impeding Jimin to define it. “I want you to go,” he repeated in a demanding tone.

“Why?” Jimin breathed, placing his hand on Jungkook’s chest.

Jungkook pushed Jimin’s arm away.

“Because- Fuck, can you listen to me for once in your life? Stop being so goddamn difficult! When I tell you to leave, then fucking obey!” he yelled at Jimin, the latter flinching at his harsh words and the volume of his voice.

The pink haired boy’s heart clenched.

“I’m not your pet,” he whispered, his voice somehow so much quieter than Jimin had intended for it be.

Jungkook plainly chose to stare at him.

“Why are you not leaving with me?” Jimin wanted to know.

“I can’t,” Jungkook responded. "Just leave, okay?"

“Stop saying that!” Jimin screamed back. “Jungkook-ah, you promised to tell me anything and here-”

“Just leave, Jimin-ah,” the younger male interrupted him, seemingly annoyed and impatient by Jimin’s disobedience. “Shut up, okay? Stop acting like a fucking child for once in your goddamn life! You always do that shit! I’m not going to ask you again. If you won’t leave on your own, I’m going to carry you out,” he threatened.

The smaller boy furrowed his brows, Jungkook’s words piercing through his heart like arrows.

“If you really make me leave right now, then don’t expect me to talk to you. I’m sick of this. I’m sick of you pushing me away. I’m sick of you treating me like a child. I’m sick of these games and all of these secrets!” Jimin yelled back, pushing at Jungkook’s chest.

“Jimin-ah-”

“If you make me leave now, I’m not going to talk to you again. Ever. I mean it,” Jimin repeated his prior threat – hoping Jungkook would change his mind, hoping Jungkook would apologise for saying these mean things to him.

Jungkook opened the door, nodding down to the street.

There he was: Beomsoo.

“Leave”

That simple word, said in such a cold tone, having an effect on Jimin the pink haired one had never imagined it would have.

“I’m serious,” Jimin whispered.

The black haired male didn’t blink, proceeding to stare at Jimin with cold eyes.
Jimin looked at him for a moment longer, wishing he could ignore the way his heart broke, disregarding the way his eyes burned as tears pricked in the corners of them.

Then, he stormed past Jungkook, their shoulders bumping against one another as he rushed towards the black Range Rover, ignoring the tears that were rolling down his cheeks.

Chapter End Notes

Uh-oh :(

I would love to hear your thoughts on the chapter! :)

I hope your days are filled with happiness! Stay healthy <3

See you in the next chapter! ^^

Love you <3
It was late, and dark, and cold.

There was a thunderstorm roaring outside, announcing the chaos it painted among the city.

However, the chaos that was residing within Jimin was just as messy, and staggering, and confusing, and everything in between.

And it was painful - to sit here, and to look at him.

And maybe, Jimin should leave... but he couldn't.

Why?

Why did his heart compel him to stay, when leaving would be so much easier?

Please, tell him. Please, allow him to mend his heart.

Yet, maybe, this was the reason - Jimin would never be able to mend his heart, if he left.

So, he stayed.

It was late, and dark, and cold.

A mixture of circumstances that have engulfed Jimin for the past two days.

At this point, no fibre of his very being was bothered by them anymore. No, opposed to that, he associated this feeling with every little moment that had occured over the past two days, like a scent that reminded you of a traumatic experience.

So, Jimin sat there in the dark, reminded of everything that had happened.

Fifty-four hours ago

The creaking door was dragged open, revealing a sleepy figure dressed in their puppy pajamas.

“Min-ah?” Taehyung greeted him with a raspy voice, utter surprise adorning his tone.

“Can I- I know you... You have it somewhere,” Jimin whispered, walking past Taehyung to enter his apartment without a polite greeting or a reasonable apology for waking him up long before dawn.

“Min-ah, aren’t you supposed to be on a trip with Jungkook?” Taehyung asked, rubbing his fingers over his tired eyes as he watched Jimin storm into his apartment, partially speculating whether he was only hallucinating or still seized in a dream.

Slowly, Taehyung pushed the door shut, turning to observe Jimin strut towards his kitchen.

The smaller one didn’t respond, having commenced to tear open every single cabinet and drawer in Taehyung’s kitchen as though there was an ancient treasure hidden somewhere in there, leaving the latter puzzled and overwhelmed by the situation.

“Where is that stupid-” Jimin mumbled again, crouching down to rummage through Taehyung’s cabinets; the new eye level allowing him to have better access.

“Jimin-ah, what are you looking for?”

Equally to the previous attempt, Taehyung didn’t receive a response this time.

There was not a single doubt in Taehyung’s mind that something awful had occurred on that trip. Why else would Jimin storm into his apartment in the middle of the fucking night without any explanation, hunting through Taehyung’s kitchen like an absolute maniac while he was supposed to be on a weekend trip with Jungkook that he had looked forward to with such pure and innocent delight?

“Where is it-”

“Jimin-ah!” Taehyung finally called out in an attempt to receive Jimin’s attention.

“I found it,” Jimin noted softly, disregarding the distinct volume of Tae's voice as he exhaled a breath of relief.

The blond haired one closed the distance between them, his eyes going big as he lastly managed to identify the item that Jimin was holding onto.

“Jimin-ah, don’t drink that,” Taehyung warned him, reaching out in an endeavour to snatch the bottle from Jimin’s grasp and protect him from his decision that he undeniably would regret in the morning, but any effort was for vain.

“I do what I want,” Jimin huffed, walking past Taehyung, indecisive why he was treating Tae with such an attitude although the poor boy was not responsible for his heartbreak at all.

“That’s my soju,” Taehyung reminded him, curling his hand around Jimin’s wrist to pull him back.

“Please,” the smaller one whispered, eventually turning to meet Taehyung’s gaze, finally allowing the latter to see his face and study his features. The sight scared Taehyung, his heart clenching at the image of Jimin’s red and teary eyes, his flushed cheeks and the clear display of him having cried. “I… I’ll buy you more soju,” he promised softly.

“Will you tell me what’s going on?” Taehyung asked, his voice equally as soft, almost as though he was scared of speaking any louder; as though Jimin would break at the volume of his tone.

The smaller boy averted his gaze, shaking his head, “No”

“Min-ah,” Taehyung pressed softly, not intending to force Jimin to talk, but then not capable to refrain from asking all the same as the sight of his best friend crying tugged on his heart strings.

“No, I… I just wanna drink and cry”

Taehyung’s hand found its way to Jimin’s chin, forcing him to meet his eyes. “What happened? What did Jungkook do?”

At the mention of his name, Jimin’s insides squirmed, his heart clenching at the mere notion of what had occurred a few hours ago.

Despite the long drive back home, Jimin still hadn’t been able to grasp his head around the entire situation. Inevitably, Jimin had done nothing but cry, hurt by Jungkook’s words and his hostile treatment.

After all, how could he apprehend anything of this situation? How could he, with the way Jungkook didn’t enlighten him on anything at all? With the way Jungkook had thrown these mean words at him opposed to edifying him?

Jungkook had chosen to stay cold and distant.

Yet, truly reflecting on it, was that really unprecedented behaviour?

In a way, Jungkook had behaved like this for so long, has hidden… there had been–

The smaller boy stilled entirely, every fibre of his very being freezing up while his heart dropped at the fatal realisation.

Just like that, everything came back crashing down on Jimin like heavy rain.

_Beomsoo. Joon. 21511. That gun._

For weeks, Jungkook had been behaving strangely; had forced Jimin to allow Beomsoo to drive him anywhere he went; for weeks, Joon has been guarding Jungkook’s apartment; for weeks, Beomsoo has been carrying a gun around; many weeks ago, there had been that cryptic message sent by someone Jungkook referred to as 21511.

All of that… It had all been there right in front of Jimin. _All along._

Jimin had been so foolish.

For a reason unknown to Jimin, an element within him had chosen to disregard all of these warnings, had prayed that they didn’t mean anything, that their significance would vanish, if he chose to ignore them. Yet, these indications could no longer be omitted by Jimin – regardless of how dreadfully he wished he could cling onto his own oblivion.

_Where these pieces all connected?_
Jimin didn’t possess any profound knowledge on what was going on, but he had gathered enough pieces to ascertain that there was something terrible occurring behind Jimin’s back – something that Jungkook had decided not to say a damn word about; hiding it for weeks, if not months.

On top of that, Jungkook was locking Jimin up, always requiring knowing where he went, with whom he spent his time, having people watch every step he was taking. What for?

What was he hiding?

Why was he lying?

Who was 21511?

Was all of this connected to the incident at the cabin?

Why was Jungkook not talking to Jimin?

Why was he not treating Jimin the way the boy deserved?

In no way was Jimin a goddamn toy Jungkook could throw around as he pleased.

In no way-

“Min-ah,” Taehyung pressed softly, noticing how Jimin appeared to be mentally absent, his eyes somewhat dazed, his full lips parted as though he was trying so desperately to speak, but was lacking the ability to articulate himself.

The pink haired boy inhaled a shaky breath. “It’s… I can’t wrap my head around the situation. I feel like I’m going insane, Tae-ssi,” he declared, his heart breaking at the realisation of Jungkook having been hiding something for weeks, at the reminder of his harsh words voiced back at the cabin. “I feel like I can’t breathe. It’s all- It’s so hot in here- I can’t- I can’t breathe”

“Okay, okay, breathe for me, Min-ah, breathe,” Taehyung consoled him, quick to place his palms on Jimin’s shoulders in an attempt to calm him, to make him aware of his presence and the fact that he wasn’t alone. “You’re not alone, okay? I’m here. Breathe in, Min-ah”

“I-”

“Deep breath, come on,” Tae reiterated, gentle as he guided Jimin over to the sofa, the latter managing to inhale a deep breath. “There you go, and out,” he insisted softly.

Jimin obliged, simply breathing for a few moments until he wasn’t feeling like he was going to suffocate any longer.

“Talk to me,” Taehyung tried again, hoping Jimin would bring some light to this situation.

Jimin shook his head. “It’s insane, Tae-ssi,” he claimed, waving the bottle of soju around. “I can’t even explain it. I don’t know even know what…” he trailed off, his heart rate picking up all over again.

“Okay, okay, don’t think about it,” Tae was swift to interfere, placing his hand on Jimin’s thigh. “Just breathe, Min-ah,” he encouraged, careful as he closed his palm around the bottle secured tightly in Jimin’s grasp, the latter too focused on breathing, not noticing the way his grasp loosened as he allowed Taehyung to remove the bottle from his hand.

However, it didn’t take long for him to notice the absence of the liquor in his grasp.
“Give me that bottle,” Jimin demanded, scowling as he reached for the beverage.

Refusing, Taehyung snatched his arm back, shaking his head. “No, Jimin-ah. That’s not good for you,” he noted softly, only intending to protect Jimin.

“I want it,” Jimin whispered, pressing his eyes shut. “Please,” he begged, Taehyung not capable to deny him any wish as he met his gaze again, his eyes glassy and big, pain clearly visible within them.

“One shot,” Taehyung allowed softly, setting the bottle down on the coffee table. “Let me get you a cup,” he added as he rose to his feet, heading over into his kitchen to retrieve a cup.

As he returned, however, the bottle was no longer deposited on the table.

In the time of Taehyung’s absence, Jimin had been swift to open the bottle just to bring it up to his lips, carelessly taking several sips of the liquor.

“Jimin-ah! I said one shot!” Taehyung belted out, rushing over to Jimin’s side in order to remove the bottle from his mouth, yet any effort was futile.

Jemin pulled the bottle back, shrugging his shoulders. “I’m not going anywhere anyways,” he remarked quietly, his tone vulnerable. “Does it really matter?”

“This is not helping,” Taehyung pointed out, both of them aware of how correct that statement was. “You know that. It won’t make whatever you’re going through any better, Min-ah”

“I can try,” Jimin spoke quietly, taking another sip of the burning liquid, wrinkling his nose at the taste, but then not intending to cease either; mourning over everything that had shattered, trying to forget everything that had just hit him like a truck at full speed.

This was bad. This was really fucking bad.

“I’m going to fucking kill him,” Taehyung promised beneath his breath, the words inaudible to the other boy, but that didn’t matter – Taehyung was determined. This time, he was going to fucking kill Jungkook for whatever he had done to Jimin.

Ruled by despair, Taehyung plopped down on the sofa beside Jimin with a sigh, accepting his defeat. Then again, as long as Taehyung was going to watch after him, Jimin should be fine. After all, he was probably going to pass out any moment now anyway by the lack of sleep he had obtained, the heavy bags beneath his eyes any indication of that fact.

The pink haired boy nipped on the bottle beside him, an occasional sob slipping past his lips, causing Taehyung’s heart to ache equally each time.

“Min-ah,” Tae whispered, turning to face Jimin.

“Tae, can you…” Jimin uttered, his voice turning softer with each syllable until it was too delicate for Taehyung to register.

However, he didn’t need to.

Carefully, Jimin crawled closer to him. Taehyung apprehended the nonverbal request, wrapping his arm around his best friend and allowing him to rest his head on his shoulder.

“It’s going to be fine,” Taehyung assured, aware that it was a promise he shouldn’t make with the lack of knowledge he possessed, but he wished that those words could mend Jimin’s heart.
Jimin wished that he could believe them.

***

Naturally, the alcohol had commenced to have its recurring effect on Jimin fairly soon, his delicate body verifiably not manging well with any alcoholic liquor. In the twinkling of an eye, his vision had turned blurry, the pain in his heart having enhanced, desiring something Jimin knew he couldn’t go after.

Yet, that didn’t prevent his heart from trying.

As soon as Taehyung had left for the bathroom after excusing himself to pee – having insisted for Jimin to not do anything stupid – Jimin rose to his feet on wobbly legs, trying to make it over to the door, but tumbling over his own two feet and plopping down on the soft fabric in the process of it.

Determinately, Jimin got up to his feet in a second attempt, more cautious as he tried to keep his balance this time around, amazed by his own solid effort.

“Sit your ass back down,” Taehyung demanded, startling Jimin who hadn’t registered any sound that would announce his return.

“I wanna go,” Jimin murmured, pointing at the door.

“Where do you want to go?”

“I wanna go and see Jungkook,” Jimin responded, his heart answering before his brain even obtained the opportunity to reflect on that.

Taehyung furrowed his brows. “But you left him?”

“He sent me away,” Jimin revealed, shaking his head. “That… that stupid boy. He’s so mean,” he whined.

“Jimin-ah, I can’t let you leave right now,” Taehyung tried to make him understand, refusing to simply let Jimin be on his own in his current state.

“I wanna-” Jimin mumbled, waddling towards the door with the intention of leaving.

“Come back! For fuck’s-” Tae cursed, walking into his own coffee table in the midst of hurrying after Jimin, hissing at the pain he endured at the collision of his foot with the firm wood. “Shit!” he cussed again, disregarding his pain as he ran after Jimin.

Somehow, Jimin managed to navigate his way to the elevator, the doors shutting prior to Taehyung accomplishing to dash into the little space with him.

“Min-ah!” Taehyung’s loud voice was ringing in the hall. “Fuck,” he cursed.

Soon enough, Jimin had made his way down, not caring to look back for Taehyung who was audibly running down the stairs in an endeavour to cease Jimin’s actions. The latter, however, didn’t refrain, but left the apartment building.

Ironically, it had started to pour, heavy raindrops falling down on Jimin in a firm pattern.

Naturally, one would turn around and head back inside.

But, to Jimin, this felt… healing. It was contradictory, but Jimin felt as though he could finally breathe again, as though his tears would no longer be as prominent, but go unnoticed under the rain.

Spreading his arms out, Jimin leaned his head back into his neck, his eyes fluttering shut as he turned his face to the sky, raindrops pitter-patting down on his skin – an action that should be considered uncomfortable, but somehow, it wasn’t.

“Min-ah!” Taehyung exclaimed, finally having caught up with Jimin. He was visibly out of breath, a repercussion of him having chased after Jimin in order to collect his ass back.

The pink haired one turned to face his best friend, noticing that the only fabric adorning his skin were his puppy pajamas. Taehyung remained beneath the little roof above the entrance of the apartment building, curling his arms around his upper body as the cold temperatures of the rainy night engulfed him.

He must be freezing, Jimin thought.

“‘You’re going to be sick,’” Jimin called out above the rain. “Go back inside, Tae”

“‘You’re going to be sick as well,’” Taehyung remarked. “‘I’m not going anywhere without you’”

“I’m going to meet Jungkook”

“‘You don’t even know where he is!’” Tae reminded him, making a fairly valid point there, but honestly, Jimin didn’t care. “‘Jimin-ah, this is a bad idea. Please, come back inside,’” he screamed over the ringing sound of the rain.

The pouring intensified, causing it to be nearly impossible to distinguish anything around Jimin, his fairly blurry vision to begin with not diminishing that effect.

Suddenly, the sound of wheels creaking on the moist asphalt as they hit the break echoed over the heavy rain. At the irritating noise, Jimin turned to face the street, observing how a figure climbed out of the vehicle.

Jimin wanted to hate himself for how much he wished for it to be Jungkook.

“Jungkook-ah?” Jimin found himself whisper

“‘Jimin-ah, that’s not Jungkook,’” Taehyung informed him with an empathetic sigh, shaking his head at Jimin’s hallucination. “‘Get back here, Min-ah’”

The figure walked closer, pushing their hands into the pockets of their sweatpants as they rushed over to the entrance, their shoulders high while they dug their head low as though they tried to protect themselves from the rain.

As their distance decreased, Jimin managed to distinguish the person.

Involuntarily, his heart skipped a beat.

“What are you doing here?” Jimin whispered, certain that his voice wasn’t audible over the heavy rain, partially wondering whether his eyes were deceiving him.

Was Taehyung seeing this, too?

“You fucking piece of shit!” Taehyung belted out, leaving the comfort beneath the roof at last and storming towards them through the downpour. “What did you do to him?”
Taehyung was seeing him too.

“Jungkook-ah,” Jimin breathed again, Taehyung’s voice muffled in the background as his attention was fixated on the black haired boy across from him.

“Jimin-ah, baby, I-” Jungkook uttered with big eyes, slightly baffled to encounter Jimin down here in the rain.

“I’m not your baby,” Jimin stressed with a frown, disregarding Taehyung’s presence, the boy having appeared by their side to yell vulgar words at Jungkook.

“Little one”

“Stop,” Jimin demanded as he pressed his eyes shut, somehow irritated by that pet name falling from Jungkook’s lips.

A few hours ago, Jungkook had called him a child, had yelled at him to leave – and now here he was addressing Jimin with that endearing pet name and pretending as though everything was alright, when it was visibly not at all.

“Leave him alone, Jungkook,” Taehyung warned him, a vicious tone emphasising Jungkook’s name as the boy tugged Jimin back by his shirt to move in front of him akin to some sort of shield. “Whatever you did to him – I’m seriously going to fucking punch you,” he threatened.

“Hyung, please, get back inside,” Jungkook requested, disregarding Taehyung’s threat as he met the latter’s gaze, simultaneously pointing towards the entrance door. “It’s raining, you’re going to be sick”

The smaller boy blinked, noticing that Jungkook was only dressed in his sweatpants from earlier and a white shirt that was already soaking wet. As a result, the fabric was transparent at this point and clinging to his skin to accentuate the muscles that adorned his stomach.

“What do you want here, Jungkook-ah?” Taehyung inquired; his tone poisonous. “You should leave him alone”

The younger male looked past Taehyung, searching for Jimin’s eyes as an emotion flashed in his own brown orbs as though those words had affected him deeply. When their gazes met, Jimin found himself avert his eyes nervously, hiding behind Taehyung.

“Jimin-ah,” he now addressed the smaller one. “Please, get back inside. It’s raining,” he insisted. “Hyung, get him back inside. You’re both going to be sick, if you stay here”

Neither of them budged.

Sighing, Jungkook rolled his eyes. “Well”

In the twinkling of an eye, the taller boy had walked around Taehyung, lifting Jimin up into the air and throwing him over his shoulder like he weighed absolutely nothing.

At the sudden action, Jimin gasped, subconsciously clinging onto him in fear of falling down while Jungkook walked back into the apartment building.

“Jungkook-ah!” Taehyung yelled, his eyes big as he stormed after the two, having been frozen in his place for a brief moment at the abrupt turn of events.
Taehyung was this close to attacking Jungkook, but he refrained from executing that urgency because he feared that Jimin was going to be hurt in the process as well.

“Let me down,” Jimin demanded, punching Jungkook’s back with his petite fists, yet the latter didn’t seem to be affected at all, proceeding to walk up the stairs with only little effort.

“I’m just going to bring you upstairs”

“I said let me down!” Jimin reiterated his command, squirming around on top of Jungkook, the younger tightening his grasp as he dreaded Jimin to fall from his shoulder.

However, he was clearly pushing past Jimin’s boundaries here – audibly acting opposed to any form of consent. As soon as Jungkook comprehended that fact, he halted his movement, careful to set Jimin down on his feet, although realising that they had already reached their designated floor.

The pink haired one shoved him away, increasing the distance between them as he headed towards his own apartment.

“Did you drink?” Jungkook wanted to know, furrowing his brows as he observed the other one sway from side to side.

“No…” Jimin lied, not certain why he was being dishonest, yet then all the more indecisive why he chose to talk to Jungkook in the first place, considering how he had threatened to never speak to him again

“You can’t even walk in a straight line,” Jungkook pointed out.

“What does it matter?” Jimin remarked, irritated by Jungkook’s words. “It’s none of your business,” he added, searching for his keys until he detected that they were nowhere to be found – shortly followed by a reminder that he had left all of his belongings at the cabin.

Great.

“It is my business,” Jungkook objected.

“Is it?” Jimin questioned with a snort, quite frankly puzzled but all the more amused by Jungkook’s audacity. “Apparently, your business isn’t mine either, so why do you have that privilege?”

Annoyed, Jimin walked past him, noticing that Taehyung’s apartment door hadn’t been shut.

“Jimin-ah-” Jungkook uttered softly, following after Jimin who had stormed over into Taehyung’s apartment in an endeavour to increase the distance to Jungkook.

“No, I don’t want to talk to you,” Jimin emphasised, shaking his head.

Gently, Jungkook reached for Jimin’s wrist. “Angel, don’t-”

“Stop calling me that!” the pink haired one snapped, ignoring the way his insides squirmed. “I don’t want to-”

Jimin went silent as he felt the sudden urge to vomit, merely managing to kneel down and turn away from Taehyung’s rug as he puked on the floor.

At that point, Jimin realised that his stomach hadn’t stirred as a response to the pet name, but to warn him of a looming repercussion of the alcohol on his empty stomach.
“Jimin-ah, fuck,” Jungkook cursed, crouching down on the floor beside Jimin and placing his hand on his back to comfort him. His touch, however, was burning on Jimin’s skin, causing the latter to flinch.

“Go away!” Jimin belted out, his cheeks flushing at the realisation of Jungkook seeing him in such a vulnerable state.

“I’m not going anywhere,” Jungkook declined, shaking his head as he brushed Jimin’s hair out of his face. In the blinking of an eye, Jungkook lifted him up into the air, Jimin too weak to revolve. Carefully, Jungkook carried him over into the bathroom where he lowered Jimin down beside the toilet. “Here, in here, little one.”

The smaller one puked again, the sound of him gagging amplified against the walls of the small room, his throat burning from the acid taste. Shaking all over, Jimin wiped his arm over his mouth, resting his chin on the toilet seat as he feared to vomit a third time.

Gently, Jungkook reached out again, careful as he ran his hand through Jimin’s pink locks, making sure his hair wouldn’t fall into his face.

The touch was comforting.

Jemin wanted to hate himself for it.

“Why… are you always pushing me away?” Jimin’s drunk mind whispered, his eyes fluttering shut. “Why won’t you let me in?”

Why was Jungkook here? Why had he sent him away with such a hostile treatment just to turn up in front of his apartment many hours later?

Was this all just a game to him?

“Jimin-ah, angel, I-”

Involuntarily, Jimin vomited all over again, teardrops rolling down his cheeks – the boy not certain whether they were attributable to his physical or emotional pain.

“It hurts,” Jimin breathed once he had ceased to puke his insides out.

“What hurts?” Jungkook wanted to know, tender as he caressed Jimin’s back.

“Everything,” Jimin said softly, his tone so vulnerable.

“Little one, let me- I just-”

“I’m just… so sleepy,” Jimin whispered. “I’m so sleepy,” he reiterated as he lowered his head down on the toilet seat again, disregarding the unpleasant trace of his vomit filling his nostrils. “Why won’t you love me the way you claim to?”

Then, Jimin’s eyes fluttered shut, the events over the past hours taking a final toll on him, causing him to pass out and fall into a state of haziness.

Ironically, it was a certain charming black haired boy that welcomed him in his dreams – dreams in which nothing had shattered.

***
The pink haired one awoke with a terrible headache, groaning at the pain vivid within his body. Carefully, he sat up, wincing at the aching of his neck, a repercussion of the uncomfortable position he had fallen asleep in.

Slowly, Jimin opened his eyes, brushing his hand through the mess of pink locks that adorned his head. For a moment, he required to adjust to the sudden illumination around him, eventually allowing him to identify his surroundings and recognise that it was Taehyung’s place he was present in, not his own.

At that realisation, images from the past night flashed right before his eyes, ones that made his insides squirm and his heart clench.

Had Jungkook really been here last night?

Had it all only been a dream?

“You’re awake, thank God,” Taehyung noted with a relieved sigh, startling Jimin who jerked up in his seat at the sudden voice. “I thought you died,” he joked.

The smaller boy turned to observe Taehyung, the latter approaching him with a little tray.

“How long was I asleep for?” Jimin mumbled, his voice sounding foreign to his own ears, touched by his slumber.

The other male pursed his lips, contemplating. “At least eighteen hours, I think,” Tae answered him with a chuckle.

What?

Then again, Jimin had been rather sleep deprived over the past days…

“My head is killing me,” the boy whined.

Taehyung chuckled as he sat down beside Jimin. “Well, you emptied my entire bottle of soju all on your own, so maybe that will teach you a lesson,” he declared, handing Jimin a glass of water and some medicine. “Here, have this,” he insisted.

“I’m so sorry, Tae,” Jimin apologised, his voice genuine. “I shouldn’t have annoyed you last night. I’m sorry for-”

“Hey, I’m your best friend, Min-ah,” Taehyung interrupted him, watching Jimin swallow the painkiller alongside the water. “I’m always going to be there to help you, okay?”

A faint smile embellished Jimin’s pretty features as he set the glass down on the coffee table.

“Did… did all of that really happen last night?” he wanted to know, almost scared to learn the answer.

Taehyung titled his head to the side, knitting his brows. “What do you mean?”

“Jungkook? Was he here?” Jimin elucidated.

“Oh,” Tae uttered, averting his gaze down on the tray. “Yes, he… Yes, he was,” he added, organising the items on the tray absentmindedly as he met Jimin’s gaze again. “You were so adamant to talk to him, but as soon as he arrived here, you didn’t want to see him,” he revealed. “At one point, you felt really sick, so Jungkook took care of you, and carried you over to my sofa once you had fallen asleep,” he spoke softly before he added with a chuckle, “I threatened to kill him, when I find out what he did to you, but he just… he just asked me to look after you for the day and call him in case we need anything,” he continued with a gentler tone. “Oh, and he dropped your stuff off”

Now that Taehyung enlightened him, Jimin recalled the vast majority of the past night, certain that those distinct moments weren’t just part of a dream, but accurate memories.

“Oh,” Jimin murmured, quite honestly not that astonished by his own puzzling behaviour. “I… I don’t remember much of it, not that well. I just… I don’t know, it’s all confusing,” he added, shaking his head at himself.

The blond haired one flashed him an empathetic smile, placing his hand on Jimin’s thigh. “I understand, if you don’t want to talk about it, but just know that I’m here for you, yeah?”

“Thank you, Tae,” Jimin returned the smile.

Affectionately, Tae ruffled through Jimin’s already messy hair, pointing at the glass of water. “Finish that,” he insisted before he lifted the tray on his lap, waiting for Jimin to comply – which he did.

“You puked your insides out all over my floor last night, so your stomach must be empty. I have some bread for you, and I made you a soup all by myself, if you want one,” he then stated, handing Jimin a piece of bread before he set the tray down on the coffee table again.

Inquisitive, Jimin scanned the soup, just the slightest bit concerned about the fact that Taehyung had made it himself.

“It’s good. I promise. I tried it,” his best friend assured him with a chuckle, having assessed that Jimin was hesitant, presumably upon learning the fact that it had been Taehyung who had cooked for him.

“Thank you,” Jimin noted, deciding to eat at least some of it just for the sake of filling his stomach, although he wasn’t actually that hungry, but more so because he didn’t want to hurt Taehyung’s feelings by rejecting such a kind gesture.

Suddenly, a ringtone broke the silence between them, echoing in the room.

“I’ll just go and get that,” Taehyung determined, raising to his feet as he pointed at the food. “When I get back, you have to at least have finished half of it, okay?”

The smaller boy rolled his eyes, but smiled all the same. “Yes, Appa,” he teased.

Grinning, Taehyung headed over into his bedroom, shutting the door on his way in to allow himself some privacy. At his unusual behaviour, Jimin couldn’t help but suspect Taehyung to talk about him to whoever was calling him – a part within him wondering whether it was Jungkook.

After all, they tended to be very open with one another, thus accepting a call was never something they left the room for. However, Jimin didn’t mind at all. Besides, in the end, Jimin didn’t possess any meticulous knowledge nor enough information to confidently assert that he was the topic of the phone call.

To comply Taehyung’s caring request, Jimin ate from the soup he had prepared for him, pleasantly surprised by the taste. Deprived of any hesitance, he proceeded to fill his stomach.

By the time Taehyung returned to his side, Jimin had already finished two third of the soup and the entire piece of bread the former had handed him.
“Kang Nayoung,” Taehyung whispered with big eyes as though he had just encountered a paranormal activity, when he plopped down on the sofa beside Jimin, choosing to stare at the wall across from him.

Slightly puzzled, Jimin lowered his spoon down on the tray, furrowing his brows to stare at the blond haired boy. “What?”

Taehyung blinked.

Kang Nayoung? Wasn’t that…

“They’re the designer, isn’t she?” Jimin recalled, voicing his thoughts.

The other one gave a gentle nod, swallowing hard. “Yes, she… she just called me” Kang Nayoung was the designer that had booked Taehyung for a photoshoot for her new collection of clothes. After sending him a few previews of his pictures, Taehyung had barely heard another word from her – at least, that’s how far Jimin was into the loop.

“What did she want?”

Taehyung turned his face to meet Jimin’s gaze. “She just… talked to me about my photos,” he retorted, another gulp visible. “She told me that she had spent a lot of time planning the perfect moment to release them”

“When would that be?” Jimin wondered, raising his brows.

After all, it had been weeks now – Taehyung anxiously waiting for a message that would inform him about when the photos would drop.

“She wants to present the clothes during her fashion show,” the blond haired boy revealed.

“A fashion show?” Jimin echoed, his eyes going bigger.

The other one gave a nod. “She wants me to walk for her, Min-ah,” he breathed out.

“Walk where?” Jimin asked, tilting his head to the side as he frowned, clearly lacking the ability to connect all the dots here.

“The fashion show, Minnie!” Taehyung exclaimed, causing the smaller one to feel stupid for having to ask for clarification.

However, it required another moment for him to truly process the entirety of Tae’s words.

“What?” Jimin gasped.

“She wants me to be the one to… to walk in her new stuff,” he explained, shaking his head in disbelief. “On that day, she wants all the photos from the shoot to go public”

Jumin blinked.

“Oh my god, Tae!” he shrieked then, clapping his hands together before he jumped into Taehyung’s arms to embrace him in a hug. “That’s amazing! Congratulations!”

“I’m so fucking nervous I’m going to vomit,” Taehyung burped when they withdrew from one another, his palm flying up to his mouth while Jimin slid his hand through Taehyung’s blond hair
“No, Tae,” Jimin expressed with wide eyes. “Take a deep breath and have some more water,” he insisted, rapid to reach for the glass of water and fill it up before he handed it over to Tae.

The taller one didn’t hesitate to take several big gulps, having emptied the entire glass in the blinking of an eye. “Oh my god,” Tae voiced his disbelief again as he set the glass down on the tray. “I can’t believe she asked me to walk for her”

This was such a huge step for Taehyung’s career!

“What did you say?” Jimin asked, his voice full of delight.

Taehyung blinked.

“What do you think I said? Of course, I said yes!” he exclaimed, shoving Jimin’s shoulder with a chuckle.

To be fair, it hadn’t been reprehensible for Jimin to wonder what his response had been. After all, Taehyung had never walked during a fashion show before. Then again, Taehyung had always been someone that loved attention, in fact craved for it. Maybe, the notion of doing this job was evoking a surge of anxiety, but Jimin was almost certain that he would do well when he was actually in that situation. Similar to how natural and comfortable it was for Jimin to dance in front of people, Taehyung surely felt that same way about modelling.

“You have never walked for anyone before, though, have you?” Jimin found himself inquire, not recalling Taehyung ever mentioning such a significant incident.

“No, I… I haven’t,” Taehyung responded softly, pressing his lips into a line as he slumped down on the sofa. “That’s the issue”

Jemin’s heart ached, feeling apologetic for he hadn’t intended to upset Taehyung.

“It won’t be that hard, right?” Jimin noted with an encouraging smile.

Frankly, Jimin had no idea how tough it actually was to walk on a runway since he had never tried nor talked to anyone who did. – Then again, evidently, it wasn’t easy, considering how many models didn’t get booked to walk on runways.

“I mean, you just have to walk in a straight line, right?” Taehyung coincided, sliding his hand through his blond locks with a nervous laugh.

_Dubious._

“I guess?” Jimin said slowly, albeit doubting that it was truly the only premise of being booked to walk at a fashion show.

“Well, she asked me to come by tomorrow, just to see,” Taehyung expressed with a sigh, playing with the hem of his shirt absentmindedly, a nervous habit of his. “It won’t be up until a few weeks until the fashion show actually occurs, so… I have a bit to practice – to walk. How silly does that sound?” he chuckled, shaking his head at himself.

“It doesn’t sound silly at all,” Jimin assured him with a sweet smile.

After all, Jimin was more than confident to assert that he would never mange to walk on a runway, especially not at the notion of people around him watching every move he took, their eyes fixate on him, his expression, his attitude and the clothes that adorned his figure.

No, that sounded absolutely terrifying.

“Why don’t you show me?” Jimin found himself suggest.

Taehyung furrowed his brows. “Show you what?”

“How you would walk on a runway,” Jimin explained, reaching out for Taehyung’s phone. “Let’s put on some music”

The taller male laughed, but gave a nod, simultaneously amused, but also intrigued by that idea. “Sure,” he noted, unlocking his phone. In the midst of that act, he stole a glimpse at the display of the device, noticing what time and date it was.

At the sight of the alteration in Taehyung’s expression, Jimin’s heart sank, a singe of fear blooming within him.

“What’s wrong?”

“You… know what else is tomorrow, don’t you?” Taehyung inquired, his tone soft, almost as though he dreaded how Jimin would response to the question, if he spoke any louder than this.

The smaller boy lowered his hand back down to his lap.

The excitement and pure joy for Taehyung had prevailed anything else, causing him to omit the significance of that day – but only for so long.

Now, everything came back crashing down.

“Yeah,” Jimin breathed, giving a gentle nod.

“Are you still going?”

It should be an easy answer – an easy answer to an easy question.

Yet, somehow, it was anything but easy.

***

Hesitantly, the pink haired boy walked into the enormous ball room, a mixture of white marble and golden shades adorning the place. At least a few hundred people were present at the gathering, occupying a few of the various tables in the centre of the room or having a drink at the bar, some still remaining by the entrance as they had been pulled in to exchange a few words in a forced conversation.

Every person around him looked utterly classy, wearing a fancy dress, a custom-made suit or a tuxedo. Despite the dresses appearing in variations of colours – even a few vibrant ones here and there – the shades that embellished their hair were rather limited to dark brown and black tones.

Jimin, however, was undeniably in the minority with his vibrant rose hair.

Yet, here he was.

After everything that had went down in the past forty-three hours, Jimin was here, nonetheless. One chaos followed the former one and Jimin felt as though he was stuck in an infinite dark tunnel leading absolutely nowhere, perhaps simply attracting bedlam.

But, Jimin was here.

This was it.

The pink haired boy’s heart skipped a beat at the magnitude of the event.

Timidly, Jimin walked past a few people, bumping into a stranger on his way further into the room. “I’m sorry,” he apologised softly at their collision, the other person not even sparing him a glance, but proceeding to head their way.

Apparently, he wasn’t important enough to merit an apology or a simple acknowledgement, his presence entirely disregarded. Then again, Jimin would be lying, if he asserted that he had expected anyone to truly see him.

In the end, Jimin simply wasn’t a part of the upper class, had not attained as many accomplishments in his life nor did he possess as many assets to his name as anyone else in this room that had obtained a personal invitation to be here.

Inevitably, Jimin felt lonely, felt out of place – as though he wasn’t supposed or welcome to be here at all; and maybe he wasn’t, but… all the same, it felt like this was where he was meant to be tonight.

Anxiously, Jimin played with his petite fingers in a nervous manner, wavering further into the room, aware that his heart was searching for someone in particular, although he realised that he didn’t want to admit to that fact.

However, it seemed like it was impossible to locate that certain someone in a crowd as huge as this-

Jemin froze in his place.

He had spoken too soon.

There he was. Jungkook; dressed in a black tuxedo, his gorgeous black hair divided in the middle to reveal a section of his forehead, his hand curled around a cold glass as he stared out into the crowd.

Gosh, he was handsome – How could a man be that handsome?

Despite all of those people surrounding him, Jungkook easily attracted anyone’s attention.

Naturally, Jimin’s heart rate picked up, causing the smaller to scold his heart to calm down.

Suddenly, Jungkook lifted his head, their gazes meeting so purely, as though they were connected by a string of fate that simply forced them to gravitate to one another in some way.

At the sight of Jimin, Jungkook parted his lips.

Nervously, Jimin averted his eyes, feeling like he had been caught doing something he shouldn’t have, disregarding the way his insides squirmed at the view of Jungkook, his heart skipping another beat.

All of a sudden, someone grabbed Jimin’s arm, forceful as they tugged him back

“Did you think you could just sneak in?” a male voice belted out, Jimin wincing at the pain the man projected on him. “You need an invitation to be here,” he stressed, Jimin capable to turn his body just enough to meet the other male’s gaze.

The man was a lot taller and broader than him, his head shaved bald, his eyes such a dark shade of brown that his appearance intimidated Jimin, to be quite frank.

“I-Invitation?” Jimin stuttered, recalling that he did in fact not possess such an invitation, yet then certain that no one had asked to see any invitation upon his arrival either. No, Jimin had indubitably not sneaked in, considering how he had been welcomed by a guard at the entrance.

The man gave a nod. “Yes, an invitation,” he affirmed, giving Jimin’s arm another harsh pull. “Leave,” he insisted in a demanding tone.

Suddenly, the man was shoved away, causing his grasp around Jimin’s arm to vanish at last.

Dazed, Jimin lifted his head to identify the person, commencing to voice his gratitude in regard to his saviour, but he refrained from speaking at all as he recognised his rescuer, a shiver running down his back instead.

“How dare you touch him like that?” Jungkook belted out at the man, pushing him again, simultaneously moving in front of Jimin protectively.

“You fucking-” the other man insinuated to cuss at Jungkook, but froze as he met Jungkook’s gaze. His expression altered in the blinking of an eye – an irritated one filled with rage replaced by an expression full of horror. “M-Mr. Jeon, I am so- This man tried to get in-” he tried to justify his behaviour panickily, executing a deep bow.

It was always such a fascinating image: The effect that the authority and pure power Jungkook exuded possessed – how a rude and violent man could be put back in his place by a plain stare from Jungkook.

“This man is my boy-” Jungkook intended to reveal, but refrained from finishing that sentence after he stole a glimpse at Jimin. “He’s here with me. I’ve invited him,” he corrected himself.

“I-I am terribly sorry, Mr. Jeon,” the man apologised, his eyes huge as he performed another bow. “My deepest apologies for this misunderstanding”

Was he truly that scared of Jungkook?

Was that how strangers in the industry viewed Jungkook; was his reputation such an intimidating one?

“You don’t touch anyone like that again, especially not him, understood?” Jungkook warned him, having decreased the distance between them to ensure that no one else listened.

“I’m sorry, Mr. Jeon. Please, I will be careful,” he promised, giving a nod.

After glaring at him for a moment longer, Jungkook waved him off, then turning to face Jimin.

“Thank you,” Jimin uttered softly – genuinely grateful, but more so just acting upon a natural polite mannerism that tended to be challenging to be prevailed.

“No need to thank me,” Jungkook responded, his tone so much gentler than just a few seconds ago when he had addressed the other man.

The smaller one stared into his eyes, but his heart clenched at the familiar feeling being evoked within him, his heart begging him to leave this place to mend the pain.

In a swift motion, Jimin turned around, heading down into the crowd while he found himself inhaling a shaky breath to remind himself that he didn’t need to suffocate.

To be quite honest, Jimin hadn’t expected the turmoil within his heart at the encounter with Jungkook in a sober state to be that challenging. Don’t get him wrong, Jimin had certainly been aware that it was never going to be simple, but he hadn’t predicted this degree of his poor heart dealing with this mixture of emotions.

Right now, Jimin needed a drink.

However, a non-alcoholic one to be specific, Jimin reminding himself of his broken promise that he had made a few weeks back, having chosen to stay away from any alcoholic beverages for a while.

Well, that hadn’t quite worked out.

Yet then, yesterday had been an exception attributable to the wild circumstances.

Nonetheless, Jimin was determined to still hold onto that promise he had made to himself for what it was worth, regardless of him having broken it the preceding night.

A few moments later, Jimin found himself at the now empty bar, detecting that a few non-alcoholic beverages were deposited freely, allowing you to serve yourself.

Convenient.

“Jimin-ah,” Jungkook called out, startling Jimin who hadn’t noticed that he had followed after him, in fact only now realising that the bar was located in a corner of the room that was rather segregated, allowing you a sense of privacy. “You… You came,” he breathed out.

“Of course, I did,” Jimin remarked casually, not meeting Jungkook’s gaze – for his own sake.

“Thank-”

“Not for you,” Jimin lied, his gaze flickering over the selection of beverages, the boy not certain why he was being intentionally dishonest.

After all, he had thought about this decision for so long…

“Are you still going?” Taehyung inquired, his tone soft as he took a seat on the armrest beside Jimin, patiently staring at the pink haired boy as he waited for a response.

It should be an easy answer – an easy answer to an easy question.

Yet, somehow, it was anything but easy.

“I…I…,” Jimin struggled to respond, parting his lips as he itched to say something, but pressing them shut again as he chose to remain silent.

“You promised him,” Taehyung reminded him.

The smaller boy lowered his head, catching his bottom lip between his teeth. “I-I know,” he whispered, quite frankly not requiring a reminder of his promise voiced towards Jungkook.
Gently, Taehyung placed his hand on Jimin’s shoulder, giving it a tender squeeze to console him. “It’s okay to break this promise, Jimin-ah. I don’t know what he did to you, but it clearly hurt you a lot, so it’s fine to not attend the gala with him,” he expressed, an empathetic smile curving his lips.

“I just… I feel like…” Jimin trailed off.

Evidently, Jimin had threatened Jungkook to never speak to him again, but… it had only been a threat voiced in the heat of the moment, in an endeavour to evoke a change in Jungkook’s behaviour.

Did Jimin really mean that?

Could he even envisage himself to never talk to Jungkook again?

Was he truly content with never learning why Jungkook had behaved that way at the cabin?

With never learning what he has been hiding for weeks?

With never seeing Jungkook again?

With just letting him go like that?

“Yes?” Taehyung drew Jimin out of his thoughts.

“I think I have to talk to him,” Jimin found himself whisper, discovering that his heart had decided this long before any sane or rational part of him could have.

Bewildered, Taehyung’s eyes went bigger. “Jimin-ah, last night you screamed at him to leave you al-”

“I was drunk and hurt and sad and… Gosh, I don’t know,” Jimin interrupted him, a sigh that illustrated his frustration slipping from his lips as he slid his hand through his messy pink locks. “I really don’t know what the right thing to do is, but… I can’t just keep running away all the time, can I?”

Taehyung stared at him for a moment.

“If what he did to you hurt you that vastly, then yes, you’re allowed to walk away,” he responded, giving a nod.

“I want… I want clarity,” Jimin whispered, meeting Taehyung’s gaze.

The blond haired male’s gaze flickered back and forth between Jimin’s eyes. “Clarity that allows you to walk away from him forever once you found closure, or clarity that enables you to forgive him?” he wanted to know, furrowing his brows.

Slowly, Jimin lowered his head again. “I don’t know,” he murmured.

Walk away from him forever?

Undeniably, Jungkook had treated Jimin in a terrible way, but… did that equal for him to just let go of everything they had?

Undoubtedly, Jungkook had made mistakes, but he also made Jimin the happiest he could be, made him love life in a way he couldn’t even express, made him feel alive in every fibre of his very being.
Was that… extraneous? Did that… not matter at all?

Was Jungkook even that same person anymore or had it all just been a façade?

“Do you think you can forgive him for what he did to you?” Taehyung inquired, drawing Jimin out of his thoughts again.

“I…”

Could he?

The blond haired boy placed his hand on Jimin’s cheek, forcing him to look at him.

“Jimin-ah, do you love him?” Tae whispered.

Now that Jimin was actually here with Jungkook, it was so much tougher; so much more challenging and different than he had envisaged for this moment to go.

Maybe, his heart wasn’t ready yet.

“Your father invited me as well and I had already accepted,” Jimin expressed as he picked up a bottle of fizzy water. “Besides, it’s for a good cause,” he added, finally meeting Jungkook’s eyes again.

Bad idea.

The black haired male fixed his tie, giving a faint nod as an unsettling emotion flashed in his eyes – one that tugged on Jimin’s heart strings.

“I understand,” he spoke softly, his gaze never leaving Jimin’s beautiful features, the latter long having averted his eyes over to the crowd of significant people dressed in fancy clothes.

The longer Jimin remained in Jungkook’s presence, the harder it was for him to disregard the longing of his heart. All the same, the inquisitiveness and pure heartbreak that resided within him grew vaster the closer he was to Jungkook.

Ruled by a defence-mechanism of his soul, Jimin pushed himself away from the bar, intending to leave the situation. Jungkook, however, curled his hand around Jimin’s wrist to prevent him from going.

“Will you let me take you home tonight?” the younger asked.

Home.

Frowning, Jimin snatched his arm back, facing Jungkook with an appalled expression. “Are you serious?” he stressed, shaking his head with a humourless laugh. “I’m not going to have sex with you-”

“We need to talk,” Jungkook interrupted him.

Talk. – That’s what Jimin had begged him to do all along.

It was what Jimin still wanted, what he was seeking for, yet why did the mere notion of Jungkook saying those words evoke such a surge of irritation and denunciation within him?
“You want to talk to me?” Jimin echoed, raising his brows at the absurdity of that statement. “That’s new,” he snorted, albeit not leaving either, but leaning against the counter again.

“Can you stop being so stubborn for one second?” Jungkook insisted, his voice soft opposed to Jimin’s bitter tone.

“No, you don’t get to say that,” Jimin stressed, angered by Jungkook’s audacity to call Jimin stubborn after everything he had done to him. “You’re the one who caused all of this. You claim to love me, but you treat me like shit”

The taller male flinched at his words, almost as though they had physically harmed him.

“How can you say that?”

“You keep me locked up in a car,” Jimin reminded him, only partially exaggerating. “You don’t tell me about anything that’s going on in your life. You have secrets that you keep behind my back. You won’t let me into your heart. You treated me like a pet back at the cabin and said those horrible things to me,” he listed on his fingers, compelling himself to not cry. “Tell me, how is that a stable and healthy relationship? How is that love?”

The black haired male reached for him. “I just- Little one, I-”

Jimin, however, took a step back, shaking his head. “I can’t bear that any longer,” he asserted.

“Please, Jimin-ah-”

“Can you look me in the eyes right now and tell me that you haven’t lied to me these past weeks?” Jungkook interrupted him, taking a step towards Jungkook, their faces so much closer now. At their intimate proximity, Jungkook itched to touch Jimin, Jungkook’s gaze flickering back and forth between Jimin’s pretty doe eyes, wishing the affection he had grown to love would be gleaming in them. “Can you tell me honestly that you haven’t kept any secrets from me?”

Jungkook parted his lips, but remained silent.

“Of course,” Jimin spoke quietly, shaking his head as he turned away.

In hindsight, it might not have been such a good idea to come here, the reaction to any encounter with Jungkook having been inevitable. Clearly, this wasn’t the most appropriate place, certainly not the right time to have this conversation.

The pink haired one was still too hurt to talk to Jungkook in any civil way.

Yet, could you blame him?

If Jimin truly wanted this night to evolve anything close to pretty, he ought to keep it together and remain calm – regardless of how difficult it was going to be.

“I fucked up,” Jungkook was quick to declare. “I am fucked up, just let me-”

“Mr. Park, hello,” another male voice suddenly joined their conversation, drawing both of their attention over to him.

At the unexpected sight, Jimin’s eyes went big.

“Oh, Mr. Yang, what a pleasure to see you again,” he greeted the man, executing a deep bow, ruled by a polite mannerism.
“The pleasure is all mine,” Mr. Yang claimed with a grin, waving his wine glass around. “I didn’t expect to see you here, Mr. Park,” he added. “I must say, I was sad to hear that you declined my offer of joining my company,” he revealed, but laughed all the same, clearly in a good mood.

“I apologise,” Jimin uttered with a soft smile, exhibiting another bow.

Mr. Yang lifted his hand, shaking his head at Jimin’s apology. “I understand that you made a good choice by going with Jeon,” he coincided, noticing that Jungkook was standing just a few inches beside them. “There he is!” he exclaimed with a smile. “Good to see you”

“You, too, Yang,” Jungkook returned politely, performing a slight bow.

“Well, Jimin-ssi, would you mind joining me for a moment?” Mr. Yang requested friendly. “I have a few people I would like you to meet. Coincidently, we had just talked about the significance of good performers in the industry,” he added as he gestured to a spot behind him, implying that he viewed Jimin as a good performer, flattering the smaller one.

“You want me to meet them?” Jimin wondered.

“Yes”

“Careful, Yang,” Jungkook warned him. “Jimin-ssi already made his decision,” he added, itching to move closer, but compelling himself to remain calmly, leaning against the counter. “He chose me- he chose us,” he corrected.

“We’re just going to have a conversation, Jeon, no worries,” Mr. Yang noted with a chuckle.

The black haired male, however, didn’t laugh. “This might not be the most appropriate setting, don’t you think?” he stated, pointing to his side at no one in particular.

Mr. Yang’s smile grew as he took a step towards Jungkook. “I think Mr. Park is perfectly capable of making that decision on his own,” he remarked.

The two men glared at one another, polite smiles remaining on their faces, yet there was a prominent display of tension in the air between them.

“So, Mr. Park, would you mind?” Mr. Yang inquired again, although he didn’t divert his gaze towards Jimin, but proceeded to glare at Jungkook.

Undoubtedly, Jimin was more than happy to be a part of Jeon Entertainment, but he would be lying if he asserted that he wasn’t inquisitive at all to at least learn why Mr. Yang wanted him to meet these people. Palpably, Jimin wouldn’t leave Jeon Entertainment for anyone, but participating in a harmless conversation wasn’t prohibited, was it? More than anything, it would establish a way for him to reasonably remove himself from this situation with Jungkook, a circumstance that his heart was begging him for.

“I don’t mind at all,” Jimin responded, shaking his head.

At his words, Jungkook and Mr. Yang turned to face him.

“Wonderful,” Mr. Yang expressed, grinning smugly as he gestured for Jimin to follow him. “Jeon,” he noted, waving Jungkook goodbye before he walked ahead.

The smaller boy insinuated to follow after him, but Jungkook wrapped his hand around Jimin’s wrist to tug him back.
“Where are you going?” he asked, despite the answer being apparent.

“I’m following him,” Jimin stated the obvious as he met Jungkook’s gaze.

“Are you- Fuck, don’t do that,” Jungkook insisted with a frown. “Not now. Please, little one, I need you”

The pink haired one stilled, his heart clenching again.

“Ironic, isn’t it? For you to be mad at me for treating you the way you proceed to treat me,” Jimin remarked though, releasing himself from Jungkook’s grasp before he followed after Mr. Yang, not taking another glimpse back at the younger male, ignoring the way his heart ached.

***

“Asshole, what are you doing here all on your own?” a female voice ventured.

The black haired male didn’t even turn to face them, recognising the voice to establish that their presence was indifferent to him, choosing to proceed to stare off into the crowd as he took another sip from his scotch.

“Hello? Are you not going to scold me for how I address you?” Minji noted as she rolled her eyes, waving her hand around in front of Jungkook’s face.

Jungkook narrowed his eyes. “I never knew what a fucking snake Yang really was,” he stated lowly, having remained in the same spot for the past fifteen minutes, observing the conversation between Mr. Yang, Jimin and a few strangers evolve, Jungkook turning more impatient and irritated with each passing second he watched them.

“Excuse me?”

“Yang,” Jungkook reiterated, stealing a glimpse at Minji to meet her confused expression, before he averted his gaze back over to Yang’s table. The older male was laughing, swaying his wine glass around whilst Jimin was quiet beside him, a polite smile adorning his pretty features. “Fucking Yang. Look at him,” he cursed at the sight, taking another sip from his drink.

Minji furrowed her brows. “He’s literally having a conversation,” she stressed, pointing at the man at the other side of the room.

“Yeah”

The woman beside him blinked.

“Wow, what a horrible thing to do,” she gasped, giving a nod. “You’re literally right,” she coincided, irony dripping from her tone as she picked up a bottle of still water.

Predominantly, her words were inaudible to Jungkook, her voice muffled as he was fixated on the stranger beside Jimin, having noticed his stares and close proximity to his lover. A few too many times he had placed his hand on Jimin’s arm or shoulder, visibly flirting with the boy. At each brush of his hand over Jimin’s body, Jimin blushed nervously, smiling politely before he was swift to avert his eyes from the man, evidently not interested.

Fuck, Jungkook would be lying, if he claimed that it didn’t evoke a surge of smugness within him whenever Jimin displayed his clear apathy in any man around him.
“Who’s that beside him?” Jungkook wanted to know, commencing to turn rather annoyed by that guy’s behaviour; this close to walking over there to grab him by the collar and shove him out of this fucking building.

Of course, that douche believed he could impose his status and power on Jimin, believed he could touch Jimin in whatever way he desired just because he had money – because, fuck what you want, fuck whether you’re content with this, I want it and I have money so I can take whatever I fucking want – That’s what they thought. That’s what any damn man in this fucking building thought.

The girl followed his gaze. “Uh, your boyfriend?” Minji responded, flashing Jungkook an irritated glare.

“No, fuck, the other side,” Jungkook elucidated, rolling his eyes. “That fucking douchebag that keeps touching Jimin like he’s a fucking-”

“You just literally used the word fuck five times in the past thirty seconds,” Minji pointed out.

The black haired male rolled his eyes all over again. “Well, you use literally way too often so do I really fucking care about what you say?” he noted, not meeting her gaze.

Minji huffed, leaning on the counter as she picked at her nails. “Whoa, look who hasn’t gotten his dick sucked in a while,” she remarked below her breath, sighing.

“Shut up, Minji,” Jungkook demanded, annoyed by her obnoxious comments. “Why don’t you go and hop on another dick, hm?”

“Fuck you,” she cursed at him, furrowing her brows.

“You, too,” Jungkook returned, lifting his glass as though he were to cheer for her.

Neither of them moved, the two of them at a point in their lives where they had adjusted to their circumstances and had grown to accustom to the way they treated one another without truly taking their words to heart.

The girl sighed as she straightened her back again, pressing her lips into a line before she inquired, “Jeon, on a more serious note, what’s wrong?”

“Who’s that guy?” Jungkook reiterated his question. “Is he working with Yang? I’ve never fucking seen him,” he stated, shaking his head as he attempted to recall an encounter with the man, but any effort was for vain.

There were only two options at this point – the two of them had never fucking met, or his face was just not one to remember.

“That’s Seo; one of Yang’s acquaintances. They worked together before, but are more friends than business associates,” Minji enlightened him on the guy he was referring to. “And in case you mean that other guy beside Jimin, that’s Yang’s assistant,” she informed him. “You have to know him because I’m pretty sure he gave you head before,” she added, amusement audible in her tone.

“That guy?” Jungkook questioned, furrowing his brows as he glanced at the other man beside Jimin, a guy that appeared to be utterly indifferent to be here at all.

The taller male could not envisage himself with that guy.

Then again, Jungkook had never really cared much, if it came down to anyone essentially begging
Jungkook to allow them to give him head. Back then, Jungkook hadn’t been one to decline a quick blowjob in a random bathroom stall.

Fuck, he could never imagine himself doing that now.

Not now. Not now that Jimin was in his life.

No matter whether Jimin still wanted him or not, Jungkook was certain that he would never want anyone else again as much as he wanted Jimin, was certain that he would never want to touch anyone else again the way he touched Jimin, was certain that he would never love anyone else again as much as he loved Jimin.

At this point, Jungkook vowed his heart belonged to Jimin – forever – whether he wanted it or not, it was his, and that fact would never change.

“Yes, that guy,” Minji affirmed, drawing Jungkook out of his thoughts.

Jungkook hummed, titling his head to the side. “I don’t remember a damn thing about that,” he murmured, more to himself than anything, but then again not particularly caring about that guy either.

“Well, you were pretty drunk during that Christmas party, so that’s no surprise,” Minji mocked, rolling her eyes.

Yang’s acquaintance laughed out loud – Jungkook couldn’t help but wish he would choke – his hand finding itself on the small of Jimin’s back, potentially already brushing his bottom, this time around. The latter was startled by the touch, flinching as his eyes went bigger.

Was he fucking drunk? Was he unable to refrain from touching people without their consent? There was a fair line between a friendly or accidental touch and a touch that insinuated to suggest more.

In a quick, but subtle motion, Jimin managed to remove the man’s hand from his back, Jungkook struggling to define whether Jimin was uncomfortable and required his help or whether he preferred to handle the situation on his own.

After all, every now and then, Jimin did giggle at one of their jokes, did engage in their conversation quite brightly and bubbly.

Was Jungkook misinterpreting the situation? Did Jimin enjoy the attention and flirtation?

“Well does that douche keep touching Jimin? I’m this close to walking over there and punching the shit out of him,” Jungkook swore, pushing his tongue into his cheek as his jaw locked, having to gather any last piece of self-control he could muster to not walk up to them.

Fuck, Jungkook was doing his utmost, but shit, he was so fucking close to snapping.

The only thing that was holding him back was Jimin not searching to find his gaze – if he did, Jungkook wouldn’t waste another heartbeat to storm over there and put that bastard back into his place.

“Go ahead,” Minji encouraged him.

The younger furrowed his brows, confident that his ears had deceived him. “What?” he questioned, meeting her gaze.

“Yeah, go ahead,” Minji repeated with a nod, gesturing for Jungkook to leave. “I’m sure your father would love for you to make a scene at such a prestige and significant event. Go ahead, ruin your reputation and that pivotal moment in your life with an impulsive decision,” she added, irony vividly illustrated in her tone.

Jungkook rolled his eyes. “Fuck you”

“You know that I’m right,” she noted.

“I know, that’s why I hate you even more,” he added, a slight smirk curving his lips.

Minji smiled, shaking her head.

It was only at that point that Jungkook recalled what event he was present at, followed by confusion as to why Minji was even talking to him – considering how she hadn’t received a personal invitation to be here.

“Why are you even here?” Jungkook then wanted to know.

“Your father invited me,” she responded casually.

Jungkook frowned. “Why?”

Why did his father require his assistant to be here?

“Why not?” she retorted, knitting her brows as she shrugged her shoulders, then opening her bottle of water in a clear indication that she wasn’t going to give Jungkook an enlightening answer.

The black haired male rolled his eyes, but refrained from arguing.

Naturally, silence settled between them again, Jungkook quite fond of that phenomenon, yet only for so long until it was broken by Minji, the girl pointing at his glass filled with liquor. “So, you are drinking again, huh?”

“I’m not,” Jungkook denied nonchalantly, his eyes never leaving Jimin.

The two of them were aware that he was lying.

“Well, it smells like you are,” Minji uttered, propping her chin up on her fist.

Jungkook sighed. “Well, that’s none of your fucking business”

The girl rolled her eyes, but dropped the topic, not interested to argue with Jungkook any longer.

“So, why are you not with your Jimin?” Minji wanted to know, titling her head to the side.

Your Jimin, as though Jimin was his.

Just two days ago, Jungkook would have certainly declared that Jimin was his – just as much as Jungkook was his – yet now, after everything, Jungkook wasn’t confident whether Jimin viewed that part about them in an equal way, whether Jimin was truly still his.

“I guess you aren’t going to answer,” Minji sighed, rolling her eyes. “Surprise”

“I… fucked up,” Jungkook found himself respond, his tone a lot softer than it had initially been – not just regarding this conversation, but ever, Minji wanted to assert.

“Fuck you,” Jungkook cursed at her, bringing his glass back up to his lips.

A moment of silence consumed them, Minji feeling a surge of apology and remorse bloom within her after realising that Jungkook had tried to be honest with his feelings. “What did you do?” she inquired; her tone gentler.

The black haired male didn’t respond.

“Well, then fix it,” Minji advised, albeit not possessing any knowledge about what Jungkook had done to cause that split or argument – certainly distance – between them.

“I’m trying to,” Jungkook responded, lowering his gaze down to his digits curled around his glass, his index finger running over the crystal.

“You’re doing a poor job then,” Minji claimed.

No shit.

“Fuck you, Minji”

Minji lifted her hands in defence. “What? Am I wrong?”

Across from him – at the other side of the room – Jimin giggled, his eyes turning into small crescents as a response to a remark one of the men around him had made.

“I fucking hate this,” Jungkook groaned, emptying his drink in one go before he lowered the glass down on the counter in a harsh manner, nearly breaking the item in the process. “I’m going to look for my father,” he informed Minji, leaving her behind.

***

On the other side of the room, Jimin was emerged in a conversation he admittedly found his heart longing to abandon. By no means was that emotion attributable to the men around him being boring or annoying, for that matter, yet Jimin couldn’t help the way his heart begged to search for Jungkook’s gaze. Frankly, it required every ounce of self-control Jimin could muster to refrain from acting accordingly to that desire.

Jimin had noticed. Jungkook’s intent stares, that is.

How couldn’t he – with the way Jungkook had not teared his eyes away from him for the past twenty minutes, with the way the two of them were connected in a way neither of them truly understood?

“Mr. Park, rumour has it that Jeon is debuting a new boy group very soon. Is that true?” the man beside Jimin – Mr. Seo, as Jimin had prior learned – declared as he placed his hand on the small of Jimin’s back, for the fifth time by now, that is. “You must know, considering how you’re one of his rarely talented choreographers,” he added, leaning closer with a chuckle, the scent of cigarettes and alcohol filling Jimin’s nostrils.

You see, at first, Jimin had labelled any touch by the man as an accidental one, brushing it off with a smile, then figuring it might just be a friendly gesture, a way the man simply expressed himself.

Yet, at this point Jimin was commencing to turn more than just uncomfortable with each intrusive touch, subtly moving away an inch each time, but learning that the man simply followed after him.
Perhaps, his initial impression of Mr. Seo hadn’t been that far off?

Don’t get Jimin wrong by any means, the boy didn’t exactly condone the act of judging anyone for who they are, let alone by a mere first impression.

However, their first encounter had been rather… notable?

“Seo, this is Park Jimin, currently working for Jeon,” Mr. Yang introduced the pink haired boy to another business associate of his, the latter executing another deep bow.

Mr. Seo smirked at Jimin’s mannerism, reaching for Jimin’s delicate hand opposed to returning the bow. For a moment, he simply studied Jimin’s pretty features, the corners of his lips curving up higher.

“Beautiful,” he commented with a smirk, Jimin not quite certain whether his remark was stated in regard to Mr. Yang’s statement or a compliment for Jimin’s appearance. “Nice to meet you, Mr. Park”

“You, too,” Jimin uttered politely, a shiver running down his back at the way Mr. Seo’s gaze was piercing through his eyes, the man still not having allowed Jimin to withdraw his hand from his grasp.

In hindsight, maybe it hadn’t been such a good idea to come here at all, considering how the men around him were not at all interested in what Jimin had to say about anything.

No, opposed to his words, Mr. Yang had only faintly introduced Jimin – including a comment about the company he worked for – to his acquaintances before he had initiated a rather passionate conversation about the wine he was drinking, presumably having long forgotten why he had invited Jimin over.

Mr. Yang appeared to have had a few too many drinks already – as any other man around him – Jimin feeling compelled to laugh or at least smile politely at his dry jokes. In contrast to Jimin, the men around him cackled at each joke Mr. Yang made, causing Jimin to wonder whether he missed the pun, simply didn’t share the same humour or the men around him felt forced to laugh at Mr. Yang’s anecdotes, bearing the notable hierarchy in mind – Mr. Yang undeniably exuding a certain authority over the other men in the circle.

“Uhm… I’m afraid that’s confidential information I’m not permitted to declare, Mr. Seo. I’m sorry,” Jimin apologised eventually, flashing the man a gentle smile.

“Ah, but you’re not declaring anything I don’t know, Mr. Park. I’m aware of this news already. There is nothing going on in this industry I’m not aware of,” Mr. Seo boasted with a sway of his hand, his other palm finding its way to Jimin’s back again, subtly sliding below his jacket this time.

“Well, with all due respect, if you are that certain, then there is no need for you to ask and indubitably no reason for you to refer to it as a rumour, Mr. Seo,” Jimin responded as he carefully moved away, the other men around him chuckling at Jimin’s remark. “In either way, I’m not allowed to talk about it”

Mr. Seo pursed his lips, a dark emotion flashing in his eyes as he studied Jimin’s features. “Fair enough,” he murmured, an intrigued smile curving his lips.
“Ah, Jimin-ssi, don’t let Seo here fool you. We are all more than familiar with how nosy he can be. I bet you, he has no idea about that group from Jeon,” Mr. Yang remarked, swaying his glass around again, trying to wink, but ending up doing a horrible job.

Amused, Jimin giggled, giving a nod as he dipped his head down.

At last, Jimin was no longer capable to refrain from his desire to find Jungkook’s gaze, causing his eyes to trail over to the bar, albeit discovering that Jungkook was no longer there.

Slowly, Jimin’s laughter subsided, his smile faltering as he searched for Jungkook, but with the amount of people that were present in the room, any effort was futile. To be honest, Jimin wasn’t quite certain why his sudden absence even upset him that much, considering how Jimin had been the one to leave him behind earlier.

Naturally, Jimin found himself itching to go and look for Jungkook, too inquisitive to learn where he had gone and why he had left his spot in the first place after having remained there for at least twenty minutes simply gazing at Jimin.

However, right now, Jimin needed to stay strong and stand his ground.

“You seem to take your job very seriously,” Mr. Seo then noted, drawing Jimin out of his thoughts. “That is remarkable. I guess it’s fair to say that Jeon has found a good one in you. These days, those are rare,” he complimented, flashing Jimin a smirk.

Politely, Jimin returned the smile. “Thank you,” he uttered.

“I told you,” Mr. Yang stressed, giving a nod. “I have a sense for that. I can immediately see whether someone is suitable to work for me, whether they’ve really got what it takes,” he boasted, taking yet another sip from his wine.

Somehow, Jimin couldn’t help but wonder whether these men around him were even aware that this was a charity event, that tonight had a more significant purpose than any talk regarding their business could ever have.

Neither of them had mentioned at least one word about the charity.

No, opposed to that, they had been making dirty jokes, had talked about their competition or what kind of beverage they preferred. These were the people that could establish changes in the world – people that possessed the means to help and shape the future, but allegedly, none of that mattered to them.

Evidently, some small talk at such an event was inevitable, but why did a majority of the people here seem so adamant to learn a new secret about the competition or try to establish deals, when tonight was intended for way more important topics to discuss.

Slowly, Jimin started to realise that not everyone shared the same passion for charities as Jungkook did, that some people used this night to have free drinks, exchange some words with additional wealthy people in the industry, potentially get their name out there and make a few affairs.

In the end, Jimin doubted that they had primarily joined this event because of any sincere interest in the cause.

“I would like to see a pretty face like yours perform, Mr. Park,” Mr. Seo drew Jimin out of his thoughts. “Bearing in mind how both Yang and Jeon keep praising your talent,” he declared as he placed his hand on the small of Jimin’s back below his suit jacket again.
At his words, Jimin smiled gloomily.

This right here was just another piece of evidence to accentuate Jimin’s initial conviction.

“I have no intention of leaving Jeon Entertainment, Mr. Seo, I’m sorry,” Jimin responded, shaking his head.

No matter what was going to happen between him and Jungkook, Jimin was fond of the company.

Mr. Seo chuckled, his hand moving lower on Jimin’s back – dangerously close to his bottom – the latter’s eyes going wide whilst he swallowed hard at the inappropriate touch. “I would have to see you perform first to offer you a place, Mr. Park,” he noted with a grin.

Carefully, Jimin moved away from Mr. Seo, the older forced to drop his hand back to his side.

“Mr. Park performed at the Seoul Dance Championship this year,” Mr. Yang stated then.
“Remarkable performance. Truly. You really missed out by not being there this time around,” he claimed, addressing Mr. Seo.

“Well, it appears that neither of us would have had a chance anyway, considering how he went with Jeon,” Mr. Seo made a valid point.

In a way, Jimin was grateful that Mr. Seo had never even given him an offer to audition for his company like Mr. Jeon or Mr. Yang had, as he was evoking a surge of discomfort within Jimin, the mere notion of the man potentially using his authority over Jimin, if he had ever worked for him, frightening him.

“Fair enough,” Mr. Yang chuckled with a nod before he scanned his surroundings. “Well, the food should be served soon, shouldn’t it?”

“Why don’t we go and look for a table already?” Mr. Seo suggested, nudging Jimin’s arm in a gesture for him to follow, albeit clearly addressing Mr. Yang as he was looking at him.

“Ah, I-I don’t want to sit down just yet, Mr. Seo,” Jimin protested, shaking his head as he escaped from Mr. Seo’s grasp, the man not appearing to be pleased as he reached for Jimin’s waist again.

“I see,” the older man noted, ceasing to push Jimin, but not withdrawing his hand either. “Well, then we’ll wait, won’t we?”

Leisurely, Jimin stole another glimpse at the bar, not certain what he was searching for – Okay, maybe that was a lie… Okay, it clearly was a lie.

Undeniably, Jimin was aware of what his heart had hoped to see.

Well, it accomplished that desire.

However, not in the way it had craved for.

The smaller one’s eyes went bigger as he saw Jungkook heading their way, his eyes dark.

A sudden surge of nervousness bloomed within Jimin, the boy feeling the need to leave, despite him not being a hundred percent knowledgeable whether Jungkook was truly approaching them or simply heading in this direction.

“I have to excuse myself,” Jimin uttered as he managed to flee from Mr. Seo’s grasp, exhibiting a deep bow before he spun around and made his way into the large crowd – a singe of gratitude washing over him at the large size of the crowd, a fact that he usually tended to dislike.

However, right now, it served as a way for him to escape.

With his head hanging low, Jimin made his way through the cluster of people, not convinced where he was heading, but positive that he was intending to establish as much distance between him and Jungkook as possible.

No running away, huh?

Jimin pressed his lips into a line, wishing he could ignore the guilt that blossomed within him.

On two occasions already, Jimin had in fact done just that – run away – in spite of vowing to himself that running away didn’t solve any issues, but that he needed to talk to Jungkook.

It wasn’t easy, though, so please don’t judge him.

Accidently, Jimin bumped into someone, uttering out an apology.

“Oh, hello, Jimin-ssi,” a female voice greeted him, delight audible in her tone.

Astonished, Jimin lifted his head, recognizing the person that he had collided with.

“Seoyun-ssi, hello,” Jimin greeted her, his brows raised as a polite smile embellished his pretty features, the boy executing a slight bow.

The girl smiled brightly, pulling Jimin into a hug instead of returning the bow, startling the former who hadn’t expected such a warm embrace.

“It’s nice to see you again,” she expressed, patting Jimin’s back before they withdrew.

“You, too,” Jimin uttered, slightly baffled by her excitement and outright friendliness – recalling memories of her rude behaviour towards him months ago, when Jimin had still believed her to be Jungkook’s girlfriend.

Seoyun stole a glimpse behind Jimin, titling her head to the side as she met Jimin’s gaze again. “So, where is Mr. Loverboy?” she inquired, pushing her hands to her hips. “Why isn’t he by your side?”

Mr. Who now?

“How?”

The girl rolled her eyes, chuckling at Jimin’s oblivion. “Jeon Jungkook,” she elucidated with a tap on his shoulder. “Your boyfriend”

“Oh,” Jimin uttered, dipping his head down as he shook his head at the mention of his name, reminding himself that he had just ran away from him, albeit not even a hundred percent convinced that Jungkook had approached him at all. “We’re… he’s… somewhere,” he chose to express, meeting her eyes again.

“Mhm,” she hummed, titling her head to the side as she studied Jimin’s features, suspicious of his words despite Jimin trying to uphold a sincere demeanor. “So… he messed up, huh?” she assumed, her tone soft.

How would she know?
Was Jimin that obvious?

“Well, it’s…” Jimin trailed off, not keen on sharing the complicated issues about his relationship with anyone that wasn’t a part of his closest group of friends, yet then not fond of lying either. Admittedly, Jimin hadn’t even spoken to Taehyung about all of it yet, thus he certainly wasn’t going to declare it all to a person her merely knew anything about.

“I see,” she responded, apprehending that Jimin didn’t want to talk about it in detail, thus not interrogating him any further.

Instead, she sighed, lowering her head.

“Jungkook isn’t a bad guy,” she then stressed her perception on the black haired boy, lifting her head to meet Jimin’s gaze again, a gentle smile curving her lips.

“I know,” Jimin found himself whisper.

In the end, Jimin did want to believe that Jungkook wasn’t a bad guy – no, knew that deep within his soul, he was kind and reliable, was selfless and considerate, caring in many ways.

However, people weren’t always just good or bad.

No, life was way too complex for that, wasn’t divided in just those two alternate extremes.

Sometimes, they went hand in hand – similar to the way you weren’t able to separate light from darkness. After all, darkness was just the temporary absence of light. No darkness lasted forever. Maybe, akin to that, a person considered bad was just suffering from the temporary absence of a good soul. In that same way, a person considered good could lose that part of them in a weak moment and perform a bad act.

You see, in Jimin’s eyes, it wasn’t easy to separate these two, because in the end he always aspired to see the good in people.

Yet, right now, Jimin truly didn’t know who Jungkook was anymore.

“I just know that he cares for you. A lot,” Seoyun drew him out of his thoughts.

At her words, he knitted his brows. “How would you know that?”

The girl snickered. “Jungkook did everything in his power to get out of that contract with me and my parents,” she retorted with a smile. “For you,” she added, pointing at Jimin who blinked at her words.

Of course, he recalled…

How could he ever forget that?

Despite Jimin having been adamant to stress that he hadn’t want Jungkook to drop the deal with Seoyun and her parents for Jimin’s sake, but solely for his own, he knew that Jungkook had done it for him just as much.

He did care for Jimin, didn’t he?

Yet then… why had he treated him that way back at the cabin?

What had caused his behaviour to change just like that?
There was something that Jimin was still missing…

He was unable to connect all the dots…

“Jungkook dropped a business changing deal for you, Jimin-ssi,” she reminded him. “For Jungkook, who does essentially every and anything to help his father, that does mean a lot,” she emphasised, lifting her hand up as though to make a valid point. “So, I know for a fact that you mean a lot to him,” she claimed, adding with a chuckle, “besides, I’ve heard him talk about you enough. Jiminie here, Jiminie there, it’s cute”

Subconsciously, a soft smile embellished Jimin’s face at her words, but it faltered as he reminded himself of Jungkook’s painful words back at the cabin.

“Oh,” Jimin simply breathed out.

Seoyun sighed. “Well, whatever he did, I hope he can fix it,” she asserted.

The smaller boy didn’t respond, pressing his lips into a line as he dipped his head down.

“I’ll have to go meet a few people now,” Seoyun explained, pulling Jimin into another hug. “I’ll see you around, Jimin-ssi”

“Yeah,” Jimin uttered as they withdrew, his eyes following after her as she left, involuntarily trailing over to the table he had just prior ran away from, discovering that Jungkook was nowhere to be found.

***

A few minutes earlier, Jungkook had in fact been present at said table.

“Jeon, hello,” Yang greeted him as they watched him approach the table, the younger male not meeting his gaze, but staring off into the crowd instead, observing Jimin disappear in the cluster of people.

“Where did Mr. Park go?” Jungkook wanted to know, not caring to return the greeting or venture being dragged into a conversation and forced to exchange words with some drunk douches, when all he really wanted to do was talk to Jimin.

“I’m afraid, I don’t know, Jeon,” Yang responded. “Mr. Park excused himself and then left without another word,” he added with a chuckle, gesturing towards the crowd.

“I see,” Jungkook mumbled, giving a faint nod.

Yang swayed his glass around. “Would you like to join us for a drink now?”

_Fuck, no._

“I’m good,” Jungkook declined, lifting his hand as he shook his head.

Seo tilted his head to the side. “Is that Jeon’s son? Where is your father, kid?” he inquired, the mere sound of his voice irritating Jungkook as the images of him touching Jimin flashed in front of his eyes.

The black haired male pushed his tongue into his cheek, but remained calm. “I’m not aware of his location,” he responded, quite frankly not having managed to find his father yet himself. “He must be somewhere in this room though, so you could go and look for him,” he suggested, flashing the man a smile that lacked sincerity.

“Maybe, later,” Seo responded with a wave of his hand.

Insinuating to leave, Jungkook took a step back, executing the tiniest bow towards Yang.

“Are you already leaving again?” Yang wanted to know, arching up a brow.

The younger male didn’t look back. “Yeah,” he simply responded, yet then, he did halt. “Actually,” he added, turning back to close the distance to Seo. “Be careful, Seo,” he warned, his tone low and intimidating.

The man raised his brows. “Careful? With what?” he asked, swallowing hard as though Jungkook possessed information on him he didn’t want him to possess.

The black haired boy glared at him for a moment longer before he turned around and left.

***

Sighing, Jimin sat down at one of the tables deposited in the center of the room, already feeling so drained although he had been here an hour at most, potentially much less. This whole night had been a bad idea. Well, not the night itself, obviously, as it was meant for a good cause, but Jimin attending this event had not been such a smart idea on his part.

Why had he even come here in the first place?

After all, he had sworn to not speak to Jungkook again.

Unsurprisingly, he had already retracted that threat by doing exactly that and talking to the younger male on two separate occasions in the past forty hours.

The two of them were not in a decent place right now; Jimin was more than hurt by how Jungkook has treated him. Quite frankly, Jimin was puzzled as to what he was even supposed to label them at this point.

So, why was he here?

To talk to him?

Then why was he running away?

Undeniably, Jimin had claimed that he was here because of his acceptance voiced in Mr. Jeon’s presence and the fact that this was a beautiful event.

Despite that being true, Jimin was more than aware that he had come here for Jungkook.

What did that say about Jimin?

For him to attend this event for Jungkook, simply because his heart was still longing for him in a way he couldn’t explain, even after everything he had done to him.

Did that make him foolish? Did it make him weak?

Yet, deep within his core, Jimin wanted to believe that… there was a reason, for Jungkook’s behaviour, for his secrets; that there was a reason for all of it, that their lives wouldn’t shatter after this incident, that Jungkook still cared.
“Jimin-ssi,” a male addressed him, Jimin swift to identify the person as he recognized the voice.

“Mr. Jeon, good evening,” Jimin greeted the man, raising to his feet and executing a polite bow.

“Good evening,” he expressed, a smile curving his lips. “How are you, Jimin-ssi?”

“I’m good, Sir, thank you,” Jimin lied, flashing him a delicate smile. “How are you?”

“I’m wonderful,” Mr. Jeon responded with a grin. “Thank you for joining my son today, Jimin-ssi,” he declared with a pat on Jimin’s shoulder. “This is a very important night for him,” he added as he pointed to their side at no one in particular, Jimin’s insides squirming at his words.

It was a significant night indeed – in general, of course, but… but also for Jungkook personally. Inevitably, Jimin couldn’t help but recall every single time Jungkook had emphasised the importance that this night possessed for him, the way it established a step for him to go back to his roots and be involved in charities again to find a part of himself he had believed of having lost along his way. More than anything, Jungkook had expressed his pure delight and appreciation in Jimin being by his side through all of it.

“My son was very persistent in me doing this,” Mr. Jeon chuckled as he shook his head, recalling the conversation. “He’s got that from his mother, I guess. That passion, I mean. The two of them had built a connection in that sense; she had always been able to reach him in a way that I never had been able to, almost in the same way you’re able to touch him in a way I’ve never seen anyone else do before,” he expressed, a gentle smile adorning his features, an emotion that was somehow a mixture of grief and appreciation simultaneously gleaming in his dark eyes. “I know this means a lot to him. I also know that he’s nervous, although he will probably never admit to that. You’re surely calming him down a lot, aren’t you?” he chuckled. “I’m not sure if he said it to you yet, but it means all the more to him for you to be by his side, tonight and always,” he added softer, leaning in to pull Jimin into a hug, the affectionate gesture by the man catching Jimin off guard.

The pink haired boy’s heart ached at his words.

“I’m happy to be here as well, Mr. Jeon,” Jimin found himself utter, his tone delicate as they withdrew from one another, Jimin reflecting over every personal thought and shared words by others regarding Jungkook that he had encountered over the past day.

Jemin felt… wrong; felt wrong for how he was treating Jungkook – especially on this beautiful day – felt immature for avoiding Jungkook instead of facing him like he had vowed to do.

In a way, Jimin was clearly missing the significant point here.

Well, not the point of this night itself, but the importance and weight of… of promises, of the smaller things in life, of timing, of feelings, of grudges and arguments.

Tonight, Jungkook needed him; had even expressed that he needed him.

For a moment, all the anger, all the fear, all the pain within Jimin vanished.

Maybe, just for tonight, Jimin could look past all of that – all of their unfinished business, all of the secrets, the arguments, the mean words and any issue that would reveal itself at one point – no matter how difficult it was going to be to pretend that nothing had shattered, that Jimin wasn’t aware that there was a storm just around a dark corner looming to tear his life apart.

“Well, where is my son?” Mr. Jeon inquired then, glancing around in an attempt to find Jungkook. “I haven’t seen him tonight at all,” he noted, furrowing his brows.
The smaller boy scanned the room, his brain trying to come up with a valid excuse.

“Jimin-ssi?”

“Oh, he’s… he wanted to get us some drinks, but I guess he got lost somewhere, so I should go and look for him,” Jimin responded in an attempt to prevent Mr. Jeon from asking any further questions about him and Jungkook.

Mr. Jeon gave a nod, humming. “Ah, I see,” he noted, clearing his throat. “Well, I won’t hold you back any longer then,” he chuckled as he waved for Jimin to leave. “I will talk to you two later”

“Later, Mr. Jeon,” Jimin expressed, smiling at the man as he watched him leave his side.

As soon as he was gone, Jimin inhaled a shaky breath, scanning the room all over again in an attempt to locate Jungkook.

Eventually, he did.

Then, he found himself moving closer almost subconsciously.

Just for tonight, you were fine.

Just for tonight, that night at the cabin had never happened.

Just for tonight, you hadn’t cried your eyes out after Jungkook had treated you like a pet.

Just for tonight, nothing had shattered.

Almost as though Jungkook could sense that Jimin was near, he turned around to face the latter, his eyes going bigger as he watched the smaller one approach him.

Jimin, on his part, completely froze – just for a moment; just for a moment, but he did. It was like all the air was kicked out of his lungs as he realised what he was about to do.

Inhaling another shaky breath, Jimin closed the distance between them.

“Jimin-ah,” Jungkook breathed, fixing his posture, his tone so soft.

The smaller guy stared at him for a moment, disregarding the painful aching of his heart as he looked into Jungkook’s gorgeous brown orbs. Now, there was that familiar softness gleaming in them, opposed to that iciness they had conveyed back at the cabin.

“This night means a lot to you. I know that,” Jimin expressed, inhaling another deep breath as he played with his petite fingers, a nervous habit of his. “You hurt me with what you did to me, but regardless of any of that, I promised you to be by your side tonight and I… I want you to know that I’m proud of you. I’m happy that you’re doing this, and I’m happy that you’re here,” he added, relieved and only the slightest bit astonished that he had managed to say those words without crying or backing out.

The younger male blinked, appearing to be baffled.

“Thank you,” he noted, his gaze flickering back and forth between Jimin’s eyes. “I’m happy that you’re here, too,” he asserted with a smile – that stupid smile that had Jimin’s heart flutter for him.

Naturally, Jimin returned the smile, it was faint and delicate, but it was visible.
“You look very beautiful,” Jungkook then complimented him, his eyes tailing over Jimin’s figure and the suit he had spent a fortune on – and hours to find, for that matter, thank you again, Tae – enchanted by the way it accentuated Jimin’s curves in just the nicest way.

“Thank you,” Jimin whispered. “You look very handsome yourself,” he added as he moved beside Jungkook, not quite sure what else to say, not exactly having thoroughly thought this through, if he was being honest.

The two of them stared off into the crowd.

It was odd, but… the mere proximity to Jungkook was comforting.

For a moment, silence consumed them, yet, surprisingly, it wasn’t awkward at all.

“Did you break up with me back at the cabin?” Jungkook suddenly inquired, cutting the silence between them.

What?

The pink haired one turned to face Jungkook.

“Do you think I did?” Jimin asked opposed to answering, raising his brows.

Jungkook only stared at him, parting his lips, but remaining silent.

“Are you drinking?” Jimin then wanted to know, disregarding the prior question altogether as he noticed the prominent trace of an alcoholic beverage in the air and Jungkook’s palm being curled around a cold glass.

The younger male followed Jimin’s gaze down to his glass. “Maybe,” he chose to respond.

At his words, Jimin titled his head to the side. “I thought you don’t drink anymore?”

Almost vividly, Jimin could recall their previous conversation about Jungkook’s past drinking habits, about the way he had been drinking a lot at a very young age, just for him to cease that addiction of his altogether – entirely.

Well, apparently not eternally.

“I’m sorry,” Jungkook sighed, shaking his head at himself. “I… just… I couldn’t help it”

“Why?”

The black haired boy smiled faintly. “You, this night, my mother,” he listed with a shrug of his shoulders. “It’s all coming together,” he explained.

Undeniably, Jungkook was nervous, perhaps overwhelmed by the night and the memories of his mother he reminisced about. On top of everything, there was that unspoken thing between them that Jimin tried to pretend of being non-existent.

“Give me that,” Jimin insisted, reaching for the glass. “You shouldn’t be drunk tonight, Jungkook-ah”

Reluctantly, the younger male handed him the glass, chuckling at Jimin’s demand. “I’m tipsy, at most,” he objected with humour in his eyes as he leaned against the counter, watching Jimin set the glass down beside them. “I don’t get drunk that quickly, don’t worry,” he added.
Jimin rolled his eyes at him, but smiled all the same.

At the sight of Jimin’s genuine smile, a surge of warmth spread within Jungkook’s chest. Yet then, the man was reminded of everything he had put Jimin through.

“I’m sorry, Jimin-ah,” he declared, his tone quiet and soft. “For everything. For what I said to you at the cabin and-”

“Let’s not do this now,” Jimin interrupted him, shaking his head, the reminder twisting the knife pierced through his heart deeper. “I don’t think this is the right place to talk about us,” he added. “Let’s just… focus on tonight, okay?”

After all, he was currently trying to disregard that exact subject. Additionally, they were still present at the charity gala and Jimin was convinced that this wasn’t the most appropriate setting to have an argument at.

“Why are you talking to me?” Jungkook wanted to know, frowning.

“What?”

The younger male wet his lips. “You said you would never talk to me again,” he reminded Jimin, his gaze flickering back and forth between his eyes and lips.

Jimin lowered his head. “Well, maybe we both said things back at the cabin that we didn’t quite mean,” he expressed with a faint shrug of his shoulders. “Or maybe this is just an exception. I haven’t decided yet,” he added, a faint smile curling the corners of his lips.

“For now, I can live with that,” Jungkook stated, his tone gentle.

“Can you?”

The other male gave a nod. “I get to hear your pretty voice for now, so…”

“Pretty?” Jimin echoed, raising his brows, ignoring the way the compliment had his insides squirm.

Jungkook hummed in affirmation. “Just like everything else about you,” he stressed softly, his eyes sincere as he leaned closer to Jimin, the latter swallowing hard at their intimate proximity.

“Here you are, Jungkook-ah,” a male voice interrupted them, the two of them lifting their head to enlighten themselves on the new presence. “I’ve been looking for you,” the man added.

“Appa, hey,” Jungkook greeted his father, straightening his back.

His father gestured for them to follow after him. “Come and join me at the table,” he insisted. “I’ve just been informed that the auction is starting soon,” he revealed, turning around to head towards the center of the room.

The other two boys shared a glance before they followed after him.

“Auction? What auction?” Jimin wanted to know, furrowing his brows.

“Aside from everyone donating freely as much as they can and want to, the organisers are auctioning off different items or merchandise that some businesses donated and contributed to raise money,” Jungkook explained, walking right beside Jimin. “That money will then be used for two different charities”
“I see,” Jimin uttered with a smile, giving a nod as they reached the table, discovering that a girl was already seated at their designated spot.

“Have a seat,” Mr. Jeon insisted as he sat down next to his assistant.

At the sight of Minji, images of catching her leaving the men’s bathroom back at the company prior to walking into Mr. Jeon in that exact bathroom a few weeks ago flashed right in front of Jimin’s eyes.

Wonderful.

Beside him, Jungkook pulled the chair back for him, gesturing for Jimin to take a seat. At the kind gesture, Jimin smiled, expressing a tiny, “Thank you” as he sat down on the chair. As soon as Jimin was sitting, Jungkook took the seat right next to him.

“Good evening, Jimin-ssi,” Minji greeted him with a polite smile.

Naturally, Jimin returned the smile, giving a faint nod. “Hello, Minji-ssi,” he uttered, not certain why her presence staggered him that much.

Where Minji and Jungkook’s father…?

No, surely not.

Jungkook and Minji shared a glance, Jimin merely noticing the way Minji smiled at him as though she was proud of something he had done.

“Ah, Wang is going to say a few words first,” Mr. Jeon noticed with a grin, pointing at the back of the room where a small platform alongside a table were deposited. A man had climbed on the platform and was now standing beside the table, picking up a microphone.

Suddenly, Jungkook leaned closer, his lips brushing over Jimin’s ear. “Wang is a business associate of my father, has been for years; he’s the one that planned this whole night,” he informed Jimin, the smaller boy gulping at the close proximity to Jungkook, his familiar trace nearly intoxicating.

Jimin gave a faint nod, ignoring the way his cheeks flushed.

Wang cleared his throat, the sound amplified over the multiple speakers hung in the room. “Welcome to this meaningful night,” he expressed, his voice distinct with delight, Jimin lifting his head to glance at him. “Thank you for joining us tonight,” he added, spreading his arm out. “Tonight, we get together to enjoy each other’s company and raise money for causes that mean a lot to us”

The audience applauded.

“I can’t begin without expressing my gratitude first. This night wouldn’t be possible, if it wasn’t for the Jeon’s sponsoring this beautiful event,” Wang declared, raising his glass into the air. “Let’s give it up for them”

The audience applauded again, Jimin smiling as he turned to face Jungkook, their gazes meeting. The younger male returned his smile, his eyes gleaming in affection as they stared into Jimin’s.

“First of all, I would like to tell you about the two causes we’re raising money for tonight,” Wang expressed, Jimin resuming to glance at Wang. “In honour of the Jeon’s, we couldn’t have picked a better place. For tonight, we decided on a place we know you have a dear connection to,” he added, Jimin inquisitive to learn what place it was. “The Seoul Children’s Hospital”
Previously, Jungkook had talked about his prior charity work he had participated in alongside his mother, yet he had never explicitly revealed what precise areas they had helped out at.

“Where you born there?” Jimin inquired as he turned to face Jungkook again, Wang proceeding to enlighten everyone on the importance of the place, Mr. Jeon’s and Minji’s attention fixated on him. The black haired male leaned closer. “It was the first place my mother raised money for,” he informed Jimin, the latter arching up his brows.

“Really?”

Jungkook gave a nod, wetting his lips before he added, “Yeah, she was fond of the place,” he cleared his throat. “Her… Her sister had worked there,” he then revealed.

“Sister?” Jimin echoed, his eyes going bigger, the boy not recalling Jungkook ever mentioning an aunt. Then again, just because Jimin wasn’t aware of any relatives he possessed himself, didn’t equal everyone else not having any either.

A gloomy smile adorned Jungkook’s handsome features. “She died, when I was about two years old,” he expressed. “I don’t really remember her”

In a way, it was similar to the way Jimin couldn’t recall many memories of his mother, the woman having died way too soon, thwarting Jimin from ever having the opportunity to remember her fully.

“Oh, I’m sorry to hear that,” Jimin uttered softly, sincerity in his tone as he found himself place his hand on top of Jungkook’s, giving it a tender squeeze to comfort him.

The younger male’s gaze trailed down to their touch, Jimin realising what he was doing, causing him to withdraw his hand in a swift manner. Flushing, the boy cleared his throat as he lifted his head to focus on Wang speaking.

“We’re also raising money for a homeless shelter very close to my home,” Wang stated, the audience applauding again.

As Wang went on with his monologue, Jimin scanned the room, impressed by how many people had actually attended the event and were potentially intending to donate to such meaningful places.

Naturally, Jimin wondered how this whole night was going to evolve, considering how it has had a rather bumpy beginning – with Jimin nearly being kicked out, arguing with Jungkook and engaging in a conversation he had wished to abandon a lot sooner.

Certainly, this night could only go better from here, right?

“How does this work?” Jimin found himself ask, stealing a glimpse at Jungkook again. “I mean, where do you donate?”

“Well, you either participate in the auction that’s about to start or you go to one of the tables over there,” Jungkook answered, pointing at a table at the far left of the room, a few people seated in the area, “and you can make an immediate donation for either of the places there”

“I see,” Jimin said quietly, giving a nod, deciding to pay the place a visit later to contribute.

A few minutes later, Wang commenced the auction, Jimin’s lack of experience and knowledge regarding an elaborate event such as this one illustrating itself by him being utterly amazed by there not being any physical items up on the platform alongside Wang.
What was he going to auction off? Wasn’t he supposed to show the people what they were bidding for?

Slightly puzzled, Jimin parted his lips, insinuating to voice his confusion to Jungkook, yet he remained silent as Wang spoke up again.

“We’re starting off with a chance to meet Son Heung-Min,” he noted, his tone full of joy. “A dear friend of mine”

Jimin blinked.

Well, this definitely wasn’t what he had perceived to be part of at an auction. No, not all.

The smaller one had imagined there to be valuable items, such as treasured art or precious vases – physical objects – that people would bid for. In a way, this was just another piece of evidence to prove how this part of society and world was still fairly new to Jimin.

A chance to meet Son... who?

“Who?” Jimin wondered out loud as he glanced at Jungkook, frowning as the name didn’t ring any bell.

The black haired male met his gaze, raising his brows at Jimin. “Son Heung-Min,” he echoed.

Jimin blinked again.

“Don’t tell me you don’t know who- Jimin-ah, he’s national treasure when it comes to football,” Jungkook expressed, leaning closer to Jimin as his eyes went bigger.

Was he?

“Oh, yes of course. Son Heung-Min, yes, yes, who doesn’t know him?” Jimin responded, laughing his ignorance off.

Jungkook stared at him for a moment longer, amusement gleaming in his eyes. “You have no fucking idea who I’m talking about, huh?” he teased.

The other one pressed his lips into a line. “No, I’m sorry,” he admitted with a sigh. “I’m sure he’s great?” Jimin noted, titling his head to the side.

“He- Great?” Jungkook reiterated, shaking his head. “Baby, I don’t even watch football that often and I know who he is,” he stressed with a chuckle in an attempt to verify his popularity.

However, the only thing that was ringing in Jimin’s ears now was that particular pet name. Baby.

Jungkook didn’t even seem to realise, almost as though it had fallen from his lips so naturally. For a moment, Jimin deliberated whether he should correct him, but he refrained, deciding to simply brush it off.

“I’m gonna have to show you some of his best goals, when we get home,” Jungkook decided, a smile proceeding to embellish his handsome features.

Prior to even obtaining the chance to truly process Jungkook’s words, the pink haired one was distracted by the sudden turn of noises audible in the room, a mixture of incoherent words resounding from the speakers.

“Twohundredthousandwonbid,nowthree,nowthree,willyougivemethree?
Threehundredthousandwonbid,nowfour,nowfour,willyougivemefour?” Wang called out in a loop, Jimin not certain whether he detected any alterations in his sentences.

For a brief moment, Jimin diligently attempted to decipher those sounds, bewildered by the amount of people that were participating in the bidding and evidently understanding anything of what was being said.

“What is he saying?” Jimin wanted to know with big eyes, overwhelmed by the words Wang was calling out.

Briefly, Jimin considered him speaking any other language but Korean.

Had he missed something?

Jungkook chuckled. “Wang is a good auctioneer actually,” he claimed.

“Are those even words?”

“It sounds like he’s mumbling incoherent words, but he’s just talking very fast,” Jungkook noted, humour in his eyes as he leaned closer, propping himself up on Jimin’s chair as he inclined his face down to Jimin’s ear. “If you listen very closely, you can hear him say numbers. The first one indicates the money which is currently being offered by a bidder for a given item,” he explained softly, Jimin ignoring the way his heart skipped a beat at their close proximity. “The second number is what the next bid needs to be in order to become the high bidder”

The smaller boy gave a faint nod, swallowing hard.

“It’s moving so fast,” Jimin noted, any effort of trying to apprehend his words now that Jungkook had enlightened him on what was being said for vain, nevertheless.

“That’s the fashion of auctions,” Jungkook stressed with a grin, giving a nod. “Makes it exciting”

Carefully, Jimin turned his head to the side, causing their faces to be much closer.

“How does anyone even follow what’s happening,” Jimin wondered, his tone a lot softer and quieter now that there were mere inches between their faces.

The younger male’s gaze flickered back and forth between Jimin’s eyes and lips. “You will get used to it eventually, trust me,” he noted, flashing Jimin a gentle smile.

Inevitably, Jimin’s eyes rushed down to Jungkook’s lips, a surge of desire vivid within him, the boy itching to close the last fraction of distance between them.

“Going once, going twice, sold!” Wang suddenly called out, a loud thud echoing in the room.

Startled, Jimin flinched, turning to face the older man again.

“What happened now?”

Jungkook cleared his throat, increasing the distance between them and sinking back in his own chair. “Well, now no one bid above the highest bidder, making him the winning bidder,” he expressed, Jimin scanning the room to see that a woman had gotten up from her seat, enabling everyone to see the winner.
“Interesting,” Jimin uttered quietly.

***

Over the course of the next hour, Wang went on to auction off a few more items, such as backstage passes for a concert of a popular artist, a golf outlet and various famously signed objects – finally, Jimin hadn’t been that oblivious, after all!

So far, Jimin had only played with the thought of participating in the bidding, but eventually realising that the people present in the room were too wealthy for him to compete with, thus deciding that he was going to pay that table Jungkook had pointed out earlier a visit to donate some money to the places later.

Well, at least, Jimin had been firm in that belief up until Wang mentioned the following.

“We’re moving on,” Wang presented, “We have some limited tickets for the admired and sold-out World Dance Championship taking place in New York this year, including flights and a weekend stay in a five star hotel”

At his words, Jimin’s jaw dropped.

The World Dance Championship – in New York!

Rapidly, Jimin reached for his paddle.

The dance group Jimin and Hoseok had been a part of hadn’t made it to the first place at the Seoul Dance Championship, thus being eliminated and not making it further in the competition. Yet, this… was it fate? The mere notion of being able to experience it at all – regardless whether he would participate or not – was… thrilling.

“Are you bidding?” Jungkook wanted to know, raising his brows as amusement gleamed in his eyes at the quick manner Jimin had reached for that paddle.

The smaller one turned to face him.

“It’s the World Dance Championship, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin whispered, Jungkook’s smile growing at the light in Jimin’s eyes. “I would be foolish not to try,” he stressed.

“Of course,” Jungkook grinned, giving a nod.

“800,000 won,” Wang commenced the bidding, Jimin somehow managing to decipher his words now after having listened to the auction for the past hour.

Enthusiastically, Jimin raised his paddle, followed by Wang who recognised his participation by calling out, “800,000 won bid!” prior to raising the bid by voicing, “Now 900,000, will you give me 900,000?”

Another person joined, raising their paddle into the air, consequently leading the bid.

“900,000 won bid, now 1,000,000, will you give me 1,000,000?”

Everything was moving so fast.

In the midst of Jimin lifting his arm once more, someone else beat him to it, thus leading the bid.

“1,000,000 won bid, now 1-”
Preceding to Wang even obtaining the chance to finish announcing the bid, a familiar male voice yelled out, “2,000,000 won!”

How much now?

After Jimin had processed the huge amount of the bid, his eyes went bigger.

As Wang went on to proclaim the bid, Jimin only attained a split moment to decide whether he was going to bid higher than that.

Could he?

It was for a good cause, after all…

Wang called out, “2,000,000 won bid, now 2,100,000, will you give me 2,100,000?”

Carefully, Jimin raised his paddle, causing him to be the leading bidder.

“2,100,000 won bid, now 2,200,000, will you give me-”

“3,000,000 won!” a man yelled out, that oh so familiar voice ringing in Jimin’s ears.

That had escalated so quickly.

“3,000,000 won bid, now 3,100,000, will you give me 3,100,000?”

Hesitantly, Jimin raised his paddle.

Gosh, that was not going to sit well on his wallet… But, it was for such a good cause, hence Jimin was in no way regretting his decision.

“4,000,000!” that familiar male voice called out, ahead of Wang even commencing to announce the highest bid.

Who did that voice belong to? Why did it sound so familiar, yet then still be that unacquainted to Jimin that he lacked the ability to identify the person?

“Who is that?” Jimin wondered, slightly frustrated by how fast the bid was raised.

“Fucking Seo,” Jungkook cursed out next to him.

Seo?

What?

Did Jungkook know him?

Then again, why did that astonish Jimin? Stupid question. After all, this was Jungkook. Of course, he knew him, as the co-CEO of Jeon Entertainment. Undoubtedly, he was at least familiar with good about everyone who was currently present in this room.

Suddenly, Jungkook had lifted his own paddle into the air, thus participating in the bidding.

“4,100,000 won bid,” Wang proclaimed after Jungkook’s participation. “Now 4,200,000, will you give me 4,200,000?”

“Jungkook-ah, what are you doing?” Jimin gasped, staring back at Jungkook.
The younger male met his gaze, his brows knitted. “I saw Seo looking over here,” he stated, nodding towards a table on the other side of the room. “I know he’s just bidding because of you. Fucking dickhead. Do you think I’m gonna let that happen? He doesn’t even want these tickets. If he wanted to be there so badly, he could pull some strings to be,” he stressed, puzzling Jimin with his statement.

For him? Why would Seo be bidding because of Jimin? That didn’t make any sense at all.

Was it revenge for Jimin’s earlier remark?

No, that appeared to be a very petty move.

“5,000,000,” the man Jungkook claimed to be Seo called out.

Now that Jungkook had appealed that, Jimin would be lying, if he asserted that there was no similarity to Seo’s voice in that particular voice audible.

“6,000,000!” Jungkook shouted, raising his paddle, impeding Wang to proclaim Seo’s prior bid and ask for a higher bid.

Mr. Jeon and Minji stole a glimpse at Jungkook, raising their brows.

“Oh my god, stop, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin whispered with big eyes, curling his delicate hand around Jungkook’s arm to tug it back down. “I won’t be able to pay you back all of that,” he expressed.

“I didn’t ask you to, Jimin-ah,” Jungkook responded gently, meeting Jimin’s eyes.

“Going once, going twice, sold!” Wang announced, a loud thud echoing in the room again.

The audience applauded, Jungkook and Jimin not tearing their gazes away from one another, almost as though they had commenced to get lost in one another’s eyes for a brief moment.

Yet, it only lasted until Mr. Jeon cleared his throat, drawing them back to reality. “I didn’t know you wanted to go there that badly, Jungkook-ah. I could have made a few calls to make that possible,” his father commented, titling his head to the side.

The black haired glanced at his father. “It’s not for me, Appa,” he revealed, Wang proclaiming that the auction had come to an end in the background.

Mr. Jeon turned to face Jimin. “I could have made these calls for you, too, Jimin-ah,” he noted, the smaller one flashing him a bashful smile.

“It’s fine, Appa,” Jungkook interfered, shaking his head. “The money is going to be used for a good cause,” he reminded his father.

The latter smiled, giving an enthusiastic nod as he lifted his wine glass into the air. “That it will, that it will, you are right,” he agreed before he took a sip from his alcoholic beverage.

“I’ll give you back half of the money and when I get my next-” Jimin intended to promise as he met Jungkook’s gaze again.

“You don’t have to give me back anything, Jimin-ah,” Jungkook interrupted him, shaking his head at Jimin’s offer.

“I want to, though,” the smaller one noted quietly.

By all means, it had been a kind gesture of Jungkook to help Jimin bid during the auction to assure that he would receive the tickets, yet all the same, Jimin didn’t want Jungkook to use his money for him—again.

“Jimin-ah—”

“Jungkook-ah,” Jimin pressed.

The younger male rolled his eyes, a small smile curving his lips. “Okay, okay, half of it,” he compromised.

“Kook-ah,” Jimin pressed again, not satisfied with the slight adjustment to his request.

Jungkook leaned closer. “If you’re that persistent, you can pay half the price of it, okay? You don’t have to though, you know money is not an issue for me,” he stressed.

Jimin raised his brows at his statement. “Are you implying that it is for me?”

“No, fuck, Jimin-ah, that’s not what I meant at all,” Jungkook rushed to elucidate with a frown.

The pink haired one shook his head at himself, puzzled and angered at himself for having mentioned that at all, as his heart was more than aware that Jungkook had never and would never impose his status and money onto Jimin.

Fair enough, Jungkook had exuded a sense of dominance and authority over Jimin, yet… there were only a few handful instances where that demeanor had evoked a sense of inferiority in Jimin—like that dreadful night at the cabin that Jimin had done a good job of omitting over the past hour.

“I know. I’m sorry,” Jimin apologised softly. “Okay, let’s make it half each,” he decided. “I want to contribute something to the donation, too,” he added, reminding himself that it was one of the reasons he had attended this night, albeit having earlier tried to convince himself that it had been the sole reason.

“Okay,” Jungkook noted, the two of them proceeding to stare at one another.

A few moments later, the room was filled with chatter and laughter again, Wang having closed the auction for the night and expressing his gratitude for everyone who had participated, also incorporating a small notice as to where each and every bidding winner could contribute their donation while simultaneously receive the item they had bid for.

“Well, well, well, that was a success indeed,” Jungkook’s father remarked after realising that the auction had ended, a proud and satisfied smile curling up the corners of his lips.

“It was,” Jungkook agreed with a nod, tearing his eyes away from Jimin as he cleared his throat.

“What a beautiful place Wang has chosen,” Mr. Jeon commented, undoubtedly referring to the Seoul Children’s Hospital that his deceased wife had donated to before.

“Yeah,” Jungkook breathed, Jimin turning to study Jungkook’s features.

For a moment, Jimin itched to ask Jungkook more about that—about his mother’s charity work, about his aunt, about the Soul Children’s Hospital—yet maybe, this wasn’t the right place, nor the right time.

“I’m starving,” Minji complained with a sigh, pouting as she reached for her nearly empty glass, disregarding the prior topic altogether.
“The food should be served soon,” Mr. Jeon noted.

A few minutes later, the first course was served indeed, consisting of a small salad that Jimin savoured in what appeared akin to a few seconds, illustrating his hunger.

“Where were you prior to the auction, Appa? I’ve been looking all over the place for you,” Jungkook picked up a conversation with his father, breaking the peaceful silence that had consumed their table for the time of them devouring their meals.

“Ah, I was outside,” Mr. Jeon responded, dabbing his napkin over his mouth although he had barely touched his salad, appearing to prefer his glass of wine. “I met Min and we got caught up in an interesting conversation,” he added with a chuckle. “My apologies”

“Min is here?” Jungkook asked, raising his brows, the name ringing a bell for Jimin, although he wasn’t quite capable to recall where he had heard that name before.

Jungkook’s father hummed in affirmation, giving a nod. “Yes, so is Euna,” he noted, his eyes going bigger as a smile slowly curled up the corners of his lips. “Ah, there they are, what a coincidence,” he stated, his eyes fixated on something – or rather someone – behind them, causing Jimin and Jungkook to follow his gaze.

Certainly, an older man and a girl were approaching their table.

“Great,” Jungkook commented beneath his breath, a sigh falling from his lips, making Jimin wonder whether their presence evoke a sense of discomfort or annoyance in Jungkook.

“May we?” the man Jimin assumed of being Min asked.

Mr. Jeon smiled, nodding his head as he pointed at the two empty seats at their table. “Of course, have a seat,” he invited them to their small group.

Politely, Jimin had risen to his feet, executing a small bow towards the stranger. However, Jungkook curled his palm around Jimin’s wrist and pulled him back down on his seat.

Confused, Jimin turned to look at Jungkook, the latter only flashing him an amused smile.

“Jungkook-ssi, nice to see you again,” Min remarked with a grin.

“You, too,” Jungkook returned, nodding towards the man.

Mr. Jeon pointed at the woman beside him. “You know Minji already,” he noted, insinuating that Minji wasn’t a stranger to Min either, bearing in mind that she was Mr. Jeon’s assistant and had in all probability been present at a few meetings of theirs.

“I do, I do,” Min said, flashing Minji a smile as well.

“And this, Min, this is Park Jimin,” he introduced the smaller boy, everyone turning to face the latter, causing a flush to adorn his cheeks. “Jimin works as an assistant choreographer for us,” he explained, disregarding the fact that Jimin was…. Well, that him and Jungkook were… whatever.

“I see, I see,” Min responded, performing the slightest bow for Jimin. “Nice to meet you, Mr. Park”

“You, too, Sir,” Jimin uttered softly, exhibiting another bow, albeit not rising to his feet this time.

The older male pointed to the girl beside him. “This is my daughter, Euna,” he introduced proudly, Jimin noticing the similarities in their facial structures, especially the shape and shade of their eyes “Nice to meet you,” Jimin expressed with a polite smile.

Almost reluctantly, the girl tore her gaze away from Jungkook, flashing him a small smile before she rushed to divert her gaze back over to Jungkook. Euna didn’t look older than nineteen, potentially only having turned legal recently. Her hair was a dark shade of brown, her skin pale, aside from her cheeks that flushed a shade of rose upon Jungkook looking at her.

In that moment, Jimin recalled why their names had sounded familiar to him.

Min was a significant business associate of Mr. Jeon. A couple of weeks ago, Jungkook had ditched a meeting of theirs just to spend time with Jimin, impeding him to satisfy Euna by being present at said meeting – because Euna had a crush on Jungkook.

Well, Jimin would be lying, if he asserted that it wasn’t obvious in the way she was staring at Jungkook with gleaming stars in her eyes. Undeniably, she had fallen for Jungkook – fallen for Jungkook’s irresistible charming nature.

How couldn’t one fall for him?

“Jungkook-ssi, I have talked to your father about an interesting business idea I had last night,” Min revealed as a waiter had approached their table, placing a glass of water and a glass of wine in front of Minji and Min respectively. “I will have to pay you two a visit at the company tomorrow to let you know all about it,” he added.

“It was interesting, indeed,” Mr. Jeon agreed with a grin, appearing to be in favour of the idea.

The black haired male gave a nod, although he didn’t respond at all.

“Can I join, Appa?” Euna asked immediately, her eyes going bigger.

“I know this whole business talk doesn’t interest you that much,” he reminded her with a chuckle.

“Appa, of course it does,” she remarked quietly, her cheeks flushing a darker shade of rose as her gaze flickered back over to Jungkook who raised his brows.

“You have classes tomorrow, Euna-yah,” Min noted.

However, as soon as he noticed the way she pouted upon his response, his expression faltered.

“But, I mean, your classes end in the afternoon, so we can schedule my meeting around that time,” he decided, brushing Euna’s hair out of her face.

“Great,” she grinned, clapping her hands together.

“Wonderful,” Mr. Jeon commented. “Pay us a visit tomorrow, then. I’m sure, Jungkook can’t wait to hear your idea, either”

“Mhm-mh,” Jungkook mumbled, giving a faint nod, appearing only partially interested in the business related conversation – or perhaps by the news of having to attend a meeting tomorrow alongside Euna?

“You’ve picked a beautiful event to sponsor, Jeon,” Min then noted as he scanned the room.

“Ah, it was Jungkook who convinced me,” Mr. Jeon revealed with a proud smile.
Min arched up his brows. “Jungkook?” he echoed, turning to face the younger. “You’re interested in charities at such a young age? Or was it the PR that struck your attention?” Min joked, humour gleaming in his eyes as he took a sip from his wine.

Jimin and Jungkook furrowed their brows at his inconsiderate remark.

“Appa!” Euna exclaimed, swatting her father’s arm. “How can you say that about Jungkook?” she whispered, glaring at her father in an angry manner. “Of course, he did it because he wants to help the poor people”

Min rubbed over his arm, giving a nod as he chuckled. “Of course, I know, I was just joking”

“My mother and I were involved in many charities, when I was younger,” Jungkook expressed, exchanging a glance with his father. “I want to start giving back again,” he added.

“That sounds wonderful,” Min stated, his tone sounding more sincere this time around. “We have donated already,” he expressed, seemingly in a way to make amends for his remark.

“What place did you chose?” Mr. Jeon wanted to know.

“The Seoul Children’s Hospital,” Min responded. “They do beautiful work there”

“They do, they do,” Mr. Jeon agreed, giving a nod.

***

It wasn’t long until their next meal was served, two waiters approaching their table with a few dishes and placing them down in front of everyone respectively.

Politely, Jimin uttered out a “Thank you” in regard to the waiter before he dived into his meal, the scent of the fresh ingredients filling his nostrils. The dish consisted of grilled salmon, alongside some green beans and steamed rice.

For a while, Mr. Jeon and Min lead a conversation about a past business partner they had both been involved with, Jimin having long lost the red string of the conversation and failing to follow along.

Euna, on the other hand, had been ogling at Jungkook for the entire time, trying to implicate him into a conversation by mentioning anything that came to her mind, while simultaneously giggling or finding any excuse to touch Jungkook.

“I haven’t seen you in so long, Jungkook Oppa!”

“Your hair looks so good today, Oppa!”

“Can you cut my salmon for me, Jungkook Oppa?”

“Isn’t my dress nice, Oppa? Appa bought it for me. It’s Chanel”

“You should visit more often, Jungkook Oppa!”

The pink haired boy pressed his lips into a line, trying to simply disregard Euna’s voice at this point whilst he moved his food from side to side, not aware of the passive aggressiveness distinct within his body.

“Are you not going to eat your beans?” Jungkook asked Jimin, pointing at the green beans that Jimin hadn’t touched at all, having moved them from side to side opposed to eating them.
Evidently, Jungkook wasn’t that interested in any conversation going on at the table, considering how he had noticed Jimin’s eating habit.

The smaller one smiled faintly, shaking his head. “I don’t really like beans, actually”

“Not at all?”

“No,” Jimin chuckled.

“Well, how about you give me your beans and I give you my salmon?”

Surprised, Jimin’s gaze trailed down to Jungkook’s plate, the boy puzzled as he learned that Jungkook hadn’t taken any bite from his salmon.

“You dislike salmon?” Jimin questioned, raising his brows.

“I’m not a big fan,” Jungkook explained with a smile, shrugging his shoulders.

“I see,” Jimin noted, observing how Jungkook picked up his piece of salmon to place it on Jimin’s plate. “Uhm, thank you,” he uttered out softly, moving his plate closer to Jungkook’s to allow him to shift his beans from one plate to the other.

“How was your weekend trip, my son?” Mr. Jeon suddenly inquired, the two boys lifting their heads to meet his gaze.

At his question, Jimin’s insides squirmed.

Jungkook stole a glimpse at Jimin, clearing his throat as he lowered his spoon back down on the table. “It was…” he trailed off, trying to decide how much honesty his response was going to carry.

“Beautiful,” Jimin found himself declare, beating him to it.

To be fair, it had been – up until that dark awakening in the middle of the night on that dreadful Sunday – a beautiful trip. Yet, more than anything, Jimin wasn’t keen on displaying his relationship issues with Jungkook in front of his father, Minji and a near stranger.

“Did you like the cabin, Jimin-ssi?” Mr. Jeon wanted to know, inquisitiveness adorning his expression as he titled his head to the side.

“I did, Sir,” Jimin affirmed with a delicate smile, his gaze rushing down to Jungkook’s hands, observing how he proceeded to move the beans over to his plate. “It was beautiful, to say the least,” he added, meeting the older one’s gaze again.

Mr. Jeon hummed in agreement. “Did you show him the lake, Jungkook-ah?”

“I…” Jungkook trailed off again, seemingly trying to avoid the subject.

“Jungkook-ah loved to go down there when he was younger,” Mr. Jeon chimed with a big grin. “When we couldn’t find him in the cabin, we knew we would find him down at the lake,” he added. “Is it still as picturesque as it was?”

“We didn’t stay there for long, unfortunately,” Jimin retorted. “I was clumsy and- Well, we had to leave, but it was beautiful for while it lasted,” he expressed, recalling the way he had ruined their plans for the night by falling down the hill and into the water.

Then again, the alteration of their plans had been just as beautiful – with the both of them snuggled up on the sofa by the fire, Jungkook having asked Jimin to move in with him, them making love by the blaze before they fell asleep entangled with one another.

Why did all of that seem like a dream now?

Why did Jimin’s heart claim that it had not meant anything at all – that it wasn’t real – simply because of what had occurred a few hours later?

Frustrated by his own thoughts, Jimin shook his head.

The smaller boy cleared his throat, pulling his plate back in front of him to finish his food. Now that his attention wasn’t fixated on the black haired boy beside him any longer, Jimin noticed Euna’s absence.

For a moment, he wondered whether she had left because of the conversation about their trip, or whether she had excused herself prior to that already.

After all, she wasn’t aware that Jungkook was taken – that Jimin and him were…; well, at least, that’s what Jimin believed. By the way she had been ogling at Jungkook, it wasn’t reprehensible to estimate that she didn’t possess any profound knowledge about his relationship status – or, she simply didn’t care.

“Why did you have to leave? Was everything okay during the trip?” Mr. Jeon inquired, his tone full of concern and confusion, the man furrowing his brows.

No, nothing had been okay after that dreadful Sunday morning.

“I just meant…. I was referring to the lake,” Jimin clarified, ignoring the way his heart ached. “I fell into the water, so we decided to leave”

“Did you hurt yourself, Jimin-ah?” Mr. Jeon asked.

“Oh, no, Sir, I’m – I’m fine,” Jimin responded, shaking his head.

No, physically, the trip hadn’t left any wounds. Yet, emotionally, it had left a mark behind, some traces of the weekend having created a scar in Jimin’s heart that he tried so desperately to pretend of being non-existent.

“So, what did you two do then?” Mr. Jeon wondered, raising his brows.

At his question and the reminder of what they had done after coming back from the lake, Jimin’s cheeks flushed a faint shade of rose.

Jungkook was the one to speak this time, “I didn’t want Jimin to be sick, so we went back to the cabin and I—” undressed Jimin and allowed him to snuggle up to me on the sofa before I asked him to move in with me. “I guess, we—” had sex by the fireplace and fell asleep entangled with one another before we awoke to some knocking that would cause everything to shatter. “So, we just went back to the cabin and… and slept,” Jungkook explained, the pink haired one noticing the smug expression on Minji’s face as she watched Jungkook struggle to respond.

“I see,” Mr. Jeon said with a knowing smirk. “What else did you two do on the entire trip?”

The blush on Jimin’s cheeks tinged a darker shade of rose, the boy clearing his throat.

“We…”
“Mr. Jeon, why don’t we pay the donation table a visit?” Minji saved the awkward moment, placing her hand on Mr. Jeon’s arm to receive his attention.

Jungkook’s father gasped, giving a nod. “We haven’t been there yet. You are right,” he agreed, dabbing his napkin over his mouth before he finished his glass of wine. “We’ll be right back. Please, finish your food,” he insisted, pointing at Jimin’s and Jungkook’s plates that weren’t empty yet.

Then, Minji and Mr. Jeon rose to their feet, the woman flashing Jungkook a smug smile before the two of them went off to search for that donation table.

A relieved sigh slipped past Jimin’s lips that he hadn’t noticed of holding.

“I’m sorry about that,” Jungkook apologised, leaning closer to Jimin.

“It’s not your fault,” Jimin spoke softly, shaking his head, flashing Jungkook a half smile.

Min cleared his throat, drawing both of their attention over to him.

“When is Euna coming back?” he wanted to know.

“Did she say where she wanted to go to?” Jimin inquired, inclining his head to the side.

The older man sighed. “No”

“Should we go look for her?” Jimin suggested, insinuating to raise to his feet in order to search for her. After all, she had in fact been gone for a while now, yet perhaps she just needed a little longer in the restroom or there was an extended line.

“I’m sure, she’ll return soon,” Min commented, brushing Jimin’s suggestion off, taking a sip from his drink instead as his gaze flickered back and forth between Jimin and Jungkook. “This … trip you two did,” he started, “Was it… business related? A friendship trip or…”

At his question, Jimin’s eyes went bigger.

Well, there it was.

What were they supposed to answer? Was Min allowed to learn that Jungkook was no longer available for his daughter? Was it going to interfere with their business-

“Jimin is… Jimin is my boyfriend, Min,” Jungkook revealed, drawing Jimin out of his thoughts, and bewildering him – to say the least – as he hadn’t expected Jungkook to share that part about himself with Min.

“Boyfriend?” Min echoed, arching up his brows as he glanced at Jimin. “Is that so?”

“Yes,” Jimin found himself affirm softly, Jungkook turning to face Jimin at the delicate tone of his voice.

“I didn’t know you had… I didn’t know you were…” Min struggled to express, clearing his throat. “What a pity,” he noted. “I mean, good for you,” he corrected himself, clearing his throat again as he raised his glass as though he were to cheer for them. “Well… I believe Euna might have gotten lost somewhere,” he changed the subject.

“I could go and look for her,” Jimin offered again.

“That’s fine, Jimin-ah. I can look for her,” Jungkook suggested, rising to his feet already. “I’ll be Nervously, Jimin parted his lips to protest, not fond of the thought of remaining at the table all on his own with Min. Not because he didn’t like the man, but simply because his presence exuded a certain power that made Jimin anxious – and quite frankly, he had no idea what he was supposed to talk to him about.

“Is that okay?” Jungkook asked softly, stealing a glimpse at Jimin to make sure that he would manage to stay with Min for the time of Jungkook’s absence.

“Y-Yeah,” Jimin hummed, giving a faint nod.

Then, the taller boy left, heading off into the crowd to search for Euna.

Min sipped on his drink, Jimin picked up his chopsticks to finish his food.

A somewhat awkward silence consumed them for a few minutes, leaving Jimin praying that someone would return to their table fairly soon and save them from this moment.

Suddenly, a soft melody resounded from the speakers deposited in the room, the gentle song startling Jimin. A few people rose to their feet, walking to the back of the room to share a dance.

At the same time, Minji and Mr. Jeon returned to their table, their hands interlaced.

“Jimin-ssi, I didn’t know that you were familiar with Seo,” Jungkook’s father spoke with raised brows, not taking a seat at the table, but remaining standing up.

At his surprising words, Jimin was too caught off guard to truly register and process the sight of Minji’s and Mr. Jeon’s intertwined hands.

“Am I?” Jimin murmured in confusion, titling his head to the side as he faced the man.

They had met for the very first time approximately two and a half hours ago, merely talking to one another for about twenty minutes before Jimin had excused himself and had run off. By no means would Jimin go as far as to refer to them as being anything close to familiar with one another.

“Mr. Seo asked for you,” Mr. Jeon revealed.

Jungkook’s gaze, however, flickered from Jimin to his father and back to Jimin.

“What’s going on?” Jungkook wondered, knitting his brows at Jimin’s bewildered expression.

Mr. Jeon ignored Jungkook’s question. “Well, if you have a few minutes, we could go and pay his table a visit, Jimin-ssi?” he suggested instead.

“Who?” Jungkook asked.

“Seo,” Mr. Jeon responded, glancing at his son. “Apparently, Jimin left quite the impression on him,” he said, chuckling.

“Did he?” Jungkook echoed, pushing his tongue into his cheek as he titled his head to the side, clearly not fond of the thought of Seo being interested in Jimin.

“Well, he was certainly interested in knowing more about Jimin,” Mr. Jeon chimed, presumably intrigued by the knowledge of another business associate being enchanted by Jimin – whatever that implied.

Jungkook snorted, shaking his head. “Of fucking course,” he cursed beneath his breath, his blood boiling at the thought of Seo being that captivated by Jimin – and that fucking audacious – that he would send Jungkook’s oblivious father as a wing man. “Where is he?”

“Why?”

“Tell me,” Jungkook insisted, his jaw locking.

There was a distinct surge of tension in the air among them.

“Why don’t you two go on and share a dance as well?” Minji suddenly suggested, pointing at Jungkook and Jimin, reaching out for Mr. Jeon’s hand simultaneously.

The older man glanced at her before he gave a nod. “What a great idea,” he coincided, having noticed the change in Jungkook’s demeanor as well.

Jimin and Jungkook stared at one another.

“Appa, I…” Jungkook tried to decline.

“O-Okay,” Jimin found himself utter softly, rising to his feet, not intending for Mr. Jeon to be suspicious of their relationship, if they were to refuse, and hoping that it would distract Jungkook from his rage aimed at Mr. Seo.

Quite astonished by Jimin’s agreement, Jungkook got up to his feet as well, hesitant as he reached for Jimin’s hand. Gently, the smaller boy placed his palm in Jungkook’s, allowing the latter to interlace their fingers before he guided them towards the dance floor.

The song that resounded from the speakers was slow and sweet, the melody summoning a leisurely dance. As soon as the two boys had arrived at the spot, Jungkook’s hands found their way to Jimin’s waist, the latter timid as he curled his arms around Jungkook’s neck.

Tenderly, Jungkook pulled Jimin tighter, their bodies mere inches apart, their faces so much closer that way. Nervously, Jimin inhaled a shaky breath, disregarding the way his insides squirmed at their intimate proximity.

“I guess these aren’t the perfect circumstances I had imagined our first slow dance to be,” Jungkook noted as the two boys commenced to move to the melody of the record.

A half-smile curved Jimin’s lips. “When are things ever truly perfect?” he commented.

In no way had Jimin envisaged their first slow dance to be at a charity gala in the midst of them silently fighting and being unaware of where exactly their hearts belonged.

This wasn’t perfect – by no means.

Yet, life was too short to seek for perfect moments.

“Is this okay for you?” Jungkook inquired.

“What do you mean?” Jimin wondered, inclining his head to the side.

“For me to touch you?” Jungkook elucidated. “For us to dance like this?” he added, a small smile curling up the corners of his lips. “I know you only agreed because you don’t want my father to worry,” he stated, an emotion similar to melancholy displayed in his doe eyes.

Jimin averted his gaze down. “I wouldn’t be here, if I wasn’t comfortable,” he whispered.

The black haired male’s gaze flickered down to Jimin’s lips, the man deliberating whether to touch Jimin’s chin and guide his face back up for them to lock eyes, but he refrained.

“Did you really only come tonight because you had already agreed to attend?” Jungkook wanted to know, his voice a lot softer and quieter than it had initially been.

Slowly, Jimin lifted his head, meeting Jungkook’s gaze again.

“A lot of money was raised today,” Jimin disregarded his question by stating another thought. “This day was already a success,” he added, flashing Jungkook a soft smile. “I’m very proud of you and your father”

The younger male parted his lips, as though he itched to reiterate his preceding question, but he shook his head at himself, uttering out a gentle “Thank you” instead as he spun Jimin around, the latter giggling at the action.

Was it that unfair of Jimin to ignore Jungkook’s question?

Yet, what had Jimin been supposed to answer?

Declare that he had in fact attended this event because of Jungkook, regardless of everything he had done to him? Lie and pretend that he had only come here because of his former agreement stated in Mr. Jeon’s presence?

It wasn’t even an unblemished answer to Jimin himself, the boy still not certain whether he should listen to his heart or proceed to act oblivious and convince himself of the statement that he was here solely because of Mr. Jeon and the significance of this night.

All of it was too confusing for Jimin’s poor heart to apprehend.

“So, you and Seo, hm?” Jungkook noted, his grasp around Jimin’s hips tightening for a brief moment. “I saw him by your side earlier”

Jimin raised his brows. “Did you?” he questioned, pretending to be unaware of his earlier intent stares and his vibrant attention that had been fixated on Jimin for nearly half an hour.

“Yes,” Jungkook affirmed. “I didn’t get to ask you yet whether you’re okay?”

At his question, Jimin furrowed his brows.
“Yes, why wouldn’t I?” he asked.

The younger male wet his lips. “I saw him touching you,” he stated.

Jimin lowered his head. “It’s fine,” he mumbled, not fond of reminiscing over these earlier moments, still undecided whether Seo had simply been very friendly or whether he had suggested more with his touches.

“It’s not fine,” Jungkook objected, placing his fingers below Jimin’s chin to guide his face back up, causing the two of them to lock eyes.

“It’s over now,” Jimin spoke with a shrug of his shoulder. “It’s okay, really”

“I don’t want you to think that it’s fine, little one,” Jungkook emphasised, furrowing his brows at the way Jimin appeared to accept the disgusting way he had been treated in, brushing it off as something lightly and seemingly failing to see that there was more to it; that Seo had believed of himself to be superior, thus entitling himself with the permission to touch Jimin as often as he wanted to.

No, Jungkook was not overreacting.

After all, this was Jimin – The love of his fucking life.

No one was allowed to touch him without Jimin’s consent – Jungkook vowed to make sure of that to the day he was forced to leave this world.

“Kook-ah,” Jimin pressed, missing the dear pet name Jungkook had addressed him with.

The black haired male cleared his throat. “I’m sorry,” he apologised.

“I mean, I know that it’s not fine, but I really don’t want that to get in the way of the purpose of this night,” Jimin expressed, obviously not having been endeared by the inconsiderate way Seo had treated him in, but then all the more wanting to focus on the significance of this event. “I won’t be seeing him again anyway and it might just have been an accident,” he murmured.

Jungkook, however, appeared unimpressed. “Those were quite a few accidents then,” he pointed out.

“Jungkook-ah,” Jimin prompted again.

“Fine,” Jungkook sighed. “I’ll be quiet,” he promised, only staring at Jimin with that softness in his eyes.

Certainly, Jimin was endeared by the way Jungkook seemed to care, but… it confused him all the more as to why he had behaved that way at the cabin, why he had treated Jimin in such a hostile way.

Did he really only consider him a toy?

What had all of these months really meant?

The pink haired one wanted to believe so badly that there was a reasonable explanation for everything; that Jungkook truly loved him.

Yet, the longer Jimin stared into Jungkook’s gorgeous eyes, the more his heart ached as it feared to learn the entire truth; as it feared for everything to be damaged beyond repair.
Jimin realised that his heart couldn’t pretend any longer.

“When this song ends, I think it’s time for me to go,” Jimin informed him, his tone delicate. “It’s late already,” he noted, although it wasn’t at all, Jimin merely having been here for approximately three and a half hours.

At his words, Jungkook stilled. “Don’t go yet,” he requested, his grasp around Jimin tightening.

What a contrast to the morning at the cabin; asking him to stay now after yelling at him to leave just yesterday.

“I did what I came here for,” Jimin expressed. “There is no reason for me to stay any longer”

“There is. You know that there is,” Jungkook whispered, leaning closer.

“I don’t think this day should be ruined, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin stressed, placing his petite palm on Jungkook’s chest to halt his movement. “I want you to remember this event as a happy one; and as much as I wish I could, it’s only for so long that I can pretend that everything is okay, when it’s not,” he uttered.

“I don’t want you to have to pretend,” Jungkook declared, shaking his head. “You could never ruin anything, Jimin-ah,” he added softer, reaching up to brush Jimin’s fringe out of his face.

The touch was tender and comforting, causing Jimin’s eyes to flutter shut subconsciously, deceiving his heart to believe that everything was wholesome again, even if it was only for a split moment.

“I know that I will, if I stay much longer,” Jimin expressed, shaking his head as he forced his eyes back open. “I know that I won’t be able to look at you much longer and pretend that you didn’t hurt me. I know that when we do decide to talk about us eventually, it won’t be pretty. I don’t want you to remember this pivotal moment in your life as the day we… Let’s not do that tonight”

“Jimin-ah,” Jungkook whispered, reluctantly allowing Jimin to withdraw.

“What you made possible for these children and homeless people is beautiful, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin stated with a genuine smile, ignoring the iciness that suddenly engulfed him, now that Jungkook was no longer touching him. “I hope you know how proud your mother would have been of you. I hope you know that I’m very proud of you,” he added.

“Jimin-ah, please-” Jungkook begged, taking a step closer.

“Good night, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin whispered, turning around and leaving.

This time, voluntarily – one could argue.

Yet, deep within, Jimin was aware that leaving Jungkook tonight was not truly a choice of his heart either, similar to the way he hadn’t left the cabin yesterday morning.

However, this was the sane choice, the right one.

At least, that’s what Jimin convinced himself to view it as.

As he made his way through the crowd, he tried to locate Mr. Jeon or Minji, not intending to be rude by simply leaving without saying goodbye. However, their table was empty, and Jimin didn’t want to stay here any longer, but just wanted to go home.

In the end, he decided to leave without searching for them any longer, choosing to find Mr. Jeon tomorrow at work and apologise for his lack of mannerism.

The pink haired boy had just reached the now empty hallway by the entrance, making his way down to the huge doors to leave, but halting in his steps as soon as he noticed the way it was pouring outside, heavy raindrops falling down from the sky.

Sighing, Jimin stepped outside, shielded from the downpour by the small roof above him.

At last, Jimin decided to call himself a cab, not keen on making his way home by public transportation tonight. After making a quick call, Jimin went back inside, choosing to wait in the hallway until he saw his taxi park in front of the building to pick him up.

As he remained in the hallway, he curled his arms around his upper body, wanting to ignore the way his body felt so cold all of a sudden.

“Leaving already?” a male inquired, the unexpected presence startling Jimin.

For some reason, the mere voice caused a shiver to run down Jimin’s back.

The smaller boy turned to face the man.

“I, uhm… Yeah, I guess,” he uttered, giving a faint nod before he fixated his attention back over to the windows, wishing for his cab to speed up.

Mr. Seo cleared his throat. “Alone?” he wanted to know, scanning their surroundings.

“Oh,” Jimin murmured, not meeting his gaze this time.

“I see,” Mr. Seo noted with a nod.

An awkward silence consumed them.

Jimin wondered why Mr. Seo was even beside him to begin with, considering how he certainly employed a personal driver himself and could simply leave already, if he truly wanted to.

“I must say,” Mr. Seo broke the silence between them. “I like the chase, Mr. Park,” he declared with a slurring voice as he pulled on his tie, displaying his vast intoxication.

Great, another drunk man.

“The chase?” Jimin echoed, confusion adorning his pretty features as he furrowed his brows. “In what sense?” he wanted to know, turning to face the man again.

Frankly, having a conversation with Mr. Seo right now was not exactly high on Jimin’s priority list – and definitely not on his agenda for tonight as he just wanted to go home and sleep – but he was admittedly inquisitive to learn what Seo was referring to with such a bizarre statement.

“I like when I have to teach them,” Mr. Seo stated opposed to answering, his pupils dilating as he scanned Jimin from head to toe.

Teach whom? Teach whom what?

Undeniably, Mr. Seo was speaking Korean, but why were his words so difficult for Jimin to decipher?

“Teach what?” Jimin voiced his confusion, knitting his brows again.
A wicked smirk curved Mr. Seo’s lips. “How to submit themselves to me,” he responded, bewildering Jimin.

The boy blinked.

“What… What do you mean?” Jimin whispered, ignoring the part of him that declared it had a probable assumption regarding his statement.

“I think you know what I mean, Mr. Park,” Mr. Seo noted with a wink, his tone low.

Was he implying…

No, he couldn’t… Right?

Jimin’s eyes went bigger.

“This is a charity gala, Mr. Seo,” Jimin reminded him of the innocent event they were present at. “We’re raising money to donate to a children’s hospital and a homeless shelter,” he added, emphasising the purity of this night.

Mr. Seo chuckled. “That doesn’t mean I’m not allowed to have fun, does it?” he questioned.

“In what way, Mr. Seo?” Jimin inquired, despite his uncertainty of whether he truly wanted to learn the answer to that question.

Why was Jimin even engaging in this conversation?

After all, there were so many red lights beaming at him, his heart screaming abort, begging him to leave this situation before it escalated to a point of no return.

However, his natural politeness compelled him to respond, nonetheless.

“1,000,000 won,” Mr. Seo suddenly chimed, titling his head to the side.

“What?” Jimin exclaimed, his confusion not having decreased at all.

“For a night with you,” the man explained, raising his brows. “That should be enough, shouldn’t it?”

Appalled by his offer, Jimin’s eyes went bigger.

“Mr. Seo, I’m not- What?” he expressed, taking a step back as he dropped his hands back to his side.

“You heard me,” Mr. Seo said as though there had even been the slimmest chance of his words not having been audible to Jimin.

They had, undoubtably, but Jimin wished his ears had deceived him so badly.

Yet, they hadn’t.

Mr. Seo was too drunk, Jimin realised, he wasn’t sober enough for his brain to truly function and notice how inappropriate and utterly rude his words were.

“I’m not purchasable, Mr. Seo,” Jimin retorted with a huff.

“So, a night with you is free?” Mr. Seo concluded, snickering at his own remark like a child making their first vulgar remark.

“Mr. Seo, you’re being disrespectful and very degrading, I—”

“Hey, you better be nice to me, understood?” the older man interrupted him harshly, curling his hand around Jimin’s arm to force him closer. “I could ruin your career, if I wanted to,” he warned, his tone low and threatening. “We both know what you did to get into Jeon Entertainment,” he implied through gritted teeth.

The pink haired one was too overwhelmed and staggered by the sudden turn of events, his body having legitimately frozen, unable to move at all.

“Did you let him fuck you or was a blowjob enough?” Mr. Seo asked, his words obscene, his question more than inappropriate. “Now that you’re a part of the industry, you know that’s the way things work around here,” he claimed.

“M-Mr. Seo,” Jimin whimpered, trying to free himself from Mr. Seo’s grasp.

“Don’t play a fool now, Mr. Park,” the man growled, leaning closer to Jimin, their faces mere inches apart.

“Leave me alone!” Jimin exclaimed, shoving the man away, desperately trying to recall those self-defence techniques Jungkook had taught him.

Suddenly, another figure had appeared a few feet away from them, their silhouette visible in Jimin’s peripheral vision, although the boy was too focused on his current problem to truly pay that visitor much attention.

“Take your fucking hands off of him right now,” a male voice demanded through gritted teeth.

At the familiar voice, a surge of relief bloomed within Jimin – and if his heart fluttered a little, no one but him had to know.

“Jeon, we meet again,” Mr. Seo commented, his grasp around Jimin loosening, albeit not vanishing entirely. “This time properly, I guess,” he added with a laugh, turning to meet Jungkook’s gaze.

“I’m not going to ask you again, Seo,” Jungkook warned him, taking slow steps to close the distance between them.

“Jeon, did your father never teach you to keep yourself out of shit you have no business in?” Mr. Seo responded with a sigh, curling his arm around Jimin’s waist to pull him tighter to his body.

The black haired male pushed his tongue into his cheek. “Jimin-ah told you to leave him alone, so get your fucking hands off of him right now, Seo,” Jungkook insisted again, his eyes dark and demanding, a shiver running down Jimin’s back.

A slight part within Jimin feared of when Jungkook was going to snap – and what he was going to do, if it happened – yet vastly, Jimin just felt protected.

For a moment, Mr. Seo was distracted, leaving Jimin a solid opportunity to rescue himself, but somehow, Jimin couldn’t move at all, as though every fibre of his very being was frozen.

Mr. Seo sneered at Jungkook’s words, not at all intimidated by Jungkook’s threat. “Is it your dick he’s sucking or why are you that fucking interested? Fuck off, Jeon,” he ordered.
The younger male’s jaw locked, the man balling his hands to fists as he closed the last fraction of distance between them. “I swear, Seo, I will fucking—”

“You will what?” Mr. Seo provoked him, raising his brows. “I know damn well you won’t do shit around here, so just turn around and let me have him, and we will pretend this has never happened, okay?”

“G-Guys, please, can we just—” Jimin begged, trying to push Mr. Seo away.

“Shut up,” Mr. Seo interrupted Jimin harshly. “No one asked for you to talk,” he remarked, his tone stern and annoyed.

“How dare you fucking speak to him like that?” Jungkook growled at him.

The older man raised his brows. “No one asked for him to speak, so how dare he raise his voice?”

“You see, you’re clearly fucking pissed right now, so for the benefit of the doubt, I’m going to one – believe that usually, you’re not that big of a fucking piece of shit, and two – give you five seconds to reconsider what you just said and did to him, and then get your fucking hands finally off of him” Mr. Seo leaned closer to Jungkook, a wicked smirk curving his lips. “I won’t get my hands off of him until my name is the only thing he remembers after I have fucked—”

They would never hear the remainder of that sentence, Jungkook having punched his fist right into Mr. Seo’s face, thus impeding him to finish that disgusting remark.

The pink haired boy gasped, his eyes going bigger.

As a result of the hit, Mr. Seo tumbled backwards into the wall, groaning at the pain he endured. Jungkook, however, wasn’t satisfied yet, his hands grasping Mr. Seo’s collar and pushing the man into the wall.

“Are you fucking insane?” Mr. Seo exclaimed with big eyes. “How is it any of your fucking business whether I fuck that pretty doll or not? I don’t—”

Mr. Seo did not obtain any opportunity to finish that sentence either, Jungkook having repeated his prior action, causing his fist to collide with the older male’s face again, and again, and again… and again, and…

“Oh my god! Stop! Jungkook-ah, get off him!” Jimin yelled, his voice full of horror, the boy swift to reach for a bundle of the fabric of Jungkook’s tuxedo, tugging on it in an attempt to gain Jungkook’s attention.

The younger male didn’t budge, causing Jimin to close his delicate arms around Jungkook’s upper body in order to draw him back that way. Ultimately, Jungkook softened, the tension within his body subsiding as he allowed Jimin to pull him back.

Carefully, Jimin withdrew, moving in front of Jungkook to meet his gaze.

“Kook-ah,” Jimin whispered, the other boy breathing heavily, his eyes full of rage. “Please,” he added softly, not certain what he was begging for, but content with the effect it had on Jungkook, nonetheless; the latter’s eyes softening as they stared into Jimin’s.

“Son of a fucking bitch,” Mr. Seo insulted Jungkook behind them, wiping the back of his hand over his bloody nose, only smearing the blood around on his skin, opposed to removing it from his face.
At his mean and inconsiderate remark towards Jungkook, a sudden wave of anger bloomed within Jimin, causing him to do clench his hands into petite fists, insinuating to punch Mr. Seo in the face.

However, Jungkook was swift to curl his hand around Jimin’s wrist, stilling his movement.

“Don’t be like me,” Jungkook whispered, shaking his head.

“This will have legal actions, Jeon, you’re aware, aren’t you?” Mr. Seo stressed, spitting some blood out on the floor.

“Seo, if I were you, I would be careful with who I threat, considering how I know about quite a few of your secrets myself,” another voice suddenly warned behind them. “It would be a pity to make them public, don’t you think?”

All of them turned around to identify the newcomer, another singe of relief blossoming within Jimin as he realised that it was Mr. Jeon who had appeared by their side, as well as Minji who was standing right beside him.

“Your son is fucking crazy,” Mr. Seo declared, his tone full of anger.

“And you’re a piece of shit,” Minji commented, crossing her arms over her chest.

“You’re no saint either, Seo,” Mr. Jeon noted, waving for Jimin and Jungkook to head over to them.

“Appa, it’s-” Jungkook intended to talk, but was interrupted by his father.

“Jimin-ah, please bring him home,” Mr. Jeon insisted as he placed his hand on Jimin’s shoulder, addressing the smaller boy before he diverted his gaze over to Jungkook. “Jungkook-ah, this will have consequences,” he warned his son.

“Appa, he tried to fucking assault Jimin, I-” Jungkook defended his actions.

“I’ll take care of it,” his father interrupted him, lifting his flat palm up in the air in a nonverbal command to silence him. “You don’t need to worry, okay?” he assured him before he pointed at the door. “Now, leave, you two”

They stared at Mr. Jeon for a moment longer, Minji the one to give them a careful push.

Gently, Jimin curled his palm around Jungkook’s wrist, giving it a tender tug as he made his way down the hallway, heading towards the entrance doors.

“My… My car is right across the street,” Jungkook announced, fishing for his car keys.

Unimpressed, Jimin stilled and turned to face Jungkook, the latter nearly walking into him. “You’re not driving anywhere – give me the keys,” he demanded.

“I’m not that drunk,” Jungkook justified, blinking at Jimin’s request. “I’m tipsy,” he mumbled, tripping over his own two feet in the midst of proceeding to walk, and disproving that former statement in a mere second.

“Jungkook-ah,” Jimin pressed, his flat palm sprawled out, waiting for Jungkook to hand over his keys.

The other male halted again, turning to face Jimin. “Fuck, okay, let me just text Beomsoo,” Jungkook decided, picking out his phone, his digits moving over the device’s display. “He’s not far from here,” he informed him.
Well, to be fair, ever since obtaining his driver’s licence, Jimin hadn’t exactly been driving a lot… or ever again, really. To his defence, a car was way too expensive for him and Jimin preferred a nice walk anyway.

Hence… Jimin driving – especially on this utterly bizarre and never-ending night – might not be the most secure decision on either of their behalf.

“Okay,” Jimin agreed, giving a nod, completely omitting the fact that he had called himself a cab not too long ago.

Notably, Beomsoo must have been awfully close by, considering how Jimin and Jungkook had barely exited the building and make it to the other side of the street, when they saw that familiar car slow down right in front of them.

Naturally, Beomsoo climbed out of the vehicle and executed a deep bow. “Good evening, Mr. Jeon, Jimin-ssi,” he greeted them as he opened the car to the backseats, awaiting the two of them to enter the vehicle.

“Good evening, Beomsoo,” Jimin responded politely, observing how Jungkook got in the back seat, then going ahead and opening the door to the passenger seat instead of joining him. The pink haired one climbed into the front of the car and shut the door close behind him.

The older male beside him glanced at Jimin, but he didn’t say a word.

Similarly, Jungkook stole a glimpse at Jimin as he realised that Jimin hadn’t climbed into the vehicle beside him, but had consciously decided to separate himself from Jungkook by establishing some physical distance between them.

For a moment, Jungkook wanted to say something, already parting his lips as the words were itching to slip from him, but… he refrained, pressing his lips into a line instead and respecting Jimin’s nonverbal expression.

***

Carefully, Jimin shut the door close behind him, allowing his palm to stay on the wood as he remained standing by the door, watching Jungkook head over to his sofa and take a seat on it.

They hadn’t said a word to one another ever since they had left the charity gala.

No, silence had consumed them.

Neither of them knew what to say, or how to say it.

For a moment, Jimin was completely still, finding himself gazing at Jungkook who simply sat there as he looked back at Jimin, their eyes locking – Those gorgeous brown eyes, now gleaming with everything Jimin wished he had seen in them yesterday morning at the cabin.

Slowly, Jimin closed the distance between them, studying Jungkook’s handsome features intently, noticing the bruises on his knuckles. They were covered in blood – not his own, but Mr. Seo’s, the latter not having obtained any true chance to throw his fists at Jungkook.

“You shouldn’t have done that,” Jimin whispered, shaking his head as he fidgeted with his petite fingers, somehow nervous and feeling all the more vulnerable now that he was here in Jungkook’s apartment, all alone with him.
The black haired male titled his head to the side, his eyes trailing over Jimin’s pretty features. “There are a lot of things I shouldn’t have done, but that earlier isn’t one of them,” he uttered, his tone soft and quiet, almost as though he feared Jimin would break, if he were to speak any louder.

Jimin lowered his head. “Thank you,” he murmured, his gratitude sincere.

After all, Jimin didn’t even want to envisage what Mr. Seo would have done to him, if Jungkook hadn’t appeared and protected him. Admittedly, Jimin’s mind had been absolutely blank in that moment, impeding him to recall any of the self-defence techniques Jungkook had been so adamant to teach him. It was almost as though the utter shock and fear had made him numb, causing a moment of weakness to nearly make him completely helpless.

Slowly, Jimin lifted his gaze again, discovering that Jungkook had never teared his eyes away, staring right at Jimin with gleaming affection and something Jimin wanted to define as apology. Jungkook’s intent stare made him weak.

“This doesn’t change anything between us,” Jimin found himself whisper.

A half smile curved Jungkook’s lips. “I know,” he whispered back.

“Then don’t look at me like that,” the smaller boy insisted, his gaze rushing down to Jungkook’s lips.

The other male raised his brows. “Like what?”

Like you love me. Like I’m your everything. Like you never meant to hurt me.

However, Jimin didn’t respond.

“I love you, Jimin-ah,” Jungkook declared softly, when Jimin didn’t elucidate his request. “I don’t know how else to look at you”

At his words, Jimin’s insides squirmed.

Carefully, Jungkook reached for Jimin’s waist, gentle as he pulled him down on his lap, Jimin feeling as though his body was moving all on his own, finding himself straddling Jungkook’s lap in the blinking of an eye.

Delicately, the younger male brushed Jimin’s fringe out of his face, his digits tracing down over Jimin’s cheek before he grabbed Jimin’s chin. Slowly, he leaned in, Jimin inhaling a shaky breath as he felt Jungkook’s lips brush over his own in a soft kiss.

The smaller one’s eyes fluttered shut, his heart quivering the way it always did when Jungkook touched him, when he looked at him, when he was simply anywhere close by. Yet, Jimin withdrew, turning his face to the side as he dug his teeth into his bottom lip.

This wasn’t right.

Shaking his head, Jimin rose to his feet, creating some distance between them.

“Are you leaving?” Jungkook wanted to know as he sat further up on the sofa, wetting his lips as though he wished he could still taste Jimin on them.

“Your father asked me to bring you home,” Jimin stressed, hugging his own upper body tight like he was trying to protect himself… From what?
“Is that the only reason you’re here?” Jungkook inquired, his tone softer.

The pink haired one remained mute.

“Please, stay, Jimin-ah,” Jungkook begged. “Please, let’s talk this out”

Jimin averted his gaze. “You’re drunk and you just punched the CEO of a company,” he reminded the other one, verifying that Jungkook was not capable to have any sort of serious conversation right now.

“I’m not. I’m just tipsy,” Jungkook corrected, albeit Jimin was doubting that claim, judging by the way his eyes fell shut every now and then, by the way he hadn’t even gotten up from the sofa again.

“You’re not,” Jimin objected, shaking his head. “Go to bed, Jungkook-ah,” he reiterated. “You should sleep”

The younger male rose to his feet.

“Little one, please, let me fix this,” Jungkook whispered.

“Jungkook-ah, just go to bed,” Jimin insisted as he slid his hand through his pink locks, not meeting the other one’s gaze. “And… and cool your hand”

For a moment, Jungkook just proceeded to stare at Jimin, wishing the boy would meet his gaze, wishing he would stay.

Yet, he didn’t.

“If you want to talk, just wake me up,” Jungkook offered, itching to approach Jimin and kiss him goodbye, but apprehending that this wasn’t the right moment.

Reluctantly, Jungkook turned around and headed up his staircase, wondering whether he had hurt Jimin the same way he was hurting now.

***

It was late, and dark, and cold.

The pink haired boy swung his legs back and forth, his fingers playing with the hem of his suit jacket absentmindedly. A dark scheme was among him, painting the room in pitch black, a faint illumination from the moon barely breaking through the curtains.

It was silent.

At least, it had been, until there was some rustling audible in the room, a quiet groan resounding from the bed a few feet away from him.

At the noise, Jimin lifted his head, his pulse quickening for a brief moment as he reconsidered his decision, but there wasn’t much time to reflect on anything, when a lightning strike broke the silence and the darkness in the room for a split moment, illuminating Jimin’s silhouette.

Then, the nightlamp was switched on, causing a dim light to brighten the room.

Blankly, the younger male stared at him for a moment, blinking a few times.

“You are… You are still here,” Jungkook whispered, his tone raspy as he rubbed his fist over his eyes, almost as though he was indecisive whether he was still seized in his slumber.

“I am,” Jimin affirmed, like it wasn’t apparent, to confirm that Jungkook was no longer detained in any dream of his, but that this was real, that they were alive and here.

The black haired male cleared his throat, sitting up. “Why?”

Jimin blinked.

Another one of those simple questions. Those simple questions one would consider to be just as simple to respond to. However, somehow, it was anything but simple.

Perhaps, Jimin’s brain possessed some sort of deficiency when it came to those simple questions – bearing in mind how he appeared to struggle all the time to answer them – some form of lacking, like someone had forgotten to supply Jimin with that ability, when he had been created.

“I don’t know,” Jimin found himself answer.

It was a lie.

You see, Jimin always strived to be honest. In fact, purposely lying to someone was simply not any part of his nature, definitely not anything he ought himself out to do.

However, in the past forty-eight hours, Jimin had been dishonest for at least four times, whether it had been an intentionally stated lie or a choice of remaining silent, when he was certain that he knew the answer.

Why was he lying again?

Why was he trying to convince himself that he didn’t know the answer?

After all, wasn’t it more than apparent why he was still here?

Wasn’t the answer right there in front of him – literally?

“I screwed up,” Jungkook murmured, moving to the edge of the bed. “I don’t deserve for you to be here,” he stressed, sliding his hand through his messy black locks, Jimin only now noticing that the first four buttons of his shirt were open, causing his chest to be revealed.

For some reason, Jimin envisaged for Jungkook to having tried to remove his shirt, but having been way too exhausted and sleepy to proceed, and ultimately just having fallen right into bed.

Cute, Jimin thought, not realising that a small smile found its way on his pretty face.

However, when he did notice, his smile faltered.

“I know,” Jimin uttered softly, wondering whether it was too harsh for him to agree to Jungkook’s belief of him not deserving for Jimin to be here. For a split moment, a surge of guilt bloomed within Jimin, but he compelled it to vanish, just for now.

The black haired male’s stare was intent, but soft, his eyes never leaving Jimin’s features, as though he was scared Jimin would disappear, when he chose to tear his eyes away, or even blink.

“Yet, I’m still here,” Jimin added.

“Yeah,” Jungkook whispered.
Carefully, Jungkook rose to his feet, taking slow steps towards Jimin.

Jimin swallowed hard, his heart nervously racing faster the closer Jungkook moved, the boy not quite sure what exactly was causing that particular anxiety. Was it the close proximity that might lure him in to do something stupid? Was it the pain he felt when he looked into Jungkook’s eyes, scared of what he was going to say?

The latter halted right in front of Jimin, his body so close now that Jimin was able to feel that comforting warmth that was radiating from him.

“Just shut up and go.”

“I want you to go. Is that so fucking difficult for you to understand?”

“You’re being immature.”

“Stop acting like a fucking child for once in your goddamn life!”

“Leave”

The pink haired boy squeezed his eyes shut, his insides squirming in pain as his stupid memory decided to remind him of that dreadful incident.

“Maybe, this was a bad idea,” Jimin murmured, getting up from the armchair and walking past the younger male.

Jungkook, however, was quick to curl his hand around Jimin’s arm to spin him back around and face him. “No, Jimin-ah, please-”

“I can’t, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin expressed, snatching his arm back. “Every time I look at you now, I remember that… that cold stare in your eyes when you demanded for me to leave the cabin; when you said those horrible things to me and treated me like I was your pet,” he added, shaking his head. “I can’t pretend to not be hurt any longer,” he whispered. “I tried to. This whole night, I tried to do just that, but I can’t pretend any longer”

“Little one, I’m so sorry, I just-” Jungkook tried to explain, wetting his lips as he ran his hand through his messy black locks again. “Fuck, I didn’t mean any of that”

“Why would you say those words, if you don’t mean them?” Jimin wanted to know, furrowing his brows as he voiced his doubt. “You… You hurt me so much, when you just let me go like that,” he whispered, wanting to ignore the aching of his heart, not noticing the tears that prickled in the corners of his eyes.

Jungkook’s heart ached just the same at the sight of Jimin’s glassy eyes. “Jimin-ah, I’m so terribly sorry”

“Sorry for what exactly?” Jimin inquired, sniffing. “Sorry that you said those words? Sorry that they hurt me? That you treat me like a toy? That you make decisions for me, when that’s not your place? That you lied to me, repeatedly? That you have been keeping god knows how many secrets behind my back for these past weeks? Tell me, Jungkook-ah, what exactly?” he listed, his tone remaining soft opposed to the turmoil of emotions that was currently residing within him.

Saying those words out loud, Jimin realised that the magnitude of their issues was way bigger than just that incident at the cabin. Yes, that argument had essentially just been the icing on the cake, but it had also operated as some sort of clarity – in spite of being anything but enlightening itself – It had helped Jimin to understand that Jungkook had been treating Jimin in a way the smaller one didn’t deserve and didn’t want to allow himself to be treated in any longer.

“I- Little one, I-” Jungkook stammered, trying to find a way to explain himself.

“I don’t want that anymore, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin interrupted him, his tone delicate and vulnerable, albeit still firm. “I don’t want… I don’t want this anymore,” he whispered, pointing from Jungkook to himself, like he was referring to them as an item.

At his words, Jungkook’s eyes grew bigger, his lips parting as he reached out for Jimin.

“No, Jimin-ah, please. I’m sorry,” Jungkook apologised, panic vivid in his voice. “Please, little one, don’t,” he begged, petrified that Jimin would just… go, and leave him for good.

Suddenly, Jungkook fell to his knees, his head hanging low.

“Jungkook-ah,” Jimin whispered, shocked and confused by the sight of Jungkook sinking to his knees in front of him, as though he was too weak to hold himself up any longer, as though he intended to establish a certain sign of surrender of his control and power.

“Please, don’t leave me, Jimin-ah,” Jungkook pleaded. “I can’t live without you,” he asserted, his voice breaking. “Please, I love you. I love you more than anything else in this world; more than I will ever love anyone else. Let me fix this,” he begged, his shoulders heaving.

Jimin blinked, his heart requiring a moment to process the sudden turn of events.

Slowly, Jimin sank to his knees as well. “Kook-ah,” he whispered.

“Don’t say it, please,” Jungkook uttered, shaking his head, his gaze still not meeting Jimin’s.

“Say what?” Jimin wanted to know, frowning.

“That you’re leaving me; that you don’t want me any longer,” the other one responded quietly, like he feared that his words would become vivid, when he said them any louder than that.

“Jungkook-ah, look at me,” Jimin insisted softly, gentle as he cupped Jungkook’s face, guiding it back up to lock eyes with the black haired male.

There were tears in Jungkook’s eyes. Jimin swore his heart broke at the sight.

“I don’t want any of this,” the pink haired one reiterated, Jungkook flinching at the words. “But… Gosh, Jungkook-ah, I don’t want to run away anymore either,” he added, pressing his eyes shut as he shook his head. “More than anything, I don’t want to lose you,” he whispered.

Jungkook blinked.

“I don’t want to lose you either, Jimin-ah,” he spoke, his tone delicate.

Good, that was good.

Just don’t back out now, Jimin, stand your ground.

“I… I want to believe that you love me,” Jimin noted, wetting his lips as he dropped his hands back to his side. “But maybe that’s just not enough anymore, Kook-ah,” he added.

By all means, love was such a fervent emotion, truly profound in any shape and form. However, was the fact of loving someone enough to validate any action of yours – regardless of how flawed or mean they were?

The smaller boy believed that Jungkook loved him. After all, the latter had declared those words various times, reminding Jimin of the love for him that resided within Jungkook’s heart.

However, all the same, Jungkook vowing his heart to Jimin didn’t excuse a few actions of his, such as repeatedly pushing Jimin away, lying to him, keeping secrets from him, Jungkook using his authority over him.

A false behaviour and an unfair treatment couldn’t just be rectified by the fact of that person loving you, could it?

“Then let me fix it, please,” Jungkook said, drawing Jimin out of his thoughts. “What do I have to do? What do you need?”

Jimin’s gaze flickered back and forth between Jungkook’s eyes.

“I want to look at you and know that you are not hiding anything from me; that you’re not lying,” he found himself request, certain that it was one of the more severe issues, and maybe even the genesis of their problems. “I want you to talk to me, about anything and everything; I want you to be honest with me. No more lies. No more secrets”

The younger male dipped his head down.

“It’s not-…” he trailed off, shaking his head. “I tried, Jimin-ah. It’s not-… Some shit is too fucked up to share with you,” he claimed, barely meeting Jimin’s eyes.

At his words, a shiver ran down Jimin’s back, his pulse quickening at the notion of something being that awful that Jungkook had decided to not enlighten Jimin on it, that he had decided to withhold that information from Jimin.

Arguably, the black haired male had reserved a lot of information to himself in the past, whether it be a prior fling with an employee, or the murder of his mother. Hence, it wasn’t exactly anything unprecedented – which was just another fact that Jimin wished would change between them – Yet, Jungkook had never looked so… scared to share something with Jimin.

Carefully, Jimin adjusted his position.

“Jungkook-ah, when we’re together, your shit is my shit just as much,” Jimin expressed softly, only realising that his choice of words might not have been the most appropriate one although he had only meant to use Jungkook’s words – that the literal narrative could suggest something different – when a small smirk curved Jungkook’s lips, the boy appearing to be amused by Jimin’s comment. “I mean, just… whatever burdens your heart doesn’t have to be something you fight on your own,” Jimin corrected, pressing his eyes shut for a moment as he smiled at himself, or maybe at the fact of Jungkook smiling, he wasn’t sure. “I’m here, Jungkook-ah,” he declared, opening his eyes again. “Why are you not seeing me? Why are you not trusting me?”

Jungkook shook his head. “It’s not… I trust you more than anyone else in this world,” he stressed.

“Clearly, not enough,” Jimin objected, firm in his conviction that if Jungkook would in fact trust him as much as he said he did, he would have shared whatever was burdening him a long time ago.

“Little one, I promise you,” Jungkook emphasised, his eyes genuine. “It’s not about trust. I would give my life for you, that’s how much I trust you,” he added. “If anyone asked me who I trust the most in the world, it’s you. It will always be you,” he accentuated.

“Then why are there things about yourself that you’re hiding from me?”

“I’m not…”

“Jungkook-ah, no more lies,” Jimin interrupted him quietly.

The black haired boy pulled on his own bottom lip with his teeth, shaking his head.

“They’re too fucked up to share, Jimin-ah,” he asserted.

“They’re not, Kook-ah,” Jimin objected.

After all, the two of them have been through so much together, or have shared their individual past with one another – the offer, Busan, Seoyun, Jimin’s biological father, that contract, Dongha, the murder of Jungkook’s mother, the childhood with Jimin’s father – just to mention a few.

By no means were either of them perfect. No, they both were flawed in their own ways and carried their baggage, they both had made mistakes in the past and would certainly make mistakes again.

Yet, they had learned, and they were still learning from their mistakes, learning from anything the universe decided to project on them – and they grew, it shaped them, in many ways, and it still did.

It’s a journey everyone takes.

“We’ve been through so much together,” Jimin voiced. “There is not much that can shock me at this point”

“This will,” Jungkook claimed.

“I can decide that.”

The taller male stared at Jimin for a moment.

“There will be no turning back after that, Jimin-ah,” he tried to make him understand. “I… I can’t. It’s insane and crazy and… I’m fucking scared”

Jimin knitted his brows.

“Scared of what?” Jimin inquired, cognising that fear was the reason for Jungkook’s silence and lies. Whereas it had been his trauma that had impeded him to share the truth about his mother for a long time, Jungkook was evidently frightened of something this time around.

“That you’ll leave me,” Jungkook answered.

There it was. That was his fear. That was his nightmare.

_Jimin leaving him._

Almost ironic, Jimin thought, considering how it had been exactly what he had demanded for Jimin to do on that dreadful Sunday morning.

“I’m still here now, Kook-ah”

“You might not be, when you know everything,” the younger male uttered.
Jimin reached for his hand, curling his petite fingers around Jungkook’s bigger palm. At the tender touch, Jungkook locked eyes with him.

“Jeon Jungkook, I want to believe that you are that same person I fell for,” he expressed. “Yet, I also believe- No, I know that you have secrets. I know that there is something going on behind my back. I know Beomsoo isn’t just driving me around for convenience. I know he’s not just carrying a gun for nothing. I know Joon hasn’t appeared in front of your apartment one day to the other for no reason at all,” Jimin listed, his voice soft. “I already know that. I also know that you’ve treated me in a way I no longer want to allow you to”

There was another lightning strike outside, followed by a roaring thunder that startled Jimin. Ever since that last lightning strike a few minutes ago, it had been quiet, causing Jimin to estimate that he might have only imagined it, but evidently, a thunderstorm was truly commencing.

Why did there always seem to be thunderstorm, when Jimin and Jungkook were in some sort of argument? It was almost as though the sky behaved accordingly to how they were feeling, crying along with them.

Jungkook ran his thumb over the back of Jimin’s palm that was still holding onto his hand, the caressing touch comforting Jimin.

“If you love me like you say you do, then treat me like you do,” Jimin resumed, trying to ignore the fluttering that had been evoked by Jungkook’s soothing gesture. “I’m supposed to be your other half, Jungkook-ah, an equal partner, not a pet or a toy you decide when to play with, and if there is anything personally bothering you or even any inconvenience, you just push me away again”

The black haired male’s eyes grew bigger. “I never… I never intended to treat you that way, angel,” he expressed. “I wanted to protect you, that’s all I ever wanted”

“Protect me from what?” Jimin wanted to know.

“Jimin-ah, I can’t-”

“You said you were going to fix this, Kook-ah, so try,” Jimin insisted, never raising his voice, his tone remaining calm and soft, a quiet hush just between them, maybe attributable to the fact that they were sitting on the floor right across from one another, their knees pressed against one another, their faces just a few inches apart.

“You’ll hate me,” Jungkook objected, shaking his head.

“Jeon Jungkook, please,” Jimin begged, desperation apparent in his voice, but just as much illustrated on his face. “Please allow me to be a part of your life and actually share your burdens and feelings with me. If you love me, and you want me to stay, please, try this for me. I never wanted to force you to anything, nor do I want you to change a part of yourself for me. However, you can’t expect me to bear this silence, those secrets and that pushing away anymore either”

The younger male remained silent, the boy appearing to deliberate what he was going to say.

“I have questions and I need answers,” Jimin accentuated. “More than anything, I don’t want any secrets between us any longer”

“I don’t want that between us either,” Jungkook commented.

“Then it’s up to you,” Jimin uttered, withdrawing his hand from Jungkook, the other male only reluctantly allowing Jimin’s touch to leave him. “I won’t force you, but… I think I deserve this”
“Okay,” Jungkook breathed, catching Jimin off guard with that response. “Okay, let me just,” he added, wiping his hand over his face before he adjusted his position, sitting down on his bottom beside Jimin opposed to kneeling across from him any longer, pressing his back against the wall.

The smaller boy emulated his action, sitting down on his bottom beside the wall, but turning his body to face Jungkook. At the realisation of finally going to have clarity, Jimin’s heart rate picked up.

It was everything he had desired all along, yet why did the notion cause his insides to squirm in anxiety and slight horror of what he was going to discover along the way?

“Tell me, what do you want to know?”

Where should Jimin even start?

There were so many questions, so many unspoken words and suspicious signs he knew he needed answers to.

“Why… Why did I have to leave the cabin?” Jimin found himself ask, deciding that it was the reason they were even here to begin with. “Why did you say those mean things to me?”

“It wasn’t safe to stay there any longer,” Jungkook responded, sliding his hand through his black locks, a small curl of his falling back down to cover his eye. “I needed you to leave the place immediately. I knew you weren’t going to leave, if I asked you nicely, but that you would be persistent in staying with me. I was scared, so I panicked and turned impulsive. I thought that making you hate me was the only option for you to leave,” he explained, a vast fraction within Jimin relieved and even grateful that Jungkook hadn’t meant any of those words, despite that not changing the fact that they had hurt him.

Who was Jungkook that scared of? Why hadn’t it been safe to stay there any longer?

“What are you scared of?” Jimin wanted to know, furrowing his brows.

“I… Fuck, I have… I have to share everything for you to understand all of it,” Jungkook expressed. “The beginning is crucial”

How long has this been going on for?

“I have time,” Jimin uttered, swallowing hard.

The taller one stared at him for a moment longer, studying his beautiful features before he stated, “I want you to know that… that nothing of this was ever my intention, okay? All I wanted was to protect you,” he stressed. “This is not- I didn’t want this”

“Okay,” Jimin whispered, giving a nod.

“I’m going to tell you some fucked up shit, Jimin-ah,” Jungkook tried to make him understand, leaving him one last chance to change his mind. “Are you sure you want to hear all of it?”

“Yes, Jungkook-ah,” he answered.

Yet, was he truly?

“Are you-”

“Kook-ah,” Jimin pressed softly, interrupting him.
Okay,” Jungkook breathed, wetting his lips as he leaned his head back into his neck, staring at the ceiling for a brief moment as he seemed to organise his thoughts, or perhaps contemplate how to share all of it with Jimin. “I don’t even know how to begin”

“How so?”

“It’s a lot,” the younger responded, stealing a glimpse at Jimin again, an emotion gleaming in his eyes as their gazes met. “I think, I…” he trailed off, suddenly raising to his feet again.

“What are you…” Jimin intended to ask, but went silent as he simply observed Jungkook move over to his dresser, pulling the top drawer open to pick out a few items – pages, Jimin realised. “What are those?”

The black haired boy returned to his side, lowering himself down on his prior spot.

“I’ve been receiving these for a while now”

“Pages?” Jimin asked, furrowing his brows, puzzled as to why Jungkook was showing him these, confused about what part they played in all of this. “From whom? What are those pages?”

“These are photos,” Jungkook revealed, holding them out for Jimin.

Photos?

Unfortunately, Jungkook’s response didn’t decrease Jimin’s confusion at all, but simply left him with even more perplexing thoughts, and further questions.

“Of what?” Jimin inquired.

For a moment, Jungkook just stared at him, before he whispered, “You”

“Me?” Jimin echoed, frowning.

Why did this conversation turn even more obscure the more Jimin learned?

Hesitantly, Jimin grasped the pictures.

As soon as he had curled his delicate fingers around them, a loud thunder roared outside, yet Jimin was too appalled by the first frame that the usual staggering sound didn’t even startle him.

“Oh my… Oh my god,” he whispered, his heart turning motionless for a split moment.

In his hands, he was holding onto four pictures – all of them displaying Jimin.

One of him working at the library.

One of him entering his apartment building.

One of him getting out of Beomsoo’s car and heading towards Jungkook’s apartment building.

And one… one of him and Jungkook-

“Oh my god,” Jimin breathed again, a dark shade of rose embellishing his cheeks at the sight of the last photo in his hand. “Kook-ah, who took these?” he wanted to know, his stomach twisting at the knowledge of someone having taken pictures of him without his notice nor permission – very intrusive and intimate pictures, to mention.
Jimin felt sick to his stomach.

“I don’t know who took those,” Jungkook responded, wetting his lips. “I just know how it all started”

“That is?”

“With Baek,” Jungkook revealed.

“Baek?” Jimin echoed.

Oddly enough, that name did ring a bell, but Jimin lacked the ability to identify the person and envision a face to the name. Why did the name sound awfully familiar, but any effort of trying to recall an encounter with the man was simply for vain.

That is – if Jimin even has ever encountered the man.

Maybe, Jimin had never actually seen him.

Maybe, Jimin-

That’s when it clicked.

“Yes, he-”

“That’s the guy you asked to look for my family,” Jimin found himself utter, remembering the person that had searched for his biological father, reminding himself of Jungkook having mentioned his name a few times before. For the vast majority of those times, the name had been dropped along some curse words or angry stares, a clear display of Baek not exactly being a friend of Jungkook.

“Correct,” Jungkook confirmed.

Wait, but that didn’t make any sense at all, did it?

Why would Baek send Jungkook photos of Jimin?

“Are you sure?” Jimin questioned.

“Yes,” Jungkook affirmed, giving a nod.

The smaller boy blinked.

“Wait, but why would he- What?”

“I’ll explain everything,” Jungkook said softly. “First of all, you need to know who Baek really is,” he added, Jimin not certain whether he truly wanted to know, judging by the fact that he had been watching Jimin without his knowledge. “Baek works for an organised gang, well he doesn’t just work for them, he’s the boss of the mob – some… mafia-type shit,” Jungkook disclosed.

“M-Mafia?” Jimin reiterated, his eyes going bigger. “Jungkook-ah, what does that mean? What does he do?”

“The easiest way to explain it is… Baek rules shit around the country incognito, so everything he does happens secretly,” the other male elucidated. “Everything you need, Baek has it, or knows how to get it. Information, drugs, guns, people-”
“People?” Jimin interrupted him, not exactly disregarding the other facts that had been mentioned, but then somehow so bewildered and staggered by the comment of people during the topic of everything Baek could supply one with. “What for?”

“All sorts of things,” the other one noted.

Jimin furrowed his brows.

“Like what?”

“Jimin-ah-”

“Like what?” Jimin urged.

The black haired male pressed his lips shut, hesitating.

“Sex, and… Fuck, really anything you can imagine,” he eventually answered.

“Does he… does he kill people?” Jimin found himself whisper.

Admittedly, Jimin didn’t possess any profound knowledge on the term mafia, and everything that it implied. To be honest, the smaller one had believed that to be some sort of myth, something just created for movies or novels, not a group that actually existed in the real world. However, in movies they were always described as a very dark entity, out to kill and manipulate people to obtain anything they desired – and if you ever were to cross them, your head would be rolling.

“I…” Jungkook hesitated.

“I don’t put it past him,” the younger one spoke, causing Jimin’s insides to squirm. “I think he does, but I don’t know too much about all of that either because I’ve only ever asked Baek for information”

The pink haired boy swallowed hard. “That’s… that’s insane,” he breathed out.

It was.

Jimin wasn’t overreacting, right?

“I know,” Jungkook agreed with a nod.

How did Jungkook even become a part of all of this? How does one even meet the mafia?

“How did you meet someone from the mafia, Jungkook-ah? How did you get into that?”

“My father; he has connections to them,” Jungkook revealed. “Well, as far as I know not for personal reasons, but for the sake of the company,” he explained, not exactly enlightening Jimin much.

After all, why would Mr. Jeon be involved with the mafia? What could they have possibly done for the sake of the company? Eliminate competition? Spy on competition? Deliver information, money?

At the mere notion of any of those options, Jimin swallowed hard.

“My father had some… business with him – matters that Baek took care of for him,” Jungkook proceeded, drawing Jimin out of his thoughts. “You might remember that Lee guy from Busan, he is part of the mob as well. I don’t know too much about, but enough to know that Baek is a fucked up son of a bitch.”

“Wait, your… your father has connections to the mafia?” Jimin inquired, just to verify that he had in fact apprehended Jungkook’s words correctly, regardless of how much he wished that he hadn’t.

Faintly, Jimin found himself recall Jungkook mentioning that the informant from Busan hadn’t hurt him in that gambling casino because they worked for his father in a way. Yet, back then, Jimin had been way too overwhelmed by all of the revolving circumstances – being in Busan to begin with, being there with Jungkook, looking for his biological father – that the magnitude of that statement had been completely neglected by him, albeit not purposely.

“They’re not actually the mafia,” Jungkook objected, as though that would make it any less insane. “At least, they don’t refer to themselves as one,” he expressed, shrugging his shoulders.

“Doesn’t make them less of a mafia,” Jimin pointed out.

Not everything required a label for you to see and know what it truly was.

“Fair enough,” Jungkook coincided.

There was another loud, roaring thunder outside, but Jimin’s attention was too fixated on their current situation to sincerely acknowledge anything else but Jungkook and every word that slipped past his lips.

“What exactly did your father want from him?” Jimin wanted to know, always having envisaged Mr. Jeon to be a respectful, loyal and virtuous person. For some reason, this new information caused Jimin to wonder whether it were Mr. Jeon’s ties to the mafia that Jungkook had referred to whenever he had insinuated that Jimin shouldn’t put his entire trust into his father.

Was it because of this?

“Again, I don’t know the exact details,” Jungkook answered, shrugging his shoulders.

The smaller one narrowed his eyes, studying Jungkook’s features, searching for anything that depicted his insincerity, but there wasn’t – Jungkook was genuine.

“I’m sorry,” Jungkook apologised. “This is all I know. This is a part of the business my father strictly takes care of himself. I know about the existence of their connection, but I don’t have any inside information”

Jimin believed him.

“Okay, so… so Baek did some work for your company, correct?” Jimin resumed. “However, you don’t know what kind of matters those were? And Baek is the same person you asked to search for my father?”

“Correct,” Jungkook confirmed, giving a nod, impressed by how well Jimin managed to follow along thus far. "So, that's who Baek really is"

Yet, none of this truly elucidated why Baek would send Jungkook photos of Jimin.

“I just don’t get why… But what does this have to do with the photos?” Jimin mumbled.

“We’ll get there,” Jungkook reiterated, adjusting his position, the fabric of his button shirt sliding down his shoulders in the midst of it, exposing an even bigger section of his upper body. Inevitably, Jimin’s gaze trailed down to his bare skin, the boy gulping at the sight.

The younger male noticed, his eyes following Jimin’s.

“I wanted to change earlier, but I was too tired and fell asleep,” Jungkook reasoned.

“You can… You can change now, if you want to,” Jimin suggested. “I can wait”

“You’ve waited long enough to know all of this, Jimin-ah”

“I don’t mind, really,” Jimin assured him softly.

After staring at Jimin for a moment, Jungkook gave a nod.

“Do you… I mean, do you want to change, too? I could lend you some clothes?” the black haired one offered as he got up to his feet in order to head over to his dresser. “It must be uncomfortable to stay in that suit for so long”

On his way over to the piece of furniture, he removed his shirt from his body, tossing it over onto his bed before he opened a drawer of his dresser and picked out a black shirt. In a swift motion, he tugged it over his head.

Jimin blinked, his eyes having been glued to Jungkook’s back the entire time.

“Jimin-ah?” Jungkook uttered, turning back around to face the boy because he hadn’t received a response, his fingers unbuckling the belt around his hips.

“Oh, uhm,” Jimin murmured, clearing his throat as he shook his head, his cheeks flushing a faint shade of rose. “No, I’m fine, thank you,” he added, observing how Jungkook tugged down his trousers.

Swiftly, Jimin teared his eyes away, fixating his attention on his own lap that was suddenly so fascinating. Nervously, Jimin traced the tips of his fingers over his thigh, drawing random shapes on it as he waited for Jungkook to return to his side.

However, it had become so hot in here, causing Jimin to decide to remove his suit jacket.

Just as Jimin had dropped the jacket on the floor beside him, Jungkook sat back down on the ground with his back against the wall, now dressed in a black shirt and some sweatpants.

“Where was I?” Jungkook asked, knitting his brows.

“Baek,” Jimin reminded him, the younger one giving a nod while he slid his hand through his black locks.

“Now you know who Baek really is,” Jungkook recommenced. “I asked Baek to search for your family,” he stated, although it wasn’t an unknown fact to Jimin.

“I remember, yes”

“I paid the money and we got the information,” he continued.

“Yes,” Jimin murmured, following along, although he wasn’t sure where any of this was heading to, yet then deciding to just trust that all of this had a purpose, and wait for Jungkook to enlighten him.
“However, I wasn’t satisfied with the way all of that shit was handled,” Jungkook expressed, presumably referring to the two-day delay of their meeting with Lee that had forced them to stay longer in Busan than they had initially intended.

Then again, Jimin wouldn’t exactly say he was at all disappointed or furious by that fact, considering that it had allowed Jungkook and him to spend a lot of time with one another that had enabled them to confess their feelings to one another.

“So, I let him know,” Jungkook stressed, drawing Jimin out of his thoughts.

“What did you say?”

The taller male cleared his throat, pushing his tongue into his cheek. “Well, that I wasn’t going to work with him on a personal level any longer because of the poor job he and his men did,” he noted.

Jimin squinted his eyes at him. “What else?”

At the way Jimin knew him so well, Jungkook found himself smile. “Might have told him to fuck himself, but that’s beside the point here,” he stated.

“Jungkook-ah!” Jimin exclaimed, his eyes growing bigger. “You can’t just insult someone like that – let alone someone who owns a gun and works for the mafia!” he scolded him, as though Jungkook needed someone to remind him of that fact.

Undeniably, Jungkook was aware of that detail.

However, Jungkook couldn’t help the way he was amused by Jimin’s endearing expression, the cute boy scolding him for verbally insulting someone. Inevitably, the smile that curved his lips grew.

“Baek knew that I was in the right for being annoyed by his behaviour,” Jungkook reasoned, shrugging his shoulders. “That asshole made us wait two days for something he promised me in a few hours. Baek knew that it wasn’t a loyal move on his part, nor was it beneficial for his reputation of being reliable.”

“Does he really rely on loyalty?” Jimin questioned, doubting that the head of a mob truly valued the virtue of being loyal, or fairness, for that matter.

“Yes,” Jungkook responded. “I told you before that Baek is a fucked up son of a bitch, but you can trust his word,” he claimed.

Then again, Jimin didn’t know the man – at all – so how could he judge his personality or traits he valued, if he had never even met him? Jungkook, on his part, has known Baek for years, thus he evidently knew him better than Jimin ever could.

“So, you asked for information, you got that information, you paid for it, and… then?” Jimin returned to the preceding subject.

“That was it,” Jungkook said. “I was done with him, and I told him,” he added.

“So, you are done?” Jimin concluded, raising his brows, even more puzzled why Baek had been mentioned in regard to the photos at all, if Jungkook didn’t have any ties to him any longer. “Do you still have connections to him now?”

“Once you’re in, you’re never really out,” Jungkook expressed, lowering his head down. “My father never cut the ties to him, so on a business level – at least as far as I know – we’re still involved with them,” he explained.

Despite Jimin not exactly being fond of the knowledge that Jeon Entertainment had connections to the mafia, it was calming to learn that Jungkook wasn’t associated with Baek on a personal level any longer.

However, none of this answered the question why Baek has been sending Jungkook photos of Jimin, nor why those photos existed in the first place.

“I just don’t get what any of this has to do with the photos,” Jimin voiced his confusion.

“We’ll get there,” the other male noted again, meeting Jimin’s gaze. “For you to understand, I need to start here,” he said, the smaller boy uttering out a soft “Okay”, allowing Jungkook to proceed with his explanation. “So, after I cut my personal ties to Baek, that bastard Lee snitched on me”

Jimin frowned.

Lee? That informant from Busan? How would he have done that? For what?

“For what?” Jimin voiced.

“For my behaviour back in Busan,” Jungkook answered, the other male only blinking, confusion still adorning his pretty features, causing Jungkook to sit up straighter and clear his throat before he went on, “You see, Lee is so far up Baek’s ass that he tells him anything. Lee can’t handle any shit on his own. So, like a little boy, he ran off to Daddy and told him what I did to him”

“Wait, what did you do?” Jimin wanted to know, his frown deepening as he recalled their little visit to the gambling casino in Busan, that dreadful incident that had left Jimin terrified of what they had done to Jungkook. “Lee was the one who threatened us with guns. If anything, he was the one who was crazy and behaved more than uncalled for,” he stated.

The black haired male wet his lips, clearing his throat again. “I… well, I might have called him a son of a bitch as well, and… might have punched his face a few times,” he revealed, his voice a lot quieter, as though he hoped his words wouldn’t be audible to Jimin, but the latter registered them, all of them.

“Jungkook-ah!” Jimin exclaimed, his eyes going wide.

When Jimin had asked him about what had happened in there after he had been compelled to leave, Jungkook had never said a word about any of this!

How in the world had he made it out of there without any of them leaving a scratch on him?

“How did he not shoot you for that?” Jimin voiced his thoughts, his mouth agape in shock, but amazement just as much at the notion of Jungkook having managed to make it out of there untouched.

“There is this agreement,” Jungkook revealed, his teeth tugging on his bottom lips as a sigh slipped past them. “As any good and smart businessman would, my father has an agreement including various conditions with Baek”

Perhaps, it was attributable to Jimin’s lack of experience in this field, yet on behalf of his own narrative, Jimin wasn’t certain that it was the smartest idea to have an agreement with the mafia, now was it?
After all, didn’t that for one tie you to the group – potentially only temporarily, but still long enough to be retraced and pose as a piece of evidence of your connection to them. In addition, you were bound to the conditions of said agreement regardless of what they were.

Then again, what even were the guidelines in a deal like that, considering that the circumstances weren’t exactly in any legal region, impeding you to press any legal charges, if the other part were to violate the agreement.

In the end, the only virtue you could rely on was trust and loyalty.

Yet then, could you even trust the head of a mob?

Perhaps, Baek and Mr. Jeon trusted and respected one another enough to establish this sort of agreement, regardless of their status or past. Perhaps, the conditions of the agreement and repercussions if they were to be violated were too vast and significant for them to risk infringing them.

“What is it about?” Jimin eventually asked.

“I don’t know too much about each and every condition,” Jungkook noted, causing Jimin to wonder why, considering how him and his father were in the business collectively. “I just know that it forces Baek and his men to never harm me or my father, whether it be financially or physically,” he expressed.

Well, this… was definitely a huge perk.

The mafia that ruled the whole country in secret promised you infinite safety and protection.

That was definitely something Jimin could see Mr. Jeon take a risk for.

“So, Lee wasn’t allowed to do shit to me, or he would have risked Baek to violate the agreement, which then would have caused Lee to be in some fucked up shit with Baek – and trust me, he doesn’t want that,” the younger continued, drawing Jimin out of his thoughts again.

“Because Baek never goes back on his word,” Jimin concluded.

“Exactly”

“Why do you only know about parts of the agreement, though?”

At the question, a half-smile curved Jungkook’s lips. “My father tries to keep me out of that side of business,” he answered.

“How considerate,” Jimin commented, irony depicted in his tone.

The fact that Mr. Jeon didn’t share the entirety of this acquaintance to Baek with Jungkook didn’t exactly equal to it being any less existing or protecting Jungkook from it, as the repercussions of it would still hit Jungkook just as much.

“Tell me about it,” Jungkook noted with a chuckle.

The pink haired one smiled softly, ignoring the way his heart quivered at the endearing expression embellishing Jungkook’s handsome features.

“Okay, so Lee told Baek about you hurting him, yes?” Jimin resumed, clearing his throat.
“Correct,” Jungkook affirmed with a nod. “Baek wasn’t happy about and called me. He wanted money as redemption, but I refused because of the shit Lee pulled. Who does Lee fucking think he is?” he ranted, knitting his brows.

“Baek didn’t like that, right?” Jimin assumed, quite certain that someone akin to Baek surely didn’t appreciate such behaviour.

“Well, actually, when I told him everything that actually went down, he agreed with me,” Jungkook revealed, astonishing Jimin as he refuted his theory. “Baek said some shit about Lee going too far and that he overstepped his orders, so he was going to take care of it personally. Baek let me off with a warning”

“Wait… that’s good”

“Yes,” Jungkook agreed. “Well, it was. I thought I was done with him, but… I was wrong”

The smaller boy swallowed hard at the tone of his voice, not yet having recovered from the information that Baek was the head of a mob, thus definitely not prepared to be stunned for what was only to come and crash down on him like heavy rain.

“What happened?”

Jungkook hesitated, leaning his head back into his neck. “One day, when I picked you up, I saw someone I knew worked for Baek nearby,” he revealed.

“What were they doing there?” Jimin inquired, a shiver running down his back.

Why was someone that worked for Baek anywhere close to Jimin? That… that had been a mere coincidence, hadn’t it?

“That’s what I wanted to know,” Jungkook coincided, meeting Jimin’s gaze again. “So, I contacted Baek again,” he said, shaking his head. “I was so fucking furious, asking him why the fuck any of his men were even close to you, when I told that son of a bitch to stay away from you,” he ranted. “The piece of shit he is, he claimed it was a coincidence, but I knew it wasn’t,” he added before he averted his gaze. “I… I threatened him”

Jimin’s eyes went bigger.

Threaten? Jungkook has threatened the mafia? Wasn’t that suicide?

“Kook-ah, what did you threaten him with?” Jimin breathed out, somewhat anxious to learn the answer.

The younger male hesitated, his gaze flickering back and forth between Jimin’s beautiful doe eyes.

“I threatened to kill him, if he ever laid his hand on you,” he then stated.

Jimin blinked.

“Would you?” he found himself whisper. “Would you actually kill him, if he ever… if he ever hurt me?”

“I would,” Jungkook answered in a heartbeat, deprived on any form of hesitance.

At his promise, Jimin swallowed hard, his heart quivering at the notion of Jungkook vowing to protect him to that degree. Didn’t that prove how fervent his feelings for Jimin really were, how Jimin cleared his throat, tearing his gaze away from Jungkook’s eyes as he had commenced to get lost in them.

“What did Baek do?” Jimin wanted to know, certain that Baek didn’t appreciate Jungkook’s threat at all, nor would he find any humour in it.

“Baek offered to see me and talk it out in person,” Jungkook revealed, causing the smaller boy to squint his eyes at the presumption of that having been a trap. “I refused, but he was persistent and texted me several times’

At the word texted, the image of that suspicious text message on Jungkook’s phone flashed right in front of Jimin’s eyes, reminding him of that odd contact name.

Could it have been this message?

“Jungkook-ah, is Baek… is he 21511?” Jimin found himself whisper, omitting the fact that he was exposing his own nosiness, albeit his action to check Jungkook’s phone had been ruled by innocent inquisitiveness to ensure that Jungkook’s hadn’t received any urgent messages.

The black haired male’s eyes grew bigger, his lips parting.

“How do you…”

“I ask the questions,” Jimin interrupted him, his tone delicate.

“You can’t just talk to the boss of a Korean gang and have his name saved in your contact list,” Jungkook reasoned, stating a valid point. Then again, although it might be a legitimate reason, if anyone of certain power would obtain his phone, it surely wouldn’t take long to retrace that number and figure out who it is. “It’s gotta be encrypted, just enough to not make it obvious to anyone who gets hold of your phone,” he added. “Yes, that was Baek”

Diligently, Jimin attempted to recall the exact wording of the text message, but all he could remember was something along the lines of Jungkook being supposed to attend a meeting and that they wouldn’t hurt ‘him.’

Had they referred to Jimin all along?

“Well, did you… did you go and meet him?” Jimin asked softly.

“I did,” Jungkook confirmed, giving a nod.

“Did they hurt you?” Jimin whispered, astonished that this information of Jungkook meeting someone from an organised gang didn’t appal him that much, but that he found himself to be more concerned about Jungkook’s well-being.

Though, at this point, the fact that his care and affection for Jungkook prevailed anything else appeared to be a simple established circumstance.

“No, we talked,” Jungkook elucidated.

“About what?”

“You”
Jimin raised his brows.

“Me?” he echoed, pointing at himself.

“Yes, I demanded for him and his men to stay away from you,” Jungkook noted. “Baek, however, he… he just laughed in my fucking face and said… said some fucking up shit about you,” he added, pushing his tongue into his cheek. “Apparently, it wasn’t any of my business why or if his men were near you, because he doesn’t get any orders from me anymore. Baek thought it was all a fucking game. You’re not part of the agreement, so what did it matter that they were near you?”

“So, it wasn’t a coincidence?” Jimin concluded, realising what that implied. “Someone had… had ordered them to spy on me?”

Suddenly, Jimin recalled several moments of the past weeks that had been rather suspicious, that odd feeling of being watched that had lurked around him for a while…

“That’s what I thought, but Baek wouldn’t tell me,” Jungkook explained, his digits playing with the fabric of his sweatpants absentmindedly. “He just repeated that it was none of business and that I should be careful with who I threat”

“What happened then?” Jimin wanted to know. “You left and then?”

“I knew I had to keep you safe,” Jungkook emphasised.

“So, you forced me to stay with Beomsoo,” Jimin whispered, finally finding clarity as to why Jungkook had been so very adamant for Jimin to allow Beomsoo to drive him anywhere he went. It had never just been a convenience matter, but a safety measure.

“Yes, I hoped you would be safe that way, but I also needed him to know that I’m not a fucking teenager anymore and I sure as hell won’t allow him anywhere near you,” he stated. “I won’t sit around and let him taunt me like that, especially not if your safety is on the line”

“What did you do?”

The younger one hesitated. “I… had Beomsoo take care of some stuff for me”

“Like what?” Jimin inquired, the boy nearly confident that the response wouldn’t be anything pleasant, in fact even horrifying, considering how Jungkook had vowed to even kill for Jimin’s safety.

Jungkook, however, didn’t answer at all.

“Jeon Jungkook, what did Beomsoo do?” Jimin pressed softly, his heart skipping a beat.

“I needed Baek to understand that I wasn’t going to allow him to hurt you, that I was going to ruin him, if he ever hurt you,” Jungkook uttered, digging his teeth into his bottom lip before he revealed, “Beomsoo managed to get hold of some information and evidence on Baek that, if it were to be made public, would blow up all of them”

“How?” Jimin whispered, staggered – and the slightest bit amazed – by Beomsoo having retrieved a leverage such as that one. However, it made him all the more inquisitive to learn how in the world he had managed to do that.

The black haired boy only stared at Jimin.
Another loud roaring thunder echoed outside, yet Jimin wasn’t startled this time around either, his attention too fixated on the handsome boy across from him.

“Jungkook-ah, how did he do that?” Jimin pressed when he didn’t receive a response.

Suddenly, Jimin recalled their preceding conversation about Beomsoo’s identity after Jimin’s discovery of him owning a gun. Back then, Jimin had innocently joked around about Beomsoo being a special agent. Maybe, he hadn’t been that far off after all… considering how Beomsoo had somehow been capable to go behind the back of the mafia and retain information on them that could ruin them.

As much as it was frightening, it was impressive.

“I never asked him,” Jungkook spoke, Jimin’s gaze flickering back and forth between Jungkook’s eyes in search of anything that would depict his insincerity, but there wasn’t. “I gave him one duty, and Beomsoo obliged, as always” he added, distracted for just a split moment as he studied Jimin’s pretty features. “I never asked how he got it,” he prompted, “I’m not sure, if I really want to”

“Did that work?” Jimin asked, perceiving that the threat could have gone either way.

Attributable to Jimin’s lack of familiarity on Baek’s personality, he couldn’t ascertain whether Baek would risk that information to leak or whether he would budge under the pressure Jungkook applied.

“Well, partially,” Jungkook enlightened him, rolling his neck from side to side, potentially turning uncomfortable by the current position he was sitting in.

“How so?” Jimin muttered.

The taller male stretched his limbs, his shirt raising up the slightest bit to reveal his lower stomach, Jimin’s eyes rushing down to the exposed skin nearly inevitably. Jungkook noticed Jimin’s stare, but refrained from saying anything as he lowered his arms down again.

“Baek said he was impressed by my guts to threaten him and the fact that I would risk my own life for you, although he also called me foolish for it,” he noted, a half smile curling up the corners of his lips. “Baek promised to stay away from you, if I promised to keep that shit I have on him to myself. I did, and so did he,” he shared with Jimin.

Well, then all of that prior information was… for what exactly? Don’t get Jimin wrong, he was more than appreciative of Jungkook finally opening up to him and allowing Jimin to be a part of his life and everything that burdened him, yet none of this had answered the terrifying question of why in the world anyone would send Jungkook those photos of Jimin.

Essentially, they were right back to square one.

“Then who are these photos from?” Jimin inquired again.

“Well, the first one is from Beomsoo,” Jungkook expressed, reaching for the first frame.

“What?” Jimin exclaimed, his eyes growing bigger.

“No!” Jungkook objected with equally wide eyes, realising how that statement could be misinterpreted. “No, not like that, he didn’t spy on you,” he clarified. “When I ordered Beomsoo to find some shit on Baek, he found that photo, taken by one of Baek’s men, and basically confirmed that they were truly spying on you”
Now Jimin apprehended why Jungkook had commenced to explain who Baek really was. The first photo had in fact been taken by him, or his men. Although it hadn’t been delivered to Jungkook, but retrieved by Beomsoo, it was still connected to Baek.

“So, Beomsoo has been more than just a driver,” Jimin uttered, leaning his temple against the wall as he proceeded to stare at Jungkook.

“Yes, I told you that’s not just my driver,” Jungkook reminded him, not incorrect with that statement as he had in fact mentioned that Beomsoo was posing as a guard just as much.

“You trust him a lot then, huh?” Jimin whispered.

The other one looked at him for a moment.

“Besides myself, and the boys, he’s the only other person I trust enough to protect you,” Jungkook asserted, Jimin the one to break their eye contact, maybe because he was too nervous to look into Jungkook’s eyes for too long.

For a moment, Jimin wanted to ask why Jungkook wasn’t naming his own father as one of the people he trusted the most in the world, but he refrained.

The pink haired boy caught his bottom lip between his teeth, furrowing his brows at the turmoil of thoughts and emotions residing within him.

“Who would order anyone to spy on me?” Jimin wanted to know, shaking his head at the absurdity of that occurrence. “I mean, what’s so interesting about me? I just don’t get it”

“I didn’t manage to learn that,” Jungkook informed him. “Baek never revealed that to me nor was Beomsoo able to figure anything out,” he added. “I even made some calls, but no one knew anything, so to this day, I still have no fucking idea,” he sighed. “I mean, I had some assumptions at first, figuring it might be someone who wants some scoop on me, but I wasn’t able to confirm or deny that”

Jimin gave a faint nod, his brain looming to explode at the chaos within him. If this were to be an animated movie, there would be a lot of smoke levitating from Jimin’s head right now to illustrate the absolute mess.

“So… the first photo is from Baek, but he didn’t send that to you,” Jimin reiterated, resuming to the burning subject. “However, Beomsoo found it somewhere – wherever that might be”

“Correct,” Jungkook affirmed.

“What about the other ones?” Jimin inquired, pointing at the remaining frames displayed on the floor in between them. “If they’re not from Baek, then…” he trailed off, furrowing his brows. “Who could it be?”

Frankly, Jimin couldn’t think of a single soul that would be that interested in him to spy on him, take photos of him and send them to Jungkook for whatever reason.

“It’s not Baek personally, I know that much,” Jungkook noted. “Aside from that, I’m fucking clueless as well,” he sighed, running his hand through his black locks. “I asked Beomsoo to try and locate the person, but any effort was fucking useless,” he cursed, reaching for the photos to pick them up. “There were no fingerprints on the photos, they came in an envelope with no addressor, meaning they were dropped off into my mailbox personally. I mean, one of them was literally dropped off right in front of my fucking apartment door”
At his words, Jimin’s eyes widened.

“How the hell did they get up here?” he gasped, a shiver running down his back at the notion of whoever intended to harm them having managed to be that close to them. “This apartment building is one of the safest places there are,” Jimin claimed, always having perceived this place to be some sort of castle no one that wasn’t permitted could enter.

Maybe, that narrative was flawed.

“That’s what I believed,” Jungkook coincided. “However, someone managed to go past it. Maybe, they hacked it, I have no fucking idea. To this day, I wasn’t able to figure that out”

That was scary.

Then again, all of this was frightening.

“That’s why Joon has been there ever since,” Jimin realised, arching up his brows.

The smaller boy had always wondered why Joon had suddenly appeared in front of Jungkook’s apartment from one day to the other, as though it was the most natural occurrence there is, when it’s not.

“Yeah, I had to make sure you were safe, whenever you were here,” Jungkook affirmed.

Despite Jimin perceiving the question to be redundant, he still found himself ask, “There are so many security cameras around here. Whoever sent these must be on them, no?”

“I checked the footage,” Jungkook responded, affirming what Jimin had assumed. “I looked up who got into the building, but they were completely different people, different heights and shapes, all covered up to the point that made it impossible to recognize any facial features. That’s when I realised that those people weren’t the actual threat, but randomly selected people that were probably paid to do the job”

Jimin swallowed hard.

“That is so… thoroughly thought through,” he whispered.

Whoever did this had known exactly what they were doing.

“Exactly. So, it has to be someone who is used to shit like that,” Jungkook claimed.

“You’re sure it’s not Baek?” Jimin suggested, estimating that the head of a mob could easily pull something such as this off without being caught.

“Yes, a hundred percent,” Jungkook responded.

Arguably, it could be legitimately anyone, if Jungkook was that certain that it wasn’t Baek.

“So, we know that someone ordered Baek and his men to spy on me,” Jimin condensed. “And we have someone that sent you these photos, but it’s not Baek”

Jungkook titled his head to the side. “You see, when I got that first photo sent to me, I didn’t think that much of it,” he revealed. “I contacted Baek and he assured me that him and his men had been staying away from you, so I honestly thought someone was just trying to get in my head or some shit like that,” he added. “However, when I got the next one with that message, I knew some shit was going on”
Message? What message? A threat?

“What do they want though?”

Who would go to this extent do threaten Jungkook? And for what? Money? Revenge?

“I don’t know,” Jungkook stated, shrugging his shoulders. “They never asked for something. They just leave disgusting messages about you on those photos. I know they’re trying to taunt me, which made me believe that it’s just a fucked up game to them”

A game? Was Jimin’s life just a game to them?

“Who would do that?” Jimin murmured. “Who is capable of that?”

“There are a few people I could see pull off some shit like this,” Jungkook stated, his jaw clenching. Inquisitive, Jimin raised his brows.

“Like whom?”

To be fair, Jimin was not prepared for Jungkook’s response, the name that would slip from his lips hitting him like a train at full speed.

“Dongha, for example”

Jimin blinked.

“Dongha?” he echoed softly, that mere notion sending a shiver down his back. “I haven’t heard from him in weeks,” he reminded the other one, in fact not having thought much about the boy either as he had been too busy with his own life. “Why would you say that?”

“Exactly. He has just completely vanished. Isn’t that weird?” Jungkook pointed out.

Well, it was peculiar, indeed.

“Besides, Dongha never fucking liked me and he proved himself to be pretty fucked up by the way he believed you owed him your body for being nice to you. Fucked up son of a bitch, I would-” Jungkook cursed, losing his track for a moment in his rage at Dongha, but composing himself again as he cleared his throat. “In addition to that, the photos come with messages,” he revealed, handing Jimin the photos again. “Whoever is sending these to me is clearly obsessed with you”

Puzzled, Jimin stared at the frames.

Tenderly, Jungkook curled his palm around Jimin’s wrist and turned it over, enabling Jimin to see that there were words scribbled on the back of the photo – In fact all of them.

Pretty boy is meeting you again, huh? Maybe I should walk up to him next time? Do you think he will let me play with him, too?

Isn’t he pretty? Do you share your toys, Jeon?

Fuck, what I would give to be the one fucking him-

Jimin didn’t finish that last one, his insides squirming in disgust.

“They could just be saying that to get to you,” Jimin noted softly, pushing the photos away as he didn’t want to look at them any longer, the sight of those messages making him sick to his stomach. The younger male gave a nod. “True, it definitely worked, but there are other ways to get to me,” he objected, nonetheless.

“I don’t think it’s Dongha,” Jimin murmured, shaking his head. “That would be insane” Admittedly, Dongha had behaved awful towards Jimin in the past, but… what would he gain from any of this? If he did in fact care in any way for Jimin, would he truly do this to him? Yet maybe, it was a repercussion of him not caring about Jimin any longer because the latter hadn’t returned his feelings.

“It’s already insane,” Jungkook pointed out, the statement more than valid.

In fact, all of this was so utterly absurd and horrifying that it hadn’t sunken in just yet, not entirely, at least. Frankly, Jimin would need some time to digest all of this insanity.

“But, truthfully, Dongha isn’t my first choice either,” Jungkook added, drawing Jimin out of his thoughts. “I do believe he’s fucked up in his head as proven by himself, but I don’t think he’s that smart, cautious and devious”

“Then who is your first choice?”

“Lee,” Jungkook shared, astonishing Jimin, considering how he was working for Baek.

“Why him?”

“You see, Lee is fucking evil, like an actual psychopath,” Jungkook expressed. “You saw him with his gun, didn’t you? Lee is- Fuck, he is a true advocate of guns and violence, loves torture in many ways. Beomsoo found some fucked up shit and it’s just- Lee gets off on shit like that”

Jimin’s stomach stirred in fear and disgust.

It might be someone like that who was threatening them?

“Oh my god,” he breathed out.

“I think he knew about Baek’s deal to spy on you, and might have been involved, too,” Jungkook said. “However, when Baek ended that deal, Lee might not have been in favour of it and decided to play revenge on me for beating the shit out of him and for causing that spite between him and Baek,” he added, all of his reasons somehow sounding plausible. “Besides all of that, I didn’t like the way he was looking at you in the gambling casino and…” he trailed off. “Do you remember what he called you?”

“What do you mean?” Jimin asked, frowning, not apprehending what Jungkook was implying.

“In the casino, the way he addressed you,” Jungkook elucidated.

Suddenly, it clicked.

“Pretty boy,” Jimin whispered, reminded of the tone of Lee’s voice whenever he had addressed Jimin, not caring to learn his name, but referring to him as pretty boy – just like the message on the photos.

“Yeah,” Jungkook breathed. “Lee might like to taunt me with you, like some psychological games, you know? I knew that… well, I wanted to believe that he would never actually… that he wouldn’t touch you, but I couldn’t risk it, so I had to make sure you were save and protected at all times.”

The pink haired boy’s heart skipped a beat at the notion of someone from the mafia might being the one to be following and threatening them.

“ln thought Lee is part of Baek’s mob?” Jimin prompted. “Baek told you he’s staying away from me, so how…”

“I think Lee might be pulling some personal strings here, but that’s also one of the reasons I’m not a hundred percent sure it’s actually Lee,” Jungkook responded with a nod. “I just know that someone asked Baek to spy on you and I know that someone threatened me for a while with those photos. I doubt that it’s the same person, but again, I’m just as clueless as you”

Consequently, it could be one person that was responsible for all of it, or it might be two completely unrelated people that were involved in this.

“And… and why did you want me to leave the cabin?” Jimin asked, inclining his head to the side, desperately wanting to find clarity to why Jungkook had demanded for him to leave the place in such a hostile way. “Was Baek there? Was Lee there?”

“No, Baek wasn’t there, but… I received this,” Jungkook retorted, pushing his hand into the pocket of his sweatpants, allowing him to pull something out of it.

Another photo, that he must have deposited there earlier, when changing his clothes.

Hesitantly, Jimin curled his delicate fingers around the frame, his insides squirming, when he realised that it was Jimin who was displayed on the photo. The pink haired boy was standing by the window of the cabin, staring outside.

“From the cabin,” Jimin breathed out.

Wasn’t that… In that moment, Jimin had been searching for Jungkook who had been off to collect some wood for the fireplace. There had been that silver car outside by the street that Jimin had noticed, the sight of it having unsettled him, but he hadn’t mentioned anything to Jungkook because it had left as quickly as it had appeared.

Could it be… Had they taken that picture?

Nervously, Jimin turned the photo over.

It’s over, Jeon. You fucked up.

We’re going to have some fun with Jimin now, won’t we?

Say goodbye to him.

“I know this is from Baek,” Jungkook revealed, reaching out to gently brush Jimin’s fringe out of his eyes when he had looked down at the photo. At the soft touch, Jimin lifted his head, meeting Jungkook’s gaze. “Maybe not personally, but ordered by him to take and be delivered. The moment I saw it, I knew something must have happened; something that made him finally snap and retract his promise of keeping you safe,” he added, his fingers still lingering on Jimin’s cheek. “I’m sure he wasn’t there personally, but his men definitely were. The realisation of Baek no longer promising to stay away from you scared the shit out of me. It was only a matter of time until he would allow his men to get in. I knew I had to get you to leave, no matter in what way. I hate myself for how I treated you there, but I… I couldn’t risk them being anywhere near you”
“Why didn’t you tell me?” Jimin whispered, ignoring the way his heart was fluttering at Jungkook’s touch, simultaneously not certain why he wasn’t withdrawing from it either.

“You wouldn’t have left,” Jungkook responded, a soft smile curving his lips. “I know you. There is no way in hell you would have left all on your own, if you knew what was going on. It would have taken way too long to explain all of it, too”

Was it wrong for Jimin to label his response as plausible?

Was it wrong for Jimin to… to forgive him, that naturally?

After all, Jimin did know himself just as much, was aware that he would in fact not have left Jungkook behind, if he’d learned that there were people that were trying to hurt them.

“Then what could have caused Baek to change his mind?” Jimin found himself utter, furrowing his brows. “What did you do?”

Arguably, something must have caused Baek to be furious to the point of him legitimately risking for whatever information Jungkook possessed on him to leak to the public, as he was going to break his own promise now, consequently enabling Jungkook to retract his own promise just as much.

“I don’t know,” Jungkook answered, shrugging his shoulders.

“Kook-ah,” Jimin pressed softly, Jungkook lowering his hand back down to his side.

“I truly don’t know,” the younger male assured him. “I have no fucking idea why he suddenly changed his mind”

For a moment, Jimin just studied his features, but there was nothing illustrated on his face that would hint at him being insincere. If Jungkook didn’t know what could have caused this sudden change in Baek’s narrative, then who would? How where they supposed to discover why this was occurring, let alone determine how they were going to be capable to fix it?

“Now you… now you know everything,” Jungkook uttered, drawing Jimin out of his thoughts.

What a long and bumpy ride this had been…

Quite honestly, it was too much for Jimin’s poor heart to comprehend all at once.

It was more than insane.

“So… so, let me get this straight,” Jimin stammered, fixing his posture. “Baek has worked with your father for years, yes?” he condensed.

“Ever since I was a child, yes,” Jungkook affirmed.

“You, your father and his ‘group’ have an agreement that grants you protection and safety from Baek and his men,” Jimin recited.

“Correct”

“However, after you ended your business with Baek, you noticed some of his men near me and contacted him, which eventually lead you to learn that he had been ordered to obtain some information on me, although he didn’t tell you for whom,” Jimin proceeded to outline, hoping it would allow him to receive a little more clarity and closure on all of this.
“That’s what I believe, yes,” Jungkook responded with a nod. “Baek never confirmed or denied that assumption, though.”

Yet, the fact that Beomsoo had obtained that photo of Jimin anywhere near them simply verified that they had been following after him, undeniably to receive information on him, that photo potentially posing as some sort of proof.

“When you found out that he has been near me, you had to find something to threaten him with in case he ever got too close to me?” Jimin continued, slightly astonished by how well he had actually been able to follow along, despite how much each and every information he had learned had just gradually staggered him more.

“Yes, I wanted them to stay away from you, so I asked Beomsoo for help,” he confirmed, a surge of warmth spreading within Jimin’s chest, both at the notion of Jungkook caring that much about him that he would ask Beomsoo for help, all the same at Beomsoo declaring to help and risk his own life by going in there to retrieve incriminating evidence on them.

Then again, Beomsoo might have only followed his orders, but it was… Jimin wanted to believe that Beomsoo cared about him, too – certainly not to the magnitude Jungkook did, but still enough to help Jungkook out in this matter.

“That then lead Baek to promise you to stay away from me, as long as you kept that information Beomsoo found to yourself,” Jimin added, his tone delicate, but still embellished by a singe of confusion, displaying that not all of it had settled in entirely just yet.

“Yes,” Jungkook nodded.

“However, you received more of these photos,” the pink haired one said, pointing at the dreadful photos on the floor in between them.

“I did”

“It could be that person that ordered Baek to spy on me, but it’s most likely someone else. You think they are from Lee, or potentially Dongha,” Jimin recited.

For some reason, Jimin could not envision Dongha to be behind all of this. That mere notion was way too ridiculous. There was no point at all in Dongha being responsible for any of this… Right?

“I do,” Jungkook affirmed.

“The last one, however, is from Baek, and he went back on his word because…”

“I don’t know,” the taller one responded. “I didn’t go public with anything”

“What else could it be?” Jimin inquired, certain that there must be another reason for Baek to change his mind and retract his promise; a grave reason.

The black haired male knitted his brows, his fingers running over his bottom lip before he pulled on it lightly. “The only… Well, the only other possibility is the company,” he claimed.

“What do you mean?” Jimin wanted to know, not managing to apprehend what Jungkook was referring to.

“My father might have worked with him again without my knowledge,” Jungkook explained.
“And he might have pissed Baek off?” Jimin concluded, his eyes going bigger.

“Yes, and he might use you as peer pressure, or he is at a point where he won’t forgive,” Jungkook expressed. “I mean, Baek can’t touch me or my father, so… to hurt me, he might go through you”

What did that imply?

Would they physically harm Jimin?

Would the use him to pressure Jungkook’s family?

How had it all come to this point?

“When… Why didn’t you tell me sooner?” Jimin found himself whisper.

“I promised to protect you,” Jungkook murmured. “I didn’t want to frighten you; I believed I would be able to handle it on my own and keep you safe without worrying you. I just… The thought of someone hurting you makes me crazy. I was scared. Fuck, I am scared. I'm scared that they will hurt you, Jimin-ah. I'm scared of coming home one day and finding you on the sofa murdered like…” he trailed off, a heart wrenching emotion gleaming in his eyes.

Like his mother, Jimin finished.

Jungkook was scared that Jimin would strike the same fate as his own mother; was scared of losing Jimin forever.

The smaller boy’s heart went motionless; only for a split moment, but it did.

“Murdered?” Jimin echoed, swallowing hard. “Kook-ah, do you think they want to kill me?”

“No, they... I don’t think they would kill you,” Jungkook spoke, shaking his head as he slid his hand through his black locks. “Fuck, I don't know what they want or what they're capable of, Jimin-ah, but I'm imagining the worst,” he asserted. “They might want you just because they believe they can, or they want to hurt you to get back at me. I can’t… Fuck, I can’t live with the thought of someone hurting you… or… or…” he proceeded, his handsome features embellished by prominent fear, pain and remorse.

The image caused Jimin’s heart to ache.

“Jungkook-ah, look at me, I’m here, I’m alive,” Jimin interrupted him, placing his palm on Jungkook’s cheek, the younger turning his face to meet Jimin’s gaze. “I understand that you want to protect me, but talk to me, don’t just keep me sheltered. I know that whatever happened to your mother was horrible, I know that you’re scared – I’m scared just as much – but you locking me up won’t fix this, Kook-ah. Let us find a solution together”

For some reason, Jimin found himself to say all of those optimistic words, but… how in the world where they supposed to find a solution to this? How were they supposed to fix this?

Yet then, with the way Jungkook was looking absolutely broken, Jimin couldn’t help but wish that he could mend his heart, wish that he could fix whatever was wounded.

“I was scared you would leave me,” Jungkook whispered, his eyes so watery, displaying how torn his heart was. “I couldn’t lose you, Jimin-ah. I can’t live without you”

Hesitantly, Jimin leaned forward, pressing his lips on Jungkook’s in a soft kiss. It was quick and tender, Jimin’s lips gone before Jungkook even realised, but the sparks lingered, the trace of Jimin remaining on Jungkook’s lips.

“I’m sorry, little one,” Jungkook apologised, their faces remaining inches apart. “I should have never lied to you; I should have never hidden this from you, nor should I have ever screamed at you the way I did at the cabin or force you to go with Beomsoo or me wherever you went’

The pink haired one remained mute, Jungkook’s gaze flickering back and forth between his beautiful eyes.

“Say something,” Jungkook begged. “What are you thinking about?”

“I think… I think I’m going to need some time to let all of that sink in,” Jimin declared. “It’s a lot,” he added, which it was.

“I know,” Jungkook coincided, noticing how Jimin averted his gaze, lowering his head down. “There is something else bothering your heart, though, you’re not looking at me the same way”

Nervously, Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth.

“Please, tell me, little one,” Jungkook insisted softly, placing his fingers below Jimin’s chin.

“It's just... Can I be honest?” Jimin whispered, allowing Jungkook to guide his face back up.

"Of course, baby, go ahead"

“Jungkook-ah, you’re impulsive,” Jimin spoke quietly as he squeezed his eyes shut. “You tend to treat me differently in situations you lack control in,” he claimed, his eyes fluttering back open. “I want us to be equal partners, Kook-ah. I know that you’ve been the one to adamantly remind me of the necessity of my understanding that I don’t have to submit myself to you outside of the bedroom, yet you go and demand for me to listen to you, to obey you, when things don’t go your way,” he stated. “I understand that a certain form of dominance is simply part of your nature, but I don’t think it’s healthy for you to try and dominate me anywhere outside of the bedroom. I listen to you because I am submissive by nature, but it’s not fair for you to use that against me.”

The black haired male parted his lips, caught off guard by Jimin’s words.

“Jimin-ah, I…,” he responded, shaking his head. “I don’t think of you inferior in any way, nor did I ever intend to force you into submission anywhere outside of the bedroom,” he declared. “In certain situations, I turn possessive or I get.. I get scared of your safety, so I unintentionally find myself behaving impulsively”

At least, Jungkook wasn’t denying Jimin’s observations, was in fact aware of his own demeanor and behaviour in certain situations. Arguably, Jungkook’s behaviour might be ruled by his traumatic past, a few particular circumstances such as the secret about Baek and the photos that were no longer an unspoken subject between them.

Maybe, now that those secrets no longer existed, Jungkook wouldn’t be as impulsive anymore.

Yet, Jimin wasn’t certain whether he could confidently assert this.

“I understand that you’re traumatised because of what happened to your mother, and I know that you just want to protect me, but making decisions for me or treating me like an obedient toy are not the right way,” Jimin prompted, shaking his head. “Trust me, Kook-ah. Allow me to take care of certain things myself. I want to feel like I’m your boyfriend, not a toy”
“Little one, I never… I didn’t know you felt that way. I don’t think of you as anything less; you’re the most valuable thing in the world” Jungkook responded, his befuddled expression conveying that he had in fact not been aware of how he had treated Jimin in certain situations. “Are you saying this because of what I said back at the cabin? Please, I’m begging for you to forgive me; I didn’t mean a word of that”

“I believe you, Jungkook-ah, but I… I felt that way for a while,” Jimin revealed softly. “I just never really allowed myself to reflect over everything that has happened between us. That moment at the cabin just opened my eyes to a lot of things I had chosen to ignore”

“I didn’t know,” Jungkook whispered, hurt by the way he had been hurting Jimin unintentionally all along. “I would have tried to change that all along, if I’d only known you felt that way, Jimin-ah. I am the way I am, but I never wanted to hurt you”

Jungkook was the way he was, just like Jimin was the way he was.

In the end, Jungkook was only twenty-one years old, younger than Jimin was. Despite all the maturity and authority that he exuded, he was still barely an adult, all of those inevitable impressions proceeding to shape him to another version of the man he was today. There was all of that weight, that trauma and responsibility resting on his shoulders that he had to deal with alongside the journey of growing up.

“I know,” Jimin whispered back, wanting to believe that Jungkook never wanted to hurt him. “I don’t think it’s right for me to ask you to change, but... I just want you to try and be less impulsive in situations you lack control in”

“For you, I will do anything,” Jungkook declared, his tone tender. “Just ask me to and I will do it”

At his words, Jimin’s heart fluttered, a smile finding its way to Jimin’s face unconsciously.

“It’s your turn,” Jimin murmured.

Jungkook arched up his brows, echoing, “My turn?”

“Yes, we’re being honest with one another,” Jimin retorted, giving a nod. “It’s your turn to tell me what has been bothering your heart about me”

After all, that was only fair.

“What if there isn’t anything?” Jungkook objected, titling his head to the side.

“Kook-ah, there has to be something,” Jimin noted, a small smile embellishing his pretty features.

“It’s okay. Tell me, I won’t be hurt”

The younger male studied his features for a moment, a slight smile dancing around his lips. “You’re incredibly stubborn,” Jungkook suddenly accused, glancing up at the ceiling for a moment as he groaned out. “Gosh, are you stubborn,” he echoed with a chuckle, meeting Jimin’s gaze again, the latter raising his brows. “And sometimes, you smack your lips when eating. Did someone ever tell you that? Each time, I have to check whether my boyfriend hasn’t just been replaced by a fucking alpaca. And you-”

“Oh,” Jimin interrupted him, crossing his arms over his chest. “Okay, I get it,” he mumbled, not having expected Jungkook to go on full ramble mode, considering how he had just claimed two seconds ago that there wasn’t anything bothering him about Jimin. “I guess… Well, there are a few then”
The black haired one laughed at Jimin’s expression, shaking his head. “I was only teasing you,” he elucidated, perhaps only having intended to raise the mood and establish a less tensed air among them. “I love every trait about you, Jimin-ah. I do, I really do,” he declared. “I couldn’t pick one thing that bothers me about you, nor is there anything that I would want you to change”

For some reason, Jimin felt guilty for having mentioned a trait of Jungkook’s that he wasn’t in entire favour of. Undeniably, Jimin had fallen for Jungkook just the way he was, but if they truly wanted this to work long-term, they needed to be honest with one another and cut any toxic behaviour.

“I didn’t say that to make you feel guilty,” Jungkook whispered, almost as though he could read Jimin’s mind. “You’re right. I am impulsive. I know that, and I understand that I need to change that; and I will try. I don’t want you to ever feel like you’re inferior, nor do I want you to ever feel like you can’t be honest with me, whenever there is something bothering you”

“That goes for you just as much,” Jimin returned. “I want you to be honest with me, too”

“Okay,” Jungkook agreed.

“Okay,” Jimin echoed.

The two boys stared at one another, the thunderstorm outside not having vanished just yet, but still proceeding to create a chaos behind those windows.

Where were they supposed to go from here?

By all means, Jimin was at a point where he wasn’t quite certain whether this all wasn’t just a nightmare; that it was real and vivid; that someone out there was trying to harm them in a way Jimin didn’t even want to imagine.

It was a lot; and insane, and overwhelming, and everything in between.

And Jimin… well, he needed time.

“So say it,” Jungkook whispered, leaning closer to nudge his nose against Jimin’s cheek, his fingers reaching up to brush his pink locks out of his face.

Jimin furrowed his brows, puzzled by Jungkook’s request. “Say what?”

“I can see it in your eyes, but you’re afraid to say it out loud,” Jungkook murmured, a half smile curling up the corners of his lips. “You need time. I can understand that you do. All of this… it’s a lot, and overwhelming. You need time, and that’s… that’s okay. I will manage”

There was no doubt in Jimin’s mind: Jungkook certainly could read his mind.

Yet then… they might just be connected in a way that allowed them to understand the other one without any words. In the end… fate evidently had done the right thing to bring them together.

Gently, Jimin found himself lean in to press another kiss to Jungkook’s lips.

For a moment, they remained just like that, their lips lingering close by, their eyes still shut as they both inhaled a shaky breath.

This time, Jimin didn’t withdraw, causing Jungkook’s hand to find its familiar way to Jimin’s hips, curling around the soft flesh as the boy returned the kiss passionately, moving his lips against Jimin’s.

Carefully, Jungkook pulled Jimin on his lap as he tugged on Jimin’s bottom lip with his teeth, evoking a whimper in Jimin.

As soon as Jimin was straddling his lap, he awoke from his trance.

“Kook-ah,” Jimin whispered, catching his own bottom lip between his teeth as he turned his face to the side, his palm pressing against Jungkook’s chest to halt his motion.

“I’m sorry,” Jungkook apologised. “I just… I can see the pain in your eyes, and I wish I could mend it”

“I’m not hurt,” Jimin claimed, shaking his head. “I’m grateful that you’re finally honest with me; relieved that those horrible words you said to me were said simply used to protect me; hopeful that we will work on the things that need some work done on to make a relationship work,” he expressed. “I am scared, though, of whoever is threatening you, of whoever is ordered to follow me”

“I won’t let anyone hurt you, little one,” Jungkook promised.

A soft smile adorned Jimin’s face.

“We’ll.. we’ll find a way, right?” Jimin spoke delicately. “We’ll find out who is doing this… won’t we?”

“Yeah,” Jungkook breathed, giving a nod. “I think it’s time for me to talk to my father. I have to. I know he’s going to be pissed when he learns that I was personally involved with Baek, but I need to do this. My father might know more about all of this”

Evidently, that was indeed a good idea.

Even if Mr. Jeon had not worked with Baek again, he certainly knew more about him than Jungkook did, thus he might be able to help them out in this situation. In fact, he might have access to even more methods to enable them to locate whoever had taken those photos of Jimin and consequently find the true threat.

“I’m going to talk to him tomorrow,” Jungkook decided, not realising that it was long past midnight already, the next day long upon them. “Are you going to join me?”

Jimin raised his brows, surprised by the request.

“If you want me to,” Jimin uttered, giving a nod.

“I do,” Jungkook responded.

“Then I’ll be right by your side”

Jungkook smiled, giving a nod, and just… looking at Jimin with that stupid gaze that had his knees weak.

The smaller boy cleared his throat, tearing his eyes away from Jungkook.

“I… I should probably go now,” he decided, raising to his feet, his muscles aching at the way he had been sitting on the uncomfortable floor for the past hour. “I’m supposed to sleep over at Tae’s tonight,” he revealed, completely having omitted his former promise to Taehyung earlier today. “Tae wanted me to tell him all about the gala; and he wanted to tell me about his meeting with that designer,” he reminded himself, pressing his fist to his forehead as he recalled that today had been a significant day for Taehyung. “Although, Tae probably fell asleep already waiting that long for me,” he murmured as he realised that it was in the middle of the night as he picked up his suit jacket.

The black haired male enumerated his action, getting up to his feet as well. For a moment, Jungkook just observed Jimin, trying to refrain from the urgency to speak, but... he failed.

“Is it wrong for me to ask you to stay with me tonight?” Jungkook inquired, leaning against the wall.

Jimin stilled, blinking at Jungkook.

“Kook-ah, I-”

“Please,” Jungkook interrupted him. “I know you need time, and I’ll give you all the time, but... just for tonight, will you stay?” he asked, his tone soft, Jimin’s insides squirming at the notion of what would occur, if he chose to stay tonight.

Jimin swallowed hard.

There it was again – one of those easy questions.

After all, there were only two possible responses – Yes or no, it was legitimately so easy.

Yet, somehow, it was anything but easy.

Chapter End Notes

What should Jimin decide?
Do you think he will forgive Jungkook and be able to look past all of this?
Who is the secret threat?
I would love to hear your thoughts :)

I hope you stay healthy and happy! <3

I love you <3

See you in the next chapter :)
Always

Chapter Notes

Hello, lovely readers, I missed you! <3

It's me, I'm back :)

Ah, it's been so long again, please forgive me :(
Please remember, I'll always come back!
Thank you for your sweet messages encouraging me and asking me whether I am okay. <3

I wasn't, unfortunately. As you may know, I'm struggling with my mental health, and these past days/weeks it has been rather difficult for me again, as I've told a few of you about.

I'm feeling a little better, and I'm very happy to be back. <3

Thank you so much for always waiting so patiently for me. I know it's annoying to wait so long, and can be very hard, so I appreciate it a lot that you still care about my story regardless of how long it takes me to update <3

Although I wasn't feeling well mentally, I did my best to write you a new chapter.

I hope you'll enjoy it <3

See the end of the chapter for more notes

It was so silent in the room.

Yet then, it was as though there was a resounding clock ticking within Jimin, representing the amount of time that passed between them for as long as they simply stood there across from one another, not saying another word.

“Say something,” Jungkook whispered.

“Jungkook-ah, I don’t think…” Jimin spoke softly, shaking his head.

“I’m not going to touch you, if you don’t want me to,” Jungkook promised him, taking a step closer.
“If that’s your concern,” he added, like it could be; and maybe it was.

“I…”

“It’s just that…” the younger trailed off, sliding his hand through his messy black locks. “Fuck, it’s only been a night we were apart, but I couldn’t sleep without you,” he declared, causing Jimin’s heart to quiver.

Nervously, Jimin averted his gaze.
The candid thing was, Jimin was certain that the only reason he had been able to fall asleep last night was the alcohol that had run through his system, compelling him to fall into a long slumber.

“I missed you,” Jungkook confessed, Jimin finding himself urge to respond the same thing.

Generally, it might not be such a smart idea on Jimin’s behalf to decide to go home tonight with all of these revolving issues, was it? In a way, wasn’t this place the safest to stay at right now? At any rate, a lot safer than his own?

At least, that’s how his heart tried to convince him of the decision it had long made.

“Okay,” Jimin found himself whisper, giving a nod. “Just… for tonight”

“Thank you,” Jungkook whispered back, a soft smile adorning his handsome features.

Jimin cleared his throat, pulling his phone out from his pocket. “I should just… I should text Taehyung, in case he is still awake, to let him know that I’m not coming home tonight,” he decided, not wanting Taehyung to wait for him throughout the entire night.

“Yeah, of course,” Jungkook noted, pushing his hands into his pockets as he leaned against the wall to wait for Jimin.

Carefully, the smaller boy headed over to the bed, taking a seat on the edge of it as he unlocked his phone, his digits tapping over the display of the device a moment later to write a message.

Tae? Are you already asleep?
– Jimin

As Jimin had predicted, he didn’t receive a response.

I guess, you are.
I mean, it’s already 3 in the morning.
You said I shouldn’t worry about you and just enjoy my night…
But still, I’m sorry that I didn’t come over.
I hope today was a success for you?
Let’s talk all about it later, yeah?
Love you.
– Jimin

Once the message was delivered, Jimin locked his phone again, turning the device over in his palm a few times absentmindedly as he stared at the wall across from him. In that moment, Jungkook returned to the bedroom, seemingly having been absent for the time Jimin had texted Tae – a fact that had gone unnoticed to Jimin.

Slowly, Jimin lifted his head, meeting Jungkook’s gaze.

Well, what now?

Where they supposed to talk?

Yet then, what else was there to say?

“I guess… I’m going to wash up now,” Jimin found himself decide as he rose to his feet for the day had been rather draining and he was craving to find some peaceful sleep.
Ironic, how his life was anything from peaceful.

“Is that okay?” Jimin asked.

Jungkook gave a nod. “Of course, yes,” he said, leaning against the wall again.

“Do you… Do you have some clothes for me?” Jimin wondered, his tone delicate and quiet, the boy somehow so much more bashful than he usually tended to be – which said a lot, bearing in mind how we were talking about Jimin.

“Yeah,” Jungkook affirmed. “Just take whatever you need,” he added, pointing at his dresser.

Timidly, Jimin approached the restroom. “Thank you,” he uttered out as he curled his hand around the doorknob.

“I’m going to be here, if you need anything,” Jungkook assured.

“Okay,” Jimin said again, commencing to believe that it was one of the very few words residing in his vocabulary at this point. “Thank you,” he added before he rushed into the restroom, pushing the door shut behind him.

As soon as Jimin was all by himself, he exhaled a shaky breath, leaning his head back against the door whilst he pressed his eyes shut; puzzled why he was behaving that distant and hesitant towards Jungkook.

As his eyes fluttered back open, Jimin walked over to the sink, his feet padded on the small and fluffy rug deposited in front of it.

The pink haired boy looked at his own reflection in the mirror, met with flushed cheeks and sleepy eyes, visibly still trying to process everything that he had learned over the course of the past hours.

Certainly, it would require quite a bit of time for Jimin to comprehend all of this.

It was too insane.

Shaking his head at himself, Jimin untied the fabric around his collar, allowing him to unbutton his shirt and remove it from his body. After folding the shirt neatly, he deposited it next to the sink, prior to him reaching for his toothbrush in order to brush his teeth.

Once Jimin had finished that task as well, he washed his face, the cold water waking him up and posing as some sort of calming procedure, sinking the temperature within him.

As soon as he had dried his face, Jimin stared at his reflection again, trying to fix the mess of hair that adorned his appearance.

Was it right for Jimin to stay?

Would he regret to stay here tonight, when he awoke in the morning?

Inhaling another deep breath, Jimin opened the top drawer of the dresser to seek for something to wear for the night. Jimin then, however, realised that he had forgotten that Jungkook’s clothes were retained in the dresser deposited in his bedroom.

After shutting the drawer, Jimin picked up his shirt and headed back over to the bedroom, yet discovering that it was empty.

Almost simultaneously to his entrance, there was a loud thunder roaring outside, the noise startling Jimin.

“Kook-ah?” the pink haired boy called out.

“Yes, I’m right here,” Jungkook yelled back, appearing back in the bedroom a few moments later. “Are you okay? What’s wrong?”

Jimin shook his head, his eyes trailing down to Jungkook’s hands, noticing that he was carrying two water bottles and two apples. “Nothing, I just… You were gone, so I-” Jimin murmured, his eyes rushing back up to meet Jungkook’s gaze.

“I got us some food and water,” Jungkook said as he lifted his hands, although that fact had already been apparent to Jimin. “Just in case you were hungry”

“Oh,” Jimin whispered. “Thank you”

The smaller boy realised that he was still only dressed in his trousers, his bare upper body exposed to Jungkook’s eyes, causing the former to be timid and turn to face the dresser.

Carefully, Jimin pulled the top drawer of the dresser open, picking out a large hoodie that belonged to Jungkook, quick to tug it over his head in order to veil his body beneath the extremely soft fabric. Then, Jimin unzipped his trousers, removing them in a quick motion before he folded them neatly and placed them on top of the dresser beside his shirt.

As soon as Jimin had changed, he turned back around, discovering that Jungkook was sitting on his bed already, his eyes fixated on Jimin.

Jungkook smiled at the sight of Jimin in his oversized clothes, his eyes trailing over Jimin’s delicate figure before they met Jimin’s gaze again.

“What?” Jimin murmured, looking down at himself.

“Nothing,” Jungkook spoke softly, shaking his head, his stare intent, but so gentle.

Jimin cleared his throat. “How is your hand?” he wondered as he pointed at Jungkook’s limb, sincerely interested, but then also trying to distract himself from Jungkook’s gorgeous eyes.

The younger male followed his gaze, brushing Jimin’s question off with a shrug. “It’s fine; that’s nothing,” he responded, shaking his head.

“Did you cool it?”

“No, it’s going to be fine, don’t worry,” Jungkook claimed.

Jimin narrowed his eyes, deliberating whether he should insist on Jungkook to cool his hand for its healing procedure to accelerate, but he refrained, deciding that Jungkook was surely capable to assess his own physical needs and health measures a lot better than Jimin could.

Hesitantly, Jimin closed the distance between them, coming to a halt right in front of Jungkook. The latter stared up at him, not even blinking as he observed Jimin move closer to him.

“Here,” Jungkook uttered, handing Jimin a bottle of water and an apple, the older curling his hands around the items as a tiny “Thank you” fell from his lips.
The smaller one caught his bottom lip between his teeth, eventually lowering himself down on the bed beside Jungkook to take a seat, their thighs touching one another.

For a moment, it was silent, neither of them saying a word, their gazes not even meeting.

Why was the air between them so awkward?

Carefully, Jimin opened his water bottle, wishing it would distract him from this unfamiliar tension that he wasn't used to when it came to Jungkook. The boy took a few big gulps from his water, the cold fluid refreshing him.

“Are you tired?” Jungkook wanted to know after Jimin had shut his water bottle again, turning to face the other one.

“A little sleepy, yeah,” Jimin affirmed, giving a gentle nod, his voice delicate and quiet.

The younger insinuated to rise to his feet. “I can leave, so you can-”

Jimin grasped his wrist, his petite hand closed around it to prevent him from leaving. “No, it’s fine,” he uttered softly, not wanting Jungkook to leave his own bedroom, or perhaps not wanting Jungkook to leave him, he wasn’t certain, but didn’t want to find out either.

“Okay,” Jungkook spoke, glancing down at his wrist where Jimin was touching him, the latter not having withdrawn his hand yet. “You really hate thunderstorms, hm?” he noted, a slight smile curving his lips, although there was an ounce of pain hidden behind the softness that gleamed within his eyes.

“That’s not the reason I don’t want you to go,” Jimin whispered, shaking his head. “This is your bedroom after all, and… and… you asked me to stay,” he added, averting his gaze down on his lap, a few strands of his pink locks falling into his face.

Carefully, Jungkook reached up, brushing Jimin’s hair out of his face, his fingers tender as they grazed over his skin. At the soft touch, Jimin lifted his head, locking eyes with Jungkook whose hand remained on Jimin’s cheek.

Jimin swallowed hard, his gaze rushing down to Jungkook’s lips, his heart pumping fast within his chest. If Jimin didn’t want to do anything stupid right now and follow what his heart was begging him to do, he needed to find a distraction. Rapidly.

“Do you… Do you think you’ll get in trouble for beating up Seo?” Jimin found himself inquire, tilting his head to the side.

The taller male blinked.

“I don’t know,” Jungkook responded, dropping his hand back down to his side. “That’s my least concern right now, though,” he asserted, a half smile curving his lips, appearing to carry some gloominess.

“You punched him… a lot,” Jimin stated quietly, as though that fact wasn’t apparent to Jungkook, as though he hadn’t been the one to actually beat up Seo.

“I… guess so”

“Did you even realise that?” Jimin wondered, raising his brows.
Whenever Jungkook was fuming to the degree of turning to violence, it tended to be rather calling to render him to cease. Did his rage rule each and every of his actions to that magnitude that it was impossible for him to refrain from executing the commands it threw at him?

“Be honest,” Jimin added softly.

“No, not really,” Jungkook revealed. “It’s like… you’re in a tunnel,” he tried to explain. “I got absolutely furious at the way he was treating you and how he threatened to have his way with you, that I just wanted to hurt him so fucking badly, so he wouldn’t be able to hurt you,” he elaborated.

Jimin swallowed hard. “You can’t just punch people, Kook-ah,” he murmured gently.

“You wanted to hit him, too,” Jungkook reminded him, a half smile adorning his handsome features as he recalled the moment. “I saw the look in your eyes and your tiny fists clenched,” he added.

At his words, Jimin’s eyes grew bigger, his lips parting. “Hey, first of all, they’re not tiny,” he whined, lifting his clenched fist up into the air between them, the younger male smiling in amusement and raising his brows as they both stared at it. “Well… whatever,” Jimin mumbled, lowering his delicate hand back down on his lap. “I don’t know what happened to me either,” he revealed softly, remembering that surge of anger that had bloomed within him in that moment. “I wanted to hit him, too, although I don’t condone violence at all,” he expressed. “However, he had treated me in a degrading way for the entire night and once he insulted you and your mother, I just…I do… I wanted him to shut up,” he added with a slight shrug of his shoulder, almost certain that he would have punched Seo, if it wasn’t for Jungkook who had stopped him.

Slowly, Jimin’s gaze flickered back and forth between Jungkook’s eyes.

“Why did you stop me?” he wanted to know.

Jungkook blinked.

“What?”

“You stopped me and said that you don’t want me to be like you,” Jimin elaborated. “Why?”

“Because it’s true,” Jungkook responded. “I don’t want you to be like me,” he asserted, shaking his head. “You’re so much better than that, little one”

At his words, Jimin’s heart fluttered, albeit it clenched all the same at the notion of Jungkook putting himself down. “Stop saying that, Kook-ah,” he demanded softly. “You just… you protected me; you always do,” he stressed, finding himself reaching out to place his delicate palm on Jungkook’s bigger hand. “Aside from you, Tae and the Hyungs, I’ve never had anyone want to protect me and do so much to actually do it,” he added, stealing a glimpse at Jungkook’s knuckles. “All of these bruises,” he whispered, “Just… because of me”

“They vanish,” Jungkook objected, shrugging his shoulders.

“But you don’t care to have them. You just... always try to keep me safe,” Jimin stated, his voice turning softer with each syllable of his until it was barely audible at all, Jungkook somehow managing to register it regardless.

Tonight had just enlightened Jimin on another example of that, hadn’t it?

All this time, Jungkook had just tried to keep Jimin safe from the mafia.
Jungkook always wants to keep him safe.

“How could I not?” Jungkook whispered, “I love you, Jimin-ah”

For a moment, Jimin just stared at him.

Yet, only for so long.

In the end, Jimin’s heart did win any battle his brain should have predicted of being destined to lose all along.

Hesitantly, the smaller boy leaned up, stilling just close enough to brush his lips over Jungkook’s, the latter completely frozen.

Carefully, Jimin captured Jungkook’s lips in a soft kiss, the younger remaining in the touch but not returning the kiss, as though he was waiting for Jimin to reflect over this and decide where he wanted to take this.

After counting to three, and realising that Jimin didn’t insinuate to withdraw, Jungkook kissed him back, his hands finding their way to Jimin’s hips to grasp his waist and pull him onto his lap.

The pink haired one gasped into the kiss, curling his arms around Jungkook’s neck as he moved his lips against Jungkook’s. Gently, Jungkook fell back on the bed, pulling Jimin with him who never broke their kiss apart; too drunk on the taste of Jungkook.

It was hot, and pure, and vastly passionate all the same; and the slightest bit dirty, when Jungkook tugged on Jimin’s bottom lip with his teeth before his tongue licked over Jimin’s to taste his sweetness.

And it was as though time had stopped; just for a moment, but it had.

In a swift motion, Jungkook had turned them over, Jimin pinned to the bed, the former’s hands placed on either side of Jimin’s head for he didn’t want to squish Jimin beneath his weight; even now, there lips never left one another for longer than a split second.

Yet, to Jimin’s dismay, there was a rational part within him – a part that scolded him to cease this action immediately as it wasn’t of low probability that it could lure them down an inevitable path in just a few moments which wouldn’t exactly be beneficial for their current issues.

Reluctantly, Jimin applied some pressure against Jungkook’s shoulders to urge him to stop, the black haired one withdrawing immediately to stare at Jimin, his gorgeous eyes looking at him with patience.

“This… We might…” Jimin whispered with flushed cheeks.

“Yeah, you’re right, I’m sorry,” Jungkook coincided, giving a few gentle nods as he rolled off of Jimin, lying down on the bed beside him instead, the two of them catching their breaths.

“I kissed you first, I’m sorry,” Jimin apologised instead as he fixed his appearance; sliding his hand through his pink locks a few times as he pulled his hoodie down, the fabric having risen up his skin to expose his pink lace panties.

Inevitably, Jungkook’s gaze rushed down to the thin fabric veiling Jimin’s private parts before it was hidden beneath the oversized hoodie, impeding Jungkook to see the lace any longer.
The black haired male blinked upon catching that swift glimpse, his mouth agape as he realised what Jimin was wearing.

Jimin’s eyes went bigger in bashfulness as he noticed Jungkook’s reaction. “I…” he uttered, his cheeks tingling a darker shade of rose. “They… They feel comfort-”

“Little one, you don’t have to explain yourself to me,” Jungkook interrupted him softly. “I shouldn’t have looked, I’m sorry,” he apologised instead, reaching down to curl his fingers around the velvety blanket on the bed in order to tug it over Jimin’s delicate body. “You can wear whatever you want, for whatever reason,” he added with a gentle smile.

Fuck, nevertheless, Jungkook couldn’t deny the effect the sight of those sinful lace panties veiling Jimin’s pretty body had on him.

The smaller one cleared his throat, nuzzling his face into the pillow as he returned the smile delicately, grateful that Jungkook didn't make a big deal out of it. Warmth engulfed Jimin as his dainty figure was hidden beneath the covers.

The two boys were facing one another, a few inches between them, their gazes piercing through each other. Unconsciously, Jimin licked over his own lips, wishing he could taste Jungkook’s trace on them, missing the familiar feeling of his lips on him.

Jungkook’s gaze rushed down to his plump lips at the motion, the man gulping hard as a part within him wondered whether Jimin was doing that on purpose to torture him.

“I… I should leave now, so you can sleep,” Jungkook decided, his voice gentle, although it wasn’t the sole reason for his decision to leave. The notion of having Jimin right beside him was wholesome and calming, yet it was so fucking difficult to resist to kiss or cuddle him all the same.

“You can sleep here,” Jimin said softly, shaking his head. “I don’t mind”

After all, this was Jungkook’s place to begin with, and his king sized bed was more than big enough to fit both of them, causing it to be a silly thought for Jungkook to leave the comfort of his own bed just for Jimin.

“Are you sure?”

“Yes,” Jimin responded, devoid of any hesitance.

There was another lighting strike breaking through the curtains, followed by a roaring thunder. The sudden sound startled Jimin, reminding him that Jungkook and him weren’t living inside a bubble, that time hadn’t stopped, but that the world around them was proceeding to spin.

_The person that was after them could very well be scheming how to harm them in this very moment. Wasn’t it just a matter of time until they were here to hurt them?_

“What’s wrong?” Jungkook asked, having noticed the alteration in Jimin’s expression, a fact that had gone unnoticed to Jimin himself - his soft smile having faltered, replaced by trepidation.

“I’m scared,” Jimin found himself whisper.

The younger male’s gaze flickered back and forth between Jimin’s eyes.

“Do you think they’ll try to get in here?” Jimin wondered quietly.
After all, although Jimin believed that this place was of certain security, the people that were trying to hurt them had evidently been able to surmount any obstacle to get up here before. Hence, it wasn’t reprehensible to envision them managing to get up here again, was it?

“No, Baek wouldn’t be that stupid,” Jungkook objected, shaking his head.

“What if they just take Joon out?” Jimin noted, assuming that Joon could only fight against so much. However, a gun would certainly bring him to his knees, wouldn’t it?

“I won’t let anyone hurt you, Jimin-ah, okay?” Jungkook promised, placing his palm against Jimin’s cheek. “Never,” he added, his voice full of determination.

The smaller boy wanted to believe in his sincerity, but he couldn’t help but wonder whether Jungkook was just trying to uphold a strong demeanor for him. In the end, Jungkook always wanted to maintain a tough appearance, maybe just because it was in his nature, but maybe because he wanted Jimin to feel safe and protected around him.

Did Jimin exude a certain aura of helplessness?

After all, Jimin… well, he was easily startled.

For instance, this very moment; Jungkook appeared so very calm and collected, whereas Jimin was certain that he would have a mental breakdown as soon as his brain had finally processed everything that he had learned today.

Maybe, there had been some truth to Jungkook’s words back at the cabin?

Did Jimin really behave like a child sometimes?

“What are you thinking about, baby?” Jungkook asked, the tips of his fingers tracing over Jimin’s furrowed brow in a tender manner, noticing that something was occupying his mind.

“Nothing…,” Jimin murmured.

“Do you want to talk about that nothing?” Jungkook offered, smiling gently, knowing Jimin all too well.

The pink haired one hesitated, catching his bottom lip between his teeth. “Do you… Do you really think of me as a child sometimes?” Jimin wondered, his voice quiet and vulnerable.

“What?” Jungkook said, his eyes going bigger.

“I know, you just said it to get me to leave the cabin, but…” Jimin trailed off.

“No, Jimin-ah, please don’t even finish that thought,” Jungkook interrupted him, sitting up on his elbow. “You’re not a child, and you’re not weak,” he asserted. “You’ve been through so much shit in your life, but you’ve grown to become this beautiful person, inside and out. That requires strength. You’re one of the strongest people I know,” he emphasised. “And you’re mature, so much more mature than I am-”

“Kook-ah, don’t be ridiculous-” Jimin interrupted him with a snort, shaking his head at the absurdity of that statement.

“No, it’s true,” Jungkook interfered. “You’re way more mature than me, Jimin-ah. You had to learn how to fight on your own at such a young age. Just because you allow yourself to be taken care of in certain situations doesn’t make you weak or any less mature,” he stressed. “You don’t behave like a child, by no means”

The smaller boy lowered his head down. “Thank you,” he murmured.

“If anything, I’m the immature one,” Jungkook claimed.

“You’re not, Kook-ah,” Jimin protested, shaking his head.

How could Jungkook of all people – Jungkook, the co-CEO of that huge empire, the man that exuded such authority and power with a mere stare – associate himself with the word immature. “It’s okay, little one,” Jungkook smiled. “I admit that I can be immature in situations”

Well, Jimin wouldn’t exactly call his behaviour immature, but Jungkook definitely behaved differently in particular situations, “In situations you lack control in,” Jimin voiced softly.

“Oh,” Jungkook agreed. “I guess it’s partially because of my nature, but I also think a big fraction of it is attributable to traumatic shit in my past I had no way of preventing. I need control, so I know that I can protect what I love, so I know that you’re safe”

The pink haired one smiled softly, rolling over onto his stomach to be a little closer to Jungkook.

“That’s a lot of responsibility and pressure on you, Kook-ah,” he uttered.

“It’s the way it is,” Jungkook noted with a shrug of his shoulders.

Jimin tilted his head to the side. “It’s okay to share your burdens and give your control up sometimes,” he declared.

“I don’t think I’m capable of that”

Faintly, Jimin recalled that intimate moment of theirs during which Jimin had tied him up to take care of him. Despite Jungkook’s kind attempt to allow Jimin to try to attain a more dominant role, it had been more than difficult to let go of his own dominance.

“I’m not just talking about sex,” Jimin clarified.

“I’m not either,” Jungkook elucidated, a faint smile curving his lips. “I don’t think I can just…”

“You can trust me, Kook-ah,” Jimin whispered. “You don’t need to be strong all the time; you shouldn’t need to make sure you have the control all the time. I’m here, too. I can look after you, too,” he stated, sincere in his remark.

Despite Jimin being on the receiving line for the vast majority of the time, he wanted Jungkook to know that he would do anything to protect him as well; that they were supposed to be a team that could fight any odds together.

Maybe, if Jungkook allowed himself to view Jimin as someone who didn't need to be saved all the time, but was willing to protect Jungkook as well, and allow himself to let go of a certain amount of control sometimes, he would share his burdens with Jimin without Jimin needing to ask him to open up.

And maybe, if Jungkook had allowed himself to understand this a long time ago, he would have revealed the horrifying truth about the mafia being after Jimin sooner.
Then again, it didn't matter what would have been, or could have been. They were here now, and could only learn from it to lead themselves on another path.

“Although I don’t think your age says anything about your mental capability – well, to a certain degree maybe, but not too much – I’m your Hyung, Kookie,” Jimin reminded him. “You can trust me to protect you, too”

The younger male raised his brows, a smirk dancing around his lips.

“You’re playing the age card now, hm?” he teased, wetting his lips.

Jimin chuckled, shaking his head. “No,” he giggled. “I just…”

“I see, Hyung,” Jungkook mocked him with amusement gleaming in his eyes, smirking at Jimin,
“Have I ever told you that I rarely go for older guys?”

“Older guys?” Jimin echoed, arching up his brows as he pulled his head back. “Hang on now, I’m two years older!” he exclaimed, swatting Jungkook’s arm. “You make it sound like I’m a grandpa-”

“I’m sorry, you were serious,” Jungkook interrupted him, feeling apologetic for joking around when Jimin had meant to be thoughtful. “In all honesty, thank you for saying that, little one,” he spoke, his voice softer. “I know that I can trust you, but learning to give up my control will take time,” he expressed.

“That’s okay,” Jimin uttered, carefully reaching up to slide his hand through Jungkook’s black locks.
“Just try to let go sometimes; you’re tensed a lot of the times,” he noted, “And... and you tend to keep things to yourself, if you’re in that state of mind. I want you to know that you can tell me anything”

Softly, Jimin played with Jungkook’s hair, the latter’s eyes fluttering shut at the tender touch.

“It feels nice to be taken care of,” Jimin whispered. “You should try it”

The younger smiled.

“I’m sure it does,” he coincided. “It feels really fucking nice to take care of you, though,” he claimed.

Jimin giggled at his choice of words, proceeding to play with Jungkook’s hair.

“But I mean, this does feel nice, too,” Jungkook admitted, nuzzling his head up into Jimin’s touch nearly subconsciously, the trace so gentle and careful, comforting Jungkook in a way he swore he had never experienced prior to Jimin before.

“I told you,” Jimin chuckled, giving a nod.

A few quiet moments passed, the silence among them allowing them to register the pitter-patter of the rain outside on the windows, the frequent lightning strikes and thunders slowing down to a few occasional ones.

“Jimin-ah, why did you ask me that?” Jungkook suddenly wanted to know, breaking the silence between them.

“Why did I ask you what?” Jimin wondered, puzzled as to what Jungkook was referring to.

“Whether I think you behave like a child sometimes?”
“Oh… I don’t know…” Jimin murmured, shrugging his shoulders. “It’s just that… I’m so scared, and you… you seem like you’re calm regardless of what’s going on around us”

Jungkook smiled, shaking his head. “I’m not,” he revealed. “I’m just as scared as you,” he whispered, his eyes falling back open, meeting Jimin’s gaze.

“Really?”

“Yeah,” Jungkook breathed. “I’m scared just thinking about what they want to do to you,” he added, Jimin’s gaze flickering back and forth between his eyes. “But I will give my life to keep you safe, little one,” he promised.

It might sound crazy, but… Jimin felt his heart vow the same thing.

Yes, he would do absolutely anything to protect Jungkook.

And maybe, that should scare him.

Yet, somehow, it didn’t.

The smaller boy leaned closer, his hand still entangled in Jungkook’s black curls, the boy pressing his lips to Jungkook’s cheek in a soft peck.

Carefully, Jungkook turned his face closer, his arm curling around Jimin’s delicate figure in order to pull the boy tighter. It was Jimin who captured Jungkook’s lips in a gentle kiss; swift and pure and gone as quick as it had appeared.

And maybe they were connected in a way neither of them quite frankly understood, causing them to gravitate right back to each other every single time, causing them to need one another as though they were the air to breathe, as though they would suffocate, if they were apart for too long.

Jimin managed to refrain from deepening the kiss, clearing his throat and creating some distance between him and Jungkook by rolling back over to his side of the bed. The younger male didn’t say anything, allowing Jimin to leave his grasp, albeit he couldn’t deny the way Jimin’s loss caused all the warmth around him to disappear.

“’m sorry,” Jimin murmured, his cheeks tinging a faint shade of rose.

“There is nothing you need to be sorry for, little one,” Jungkook reassured him with a soft smile.

Jimin did feel like there was.

After all, it really wasn’t kind nor fair for Jimin to tell Jungkook that he would need some space, and then go ahead and kiss the boy repeatedly. No, his behaviour was contradicting and certainly puzzling.

Maybe, the smartest idea was just to go to sleep immediately; in order to refrain from doing anything stupid; in order to impede his heart from proceeding to rule his decisions and actions as though he had lost the absolute control over any rational fragment within him.

“Well, then… good night, Kook-ah,” Jimin whispered, digging his teeth into his bottom lip as he turned over to face away from Jungkook.

The younger male blinked, slightly astonished by Jimin’s sudden change in demeanor.

“Good night, angel,” Jungkook whispered back, nonetheless, making sure that Jimin was tucked in, covered by the velvety blanket that engulfed him in warmth.

Jimin squeezed his eyes shut, his heart clenching at his own abrupt change of behaviour, and the notice of Jungkook’s clearly confused – and potentially hurt – reaction.

In a quick motion, Jungkook had switched the lights off, painting the room in a black scheme, any illumination around them having vanished.

The pink haired boy was drained, exhausted to the core of his very being, just wishing this never-ending day would do just that – finally end.

However, Jimin’s brain didn’t allow him to fall into a sweet haze of slumber, impeding him to have this day come to an end he was dreading on to. No, opposed to that, thoughts and fears were residing within him, a turmoil so loud inside of his head that made it impossible to find any peace.

“I don’t think I’ll be able to fall asleep tonight,” Jimin murmured into the dark after a few minutes, his eyes fluttering back open, met with pitch-black darkness that habited among them. “My brain won’t shut up,” Jimin whispered, not certain whether Jungkook was even still awake at this point.

In reality, Jungkook had never even shut his eyes, the urgency to assure himself of Jimin’s comfort too vast for him to fall asleep tonight, his gaze having been fixated on Jimin’s back all along, the latter completely unaware of that fact.

The black haired male adjusted his position, silent for a few more seconds, causing Jimin to assess that Jungkook was truly seized in a deep slumber.

“What helps you calm down?” Jungkook then spoke, his voice husky and quiet.

You, Jimin wanted to answer, but he remained mute.

The smaller one parted his lips, but pressed them shut a mere second later.

Slowly, Jimin rolled over to face Jungkook, somehow managing to distinguish his silhouette in the darkness; even capable to catch that familiar soft glint in his hazel eyes.

For a moment, they just stared at one another, neither of them blinking.

Then, carefully, Jungkook closed the distance between them, moving beneath the covers and curling his arm around Jimin’s body. For a split moment, Jimin froze, the slightest surge of hesitation blooming within him.

However, naturally, Jimin felt himself calm down, nuzzling his face against Jungkook’s chest, allowing the latter to pull him even tighter.

“Maybe, when we wake up tomorrow, all of this was just… a dream?” Jimin said softly.

Silence.

“…Maybe,” Jungkook then coincided quietly, pressing a kiss to the top of Jimin’s head.

For some stupid reason, Jimin found himself smile – delicately, but nonetheless.

Certainly, they had both acknowledged the harsh and horrifying reality, were aware that disregarding its existence was a silly notion. Yet, Jimin was grateful that Jungkook pretended that the thought of those terrifying circumstances being a dream could be plausible, that all of this might just be a nightmare they would wake up from tomorrow.
And in the end, they did fall asleep in the comfort of one another, their hearts beating to the same beat.

***

The pink haired boy awoke to a strong arm being curled around his waist, pressed tightly to a broad chest and inhaling the comforting scent of Jungkook; and he awoke to the soothing warmth that Jungkook radiated, awoke to the notion of this being his safe haven.

And for a moment, Jimin wished that he could pretend that there was nothing else but this, that everything would be fine and fixed, if they just stayed like this.

Yet, Jimin also awoke to the reality of last night having been vivid, of every word of Jungkook’s having been valid, and real and… as terrifying and absolutely heart wrenching as they could have been.

No, Jimin and Jungkook had not awoken from that nightmare, it was the dark reality.

The taller male shifted beside him, his grip around Jimin loosening.

“How did you sleep?” Jungkook inquired, his voice low and raspy.

Jimin lifted his head to meet Jungkook’s gaze.

“I had better nights,” he answered sincerely. “What about you?”

“I didn’t sleep much,” Jungkook revealed as he sat up on the bed, his touch leaving Jimin entirely. In the midst, the blanket slid down his body, exposing his bare chest and stomach, indicating that he had removed his hoodie during the night – potentially attributable to the high temperatures beneath the covers and the close proximity to Jimin’s warm body.

Inevitably, Jimin’s eyes rushed down to Jungkook’s bare skin, but he forced his gaze back up to Jungkook’s face, swallowing hard.

“So, we’re… What… should we…,” Jimin trailed off, raising his brows as he enumerated Jungkook’s action and sat up on the bed as well, rubbing his petite fists over his sleepy eyes.

“I need to talk to my father,” Jungkook said, rising to his feet and running his hand through his messy black locks. “I want to make sure that he won’t be stuck in any meetings, so I think it would be better to meet him before he leaves for work,” he reasoned.

“So, we should head to his home?” Jimin concluded, titling his head to the side, not certain whether Mr. Jeon would appreciate to see them this early, especially after what had happened yesterday at the gala.

Then again, Jimin also recalled Mr. Jeon’s preceding wish for Jungkook to visit him more often, enabling them to spend more time together aside from anything business related, like a true family.

Yet, their visit today wouldn’t exactly be anything at ease either.

“Yeah,” Jungkook affirmed, giving a nod as he headed towards the bathroom.

Jimin blinked.

“Ohay,” he spoke, crawling closer to the edge of the bed. “Uhm, can I take a shower before we leave?”
“Of course,” Jungkook responded, coming to a halt and turning back to face Jimin, leaning against the wall as he pointed towards the restroom. “Do you want to go first?”

“I can wait until you’ve finished,” Jimin declined, shaking his head.

The younger stared at him for a moment longer. It appeared as though Jungkook had deliberated whether or not to suggest another option, but he refrained, shaking his head at himself.

“Why don’t you pick out an outfit already?” Jungkook suggested instead, “Take whatever you need”

“Thank you,” Jimin responded, giving a nod as he rose to his feet as well.

They looked at one another.

“And… if you need anything, just come in,” Jungkook noted.

The smaller boy gave a gentle nod, relieved that Jungkook had already disappeared into the bathroom, impeding him to see the blush that tinged Jimin’s cheeks at his offer.

A few moments later, the sound of water running echoed in the room, Jimin’s cheeks flushing a darker shade of rose at the knowledge of Jungkook being entirely naked just a few feet away from him, wet and touching-

The pink haired one shook his head at himself, inhaling a deep breath as he headed towards the dresser to pick out an outfit. As he halted in front of the piece of furniture, he caught sight of his phone.

In a quick motion, he had closed his digits around it, unlocking the device to ascertain that he hadn’t received any messages or phone calls.

To his dismay, Taehyung hadn’t replied to any of his messages yet.

Maybe, he was still fast asleep?

Well, it was barely past six in the morning, so it wasn’t unlikely to imagine that being the narrative. Arguably, it was out of character for Taehyung to not reply to any of his messages, but if he was still fast asleep, how in the world was he supposed to respond?

Jimin decided to send him another message.

> Do you wanna meet up later?
> Maybe, after work?
> There is a lot we have to talk about!
> – Jimin

Pressing his lips into a line, Jimin locked his phone again and placed it down on his clothes from last night before he pulled the top drawer of the dresser open, rummaging through Jungkook’s clothes to decide on an outfit for the day.

Slowly, Jimin’s gaze trailed over to the side, noticing the piece of clothing that was lying on the floor beside his feet. The smaller boy realised that it was the hoodie Jungkook had worn last night, although he hadn’t been dressed in it for long.

Jimin squatted down to pick up the hoodie, the fabric extremely soft against his skin.

It smelled like Jungkook – in every good way.
Was it weird that he wanted to wear this, just because a part within him was begging him to, for a reason he didn’t understand, or perhaps even knew?

Maybe.

Yet, somehow, Jimin didn’t care.

After placing the hoodie down on the dresser, Jimin decided to match it with a pair of jeans. As he pulled on the fabric, a tiny item fell to the floor with a serene thud, potentially having been hidden somewhere between the textile.

Furrowing his brows, Jimin crouched down to the floor once more, closing his delicate hand around the equally as tiny item to pick it back up and return it to its designated spot.

It was a small black box, Jimin realised.

Slowly, Jimin straightened his back and tilted his head to the side, examining the item and turning it over in his palm a few times, somewhat fascinated by the size of the box. In a way, there wasn’t much that could actually fit inside of it.

All of a sudden, there was a deafening alarm echoing in the apartment, startling Jimin who lost his grasp around the little box, causing it to fall from his hand. Fortunately, it didn’t fall to the floor again, but slumped back into the drawer.

The piercing sound of the alarm was ringing in Jimin’s ears, causing the boy to bring his palms up to his ears as though it would silence the noise. As predicted, the sound didn’t hush entirely, yet the act did make it less strident and painful.

Carefully, Jimin headed towards the restroom, then hurrying inside, but crashing into a broad, moist chest on his way in. At their collision, Jimin tumbled backwards with a groan, nearly dropping to the floor. However, fortunately, Jungkook was quick to wrap his arms around Jimin’s waist, securing the boy in his grasp.

Shocked, Jimin lifted his head, staring into Jungkook’s brown orbs that were equally as blown wide as his own at the deafening alarm that was resounding in the apartment. Due to the noise of the alarm, Jimin hadn’t noticed that the water had stopped running long ago, implying that Jungkook had left the shower.

“Angel, are you okay?” Jungkook inquired.

“What is this?” Jimin called out over the alarm.

“Did you cook anything?” the black haired male wanted to know, rushing outside of the bedroom and checking the other room before he headed to the staircase at the end of the hall.

“No, why?”

“It’s the fire alarm,” Jungkook stated as he ran down the stairs.

You see, in movies, Jimin had always wondered how it was possible for a towel to remain around the body of the protagonist whenever they were running around. In a way, Jimin had always believed that they were glued to the body of the actors in some way.

Yet, here Jungkook was, the living proof of how it was actually achievable.
The black towel was curled around his waist, the only fabric that veiled an area of his wet body, but it didn’t budge at all.

“Why did it go off?” Jimin wanted to know, following Jungkook down into the kitchen.

There was no smoke either.

“I don’t know,” Jungkook replied with furrowed brows, picking up the landline to call someone.

Nervously, Jimin remained by his side, studying Jungkook’s features in interest.

“Hey, Han, can you turn that fucking sound off, please?” was the first thing Jungkook requested as someone appeared to having picked up on the other side of the line. “There is no fire, no,” he affirmed.

A few moments later, the piercing sound of the alarm was gone.

Ah, how peaceful.

However, Jimin’s ears were still ringing, having to accustom to the sudden silence surrounding them.

“False alarm?” Jungkook proceeded. “What do you mean? How is that possible?”

Certainly, a false alarm could have many reasons… right?

“I’ll be leaving soon, but Joon will accompany you,” Jungkook continued. “Yes, please check the whole system,” he added. “Thank you, Han”

Then, he ended the call, placing the device down on the kitchen island.

“Is everything okay?” Jimin asked softly, observing Jungkook wipe his palm over his face.

“Well, the fire alarm in my apartment went off, as you heard, although there isn’t any fire nor smoke,” Jungkook explained, despite that fact being apparent to Jimin already. “Han is an engineer and in charge of any technology in the building,” he elaborated. “He explained that the smoke detectors can go off because of a few different reasons, sending out a false alarm; like a malfunction, or excessive dust”

“Oh,” Jimin uttered out, giving a nod.

“He’ll be checking them out later and fix them,” Jungkook stated.

“That’s good,” Jimin noted, relieved that no fire had ignited in the building and was now posing a threat to their homes and lives.

After all, they had enough going on already.

The two boys stared at one another.

Now that they weren’t distracted by the deafening alarm any longer, Jimin allowed himself to study Jungkook’s appearance, hardly managing to refrain from gazing at Jungkook’s moist body that was lightly covered by a towel.

What caught his attention, however, was his black hair that was coated in shampoo, adorning his appearance in a way that caused him to appear so much cuter. The endearing sight of Jungkook’s black hair grazed in a white layer sticking up to either side evoke a giggle in Jimin.
“What?” Jungkook wanted to, raising his brows.

The pink haired one hid his mouth behind his sweater paw, shaking his head.

“What are you laughing?” Jungkook asked, furrowing his brows now, although there was a smile that embellished his handsome features at the sound of Jimin’s giggles.

“You still have shampoo in your hair,” Jimin explained, realising that it wasn’t actually that funny, but… Jungkook wasn’t seeing himself!

“Oh, you think that’s funny?” Jungkook said, tilting his head to the side, his smile growing.

“Yes,” Jimin giggled, giving a nod.

“I left the shower as fast as I could because I thought you were in danger,” Jungkook reasoned.

“My hero,” Jimin whispered, his eyes gleaming in amusement.

Jungkook raised his brows.

“Fuck, you enjoy making fun of me?”

“No, why would I?” Jimin protested innocently, shaking his head with big eyes.

“Mhm,” Jungkook hummed, approaching the smaller boy with slow steps. “You wouldn’t, hm?” he echoed as he had eliminated the distance between them, the close proximity to Jungkook causing Jimin to be bashful.

Nervously, Jimin took another step back, crashing into the wall behind him.

For a moment, they just stared at one another.

“You wouldn’t?” Jungkook reiterated, reaching out to brush Jimin’s fringe out of his face, the latter responding to the gentle touch by nuzzling up into the touch. “Because you’re my good boy, aren’t you?” he teased, his voice a low hush just between them.

Abort!

Naturally, Jimin averted his gaze, too nervous because of the intent glint in Jungkook’s eyes, because of that familiar softness that lured him in – and, certainly, because of those suggestive words uttered in that low tone Jungkook just knew affected Jimin.

Clearing his throat, Jimin slid out of Jungkook’s grasp, Jungkook the one to chuckle now as he was satisfied with Jimin’s response.

“W-We… shower,” Jimin stammered, his cheeks flushing a shade of rose as he realised that he was speaking absolute nonsense.

Hello, brain, do you still... you know, like, function? Could you please stop embarrassing me for once? I would appreciate that. Thank you very much. – Yours sincerely, Jimin.

Honestly, why did Jungkook possess the ability to have Jimin’s brain lose any capability to form a coherent sentence? That was so unfair!

“I mean… we should get ready,” Jimin corrected, pressing his eyes shut.
Jungkook chuckled, amused by Jimin’s timidity.

“I’ll just finish, yeah?” Jungkook noted, deciding not to tease Jimin any further, but let the poor boy breathe and recollect himself. “Then you are free to take a shower.”

“Okay,” Jimin murmured, giving a nod and following after Jungkook who was heading back upstairs into the bedroom in order to finish his shower.

As the two of them entered the bedroom, Jimin recalled Jungkook’s earlier remark.

“Hey, why did you ask me whether I had cooked after the alarm had gone off?” Jimin wanted to know, tilting his head to the side.

The black haired male stole a glimpse at him, only smirking.

“Oh, never mind,” Jungkook said, shaking his head.

“Hey, what does that mean?” Jimin whined, watching Jungkook rush into the restroom with a laugh, the sound evoking a surge of warmth within Jimin’s chest.

In the midst of everything right now, it was nice to share a lighthearted moment such as this one.

Soon enough, they were both showered and dressed, Jimin tugging the hoodie over his head at last before he left the restroom and entered the bedroom where Jungkook was awaiting him already.

Jungkook was just finishing making the bed, stealing a glimpse at Jimin before he diverted his gaze down to the pillow in his hands.

However, quickly, Jungkook glanced at Jimin again.

“Didn’t I wear that last night?” Jungkook wondered, inclining his head to the side as he examined the hoodie veiling Jimin’s body, pretty certain that he had worn that exact hoodie the preceding night.

“Yeah,” Jimin uttered softly, a faint shade of rose tinging his cheeks.

The black haired male only smiled, not commenting on it any further.

“Are you ready to leave then?”

“Yes,” Jimin said, giving a nod.

“Let’s go, then”

***

“Jungkook-ah! Jimin-ah!” Jiyoo exclaimed with a shriek of delight, the frequency of her voice close to one that neither of them was capable to register – but somehow, they did. The woman rushed over to their side with spread arms, her vibrant excitement visible. “How lovely to see you!” she beamed, waving them in. “I just prepared breakfast, come on in”

The two boys exchanged a glance.

“We’re not hungry, Jiyoo-ssi, thank-”

Jiyoo scowled at Jungkook, smacking his arm, the action causing the latter to go silent. “Not hungry?” she echoed. “Breakfast is the most important meal of the day, Bunny! Are you going to let Jimin starve? You two are going to eat! I don’t accept any no,” she scolded them.

“Jiyoo-ssi, I’m just here to talk to my father,” Jungkook explained. “It’s important,” he stressed.

“Well, any conversation can wait, but your breakfast can’t,” Jiyoo objected, shaking her head. “Besides, your father isn’t down here anyway, so come on,” she urged them.

The older woman curled her hand around Jimin’s wrist, tugging the boy over into the kitchen. Helplessly, Jimin stole a glimpse back at Jungkook, the latter sighing, but smiling as he followed after them.

“Have a seat, children,” Jiyoo chimed. “I made enough for you to have some as well, don’t you worry,” she reassured them. “Today, I made a western inspired breakfast,” she revealed. “Pancakes, waffles, French toast, scrambled eggs, bacon, fruit, coffee, tea, orange juice, but I can get any other drink you prefer to have,” she listed.

The variation of food that was displayed on the dining table was enough to feed a whole of two or three larger families. Despite it not being any of Jimin’s business, he found himself wonder why Jiyoo prepared such a huge breakfast solely for Mr. Jeon.

Was she expecting anyone else? Was she hoping for Jungkook to join them every single day? What happened to the remainder of the food? There was no way Mr. Jeon devoured all of this on his own, was it?

“Do you want anything else? I’m sure I could make it for you,” Jiyoo offered.

The two boys shook their heads. “No, Jiyoo-ssi, this is more than enough, thank you,” Jungkook declined with an appreciative smile.

Jiyoo returned the smile, addressing Jimin, “What would you like to drink, sweet Jimin-ssi?” she wanted to know, patting his head.

“I… I think some orange juice, please,” Jimin responded, not quite having fathomed that they were going to have breakfast now as though everything was fine, despite them coming here for a completely unrelated and quite frankly more urgent matter.

“Of course,” Jiyoo beamed, giving a nod as she picked up the bottle and filled Jimin’s glass with orange juice. “There you go, love”

“Thank you,” Jimin smiled, attaining the glass of orange juice from her before he brought it up to his lips to take a sip.

“What about you, Bunny?” the woman then wanted to know, causing Jimin to nearly choke on his juice as he found himself giggle at the endearing pet name.

The black haired male pressed his eyes shut. “Jiyoo-ssi, we talked about that,” Jungkook spoke quietly.

“Right,” she gasped, her hand flying up to her mouth. “Jungkook-ah, what would you like to drink?” she corrected.

“I’ve got it, Jiyoo-ssi, thank you,” Jungkook noted.
“Of course,” she retorted, giving a nod as she caressed Jungkook’s cheek. “I’m so happy that you two are here,” she added.

“It’s nice to see you, too, Noona,” Jungkook asserted, flashing her a sweet smile.

“Well, you two enjoy your food while I clean up in the kitchen,” Jiyoo decided, heading over into the kitchen. “In case you need anything, just call for me,” she added before she disappeared.

The black haired male stared at Jimin, the latter’s gaze trailing over the food on the table.

“Go ahead,” Jungkook insisted with a smile.

Jimin lifted his head to meet his gaze.

“That’s a lot of food just for your father, isn’t it?” Jimin noted, titling his head to the side as he reached for a French toast, placing it down on his plate.

“It… is, yeah,” Jungkook coincided with a sigh, scratching over the back of his head. “I think it’s just a habit of Jiyoo to prepare that much?” he stated. “Usually, we had huge breakfasts when I was younger; and one day my father preferred to eat one thing and on the next something else, so Jiyoo just tends to prepare a lot to have everything covered,” he explained.

The smaller one gave a nod. “I see,” he murmured, not exactly capable to relate to a memory such as that one, remembering days where his father would simply forget – or maybe not care enough – to even prepare any breakfast for Jimin at all, causing the poor boy to go to school hungry.

“We can take something home, if you want to, so we know that it won’t be wasted,” Jungkook suggested as he raised his brows, drawing Jimin out of his thoughts.

Home.

There it was, again.

Jimin didn’t know what to respond, so he just took a bite from his French toast, a few crumbs falling down on the plate in front of him, Jimin chewing on the crunchy substance.

In the meanwhile, Jungkook had decided to eat a banana, potentially not that hungry. Quite frankly, Jimin wasn’t exactly hungry either, his vast nervousness presumably impeding him to currently feel such humane phenomenon.

“Have you decided on what to say to your father?” Jimin found himself wonder, tilting his head to the side as he observed Jungkook take a bite from the banana.

“Well, I-”

Suddenly, another figure walked into the dining room, causing Jungkook to go silent.

“Jungkook-ssi, I was going to meet you at the company; what a nice surprise to see you and Jimin here,” Mr. Jeon greeted them, his digits fumbling with the tie around his collar. “There are a few things we have to discuss,” he expressed as he took a seat at the table, picking up a few grapes that he tossed into his mouth before he picked up the newspaper that Jiyoo had deposited there for him, his attention visibly not that fixated on Jungkook.

Carefully, Jimin lowered his glass down on the table, placing his delicate hands in his lap.

“We have to talk about last night,” he spoke, looking up from his newspaper as Jiyoo rushed to his side to fill his mug with black coffee. “Thank you, Jiyoo-ssi,” he addressed her, then trailing his gaze back over to his newspaper. “I managed to fix the situation with Seo, but this cannot happen again, got it?” he scolded Jungkook as he raised his mug up to his lips to take his first daily doses of caffeine. “I can understand that you wanted to protect Jimin, but you can’t just go around-”

“Yes, Appa, I don’t want to hear that shit right now,” Jungkook interrupted his father.

Mr. Jeon lifted his head; raising his brows at Jungkook’s interruption while he lowered his mug back down on the table. “Excuse me?”

Jimin swallowed hard.

“I’m sorry, but there are more important things to discuss right now,” the younger male apologised for his disrespectful behaviour. “It’s urgent”

Slowly, Jungkook’s father folded the newspaper, placing it down on the dining table as he tilted his head to the side. “And what could be more urgent than you venturing to have Seo press legal charges against you?”

“Did you work with Baek again?” Jungkook wanted to know, not sugar coating this subject in the slightest, but crashing right into this matter like a train at full speed. Then again, had Jimin truly expected anything else from Jungkook? “If you did, you need to cut any ties to him”

Mr. Jeon parted his lips, clearly shocked by Jungkook’s question.

“Jungkook-ah-” he spoke, but turned to face Jimin instead with a wave of his hand. “Jimin-ssi, would you mind leaving us alone”

The smaller boy insinuated to rise to his feet in order to oblige, but Jungkook placed his hand on Jimin’s thigh, giving it a tender squeeze. “Jimin knows already,” Jungkook interfered again. “He stays,” he decided.

Allegedly, Mr. Jeon was not fond of that news.

“Jungkook-ah, this is confidential information you are not allowed to share with-” he intended to scold Jungkook for exposing secretive data and facts about their company, albeit it was solely Jimin who he had declared them to.

“Fuck, Appa, none of that fucking shit is important right now!” Jungkook snapped, startling Jimin and causing the latter to flinch beside him at the volume of his voice.

The younger male appeared to notice, his palm that was still resting on Jimin’s thigh caressing him as though he meant to nonverbally apologise and comfort Jimin for raising his voice.

For a moment, it was silent; almost dangerously.

Was Mr. Jeon going to yell at Jungkook now for disrespecting him?

Jungkook’s father simply stared at Jungkook, then diverting his gaze towards Jiyoo who was standing in the doorway, having appeared upon hearing Jungkook scream at his father.

“Jiyoo-ssi,” Mr. Jeon addressed her.

“Yes?” she said.

“Would you be so kind and change the sheets upstairs?” he requested. “I spilled some coffee over them earlier,” he stated, causing Jimin to wonder whether that was a valid fact or a bluff to have Jiyoo leave the floor for them to have a private conversation – maybe it was a secretive code between them.

“Of course,” Jiyoo responded, executing a slight bow, not scrutinizing the order she had received.
Then again, she was probably obligated to follow any command she obtained from Mr. Jeon without questioning them.

With that, Jiyoo left and headed upstairs, leaving Mr. Jeon, Jungkook and Jimin to themselves.

As soon as she was gone, Mr. Jeon cleared his throat.

“Appa, you need to cut your ties to Baek,” Jungkook emphasised again.

“Son, don’t be ridiculous,” his father snorted, shaking his head at what he appeared to view as an absurd idea – because, why would he cut his ties to the mafia? At any rate, wasn’t it such a wonderful and enviable thing to be connected to the fucking mafia?

Yeah, sure, fuck that, Jungkook was not having this.

“I’m fucking serious, Appa,” Jungkook stressed.

“Jungkook-ah, you know-”

“If you don’t cut your ties to Baek, I’m going to fucking leave the company and make all of your shady shit public,” Jungkook threatened, his eyes narrowed and dark, his words poisonous.

The pink haired boy stopped breathing.

“Kook-ah,” Jimin breathed out.

“You wouldn’t dare,” Mr. Jeon whispered, just as bewildered by the sudden threat as Jimin was.

By no means, Jungkook couldn’t be sincere in that threat, could he? Would he truly not only loom to leave his family’s empire behind, but assure that they would be ruined by publicly proclaiming his father’s ties to the mafia? There was no way… was there?

Surely, Jungkook was only venturing this threat to render his father to cut his ties to Baek.

“Try me;” Jungkook challenged, a daring glint gleaming in his eyes.

Mr. Jeon blinked.

“How dare you talk to your father like that?” his father spoke, raising the volume of his voice, clearly fed up with Jungkook’s behaviour.

“I’m done with this shit, Appa,” Jungkook responded, not finding any care in his very being to change his diction to a more respectful and less curse-filled one. “I have been done with it from the get-go,” he added. “For years you’ve pulled me into your shit not giving a damn about how I feel”

Mr. Jeon shook his head, pain flashing in his eyes upon that accusation. “That’s not true, you know that,” he objected, his voice softer, Jimin reminded of a preceding conversation of theirs during which Mr. Jeon had expressed his desire to reconnect with Jungkook as they had been drawn apart over the years.

Arguably, in his fervent will to establish this powerful empire, and the traumatic experience of losing his wife, Mr. Jeon might have struggled to pay enough attention to Jungkook, might have writhed to take Jungkook’s feelings into account.

Regardless of how one perceived Mr. Jeon’s parenting skills to be, wasn’t it considerable to see that he was trying – trying to maintain a close relationship, trying to be even closer to Jungkook than he has been before?

“Mom begged you to stop,” the younger boy declared, his words piercing through Mr. Jeon’s heart like an arrow, but through Jimin’s just as much.

“Don’t talk about her,” Mr. Jeon warned him with a thin voice, pointing his index finger at Jungkook.

“Why not? We both know how much she hated you for doing that shit-” Jungkook scowled.

“Shut up!” Mr. Jeon yelled, rising to his feet as he slammed his palms on the table, the loud thud echoing in the room.

At the sound, Jimin flinched.

“I never wanted any of you to get hurt,” Jungkook’s father reasoned, his palms still placed on the table, his head hanging low.

For some reason, a surge of pity and guilt bloomed within Jimin at the sight of Mr. Jeon who was visibly hurting by Jungkook’s words, the older man raising his voice and using any physical reaction as a defence mechanism.

“This is strictly business related and you know that we’re safe,” his father claimed, meeting Jungkook’s gaze again. “They would never hurt you, son,” he reassured him, his tone gentle.

“They found a fucking loophole, Appa,” Jungkook revealed.

“That is?”

“Jimin,” the black haired male uttered.

Mr. Jeon’s gaze flickered over to Jimin, then back to Jungkook.

“What do you mean?” he wanted to know, knitting his brows.

“They threatened to hurt him,” Jungkook expressed.

“What?” Mr. Jeon asked, a singe of shock depicted on his face. “Elaborate”

“For a while, someone has been sending me pictures of Jimin, clearly following him and potentially threatening to hurt Jimin, if they get their hands on him,” he explained, pointing at the smaller boy beside him who has been extremely quiet for the past minutes, almost as though he lacked the ability to talk, perhaps having lost his voice entirely. “I don’t know who it is, but I’m certain that Baek is involved in it somehow and that he wants to hurt Jimin’

“Why didn’t you say anything, Jungkook-ah?”

“They fucking followed me and Jimin to the cabin, Appa,” Jungkook went on, opposed to answering him. “Now, it’s Baek who is threatening to hurt Jimin. I’m sure he’s doing this as a payback for what you did; because they can’t hurt you or me, they are after him”
“I told you to stay away from Baek,” Mr. Jeon scolded him, like that was a valid response, like that truly mattered right now in the midst of everything.

“Fuck, Appa, that’s not the fucking point,” Jungkook growled in annoyance.

“Stop cursing,” his father demanded.

Irritated by Mr. Jeon’s refusal to apprehend where the real issue laid, Jungkook slammed his fist on the table as he rose to his feet. “Goddammit, what the fuck did you do, Appa?” he yelled. “Tell me what you did! You crossed Baek, didn’t you?”

“I’m not going to discuss-”

“Appa,” Jungkook pressed through gritted teeth.

For a moment, Mr. Jeon just stared at him.

“Just pay him,” Jungkook demanded harshly, when he didn’t receive a response.

“Jungkook-ssi, this is my business with Baek,” his father emphasised, shaking his head, "Regardless of what happened between me and Baek, I’m not going to have you give me orders, understood?"

Then, it was true?

It might be Mr. Jeon that was the reason Baek was after them?

“So, you’re just going to risk Jimin’s life?” the younger concluded, glaring at the other man.

“They won’t touch him,” Mr. Jeon assured him, as if he possessed almighty knowledge regarding this matter that they were unaware of, as if he could promise them definitively that Baek wouldn’t dare to hurt him. "Trust me"

Was this actually a narrative Mr. Jeon believed in, or were these empty words he proclaimed to calm Jungkook down?

Suddenly, Jungkook walked up to his father. “How do you know?” he asked, coming to a halt right in front of the older man. “How do you know they won’t hurt him like they hurt Eomma?”

At his words, Jimin’s heart dropped.

What? They had… they had hurt Jungkook’s mother, too?

No. No, please tell him that Jungkook was wrong; that he was lying; anything.

“They never touched your mother!” Mr. Jeon yelled, shaking his head, visibly irritated by that mere notion.

“That’s what you keep telling yourself, but you know those bastards that raped her worked for him,” Jungkook accused, his voice sounding so much calmer, but also vicious, in comparison to his father’s. “We both know,” he spoke, “When are you going to finally admit that to yourself?”

The smaller boy was devastated.

Jungkook believed that Baek’s men had raped and murdered his mother?

Mr. Jeon’s gaze flickered back and forth between Jungkook’s eyes. “Baek promised me,” he spoke quietly, Jimin barely capable to register his words, causing him to wonder whether Mr. Jeon was trying to convince himself of the authenticity of those words more than anyone else. “He promised that they never worked for him”

“What’s his word worth in this world, Appa?” Jungkook noted, having reached a point in his life where Baek’s word had lost any significance; any statement could very well be made by any other stranger, Jungkook would hold their words to the same amount of veracity as Baek’s.

“Baek has never gone back on his word,” Mr. Jeon guaranteed him, or maybe himself. “I know, he’s involved in illegal work, but he is a loyal businessman,” he emphasised.

How odd, Jimin thought, to call the head of the mafia loyal.

“I don’t fucking trust him at this point,” Jungkook belted out, hitting his flat palm against the wall beside his father. “They’re going to hurt Jimin. They’ve been following him for weeks! Weeks! They keep threaten—”

Mr. Jeon averted his gaze at those words.

“That’s my fault,” his father then whispered, interrupting Jungkook.

What?

“What is your fault?” Jungkook inquired, furrowing his brows, visibly puzzled by his father’s interruption, or perhaps choosing to disregard what his heart assumed his words implied.

“Back then… you wanted out of the contract with Seoyun so badly for a boy I didn’t know anything about,” his father uttered.

“You knew that I loved him,” Jungkook expressed.

“I didn’t know who he was, what his roots were nor how trustworthy he is for our company,” Mr. Jeon added, shaking his head.

“So, what, you fucking asked Baek’s men to spy on—” Jungkook went silent as something clicked within him, his eyes growing wide. “You didn’t,” he breathed out in disbelief, “Tell me you fucking didn’t”

“I didn’t believe that they would use it against us,” Mr. Jeon justified quietly.

Jimin swore he was going to throw up, biting back a gasp. In fact, the pink haired boy had completely frozen, shaken up to the core of his very being.

This couldn’t be true…

Certainly, his ears were deceiving him, weren’t they?

Please. Please, tell him that Mr. Jeon was not the one who had asked the mafia to spy on him.

“Oh my fucking- Appa, you’re fucking crazy!” Jungkook yelled out, sliding his hand through his black locks and tugging on them in a frustrated manner, perhaps as a way to redirect his anger in order to refrain from hurting anything or anyone else.

“You have to understand that I have to protect my family and this company,” his father reasoned.

“So, what, you can screw up someone else’s life?” Jungkook concluded, pointing back at Jimin, his father following his direction to meet Jimin’s gaze. However, he diverted his eyes upon noticing the absolute horror in Jimin’s eyes.

“I ordered them to stay away from him,” Mr. Jeon said. “My order was to receive information”

“I can’t believe you fucking did that!” Jungkook belted out.

“You have to understand-”

“No!” Jungkook interrupted him, shaking his head, clearly not interested in allowing his father to justify his actions. “There is nothing for me to understand! That’s fucked up! If you wanted to get to know him, ask me, ask him, don’t send the fucking mafia after him!”

“All this time, you pretended to be unaware of who he was, pretended to be curious to learn more about him and his past, when you already knew all that shit from Baek,” he went on, disregarding any of his father’s words.

Similarly, Jimin recalled each incident when Mr. Jeon had displayed what had appeared to be valid interest in Jimin’s past, appeared to be genuinely inquisitive to learn more about him and his family, asking him questions that inevitably twisted a knife through his heart – which he had known they would.

All that time, he had known who Jimin was all along, had been aware of how vulnerable and scarred he was because of his past. Nonetheless, he had pretended to care, pretended to lack any knowledge about Jimin.

Mr. Jeon had perfected a mask, had managed to maintain a feigned demeanor without anyone noticing – not even his own son.

Yet, that didn’t… it didn’t insinuate that he didn’t care about Jimin at all, did it?

“I… I didn’t want you to find out,” Mr. Jeon spoke quietly.

“No, of course, not,” Jungkook mocked.

“Let’s talk about this later, son,” his father begged. “We need to find a solution now,” he stressed. “So, you believe Baek is threatening Jimin now because of my business with him? Are you sure it’s Baek?”

The younger male hesitated, seemingly deliberating whether he was content with dropping the subject of his father asking the mafia to spy on Jimin, but then deciding that Jimin’s safety was the most significant issue right now.

“Yes, I am,” Jungkook affirmed with a nod.

“Were you polite?” Mr. Jeon suddenly inquired.

“What?” Jungkook expressed, furrowing his brows at the vague question.

“Whenever you were in contact with him, were you polite?” Mr. Jeon elucidated, despite this topic being rather unrelated to the current matter and certainly not diminishing Jungkook’s confusion to the question. “Baek is not a fan of bad mannerism, so you behaving rude might have caused him-”

“So just because I don’t suck his dick like all of his men do, he has the privilege to threaten to hurt or rape my boyfriend? Makes perfect fucking sense, Appa, why didn’t I think of that before?”

Jungkook commented with a humourless laugh, shaking his head at the absurdity, but then undoubtedly venting out all of his pent up anger at his father for his act of betrayal simultaneously.

“In this industry, nothing really makes sense,” Mr. Jeon remarked. “We use dirty tricks to get what we want,” he added, maybe partially revealing a portion of truth about himself as well. “Baek is just trying to get us to oblige. They would never actually touch Jimin,” he claimed.

“I want them to leave Jimin out of this,” Jungkook emphasised through gritted teeth.

“They won’t hurt him, son,” Mr. Jeon stressed again, lifting his hand as though to calm Jungkook.

“He’s not part of the agreement,” Jungkook reiterated, frustrated by the notion of his own fucking father visibly lacking the ability to fathom how damn serious this was; or perhaps not caring enough to lose his fucking mind the way Jungkook was. “You know that. You know damn well that it’s only protecting our asses”

“I’ve been speaking to my own men yesterday,” Mr. Jeon informed them. “They know where he is,” he added as he fixed his tie. “Baek is in Busan, has been for the past week”

“Of course, he wouldn’t turn up at the cabin by himself, but have his men do the dirty work,” Jungkook commented beneath his breath.

“Baek is not here,” his father accentuated again. “Jimin is safe here in Seoul”

“For how long?” Jungkook wanted to know. “You know they will find him. You know Baek will come here to get whatever you owe him or his revenge”

Jimin swallowed hard, wondering whether the other two had omitted his presence altogether as they were speaking about him, rather than addressing him in their conversation.

“That’s what we have our security for. We just have to lay low until the situation dies down by itself,” Mr. Jeon suggested calmly. “Just don’t contact them and stop provoking them,” he urged, a scolding glint gleaming in his eyes as he looked at Jungkook – as if it was his fault. “I’ll talk to them and see what we can negotiate, and then we’ll just have to wait for it to die down”

“Great solution,” Jungkook responded, irony dripping from his tone.

“Jungkook-ah”

“Just- end this fucking thing, Appa. I wasn’t bluffing about going public,” Jungkook asserted again, clenching his fists as he moved his face closer to his father’s. “If Jimin gets hurt because of you, I’ll- I swear, I’ll fucking-” Jungkook threatened, his tone low and intimidating.

“Kook-ah,” Jimin finally breathed out and rose to his feet, causing the younger male to go silent.

Mr. Jeon gulped.

The black haired boy pushed his tongue into his cheek, cursing beneath his breath as he took a step back and stormed out of the room.

In a swift motion, Jimin had walked around the table, intending to rush after Jungkook.

“Jimin-ssi, please, I-” he trailed off, his voice causing Jimin to still entirely.

“I-I don’t know what to say, Mr. Jeon,” Jimin whispered, honestly too overwhelmed by the entire situation that had unfolded over the past fifty-six hours. How was one supposed to bear all of this?

“I did it to protect my family, I hope you can understand that,” Mr. Jeon defended his act of asking the mafia to retrieve personal information on Jimin and his past. “I never meant for you to be in danger,” he asserted.

“I… I believe you, Mr. Jeon,” Jimin found himself utter, facing the man. “I think, right now, we have to stick together to make sure that we all stay safe,” he decided, certain that distancing himself from the Jeon’s wasn’t any effective move either; certain that in a way, he had no one else to rely on regarding this matter – above all, he indubitably didn’t want to permanently part from Jungkook.

“Yeah,” Mr. Jeon agreed with a nod. “Thank you, son.”

Jimin remained mute, disregarding the endearing term altogether as he averted his gaze before he ran after Jungkook in hopes of calming the boy down.

However, although Jimin had believed he would only manage to catch up with Jungkook downstairs in the lobby, he was surprised to meet him up in the living room of the apartment, the boy apparently not having gone far.

“Kook-ah!” Jimin exclaimed.

“My own fucking father,” Jungkook breathed out, shaking his head as he turned around at the familiar voice of Jimin.

“My own fucking father asked the fucking mafia to fucking spy on you!” Jungkook belted out, a humourless laugh slipping past his lips as he wiped his hand over his face.

“Sssh, hey, Jungkook-ah, calm down,” Jimin whispered – not sure why he was consciously talking in such a quiet and hushed tone as though he was scared anyone else could hear them; yet then equally as indecisive why he wasn’t freaking out about all of this the way Jungkook was – as he placed his palms against Jungkook’s cheeks. “Look at me,” he begged.

“I can’t believe he would do that- No, fuck that, I can,” Jungkook corrected himself, ignoring Jimin’s touch on his skin, too deeply seized in his profound rage. “I knew he would stoop that low to protect the fucking company.”

The black haired male was tensed, visibly fuming and pissed at his father’s behaviour – allowing him to voice any cruel notion about his father’s intentions and ambitions that resided within him. Jimin, however, was certain that deep within, those were words spat in anger, but not any thoughts Jungkook truly, authentically latched onto or believed in by even the slightest fragment.

“Jungkook-ah, he just wanted to protect you,” Jimin reasoned, his voice so much softer and quieter than Jungkook’s.

“Are you justifying his actions now?” Jungkook wanted to know, frowning at Jimin, finally meeting his eyes again. “He didn’t do that to protect his family, but his company. If he really cared about me, he would have never sent the mafia after the only person I love on this fucking planet,” he ranted, shaking his head as he pointed towards the kitchen where his father was located, Jimin’s heart skipping a beat at Jungkook’s words – him, the only person he loved on the entire planet. “How could he do that to such an innocent person like you? What did he think he would find?”

“Jungkook-ah,” Jimin spoke softly, discovering a surge within him that urged him to protect Jungkook’s father; perhaps too afraid that he would be the reason that would pull Jungkook and his father further apart again, especially after they had worked so hard on rebuilding their relationship. “Your father does care for you; we both know that,” he dared to say, wondering whether it was even appropriate for him to state these claims. “Yes, you knew me, but your father didn’t. Sometimes, we make stupid decisions. I think in his fervent will to protect you and the company, he made a choice that—”

“A choice that could make me lose you,” Jungkook interrupted, the one to place his hand on Jimin’s cheek this time, like he feared Jimin would disappear, if he were not touching him.

“You said we would find a way, hm?” Jimin reminded him with a shy smile. “We will find a way, Kook-ah, but you screaming at your father like this won’t get us anywhere,” he tried to make him understand.

Admittedly, Jimin could more than empathise with Jungkook’s fury at his own father, but right now they needed to find a solution to keep all of them safe, and screaming at one another definitely won’t be beneficial in that challenge.

“What’s going on down here? Is there a fucking war going on, or what?” a female voice suddenly ventured, her figure having appeared on the top of the stairs.

The two boys turned to face the source of the voice.

“Minji?” Jimin and Jungkook uttered out in unison, both equally astonished to encounter her here, yet all the more by her light appearance. The woman was only dressed in a white robe, implying that she might have stayed here the past night, then indicating that she might have…

“What the fuck are you doing here?” Jungkook called out with knitted brows.

“I should ask you that question,” Minji challenged, crossing her arms in front of her chest. “It’s not even eight and you’re out here screaming around like a maniac,” she complained as she walked down the remainder of the staircase. “Thank you for waking me from my beauty sleep,” she huffed.

Jungkook blinked.

The pink haired boy could practically see how his brain was racing, slowly connecting all the dots that would paint the bigger picture.

And then, it finally clicked.

“You’re fucking my father,” Jungkook breathed out.

Now, Jungkook was voicing what a slim part within Jimin had presumed for weeks.

“What?” Minji asked, her eyes going bigger as she almost choked on air.

“You’re fucking my father,” Jungkook reiterated as he shook his head, the volume of his voice louder. “I can’t believe—”

Suddenly, another figure appeared in the living room.

Mr. Jeon himself.

Well, this really couldn’t go any worse, could it?

“You’re fucking your assistant?” Jungkook belted out, turning to face his father who came to a halt upon the accusation.

Mr. Jeon’s eyes grew bigger, his gaze flickering from Jungkook to Minji and back to Jungkook.

“Jungkook-ah, stop with those obscenities,” his father scolded him for his choice of words, scowling as he stepped closer.

“Tell me this is a fucking dream,” Jungkook demanded.

“You’re in a relationship with our assistant choreographer, Jungkook-ah,” Mr. Jeon reminded him, disregarding his command altogether and essentially confirming Jungkook’s assessment by not denying it.

“That’s not the- How is that the same?” Jungkook wanted to know. “I’ve been with Jimin long before he ever joined the fucking company! You’re not only fucking your assistant that’s twenty-five years younger than you, but- Oh my god, she fucking sucked my dick before, Appa!” he yelled out.

Suddenly, Jiyoo appeared on the staircase as well, her arms curled around a fresh pair of sheets, the woman visibly flabbergasted by the scene occurring downstairs, probably alarmed by the loud voice of Jungkook.

“Jungkook-ah!” Minji exclaimed at Jungkook’s statement.

“What? Didn’t you tell him?” Jungkook inquired, stealing a glimpse at her. “Yes, she wanted to suck my dick so bad, but because I didn’t want her, she is now bouncing on my own fucking father’s dick,” he sneered, laughing at the absurdity of the entire situation. “How long has that been going on for? This is a fucking joke, right?”

“Jungkook-ah,” Jimin whispered, curling his hand around Jungkook’s wrist. “You’re being mean,” he added, feeling apologetic for Minji and Mr. Jeon, albeit he could sympathise with Jungkook feeling appalled by this entire situation.

The younger male turned to face him.

“No, this is fucking insane, Jimin-ah,” Jungkook expressed, his voice full of poison, both aware that it wasn’t directed at Jimin, but painful all the same.

“Jungkook-ah, look at me,” Jimin spoke gently, closing his arms around Jungkook’s neck to ensure that he wouldn’t look at anything else, but him. “You’re very angry right now because of what your father did to me and because you just found out that… well that-”

“My father is fucking Minji,” Jungkook finished for him, disregarding that Minji and his father were standing just a few feet beside them.

“I understand that you don’t like that, I understand that you’re angry, but please, this anger directed at them won’t get you anywhere, okay?” Jimin stressed, his tone delicate. “Please, remember what we talked about, let’s just all calm down now, okay?”

Jungkook blinked. “I…”

“Deep breath, and just look at me, okay?” Jimin insisted quietly.

The younger male’s gaze flickered back and forth between Jimin’s eyes.

“Okay,” Jungkook then whispered, causing Jimin to be amazed that he had actually succeeded in calming Jungkook down.

“Why don’t we all sit down and discuss the important issues at hand like civil people,” Mr. Jeon suggested, drawing Jimin and Jungkook out of their little bubble.

“That sounds like a plan,” Jimin coincided, giving a nod as he tugged on Jungkook’s arm, gesturing for him to follow, all of them heading over into the kitchen to take a seat.

Minji and Mr. Jeon sat down on one side of the table, Jimin and Jungkook taking their respective seats across from them.

It was silent – that awkward kind.

“Jungkook-ah,” Mr. Jeon was the one to break the silence, his low yet gentle voice cutting through the air like a sharp knife. “This thing between me and Minji is not… it’s not just sex related,” he expressed.

“I’m going to throw up, thank you,” Jungkook murmured, wrinkling his nose.

“Kook-ah,” Jimin whispered, placing his chin on Jungkook’s shoulder, the closer proximity calming Jungkook immediately.

“Minji told me about her past with you,” his father elaborated. “We didn’t plan on this to happen, but it just kind of did; not just recently,” he proceeded, stealing a glimpse at Minji who placed her hand on top of his. “It has been going on for many weeks”

“I know this might sound crazy, but… I really like your father, Jungkook-ssi,” Minji confessed. The younger male blinked.

“I know we’ve had our differences, and yes I… I might not have the purest past… I’ve been with many people, but… I want this to last,” Minji declared, “I really care for your father, Jungkook-ssi”

“I… see,” Jungkook responded, giving a slow nod, visibly not determined on what else to say.

At any rate, what was he supposed to respond?

Jimin could empathise with his reaction; was certain that he would be just as speechless, if he were to be in Jungkook’s place.

After all, just a few minutes ago, he had learned that his father had asked the mafia to spy on his boyfriend, and was now caught off guard by the news of his own father being romantically involved with a past fling of his.

“Are you hurt because you had feelings for Minji-ssi?” Mr. Jeon inquired, titling his head to the side, appearing to believe that it could be the reason for Jungkook’s outburst.

“No, I’ve never had feelings for her.” Jungkook asserted with a frown, shaking his head. “I’m with Jimin and he’s the only one I care for. Honestly, I couldn’t care less who you’re… who you’re fucking. It’s just, it’s Minji”

To be honest, Jimin wasn’t decided on what to think about this either. By all means, this was none of his business at all, but it was still… unique and certainly unexpected to see Minji and Mr. Jeon be an item.

“I’m right here, thank you,” Minji commented, rolling her eyes.
“No, it’s not… Fuck, I’m sorry, I don’t know,” Jungkook apologized with a sigh, running his hand through his black locks. “I honestly don't really care,” he stated, ”It's weird, but I'm just... I'm on edge because of this thing with Jimin, I can't think straight. All I can think about is that I need to keep him safe,” he stressed, placing his hand on Jimin's thigh. "And I'm pissed, Appa. I swear I'm so fucking annoyed by what you did—"

Suddenly, the sound of a ringtone echoed in the room, interrupting Jungkook.

It was Jungkook’s father who pulled out his phone, a blank expression embellishing his features as he plainly stared at the display of the device for a few moments.

“It’s…” Mr. Jeon trailed off, frowning as he chose to accept the call without an explanation, bringing his phone up to his ear.

Inquisitive, the other’s stared at him with big eyes, curious to learn who could be of that high significance that Mr. Jeon chose to accept the call in the midst of their conversation.

Could it be… Baek?

“Yes? … What? … No, you… Are you sure?... Okay, yes, thank you… I will call you back in a few minutes,” the other’s registered Mr. Jeon’s part of the dialogue, oblivious to the words said by the person on the other side of the line.

“What’s going on?” Jungkook was the one to ask once Mr. Jeon had ended the call.

Slowly, the older man lowered his phone down on the table while he rose to his feet simultaneously.

“It seems like Baek has sent us a little gift,” he murmured, not meeting any of their gazes.

“Poisoned rats,” Mr. Jeon responded. “All dead,” he elucidated.

Jimin’s insides squirmed in horror.

“Oh my god,” Minji gasped.

“Why would he…” Jimin trailed off, frowning as he shook his head, lacking the ability to fathom why Baek would send Mr. Jeon dead animals, and how that was even anything real someone would do.

What a barbaric act to poison those poor animals and deliver them to someone. It was scary to envisage someone be capable of doing something as awful as that.

“It’s a metaphor,” Jungkook’s father explained, Jimin slowly commencing to apprehend, assuming that those rats were supposed to represent them and what would occur to them, if they were to refuse to comply whatever demand Baek had stated.

“Appa, do you see how serious that is?” Jungkook stressed and disregarded the prior exchange about Minji’s and Mr. Jeon’s relationship, trying to make his father understand that he could no longer look at this lightly – this shit was freaking sick and twisted.

“They can’t hurt us, okay?” Mr. Jeon reiterated his earlier claim, proceeding to latch onto it and appearing to be fervent in his conviction – or perhaps only upholding a composed demeanor for the sake of keeping everyone else calm.
“The agreement doesn’t protect Jimin, Appa, don’t you understand?” Jungkook emphasised.

The older man slowly turned away, facing the windows opposed to any of them.

“They’re really pissed off now,” Mr. Jeon uttered quietly, still choosing to remain mute on what exact business with Baek it was that was causing all of this, then turning back around to meet Jimin’s gaze. “I’ll call my men and make sure you’re guarded by security twenty-four hours a day,” he assured him.

“Appa, stay realistic,” Jungkook interfered, raising his hand as he shook his head at his father’s suggestion. “I tried that move, it just backfires,” he claimed.

“I can ensure safety on a larger scale, Jungkook-ah,” Mr. Jeon asserted, arching up his brows.
Admittedly, Mr. Jeon might truly have access to more means that could provide them with a larger scale of safety and establish a less paranoid environment. Yet, all the same, it wouldn’t cause the problem to vanish entirely, but just delay the inevitable blow.

“It will only work so long,” Jungkook objected, voicing Jimin’s notion.

Leisurely, Jungkook’s father placed his palms on the dining table. “There is another way,” he murmured with knitted brows, visibly deeply in thought.

“That is?” Jungkook was quick to ask, clinging on to essentially anything that would ensure Jimin’s safety in some way.

Mr. Jeon lifted his head to lock eyes with Jungkook.

“The agreement doesn’t just protect us two,” he stated.

The other’s frowned at his words.

“Who else?” Jungkook wondered, tilting his head to the side, puzzled how the fact of someone having been added to the agreement could be unknown to him.

“It protects the Jeon family; every member of our family,” Mr. Jeon elaborated, his gaze trailing over to Jimin.

“So?” Jungkook wondered.

“So, if you and Jimin were to-”

Jimin’s heart skipped a beat.

“Marry,” he breathed out, finishing Mr. Jeon’s sentence. “I would legally be part of the family, thus be part of the agreement,” he explained, his voice quiet, a soft hush in the air between them, yet still audible to anyone else in the room.

“Exactly,” Mr. Jeon affirmed with a nod.

Jungkook turned to face Jimin.

“I have to cut in here,” Minji interfered immediately. “Slow down there, big guy, I saw you get ready to drop down on one knee for him,” she added, pointing at Jungkook who was staring at Jimin intently. “Jungwhan-ssi, do you think this is the right thing to do? They’re still children,” she expressed, staring at Mr. Jeon.
“Hello, we’re right here?” Jungkook noted, lifting his hand up into the air as though the other two had completely disregarded their presence from one second to the other—like they had just disappeared into thin air.

“You’re in your early twenties,” Minji reasoned, stealing a glimpse at Jungkook before she diverted her gaze back over to Mr. Jeon. “I mean, it bounds them together for a lifetime; and shouldn’t the reason they marry one another be solely out of love, not because of this?” she objected.

“Since when have you become such an advocate for marriage?” Jungkook wondered, just the slightest bit mocking her, as he raised his brows.

“Marriage!” Jiyoo suddenly echoed as her head popped into the room, then rushing over to them upon hearing the term drop during their dialogue, clearly having omitted the context and anything else said between them. “Who is getting married? Bunny!” she squeaked, running up to Jungkook and pulling him into a hug. “With our Jiminie? Oh, that sounds beautiful, so beautiful. Yes, my lovely children, I can’t wait-”

“Jiyoo-ssi, no,” Jungkook’s father chuckled, shaking his head. “No one is getting married,” he corrected, lifting his hand up.

“No? Oh, I see. I see,” she murmured, clearing her throat as she brushed the dust off her clothes. “Okay, I’ll... be in the kitchen, if you need anything,” she added, slowly disappearing back into the kitchen.

“Well, then what else can we do?” Minji resumed. “There has to be another way”

“I will contact Baek,” Mr. Jeon reiterated. “We’ll find a way. For now, I’m going to increase the security around the company and we’re going to hire a personal guard that will be standing in front of your apartment, Jimin-ssi,” he promised. “Minji, please cancel my 9am meeting, I’m going to have to take care of this first,” he addressed her, picking up his phone again to take some notes.

“Mr. Jeon, that’s really not-” Jimin objected, but went silent upon Mr. Jeon speaking up again.

“You’re in all of this because of me,” he uttered. “This is the least I can do” The pink haired one still hadn’t digested their prior idea of Jimin marrying into the family, thus establishing for him to be protected by the legal agreement between the Jeon’s and Baek.

It was a silly idea... or, was it?

“I’m going to get ready quickly,” Minji decided, drawing Jimin out of his thoughts. “Then we can leave right away,” she added, exiting the room to rush upstairs and get dressed.

“We should head over to the company, too,” Jungkook stated with a nod.

“Jimin-ssi, I can understand, if you don’t feel like going to work now, but I’ll assure you that you will be protected there,” Mr. Jeon spoke.

“It’s fine,” Jimin responded with a soft smile. “I don’t want to stay home, and I missed dancing, with Hoseok,” he added, truly having missed to work alongside Hoseok for the past five days.

“Let’s go then, little one,” Jungkook spoke, gesturing for Jimin to follow him.

“Take some food with you!” Jiyoo yelled from the kitchen, her head peeking back into the room.
Soon, Jimin and Jungkook were seated in Jungkook’s familiar black Range Rover, the taller male behind the steering wheel as he drove them off to work, Jimin right beside him in the passenger seat.

As if it was any other simple day.

It wasn’t – any other simple day – but life was still moving around them; and they had to adapt.

Yet, the events that had occurred over the past hour were still occupying their minds, causing inevitable silence to lie in the air among them as the voices residing within them were the noisy ones.

“I can’t believe my father is fucking Minji,” Jungkook blurted out, breaking the silence between them with an unexpected remark.

The smaller boy glanced at him.

“Kook-ah, they both said that it’s more than just any physical relationship,” Jimin reminded him, assessing that this subject would require some time for Jungkook to digest – which was understandable.

“Well, they’re still fucking, nonetheless,” the younger pointed out, stealing a glimpse at Jimin before he diverted his gaze back on the road for their safety.

“As long as they’re happy,” Jimin declared, determined that everyone was entitled to experience love and happiness in every shade; that it was beautiful in any way.

“Yeah, I guess…” Jungkook mumbled, sighing, but then quickly adding, “Sorry, that’s— there are worse things going on right now,” he pressed his eyes shut for a moment, a surge of regret blossoming within him for having spoken up about this at all. “You probably care about anything else but who my father is currently fucking. I should read the fucking signs and just shut—”

“Kook-ah, I care about anything you say, if you care about it,” Jimin interrupted him, his tone soft and sincere. “It’s okay that this news shocked you, and it’s understandable for you to want to talk about it,” he added.

“Yeah, well… It’s just weird, but I guess… I will get over it,” Jungkook retorted. “There are more important things to focus on now,” he stressed.

Jimin only flashed him a sympathetic smile, feeling like it wasn’t his place to comment on Jungkook’s decision as he was entitled to react to this news in whatever way he felt fitting. By all means, Jungkook wasn’t obligated to just get over it, but was allowed to take his time to digest this.

“Do you want to talk about… that?” the younger male inquired a few moments later.

“About what?” Jimin wondered, raising his brows.

“The fact that my own father sent the mafia after you?” Jungkook elucidated.

Oh.

Jimin’s stomach twisted in discomfort.

“Well… at this rate, I think I might need more than just a few days to comprehend all of this,” Jimin answered, catching his bottom lip between his teeth. “It’s… overwhelming,” he whispered.
How did the universe expect him to deal with all of this at once?

Honestly, had he not suffered enough already? Was it really necessary for him to bear the notion of his boyfriend’s father having sent the mafia after him; that same mafia that was now threatening to hurt him?

How was this even real?

It didn’t sound like it was real. No, instead, it sounded like a poorly written synopsis of a new dramatic Netflix series with too much angst, suffering and tragedy.

Why couldn’t it for once just be… a fluffy rom-com with the sweetest clichés?

Was it too much to ask for a happy ending?

“I don’t know whether I can forgive him,” Jungkook expressed with knitted brows, drawing Jimin out of his thoughts. “I can’t imagine how you feel”

As a response, Jimin’s eyes grew bigger.

“Kook-ah, he’s your father,” Jimin spoke.

“You’re the love of my life, Jimin-ah; you’re the most important person to me,” Jungkook declared, implying that he vowed Jimin to be more important to him than his own father.

How could that be?

It was… his own father, his only family.

Yet, didn’t Jimin feel the very same about Jungkook?

Jimin cared more for Jungkook than he has ever had for his father that raised him, so who was Jimin to comment on this?

“I… I think he was just scared, and we make stupid decisions when we’re scared,” Jimin reasoned. “Your father didn’t want to hurt me,” he found himself state, not certain whether he truly believed that or was simply praying that this notion was legitimate.

“I guess I’m not one to judge, huh?” Jungkook remarked with a gloomy smile, reminded of every stupid decision he had made whenever he was scared of someone hurting Jimin.

“No, I’m sorry, I didn’t mean it like that,” Jimin apologised, shaking his head. “You’re not like your father at all, you’re so much more-” he spoke softly, but realised how that sounded and could be misunderstood, causing him to quickly add, “I mean, I’m sorry, I didn’t mean to insult your father, there is nothing wrong with him, it’s just…” he trailed off, pressing his eyes shut. “You’re not like your father, Kook-ah,” he whispered.

By no means did Jimin intend to insult Jungkook’s father, but… they weren’t alike. Just a mere look at how they set their priorities was proving that – Jungkook’s were entirely different from his father’s; whereas Mr. Jeon focused on his assets and company, Jungkook was passionate about charities and… well, Jimin.

Then again, Jimin didn’t know Mr. Jeon as well as he knew Jungkook, so he might possess a flawed perception on him. At any rate, was anything about the man he thought he knew even real at this point, bearing in mind how he had been so very convincing in keeping up that mask for the entire time they had known one another?

“Thank you,” the black haired boy said, a smile curving his lips as he met Jimin’s gaze, the latter drawn out of his thoughts by his voice.

Their gazes were fixated on one other for a little too long, causing Jimin’s smile to grow as he pointed towards the street for Jungkook to pay attention to the road.

“Right,” Jungkook commented quietly, diverting his attention back on driving.

The smile that embellished Jimin’s pretty features remained as he looked outside of the window, gazing at the streets and buildings they were passing by.

However, slowly, his smile faltered, the boy reminded of something else Jungkook had mentioned earlier, when talking to his father.

“Kook-ah?” Jimin spoke softly, turning to stare at the man again.

“Yeah?” Jungkook responded, his focus remaining on the road this time.

“Do you… Do you really think those men that raped and murdered your mother worked for Baek?” Jimin wondered, his voice quiet and vulnerable, almost scared to learn the answer.

The younger male hesitated.

“Those men were involved in drug dealing,” Jungkook then informed him, slow when he spoke. “As I told you, Baek deals with drugs,” he added, Jimin recalling Jungkook revealing the sickening variation of services and acquires Baek offered. “In Busan, he’s essentially the source everyone gets their drugs from”

Baek has built such a… large-scale business – an illegal one, but a business.

Despite it being more than appalling, it was also… impressive to imagine this large empire to rule without anyone knowing – completely incognito, moving in underground.

How was that possible?

How did no one do anything to stop them?

Maybe, people were aware of it, but simply chose to close their eyes; potentially too scared to do anything, potentially profiting from the mafia themselves.

What a cruel world.

“So, you… you think they were drug dealers that worked for Baek?” Jimin clarified, raising his brows, quite frankly horrified but also amazed how this all appeared to be connected in some way.

“I think it’s likely,” Jungkook responded.

“Did you ever talk to him about that?”

“Baek?” Jungkook asked, proceeding once Jimin had nodded, “No, I never did”

“Your father says Baek swore that they didn’t work for him,” Jimin was reminded.

The younger male snorted. “If you were working with a businessman that keeps your money flowing, would you admit that your own men killed his wife?” he wanted to know, making a fairly valid point there. “No, Baek would be an idiot to do that”

“But, didn’t you say you can trust Baek’s word?” Jimin whispered.

“Well, we clearly can’t anymore,” Jungkook noted, evidently referencing the current issue of Baek threatening them – especially Jimin, although he had vowed to stay away from him. “We wouldn’t be in this situation, if we could”

Maybe, things had changed.

“What… about the police?” Jimin found himself inquire.

“What about them?”

“Don’t you think… don’t you think they could help us?” Jimin wondered, his digits fumbling with the hem of his hoodie absentmindedly. “I mean, how can all of this go on without anyone doing anything to stop them? That’s so absurd,” he stated, knitting his brows.

“It’s too risky,” Jungkook asserted.

“Why?”

“I wouldn’t put it past Baek to bribe the police,” he informed Jimin.

The smaller one’s eyes grew bigger.

“What?”

“They might get rid of evidence for him, or terminate any official investigations; shit like that,” Jungkook explained, only enhancing the staggering horror within Jimin.

“How is that possible?” Jimin gasped. “I thought… Can’t we trust the police?”

They were supposed to protect the citizens, maintain safety and order!

“Little one, the system is corrupt and fucked up,” Jungkook responded in a gentle tone – almost as though he didn’t want to crush Jimin’s starry-eyedness – as he glanced at Jimin. “These days, you can’t trust anyone working for the government either; they’re all bribed and involved in dirty shit themselves”

“Oh,” Jimin whispered, swallowing hard.

Now, they really had no one else to rely on but themselves, had they?

“There… might be a few good people in there,” Jungkook then added, having noticed Jimin’s fear at the information he had attained.

“The police?”

“Yeah,” Jungkook affirmed. “They’re not all messed up”

“Yeah,” Jimin murmured, giving a nod.

“Hey, don’t worry, okay?” Jungkook comforted him, placing his hand on Jimin’s thigh to give it a tender squeeze. “I’m going to protect you with my life,” he assured him.
Jimin’s gaze trailed down to Jungkook’s hand on his lap, hesitant as he placed his palm on top of Jungkook’s and uttered out a tiny, “Thank you”

They would make it out of this somehow, wouldn’t they?

***

“It’s weird to be here,” Jimin whispered, staring at the enormous entertainment company through the window of the vehicle.

“Why?” Jungkook wondered, shutting the engine off, allowing him to remove the key from the ignition. The taller male turned to face Jimin, inquisitive and patient as he stared at him intently.

“It’s only been five days since I’ve been here, but… it feels like an eternity has passed,” Jimin expressed, pondering whether Jungkook could relate to that feeling, or whether it was peculiar for that emotion to reside within him. “Just five days ago, everything was… different,” he added, “How quickly things can change, huh?”

A part within Jimin wished he could go back to that time – back to a time where he didn’t know about the mafia, where he wasn’t scared of someone kidnapping and hurting him. Yet, the vast majority within him was relieved to know the truth, to know that Jungkook was honest with him and was determined to protect him.

“Yeah,” Jungkook coincided, giving a nod.

“It’s weird,” Jimin reiterated quietly.

A few silent moments passed.

“You don’t have to go inside,” Jungkook spoke softly. “I can drive you home, if you want to”

“I don’t think my apartment is any safer than this place, is it?” Jimin noted with a gloomy smile, finally stealing a glimpse at Jungkook.

The younger male didn’t reply, but he didn’t need to – they were both aware of the answer.

“We can both go home,” Jungkook suggested, causing Jimin to raise his brows. “I’ll keep you safe, Jimin-ah,” he promised, causing Jimin’s heart to quiver.

“You’re the co-CEO, Jungkook-ah,” Jimin reminded him, as if Jungkook had forgotten that impressive fact about himself – he hadn’t.

“Exactly,” Jungkook responded with a nod. “So, I say there is no problem with us staying home together today,” he asserted.

Jimin smiled, shaking his head.

“We can’t run away from our responsibilities, Kook-ah,” he objected. “Let’s go”

Then, the two boys climbed out of the vehicle and headed towards the huge entertainment company, the familiar building welcoming them as if it was any other day. In contrast to everything else revolving around them – or the horrifying previous night – it was a rather beautiful day; there was bright sunshine adorning the place, no grey skies embellishing the city at all.

Maybe, the universe was trying to indemnify for having everything else around them burn like an impending wildfire, for having everything around them be triste and dark.
“Do you want to head down to the practice rooms already?” Jungkook wanted to know as they entered the building, the familiar security guard allowing them access with a mere glance at Jungkook.

“Uhm, well… Hyung won’t be there ‘til 9,” Jimin noted, tilting his head to the side.

“Do you want to wait up in my office until he arrives?” Jungkook suggested, turning to face Jimin. “Just so you won’t have to be down there all on your own,” he reasoned, raising his brows.

The smaller boy smiled at the kind offer, but shook his head. “I think I’ll manage, but thank you,” he responded.

Jungkook parted his lips, insinuating to protest, but he refrained.

“Okay,” he then responded.

For a split moment, Jungkook’s eyes trailed over to something behind Jimin, a sudden alteration in his expression apparent – those soft orbs of his abruptly gleaming in fury.

“What the fuck is that bastard doing here?” Jungkook growled through gritted teeth.

“Who?” Jimin wondered, arching up his brows, a shiver running down his back.

“Seo,” Jungkook answered, causing Jimin to spin around in the speed of light to catch sight of the man; the boy nearly snapping his neck in the process.

Naturally, Jimin’s insides squirmed in discomfort, an immediate reminder of the past night blooming within him. However, simultaneously, a surge of shock resided within him at the sight of his bruised face.

Jungkook really got him good.

Deprived of any hesitance, the black haired boy indicated to walk up to Seo, but Jimin was quick to wrap his delicate hand around Jungkook’s arm to tug him back.

“What are you doing?” Jimin inquired.

“Asking him what fucking nerves he has to come here,” Jungkook answered, glaring at the older man across from them – the latter unaware of them having noticed his presence at all.

“Jungkook-ah, I don’t think that’s a good idea,” Jimin murmured, shaking his head.

“Why?” Jungkook wanted to know, turning to meet Jimin’s gaze.

“There are people around,” Jimin pointed out, scanning the room to ascertain that there were in fact numerous people around – too many – for Jungkook to do anything regretful right now. “If you snap at him, all of these people are going to witness that. You’re already in enough trouble,” he reminded him, recalling Mr. Jeon’s earlier monologue regarding the preceding night, the man having verbally scolded Jungkook for his behaviour.

Admittedly, the degree to which Mr. Jeon appeared to be disappointed in Jungkook’s behaviour was salient. At any rate, no one knew what Mr. Seo might have done to Jimin, if it wasn’t for Jungkook who had appeared to save him. Regardless of how one viewed Jungkook’s decision to turn to violence in order to protect Jimin, wasn’t it at all worth a mention how virtuous Jungkook’s act had been?
Did Mr. Jeon not care about that at all?

Did his fervent obsession for his company and reputation to be free of any scandals truly prevail anything else?

“Well, I definitely won’t allow him to be here,” Jungkook decided, drawing Jimin out of his thoughts.

Then, Jungkook stormed over to Seo.

The pink haired boy blinked, caught off guard by the sudden act of Jungkook.

“Oh no,” Jimin breathed out, rushing after the taller male.

“Seo,” Jungkook addressed the older man upon his arrival by his side.

Mr. Seo lifted his head, tearing his eyes away from the display of his phone to meet Jungkook’s gaze, an unsettling emotion gleaming in his nearly black eyes.

“Jeon,” he spoke, pushing his phone into the inside pocket of his suit jacket.

“What honour do we have to welcome you here?” Jungkook wanted to know with knitted brows, evident sarcasm dripping from his tone.

“Young father invited me,” Mr. Seo revealed with a sneer. “To settle our… incident from last night,” he explained, his gaze trailing over to Jimin who was standing behind Jungkook, a smirk curving his lips at the sight of Jimin.

“Don’t look at him,” Jungkook ordered, clenching his hands into fists, irritated by Mr. Seo even daring to steal a glimpse at Jimin.

Mr. Seo met Jungkook’s eyes again.

“We had a misunderstanding last night,” the older man resumed.

“Right,” Jungkook said, “It wasn’t a misunderstanding. You know what you were trying to do”

“I’m not going to press any charges,” Mr. Seo proceeded, ignoring Jungkook’s remark. “Your father was convincing in that matter,” he added, causing Jimin to wonder in fact how Mr. Jeon had managed to persuade Mr. Seo not to press any charges. “But I want an apology,” he suddenly demanded.

The pink haired one blinked, a part within him certain that his ears had deceived him.

“Apology?” Jungkook echoed – seemingly equally as staggered by the command as Jimin was – snorting at the request. “Fuck off” Mr. Seo frowned at Jungkook’s response. “Get your head out of your fucking ass,” he demanded, his tone vicious.

“Excuse me?” Jungkook said, raising his brows.

“It’s a simple sentence,” Mr. Seo claimed.

“You sexually harassed my boyfriend, you piece of shit,” Jungkook reminded him, visibly fed up with Mr. Seo’s bullshit and annoyed by his audacity to demand an apology after his behaviour towards Jimin.

“You got involved in shit that was none of your business,” Mr. Seo challenged.

“None of my business?” Jungkook reiterated. “Are you fucking deluded? Do you still not get it?”

“Apologise to me, Jeon,” Mr. Seo ordered.

“You came all the way here to ask me to apologise?” the younger male inquired.

Frankly, it was odd that Mr. Seo had come all the way to not only ask but insist on receiving an apology from Jungkook, despite everything that he had done.

“Do you want me to press charges?” Mr. Seo asked, trying to intimidate Jungkook now that he wasn’t receiving the apology he demanded to obtain.

“Do you want me to break your bones for touching my boyfriend without his consent?” Jungkook challenged, taking a step closer to the man.

“Kook-ah,” Jimin whispered, frightened that Jungkook was going to act upon his threat.

“Yes, Kook-ah, listen to our doll,” Mr. Seo mocked with a taunting smirk.

“Fuck, don’t push me to hurt you, Seo,” Jungkook warned him through gritted teeth.

Jimin swallowed hard, mentally preparing to step in any moment and prevent Jungkook from beating the absolute hell out of Mr. Seo yet again.

“What’s going on here?” another male voice suddenly spoke behind them.

The three men turned to face the source of the voice.

“Appa, why did you invite Seo?” Jungkook was quick to ask upon the sight of his father.

“I didn’t,” Mr. Jeon revealed, furrowing his brows. “Seo, I believe we have everything settled,” he then addressed the intruder, eyeing the man that had shown up here uninvited. “Please, leave my company before I have to call the security,” he requested politely.

“I want your son to apologise,” Mr. Seo insisted, crossing his arms over his chest, like a little spoiled child complaining about not receiving the expensive toy they had wished for.

“Seo, you got your money,” Jungkook’s father sighed, shaking his head.

“You paid him?” Jungkook exclaimed in disbelief. “Appa, he- Fuck, he harassed Jimin!”

Carefully, Mr. Jeon scanned their surroundings, appearing to deliberate whether it was appropriate to have this conversation in public, but then obviously selecting another choice – just like Jimin had predicted for him to resolve.

“Let’s discuss this in a more private area,” Mr. Jeon determined, gesturing for the two men to follow after him.

Annoyed, Jungkook rolled his eyes, but obliged.

However, he halted immediately and turned back around to face Jimin, the other two men not noticing his absence behind them and proceeding to enter a meeting room to their side.
“Jimin-ah,” Jungkook addressed the smaller boy.

“Yes?”

“Please, wait upstairs in my office,” Jungkook requested, his tone so much softer than just a few minutes ago.

“Why?” Jimin wanted to know, inclining his head to the side.

“There was something else I wanted to talk to you about,” he revealed, checking the time on the watch wrapped around his left wrist – the watch that Jimin had gifted him a few days ago at the cabin, the pink haired one noticed. “Hyung won’t be here ‘til 9 anyway, right?” he added, meeting Jimin’s eyes again.

To be honest, Jimin didn’t mind waiting for Hoseok down in the practice rooms, but if there was something Jungkook wanted to discuss with Jimin later, then he certainly didn’t mind waiting up in his office room either.

“Okay,” Jimin uttered, giving a nod.

Then, he watched Jungkook join Mr. Seo and his father in the meeting room, the door falling shut behind him.

***

The smaller boy stared up at the ceiling with a blank expression, sat on the sofa in Jungkook’s office room for the past hours. – Well, it might only have been fifteen minutes in reality, but it certainly felt like an eternity to him.

Jimin assumed that phenomenon was attributable to the fact of him being isolated, lonesome with his frightening thoughts residing in his head, and one crisis after the other being voiced within him.

It was easier to be distracted, to have someone to talk to, for these internal voices to not even being enabled to gain his attention at all – because it was scary, when they did succeed in being amplified within him. In a way, it made all of this so much more real. And Jimin realized that the fact that his life was in danger was something he still had not quite digested entirely, wishing he could pretend that it would remain a sole nightmare.

But, it wasn’t.

The pink haired boy rose to his feet, heading over to the glass wall to gaze outside.

All of a sudden, the door was pushed open, startling Jimin who spun around at the noise.

“Hyung,” Jimin called out at the unexpected sight of Jin entering the office room.

Immediately, the taller male halted, his eyes growing bigger at the sound of a voice. As soon as he recognized Jimin, a smile curled up the corners of his lips. “Jimin-ah, what are you doing up here?” he inquired, heading towards Jungkook’s desk to deposit a few records and documents on the tidy surface of the piece of furniture.

“I’m waiting for Jungkook,” Jimin answered, closing the distance between them to pull Jin into a hug, realising that it had been a few days since he had seen the older one.

“Ah, is he running late again?” Jin chuckled as soon as they withdrew from one another.
The younger one shook his head. “Kookie is in a meeting with his father right now,” he revealed, the information causing Jin to raise his brows.

“A meeting?” Jin echoed, inclining his head to the side. “I’m not aware of any meetings for this morning,” he murmured, pursing his lips as he tried to recall whether he had missed any part of Jungkook’s morning schedule, yet then certain that he was aware of Jungkook’s business agenda for the day.

“It was spontaneous,” Jimin explained with a smile.

“I see,” Jin hummed, giving a nod before he organized the documents on the desk in the order he desired. “How was your trip?” he asked then, his attention fixated on his current task, but the man still managed to steal a glimpse at Jimin. “Did you have some time to relax? I’m sure you didn’t get to sleep much, though, huh?” he teased.

The smaller boy blushed at his suggestive words, not missing what he was certainly implying.

“We… Well, it was nice,” he chose to respond before he cleared his throat, deciding to omit that dreadful Sunday morning and everything that had followed after like a domino effect.

Timidly, Jimin tugged the sleeves of Jungkook’s hoodie over his petite hands, the shade of rose that tinged his cheeks darkening as he noticed the knowing smirk on Jin’s face.

“And the charity gala?”

“Beautiful,” Jimin declared softly, genuine in his remark, and grateful that they had changed the subject.

“I’m happy to hear that,” Jin asserted with a bright grin, straightening his back as soon as he was finished with arranging the records on the desk. “Would you like me to wait here with you?” he offered.

“Ah, no, that won’t be necessary, Hyung, thank you,” Jimin declined with a sweet smile, knowing that Jin undoubtably had a lot to do. “You can go back to work, if you want to”

“I’ll talk to you later then,” Jin said, ruffling through Jimin’s pink locks before he headed towards the door.

“Later,” Jimin retorted with a giggle, fixing his hair with one hand while waving at Jin with the other, the latter exiting the room and pulling the door shut behind him, leaving Jimin all to himself again.

Slowly, Jimin dropped his hands back to his side, his smile faltering leisurely as a sigh slipped past his lips. The silence in the room was anything but comforting, causing him to regret his decision of declining Jin’s offer to stay with him for until Jungkook would arrive.

The smaller boy walked around the desk, his gaze trailing over to Jungkook’s shelf, one particular item to be exact. At the sight of the little plush toy, a smile adorned Jimin’s beautiful features, the boy reaching out to curl his delicate hand around it and pick it up.

“You’re still here, huh, Bunny?” Jimin uttered softly, disregarding the obscure fact that he was talking to a plush toy that lacked the ability to respond, or any consciousness for that matter. Then again, this right here wasn’t exactly the most absurd situation in Jimin’s life, considering the current chaos that was his life.
Curiously, Jimin eyed the plush toy.

Frankly, he still wondered why Jungkook was keeping the plushie in his office room.

Carefully, Jimin sat down on the chair behind Jungkook’s desk, caressing the head of the little bunny plushie, giggling as he was reminded of each time he had referred to Jungkook with that endearing pet name.

Suddenly, the office door was pushed open again, allowing a figure to enter the room.

“Hey,” Jungkook said, his voice deep and soft simultaneously, causing Jimin to lift his head and meet his gaze.

“Hey,” Jimin replied with a smile, watching Jungkook shut the door before he approached the pink haired one with slow steps. “And?” Jimin inquired, not needing to be more specific with his question as they were both more than aware that he was referring to the conversation with Mr. Seo and his father.

“Well, my father just keeps piling shit up to piss me off,” Jungkook sighed, sliding his hand through his black locks. “First, I find out that he asked the mafia to spy on my boyfriend, then I find out that he paid the man that sexually assaulted my boyfriend to keep quiet,” he listed with a snort that lacked any humour. “I would say: the award for Father of the Year goes to Jeon Jungwhan,” he announced sarcastically, loosening the tie around his collar.

“Kook-ah,” Jimin pressed softly.

“Do you disagree?” Jungkook wondered with raised brows. “Honestly, there is only so much more he can do until I lose the last bit of respect I have for him,” he asserted, placing his index finger and thumb close to one another to physically display the amount. “It’s disgusting that he paid Seo to be quiet after what Seo did to you”

“I guess you didn’t apologise?” Jimin wanted to know in hopes of changing the topic, doubting that Jungkook’s answer would differ from Jimin’s presumption regarding the matter. After all, Jungkook had visibly displayed his refusal to apologise to Mr. Seo earlier.

“… No,” Jungkook responded, shaking his head, not surprising Jimin with his remark.

“Kook-ah”

“Honestly, little one, he didn’t deserve an apology,” Jungkook stressed, shrugging his shoulders as he leaned against the wall.

Well, although Jimin didn’t condone violence in any way, for Mr. Seo to demand an apology from Jungkook for beating him up after what he had done – or had wanted to do – to Jimin, without voicing an apology towards Jimin either was definitely audacious.

“Did he leave now?” Jimin wondered, titling his head to the side.

“Yes, he did,” Jungkook retorted with a nod. “I can’t believe he had the fucking nerves to come here,” he ranted, pushing his tongue into his cheek.

“I wonder how he got even in here…” Jimin murmured, furrowing his brows.

At any rate, the security had always been diligent to ask for Jimin’s ID whenever he had intended to enter the company building without Jungkook or Hoseok by his side until they had eventually been that familiar with Jimin to recognize him with a mere glance and consequently grant him access without asking for his ID anymore.

The whole process was a little trickier for anyone who wasn’t employed or a trainee here. If they wanted to enter the entertainment company, they needed to be expected by Mr. Seo or Jungkook, thus their names would be passed on to the security so they would know to permit them entrance.

How had Mr. Seo managed to enter the company without that?

Was it the fact that he was a known businessman that had caused the security to grant him access just like that?

“That’s what I want to know,” Jungkook coincided with knitted brows. “After this, I’m going to have to talk to them,” he added. “I’m pissed as fuck that they let him enter just like that. If he can enter, that means anyone else can, too – someone that could pose as a potential threat to you, like any of Baek’s men”

Jimin swallowed hard.

“The increased security will be here soon, and I’ll make sure to make them understand to take their job fucking serious to keep you and anyone else here safe,” Jungkook reassured him, pushing himself off the wall to approach Jimin.

“Thank you,” Jimin uttered softly, his digits still caressing the little plush toy in his hand absentmindedly.

At the motion of Jimin’s hand, Jungkook’s gaze trailed down to the item in Jimin’s grasp, a smile curling up the corners of his lips.

“I see you’ve found someone to keep you company for my absence?” Jungkook noted, affection gleaming in his eyes as he nodded towards the plush toy.

“Oh, yes, he’s great,” Jimin played along with a giggle. “He’s a little quiet, though”

Jungkook chuckled as he leaned on his desk while his gaze was fixated on Jimin’s endearing smile, the sound of his giggles the sweetest melody to his ears.

“I won’t have to worry about being replaced by it then?” the taller male asked.

“No,” Jimin responded softly, shaking his head. “You don’t need to worry about being replaced at all,” he added quietly.

Naturally, Jimin averted his gaze a few seconds later because the intent stare of Jungkook’s brown orbs caused him to be too timid.

“What… What did you want to talk to me about?” Jimin then inquired.

“Oh, yes,” Jungkook remembered, clearing his throat as he straightened his back. “So, for the time we wait for this issue to settle, I would like for Beomsoo to be by your side whenever I’m not able to,” Jungkook expressed. “Not only as your driver, but as your personal guard; meaning he walks you down to the practice rooms, and so on,” he elaborated.

The smaller boy raised his brows.
“Kook-ah, that’s… a lot,” Jimin pointed out, realising that Beomsoo would essentially be his shadow, if he were to agree to this, following his every step.

“I know, it’s just… I can’t think about anything else, but someone trying to hurt you. I think this would make me feel a little more at ease, knowing Beomsoo is there to protect you, whenever I’m not,” Jungkook reasoned. “I’m not making this decision on my own, that’s why I’m asking for your consent,” he was quick to add.

“Beomsoo works so much already, we can’t expect him to-” Jimin intended to protest.

“Beomsoo was more than honoured, when I asked him to protect you,” Jungkook revealed. “Beomsoo likes you a lot, Jimin-ah, he doesn’t want anyone to hurt you either”

For some reason, those words sparked a surge of warmth within Jimin’s chest, his admiration for Beomsoo growing at the notion of him wanting to protect Jimin that vastly.

In a way, Jimin felt like he was treated as some sort of royal – all of these people guarding him like he was the prince of a foreign land or something similar to that. It was silly, yet also… heartrending. All of these people cared so much that they looked after him to that degree.

“Okay,” Jimin found himself agree with a nod, certain that he would feel a little safer, if he knew that someone was looking out for him. “I like Beomsoo. I would prefer him over someone I don’t know at all,” he explained.

“Okay, great, thank you,” Jungkook said, reaching up to brush Jimin’s fringe out of his face, a few of his pink locks having falling to veil his pretty eyes.

Suddenly, they were interrupted by some knocking on the door.

“Yes?” Jungkook called out, dropping his hand back to his side.

A mere second later, the door was pushed open, Minji peeking into the room.

“Sorry for the interruption, but Jungwhan would like to talk to you, Jimin-ssi,” she revealed, her tone a lot softer than it usually tended to be – not that her usual tone was in any way negative, but typically there was a lot more force and confidence in her voice.

Was that alteration attributable to the recent circumstances?

“Now?” Jimin wondered, raising his brows as he got up to his feet.

“If you have a few minutes,” Minji expressed, giving a nod.

The smaller boy hummed in spite of being clueless as to why Mr. Jeon would want to talk to him now when they had been at Mr. Jeon’s place an hour ago. Gently, Jimin handed Jungkook the little plushie before he insinuated to follow after Minji in order to meet Mr. Jeon.

“I’ll join you,” Jungkook decided, setting the plush toy down on the desk before he turned to follow after them.

“He wants to talk to Jimin on his own,” Minji objected with a sympathetic smile.

The younger male came to a halt.

“It’s fine,” Jimin assured Jungkook, stealing a glimpse at the boy.
“Okay,” Jungkook said, pressing his lips into a line as he leaned against his desk again. “I’ll… Okay, then just text me or come in, if you need anything, yeah?” he offered Jimin. “I’ll call Beomsoo right now and let him know to come here”

“Okay,” Jimin uttered with a smile. “Thank you”

Then, he turned around and approached the door, but stilled again.

“Hey, uhm…” he murmured softly, turning back to face Jungkook, the latter already seated in his chair behind the desk, now lifting his head to meet Jimin’s gaze. “Let’s have dinner later?” Jimin suggested before he even realised that he was, his voice delicate.

Jungkook arched up his brows.

“Really?”

“Yes,” Jimin smiled.

“At mine?”

“I would like that,” Jimin declared with a nod.

The younger male smiled.

“Let’s go,” Minji insisted, not at all rushed or annoyed, her tone kind.

So, Jimin did, following after Minji to meet Mr. Jeon.

***

“Jimin-ssi,” Mr. Jeon greeted him as soon as the door was pushed open.

“Mr. Jeon,” Jimin spoke, executing a polite bow after he had entered the office room, Minji shutting the door behind him to allow them some privacy.

“Please, have a seat,” Mr. Jeon offered, pointing at the chair across from him.

“Is everything okay?” Jimin inquired as he headed towards the chair, permitting him to take a seat. “Did you manage to reach Baek?” he asked, figuring that it could be a plausible reason for his request of Jimin to meet him here.

“No, not yet, but don’t worry about that, I’ll manage to contact him somehow,” Mr. Jeon retorted, shaking his head as he sat down in his respective seat again as well. “I called you upstairs because I wanted to know how you were,” he spoke, removing his glasses from his nose and placing them down on his desk – a desk that was a lot more chaotic than Jungkook’s was, if Jimin dared to assess.

The pink haired boy blinked, surprised by that question.

Mr. Jeon had called him up to his office to ask how he was?

“I… I’m doing okay, so far,” Jimin answered hesitantly, his tone soft as he found his digits playing with the hem of Jungkook’s hoodie absentmindedly.

“It’s a lot you were hit with over the past two days, I assume,” Mr. Jeon noted, an empathetic smile curving his lips.
‘I assume.’

Was there room to assume anything else?

“Yeah,” Jimin breathed out.

“I want to apologise, Jimin-ssi,” Mr. Jeon spoke.

Was that the true reason he had been called up here?

“I do backup checks on anyone that gets too close to my family,” he revealed. “Yet, you were the first to ever be that close to my son; in a very emotional aspect, I mean,” he elucidated. “Naturally, I was alarmed by you, and who you really were”

Mr. Jeon did backup checks on anyone that got too close to his family?

Did that imply that he had done the same thing for Hoseok, for Taehyung, for Namjoon and Jin, and even for Yoongi?

Inevitably, Jimin’s insides squirmed, a frightening shiver running down his back.

“I don’t want to justify my actions, you have every right to be appalled by what I did, but in this industry, it’s difficult to trust someone,” Mr. Jeon proceeded, Jimin mustering any fibre within him that would enable him to focus on Mr. Jeon’s words, and not the surge of panic that was currently residing within him. “It’s difficult to ascertain that the person is staying by your side because of you, sincerely, and not just because they’re after your assets or trying to betray you,” he added.

Admittedly, this industry was anything but kind and welcoming; it was harsh and cold, and rich businessmen believed they were entitled to do anything at all to reach the top because they had established a certain status.

In the midst of it all, how were you supposed to trust anyone in a competitive world like that?

“I had to protect my son and this empire I have built for the past years,” Mr. Jeon justified. “And the only way I thought I could assure that was by asking Baek for help”

“I…” Jimin trailed off, indecisive what he was supposed to reply.

“I should have known that it could backfire and be used against us at one point, but I was foolish to believe that Baek wouldn’t take that route,” he elaborated, shaking his head at himself. “It pains me all the more to know that my son truly loves you; and to know that I did this to you, someone that has proven to be humble, kind, caring and the sole reason my son is the happiest I’ve ever seen him”

Jimin was flattered by his kind words, but appalled, nevertheless.

“Can you understand that, Jimin-ssi?”

“Mr. Jeon, I… I hope you don’t mind me saying this, with all due respect, but the notion of you being in contact with the mafia at all is… is something I am not in favour of,” Jimin dared to express. “I know, you probably don’t care at all, and it’s none of my business, but I never believed that you would be involved in such an illegal world. I… I find myself comprehending why you wanted to know more about me, or more about the people that are close to your son – to protect him – but asking the mafia for help is not in any way… a morally right decision”

Jimin swallowed hard, too scared to meet Mr. Jeon’s eyes.
“You put the lives of those people in danger, whether you realise that or not, whether it was intentional or not,” Jimin added. “But, Mr. Jeon, the worst thing is that you put the life of your own son in danger. I know, the agreement protects him from any physical pain, but clearly, he’s hurting emotionally and mentally. If you truly care for your son, and I want to believe that you do, then it’s not too late to fix it and put an end to your connection to the mafia.”

“What about you?” Mr. Jeon inquired.

“Huh?” Jimin uttered, lifting his head to meet Mr. Jeon’s gaze.

“I do care about you as well, Jimin-ssi,” Mr. Jeon revealed. “I never wanted your life to be in danger, and all I can do is ask for you to try and forgive me,” he declared, diverting his gaze down to his desk. “And Jungkook, he… he’s all I have. I love him, although I don’t show it very often. All I want to do is protect him. I know, I might have chosen the wrong ways to execute that, but I never intended to hurt him, or you.”

The pink haired boy wanted to believe him, but he also noticed the way Mr. Jeon chose to disregard Jimin’s polite request – or rather advice – for him to cease his business with Baek and ultimately cut any connection to him.

Allegedly, Mr. Jeon didn’t want to cut his ties to Baek.

“I hope this didn’t put an even bigger split between me and my son,” Mr. Jeon murmured, wiping his palm over his face in a distressed manner.

“I think he’ll manage somehow, Sir,” Jimin spoke softly, despite his awareness of Jungkook’s evident disapproval of his father’s actions, and his earlier depicted anger regarding this matter.

“If he doesn’t, that would be my own fault, though, and my sole problem,” Mr. Jeon cleared his throat. “Well then, I also called you up here to let you know that your new security guard Hwang is already waiting in front of your apartment, so don’t get scared, if you see him later,” he revealed.

“Oh, thank you, Mr. Jeon,” Jimin said, exhibiting a bow to display his gratitude.

Jimin’s own security guard, on top of Beomsoo who would be his personal guard whenever he wasn’t home. What an absurd and truly unique statement for Jimin to make. By no means had he ever envisaged himself to be in this kind of situation.

“That’s the least I can do,” Jungkook’s father replied, flashing Jimin another faint smile.

Then, he cleared his throat again.

“Well, I won’t hold you back any longer. Please, go downstairs to meet Mr. Jung, I’m sure he’s already awaiting you,” Mr. Jeon insisted, pointing at the door of his office room.

“Yes, Sir, thank you,” Jimin obliged, rising to his feet before he performed another bow.

Then, he turned around and headed towards the door.

“Oh, and Jimin-ssi,” Mr. Jeon mentioned, the smaller boy stilling with his palm curled around the doorknob, facing the man again.

“Yes?” Jimin uttered.

“I’ve actually intended to speak to you about something else for a while now,” Mr. Jeon spoke.
Inquisitive, Jimin raised his brows.

“Yes, what is it?” he wondered.

“I had planned for you to be part of a music video project,” Mr. Jeon expressed, amazing Jimin with the vastly surprising reveal. “But I think we should delay this idea for the time of the recent events,” he added, grabbing his chin.

“A music video?” Jimin echoed, his eyes growing wider.

“Yes, I would like for you to be involved,” Mr. Jeon affirmed.

“In what way?”

“Creatively, but also as a dancer, hence being physically present in the video and the performances that will follow,” Mr. Jeon explained. “Is that something you could see yourself do?” he wanted to know. “You simply fit the concept so well, that I couldn’t picture anyone else, but you. Of course, we would have to discuss the overall concept and so on, but I would first like to see where your interest and consent lies in this field?”

“I… I would be honoured, Mr. Jeon,” Jimin stated, giving an enthusiastic nod, yet then pressing his lips into a line as he recalled his current situation. “I just… Can I think about it a little more, it’s just—so much going on right now,” he added softer.

Certainly, Jimin was flattered to be asked to be part of a music video, yet… maybe, they should postpone that idea to a point in Jimin’s life’s where, well, he wasn’t threatened to be killed or tortured.

“Of course, of course, yes,” Mr. Jeon agreed with a wave of his hand. “We can talk about this again once everything has died down,” he decided.

“Thank you, Sir,” Jimin said again.

However, he still didn’t leave.

“Mr. Jeon?”

“Yes?”

“Please, Sir, at least think about what I said,” Jimin requested softly. “Jungkook is struggling enough and I know that you don’t want to lose him,” he added, his tone delicate.

Politely, Jimin performed one last bow before he exited the office room, not waiting for Mr. Jeon to reply anything.

***

A few minutes later, Jimin was down in the practice room by himself, having decided to commence to stretch already as he was waiting for Hoseok to arrive for their day to really start.

Suddenly, a figure entered the practice room, their silhouette causing Jimin to lift his head and steal a glimpse at them in order to identify them.

As Jimin recognised the visitor, his face lit up.

“Tae!” Jimin beamed at the unexpected sight of his best friend. “What are you doing here?” he wanted to know nonetheless, not recalling Taehyung texting him to announce his stopover.

“I’m here to see you!” Tae explained with a grin. “We didn’t get to talk yesterday”

“How did it go?” was the first thing Jimin inquired, too impatient to learn how Taehyung’s meeting with the designer Kang Nayoung went. Although, by the way Taehyung was literally glowing there was no doubt in Jimin’s mind that it had gone well.

“You’re talking to the new face of Kang Fashion, hello,” Taehyung revealed, his eyes gleaming in cheerfulness as he strutted through the room, exaggeratingly swaying his hips from side to side.

“So, you’re going to walk for her?” Jimin concluded with big eyes and a blissful smile embellishing his pretty features; a part within him rolling their eyes at his obliviousness asking these redundant questions.

“You bet your ass I am!” Taehyung chimed, giving a vehement nod.

“Oh my god, Tae!” Jimin squeaked in delight, enthusiastically running up to his best friend who embraced him immediately.

Taehyung’s hug was comforting and warm, the two boys laughing in glee as the taller one spun them around, pure exhilaration surrounding them. Honestly, Jimin couldn’t express how joyful for and proud of Tae he was, aware that this was such a huge step in his career – wondering whether Taehyung was prepared for even a small section of what would await him on his path in the future.

“Can I join the party?” another voice suddenly inquired.

Their laughter didn’t subside as they searched for the source of the voice.

“Hyung!” they both exclaimed in unison as they located Hoseok who entered the practice room with an equally as beaming smile.

There was a surge of warmth and happiness residing within Jimin’s chest that he couldn’t quite explain, ignited by the proximity to two of his closest friends in the whole universe. They truly possessed the ability to evoke a sense of belonging and comfort in Jimin; an emotion that was similar to one a family evoke in you, Jimin was certain.

Well, they were his family.

And Jimin realised that he had missed this feeling, despite it only having been a few days.

Yet, for some reason, the past days had felt like weeks, draining Jimin to a point that rendered him to lose his sense of time, causing him to believe that he hadn’t seen his friends in an eternity.

“So, can anyone tell me why there are two huge, broad guys guarding this hallway?” Hoseok wanted to know, pointing back over his shoulder. “Quite intimidating, if you ask me,” he chuckled.

Oh, right, the security had arrived.

Earlier, when Jimin had exited the elevator to walk down the hallway to reach the practice room, he had encountered the security guards as well – who had flashed him a kind smile and had bowed at the sight of him, causing Jimin to question whether they were fitting for the job as he had expected them to be threatening.

However, a few seconds later, Jimin had dared to steal a glimpse back at them, having noticed their cold stares fixated down the hall, and their overall very intimidating appearance that Jimin didn’t dare to argue of being inappropriate.

“Long story,” Jimin only responded, waving his hand to brush the subject off.

“Hyung, I missed you!” Taehyung chimed, throwing his arms around Hoseok to pepper his neck with kisses, the latter chuckling at Taehyung’s clinginess.

“We facetime last night, with Yoongi Hyung,” he reminded his lover.

The blond haired one pouted. “Yeah, but I still missed you two,” he said. “We couldn’t even celebrate last night,” he added, roaming his palm over Hoseok’s chest.

“We can celebrate all of today,” the older one suggested.

“Oh, yes! Let’s all meet up!” Taehyung decided with a vehement nod.

“That sounds like a great idea,” Hoseok agreed, meeting Jimin’s gaze. “What do you think?”

Naturally, Jimin smiled at the idea.

“I missed you guys, too,” he declared, genuine in his remark.

A part within him doubted whether it was such a good idea to hang out with his friends right now, considering how his life was legitimately at stake, but everyone was assuring him that he was safe here, and Jimin didn’t want to relinquish on anything because of those horrible men out to hurt him.

And maybe, Jimin didn’t understand how serious this whole issue was just yet.

Maybe, Jimin hadn’t allowed his heart to deal with the entirety of it yet, clinging on to any distraction it could find to repel the reality he was trying to convince himself of seeing already.

“Sure, I would love that,” Jimin coincided, flashing the other two a sweet smile.

“I’m going to call Yoongi Hyung after our practice,” Hoseok informed them.

“Perfect,” Taehyung beamed, clapping his hands together in joy.

The oldest one pressed a kiss to Tae’s temple before he headed over to the table, unzipping his backpack on his way there. “Are you ready for today, Min-ah?” he wanted to know, stealing a glimpse back over his shoulder before he placed his bag down on the table, allowing him to rummage through it easier.

“I am!” Jimin answered. “It might sound crazy, but I missed work”

Certainly, Jimin had missed to dance and work alongside Hoseok, yet he was also intrigued and even somewhat relieved that his work could pose as a distraction from the chaos that was currently trying to tear his life apart.

“It doesn’t sound crazy,” Hoseok chuckled. “If you love what you do, it never really feels like work anyway,” he expressed, Jimin not at all puzzled how well he could relate to that statement.

“I agree,” Jimin smiled, giving a nod.

Furrowing his brows, Hoseok sighed, ceasing to search through his backpack.
“Ah, I left my papers up in the office,” Hoseok informed them. “I’ll just go and grab them really quick, yeah?” he added, jogging past them to exit the room, on his way to retrieve his missing papers.

“Okay, we’ll be waiting here,” Taehyung called out. “Oh, and if you happen to see Jin Hyung, ask him whether he’s free today! Or actually, don’t ask him, tell him he has to come, or I’ll be really sad!” he yelled after him, although Hoseok had already left, neither of the two remaining ones certain whether he had even registered that.

All of a sudden, Taehyung reached for Jimin’s hand to gain his attention.

“Now, spill,” he insisted.

The smaller boy’s eyes grew bigger, startled by Taehyung’s abrupt demand and his inquisitive expression. “Me?” he murmured, puzzled by Tae’s request. “Spill what?”

“How was the gala?” the other male elucidated. “Where were you last night?”

“Oh… uhm,” Jimin trailed off, clearing his throat as he diverted his gaze, not quite sure what to say, how much he should actually disclose, or was even allowed to share. “I asked first!” he then called out as he pointed at his best friend, relieved as he recalled that he had in fact been the first to ask Taehyung how his preceding day had went. “I want to know more about your meeting with Kang!”

“It went great; I got the job, and I didn’t fall while walking,” Taehyung quickly listed, before he added in a whispering tone, “However, now I want to know all about you. How did it go? Why didn’t you make it home last night? Did you kill Jungkook for whatever he did to you? If you need me to hide the body-”

Although Tae was only joking, Jimin smacked his arm at the remark.

“No, I did not kill Jungkook,” Jimin interrupted him, as if he actually needed to clarify that.

“Oh,” Taehyung mumbled, actually sounding surprised as he dropped his hand back to his side. “Then where were you?” he wanted to know, tilting his head to the side.

Well, here we go…

“At… Jungkook’s place,” Jimin revealed, his tone quiet and unsure.

The blond haired one raised his brows.

“What happened?” he inquired.

“We talked,” Jimin murmured, tugging the sleeves of Jungkook’s hoodie over his delicate hands. “About us, about everything,” he explained, although his statement was immensely vague. “And the gala was… it was overwhelming. Truly a beautiful event, but I guess I just have bad luck, so there were some things that weren’t that great,” he elaborated, hoping his transition to another section of Taehyung’s question was subtle and seamless, rendering Tae to omit any further question about Jungkook with a little luck.

Then again, luck wasn’t really on Jimin’s side, now, was it?

“Did you have sex with Jungkook?” Taehyung was quick to wonder. “Did you two make up?”

“We…” Jimin trailed off, realising that he didn’t know what they were, or where their hearts were at right now, and that he truly, genuinely did not possess an answer to that question. “Well, it’s complicated,” he decided to reply, reminded of how much he despised that statement as it rendered him to recall every time Jungkook had used that sentence in regard to his relation to Seoyun – or any secret issue, for that matter. “I guess, we’re working on it,” he added softly, because they were. “And no, we didn’t have sex,” he murmured, although he wasn’t sure whether he would have truly been able to reject Jungkook last night, if Jungkook had been the one to initiate any intimate touch.

To Jimin’s surprise, the other one didn’t scold him.

“I’ll support you in your decision,” Taehyung responded, a sympathetic smile curving his lips. “So, if you want to work things out with him, I’m going to be right by your side… And not kill him,” he added.

“Thank you,” Jimin giggled.

“But what happened at the gala?” the blond haired boy asked. “Why wasn’t it great? Who do I have to kill?” he stressed, scowling at the notion of someone having interfered in Jimin’s opportunity to spend a beautiful evening at such a prestigious event.

“It’s fine now,” Jimin said, shaking his head. “There was… Ah, never mind,” he backed out.

“Did someone… touch you?” Taehyung presumed, careful as he spoke.

The smaller boy hesitated.

“Kookie protected me,” Jimin responded, deciding not to elaborate on the topic.

Taehyung gave a nod, a relieved sigh falling from his lips. “Well, at least one thing he did right,” he remarked.

“Hey, that’s mean,” Jimin commented with a whine, furrowing his brows.

After all, there were at least a thousand things Jungkook had done right in his life.

“I'm sorry,” Tae apologised immediately, not having intended to upset Jimin with his remark, but having been ruled by his hatred at the thought of Jungkook having done something horrible to Jimin for there to currently be a few issues between them. “I don’t know what’s going on between you two,” he added.

Forgiving, Jimin flashed him a smile.

“That’s okay, Min-ah, take your time,” Taehyung reassured him, placing his hand on Jimin’s shoulder to give it a tender squeeze, the latter’s eyes falling back open.

Time.

Yet, how much time did Jimin actually still have left?

***

After an hour of choreographing a new dance for a few trainees, the three of them were taking a little break. Well, Jimin and Hoseok were taking a break. For the time of them practicing, Taehyung had just sat by the side, switching between gazing at them dance and playing on his phone, so he didn’t really need a rest from that.

“Hyung?” Taehyung said softly, Jimin barely registering his voice as he nipped on his water bottle, trying to slake his thirst and stay hydrated by taking big gulps.

“Yes?” Hoseok said, glancing at his boyfriend.

“Can we… go to the bathroom?” Tae whispered, flashing Hoseok a suggestive glare, a daring glint gleaming in his eyes that caused Jimin to nearly choke on his water.

“Why? Are you not feeling well- Oh,” Hoseok cleared his throat, seemingly realising what Taehyung was implying.

The blond haired one giggled, rising to his feet as he held his hand out to his boyfriend.

Deprived of any hesitation, Hoseok got back up as well, interlacing his hand with Taehyung’s before they headed towards the door.

“We’ll… be right back, Jimin-ah, yeah?” Hoseok called back, addressing Jimin now.

“Yes,” Jimin responded, a knowing smile curving his lips as he observed the two leave the room, his cheeks flushing the slightest bit at the notion of them… yeah, never mind.

Just like that, the smaller boy was left alone again.

After shutting his water bottle, Jimin decided to pull out his phone to kill his boredom – or perhaps, and more probable, to find a distraction from his haunting thoughts.

Nearly subconsciously, Jimin found himself open up a chat – not any, but a special one, how shocking.

Kook-ah?
– Jimin

Jungkook replied immediately, almost as though he had already been lurking in the chat as well, as if he had known Jimin would text him.

Yes, little one.
Are you okay?
– Handsome

The pink haired boy smiled at his concern, his heart fluttering.

I am.
– Jimin

Nervously, Jimin caught his bottom lip between his teeth, realising that he had no idea what else to say; not aware of why he had texted Jungkook in the first place.

However, it would be weird for Jimin to just end their little exchange here – even a little awkward, wouldn’t it?
Promptly, Jimin attempted to come up with something to say.

Well, Tae and Hoseok want to organise a hang for tonight.
At Yoongi’s.
You in?
– Jimin

There you go.

Well done, brain. For once, you did cooperate.

That was a valid reason for Jimin to have texted him.

Then again… Jungkook probably didn’t even mind, did he? After all, he had mentioned that Jimin could simply text him, whenever.

Oh.
Are you sure?
– Handsome

At his response, Jimin knitted his brows.

Why wouldn’t he be sure?

Yes, why not?
– Jimin

Well…
Never mind.
– Handsome

Jimin tilted his head to the side, but decided not to dig.

So?
What do you say?
– Jimin

Yes, I’m in.
– Handsome

Jimin smiled, displaying his cheerfulness in his response.

Great :)
– Jimin

This time, Jungkook didn’t respond anything.

The smaller boy caught his bottom lip between his teeth, his digits remaining over the display for a few moments as Jimin deliberated whether or not to say anything else.

Because, for some reason, Jimin didn’t want their conversation to end just yet.

What… are you doing?
– Jimin
I’m in a briefing.
– Handsome

Oh, then I won’t bother you.
– Jimin

It had been a stupid idea anyway, to force the conversation to keep going, when there wasn’t truly anything else to say… right?

You’re not.
Are you not working with Hoseok, though?
I don’t have to scold you, do I?
– Handsome

The pink haired one chuckled, shaking his head at Jungkook’s cheekiness.

You are the one who’s texting during a briefing, Sir!
– Jimin

Touché.
– Handsome

We’re taking a small break.
Well, Tae and Hyung went to the bathroom.
– Jimin

Tae Hyung is here?
– Handsome

Yeah.
Well, he was.

Until he made Hoseok join him to go to the bathroom.
So, now I’m waiting for them to return.
– Jimin

Jimin sucked in a breath, regret blooming within him.

Maybe, he shouldn’t have shared that.

Then again, despite Jungkook being their boss, he was their friend first and foremost – and Hoseok was in a break right now, so it wasn’t reprehensible for them to spend their rest in whatever way they desired.

To the bathroom? Together?
Why?
Ah, never mind.
Got it.
– Handsome

Jimin chuckled again.

Yeah.
– Jimin

So, you’re alone?
Although Jimin was already aware, he still found himself scan the room to ascertain that he was in fact all alone.

Yes.
– Jimin

Do you want to come upstairs?
– Handsome

Jimin raised his brows.

You’re in a briefing.
– Jimin

Had Jungkook forgotten?
Was he plainly ignoring that fact?
Or did he, perhaps, just not care?

At any rate, shouldn’t Jungkook focus on his briefing, and not text Jimin?

So?
– Handsome

I don’t want to disrupt anything.
– Jimin

You wouldn’t.
Do you want me to come downstairs?
– Handsome

You’re in a briefing!
– Jimin

So?
– Handsome

Jimin giggled, shaking his head.

I’m fine, Kook-ah.
– Jimin

He was… wasn’t he?
It wasn’t just a façade… was it?
Jimin wasn’t pretending… right?

Promise?
– Handsome

Promise.
– Jimin
Why did it feel like Jimin was lying?

You're really holding up incredibly, little one.
– Handsome

Better than you'd expected?
– Jimin

I knew you were strong,
but you're amazing me more every day.
– Handsome

Why did a surge of guilt bloom within Jimin?

Why did it feel as if he was being dishonest, causing Jungkook to believe that he was oh so strong, when… he really wasn’t at all?

Yet, Jimin didn’t have the guts to correct him.

And, maybe, Jimin didn’t even want to admit his pretence to himself, but wanted to convince himself that he was fine indeed.

It feels like…
an eternity has passed,
but at the same time it feels like time is moving…
slower.
– Jimin

As soon as Jimin had pressed sent, he wished he could retract that message, feeling like he was rambling too much, certainly not even making much sense with his incohesive sentences.

I get what you mean.
I feel the same way.
– Handsome

Yet, Jungkook understood.

Or maybe, he just pretended that he did.

Either way, Jimin was grateful that he did, a soft smile embellishing his features.

At the sudden sound of those knocks, Jimin lifted his head to search for the source of that sound, startled by the noise that resounded from the other side of the room.

And there standing in the doorway with a kind smile was Beomsoo.

“Jimin-ssi,” the older man greeted him, exhibiting a deep bow.

Immediately, Jimin rose to his feet – almost losing his balance in the process –, enumerating
Beomsoo’s act and performing an equally as deep bow.
“Beomsoo-ssi,” Jimin uttered out, the sight of Beomsoo causing Jimin to recall everything Jungkook had revealed about him – especially the way he had somehow managed to spy on the mafia and retrieve information on them that could render them to fall like a house of cards.

“I just wanted to let you know that I’m here now,” he informed the younger one. “I believe Mr. Jeon has talked to you already?”

“Which one?” Jimin wondered, considering how both Jeons had requested to talk to him on various occasions today.

“Junior,” Beomsoo smiled. “To inform you that I’ll be guarding you from now on,” he explained. The pink haired one gave a nod.

“Yes, he has,” Jimin affirmed. “Thank you very much, Beomsoo-ssi”

“I’m honoured”

Was he?

For what?

This was just… well, Jimin.

Beomsoo executed another bow.

“I’ll be waiting outside of the room until you’ve finished your practice,” he decided.

“Thank you,” Jimin said, slightly flabbergasted by the new situation that would certainly require some time to accustom to.

The older one flashed him a smile before he exited the room, leaving Jimin to himself yet again.

Slowly, Jimin dipped his head down, fixating his gaze on the display of his phone.

Beomsoo is here.

– Jimin

Is he?

Okay, great.
If you want him to back off a little or anything like that, just tell him.
Or, if you’re too shy to say anything, let me know, I will tell him.
Not that you need to be shy, just… yeah.
– Handsome

Jimin smiled again.

Thank you, Kook-ah.

– Jimin

Always, little one.

– Handsome
Thank you for reading this chapter.
Thank you for your continuous support <3

I'll see you in the next chapter! ^^
Until then, I hope your days are filled with happiness! :)

Love you <3

Please drop by the archive and comment to let the author know if you enjoyed their work!