CP: I'm gonna be there in like ten mins to help with the serum making

CP: Be scared

CP has added SL to the chat “We’re all fucking idiots”

CP: Hello

SL: ...is this a group chat

SL: I can't do group chats

SL: your texts come up as boxes for every letter

SL: the price I pay for a brick of plastic as a phone

SL: sorry but get me out of this madness

CP: Cool memes

CP has removed SL from the chat “We’re all fucking idiots”

CP is now texting SL

CP: your Bae isn't answering

CP: why

SL: She's either way too into her cultures or is listening to music

SL: Probs both

CP: Oh well then

CP: She's gonna be surprised when I show up later

CP: Eh it's been like a week what could she have done to the place burn it down?

CP: Probably not

SL: I wouldn't put it past her tho

SL: The walls are probs flammable

CP: Tru tho

CP: But we need to make as much of that crap as possible rn

SL: I saw the video

SL: ...I don't have Lathe’s number, or Eren’s
SL: Tell them I'm here for them please

CP: Will do

CP: Gotta go and yell at my lackeys

James had his arms crossed as he stared at Casper texting for more than a few minutes. “Alright, Casper, put the damn phone away! You’re on working time right now! You can look at your phone when you leave for home.” James’ voice was harsh as he moved to take Casper’s phone away. I’ve had enough of your bullshit for today… and it’s not even 1 yet.

Casper held his phone away, grinning mischievously. “Lol, no.” Casper stood up, pocketing his phone and signing out on the clipboard mounted on the wall. “You're closing up tonight. I've gotta get to the lab in the city, work on something big. You're gonna be flying solo here for a while. It could be a while, anyway.” He looked to his angry expression, shaking his head and digging into his pocket for his wallet. “Here, this'll explain everything. About time you knew.” He took a business card from the depths of it, handing it to James. Why not? It's been plenty long.

James stared at Casper in pure shock, looking down at the card he was handed, printed on thick card and embossed with bold black and gold letters. “Casper Pandreivitch… CEO….” His eyes blew impossibly wide. “You own the whole fucking company? And you’ve been letting me yell at you for years!?”

“Yup!” Casper grinned, snapping his finger and pointing to him, his eyes glinting. “...you'll receive your pink slip in the mail tomorrow. See ya!” He waved brightly as he left, leaving James stunned, holding his fancy embossed business card.

James just stood there, watching Casper leave. “What the actual fuck just happened?” I don’t understand him at all. It took a few seconds for Casper’s words to finally catch up to him and click. “WAIT!!! I’m gonna lose my job!?”

Casper cackled as he heard James’ shout from inside the pharmacy, heading for his car and hopping in, making the twenty-minute drive to the labs. He waved to the person at the front desk, heading up the elevator to the fifth floor. His brow furrowed as the small room was suddenly flooded with music, wincing as he stepped out into the hall, seeing someone walking towards him in the hall. He stopped them, speaking loudly and clearly. You're wearing earplugs… how long has this been going on?! “What the fuck is with the music?!"

The laboratory assistant shouted back at him. “The supervisor’s gone completely nuts over the past four weeks! But all the experiments are doing really well! Across the entire floor, it’s weird!” ... wait. “…aren't you my boss?”

Casper nodded. “Yeah, and her boss too. I'll see what's up. Carry on!” Casper patted their shoulder before walking on, his hands over his ears as the noise got louder and louder. He opened the door to the lab at the corner of the building, seeing Hannah hovering in front of something he couldn't see on the counter, an amp in the corner of the room, facing away from the glass. It seemed like the track playing was a loop of the same ten seconds of sound, and Casper marched right up to her, smacking her shoulder. He wasn't prepared when she jumped in surprise, her left hand crushing the plastic syringe in her grasp and causing the other in her opposite hand to go flying up, embedding itself in the ceiling. They both stared up at it, before Casper turned on his heel, looking unsure of what the fuck just happened. “This obviously isn't a good time-" He was immediately snatched up by the back collar of his shirt, pulled back next to Hannah, hearing her voice in his ear.
Hannah’s tone was almost as furious as her eyes looked. “Go grab a fucking ladder and next time don’t scare the shit out of me!” Her words were shouted over the blaring music. I need to get that fucking syringe….

Casper immediately nodded, running to the maintenance closet in the hall and coming back with a ladder, prying the syringe out of the ceiling and giving it back to Hannah. “What?” He saw that she had since turned her back and couldn’t hear him, looking over to the amp in the corner. …you know what. He marched straight over, unplugging it from the wall and immediately causing blissful silence to fall. “HANNAH!” He snatched the noise-cancelling headphones from her ears. “What the hell is with the music?!” It’s enough to drive anyone insane!

“It’s the cultures… The bacteria that we have here are reproducing at a better rate with the vibrations from the music… I finally isolated it, so they’re growing so well… We gotta put it back on… I’m in the middle of making more of the serum!” She moved to grab her headphones back from him. “Everyone else’s cultures are doing wonderfully too!” Hannah’s excitement got her to reach over Casper and grab her headphones. I need to get back to my cultures too.

Casper nodded, though he didn’t let go of the headphones, stopping her from continuing with her work just yet. He also noticed a cot set up behind the amp, a pile of sketchbooks and pencils underneath it next to a bag overflowing with unfolded clothes. “…it’s been four weeks! Do you live here now?” It looks like it. “…if that’s the case, we need to put better sandwich and soup lunches in the break room.”

“Lunches? I don’t buy lunches… usually Sharon will come every other day and bring me food and stay for a bit so that I can see Maverick.” He’s getting so big… and he’s only a month old!

Casper just looked at her, pointing to the amp. “Please tell me you turn that off when the tiny human is here with his tiny fragile ears.” Don’t make him deaf. That would be bad.

Hannah shook her head. “No, the security Guard won’t let him upstairs until he’s at least 1, so I go down and get out of the blaring noise for a while… And we eat downstairs… but Sharon’s been upstairs a few times… At that point we turn off the amp…” Yeah no… she’s deaf as it is… so it’s all good.

Something occurred to Casper, looking between the cultures taking up every counter space around the room, the small living space set up behind the amp, and Hannah. You’ve got a newborn kid… your wife is a new mother… and she only sees you for what? An hour every other day? Does she not miss you? “They were right when they said you went nuts… the cultures are great, but that doesn’t mean you didn’t go completely overboard… and you didn’t take any sort of family leave. We have that here. Are you sure you’d rather be here working, instead of with your new family?” His expression was worried. I don’t want you to go home after all of this, only to find Maverick grew up too much without you…

Hannah felt his words sink in, her gut managing to twist into intricate knots in the span of a few seconds. Fuck… I got so engrossed in work… I put everything on her shoulders… shit… what have I done? What if… Hannah’s eyes quickly found the floor, her arm no longer reaching for her headphones. “I...” She trailed off, knowing that there wasn’t any excuse for the neglect she had forced onto her new family. I’m a fucking idiot… I got caught up in work… the cultures were failing to produce any sort of serum at all, and I noticed that the bacteria we used here didn’t accept the serum or they weren’t accepting the other experiments either that needed to be reproduced, I was getting worried… and I left music playing… I accidentally fell asleep with the song on repeat… Mitch had to come wake me up to tell me he was leaving… and I looked at the cultures… They weren’t failing anymore… And I got so engrossed into trying to figure out how to make it work that I might be a worse insomniac than you at this point.” I don’t know if I can sleep even if I tried. Hannah moved to grab a large black box from a safe, a box generally used to store finished serums, medicines, or anything else that was stored in vials. “... I’ve been replicating it… I finally got it to work....” She held out the full box with slightly shaking hands out to Casper. All the vials are full... there’s 100 white vials....

Casper took it from her, opening the lid, shocked as he saw the many full vials. “Hannah, this is great... with what you’ve done we can start the trials in no time.” He looked up, noticing the box wasn't refrigerated. “...how long do these last? What's their shelf life? Any idea?”

“They’re still active… no refrigeration needed… The sample I got isolated… It’s still viable… nothing’s happened to it… Even what’s left in the original syringe from almost a year ago....” Hannah explained moving around as the lights flashed twice in the room, alerting her to many cultures in an incubator. “I had to screw with the lights... but I can fix them eventually....” She trailed off as she got out everything she needed to start filling more vials with the serum. I couldn’t exactly hear the timer over the music... and I’m pretty sure that I’m going deaf... but that’s a thing for another time...

Casper traipsed over to where she got things ready to deal with the cultures, putting her headphones around his neck and tapping her shoulder, getting her to set the things in her hands down. He set the box back in the safe, looking her in the eyes. “Hannah, listen. You've done absolutely amazing things to help with this, you really have gone above and beyond the call of duty.” He kept a hand on her shoulder, sighing quietly. “Which is why I'm going to demand that after this specific incubator is dealt with, you pack up and get the fuck home to your wife who probably misses you so much and your son who’s starting to grow up without you. He needs both of his moms there- and your wife needs someone to lean on when she’s only been a mom for a month. Got it? Because I'm going to be mad if you show up in less than three weeks, and then give you another entire week.” He smiled. “They need you home. I'll take good care of the cultures. Promise.”

Hannah looked back at him, her eyes wider than dinner plates. “I’m sorry... did you just say three weeks?! That’s all of this year’s vacation time!” Hannah looked ready to begin to panic, but instead tried to focus on getting everything she needed together to harvest the cultures. Well... I can trust you maybe... and I’ll show you how to harvest the cultures so that they grow back....

“Hannah, it’s paid family leave. You're a new mom and need to regroup with your wife back home. I get it. And it’s different from vacation time. You still get those three weeks. I get to do that. I'm a nice boss.” He grinned, his expression soft. “So for that time, I'll take care of the cultures, and you take care of your family. And if you need more time, don't hesitate to tell me. I'll extend it if you're really needed. You haven't been here for too long, but I know how much you deserve it. You've earned it.” You really have. Also, you're my favorite, so you get those perks too.

Hannah heaved a sigh of relief, moving to put everything down and drape her arms around Casper’s waist and pull him into a hug. “Oh my god… thank you...” Her voice wasn’t much higher than a ghost of a whisper. “What am I gonna do about the experiments I had planned?” I even found a no-kill animal shelter....

Casper hugged her back tightly, his voice quiet. “I've been thinking about that... the thing is, we need to get this stuff rolling soon. Eren... well, some of his testimony as to what happened yesterday got out... he's been admitted to the psych ward at the hospital. Sharon knows, she'll explain later. It's in the group chat too, which you're now in. But we need to get this going and get the journals published so we get Eren out. It's either that or rely on his ability to get himself discharged for seeming sane. ...which isn't that great a plan. But listen.” He pulled back, his hands on her shoulders holding her firmly, his expression serious. “We’ve got a new plan. We’re skipping animal testing. We don’t use animal medicines on humans, so why would we do it the other way around? Animals could just get killed! We’re pushing for small tests and trials in the hospital first. Now none of this means that you need to stay. You're going home. But when you come back, and don't rush doing that, it’s going to be lots of testing and writing up reports and recording effects in real time. We’re hoping this will all be published in about six months- hopefully before the wedding, which Eren kinda needs to attend.” That's a thing.

Hannah nodded, starting to think. “We should start with barely anything in the shots though, to see if it’ll heal cuts first… If it can sew together major lacerations….that would be huge… And I’ll show you how to harvest the cultures… But you’re gonna need another box… I filled the three that were in here already…” Yeah, I know, you’ll probably think I’m a fucking freak though...

“You're joking.” Casper moved to where the coolers were, opening the doors and staring at the completely filled space, all of full vials. “...we’re starting trials over the weekend. I need time to get into the rhythm of managing the cultures before I can also help organize the trials and write up the journal. I get the feeling Lathe isn't going to be home much. ...and Scotty living at the hospital is now okay, because I'll be living here. It'll be okay.” He shut the cooler, turning around to face Hannah. “Alright, I'll switch out an empty cooler and put the full one somewhere safe, demanding that nobody fuck with it. Then you can show me what you're doing to harvest this stuff correctly.” He moved to the door, going to snatch a free cooler from one of the other labs. This is going to go okay. He paused, knocking on the wooden frame of a door he passed. We'll get this under control, and he’ll be fine. We'll all be just fine.

Hannah nodded, waiting for Casper to get back into the room with an empty cooler. “Alright, so this is how you take out the serum… And watch closely because the bacteria… When it replicates… It splits away from the serum… So just tilt it to the side… It’s the cloudy liquid.” You only need to syringe it. “You'll need to turn the music back on… They produce the most amount with that music playing… Five cultures makes up half a vial…” That’s all you'll get out of five. “They’re timed to be harvested every 12 hours…” Hannah rattled off all the instructions to Casper. I hope you’re following this...

Casper paid her rapt attention, nodding. “Alright, so harvest all the cultures every twelve hours. Okay. That I can do. And then I'll have plenty of time inbetween to do other necessary shit. Just help me this time around so I get the hang of it and then you can get your ass home.” He picked up a syringe and a vial, and they made their way through every culture in the incubators without incident, Casper refusing to turn the amp back on until she was gone. “Is that it?” Casper looked around as he set the last culture back in the incubator. “That's it. Okay, that wasn't bad. I'll be able to do this. Now. Pack your shit, you're moving out.” He grinned. You don't live here no more. ...for the time being, at least.

“Alright… Um… The lights flash when the timers go off, I have it programmed that way so that you can keep the headphones on while playing the music… Um, the number of flashes is what incubator’s time is going off… And um… I think that’s it… Make sure you record how much you fill though from each incubator… From every harvest, I’ll stay until you’re done to make sure that you do this right… then show you how to record everything.”

Casper nodded, getting the clipboard with the chart printed on it from a shelf on the wall. “Alright, alright. Here, this won't take long at all.” He picked up a pencil, scratching down the number of vials worth of serum harvested, Hannah only having to correct him once while he scratched down the numbers. “And I'm guessing there’s an excel spreadsheet up somewhere for this?” He watched as she nodded, taking down the company laptop from the shelf as well to open the document and input the numbers. “I’ll put those in. Now stop stalling and get your butt moving!” He sat down on the floor, leaning against a counter and beginning to type in numbers carefully. Need to get this right.

Hannah nodded, hugging him again. “Thank you again… I’ll be out in a few minutes… Keep the headphones, they’re wonderful.” I can always get another pair… The pay grade here is awesome… Hannah quickly packed up and started towards the door. “Alright Casper I’m leaving! Email me if you screw something up! And plug in the amp!” I’m going home…

Casper hugged her back, grinning. He waved as she walked to the door. “Alright, I’ll try not to mess shit up though! Say hi to the Bae for me!” And with that, she was gone, Casper back to plugging the numbers into the extensive table before he plugged in the amp again, settling on the cot to work. It’s gonna be a long month…

~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~

Lathe waved to the nurses at the front desk as he walked in, carrying a very warm dish in his hands as he padded to the psych ward, coming to visit Eren. He knocked lightly on the door before coming in, Eren still silent on the cot, watching the TV with disinterest. “Hey kid- I brought food. Pasta with sausage and so much cheese Spades would yell at me for trying to give you a heart attack.” He smiled, though he wasn't surprised when Eren simply looked at him and didn't speak. He still isn't talking… it's been three days, and not a peep… He set down his bags, sitting on the cot next to him and handing him the covered dish, a fork on top. “I know the food here can suck, and it's never enough… try to eat at least a little bit, okay?” He watched as Eren made no move to take it, simply shaking his head. “Well, I can always reheat it if you'd rather just eat it for dinner?” A shrug was his only reply. “…okay, that's fine. We’ll do that then.” Lathe set it on the side table, shifting so he laid next to Eren, his legs crossed at the ankles. “Y’know, the serum replication is doing insanely well. We’re gonna start trials next week. Small things, like cuts and stuff, but we’ve skipped the entire part about doing animal trials and then trying to prove it should be tried on humans after what would’ve ended up being a disaster anyway. It's human stuff, not animal stuff. Some people don't get that still.” He looked over to Eren, sighing quietly. “You're not going to be stuck here forever. Stay sane, and we’ll see if you get discharged. If not… we’ll get you out by the wedding.” He reached over to knock on the table. “We really will.” Everything will go okay.

Eren only nodded, moving to curl up into a small ball against Lathe’s side, closing his eyes until he heard a shrill cry as is a baby was put in new, unfamiliar hands. What’s going on? Why is a baby in here? Doesn’t the psych ward, like, have things against that?

Scotty frowned a bit as he held Maverick in his arms. “Now now, Maverick… Is that any way to greet your Godfather?” Oh my god he’s adorable! And Hannah’s actually with Sharon… That must mean Casper is now taking over everything in the lab. “That’s it, calm your screaming… I know the floor’s lower than you expect it to be…” A soft smile graced his lips as Maverick was finally calming down and holding onto his lengthy finger.

Sharon beamed, watching as Maverick quickly warmed up to Scotty. “That’s the most adorable thing. He loves you already!” She chuckled as Maverick burbled in Scotty’s arms, walking along the hall with him and Hannah, poking her head into the small room. “Surprise! And we brought company!” She smiled, Hannah traipsing in behind her with an arm around her waist, Scotty carrying in Maverick. Thought you could use someone to talk to in this boring psych ward.

Eren’s eyes widened as he looked to Maverick in Scotty’s arms, letting out a soft gasp before moving to get up off his bed and go onto his tiptoes to look at Maverick. Awe… He’s so cute! He’s still got those Chubby Cheeks… I want to hold him too. His eyes instantly shot to Sharon, smiling a bit more as Hannah pulled her close. They held a pleading undertone, wanting to hold the child again. He's bigger than the last time I held him... He's doing well for having been born a few weeks ago instead of two months ago.

Sharon rolled her eyes in mock exasperation, smiling. “If Scotty is willing to share the privilege of holding the tiny hooman, then you can hold the tiny hooman.” She looked over to Scotty pointedly, still smiling, one eyebrow quirked. Come on- let the kid hold him.

Scotty sighed quietly. “I want him back eventually… Get on the bed, Kid.” Scotty watched as Eren scrambled onto his bed, sitting up and waiting for Maverick to be handed to him. This kid is way too excited about this... So his doctor says nothing’s wrong with him... aside from the fact that he’s on suicide watch... he had a guard at his door at all times if someone’s not in the room with him... but Eren’s become mute again... He looks like he loves children... and we’re understaffed in the nursery... I could ask if he could help out. He would probably love that.

Eren smiled more as Maverick giggled happily in his arms, babbling and waving his fists, his bright blue eyes, shining like ice, his dark brown hair wisping around his whole head. He’s so cute... and bubbly... He’s a happy baby! I want one still... will I even be allowed to have one after this? Eren was clearly lost in thought but being mindful of Maverick grabbing his shirt.

...this is so fucking adorable I can't even. Lathe quietly took out his phone and snapped a picture, Eren entranced by the baby’s babbling. “He’s so cute...” Lathe smiled to him, gently reaching out a finger to him, Maverick’s attention going from the pattern on Eren’s shirt to the hand offered to him, seeing Lathe’s warm eyes. He latched onto his finger, his grip strong as he giggled. They're so lucky. Lathe looked up to the two of them, something clicking. “...haven’t you been living at the lab for the past month?” I thought that was a thing. An unconventional thing given you now have a tiny hooman, but a thing nonetheless.

Hannah perked up a bit, looking over to Lathe in the same bed as Eren. “Oh yeah… Casper took my spot… three days ago… and I’ve been trying to get back on a proper sleep schedule… but this little stinker refuses to sleep the whole night, but it’s okay cause I can’t either… so it works, because Sharon can sleep now… and I get to spend precious time with Maverick… But there are over 300 vials full of the serum… and getting distributed soon I believe…” Hannah smiled a bit and held Sharon tighter to herself and kissed her neck gently.

...I'm so glad I'm back... I get to sleep with someone in my arms.

Sharon blushed as Hannah kissed her neck, smiling, her own hold on Hannah tightening. “Casper is literally my favorite person right now.” She looked to Hannah as she immediately glared at herself, speaking again. “Okay, well, he’s seriously up there. I can actually sleep like a normal human being for once; I couldn't take any more sleepless nights, it's just not how I function. Doesn't work. But Maverick gets his Mom back, and I get my wife back, so it's all working out fine for now.” ...I'm so happy it's not just me and him in the house all the time anymore. I have someone to help me with Maverick... and I get to sleep with someone holding onto me. I've been so clingy ever since she came home, yeesh. ...no regrets.

...did you just say 300. “Hannah, I’d say something, but because tiny ears, I'll just say you're crazy enough for them to set you up with your own room here.” He looked over to Scotty, the gears of his mind turning. “And Scotty, you're pretty much living here right now, right?” He watched as he nodded, grinning. “Since we’re pretty much both gonna be here all the time… wanna get a head start on the tests soon?” The sooner the better.

Scotty nodded. “Yeah, we can get it through with the ER, and I’ll get transferred into it to start writing the reports and get a journal together.” I can get transferred... the higher ups know that this is an important case for us to follow.
Lathe smiled, nodding. “That's good- and Casper is probably using any down time he has to start organizing things. We need our own group chat for this stuff. I'll make one when my fingers aren't monopolized...” He looked back to Maverick, who still held his fingers, tugging on them.

“...Sharon, is it okay if I hold him too?”

Sharon chuckled, her eyes warm. “Would you really think I'm gonna say no when he obviously loves you? Everyone gets to share the holding privileges.” ...that is, if Eren ever wants to hand him over.

Eren finally snapped out of it when he heard the word ‘privileges’. Are my privileges being taken away? They’re always threatening them if I misbehave.

Eren quickly handed the babbling tyke over to Lathe... I wanna be able to walk around.... It'd be too boring otherwise...

Lathe carefully took the small baby, cradling him carefully, beaming as Maverick looked up at him with wide, curious eyes before smiling, his fists waving as he made a happy sound. ...oh my god. Lathe rubbed at his eyes, smiling widely as he offered his hand to him again, Maverick immediately latching onto them again, trying to nibble on his fingertip. He gently pulled his finger away, booping his nose lightly. “You're adorable, you know that?” You should. You're so adorable, this level of adorable should be illegal. He glanced up to Sharon, his voice holding a hint of mischief. “And your Mum thought you looked like a bruised potato. I tend to disagree. I think you're the most handsome potato to ever exist.” He tried to keep from chuckling as Sharon burst out laughing, his eyes twinkling. “...you be nice to your mum and your mom, okay? Let them sleep occasionally. Rumor has it people like sleep.” He gently untangled his fingers from Maverick’s grasp, looking to Eren. “You wanna hold him again, Eren?” You looked like you absolutely adored him.

Eren barely raised his head to look at Lathe as he asked, looking down at his hands in his lap, shaking his head. I... I don’t wanna lose my privileges... They’ll take them away... They won’t let anyone come see me. They'll put me in a straight jacket again.

Lathe quirked his eyebrow. “...you know, it's still a privilege you have. It's not like I took him because you weren't allowed to. So. Do you want to hold him again?” Just say yes. You want to, I can tell.

Eren looked over to Maverick as he reached out to hold onto shirt. He had to force his eyes to look away as he shook his head again. I can do without holding him... I can go without holding the adorable little ball of flesh...

Lathe nodded, looking up to Scotty, standing up. “You want your Godkid back? Seems like he wants you back. He likes your tie.” He smiled as Maverick reached for the colorful fabric, making a grabbing motion with his hand. Such cute. Much adorable. Wow.

Scotty smiled and held Maverick, bouncing him slightly to have him giggling more. “You must really like my tie...” He smiled more as the baby took his tie and gripped it, tugging on it with the little strength he had. God you're adorable.... I'm glad I agreed to be your godfather.

They chatted until dinner time rolled around, Hannah and Sharon bidding them goodnight and taking Maverick home, Lathe reheating the pasta for Eren’s dinner and taking the half-eaten dish home. He ruffled Eren’s hair and pecked his forehead before he left, leaving a blank notebook and a pencil and eraser on the table he got too bored. He arrived early the next morning, a thermos of tea with him as he entered the psych ward just as visiting hours began, stepping back into the room, his expression bright. “‘Mornin’ Eren, I brought tea-” He stopped, staring in shock at the sight of Eren struggling to get out of a straight jacket, sitting on the bed, frustrated. “Oh my God, Eren, what happened?!” Did something go wrong in the night? “Why’d they put you in a straight jacket?” They never do that unless it’s something bad …

Eren jumped a bit when Lathe spoke as he walked in, trying to stop his struggles for fear that the nurse would threaten his privileges all over again. He opened his mouth to speak, but nothing came out, his mouth closing after a moment and eyes trailing down to where his hands would be. They can’t deal with me… They don’t want to deal with me…

Lathe set down his things, moving to his side and gathering him up into his arms, keeping him close to his chest. “Eren, please, talk to me… I can’t take it off, I’ll get in serious trouble… it’s okay, really. Please, tell me and maybe I can fix this.” I find it so hard to believe that you got violent or tried again…

Eren leaned into his touch, sighing a bit as he was held. “N… N-nightm-mares… Th-thrashing…” I couldn’t control my movements… They aren’t giving me the right meds… I want it off…. I don’t need to wear it during the day… Only at night…

Lathe’s eyes widened. “They’re not giving you your proper meds, are they.” He watched as Eren shook his head, nodding, his expression neutral. “Okay. I’ll take care of that. Let’s get you out of this thing, okay?” Lathe shifted Eren a bit, undoing the buckles and straps deftly, hugging him tightly and kissing his temple when it was off. “Here, you stay here and draw while I go talk to the people in charge, m’kay?” He smiled as Eren nodded, ruffling his hair and standing to leave, his expression switching from neutral to stony the instant he stepped out of the door and closed it, holding the offending mess of fabric and metal in his hand. He caught one of the attendants in the hall, evenly asking her where the person in charge of the ward was. He was led right to them, an older woman with a stern expression. “Ma’am, I need to ask you about the care Eren Yeager is receiving here in the psych ward. He has been receiving the wrong medication, either the wrong drug or dose, or not getting it at all, and instead of fixing that he’s been restrained to deal with the thrashing, has he not been?”

“That’s not entirely correct, we’re giving him the medications and the dosages that are on file, so when he is put to sleep we put him in a straight jacket to prevent him from hurting himself while he’s thrashing. We haven’t given the approval to change his dosage or medication…” The woman looked to the jacket in Lathe’s hands. “Did he break it? We knew he was strong… But we made sure to get him into an enforced jacket.” Harder to tear apart from pure strength.

Lathe shook his head. “No, he didn’t. He’d been awake for a bit, and was struggling to get out of it when I walked in to see him. And the thing about the medications- the one he should be taking at night has successfully prevented him from having nightmares with very little exception for months. I find it hard to believe that this exception is persisting for multiple nights in a row. I’d like to know exactly what he’s taking.” A hundred bucks you’re getting it wrong. They probably replaced some meds with generics to save money or some bullshit like that.

“He takes 2 pills of PTSD medication every morning and every night.” The woman replied calmly.

I fucking called it.

“Is there any reason why’ve you’ve come to ask? He’s on the proper regimen that his files give us.” We’re going to be putting him in a straight jacket at night for the remainder of his stay, we might take it off if he shows improvement.

Lathe chuckled grimly, shaking his head. “I don’t know what system of filing you got that from, but that’s very wrong. He can’t have generic PTSD medication- they’ve always made his nightmares worse. That’s kinda why we created WOF104, the ones he’s supposed to be on. He needs those in the morning and at night, but one and a half pills does the trick. And actually, I've got a better question. I'm his legal guardian, and I've been here every day, all day. How is it that I only hear of this when I find him struggling out of a straight jacket? Was this the only solution you could think of?"

“He got violent…”

“In his sleep. He was asleep, had an extensive history of terrible nightmares which would shock me if it weren't on file, and you didn't try to change the medications that were supposed to help with the nightmares. That's a problem.” I'm so fucking done with everything about Eren's care getting fucked up when it isn't handled by me or Scotty.

“Sir, when this happened the first time, your son got violent. We didn’t want to put him in the straight jacket right away so we started with wrist and ankle restraints to try and keep him subdued, he fought back and we put him in the straight jacket… We’ve changed the medication between the generics but none have worked, as we don’t have the approval to change it to something that the FDA is still deciding on…”

“Do you use paper filing in this ward?” You look like you might run this old-fashioned enough.

“We do, our system is in need of an upgrade but we’re able to properly function without the use of technology for our filing system.”

“You put my son on the worst drugs for him and caused him to need a straight jacket. That's obviously not true. And I can understand why he'd fight restraints; he'd think about his father. That's all I'm going to say. Get his files reprinted. This needs to be fixed.” I need to talk to Scotty later, ask to see what model laptops they bought for the rest of the doctors around here..

The woman nodded. “I'll have his files reprinted and his medication switched, now, if you will kindly excuse me, I have work that needs to be done.” I want you out of my office.

Lathe nodded, turning on his heel and walking from the office. Gladly. Lathe looked up as Scotty walked down the hall, catching him by the arm and cutting off his greeting, his expression serious. “I’m just informing you that I'm going to borrow your office thing upstairs for like ten minutes. Is your laptop up there too?” He watch as he nodded, confused. “Good. Their files were outdated because they use paper, gave Eren the wrong meds, and then put him in a straight jacket because they didn't know what else to do. My god, it's a wonder I don't just sue you guys.” He handed him the mess of fabric, storming off upstairs. "I'm so done. I don't want this happening again to us, or ever to anyone else. You can't function on paper alone! Lathe studied the specs he'd scribbled on a post it as he came back downstairs, smiling to Eren as he doodled on the blank notebook paper. “That won't be going on for much longer, Eren. They'll get you back on your right meds, and you'll be sleeping alright in no time. However…” He sat down next to him, pulling him into his side. “I know it's scary, but they're going to put you in the jacket again for a couple more nights, see if you improve when you're back on your normal medicine. Please, promise me for the next few days you won't fight it. The sooner you become non-violent and sleep easy, the better it'll be and the quicker it'll be over, okay?” It's not an easy decision to make...

Eren looked to Lathe, nodding after a few seconds, taking everything in. I can do that... I think I can sleep with the straight jacket on... I should be able to. Eren’s focus returned to his drawing after a few moments and he returned to his quietness.

Lathe smiled, picking up his laptop and doing a quick search on Amazon. “Scotty, how many people are working in the psych ward on a regular basis? Besides you, of course. Check the rosters if you don't know off the top of your head; I can't underestimate.” Overestimate? Maybe.

Scotty nodded, retreating from Eren’s room and going to get the paper files. He had left Eren and Lathe alone in silence, the only noise the scratch of Eren’s pencil against the paper as he drew beautiful pictures of Maverick. I want one.

Lathe looked at the pictures he was drawing, smiling, his voice quiet. “Maverick really is a cutie, isn't he?” He looked up to him, seeming to recognize the look in his eye after a moment. ...that kinda looks like how Spades looks sometimes. And how I look in the mirror sometimes when I'm thinking about kids... “...you maybe thinking about having one someday?” I dunno how you and Levi feel about having your own teeny hooman. Or hoomans.

Eren nodded. “He… He said we could have one… We’re gonna try… Can get stuff in before he leaves… So that… We can try… But I don’t know how much longer I’ll be in here for.” I really don’t… And I really hope that this doesn’t affect my chances of being able to have a kid.

Lathe beamed. “It's great to hear that, Eren. We’ll try to get you out of here the second we can; you've got a life to live.” You and Levi, having kids running around... I wonder when he’s finally gonna propose? He’d have to ask me, of course- I'm traditional like that. And you're talking, finally. Yay!

Eren nodded. “We’ve been looking… At a few places that can help… Um… We found one that the both of us like...” so that the kid will actually be ours.

Scotty returned after a few minutes, a few sheets of paper in his hand. “A total of 78 nurses, doctors, and assistants work here on the psych ward.” Why do you need to know?

“Thank you!” I'm gonna need the main site for this company to get that many. Lathe tapped away on the computer, finding the right site and the right kind of computer. Plenty of memory for a work computer, 128GB is plenty because most of the stuff is shared information over wifi, touchscreen, I'll have to get the nice kind of styluses, the ones with solid tips, the other ones will tear or something way too fast... and for the head of this ward... this is gonna max out all my credit cards... eh. I'll just have to get plenty of money orders from the bank, no big deal. “To... the psych ward... hospital... there!” Lathe saved the images of his receipts, shutting his laptop. “They'll be here in a couple days. Then this crap won't happen again. Hopefully.” He knocked on the table. Hopefully they'll actually use them. They won't have to put all the paper stuff on them- if they log into the right programs they'll have it all updating constantly for them. “I hope you people have the recycling people come.” That's a lot of paper.

Scotty looked up in confusion from the card game he had started with Eren. “What?” What did you just do? “Why would the recycling company need to come? It’s not the end of the month yet...” Scotty’s eyebrow was quirked up in confusion.

Eren was staring down at his cards, trying to think of the next move he should make. I don’t know if I can do anything with the cards that I have...

“To get rid of all the paper files you've amassed in this ward. You're not gonna need ‘em if everything’s on computers. Can I play with you two next round?” I love card games.

“Did you just buy the whole psych ward computers?” Do you realize how much that’s gonna put you into debt? Scotty sighed looking over to Eren. “What do you say? Why don’t we let you kick his ass at trash too?” You’ve won all the games so far.

Eren shrugged, finally deciding what to do with his queen card and quickly filling up his board. *I won again… A small smile was on his face as he knocked on the table. I win! He made a gesture for Lathe to come sit down as well, taking the cards and shuffling them all. We can play…

“Ex cuse you, Scotty, but you forget that I am the card game God.” Lathe flipped his hair dramatically, grinning as he knelt next to the table, Eren dealing cards for the three of them. “And yes. Yes I did. Because things get updated 24/7 and it’ll make for fewer mistakes. I’ll also save you people so much money on paper and ink.” He then looked back up, his expression a bit incredulous. “And are you telling me that after all those card games in the club you’ve lost your skills? I’m disappointed, Scotty. Dis graceful.” He was still grinning widely as Scotty picked up a card to go first.

Scotty sighed quietly. “This is a game of chance, Lathe…” he quickly switched out a few cards. Well, Eren’s still quiet… And the head of the nursing staff saw how gentle he was with Maverick.

Eren slowly took a card, clearing a majority of his board before setting down a Jack, ending his turn. I wonder when I’ll be able to go outside again.

“Eh, its chance until you have to pick where to put a Queen.” Lathe picked up a new card, going three cards around his board before finding a Queen. “…this is exactly what I’m talking about, Scotty.” Lathe thought for a moment, setting it where a two would go before continuing around the board, all but the two missing when he placed down a five he already had, ending his turn.

Eren watched in silence, pulling out the last card that he needed. “I win…” His voice was soft, his eyes not looking up from his hands. It’s… It’s almost time for lunch… I wonder if Mom’s coming for lunch… Or if I get to hold Maverick again?

Lathe just looked at his completed set of cards, simply stating. “Well then. That just happened.” He chuckled, shuffling his own cards together and pushing them over to Eren. “You’re certainly my son. Oh, the tea in the thermos- that’s yours if you want any. Lunch’ll be soon- I’ll run out and get us all something decent to munch on, if everyone’s hungry?” It’s a bit past eleven right now, so you might want something to eat. They didn’t give you breakfast… I don’t think.

Eren shook his head. I’m not hungry… I don’t really want any food… He took the cards that Lathe stacked up and put them back in his deck before he picked up the thermos as well and started to drink the very strong tea from the container. I don’t really wanna eat… I wanna go home…

Scotty sighed. “I’ll take whatever you can bring… And I’d bring it for him in case he gets hungry between lunch and dinner… Or if he’s actually hungry by then.” Scotty stood, checking over a few things on his pager, grinning at what he saw. Short handed at the nursery again… Eren gets to hold some children…

Lathe nodded, shrugging a bit and jerking a thumb to the thermos. [I put crushed vitamins in it in case he wasn't hungry; God knows he’d need ‘em if he wasn't eating much. Which he isn't.] He quirked an eyebrow as Scotty grinned at the pager in his hand. “What’s got you all smiley? Now I'm suspicious.”

Scotty smiled more. “I think I found a way to occupy him…” This could work… I can go with him, I’m approved to supervise him. Scotty moved back into the room with Eren. “Come with me, Kid…” He waved Eren over to him. Come on, you’re not in trouble… You look like your waiting for me to hit you.

Eren got up slowly and followed Scotty as he moved down the hall, he was wary of all the people staring at him in loose clothes, his sleeves rolled up and showing a lot scars and his hospital bracelets. Where are we going? Where is he taking me?
Lathe looked a bit confused as Scotty simply led Eren from the room, following them silently a few feet behind. I need to see this. His eyebrows shot up as they left the psych ward and began walking along a hallway. *Scotty’s taking Eren to the nursery?

Scotty led Eren to the nursery where a woman was working alone, holding a crying infant. “I brought reinforcements, Sheila.” His voice was soft as he ushered Eren into the room.

Eren’s eyes widened. We’re with a bunch of Mavericks… He slowly followed Scotty around so that he was in a scrub shirt, and in a rocking chair, holding a crying infant. I get to hold it! It’s so cute! Eren was completely silent, internally ecstatic as he held the small child.

Lathe beamed as he saw Eren holding a small infant in a rocking chair, Scotty finally noticing him and waving, signing. {I'm going to get us lunch. Thank you- he could really be a help, and it's better than watching mediocre television. He loves kids. ...I'll see you two soon.} Lathe turned and left, his hands in his pockets, the sound of Maverick’s giggling still an echo in the back of his mind.

Scotty nodded watching him leave. He was paged down to the ER, to oversee a broken bone, and quickly went to set it. He came back up about a half hour later, coming up behind Lathe as he looked into the glass. “He fell asleep?” His voice was quiet in the almost empty hall. Eren was asleep, laying down on a bed with triplets on his chest, his arms wrapped protectively around them. He looks so peaceful… Like he's actually getting sleep.

Lathe nodded, faintly smiling. “Yeah, he did. It's the cutest thing, with the triplets…” He quietly sighed, his expression falling a bit as his thoughts swam. Spades and I probably won't be so lucky… I don't know if we'll even be lucky enough to conceive in the first place… His head was bowed, staring down at his feet, his eyes becoming a bit glassy. I really, really want kids… but… I don't know if it's gonna happen… I really want it to… but… it probably won't...

Scotty sighed, looking down a bit, patting his back. “It’s alright Lathe, you’ll be able to adopt… Even if you can’t conceive… I mean you’ll get approved, because you took over Eren’s care flawlessly.” It's amazing what you've done for him…

Lathe faintly nodded, though his expression seemed to fall even more with his words, brushing at a tear that fell down his cheek. “B-But…. I just really want it to happen… and our chances don't look t-too good… I… it's all I ever think about… and it's probably not gonna h-happen…”

Scotty smiled softly, rubbing his back. “Lathe, you should be glad that you can try… Eren and Levi can’'t do anything natural… hell, even Sharon and Hannah couldn’t do anything natural… have you considered artificially? You could inseminate her with your own sperm… it could help… even if you want to wait until after you're married, I think you two should consider it.” Scotty offered, shifting a bit as one of the three children woke up crying, watching as Eren woke up and quickly lulled the crying child back to sleep. “You could have a baby momma too… That’s not uncommon when two can’t conceive, but both of you still have viable everything.” Last I heard… Spades still has eggs…

Lathe nodded. “…I guess I should be grateful that we can actually try… I'll talk to Spades about the first one… if things stay the same for the next few months…” But I don't think we'd try the second… it wouldn't feel right… He watched as Eren blinked awake at the crying, easily calming them and getting them back to sleep. “…thanks… I'll make sure we talk later… discuss stuff…” He took a deep breath to settle himself, glancing up, his eyes sort of hidden by his hair as he lifted the bag he was holding. “Lunch?” I dunno if I'm too hungry anymore though…

“Yeah, we’ll let him sleep though, why don’t we go to my office and I can help you look through a few more options.” Scotty suggested and motioned towards the double doors down the hallway. I know you really want to be a Dad… I wanna help you.

~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~

So… I’ve been stuck here for two months now… Dad’s birthday was last week… and my birthday is coming up in a few days. I’m not even allowed to discharge myself… and trust me I have tried to walk out a few times, but they refuse to let me leave, and keep monitoring my progression. It’s gotten a little better now… I get to go work with the newborns and infants as soon as I wake up… I almost always find Sheila getting ready to hand me a baby as soon as I walk in. Dad usually comes around lunch now and eats with me. I haven’t really talked much, but apparently the serum’s been doing well in the emergency room in the next wing over. Hannah’s been stopping by with Maverick often, to a point where they don’t even have to check in at the front desk anymore, they’re allowed to just walk in, she comes in to talk to Scotty about the journals, and talking about the dosages for different cases. They’ve called the serum TitanX… I can’t think of a more perfect name for it. Mom’s been stopping by a lot too and talking with the staff to try and figure out what privileges I have… and I think she’s finally gotten the go ahead to let me get out of this hell hole for a couple hours. I really wanna get out… I’m tired of wearing mostly scrubs for a long time… Eren gently set the now sleeping child down into it’s crib before he made his way back to his room, finding one of the small boys that had been admitted recently in his room. “Jake… you know you can’t keep coming in here…”

Jake fidgeted on the larger bed, the bruises visible on his arms. “I… I know… but can you please sing for me?” He asked quietly, his voice was small as he looked up to Eren with practiced puppy eyes, which made Eren melt in an instant.

“Allright, fine, what do you want me to sing?” Eren moved to sit down by Jake, one leg hanging off the edge of the bed as he ruffled the boys hair.

“Can you sing to me from home?”

You just like listening to me sing in German don’t you? Eren nodded after a bit and opened his arms, letting Jake come crawl into his arms as he had been for the past few days. He ran a hand through the boys dirty blonde hair and sang softly and deeply. Der Mond Ist Aufgegangen always puts him to sleep… I think he just doesn’t like asking to take his medication so he can sleep.

Spades faintly knocked on the doorframe, her head poking into the room as she heard Eren singing, smiling as she saw Eren cradling Jake. She silently stepped into the room, waiting for Eren to finish the song, Jake asleep in his arms. Her voice was a soft, quiet whisper. “Hey Honey. Today’s the day.” I’m so excited!

Eren looked up, his hand still going through Jake’s soft locks. He nodded, looking down at the boy before seeing the bag that Spades had in hand. “Are those my clothes?” His voice wasn’t more than a whisper as he moved to pick up Jake and hold him to his chest. I’ve been wearing just scrubs… so I hope it’s clothes…

Spades nodded, looking to the bag. “Yeah, I’ve got your nice jeans, and I made Lathe hand over his sweater again.” She smiled to him, her eyes warm. I know you like wearing his sweater; it keeps you calm.

Eren gave her a soft smile and nodded. “Alright, I’m gonna take Jake back to his room… and then I’ll come and get changed.” I feel like I’m taking care of people… and they depend on me a lot more… Eren set the sleeping child in his room, his nurse sighing in relief when she saw him in Eren’s arms. He simply smiled in return before going back to his room and changing in the bathroom. Now if I remember correctly… Dave has to come with us too… and he’s in charge of signing me out for the few hours we’re gone.

Dave was already signing Eren out, and filling out the necessary paperwork for Eren to go around town for a few hours with him. He had his handcuffs out, letting the nurse inspect them to assure that he would be thoroughly restrained. I can at least do this for Spades… I can’t believe he’s still in here… It’s been two months since I brought him in.

Spades had a melancholy look in her eyes as Eren stepped from the bathroom, for once wearing something other than scrubs. You’ve been helping in the nursery… you haven’t been violent or thrashed in your sleep… you’ve been helping take care of the newer admitted patients… how have you not been discharged yet? She stepped to him and pulled him into a hug, sighing quietly as his arms wrapped around her. They broke apart after a long moment, and she looked up as she heard Dave’s footsteps, her expression shifting as she saw him holding his handcuffs. “Eren, I’m sorry Hon, but we’re required to… but don’t you worry, it’s just Dave.” Don’t fight it… that’ll get you in even more trouble…

Eren nodded, looking down a bit as he held out his wrists for Dave who took them and put the restraints on him. It’s just for a few hours… that’s all it’s for…. He followed the two of them out to the squad car, Dave getting in the driver’s seat while Eren was locked into the back. I’m still seen as a threat to everyone I see… I wonder if we’ll go suit shopping? I need a suit… I got bigger since the last one I had…. His eyes seemed a bit dull as he leaned his head against the cool glass, watching the outside scenery change. I haven’t been out of the hospital in two whole months….

Spades looked over her shoulder through the metal divide, seeing Eren staring blankly out the window. Two months of being cooped up in there… fresh air and a change of scenery will do you some good, I think… She rolled down her window just a crack, letting cool air into the car. “Eren, did you know Maisie had her puppies? Seven of them. It’s the cutest thing, Blake being so protective of all of them and Maisie. He’s chased Abby and Salem off a dozen times” She chuckled faintly. “Lucifer though, they’re cool with him. He’s pretty much become besties with one of the pups, wrestling and tumbling over each other. He’s been teaching them well, getting into a habit of finding stuff that falls on the floor and dragging it to random hiding spots. I dropped my keys the other day in the kitchen, found them under a rug after stepping on them. It’s both adorable and infuriating… not really sure which. It’s cute if it’s a blanket and it only gets halfway under the couch. It’s not when I’m nearly late for work and can’t find the thing that makes my car start.” He’s a sneaky little thing… “We haven’t really named many of them. The one female of the entire litter Lathe named Curly, and one who’s completely blonde with a brown ear King… but we thought you’d want to name most of them.”

“Name the one that drags stuff everywhere Krampus…” Eren’s voice was still quiet, his eyes glued to the outside through the bars that went around the whole car. I don’t know what to call any of the other ones… I don’t know them well…. And I’ve never seen them… I haven’t seen Blake for a long time… and I’ve barely been able to talk to Levi… my phone privileges are limited… and someone knows German here… so they always listen to the phone calls…. I want out… why can’t I be discharged?

Spades chuckled at that. “Certainly seems like a fitting name.” Lucifer has taught him well. It wasn't long before they were at the bridal shop, Spades stepping from the car and going to help Eren from the backseat and lead him inside. “Dave, I hope you understand this is gonna take forever. And it might not even be the only time this happens. And I'm not sorry.” Nope. You arrested my baby. Now you get to suffer amidst lace and silk.

Dave simply sighed, shaking his head. “It’s the least I can do… Anything to get him out of there while he’s forced to stay…” I don’t want Eren to rot in there… Dave followed them, his hand on Eren’s back, causing the boy to stiffen. He’s still afraid of me… Wow…

Eren stiffened, feeling the hand at the small of his back. He’s touching me… Why’s he touching me? I don’t want him to touch me… He shifted uncomfortably trying to get away from the hand that was on the small of his back while Spades spoke with one of the salespersons.

The salesperson was a nice older lady, working at the counter, her smile warm but when her eyes drifted over to where Eren was handcuffed with Dave in uniform behind him, she seemed shocked. “C-can I help you, deary?” She turned her gaze back to Spades, hoping she could get her mind off the handcuffed man in her store that was followed by a police officer.

Spades smiled warmly, trying to diffuse some of the sales woman’s nerves. “Yes, I’m here looking for a wedding dress. We were thinking along the lines of something strapless, floor-length, and white, maybe a mermaid fit?” I hope I'm not being too specific. Eh. And off-white is a thing, so I kinda need to say that.

Alright, deary, let me get a notepad really quick.” She looked around the large desk finally finding a pen and a pad of paper. She also got a long measuring tape, motioning her to follow. “I know you said strapless, but there are ones with sleeves… Or without, which one deary?” Her voice was sweet and gentle as she motioned her onto an elevated platform. I'll take some measurements and then get some dresses. “Have you thought about lace?”

Spades stepped onto the platform, thinking. “Without sleeves… and we weren't too sure about lace… I'd say without, but keep it in mind as I try on dresses…” She moved as the woman motioned her to so she could take the proper measurements, watching her scribble them down onto the paper.

The woman smiled more once she had everything together. “Alright, any price ranges you were thinking about?” I need to know.

“No restrictions.” Eren suddenly piped up as he was led forward by Dave. I wanna buy Mom her dress.

The woman nodded again before leaving to go around the store, grabbing quite a few dresses as close to the description she was given. Let's see… Sleeveless, strapless, mermaid or trumpet fit… Floor length… White… Alright let's try these first. She brought back four dresses, each having a different bottom, one with ruffles, one was tiered, one with ruching, and one with pleating. “Okay deary, I'm gonna hang these up over here and I want you to help me figure out what you want your bottom to look like.” The woman hung them all up spreading them out so she could look at them properly.

“Are there tiered ruffles?” Eren drew a really amazing sketch of kinda what a nice wedding dress for me would be like… it had tiered ruffles. Spades saw the one the woman motioned to, with the ruffles in front. “That dress looks wonderful- may I try that one on?” It's been all of ten minutes but I like that one.

The woman nodded bringing the dress with the tiered ruffles over to her. “Alright, deary, try this one on if you want, and if you need a bigger size I’ll get that one for you.” That's got a strapless top, but this is a trumpet fit… And it's got a flair at the bottom of it.

Spades nodded, taking the dress to change out of her clothes and into the long dress, stepping back out and onto the platform, gazing at her reflection in the mirror, turning a bit to see it from all sides. It really does look nice… but I dunno if I love it…
Eren started to get up to look more closely at Spades’ dress only for Dave to grab him and pull him back. But I wanna go look at it... It's not right... but I need to see why. Eren tried again to get out of Dave’s grasp to go towards Spades, only for Dave to grab at his cuffs and jerk him again. His eyes widened when he heard Dave’s threat to take him back. I don’t wanna go back.

Spades turned as she heard Dave threaten Eren quietly, fixing the officer with a cool glare. “Dave, he’s already in handcuffs. Let him come and see the dress better- it's why we brought him out. It’s not like he's gonna hurt me. He's a sweetheart, not a convict.” My God, calm the hell down.

Eren finally stepped up once Dave reluctantly let go of him. His eyes were trained on the dress she was wearing. “The waistline’s too high... Do you have a dropped waistline? Or an asymmetric one?” Eren asked the woman who nodded and then walked off into the aisles of dresses, taking the other ones with her to put back. I want to see those ones first... Before I start looking at the top, it’s not fitted enough yet.

The woman came back with two more dresses, one with a dropped waistline which would conform around Spades’ hips and an asymmetrical waistline, which fitted only one hip full before leading down to the tiered ruffles. Let's see which of these is better on her. “Alright deary... Time to put the next one on.” The woman refused to come near Eren, waiting for him to leave the area before bringing Spades the dresses.

Spades’ expression fell a bit as she realised how wary the woman was of Eren. Well... he is in handcuffs... but I can't really do anything about it... Spades took the dresses from her, trying on the dress with the dropped waistline first, she and Eren taking a good look at how the waistline looked before trying on the other, noting the difference. “...I like the dropped waistline better than this kind. Form-fitting through the hips looked nicer I think.” I appreciate the ruffles. But the form-fit through the hips was better with it.

Eren nodded, stepping up again to look over the dress, causing the woman helping them to almost back up in fear as he came close to her. Well she’s scared... No idea why tho... His eyes was scrutinizing the dress as a whole. “Sweetheart neckline... And um, I don’t like the chapel train… Could you find a court train?” Eren watched the woman nod and leave yet again to come back with another dress.

Spades looked down to Eren, giving him a bit of a grin. “You just know all the right fancy words, don’t you?” I picked the right person to be helping me. It wasn't long before the woman was back with yet another dress, Spades changing into it and coming back out to stand on the platform, her eyes wide as she gave a small spin. It looks beautiful on me... “Eren, what do you think? ...I'm thinking this might be the one...” It certainly makes me look gorgeous... She looked to him, seeing Eren shake his head. “No? What's up with it?” I think it looks really good. But you're acting more or less like the expert here, so I wanna hear this.

Eren looked over to the woman again who seemed to shrink. “Organza fabric… I don’t like how the silk sinks…” He didn't need to watch her leave as the woman came back with yet another dress. It seemed to be the exact same dress, but when Spades would change into it, it would be considerably lighter. “That one should feel better.” It'd be like the picture...

Spades nodded, sceptical that there would be much change, going to put it on. ...it feels lighter... a lot lighter, actually. Spades stepped back out onto the pedestal, smiling as the ruffles seemed to fluff out a bit more, just perfectly, the fabric hugging her curves. “Okay, I take it back. This is gorgeous.” She twirled before looking over to Eren, seeking his approval. I love it! Even if it will metaphorically cost me my leg, I love it!
Eren smiled as he saw her smile. “I love it…” I actually wanna try it on… I know my hair’s been getting long… Well, it fits Mom great! His eyes held a warm mirth as she twirled, giving an approving nod. I love this one on you… I don’t care how much I’m gonna pay for it… I haven’t been able to buy anything for the past two months… I’m sure my black card is pissed...

Spades beamed, doing small jazz squares on the pedestal. “I think I’ll be able to dance in this alright… God knows Lathe is gonna rope me in for tap at some point.” It wouldn’t be a party if we didn’t make everyone feel bad about their dancing skills. …as mean as that sounds. “I’ll go change out of this, and then try to figure out which of my cards has the highest credit limit.” She shrugged, lightly joking as she stepped from the platform. It's soooo worth it though.

Eren shook his head, grabbing her arm to stop her. “I’m buying it.. And do you wanna look for a tea length dress too?” While we’re here...

Spades immediately turned to look at him, though she barely heard Eren when she saw Dave reaching for his taser. ...you know what. “One second, Honey.” Spade walked straight up to Dave, his gaze even. “I know you have a job to do. I know that Eren being here is a serious privilege and not a right. And I know that it's intimidating that he’s been in the psych ward for as long as he has been and that you're worried about his mentality. But I hope you understand that this is the same exact Eren you've known this entire time, who isn't out yet only because he sometimes is reminded of his father and retreats into his mind. That’s it. They trust him to work with newborns in the nursery at the hospital. Other admitted psych patients look up to him. He's not violent. He’s got no malicious intentions. He’s my son, and he’s been nothing but a wonderful help and has just offered to buy this dress for me, so I suggest you rethink what exactly your impression of him is.” And get your hand off your fucking taser. She turned back to Eren, immediately switching from nearly cold to warm and sweet, laying a gentle hand on his arm. “What was it you suggested, Eren? I didn't catch it.”

I was kinda busy fearing for your safety.

Eren looked down at his feet and away, moving his arm away from her, obviously afraid of the consequences of physical contact. “I… I asked if you wanted to look for a dress for myself to wear… It happened to be the one you have in your arms. Eren still hadn’t looked up to her, his eyes not leaving the floor.

Dave’s face seemed to pale a little bit almost instantly. Well, you’re definitely schizophrenic… and insane to top it all off. His hands moved to hold onto the chain between the cuffs, making sure that Eren wouldn’t make a break for it.

Spades grinned, an idea suddenly popping into her mind. “Eren, you have to try this dress on. You’re not getting out of it now.” This is so happening. “Dave, politely stop handling Eren like a murderer or rabid animal and let his cuffs off so he can get into this.”

Dave sighed deeply, trying to fight the urge to argue with Spades, knowing that he wouldn’t win anytime soon. “If he does anything to you, I’m kicking the door down.” His voice was hard as he took Eren’s hands roughly. He took out the key and took off the cuffs before pushing him forward a bit. You’re getting them back on the second you misbehave.

Eren swallowed the lump in his throat, rubbing his wrists. His head was still bowed down, not looking up in the slightest. I’ll be a good boy… I promise I’ll behave. He went into the dressing room with Spades, obviously lost in thought as he continued to rub at his sore wrists.

Spades nodded once, shutting the door behind them and hanging up the dress on the hook, first going to hug Eren, her hands comfortingly tracing patterns, murmuring softly into his ear. “Eren Honey, I’m so sorry about Dave, I know it’s awful that he sees you the way he does, but I can only do so much…” She pecked his cheek as she pulled away from him, smiling. “Now. Let’s get you into this dress.” You’re about to look fabulous. She coaxed Eren out of his shoes and jeans, letting him tug his shirt over his head before helping to lift the dress up, gently and carefully tugging it down as he shimmied into it. She opened the door again, helping Eren step onto the platform. “What do you think?” She had an impossibly wide grin, reaching for the phone in her pocket. Pictures are in order.

Eren timidly looked up, his face flushing all he say to his ears. “Oh my god… It fits…” Eren’s voice was a ghost of a whisper as he moved to take his long hair out of his bun. It falls lower than my shoulders… Eren let it down and smiled more at his appearance. I look… I like it… Eren’s semi-curly hair fell below his shoulders and down his back, shining as it was let down. Well… I’m glad I didn’t cut it...

Spades snapped a bunch of photos as she circled Eren, catching one of him smiling, his long hair down as he looked to the mirror in awe. The squad needs to see this. She immediately sent it to the chat, writing a comment underneath it. [Eren has been caught without the man bun and looks damn fine in my dress (AKA If Levi was Straight)] This is so beautiful.

LA: [I’m convinced… Please tell me there is still a dick under there too?]

IQ: [I just helped him into it, pretty sure it's there.]

PB: [I'd be jealous of Levi if I wasn't married to my computer]

DR: [I'd be jealous of Levi if I were straight tbh]

IQ: [Damieeeeeeeeen that's creepy]

DR: [I’m not taking it back I stand by that comment]

PB: [Pretty sure my phone is jealous of Levi rn]

DR: [Really tho]

DR: [Someone needs to send this to Levi right the hell now]
LA: [I’m jealous of Spades because she gets to see that damn fine ass in that dress]

CP: [WHOOOOOOOOOOOOAH]

CP: [That came out of NOWHERE]

CP: [Also DAAAAAAAAAMN]

SO: [What the hell are you all going on about?]

SO: […oh.]

SO: [THAT’s what.]

SO: […Eren looks DAMN fine]

DR: IKR????!!!!!???

LQ: [I’m sending this to Levi]

LA: [I already have it, but thank you.]

IQ: [HERE HAVE MORE]

IQ has uploaded 32 images to the chat “We’re all fucking idiots”

LQ: [That’s a looooooot of damn fine imaging, don’t you agree Levi?]

LA: [Can I come back //now?!// I //really// wanna do things….]

IQ: […I just showed Eren my phone and he’s the color of a tomato right now]

IQ has uploaded 2 images to the chat “We’re all fucking idiots”

LA: [That’s fucking adorable… please tell me he’s wearing a dress to my graduation… and if he ever wanted to be a woman I would go straight for him.]

IQ: <“…I’ll wear a dress if you think it’ll look nice… and ;))>

LA: <“You’re testing my restraint, Brat.”>

IQ: <“Excuse me? Have you ever //seen// yourself in uniform?”>

IQ: <“I swear it’s the hottest damn thing ever”>

CP: [Don’t mind me but GOD BLESS GOOGLE TRANSLATE but please, carry on this conversation that totally isn’t visible to literally the entire squad]

DR: ^^^

IQ: Fuck you all… I’m done

PB: Whoooooowaaaaaa breaking out the English up in this hizzle
DR: Fo’ shizzle my nizzle

LQ: STAHP

LQ: IM IN THE STORE TRYING NOT TO DIE LAUGHING AND EVERYONES STARING AT ME LIKE IM CRAZY

LA: Well I’m in the middle of breaking in new recruits....

CP: Can’t you like... get in trouble for, well, fucking around on your phone or something?

LA: I own literally everything that has to do with these shits... They’re all shitstains...

DR: So it’s an ‘I //AM// the law’ kinda deal?

PB: medium-key jealous

PB: remembers why I never leave the house

PB: nvmds the fuck out of that statement

LQ: loling at the memes way too fucking hard

LQ: Spaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaades

LQ: Is my overgrown child okay?

IQ: He’s medium-key pouty right now but we’re about to look at other dresses so that’ll maybe lighten him up

IQ: [I’m switching us back to French]

IQ: [Mainly because I don’t need Dave reading over my shoulder that he’s being a serious dick]

IQ: [He’s been wrangling Eren a bit like a murderer/rabid animal and it fucking sucks]

IQ: [He nearly pulled his //TASER// on him because he grabbed my arm to catch my attention]

BF: [......I was gone for one hour doing a tattoo and then this all transpires]

BF: [A, DAAAAAAMN]

MF: [B, DAAAAAAMN]

BF: [C, I don’t like this Dave guy.]

MF: [I’d probably glare at him if I ever saw him from across the street or something]

BF: [Or tattoo the poop emoji on him if he ever came to the parlor to get something]

MF: [......yeah that]
MF: [But we dunno what he looks like]

BF: [So we’ll settle for hating him in spirit and waiting for karma]

PB: [...I have a suggestion]

LQ: NO RIOTS

IQ: NO RIOTS

SO: NO RIOTS

DR: //YES// RIOTS

PB: //YES// RIOTS

CP: //YES// RIOTS

SO: Casper!

CP: ...what

IQ: [Eren’s trying on another dress and tbh he’d look better if he didn’t look so damn mad about it]

IQ has uploaded 6 images to the chat “We’re all fucking idiots”

LQ: [Good job, Casper, you made him mad]

CP: [You’re welcome Hon <3]

CP: [Legit tho sorry, I was just trying to make it a meme…]

SO: [Dammit Casper]

IQ: [...Eren’s in cuffs again because Dave didn’t like that Eren was getting mad…]

IQ: [And it’s just made him //more// mad…]

IQ: [We’re stopping for cinnamon rolls on the way back he needs cheering up]

LA: [Wait… Why is my Brat in cuffs? And why are they not mine?]

LA: [Would someone care to enlighten me before I take it out on these Shits?]

IQ: [Have we been over the thing at all where Eren’s kinda in the psych ward?]

LA: [HE’S WHERE!?!?!]

IQ: [Lathe explain the thing]

LQ: [So Markiplier and a bunch of his buddies showed up unannounced a few months ago and wanted to steal Eren to play drunk video games, and Eren went with them to their hotel room and they did that. He started steaming up as a result of the serum trying to heal from] the alcohol and Casper Scotty and I had to show up and try to cool him and keep him calm. He heated to 184 Fahrenheit ish, and after he dropped to normal we recorded his statements about the thing for the records... and it got spliced accidentally into the livestream snippets montage thing... everyone thought he was nuts, he got put in the psych ward at the hospital, and his momentary lapses when he's reminded of his dad and his periodic nightmares are the only things keeping him in there. They let him handle the newborn babies of strangers, yet they’re //sure// he's a dangerous schizophrenic.]

LQ: [Theyre going wedding dress shopping for Spades and he has to be in handcuffs for the majority of the time... and Dave has gone from being a low-key member of the squad to ‘Im not afraid to taze you’ in like no time at all]

LQ: [So yeah, I medium-key am pondering whether or not we should retract his wedding invitation]

LQ: [Like the poor kids an angel, don't act like he’s a serious threat and gonna kill everyone]

LA: [So my Brat is in a psych ward... where they let him run around freely within the walls, but as soon as he walks out, he’s thought of as a killer... I can’t wait until I’m out and can shoot all those people up the ass for fucking with my boyfriend... I’m making them run today... I need to run my frustrations out before I shoot one of them... I’m gonna go now.]
Chapter 56: Graduation

Chapter Summary

Hello, readers, this is Duke, I regret to inform you that I will be unable to continue writing this fan fiction... that being said, someone has messaged me about continuing this on their own so please go check out TNATJ for the rest of their awesome chapters that they can think of! I hope you will forgive me for this... but it's been too much stress lately, and now I will get to read right along side you wonderful readers.

Again that's TNATJ

Chapter Notes

See the end of the chapter for notes

Aside from the fact that Dave almost refused to let Spades come back to get more dresses... because apparently I'm wearing a dress to Levi's graduation... things have been okay. We went out again, and I have many a sundress for the train ride there. Yes, we booked a train to go to the graduation ceremony, and thank Dad for that but I can't be bothered about that right now. That road trip is two months away... I'm not allowed to go out until then... because Dave pissed me off during our last 'outing' and I may or may not have struggled with the cuffs. But who can blame me? I don't wanna wear them! No one wants to wear them! I hate those fucking silver confinements! I hate them with a burning passion! We found out that Jake, the boy that has asked me to sing him to sleep on multiple occasions, has been diagnosed with schizophrenia... But he has his breaks of reality a lot... As in like once a day a lot, but he's getting better bit by bit with his medications. I'm still not released, and it's my birthday! I'm not allowed to go out today either! Like what the fuck is wrong with these people!? I don't get it... and I'm starting to get pissed... Dad didn't show up for lunch, he texted Scotty and asked if Scotty could eat lunch with me in his place. We finished up a bit ago, and I stormed off... I guess I really shouldn't have stormed off, but the guards are too afraid I'll fight back and win to put me in any restraints... so they're letting me alone in my room for now.

Eren turned his head as he heard bare feet race down the hall towards the locked double doors. His eyes caught sight of dirty blonde hair and thin arms lined with bruises. What is Jake running away from now? He swung his legs over the edge of his bed as he heard more footsteps pounding down the hall and frantic shouting. What the hell is going on? Eren stepped out into the hallway just as Jake ran by his room again. He only had a second to take in Jake's crying figure, armed with a bloodied knife in defense. What the- The whiz of a gun firing shortly after he stopped moving sounded, and an electrifying crackle sounded right along with his scream.

His body fell to the floor only a second after the barbs connected with the back of his neck, sending fifty thousand volts through his body. His muscles locking up, and beginning to spasm out, his body starting to thrash as the barbs held onto the skin, continuing with the electric pulse running through him. Eren was knocked out from the shock, his body beginning to seize, jerking around as Jake was detained and the barbs start to be removed from his neck.

Scotty came in through the locked double doors, his eyes widened as he saw he guards huddled around Eren’s convulsing body. “Don’t touch him, how long has it been?” Scotty was instantly by his side, taking in all the information he was given and letting out a sigh of relief when the seizure lasted only two minutes. “I’m taking him to the ER and making sure he wakes up there.” Scotty picked him up, carefully holding his almost limp form. His muscles are so rigid…

---

Lathe beamed to the woman at the front desk as he walked into the hospital, a decent entourage behind him as he carried a fancifully-decorated cake, light grey with blue detailing all over it. He chuckled as he heard Sharon behind him try to keep Maverick from babbling too loudly and grabbing at the cake, obviously entranced by the swirls all over it. Casper next to him held a box with plates and forks for the cake, and they tried to be quiet walking to his room. Spades went and knocked lightly on the door, pushing it open and looking in, her face expression shifting to one of confusion as she saw it empty. “Not here?” He nodded as she shook her head, the flock of them making their way to the nursery instead. Spades stepped inside, looking around, looking back to the group in confusion. “...he’s not here either?” Where could he be? “Text Scotty; he’ll know.”

IQ: [Yo Scotty where’s Eren?]
IQ: [We have a cake and a small squad here to celebrate his birthday]
IQ: [Where must we bringeth the party?]
SO: [Oh you’re not going to like this…]
SO: [ER room 9-C]

Spades looked up from her phone, her eyes wide. “...emergency room 9-C… wherever that is…” I dunno how to get there… what happened?!!

...what. Lathe immediately nodded them down the hall, leading them to a different hallway, walking quite a ways. He waited for Spades to open the door, silently following her in. His expression became immensely worried as he saw Eren unconscious on a bed, his temperature reading 102 Fahrenheit and drool dripping from his mouth only to be gently wiped away by Scotty. Eren. Lathe set the cake on the table, immediately moving to sit on the edge of the bed, brushing Eren’s hair from his face. “Scotty… what happened?” It doesn't look good… he had a seizure, he's drooling… but is there more to it?
Scotty sighed quietly, gently lifting the back of his head off the pillow, along with a majority of his hair. He was slow as he turned Eren to the side, showing the taser burns lining the nape of his neck. “He was tasered.” His tone was dry, and his eyes a bit dull. I still can’t believe they shot him with a fucking taser.

Lathe’s eyes were wide, concern written into every line of his face. “W-why? What’d he do to cause someone to taze him?! He’d been acting fine until now.” I don’t get it… what went wrong?

“They weren’t aiming for him… He walked out of his room, right in front of the guard who was about to taze Jake.” Scotty explained, “He shouldn’t’ve gotten shot… And he was a bit pissed off after you didn’t show up for lunch… But apparently when Jake was running around from one of his breaks… Eren got in the way… And he got the full brunt of it… Basically from point blank.” Scotty’s hands were gentle as he rolled Eren back down to a sleeping position. “He hasn’t woken up yet though… And it’s been an hour…” I'm worried about him…

...well this is just the cherry on top of this shit sundae called psych ward competency. Lathe was impossibly gentle, threading his fingers through Eren’s long locks. ...enough. Is. Enough. “...I'm through with all of this.” Lathe was very quiet, Scotty the only one able to hear him properly. “I'll have a civil suit filed in the morning. I'm done. I've been done.” These people don't know what the fuck they're doing.

Scotty nodded. “It was an honest mistake Lathe… Eren blocked the shot before the guard could react… But I agree it was uncalled for.” I don’t get it either.

Lathe shook his head. “I don’t entirely mean this… I've had a folder on my computer full of files on discrepancies in his care and just plain ignorance on the staff’s behalf. They had three-year-old files on hand because they still used paper, and gave him the wrong meds… they put him in a straight jacket because the meds weren’t working, and didn’t try changing dosage or anything… he’s been in here for two months, and he’s allowed to work with the newborn babies in the nursery, but is considered violent and a ticking time bomb the instant he sets foot outside the ward or the nursery. I'd like to know what the parents of the children he’s worked with would think of that. And he’s only here because of something that has happened literally for years… every once in awhile, he's reminded of Grisha, and can retreat into his mind or freak out a bit. It's not something that can be controlled. He's been a big brother to the other patients in that ward… he's had model behaviour… and he's regarded as insane because of a video that was accidentally uploaded, as part of an ongoing medical investigation which we can't conclude anything from yet because the investigation isn't over! It's like locking up the guy who thought aspirin would help headaches before he could prove it because nobody thought it was a thing that could happen! I'm done. I've been done. I won't have much to do for it. Much is already written. It'll be filed in the morning.” I'm over this shit.

Eren’s eyes finally cracked open after his fever broke, coming down from 102 and back at the normal 98.6. He looked weak and worn out. “Lathe?” His voice was a bit scratchy as he spoke, his hand slowly latching onto his shirt. Please tell me I’m awake… And that I’m not dreaming.

Lathe smiled warmly to him, leaning down to peck his forehead. “It’s me, Eren. Dad’s here. ...Happy Birthday, kid. We brought friends to celebrate with you- and cake. If you're up for it.” Lathe shifted a bit so he could see the group of people, all of them smiling to him and Maverick waving his fist to him, making a happy sound. We’re all happy to see you. Would’ve preferred you’d be in better condition, but it’s your birthday. We all wanted to see you, cheer you up.

Eren looked behind Lathe, finally noticing the people in the room, a smile starting to grow on his face. He started to lift his top half up off the bed, only for an arm to go slack unexpectedly forcing him to lay down again. What the fuck? Why can’t I feel my arm?

Lathe chuckled faintly as Eren made a small ‘Oomph,’ moving to gather pillows under him to sit him up. “A lot of electricity ran through you- your limbs aren't gonna wanna cooperate for a while. It's the way it is.” He smiled warmly to him. “You up for cake?” He watched as Eren immediately shot him an intensely questioning look, sighing in mock exasperation, grinning. “Yes, it’s Black Forest. Yes, there are cherries.”

Cherries! Eren nodded, finding his arms stiff as he moved them to his lap. Wow... Tasers.... Fucking hurt like a bitch.... Wait... “... Wait... Where’s Jake?” Eren asked with complete and utter worry written across his face. Where is he? He looked like he wasn’t there... He had a break... Didn’t he? Was he hurt? He had a knife...

Scotty shook his head. “He’s fine, but he’s in restraints. I'm not his doctor, so I can’t go get him… I’m sorry, Kid.” Otherwise I would go and get Jake from his hellhole of a room.

Lathe rested a hand over one of Eren’s, smiling to him faintly. “He’ll be okay- I'll check up on him later, make sure he's alright. Bring him a piece of cake, if you want me to.” Lathe watched as Eren nodded stiffly, his eyes warm. “He’ll be just fine. I'll make sure they're taking good care of him. I know how much he looks up to you. Now. Before you get any cake-” He looked back to the group of people, a glint in his eye. “We have to sing.” He grinned as there was a mock exasperated groan from the group, though everyone began to sing ‘Happy Birthday’ with smiles on their faces, even Maverick trying to copy everybody and babbling away. That's too damn adorable.

Eren watched them all sing to him with warm eyes, a soft smile on his face. “Thanks… For coming… I thought I’d be left alone today when you didn’t come for lunch.” To be completely honest I was frustrated... And I was about to do something stupid to get you to be called in ‘cause I did something stupid... He was finally able to control all his fingers without feeling the tingling sense he had before. “So what are we waiting for? Let’s eat cake!” Lathe grinned widely, Casper moving with him to help cut the cake. They made sure Eren’s piece was extra generous, Lathe making sure he could hold it before letting go of the plate. “I was baking this and getting everyone together. I'm sure you can forgive me.” His eyes twinkled, everyone soon having their own piece and happily eating. Scotty was laughing, trying to hide his mirth as Casper looked at him confused as he stared at him, asking him what was wrong, unknowingly having a cherry smudge on his nose. Sharon sat on the edge of the bed with Maverick, her hands too full with him to hold a plate, blushing dark every time Hannah fed her a cherry. Lathe leaned his head on Spades’ shoulder, smiling to her and to Eren as everyone talked. ....this is nice.

Eren popped a few cherries into his mouth with a soft smile on his face. When was the last time I had this?.... I... I don’t remember... Fuck, why can’t I remember? Eren’s brow furrowed more as he continued to eat, starting to get a headache from everything he was trying to remember. When was the last time I had cherries?

Scotty enjoyed the cake, watching Casper trying to figure out what he was chuckling at. You’re completely oblivious to the bit of cherry on your nose... He picked up another forkful, taking a glance at Eren, his brow furrowed as well as Eren stared at the cherry on his fork. What’s up with the kid?

Sharon shifted her hold on Maverick, smiling as he tugged on her hoodie strings. She looked over to Eren who stared hard at his fork. “...you’re looking at that cherry like it just spat on your shoes. Everything okay?” You look frustrated. ...and confused.

Eren whimpered a bit as he ate the cherry on the fork. I... I can’t remember... Who are you guys? He looked confusedly at the small child whom stared quietly back at him. Who’s that? Why is he not in the nursery? No... He’s too big... Eren shook his head trying to clear his thoughts, setting his half-eaten plate down on his lap and holding his head in his open hand. My head feels weird...

Lathe set down his own plate, immediately recognising something was off. “Eren, what’s wrong? Your head hurting?” Lathe watched as he nodded a bit, seeing his confusion. “...memories fuzzy?” Another shaky nod. “It’s normal, should only be temporary if you can’t remember stuff. Don’t freak out too much about it. What don't you remember? We’ll help jog your memory.” You’ll be fine.

Eren looked up a bit, staring at the two strangers sitting at the end of his bed. Who are those two ladies? Why are they here? Is that kid theirs? Why’s it staring at me? Eren whimpered before burying his head in his hands again, his head feeling like it would split in two.

Scotty nodded, getting up from where he was and going out to the ward to get Eren’s medication. I don't need him having a panic attack. Scotty was looking around for Jake too, trying to figure out how the kid looked and where he was.

Sharon glanced between Hannah and Maverick, then back to Eren. She looked to Lathe. “He doesn't remember us.” It wasn't a question, more simply a statement. ...we didn't really meet until, like, half a year ago, so. I've heard it could be worse- he might not have remembered Lathe for all that could've happened. ...he looks like he’s in pain... oh my. “Eren, Hannah boards her horse Luna at your house in the barn, and she works on the serum that your Dad is helping to study. You rode Charlie to our house four months ago, getting Lathe there to deliver Maverick on the kitchen floor. Han and I are married- Hannah and Sharon Laskowski. Anything sound familiar?” ...you don't look too good.... oh my...

Eren hurriedly shook his head, holding his hands over his ears, curling in on himself until he was in a small ball. My head fucking hurts... I don't remember anything like that... Where’s Mommy? I want Mommy... “Mommy…” Eren whimpered his nose beginning to bleed and the back of his neck steaming, starting to heal the taser burns.

Scotty came back into the room, seeing Eren call for Spades. “Spades, slowly… We don’t know what he remembers… I don’t want to have to put him back in the ward…” I really don’t. He held his medication out for Lathe to take. Wait... He’s steaming again... From the back of his neck.

Lathe took the pills from Scotty, noting where he set a water bottle on the small table as he turned to better face Eren, seeing a bit of steam curling out from his neck under his long locks. ...oh. “Of all places to get hit with a taser…” It had to be the neck. Of course. Lathe mumbled a bit, scooting over a bit closer, gently coaxing Eren to unfurl a bit, handing him his pills. “Eren, these will make you feel better. It's okay, just get these down, alright?” You'll need them. We don't want any panicking or anything of the sort.

Spades gasped when Eren lifted his head, the whole front of his face soaked with blood which was running down to his hospital gown. Oh no... “It’s okay Eren, we’re right here… Mama's right here baby.” She was slow to come up on his other side, sitting right beside his curled up form.

Eren whimpered as he raised his head, the blood dripping down at a high rate as he took the pills, taking them in his mouth, along with a lot of his blood. It’s warm... He almost retched, trying not to as his body shook. Mommy?

Lathe immediately found Casper had pressed a towel into his hand, trying to wipe up the blood from his face and chin before handing Eren the rest of his pills and his bottle of water, having Eren hold it to his nose. “Just keep that pressed to your nose, Eren. Keep it in place and you'll be fine. Just breathe. Easy.” Lathe ran a gentle hand over his back, trying to soothe him. Don’t pitch... you need to keep them down...
Eren whimpered even more, pressing the rough towel against his nose, though it did nothing to help him. It hurts... Everything hurts... His tears were starting to fall as he held it smashed against his nose, curling in on himself. It hurts. “Where’s Hannes....” Eren whimpered even more as he felt a spike of pain run through his head. It hurts to think about him.

Lathe’s face fell a bit. Think... when could Eren be remembering up to? “Eren, Hannes went back to Germany after his visit. He's not here right now.” Lathe cooed to him quietly, wishing he could more quickly ease the pain. “I know it hurts Eren, but it won't for long. You'll be okay soon.” Promise.

Eren could only nodded. He stayed curled up for an hour before he stopped crying. The steaming finally stopped with his tears, his body going limp from being pulled together so tightly for so long. My mind’s all fuzzy, it feels so weird... Who are these people?

Lathe helped guide Eren to lay down, running his hand through Eren’s hair and trying to coax him to sleep. “You look really tired, Eren. Mending takes a lot out of you. Sleep a little, okay? You'll feel better.” You really need the nap, I think. He smiled faintly as he drifted to sleep, his hand falling from his long brunette locks, looking up at the room around him, shrugging one shoulder. ...things are what they are... and they're not easy on Eren.

Sharon smiled reassuringly to him, Maverick asleep in her hold, swaying him a bit as he slept, her voice quiet. “Things are as they are. But it was very good cake- and it’s nice to see him in more or less one piece. ...he’ll remember stuff soon enough. It's alright.” It's not that I'm offended he doesn't remember us or anything, just a bit worried is all. She glanced to Hannah, who had remained mostly quiet the entire time. I know you're not much of a talker, but nothing? Huh. She gave her a half shrug, giving her a bit of a pointed look. Say something! Lathe can't read minds, for all we know you're silently brooding over there.

Hannah sat there looking at her hands until her side hurt from being nudged. What? What happened? She looked up to see that Eren had been moved to the sleeping position and Lathe’s lips were moving as he said something. Wait... What's he saying? I can't hear him. “It’s okay… We understand…” I mean, it’s okay that he’s asleep.

Sharon’s eyebrow quirked up, speaking to her. “Uhm, he asked if you were falling asleep yourself, but okay… and please don’t talk so loud, you'll wake up Mav....” If he gets woken up he'll start crying and I don't want that happening while Eren’s trying to sleep and looking so worn...

Hannah raised an eyebrow in confusion, opening her mouth as if to talk but thought better of it and closed it. What do you mean I was talking loudly? I can barely hear myself ... Let alone you.
Sharon looked to her helplessly as she shut her mouth, looking to Lathe apologetically. I dunno what her deal is… “Sorry… but it's really fine. We had a nice time; it's good to see you all. I don't get out of the house much, it's nice to have someone besides myself or the fam for company. As nice of company as they are.” She looked down to Maverick, smiling fondly as she moved her foot to nudge Hannah’s shoe. You're so adorable… and you keep me sane. …for the most part. “I've got a conference call at three, Hon… maybe we should get home?” I’m designing keychains with insignias, we need to discuss their designs before I can finish, colour and print them… When she didn't hear a response, she turned to Hannah again, looking a bit frustrated and nudging her again as she played with her hands. “Hannah, what’s wrong? Can't you hear me?” My God, it's like you're as deaf as me.

Hannah looked up in confusion, her eyes watching Sharon’s lips, trying to lip read. Can... You.... Me?...Huh? She looked down at her hands again shaking her head in frustration, running a hand up to rub at her ears, her brow furrowed, unable to really hear her hand around her ear. What the actual fuck?

Casper watched Hannah closely, his eyes widening as things clicked. ...you... the music. Four weeks nonstop. “...Sharon, she can't hear you. She blasted her ears out with the music that's been making the cultures grow back at the labs. After four straight weeks of it, she can't hear.” Fuck. This is bad. Everyone on that floor is in danger of going deaf. But you got the brunt of it, having the amp in the same room as you. Casper went up to Hannah, pulling out his phone and typing quickly, handing it to her. Congradamalations, Hannah, after four weeks of living at the lab you made yourself go deaf. My advice- get some professional to check out your ears. It's been more than a month; you might need hearing aids or something to help fix your hearing. Good job.” Yeah. That's a thing. ...we’re gonna need to invest in better soundproof headsets.

Hannah read the text with furrowed eyebrows. “I’m deaf?” Her voice was a bit louder than it should’ve been and sounded weird as she spoke. I'm... I'm the one who's deaf?? We both thought Sharon would be the one to go deaf first. She looked down at her hands. {I... I had headphones on though?} Her hands were slow, trying to remember what everything was. We learned ASL just in case... But it was so long ago...

{They obviously weren't good enough.} Casper moved his hands slowly and deliberately so they could easily be read. {Blasting music that loud for that long most likely destroyed your ears. Seriously, get that looked at as soon as possible. You need to be able to hear. If you're home alone with Maverick and can't hear him crying… well, that could be a problem.} *You need to be able to hear in case anything goes wrong. [I'm not allowing you to work again until we get our hands on better noise-cancelling equipment. I'll only be going in for the few minutes every time a culture needs to be harvested, but we’re not taking the chance of anyone else getting hurt. It’s a great thing that the music makes the cultures grow, but it’s a serious hazard if four weeks made you solidly deaf.]
Hannah looked down at her hands, trying to take everything in. It’s been two months since I left… And I haven’t noticed for that long? How many times was I alone with Maverick… And he was crying… But I couldn’t hear him. She instantly felt the tears start to form at the thought of what might’ve happened from her inability to hear anything around her. This is a shit ton to take in.

Spades looked down at Hannah, smiling softly, reassuring as she slowly approached, a gentle hand on her shoulder, waiting for her to look up. (Hannah, I can take you to my doctors office? He’s really nice, and it’s where I go now for any readjustments I need for my hearing aids.) I want to help you, I know what it feels like, being unable to hear anything at all…

Hannah turned her head over towards Sharon. What have I done to myself? I… Oh my god… I can’t hear a fucking thing…

Sharon opened her mouth to speak, though she quickly shut it and looked to her hands, occupied by Maverick, still fast asleep. She looked to Scotty as he meandered over, standing and giving him to him carefully. “Hold him please.” She turned back to Hannah, signing. (I really think you should take Spades up on her offer. Otherwise you're not going to be able to hear anything, whether it be other people, something falling off of a counter, a car horn, or Maverick crying. Which is a problem. I've come home at least three times to him crying and you oblivious; it's why I insist you do the errands now. ...If you can't hear, I'm scared to leave him with you. Having hearing aids can't be that huge of a deal. We both can't barely see, and we wear contacts so we can. I get the idea it’s about the same. You'll learn to cope. It's gonna be okay.) She leaned forward to gently peck her cheeks, not wanting her to cry. It'll be just fine. It'll become routine, normal. I still love you.

Hannah’s eyes widened more, tears finally falling all over again. Wait… You knew? For six weeks? I’ve been doing groceries for that long…. You knew and you didn’t tell me? Hannah only nodded and she stood up, keeping her head down as she moved towards Spades. “I’ll go to the doctors…” She didn’t realize how broken her voice sounded, and how low it was. I can't even hear myself…

Sharon caught Hannah’s arm, turning her right back around and giving her a tight hug, gently petting the fuzzy hair of her undercut, willing her to calm down as she rubbed her back, turning her head a bit to speak lowly into her ear. I'm an alto two- and right here, maybe you'll hear me.

“Hannah, please don't cry. I didn't know what the deal was- I didn't mention it because I didn't know what to make of it. It's gonna be just fine. It's okay. Really.” She nestled into Hannah’s neck, trying to calm her. It's okay. It really is.

Hannah only heard every few words, nodding as Sharon spoke. Okay… I understand… I'll go get the hearing aids.
Eren sighed as he pulled on the cuffs around his wrist, wincing as they dug into his skin. I'm bored... I can't help it... He picked his head up looking at the green scenery as they passed it. It's really spring... And we're going to Levi's graduation... It's been a month and a half since I got tased... And it took me a week to figure out who the hell everyone was. Jake has been getting better over the past month, which I’m grateful for... They wouldn’t let me back into the nursery for awhile, but once I was let back in Sheila was very grateful. I saw Maverick every now and then, mostly it was Hannah bringing him whenever Sharon needed the house quiet for a conference call... I noticed she would always pick at her hearing aids, sometimes holding her head as she screwed with them. Eren perked his head up as he heard his parents talking quietly amongst themselves as the train rocked along. Wait... Wouldn’t that work?

Spades shrugged. “I dunno, she’s tried three different kinds of hearing aids and she still messes with them... She even asked me if the serum would do anything, she sounds desperate to get rid of them.” I hated them at first too, but it was so much better than not being able to hear.

Lathe thought, his head in his hand. “She was complaining about how they all gave her serious migraines... it seems it's bad enough for her to seriously consider forfeiting hearing in favour of not wearing them and getting migraines... but we've been seeing good results so far with the tests with the serum we’ve done... maybe we should ask to give it a go. If it works, great. If not... the next time she gets a paper cut, she’ll be thankful she doesn't have to deal with it for more than a minute. ...but then she'll complain when she wants to drink. ...oh well, she’ll live. We’ll put that in the paperwork so she can't get mad if she’s taking an ice bath after a glass of wine or something.” Think of the legalities.

Spades shrugged, looking over to Eren as he shifted. “You doing okay, honey?” She smiled as he nodded and looked out the window again. “She wants to get rid of them, I know that much, she’s always picking at them... Does Casper let her work anymore? I mean, I know she doesn’t mind taking them out...” I don’t know if she does work much anymore... But she didn’t go home for a solid month...

“Yeah, she can. They moved a ton of stuff around, though. The amp is now shut up in what used to be a maintenance closet, and nobody’s allowed to enter. She works every other day, but he didn’t let her until they got her some of the best ear protection they could get their hands on. Anyone and everyone who goes on that floor is required to wear them, and if they don't, the company isn't liable because they have them very available; it was a new bit of paperwork they sent around. It's a big thing; they don't want it happening to anyone else. Most of that floor is now just cultures. All other desk work and stuff has been moved to lower floors, taking advantage of the increase in culture growth. But yeah, and Casper's been making sure she’s home plenty to take care of Maverick and spend time with him and Sharon. He’s really adamant that she be there for the two of them... being by herself really wasn't doing Sharon any good, and neither was it Maverick. Even though it's been so long, Sharon still can't sleep. She wakes up in the middle of the night and can't sleep again until four in the morning because it's what she did for a solid month. It also doesn't help that Hannah can't hear when she gets up because Maverick’s actually crying... they don't take turns or anything. Sharon just puts up with it. She’s wearing herself thin… I don’t know how she’s dealing with it.” She still looks bright and happy a great deal of the time… but she sounds so tired on the phone… she calls plenty, wanting to talk to someone besides Hannah or Maverick who can’t exactly hold a conversation… she’s going stir crazy and being on 24/7 child duty isn’t helping...

Spades nodded, watching Dave come back with his overly large coffee, a coffee for Lathe, a bottle of water for herself and a hot tea for Eren. Well, you know our drink orders… I was wondering what was taking you so long in the bathroom. She got Eren’s attention, giving him his tea, which he gratefully accepted, sipping immediately, not caring if it was scalding hot. We’ve only got a few hours left, which is good.

Lathe thanked him, waiting a bit for his coffee to cool before sipping it, tapping away on his laptop. …only small changes to the contract would need to be made… just things detailing where the serum will be injected, what it’s supposed to do, yadda yadda yadda… okay. He chatted with Spades a bit, though the group fell into a bit of a bored silence, Lathe not helping but to feel put off by Dave’s presence. …honestly, every time I see you now the only thing I can think is ‘ugh.’ … Ugh. When are we gonna be there...

Eren was caught up in the landscape, mumbling to himself as they finally got closer. His conversations were about his handcuffs, Levi, the pretty flowers, the thought of sleeping in something other than a hospital bed for the first time in a long time. He almost jumped out of his seat when they finally stopped at the station and he saw Levi in his uniform, waiting for them, along with Erwin and Armin. Oh that’s right… Armin came earlier today.

Lathe was eager to put away his laptop and get up from their seats on the train, his bags slung on his shoulder and carrying Eren’s for him. He smiled as Eren tried to move to hug Levi the second he set foot on the platform, Levi amending the situation before Dave could overreact and moving to meet them, hugging Eren tightly. I ship it so hard. You two are actually gonna be able to just have each other around for a while. It’ll do you both good. Lathe nodded to Armin and Erwin, beaming and fistbumping Levi. “It’s good to see you still in one piece, Levi. …Dave, cut it the hell out.” Lathe gave Dave a flat glare as he handled Eren a bit roughly, obviously trying to keep him from approaching Erwin or Armin. “These are his friends, and you’re talking to two marines graduating as the valedictorian and salutatorian of their class. I don’t think he’d get away with anything if he tried, which he won’t.” I’m so proud of the both of them. …and you need to calm the hell down.

Dave nodded “Alright, well, I’m to inform you that he’s supposed to have the cuffs on for any time he’s in public, and he needs to be under surveillance 24/7. Now, here’s the key to the cuffs, and I’m going back home. Good day.” Dave pressed they keys into Levi’s hand, sighing quietly and then walking off to catch a taxi. I can’t deal with this shit right now, I’ve got a plane to catch.
Eren watched him leave, smiling as Levi wrapped his arms around him, finding it awkward to hug him back with the handcuffs. “I missed you…” He sighed in relief as he leaned his head down onto Levi’s shoulder. You’re wearing your uniform… It looks so nice on you.

Levi smirked, holding Eren close, his brow furrowing as the cuffs dug into his stomach. He pulled back, looking to the keys in his hand and shrugging, looking to Erwin. “I trust you're not gonna turn me in for this.” When Erwin shook his head, and Armin too, Levi unlocked Eren’s cuffs, stowing them in a pocket with the key before pulling him back in for a proper hug, feeling his arms wind around his back. It's nice to have you in my arms again.

Eren held him close, his arms pulling him impossibly closer. I missed you so much. He looked down at the bruises he gave himself for pulling on the tight cuffs, sighing in relief that they were finally off. We get to see you graduate!

Levi smiled faintly as Eren crushed them in a hug, pecking his neck gently and murmuring into his ear. “It's good to see you, Eren.” He pulled back, smirking as he saw Eren blush red. He held out an arm for Eren to take, leading them away from the platform to flag down two taxis. He saw Dave just as he was being driven away. Good riddance.

Lathe helped get their stuff into the trunk of the taxi they waved down, looking about and noticing a few people looking their way, particularly at Eren. ...they recognize him. It wasn’t long before they were in the cab, Lathe ending up next to Eren in the back with Levi on his far side, moving after they were buckled to mess with Eren’s hair. “People recognize you, Eren. Here, let me fix your hair…” Lathe undid his man bun, letting his hair fall long around his shoulders. “With the dress and your long hair, nobody’ll recognize you. Which is good, because you don't have the cuffs on. Want me to braid it? I know how to do it fanciful if you want.” All of the littler girls I'd worked with over the years made sure I knew how to braid their hair when we talked; they loved it.

Eren nodded, shifting a bit. But I don't have the dress on yet… Oh what the hell, might as well. He sighed as he felt Lathe’s gentle hands run through his hair, letting it be braided. His eyes were glued to his hands until it was done a couple minutes later. “Does it look okay?” Eren’s voice was quiet as he looked over to Levi, blushing a bit as he smiled, unable to keep from doing so.

...Wow. If you were a girl, I'd still be head over heels. “I-It looks really good.” He was serious, his hand moving down the French braid, pulling his long fishtail over Eren’s shoulder. “Where’d you learn to braid hair this well, Lathe?” It's done very neatly.

Lathe shrugged, smiling faintly. “A lot of the little girls I worked with in counselling loved braiding hair… they all made sure I knew how to braid their hair and made me do it as we talked. They taught me pretty well, I suppose…” I can do all sorts of fancy stuffs. “Eren’s got plenty of hair to work with, so it's a bit easier.”
Levi nodded, letting go of Eren’s braid and moving to gently peck his cheek, letting Eren lean on him. “...I missed you.” Levi held onto Eren as they drove, sneaking many a kiss to his cheeks and forehead, the corner of his lips. ...keeping it PG because of the fam... But Lathe is ignoring us because he knows what’s up and Spades is talking to the driver, so I’m good.

Eren blushed completely, letting Levi kiss around his face, his smile wider than it’d been in months. Should I tell him? Sheila helped me locate a few people who could help... And one of them was Hannah... Eren shifted a bit, the thoughts weighing on his mind as he let out a soft noise of surprise when Levi kissed his neck. Fuck that was loud... His cheeks grew to an even darker shade of red from embarrassment.

Levi smirked as Eren let out a surprised sound, glancing around the cabin to check nobody was paying much attention to them, Spades being a wonderful distraction to their driver and Lathe seeming to nap as he leaned his head against the window. Thank fuck. Levi tugged Eren over as much as the seatbelt would let him, moving Eren’s braid to hide him as he began to gently kiss and nip at Eren’s neck, one hand moving his sweatshirt a bit to the side to better access his skin, the other resting on his thigh. Tonight, you are mine.

Eren couldn’t help but whimper and whine with need as quietly as humanly possible. I need to stay quiet. He could already feel his arousal trying to pulse through his body, looking down to Levi’s hand on his thigh, giving him more access to the skin of his neck. “L-Levi...” His voice was quiet, and sultry. What are you doing to me?

Levi gently nibbled at his earlobe, smirking and whispering into his ear. “Just be forewarned... tonight, you are mine.” He pressed a kiss to the spot under his ear, his eyes sparking. “I can’t wait to have you a~ll to myself.” I want you. ...and you’re gonna have to deal with thinking about it all day. I mean, it's only fair- I’ve been thinking about it alllll five months we’ve been apart.

Eren shuffled a bit, trying to hide the slight bulge he was already starting to sport. Oh fuck... You damn tease... I’m gonna be hard all day... He whimpered a bit, moving impossibly closer to Levi. “Fuckin’ tease.” He whimpered a bit, turning his head closer towards him, giving him more access yet again. I want you now, though...

Levi nibbled at Eren’s neck, lapping at his tanned skin. “Don’t worry... we’re going to the hotel first, before anything. And there’s some time before we have to get to the ceremony... maaaaybe we can convince them to let us have some time to ourselves...” Lathe and Spades can deal with walking around for awhile... we won't be forever... sadly, but hey. I'll take what I can get. We’ll take all the time we want later...
Eren blushed, making small noises every now and then as Levi nipped at his neck. I wanna be there... I want you alone... He couldn’t be more relieved when the taxis finally pulled up to the large hotel near Quantico. Wow! This place is huge! We’re staying here? He was quiet, taking in the sights as he was tugged along, everyone given keys from the desk and then taking the elevator up towards the top floor. Eren’s hands were shaking with anticipation as he held his hand in the elevator. I’m excited... and apparently our hotel rooms are right next to each other. His face flushed even more as Levi opened their large room, letting him walk in and look around the fancy room, the white King-sized bed just calling to him, so what did he do? Fall face first into it and sigh in relief. It’s an actual bed...

Levi chuckled as Eren face planted into the bed, immediately making himself comfy. Well, it'll make what happens in a minute easier. He looked up as someone nudged his arm, Lathe looking into the bed with a quirked eyebrow and handing Levi Eren’s bag, looking amused. Levi took it, snatching at the shoulder of his sweater for a second and murmuring into his ear quietly. Lathe nodded when he was released, giving him a salute before going off to his own room with Spades. Thank God he’s so chill. Levi hung the ‘Do Not Disturb’ sign on the door, shutting it and going straight up to Eren, rolling him over so he was sitting on the edge, tilting his chin up with one finger, their lips barely brushing together as he stared into his viridian orbs. “Now, we’re alone.”

Mine.

Eren leaned into a soft kiss, enjoying their closeness. “It’s a real bed... It’s so alluring...” He flopped back down onto the bed, crawling into the center before curling his finger at Levi in a come hither motion. I want you just as badly... But I get to tease... Eren’s bright eyes held a seductive gaze with Levi’s as he teasingly bit his lip and hooked one of his thumbs over his pants, tugging them down a bit, revealing a bony hip. I want you going crazy.

Levi’s gaze became predatory, climbing up onto the bed with Eren, his gaze raking over his entire lithe form. He leaned down to kiss him, his hands gently beginning to wander his chest and waist. You’re getting thin... We need to fix that.

Eren smiled, letting him touch all over his body, relaxing in Levi’s touch. God, I’m tired... That train ride really took a lot out of me. He let off a soft sound as Levi’s hands found his skin. His hands feel really nice, and he’s being gentle. Before he even realized it, Eren's breathing was even and his eyes closed.

... he’s asleep. Levi sighed quietly, smiling faintly and shaking his head a bit in exasperation, climbing off of Eren and instead turning him onto his side. He shed his formal uniform, getting into bed beside him and pulling him flush with his front, spooning him and drifting himself. He woke as there was a quiet knock at the door, glancing to the clock. He gave us fifteen minutes before we needed to leave. Thank fuck he knows how this works. Levi stood and knocked back at the door, letting Lathe know he was up and aware of the time before moving to get dressed again, shaking Eren awake by the shoulder. "Eren, get up. The ceremony is soon; we’ve gotta get going in a few minutes." He pecked his lips gently, plenty of emotion in the soft kiss. "Hope you had a nice..."
nap." I certainly did. "And don't worry... There's plenty of time to get reacquainted later tonight." I can't wait.

Eren blushed, sleepily getting up. His long hair still in a very tight braid, as he yawned, struggling to get the sleepy look out of his eyes. "Okay..." He kept his eyes on the ground, looking around for his bag as Levi started to put his formal uniform back on. He looks really good in that... I can't believe he's mine... He finally spotted it, picking up the black bag and bringing out a golden dress which brought out his eyes and highlighted his golden skin. It was shaped just right for his thin and bony frame, slipping the fabric over his head, the material hugging his hips and his ass. I hope that he likes this... Mom taught me how to wear high heels for this...

Levi couldn't help but stare, buttoning his jacket and taking in Eren's silhouette. Thin... But gorgeous. Levi walked up behind him, his hands resting on his hips as he murmured into his ear. "Do you know how hard it's going to be, keeping my hands off you while you're wearing that?" Impossible.

Eren couldn't help the sharp gasp that came out of his mouth, his smile forming across his lips as he looked at Levi. "You know how hard it is not to rip that uniform off of you?" He moved in Levi's arms, facing him, his hands finding the way to his sharp undercut and ruffling the hair. It's so soft, I don't think I'll ever get over it. He leaned down to kiss Levi's forehead. I missed doing this... I really do... It's nice that I don't need to be restrained out in public too... I hate those fucking handcuffs. His arms hung loosely at Levi's shoulders, his bony hips poking out a bit from the dress but not much.

Levi blushed faintly, his arms holding Eren flush to his front, simply enjoying the closeness for a long moment. He stood up tall to peck Eren's nose before going to fix his hair. "Finish getting ready- we can't be late. I have a speech to give." Fun.

Eren nodded and went off to go do what Spades had taught him, pulling off smokey eyes in a matter of a few minutes. They look good, and maybe I'll get to meet Levi's literal squad? I know he talks about them all the time when we get to talk on the phone. He came out of the bathroom, his chocolate hair in loose curls from his hair being braided, and in high heels. I hope this looks alright... "Um... What do you think?" Eren's voice was quiet and shy as he had finally brought the look together.

... hot damn. ...holy fuck do you look hot." Levi smirked, crossing the room to him, completely put together, hair tamed and shoes shining. He gently brushed a lock of hair back from Eren's face, chuckling quietly as Eren blushed darkly before kissing him deeply, pulling away when another light knock sounded.
"Uhm... I've been told to tell you we need to get going. So, yeah..." I hope you two don't plan on going to the ceremony looking like you just had sex...

Eren jumped a bit at the knock, a deep blush settling over his face. "U-uh... We.. We're c-coming!" Eren called as he moved back to grab a small purse to hold his phone as Levi opened the door. "Okay, let's get going then." He stepped out of the room, his face flushing from the instant stares. "Uhm... Is... Is something on my face?" His voice was quiet and close to panic as he looked over to Levi, he noticed Blake at Lathe's feet and smiled. I actually forgot that we brought him... But that's good I guess, I don't really wanna freak out without him around. His eyes looked at everyone staring at him with their jaws wide open. "Is it the dress?" Does it not look good? Fuck, I should've gone with the blue after all...

Lathe gaped at Eren, not believing what he was seeing. "...Two things. One, you've convinced me I have a daughter and not a son, and two-" He looked to Levi, quirking an eyebrow at him. "Levi, you're gonna have your work cut out for you, fending off other guys." With the way Eren looks, you're gonna have a hell of a time keeping guys away.

Levi nodded in agreement, looking to Eren again. "Oh believe me, I understand why I'm gonna need to fend people off." You're too fucking hot.

Eren blushed more a small giggle escaping him as he tried to hide his mouth with his hand. They were all loaded into a large taxi, Erwin wearing his formal uniform as well, and Armin wearing a very nice baby blue dress shirt and black slacks. Lathe was wearing a deep red dress shirt and black slacks as well as a black tie and a black jacket. I bet Mom put him up to wearing the red... Or maybe he intends on using that to his benefit since we have separate rooms? He shrugged at the thought, looking back over to Spades and the beautiful dress she wore. Not much different than mine... Only hers is a bit tighter around the hips and bust... And hers is silver and not gold. You can definitely tell that we went shopping together. When they arrived Levi and Erwin gave their kisses goodbye before heading off to go get ready for the ceremony. But of course Levi just had to grab my ass too, which left me a blubbering mess as we were led down to the ceremony. Eren's eyes looked around to the many white chairs that were set out, a majority of them were filled, some with families dressed formally, some with military formats of different colors and ages. This... This is so nice, I didn't really expect to be one with the crowd when I was put in the dress... I thought I would definitely be sticking out like a sore thumb. What Eren didn't see where the many heads turning to look at him as he walked by; even the marines in training couldn't help but stop and stare at him in all his glory. Eren was completely oblivious to the stares as their group was ushered to the front of the front row, though now he noticed that the group standing tall behind Erwin and Levi on stage couldn't help but stare either. His cheeks flushed with embarrassment, waiting for the rest of the crowd to find their seats and for the ceremony to start. Goddammit... He's too hot for his own good in that damned uniform.

Levi tried to keep himself from turning scarlet as Eren walked down the long aisle, looking ...sexy as fuck ... Levi, not now. You've got a thing to do. He tried not to stare himself, though he definitely noticed the heads turning as Eren walked, sending quick glares to anyone he caught looking. Which were plenty . ... God dammit, he's mine ...

Eren watched as the ceremony finally started, and each of the men and women were called up by names, their ranks given before they walked back towards where they originally stood, only now they separated behind Levi and Erwin, each having their own names called last and their ranks much higher than anyone else's. They were introduced as top of their class and Erwin was given the podium for the first few minutes, which Eren didn't really care for, but what he said was nice, and a lot of the military people sitting behind them seemed to appreciate it. He watched with excitement as Levi was the next up to the podium, though he had to move the microphone way down so that it would be in front of his face, and not above it. Oh my god, that was adorable. Eren had a dreamy look in his eyes and a smile on his face as Levi's deep voice sounded through the speakers, promising that the audience's children had done well and that they were prepared for the next step, and he was proud that he could guide them on their new journeys. He made a few remarks which had the audience chuckling, and all in all made a good speech to wrap up the ceremony as a whole. He did such a good job! If I was up there, I'd be such a wreck! His gaze followed both Erwin and Levi as they went to stand in front of their squads. Another high ranking official finally dismissed everyone and informed them that they were welcome to stay for the after party which would be held in the ballroom a few buildings down. Oh, I wonder if we're gonna go or if Levi's gonna wanna go back to the hotel right away? He was getting up along with others as the marines jumped off the stage in order to get to their loved ones, looking around in confusion, having lost sight of Levi in the rush of people. Where did he go?

Levi moved with the others to get off the stage, hidden by the rush of people and searching for their group in the front row. Damn my short height... Where are you... He finally saw a flash of gold, heading right for Eren, his arm slipping around his waist. "Found you..." He smirked as Eren blushed, standing up on tiptoe to peck his cheek. "This is so unfair- you're already taller than me and you go ahead and wear heels." He had to tilt his head up to really look at him, suddenly turning as he felt a hand on his shoulder, a familiar voice. Oh yeah... Probably gonna have to explain this one.

Reiner stood behind him, his hand still roughly clamped on Levi's shoulder. "So, Sarge, this the lucky girl? In my opinion, if she were available, I'd tap that." Reiner's cheeky grin was obvious and his hulking frame was only second to Erwin's. That girl looks damn fine...

Eren's eyes widened and he blushed all the way up to his ears. Oh thank god we went to the dress with sleeves... They probably would know the scars... They've been posted everywhere. They think I'm a girl. Eren giggled as he saw a few others come closer to them. Are these Levi's squad members? This is great! They don't know it's me! He let out a sharp gasp, his whole body freezing as he felt another pair of arms pull him close, he felt stiff, turning to see red hair and a woman's face. Who is this? Why is she holding me?

"Oh my gosh! I'm so excited to meet you finally! Levi talks about you all the time! But he always does it in German! And I can't understand a word he says! So tell me, tell me, tell me! You're the mystery girl right!?” Izzy was bouncing off the walls, not even noticing that Blake was trying to force her off of Eren. She only whined when Farlan grabbed her arms, prying her off of him.

"Sorry about that. Izzy gets a bit crazy when she meets new people... Would you pay attention? His service dog was trying to get him off! You can't just hug people willy nilly!" Farlan chastised her, the dirty blonde stood taller than Izzy, though shorter than Reiner, and definitely not as tall as Bert, the tall lanky man coming up to them in his uniform. He seemed shy though, not introducing himself. "Sorry about that again." Farlan held Izzy back so she wouldn't freak Eren out.

Eren swallowed, eyes wide as he looked down at Blake who was circling him protectively. He tried to calm his breathing from the almost panic he had just experienced. I thought I was getting better? I thought I was doing better...

Levi immediately re staked his claim on Eren, pulling him into his side and glaring daggers at Reiner. "Reiner, watch it. And only sort of. This-" He glanced up to Eren, smirking. "-is my boyfriend Eren. These are some of the squad members that follow me everywhere. The girl who just glomped you is Izzy, the Izzy-wrangler is Farlan, this creep over here is Reiner, and the Reiner-wrangler who should be over here keeping an eye on him is Bertoldt, but we call him Bert. Just don't call him Bertl; Reiner gets jealous." Levi shot Reiner a cool, knowing look as Bert meandered up next to Reiner, quietly looming over all of them. *I don't give a shit anymore if you all know I'm gay. You'll have to deal. He reached down to pet Blake, who eyed the marines around them warily. "Easy, they're cool. ...mostly."

Eren only nodded and stood watching the four of them interact. "Um... It... It's a pleasure to meet you all." He bowed his head a bit, so unsure of what he was supposed to say or do, or even how to act in front of them. What am I supposed to do?

Reiner let out a low whistle. "Damn, didn't know you swing that way... But hey, I'd still tap that." His voice was hearty as he stepped back a bit, Blake having growled at him. "Nice dog you got there, Eren." It looks like it's ready to bite my face off.

Eren's face was completely flushed at Reiner's comment. What is he trying to say? Wait... How's Levi gonna take that?

Levi's gaze turned cold, smirking faintly and maintaining his composure, glancing down to Blake. "Oh, him? That's Blake. Eren's service dog. ...It'd be too bad if I decided to tell him to take down the creep hitting on my man..." He made no move to keep Blake from standing between Eren and Reiner, teeth bared. "He's very protective... I'm sure you understand."
Neither Levi nor Reiner had a chance to say anything else before Bert elbowed Reiner hard in the side, his eyes flashing dangerously. "Reiner, shut the hell up. It's obviously not appreciated. And did you not see the dog's vest? He's working, and feels threatened. Quit it for once. If you get bit, I'm not helping you." It'd be your own damn fault. His demeanor switched, looking to Eren apologetically, seeming shy again. "I'm sorry about him, really. He's an idiot sometimes. ...well, most times. But he's not trying to mean." If he were, we'd really have a problem.

Eren eyes were impossibly wide as he watched Bert's display of both anger and then shyness. What did I just watch? "Um... I-It's o-okay." Eren stuttered as he looked down and away, moving to sit in a chair, Blake coming up and whining to be pet. I need to calm down, I really need to. He swallowed hard, trying to calm down, take in a deep breath again and again until his hands were no longer shaking and the crowds around him thinning. Don't freak out... Don't freak out...

Izzy picked up on Eren's uneasiness. "Hey Levi, um... Eren looks like he's gonna be sick." Izzy pointed out, everyone's eyes turning from Bert to Eren's noticeably paler skin. Is he alright?

Reiner rubbed at his side, already feeling the soreness from Bert's elbow jabbing him. Okay, I guess I deserved that. But I can't help it! Sarge is so secretive! I honestly can't! We didn't even know he was gay! We've been under his command for two and a half years! And this is how we find out he's gay?

Levi moved to sit next to him, holding Eren close as he petted Blake, his thumb rubbing his side, trying to calm him down. "He's kinda got PTSD. He needs a bit of space; the remarks and the aggression freaked him out a bit." Levi decided to ignore Reiner and the others for the moment once their secondary and tertiary guard dogs came into view. Backup. Thank you.

Lathe and Spades moved a bit closer to them once they noticed Eren looking uneasy, Spades slipping from his gentle hold to sit next to Eren as well, kneeling next to Eren on one knee. "You okay, kid?" He smiled faintly as Eren nodded, feeling a bit of a mood shift as Erwin spoke behind him. It's a different dynamic here. And it's loud. I can understand feeling so off-put. Can't say I don't entirely feel out of place.

Erwin cleared his throat to get everyone's attention. "Alright, so are we gonna stay for dinner? Or are we gonna go out?" This needs to be decided sooner or later, especially if we're gonna call ahead.

Eren looked up from petting Blake. "Um... Can we go out? I don't mind paying." I have my credit card with me... I kinda don't wanna go back where there's a crowd. Blake stopped whining soon enough, signalling that Eren was doing much better and calming down.
Izzy gasped a bit in excitement. "Let's go out!" She was bouncing up and down around Farlan, giggling when he couldn't get a proper hold on her.

Reiner chuckled at the look in Izzy's eyes, knowing it all too well. "I take it we're going out than?" I certainly don't mind.

"I don't think even I can catch her and stop her at this point, so I think so." Farlan caught her after he yielded, hugging her from behind and keeping her feet on the ground. "Much hype. Many excitement. Wow." He chuckled as multiple people facepalmed, including Izzy, Lathe nodding in approval.

Bert nodded, simply shaking his head a bit as Farlan spoke, a faint smile on his lips. "Eating out sounds really nice. I don't know anywhere nice and sit-down, though..." I don't normally eat out all fancy-like... And today calls for fancy-like...

"To Google!" Armin pulled out his phone, typing away. "What kinda food are we looking for? Steakhouse? Italian?" When everyone shrugged, he looked up with a quirked eyebrow. "Okay, people need to start being picky. Otherwise I'm just gonna swipe the list my phone gave me and we're gonna go wherever my finger lands. Any suggestions at all?" Anyone?

Eren finally looked up at Armin having calmed down a lot. "Um... I would... I would prefer... I mean... I would like it... I-if we could go get Italian... I-if t-that's alright?" He couldn't keep eye contact with any of them as he felt Levi's thumb rub his side. "I mean... We don't have to..." He hurriedly tried to fix his previous statement, fearing people would yell at him for suggesting something.

Reiner shrugged. "Italian's fine with me." I don't really care where we eat. But why is that guy so shy? Is it because he's in a dress? Or maybe it's because of Blake? Or whatever reason he needs Blake? Hmm... Well, I'll ask later.

Bert nodded, glancing to Reiner. "Yeah, Italian is okay with me..." Now all I've gotta worry about is not looking like an idiot trying to eat all fancy-like... Dammit, I never do this kinda stuff...

Izzy nodded in agreement. "I think we can do Italian! Farlan loves spaghetti and meatballs! And I haven't had raviolis in forever!" She was a bubbly mess, made of complete cheeriness, though she stuck her tongue out childishly when Farlan shook his head.
Spades smiled as Eren spoke up, though she knew it wasn't easy for him. It can't be easy for you... I know you don't necessarily do well meeting new people, and you're really trying. She looked over to Lathe, wrapping her arms around his waist. "What do you think? Italian sound good?"

"I'm all for it." Erwin's heavy voice sounded, before he scolded Izzy to calm down, which she did after a quick apology, and hid behind Farlan. He rolled his eyes as he turned back to the others, finally landing on Levi's worried face. You're worried, and Blake still seemed frazzled... Is he having a panic attack? From the new faces?

Lathe nodded, smiling. "Sounds great to me." You spoke up- I'm proud of you for that. This whole being around lots of new people thing isn't easy for you, and you're giving it your best. I admire that. He looked to where Eren was being fussed over by a worried boyfriend and guard dog. ...*you're in good hands. "What about it, Levi? Up for Italian?" ... Lathe, I swear to God, there may be a shit ton of puns to make, but don't you dare... Don't do it... "I think you'd enjoy some Rivailloli." ...that was horrible. ......soooo worth my dignity."

Levi looked up to Lathe, the gears turning before he facepalmed hard, his brow furrowed. "...that was such a terrible pun..." He looked up to catch Lathe explaining it to a confused Farlan, just in time to see him get a grin and a high-five. "...Farlan, don't encourage him. ...and yeah, I'm in." Please... I don't wanna hear more than three terrible puns per outing...

"Sorry, Sarge; I appreciate puns." It was a pretty good one. He looked over to Armin, who leaned into Erwin's side as he tapped away at his phone. "So, I guess that makes it Italian." ...are Erwin and that blonde a thing too? Erwin doesn't talk at all about him if that's the case...

Armin nodded, scrolling through a restaurant website and nodding in approval after a moment, looking up to count them all before typing again, hitting enter. "Alright, I sent in a reservation- the ten of us for some place called Murano in about an hour. We're lucky they had the space- it looks pretty upscale, and all the reviews are glowing." We should like it. It's a bit of a ways, but we can walk if we want to pass the time. It definitely won't take the hour to walk it.

Eren nodded, not looking up again though. Nope, I've already spoken... I don't need to do that again. He tried to fight the urge to scratch, Blake catching on and taking his hand into his mouth. At that point Eren grew even paler. I don't wanna freak out... What if I have a seizure? What if Levi's friends laugh at me? What happens then? He was struggling not to shake, but couldn't help it as his hands shook against Blake, struggling to calm down.

The marines shrugged, "We don't mind walking, as long as we're not doing a death run." Farlan winced as Izzy hit him. "What?"
"Sarge isn't supposed to know we call it that!" She hissed at him, before she smiled at everyone else again. "We wouldn't mind walking. It can't be too far!" Good job for opening your mouth, Farlan...

Erwin was catching onto Eren's increasing state of panic. "Armin, call a cab for Eren and Levi, he's not gonna be able to walk like this." His voice was soft but allowed for Armin and Levi to hear it. I can tell by the way he's shaking, walking is not going to happen anytime soon.

Levi looked up gratefully as Armin called a cab, though he looked over to Farlan again after a moment. "Is that what you call them? Death runs? Hmm... Maybe we should have you all run the way..." He smirked faintly as Izzy and Farlan immediately began pleading with him, holding up a hand after a minute. "Alright, it's graduation. I'm mean, but I'm not cruel...for the most part." His arms wrapped again around Eren's middle, trying to calm him. "It's okay, Eren. Nothing's gonna happen. We're gonna get driven over to the restaurant, and we're all just gonna have a good time, okay? They're all very nice people- not that I would ever tell them that- but there are people you can trust your life with. You'll be okay; please don't worry. And if you start to panic about anything, that's okay. They'll understand." They should, at least.

Lathe quietly tapped Levi's shoulder, having read Erwin's lips. "Do you just want it to be just the two of you? We can walk with your squad mates if you want us to."

Levi nodded after a minute. "Could you? Don't worry about being personable and chatty- Izzy'll do that for you. And, uhm... You're the best at explaining PTSD... Can you just tell them a generic thing about it? They probably don't understand..." They're gonna need to, given they're gonna be around him for a bit.

Spades nodded for him. "We'll make sure they understand the gist of it, and make sure he's okay, okay?" Spades' voice was a bit stern as she turned back to the group, smiling as Izzy jumped up to her and started asking multiple questions.

"When are you getting married? Sarge said he was going to a wedding soon... Are Eren and Sarge married? Did he wear a dress? Is Eren an only child? Are you his pare-?" Izzy would've gone on and on and on if not for Farlan closing a hand over her mouth, yet she continued like it wasn't even there.

Farlan rolled his eyes. "I'm sorry about her, she's so curious about everyone she meets, and asks too many questions in my opinion."
Levi just shook his head in exasperation, holding Eren close. We all ended up calling cabs, it was the easiest option. Spades and Lathe explained kinda what PTSD was to the group, and they all kinda understand now what's going on with Eren, which is good. Eren doesn't want to be made an example of while we're out, have the people he's eating with look suspicious of him. We got to the place without much incident, and barely had to wait before we were seated. It was really nice. Like, really nice and fancy, chandeliers, art and stuff everywhere, it was great. We were able to talk freely though, it didn't feel like we had to whisper while we were talking. Eren was okay for the most part, and Blake just chilled behind his chair, out of the way. Lathe kept sneakily giving him carrots from his salad, and then Bert caught him and decided to too. ...I swear, everyone I know is just pairing off neatly. Erwin is obviously gonna propose soon enough to Armin, I know our favorite blonde mastermind is dying waiting for him to ask. Izzy and Farlan are their own thing, because I dunno who else would be able to deal with that much hype all the time. And he just kinda looks at her sometimes and you can tell there's a lot going on in his mind. And Bert and Reiner- Bert was trying really hard all night to eat properly and have good manners. Props to him, he managed well. But every so often he'd just kinda look over to Reiner next to him... and it's the same look Lathe gives Spades when he's in one of his sappy moods. ...how is it that like 90% of my friends aren't straight. ...eh, they may mostly be gay idiots, but they're my gay idiots. Except for Izzy and Farlan. They're just idiots. Everything was absolutely delicious. I did end up getting 'Rivailloli,' much to Lathe and Farlan's amusement, and Eren ordered the same thing Lathe did, some fancy potato pasta things with a name weirdly pronounced. But hey- he loved it. And it's starting to look as if the two of them share a sweet tooth too. Eren agreed to chocolate cake for dessert. I so approve. Eren tried to pay the check after everything, but Lathe insisted, saying as my kinda-Dad he wanted to, proud of what everyone had accomplished. He asked the waitress something just before handing it over...all I know is that when we left, the waitress looked ready to cry, staring at the receipt in shock. ...Eren's lucky that that is his Dad. Bert quietly asked Reiner something as we were leaving, looking nervous, and when Reiner was about to insist everybody join, Bert said something again. Reiner looked stunned a bit, but he looked fine after a second. They're heading out to get drinks I think, and Izzy and Farlan ran off after dinner, not without Izzy bear-hugging Lathe and Spades first... And waving to Eren. ...thank god she gets it. But Eren's parents decided to walk around town a bit, see what there was to do. It's warm out even though it's getting to be evening, they're fine. Erwin and Armin are heading back to the hotel on foot, doing a bit of looking around the city because it's not too far... but as for us, we took a cab... Levi smirked as the elevator took them up to the top floor of the hotel, his arm wound around Eren's waist. We have... Plans. Levi opened the door to their room with a keycard not a moment after the elevator opened, leading Eren inside and making sure the 'Do Not Disturb' sign was still on the handle before closing the door, unleashing Blake before turning to Eren. He closed the distance between them, his eyes shaded. "Now that we're... alone.... Tell me." His hands roamed down over Eren's hips, one hand lightly tracing his front, over where he knew his bulge was hidden. "...what do you want to do?" I want to hear you say it...
Levi tilted his head in thought for a moment, smirking and leaning in to gently nip at his ear. "As much as I like the makeup on you... I think I'd much more like to see just you." Plus, less mess. Levi shepherded Eren into the bathroom, his hands running over his sides from behind as Eren removed the makeup, teasing him and nipping at his neck. I want you...

Eren couldn't help but groan and move against Levi's crotch. His hands were working fast to rid himself of all the makeup, his hips moving of their own accord against Levi's front, wanting him to grab at it. I want you to hold me.

Levi held Eren's hips, grinding against his ass as he impatiently waited for Eren to ditch his makeup. As soon as it was all off Levi turned Eren around to face him, cupping his ass and grinding their clothed, hardening lengths against each other. He moaned quietly, locking their lips as he stumbled with Eren to the bed, pushing him onto the king bed and clambering on top of him, his lips easily trailing down his jaw and his neck, his hands playfully squeezing his ass. Mine.

Eren couldn't help the lewd noises that were escaping his throat without a care in the world. "I want it..." His voice was a loud whine, begging for his body to be let free from the dress that encased it. Eren's body was begging to be held. I want it, I want you... Please...

Levi smiled against his skin, his hands drifting to the low hem of the gold fabric, slowly beginning to push it up and reveal his long legs, his fingers skimming the pale skin, traveling even to the insides of his thighs teasingly. He pulled his lips back from Eren's neck to bring the dress off of him, shrugging off his jacket and tossing it off the bed with a bit of care before latching his lips back onto his collarbone. He sucked dark marks onto his skin as he unbuttoned his dress shirt, tossing that off the bed as well, sighing as Eren ran his hands over his defined muscles. I've really been pushing it hard these past few months... I wanted to give you something to really like...

Eren's length twitched as the inside of his thighs were touched teasingly. "Fuck... L-Levi... Ngh..." He couldn't help but let his hands wander Levi's exposed skin. "Hmm... Levi... You're so fucking hot..." I missed this... I missed this so much. He moved his hands down his v-line, tugging at the hem of his dress pants. His eyes were filled with lust and need, wanting nothing but for Levi to completely ravish him after so long apart.

Levi could feel his own need, the heat between his legs growing as Eren traced his v-line. His gaze raked over Eren's form, hungrily tracing the outline of Eren's bulge through his boxers. ..I want it... But... You'd say no... . Eren's hands tugging at his dress pants, clumsily undoing his belt buckle distracted him, smirking as he sat back on his haunches, undoing the buckle at his leisure and tossing it aside, unbuttoning and unzipping his pants before shimmying from them and his boxers at once, his own hard length freed from the cloth and at attention. He lapped at Eren's neck, one knee between his spread legs, slowly tugging Eren's boxers down, letting his length spring free. His hands teasingly ran up his inner thighs again, touching everywhere around his length, but not giving Eren the friction he desperately wanted. I don't care... You should know how much of a Eren whined, moving his hips against Levi's hands trying to get some friction. "L-Levi, please, I want it..." You're being such a tease! I want you to take care of me... I've been secluded from everyone in that fucking hospital. Eren felt the tears of emotion start to prickle at his eyes. He whimpered, moving his hands to hide his face as he felt the stress of being torn out of everyone's life start to finally set in. I've been there for three and a half months... And it's only starting to get to me now... Fuck why can't I keep it together? Seeing everyone now... This is just a tease isn't it? Because I have to go back to that fucking hellhole after. Eren visibly swallowed, still trying to hide his tears, struggling to hold in a hiccup as he curled up a bit.

Levi looked up to him with worry as he began to curl up, moving to straddle him for the moment, freeing up his hands and moving Eren's own from his face, concern in his eyes as he saw him on the verge of tears. He took Eren's face in his hands, trying to gently kiss away the tears. "Eren, what's wrong? Talk to me, please. ...do you not want this?" If so, I've gotten horrible at reading your cues...

Eren let out a loud hiccup and a low whine as he cried, a few tears escaping and rolling down his cheeks before Levi's lips found them. "I... I don't... I don't wanna go back... This is just a big tease for me..." He tried again to cover his face, failing, and soon just reaching to grab Levi's wrists as he held him. I don't wanna go back to that hellhole... Where no one is really there, no one stays, they all leave me... They leave me there... He let out a choked sob, trying to calm down so that they could continue. This isn't fair... It's not fair for Levi... He wants to do this... And I can't handle my emotions.

Levi's face fell, kissing his cheeks sweetly and cradling Eren's head gently, coaxing him to lay down and pressing pecks all over his cheeks, the outside corners of his eyes, his forehead. "Eren, Lathe put in a civil suit to get you out of there... And even while you're supposed to be there... I'm allowed to take you out of there now. I'm officially a marine, a Sergeant. You don't have to be there nearly as much anymore. Soon enough you won't have to be there at all. It's gonna be okay." He felt the heat between them dwindling, his touch soft on his jaw, his voice quiet. "We don't have to do this right now if you don't want to, Eren. It's okay if you don't want to." I only want this if you do. I don't care if it means I get blue-balled. What you want is more important.

Eren sniffled and shook his head, his hands moving around Levi and pulling him closer for all he was worth. He let out a few more shuddered sobs as he held onto him. "N-no... I really want to... B-but... I just... I couldn't control it... With you teasing me like that..." Eren whimpered as he held onto him a bit tighter if that was even possible with how skinny he was yet again. I don't want you to tease me... I don't think I can take it anymore...

Levi nodded, rolling their hips together as he ducked his head down to his neck, feeling Eren shudder as their lengths rubbed against each other. "I won't tease, then..." He reached blindly for the nightstand drawer, knowing what he had stashed inside earlier that day. He drew back from it with a bottle of lube, snapping it open and coating his fingers as he sucked marks across Eren's collarbones. His lubed-up finger traced Eren's pucker, looking up to him for permission. "When you say the word, Eren." I still wanna be careful about this...

Eren nodded after a moment. "Y-You can." A soft mewl escaping his lips as he felt the first finger enter his tightness slowly. I'm really tight... We haven't done this in forever. Eren's hips were still for only a minute or so before he started to rock them, his tears long forgotten, and the pulse of arousal taking over his movements. "L-Levi... Hngh..."

Levi smirked, slowly thrusting into him as he loosened. He added a second finger, his movement becoming more fluid, his hand thrusting deeper into him, searching inside of him. He scissored his fingers, feeling him relaxing gradually around him. "You're so tight..." He pressed closed-mouthed pecks all over his chest, his eyes looking up to his face as Eren suddenly gasped. There.

Eren's face was one of utter bliss, his mouth relaxed as he moaned unabashedly. His eyes were closed, and hair tousled all over the place. It feels really good "Ha... Levi, ngh.... right there." His body arched off the mattress, hoping for him to go a bit further into him to better reach that sweet bundle of nerves. He could feel the heat starting to rise all over his body, arousal spreading from the top of his head down to his curled toes. His heels dug into the bed, his hips spread impossibly wide for Levi to get to him. I... I want everything Levi's fingers thrust even further into Eren, his lips trailing down Eren's stomach as he brushed over his prostate over and over. He breathed over the head of Eren's length as he added a third finger, his tongue flicking out to run along his slit as he curled his fingers, staring up to Eren with lust-filled silver eyes. I wanna hear you...

"Ha... Fuck..." Eren let out a loud string of moans all over again as Levi continued to abuse his prostate. His hips rolled on Levi's fingers, wanting even more than the three fingers he currently had within him. "Levi... I want you, please... I want you to fill me up... please..." Eren whined, moving a hand to Levi's locks and tugging on them to get him off of his length. If you do that... I'll come without you inside.

Levi lifted his head up from it's merciless brushing of Eren's slit, his fingers drawing out of him and going to quickly lube himself up. He positioned himself at Eren's entrance, his hands running over his skin as he slowly pushed forward, sheathing himself in him, shuddering a bit at the heat. "W-whenever you say..." He ground himself deeper into Eren when he nodded, drawing nearly out before thrusting back in, starting up a decent pace as Eren quickly dissolved into a moaning mess. Fuck, you look hot...

Eren's arms wrapped around Levi's shoulders, pulling him close to his chest. "Levi... I want you, fuck me please... Make me forget about everything... Please." He resorted to begging as his back arched off of the bed, his hips rolling in rhythm with Levi's thrusts. I don't wanna remember anything... Nothing at all....

Levi's eyes darkened, shifting his legs further apart for a better angle, his hands lifting Eren's hips up a bit to slam into him, their hips fully meeting with every movement of his hips. He dragged his tongue up Eren's neck, nipping at his Adam's apple. "... Gladly. You're gonna be sore for a long while....

Eren's eyes rolled back into his head as Levi finally found his prostate. "Shit... Levi... there, please... don't stop." He could feel Levi's thin fingers gripping into his bony hips and beginning to leave bruises. His arms reached out above him, grabbing onto the sheets above his head. Fuck, it feels good. His whole body was stretched out to give Levi full access over everything as his moans ranged between various octaves. "Levi..." His name left Eren's lips like a mantra, over and over again.

Levi's eyes were nearly black, his eyes raking over his lithe body as Eren arched and moaned under him, bruises blooming around his collar. "... beautiful...and you're all mine..." Levi purred above him, feeling himself nearing the edge. "Eren... Don't try to be quiet..." Levi took his length in hand, rubbing the slit with quick, firm strokes of his thumb. "...just let go. I wanna hear you scream...

Eren groaned even more, feeling the heat swelling in his abdomen. "I'm gonna... Haa... Levi... keep going.... I'm gonna cum.... Fuck..." Eren writhed under Levi's strong body. He could feel the muscles ripple with each movement, moaning as Levi teased his slit, struggling to hold it in for a few more seconds and let the sensations build. "L-Levi! I'm.... Fuck.... Cumming!" Eren's scream was loud as he finally let the sensations take over, his toes curling in bliss. His cries were loud, and his body tensed from the sudden rush of feeling overwhelming it. "Fuck!" his body grew limp as he finally came, white spilling across his chest, and continued to do so as Levi pounded into him without stopping.

Levi's breathing was growing heavy as he pounded into Eren, his cries going straight to his cock. Fuck. "E-Eren... So... So good... Haaaaa.... I-I'm... H-Ha!" Levi let out a loud moan as his coil finally snapped, his movements a bit jerky as he filled Eren up, slowing inside of him, his head dropping into the crook of his neck. "E-Eren... My God..." He rested on top of Eren for a long moment, his softening length still inside of him. So good... But... I still want you... Levi began to feel a deep ache of want, though he forced it down, knowing he wouldn't be sated. No... Eren won't want that...

Eren grew limp under Levi, breathing hard, a slow hand coming up to cover his eyes, his whole body shaking from the pressure. "Hmm... Levi, that was great..." He dropped his arm looking up to Levi, knowing that look in his eyes as his body was raked over. He... He has that look... Like when he wanted me to... Eren shook his head looking away for a moment before chancing a glance to Levi's eyes. It's still there... His body was reacting under Levi's gaze of want, his blood pumping again, and his length hardening once more as Levi loomed over him. *But... Doesn't he want me? I'm obviously the weaker one in our relationship... Shouldn't it be that Levi's always on top? It feels so weird when he's not, almost like it's not right... That a man with such well defined abs, and such a place in society would want to be a bottom in our relationship... Hell, I'm lucky that he's even here right now, especially with all my baggage that's been attached recently. Eren's eyes showed more and more conflict as they locked eyes, neither of them breaking away. He saw Levi's lips move, though he was confused because his words were overtaken by a buzz in his ear. *Wait, what did you just say? Eren's conflict was turned to a look of confusion. Huh?

Levi looked down to him with worry, pecking the wrinkle between his furrowed brows gently before he spoke again. "You look uneasy about something... Talk to me, please. What's wrong?"
can maybe help.

Eren swallowed a bit trying to figure out how he would say it. "You want to bottom... I can tell... But why? Wouldn't you rather be on top? You're more dominant... And can definitely overpower me... I just... I don't understand why you would want to be bottoming..." Eren looked to the side a bit, not sure where to look. What if he's mad?... I'm not used to someone bottoming on me... I've always been the one on the bottom, it just... It sounds so unnatural, like it's something that would never happen, and when I think about you... It just... It seems so taboo.

Levi opened his mouth to speak, though he quickly closed it, looking away in embarrassment, trying to think of how to say what he was thinking, deciding to give in and be honest. "Eren, it's not... sex isn't about reminding the people in a relationship who has dominance over the other. It's not about power when it comes to a couple like us... it... It means a lot to me, being able to have you, and for you to have me... I just... I feel filled and completed, in a way, and I love that... and it... when you do top... I feel really loved and wanted... ...when we have sex, it shouldn't be a reminder of who dominates the relationship and who doesn't have that kind of power... Power in a relationship flows. ...You might not know it, but I'm going to be honest when I say you have me completely whipped. I'm wrapped around your finger and you don't know it. I'd do anything you say at the snap of your fingers. Roles switch. ...At least, they can, and... I'd really like it if they did when we had sex a little more..." ...please?

Eren's face flushed as he saw that look in Levi's eyes once again, though his mind was still reeling on everything he had just said. He... He really wants to bottom then? I... I don't know how to... I mean.. "Fuck..." Eren grew completely flustered as he hid his face in his hands, so unsure of what to do, though his mind had a few ideas. All over Christmas break... He had me over him... But I didn't know what I was doing... I was going with the flow... "W-What... Do I... D-do?" Eren asked, spreading his fingers apart a bit to look at Levi. I still really don't understand what being a top means...

"...Let me show you." Levi smirked faintly, his hands gently pulling Eren's own away from his face, pecking his cheeks. "We'll go slow with it, hmm?" Levi ducked his head down to lap at Eren's neck, tracing his lips across Eren's collarbone. "Being a bottom can feel like many things... But it majorly means surrendering to what the top wants and decides to do. It's a special trust- that whatever the top does..." He suckled small marks across his collar, smirking as Eren shuddered. "...is going to feel good. I want the bottom- you- to feel good. And I appreciate being given this privilege. And I myself see it as my duty to worship every inch of skin... Find all of the spots that make you squirm... And learn what it is besides the most obvious things that turn you on." Levi let one hand caress the inside of Eren's thigh, his hands and tongue running over every inch of skin and tracing every line of his body. Absolutely gorgeous ...

Eren took in a sharp breath as Levi's hands gently glided over the skin on his inner thigh, though he let out a soft sigh as his tongue crossed his chest, starting to trace down to his abdomen, going off to one hip, which made Eren squirm a bit under his touch. His eyes were wide as he felt Levi's tongue hit the edge of one of the larger scars, trying not to pull away, struggling to fight his instinct of running from the touch, no matter how gentle it was. It's okay, he's not gonna hurt me... He's not gonna hurt me, Levi's okay. Once his tongue left the area to trace down to his other bony hip, Eren gave a soft whine. "Hmm... Levi..."

"One of the more important things I can do in everything I do..." Levi gently nibbled at a sensitive spot of Eren's hip, pressing a kiss to it as he heard Eren moan quietly, his voice a smooth murmur. "I can listen. Every sound you make lets me know what I can and cannot do. I know what places to avoid..." Levi traced around a rather large scar on his leg, giving it plenty of room. "...and what places you love for me to touch." Levi nipped to the inside of his leg, drifting up closer to Eren's bare length. He passed it, however, suckling a mark on a spot of Eren's v-line. "Marking... it's important, too... Everything about this is... It means that I want everyone who sees them to know you're taken. That what you've allowed me to have isn't something to be willingly tossed around with others. I don't want to share. I want you to look at yourself in the mirror and see those marks for as long as they last or until I give you new ones and think about how someone exists that loves you, is possessive of you, and wants to show you off. That someone is damn proud to call you theirs." You're all that and more to me.

Eren's breath was hitched, a high pitched cry forcing its way out as Levi marked a rather sensitive spot near his navel. Does... Does he really think that about me? He... He's proud? Of me? Of this brokenness... This tainted mess? Eren visibly swallowed again, trying not to let the new tears fall as he sucked in a breath. I don't want you to stop... Please don't.

Levi glanced up as he heard Eren cry out, another thought occurring to him as he travelled slowly to his length. "...I can watch you." Levi's lips ghosted softly up Eren's length, his eyes taking in every shift of Eren's expression. "I can watch and really see how everything I'm doing makes you feel. I can see whether I get a quiet cue to keep going or to stop. But it serves another purpose..." He nipped carefully at the base, licking up his length. "I get to watch you fall apart and be overwhelmed with bliss... And you get to see just how much you're wanted. How much you're adored and loved." Levi pressed a kiss to Eren's tip, his eyes holding a mix of mischief and love. I don't think I could ever properly tell you how much I want you... love you... Adore you.

Eren let out a strangled whimper as his head was teased with his lips. "L-Levi... D-Don't tease please..." His voice was a bit high, a hand coming up to hide his eyes from Levi, rubbing at them. He... Love?.... Adore?....... Me? Eren shifted a bit as he felt Levi's lips against the tip of his cock again, feeling a sensation starting to pull at his chest. But... Why? You could have any girl you wanted... And yet you chose me? He let out a loud gasp, moaning as Levi's tongue licked his sensitive slit back and forth. He loves me....

Levi nodded, coming up from his length and shifting forward, kissing up Eren's neck, his length prodding at Eren's entrance. "I could tease you... But you just asked me not to. Teasing is playful... it's giving you little things that feel good, holding off the bigger things... it makes the moment and the time we have last... but what you want is more important. And I could have you on your front... But then we can't see each other... And I could have you just like this, your legs around my waist... or..." Levi coaxed Eren's legs up and over his shoulders, his hands gaining him leverage on either side of him, his eyes shaded as Eren blushed. "I could do this... and who knows... it might feel better..." He slowly began to push into Eren again, watching his expression, one of surprise and embarrassment, melt into pleasure. "...And I get to see you." He shivered as their hips fully met, knowing he was deeper in Eren than before. He began a slow, deep pace, wanting to prolong their pleasure and ravish Eren's body with attention, his hands roaming every inch of skin they could reach.

Eren moaned out loudly, his back arching as far as it could before he whined. "Fuck... Levi, ha.... you're even deeper.... L-Levi..." Eren whined as he struggled to move with Levi pinning him down. "You... You like this? Fucking me to oblivion? Hmmm..." I want you to fuck me... I want your seed... Levi please.">

Levi's eyes were a thin ring of silver around black, picking up the pace until he was pounding into Eren, their hips meeting completely and grinding hard into him with every thrust. Their lips locked, tongue tangling and hands running desperately over the other's body. Levi moaned into their kiss, aiming for the spot that made Eren whimper and writhe as he ravished him. Your words... Holy fuck... He could feel heat pooling inside of him, holding off and wanting Eren to finish first. I want you to feel amazing.

Eren moaned as he was held in place his tongue dancing against Levi's. Oh my god... this is so much... Holy fuck, this is wonderful. He sighed into the kiss, feeling his heat start to build all over his body. I can feel it... I can feel him everywhere... Eren pulled back to breathe, letting out a low mewl, his body bouncing back as much as he could, feeling Levi delve even further within him. "I'm gonna...."

Levi's hands gripped Eren's hips tightly, pulling him into him with every movement of his hips, groaning as his length plunged even deeper into him. "E-Eren... I can't l-last... Haaaaaa.... Eren..." His eyes caught Eren's, gazing at him with lust and adoration. "Eren, cum for me. I want to watch you writhe and fall apart... I want to hear you scream and moan and make every beautiful sound you do... please, cum."

Eren whimpered but soon let out a loud scream of Levi's name as he came all over their chests, loud cries leaving him as Levi ground into his prostate, prolonging his pleasure as streams of pearly white covered them both. He grew limp as Levi held onto him, bruises of his hands growing up and down his sides as they rose up and down rapidly. "L.....Levi..." His breathing was ragged as he took everything in of the man over him. I want your kids... I want to carry them... I want to hold them.... I want your everything...

Levi let out a deep moan as he released inside of Eren, filling him further and slowing his thrusts, taking in Eren's expression of pure bliss. Beautiful. He remained buried in Eren, taking a long moment for the both of them to catch their breaths before drawing from him, dipping his head down and letting Eren's legs fall from his shoulders. He lapped at his chest, tasting Eren's release and cleaning him, licking his lips before resting on top of him, a careful weight as he nibbled at Eren's neck, marking him gently and speaking. "...you okay with maybe topping? You can say no if you don't want to. I only want this if you do." You come first.

Eren looked up to him as he picked up a shaking hand to his face, cupping his cheek. "I... I think I could do that... but... I don't think I can move right now though." I'm thoroughly exhausted, except for my cock... which doesn't seem to want to know that we can barely move. He looked up to Levi with lust filled eyes, his length twitching underneath Levi as his neck was nibbled. I wouldn't mind at this point... But you'll have to do it...

Levi nodded, shifting to straddle Eren, Eren's length rubbing between his cheeks as he reached for the bottle of lube. He snapped it open and poured some onto his fingers, smirking as he tossed it aside and lifted himself up a bit, reaching around him to begin to prepare himself, his own fingers gliding up his walls as he slowly fucked himself on his hand, trying to stretch out a bit. It's been forever since I've had the real thing... I don't want this to hurt too much... He quietly whimpered as he found his own prostate, brushing the spot and shuddering as he stretched himself. ...it's not just this for once... I get to have you...
Eren shuddered as he watched Levi finger himself in front of him. "Oh my god, Levi.... that's fucking hot..." His shaking hands soon found their way to Levi's hips, shakily running down his thick thighs. He's so muscular... and strong, he can definitely keep going. Eren shuddered as he felt Levi's fingers brush against his straining length. Even if it's just a touch... it feels so good.

Levi smirked wearily, his hand drawing from him, his hands firmly planted on Eren's chest as he positioned himself over Eren's length, his head dropping onto Eren's shoulder as he sunk onto his length. "E-Eren... F-Fuck..." Levi panted heavily as their hips met, shuddering. "Eren... Please..." He started to move his hips up and down, grinding onto his length with every motion. "M-move with me... I want it..." He moaned into his shoulder, feeling tired even as he hardened again, bouncing on Eren's length. He whimpered as Eren could barely move, thrusting himself down harder onto Eren and grinding hard onto him, soon too tired to even use his legs and properly thrust himself down. He ground their hips together, putting all of his energy into having Eren's length brush his prostate firmly over and over. He let out a weak cry as Eren's hand drifted from his hips to his length, teasing it and loosely pumping, feeling the heat growing between his legs as Eren near solely ran his thumb over the slit, his legs spread wide, begging him unashamed to do anything except stop. He gasped and mewled as wave after wave of pleasure washed over him, his voice becoming high-pitched as the heat suddenly became unbearable, his orgasm hitting him like a tidal wave and releasing into Eren's hand. It wasn't long before Eren came inside of him as well, Eren's thumb still rubbing his slit mercilessly and fast. Oversensitive, Levi nearly pushed him away, though a long moment passed with Levi's hardon still weeping with precum as Eren teased it, and Levi couldn't barely move, only able to plead with him to keep going, arched over Eren's chest. He panted hard, whimpering and gasping as his slit was quickly teased, feeling heat pooling again in his abdomen. His breathing was ragged as Eren forced him after a long few minutes to cum hard again, his release decorating Eren's chest before he finally slumped on top of him, completely exhausted, drawing Eren from him. "E-Eren... love you... So m-much..." It wasn't a minute before he passed out, feeling Eren tug the blanket up over his shoulders, his legs splayed on either side of him, embracing Eren lovingly as he slept, his hair mussed and expression peaceful.

Eren moaned as he came inside Levi, feeling him close around him. His hooded eyes had watched Levi cum in his hands twice. That was hot... Damn... I'm exhausted. Eren pulled the blanket weakly over him, feeling Levi's arms wrap around him, shifting over the next hour as he found it impossible to close his eyes no matter how heavy they were. Fuck why can't I sleep? He shifted out from Levi's arms, sitting up at the edge of the bed, rubbing his face. .... Where's Jake...?

Levi cracked his eyes open as Eren peeled away from him, moving to spoon him, but looked up as Eren sat at the edge of the bed, letting himself curl up again as Eren stood. Probably needs to use the bathroom... Levi burrowed under the blankets, his nose buried in the pillow that had Eren's scent all over it. He's only been gone for half a second and I'm already so needy... Eh, he's warm. And wonderful to hold on to. ...he'll be back in a second. Levi fell back to sleep easily, nestled into the pillow and dreaming it was a mop of brunette hair instead. ...mine...

Eren moved to look around the room in confusion when he didn't see Jake. He found his loose sweatpants, which just barely clung to his hips since he'd grown so thin. *Where's Jake... I can't sleep... Eren walked around the room in confusion, opening the large door to the front and becoming even more confused when the door slammed shut behind him and instantly locked. He started to panic when he couldn't open it, though soon resorted to knocking on the closest door across the hall. "J-Jake?" Eren's voice was hoarse and timid, and when he tried to open the door he panicked again. Why can't I open the door? Where's Jake? Why doesn't his room have a door with a window anymore... why isn't anyone answering? Eren proceeded to knock on various doors around his room, panic setting in even more when he couldn't find his own locked room.

Lathe blinked awake, having just begun to lightly doze with Spades in his arms, nude. What the hell... He wrote it off as his imagination when it was quiet for a moment, dropping his head back down and pecking Spades' shoulder blade, murmuring for her to go back to sleep. He sat up when it happened again a few minutes later, hearing a faint panicked voice. "Eren?" Lathe good from the bed, quickly throwing on sweatpants and a tank top before moving to the door, opening it and seeing Eren wandering the floor and looking around panicked. Crap. "Eren? Eren, what's wrong?" Lathe started down the hallway, some of the other doors beginning to open. Spades following him, Erwin and Armin, Isabel and Farlan, Levi, and soon Bert and Reiner were in the hall, all in various stages of undress, everyone, even those with shirts on, having dark hickies visible on their skin. Bert and Reiner looked especially annoyed, still with their dress pants on, their jackets gone and their shirts unbuttoned near the top. ... it's past midnight. At least we're all communally indecent. This way we can't judge anyone because we're all hot messes. He walked up to Eren, catching him before he could knock on a door that didn't belong to their party. "Eren, why are you panicking? What's wrong?" Did something with Levi happen?

Bert was seething as he came out of the room he and Reiner shared, furious at being interrupted. I have the chance after four years to have what I've never been allowed to even touch and whoever is waking everyone up isn't. Helping. Bert's demeanor switched, however, when he saw Eren wandering confused, his tattoos visible and hair up in a bun. He could see the faint scars that littered his arms and back, hickies dotting his neck and chest, changing colors and fading as they steamed. ... wait. Is that...

Eren looked around in panic as Lathe got closer to him, pulling his arm back and away. "N-no... Where's Jake... I can't f-find him." Eren's eyes were wide, his chest rising and falling at a rapid rate, his breathing starting to falter a bit as he was starting to hyperventilate. I want Jake... I can't sleep... Where's Jake... Eren didn't even realize his hickies were steaming, and his nose beginning to bleed a bit as they healed. Where am I? Why is it so strange? Where's Jake? I wanna sleep with Jake... He'll let me hold him. Eren's breaths were wheezing as he heard Isabel call him dangerous and he backed away even further from the group in the hallway, his panic having completely settled in.

Izzy stepped out wearing a bathrobe that was pulled together tightly to try and avoid any cleavage or other skin from underneath being revealed. She looked to where Eren stood, his body steaming in various places, his eyes full of fear. Wait.... That's... "Eren Yeager.... That's definitely him, that's his tattoo... And those scars..." Izzy's eyes traced over his frightened form, hardening when she realized something. "Lathe, get away from him, he's dangerous... How'd he get out of the mental institution? He's insane." She asked and stepped back a bit behind Farlan who clearly raised his
... what the fuck did you just call him . Bert's eyes flashed dangerously for a completely new reason, stepping between Eren and the two marines, letting his family go to help calm him. He stepped directly in Farlan's path as he moved to stop Lathe from going to Eren's side, letting the man reach Eren, staring him and Izzy down. "I bet you two don't understand why he was put in that mental institution." He watched as they sputtered a bit, holding up a hand and silencing them. "'Because he's insane' is not a good answer. He was put in a psych ward because of a video documenting the effects of a new kind of medicine he has in his system. It's not understood how it works. Nobody understands it. And everyone who heard what it supposedly makes the body do freaked out and was sure he was insane. He was put in that place for no damn good reason, because it wasn't as if he was given any sort of evaluation. A video on YouTube, put up by mistake , of him describing outlandish things happening to him got him put in a hospital . What's worrying isn't him- it's the system that's fucked up and that we should worry about. Eren has been through hell and back- something nobody here can seem to grasp even though he has a PTSD service dog. He has been trying his damndest to be okay with us around who he doesn't know and can obviously hurt him, offered to pay for dinner, and has been nothing but sweet to all of us and you two are so quick to throw your impressions of him out the window because of something the media fed you. You two probably read the newspapers and the tabloids. I've been watching all of his social medias since he started out; his Dad's too. He is not something you two should be scared of so back down and have some fucking respect ." He turned from the two of them, backing down a bit as Lathe looked up to him in shock, speaking quietly and shyly. "I'm sorry for being loud... Is he okay?" I kinda got carried away...

Lathe nodded, his hand rubbing Eren's back as Levi sat on the floor cradling Eren, looking up to Bert with serious respect, his voices soft. "...it means a lot that you just did that. Thank you." Lathe smiled to him, grateful. "...nobody understands anymore. I'm glad you do." It's not easy to explain over and over he's not gonna hurt anyone... Thank you. So much.

Eren watched with wide eyes as Bert yelled at the two who looked ready to fight him. What's happening... Why is he yelling at them? Why are they here? Eren's breathing was becoming erratic, struggling to take a proper breath in, his wheezing was getting worse, his nose still bleeding as his bruises practically steamed off of him. "H-hurts..." His eyes were wide with fear as he looked at Lathe, still trying to wrap his mind about what was happening to him. Where's Jake? He whimpered when he heard Blake barking on the other side of his door, trying to get out of the room. What's that? The noise was beginning to freak him out more.

...too many people . "Listen, please, all of you go back to your rooms, he's confused and panicking." Lathe looked to Levi as he was suddenly handed a key card, going to unlock their room and holding open the door.

Levi cradled Eren, murmuring to him as he lifted him from the floor, holding him to his chest and carrying him to their room. He moved to set him down on the bed, moving to get a wad of toilet paper and pinch Eren's nose, getting him to hold it in place and soak up the blood. "It'll stop hurting soon, Eren, just relax. It's okay." Levi held Eren in his lap, his thumb rubbing his side as Eren pet Blake to calm down. Someone needs to get Bert an award. Serious props to him.

... I like this guy. Armin nodded in approval as Bert put Izzy and Farlan in place, tugging a concerned-looking Erwin back into their room as everyone dispersed. "He'll be okay, he's good great people looking after him. Come on, I wanna sleep." I need something to cuddle.

Bert nodded, a faint pink tinge to his cheeks, glaring at Izzy and Farlan as they hesitated to go back into their room, which made them instantly retreat and shut the door. He nodded to Lathe, going back across the hall to where Reiner waited, quiet as he looked to the floor, assuming the worst.
"C'mon... We should sleep..." The moment's over... He sounded disappointed, walking into the room past Reiner.

Eren whimpered as he was held in Levi's arms, gently rocked back and forth, his thin frame easily able to curl up to the smaller man. His shaking hands were running through Blake's fur, still trying to calm himself down. "W-Where's Jake...?" Eren whined quietly when he looked around the room, still not seeing his sleeping buddy. I can't sleep without holding Jake...

Reiner watched Bert walk past him, quickly following him and closing the door after hanging the
'do not disturb' paper on the door handle. His arms wrapped themselves around Bert before he could get into the large King bed. "I um... I wouldn't mind... uh... starting over, if that's alright with you?" He dipped his head down to nibble at Bert's neck as the taller man instantly melted into his touch, guiding them further into the room. I take that as a yes.

Spades came into the room, seeing Eren beginning to cry when he called for Jake, his cries becoming louder and louder for the child. He really misses Jake... I don't know how we're gonna handle this... It seems he's panicked himself into forgetting where the hell he is? Or maybe he thinks this is all a dream? And he's trying to wake up? Spades watched as the small bruises that lingered faded with wisps of steam trailing behind them. It's localized... The steam is coming off each and every bruise... It looks weird... but his nose isn't bleeding nearly as much as it has previously.

Lathe gently carded a hand through Eren's locks, speaking to him quietly. "Eren, Jake is fine.
You're not at the hospital right now; you're at a hotel. But Jake is back at the hospital and he's doing okay, probably dreaming of sheep and nice things. He's okay, don't you worry about it." He pecked his temple, signing to Spades. {I need my medic bag. He needs his meds, and maybe something to help him sleep.} Lathe looked back to Eren as she left, murmuring with Levi to calm him. He soon enough had his bag on hand, rifling for the pill bottle and handing Eren the correct dosage, along with a mini bottle of water. "Eren, take these, you'll feel better, m'kay? It'll be easier to sleep, promise." You need the rest.
Eren shook his head, putting the bottle down on the bed, and giving him the pills back. "I want Jake! I c-can't sleep without him..." Eren whined just like he did if one of the late night nurses found him going to Jake's room. "I don't wanna be here... I don't know you people..." He whimpered when he pulled the tissues away from his face, his nose no longer bleeding. < "Please let me go sleep with him... I can't sleep... They didn't give me the right pills... I can't take more..."> Eren whimpered out valuable information to add to the civil suit to get him out of the hospital. "I want Jake... I can't take more..."

"They're still giving you the wrong pills?" Lathe watched as Eren nodded, reaching for his bag, shooting Levi an apologetic look. "I'm sorry about that, Eren. But I checked three times for you, and these..." He added another pill to the mix, tiny and white, handing them back to Eren. "Are the ones you're supposed to have. And you didn't have them yet today, so it's okay to take them." He gave him back the water as well, his voice softly coaxing Eren to take them. "And once they're down the hatch, we can get you to sleep with Jake, m'kay?" Come on... Take them, please...

Eren looked down at the pills before he nodded, opening up the water bottle with shaky hands before he downed the pills one at a time, finishing off the small bottle of water after. He gave it back, his hands going to shakily pet Blake again. "I wanna go see Jake.... Eren felt his whole body beginning to feel like lead, his arms falling slack against his sides and his head rolling to lean on Levi's shoulder as his eyes closed, sleep taking over him.

"Sedative?" Spades as quietly as she helped Levi maneuver the blankets around so the two of them could get under the covers. What set it off though? Was he fine before? "Levi... Do you know what happened?" I hope it wasn't anything too bad...

Levi shook his head, maneuvering Eren under the blankets. "I don't know... He was fine when we actually went to bed to sleep... he didn't have his meds... uhm..." I doubt having him top did it... "I really dunno what could've set him off... all I know is he got up after like an hour and I assumed it was to go to the bathroom... Obviously not."

"He didn't get his meds... my guess is he didn't sleep. Insomnia acted up... No meds... Jake... it's probably something he does when he gets the wrong meds and can't sleep. He finds Jake, sleeps with him or something. It'd make sense. "That must be it. " And I'm not apologizing for the sedative. He needs the rest, and we can't have him keeping everyone up."

Spades nodded, tucking the two of them in. "Alright, get some rest, we're going to leave at late check out tomorrow to get on the train to head north." I still kinda can't believe my Dad wanted us to stay in Buffalo with him... Even though we're in Virginia, New York is still pretty far north of here.
Eren shifted slightly, his weak arms going to wrap around Levi's torso, a leg drifting over Levi's as he drifted towards his warmth. Warm... Gimme....

Levi nodded, blushing faintly as he simply pulled Eren on top of him, his hands lovingly running over his sides. He let his eyes slide shut as the light was turned off, listening to Lathe packing his bag up. He could feel his presence linger next to the bed for a moment as if unsure, soon hearing him move to peck Eren's forehead. Of course... What he didn't expect was for Lathe to do the same to him, opening his eyes in surprise and watching Lathe turn away embarrassed, scurrying after Spades to go back to their own room. Levi was a bit confused until a thought hit him, a couple thoughts falling into place, calming considerably. ...he's gonna be my Father-in-Law someday soon...

...and he's always treated me like I'm his son.

Eren woke up drool running down from his open mouth and onto Levi's bare chest. His eyes were barely managing to stay open and everything looked blurry as he struggled to pull himself from his medicated sleep. My body feels like a sack of bricks.... I can't move... And I'm drooling... Fuck... Eren closed his mouth, licking the drool off from his chin and struggling to even move his head a few inches to either side. Levi's warm... But he's still asleep though, right...?

Levi looked down as he saw Eren's eyes flutter open, smiling faintly and tilting his head down to peck his forehead. "Good morning, Eren. How're you feeling?" Lathe knocked you out... You probably don't feel so hot right now...

Eren hissed a bit as Levi's voice boomed in his ears, his hands struggling to come up and paw at his ears. You're so loud... That hurt... Eren's eyes fluttered shut and his head lay slack in a new area on Levi's chest as his own rose and fell. I can barely move, what the actual hell....

Levi’s eyes widened a bit with worry, carding a gentle hand through his brunette locks, whispering. “M’sorry… head hurts?” He watched as Eren weakly nodded, carefully shifting out from under him, pressing a loving kiss to his forehead and tucking him back in. “M’gonna get dressed and get something to make you feel better, okay?” He went to quickly throw on a shirt, taking a key card and padding next door, knocking lightly. Come on, Eren needs meds.

Lathe opened the door after a moment, in the midst of getting dressed, his hair a mess. “…sup. Now, let me guess… his head’s killing him.” He rolled his eyes good-naturedly as Levi simply nodded, going to get his bag. “I’ve got stuff for that... here. Two of these will do the trick. And he’ll feel better after he eats breakfast, too.” He handed Levi a small white bottle, smiling. Once we get waffles in him, he’ll do much better.
Levi studied the bottle in his hand, glancing up to him. “Alright. Thanks, D-Lathe. Thanks Lathe.” Levi ducked his head down, flushing as he quickly moved back to their room. He focused on getting Eren a glass of water, biting the inside of his cheek. Lathe is Eren’s Dad... not yours... Levi moved back to the bed, gently coaxing Eren to sit up, helping him to take the pills and drink the water. “Here- this and breakfast will help you feel better.” You need to eat...

Eren nodded, taking the pills before crawling back under the blankets. “I wanna sleep.” His voice was quiet and a bit muffled. It's so loud... And that's just the air conditioning... He felt Blake hop onto the bed and nudge him from under the covers. I don’t wanna get up.

Levi smiled to him faintly, going about getting dressed, putting on black skinny jeans and deciding to simply wear a tank top, looking in the mirror and seeing only one prominent mark on his neck. Yeah, I don't care anymore. He rubbed it lightly, smirking as he turned back to Eren, moving to turn him onto his back and pull the blankets from his face, kissing him softly to wake him. He pecked gently across his cheeks, moving to unbury him from the pile of blankets and help him into clothes. “Come on, let’s go get some breakfast in you.” Levi soothed his protests with soft kisses, helping him shimmy into comfy sweatpants and a tee shirt. A thought occurred to him, letting Eren put on his shoes tiredly while he want back to the room next door and knocked lightly, looking at his feet. Please, let Spades answer the door... Levi knew he was out of luck when a familiar set of boots came into view, embarrassed as he spoke. “U-Uhm... can Eren have one of your sweaters?”

Lathe quietly nodded, going into the room and coming back with a green sweater, handing it to Levi.

Levi reached to take the sweater from him, mumbling. “Thank you, Lathe...” He tugged at the fabric a bit, looking up confused as Lathe didn't let go. ...you're gonna make us talk about this... aren't you...

Lathe gave him a weak, reassuring smile, his voice quiet. “...you can call me Dad if you want to. ...I know you’re not going anywhere. ...and you really are like a son to me.” It's okay.

Levi tinged pink, looking down to his feet, shuffling a bit, feeling vulnerable. “...okay... t-thanks... Dad...” It felt weird to say, trying desperately to calm himself down. Crap... I dunno if I can say it... Levi was stunned as he was suddenly pulled into a crushing hug, simply standing there as he tried to process what was happening. He weakly held onto Lathe’s shirt after a moment of hesitance, his head dropping into his shoulder. I finally have a Dad...

Lathe ran a hand soothingly over Levi’s back as he felt him faintly shudder and breathe in shakily, tucking his head under his chin. I know you didn't really have much family when you were young...
I hope you’re okay with this… Lathe pressed a kiss to the top of his head when he had calmed down a long minute later, letting Levi go, smiling warmly, his voice quiet. “You get yourselves ready for breakfast- they have waffles.” You two will both feel better after breakfast.

Levi nodded, glancing up to him gratefully. “Okay… thank you…” Levi went back to his room, the door shutting quietly behind him as he padded up to Eren, holding out the sweater. “Here- it’ll keep you warm.” And I know you like wearing Lathe’s stuff...

Eren took the sweater, pulling it over his torso, it was obviously too big for him, and hung loosely around one of his shoulders, letting a bit of scarring show from under both his shirt and the sweater. It’s green… I like it. He pulled the fabric close to his nose, taking in Lathe’s scent and instantly calming down. “Where’s Dad?” He looked up to Levi with large puppy eyes. I’m not really hungry...

“Dad’s still next door right now, getting dressed… we can go down and get food now if you want. I wanna go before they run out of waffle stuff.” The good stuff… everyone else might already be down there… eh, hopefully they left stuff for us.

Eren looked to him for a moment, his mind taking everything in before he nodded. “O-okay.” He got up off the bed, following Levi out of the room and into the strange hallway, jumping as the door next to them swung open to reveal Izzy and Farlan. Wait… Why do I feel so afraid of them? His body moved before he could comprehend it, moving behind Levi and hiding behind him as best as he could. I don’t… Why am I so scared?

Levi eyed the two of them with apprehension, watching them shrink just a bit at his cool gaze. Just walk. Levi kept himself between Eren and the two of them, looking over as Lathe and Spades came out of their room as well, dressed and with hair tamed.

Lathe quietly followed the four of them with his arm around Spades’ waist, stepping into the elevator with them, eyeing Izzy and Farman warily as the two of them fidgeted. I’m not mad. I just don’t know how you two are going to act, especially after Bert pretty much reamed you two. They soon stepped into the lobby, meandering over to where a large table had been monopolised by the rest of Levi’s squad mates, looking up and waving to them to sit with them. We all woke up really late- eh, we were all… occupied. We’ve just accepted the fact we’re all being heathens together. It’s cool.

Erwin waved them over, watching the six of them approach, though he saw Izzy and Farlan shrink as they got closer to the table, his head turning to follow their gaze, seeing Bert glaring at them. That’s almost as frightening as Levi’s death glare. He coughed, clearing his throat. “At ease, Bert.” Calm down, you’re freaking Eren out too.
Eren was still hiding behind Levi as they got closer to the table, his hands shaking as he held onto Levi’s shirt. He’s glaring at us… Why is he glaring at us?

Reiner grinned a bit as Bert sat back, his glare softening. “It’s okay Eren, you’ve got another guard dog.” He elbowed Bert, a cheeky grin taking over his features. I think you look even better when you’re angry.

Bert’s features immediately softened, his head ducking down a bit, blushing furiously as he glanced to Reiner, then to Eren. “S-Sorry… I wasn't glaring at you …” He shyly picked at his breakfast with his fork, his blush darkening as Reiner nudged his foot under the table, hooking their ankles. ...mine...

Levi nodded to him, appreciating it before turning to Eren, tugging him along by the sleeve. “Come on, I'll get you something to eat.” Levi moved with him and set him down next to Armin, going to acquire food and bringing back two full plates, setting one with fruit and waffles on it in front of Eren. He sat down, clinging onto Eren’s sleeve as he ate. Mine.

Lathe sipped at his cup of coffee and nibbled a bagel, watching as Levi sat down. Levi is clinging to Eren... who's clinging to Armin... who's clinging to Erwin. ...just another link of the chain. He linked ankles with Spades as they ate, the fifth couple to do so at the table. We’re all heathens. But we’re all happy heathens.

Eren looked at the waffles with confusion. Wait… we’re not having oatmeal for breakfast? Eren looked around in confusion, carefully picking up the waffle, having let go of Armin. His confused eyes spotted Levi, questioning him. “They’re not… We’re not eating plain oatmeal?” That’s what we usually have for breakfast…. Where’s Jake? I don’t get it…. He always sits with me in the morning. His voice was quiet as he looked over the waffles once again, he continued to reveal more and more that could be added to his civil suit without really realizing it.

“That’s called a waffle, Eren.” Lathe held up a hand as Reiner opened his mouth to speak, silencing him, focusing on Eren. “What do you normally eat for breakfast? Just plain oatmeal?” Hmmm.

Eren nodded. “Y-yeah…. Sometimes if we’re good they’ll give us juice…. Otherwise we get water.” His hand came back off of the waffle, setting it down before curling up in his chair, pulling his knees up to his chest. It’s weird… Where’s the oatmeal?

“That must look like a lot for breakfast, then, huh?” Lathe stood, coming around the table and moving behind Eren, watching him nod, gently rubbing his shoulder. “Is it ever enough to eat? If you ask for more if you're hungry, do they give you any?” This doesn't sound good.

Eren shook his head, flinching a bit as his shoulder was suddenly touched before he leaned back into it. “N-No… They don’t give you more… and they um…. They make you put up with it until you can only eat that much for meals.” That's why everyone’s thin… Weak … And easy to handle…

That's why you lost so much weight. Lathe nodded, his expression stony for a moment before he spoke softly again. “Do you want to try eating some of this? Or do you want me to find you oatmeal, see if they have any? You don't have to finish this- picking at it is better than nothing. It'll taste better than plain oatmeal, I promise you'd like it.” We need to make sure you're well-fed.

Eren looked up at Lathe from where he sat. “O-okay…” His voice a bit shaky as he looked down to the plate with the ‘waffle’ on it. It looks greasy… And it’s hard… What am I supposed to do with it?

Levi watched as Eren stared at his waffle in confusion, looking to Lathe. I got this. He reached over to Eren’s plate as Lathe went back to his seat, cutting up his waffle for him into pieces, the chocolate he drizzled over the top still a bit melty. “Here, it's easier to eat now. It’s warm and fluffy- you'll like it.” …I promised you forever ago, the day after I slept over for the first time, that I'd take you out for waffles… technically I kept my word. I hope these are okay.

Eren shifted in his seat, still having his knees curled to his chest. His hand picked up a fork and timidly stabbed a small piece of fluffy goodness before he took a bite, holding back a small moan. It tastes heavenly. He stabbed another piece and repeated the process quietly, not listening to anything that was happening around him. It's better than oatmeal.

Reiner watched Lathe sit back down, turning to him and speaking quietly as he looked to Eren. “He’s 21… And doesn’t know what a waffle is?” His voice quiet and questioning, knowing that Eren might be upset if he heard him. Don’t wanna set him off...

“He didn't know what coffee or tea tasted like until he was sixteen.” Lathe shrugged, looking into his cup, similarly speaking quietly. “He's not familiar with a lot of the stuff you were as a kid… he didn't really get to be a kid. There's a lot he doesn't know about.” Lathe shrugged again, smiling faintly to Eren, glancing to Reiner. “But we’re making up for lost time as best we can.” He looks like he’s enjoying the waffles… that's good.

Reiner nodded. “Sorry, I didn’t want to seem like an asshole about it.” He whispered back to Lathe before working on his own food. His eyes glanced over towards Erwin who didn’t seemed concerned about what had just happened in front of them. Staff Sarge doesn’t seem that concerned about it… and neither does Blondie over there. Does this happen that regularly? His episodes are that regular? And it seems like wherever he’s put right now isn’t doing him any favors. “Can’t you get deficiencies for eating nothing but oatmeal?” Reiner asked Lathe quietly as his mind started to question a few things. *I’m no medic… but I don’t believe there is any nutritional value to oatmeal unless it's added.

Lathe shook his head faintly. “No, you're not being mean about it. You're curious, and it's fine to ask. But there's not too much nutritional value to oatmeal if it's plain… sure, maybe there's some sugar in it… but if they're not even allowed juice unless their behaviour is stellar… it's no wonder Eren’s lost so much weight being there… I always bring food when I visit him, but he barely picks at it… they've been training those patients not to eat… keeps them thin… drains their energy… they become weak. Easy to handle if they're anything besides calm.” Lathe looked to his bagel, no longer interested in eating it.

Reiner nodded, feeling full himself and putting his napkin on his plate. “Make sure he eats, we’re gonna head up cause we’ve been here a bit and we wanna shower before we check out.” He stood, taking his plate and nodding for Bert to follow him. I wanna shower with you again. Last night wasn’t enough.

Lathe nodded, smiling to him and Bert as they stood to throw out their trash and head upstairs. He swirled his coffee in his nearly-empty cup, waiting patiently for Spades and Levi to finish eating, Eren deciding to help Levi with his breakfast and scarfing down the fruit he was given like a starved wolf. ...we need to get some meat on your bones. He spoke up when Eren had cleared their plates, Spades as well just sipping at a cup of juice. “Let’s go retrieve our stuff so we can check out in time, okay?” He stood when the three of them murmured in assent, walking with them back to the elevator, soon walking with Spades into their room. ...I don't wanna leave any of my stuff behind… I like my stuff… and I’m emotionally attached to my sweaters so I need to make sure I have them all.

Eren followed Levi into the room with the funny lock, looking around the overly white room. “It’s…. Too w-white.” Eren murmured as he went to curl up into the bed. There was no way in hell that Levi was gonna get him out of this sweater, or any of his other clothes. I wanna sleep… I’m tired…

Spades closed the door behind herself and leaned against the door. “.... how did we not put two and two together? Lathe…. He’s lot so much weight because they’ve been holding food from him… How much has he lost? 40 by now? You can see his hips….“ She looked almost ready to cry, struggling to hold in her emotions. God… Why didn’t I think of that sooner? We could’ve gotten him out on a case of neglect…
Lathe just shook his head, looking defeated as he turned to her, leaning against her and resting his forehead against her shoulder. “I don't know... it's easily been that much... but this bit of it isn't just some kind of miscommunication. It’s ‘Please give me food, I'm hungry’ and ‘No, you're getting a little bit of food with no real nutritional value that doesn't measure up to normal standards.’ It’s neglect. And I hate that it’s happening to the others in that ward... Jake is receiving the same treatment... this is going in the suit. I'm asking for nutrition information when we get back home. But right now...” Lathe pecked Spades’ cheek, willing her to keep it together. “-he's with us, and he’ll be doing better, eating right. Now we know. He'll be okay.” We’ll fix this.

Spades nodded, moving to wrap her arms around him. “I know this might sound bad, but… that sedative you used on him last night, I want you to give it to him again for the train ride to Buffalo, just so that he’s gotten enough rest when my Dad gets us... and maybe he’ll remember where he is after he wakes up again?” She took in a deep breath, willing herself to calm down along with him. I want him to be okay, and I want him to feel normal again. I want him to be able to act like a kid, and make up for what he missed.

“Spades, that sedative I gave him was strong. As in for safety reasons I don't carry around more than five strong. We’ll see if he can fall asleep within the first hour. If not, I'll give him enough just to help him fall asleep. Giving a full pill of that like last night if anything was a drastic measure. I'll cut it in half if anything. But you're right- he does need plenty of sleep before we get there. And he should- he’s back on the correct meds. He didn't take them earlier last night before bed- it confused him. But he’ll be okay. Promise.” He really will be. He's improving- and I think this getting out of that damn ward will help.

Spades nodded and she tilted her head to the side and kissed his cheek. “Alright, well, let’s get everything together, and you’ll probably want to wear a sweater all day today... Eren’s gonna want to wear them more since he basically drowns in them now.” He looked so skinny with it just hanging off of him like that... and he’s not supposed to be that much smaller than you Lathe.

Lathe nodded, kissing her sweetly before pulling away, starting to pack away their things and changing his top, tugging on a purple sweater. It's a good thing I brought, like, ten. And we’ll fix the fact that he’s so skinny- I'll put vitamins and stuff in the food I bring for as long as he’s still in that ward. I'm not letting him be starved.

Levi had just zipped their suitcases shut, going to pull the covers off of Eren, pecking his cheeks and coaxing him to unfurl. “Come on, let’s get downstairs. When we get on the train you can sleep all you want, m’kay?” You'll need the rest for when we get up there- you don't wanna be passing out when we get to Buffalo.

Eren nodded tiredly and he stood on shaky legs. We’re leaving this place... are we leaving Jake here? “J-Jake?” He asked quietly, tugging on Levi’s sleeve as he was led towards the door. I don’t wanna leave him behind.
Levi didn't know what to do besides shake his head a bit. “Jake can't come with us- he's gotta stay here for now. But he’ll be okay; Lathe made sure they’re taking good care of him.” I don't know what else to tell you... Levi let out an internal sigh of relief as Eren faintly nodded, bringing him out into the hall, rolling both their suitcases behind them. He saw Spades and Lathe waiting patiently in the hall, nodding to them and stopping for a minute, untangling Eren from his sleeve for a moment to murmur into Lathe’s ear. “He still thinks he’s at the hospital... he asked for Jake again.” He watched Lathe nod and murmur to Spades as well, grabbing their suitcases by the handles again and rolling them to the elevator, running into Armin and Erwin when they reached the ground floor. They all said their goodbyes before heading out, a taxi waiting for them.

... He needs sleep. Lathe loaded their bags into the trunk, a tight fit, though it was manageable. He was quiet for most of the ride, not paying Levi or Eren much attention as they cuddled next to him in the backseat. ... Levi really is like a son to me. ... soon enough, he might actually be my son-in-law... Lathe blushed as he heard Eren make a tiny happy sound, Levi threading his hand through his long hair.

... Levi, ask me, hear me say yes, and then marry him.

Eren gave a soft mewl, liking the feeling of Levi’s fingers against his scalp. It feels so nice... None of the other watchers are this nice with me... He was relatively quiet in the car and was easily ushered into their sleeper car. There’s beds in this one.... His eyes were wide as he he took in the new surroundings. “Do... d-do I get a bed?” Eren asked quietly, looking to Levi with wide and curious eyes. I wanna go back to sleep.

Levi nodded, smiling faintly. “Mhm. You get to pick which one you want. It's gonna be a while until we’re there.” Levi let Eren lead them to a bed near the corner, their suitcases easily fitting underneath the bed. Levi gently tugged Eren onto the surprisingly comfortable mattress, pulling the blanket up over them and pulling Eren close. He played with his hair, murmuring. “You get some sleep, okay? We can't have you getting there tired.” Nope. ... I could go for a nice nap too, I suppose... it’s nice to have you in my arms... I'll take what I can get.

Lathe stowed his own suitcase underneath a bed, letting Spades do the same before catching her, similarly tugging her down onto the bed. He moved so they were laying down, smiling as his eyes shut. “...mine.” He yawned, his arms strongly wound around her. “...nap with me please?” He looked up to her, giving her the puppy eyes. Pleeeeeease?

Spades smiled and giggled at the gesture, moving to curl up to him, her head coming into the crook of his neck. “Hmm, I think we could all use a nap... wait, doesn’t Eren need his pills before he goes to sleep? Did you give them to him this morning?” Her voice was worried as she sat up, shifting a bit as the train started to move. I don't want him to wake up in a bigger panic because he might have a nightmare.
“We normally give him his PTSD meds at night because it's a regular time, and so that the dose is strongest in his system when he’s susceptible to nightmares. So no on those, but good call. I do have a morning med for him.” Lathe pecked her cheek, shifting over her and standing, rifling through his bag and soon coming over to Eren and Levi with a pale blue pill and a bottle of water in hand, poking Levi. “I need to give Eren a thing before he sleeps.”

Levi looked up to him, nodding and shifting up, gently shaking Eren awake, pecking away his worry the second he looked anything other than peaceful. “Eren, Lathe needs to give you a thing. You can sleep in a second, okay?” It's important. You need your meds.

Eren picked his head up in confusion, his eyes opening up after a bit, and turning to see Lathe with pills. “Med...cine?” Eren asked childishly as he moved to sit up, his shirt and sweater riding up revealing his thin waist yet again. I'll take my medicine.

Lathe looked to his thin waist for a moment, his brow creasing with worry before he smiled again to Eren, nodding and handing him his pill. “Yep, medicine. You know the drill, Hon.” He handed Eren the water bottle and watched him swallow the pill and a great deal of water obediently, ruffling his hair and smiling to the two of them. “Alright, go back to your nap.” He chuckled when Eren immediately dropped back down onto Levi in response, turning back to Spades and stowing the pill and water bottles away. He clambered back into bed, pulling up the covers, surprised when Spades rolled him over and pulled him flush to her front, spooning him. ...I approve of this. He blushed, nestled into the pillow and drifting in and out of sleep for the next few hours, both couples shifting around as they napped, warm and content with their other in their arms. I love you. Lathe blinked awake tiredly as Spades nudged him to wake him at one point, weakly smacking at her elbow. “Murr… wan’ sleep…” It’s comfy…. and warm… and I have my hooman to hold on to...

Spades sighed quietly, nudging Lathe again, leaning over to kiss his lips. “Lathe we gotta wake up, we’ll be at the Depew station in 15 minutes.” We need to get up. She shifted out of his arms, moving to gently shake Levi. “Levi, wake up… We’ll be at the station soon.” She moved back over to Lathe to nudge him again. “Really Lathe, my Dad’s ready to get us… He even made dinner.”

Lathe reached up to cup her cheek as she kissed him, though when she pulled away too quickly he missed, making a sound of protest as she moved to the other side of the car. He dropped back down, letting his eyes shut, waiting for Spades to come back. He smiled as she spoke, easily shifting to sit up and step onto the floor in one movement, his arm winding around her middle, cradling the back of her neck as he kissed her, feeling the heat of her blush in surprise as he tipped her back a few inches. Because I can. He pulled back after a moment and smirked mischievously. “Okay. I'm up.”

Levi easily blinked awake and nodded to her, looking around for a moment and getting reacquainted with his surroundings. Oh yeah… train car. He looked down to see Eren peacefully sleeping on his chest, his hands gently running over his back. Levi carefully shifted them and rolled Eren over onto his back, knowing Lathe had Spades occupied at the moment, softly kissing Eren as he slowly blinked awake. “Time to get up, Eren. Sleep okay?” Levi pulled back, sitting up and facing him, inspecting a loose thread on the blanket. I know I certainly did.

Eren blinked the sleep away from his eyes, struggling to shift his own body weight up. I slept fine…. And my body still feels like lead. He nodded after a few moments, trying once again to put his thin arms under him to push himself up. His attempt was in vain, his body falling back down onto the blankets with a soft whimper. I can’t even lift myself up anymore… What the fuck….

Spades’ face was completely flushed when Lathe brought her back up from their tilt. Wow…. Hot damn… I kinda miss dancing with you, and being able to do that all the time. She smiled as she got comfortable in his arms, leaning into the touch, her head turning to Eren, seeing him struggle to move. “You didn’t give him the…” Her voice was quiet as she trailed off in concern. Well…. Now he gave up…

Lathe shook his head, watching as Levi moved to carefully help Eren up, sitting with Spades on the edge of their bed. “I didn’t…. but he’s so thin… his body is really weak right now… he’s not strong enough to lift his own weight…” *That’s not good. We’ll just have to make sure he gets plenty of good food in him from now on. We can fix this, don't worry. He’ll be okay.

Spades nodded, leaning her head on Lathe’s shoulder as she watched the two of them interact. Levi… Why don’t you just ask? You know we’ll say yes… Come on, we need someone who can take care of him to be by his side, and that someone is you. She grinned stupidly as she remembered how Lathe had proposed to her. I wonder if he called Marcus before he asked? I never heard Dad talk about it…

Eren whimpered as he was pulled into the sitting position, clearly too weak to sit up by himself. His sweater and shirt rode up a little higher this time, showing that his sweatpants were just barely staying on his hips. Everything is so big on me… Are these my clothes? Or Dad’s clothes? Eren was still struggling to move around a bit though he gave up quickly and stayed right next to Levi, holding his wrists and rubbing them. They hurt… It hurts a lot…

Lathe watched as Eren inspected his sweater, seeing him sniff the sleeve and watching his face fall a bit. Probably doesn't smell much like me anymore. Lathe stood, meandering over to them, gently nudging Eren. “Want this sweater instead?” He tugged at the cuff of the purple one he was wearing. I know being able to smell me keeps you calm…

Eren looked up, his nose still buried into the sleeves of the green sweater he was wearing, still trying to smell him. He'll give me the one he’s wearing? He nodded shyly, moving to get the sweater off of himself. It rode up, showing both his hips and pulling up to show his ribs, which you would be able to count. Come on, it needs to come off… He finally got it off, pulling down his shirt and handing the green sweater back to Lathe, waiting for him to get his purple sweater. I want the sweater...

...I can count his ribs... Lathe snapped out of it after a split second, going to tug his own sweater over his head, giving the soft purple fabric to Eren and taking back the green, donning it. You would've had to lose at least fifty or sixty pounds for me to be able to count them... Lathe ruffled Eren’s hair, his face falling a bit as he saw how big the sweater was on him. “Want me to do your hair all fancy? Or no? Either way, it needs to be brushed.” It needs taming.

Eren shrugged, after thinking about it for a few moments. “Braid?” His voice was soft, and his eyes wide as he watched him. No one’s been this gentle with me for awhile... I don't want it to stop. “You're not leaving... Are you?” The guards always leave throughout the day, no one stays with me... And they take Jake away too... Eren curled up, pulling his knees up under the sweater and comfortably holding them to his chest, he didn’t even stretch out the sweater at all.

Lathe nodded, getting a brush from a smaller pouch of Eren’s suitcase. He sat down behind Eren, starting to brush out his very long brunette locks. “Eren, I'm not going anywhere. I'm your Dad- I'm not leaving.” ...wait. He leaned over a bit, looking to Eren. “You do know I'm your Dad, right?” Did you forget that tidbit of information?

Eren looked at Lathe, his brow furrowing a bit. “Um... I-I know you're Dad.... But... Um... I don’t know what that m-means.” He whimpered a bit as the brush hit a knot, tugging at his hair, but he didn’t voice any protest. What’s a Dad? Is it another type of guard? That stays with you? Like Levi’s staying with me?

Lathe very carefully picked out the knot, not tugging on the hair and keeping Eren from feeling any pain. His brow furrowed a bit, thinking. ...how to explain being a Dad... “Eren, I adopted you. Being your Dad means that you’re my son- you’re part of my family. A Dad is someone you can look up to, talk to and ask for help when things aren't going great. Someone who teaches you stuff, and has fun with you. ...you’ve lived with me for more than five years now. You being my son… means that I have someone to dote on and care for. Someone to try and guide through the world because it’s a big world and it can be scary sometimes, because people aren't always very nice. A Dad… is someone you can love and trust. And as my son, I love and trust you. You might not be my flesh and blood… but that doesn't make you my family any less.” I give too many shits about you. ....and I'm not ever going to regret that.

Eren was quiet as he let Lathe braid his hair, his brows furrowed, lost in thought for a bit. I have a Dad... Dad’s gonna stay... Dad will braid my hair... Dad will give me food. “O-Okay…” He finally spoke up as the train stopped, not noticing until then that Levi and Spades had already pulled out their suitcases. Where are we going?
Lathe took a hair tie from the handle of the brush, tying off the end of the French braid. “Okay, that’s your hair. Let’s go, okay? Marcus is waiting for us.” Don’t want to keep him waiting. Lathe helped Eren to his feet, going to get his own suitcase as Levi got Eren’s. He started to the door with Spades, Levi leading Eren along behind them.

Levi shepherded Eren to the door, seeing his confusion at the name. “We’re visiting Spades’ Dad. We’re in Depew right now, about to be in Buffalo. We’re in New York State- really far away from home and from the hospital.” You look like you needed context.

Eren only nodded as he was ushered off of the train, looking around the small station. It's colder here…. It's the middle May…. And it's cold up here… He shivered as he pulled the sweater closer to his body wanting to be warmer. He followed Lathe and Spades, feeling Levi’s hand on the small of his back. Where… He looked up as he heard Spades’ name called, seeing a shorter old man wearing a thick coat and a hat waving to them down. Who’s that?

“Ieva!” Marcus called to them, his white hair spilling out from his hat. “It's great to see all of you!” The cheery man came up to them, instantly hugging Spades as he got to them. I've missed you guys so much! You've been gone for so long.

Spades smiled more, going up to hug Marcus without a second thought. “Papa! I’m so glad we could make it up here, I want you to meet Eren and his boyfriend Levi, and you already know Lathe… It’s been awhile since you’ve last seen each other though.” She motioned for Eren and Levi to step up to them.

Levi walked up to him, giving him a faint smile, his eyes warm. “Hello, it’s very nice to meet you.” He held out a hand, which Marcus took, his other hand still in the small of Eren’s back. He looked over to Eren after a moment, nudging him a bit. “Aren’t you going to say hi?” He sent Marcus a bit of an apologetic look. I'm sorry- he’s really out of it right now. New people don't do well with him. Levi watched as Eren stared at Marcus with wide, childlike eyes before he simply turned to Levi and huddled into his shoulder, trying to hide. He could feel him shiver, his arms pulled into the sweater and pulling the fabric close. He could easily feel how thin he was as his arm stayed around his waist. He looked back to Marcus, trying to explain. “...he’s kinda out of it… and he’s not great with new people…” ...sorry, that's a thing...

Marcus had understanding eyes, a soft smile on his face. “It’s quite alright, don’t worry about it, he’ll warm up to me eventually.” He turned to Lathe, his eyes going bright. “Lathe!” He shouted and stepped towards him, a larger smile on his face. There’s my future Son-in-Law!

Lathe smiled brightly, moving forward to greet him, a hand outstretched to him. “Marcus! It’s so good to see you!” Lathe grinned as Marcus took his hand, but his eyes widened as Marcus then pulled him into a tight hug. He chuckled, hugging him back. It's wonderful to see you. He let him go after a long moment, grinning to him. “How’re things going for you penguins up here?” It's very cold— I should've worn my coat instead of leaving it in my suitcase. ...we all probably should've.

“It's great to see my favorite son-in-law too, and you do realize you live closer to the penguins right? They’re south… This is just snow country. But welcome nonetheless, and um, I meant to ask earlier but Blake is good with other dogs right?” I still have my sled team...

Spades rolled her eyes at his comment. “He’s your only son-in-law, Dad… And yeah, Blake’s fine with other dogs. Should we get going?” I wonder if anyone else is back home? I haven’t seen my brothers in years.

Lathe smiled and walked along as Marcus began to lead them to a parking lot, something suddenly clicking. “...wait, you have dogs?” Lathe suddenly heard a sound coming from a large SUV, two black huskies poking their heads out of the half-open windows. ...yes. Yes you do. “Huskies? Let me guess, part of the sled team you use when you can’t drive and need to buy milk from the store?” Lathe joked, his expression slowly switching to one of shock as Marcus actually nodded, looking serious. “...there's no way…” Lathe watched as Marcus opened the door, the two huskies jumping down from the car and standing near Marcus, eyeing Blake warily, their metal collar tags gleaming with their names, Milo and Otis.

Levi looked between Blake and the two dogs, watching Blake simply look at them before they all looked up to Eren. Levi’s eyebrows shot up as he saw the stars in Eren’s eyes. He looked to Blake and nodded, and as if a switch flipped the dogs came right over and sniffed at Eren, licking his hands and sniffing Blake, getting acquainted. ...nice. “If you’ve got a team, there must be more than just two of them.” He looked up to Marcus with curiosity, the dogs inspecting him, Spades and Lathe in turn. He's got to have at least, like, eight. ...oh Eren’s gonna have a ball chilling with the dogs.

Eren kneeled down and let the two dogs come up to him and lick his face as he pet them. They’re so pretty! He giggled as Milo knocked him over and they attacked his face even more with licks as he pet them. Wait... They're big.... They're on me... Their nails hurt. Eren’s body tensed at the thought of being underneath the dogs, too close to being forced underneath those horrible men. No....

Blake responded immediately, growling with his teeth showing, his hair on edge, ready to fight off the other two dogs so that he could get Eren free of his panic. Human is panicking, get off my human.

Marcus turned his head from where he was putting the suitcases into the back of the truck. Why is that dog growling at Milo and Otis? What did they do now? “Milo, Otis.” His voice a bit rough, but he pulled the two dogs away from where Eren laid. What did you two goofs do?

Levi dropped down next to where Eren sat on the ground, his arms wrapping around him, soothing him. He murmured quietly into his ear as Eren shakily pet Blake, his voice soft. “It’s okay, Eren, they’re not gonna hurt you. They’re just enthusiastic because you’re a new person to them. It’s okay.” Levi gently moved with Eren, bringing him to his feet. “Come on, let’s get in the car, okay? You’ll be fine, promise.” You really will be. They’re big dogs, but they don't wanna hurt you.

Eren was shaking as he was lifted, both from fear and shivering from the cold chill in the air. He nodded, letting Levi move him into the car. They were really big. His hands quickly found Blake’s fur again as he jumped in to settle in Eren and Levi’s lap. I… I’m okay…

Marcus looked worriedly towards the two of them as they got into the back of the SUV. “Is he okay?” He asked Lathe quietly as he got Milo and Otis into the back of the truck with the suitcases. I don’t want him to freak out, I know that it really drains him to do that.

Spades smiled softly at Marcus as he spoke with concern. “I’ll let Lathe tell you this one, I’m gonna hop in the back and help him calm down.” Spades leaned up and pecked Lathe’s cheek before going to the opposite side of the car and getting in to help calm Eren as he sat in the middle of the car. You’ll be okay…

Lathe looked to Marcus, blushing a bit at his amusement from when Spades pecked his cheek. ... mur… “Uhm, Eren’s… well, the short of it is that there was a huge misunderstanding involving a new drug that’s currently under investigation and is being tested, and he got put in the psych ward in our town because of what he stated the drug could do, the video accidentally getting on the internet. He’s not crazy or anything, believe me. But he’s being seriously mistreated there… he’s lost at least fifty pounds, being so underfed. He’s kinda out of it… he didn’t stay on the right meds consistently for his PTSD, and so he can get confused. He kinda thinks he’s on some sort of hospital excursion. But he’ll be okay soon enough, once we get him back on schedule. I guess he was afraid of getting hurt or probably crushed… it’s just… some of the most unassuming things can set him off. But he should be okay; he’s got Levi and Blake constantly around him. It’s a good support system in place. I’m sure he’ll warm up to you and to the sled team soon enough. Everything’s new to him- you, the dogs, the cold, the three square meals thing- he’s getting used to everything again. I hope you can understand.” Lathe rubbed the back of his neck nervously, his head ducked down a bit. Not many people do… I wouldn’t be surprised if you were really skeptical too…

Marcus’ face was stony as he thought about a few things. “So… He’s in a psych ward that he’s not supposed to be in? And they’re starving the patients? That’s mutiny.” His face looked angry, but it wasn’t at Lathe, but instead towards the system that had wrongly imprisoned Eren in his own hell. That’s not right at all...
Lathe looked up, surprised he agreed with him. “Yeah, it’s awful… I’ve got a civil suit waiting to be heard, I don't like that it’s happening to Eren and the many other patients in there too, right under our noses… they've done so much wrong… but not many people seem to listen to anything besides the fact he’s in a psych ward. I'm glad you understand. We… we just need to be really patient with him. And be careful, so… yeah… it’s important we try to keep him from freaking out too much. As long as we’re careful introducing him to the sled team, I'm sure he’ll be okay. He likes dogs, believe me, we have another at home, Maisie who just had pups. He hasn't had the chance to see them yet, since he hasn't been home, but he adores the dogs a family friend has too—he loves all those pups too. But I'm hoping this getting out of that ward and actually being around people and somewhere that isn't sterile and white will do some good for him… I-I'm sorry, I'm rambling…” Lathe ducked his head down a bit, embarrassed. “But thank you, really… not many people understand. We've learned to expect people to not understand. Really, thank you. Having us over is very kind of you. We shouldn't be too much trouble…” I don't want to majorly impede on anything...

Marcus nodded. “Of course not, it’s no problem, just me and the dogs now…. I can see why Spades called ahead and asked me to make something and add a ton of vitamins to the meat. Take the front seat, we need to get to Orchard Park.” He got into the truck on the driver’s side, turning the vehicle on and turning down the radio so it was quiet. “Alright, next stop: my house.” This should be interesting...

Lathe nodded gratefully, hopping into the passenger’s seat as he saw Spades in the back placating Eren with Levi’s help. It was about twenty-five minutes before they pulled up to a house, a for sale sign with a sold sign on top of it staked in the yard of the next-door house. “Getting new neighbors?” That's a thing. He looked to the front of the house, seeing a bit of movement in the front windows, hearing a dog inside bark and a new flurry of activity. “They know he's home.”

“Yeah, I was sad to see them go, but one of the wives had a job offer in Kansas. I liked her too, she was always outside with their dogs, either mowing the lawn or snow blowing, and she came over and snow blewed my driveway too. Sweet women those two.” I kinda miss them a lot. He helped them all get out of the car and get their suitcases before he moved to open the door and the other six large and completely black fluff balls raced out of the house and around the yard, some bolting right for Milo and Otis. One sat by Lathe’s feet and stared at him, expecting to be pet. Two ran up to Spades and jumped up on her, whining for pets, another went towards Blake and started to carefully sniff around him. “Well, welcome to my house full of children.” He whistled sharply, all the dogs perking their ears before running back inside to do whatever they were doing before they came home. “Come on in.” He ushered them in, closing the door behind them, making sure the heat was on and the thermostat turned a bit higher to help accommodate Eren.

...that’s… no way. “Uhm, what were their names? Your old neighbors, I mean.” I think we might know them… He pet the dog that sat near his feet before it ran back inside with the others, smiling as they made their way inside with their things. So many woofs… I approve.
Spades smiled as she looked into the large hallway that led directly into the large family room which was connected to the kitchen. “You did a nice job with the place, Dad. It looks really good.” You did a lot of wood work in the past few years. She helped Levi and Eren hang their coats up on hooks with a soft smile. It’s good to be home.

Eren looked around the house they were introduced to timidly, his hands still clinging to Levi’s shirt, shaking. Where are we? It... It smells good... Is that food? Eren sniffed around a bit more, looking for the food, not knowing where it was, but not wanting to let go of Levi’s shirt.

“Oh... Let’s see it started with an L and I could never pronounce it correctly, the other wife I remember was getting along with her pregnancy, I hope she’s okay and had their son alright... He should be about um... Let’s see... he was due around Christmas, so around four and a half months old.” I hope she wasn’t too stressed with moving. “The wife that helped out with the snow also had a horse she had to drive down herself, which I guess took a lot of planning to do too. Come in, come in, I got dinner ready for all of us.” It's burger bombs.

Lathe’s eyebrows shot up as he recognized what the smell was, smiling widely as the dogs flocked around them, petting the ones around him that jumped up onto him. “Laskowski- Sharon and Hannah. They moved into our town a while ago... and she did have her son Maverick a month early. But it was kinda impossible for an ambulance to get to the house for her in time... I ended up getting called over because I knew how to... well, she delivered on the kitchen floor. But they're okay! They're fine.” Lathe spoke quickly as he saw the surprise and worry on Marcus’ face. He found himself especially chatty as they were handed plates for food, looking up when Spades nudged his foot after they sat down, blushing scarlet and clamming up, grinning sheepishly. “...I'll stop rambling...” My God, Lathe. Ten minutes and you're already screwing up the meet-your-future-wife's-dad's-standards part of this thing. Crap.

Levi just shook his head as Lathe chattered on, thanking Marcus as he and Eren were handed plates. You can tell he’s nervous. He’s got Spades’ Dad to impress- I guess that's nerve-wracking nought to cue the rambling.

Marcus smiled, a hand coming to land on Lathe’s shoulder, patting it in understanding. “It’s quite alright. I’m glad to hear they’re doing well, all of them, I’ll have to send you guys home with Buffalo favorites, I know Hannah would appreciate the gesture, Sharon as well. And by all means, speak, I don’t mind, I don’t know much about you Lathe, aside from when you were in High School, and Ieva continually forgets to call me to catch up on things.” He gave a pointed look to Spades as she sat down with the boys at the kitchen table to eat. I don’t mind you talking at all.

Eren sat down with the singular burger bomb on his plate, and not a few seconds later it was gone and he was staring at his lap, so unsure of what to do since he ate the food given to him. I’m not allowed more, am I?
Levi looked over to Eren as Lathe started to talk again, still noticeably shy as he went on about how things were with the house and their neighbors. His brow furrowed as he saw Eren simply stare at his lap, his bomb quickly gone. ...he doesn't know if he can have more. He wasn't allowed to have more, even when he asked for it, at the hospital. Levi took one of the bombs still on his plate and set it on Eren’s, nudging his foot gently under the table. His voice was soft as Eren looked to him confused and unsure. “It’s yours.” He nudged the plate a bit closer to him. “Eat.” You need it.

Eren hurriedly took the bomb and scarfed it down in a matter of seconds, not seeming to care just how hot the food was within the doughy goodness. His eyes grew a bit dull as he curled up again against himself. I’m not allowed more though, and I’m starving…

Levi’s eyes widened as he ate the hot bomb in a matter of seconds, standing after a moment and taking Eren’s plate to the stove where the tray of bombs sat. He added four more before coming back and setting it in front of Eren. “Eren, these are yours. We’re not gonna steal it back or anything, it’s not going anywhere besides your stomach. Let them cool so you don't burn your mouth, okay?” No singed tongues please.

Eren looked at the bombs now put in front of him, he again grabbed one and scarfed it down, his eyes down on the floor. His whole body was shaking, scared the food would be taken away as he reached for yet another bomb to scarf down. Don't hit me… Please…

Lathe looked across the table as he paused in his regaling of life in Kansas to momentarily munch on his own bombs, watching Eren scarf them down in record time, looking scared. ...he thinks we’re gonna take them back. Lathe set down his bomb, looking over to Spades. “Spades, are you gonna take away Eren’s dinner?”

Spades looked to him incredulously, quirking an eyebrow at the non-sequitur. “...no? No I'm not…” What are you talking about?

Levi watched as Lathe turned to him, shaking his head before he was even asked. “I'm not gonna take away his food.” He looked over as Lathe turned to Marcus, an eyebrow quirked in question.

“...I'm not going to take away his dinner, why would I ever do that?” That's a silly…. ...oh. That's why Eren's scarfing down steaming food.

Lathe turned back to Eren, nodding to him. “There you go. And I'm most certainly not about to take it away- there’s a ton of food still over there! Of course we’re gonna share.” He leaned across the table, nudging Eren’s plate a bit closer to him. “Let the food cool first, but you can have as much as you want. Just don't burn your mouth, okay?” Nope, you won’t be happy with a burned mouth. Not enjoyable.

Eren nodded, picking up the next bomb and biting into it slowly, watching the steam escape from the now opened bomb as he slowed down on his food. It's hot… But it’s so good…

Marcus watched with worry as Eren started to eat slowly. [They used to take food from him? In the ward? Is he normally this thin? He looks like he should be around Lathe’s size.] His words were turned to Spades as he bit into his own burger bomb. I’m worried about him, he looks so weak.

Spades turned her head towards Marcus and sighed quietly. [We’re starting to learn a lot about what’s happening to him at the ward, he still thinks he’s at the ward right now… Also, everyone except Eren knows French.] You’re safe for right now.

[They’ve been giving everyone in the ward minimal amounts of food, apparently… keeps them thin and weak… easier to manage if they aren’t strong if or when they lash out… he is supposed to be about Lathe’s size. He’s lost at least forty pounds… and it was hard getting him to gain all that the first time around… he wasn't exactly in the healthiest shape when we met…] Levi quietly spoke, answering some of what Marcus had asked. Yeah… he was practically emaciated then… [But he’s scarfing down food when we give it to him… which is good. It’s not like he doesn't feel able to eat. He just wasn't allowed to.] We don't have to teach him to eat on a normal schedule again.

Marcus nodded, taking everything in as he glanced towards Eren eating the burger bomb slowly, taking it bite by bite. [What food will he eat? I can get more vitamins if I need too, to put in the food we make.] They’re not that hard to find.

[He’s really picky… it was a nightmare finding stuff he wouldn't refuse to eat. I have a list of stuff we can make if you're up for new dishes, or I can rattle off some you're probably more familiar with later… and we’d need plenty of vitamins, he needs them… I can take over cooking, if it’ll help at all… I’d feel like I'm being really rude if I didn't do something to make us being here easier… I'd really like to, if it’s okay with you.] Eren and his eating habits can be a handful- and I'm so used to always making food. It's no problem to me.

Marcus nodded. [That sounds fine, we can go to the store after dinner if that’s alright with you, we can get to Wegmans pretty quickly.] Marcus took another bite of the burger bomb, finishing it off before grabbing his next one. It's so nice to have people over. [So does Eren sleep with someone? Or does he need his own room?] I don’t know what his sleeping habits are.
Lathe glanced to Levi, wondering how he would answer, making no move to speak and taking another bite of food. That one's on you. And I'm assuming Wegmans is the big grocery store thing around here.

Levi blushed faintly pink, looking down to his plate. [We normally sleep together… so we can share a room…] ...dammit…

Eren looked up from his last burger bomb, pushing his plate forward a bit. “Um… Can… Can I have juice?” He asked quietly, his eyes down as he tried to listen on the conversation, though growing bored as he didn’t understand anything.

Marcus nodded, getting up from the table and going to the fridge. “Apple juice? Orange juice? Fruit punch? Grape juice? Pomegranate juice?” He asked quietly as he pulled everything out of the fridge for Eren to inspect. Which will you pick?

Eren sauntered over towards the counter where everything was out. “Umm…” He was quiet for a bit before pointing towards the apple juice, watching Marcus pour him a glass and waiting for him to set it down before picking it up. I… I’m thirsty. Eren drank the whole glass before going to sit on the floor by Levi’s chair and resting his head on his lap. Hands… They were nice in my hair before.

Levi looked down as Eren sat on the floor next to him, not understanding until he nudged his hands with his head. He threaded his fingers through his hair without messing up his braid too much, gently petting Eren and smiling softly as Eren sighed and leaned into his touch. Tired? <“Tired?”> You look like you need rest- even that nap the entire way here wasn't enough for you, was it.

Eren nodded, letting out a soft mewl of happiness as Levi ran his fingers through his hair, which calmed him down, his eyes closing as he thought about a few things as he heard the familiar click of nails on the floor, two dogs getting close to him before Blake stepped in to stop them. Are they gonna jump on me again?

Levi looked up as two dogs approached them, the same ones from earlier. Levi slowly lowered himself to the floor with Eren, one arm around him protectively as he tentatively reached to pet Blake, getting him to stand down. He reached a hand out to the black huskies, and they stepped forward, careful of Blake who still watched them closely, and of Eren. He watched as one sniffed Eren’s foot, stepping close to him, not putting a paw on him as he stood over his lap, sniffing his cheek and licking him. He chuckled as Eren ducked his head away just a bit, seeing a faint smile pulling at his lips. “He likes you.” He suddenly put up an arm in defense as his ear was suddenly licked, turning and getting a face full of dog. So much doge… He heard more nails clicking on the floor, finding themselves assaulted by many a husky sniffing them and demanding pets. So many Eren shifted into Levi’s lap when all the dogs came over, not liking that he could easily be pushed down to the ground. Nope… I don’t wanna be crushed again… He watched with timid eyes as he gently reached a hand out to pet one of the dogs that came up to him, a soft smile forming on his face as he got more comfortable with the many dogs. They’re fluffy.

Levi nestled into Eren’s shoulder as the dogs congregated around them, all eight either inspecting Eren, demanding pets or laying around them, chilling with everyone. This is nice… Levi’s arms wound reassuringly around Eren’s waist, leaning back against the chair and subsequently the table, though he stopped when he felt the table skid a bit after a second of doing it. …Uhm… “Eren, is it okay if we move a bit so we can lay down with them? I can just lean against the wall if you don’t want me to…” You look happy… I dunno if you’re that chill with the doge… they seem to have calmed a bunch, they’re chill now that we’ve been here a bit.

Eren hurriedly shook his head, clinging to Levi’s shirt. No… No, I don’t wanna be crushed. His eyes seemed to show instant panic. No…

Marcus watched Eren shake his head. “You guys can come into the family room and lay down on the couch.” He offered and motioned for them to follow. The dogs aren’t allowed on the couch. Blake will be though, but the others know better.

Levi nodded, shifting a bit and simply carrying Eren with him. You're so light… Levi sat on the couch, thanking Marcus quietly before laying down, shifting Eren on top of him as the flock of doge relocated around the couch, only one staying behind in the kitchen as Lathe showered it with pets and attention. …he loves these dogs as much as the dogs apparently love Eren. He watched as Eren shakily pet one of the dogs sitting near them, Blake jumping onto the couch and settling near their feet, standing guard and watching over the flock of doge. He’s very protective. I appreciate this. Levi also reached out to pet one, though he soon turned to simply pet Eren, his fingers threading through his tight braid best they could. “…want me to take it out of the braid? Make it easier to play with your hair?” I know you like it when I do…

Eren nodded, turning his head so that Levi could access his hair. I like your hands, I don’t want them to stop. It helps me fall asleep.

Marcus smiled at them and looked over to Lathe. “Do you wanna go to Wegmans?” He asked as he started to clean up stuff around the kitchen, watching Spades nudge Lathe out of their staring match of adoration. That's too adorable…
Lathe looked up as Spades nudged him, snapping out of his bit of time with the doge half in his lap, their tail thumping against the table leg. Lathe blushed a bit, smiling sheepishly. “Sorry, Gambit monopolized my attention… what was that?” He looked back to the table as he noticed Marcus starting the dishes, standing and picking up plates. “Oh, let me help.” I need to feel useful… I'm normally the one doing stuff for a whole bunch of people. It'll feel weird if I don't do much for a while…

Marcus smiled. “You wash, I’ll dry?” He asked quietly, moving to get the water started along with showing him where the soap was. This’ll work well… I can tell already. He’s offered to cook, he wants to clean the dishes… He’s handsome, even I can tell that, and he’s got money if anything's to go by, he loves dogs, I assume he’s ready for kids… He called about them before… And they have Eren, so… So far he’s on the good books.

Lathe nodded, beginning to wash the plates and cups in the sink, handing them to Marcus when they were rinsed. He looked over as his elbow was tapped, Spades handing him another plate from the table. “Thanks-” Anything else he was going to says was cut off as she pecked his lips quickly, going scarlet as she turned to move to the living room. ...your Dad is right there… this must be how Eren feels when Levi kisses him in the same room as either of us… He turned back to the sink to keep washing, forcing down his blush, his effort having little effect as he heard Marcus chuckle next to him. Dammit Spades… stahp… Lathe soon handed over the last of the dishes, drying off his hands. “You asked if we would go to this Wegmans of which you speak, yes? Is that the big grocery store around here?” I don't really recognize the name.

Marcus nodded. “We can go there, Tops, Dash’s, Budwey’s, any of them you want to go too, all of them are grocery stores.” He explained as he dried the dishes and put them away quickly. It's easier with two people washing and drying.

Lathe just looked at him. “...you pretty much spoke Greek to me… whichever you think is best?” I have no idea what any of these are like...

“We’ll go to Wegmans, and if you want any nice pieces of meat we’ll hit up Dash’s. They have better cuts.” Marcus dried off his hands, giving Lathe the rag to hang on the oven handle next to him. We can get going and I can ask you Dad questions in the car.

Lathe nodded, hanging the rag up and meandering with him into the living room, past the mob of dogs which had taken to laying on and around Spades, who sat back against the couch on the floor. He smiled warmly to her, his eyes bright as he saw Levi lulling Eren to sleep on his chest. ...my God, is he lucky to have you… “We’re going to head out to get groceries- we now need enough to feed a small army.” He went to retrieve his coat from his bag near the stairs, knowing he’d need it, especially since it was starting to get dark. Yeah, we go through food fast.
Marcus was waiting by the door with his boots and keys in hand, a soft smile was on his face. “It still gets dark pretty early, so we’re good for a few hours, let’s see how much shopping we can get done.” I don’t know how much Eren’s gonna eat.

Lathe nodded, getting on his coat and patting his pockets, making sure he had everything, leaving his medic bag on the floor near the door. In case they need it; Levi knows all the stuff in it. “Alright, we hopefully won’t be forever. You’re gonna have to help me figure out where anything is, though. But I’ve got a good mental list going, we should do okay.” He was already going through all of the dishes he knew how to make, pondering which ones he should make in the coming days. Hmm…. I wonder what Marcus would like too… He waved to Spades and Levi as they left, following Marcus as they walked to the car and hopped into the passenger’s seat. ...crap, conversation. Think of something… Lathe blanked, not knowing what to say. I already talked about everything at dinner. ...crap.

Marcus started the car up with a smile on his face. “So… Any luck with conceiving?” Spades would never tell me until she was showing, so I might as well ask you. “Or are you not trying yet?” I wouldn’t mind either way, I know Spades hasn’t talked about kids until she was with you.

Lathe blushed darkly as Marcus asked, rubbing the back of his neck awkwardly. ...crap, thus starts the interrogation… “Uhm, we have been trying…. no luck yet though. We know it could take a while before she actually does conceive.” It’ll take time… and plenty of luck.

Marcus nodded. “I would like to see at least one more baby before I go.” Please, all the other grandchildren are around Eren’s age, I miss holding a baby.

Lathe gave him a small unsure smile, letting out a quiet chuckle. “Believe me, I want us to be able to conceive as much as you… I’ve always known I wanted kids…” Lathe studied his boots, not knowing what else to say. He’s just gonna be drilling me at this point… I can deal.

Marcus nodded. “I’m allowed to spoil their little hearts out, right?” I always got pushed away from the others once Ieva’s brothers deemed their kids too old to be spoiled. “I really want to be able to be there for them past a certain age… But I don’t know how long I’ll be around… So actually get married this year.” I know you couldn’t help it, but this stress of an unmarried couple is not good for my heart.

Lathe nodded, smiling. “Oh don’t worry, you can spoil the rotten all you want, if anything we’ll be helping you do it. And we really want to get married- so far everything’s going according to the new plan. It’s going to happen. And hopefully, we’ll be able to have kids soon enough. Don’t worry- you’ll be there to see them.” I know you will. They'd love to have a grandfather like you.
Marcus nodded, biting his lip a little bit. “So… Eren’s a guy? And he’s gay? So when is he getting married to Mr. Hottie?” He asked, turning into the main road, focusing on the road. I need to know that answer.

Lathe chuckled, feeling some of the tension diffusing. “Levi hasn't even asked me yet if he can marry Eren- yes and yes, by the way- but we all know it’s gonna happen soon enough. Though I dunno if he wants to do it before he gets stationed for his tour overseas… that might be why he’s dragging his feet… I'd be scared too, leaving behind a fiancé… he might not want to yet if something were to happen. ...and Eren would need to be completely in his right mind again before he asks.” ...it would explain it. He would rather Eren lose a steady boyfriend than a fiancé… a man he was going to marry….

Marcus nodded, understanding. “Alright, when are they having children? I can tell that Eren’s a motherly type… I can tell by the way he’s gentle with the dogs.” He’s gonna want kids, he was like my 2nd son, he had kids as soon as possible.

Lathe shrugged a shoulder. “I don't exactly know when. But I do know Eren really wants a kid… he’s been working in the nursery at the hospital- I know, it makes no sense!- but he adores working there, and he loves it when Sharon and Hannah bring Maverick to visit him. If they've talked, I don't know much- it could be soon. I don't know.” Eren is quite a motherly type- he wants kids badly, I can tell.

... Well, I was right about that. His hair's really long, can’t handle scissors? I wouldn’t be surprised if it had something to do with his PTSD. He quite honestly looks like a woman from behind with how slim he is.” I was fooled for the first couple minutes...

Lathe shrugged. “He's just growing it really long. He lets me trim it to keep it neat, keep split ends from being a thing. But he really does look like a woman with it down- it’s an eerily good natural disguise.” It can be weird.. but you get used to it.

Marcus hummed in assent before turning into the parking lot. “Okay, tough questions now, how are you doing financially?” I need to know. My daughter is not going to file for bankruptcy… Yeah no, I will deny this marriage before that happens.

Lathe looked down to his hands in his lap, his expression neutral. “Very well- buying the over 300 acres of land for our new house and then actually designing and building the whole thing didn't put too drastic a dent in savings. Neither did furnishing it. I've had multiple songs that I've composed sold for use in video games and various medias, and I wrote all of Eren’s songs that he sang under a record label. There’s the royalties from those, and currently we’re testing out a new medicine that if approved could seriously increase life expectancies around the world and stop a lot of unnecessary pain and suffering. That’s sure to generate a ton of revenue if and when it becomes available.” He looked up to him, trying to choose his words carefully. “...Marcus, I’m kind of a millionaire. I’d say we’re pretty secure financially.” ...yeah, that’s a thing...

Marcus parked the car, turning the engine off to look over to meet Lathe’s eyes. “Well, I feel better about that aspect. Are you religious?” He opened his door stepping out into the cold, waiting behind the car for Lathe to do the same. I quite honestly don’t know if you’re religious or anything like that.

Lathe followed him from the car, his hands in his pockets as they walked to the large grocery store. “Not really. My parents weren’t religious people so I didn’t grow up with anything like that, and it’s just hasn’t been too important in my life.” I haven’t given religion much thought. It’s just not really my thing...

He sighed in relief, stepping into the warm grocery store and grabbing a cart before they were ushered into the large produce section ahead of them. “Thank god, I thought maybe you’d be one of those religious freaks… I was worried… And here are the fresh produce, most of it’s from local farms, so take your pick.” I don’t mind filling a few carts, I don’t know what you eat, or what Eren eats. I know I’m gonna need to make pork steaks though.

Lathe shook his head at that, his eyes lighting up as he saw the expanse of produce. ...I like this store already. “Nah, I’m not one of those crazy folk putting Bible verses on restaurant bills instead of giving tips or anything like that. I just try to do my thing and not be mean doing it. It’s worked just fine.” Lathe inspected the many vegetables and fruits, starting to fill their cart with fresh things. Let’s see… asparagus, potatoes, onions, leek, mushrooms, ooh they have fresh spices too! I need plenty of basil if I’m making grilled cheese, God knows Eren’ll want three… Lathe made sure they had a large clamshell package of basil before he got a plastic bag and approached the apples, picking out Granny Smiths. ...I’m making pie one of these days.

Marcus watched him pick out a bunch of produce. “Okay, well after produce we’ll go to the meats, I only get chicken here. If you want beef or pork, we can go to Dash’s after here.” He pushed around the cart, following Lathe through the whole produce section. He’s getting a lot of strawberries- eh, I can’t complain.

Lathe nodded, making his way through the rest of the produce and near cheeses, staring at a small wedge in a case for a moment before picking it up to inspect it, nodding in approval and putting it in the cart along with Italian bread from nearby. ...have I ever made anyone in the house try Brie? It’s really good. ... they will soon enough, I guess! Lathe also picked up a large ball of mozzarella cheese, knowing he would need it. Pasta, grilled cheese… better get two. Lathe moved where Marcus pointed them to the meat, reading over the chicken labels. Hmmm… let’s see… “I’m thinking…. these, definitely…” He picked up a large package of chicken thighs, looking for something else and picking up another, this time with the bones and skin on. “And these too.” He then nodded to the long aisles, starting to meander down the row ends, reading the overhead signs. He brought Marcus down one of them, picking up a small jar of cocoa powder and a bag of chocolate chips and flour and sugar from the baking aisle, also snatching up some spices as Marcus told him what he didn't have. He snatched things as they passed them walking down the aisles, picking up small packets of yeast, bottles of Italian dressing, three jars of peanut butter and two boxes of Earl Grey, getting a tin of coffee grounds and even grabbing a ravioli stamp. I left mine at home- this'll make ravioli-making much easier.

Marcus watched in curiosity at he snatched a bunch of things from the shelves, quirking an eyebrow. “Well I expect pasta now, and you’re taking the peanut butter home with you, I don’t think I’ll ever be able to eat that much, ever.” Marcus joked but followed him around a few more aisles.

“Oh, trust me- Eren’s going to have at least one completely gone within the next three days. It'll happen.” Lathe was completely serious as they continued wandering the aisles, grabbing a bottle of honey and stopping to look at the cart, thinking. “...I think we should be set for now.” Should be.

Marcus looked down to the overflowing cart. “You…. Think? Well, I guess we could always come back for more if we need to.” He ushered Lathe towards the register, helping him unload the cart when they found an experienced cashier. This should work for now.

“We still need to go to this Dash’s you speak of, apparently. We didn't get much meat or anything- not nearly enough.” He grinned to him, the cashier scanning everything quickly and carefully bagging everything. He let Marcus use his rewards card thing before paying, barely glancing at the total as he swiped his card, accepting the ridiculously long receipt from the cashier. “Thank you!” He turned to Marcus, taking over pushing the heavy cart to the car. “Okay, we go to this Dash’s, and then back home?” Sounds like a good plan to me.

Marcus nodded helping Lathe load the groceries in the back of the SUV and then getting in the car. “So… How long have you been dating? I honestly didn’t know you were dating until you called to have her hand.”

No one ever calls me anymore. It only took a few moments until they were on the road again.

Lathe looked over to him with an incredulous expression. “It's been three years, a month and some change and nobody told you? Does anyone tell you this sort of stuff?” Lathe watched as Marcus just shook his head, his face falling a bit. “We need to fix that. You didn't even know Spades and I were dating, and then I call you asking for her hand… it makes sense why you sounded so stunned when I asked. We’ll fix that- don't worry.” I thought Spades was calling you at least occasionally!

Marcus nodded, a soft smile on his face. “It’d be nice to hear from at least one of my children once “...nobody calls?” Lathe looked saddened at the thought as Marcus shook his head again, his resolve solid in his mind. We’re fixing that. “Don’t worry- you’ll be hearing from her much more often.” I'm making sure of that.

“That would be… That would be really nice…. Um, I know you want kids, but your not gonna leave her if she can’t have them, are you?” I know it’s kinda rude… But I don’t want people leaving her again because of this, I’ve seen enough of that broken smile when she’s trying to be strong and failing miserably.

Lathe looked to his lap, picking at a loose thread on the seat. “...Spades was scared I’d leave if she told me she would have trouble conceiving. I only knew when you told me. Marcus… I love her. I want kids, sure, but her not being able to give me that doesn't make me love her any less. We can adopt, and with medical advancements… I really, really hope we'll have kids… but if we don't, I'm still going to love her as much as I do now.” I want to keep her- I wouldn't have asked her if I wasn't dead sure I wanted to spend forever with her.

Marcus nodded. “Good, I think I can trust you then, she’s had enough heartbreak because of that.” She doesn't need anyone else leaving her because she can’t have kids, I’ve seen the aftermath of that relationship…. That’s why she moved away from here and down to Kansas.

Lathe looked up, his brow furrowed a bit. She never said anything about any of those relationships... I didn't even know she was in any relationships. And everyone told everyone else everything in the group chat. “...it’s happened that many times? Someone left her because it's hard for her to conceive?” Lathe looked down as Marcus nodded. I can understand that, a bit... I really wanna have kids, and it’d be disappointing and sad if she can't conceive… but it was that much of a deal breaker to her exes? “...Marcus, believe me. I love her too much to let her go, just because she might not be able to give me kids. I've adopted Eren, I'd be open to adopting more kids… but I wouldn’t’ve proposed if I didn't want to be with her exactly the way she is.” ...I love her so fucking much… she was so scared to tell me… she knew what the pattern was. The man wants kids, she tells them it might not happen... and they leave.

The older man sighed quietly as he stopped at a red light. “I’m sorry that you’re finding out about this from me… I... Well, I wasn't the best of fathers, for any of my kids, which may have led to them being pushed away. But.... Spades, she…” He paused trying to think of the right words, coming up a blank for a bit. “She... She’s not great at telling anyone anything, and I’m the reason for that… I’m really sorry that you had no idea until after you had already planned to marry her.” It’s my fault she holds everything in and lies, because she doesn’t want to be hurt anymore. “And I can only imagine what she felt like when you found out, because it can be the deciding factor in filing for a divorce…. She’d… You could’ve gotten one and left her for information being withheld.” She must’ve been a mess.
Lathe shook his head, his eyes downcast. “It’s alright… I’m just glad that I know about this now. But even if I didn’t until when we were married… we would’ve worked it out. At least tried to. It was a real shock to hear… but we still talked through it. …but I hope she can learn to trust me enough not to leave, and learn to tell me stuff… I have to guess and pry a bit when I can tell something’s bothering her… she’s so scared to tell me stuff, and it hurts when she keeps it all to herself because she’s hurting and won’t let me help her with it…” I want her to trust me enough to tell me stuff...

Marcus was quiet until they parked. “Like I said, I’m sorry, I didn’t realize what I was doing… 25 years ago…” And I regret it every second of it. I… I shouldn’t be called a father… I closed in after Darlene died. Marcus got out of the car, waiting for him to follow. It’s really my fault...

...that’s about when… Lathe got out of the car as well, walking with Marcus, resting a hand on his shoulder. “It was hard, what you went through… Spades got hurt… and you lost your wife… I can understand feeling lost after something like that happens, and not being able to guide Spades when you don’t even know what to do with yourself… it’s alright, really. We can work things out when they come up- I’m not about to lose my patience or just let go because things aren’t easy.” I’m in this for the long haul… and it’s okay. I understand. “It’s been a long time, and she’s been through a lot since then… but we can help her now. Better late than never… I don’t know how she and I are going to remain happy all the time if she never tells me anything and I simply have to guess as to when something’s bothering her. But we can help her. It'll be fine.” We can work this out.

Marcus smiled, patting Lathe on the back, a warm smile on my face. “She definitely picked a keeper. Alright, to the meats.” He ushered Lathe towards the open butcher, looking to the side to see what was recently packaged and put out on the chillers. “If I make pork steaks, how much will the kid eat? And Levi? How much will he eat?” I need at least five pounds for me and Spades… How much are you guys gonna eat?

“.....honestly… you're probably gonna want to get fifteen of those steak things just to be safe…” He watched Marcus turn to him with an incredulous look, shrugging. “Eren eats like a starved wolf, and Levi and I eat plenty. Plus you and Spades, so…” Yep. We like food.

Marcus just shrugged, picking up a few packs and making sure he had at least 15 pounds worth of pork steaks. “Alright you get what you want and put it in the cart, I need to get me some spice that they sell here.” He put the packs in the cart and then went off down one of the aisles. I need the Szeged Rib Rub.

Lathe nodded, perusing the different meats, meandering down with the cart and picking up different packages, setting some in the cart. Let’s see what I can get from here before talking to the butcher guy..., this sausage mix thing looks fine for ravioli… or stuffed peppers… or mushrooms…
hmm... focus, Lathe. What else. ...chuck eye for soup, and a few tied together makes a nice roast because they're so small... and lamb too, I feel like spoiling everyone. And Marcus deserves it. Now, I need to ask for ribs. Lathe soon approached the meat counter, talking to the butcher and pointing out the racks he wanted, soon taking the wrapped package and thanking him. This thing is heavy... He set it in the cart, grinning as Marcus came back with a jar of spices. “I found some stuff.” Yeah, some stuff.

Marcus looked to the cart with wide eyes. “Whatever we don't eat you’re taking with you. Shall we get going?” It appears as though you have enough now.

Lathe nodded. “Yeah- and trust me, we’ll be lucky if any leftovers exist at all.” Really tho. They went up to the checkout, and soon enough they were loading things into the SUV, making room with the large number of bags already in the back. “I think we have juuuust enough for a bit. It should last us… eh, a week? Ish?” Lathe was only half-joking as he spoke, moving bags around. *

...I'm actually serious. We eat way too much. ....* Eren eats way too much. ...actually, just a lot. Not too much. Just... a lot.

Marcus chuckled at his statement. “Well, let's get going home, don’t want to keep everyone waiting for us.” I haven’t actually heard Eren talk yet either.

Lathe nodded, getting into the car, feeling much more at ease. Spades and I should talk later... It wasn't ten minutes before they were back home, Lathe seeing the flurry of activity through the windows and smiling. They know we’re home. Lathe got out of the car when Marcus parked, watching a bit confused as he went straight to open the door, the dogs running out as Lathe opened the back gate. He saw them wait patiently with open mouths, sitting in a perfect line. ....huh? He watched confusedly as Marcus picked up a bag by the plastic handles, setting it in the jaws of the first dog. He watched in awe as it immediately stood and walked inside, Spades holding the door open for it. “...that is the coolest damn thing I've ever seen.” ...wow.

“Oh yeah, they're pretty obedient if you give them some motivation, they know what’s waiting for good behavior.” Marcus continued to give the dogs bag after bag, the line reforming as the dogs went into the kitchen and dropped off the bags next to the fridge on the floor neatly and without anything breaking. “Done in a few minutes.” It was well worth the year of training, but once one got it, they all got it. He closed the back to the SUV and locked it, letting the dogs go back inside. “Okay... Let’s see now, the rawhides are up here.” He pulled up the heavy top to a wooden chest, revealing the horde of large white bones, stacked neatly on top of each other. He smiled as the dogs lined up again, and each got another bone before prancing off. Still as puppyish as ever...

Eren had found the bag with the peanut butter and had opened one, destroying the seal to it and looking around in confusion. I need a spoon... He completely ignored the dogs moving around the kitchen and setting bags down, simply looking for a spoon he could use.
Lathe padded into the kitchen with Marcus to put away groceries, chuckling as he saw Eren with the peanut butter jar in his hands. “Spoon?” You probably need one of those.

“Spoon.” Eren’s voice was ragged from not having spoken much at all earlier in the day. I want the peanut butter.

Marcus’ eyes widened as he heard Eren’s rough voice. I wouldn’t be surprised if he could sing low … Even with it being a little rough, it sounds like he could pull it off. He nodded himself out of his thought process, getting a spoon out for Eren who hurriedly took it from him and bolted away with it, leaving the top to the jar on the counter. “Um… Did I do something…?” He ran away...

Lathe shook his head, smiling faintly. “Don't take it personally. He’s still getting used to his surroundings- and to you. But he said something, which is good.” He looked to the lid on the counter, nudging it further back so it wouldn't get knocked off. “…I honestly don't know if he's gonna need that.” He'll probably eat everything. “In the meantime, we should try to put all this food away so it doesn't spoil. …let's hope your fridge is big enough.” I kinda made us buy a lot...

“It’s alright, I have a separate fridge and freezer downstairs in the basement, so we’ll have no problem packing everything in.” Marcus started to unpack a majority of the bags, separating them on the counter to fridge, freezer and cabinet sections. This should work out...

Lathe soon picked up on what Marcus’ method was, starting to put the produce that needed to stay cold in the fridge, moving things around a bit to make plenty of room. You don't have much in here to begin with- it’s pretty much just you, so I'm not that surprised… Lathe thanked him as Marcus began to hand him things to put inside, the job going quickly with the two of them working. Lathe carried the heavier bags of potatoes and produce to the pantry, keeping things neat as they were stowed away. Again, not much… He looked down, seeing huge bags of dog food near his feet. …I was wondering how you kept all eight of them fed. They ended up having to put the meats in the downstairs fridge, Lathe insisting that he carry the most of it. Soon enough everything was away, the bags folded up and stashed in the pantry as trash bags for later, and they meandered into the living room, Spades leaning on one arm of the couch, looking tired as she watched the dogs gnawing on their rawhide bones, Levi holding onto Eren at the other end of the couch, gently pecking his neck as he ate his peanut butter by the spoonful. ...good thing it’s got protein in it. Lathe came over to them, his eyebrows raised as he got a better look at the jar. “…Eren, half of that is already gone.” He looked up, a bit concerned. I know you normally eat a lot, but… “Do you want me to make you a sandwich or something? Are you still that hungry?” We did finish all of the bombs from dinner… it wasn't enough?

Eren tensed a bit as he licked the spoon clean again, his eyes didn’t come up to meet Lathe’s or anyone else's. No... You don’t need to. “N-No…. ” He curled up a bit more, getting out another large spoonful and starting to eat it. No, you’ll yell at me for having to make more food...

Lathe sighed quietly, kneeling down in front of him, giving him a bit of space. “Eren, I offered to make you food. I'm not going to be mad if you say yes. I'm worried, because you need to get back to eating right. It's important you do. ...I’m gonna make you grilled cheese, okay? When I hand you that sandwich, will you eat it?” Just say yes already.

Eren was quiet for a few moments, pondering a few things. “O- okay... Um... Y-yeah...” Eren finished off the spoonful of peanut butter, looking at the small amount remaining in the jar. I ate a lot....

Lathe smiled, standing and gently ruffling Eren’s hair. “Alright. I won't be long.” He moved to work in the kitchen, getting out what he needed from the fridge. He turned to Marcus with an inquiring look. “...where do you keep your stuff in here?” I kinda have no idea where anything is.

Marcus showed him where all the pans were in the kitchen, then the plates, and cups, and the utensils, bowls and the like. “That everything you need to know...? Is... Is he still hungry?” He eats more than I've accounted for...

Lathe nodded. “Yep- which is good, really. We need to get more meat on his bones.” Lathe went about getting a cutting board and knife, a pan with a lid and plate out, beginning to chop up basil, mozzarella, and lastly tomato for the sandwich. He put the extra sandwich mix in a small bowl, covering it with plastic wrap. “Just in case he wants another one- and we definitely make plenty of these sandwiches.” He always eats them. Lathe brushed it with extra olive oil, cooking it and soon bringing the plate out to Eren, trading him for the empty peanut butter jar. “Juice?” He watched him shake his head. “Tea? Anything?” Whatever you want.

Eren shook his head, taking a bite of the sandwich and letting out a soft moan as he tasted it for the first time in forever. I miss being able to eat this.... Eren didn’t even realize he was crying until he tasted the extra salt on his lips. Wait... Why am I crying? Eren sniffled, trying to rub at his eyes as he ate, continuing to do so as his tears fell.

Levi rubbed his thumb over Eren's side soothingly, looking up as Lathe offered him his kerchief. He took it, nudging Eren gently and getting him to hold off eating for just a moment before drying his tears, kissing his cheek. I know how much you miss the little things from home.... hopefully you'll have them all back soon.

Eren whimpered a bit as he was kissed, but leaned into it. His tears subsided as he ate the rest of the sandwich, putting the plate down. I'm not in the hospital.... “Where are we....?” His voice was rough as he leaned his head into Levi’s shoulder, taking in his scent to calm himself down. We’re not home, this isn’t our couch, but this isn’t the hospital either…

Oh thank god he's back. Levi shifted Eren a bit as Lathe took his plate, cradling him in his lap and pecking his cheeks softly. “We’re at Marcus’ house- Spades’ Dad. ...technically soon to be your Grandfather.” That's a thing now, apparently. ...it's good to have you back.

Eren nodded. “I feel full…” His voice was quiet as he spoke, pulling his knees under Lathe's sweater, still unable to stretch the fabric. It's been awhile since I've felt this full. “How much did I eat?” He coughed a bit, clearing his throat, and his voice becoming softer, and quiet. I’m not in the hospital… Thank god.

“Let’s see… plenty of hamburger bombs…. an entire jar of peanut butter… and a grilled cheese sandwich. And a glass of apple juice.” Lathe smiled to him, moving to sit on the floor, the many doge making room for him. So much doge- He suddenly felt a dog nudging his shoulder, another also nudging his other shoulder and he soon found himself coaxed to lay down, dogs spreading out over his legs and chest. “…so much doge…” Lathe grinned goofily, turning his head as one licked his cheek, laughing quietly. They like me!

Eren looked over to where Lathe was laying on the floor, where six masses of fur surrounded him. What…. There are dogs here… That aren’t Blake… And there are a lot of them… He looked around for Blake, panicking when he couldn’t find the dog, only to hear a flap open and a few seconds later watch Blake jump up onto the couch and start to lick his face. He yelped as Blake touched his face with his nose. It’s cold… He was outside… His hands wrapped around the dog, pulling him close and petting him to calm himself down. I actually have Blake now… Thank god.

Spades came out of the kitchen, looking at the pile of dogs on the floor. “Lathe… Why are you on the floor?” Her brow was raised in question, stepping closer as she watched Eren hug Blake to his chest. He’s back to himself… That’s great… Now we just need him to eat 3 times a day.

Lathe looked up to her, smiling brightly. “Because, once they get you…” Lathe reached out and held onto her pant leg, one of the dogs taking the hint and getting up, pawing at her. He grinned as she found herself sitting on the floor, the doge accommodating her and spreading out over her too. “...they don't let you go.” Yay! Now we're both buried under doge!

Spades sighed quietly, just letting it happen as the dogs spread out over the two of them. “Well… It’s not as bad as…” Spades swallowed hard, looking away as she moved to get up, getting the dogs off of her and hurriedly walking off and up the stairs to the room she had taken as their own. No… No…. Neither of them know about that… None of them need to know about that.
Lathe watched as she got up, his eyes wide as he caught the torn look in her eyes. He got up to follow her, the dogs shifting out of his way as he went upstairs after her, his foot catching in the door before she could close it. He shut the door behind him, moving to Spades and catching her in a hug, his touch light and loving on her back, murmuring in her ear. “Spades, talk to me. What’s wrong? You know you can tell me anything…” Please, talk. It'll make you feel better.

Spades sighed quietly, leaning her head into his shoulder. “I… I’m sorry, I just… I just thought of something… It’s nothing… Really, I just… I need a few minutes.” Nope, he’s gonna think I have PTSD about it… But I haven’t thought about it in years… And I almost joked about it… What have I turned into… She took in a ragged breath, trying to calm down before the tears spilled.

... no. Lathe shifted a bit to pull from her, cradling her head in his hands, his voice soft. “Spades, this always happens… something in you is making you hurt, and you force down any emotion, and refuse to tell anyone… I know you're scared… because it's happened too much that you tell the person you're dating the truth about what's happened to you… and then they leave…” He pecked away her tears as they began to stream down her cheeks, his eyes warm and worried. “Spades, I'm not like that…. I'm not going to up and leave because something isn't going to be easy or because you've got things weighing you down that you can't handle by yourself… I love you… I want to keep you… and everything you bring with you. But it hurts when you don't believe that… when you don't trust me enough to tell me what's on your mind because you think I'm going to leave you… and I'm not. Spades… please. Tell me. You can always tell me.” I want to make things easier on you, because you won't make them easier on yourself.

Spades only nodded, holding onto his shirt. “I… I don’t want you to think…. That I have PTSD… I haven’t really thought about it… In awhile… I’m sorry.” It shocked me… I don’t want to think about it. It’s not a nice thing to think about.

...you can't stand being buried under the dogs... ...I always see Levi with Eren on top of him, and sometimes I try and do that with you, laying on top of you... but you always either flip us around or move out from under me... ...the car crash... your legs and abdomen crushed... holy fuck, you got crushed. Lathe pulled Spades close to him, his hand threading through her hair, trying to calm her as she started crying into his shoulder. It's a miracle you still get into a car ever... you have PTSD. You must. But you're in denial about it. “Spades… I know you don't like the idea, but I think you really do have PTSD... it's okay, really, it doesn't make you any less of a person or anything, it certainly doesn't for Eren, why would it for you? Just…” He sighed, leading them over to the bed and sitting down, moving back and pulling Spades on top of him, laying down with her. “...when you were in the car crash... did you end up getting crushed?” It would explain stuff...

Spades grew tense in his arms before nodding, burying her face further into his chest. “Y-yeah.... I did... and I... I might be very claustrophobic... and I’m afraid of a lot of things now... and...” Spades couldn’t stop the word vomit that followed her tears. Her hands were shaking horribly as she clung to him, finally letting everything get off her chest after so many years. Please don’t be mad at me… I kept it all in, because no one wanted to deal with all my baggage.
Lathe listened to everything that came out of her mouth, trying to calm her and kissing away her tears when her words dissolved into garbled sounds as she cried. "I hate seeing you like this... you kept everything buried inside of you for so long... He let her ramble on, pecking her cheeks as she finally trailed off, mumbling into her ear. “It’s okay, Spades... I'm right here, I'm not going anywhere. Thank you for telling me this... really... we’ll be more careful with stuff... I love you, so much...” Please don't think I don’t.

Spades’ crying was starting to subside, holding onto him tightly. “I… When you found out that I couldn’t have children…. I thought it was gonna happen all over again. I was terrified ...” I might as well tell you about everything you don’t know.

Lathe nodded, his hand running over her back. “I didn't exactly bring it up in the best way.... I was just hurt that you didn't tell me... and I was really blunt about it... I'm so sorry for scaring you like that... I guess I could've come off like that... it's okay, though, you don't have to be terrified.... It's fine...” It really is. I don't want you to be scared to tell me things... because you need to tell me things.

Spades looked down. “I should... I should tell you... That um... When I was up here, I um... I dated a couple guys and they always left after they found out there would be no kids from our relationship, and I... I was engaged too, until he found out... We got an annulment... And I never saw him again. I couldn’t take it anymore... I’m so sorry... I didn’t know how to tell you, I was so afraid of repeating everything again, and I didn’t want you to leave... I didn’t want to have to moved all over again... Move away from everyone, and never see you guys again... I couldn’t do that...” I hate that you have to find this out like this... I didn't want to tell you in the first place, and I'd rather forget about all of them.

...No way. Lathe felt a hard tug in his chest, his arms tightly wound around her. He buried his face in Spades’ shoulder, breathing in deeply before letting it out shakily, tears beginning to stain her shirt. ...you never told me... “...y-you were already m-married... and you didn't even t-tell me that ...” I would've wanted to know ... Lathe’s chest hurt as he himself began to sob into her shoulder, their legs tangling, wanting to be close to her. ....for a while... ...You were someone else’s....

Spades felt her chest tighten as she heard him cry. “I’m sorry Lathe... I-If... If you-”

“ Don’t !” Lathe shuddered, his hold on her tight as he sobbed into her shoulder, anger and overwhelming sadness tearing at him. “Don't you dare suggest that I should leave- stop thinking that I want to! I don’t ! I... I want to stay ...” Lathe’s anger dissolved as he yelled, his words garbled and broken as he muttered into her shoulder, tears streaming down his cheeks, turning them onto their sides and curling into her. I wanna stay... I don't wanna leave... don't make me leave... don't leave because you think I'd be better off without you... His hands gripped her shirt tightly, not wanting to let go. I wanna keep you...

Spades listened to Lathe in shock, her eyes wide as he yelled at her. She shut up, not saying anything as she sighed in relief. He’s not gonna leave… He’s really not gonna leave me. She let out a shaky breath as she held him close to her, sniffing as she tried to calm down.

Lathe held onto her for a long time, his breathing soon calming, his voice quiet and rough when he next spoke. “…I wanna sleep…” His hold on her tightened. “…I wanna hold onto you…” I don’t wanna let you go...

Spades nodded. “O-okay… Why don’t we get our PJs on?” She asked quietly to him, her arms still around him, her fists loosening from around his shirt, but still holding onto him. “So we can sleep?” Her voice was shy and quiet as she spoke.

Lathe nodded, finally letting go of her. He shifted them up to get off of the bed, beginning to ditch his clothes, leaving them in a sorta-neat pile on the floor, in nothing but his boxers when he turned to see Spades lifting her shirt over her head, leaving her in a bra and panties. … Lathe walked up behind her just as she began to move to find pajamas in her suitcase, his hands lightly resting on her hips, his forehead on her shoulder blade. “Uhm, Spades… is it okay if we go without PJs for tonight…?” His voice was incredibly small and timid, blushing red to his ears. I don’t want to… y’know, but… I just wanna be able to feel you...

Spades nodded, tilting her head to the side a bit as her arms came behind her and struggled to get to the clasp for her bra with the way he was positioned behind her. I can’t sleep in a bra, that’s too uncomfortable, so bra-less it is...

Lathe blushed as he realized what she was doing, his hands drifting to her back and undoing the clasp, letting the fabric fall from her shoulders. Okay… Lathe looked away as she turned to him, his hand rubbing the back of his neck. Fuck, why do I feel so awkward… calm the hell down...

Spades smiled softly and leaned up on her tiptoes and pecked the corner of his mouth. “Thank you.” Her voice was soft, sweet, before she climbed back into the bed, curling up under the covers. And you’re too much of a gentleman for your own good...

Lathe followed her to the bed, climbing in after her and nestling under the covers. …I wanna hold you… but I want you to hold me too… Lathe was torn between the two as he reached over to turn off the lamp on the nightstand, quiet as he settled back under the covers. His voice was a quiet whisper, expecting Spades to say no. “…Uhm… is it okay if you hold me… please…?” Can I be the little spoon for once…?
Spades was quiet for a few moments, the air between them noticeably tense before she shifted moving over to him, her arms wrapping around his torso under his arms, her ear just above his heart, and her legs starting to tangle alongside his. I can hold you… I can do this.

Lathe let out a breath he didn't know he was holding when Spades shifted on top of him, his arms winding around her back, tracing over the warm skin, grateful that he could feel so much of her as their legs tangled. “...thank you.” Lathe felt he could breathe easier with her steady weight, finally letting himself relax into the mattress, wrapped up in her scent. It's okay… it's okay.

~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~

Eren shifted in Levi’s arms, looking around the quiet house. I wonder if Mom and Dad will come back downstairs… They've been up there for awhile. His hands were still clinging to Levi’s shirt; they had spoken with Marcus for a bit, getting to know a few things about him here and there, and a few things about Spades’ childhood. So this was the house Mom lived in for awhile? That’s nice.

Levi listened to the house in general, quiet. Lathe yelled something earlier… but they're quiet now… I don't think they fought… Spades would've been the one to yell first. Lathe never yells… I think they're okay. It's been awhile. Levi looked to a clock on the wall, seeing it was getting late. It's late… I'm tired… “Eren, what do you say we go upstairs and sleep?” Levi murmured in his ear, his hold on him still as gentle as ever. You need all the rest you can get… and I don't wanna let you go just yet…

Eren nodded. “O~” His jaw practically unhinged as he let out a loud yawn, his eyes closing out of instinct and one of the dogs yawned after watching him yawn. Then the other dogs followed suit in yawning, making adorable little squeaks as they did so. Well, I guess it’s true… It’s contagious. “Okay, I need my pills though… The right ones.” He added at the end, moving to get out of Levi’s grasp to go find his pills. I don’t wanna have another breakdown…

...that was so fucking adorable. Levi smirked as the whole flock of them yawned, finding himself yawning and stretching his arms above his head when Eren left his lap, standing to follow him and rifle through Lathe’s bag. “Here, I know where the stuff you take is.” Levi opened it and took out the top case, handily labeled ‘STUFF EREN TAKES’ in Sharpie. Of course. Levi opened the plastic case and took out two of the bottles, knowing which ones he took at night. “Let’s get you a glass of water so you can take these, alright?” It only took a minute for Levi to give Eren the right pills, the PTSD ones all already halved in the bottle. Makes this easier than fishing for whole and half ones. Levi stowed the bottles away after making sure Eren drank the entire glass worth of water, one arm around his waist as they walked to the stairs. “Alright, let’s get you upstairs and in bed. We both could use some sleep.”
Eren nodded quietly and followed him, Blake following on the stairs behind them along with a few of the huskies. His footsteps were a bit staggered as he neared the bed, sitting on the edge and starting to slowly strip of the layers of clothing he wore. I'm tired… But I feel like I've slept all day…

Levi let Blake and the few huskies that followed into the room, shutting the door and similarly stripping to his boxers, his clothes sort of folded neatly on the dresser. ...do I want PJs… He looked over to Eren sleepily tugging off his clothes, his eyes softening as he saw his puffed-up puppy expression. ...no. Levi went to him and took the clothes from him, setting them next to his own before pulling him down onto the bed with him, tugging the blankets up and shifting to spoon Eren, Eren’s back flush to his front. I like this. He gently pecked Eren’s shoulder blade, smiling faintly. “Goodnight, Eren.” I love you.

“...night…” Eren mumbled sleepily before his eyes closed. I'm tired… Levi’s warm… Eren shifted closer to him and his hair ruffled against the pillow as he found a comfortable position. I can sleep… In a real bed.

Levi drifted to sleep, grateful for the warmth in his arms. Warm… He slowly blinked awake in the morning, the stiffness of his joints telling him how late he’d slept. ...warm… he’s got a lot of hair… ...wait. Levi shifted up, seeing he had one of the huskies next to him. “...what the hell?” He sputtered as it turned it’s head and licked him, shooing it off the bed and wiping his mouth. “...Good morning, Levi… now where the hell…” Where’d Eren go? Levi was suddenly overcome with a sense of dread, throwing on clothes in record time and thundering down the stairs, turning with wide eyes to the living room and kitchen. He heaved a sigh of relief as he saw Eren with Lathe at the kitchen table, covered in flour and making pasta. “Oh thank god…” Levi had a hand over his heart as he walked over, going to hug Eren tightly. “I was worried when I woke up holding a dog and not you.” That was concerning… the last time that happened…… no, you're okay. It's fine.

Eren looked down to where Levi stood hugging his waist. “S-sorry… I um… I woke up around 5… And you were asleep, and I didn’t w-want to wake you up…” Eren stumbled over his words as he added the new raviolis to a large pot that they were filling to set in water. This is a lot… But I’m hungry…

Levi nodded. “It's okay… I'm just glad you're fine.” He pulled back after a moment, looking down and realizing just how much flour the action got on him. “...well, I look like I fit right in. Might as well join you.” Levi went to the sink to wash his hands, coming back and looking over the table. “What’s happening?”

Lathe grinned, closing the ravioli in front of him with the tines of a fork. “Making rivailloli with the pasta dough Eren made at five in the morning. Eren’s monopolized the pasta stamp- wanna roll out the dough?” We've still got a ton left.
Levi shrugged and nodded, moving to pick up the rolling pin and roll out sections of the dough, letting Eren stamp them before re-rolling the scraps with a new lump. Pasta for breakfast… hey, it looks good. Why not?

Marcus came downstairs in a pair of jeans and a hoodie, bare feet almost silent on the floor as he made his way to the kitchen. His eyes widened in surprise as he saw the countertops overtaken by pasta making. “Lathe, when I said I expected pasta, I didn’t mean you had to make pasta for breakfast.” Though, whatever you’re making looks pretty good.

Shit… Is he gonna be mad at me for making pasta? Eren lowered his head, almost in submission as his actions slowed to a stop, unsure if he should continue or not. Do I stop? Do I keep making them? What do I do?

Lathe shrugged, looking over as Eren stopped handing him filled raviolis, gently resting a hand on his shoulder. “Sorry, Marcus- Eren woke up really early and just made a ton of pasta out of nerves. We’re making it into raviolis… Is that okay?” They’ll dry out if we try to save them…

Marcus nodded. “Yeah, that’s fine, just make sure there’s enough for all of us.” Did I say something wrong? Marcus watched as he sat down at the kitchen island, watching them work silently. They seem to make a great team…

Lathe nodded, moving to quietly murmur to Eren. “It’s okay, he didn’t mean anything by it. He just wasn’t expecting this for breakfast. You can keep going.” It’s fine. He smiled to him as Eren started making the raviolis again, a large amount in the bowl. Eventually they ran out of filling and had just a lump of dough left, Lathe looking at it. Hmm… what to do with you…

Eren nodded quietly, his hands regaining their function as he made the rest of the raviolis. There’s a lump left…. “Pasta… M-maybe?” He asked timidly as he looked at the dough left over. I wanna cook it, i’m hungry…

Lathe nodded, looking up to Levi. “…you haven’t made pasta… have you.” He grinned as Levi shook his head. “Well, roll it out, then. We’ll have you make some.” Yas.

Levi nodded, rolling out the dough thin and doing as Lathe instructed him over his shoulder, sprinkling it with some flour and rolling the entire sheet of dough carefully. He picked up a knife Lathe set next to him, cutting the rolled sheet near the end a few times and carefully picking up the edge on the top, holding it above the table and carefully shaking his hand. The noodles unrolled in his careful hold, setting them on the table and beginning a pile. That’s cool. Levi unrolled the rest of it as Lathe told him, instead cutting it into squares and following him along with Eren as Lathe showed them different ways to fold the pasta, a pile of all kinds of shapes growing on top of the long noodles. This is really nice…

Eren smiled, though he moved to clean himself up, stripping himself of his flour ridden shirt and holding it to his thin chest, his ribs showing and his hips as well. He froze when he felt Marcus’ eyes on his body, but he was unsure of what to do. I can’t run… He’ll get mad… I wanna hide… He can see me… What do I do?

Levi immediately moved behind him when he saw Eren freeze up, an arm wrapping around his waist and covering his back, Eren hiding his front with the shirt in his hands. “Upstairs- we’ll get you in clean clothes. Shower, maybe?” Levi moved Eren from the kitchen to the stairs, getting him away from Marcus. We’ll clean you up and then when we come back down we can eat.

Lathe watched as Levi ushered Eren upstairs, speaking to Marcus as he kept folding the pasta that was not yet finished. “…Eren’s… if anything said to him in general could be taken as someone being mad at him, that’s how he’ll take it. He was scared you were mad for us making pasta so early. And… yeah… he’s not doing so great physically right now…” You saw… he’s just skin and bones.

Marcus paled a bit, taking in Lathe’s words. “I… I’m sorry, I didn’t realize it, I’ll try not to say anything that would make him freak out.” Marcus assured, getting up to help him clean up the countertops. I didn't realize that it could be taken as something I would be mad about.

“Thanks… it can be a struggle, walking on eggshells all the time around him. But if it happens, and he looks scared… just tell him it’s fine, that you're not mad. He needs plenty of reassurance.” Lathe set the last of the pasta in a separate bowl, cleaning the table with Marcus and making sure all the stray flour was wiped up. He looked down to his own clothes, seeing all the flour and pasta shrapnel. “…I’m gonna change before I come back down and cook all this.” Don't wanna make a bigger mess of the kitchen. Lathe left to do just that, quietly opening the door to their room and seeing Spades still nestled under the blankets. Lathe shed his shirt and pants, putting them on a pile of dirty laundry in the corner. He went to the bed, moving to kiss Spades awake, his hands resting on her hips. Good morning….

Spades blinked awake after a few moments, moving to stretch out, her upper half coming out from under the covers, and she didn’t seem to notice her nudity as she picked herself up to kiss him again. “Good morning.” I could get used to waking up like that.

Lathe blushed as her upper half came out from under the covers, kissing her sweetly, his hands drifting to her sides. They pulled apart after a moment, Lathe keeping his eyes from her chest as he spoke, sounding a bit nervous. “Uhm… Breakfast’ll be soon… we’re having pasta, since Eren woke up early and made a ton out of nerves… yeah…” ...I feel like I'm too dressed...

Spades looked down at herself blushing wildly as she pulled the blanket up to her chin. “Okay… That works, I’ll be down as soon as I get dressed.” She waited under the covers, watching Lathe move around with a dopey smile on her face. He’s really not gonna leave...

Lathe nodded, going to get dressed in a different pair of jeans and pulling on a red sweater, blushing as he moved to peck her cheek before leaving. … she's too damn beautiful for her own good… eh, can't exactly complain. Lathe set a pot on the stove full of water, waiting for it to boil. This'll take a bit. Soon enough Levi and Eren were padding downstairs freshly showered, Spades following, and Lathe dropped the raviolis into the water, letting them cook before bringing them from the water no more than three minutes later and setting them aside, then dumping the miscellaneous noodles into the pot for two minutes. A pot of thin pasta sauce, having simmered on the back burner for awhile, was finally brought to the front, and Lathe stirred it, careful nothing stuck to the bottom. He soon set a bowl of ravioli and pasta miscellany in front of everyone with fresh sauce poured over-top, getting drinks for everyone before sitting down himself. “Dinner for breakfast.” He smiled, immediately giving his food his full attention. Pasta for the win.

Eren sat down at the table, his hands still shaky as he started to eat from his bowl. It tastes good. A small hum came from him as he ate the first forkful. He still kept his head down as they sat in mostly silence. What if he’s still mad at me? I don’t want him to be mad… He heard Blake come up behind him and put a paw in his lap, whining a bit as he wanted him to calm down. I know… I know, I need to calm down.

Levi looked over to Eren, resting a hand on his leg as Blake came up to them, seeing his hand shake. “Eren, it's okay. Everything’s fine. It's fine that we're having pasta for breakfast- really.” Nobody minds- at least, they shouldn't. This is really good.

Eren nodded, though he put his fork down as more silence reigned in the kitchen, and he had a sinking feeling in his gut, his head dropping down even further in submission. I... Fucked up... Why did I need to make pasta... I should’ve made bread... Shit... Eren felt his nerves raising as he moved to curl up into himself on his chair.

Marcus watched Eren put his fork down in concern. Does he not like it? It tastes amazing! He turned to Lathe, worry etched across his features as Eren closed in on himself. What’s happening? Did I do something again?

Lathe looked to Eren worriedly as he heard Blake whine, looking across the table to Marcus. [He's still scared that you're mad... he thinks you didn't like that this is what we’re having as breakfast.]
Lathe looked back to Eren, his smile faint and reassuring. “Eren Hon, it’s alright, we don't mind having this for breakfast. It tastes great- you did a really good job of making it.” You really did.

Marcus nodded, putting his own fork down as he looked over to Eren. “Eren, I’m not mad, I was just surprised, that’s all. You did an excellent job with the pasta; it’s perfect, and the raviolis taste amazing.” He smiled reassuringly at Eren as he picked his head up for a split second before he picked up his bowl and held it in his lap, still curled up as he ate the pasta quietly. Oh thank god, he’s eating again. Marcus heaved a sigh of relief as he picked his own fork back up.

Eren was still shaking as he ate the warm pasta, keeping his eyes down and not looking at anyone at the table with him. Okay… He ate as silently as possible, still holding his food close. I know they’re not gonna take it from me… But it’s habit now…

Levi faintly smiled as Eren continued to eat, soon finishing his own bowl and standing to get a bit more, seeing Eren’s was empty as well. He held out a hand, speaking. “Want me to get you some more… rivailloli?” He glared lightly at Lathe as he chuckled, his eyes sparking a bit with humor. It's not too bad a pun.

Eren shook his head as he handed Levi his bowl. I don’t think I can handle anymore right now… that much was a lot… compared to what we normally get for breakfast, around 3 or 4 servings… He stayed curled up to himself, his knees pulled tightly to his chest, trying to seem as small as possible.

Spades watched quietly as she finished off her bowl. “I’ll have some more Levi.” She held her bowl out for him to take, waiting patiently and trying to think about what would be open on a Tuesday morning. “Dad, is Get Air open still?” She smiled more when he nodded. Oh I think that should be fun for you.

Lathe looked to her with a quirked eyebrow. “…dare I ask, what’s Get Air?” Now I'm suspicious.

“It’s a indoor trampoline park with a foam pit, it’s awesome, and I think Eren might like it…” It’ll definitely tire him out too, and I can only imagine what Levi and even you will do on the trampolines.

Lathe just looked at her, his eyes sparkling. “…I'm in.” This is gonna be fun. He looked over to Eren, resting a careful hand on his shoulder. “What do you say, Eren? Wanna give it a try?” Please say yes so we can go because now I really wanna go.
Eren flinched away from the hand for a second before he realized it was Lathe. He took a deep breath to calm himself down before nodding. “I can take… Blake right?” He asked quietly, picking his head up to meet Lathe’s eyes for a second before looking down again. I can do it... I can do it...

“He can't go on the actual trampolines, but he can come with and watch you jumping around. And we’ll all be there in case something happens. ...I also can't imagine who else would really be there, because it's a Tuesday morning in May. School’s in session, and people normally work, so we might end up having the place mostly to ourselves.” That'd be really nice.

Levi sat down next to him, nodding. “I think we’ll have fun going. And it's not as if we have to spend the entire day there. If we get tired, we rest, if we’re not having fun, we can leave. Do you want to maybe give it a go?” It sounds fun.

Eren was silent for a long time, contemplating everything that they told him. Well... Um... Jumping... On a trampoline... Doesn't that hurt? “Will it hurt?” He asked innocently, looking up to Levi and keeping eye contact with him for awhile before looking away.

... he's actually looking at us. Levi shook his head. “No, it won't hurt. It'll take a bit of getting used to, but you should be okay. You'd have to be careful that you don't do something weird with your feet and twist an ankle, but that’s the only real concern. If you just follow the rules they tell you, you'll be good.” It'll be fine.

Eren nodded after a few moments. “O-okay...” He started to unfurl a bit, not knowing what he would need to change into so that they could go. Is it gonna get warmer outside? It's still really cold.

Lathe stood with the dishes, taint the empty bowls and beginning to wash them in the sink. “It’s cold out right now, but you're probably going to be warm in the trampoline place- I’d say wear one of your thin long-sleeves, and you can take your coat off when you get there. That goes pretty much for everyone.” Sounds about right.

Eren nodded and slowly passed Marcus cautiously before he scampered off. He was still on edge around the older man and didn’t want to upset him. He’s Mom’s dad... I don’t want either of them to be mad at me for anything... Cause they’ll put me back in the ward.. And no one will visit. Eren pulled out a dark green long sleeve and put it on, watching as it sunk down around his thin frame. It can ride up... What if someone sees my ribs? Or my hips?

Levi went upstairs after him, seeing Eren looking at his figure critically in the mirror. ...it sinks in... he's so thin... “...don't want it to come up at all?” He nodded as Eren shook his head, rifling through his bag for a pair of dark brown sweatpants, handing them to him. “Here, put these on. And then…” He helped Eren tuck the shirt into the pants, the elastic keeping it in place. “There. Now nobody’ll see anything.” He pecked Eren’s cheek before going to change himself, donning a pair of black sweatpants and a white tank top with an evening skyline on the front, smirking as he saw the one mark on his neck in his reflection, rubbing it a bit and looking over to Eren, pecking his nose. “Yours.” I love you...

Eren blushed as he was kissed, becoming a bumbling mess within a few seconds. What... Why did he kiss my nose? Eren looked down at his feet as he shuffled them, turning towards the door and reaching for the handle to open it. We better get going, I don’t want Dad mad at us for taking so long to get ready.

Levi reached and caught Eren by the waist, pulling him against his front, his hold gentle as he pressed kisses up his neck, smirking as Eren stuttered and blushed. “Dad is just coming up the stairs- we have a few minutes.” Levi walked Eren backwards to the bed, sitting down with Eren in his lap facing him, pressing kisses all over his cheeks and neck, his hands running lightly over his sides. Mine.

Eren blushed completely, so unsure of how he was supposed to take this as he straddled Levi’s thighs. He let out a soft mewl as he felt Levi’s lips on his cheeks. What is he doing? Is he trying to start.... Eren clammed up a bit, but couldn’t stop the soft sounds that escaped his lips. This is so embarrassing.

Levi looked up as Eren seemed to freeze, unsure of what to do with himself. “...Eren, I'm not trying to start anything. It’s not a good time for that.” Levi gently kissed across his collarbone, nipping very lightly at his neck. “…I just wanted to let you know how much… how much I love you… because I feel like I don't tell you too much… and I wanna fix that… but it's not easy for me to say it, so…” He pressed a kiss under Eren’s ear, murmuring. “…it's easiest for me to say it like this…” I'm not great with words.... but you need words... dammit. Levi pulled Eren close, moving to softly kiss him, his eyes fluttering shut. It doesn't mean I don't, though.

Eren moaned quietly as his collarbone and neck were nipped. He watched as Levi leaned up a bit and kissed him sweetly, Levi’s lips soft against his own. Eren slowly leaned into the kiss, his eyes closing as he enjoyed the feeling of Levi’s hands on his hips as he straddled him. I… I like this. He got even more comfortable with Levi, his thin body sinking down into the shorter man’s chest and molding to it. This is really comfortable...

Levi’s hands lightly roamed, his tongue swiping over Eren’s lips before retreating, feeling Eren freeze up a bit. Crap, I’m going too fast… He internally sighed in relief when Eren opened his lips for him a moment later, his tongue slowly making it’s way into Eren’s cool cavern, searching and finding Eren’s tongue, tilting his head as the kiss deepened. I've missed this...
Eren whimpered into the kiss, letting Levi’s hands wander over his thighs and his sides. He pulled back after a few moments, breathing hard, and his lips looking swollen already. “I…” Eren looked away and blushed, his head down. I’m sorry… I just… What am I supposed to do?

“Oh?” Levi tilted his head a bit, looking at him with inquisitive eyes. “…y’know, there’s no one way to do this…” Levi let one hand thread through Eren’s hair, leaning forward to lap at his neck, careful to not suck and leave marks. “…you just do what feels right…” And what the other should enjoy…

Eren let out a soft moan as Levi licked his neck. “What do I do…? I don’t know what to do… what happens when we go back? I… I’m gonna be stuck in there forever… When you go away… I can’t come out of the hospital… I haven’t seen the puppies, I haven’t seen Charlie or Luna… I… I can’t even see Armin anymore..” Eren started to cry as his shaking arms clung to Levi’s shirt. I can’t do this… I can’t go back…

Levi stopped, instead pulling Eren flush to his chest, rubbing his back soothingly as Eren began to cry. “Eren, you might have to go back, but you’re not going to be there forever. Lathe’s suit will get heard soon enough, and we’ll win and you’ll go free. We can take care of this, and you can go back to just living like you always have. We’re gonna get you out of there. It'll be okay. It really will be.” We have to.

“You saw… You saw what everyone thinks of me now…” Eren whimpered, his hands coming up to his face to hide it. “I can’t sit there anymore… They’re starving them… They’re starving all of us… Jake’s as thin as me!” He cried and deflated down into Levi’s arms, shaking his head. “I don’t want to ever go back…” His voice rose for a second in anger as he held onto his shirt.

Levi nodded. “Eren, we’re doing everything we can to get you out of that hellhole… we think maybe because there’s such neglect we can get this whole thing sped up and heard faster, because they’re starving you all in there… they can’t let that drag on for months on end. We’re going to get this thing done as quickly as we can, and get you out of there, and get Jake some better, more quality care. He and you deserve it- and we want you out of there as much as you do. Everything’ll soon go back to normal. It'll be okay. It might still take a bit, but everything will turn out fine.” Lathe has a damn good case- he’s been writing a lot. He can defend his arguments to the bitter end.

Eren sniffled, another thought crossing his mind. I… I can’t get pregnant… Just like Mom… They make me feel like I’m some kind of animal… Like I need to be caged, or controlled. “I’m sorry… you probably don’t wanna know…” I should stop crying, I need to pull myself together.
...he wants to carry? ...he's so feminine... he feels the urge to...? ...I can understand that... sorta...
Levi pecked Eren’s cheek, wiping at his tears. “Eren, I know it’s not easy... but until we get the case heard cooperating is the best way to go about this... and... I know you really wanna have kids... maybe we starting looking to adopt while I'm here, before I get stationed? Does that sound okay?” I wanna have kids... and you do too... and I wanna be a part of this decision before I have to go away and put things on hold for four years...

Eren nodded hurriedly. “I... Um... I was talking with Hannah... You remember her, right?” His voice was quiet, holding onto Levi’s shirt. I... I still feel horrible that I can’t give you a child myself...

Levi nodded. “Of course I do- what about her?” ...where are you going with this?

“Well... She’s been working a lot... With DNA... and... she said she was going to donate her eggs... She said she can take out her DNA, and put ours in...” Eren’s tears had subsided, and he let go of his shirt, his thumbs rolling between the two of them. I was hoping we could have our own kids...

Gears turned in Levi’s head. She’s willing to do that? If it’s successful... and we can find a surrogate mom... we could have our own kids. As in we. “...she’s willing to do that? ...That’s amazing. We’d have to find a surrogate, but Eren...” Levi gave Eren a small but very real smile before pulling him close in a hug. “...we could have kids ...” ...our own teeny hoomans...

Eren nodded, a soft smile on his face as he pulled back a bit, still a bit wary of being crushed.
“Yeah... But it could take a while for her to do it... You... You might not be back by the time it’s born... But... You’ll sign all the papers? Before you leave? So it’s legally... Ours...?” I wanna keep you, but you’re not gonna ask me the question... Are you?

Levi immediately nodded. “I know I'm probably not going to be home when they're born, but I really want this to happen. I'll sign everything... I want us to have the kid together.” ...having a kid before you're married... and you know you're not intentionally going to leave him... but if something happens... I'd rather you lose a boyfriend rather than a fiancée or a husband... I really, really want to... but I can't... not yet... Levi kept showering his cheeks with kisses, a soft smile on his face. I really love you... but I don't wanna make you hurt too much if something happens to me...

Eren smiled more, his hands coming to cup his face and lean in to kiss him sweetly. He kissed him passionately, holding him close. I love you... You said yes.
Levi blushed scarlet as Eren kissed him, feeling himself melt as Eren took over the kiss, his arms slung over his shoulders, his stomach fluttering. I love you… He whimpered quietly into the kiss as Eren deepened it, his eyes opening and pulling back with a start as there was a knock at the door.

“Uhm, guys… we’re gonna get going now… put yourselves together and come on downstairs…” Lathe blushed as he scurried downstairs. why did you two think you had enough time to have sex…

Eren pulled back instantly and blushed even darker as he scrambled off of Levi and towards the door. “S-sorry.” He whimpered before leaving him and running down the stairs. His hair was a mess from Levi’s hands running through it but he was free of any other marks. His heart was still fluttering in his chest. He said yes! He’s gonna be bound to me… For at least 21 years… Oh thank god …

Lathe looked to Eren, pink as he spoke. “Uhm… sure you don't wanna brush out your hair? I can do it in the car on the way there, so it’s not in your way while you're jumping around…” You could've taken more than an instant to get yourselves back in order… dammit…

Eren looked up at Lathe, a newfound confidence in himself as he nodded, keeping eye contact. “That… That’d be great.” Eren told him, his voice a bit shaky but not much as he felt happiness swell in his chest. He said yes …

Lathe seemed a bit surprised as Eren spoke and looked him right in the eyes, smiling to him. hmmm… “Alright- let me go find you a hairbrush, okay?” Lathe smiled to him, patting his shoulder as he walked past him to the stairs, thinking. Something that wasn't that happened. “Levi, question.” Lathe waltzed right into their bedroom, looking to him as Levi tried to get his hair to not be a mess in the mirror, startling him a bit. “…Eren looks really happy and actually looked at me when he spoke. He looked at me. …what'd you do…?” Lathe grinned a bit cheekily as he spoke, a hand over his heart. “I mean, I know we would've given you the green light right away, but you could've at least gone through the formality of asking for tradition’s sake… even I had to ask…” …You probably didn’t propose in Marcus’ house. …but come on. Just get our approval so you can actually go ahead and start to plan shit… my God just marry him already!

Levi’s eyes widened as he listened to Lathe. “I’m sorry, what?” You think I proposed to him… I couldn’t. No, not yet… “I didn’t propose if that’s what you're thinking.” Oh god now you’re gonna ask… Fuck.

“Oh I know. A spare room of a guy you don't know too well- not romantic enough.” Lathe shook his head, his eyes sparkling with mischief. “But come on- Eren looks so much like himself. It’s like some switch flipped- what’d you two talk about?” Tell me!!
Levi sighed quietly, resting both his hands on the dresser, and looking down. “Let’s see... We agreed on both wanting kids... I suggesting adopting... But...” Eren came up with a better idea... Levi turned, leaning against the vanity, his arms crossed over his chest as he looked to Lathe. You're gonna ask... Aren't you.

---

You two want tiny hoomans too! “Buuuuut?” Lathe quirked an eyebrow at his defensive stance, holding up his hands. “Hey, Eren looked like a million bucks just now compared to how he’s been doing emotions-wise. You can tell me.” What other options are there? Eren must've looked into this, then.

“Hannah’s gonna donate her eggs, and she can fertilize it with our DNA...... We would just need a surrogate to carry the child... And I agreed to signing all the papers for any children we have.” That’s probably what did it. Levi shifted on his feet. “...so are we going?”

Lathe had to try very hard not to squeal in excitement, so happy for them. They're gonna have tiny hoomans! And they're actually gonna be theirs! Lathe nodded, his eyes sparkling. “Y-Yeah, we’re going. C’mon.” Lathe snatched a hairbrush on their way down, his own mind spinning a bit. ...I wonder... if Spades runs out of eggs... or if it’s just too hard... could we do that too, and have it implanted in Spades? “Alright, we going or what?” Lathe twirled the brush in his hand, grinning to Eren where he sat on the floor with the dogs. They all adore him.

Eren looked up as Lathe and Levi came down the stairs, his eyes brightening and a natural smile crossing his lips as he got up to sit on a stool. I want a braid... And then I wanna go to the bouncy place.

Lathe moved to sit behind him, starting to brush his hair carefully as Levi and Spades chatted and played with the dogs, braiding it tightly and humming as he worked. I've got so many new tunes for you to read over- I really like this one motif I've got going... it's my favorite song right now. Lathe tied the end off tightly and pulled it into a sorta-bun low on his head, just getting it out of the way. “There- that'll keep it out of your face.” He smiled as Eren turned to face him, feeling the braid done up behind him as he did so, going to peck his forehead before standing. “Shall we get going?” Please?

Eren nodded hurriedly, getting up and heading towards the door with Blake at his feet. He leaned down and strapped the vest around Blake’s body, petting him behind the ears as he smiled. I really wanna see what it's like on the bouncy thingy. Mom said it's gonna be fun... and Grandpa's going with us.

Levi smirked, shrugging on a coat and handing Eren one as well. “You'll need this. It's cold out.”
Levi looked to Marcus, a spark of humor in his eyes. “Perfect for the penguins, but not for us. We tend to freeze.” Yeah- I don’t think I’d like living up here. Way too much cold.

Eren nodded, still quiet as he put it on, he looked over to see everyone else throwing their coats on him. What are we gonna do? How long is it gonna take to get there? His eyes were trained on the door as Marcus opened them, letting the cold air hit their faces. It is fucking cold… Eren followed Levi into the large SUV, sitting in the back with Spades as well.

Lathe went straight for the passenger’s seat again, chatting with Marcus as they drove the short ten minutes to the large warehouse-looking building. They walked in and could see the entire complex from behind the front desk. The empty front desk. Huh? Where are the employees? “Hello…”?
Lathe called out, looking around and suddenly hearing a piercing whistle, looking to a far area of the park and seeing two teams in orange and black uniform shirts beginning a game of dodgeball. …how many people do they have working here?

Marcus walked back a bit into the warehouse to look over the younger employees yell at each other and throw balls, a relatively older man calling people out as they were hit. Is that…? “Darius Zackly… Is that really you?”

The older man turned, blowing the whistle to call the game off. “It sure is, Marcus Spade… It’s been awhile!” His voice was gruff as the employees exited the pit and where smiles all round.
“You here to do some jumping?” Who’s with you? Is this your daughter?

Marcus grinned, holding a hand out to Zackly as he did the same. “It’s nice to see you, and yes we are. This is my daughter, her fiance, and my future grandson.” He introduced them all and watched one of the younger guys get behind the counter and start to get the computer set up to get their payment. Efficient as always.

“You gonna be jumping, Spade?” Darius nodded to the man behind the counter as he got everything together for the five of them to jump. He reached under the cabinet and got them special socks to put on instead of their own.

Marcus is jumping too? …alright. Lathe signed the waiver he was handed and thanked the young man for the socks, going with everyone over to the benches and cubbies to ditch their jackets and tug on the socks. He quirked an eyebrow as Eren studied the socks in confusion, smiling to him.
They’re extra grippy on the bottom so you don’t slide around and get hurt.” He chuckled as Eren nodded, soon standing ready to jump, trying not to bounce too much on his toes, excited. I wanna do the thing can we do the thing yet?

Eren looked to Levi as he went out to one of the large open bounce areas. Where’s he going? He followed with large doe eyes as he took everything in. It’s really big, and looks really cool. They stepped up to be level with the trampolines, watching Levi take off. Woah… His eyes were wide as he watched Levi as he bounced between the trampolines, a little farther in. He’s already so far away…

Lathe watched Levi with sparkling eyes, though he stopped as he approached one of the actual trampolines, carefully stepping onto it and beginning to lightly bounce, trying to get his footing. ...the thing is a bit harder than I thought... Lathe soon was bouncing a few good feet off of the surface, working up the courage and hopping to another trampoline, beginning to laugh. “Oh my God, I’m doing the thing...” Lathe hopped to the next trampoline, and then the next, picking up pace and height, trying to copy some of the things Levi was doing. He must’ve done this before...

Levi concentrated as he moved across the open expanse of trampolines, soon feeling steady enough on his feet to jump at one of the angled trampolines at the side of the building, flipping back over and landing soundly. Like riding a bike. He noticed Eren trying to get his footing, Spades helping him, Marcus moving from one to another at a steady pace, and Lathe looking like an excited puppy, moving to copy him and overshotting the flip, landing on his back and flailing like a fish out of water. He chuckled, shaking his head, his tone good-natured. “Easy, you’ll hit your head on something. Landing on your neck isn’t fun.” Nope, you kinda need your neck. That thing’s important.

“...Nyeh.” Lathe got to his feet once he stopped bouncing on his back, getting his energy back. “...I like this.” It's been two minutes and this is already the greatest thing ever!

Eren shifted, unsteady as Spades attempted to help him find his footing. I want to try jumping too... He sucked in a breath, not realizing that he was holding his breath as Spades let go of him and let him on his own. Oh shit... She’s not holding me anymore... What do I do? I don’t... He swallowed hard, his legs shaking a bit as he stared down at the black mesh under him. What do I do...?

Blake hopped up to sit at the floor height, watching over Eren, his eyes narrowing as he sensed unease in his human. He whined, getting up and pacing where he could, but not stepping on the trampoline. Human... You don’t need to freak out... You’re standing fine...

Spades turned back towards Eren, watching him carefully as E wobbled on his feet. “Eren, you’re doing fine, you don’t need to worry about it...” You can stand up...

Eren looked up his eyes a bit fearful though when he looked over Spades’ shoulder, seeing Levi jump with complete grace, doing a bunch of flips in the air. Woah... He looks so cool... He felt his legs go a bit stiff, looking down at his orange socks, before letting his knees bend and bounce a little, yelping as his knees gave way under him from not knowing how to react. That feels so weird...
Spades tried to hide a chuckle as she stepped over to Eren, taking his arms and helping him back to his feet. “Come on, you can do it.” She walked off of his trampoline and turned to watch him successfully land, though not as graceful as Levi. He had to hold his arms out to balance himself, and his eyes wide with fear and enjoyment. She smiled as she watched him slowly progress to bouncing up and down in place, his bounce getting higher. “That’s it Eren!”

Lathe looked over to where Eren was jumping, grinning and calling over to him as he started to jump in place. “You're doing great, Eren!” Do the thing! Lathe turned as Levi landed another jump, going to try and do him one up, not one to be outdone. “Let me show you something, Levi!” Lathe grinned as he felt the other four watching him, jumping straight for the corner trampoline, hitting it hard and bouncing up high, stiff as a board as he spun from it, upside down twice before he landed firmly and sprung up from the one beneath him, laughing. “I didn't think I’d go upside down that much. Practicing that dismount from the balance beam paid off!” That was awesome!

Levi’s eyebrow shot up, impressed. “…that's pretty good. All of that staring down a piece of wood when you were mad actually did something for you.” He smirked as Lathe glared playfully at him, shaking his head and jumping off. I need to step up my game.

Eren watched Lathe with wide eyes, moving to bounce towards the edge until he got unbalanced and fell back on his ass. His eyes were wide with shock as he looked to the unforgiving ground under him. You need to jump over these things… They’re not bouncy… Eren slowly got up and started to bounce around them and go further in towards Levi, Spades and Lathe. I can bounce!

Levi looked back to Eren, faintly smiling as he saw him making his way over, hopping closer to him and jumping one trampoline over. “You're doing a good job- you found your footing pretty fast.” You're doing well.

Spades nodded, coming to jump over to them, going incredibly high in a short amount of time. “You really are Eren.” She smiled as Eren blushed up to his ears, his long braid smacking against his back. He really looks like a girl, with how thin he is now… I’m wondering if this is okay for him to do? Is he gonna break anything while we’re here? Because he’s so weak? Her smile thinned as Eren stumbled, struggling to keep his footing.

Eren grumbled as he got back up, trying to bounce himself again, though he was was getting frustrated as his shaking legs gave out every now and then. Why do I keep falling?

Lathe noticed Eren struggling on the trampoline, bouncing over. “What’s going on?” Lathe watched Eren’s legs shake under him, thinking. “Can't stay up?” His expression was a bit resigned as Eren nodded. “You're really thin; there's not much muscle left in your legs right now, so it's going to be harder to jump around like this, especially if you're out here for a long time. Just take it easy and be careful going over the divides, okay?" That's all I can say, really.

Eren whined as Lathe told him only to jump around over divides. “But I wanna do the tricks too.” He whined as he struggled more on his feet, reducing to give up like that. No, I wanna do it... I need to...

“Eren, we probably have one of these parks around where we live. We can always do this again when you're in better physical shape too- but you've been starved for four months. You're not as physically capable as a lot of people right now. Don't try to force anything- just do what you feel confident doing, okay? I know it sucks, but I don't want you hurting yourself.” I just want you to stay in one piece.

Eren pouted, raising his lower limp to accentuate his frown. “But I wanna do it like a normal person... I don’t wanna be different.” I've had enough of being locked up in a cage... Eren struggled to get bouncing again but once he did he made a beeline towards the inclined wall of trampolines. I wanna show you that I can do it! I will do it!

Levi immediately picked up the pace, beating Eren to the trampoline he was headed for and occupying the square before it, forcing Eren to stop. “Eren, I know you're stubborn and you really wanna do it, but we can't let you. Believe me, I want nothing more than for you to be able to do normal stuff, but as of this moment you’re different because you're skin and bones and it’s not something that can be ‘disproven’ or ‘worked around’ instantly. It'll take time for you to gain that weight back, and you're shaking like a leaf whenever you hit the mesh because your legs wanna stop or calm down but your head doesn't want to. Please- I'll jump around with you. But you can't safely do the fancy stuff in the shape you're in. I'm sorry, I really am. But we can still jump- it'll be fun.” Levi stopped bouncing, shifting his weight around as he stood on the mesh. You need to chill- and I'll chill with you if you want.

Eren looked at him with contempt. I'm sick and tired of being told I can't do anything. He was about to open his mouth when his legs gave out from under him, refusing to work anymore, and shaking too badly for him to stand. My legs are too shaky... Eren’s arms struggled to lift up his body weight back from where he was sprawled out on the mesh. Come on... I can do it! I can show them! I can do it!

Levi sighed, stepping forward onto the barrier and onto the square where Eren was trying to stand, helping him to his feet easily. You're so light... He let Eren weakly smack at his chest, walking him off of the trampolines. “Eren, I think you should take a bit of a break until your limbs cooperate, okay? I’m really sorry, but that’s the way it is. This isn't something we can work around…” It sucks... Levi brought Eren to a vacant table, sitting him down and resting a hand on his shoulder. “Want me to get you water or anything?”
Eren looked down at the table and then under it to see his shaking legs. “N-No… I’m good.” He looked up as he heard someone clear their throat, standing a bit away from the table with a pen and a few sheets of paper, in a black and orange uniform. Her hair was dark brown, and her eyes an ice blue like Hannah’s. Who’s that? She has the same eyes as Hannah….

Levi looked up to her, seeing the pieces of paper and then pen in hand. “Need something?” His voice wasn’t cold, simply inquisitive as he studied her. ...she looks familiar… He walked up to her as she hesitantly nodded yes, looking down and seeing the papers in hand, all pictures of Eren singing onstage with Nate Ruess, found on Google and quickly printed. “...you want Eren’s autograph?” Again, she nodded yes. He turned and walked with her up to Eren, lightly tapping his shoulder. “Eren, this young lady wants to know if she can have your autograph?” She's not much of a talker.

Eren flinched a bit when he was touched. Wait… My autograph? She knows who I am? His eyes looked her up and down, trying to find a trace of malicious intent in her posture, though he couldn’t find any. She… She either doesn’t think I’m a lunatic… Or she didn’t hear about it… Eren nodded, holding out his hands for the sheets of paper with his image on them. These pictures actually look pretty good. He took the sharpie from her hand a soft smile on his face. “Um… Who is this out to?/

Grace picked her head up, her bangs coming clear of her face, and a hand instinctively coming to tuck a small braid behind her ear. “Uh.. Um, it’s for my sister, Hannah… It’s for her birthday… Um, Hannah Laskowski…” I think that’s all you need to know, she really enjoys your singing… “And… Um… Is that L-Lathe Quo? Could.. Uh… Could I get his autograph for her wife… ?” I remember them calling and ranting about how much they loved their music…

Levi’s eyebrows shot up. “You’re Hannah’s sister? I didn't know she had a sister.” Levi turned, shouting over to where Lathe was jumping far across the complex. “Yo Lathe! We found Hannah’s sister!” He turned back to her, giving her a warm look to offset her shocked expression. “Hannah and Sharon, yeah? They live not five minutes from us in Kansas. Hannah boards her horse with us, and we all adore their kid, Maverick. Really nice couple.” They really are.

“What?” Lathe looked confused, then began to bound over to them, soon slowing down to step onto the platform, walking down the stairs and over to them, immediately seeing the resemblance. “You’re Hannah’s sister?” He smiled as she shyly nodded, holding out a hand. “It’s nice to meet you. I'm Lathe. What’s your name?”

Grace looked up to Lathe, taking in how tall he was. “Uh… I’m uh…. G-Grace.” She stuttered a bit as she shook his hand. “I… They… Uhm… They never told me they met you guys… let alone lived by them.” Grace seemed too shocked for any more words as she turned to see Eren writing something lengthy on one of the sheets. What is he writing?

Eren smiled as he continued to write all over the first page, continuing on the second page. Let’s see… I’ve already written about Maverick… And Happy Birthday… I asked her if she would like to go riding more often… Um… Well, if we keep the first goal or filly, we can teach it together. Your sister is pretty chill, she asked me to write this… Well she didn’t ask for me to write this, she asked if I could autograph this picture to give for your birthday… Lolz, she didn’t know we know each other… Eren was lost in his own little world as he wrote filling up the next sheet and turning to another.

Spades stopped bouncing, starting to make her way over to the small congregation forming around where Eren was sitting at the table and writing something. From what I understand… We’ve located Hannah’s sister and Eren’s signing pictures of himself on stage…

Levi gave Eren a faint smile as he wrote on to the next pictures, filling the blank space with a long letter. “This your way of catching up with them?” He chuckled as Eren nodded, focused on his scribbling things down. He started to read over his shoulder a bit. “Let’s see… Maverick’s in there of course… oh yeah, her birthday’s soon.” He chuckled as he instantly heard Lathe stop his sentence in the middle to announce to him ‘I’m making cake!’ before turning right back to Grace and continuing his thought. He’s all over the place. “Many words, such ramble, wow.”… oh my god. I’ve been infected with memes.

“It’s odd- she never mentioned she had a sister. They don’t talk about their families much other than ‘Oh my god Hannah drives me nuts’ or ‘Oh my god Sharon’s making me insane’ or ‘Oh my god look at this picture of Maverick being adorable.’ It’s very amusing. But when we get back to Kansas we have to low-key yell at her for not mentioning you! But they live pretty close, and a lot has gone down in the little while we’ve known them. She boards her horse with us, they were over for Thanksgiving… did they mention anything about how Maverick was born?” His eyebrows shot up. “...are you serious?” He glanced to Spades as Grace nodded. “You’d think they’d say something about that insanity. Or about the stuff Sharon and I are doing. Or ramble on about horse breeding or something. Now I don’t need to just yell at you to talk to your fam more often.” He gave Spades a quick pointed look, nodding over to Marcus as he began to come over seeing her cheeks tinged pink a bit. “But I have to yell at at least Hannah too.” Everyone needs to talk to people more!

Grace’s eyes widened as she hurriedly shook her head. “No no no no… Please don’t yell at her… It’s…” Grace sighed quietly. “She hasn’t been in much contact with us since she came back from college… And she hasn’t talked a lot to us, I get to Skype her a few times a year and that’s all I get… Please… I beg you, don’t yell at her.” Grace’s voice was fearful, knowing exactly what would happen if Hannah was subjected to that. They moved away… They don’t talk to us really.

Eren picked his head up, finally finished with his long letter. “Dad… Don’t freak her out.” I can tell she’s worried about Hannah. I would follow what she says...

Lathe held up his hands in surrender, giving in when he heard her tone. “Alright, I won't yell at her. But make sure you ask her about all that stuff the next time you two get to talk, alright? A lot’s gone down.” He looked over to Eren, seeing the words sprawling over the many pages. “You gonna need another century, Eren?” He joked, seeing all the pages worth of notes. “I'm just saying that’s a lot.” Really tho.

Eren shook his head. “No, but she wanted your picture too… And autograph… For Sharon.” I don’t think you’ll say no… He swung his legs back over the bench and stood, walking over to Grace and setting his hands on her shoulders. “It’ll be okay, really, I think it’s great you asked for this.. When’s her birthday?” She never told me.

Grace sighed in relief, wrapping her arms around Eren’s waist. “Thank you, really thank you so much… And her birthday’s not for awhile, neither is Sharon's, they’re October and September…” Thank you so much for signing this...

Eren’s eyes widened as he was grabbed around the waist, his arms up in the air, so unsure of what to do with them. She’s… She’s hugging me…. His eyes looked over to Lathe with slight fear in them. What do I do??

Lathe held his hands up in a motion for Eren to stay calm, signing. {Eren, it's okay. She's nice-you can hug her if you want.} I can tell she’s not gonna bite. She’s fine.

Eren’s motions were jerky as he slowly wrapped his arms around her, still timid because she could feel just how thin he was. What if she asks? What do I tell her then?

Grace smiled happily before she let go and went to print off another picture and hand the new picture and the pen to Lathe. “Can you sign this for Sharon?” She asked quietly, a small blush tinting her cheeks. I really hope you will.

Lathe smiled brightly to her, taking the paper and pen. “Of course I will.” He moved to the table and sat down himself, studying the picture she’d given him. I remember this one- I'd been playing the piano on a livestream at the old house. ...I got pretty enthusiastic. He started to write in looping script, rambling on topic after topic from Maverick to music to dance and video games and her 3D projects. 'If you ever need a beta tester for that thing you’ve been cooking up, you tell me! With how interesting you've made it sound, I want in on this. ^u^' Soon enough he had two pages to hand back to Grace, returning her pen as well. “I rambled and stuff. She’ll like it, I think.” Yeah, she will. It's full of memes.
Grace smiled more. “Thank you, really… Maybe she’ll call me when she gets this… I really hope she will, I haven’t heard from her in forever. I’m sorry… For keeping you from jumping…” I know you guys were enjoying jumping. She took the papers and set them in a file folder. They won’t get crushed in this…

Lathe shook his head, smiling. “No, it’s fine. We were due a break anyway.” He looked over to Eren, his head tilting a bit. “How’re your legs cooperating, Eren? Wanna go back out or do you need to chill a bit more?” It’s your call.

Eren looked down at his thin legs, his hands traveling down the skin and rubbing a few places, instantly leaving large red marks. “They’re sore… Really sore…” Eren mumbled with defeat as he looked down to see how his feet strained with each movement. I can see my feet again…

Levi looked to the red marks on his legs, his eyes tracing the bones. “…Eren, I’m sorry, but you’re benched. There’s no way you can do this.” Levi stared at Eren as he was met with immediate protests, sitting Eren right back down as he shaking stood up in defiance. “Eren, you’re skin and bones. What little muscle you have is already exhausted just by keeping you upright. We need to take baby steps with this. Please. We can always do this another time.” Please, listen to me.

Eren instantly shook his head. “No, I really wanna jump, it was a lot of fun…” He grumbled as his legs shook enough to force him to sit back down. Fuck… I really wanna do it though...

Lathe rested a hand on his shoulder, giving him a weak smile. “I’m sorry, kid. We’ll make sure you get exercise when you can and build up your muscles, okay? We want you back to normal as soon as possible, believe me. It sucks, but we gotta do it if we want you staying in one piece.” We want you to have fun, but we don’t want you getting hurt.

Eren whimpered a bit, putting his head down in his thin hands. I wanna be able to do shit though…

“Hey, it’s okay. I’ll stay with you over here, we can talk and play around on my phone if you want. I kinda get the notion Lathe’s an overexcited puppy around trampolines, and we need to put that energy somewhere.” Levi sat down next to him, scooting his chair over and wrapping an arm around his middle. “But if you really don’t want to, we can go, I suppose. Find something else around town to do.” Lathe looks torn between staying here with you and bouncing around some more.

Eren grumbled something in inaudible German, reaching into Levi’s pocket and extracting his phone, pulling up Blossom Blast Saga and scrolling down to the easier levels. I can’t believe that he’s actually got this app, and he knows how to actually play it… And he’s good at it. He easily became distracted with the warm colored buds sprouting on the screen.

Marcus watched from the trampolines, jumping still. “Well, are you gonna come back up here… Or…?” Come on, we just got here… I know you don’t want to leave quite yet.

Lathe turned and nodded, bouncing on his toes as he scampered back up the stairs to join him, bounding across the open expanse and flipping as he jumped especially high. This is great! He laughed as he practiced flips from the angled trampolines, landing them all well. I like this. …the ceiling in the gym is high enough for flips from the parallel bars… what if…

Eren continued to play the game for a few levels, dying a few times and expressing his frustrations through swearing like a sailor in German. Fuck it… I’ve died five times on the same level… Eren put the phone down, a heavy sigh escaping him as he looked around. He finally spotted a deep foam pit, looking where you could jump off at a higher point. Oh he can throw me in. Eren slowly got up and away from Levi, making a few shaky steps towards the stairs leading to the raised pit. He’ll follow me eventually.

Levi watched Eren with a quirked eyebrow as he slowly meandered to the stairs, getting up and following him. “What’re you-?” He saw where the stairs led to, smirking a bit. Hm. He held out his arms as Eren struggled to mount the first stair, offering them to him. “Want me to carry you?” It’ll be easier on you.

Eren looked back over to him before nodding and slowly putting his arms over his shoulders, waiting to be picked up. I wanna be thrown in. “Can you throw me in?” He asked as they got higher. I don’t know if I’ll be able to get out but I can try.

Levi nodded, smirking as they finally reached the top, looking to Eren. “Ready?” He watched Eren nod, gently swinging him as he prepared to throw him. “Alright, on three. One… Three!” Levi suddenly let Eren go, letting him fall into the foam pit with a loud yell. He waited and watched where he landed before walking over a bit, looking to the guard. “Can I go unburying him now?” He watched the man look over the edge to the pit, where Eren was yelling at him German and struggling to push the foam blocks off of him.

The guard looked back up at him, wearing a curious expression. “…are you related to him in any way shape or form?”

Levi just looked at him before pointing to Eren. “I’m gonna marry him soon.” He instantly heard a squeal worthy of a fangirl, turning to see Lathe at the top of the stairs with his hands covering his mouth, looking more excited than a five-year-old on Christmas. ...he heard that. Levi just stared at him shocked before bailing into the foam pit, making his way to Eren and leaving an ecstatic Lathe behind on the platform. He waded over to where Eren was struggling, watching him throwing blocks off of him. “How’re you doing over here?” He joked, receiving a glare and a foam block to the face. I deserved that. He picked him up from the foam blocks, smirking to him, his eyes sparking. ...I'm gonna marry you.

Eren's glare turned into a grin as the block hit Levi square in the face. <“Get me out of this fucking pit now… I can’t get out!”> He continued to swear at him until he was successfully pulled out of the pit and his arms wrapped around his shoulders. <“…Throw me in again…”> He puffed out his cheeks a bit and stuck his tongue out. Come on, you know you want to… That was fun.

Levi chuckled and nodded, sticking his tongue back out at him and clambering back up, waiting for Lathe to swim out of the foam pit before throwing Eren in again with very little warning. It went on like this for a while, Lathe bounding around the complex like a hyper toddler that just got a puppy for Christmas and Levi jumping with Eren into the foam pit. Spades jumping after Lathe and Marcus doing his own thing. We're definitely doing this again sometime. ...and I can't help but think Lathe isn’t going to leave me alone about marrying Eren until I finally grow a pair and ask.

Spades jumped along with Lathe. “So… Why’d you squeal like a little girl earlier?” I heard you from across the park. She let her hair out to put into a better ponytail, letting the waves fall down her back. Her hand came through her hair, feeling the slickness of sweat within it. We’ve been jumping for a long time… I'm sweating enough that my hairs pretty damp.

Lathe looked to Spades, immediately beginning to fangirl again, his eyes sparkling with excitement. “When I was going up to the foam pit platform Thing Levi threw Eren into the foam pit and asked if he could jump in after him and the guard asked if they were related and Levi told him that he was gonna marry him soon and EEEEE!” Lathe let out another excited sound, bouncing higher with his renewed energy. Levi and Eren are gonna get married !!!!1111111!!!

Spades stopped bouncing instantly, her eyes wide. “Wait… Did you just say…?” She squealed happily, jumping into Lathe and tackling him into a fit of giggles. You said that he was gonna get married! THEY'RE GONNA GET MARRIED !!!

Lathe caught her easily, moving them with their momentum another trampoline over, hugging her tightly and laughing. “Oh my god, they're gonna get married!?” They dissolved into giggles, Lathe losing his footing and falling, Spades on top of him, giggling madly with her as they stilled. “And he knows I know, and if he knows me a bit, I'm not going to stop passive-aggressively pestering him until he asks.” He just needs to do it already! Ask us! We’ll say yes! Lathe cast a look over to where Levi was carrying Eren up the stairs again, catching Levi already staring at them. He chuckled as Levi looked away quickly and turned red, Eren poking his cheek and making him blush even darker. “Oh he knows.”

Levi simply continued to carry Eren up the stairs, trying to ignore his burning face and the excited sounds from across the complex. ...crap, they're going to low-key hound me about this until I ask, aren't they... fuck, it's just making me more nervous... He swung Eren over the edge and into the pit, soon leaping in after him, buried under the foam blocks for a moment. .......I've gotta ask eventually...... crap, I'm not good at this shit...

Spades smiled more as she turned her head to look back at Lathe. “I think they’ll make a wonderful couple… But we definitely need to hound him about asking us to marry Eren…” She grinned like a madman, leaning up to kiss his cheek, her body relaxed and happy as they laid there on the mesh. Our little boy is all grown up...

Lathe nodded, blushing as she pecked his cheek. “Oh yeah- we need to be as infuriatingly passive-aggressive about it as possible just to mess with him. ...I ship it so damn hard…” Lathe’s eyes were starry as he looked back to Spades, beaming. ...my son is going to get married... Levi is going to come home after those four years and he’s gonna be okay and they're going to get married and it's going to be awesome.

Spades grinned manically. “So... What should we plan on doing to them first?” I can only imagine the things that we can tease him about for it. I wonder if he’ll ask at our wedding? Maybe?

Lathe stroked an imaginary goatee, looking thoughtful. “Hmmm... I'm thinking we channel our inner middle schoolers and be all “Oo~Oo” whenever Levi mentions Eren… ‘absentmindedly’ hum the ‘sitting in a tree’ thing when he’s in the immediate vicinity... and every time he needs to ask us a question interrupt him and say ‘Is it about Eren?!’ and look really excited.” That ought to do it. “...or we could be adults about this and wait for him to grow a pair and ask us... but that’s no fun so I vote the first option.” Yeah, no. That isn't how this works.

Spades grinned, pecking his nose as she got up, reaching a hand down to him. “I’m all in for the first option. I say we rub it in until he asks...” I really wanna see him crack and give in and ask!

“Oh yeah, big time.” Lathe grinned, taking her hand and pecking her on the lips before moving to start jumping with her again, feeling lighter and deciding to show off a bit, doing complex flips and spins. This is gonna be great!
Our time up with the penguins was a lot of fun- at the end of everything Marcus asked me for every recipe I possibly knew, so he has all of those now. We drowned in woofs a few more times, Levi has caught onto the fact we’re being children and impatiently ‘waiting’ for him to ask to marry Eren… I’m so happy about that! They’re just the most adorable couple and omg… I ship it. The train ride back was nice, I was too antsy to nap and instead I was just derping on my laptop because Sharon sent me a link to this free 3D object creator program thing and I'm trying to figure out how it works. ...I'm going to need a 3D printer soon. I've already made like ten sculptures and it needs to statp, I'm never going to get work done anymore. ...Eren got put back into the ward when we got home… he couldn't stay constantly with Levi, which sucks… I was hoping that was a thing, but it isn't… I've been making sure that at least every other day when Levi comes with me to see him that we take him out for a walk. He's slowly starting to gain weight back- about three pounds a week. Medium brunch, snack, and big dinner; I bring him all sorts of stuff and put vitamins in all of it. He’s finding it easier to walk and go long distances, which is good, he needs to regain muscle mass. Lathe walked into the hospital like every other day for weeks, waving to the receptionist and heading right for the psych ward minutes after visiting hours started, a metal lunchbox with his real breakfast in hand along with a big thermos of tea, holding onto the front straps of his medic and laptop bags with the other. He opened the door to Eren’s room, smiling to him. “Good morning, Er- oh no.” Lathe’s expression fell as he saw Eren weakly struggling to get out of a straight jacket, setting down his stuff and going to unbuckle it, his voice soft and calm. “What was it this time, Eren? What happened?” Lathe sighed quietly as Eren looked away silently, undoing the last latch and setting the unrelenting fabric aside, sitting next to him and pulling him close. “Eren, please, talk to me. Why’d they put you in the straight jacket?”

Was it the wrong meds again? Did you get mad at being denied more food? What happened?

Eren looked away and down, his hands pulled close to his body. He was quiet at first before he finally decided to talk. “They wouldn’t let me keep Eli…” They took him away from me… I wanna keep Eli… No one else wants to keep him, his own parents left him here!

Lathe gave him a confused look, realization suddenly dawning on him, feeling his stomach drop. “Eren… who’s Eli?” …don't tell me...

“An orphan… His parents left him, and they took him away from me… I wanna go get Eli back.” Eren got out of his hands, moving to make his way towards the door. I wanna hold him again...

...well fuck that. Lathe stood and immediately caught Eren, bringing him back to the bed and setting him on his lap, ignoring his protests and his weak struggling. “Eren, you can't just take babies from the nursery! Even if they’re orphans! You don't just do that! They need to stay there, where they're warm and safe. And supervised. I know you care about Eli, but you can't go get him. I'm sorry Eren.” ...what the actual fuck? You don't do that!

Eren whimpered and struggled to get out of his arms. “I want him… His own parents gave him up, why can’t I have him? I want one… I want my own…” Eren was quickly reduced to tears as he thought about how he couldn’t have his own. I want my own ...
“oh. “Eren, Honey…”” Lathe pulled Eren fully into his lap, his hand carding soothingly through his long hair, cradling him to his chest. You want kids… and you know that you can't have your own in the sense of carrying them… you want to… but you can't. “…Eren, I'm really sorry…” Lathe didn't know what to do besides hold him and try to calm him, understanding a bit how he felt. It's like how badly I want my own kids… you're feeling the same thing, but a bit differently… you've always been so feminine… and you're treated that way. I get it, kinda.

Eren continued to cry as he curled in on himself. “I want my own… Why can’t I have my own? Why was a born a man? Why can't I…?” He clawed at his stomach, scratching at the fabric on him. “I want Eli… Why can’t I have my o-own…” Why couldn't I be a woman? But then again… What if those men that raped me… What if I had their kids? Eren swallowed hard, trying to remove the lump in his throat as he sobbed.

Lathe opened his mouth as if to speak, but he soon closed it when no sound came out, simply catching Eren’s hands from scratching at himself and holding him close. He tried again to speak, his expression melancholy. “I'm sorry, Eren… things are the way they are… I'm sorry I can't help you fix that…” you could have a sex change if you really wanted to, but... I don't think you'd want one. You'd always been pretty androgynous… I don't think you’d want to change that. I'm not going to suggest it; that'd be something you think of and decide about on your own. I just think your hormones are really messing with you. You really, really want kids… and at this time of life, it’s what a ton of people want. Your body is telling you to carry… and you can't. And that’s got to be infinitely frustrating… Lathe let Eren cry into his chest, murmuring soothingly to him. I just want you to be okay.

Eren whimpered as his hands were held. I wanna scratch, I wanna scratch… I need to scratch… Eren wretched his wrists free of his grasp and tried to claw at his stomach again. “Why… why can’t I?” He was sobbing, his whole body shaking. Why can’t I be a good boy? And give him a child? Why can’t I carry? Why won’t he touch me anymore? Why did that bad man have to defile me? Is that why I can’t have any babies? Is that why? Because I’m defiled?

Lathe caught his hands again, pecking his temple, his forehead, trying to calm him. “…because you were born a boy… and we’re not made to carry kids… it’s the way we are… only girls can have kids… we can only help make them…” We don’t play nearly as big a part in child-creating as women do… for obvious reasons. “It's not like there's anything wrong with you… it’s just the way you are. The way all men are. I'm sorry Eren, I really am…” I don't know what to tell you…

“But why… I don’t feel like it… I don’t feel like a man… It’s so weird… Why am I like this? I wanna be a mom…. And I can’t.” Eren tried to pull his arms back from Lathe’s grip. “I can’t be a good boy… I won’t be able to be a good boy… I can’t give him a child… I can’t make him happy… He’s gonna leave me… and I won’t be able to stop him.” I want Eli back… If I have Eli I can make Levi happy.
Lathe’s face fell, pulling Eren closer to him, tucking his head under his chin. “Eren, that's not true, Levi loves you to pieces… I know you two are planning to adopt a kid. He wants a family, sure, but family doesn't always end up being just blood relatives. ...Eren, you're not related by blood to me, and you mean absolutely everything to me. You're my son. You're not depriving Levi of a family just because you can't be a mom. And it’s okay to feel not entirely like what the world tells you a man is. That's absolutely fine. You're Eren. And you're better at being Eren than anyone else. Between you and Levi, he’s obviously the more masculine of you two. You'd be much more of a motherly figure to the kids you have. ...and there actually is a way you two can have your own biological kids… you wouldn't carry, you’re not made for that… but they’d be both of yours… did Hannah tell you anything about that?” You two are always texting and stuff… I dunno if she mentioned anything...

Eren nodded, his sobs lessening to sniffles. “I wanna carry though… I wanna carry… I don’t wanna be a man… I’m a horrible excuse of one.” Eren whimpered as he curled into Lathe’s chest. I wanna carry them... I wanna carry my own children... I really do. He started to calm down a little bit, but he was keeping his hands close to either his abdomen or his chest, as if protecting himself. I’m sore...

Lathe’s brow furrowed as he held Eren close to himself, thinking. ......you've got one hell of an urge to carry... I know you're feminine, but seriously... it sounds like your hormones have been thrown out of whack by something. Lathe moved to lay down with Eren on top of him, tracing patterns into his back as Eren sniffled and calmed down. “Hon, you're not, believe me. You’re doing a wonderful job of being exactly who you are. You're so strong for getting through everything life has thrown your way, and I’m really proud of you. But I'm sorry Hon, I truly am… I don't know what to tell you....” ...They've got to be mixing up your meds again, giving you something and throwing your system for a loop. ....what if... ...I need to call Scotty down later. We should get blood work done. I wanna know what they're giving you.

Eren let Lathe move around in silence as he curled up to him, keeping his chest from touching anything unnecessarily. He was in his own little world as he heard the door open and watched Scotty walk in. What's he doing here? Is he gonna put me back in the straight jacket? Eren was silent as he came closer, moving impossibly closer to Lathe to try and hide away. Why does he have a needle?

Scotty came in quietly with his needle set, ready to take blood after Lathe texted him. “So I think you heard of the little stunt he pulled today?” He made sure he had everything ready before pulling up a chair and sitting by Eren. “Okay, Eren, I just need a little blood, that’s all I need.” Please don’t make this difficult.

Lathe moved with Eren to sit up, murmuring into his ear calmly as he rolled up Eren’s sleeve. “It's alright Eren, we just wanna do a little check on how you're doing, and we need a teeny bit of blood to figure out, okay? It won't take long, promise.” Lathe kept Eren as calm as he could as Scotty tied his arm and gave him a small ball to squeeze, helping talk him through everything. “It's alright, squeeze that as tight as you can. Pretend your arm’s spaghetti, it isn't even yours. Noodle arms. Just breathe easy.” He kept Eren distracted as Scotty took a few small vials of blood, pecking his forehead and praising him as it was over, Scotty removing the needle from his arm. “You did a really good job, Eren. Now we can figure out how you’re doing.” Ironically, it helps that the food you ate this morning has little nutritional value, and that you didn't eat the food I brought yet. Makes for more accurate results. Lathe moved his hands up as Eren suddenly swayed forward, his hands on his chest, his eyes widening in surprise as Eren suddenly pulled away from him, his cheeks tinge pink, whimpering. ......what the actual fuck is going on. Your chest is a bit more full than the rest of you... and..... everything is pointing to one thing and I don't like it. “I'm sorry Eren, forgive me…” Lathe gently rested his hand on his shoulder to ease Eren down, the extra mass of his chest noticeable as Eren laid on top of him. His eyes stared unfocused at the ceiling, troubled. ... This isn't good.

Eren whimpered a bit as he curled into Lathe’s chest, wanting to relax and feeling agitated. He heard Scotty say something and then leave but he tuned it out. “I want Levi....” His words were mumbled as he held onto Lathe. I want him to touch me... to hold me... I want to carry his children.

Lathe nodded, getting his phone from his pocket again and texting with one hand. “I'll text him, ask him to come and visit... do you wanna eat the breakfast I brought in the meantime?” You need to gain your weight back.

Eren nodded, shifting to sit up, his legs pulled under him in his oversized gown. I'm hungry... breakfast wasn't enough... He looked over to the metal box he usually ate from and got out the fruit cup. I want my fruit...

It wasn't long before Levi was lightly knocking on the doorframe, looking in at Eren picking at the last of his breakfast pie in Lathe’s lap, smiling fairly to them. “Hey Eren- how’re you doing?” He shut the door behind him and walked up to the bed, sitting next to them and leaning forward to peck his cheek. Lathe told me everything... he’s agreed to call off being passive-aggressive as fuck for a day because of all this crap going down.

Scotty came in not a few seconds later. “Well, this you should find interesting... Eren’s been given supplements to help with pregnancy, as well as hormones used to increase fertility, and a lot others...” But nowhere in his records does it state that he was given any of these... “It doesn’t make any sense whatsoever...”

“...give me that paper.” Lathe snatched the results from him, skimming down the list of things in his blood. ...why do I recognize all of these. “......Scotty, I'm 99% sure these are all the things that...” Lathe looked up to Eren, his eyes widening. “...Eren, these are the medicines that Spades takes.” He watched Eren look away, his mouth a thin line. “...there something you wanna tell me?”
Silence. “I've got all day, Eren. Talk.”

Eren shook his head and tried to pull away from Lathe, his whole face flushed with embarrassment. I wanted to carry for Levi…. I wanna give him a child myself…. He wouldn’t look up to anyone, not even Levi at this point. I wanna have a kid…. He fiddled with his hands, not sure what to do with them as he instinctively held his abdomen as if to protect it. No… you can’t take it from me…

It makes sense now, why Spades ran out of her meds so early these past few months. Lathe caught his hands, moving until Eren finally looked at him, speaking. “Eren, those meds aren’t for you. They're not going to give you the right parts to become a mom. But they are seriously messing with your system and throwing your hormones out of whack enough for you to steal a child from the nursery and feel a biological urge to carry. You can't be taking them. So just tell me where they are. I'm not mad. I'm just worried about you being okay.” That's the truth- I just want everyone being okay.

Eren shook his head, starting to tear up at the newfound revelation. Why can’t I carry… I'm already taking the medications... So why ? Eren began to cry as he curled up around his abdomen protectively. I don’t want you to take the medications away from me, I need to keep taking them.

Lathe sighed, looking over to Blake who had leapt up onto his hind legs and looked between Lathe and Eren, leaning on his front paws on the edge of the bed. Lathe pointed to his bag, looking over to Scotty, taking it from him and pulling out a random bottle, showing it to Blake. “Find.” Blake sniffed it and immediately seemed to nod. He watched him circle the room, inspecting everything before stopping at the side table, sniffing at a potted plant. He sat down and stared at it before looking to Lathe, whining. The plant? Lathe held a Eren close as he sobbed, watching Scotty move to inspect the pot. He watched with wide eyes as Scotty pulled the small plant from the pot and then reached into the pot with the other, pulling out a small plastic baggie with different color pills inside. “…Eren… Eren Honey, you can't do that… you can't take medicine you aren't given. You can't. It can mess with your body if there's nothing there for it to fix. I'm not mad… but I'm disappointed.” Lathe ran his hand over his back, trying to calm his sobbing. I thought now you'd know better.

Eren’s body went rigid as he heard Lathe’s words and he seemed to deflate almost instantly. He’s…. Wow… I fucked up…. He sniffed, still refusing to look at anyone, and curling up as tightly as possible near the foot of his bed. I don’t…. I… I wanted to be able to be the woman I’m always treated like… Eren soon quieted down, seeming to sober up, his head buried in his hands, not wanting to look at anyone.

Scotty looked over the pills. “These are the ones Spades takes?” He asked as he looked over them and then Eren’s blood work. “I wouldn’t be surprised if he’s got gynecomastia…. Did you notice if he has anything extra around… Here?” He looked to Lathe, ignoring Levi trying to get Eren to unfurl for the moment and motioning towards his own chest. That could take a bit to correct if he Lathe nodded, looking worried. “Yeah… he swayed forward and I quickly moved to catch him, and he whimpered and pulled away. It’s noticeable… and he’s sensitive. I think he does have it…” This is worrying… He looked to where Eren refused to unfurl, shifting a bit closer. “Eren Honey, I'm sorry… I just… I had hoped you'd know by now not to take meds that don't belong to you… after everything with the problems you had taking the wrong PTSD meds… I just…” He sighed as Eren pulled away from him, looking defeated, staring down at the floor, trying to fight back tears and rubbing at his eyes. “…you just… everything’s been really hard with you being here… and it’s not going to get any easier and you're not going to get out as fast if you don't work with us… I'm giving this everything I've got… and if it’s… if it's not enough… then…” I don't know if you'd ever come home… Lathe buried his face in his hands, trying to calm down. Stop crying, you can't, you need to keep it thefuck together.

Levi moved to pull Eren close to his side, murmuring to him. “Eren, we’re just really worried… we want you to come home, and if you don't listen to us and work with us… it's just not gonna happen as soon as you want it to. We’re really really worried about you as it is… and then this sort of stuff happens, and the few steps forward we taken, we’re set back that and more. Please, listen to us. ...and Eren, you don't have to give me a kid to make me love you. I’d love you to pieces whether or not you gave me a family or not. We have options… and I don't want you to change yourself just because you think it'll make me happy. I love you for who you are. ...I want you to stay as yourself.” He pecked his cheek softly, carding a hand through his hair. Of course I love you anyway. It doesn't matter to me if you're the one carrying or not. They'll be our kids no matter what and we’ll be the best parents and I'll love you til we’re old as hell. ...my God, when did I turn into Lathe…

Eren whimpered as he was pulled close and his chest rubbed against the fabric of his shirt roughly, though he nodded and moved closer toward his side, he was still shaking a bit. “Oh… Okay…” He stayed curled up in Levi’s arms, sniffling as he calmed down a bit. I'll… I'll stop… “I’ll stop taking them….” His voice was quiet as he shifted.

Scotty sighed quietly. “Eren, I need to find out if you have gynecomastia, which makes your breast tissue swell, and it makes you feel sensitive. Now, I can look and see or Levi can do it, because I’d have to touch you…” I don’t want you to freak out because I need to touch.

Eren pressed himself closer to Levi. I don't want him to touch them. “L-Levi…” He said quietly, looking down in shame, knowing exactly what they were going on about. I have them, I don’t want Scotty to see them…

Levi nodded, his cheeks tinted pink as Scotty motioned for Lathe to move from the bed, pulling the curtain down to hide them. Levi helped Eren to unfurl a bit, guiding him to undress, carefully pulling his sweater up and setting it aside, his cheeks crimson as he then removed his shirt.
underneath, revealing Eren’s chest. this is apparently a thing... he’s definitely got a chest now... they're surprisingly perky... Levi, quit thinking like that and just do the thing Scotty tells you. Levi tentatively reached forward and began to do as he had been told, very gently feeling his chest for abnormalities. I guess they feel normal...? They're soft and warm... I don't feel anything much besides that...

Eren felt a pulse run through him as Levi’s rough hands gently touched his chest, a soft moan leaving his mouth with surprise. His hands are... They're warm... He couldn’t help but let out a few mews as Levi’s hands grazed the sensitive skin, a blush taking over his features as he heard Scotty coughing to clear his throat.

I knew he’d be sensitive, but geez... “Alright, Levi, you need to tell me what it looks like, and how it feels, I need to make sure it didn’t lead to infection or anything of the sort...” This is going to be really embarrassing. [Lathe, you might want to leave... ] Scotty’s face was completely red as he heard Eren mewl again. Okay Levi, focus here....

Lathe had his hands over his ears, his cheeks scarlet as he walked right out of the room. [Waaaay ahead of you. I'll be back in an hour.] Yeah. Bye.

Levi blushed darkly as Eren began to make small sounds, thinking on how to start speaking. “Uhm... they're warm and soft, I don't feel anything hard or anything... they're, uhm... how exactly do you measure how big they are...?” I kinda don't know how to do this shit... Levi didn't know where to look, his eyes going from Eren’s chest, to the obvious tent in the front of his pants, to his pleasured expression as he tried to hold back moans. ... well then.

Scotty sighed quietly as he heard Eren moan even more. “Jesus Christ...” He mumbled under his breathe. We’re gonna do this the easy way... “Do you remember what they feel like in your hands?” I know this is fucking embarrassing, but you need to sign him out after this.

Levi was crimson as his hands shifted, holding Eren’s globes in his hands and registering how they felt. “Y-yeah....” Where are we going with this...

Scotty nodded. “Alright, put his shirt on him, then come out and I’ll take you somewhere.” The implants should roughly give me the right idea of how big they are... And they’re not that noticeable with the scrubs on.

Levi nodded even though Scotty couldn't see it, his hands falling from Eren’s chest and moving to get Eren back in his loose sweater. He moved from the bed, having to untangle Eren’s hands from his sleeve, seeing the look of want in his eyes. Fuck... Levi swallowed hard, pecking Eren’s lips lightly. “I’ll be back soon, just sit tight.” Levi pulled away from him and moved around the curtain, following Scotty as he was led away, looking anywhere but at the man next to him. That was so fucking embarrassing…. and it's gonna get worse again...

Scotty took him into a room that showed a bunch of diagrams for reconstruction for breasts, and how they were put in and where they would sit. He came up to a drawer, pulling out a few different implants and set them on the counter. “Alright, you get to tell me what size they are now.” He motioned towards the implants on the counter to Levi. *I know this is embarrassing, but you wouldn’t know how to correctly evaluate him. And he obviously doesn’t want me to see it...*

Levi blushed, moving and tentatively feeling the implants, telling him which were off before finding the one closest to Eren’s size. “The others are either too big or too small… but these are about right...” This is so fucking embarrassing....

Scotty thanked him quietly before writing the size down and then putting them all away again. “You should sign Eren out for the day, take him home, and um, try not to freak him out too much, they just started to allow him to keep Blake here with him, also they’ll make you take him home in a straight jacket.” I should give you a warning about that...

“Am I able to make that a week?” Levi walked back to Eren’s room, his mind drifting. A week.... a week would be really nice... Spades works plenty and Lathe has started to be summoned by Sharon for stuff, and they're keeping their traps shut about it...

Scotty shrugged, coming in with Levi in almost silence. “You can certainly try… You can go sign him out and I’ll put him back in the straight jacket.” He sighed as he saw Eren freeze at the mention of those few words. This’ll be fun ... He watched Levi leave to go sign Eren out before he started to coax Eren into the jacket. He’s frozen... He doesn't want to be in it... He sighed as he took Lathe's bags from around the room, Eren's things, and Blake towards the front where Levi was. He needs to get out of here... He needs to be okay for the wedding in a few weeks.

Levi was at that point talking with the receptionist politely, already having signed Eren out. He turned as he heard their footsteps, nodding to Scotty as he was handed all of their things. “Thanks-I've got you for the next week, Eren. You’re chilling at home for a while.” I'm damn lucky they're letting me do that. He slung the bags over his shoulder, taking Blake’s leash and keeping one hand free to hold onto Eren’s arm. “Alright, let’s get you home. Thanks, Scotty.” He started them out the door, leading him to their car in the parking lot, blushing as he realized Eren still had a noticeable bulge in his pants. ...when we get home, you can take care of him. Right now, just get him home. Just get him home. Levi opened Eren’s door for him and buckled him in, getting Blake into the backseat with their stuff and beginning the drive home, seeing Lathe’s Thunderbird parked in the driveway as well as they reached the house.
Lathe opened the door for them as they came up to the house, taking everything from Levi as they came inside. “Thanks for getting my stuff—” Lathe stopped talking as Levi tensely nodded and walked quickly off with Eren following, shaking his head as he noticed the pink tint to both of their cheeks. ...I'm not gonna keep them.

Levi brought Eren upstairs and into their bedroom, shutting and locking their door before moving to undo the straps on the straight jacket Eren was in. He let the rough fabric fall from his shoulders and onto the floor, his hands immediately beginning to roam his front, very gentle with his chest as he nipped his neck. I'm not going to make you go without this… I'm not gonna blue-ball you. And anyway... He smirked as Eren mewled at his touch. ...you make wonderful sounds.

Eren moaned sinfully under his touch, his body becoming putty in his hands as he simply wanted more. Is this what it feels like to be a woman? It’s so sensitive. He shifted away a bit, crawling onto their bed, and waiting for Levi. I want you to hold me too...

Levi followed him without hesitation, climbing onto the bed on top of him, pulling off his own shirt and helping to tug Eren’s sweater off of his head again. His hands slowly moved down his sides, his head dipping down to slowly begin kissing and licking across his chest, trailing to one of his new mounds and sucking his bud gently, looking up to see Eren’s reaction to his gentle actions. I want you to feel good… and you’re so damn sensitive....

Eren gave a sharp cry of pleasure as he felt Levi’s lips around his nipple. It feels really good... Oh my god, so good. He let out a loud moan, his body moving along with Levi’s, his cock straining against his pants. “L-Levi…” I want it… I want you ...

Levi’s mouth moved to the other pink bud, his hands moving from their exploring the new territory of his chest to the waist of his pants. He tugged at them, pulling them off of him as well as his boxers. His mouth trailed down his entire abdomen, his hands reclaiming Eren’s soft globes as he kissed down his stomach, his breath warm against his skin. His head lifted a bit, breathing over Eren’s length and kissing the tip lightly before taking it into his mouth, teasing the slit with his tongue as he began bobbing his head. I love the way you sound....

Eren gave out another loud cry as his back arched, his whole body shaking with pleasure as a large pulse ran through him. “It... It feels good, really good...” His voice was high pitched and drawn out as the pleasure he experiencing was far greater than any he’d experienced before. So sensitive, did the pills do this to me?

Levi sucked on his length greedily, his hands moving from his chest to his stomach as his cries of pleasure became very high-pitched and loud, pulling up on his length and slowly swirling his tongue around the tip, slowing them down. Not yet... Levi pulled off of him with a lewd slurp after a moment, tugging his own jeans and boxers off before moving back over Eren, his length painfully hard as his lips grazed Eren’s neck and earlobe. “...tell me… what do you want me to do…?” I want to hear you say it.

Eren’s eyes held nothing but lust and utter want as he watched Levi. “I want y-you…” He whimpered, wiggling his hips a bit to try and entice him. I want it... I want you... He moaned when his length brushed up against Levi’s, a shudder running through his whole body. I want you... Your everything...

Levi shuddered as their lengths brushed against each other, Eren’s weeping with precum. He reached blindly for the nightstand, opening the drawer and drawing out a small black tube, uncapping it and pouring a decent amount of lube into his hand before tossing it out of the way. He moved his fingers, slicking them and bringing his hand down to Eren’s entrance, tracing the pucker before plunging two fingers past the muscle, feeling up Eren’s walls and stretching him. He lapped at his Adam’s apple, trying to distract him from the low burn. It's been a while... and I've missed you...

Eren whimpered a bit at the burning sensation he felt from being stretched, though soon it turned to moans. Shit... I want it... I really want it... Eren’s body was reacting on its own, his hips pushing down against Levi’s slim fingers. I want it... His whines grew louder as he shifted from his back to his stomach, letting out a strangled cry as Levi’s fingers moved directly onto his prostate from flipping over. I want it...

Levi smirked, his eyes darkening as Eren suddenly moaned loudly and flipped his position, his ass presented to him and pushing back onto his hand. Damn that's hot. Levi soon added a third finger, his hand curling and searching inside of Eren for his prostate again, brushing over that bundle of nerves mercilessly, loving the sound of Eren mewling and moaning under him, complete putty in his hands. He soon drew from him despite Eren’s whimper of protest, reaching again for the lube and slicking himself up, shivering at the feeling of his hand on his own neglected length. He moved to press his front flush to Eren’s back, curving over him and nipping at his neck, hands on his hips and the tip of his length teasingly brushing his entrance. He smirked, feigning confusion, a look of lust and mischief in his eyes. “...what was it you wanted me to do, again?” I wanna hear you say it.

He’s teasing me... “L-Levi... Please... I want it... I want your cock, please...” Eren begged, trying to move his hips back and get Levi inside of him. I really want it... I’m horny... I want your seed...

“Of course.” Levi pushed into Eren with one fluid motion, his head dropping down onto his shoulder as he felt his soft hot walls clamping down on his length. “F-Fuck, Eren... s-so tight... w-whenever you say...”
Eren let out a loud cry as he came instantly, having already been tiptoeing on the edge for a long time. His breathing was heavy as he pressed back into his length, timid at first though he pressed all the way back to make sure Levi was fully seated in him. It feels so right... So natural... “m-m-move... Please...” He begged and he could feel the hot tears beginning to form in his eyes as Levi complied. My hormones are... They're making me cry... And I have breasts... I want his hands on them again, it felt so good.

Levi started a steady pace, kissing up Eren’s neck as his hands roamed his body. They soon came back up to reclaim his breasts, teasing the buds with his thumbs as he thrusted deeply into him. You've already cum... you're so damn sensitive.... But you make the best sounds.

Eren couldn’t help but let those embarrassingly beautiful noises escape his lips, his arms shaking as the pleasure increased tenfold. “F-Fuck... Levi...” Eren dipped his back down, tilting his head back and up so that he could get Levi to mark him. I wanna be yours... Please, please make me yours...

Levi smirked and took the invitation, suckling the joint of his neck, letting a large mark bloom under his lips as he sucked at his skin, his pace picking up. He switched sides, marking him and teasing his chest as he began to pound into him, moaning into his skin. “...haaa... s-so good... my God, Eren...” He shuddered as waves of pleasure flowed over him. It feels too good....

Eren felt his body simply begin to melt under Levi’s hands. His neck open for being marked, and his back arched down until he felt Levi hit the right spot. “Shit ...” Eren cried out as he came yet again, the tears rolling down his cheeks as he body shook repeatedly. He whimpered in bliss as Levi continued to hit it over and over again. It feels really good... Why can’t he hold me all the time?

Levi hit that spot over and over, feeling his own release creeping up on him as Eren came around him, feeling his walls clamp down onto his length. “...f-fuck.... you're so tight ...h-haaaa....” Levi pounded into him deeply, his hands running over his chest, pinching Eren’s nipples and rolling the buds between his fingers. Heat pooled between his legs, his breath shuddery and heavy. I'm getting close... and this would make it round three for you already...

Eren’s body shook with the waves of pleasure washing over him. “Ngh... L-Levi... So good...” He started to move back against Levi as he was pounded, making sure that Levi was completely within him, and not missing anything. It feels so good to be full. “Fill me u-up... I’m gonna C-cum soon...” He stuttered as he was pleased, the stimulations quickly pulling him towards the edge. It's wonderful.

Levi groaned into his shoulder blade, his hands running over his chest and stomach, his hold tightening a bit as he neared the edge. “E-Eren… h-haaaa… I-I'm… nnggh…” Levi could feel the pleasure and arousal painfully pulsing through him, unable to keep himself from becoming a bit louder. “E-Eren, my God, so good … I… I’m… ha!” Levi gasped, his movements becoming erratic as he teetered on the edge, ravaging Eren’s hole as he finally came with a loud, low moan, pulling Eren’s hips flush to his and stilling in him as he came hard, filling Eren and feeling him milk him dry, trying to catch his breath, a glow settling over him. So good ...

Eren let out a shrill cry as he was forced over the edge yet again. He slumped down against the mattress, almost pulling Levi out of him. “Hmmm… Levi…” His voice was a bit rough from crying out and moaning, and he settled down almost to a drunken mirth. I feel warm… Really warm… Eren’s eyes were shaded as he looked behind him to see Levi still holding his hips. “Levi… I’m tired.” His hands weakly swatted at his wrists which still held onto his hips a bit tighter than he would like. Let go, I wanna sleep.

Levi nodded, his hands moving to lightly roam his naked body, shifting to lay them down, avoiding the spot stained with Eren’s release. ...I'll wash that later. Levi moved Eren onto his back, pulling the blanket over them, on his side next to him, a hand resting on his side. “Mmm… you're warm… …and Eren?” He smiled to Eren as he looked over tiredly, leaning up and kissing him softly. “I love you.” I really, really do.

Eren smiled softly, curling up to Levi as he closed his eyes. His nose started to bleed a bit as the steam rose from the few bruises that were left on his skin. He was too far into his sleep to even feel his nose bleeding or the steam coming off of his warm body. Levi loves me....

Levi’s eyes widened as Eren's nose bled, having been simply admiring him as he slept, unable to sleep. Crap. He stood and ran over to the bathroom, grabbing a wad of toilet paper to staunch the bleeding. It wasn't much, though he made a face as he saw the marks disappearing from his skin. He dipped his head down, gently kissing the two fading marks before taking back the wad of toilet paper to throw it away, tugging the blankets back up to his chin. I'm not gonna be able to sleep… I should get cleaned up… Levi traipsed to the bathroom, taking a quick shower and getting dressed in warm clothes before going downstairs to eat something, leaving the door slightly ajar. I'm hungry- didn't eat lunch.

Spades was downstairs, stirring a pot, wiping away at tears. Another fucking negative... She had come home after a scheduled doctor’s appointment. This is getting ridiculous... Her breath was heavy, trying to calm down as she heard footsteps approaching. She was surprised to see Levi coming into the kitchen instead of Lathe. “Oh… Levi… it’s you, um… how’s Eren?” Asleep I assume... since Blake and the little rascals went upstairs... God knows they’re all surrounding Eren as we speak.

Levi stopped short a bit, noticing how red her eyes were. “Eren’s as alright as he can be right now, he's upstairs sleeping… are you alright?” He watched her nod to him in response, glancing to her arm as it subconsciously moved to cover her stomach protectively. His expression was sympathetic, understanding. “I’m sorry… I hope you two have better luck.” You two really want kids… I know the feeling. He tried to defuse some of the tension, looking to the pot on the stove. “What’re you cooking? It smells good.” ...I'm hungry.

Spades smiled softly, wiping away at the few remaining tears on her cheeks. “It’s um…. It’s a special pasta recipe my Mom taught me how to make…” It was a long time ago… That I learned how to make it. “It’s got a cream sauce, sun dried tomatoes, chicken and plenty of pasta…” She tried to laugh to get her mood up, though failing horribly, a frown persisting on her lip. “It’s done, if you wanna get bowls out for us? Three…. Lathe should be coming soon…” He let me be when I snapped at him… Shit, I need to apologize for that… I got so caught up in… In everything, and I always end up snapping at him, and he doesn’t deserve it in the slightest.

Levi nodded. You're not in a great mood. Understandable. Levi got out bowls, Lathe padding into the kitchen soon enough, thanking Levi quietly as he was handed an empty bowl, eyeing Spades warily, his head tucked down in submission as he meandered near her to get lunch. … …Lathe can tell she's really upset… she might've snapped at him… she does that sometimes…

Lathe tentatively held out the bowl as he stood next to Spades, trying his best to act non-threatening, his voice soft and quiet. “...can I have pasta, please? It looks really good.” I don't want you to have any reason to yell at me again… I just want something to eat… please...

Spades nodded, a small smile forming for a moment before it disappeared. “Y-yeah… I’m sorry…” Her voice was hoarse, and a whisper as she scooped up a large bowl for him and for Levi before making a smaller bowl for herself. I was so hopeful, but I guess the slightest nausea I was feeling was just a stomach bug of some sort... I haven’t felt it in awhile... And I got so excited. She had a look of regret across her face as she quietly sat down at the table, slowly beginning to eat with the two of them.

Lathe sat down across from her, nudging her foot a bit under the table, giving her a faint reassuring smile before even he looked to his bowl with a melancholy expression, slowly beginning to pick at his food. We got so excited that maybe she’d finally conceived... we thought it was morning sickness... ...it wasn’t. It's disappointing, but we’re just gonna keep trying... I don’t really blame you for snapping at me… this whole thing has been especially hard on you… I understand. ...but it still hurts... Lathe didn't feel much like talking, slowly eating, not looking up, thinking.

Spades was relatively quiet as she ate, her mind in inner turmoil as she felt the guilt of her earlier actions weigh her down. It took awhile, but she finally finished her bowl and went to go clean up her dish. I wonder… If you’ll let me lay down with you, I really want to, I like being in your arms… But you probably don’t want me near you now… Shit... She let out a loud sigh as she finished washing her dish, looking down at the sink below her.
Her conflicted, guilty look didn't go unnoticed. Lathe soon followed her to the sink, setting his bowl down on the counter for just a moment before wrapping his arms around her middle, gently pulling them flush and pecking her ear, trying to lighten her mood. “After I finish dishes, is it okay if we just watch a movie or something? Take today off as a chill day? ...I’d honestly just like someone to cuddle with…” You look like you need to be held onto… and I want to hold onto you…

Spades nodded hurriedly. “I… I’d like that…” Her voice was quiet as she leaned into his arms. I need to be in your arms now more than anything. “We can do the dishes later…” She offered with a hopeful look in her eyes as she looked up to him. I just wanna be held.

Eren sneezed as he felt something soft touch his nose. He woke groggily, blinking awake as he saw a tail wagging in his face. Huh? What’s…. Eren boosted himself up and looked at the bed occupied with Blake, Maisie and their 7 puppies which were no longer puppies anymore but a pack is small dogs. Oh my god they are too cute!

Lathe chuckled quietly, pecking her lips sweetly before picking her up bridal-style, smiling as she made a surprised sound and clung to him, carrying her to the theatre room. We won't be bugged down here... Just us, reclining loveseats for cuddling, and all the random cheesy movies we could want.

Levi just shook his head as they went past him to the theatre room, getting up and putting his empty bowl and fork in the sink as well, making sure the stove was off before heading upstairs again. Eren needs to actually eat- He looked with wide eyes into their room, Blake and Maisie looking back to him, Eren too occupied to notice him as he swam in a sea of puppies. Oh. My god. Levi instantly had his phone out, taking pictures before going up to the bed and climbing in next to him, the swarm accommodating him and clambering all over him as he laid down with Eren, chuckling as they climbed over him, one soon draping itself over his leg, looking ready to simply fall asleep there. This is too damn adorable. He looked to where Eren was giggling, a pup nudging his cheek with his nose and licking him. “...I think he maybe likes you.” He watched as Eren sputtered a bit, the pup licking his mouth. “Oi, that's my job. Git.” Levi nudged the pup from his mouth back to his cheek, smirking as Eren blushed. “...hey, I'm not wrong.” Mine.

Eren blushed heavily, a small whine escaping his mouth when the pup pawed at his chest. He picked him up, holding him close and petting him. “He wants to just lick my face…. “ He didn’t wanna stop again as his face was licked over and over again. He doesn’t wanna stop. Eren chuckled as Eren allowed the pup to lick all over his face, giving a quiet yelp in surprise as his cheek was suddenly licked, turning his head and inadvertently coaxing the pup onto his chest, licking his nose and cheeks. He picked up the pup, wiping his mouth on his sleeve, catching a glimpse at the pup’s gold tag on their collar. “...that’s Karma for ya.” Yep. Levi just set Karma back on his chest, letting them lick his cheeks, staring at the ceiling with a neutral look on his face. “I have accepted my fate.” This is now a thing.

Eren let out a small chuckle, a smile playing across his face. “You look simply redo cultus with a bunch of puppies all over you.” He smiled more as a puppy trotted over towards Eren’s side of the bed, reaching over to the night stand and grabbing his phone. What the hell? “What are you…?” His eyes were wide as the puppy jumped off the bed with his phone and started to walk out of the room. That’s my phone! Eren jumped out of bed as quickly as he could reaching over to throw on something before going to follow him. “He took my phone!” Eren’s shocked words were marred with giggles as he moved to follow the pup who stole his phone.

“Better catch him quick! That little guy can run!” Krampus strikes again. Levi laughed as Eren reached for Krampus only for the pup to bolt the second he got within a foot of him, out the door and down the hall in a heartbeat. “Yeah, he does that. Good luck.” He quirked an eyebrow as Eren looked back with an ‘aren’t-you-gonna-help-me?’ expression, shaking his head. “Eren, I’m swimming in a sea of pup. I’ve got a fate to embrace here.” As if on cue, Blake and Maisie shifted around to lay over his legs, the pups moving further up on his chest, nuzzling and licking him, the one on his leg still asleep. So much pup.

Eren sighed before he took off after Krampus, following him down the hall, leaning down to try and get him. He followed him down the long hallway, back and forth, unable to catch him as he ran with his phone. God dammit! Eren was getting frustrated, almost catching Krampus as he smacked into the large bookshelf. Fuck it, I won’t be able to get it… Eren didn’t even realize that he was about to be under the bookshelf until it toppled on top of him, books falling with a soft thump on the carpet below him as he was forced to the ground in an awkward position, panic quickly setting in. I’m trapped…. No no no no no no……

Krampus just barely missed being part of the bookshelf avalanche. Why did human stop chasing me? Are we not playing anymore? He slowly came up to where Eren’s head was under the heavy bookshelf. Human? He made a soft sound as he saw Eren start to panic… He’s panicking… Why’s he panicking…? He turned his head as he saw Blake come around the corner of the hall. He dropped the phone, letting out what he could, a small bark. Mommy!

Levi looked up as Blake bolted from the bed, Maisie staying with the pups, unable to hear the sound of the bookshelf with the pups around his head. He looked up as Maisie suddenly ran off too, the pups stopping their squirming and all turning to the door, their ears perked, the one asleep on his leg even waking up and turning at attention. Huh? Everything was still for a long moment before he heard Blake begin to bark and thunder down the stairs, the pups all going to get off of the bed and run down the hall, Levi getting up and running after them all, worried. What happened?! He looked down to where Eren was at the end of the hall, under a large, heavy wooden bookshelf with books strewn around him, some of the pups and Maisie nudging at the heavy shelf trying to get it off of him, the other pups trying to get down the stairs after Blake, all of them yelping at the top of their tiny lungs. Fuck. “Eren! Eren, are you okay? I’m here, we’ll get this off of you.” Levi moved to grab the wood shelf, trying hard to lift it. …I can’t. It's too heavy. “LATHE!” Levi shouted down the stairs, hearing Lathe running along with Blake and the pups to the stairs, sliding to a stop next to them. “Eren, we’ll get this off, don’t worry. Ready?” Levi looked to Lathe as he got a grip on the solid wood, nodding. They heaved the shelf up, straining to get it back up and against the wall, finally succeeding, the dogs clambering over the blanket of fallen books to lick and nudge Eren, making sure he was okay. Levi crouched down to get the heavy books off of him, sitting Eren up and hugging him close, sitting on the floor. “Eren, are you okay? Are you hurt?”

That bookshelf is fucking heavy.

Eren was still panicking as he was pulled close. I got crushed, I got crushed... Eren’s eyes clouded as he shook in Levi’s arms. I got crushed... Eren looked down to his feet, where the vase had fallen and shattered into his skin. “Hurts...” He looked to large shards sticking from his feet. It hurts a lot... They’re in my feet.

Lathe had run off to get his medic bag when he saw the glass shards, whistling for Blake and Maisie to follow him downstairs and bring the pups with them in turn. I need to get the tiny pups away from the broken glass- it's sharp. He soon came back with gauze and tweezers in hand, dropping down next to them and taking Eren’s foot to pick out the shards. “It's alright Eren, I'm gonna get this out of your foot. Try not to move too much, it'll be over soon. ...I really need to just get rid of this vase. I glue it back together and put it on the shelf, and then it gets broken again. I need to just pitch it.” Lathe picked the glass from his foot, brushing the shards aside and wrapping his feet when he was sure he’d gotten all of it out. “You're lucky there was glue on the edges of the smaller shards to keep them out of your foot- they didn't actually cut you and get buried in your feet, which is good.” Lathe stood after a long moment, smiling to them. “I’m gonna get a thing and clean this all up. Careful where you step- I need to vacuum.” Yeah, we should be careful. He ruffled both of their mops of hair before walking downstairs, soon enough yelling at Krampus to drop his wallet. I need that!

Eren shook in Levi’s arms. “It hurts... It hurts a lot...” Eren’s voice was high pitched, full of pain as he stared at his feet. He had wide eyes, unable to move from the shock of what just happened. I got crushed. I got crushed... My foot’s not healing...

...it's not doing anything. “...your foot isn't healing...” Levi snapped from that train of thought as he realized how hard Eren was shaking, running his hands over his sides and trying to soothe him, pecking his cheeks and willing him to calm down. He looked up to Lathe as he came back with a cordless vacuum, speaking, concerned. “Lathe, Eren’s feet aren't healing. He's not warm or anything.” Nothing...

Lathe’s brow furrowed, looking to Eren’s feet, any steam absent. “...let me get all this glass vacuumed up before we panic, alright?” Lathe waited for Levi to pick Eren up and sit down on the loveseat in the nook at the top of the staircase, getting the shards and glue cleaned up before setting the vacuum down and going to sit near Eren’s foot. “Alright. Your foot isn't healing,” Lathe gently unwound the gauze from his foot, seeing the fresh cuts still there, unchanged. “...let's think. The serum in your blood makes you heal, and every time you heal, your nose bleeds... you've gotten multiple blood transfusions... my guess... you're fresh out of serum.” It'd make sense. “Now, that brings about a whole new question which needs to be answered, because it could change the way people as a whole answer it when this serum gets out into the world.” Lathe looked up to him, his expression serious. “...do you want it in your system again? Would you rather normally heal… or get it again and have it heal your system quickly for you? With it, you can't drink. You can't see bruises or marks for more than a few minutes. You’d have a nosebleed, and the blood loss has put you in more mortal danger than the wound itself on a few occasions. …you probably need to think on it, because it’s a serious decision. It's not irreversible… but it’s gonna be stuck with you for a while if you decide you want to. And if you hopefully don't get too hurt in the future… it could be stuck with you for years.” He looked between Eren and Levi. “...I can't make that decision for you. You two should talk about it. But for right now, I'm just going to wrap your foot back up, and you'll try to heal normally for a bit until you know, okay?” His voice was soft, giving them a small, reassuring smile. “If you want, I can call the therapy pups back up, make you feel better.” You still look really shaken. He smiled as Eren nodded, turning and wolf-whistling through the house, Blake and Maisie coming up the stairs, puppies following them and letting out adorably tiny barks, picking them up and setting them up on the loveseat. Levi had Eren on top of him laying down on the small couch, letting the puppies clamber all over them and lick their cheeks, nudging them and making sure they were okay.

Chapter End Notes

Hello, readers, this is Duke, I regret to inform you that I will be unable to continue writing this fan fiction.... that being said, someone has messaged me about continuing this on their own so please go check out TNATJ for the rest of their awesome chapters that they can think of! I hope you will forgive me for this... but it's been too much stress lately, and now I will get to read right along side you wonderful readers.

Again that's TNATJ
Chapter 57: Shenaniganary

Chapter Summary

Well, here ya go....

SO: For the last time, everything is ready, I got the key ring with the right key on it to leave in his room.

LQ: You better make damn sure that there's nothing on that keyring that you'd need immediately

LQ: Remember we’re hoping Eren realizes what the hell is going on within an hour and it’s not guaranteed

CP: Eren may be an oblivious shit but he’s gonna know something’s up

CP: Literally we’re gonna be talking like loud drunks narrating a crime without actually incriminating ourselves

CP: I'm just resigned to this either going great with Eren taking the car and showing up in one piece

CP: Or only figuring it out after someone stole the car because you left the front driver’s side window all the way open and your fucking KEYS ARE IN THE DOOR POCKET

CP: So yeah you'd better be prepared to file a stolen car report if this doesn't go according to plan

LQ: ...I've knocked on every wooden thing in this entire fucking house while ranting about how much I hope this'll go okay

LQ: Because I fucking /like/ that car

LQ: And y’know Eren being at the wedding would be nice too

LQ: But insurance is expensive, man

SO: It’ll be fine, he’ll get it... So get your ass down here so we can go! I’m waiting outside his door!

LQ: Okay okay calm your ass down, I need to check that I have everything and get in the zone of pretending to be so loopy in love that I'm talking at 400% the socially acceptable normal volume

CP: ...sounds good

CP: DO THE THING
Lathe double-checked the list in his hand, stowing it in his wallet when he was sure everything was either on his person or in the car. Right. We've boarded Krampus and Nene... Moblit has three... Marco got first dibs on which of the other two he and Jean would want... Armin has the other... they both absolutely adore them... they're all boarded for a bit because we invited literally everyone we fucking knew to the wedding... I've got someone coming over to take care of all the animals we have out back while we're gone... Casper has all of my shit, it’s already in his car since yesterday... I've got Eren’s bag; Spades had to help with gathering up makeup and stuff... printed directions just in case he can't figure out the GPS, which already has the address to the hotel in it... his phone, what room he’s in is texted to him and is on a post-it on the screen... his wallet with plenty of cash just in case something goes down, and his credit card and ID... I think that’s it. Lathe knocked on the table the second he thought that, hoping it was everything. This has to go perfectly otherwise Eren's not at the wedding and we get in trouble because we've been plotting this... well, there aren’t any text messages to follow. Typing into a Google doc and then deleting it is much cleaner. And we're not being incriminating... and they don't have sound with the security cameras. They're not that great in the psych ward in the way of technology yet. Lathe locked the house up behind him, going to the car and tossing his stuff into the back seat, starting the drive to the hospital.

Scotty was waiting with his arms crossed as his foot tapped on the floor impatiently. Come on... Come on... We need to get this over with... I clocked out already, we need to go like now! He sighed in relief as Scotty spotted Lathe with his bag of belongings at the end of the hallway coming towards them. He handed his keys over to Casper. “Go take his bag to our car, then come back in and help.” We can do this.

Casper nodded, smirking as he saw Lathe, walking to him. “Ayy, Lathe! Here, lemme take your stuff out to the car, alright? Make things easier. I needed to check on something anyway.” Casper accepted the laptop and the medic bag, giving him a fistbump before he walked down the hall and to the parking lot, looking over to Lathe’s car, thinking. The front window is fully down... I can see his bag on the passenger’s seat... so far so good. Casper soon had his stuff stashed in the trunk, recounting the things already there before shutting it and going back to the hospital, making his way to Eren’s room. We've got everything. Okay. ...holy fuck, if we pull this off, I will be so fucking proud...

Lathe feigned being unsure about Casper taking them, arguing just for a moment about the long walk before he handed them over, thanking him and following Scotty. They talked as they walked, and by the time they were at Eren’s room and opening the door, Lathe was fully in character, absolutely swooning. “I can't believe it... just a few days and I'm gonna be married...” He beamed to Eren, coming up to him and giving him a hug. “Hey Eren, how're you holding up?”

Eren shifted away from his hug, hugging his knees to his now flat chest. “Congratulations...” He was clearly brooding from having been told he wouldn't be able to go. “Why don't you guys just go?” I mean really… Why do you need to rub it in!

Lathe gave him a sympathetic look. “I’m sorry, kid, I really am. Maybe we should just…” Lathe’s hands fell to his sides again, worry dawning on his face as he patted his pockets, looking around on the floor. “Did I really lose my keys? I obviously must’ve had them on the drive here, and it’s not like I’d be dumb enough to leave them in the door or something…” Lathe looked to Scotty and Casper helplessly. “What if I can’t find them? Is it alright if my car stays here and I go with you two?”

Casper nodded, resting a hand on his shoulder, smiling reassuringly. “Yeah, of course you can. I’ve got your laptop anyway right now, and your stuff should be down there already. We’ll just have to hope you didn’t leave a window open; someone might take it if we’re not careful.”

Lathe nodded, smiling gratefully, looking relieved. “Thanks; you’re a lifesaver. Scotty, is everything all set?”

Eren looked up at the two of them, a suspicious expression. What the hell? Dad is never that forgetful… what the fuck is going on? Eren watched to see Scotty play at his pockets, heading a small jingle.

“Uh, yeah I got my keys, so Eren can’t sneak out the window…. So why don’t we get going?” Let’s go… It looks like he caught on… Scotty saw Eren’s line of sight to the small set of keys on the side table. When their eyes met, he smiled and winked at him, ushering the other two out of the room. Come on, let's let him bust himself out of here...

Lathe caught the knowing look in Scotty’s eye, turning and waving to Eren as he was led out of the room. “See you soon, Eren! Love you!” And with that, the door shut, leaving Eren completely alone. Come on. The ball is in your court now. Take the chance.

Eren watched them leave, his eyes widening as he hurriedly got up. Blake whined as he was forced off the bed, Eren pulling the blinds away from the window and seeing Lathe’s Thunderbird. Holy…. Shit…” I CAN FUCKING LEAVE! Eren’s body started pumping adrenaline as he moved to lock his door, knowing the staff would leave him alone if he did so. They won’t find out if I do this… They probably won’t even fucking notice. He grabbed the keys on the side table and Blake’s leash, bringing them to the window, in all his giddiness, he fumbled with the keys, freezing as he heard someone knock at the door, though when silence persisted, he sighed, knowing they’d left him alone. Thank god… Eren fumbled a little bit and struggled to turn the key, swearing quietly as he struggled with the lock. God dammit! Turn the fucking thing! Do it! Come on! He gritted his teeth, finally getting the lock to turn after a few minutes of struggling. “Good.” He sighed as he slowly opened the window just as much as he needed. “Come on, Blake, let’s get going…” He waited for Blake to jump out of the window before he followed with the key and closing the window as best as he could. As soon as he knew no one was looking around the parking lot he ran to Lathe’s car, finding the driver’s side window completely open. Oh my god, you really left it open! He reached into the side door and grabbed the keys, opening the door. I need to get out of here… now. “Blake, in…” He made sure Blake was all the way in before he started the car. I need to get out here… Eren didn’t take three seconds to start the car and put it into drive after feeling the familiar hum run through the seats. I’ve missed this… He pulled out, slowly at first, though as soon as he hit the highway, he took off, a feeling of freedom overtaking every sensation as he seemed to float on the highway, not a car in sight for at least half an hour. Is that Scotty’s car? Oh please be Scotty’s!

Lathe was looking out the window as Scotty and Casper went back and forth bantering in the front, the radio playing pop songs quietly. I wonder when Eren’ll get the courage up and do it… His eyebrows shot up as his unobstructed view of the trees on the right side was intruded, instantly recognizing the sleek black car driving next to them, grinning widely as he saw the driver, waving and then signing quickly. (Eyes on the road! Proud of you, kid.) You didn’t hesitate much, did you.

Scotty looked over as he saw the car next to them. “Is that him already? I’m going 60… so he’s speeding and has been speeding, you’re lucky the future waifu isn’t here…” He shrugged, smiling as Eren kept with his pace all the way to the city before pulling behind him to follow him. “To the hotel we go, this should be interesting… when do you think the ward’s gonna call us?” I’m taking bets on a few days.

“…they're probably used to getting the silent treatment from patients… four days. After then they'll check on him to make sure he's not dead from not having any water. That's a whole bunch of paperwork they don't wanna fill out.”

“I kinda wanna say five or six… I changed my voicemail message as a sort of psychological deterrent to prolong their ‘waiting out Eren’s rebellious phase.’”

“Oh my God, I need to hear this!” Casper took out his phone and called Lathe, waiting for it to ring enough times and click to voicemail, the recording playing loud enough for them all to hear.

‘Hey, you've reached Lathe Quo. I kinda can't talk right now, I'm busy getting married after the ceremony got put off for a few years and my son got put in the hospital, so you know, I'm pretty occupied what with catching up with old friends I haven't seen in a decade. But if whatever you've got to say is actually something worth interrupting a Honeymoon, leave a message, I guess. Bye.’

“...Lathe, you're a fucking genius. If I got shot and you were the only person who could help me, I'd feel bad interrupting you. And I'm awful to you. And I'd be hypothetically dying. ….sweet.”
Casper nodded in total approval, stowing his phone back in his pocket. I need to do that when I don't want people calling me. Except for if it's my work phone. That one has to be all professional and shit. But the other is fair game. ...I appreciate this.

Scotty rolled his eyes as he pulled into the fancy hotel’s parking lot. “Alright, go get your kid Lathe, and get him in normal clothes instead of scrubs…” I know how uncomfortable they can be. He parked the car right next to where Eren parked, making it easier to see his relieved face.

Eren sighed in relief, letting his head sink back into the headrest. I’m out… I’m really out… He reached for the door handle, pushing the door open and letting the warm air hit his body with grace. It’s so warm… It’s nice. He watched Blake hop out of the car and stretch, looking around the parking lot as well. I’m really out of there…

Lathe immediately got out of the car, gathering Eren up in a big hug as soon as Eren was out of the car, beaming. “Now did you really think we’d let the wedding go on without you?” Of course not! He pulled back, holding Eren at arm’s length, smiling. “Let’s get you inside and in more comfy clothes, m’kay?” He looked over as the door opened, nodding his head toward a short figure waiting there. “And you’ve got the day off to spend with a certain someone.” He looks happy to see you.

Eren looked over to see Levi waiting with Spades by the door. He looked to make sure there weren’t any cars coming towards him before he bolted towards them, Blake following after as Eren launched himself at Levi. “Oh thank god, I’m so happy I’m out of there…” Eren had tears in his eyes as he clung to the shorter man. Don’t let me go please… I’m not crazy… and I hate that place…

Levi chuckled, catching Eren easily, hugging him tightly and pecking his neck, murmuring. “I’m so glad everything worked out- that you're here now.” He had a faint smile on his face as he ran his hands over Eren’s back, glad to have him in his arms again.

Lathe helped Scotty and Casper, getting his stuff from the trunk and carrying it up to where the three of them were, giving Spades a peck on the lips, looking down at his things. “...if my hands weren’t full you'd be getting a much better greeting than that…” He blushed as Levi and Eren sudden took his stuff from him, freeing his hands and looking to him expectantly. He just looked back to Spades, shrugging after a moment. “Eh.” He grinned, stepping forward, a hand wound around Spades’ middle as he kissed her, another cupping her cheek as he dipped her back a bit, pulling back after a long moment, both of them scarlet, Lathe with a mischievous look. “Hey~” Lathe completely ignored the exasperated looks on Eren and Levi’s faces, not even noticing Casper and Scotty behind them miming gagging at the sight. It’s nice to see you again. ...even if it’s only been one fucking day.
Eren giggled as he kept his long limbs wrapped around Levi’s torso, his arms around his neck. “Um… I know we're glad to see each other… But can we go to the room? I wanna get changed…” Eren flushed as he buried his face into Levi’s neck, taking in his musky scent. He smells so nice…

Spades blushed as she was leaned back and smiled warmly as she heard Lathe’s horrible attempt at flirting. “You know if you started out like that… It wouldn’t’ve gotten you anywhere.” She teased as she pecked his cheeks again. “Let’s get everything inside and then we can go out for lunch and catch up… How does that sound?” I know it was only a day… But Eren’s still in the hospital, and I don’t see him nearly as much as I should.

Lathe pouted a bit at her words, though he smiled as she pecked his cheeks, blushing and keeping an arm around her waist for the moment. “That sounds good to me.” Very much so. He pecked her cheek before letting his arm slip from her middle, turning and taking his stuff back from Levi and Eren. “Thanks. Now, you two are required to come with. I'm sure you can suffer for an hour.” He joked, looking over to Casper and Scotty. “You two wanna come with?”

Casper answered before Scotty could even open his mouth. “We acknowledge your offer of free food, and gladly accept.” He looked up as he felt Scotty glaring at him, elbowing him. “Hey, all we ever talk about at the hospital is ‘lawsuit this’ or ‘medicine that.’ You can hold a damn conversation. And I wanna hear about this thing he’s been cooking up with Sharon.” He looks so damn excited whenever he’s works on it; I want in on this.

Eren smiled more as he stayed in Levi’s arms, clinging to him with all he had. “Italian… And I wanna pay.” Eren’s voice was strong, unwavering as he felt the warmth between Levi and himself grow. He’s so warm… I love it… “I wanna get changed too…” He whined a bit, liking that he could act a little selfish with Levi holding him. He’s not letting go, I don’t think he wants to.

Spades nodded, her blush waning from her face as she led them in and towards the elevator. We booked the whole floor, and the whole top floor... And the floor under it, so everyone can be as loud as they want... At least we won’t disturb other guests. She ushered them all in, helping Lathe with his things. “How was the drive here?” How long did it take my son to break out?

“...It was good- it didn't take Eren long to figure it out. We hadn't been on the highway half an hour before Eren was driving next to us. He could follow us easily enough when we got into the city, right behind us the whole time. These two didn't shut up for the whole damn time-” Lathe playfully glared at Casper and Scotty, Casper sticking his tongue out at him. “…but it was good. Amusing.” Very much so. They bicker like an old married couple. “Top floor, yeah?” He grinned as Spades nodded, the elevator eventually reaching the top, stepping out onto their floor. “…have fun figuring out which of the key cards is the one for our room.” You've got at least two for each room- that was probably a nightmare at the front desk, figuring out whose is whose.
Spades grinned, stepping out of the elevator when it dinged and taking them down the hall to the left only a little ways. “They have to text me when they get here, I only carry my keys, or key now since you’re here, so I lined them up.” She pointed to the large spread out pile of key cards with stickies and names on them. “Everyone should get here within the next 12 hours for dress rehearsal tomorrow.” Marcus is here, but he’s sleeping currently.

Lathe nodded, seeing the key cards. “Fair meme.” He read over all of the names, grinning as he went on. “Let’s see… we’re shipping all of Eren and Levi’s friends… we’ve got the couples in rooms together of course…. Casper and Scotty are gonna need these…” He picked up their keycards stowing them absentmindedly in his pocket for the moment. “Damien has a plus one I’m dying to meet, so they've got a room…. PB has her own, she's forever alone, or as she would say, married to her computer, so we’ll let them have their privacy…” He chuckled as Spades just shook her head at him, grinning to her. “What? Don't deter my shipping.” He joked with her, looking over the rest of the keys. “...Mark and Jack should be here later tonight, Bob with Mandy and Wade too… Wade is gonna be a loner as well… I invited some of my old students and kids from counseling, they all went and made a memetastic group chat of their own and are arguing amongst themselves who's rooming with who as we speak… they're all getting doubles…” I ain't encouraging them too much… “...Damien needs to just hurry the fuck up and get here so I can meet the girl he's dating! Oh my gosh I need to meet her!” I'm so excited! Lathe chuckled as Spades rolled her eyes and reached for his arm, tugging him along to their room, his eyes widening as the door opened. It's really nice… He smirked as they came into the bedroom, the large King bed piled with pillows, looking especially inviting. ...... really nice. Lathe set down his stuff, catching Spades before she could put anything away and pulling her back flush to his front, his hands lightly running over her stomach, murmuring into her shoulder. “It’s very nice… I can't wait to break it in...” He nipped her neck softly, smirking as she shivered.

“A- hem .” Levi looked to Lathe and Spades coolly as they jumped apart, both of them blushing scarlet. Payback’s a bitch. He was holding Eren up as he clung to his front, his hands cupping his bubbly ass. “We kinda need Scotty and Casper’s room keys.” So stop initiating sex and just fork them over already.

Lathe just glared at him, moving to snatch the keys from his pocket where he'd put them and tossing them to Levi. Just get going. And don't get too cocky. He waited to hear the sound of the door shutting and locking behind them before turning back to Spades, the smirk creeping back onto his features as he pulled her close and into a deep kiss.

Levi had since shifted his hold on Eren to one hand and caught the keys easily, turning on his heel and leaving. “Thanks.” You can go back to doing the thing. If we don't hear from either of you about food within the next fifteen or twenty minutes we’re just going out by ourselves. He walked down the hall, passing Casper and Scotty their keys before moving on to their own room, having dragged their stuff inside first before going to get the keys. He opened the door, shutting it behind them and moving to the bed, his hands squeezing Eren’s bubbly ass before laying him on the bed and leaning over him, still feeling the shapely mounds in his hands as he kissed him deeply, tangling their tongues. While I've got you...
Eren’s body fidgeted a bit under his grasp though he melted into the kiss, pressing up a bit to mold the two of them together. He pulled back to breathe for a few seconds, his eyes locking with Levi’s. “So… I busted out… And now I’m here…” He giggled as he moved his arms around Levi’s neck, a soft smile on his face. I missed this…

Levi chuckled, shifting so Eren was further on the bed, above him, their fronts flush and molding into one another. He smiled faintly, his eyes a bit dark. “You actually did it… you’re here.” He moved to kiss down his jaw and neck, suckling a small mark at the joint of his neck, tugging the scrubs out of the way. He moved to pull them off of Eren, pulling back and stripping him, leaving him in just his boxers and socks before capturing his lips again, his hands on his cheeks, drawing out the heat. ...I still want lunch. “We can continue this later, m’kay?” He murmured against Eren’s lips, smirking cheekily as he went to get Eren clothes. Hhm… what should we have you wear…

Eren smirked, letting his head fall back on the soft comforter with a soft thump. He stared at the ceiling until he noticed the heat surrounding his neck, the steam sizzling around his skin and up. Fuck… Tissues. He shifted over to the side table grabbing a wad of tissues and pressing them to his nose. The nosebleeds aren’t so bad anymore… But, still, they’re annoying as all fucking hell. “Levi, whatever you make me wear make sure I can put a coat on or something if they have air conditioning… I’m used to the unit not working in my room, and the windows don’t open so it’s hot as hell in the psych ward.” I need to be able to stay warm now that I’m used to it.

Levi nodded, fishing in Eren’s suitcase for his own favorite skinny jeans and a long-sleeve graphic shirt, tossing them to Eren with a pair of converse. “How about this?” I like those jeans.

Eren rolled his eyes as he saw the jeans. “The ass huggers that I haven’t worn in a year… Do you even think they’ll fit?” He grumbled as he pulled the tissues away to see if his nose was still bleeding, which it was since the mark on his neck was still steaming. There’s not a lot left in my system… It’s taking a long time to heal…

...I get the idea this is a rephrasing of the question ‘does this make me look fat?’ Levi smirked faintly, shrugging and ambling up to him, his hands running over his sides as he pecked at the steaming spot on his neck. “Oh I think so… you’re still as perfectly curvy as ever…” Levi’s hands ran over Eren’s hips, looking up to him with a spark of mischief in his eye. You look damn fine.

“Levi… You know what I mean… I’m not completely back to the weight I was before everything happened. I don’t know if they’ll stay up… Do you have a belt?” Eren turned his head, seeing the steam slowly starting to fade. Good it’s almost done healing.

“I do- let’s see if you need it. You're almost done healing. …I can't believe I don't get to mark you
Levi gave Eren a reassuring look when he noticed his embarrassment, moving to him and wrapping his arms around him, walking him back to the bed. “You know…” He sat him on the edge of the bed, going to sit in his lap, his hands moving his shirt collar out of the way. “...you still look damn fine.” Levi smirked as Eren blushed, going to lick and nip at his neck, tugging it down and leaving a decent-sized mark on his collarbone, a small trail of them across the bone. He watched as they shortly began to steam, getting up from his lap and snatching at the tissue box again, settling in his lap again and giving him a wad of them to staunch the bleeding. He gently lapped at the marks, watching as they faded but didn't entirely go away before they stopped steaming, looking up when Eren pulled the tissues from his face. “…are you out of serum?” That's what it looks like...

Eren nodded looking away a bit in embarrassment before taking the belt and looping it through the jeans to keep them up. He looked a mix of depressed and frustrated as he settled the belt in place, pulling the shirt on over him, his long hair in a bun still. They don't fit... Shit... And Levi really likes these ones too... Fuck. Eren slipped on his shoes, having gotten rid of the tissues since his nose has stopped bleeding. “Y-You... You can try and run the serum out, there’s not much left anymore…”

Eren looked down as the steam cleared and his nose stopped bleeding. “Yeah, was that the point of this? I thought we were gonna go out for lunch...” I'm hungry, I refused breakfast this morning and Dad didn’t bring me anything to eat. Eren’s point was further proven as his stomach growled loudly between the two of them. “And you’re lucky Dad packed the right makeup, otherwise I wouldn’t be able to hide the hickeys you just gave me.” I have a low ride dress to wear down the aisle, which you are walking me down! Did you forget??

“Aww, you wanna hide them? Then what was the point?” Levi jokingly whined, kissing Eren softly before moving from his lap, letting him stand. “Come on- we need to go bug the lovebirds about lunch.” This is a thing now.

Eren shook his head, pulling his shirt back into place and grabbing Blake’s leash and letting him walk in front. I’m gonna have to talk with Moblit soon.... Blake’s getting old. Eren’s lips pressed into a thin line as he clipped the leash on his jacket. “Let’s go.” He pulled out his phone, finding a text that they were waiting for them in the lobby. “They’re downstairs...” He grabbed his wallet off the counter along with a key to the room and slipped them in a back pocket. We can go.

Levi nodded, an arm around Eren’s waist as they went from their room to the elevator, punching the button for the first floor. Soon enough they stepped into the lobby, seeing Lathe waving to them from near the doors. They walked up to them, Levi nodding to them. “Alright, any idea where we’re going?”

Lathe shrugged one shoulder, looking at his phone. “We found this Italian place not too far of a walk away, it looks really nice, and one of the reviews says they have great gnocchi, so there’s no way we’re getting out of going.” Lathe looked up as the doors opened, his eyes widening as the tall figure came straight up to them, the embodiment of biker culture. “...... what. There’s no fucking way. “Damien, you look ready to mug me and everyone in this hotel. And then get away with it.” He grinned, holding out a hand to him. “How’ve you been doing?”

Damien grinned to him and chuckled, shaking his hand firmly. “Doing alright, things’ve been going pretty well, I’d say. Not running from town to town as much these days, but y’know.” He looked over his shoulder to a short figure behind him, his features softening a bit. “I’ve got my reasons.” He turned as Blake suddenly growled at him, his eyebrows shooting up. “...did I say something?” Looks ready to kill me. ...or try to.

Levi was trying to coax Eren from behind him, getting him to unbury himself from in his shoulder. “Eren, come on, he's not gonna hurt you. He's a friend. It's Damien Rose.” Come on, we both know he’s a nice guy. He's in the group chat- he's always been nice.

Iroh poked his head out from behind Damien’s hulking figure, a shaky hand coming to fidget with his glasses which made his eyes look much larger than they actually were. “D-Damien… I-I thought you said the dog was nice…?” His one hand was clutching onto Damien’s leather jacket as he looked to the growling K9. It looks protective and scary...

Damien turned to him, a hand resting protectively on his shoulder. “He’s just doing what he’s supposed to, Eren’s scared of me is all…” Damien watched as Levi did his best to calm Eren down, Lathe moving to pet Blake and get him to stand down. He's doing his job- I've heard plenty about Blake. He's working.

Lathe pet Blake, getting him to stop growling and sit. “Blake, Eren, this is Damien. As in the one in the group chats. He looks scary, but he’s fine. Really. He's a good friend.” Lathe looked up, his expression changing as he saw Iroh, standing up and studying him. ....oh. “...Damien, is this…?”

Damien nodded, gently nudging Iroh forward a small step, keeping his hand on his shoulder as a reassuring presence. “Yeah, he is. Uhm, Iroh, this is Lathe and his fiancée Spades, they’re some of my high school friends, and this is Eren, Lathe’s adopted son and his boyfriend Levi. Eren’s service dog is Blake.”

Iroh fidgeted under Lathe’s calculating gaze. “It’s a pleasure to make your acquaintance. I’m Iroh Yanai, and I’m Damien’s plus one.” I’m not necessarily sure what I would be considered… And I’m not necessarily sure if we’re socially acceptable… I mean I know Damien talks about Eren, but I always thought this Eren was a girl… Iroh’s hands were shaky as his thumbs moved in circles around each other in a nervous tick. Did I do okay?

...oh my god. Lathe grinned warmly to him, extending a friendly hand to him. “It's very nice to meet you, Iroh.” He politely shook Iroh’s hand, looking to Damien. “You didn't tell me you had a boyfriend. Much less one that's such a cinnamon roll.” He has a white bow tie- and he looks as if normally he’d run away at the idea of you. ...you've got some explaining to do.

Damien shrugged a shoulder, rubbing the back of his neck. “I never saw a way to just put it in the group chat, and I’d’ve much rather introduced him in person to everyone.” He glanced to Iroh, seeing him look at him quizzically. “...take the cinnamon roll comment as a compliment. That's what one from him generically looks like.” Yeah, coming from an otaku, what else would you expect?

Iroh’s confusion only increased. “The compliment or the cinnamon roll?” I’m confused, your friends are strange. But at least you have friends. It must be nice. He shied behind Damien a bit, almost shrieking when Blake came up to sniff the two of them and circle them, looking for any intent to injure or maim Eren. What's the dog doing? Why is he sniffing me? Iroh yelped, his face completely flushed as Blake nosed his leg and then moved to Damien and did the same thing before going to sit by Eren’s side.

“His compliments are weird. As a rule of thumb, if he says it while looking happy, it's a compliment.” He held onto Iroh as Blake sniffed them, his thumb rubbing his arm. “Blake’s just saying hi, getting acquainted with us now that he knows we’re not gonna pull anything.” Yeah, I'm not gonna try anything. And Iroh certainly isn't.

Lathe smiled to the two of them warmly, seeing how protective Damien was of him. “Do you two want to join us for lunch? We were just about to head out for Italian, if you'd like to come. I'd like to get to know you better.” Lathe nodded to Iroh, trying his best to seem friendly and non-threatening. You're nervous, obviously. Can't have you freaking out around us the entire time- we promise we don't bite.

Damien nodded. “I’m okay with that.” He looked down to Iroh, tilting his head a bit, his voice quieter and considerably warmer. “What about you? Wanna go out for lunch?” It's up to you- I don't want you to be uncomfortable the entire time.

Iroh looked up at him before looking around to the small group with them. “O-okay…” I think I can handle lunch with them. He was still holding onto Damien’s leather jacket with a shaking hand, his other coming up to pull his dark hair behind his ear. It framed his face, though it was shorter than Armin’s bowl cut, almost making it look like a pixie cut. His hand then moved to his thick-rimmed glasses and pushed them back up on the bridge of his nose. His skin was light, a blush clearly visible across his cheeks, which intensified the sight of his large doe like eyes. They looked almost black, to be a very dark brown when exposed to sunlight. Are we going to be walking? Or in a car?

Damien smiled as he nodded, looking up to Lathe again. “Alright, our stuff can wait for a bit. What’s the plan?”

“Italian.” Eren spoke up, now standing next to Levi, having been calmed down enough to do so. “They have good gnocchi apparently…” He held onto Blake’s leash a little tighter as Casper and Scotty finally joined them downstairs, the elevator doors surprising him as they opened behind him. Now we have everyone…

Scotty looked up as he spotted a large figure in front of the group, a smaller man beside him. Wow, that guy’s gotta be smaller than Armin … wait… “Damien, my man, what’s happening? I haven’t seen you in like what? 15 years? God it’s been forever.

...since when do you talk like that? At least for the first half of that. Casper grinned at Damien, his hands in his pockets. “Hey Damien- you took the ‘I’m-a-bounty-hunter-and-eat-nails-for-breakfast’ thing to a whole new level. If I didn't know better I’d be terrified and calling the cops. ...or yelling for Spades. Either.” He saw a much shorter man next to him, tilting his head and studying the man curiously. “...is that your plus one?” ...dude, I thought you were straight. ...apparently not. Introduce us! He looks a bit too nervous to say hi.

Iroh watched the other people show up from the elevator, a tall man exiting along with a shorter man with striking purple hair. He blushed as he heard them speak to Damien. Ah, it’s more of his friends, that’s good… Wait, I get the feeling they weren’t expecting me at all. Should I not have asked to come? I mean, I’ve wanted to meet them, but did Damien not want me to come because of this? “U-Um… I’m I-Iroh… Iroh Yanai…” He trailed off, his eyes finding the floor very interesting in a matter of a few seconds.

Casper smiled warmly to him, deciding to give him his space and waving. “Nice to meet you Iroh. I’m Casper Pandreivitch, and this giant here is Scott Octavian, but we just call him Scotty.” He noticed how out-of-place Iroh seemed to be feeling, giving him a casual grin. “You two joining us for lunch? You'd better be.” He looked to Damien as he nodded, beaming. “Awesome. The more the merrier. And it's been forever since we saw you, what with running off out west and stuff. And it’d be nice to get to know you.” He nodded to Iroh, trying to make him feel welcomed in their circle of friends. Yeah, we’re a strange bunch. But you’re very welcome in it.
Iroh nodded sheepishly and smiled a bit as they all followed Lathe down the street towards the more populated areas. This is a nice city, it’s very clean, and stylish… He thoughts were interrupted as he heard the giant’s words to Damien. I think his name is Scotty… I think… I’m horrible with names, dammit, but did he really just say that?

“… How do you not break him? He’s so tiny… Seriously Damien, is that even safe for him?……. I didn't think you would be a gentle one…. Yes, even in bed……” Scotty’s words were only slightly muted by a random car horn here and there. His arm was around Damien's shoulders, a concerned look on his face. I’m worried about the kid… How old is he even? “Have you become a cradle robber? What you're doing can’t be legal!”

Damien’s brow furrowed as he felt Iroh’s hold on his sleeve loosen, seeing him with his arms wrapped around himself, scarlet and staring at the ground embarrassed and looking saddened as they walked. His eyes hardened as Scotty kept talking, his tone even. “Scotty, do you have no filter? He might not be as tall or as big as some of us, and sure, we’ve got quite a few years between us in age, but it doesn't mean he can't be my boyfriend. Calm the hell down.” My God, he's got a bad enough idea of himself as it is…. and what you're going on about isn't helping.

Scotty held his hands up in surrender. “Okay, okay, okay, I get it… I’m just concerned about his health as a medical professional. And I don't want you getting in trouble with the law with your profession.” Just a little bit of teasing, no harm done, geez. No need to get angry over it.

“Just shut your trap about it, alright? That’s the hundredth time this year we’ve heard something like that.” Damien glared at Scotty for a moment and crossed his arms, glancing to Iroh before looking back to Scotty, his cheeks tincting pink, his voice quiet enough just for him to hear. “And I am careful, okay? I don't want him getting hurt. And Scotty, he’s legal. He’s in grad school right now. I know that sounds really young but just don’t press about it, alright?” I don't want him getting hurt.... physically, obviously, and he’s already got too much going on in his mind about himself and us… I don’t want to make that worse. Damien nodded as Scotty finally relented, reaching over and bringing Iroh back over to the group, his arm around his shoulders, rubbing his arm with his thumb, trying to coax him back out of his shell. “Scotty doesn't know when to shut it. M’sorry about that…” Come on, please don’t draw in… they all want to get to know you.

Iroh looked up to Damien once, before he looked down, his arms crossed submissively over his chest. Well, he wasn’t wrong… A lot of people think like that. I know I’m small, and you always have to hold back… I wish you never had to… He clammed up, not speaking as they waited a few minutes for the table at the very modern restaurant and finally sat down. They probably all think along the same lines...

Casper ended up sitting opposite Iroh, nudging Scotty’s foot and giving the man next to him a warning look when he noticed Iroh glance up to Scotty and then immediately look away, scared and melancholy. You have no filter. And in this case, it's got a worse effect than it usually does.
Casper smiled over to the two of them after they were given menus and gave their drink orders, one eyebrow quirked. “I haven't heard much about you- how did you two end up meeting? I'd find it hard to believe you came across each other in Damien’s line of work.” You're obviously very different.

“Um… actually… I u-uh…. I w-worked at…” Iroh struggled to clear the lump in his throat that quickly formed, a blush crossing his face in an instant. His eyes which had held Casper’s gaze now found themselves interested in his shaking hands in his lap. I can’t do this… I… crap, I wasn’t expecting many questions directed at me… Damien said they wouldn’t pry much… But I feel like they’ve done nothing but pry, and I still look like a child to them. “I was working at a coffee shop, and um… my boss was apparently… he um… he, um…” Iroh’s wide eyes looked up to Damien, his own full of fear, so unsure about what he was supposed to do to salvage this situation. I’m horrible with socializing… what am I supposed to do? I don’t know what to do...

Damien reached over and took hold of Iroh’s hand, running his thumb over the knuckles and looking over to Casper, elaborating for him. “Iroh was working at a coffeeshop in California and I would always go there, trying to catch a time when his boss was around, because there was a warrant for his arrest back in Oregon. He always called out the drinks when they were done, and because I ordered the same thing every time he eventually began to recognize me, and we started chatting a bit, and I eventually got him to give me his number, and we’ve been dating ever since, really.” He looked over to Lathe, recognizing the look in his eyes. “Yeah yeah, coffeeshop cliche, I know. But there's something to it, I swear.” He gave Iroh’s hand a small reassuring squeeze, glancing to him and smiling warmly. There's gotta be.

Iroh nodded as Damien spoke, though after he finished and squeezed his hand, he pulled his shaking hands away from Damien’s, reaching for the menu, so unsure of what to get. I’m not really a fan of pasta… I’m sure there’s salad I can get... He pushed his glasses back up the bridge of his nose out of habit. They must think it’s pathetic… to be so cliche.... Why did I ask to come? I knew better than that… I could’ve stayed home and let him actually enjoy being around his friends without having to worry about me. He seemed to deflate until his name was called again.

“Uh… Iroh. I know that Damien said that you were a grad student, but what are you studying?” Scotty’s voice was soft, gentle, trying to make up for what he’d said before. Don’t want you to hate me for the rest of your life…. Nor Damien, he’s scary when he’s mad.

“Um… I’m studying m-mechanical e-engineering...I-I’m on the Masters T-Track...:” I’ll be done soon, and I’ve gotten plenty of job offers, which Damien is excited about. I guess that’s good. if he’s excited about that kind of stuff. Iroh clammed up again, trying to look as small as possible, which wasn’t that hard to do.

Eren tugged on Levi’s shirt, leaning over and whispering in his ear. “He’s really uncomfortable… he’s scratching too…” He had to hold Blake back as he whined, wanting to help. No, it’ll freak him out more, he might even panic if I let you go Blake.

Lathe quirked an eyebrow as he read Eren’s lips, speaking quietly. [Is he really?] He glanced over to Iroh who was occupied with studying the menu, seeing his hand scratching one clothed forearm incessantly. He caught Damien’s eye as he looked over at the sound of Blake whining, speaking with a bit of worry. [Damien, he's scratching. Blake wants to help, but we think he’d freak out…] Do something!

Damien’s eyes widened, looking over and seeing he was indeed scratching at his wrist, going to gently catch his hand, his voice quiet. “Iroh, you’re scratching again. It’s okay, really. Don’t worry yourself, okay?” He gave him a soft smile, leaning forward and giving him a small peck on the temple before letting him go back to reading the menu. Please don’t- I thought we got rid of that habit...

Iroh grew pale as he heard Damien’s words in his ear, nodding silently. He moved his free hand to under his leg as he often would before, when he had tried to stop his scratching habit. “I… I’m sorry…” His soft voice was barely audible. He sighed in relief when the waiter came to take their orders, his own being a rather small salad and a glass of water. I hope they don’t think I’m weird… what if they think badly about Damien because of me… No, I don’t think I would be able to handle it if his friends never talked to him because of me. Iroh barely noticed that he had brought his hand back to his wrist until he felt Blake’s teeth around his hand, seeing him under the table, his head sticking out from under him, and forcing it into his lap. It’s biting me… why’s it biting me? Iroh instinctively tried to pull his hand back only to hear Blake growl at him which stilled his movements instantly.

Damien looked over as he heard Blake growl, not even having noticed he had moved near Iroh until he saw him with Iroh’s hand in his jaws, his boyfriend trying hard not to panic. Crap. “Iroh, it’s okay, you were scratching, it’s what he’s trained to do. He’s a service dog, he does this stuff all the time. It’s okay, he’s not gonna hurt you. It’s alright.” He had a hand on the small of Iroh’s back, murmuring to him and helping him calm down, Blake finally letting go of his hand and jumping up a bit so his paws were on the edge of his chair, nudging Iroh gently, whining quietly for attention. “You can pet him; he wants you to.” He's trying to get your mind away from whatever it is that's bothering you so much.

Iroh shifted a bit as Blake eased himself up. He’s not gonna hurt me? At all? Iroh nodded before timidly reaching out to pet Blake, letting his nerves leave him as Blake wagged his tail and stood still while he was pet. It was a good distraction for Iroh as he calmed down, petting Blake, and forgetting about the others in the room. Maybe…. Maybe I should get a dog too…

Eren watched with a smile as he saw Iroh finally calm down with Blake. <“Dad… you should give them Moblit’s number to see if he has any dogs…. I can tell Iroh needs it…”> It can only help… He looks so much more comfortable… and he’s smiling now too! Eren smiled as he saw Blake lean up and lick Iroh’s face, obviously happy that Iroh had calmed down.

Lathe nodded, smiling at the sight. <“I think that’s a good idea. I'll text Damien the number and info later. But for this moment at least, Iroh’s gonna be borrowing Blake. I'm sure you don't mind sharing his attention.”> He actually looks something other than nervous or terrified right now. A dog might do him some real good. They all decided not to press Iroh too much, letting Blake monopolize his attention as they all caught up.

Casper set down his glass, looking across the table. “Damien, question. You've been doing this hunting people down thing for a long time. What is the dumbest thing some of the people you've gone after have done?”

Damien tapped the table in thought, sifting through his thoughts. “…I'd say some of the dumbest things you can do are use credit cards either you own or that we know you stole… keep the same phone or phone number… just really basic, traceable stuff. And it's not all ‘come-out-with-your-hands-up,’ ‘barge-into-the-house-and-catch-them-asleep.’ People on the run, the not-so-smart ones, think it is and do just really dumb stuff like that, or try to speed on highways going at least eighty to outrun a cop car or me when they realize what I am, and it just all goes downhill from there… but really, these people on the run speed and get pulled over, and then get arrested when the warrant pops up in the system. It happens all the time; people just ask to get caught. It's very amusing.” He looked up as waiters began to come over to their party with trays of food, grinning. “Food’s here.” He gently tapped Iroh’s arm to get his attention as they began to set down plates and bowls. “Blake’ll probably chill right there while you’re eating; he's not going anywhere, I don't think.” Nope- Eren’s doing fine and you certainly have taken a liking to him.

Iroh looked up in surprise, though he noticed Blake shift to go under the table so that only his nose was visible on his lap, sitting down in front of his feet. So he’s really well trained… That’s good… He thanked his waiter as his small salad was brought with a ranch dressing on the side. I can eat now… I wonder if Blake likes carrots…

Eren watched Blake sit on the floor, looking down to his large bowl of pasta in front of him. Oh this looks magnificent, and I haven’t even tried it yet… It’s wonderful! He shifted a bit closer to Levi as he picked up his first forkful of Shrimp Scampi, simply groaning at the taste. It really is good…

Damien watched with amusement as Lathe started to eat his gnocchi looking like a kid on Christmas morning, digging into his own plate of ravioli. He glanced to Iroh every so often, making sure he was doing okay, their table mostly quiet except for the clink of silverware on plates. He smiled as he noticed Iroh feeding Blake his carrots, his salad for the most part eaten. …one would do him good. Lunch passed quickly, and soon enough they were ready to leave, standing and pushing in their chairs. Damien tapped Iroh’s arm, getting his attention and getting him to stand as well, following everyone to the door, Blake still trotting along next to him, nuzzling his leg affectionately. He suddenly felt his phone buzz, pulling it from his pocket and seeing a text from Lathe, reading it. ...service dogs... like Blake.... When they came out onto the sidewalk, he had made up his mind, his hand on Iroh’s shoulder.

Iroh flinched a bit until he realized whose hand it was. “So um... Are-Are we... Um, g-going to the hotel...” Iroh’s voice was small as he shuffled around on his feet. He was still trying to act small and invisible since Eren had come to take Blake back from him as they started walking back to the hotel. You probably wanna stay with your friends, so I can go back by myself if I need too.

Damien shook his head, smiling. “Nope. We’ve got a sort-of errand to run. You seem to have really warmed up to Blake.... do you want to go get a dog?” I really think it'll do you good. And it's been like eight fucking years and every time I asked you said no. “They'll be trained like Blake is, if you want.”

Iroh’s eyes widened as he pulled his arms around himself. Can... Can we really? But I don’t have any problems with me... I can function normally without one.... Do I really need it? Iron seemed to shrink down even more, his eyes still on his shoes, but he froze where he was. Are we going?

Damien ran his hand softly over his back, his voice quiet and warm. “Can I take that as a yes?” Please?

Iroh nodded minutely before he shrunk down even more. We can get a dog... If he’ll be okay in the house... And getting transported on the plane... I guess we can.

Damien beamed, leaning down to kiss his cheek. “Thanks, Iroh. I really think you'll like having one around, if how happy you were with Blake is anything to go by.” It'll be a bit of a deal getting him onto the plane- we'd have to get a third seat, I think... doable.

A blush overtook Iroh’s face as Damien pecked his cheek. What is he doing? What if we're not socially acceptable? And I think his friends don't like seeing him like this... do they not like that he changed from what they remember? Because of me? Iroh was starting to shake a bit in fear as he looked to the group of them, all eyes on them, scared of the attention. Oh no... they don't approve... they're never gonna talk to him again... I didn't want to ruin anything... but I did anyway...

Lathe looked to Iroh as he seemed seconds away from a nervous breakdown, Blake even straining against Eren’s hold to ground him, when it clicked. ...Oh. “Iroh, it's okay. It's not like you and Damien being a thing is ‘shameful’ to us or anything. Not including you two, I know at least five other gay couples we invited to the wedding. It's okay. Really. And we approve.” He smiled Iroh looked at him stunned for a long moment, glancing over as Levi and Scotty both possessively wrapped an arm around Eren and Casper respectively, the latter two waving to him. ...they're... oh. I thought we weren't... I didn't know it was... okay... for us to be like we are... “O-Oh… I-I didn't th-think… Uhm… th-thank you…” Iroh looked to his feet, nodding in silence as Damien said goodbye to everyone before he followed the larger man back to the car and then waited in further silence as he drove. What's the dog gonna be like? He swallowed hard, his body beginning to shake when they parked, getting anxious as they entered the house-like building. What... Um… Okay, well we're here... What do I do now? He absentmindedly started to scratch his clothed wrist, looking around in slight fear as he heard a loud bark from upstairs.

Damien caught Iroh’s hand, giving him a reassuring look as they walked further into the building, looking around. “Uhm, excuse me? Anybody here?” He looked to the stairs as he heard another bark, the skittering of nails on wood floors.

“Comin’!” Moblit soon came down the stairs, his boots thudding on the steps, looking over to the desk and seeing Damien behind it in all of his biker glory. Well then. “What can I do for you?”

“Uhm, so a friend of mine texted me to come to you... the thing is, my boyfriend is kind of a nervous wreck literally all the time... help.” He looked down and a bit behind him as Iroh peeked out from behind him, immediately shuffling back out of sight when he saw Moblit. ...yeah, this is a thing...

Moblit gave the man peeking out behind him a warm look, a bit surprised at how much of a difference there was between them. He looks so tiny and nervous... you two are like complete opposites. “Yeah, Lathe texted me and told me you’d be coming. He likes Blake, right?”

Damien nodded. “Yeah, Blake was able to keep him from scratching at the restaurant we were all at for lunch. He really took to him, made him stop worrying and smile.” His smiles are rare these days... I want him to be that happy a whole hell of a lot more.

Moblit smiled, nodding. “I think I know who he’d like. Follow me, please.” Moblit led them down a short hallway and into a small room, motioning for them to sit. “I'll be right back with someone I think you'll like, okay? Sit tight.” He left, leaving the door open as he went back upstairs, searching for a specific dog. Where are you...

Damien had his arm around Iroh, murmuring to him quietly to get him to stop shaking so much, kissing his cheek softly. “It's gonna be alright, we’ll find one you like. I'm right here, and this guy looks like he knows what he's doing.” You'll be fine. Damien looked up as he heard Moblit coming back, a set of paws thumping quietly on the floor with him. Moblit walked in leading a dog that looked just like Blake, but bigger, looking to him and then fixing his eyes onto Iroh, pulling just a bit on his leash as he saw the man shaking in his chair.

Felix took careful steps towards Iroh, making sure he didn’t freak out as he stepped up to him, resting his head on Iroh’s lap. Human is nervous, I can smell it… He whined softly, his ears perked and focused on Iroh, his tail beginning to wag when the smaller man started to pet him. Good, he takes well to the petting… His smile is large.

Iroh had a small smile on his face as he timidly pet the large dog sitting in front of him. He’s huge… What if he accidentally crushes me? I’m not all that strong… He heard the dog start to whine as he got nervous all over again. Well, he knows when I’m nervous… Which is good… I think. He let his shoulders slump freely instead of being pinned back in nervousness. I… I think I can do this...

Damien smiled as Iroh relaxed, his hand slipping from his back as he got more comfortable with the dog in his lap. He chuckled as the dog moved so his paws were on the edge of the chair, careful not to hurt Iroh as he licked his cheek, causing the man to sputter a bit and turn his head, seeing him smile. He's smiling!

Moblit gave the man a friendly smile, going to gently bring Felix off of him after a moment.
“Okay, so there are some things he’s trained to do that we have to go over, just so that when he does them, you don't get even more nervous, okay? If he sees you scratching, he's gonna take your hand into his mouth to get you to stop. He’s not gonna hurt you, it's careful and just firm enough to stop you, okay? Can you pretend to scratch at your wrist? Just let him do it when he tries to, okay?” We need to make sure you know what's going on when he acts like he’s trained to.

Iroh nodded, moving to scratch at his wrist, only to find his hand encased in Felix’s jaws. He tried not to make a sound, though his mouth let out a soft squeak. It’s okay, I’m okay…. I'll be fine...
Iroh soon found the nerves to pet the large dog and get his hand released. He’s okay… I can do this.

Moblit nodded, smiling. “Good job. He needs to make sure he has your attention before letting go, so petting him will get him to let you go. Now, we need to practice grounding, just in case it needs to happen. If ever you're beginning to have a panic attack, curled up into yourself somewhere or standing up, Felix will guide you down to the ground and lay you flat, laying on top of you to ground you, trying to get your attention and calm you down. He looks heavy, but he's not going to crush you, if that's what you're worried about. Can we practice that?” He nodded as Iroh shakily nodded. “Alright, I'll hold onto him until you're ready. All you have to do is go over into that corner and curl up, okay? Then Felix will come over to ground you. And remember- in order to get him off, you just need to tell him to rise. Whenever you're ready.” He'll be careful with you- he knows Iroh took in a shaky breath, trying to cool his nerves as he went to the corner of the room, curling up on himself. He finally nodded to let Moblit let go of Felix, watching him come close before he let the dog slowly pull him out towards a clear area of the floor. He started to freak out as he was nudged to lay down, his heart rate rising as fear was quickly set in. He’s huge…. He’s too big… Iroh’s eyes grew large behind the thick glasses, a yelp escaping his lips as Felix started to slowly press weight on his chest.

Moblit watched as Iroh began to freak out even more as Felix got more onto him, watching the dog look up to him every other moment in confusion. Something’s wrong. “Felix, rise.” Moblit reached for him and pulled Felix away from Iroh, Damien moving to sit on the floor next to him and pull him close, trying to calm him down. “Iroh, what’s wrong?”

Iroh hurriedly shook his head, his hand instantly going to pull at his medical alert bracelet which glinted in the lights. He tugged at it out of habit, struggling to calm down, though he started to check his chest, checking for broken bones. “N-nothing… Nothing’s wrong…” No… I didn’t feel anything snap… But…

Damien looked to his bracelet, watching him begin to feel his chest. “…Iroh, I’ve never really pried about what that bracelet is for, but now I wanna know. Why do you wear it?”

Iroh paled as much as his already pale complexion would allow for. “It’s…. It’s um…” His voice was shaking just as badly as he was. Should I tell him? Probably… He’s gonna get angry at me… “I um… I have osteoporosis…. But my bones… They don’t break…. They um… They splinter… And shatter… It’s easy to get hospitalized if they get broken.” I didn’t want a broken rib, I’m always afraid they’re gonna snap.

Damien’s expression shifted to one of worry, deciding to simply move Iroh into his lap, his arms wound around his middle. “Why didn’t you tell me? I’d think it’s important for me to know… is that why it took forever for your arm to heal when you fell down the stairs?” Damien nuzzled into Iroh’s shoulder, his thumb running gently over his stomach, pressing a light kiss to his shoulder blade, willing him to calm down. I'm always really gentle with you... because I never would want to hurt you... but I didn't know that if I ever got too rough with you... really bad stuff could happen...

Iroh nodded, looking over to Moblit, a blush across his cheeks from embarrassment. “Does he… Um… Does he need to be completely on me?” I don’t think I could handle that weight… He’s really heavy… Really really heavy. Iroh started to calm down as Damien held him gently. I was afraid that you were gonna leave when you realized you couldn’t do everything you wanted.
Moblit shook his head. “No, he doesn’t have to. Here, let’s see if something else will work. Uhm, could you let him lay down?” Moblit waited for Damien to shift out from under Iroh and help him lay down, guiding Felix forward. He guided Felix down so his arms were resting on Iroh’s chest, sitting on the floor, able to reach with his head to lick Iroh’s cheek. “Half okay?” That should work better for you. And you’re small enough that just his arms has the right effect.

Iroh was nervous, shaking as he was put under the dog, though he soon started to calm down. “Y-Yeah… That’s… That’s okay…” He’s not crushing me… This, this is okay… Iroh seemed to calm down and gently started to pet the dog again, calming down when he knew he wouldn’t be crushed. I can do this…

Damien smiled as Iroh calmed down again, seeing Felix nudging him with his nose and licking him all over his cheeks. “It looks like he really likes you.” He reached down to run a hand through his pitch-black hair, brushing a lock behind his ear. “What do you think?” You wanna take him home?

Iroh looked up to Damien, a blush forming across his pale features as he smiled softly. “C-Can we take him home?” I don’t know if we’re allowed to do that…. Would you be okay with it? It’s technically your house…. And you don’t let me pay for anything.

Damien smiled brightly, nodding. “Of course we can. And I’ll make sure we can get him home on the plane.” Damien let Iroh command Felix to rise, helping him to his feet and looking to Moblit, grinning as he reached down to pet Felix. “I think we’ll keep him.” He’s going to be really good for Iroh.

Moblit nodded, smiling. “Alright, let’s go up front and we’ll get the papers in order.” Moblit led them back up to the front desk, letting Iroh take the leash from him and walk Felix next to him. He went into a small back room, coming back out with paperwork, looking to Damien. “Alright, I’ve got medical records on him, vaccinations and all that, some stuff on his parents, and then the bill for him. I need signatures in a few places, and we can take any card, but prefer checks. If you want, while he’s doing that, we can find him a vest and some patches for it.” He smiled kindly to Iroh, noticing how he did seem more at ease with the dog next to him.

Iroh nodded before he realized something. “Ah, Um… Who do I make the check out to?” I need to be able to pay for him, thank god I have my checkbook in my jacket. He shifted on his feet, clearly still nervous around others. He started to reach into his jacket to pull his checkbook out from the inner pocket. I can pay for him…

Damien reached out a hand to stop him. “Iroh, let me.” He shook his head as Iroh opened his mouth to protest. “Hey, I was the one to suggest getting one of your own. I want to. Please.” Come on, let me spoil you.

Iroh’s expression fell a little bit. … You never make me pay for anything … I don’t get it… Why do you always pay for everything, even though I’m capable for paying, you always insist. It’s… Do you not trust that I can pay for something… He sighed quietly, deciding not to fight him before he turned over towards Moblit and nodded. “Y-You said p-patches for him…” For Felix…

Moblit nodded, his expression warm. “Yeah, I’ve got a box of them you can pick some from, and a few vests that’ll fit him. You can pick the ones you like.” Moblit motioned for him to follow, patient as Iroh nervously walked behind him into the room to sort through the patches. It didn’t take too long before Iroh had picked a few he liked, putting them neatly onto the vest and fitting it onto Felix. “Let’s see, I need to print you and him ID cards saying you’re his owner, and that you can take him places…” Moblit typed into his computer, Iroh helping him spell his name before two cards printed, putting them both in the pocket of the vest. “As long as he has those two cards on him, you and he will be allowed pretty much anywhere.”

Iroh nodded, a small thank you leaving his mouth as he bowed towards him a little out of habit. Thank you for this, you helped a lot. He pushed his glasses up and pushed his hair behind his ear. Are we gonna get going now?

Damien smiled to him as Iroh walked from the back room, a vested Felix walking with him, handing Moblit the right signed papers and a check, taking the ones he needed. Damien thanked him, his hand on the small of Iroh’s back as they left, walking back to the car to go back to the hotel. He pecked his cheek again, smiling. “I’m sorry, I was the one to ask about getting one. And I wanted to spoil you. Let's go get stuff for him, okay? He needs food and a bed and stuff. I had a dog when I was a kid; I know what he needs.” We'll take good care of him.

Iroh nodded, bringing his knees up with him on the passenger seat. “O-okay.” He put his head on his knees, looking out the window as they went by. I still don’t understand why you like me so much… Even after all these years, I’m just a grad student… And you just smile at me all the time…
Chapter 58: The Wedding

Eren was fixing his makeup in the mirror right alongside quite a few women in the same dress as himself. “Mom… Did you bring the razor with you?” I really need to cut this off after.

Spades was looking into a mirror, her makeup done, wanting to mess with her hair and Phoebe swatting her hands away from it. She had a wide, relaxed smile on her face, suddenly looking over to him. “Hm? Oh, for your hair later?” She nodded when Eren did. “I've got it with, don't worry. After the dance you'll certainly look sharp.” She looked back to her reflection, worrying for the hundredth time if she looked alright. ...I'm getting married...

Eren sighed a bit in relief but he made sure that none of his numerous hickeys were showing around his neck or his chest since the dress was rather low in the front. “Phoebe, can you see if there’s any hickeys that you can see? I wanna make sure they’re covered…” It would be really embarrassing if you can see one of them...

Phoebe looked over to him, brushing a light blue lock from her face, studying him. “I don't see any… wait, scratch that. I can see faint outlines. ...you're just using concealer? Hon, this is why I brought my makeup. You can tell you're wearing concealer. Here.” Phoebe took a makeup wipe and carefully swiped it over the spots to get rid of the concealer, picking up a small tube and swiping some of the contents over the marks, making them instantly vanish. “Professional stuff. Absolutely wonderful.” She looked over her shoulder as someone asked for it, handing it over. “You literally need next to nothing for most stuff. Don't use all of it; it's expensive.” I knew I'd need the good stuff. Backup plans for days. “Stop fussing with your hair, Spades, or so help me…” You're gonna mess it up!

Spades finally put her hands down, struggling not to fuss with her makeup. “I'm sorry, I can't help it… I want to look absolutely perfect… oh my god, I'm getting married…” I can't believe it.

Phoebe rolled her eyes good-naturedly, grinning widely and setting down the hairbrush she was holding. “That's your fifth revelation and counting, Hon. As long as you don't tug at your hair or start to cry and then wipe at your eyes you'll look stunning enough to have Lathe mistake you for a Goddess, believe me.” Your hair took forever to do- I'm not letting my work be for nothing!

“I second that notion!” Eren called as he finished concealing up the last of his large hickeys. For such a tiny guy he makes up for it in marking me. Eren gave Phoebe back her professional concealer before he looked over himself once again, all the way down to where the dress reached his ankles. The heels aren't too bad, and I guess I look good in Navy… Eren let Phoebe take over his long hair, letting her put it into a nice updo before things got into motion. Okay, now I get to see Levi in his uniform again, and he’s walking me down the aisle! He picked his head up as Marcus knocked at the door, a soft smile on his face. “It’s time, Mom, let’s get going…” He watched Phoebe get in front of them to walk Lathe down the aisle. Phoebe’s being his ‘Mom’ right now... and I get to dance with him later which will be nice... He watched the doors close again and the ushers get Casper and Scotty together to walk down the aisle next. Casper’s wearing a dress too, and his purple hair honestly looks really good with the navy dress. He was next ushered out, a blush forming on his face as he saw Levi in his formal uniform. He looks so good... His hands were shaking as Blake followed at his heel like he was trained to do, Levi taking his arm as he led him down the aisle. This is so nerve wracking... and it’s not even my wedding! “What if I trip?” Eren’s words were quiet, a soft smile on his lips a second later.

“Then I’d catch you.” You're not gonna trip. Levi’s voice was as quiet as Eren’s, smirking to him faintly, finding himself a bit distracted by his soft smile. ...he looks amazing... He looked back to the aisle as they walked, glancing around to the people in the pews, some of whom he didn't recognize. I know Lathe invited a mob of old students... that flock over there must be them. Our squad is here, the YouTubers have their circle, Nate actually came, which was nice... I don't think Phoebe actually did it... she said her plus one was her computer, and threatened to bring it and set in a pew with a bow tie on the front... if she did it I missed it.

Eren was quiet as they finally made it down the long aisle, stopping at the end with him and leaning down a bit as Levi pecked his lips quickly, going to their respective sides before turning to look back as Spades came out in her dress in all her glory. Mom looks absolutely stunning.

Lathe was trying hard to force down his nerves, trying not to fidget as he stood at the altar, watching the procession up the aisle. ...oh my god, this is actually happening... He looked up as he caught a glimpse of white, his eyes widening as he saw Marcus beginning to walk Spades down the aisle, every thought but one vanishing. ...she’s gorgeous. ...and I get to marry her. He felt like he had fallen in love all over again, blushing as she soon joined him where he stood, looking completely love-struck.

Marcus was near tears as he handed Spades over to Lathe. “You take care of her for me... She deserves it...” His words were soft as he swelled with emotion, hugging Lathe briskly before returning to his seat. They look so perfect together... my daughter is finally getting married.

Lathe nodded, hugging Marcus back. “Of course I will.” He beamed as they pulled apart, giving Spades a loving look before turning with her to the priest presiding.

Spades gave him a soft nervous smile, her nervousness quickly leaving her as she joined hands with Lathe beside her. It’s.... This is so nice, and I never thought I’d be able to do this ever... She smiled more as they went through the ceremony relatively quickly, and before she knew it, they were saying their ‘I do’s, their rings placed on their fingers, glinting in the light, and a wide smile on her face.
“I now pronounce you husband and wife. You may kiss the bride.”

Finally. Spades’ hands came up to cup his face as she leaned up to kiss him happily. We’re finally married… I’m actually your wife now. She blushed as Lathe dipped her back a bit, their kiss long, the cheering and cat-calls behind them egging them on. Everyone’s so happy… I hope you’re happy too…

Lathe kissed her passionately, his arms wound around her, and when they broke apart Lathe looked to her, his eyes bright and full of love and joy. …you’re my wife. He pulled her into a tight hug, beaming. Oh my god, you’re mine.

Ieva’s eyes were just as bright, a small smile on her face. “You’ll need to think about calling me by my first name from now on.” She smiled brightly, pecking his nose. You’re all mine, and I’m all yours.

Lathe thought a moment. That’s right- you’re not a Spade anymore. “…Ieva Velanova Quo.” He smirked, studying her expression. “…I think I like the way that sounds. …it’s still gonna feel really weird calling you Ieva after years of calling you Spades, though. So if I slip up,” He pecked her nose right back, smiling. “…forgive me.” I’m sure you’ll let it slide.

Ieva nodded, twining their fingers as she ushered him off the alter. “You get to walk me down the aisle now.” I’m all yours… Completely yours.

Lathe’s eyes shone, an arm wrapping around her waist as they began to walk. “That I do…” Lathe squeezed her hand with his free hand, beaming and feeling like a million bucks as people cheered, walking with her back down the aisle. …you’re actually, completely mine now… and I like the sound of that.

They stayed in the church as the crowd slowly dispersed, everyone coming up to them and congratulating them, bear hugs coming from every direction. It's so nice to see everyone again in one place- a reunion for us was waaaay overdue. They stayed until the last people filtered out, just the four of them left as the photographer came in to take photos of them. The next two hours dragged on, each of them getting bored as time went. Eren lost interest first out of the four of them, having to be entertained with Blossom Saga on each of their phones so he didn't lose his mind. Lathe dropped his pose with exaggerated relief when the photographer last told him he was done with that set. They were glad when it was over and they weren’t forced to stand stock-still for endless minutes as the camera flashed at them. Thank god… freedom! They left the church, Lathe with an arm tightly wound around Spades’- Ieva’s- waist, Levi similarly with a hand on Eren’s Ieva sighed as she sat down on their made bed, rubbing her bare arms. “Hmm, how much longer do I need to be in the dress? I know it’s light, but it feels heavy…” She smiled as she looked at Lathe loosening his tie in the mirror. “Mm… I really want him but we don’t have time… I think we might have an hour before we need to go downstairs. “You look handsome.” I will never forget about tonight.

Lathe smirked, his cheeks pink, turning back to her and letting his eyes wander over her frame. “Hmm, a while still… but believe me, I’m fine with you staying in it awhile…” Lathe traipsed back over to the bed, moving to sit next to her and pull her into his lap, pecking her neck lightly and teasingly. “…even if it would look much better on the floor… but there’s no time for that, sadly…” We need to wait before we can have our fun…

Ieva’s face instantly flushed, leaning her head up to peck his cheek. “Hmm… You’re certainly right about that, no matter how much I wanna, we need to look presentable at our reception… How long of a speech do you think Levi and Eren have written? I know Eren was upset that he couldn’t come…” She sighed softly closing her eyes as she leaned her head onto his shoulder, her arms wrapping around his waist. “I remember he tore up what he had been writing and threw it in the trash before he curled up and wouldn’t talk to me for awhile… He’s gotta be ecstatic that he’s here.” She smiled softly, kissing his jaw between her sentences her hand cupping the other side of face. He looked so happy in that dress today… He looked beautiful.

“I’m honestly thinking Eren has a whole rant written out, and he’s gonna jabber on for a bit. Levi… I dunno. I don’t think he’ll talk much, honestly. I have no idea what he’d say. He’s around all the damn time and I have no clue what to expect.” Lathe chuckled, sighing as he felt her breath on his neck. “Casper’s most likely gonna roast the two of us and make dumb jokes for a while… Scotty’ll mostly talk about what a pain in the ass I am… as for the others, Desce and Phoebe, Desce mostly, I dunno what they’d say. We never talked to Desce much, and Phoebe mostly just lurks. Marcus is definitely gonna get emotional and make everyone cry… but all I really know is it’s gonna be a rollercoaster of emotion. A rollercoaster where everyone is saying dumb puns, and a few people are crying the entire time. And by a few people I mean Marcus and Eren.” Oh yeah, they’ll cry. “...and probably me.”...yeah, not gonna lie.

“You’re probably right… And you know you can’t keep it together at all…” She giggled, poking at his nose, her eyes bright with mischief. “Eren’s sitting on the other side of you, so make sure he doesn’t, you know… Freak out… With anything anybody might say… I can only imagine what is going to be said…. Holy shit… We’re married!” Ieva finally finished babbling, looking at her finger in awe at the revelation. I still can't believe it!

Lathe chuckled, leaning down to brush their lips. “Yep- you're all mine.” Lathe kissed her languidly, holding her close as they made out. He broke away from her, shaking his head for a second and chuckling. “...I'm never gonna get used to calling you Ieva... as pretty as the name is...” Lathe blushed as she giggled, pecking his cheek. “...shut up.” He kissed her again as it only made her giggle louder, their kisses full of smiles, holding the other tenderly close. ...I get to keep you now... like... forever.

Ieva smiled even more as she pressed her forehead against Lathe’s. “You’re gonna have to get used to it.” She moved to kiss his jaw down to his ear, kissing the shell as his hands ran up and down her sides and her back. I love this, I could stay like this forever. The hour they had to themselves was up before they knew it, heading down to the large ballroom which held all their guests. Dad should be doing the greetings for the ceremony right about now... She smiled as she heard his voice on one of the microphones, her hand gripping onto Lathe's as they waited to be announced into the room.

Lathe beamed as they were announced, walking into the ballroom as the people around them at the many tables cheered. He looked to Spades as the first few notes of a waltz played, stepping back and bowing to her, offering her his hand. “May I have this dance?” Please?

Ieva smiled softly, taking his hand and coming close to him as she let him take lead. She put her hand up on his shoulder, feeling his large hand on her waist. This is perfect. Her eyes closed as they went through the well practiced steps together, leaning close to him, her head on his shoulder as she smiled. I really liked this. Ieva sighed a bit as the music turned low, the two of them splitting apart after kissing each other sweetly to go dance with their other partner. She picked her dress up a bit to help her walk as she went up to Marcus who took the lead again. I hope Eren remembers how to do this dance...

Lathe kissed her sweetly before turning to Eren, walking over and again offering his hand. He smiled faintly as Eren and he began moving across the floor, studying him for a moment with a quirked eyebrow. “...y’know, I didn't know that I adopted a daughter. I could've sworn I had a son...” He beamed as Eren giggled, glancing over to Levi. “Pretty sure Levi’s getting jelly already. I wonder if that makes him straight...?” Lathe watched Eren blush, his features softening, quiet for a moment. “I'm really proud of you, you know. You've done so much for all of us, and you've held up under all sorts of hell…. I admire that.”

Eren smiled, his whole face heating up in embarrassment. “I’m proud of you too...” His voice was soft, a smile on his face as he thought about what was about to happen. I still can’t believe Mom asked if I could sing that song! He let his feet carry him around the dance floor to the beat of the music. This is really nice.

Lathe smiled as Eren rested his forehead on his shoulder, his cheek on his head as they moved smoothly. He let Eren go as the music ended, watching him and Spades scurry off with matching grins. They're both going? Probably changing to shorter dresses, the both of them. Lathe looked over as Damien came over to herd him to a table with the club, a group of them catching him in conversation for a few minutes while they waited for Eren and Spades. He looked up as Scotty and Casper seemed to notice something and grin madly, only realising what was happening a second too late, both of them grabbing one of his arms and dragging him onto the dance floor in the very middle, kicking his feet out from under him and setting him into a chair, holding him in place. What. “Nonononono lemme go, you jerks!” Lathe was already flushing in embarrassment as they held him at the centre of everyone’s attention, the DJ glancing to a side door expectantly, his hand poised over a button. Oh crap, something’s about to happen… oh my God, what have they orchestrated… Lathe glanced around nervously as people formed a circle around him, Scotty and Casper still keeping him in his seat. ...oh no…

Eren stepped out from the side door, clad in a metallic suit, a sharp black tie a good contrast on his white undershirt. His hair was cut short, still a messy mop of brown on his head, though it was the same hairstyle that he wore throughout high school. Oh I am so ready for this… He hid behind the crowd forming around Lathe, though not well, still clearly visible. Oh fuck it, so he’ll see a few seconds earlier, who cares?

Lathe looked around him at the many people in a tight circle, glaring daggers at them. “You're all traitors is what you are.” Lathe blushed as they all just laughed with bright eyes, looking around and seeing where a small window opened between a few people, his eyes widening as he saw a flash of silver. ...what… was that Eren? Lathe was confused as he looked up as there was new movement, all of his guy friends donning sailor hats that came out of nowhere. ...what the actual fuck is going on. Lathe buried his face in his hands, looking at everyone between his fingers. ...I hate you all.

Eren smirked as he saw everyone start to put sailor hats on, a grin taking over his face as he reached the DJ. “Is everything ready?” When he received a nod and a microphone he turned it on and tapped it to make sure it worked. “Alright, how’s everybody doing tonight?” He got a collective ‘Good’ from the crowd, seeming satisfied as he came close into the circle that had surrounded Lathe. “That’s good, and I’m sure that most of you know me… either you know me because of my singing, or you actually know me, or you actually know my amazing father, ahem, AKA coffeegodsAutonomous on twitter…” He faked a cough as he drew in everyone’s attention to the center of the dance floor as he got closer to where Lathe was actually sitting. “Well anyways, I’m absolutely sure that you’re all confused as to what’s going on exactly, and I’ll keep it short for right now because… It’s a surprise.” Eren had a huge smile on his face as he turned finally to Lathe, facing him as he saw Ieva actually sneak in through the same door as he did to get a mic from the DJ as well. That’s it, just a little longer, good no one saw you…. Awesome. “So, Dad do you have any words before we get this show on the road?” Come on, you obviously think something is going on, and wait until you see what’s actually going down. OH MY GOD IT SHALL BE AWESOME !!!

Lathe just looked at him with a mix of shock, embarrassment, and resignation, just shaking his head at him. …Eren Yeager, you're gonna be the death of me…” ...what the actual hell is going on...
Eren smirked evilly. “For some reason, I knew you were gonna say that, anyways, is everyone ready for some entertainment?” He paused hearing the shouts and wolf whistles from around the room as well as some cheering. “Alright well, this song right here marks the return of Eren Yeager.” He turned on his heels pointing at the DJ. “Hit it!”

The music started instantly along with Lathe’s friends starting right along with it.

_Tarzan and Jane were swingin’ on a vine_

Ieva started singing as she made her way to the dance floor from the DJ booth.

_Candy man, candy man_

_Sippin’ from a bottle of vodka double wine_

_Sweet, sugar, candy man_

Eren picked up right alongside Ieva.

_I met him out for dinner on a Friday night_

_He really got me working up an appetite_

_He had tattoos up and down his arm_

_There's nothing more dangerous than a boy with charm_

_He's a one stop shop, makes the panties drop_

_He's a sweet talkin' sugar coated candy man_

_A sweet talkin' sugar coated candy man_

_He took me to the Spider club on Hollywood and Vine_

_We drank champagne, and we danced all night_

_We shook the paparazzi for a big surprise (a big surprise)_

_The gossip tonight will be tommorow's headlines_

_He's a one stop shop, makes my cherry pop_

_He's a sweet talkin' sugar coated candy man (oh yeah)
A sweet talkin' sugar coated candy man

He's a one stop shop, makes my cherry pop

He's a sweet talkin' sugar coated candy man (oh)

A sweet talkin' sugar coated candy man

Well, by now I'm getting all bothered and hot

When he kissed my mouth, he really hit the spot

He had lips like sugar cane, (oh)

Good things come for boys who wait

(Tarzan and Jane were swingin’ on a vine)

Candy man, candy man

(Sippin' from a bottle of vodka double wine)

Candy man, candy man

(Sweet, sugar, candy man)

He's a one stop, gotcha hot, makin' all the panties drop

(Sweet, sugar, candy man)

He's a one stop, got me hot, makin' my (uh) pop

(Sweet, sugar, candy man)

He's a one stop, get it while it's hot, baby, don't stop

(Sweet, sugar)

He got those lips like sugar cane

Good things come for boys who wait

He's a one stop shop with a real big (uh)

He's a sweet talkin' sugar coated candy man

(Say what) a sweet talkin' sugar coated candy man

(Say) a sweet talkin' sugar coated candy man, woo

A sweet talkin' sugar coated candy man

Candy man, candy man

Candy man, candy man
Candy man, candy man

(Tarzan and Jane were swingin' on a vine

Tarzan and Jane were swingin' on a vine

Sippin' from a bottle of vodka double wine

Sippin' from a bottle of vodka double wine

Jane lost her grip and down she fell

Jane lost her grip and down she fell

Squared herself away as she let out a yell

Squared herself away as she let out a yell)

Oh my fucking god. Lathe was crimson as he recognised the song instantly, watching with wide eyes as Spades and Eren circled him in the ring of people, not knowing how to react. ...the fact that Eren’s singing this makes it even worse … oh my god… ...the song is pretty uncanny, the way it fits for Ieva and I, though… practically the whole damn thing is true… ...Ieva sounds amazing … ...but everyone in those damn sailor hats… my God, I’ll kill them all . Lathe’s cheeks were on fire when the song ended, watching with wide eyes as Ieva came up to him and pried his hands from his face, leaning down to kiss him. ...that was the most embarrassing thing I’ve ever had happen to me… when everyone else gets married, I can just take it out on them and make them feel even more embarrassed. ...the perfect plan. Lathe looked to her as she broke away, chuckling airily for a moment before speaking in disbelief. “...that just happened.” He watched her laugh, beaming as she tugged him to his feet to properly hug-tackle him.

Spades couldn’t help but laugh as everyone cheered from their performance, a huge smile on her face. “It did… Did you like that?” I really hope you did, because I thought that song was completely perfect for us. “Don’t worry, I have plans for Eren’s wedding too.” She couldn’t help the grin that resulted from those words, her arms still tightly wrapped around Lathe’s middle.

“Loved it.” Lathe cupped her cheeks, pecking her nose. “And thank god- I'm so gonna embarrass the hell out of him now.” He deserves it, pulling that little stunt. He chuckled as she kissed him again, still smiling widely.

...well fuck. I knew about the song… but I didn't know about that . Levi traced Eren’s silver-clad figure up and down, pulling off his sailor hat and marching straight up to him. He watched as Eren turned to greet him, cutting off any words by tugging him by his tie into a fierce kiss, tangling their tongues and threading a hand through his now-short hair, not giving a single fuck about the cheers and wolf-whistles he heard behind him. That’s the Eren Yeager I know .
Ieva smirked as she took him to their table, sitting down in their seats as the DJ told them the first round of food would be out shortly. I wanna eat all the food, I remember it was all delicious. “Don’t be too hard on him, I asked if we could do the song, because he can actually hit the high notes….” She had a dopey smile on her face as the food was brought out before them, watching as everyone settled down to begin eating. That definitely kicked off the good party. Her eyes followed Levi and Eren as the two of them came to sit at the long table, on Lathe’s side as Marcus came to sit on her side, her eyes widening when she saw just who Marcus was holding. “Dad! Why do you have Maverick?” Oh my god! Did you just steal a baby? “Relax, I’m letting his mothers have some alone time, and this little guy enjoys the new attention.” He chuckled as Maverick babbled at him, holding onto his shirt with one hand and grabbing at his goatee with the other. This little stinker is after my heart, and I’m not even related to him. “Let me spoil him, I like being able to hold a baby again.” He had a soft smile across his lips, ignoring the food on his plate as he fed Maverick the food he needed to eat. He’s getting big, and he’s only seven months.

Eren sat down next to Lathe, a little weary of what he was going to say about him singing the song with Ieva. He still held a blush from Levi kissing him just a few moments ago. Oh my god, they’re sitting next to me on both sides. His face flushed as his food was set in front of him, swallowing as he unraveled his silverware, expecting to be chewed out by Lathe. I hope he’s not mad.

Lathe just looked over to Eren, shaking his head. “That was quite the stunt you pulled. ...but I literally would try to pull the same damn thing if I were you, so it’s kinda okay.” Lathe grinned like a madman, looking to his hair. “And two things- first, you'd better have had your hair cut while in a pony so you can donate it, and second, have you decided on being my son again? I was kinda enjoying having a daughter…” Lathe joked, smiling as Eren giggled a bit and dug into his food, glancing over to Marcus. “...how on Earth did you convince Sharon to unhand her kid? She's so protective of him.” She's a new mom, with her first kid. ...not to say Maverick himself is complaining, but still. He glanced to Sharon at one of the tables, seeing her cast a worried glance to the table every couple seconds. Huh.

“Trust me, I didn’t receive him from her, I asked Hannah if I can hold him and she handed him over with his food, so I will take over responsibility for the babbling baby for dinner.” His voice was soft, Maverick watching him as he was fed more food, making soft noises every few bites. This is really too cute, I miss having kids.

“Well if Maverick ends up crying or looking distressed for any reason, don't be surprised when Sharon steals him right back. She looks worried.” Yeah, it's understandable though, really. Lathe went back to his food, shooting Ieva loving glances and blushing whenever she caught him. You're so pretty....

Marcus nodded. “Lathe, I had five of my own kids, I think I can handle a baby, and let the new mother have a break for a little bit.” He made sure to keep Maverick entertained as he ate smiling as the small child laughed happily as he pulled at the hair on his face. Kids always liked the facial hair to pull.

That’s too cute… Eren looked back to his food from watching Maverick play with Marcus’s facial hair and suit. He ate some more of the delicious chicken picking at his mashed potatoes. The food’s really good, and I think that speeches are going to start soon. He glanced over to Levi, watching the man eat carefully to avoid getting any food on his dress blues. He looks really hot in that uniform... I wonder if Mom told him about what I was gonna do with my hair? Is he mad that I didn't tell him? He almost seemed to shrink, Blake nudging his foot from under the table, whining. “I’m fine, buddy, I’m fine.” He whispered as he reached his hand down to pet Blake between the ears. Don’t give me away, I’m doing good right now… And honestly I just started shaking from doing that now. Holy fuck… I can't believe I actually did that.

Levi glanced over to a Eren, an eyebrow quirked, looking a bit worried as he rested a hand on his knee under the table. “You doing okay?” He smirked a bit when Eren nodded, thinking. “Everything that just happened catching up to you?” He chuckled quietly as Eren nodded, gently rubbing his knee with a thumb. “Figures. And I kinda like this haircut better- it's not always, ahem, in the way.” Levi drew his hand away as Eren blushed, going back to his own food with a satisfied smirk. I love riling you up. But I'm not lying- I always either ended up tugging on it, laying on it, or getting it in my mouth. ...it wasn't always fun. ...For either party. Dinner was delicious, everyone thoroughly enjoying the food, even Sharon soon able to relax and have fun with everyone away from Maverick for once, animated conversations popping up across the room. You can tell she can definitely use the bit of time not in complete Mom Mode. He took his time to look over everyone in the hall, studying everyone. All of the squad has paired off rather nicely… He glanced down to Phoebe, her phone with a fancy bowtie case on the table next to her. ...I guess that counts too… huh. He looked around, noting all of the smiles and pink-tinted cheeks. ...I don't think anyone ever said the rule was to marry your best friend, but... ...why don't people do that more? It'd make everything so much easier. You both know what the worst of each other looks like. You can criticise each other and not feel bad about telling them what they need to hear. He watched as Felix jumped onto his hind legs, nudging a nervous-looking Iroh. Damien leaned over and murmured quietly to him, patting his leg and pecking his cheek. Iroh dissolved into blushing mumbles, a small smile on his face as he returned to his food, a bit less nervous as he tried to join the conversation. ...and we already know how to make them feel better. He glanced over to the round table where most of their friends from school sat, Jean trying to make amicable conversation with Connie next to him. ...even Jean doesn't look like someone pissed in his cereal this morning. And it’s Jean. He watched as Jean suddenly seemed to turn pink and look over to Marco with a stutter, Marco glancing back to him innocently as he ate his salad. ...yep. Love does that to you, I guess. It's weird. I never would've guessed the person who'd put up with such an asshole would be the sweetest guy we know. You'd think Jean would go after some blonde ditz or something. But nope. He really lucked out. ...and Marco's lucky that Jean's not impossible to civilise. He glanced over to Bert and Reiner, both of the, rather quiet as they ate, sneaking glances to the other. *...still wouldn't've guessed. Everyone liked Reiner, of course, he's a good guy. Bert’s pretty quiet, but he’s scary when he's mad, which isn't often… but one outburst was enough for most people to walk on eggshells around him all the time. ...except Reiner, actually. He acted the exact same way he always did. ...I dunno. All I know is they were seemingly attached at the hip the entire time. I just thought Bert liked having someone to talk to who wasn't triple-filtering their every word and movement. ...he probably liked that too. But there's obviously more to it. He looked over to the two blondes at the table, Armin smiling as Jean talked, Erwin keeping a bit of a careful eye on Jean. ...ah, yes. Eyebrows and our favorite mastermind. Again, they came completely out of nowhere ...I guess you never really know who’s going to end up falling in love. But when it happens, that’s when you see why. ...it’s the deal with everyone here, I guess. He looked around, even studying Lathe and Spades for a moment. You don’t really ponder it until it starts happening. And then, things get rolling, and it either doesn't work out, or you get married. ...huh. It never occurred to me that that's how all relationships really end. Break up, or get married. ...kinda a big idea to tussle with. I understand a bit more what Lathe was freaking out about forever ago... right before Spades came over for dinner and they weren’t even really a thing yet. Break up or marry. ...you can't let that freak you out too much, though. If he did, he’d’ve cancelled on Spades, and he wouldn’t be married to her right now. Speaking of marriage... He glanced back to Erwin, catching his eye and quirked an eyebrow for a moment, smirking. ...isn't it about time you finally give Armin what he wants? Not right now, obviously. But close enough. Levi chuckled quietly as Erwin seemed to read his thoughts, looking away and pointedly turning his attention to his food. Of course it is. He looked up as Marcus stood, Maverick looking happy to be up so high in his one arm, a microphone in the other hand. ...are we doing the speeches now? Already? Yeesh, I've been thinking too much.

Marcus made sure that Maverick was stable in his arm, smiling as he babbled and looked around with wide eyes. Little guy has never been up this high before... hmm, well Hannah was pretty short... and Sharon wasn’t that much taller, so I must seem like a giant to him. Oh well, kids get over the ‘holy shit you're huge’ factor pretty quickly. He cleared his throat, not wanting to sound too rough as he picked the mic up to his face. “Excuse me, can I have everyone’s attention?” He cleared his throat again, waiting as the hall quieted down from the chatter of conversations. “Ah, Thank you, first off I’d like to congratulate the two of you, Ieva you finally found someone we both could approve of, and Lathe, I must say you are my favorite son-in-law.” He chuckled right along with the rest of the crowd. You’re my only... so I would hope you’re the favorite out of the option of one singular person. “And as most of you know, or have picked up from my last statement, I’m Ieva’s father. I live in Buffalo, NY, which yes it’s very far away, at least a 4 hour flight or a 17 hour drive. You might ask why I live up there, alone, and so far away from the rest of my family.... Well, I’ve replaced them all with Siberian Huskies... 8 of them, replacing 4 children and 4 son and daughters-in-law.” He shook his head at the loud gasps that sounded around him. “I’m joking, I’m joking don’t worry....” He turned to look at Ieva. “I couldn’t replace you with anything or anyone in the world. I-” Marcus swallowed hard as he could already starting to feel the emotion clogging his throat and the water welling in his eyes. “I know that I’ve been a horrible father to you after everything that happened 25 years ago, but-” Marcus head to wipe at his eyes. “Sorry, I’m not used to talking about it like this...” He took a few moments to try and calm himself down, Maverick quieting as he watched a few tears run down Marcus’s cheeks. “In that car crash I lost my wife, I lost my sanity, and I thought I had lost your trust... forever.” He had to stop talking again, and take a few deep breaths, struggling to not break down. I can’t do this, I promised Ieva I wouldn’t do this on her wedding day. “But being in that accident never put you down, you took it in stride... and you were stronger than I could’ve asked for, because you got over it, you grew up... You grew up... Into a fine young woman who I couldn’t be more proud of...” He paused again to rub at his eyes shifting Maverick in his hold, a sad smile on his face as he turned to Lathe. “And my favorite son-in-law... I met you 24 years ago, on a cold winter night and knew you were a good guy right away. I’m glad that you were the one that Ieva’s chosen to spend the rest of her life with. You couldn’t have chosen better, you two are so well suited for the other. You’ve raised Eren for the past 5 years, and I think you’ve both left a great impression on him, and I hope you will be able to have your own children someday. I wish your marriage well, and I’m letting you know that I’m going to spoil them all rotten.” He smiled softly, Maverick giggling in his arms as he spoke, turning to walk to where Levi was, handing him the microphone before going over to Ieva.
and Lathe to go hug them.

It's my turn, isn't it. Levi nervously swallowed before he stood, taking the microphone from Marcus and smiling softly to him before turning to the hall. “Of course, congratulations to the both of you. If you didn't know, I'm Levi, Eren’s boyfriend.” He was quiet for a moment, glancing over to Lathe a bit nervously. “I uh... I never really talked about it, but I never had much family growing up... sure, I had my uncle making sure I stayed fed and sheltered, but that was really it... Lathe, when you came into the picture and adopted Eren as your own son so easily... you adopted me too. You didn't even know us for more than a week and you were already bending over backwards for the both of us, getting things in order and trying to make us feel welcome and safe in your home... and you did such an amazing job of it. I'm... I'm really happy that I get to have a Dad again... and a mother too of course.” Levi smiled faintly as Spades playfully glared at him for a second before smiling again. “I just... you both have done so much for me and have really made me feel like family... you've never questioned where I came from or tried to keep me from doing the things I loved... You've been a great support system and...” Levi somehow kept his face stoic as he spoke, his voice shaking for just an instant and stopping, brushing a single tear from his cheek. Don't break down... don't do it... “...I'm so, so grateful for that...” Levi looked up as Lathe stood, coming over to hug him to his chest tightly, his arms winding around his back. Levi invisibly shook, his face buried in his chest, quiet, only Lathe able to hear him. “...I love you guys so much...” Thank you...

Lathe smiled as Levi pulled him into a tight hug, rubbing his back gently. “We love you too, Levi. We really do.” You really are family.

Levi needed a moment before he could let go without fearing he was going to sob, smiling weakly to him and handing off the microphone to Eren. I'm gonna cry if I keep talking...

Eren looked to the microphone and pulled out the many folded up pieces of paper which appeared to have been torn apart and taped back together again. “Let’s see here.... Um, what was I gonna say?.... Oh yeah, hi, again, I’m Eren Yeager.” He looked down to the paper making a few sounds as he skimmed it. “Yeah... Tell Dad he’s awesome.... Hmm, joke about his casino bans.... Yadda yadda yadda.... He picked me up from school.... Someone should probably alert the police... Oh yeah, mom’s a cop... Eh... Let’s see where was I again?” He continued to speak to himself as he flipped through the multitudes of paper, before making an exasperated sound and throwing the papers up in the air and let them flutter to the ground a big grin on his face. Well, I bet they all think I’m crazy now, but fuck it. “Oh wow, it got quiet in here.... And I was talking to myself again wasn’t I...?” He sighed as a few people nodded, turning and pointing to Lathe. “It’s that man’s fault! I’m turning into him! I swear it!”

Lathe had a wide grin on his face, his eyebrows raised as he dramatically placed a hand over his heart, joking with him. “You say that like it's a bad thing! You wound me.” Oh my god, this is gonna be good.
“Hey! Who knows? It might be a bad thing impersonating a millionaire. You never know!” Eren’s smile took over his face. “But I’m pretty sure that you were impersonating me first, I believe I acquired the million before you did. Ha. Sucker.” Eren shrugged, walking around the scattered papers as if he were going to start to talk to the crowd all over again, completely ignoring Lathe and Ieva for the time being. “I want to start this whole rant that you are about to hear off with a little bit of a back story… You see Lathe here used to be a substitute teacher… I know, shocking right? The man who loves kids wished to be surrounded by them so much that he decided to teach them! Incredible!” He paused, dashing over to the table and grabbing his large glass of water and took it with him, sipping it for a few moments. “Sorry, need to stay hydrated for later tonight, anyways, Lathe was substituting my first period chem class, it was a lab day that ended with flashes of things burning, oh yeah he set everything he possibly could on fire! And another surprise: no one got hurt.”

“Hey, I was being careful! I wore the safety goggles and everything!” Lathe looked over to Ieva as she gave him an incredulous look, trying to defend himself. “There was a fire extinguisher two feet away! And it wasn’t as if I was burning huge objects or something! It's not like I'd let them all get hurt!” I was being careful, but in a reckless manner. ...but still careful.

Eren looked back over his shoulder to Lathe at his little outburst. “I swear, this guy just wants to interrupt me.” He shook his head as everyone around laughed, waiting for them to quiet down, putting his free hand in his pocket. “Dad… He got me out of a bad place, not many people know, well, maybe more people than I think know, but I was being abused by my biological father: mentally, physically, and sexually….” Silence blanketed the large ballroom, everyone looking at Eren from a new perspective. “I was, as Jean would put it, a suicidal bastard. I felt like everyone just threw me away even though they knew nothing about me, and I was definitely ostracized for being a sixteen-year-old freshman. It hurt, it hurt a lot, and I bet a lot of you probably knew what my mentality was like, cause I’m sure everyone in this room at some point has felt like they were nothing in the eyes of others.” Eren nodded, his voice beginning to shake a bit. “That man, that man who we all love and adore, opened up his arms so quickly it made my head spin, and whenever I felt like that again, like the whole world was against me, he opened my eyes all over again and helped me see that small silver lining in life. That man right there, he adopted me within a week after he became aware of my existence.”

Lathe was on his feet again, coming up to Eren and giving him a hug, feeling him shudder hard in his arms. ...it didn't take even a week for me to know you needed someone to help you... and to know that that person had to be me. I couldn't let you go through a foster system that's so wholly broken... I couldn't risk you getting hurt more, or getting put in the hands of someone unwilling to do more than help you barely survive. I wanted to help you mend... I wanted you to be happy.

Eren tried in vain to stop his shaking, snagging the handkerchief from Lathe’s side pocket and shooing him away from the center of the floor as he wiped at his face with the light blue fabric. “Thanks, Dad…” He cleared his throat looking at the fabric in his grasp. “You all see this fabric? Most of you know that this handkerchief, if you pulled it out of Dad’s pocket any time before I was put in a 3-week long coma, it would be red. But you see now, that it’s a light blue color. Most don’t really think about why he suddenly switched colors, I mean who would even think that that’s important? Some of you might think it got too worn to use again and he had to buy another and they only had light blue, far fetched yes, and no, not true. Dad, as I’ve found out from Mom has had a red handkerchief on him since he was my age, I’m 21…. So it’s been at least 17 years since he started carrying one, and it’s always been red. So why the change? Well, this wonderful man, that sits before you, who married the love of his life today, changed for the kid he adopted. I’m not even his, but when I came out of my three week long coma, we found out that I had even more trauma than I had originally…. Which led to me not being able to have that red handkerchief near my face at all. Mom told me as soon as we got home from the hospital, he went out and got rid of all his red ones and replaced them with light blue ones. It really shows how much he’ll try and make someone’s life better by helping with the small details that he finds need fixing. He changed a habit, selflessly, he offered up a home, selflessly, and he opened his arms, willing and wanting.”
He turned to Lathe, holding onto the handkerchief still. “I couldn’t have asked for more from you, really…. Actually one thing, I kinda want some siblings! I want a little brother!” Eren grinned wildly coming up to Lathe and giving him a big hug as he stood only a few inches shorter than Lathe, his head nuzzled into Lathe’s chest.

I hope I did okay… I really don’t know if I can say anything more without crying hysterically… because oh my god… my Dad got married … does that make Mom my step-mom?

Casper chuckled, standing as he was handed the mic, smiling warmly as Eren bear-hugged Lathe.
“Trust me Eren, I'm sure they'll get right on that.” He watched Lathe and Ieva turn bright red, Lathe glaring at him as someone in the hall whistled. “Come on, it’s my job to embarrass you.” He ambled out onto the floor, his grin lopsided. “So for those of you who don't know, I'm Casper Pandreivitch, and I'm about to tell you all about the antics of one Lathe Autonomous Quo during high school. And don't interrupt me, you asked for this.” He pointed to Lathe, who looked frustrated as he shut his mouth, already embarrassed. “So. About twenty trillion years ago this guy was young and went to high school, decided he wanted something entertaining to do after classes, and started The Club. The Club didn’t have a name, we didn't have bake sales, and we only had a page in the yearbook during his senior year. It was just The Club. And it was lit.” He chuckled, running a hand through his hair as his thoughts ran. “I swear, everyone in that club had at some point owed Lathe a huge favor because he saved them from getting their face punched in or from losing their minds. I was a freshman when he was a senior, and he kept me from being beat to shit on my first day because even then, I had my hair dyed. He defended Phoebe who had a really posh British accent and still does. He was the only person who would talk to Damien when he was in that four-year goth-punk phase that medium-key creeped you out until he showed up one day and just started doodling everywhere. He helped Marc pull his head out of his ass on Valentine’s Day and give a rose to Brooke, who are now very happily married. ...he helped a lot of us out of some dark places. Sometimes instead of playing cards or whatever we all would just talk for two solid hours about whatever it was, parenthood or sexuality or whatever it was. We all had serious talks then, and we needed them. He opened good dialogue for us… and by his sophomore year everyone knew he would literally fight to the death to protect one of us. He broke his wrist for one of us. He mother-henned all of us when we were in college, when we drank too much and were an emotional wreck, like when I fell for that formerly homophobic goon over there.” He jerked a thumb to Scotty, who had the grace to look a bit embarrassed. “He gave everything that he had to make sure the people around him were okay when he was the one with nothing left to lose. He's been so selfless for as long as I've known him and… and we all want to say thank you… for dealing with all of our bullshit and keeping us from getting ourselves killed.” He grinned wearily, marching up to Lathe and sighing, him and Ieva able to hear him. “You're a crazy motherfucker, and we love you.” He pulled Lathe into a crushing hug, grinning madly as he broke away and handed the mic over to Scotty. “You're up, love.” Let's see what you wrote.

Scotty silently cursed to himself as he pulled out his folded piece of paper and took the microphone, clearing his throat as he stepped up towards the center of the floor. “Okay, well, for starters…. My name is Scott Octavian, and every calls me Scotty, I’m a doctor, I’m still trying to go back to get my specialization in bones and all that good stuff, but right now I’m listed as an ER surgeon.” He shuffled a bit on his feet. “Well, I can say that out of our friend group, I probably knew Lathe the least when we were growing up. I transferred in halfway through Freshman year, I was somehow much much shorter than I am now, and Casper was apparently always staring at me from behind my back.” He smiled as the crowd laughed, a small sigh escaping him. *Good, I’m at least somewhat funny… “I knew Lathe for like half a year, maybe a little less, then he went off to college, and I thought I’d seen the last of his crazy ass, but was I very wrong…. I picked the same college he went to, because you know, at some point we were all doctors… Except for Casper, he was following me around just to stare at my ass some more….But it was good, Lathe helped me with some family issues that went on while I was in college, and he helped formulate a plan which would hopefully get me through med school, and what do ya know? It did. So I got through med school, at about the same time Lathe should’ve been finishing up his residency. I picked a hospital that I thought would be far enough away from him to get away from his crazy…. But I swear this guy is like a moth drawn to light! He transferred into my residency! How am I supplied to get away from him if we’re in the same hospital!? On the same floor no less? Then- Of course - Mr. Crazy always had to eat lunch with me. EVERY. SINGLE… DAY! So I was doing good with attempting to deal with Lathe, then what do you know! Casper finishes up Pharmacy School! And where does he end up? Our hospital…. I swear, I can’t get away from either of them! Like at all! Anyways, the moral of this story is that Lathe’s a psychotic stalker, good luck with that Ieva…. And Casper was so persistent that it eventually worked. So Casper, come back out here.” You’re probably only half the way gonna kill me for this… He watched Casper confusedly get up from his seat and join him on the dance floor. Okay, well he came out here…

Casper walked out to join him, quirking an eyebrow. “What’re you gonna make me do? I’m very suspicious.” I was not informed of this.

“Well, here, hold this.” He gave him his folded sheet of paper and the microphone and then rifled with his free hand through one of his inside pockets, pulling out a ring case and slowly getting down on one knee. You’re gonna kill me…

Casper took the things with a quirked eyebrow, looking to Scotty as he went through his pocket. His eyes widened as he saw the small box, flushing as Scotty dropped to one knee. Oh my god…..

“Casper…. Will you do me the honor of marrying me?” Please say Yes….

Oh my god…. Casper had a hand over his mouth in shock, beaming, looking ready to cry in Scotty smirked as he was pulled up, kissing him deeply, wrapping his arms around Casper’s waist, keeping his head bent for him. Oh thank god… I honestly wouldn’t’ve known what to do if you hadn’t said yes… He picked his head up, a huge smile on his face. “I love you, you know that?”

Casper tilted his head, his eyes bright. “I dunno, you may have said it once… or twice… or twenty times…” Casper leaned up again to peck his lips. “I love you too, babe.” He then dragged him off the floor so they could go sit. He handed the microphone off down the table, sitting down with him, gripping his hand tightly. Mine.

Phoebe whistled as Casper tugged Scotty into a bruising kiss, waiting for them to break apart. She took the microphone as it was passed down to her, watching them sit close together, Scotty’s arms wound around Casper’s middle, suddenly tugging the violet-haired man into his lap, both of them blushing furiously. She smiled as she walked to the floor, her accent sweet and strong. “‘Ello! I’m that British person Casper mentioned, Phoebe Britannica, and I might as well just give up now because there’s no way anyone here could top that. First off, congratulations you two.” She looked pointedly to Scotty, grinning as he just leaned down to kiss Casper’s cheek in response. “And congratulations you two!” She looked to Lathe and Ieva, beaming as Lathe moved to kiss her cheek. She looked back to the hall, pacing as she talked. “So yeah, I’m Phoebe. Hello, hi, I like your tie!” She pointed to Jean’s tie as she ambled around the floor, flicking her finger up to hit his nose as he looked down, surprising him. “Made you look.” She grinned as Jean stared at her with a deer-in-the-headlights expression, her demeanor casual, everyone in the room torn between amusement and shock, Marco trying to hide a grin. “So yeah. I was told to ramble, so I will. I came to America from the U.K. when I was fourteen, and my accent nearly got my nose broken my first day in high school. Yes, I’ve been in London. No, I’ve never met the Queen. But I write funny and say words really weird because I can. I married my computer and I do the thing where you tell it how to do stuff, which can be hard because apparently if you don't spell things in American English, stuff kinda…. doesn’t work.” She smiled sheepishly, hearing chuckles around her. Yay, I'm doing the funny! Sorta. “I dunno, when I came to America- and yes, it was by myself, surprisingly enough- I obviously knew nobody. To be honest, I don't even remember why I originally gravitated towards Kansas anyway. It was probably because of the Wizard of Oz or something. Anyway, I had to pick, so I came here. I was on the school grounds for a good hour and by that time people had decided that because I had an accent I was apparently conceited and then avoided me like the plague, I almost got beaten up, I was saved from being beaten up, and then saw the person who defended me get fussed over by someone who became one of my first really good friends.” She nodded to Ieva. “You two and that Club were the best things to ever happen to me. I had someone as a friend who would defend me in battle,” She looked to Lathe, her voice joking lightly. “-And then I could turn around and complain about whatever I wanted and you wouldn’t zone out or anything. It was great!” She smiled, waving off her own comment. “But honestly, I'm really glad that you two didn't take the lead the rest of the school had and decided talking to me wasn't gonna be the end of the world. I actually ended up with friends… more than I had even in the U.K… and that was a lot more than I could've asked for…” She smiled, shrugging one shoulder. “I guess my story has a moral- as long as Lathe keeps his will to fight to the death, Ieva will have plenty to fuss over. It probably hasn't been the last time. Try not to drive each other insane, okay? And Hon, everytime I look at you I think you've been set on fire. If you change it I'll be sad.” She drew a tear down her cheek with one finger, laughing a bit as she came back off the group.

I did a thing!

Armin was listening to the conversation, only vaguely interested as Erwin spoke, Marco and Jean still sitting next to them. I get that you’re not much of a dancer, but we were only out for one song, really… I wanna dance even if we look like idiots… half the people do anyway. …no offense, but really. Armin picked his head up when he heard the crowd quiet down, seeing people coupling up on the dance floor, perking up.

A slow dance.

“Erwin, I don’t care if you have two left feet. Dance floor.” Armin turned to him, not caring that he cut him off, standing. “Please? I wanna dance at least a little bit…”

Erwin looked surprised at the sudden action, his brow furrowing a bit, glancing away with nerves.
“I, Uhm…”

Armin looked over as Marco murmured in Jean’s ear, whatever he said enough to get Jean up and out to the floor. “C’mon, if Marco can get Jean to dance, you can get out there too.” Armin held out his hand, looking to him expectantly. C’mon, I wanna dance… it gives me an excuse to cling to you...

Erwin patted his pocket, making sure he still felt the box. Well I guess now is as good a time as ever… He nodded, taking Armin’s hand and letting the smaller blonde drag him onto the dance floor. He smiled a bit as they managed to make their way towards the middle where Levi and Eren were waltzing around without a care in the world. Well I guess it’s not that bad… He held onto Armin’s waist as he pulled him close, gently swaying with him to the music. What do I tell him though? I know I’ve been planning this out for forever… but… Fuck what am I supposed to say?
We’ve already had one proposal tonight...

Armin reached up, his hands winding around the back of his neck, leaning his head on his chest, listening to him. I can hear your heartbeat… …this is nice… They swayed together, trying not to step on the other’s toes. If I do, I’m sorry.

Erwin shifted as Armin did, not bothering to mention anything if Armin stepped on his feet. He pecked the top of his head as the slow song continued, almost content with watching Levi and Eren continue their dance around them. “Armin?” His voice was soft as he held him a little closer. I can do this… I can get down on one knee and ask you...

Armin pressed himself a bit closer to him, his eyes shut, humming a bit. “Mm? Yeah, Erwin?” I
“You know that I love you, right?” I need to make sure, I know it sounds really silly, but I want to make sure before I ask…

Armin looked up to him, smiling faintly. “Of course I know. You tell me all the time. I love you too, you know.” I really do…

“Good, because I have something important to ask you.” Before I leave, I needed to ask…

Armin looked confused for a moment, before a thought occurred to him, his eyes widening. You don’t mean… “….are you….?” …are you gonna ask me…?

“Armin, I’ve loved you since the day I met you, and I want to be by your side as long as humanly possible.” He got out a silver box, getting down on one knee and opening it, a large diamond sitting on top of the silvery band. “Will you marry me?” Oh please say yes! I know you’ve wanted me to ask…

Armin flushed, his hands coming to his face in shock. Oh my god….. “Erwin…. yes …..” He nearly started crying as Erwin slid the ring onto his finger, his hands coming to cup his jaw as he stood, Erwin pulling him into a sweet kiss. I love you….

Erwin smiled happily, cupping Armin’s cheeks as he kissed him happily. God, I love you… I love you so much… “I love you, Baby….”

“I love you too…” So much… Armin smiled into their kiss, and for that moment, on the dance floor, it was just the two of them.
Chapter 59: Lathe Night Additions

Lathe blinked awake at an oddly familiar sound, trying in his sleepiness to place it. ...*it's not a good sound... but why do I know it so much... it reminds me of the hospital... *wait. Ieva. Lathe sat up as he heard her retching in the bathroom, feeling the other side of the bed for a moment. Cold. It's been awhile. He threw on boxers quickly and padded to the door, wincing as he saw her hunched over the porcelain, emptying her stomach of its acid. That doesn't look good. “Ieva, are you okay? How long has it been?” He hovered in the doorway, not sure if she’d want him so close while she was so sick. What could it be? Stomach flu doesn't crop up so quickly and severely, from what I know... it's too early. ...hangover? No, she doesn't drink... was it something she ate? ...but we all had the same thing, pretty much... if it’s just her... ...God, I hope it's not food poisoning...

Ieva grimaced as she retched again, finally feeling her stomach settle once again, enough where she could lean back and flush the toilet of the acrid smell. “An hour at least...” She wiped off the drool that slipped from her lips, a disgusted look on her face. “Most likely longer, maybe two? I don’t know how much acid there is to throw up anymore.” I would feel fine and try to wash my mouth out before coming right back to throw up again... Fuck if I ate something I am going to kill the catering service. She sat back against the wall, looking at Lathe with exhaustion. She was wearing one of his shirts and panties, her long hair tied up to try and keep it out of the porcelain bowl. “Too long in my opinion.”

...two hours?! “Waaaay too long in a doctor’s opinion, too. If it's really been that long, I don't think it can be much else.” He moved next to her, gently feeling her forehead and taking her pulse. “...you don't really have a fever. You're warm, but with that much nausea, you'd have to be burning. I think you ate something bad. Really bad. ...we should probably get that checked out. Can you stand?” He held out his hands in offering. Can you move and not pitch again?

Ieva looked between the toilet she had been cradling and Lathe’s hand before taking it and slowly standing up. “We should probably hurry before I feel sick again.” I don’t even wanna try and clean my mouth out, it’ll just make me throw up all over again. She was shaky on her legs as Lathe helped her out to the rest of the room to sit on the edge of the bed as he got clothes for the two of them.

Lathe brought Ieva clothes and quickly dressed, helping her into her clothes and tying her shoes for her. He kept one hand gently around her waist as he guided her to the door, leaning heavily on him as they walked to the elevator. He hit the button for the ground floor, keeping her steady as the elevator lurched. His eyes widened as they walked to the lobby, the windows showing how dark it still was outside. Fuck, it's so early... what time is it? He glanced to the clock above the front desk, the person at the computer looking tired. It's four thirty... “I didn't realise how early it was...” Lathe led her to their car, helping her inside before hopping in himself, trying to keep the drive smooth as they headed to the hospital. Wichita General is closest, I think...

Ieva closed her eyes as the headlights from oncoming traffic made her nausea return. Keep it together... Keep it together, you’ll be okay... “Lathe...” Her voice was apprehensive as she reached out to grab at his arm, his fingers curling into the fabric of his shirt. I feel sick again… Shit.

Lathe glanced over with worry, still keeping most of his attention on the road. “It'll be just a few more minutes, Hon, just hang on for a bit.” He slowed for a red light, grateful that the car was still for that short time, passing her sunglasses as she murmured about the lights. “These'll help. Just take deep breaths through your nose. Just focus on breathing, okay? It won't be long.” We’ll get this sorted out soon.

Ieva nodded slowly, trying not to really turn her head at all in fear that she’d lose to the nausea. I do not want to throw up in Lathe’s car. She let him put her sunglasses on and waited for them to pull up to the hospital. It wasn’t very busy for being so early on a Sunday morning. Fuck, I don’t think I can walk. “Lathe… I-I don’t think I can walk…” I hope I can be seen right away, I don’t know if I can wait to be seen…

Lathe nodded, getting out and moving to her side of the car, easing her out of the seat and into his arms. He hip-checked the door shut before walking smoothly to the front doors, looking to the woman at the front desk, his voice a bit worried. “Uhm, hi, we think my wife has food poisoning. …help?” She's really not doing okay…

The lady at the desk nodded and got up from the seat, motioning for Lathe to follow her as she opened two large swinging doors with the push of a button for them. First get her on a bed, then start asking questions. She hiked up the front of a bed a bit so she wasn’t laying completely flat. “Can you lay her down?” She grabbed a clipboard as she paged a doctor to come down to the front to get her and get her into a room. “Okay, honey, I’m going to ask you a few questions, so you need to answer me to the best of your ability.” She smiled when Ieva nodded subtly, getting her pen out of her hair and poising to write. “What’s your name?”

“Ieva Quo, but I just got married so all my documents are under Ieva Spades.”

The nurse nodded and scribbled it down. “Can you tell me why you’re here?”

“I woke up around two hours ago, and started throwing up almost non-stop.”

Poor dear. “Can you tell me if you take any medications?”

“None.”
“Any alcohol in the past 24 hours?”

“I don’t drink… So no.”

“Okay, any smoking?”

“No.”

“Are you pregnant or breastfeeding?”

“No.”

“When was your last period?”

“Four weeks ago.” I’m supposed to get mine starting tomorrow. God if this is from that…. So help me...

The woman made a soft noise as she nodded. “Tomorrow?” When she received a nod from Ieva she nodded. “Anything else bothering you besides throwing up?”

“No.”

“Is vomiting like this normal around this time of the month?”

“No I’ve never been nauseous before now.”

The nurse hummed as she wrote everything down before handing the clipboard off to the woman who was dressed in scrubs, covered with a white jacket. “Hi, Ieva, I’m Dr. McCarthy, let’s go get you in a room okay?” She smiled as Ieva nodded, the small woman unlocking the bed stand and rolling her towards an empty room.
...I know your face. “...Anna? Is that you?” Lathe looked to the woman curiously as he spoke, seeing her look up to him, realisation dawning on both their faces. “Sina High, Honors English?” I remember that’s the first damn class I ever taught...

“Ho~ly shit…. Well if it isn’t Mr. Quo. You turned out pretty great, I mean, you haven’t aged at all… What’s it been? 12 years? You still teaching at Trost?” I remember Senior English, you let us get away with everything ! She wheeled Ieva into the room and set her up with a few monitors before getting the curtain up and getting a gown ready for her. “I’ll help you get changed, don’t worry.” She told Ieva quietly as she started to remove her clothes.

Ieva was relieved with the help she got and was soon out of her clothes and into the hospital gown. I feel like I’m gonna be sick again. “Lathe…” Her voice was full of fear as she looked over to him panicked, feeling the wave of nausea hit her like a ton of bricks.

Lathe immediately snatched at a bin, handing it to her and running a hand soothingly over her back as she hunched over it, trying not to puke. He looked up to Anna, holding off on answering her questions. “No, haven’t for a few years, but that’s not important for the moment.” Just give her the rundown. “Ieva woke up two hours ago with nausea, vomiting practically nonstop. She doesn't have a fever high enough for it to be from the flu or anything like that, and her pulse is about normal, so I think it’s food poisoning from the catering last night. I don't know what else it could be…” Nothing else immediately comes to mind...

Anna nodded, going and tapping a few things on the heart monitor. “Okay, Ieva, I’m gonna let Lathe take care of your vomit, since you feel comfortable with him by your side, I’m going to get a catheter so you won’t need to get up.” She went off quickly to go get the supplies she needed.

“You know her?” Ieva asked quietly as she looked over to Lathe as he took care of her vomit. I hate being like this, it makes me feel so weak. She closed her eyes as Lathe came back and threaded his fingers through her hair. Your hands feel really nice.

Lathe nodded. “Yeah, she was a Senior the first year I started teaching. The English teacher was out for medical reasons for about half the year, they needed someone to take over the class. Cue me, who somehow actually managed to both be the chilliest teacher there and help them get ready for their exam at the same time. It was pretty easy after you announced no homework. Then they actually paid some attention.” They all actually listened. It was great. “I'm pretty sure that giant study thing I made for the exam is still floating around in that school… it wasn't exactly the best time for a teacher to get hurt.” Having a long-term sub while you're in exam mode isn't always great. Unless that sub is me.
Ieva nodded, leaning her head against his hand. “I’m sorry that we’re in a hospital right now… I didn’t really mean to get sick…” And it’s all my fault we’re here...

“Honey, it’s not your fault. I swear to God, I’m sending in a complaint if it really was the food. Getting my bride sick…” He gently pecked her cheek, looking around and trying to lighten the mood a bit as he spoke. “And I’ve spent plenty of time in hospitals. It’s not like I mind it. We’re here to get you better, and this is like my natural habitat anyway. It’s fine.” He smiled, pecking her temple as he saw her faintly smile. Yay, you’re smiling!

Ieva chuckled a bit, watching as Anna came back with the catheter, asking if she was ready, which she nodded, and soon Anna left once again with a urine sample. She closed her eyes when the need to vomit settled down and she could actually sleep more than a few moments. I’m really tired.

Anna came back an hour later, the urine sample tests in her hands, a smile playing across her face. “Oh good, she’s asleep. That means the morning sickness wore off…” Congratulations…

Lathe looked at her in confusion as she spoke, his voice quizzical. “…what do you mean, ‘morning sickness?’” She’s not pregnant. ...she… she’s not… is she…?

“Congrats… The tests I ran came back positive.” She gave him the sheet of paper and then the three pregnancy tests she did were in a bag, all with positives. “She’ll be happy that it’s nothing serious…” Just the first time with wicked morning sickness…

Lathe took the papers from her with wide eyes, staring hard at the tests. ...she’s... oh my god. “...she’s pregnant. Oh my god…” Lathe looked to Ieva, gently nudging her awake. “Ieva, wake up, you should know something-” He jumped as his phone suddenly rang loudly, recognising Eren’s ringtone. Oh my. He quickly answered it, worried as he spoke. “Eren? What’s wrong?” He listened as Eren babbled worriedly on the other end, scolding him for leaving without telling him. “Yeah yeah, okay, I’m sorry, I had to take Spades to the hospital. She was really sick this morning, and we thought something was wrong with what she ate. …but that’s not what was wrong.”

“ Oh god, Dad… Where are you? I’m coming…” Levi’s tired mumbles of ‘why are you up so early’ were drowned out by Eren putting the phone on speaker and quickly running around to get dressed. I need to go to them… I can’t lose another parent…
“Eren, will you calm the hell down please? Ieva’s fine. She really is. Nothing bad happened. I can only say it’s very good. Now get here so we can explain things, okay? And try not to wake everyone on the floor up. They’d all like to sleep, most likely.” That’s a thing people do.

Eren was still continuing to freak out. “Dad don’t fucking candy coat things, just tell me what the fuck happened!” His voice carried a hint of dread, like Lathe was lying to him just for his sake.

“It’s five in the goddamn morning... ugh, I’m up, stop hitting me with the damn pillow!” Levi could be heard grumbling as Eren got him up, obviously much more chill about the situation. Lathe heard him snap up the phone and take it off speaker, his voice much clearer after a moment. “Where are you two exactly? We’re coming to find you.”

“Witchita General- the closest hospital to the hotel. Room 12A. And please, get Eren to calm the hell down if you can. It’s a good thing, promise. Now get the hell over here.” Come on, Eren won’t actually stop panicking until he gets here and hears it for himself.

“Can do. Eren, you're gonna fucking break something, calm the hell down.” Levi could be heard talking to Eren before the line cut, Lathe hanging up as well and stowing away his phone. He turned to Ieva who looked at him tiredly, pecking her cheeks. “So, the kids are coming to make sure you’re okay… and you are. ...you both are.” He smiled, holding out his hand with the paper and tests in it as she looked at him confusedly. “Ieva… you’re pregnant.” You’re finally pregnant… He tugged her gently close, one hand softly drifting to her side, his thumb running over her stomach. You have a teeny human in you...

Ieva’s eyes widened. “W-what…? B-but, I-I… I can’t be… H-How?” Her eyes were the size of dinner plates, a hand coming to cover her mouth in disbelief as she took the tests from his hands. Oh my god… Oh my god… I’m pregnant ...

Lathe held her close, smiling widely and pressing loving kisses all across her cheeks when he heard a commotion down the hall. He looked up as Eren slid into the room, seeing them on the bed, Ieva crying as she clutched the test. Oh my. “Eren, Hon, calm down and let me explain-”

Eren’s eyes widened even more as he saw Ieva crying in Lathe’s hands. “Dad really? You weren’t gonna tell me anything over the fucking phone? Mom’s in tears … and you tell me it’s good news? I told you not to fucking sugar coat it! I don’t know if you know or not but I can’t do that right now! I can’t be told something’s perfectly okay when it’s not! The last time someone told me that my mother died!” He shouted, tears already starting to spill, shaking his head. “I don’t wanna lose another parent.” I don’t think my heart could handle it...
Lathe looked to Eren with worry, grateful as Levi hugged him from behind, trying to comfort him. He noted the knowing look in Levi’s eye as he glanced to Ieva’s hands, smiling and reaching for one of the three tests. “Eren, Hon, it really is good news. Nobody’s dying. Quite the opposite, actually.” He showed them the positive test. “Someone new is growing.”

“Eren, Hon, it really is good news. Nobody’s dying. Quite the opposite, actually.” He showed them the positive test. “Someone new is growing.”

Teeny human…

my teeny human…

our teeny human…

Eren snatched the test from Lathe, a worried look on his face soon melting into relief and a smile on his face as the tears continued to fall but for a better reason. “Oh my god… Mom, you’re pregnant.” Oh my god! This is wonderful!

I so called it. “That’s amazing news, congratulations!” Levi smiled to them, still holding onto Eren from behind. “Are you going to be okay?” He looked to Ieva, stopping himself before he could let another word slip. ...I don't really know how you'd react to me calling you Mom… I mean… I kinda did in the speech last night, but… I dunno...

Ieva nodded, smiling happily. “I’m going to be fine, me and the baby.” She smiled softly, her eyes soft. “You can call me Mom, Levi, you know that right?” I wouldn’t be mad with you if you did.

Levi looked to his feet, quiet. “Okay… Mom…” ...I actually get to have both parents again… I actually do… He used Eren as a bit of a shield, hiding a bit behind him. “Are you feeling okay enough to go back to the hotel?”

“If you need me to, I can carry you again.” Lathe looked to her, still gently rubbing her stomach. ...this is actually happening ...

Spades nodded, a small smile on her face when she felt Lathe’s hand on her abdomen. “I think that’ll work out, why don’t we go and get some sleep?” Even I’m still exhausted. I wonder how Eren knew we were gone? And why did he get up this early?

Eren nodded as he let them pull up the curtain so that they could get Ieva dressed again. “I’m gonna wait outside.” I need to calm down. He stepped outside of the room to see a familiar head of dusty blond hair. Huh? “J-Jake?” Eren called out to see the small boy being led by a large man in a uniform turn towards him. Oh my god! It’s really him. He dropped to his knees as Jake broke away from the man and ran to him, wrapping his small arms around Eren’s shoulders. “Jake, what are you doing here?” He asked, holding him close to his chest as the boy began to sob. Why are you here? Shouldn’t you be back home?

“I don’t wanna go away… I wanna stay with y-you.” Jake hiccuped as he clung to Eren, his face red and blotchy from crying for a majority of the night. I don’t wanna be taken away again.

“What’s going on?” Levi came out of the room right after him, seeing Jake. Huh? What… He saw the man in uniform coming towards them to get Jake from Eren, reading the insignia on his jacket, his eyes widening. Oh. “He’s orphaned?” Levi looked to the man, resting a hand on Eren’s shoulder as the man came up to them.

Eren looked up to the man as he got within a few feet of them, seeing him sigh a bit as Jake clung to Eren. He’s orphaned… Oh god no, I can’t let him through the system, absolutely not. “It’s okay, Jake, I’m right here, it’s okay to be scared.”

The man looked down to Jake clinging to Eren without looking like he was going to back away from him. “Come on Jake, we need to go get you to a foster home today…” But you seem to want to stay with these people.

“No… I don’t w-wanna go… I wanna st-stay with Eren…” Jake whined as he clung to Eren tighter, crawling into his lap. I don’t want him to leave me again. He sniffled as he looked back at the man he had been with. “I wanna stay…”

Eren held him tighter as Jake moved into his lap, gently rocking him to try and get him to calm down. “Shhh…. Jake, it’s okay. It’s okay, you don’t have to go just yet… Are you okay? Why are you here and not back in the psych ward? What happened, honey?” He gently cooed to the younger boy, smiling as he calmed down, holding him in the middle of the large hallway, but the hospital wasn’t busy so no one way yell at them yet. He carded a hand through the dirty blonde locks gently, looking up to the man with pleading eyes who nodded and walked off towards another room, seemingly to get a coffee.

Jake whimpered as he was held, sniffling as he tried to calm down. “They took us all away… The officer brought me here with a lot of the other people who stayed with us… they brought us here and the doctors gave us food, and then told them who needed to leave…. They’re all gone… I don’t wanna be alone…” He whimpered as he clung onto Eren’s shirt, burying his face into his shoulder, taking in his scent to calm down. “You cut your hair…” He whispered quietly his small hands loosening from Eren’s shirt to feel his hair cut.

“He did.” Lathe stepped into the hall, Ieva secure in his arms. “Are you okay, Hon? Have you been eating okay?” He looked over Jake’s still-thin frame. He really could use more meat on his bones… He looked up as the officer came back with a cup of coffee, reading his jacket and understanding, his stomach dropping. What. Oh god, no, we can’t let you go through the system. “Jake, you have to go through foster care?” Lathe looked to him with worry. We can’t let you…
The man sipped at his coffee as he watched Jake begin to panic, resting a gentle hand on the boy’s shoulder. “Come on Jake, let go, we need to go find you a home.” Come on, I don’t want you to stay here any longer than you have to.

Jake immediately started crying hysterically. “No! I don’t wanna!” His voice was loud as Eren tried to calm him down again, quietly cooing to him before looking up at Lathe. What do we do?

“We’ll take him.” Lathe spoke before he had even a second to think about it. Something seemed to click after a second, looking to him in confusion. “Wait, why are you here in Wichita? You were in Trost just a few days ago. What happened?”

The man looked at him with a raised eyebrow. “The psych ward was closed due to a civil suit finally going through, the care deemed unacceptable, and everyone in the facility was transferred here, all orphans and psych patients… Have you ever fostered? Or adopted before?” You seem a bit young for that, no offense or anything.

Lathe nodded, everyone pointing to Eren. “I adopted him five and a half years ago.” ...oh my god, it's been a lot longer than it seems...

“You do realize foster care is a lot more strenuous than adoption, correct?” You’re aware of the more paperwork? Constant house visits? Kids finding new homes?

“I’ve read a lot about it… we were thinking about doing that.” Lathe glanced to Ieva, blushing a bit. “...well, at least I was thinking about it.” But he looked up to the man again, nodding. “But I am aware that’s it’s a lot more taxing, and we’d be up to it.” We’ve got the room, and the money to care for them. They can stay as long as they need to until they find a permanent home.

The man nodded, looking over to Ieva. “Do you consent to this as well?” He watched her nod, and he pulled out his phone. “Okay, I’ll need your address and your contact information, you’ll need to come to the foster center with me but I need to go pick up another orphan really quick.” I can get the baby.

“Who is it?” Maybe I’ll know them.

“3 month old, named Eli.”
Lathe’s eyes widened, looking to Eren as he looked to him with pleading eyes. “Tiny human?” He watched Eren nod. The tiny human Eren tried to steal. He looked to the man again. “We’ll take him too.” Eren loves that kid… “We’ll come and fill out all the paperwork we need to.” Anything to make sure these kids have a good place to stay.

The man nodded. “You can take Jake, give me your phone number and I will text you the address, meet us there within two hours if you can.” That takes care of me trying to wrangle him. He handed his phone off to Lathe, a small smile on his face.

Lathe nodded, smiling as Ieva took the phone for him and typed in their number and address, making sure it was typed in with the correct spelling. “Within two hours is easy enough. We’ll go back to the hotel and regroup before heading back out, okay?” He looked around as they all nodded, smiling warmly to Jake. “We’ll take good care of you, don’t you worry, Hon.” You’ll be just fine. But after I get all that paperwork sorted out we need to get you stuff, anything let over from your house, clothes, and my god, the baby is gonna be a handful with zero warning… I need to google what type of formula is best because he’s still young enough to be suckling, and in case there’s anything we might forget I need a list… Eren’ll come along for that, he loves that kid. He can help pick out stuff. We need to get a nursery set up, and Jake needs a bedroom. Lathe nodded for Eren to stand. ...maybe I should get that minivan I was thinking we were gonna need… probably should. He was patient as Eren coaxed Jake along, letting him cling to his middle. That’s adorable. And it looks like Eren’s getting two brothers already. ...maybe even three. We don’t know yet, but maybe.

Eren continued to gently run his fingers through Jake’s hair. I want you to stay... “It’s gonna be okay, you’re staying with us now.” You’ll get to spend tonight in the hotel with us, and calm down, you’ll get to meet the puppies, and my kitten... And the horses... You’ll get to draw all you want, eat everything in the house with me. He smiled as he held him close, waiting for Lathe to sign Ieva out of the hospital, Levi having taken over holding her while Lathe needed to use his hands.

Lathe quickly signed the papers to discharge her, moving to take his wife back from Levi. “Alright, let’s get going, okay?” He took a moment before taking Ieva back to gently ruffle Jake’s hair. “We’ll take good care of you, Honey. Promise.” He scooped up Ieva and ambled to the parking lot, smiling to Eren, Levi and Jake as they went to their own car. He gently set Ieva in the passenger’s seat of the Thunderbird, going to start the car and drive them back to the hotel, the other car following after a minute. He glanced in the rear view mirror, seeing Levi driving, Eren in the back cooing to a nervous Jake. He needs someone who’s willing to bend over backwards to make him feel comfortable. And Eren’s just that. He carried Ieva inside once they were at the hotel, everyone converging in their master bedroom. “All right, family meeting.” He gently set Ieva on the bed, sitting next to her. “So. We have two new additions to the family, and one of them is a tiny human. That being said.” He smiled, looking around to them all. “Today I’m going to go wherever it is that foster centre is and go through the ton of paperwork they have for me. Then, when we have acquired the tiny human, I will come and retrieve Eren…” He smiled as Eren’s face lit up. “...so that he can help pick out baby stuff for Eli. I get the idea you’re pretty much gonna be all over him a bunch of the time.” He watched Eren enthusiastically nod, chuckling. “All right, then I’ll put you in charge of researching the best kinds of formula and stuff for him since he’s young enough to still be suckling and stuff, and make a list of stuff we need to get him. Y’know, what formula is the best, he needs diapers, a crib, teeny adorable clothes, etcetera.” Yeah, he needs stuff. “But I'm making you and I go together so I can supervise.” He smirked as Eren blushed a bit. Yeah, you'd go nuts if nobody was there to keep you in check.

Ieva poked his side gently, a smirk playing at her lips. “Hey, you've gotta take me with you. We’re kinda sorta married now, so you can't just go do stuff by yourself anymore.” Nope. You now have to ask me before you do anything.

Lathe looked to her, then to the ceiling, a hand over his heart dramatically. “Goodbye, my freedom…” …Eh, I'll still find ways to be sorta reckless and unsupervised in some of my cray plans. Honestly, when we get home, I’ll just go and buy the minivan for the many humans I have a feeling I’m going to end up carting around. And for the huge grocery shopping trips. And the trips to IKEA.
Chapter 60: The Truth Comes Out

It took forever to get through the hallway. After I came up to get Eren and hand off Eli, everyone on the floor was all over him! There were so many pictures! And Iroh apparently loves kids. ...if Damien doesn't propose soon, I'm gonna smack some sense into him. ...I'm also surprised he isn't hungover at all. He got pretty drunk last night with Hannah, they drank pretty much all the sake the bar had on hand... huh. But Eren holding Eli is so adorable! I love it! We need to get to the store soon so we have formula and all sorts of stuff on hand before he gets fussy or anything gets out of hand. Lathe let Eren walk ahead of him out of the elevator into the lobby, Eli staring around with wide eyes and happily babbling as Eren cradled him close. So damn adorable.

Eren was looking down at Eli before a loud smack sounded and the pain rushed into his face. What? He looked at Armin who had a slightly furious face. “A-Armin? What the hell? I’m holding a child here!” Why the hell did you hit me!?

“What the hell, Eren?! Why didn't you tell me you were adopting a kid? I wanted to be the Godfather, damnit!” Armin looked a bit mad as he scolded Eren, obviously annoyed with him. “If neither me nor Erwin, who?” He pointed back to the breakfast table. “Don't tell me you picked Jean.” He heard an offended garble from Jean, who spoke with a mouth full of toast.

Lathe just watched the display of anger in surprise, slowly raising his hand. “...Uhm, technically he’s mine… but he’s a foster kid. We didn't adopt him, so he doesn't have Godparents yet.” That's what he gets when he's adopted.

Armin looked from Eli to Lathe, flushing red as he registered what he said, stuttering and covering his mouth in shock. “O-Oh, I'm so sorry, Eren, I didn't mean... Uhm....” Crap...

Eren looked at Armin, sighing quietly. “It’s alright, I guess, here… say hi.” He handed Eli to Armin before he could protest, crossing his arms so he couldn't take him back.

Armin stuttered in shock as he suddenly found himself with Eli in his arms, looking to the baby with wide eyes, curious brown eyes staring back at him. “...tiny human.” His voice was tiny and a bit scared. I'm holding a baby. Oh god, I'm gonna do something and kill it someone help.

Eren smirked, his voice a bit snarky. “Yeah, he’s just about half your size.”
Armin just looked up to him with surprise before hanging his head a bit. “...I deserved that.” He made a tiny noise of surprise as Eli hit his chest with his tiny fists, smiling widely up at the blonde. ...he likes me...?

“Yes. Yes you did.” Erwin ambled up behind Armin, leaning his elbow on his shoulder and looking down to the toddler in Armin’s arms. “Whatcha got there?” He suddenly looked surprised, a bit of mock fear in his voice. “It's not mine, is it?”

Armin glared at him, pouting a bit. “I didn't know two pasty white people could make a tanned baby.” Yeah. Not yours.

Eren shrugged. “Once you go black, you never go back.” Hahaha, you're gonna kill me now.

Jean picked his head up as he heard the comment. “Does that make Marco black?”

Marco nearly choked on his juice, covering his mouth, his face flushing completely red. He smacked Jean upside the head, glaring at him. Oh my god, shut up! He looked up as everyone around them laughed, many of them with blushes, looking to his plate, scarlet. Dammit, Jean. ...even if I am that good to you, no.

“What was that for?” Jean whined as he rubbed the back of his head. Why’d you hit me? “It’s not like I’m wrong, the statement is completely legit.”

Marco just moved to clamp a hand over Jean’s mouth, flushed all the way up his ears and down his neck. “...Jean… just shut up and eat your toast.” Marco was about to let him go when he let out a surprised ‘Eeep!,’ snatching his hand away. “You licked my hand!” Not cool!

“And you licked my di-”

Marco didn’t know what else to do to get him to shut up besides grab his collar and smash their lips together, his tongue forcibly tangling with Jean’s for a long moment, barely hearing the whistles behind him. He felt Jean shiver before he shoved him back, Jean a stuttering, flushed mess, his hands falling from midway in the air on their way to tangle in Marco’s hair, catching the dark flicker of want in his eyes. I love you, but you're a damn idiot with no mute button sometimes. And just be patient for a little bit longer. I'll ravish you - again, today- later when we go upstairs again.

Armin watched the display with wide eyes, just shaking his head as Marco left Jean blushing and sputtering, obviously torn between being embarrassed that everyone saw that and being mad at him for stopping. ...I didn't expect Marco to wear the pants in the relationship. He has Jean whipped. Impressive. Keeps him out of our hair for the most part. He looked over as he felt someone tap his elbow, turning to see Bert looking at the kid in his arms, his voice quiet.

“...Uhm... is it okay if I maybe hold him?” He watched Armin look to Eren and Lathe for permission, carefully taking him as Armin held him up. The two of them had a bit of a staring contest for a bit before Eli looked away, making a happy sound as he realised how much higher up he was. Bert smiled faintly, hiking him further up, chuckling quietly as Eli giggled happily. He's really cute...

...I knew Marco was an expert Jean-wrangler, but this is ridiculous. Lathe just shook his head, looking up as more people congregated around Bert as he held Eli. “Everyone loves a tiny happy human.” And he looks like he loves the attention. He chuckled as Eli latched onto Reiner’s finger, trying to get it to his mouth and pouting when he couldn't. He looked about to cry when Bert caught his attention again, spinning him around slowly, making him laugh again easily. That's so cute ... Lathe low-key started taking pictures, smiling all the while.

Eren smiled softly as he watched everyone surround the bubbly child. I don’t understand how someone could give up their child, I really don’t.... How could you just abandon them? And not want to know a single thing about them? How? He eyes seemed to cloud as Eli giggled with everyone around him. I don’t know how... I don’t understand.... Why? If you don’t love your own child... Grisha lost his for me as soon as Carla died. Eren’s brows furrowed as he lost himself to his thoughts, not noticing that Iroh had joined the group around Eli. His own mother abandoned him at birth ...

Iroh was waiting for the doors to open up to the lobby, stretching. I wanna get some breakfast.... His eyes widened as he saw a giggling baby being fawned over. Oh my god! It's another baby!!! AHHHH! Iroh raced up to Bert, a hopeful look in his eyes. “Can I hold him, please, please, please, please ?” I will beg to hold him, and I will not feel a single ounce of shame.

Bert looked to the man he could only remember being made of nervousness, catching the glinting light in his eyes. ...yeah, I'm not about to get between him and the tiny human. I can share the child-holding privilege. Bert handed Eli over without question, smiling softly as Iroh immediately took to cooing to the child, smiling widely and talking to him happily. He really likes him...

“Where’d he go in two seconds ?” Damien looked around after Iroh immediately bolted off of the elevator, seeing the mob of people and seeing them converged around Iroh. Oh no… It took a second before he heard the high sound of a happy baby, seeing Iroh with the tan child in his arms, looking up as he approached Lathe, hanging back from the crowd. “…someone gave him a baby. …This explains everything, actually.”

“What? His running off or his newfound social skills?”

“Both. …and shut up.” Damien glared at him for a moment before lightly punching Lathe’s arm, smiling faintly as he laughed, watching Iroh interact with Eli. ...whose kid even is it?

Eren snapped out of his thought process in as Iroh practically raced up to the child to hold him. Wait… “Wasn’t he drunk last night? Is he really okay holding the baby?” Eren turned his head to ask Damien, his voice full of concern and his eyes showing just how worried he was. I don’t want him to be hung over and drop my brother….

Damien nodded. “Yeah, he’s fine. He doesn’t do too well with normal American liquor, but he does this weird thing where if he drinks only sake, he's completely fine in the morning. He won't hurt the kid.” *Otherwise, the hangovers aren’t too pretty. ...I always make sure we have plenty of sake in the house. Whose is it, anyway?” I don’t think any of these teens milling around have kids… none of them are married, at least. He glanced over to Erwin, a protective arm around Armin. ...or at least yet, anyway.

“He’s my brother…” Eren answered before Lathe could really explain anything. My cute little 3 month old brother. He watched as Iroh kept giggling. He’s really good with kids, I guess that’s good, he seems to feel more comfortable than when he was drunk and speaking fluent Japanese with Hannah.

Damien looked to Lathe in shock. “...no way…” That’s not a thing… “You didn't tell us you and Spades already had a kid?!”

“It's not one that she had!” Lathe held up his hand in defence. “We haven't had one yet! We just went down to the foster centre today and signed up to be a foster family. Jake is upstairs with Ieva, and Eli right there was an orphan. The hospital couldn't keep them anymore. But we should be having one of our own running around soon.” He grinned, looking back to the group.

“Wait, you were at the hospital today? Why? Is that why Eren was making that panicked ruckus this morning and freaked everyone out?”
“Eren, I told you to be chill and not wake anyone up.” Lathe gave Eren a bit of a pointed look, watching him try to excuse it for his panic. “You didn’t have to panic, you know. I was being legit when I said nothing was wrong. We just got worried.” He looked to Damien, grinning. “It was a good thing.” ...let’s see you figure that out.

Damien just looked at him, confused. ...what are you... a good thing...? ....... wait . “Are you and Spades gonna have a kid soon?” Damien looked to him in surprise, hearing the people in the room quiet as Lathe nodded, blushing a bit, going to tackle him with a hug. “That's amazing news, I'm so happy for you!” I know you two really really wanted kids. That's great!

Eren smiled softly before he looked over at the clock. “We need to go…” He muttered to himself as he walked over towards Iroh and Eli. “Can I have Eli back? We need to go shopping for him.” I don’t want to rip him out of your hands but...

Iroh looked down at the baby before realizing that he had pretty much monopolized the babbling child in his arms. “Y-Yeah, you can have him back now.” His voice got quiet as he gave Eli up, seemingly shrinking as he noticed the crowd that had formed. Oh....fuck... I should go... There are a lot of people here... He swallowed hard, looking down in submission as he slipped away from everyone and went to go hide away from everyone’s eyes. Fuck, I did it again... I... He was just about to scratch when Felix left Damien’s side to rush to Iroh, grabbing his hand. Shit ....

Damien immediately went to Iroh, enveloping him in a gentle hug from behind, leaning over to murmur to him quietly. “Hey, it's okay, you did fine. Everyone just wanted to say hi to Eli, you did okay. It's okay.” Damien softly pecked his cheek, smiling as Iroh blushed darkly, calming down in his arms. “Come on, let’s go get you some breakfast, okay?” Damien shepherded Iroh over to where all the plates and food was, keeping a protective hand on his waist, trying to keep him calm. You were fine, really. He looked over as Iroh tugged on his sleeve as they were waiting for the waffle maker, blushing as Iroh himself stood on tiptoe to kiss his cheek. ...I love it when you're the one doing random stuff like that... it's nice... Damien turned over the iron when the timer beeped, taking the waffle out and onto a plate, handing it to Iroh. “You can put stuff on your waffle and go sit down if you want.” Damien was quiet, smiling faintly to him, nodding to the table with syrup and powdered sugar on it. Baby steps, come on. You can chill a few minutes without me. Marco’s very nice.

Iroh’s eyes widened as Damien suggested him to go sit without him….. He’s never asked me to go sit without him before... Shit I must’ve pissed him off. “O-Okay… I’ll go sit d-down...” He stuttered as he turned to go sit down after grabbing a fork. He scurried towards an empty table that was somewhat near the group, his head down as he tried eating. I shouldn’t’ve come... I probably caused more trouble than it was worth.

Damien forced himself not to glance up and check on him every two seconds, patiently waiting for his waffle to finish cooking. He’ll be okay... two minutes... he’ll be fine. Soon enough he had a waffle on his plate, taking a cup of juice for himself and another for Iroh, coming to sit with him. He seemed so nervous he scurried off without it. “Orange juice okay?” He set the cup in front of him, sitting next to him and smiling warmly to him. You did okay. His brow furrowed as Iroh seemed to curl up into himself a bit at his voice, a gentle hand on the small of his back. “Iroh Honey, you okay? It's okay, you did just fine, and I’m right here. It's okay.” Come on, don't close up on me...

Iroh shook his head, shying away from his touch. “I-I-I... I-I’m s-s-sorry.” His voice was tiny, his head down in submission as he curled up to himself, bringing his feet up onto his chair. Felix whining for him to calm down. I fucked up... Everything I do I fuck up...

Damien turned to him, gently pulling him close, murmuring softly into his ear. “Iroh, you don't have to be sorry for anything. It's okay, Hon, really. Please, don't close up...” He gently pecked Iroh’s cheek, nuzzling his neck a bit, coaxing him to uncurl. “It’s very fine, love. Everyone was happy there was a small human around, and you got to hold him. That's very okay. Everyone’s doin’ just fine. You didn't do anything wrong. Nobody’s mad at you. Believe me.” He pecked his neck, his hand still a steady presence on his back for the moment. “Let’s eat, okay? You’ll feel better.” Please? I thought this would be good for you, being around other nice people.

Iroh shook his head. “I-I’m not hungry...” I feel nauseous.... Fuck I’m gonna have an attack... Oh fuck, oh fuck, oh fuck... His eyes widened as he scrambled to get out of Damien’s arms and speed walk to the elevator, hurriedly clicking at the button as Felix scrambled after him. I can’t... I can’t stay here... His breathing worsened, a horrible sense of dread washing over him. Fuck, Damien doesn’t need to see this, he’s never seen one before... He doesn’t know I have them all the fucking time.

Damien immediately moved after him, seeing Iroh clutching his chest, panic obvious in his features. *...is he gonna have a panic attack? He followed Iroh into the elevator, hitting the button for their floor and the ‘close door’ button as well, immediately pulling Iroh to his chest, easing him to the floor of the elevator as it began moving. “Iroh honey, please, don't panic.. it's okay, I'm right here. Damien’s got you. It's gonna be okay. The others aren't here now, you're safe. Promise.” Damien gently kissed his neck, pressing kisses all over his cheeks. “Iroh, please, believe me. You're okay. It's all okay. I've got you...Honey, I love you. Please, don't panic. Just stay with me, Hon.” Damien’s hands slowly roamed Iroh’s back, holding him protectively to his chest.

Iroh’s eyes were wide in shock, shaking his head, his panic attack starting to come in full swing. “Let go, let go, let go of me.” His voice was strained as he got free of his grasp, running out of the door when it chimed open. Iroh made a dash to their room, Felix right on his heels, his grip tightening on his shirt as he struggled with the keycard in the door. You don't need to see this, it gets worse.

Damien ran after him, catching him and pulling him flush to his front. His hand moved to take the keycard, opening the door and ushering Iroh inside. He shut the door behind them, bringing him to the bed and trying to calm his shaking, laying down with him and carding a hand through his hair.
“Iroh Honey, it's okay. We’re alone, it's okay. You don't have anything to be scared of. I'm right here with you. I'm right here.” Damien gently cradled Iroh to his chest, trying to calm his shaking.
He pressed kisses to his cheeks, trying to calm him with soft murmurs. .....he's still shaking...

“L-let go… P-please…” I can’t… You shouldn’t be here… You don’t need to be bothered by this...
Iroh barely registered Felix jumping on the bed with them and starting to rest his paws on his chest in his attempt to ground him. You shouldn’t be here… I fucked up...

...I don't know what I'm doing... Damien rifled for his phone, quickly tapping it before holding it to his ear, still cooing quietly to Iroh. He breathed a sigh of relief when Lathe picked up. “Lathe, I know you're going to do shopping stuff, but Iroh is having a panic attack and I don't know what to do. He's never had one before.” He heard a surprised noise on the other end before the line went dead, tossing aside the phone and turning his full attention back to him, not knowing really how to act. He shifted until he was pressed against Iroh’s side, gently carding a hand through his hair, lightly kissing him, trying to reassure him. “Honey, don't worry, Lathe’s coming. We'll make you feel better. It's okay, love. It's okay.”

Iroh’s eyes widened even more. “N-no… Not him…” Don’t bring someone else into this… Fuck, and after I just stole his kid away from everyone else, he probably hates me. Fuck… No… Please no .

Lathe knocked on the door after just a few minutes, rushing in as Damien opened the door. He looked around, not seeing Iroh. ...where’d he go?

“Crap, he hid again.” Damien and he looked around for a second before they heard Felix whine, staring up at them in front of the closet. My human is hiding in the closet.

Lathe held up a hand, stopping Damien. He slowly opened the closet door, seeing Iroh hiding, curled up to himself, shaking as he stared at Lathe wide, scared eyes. Lathe sat down outside the door on the floor, looking down to the carpet, picking at some of the fuzz. “...Iroh? Do you wanna talk about whatever’s scaring you?” Lathe glanced up to him, trying his best to remain neutral and unthreatening. He watched him simply stare at him, his side pressed against the wall. “...what’s scaring you that we can help with? I won't tell anyone else why you're scared.” I wouldn't do that.
I'm a doctor, dammit, not a gossip machine.

Iroh looked between Lathe and Damien before shaking his head and curling even tighter around himself. I-I can’t tell him, it’ll make me look so weak… He won’t want me, I fucked up too much...
And I can’t let him see that. Iroh felt the tears beginning to burn as he looked down at his shaking hands.
Lathe slowly moved to kneel, gently pressing his blue kerchief and his phone into his shaking hands. “If you don't think you can say it… and would rather just type it down so it sounds the way it should… you can do that. Wanna give it a try?” Lathe’s voice was soft, watching Iroh bury his face in the fabric after a moment, hearing him quietly sob before looking again to the phone.

...please? “...it might feel better to talk about it, tell us. You don't have to show me. You can just show Damien if you want. Whichever you like. That's your decision.” He gave a small warm smile to him as he glanced up, still obviously nervous, scared. Please. You'll feel better. And if you tell us, we can fix that.

Iroh swallowed hard, typing a few things out before simply gripping the handkerchief.

I fucked up. I always fuck up... Don’t show him, he doesn’t know... This isn’t the first time... I just need time.

Lathe took the phone that was offered to him, reading it with melancholy eyes. He typed underneath it.

Iroh, have you been having these attacks the entire time you've been together?

Lathe handed off the phone with that, sighing quietly as he read the response.

...yeah... every week...

...Iroh, Honey, I think eight years is enough... He should know... he wants to keep you. And if he doesn't know how to help you in these... what good will keeping it a secret have been? You don't have to be scared of him. You don't have to be scared of how he’ll look at you knowing that you have these attacks. He loves you to bits... I think you should let him in.

... but ... I'm scared... I'm scared that he's gonna open his eyes to what a broken piece of shit I am and leave... and I don't want him to leave... he's the only one I can really trust... and even then it's hard sometimes...

Iroh, I know there's a lot going on in your mind, but you aren't broken beyond repair. We- Damien, Damien can help you learn to trust people. And to trust yourself.
........have you ever even looked at us? He's a huge biker-type man, and I'm this puny little ball of shit and nerves. How can we belong together? I want us to... but I'm afraid it's just all gonna blow up in my face... ...I'm so scared... every time we... every time I trust him to have me... half the time I'm afraid he's going to break me... he could hurt me so easily... and with my osteoporosis... it just makes it worse... I... I do love him... but... I don't want to keep him from finding someone he could love better, who could love him better, because my gosh, he deserves it... I don't... I don't want him to realise I'm not worth it... because I'm not...

...Iroh, have you ever hurt yourself?

......what do you mean......

...do you cut?

...

...how recently, Hon? Damien doesn't have to know every detail...

This morning... When I took my shower... I couldn't help it...

Iroh, I know it feels like it helps... but it doesn't. It doesn't deal with what's making you feel so horrible. I want to help you find everything that's making you hurt so we can make you feel better. Is there something else you don't like about your relationship you want to talk about?

He... He doesn't... let me do anything. I'm not allowed to pay for anything. He wouldn't let me pay for Felix, he won't let me pay for date night, he doesn't let me pay rent... I can't try and do anything nice before he steps in to take over... I can't... He’s so controlling... And I know he’s trying to help but I don’t need help, I’m not paying for my tuition... I’ve tried to tell him but he just shoots it down every damn time... I don’t know what to do anymore... I don’t normally stay in the same room as him, and last night was... I thought he was gonna crush me... And I was scared and I didn’t know what the hell I was supposed to do...

...Iroh, Hon, Damien needs to know all of this. I'm not saying you need to say it all to his face... but if you want me to show him everything you've written... or need me to drag him outside and tell him only what he needs to know to fix this all... we can do that. But nothing is going to change if you keep him in the dark. I know it's scary... but it'll make change happen. And you really need change.
I don’t want to make him change… I couldn’t do that to him… But… I don’t think I can tell him about this… Take him outside, I need to wrap my thighs… They still hurt… Iroh sniffled as he handed the phone back, moving away from the both of them, grabbing a bag from his suitcase before starting to move almost automatically towards the bathroom so he could lock himself in.

Lathe caught Damien by the arm as he moved to catch Iroh in a hug, shaking his head. “Hallway.” He pulled Damien with him, stopping him outside the room, turning to him with a serious expression. “Damien, there's a lot of stuff going on that Iroh’s been too scared to tell you. He loves you to bits and he knows you do too, but he's scared of anything changing. He doesn't want to do that to you, but it needs to happen.” Lathe took a deep breath, his tone serious, looking at him. “First off, you need to stop paying for absolutely everything. You might think you're doing him a favour, but you're making him completely dependent on you, which isn't any good. He wants to be able to spoil you sometimes, or at least contribute to rent and stuff because those are supposed to be mutual responsibilities. My god, at least let him pay his own tuition!”

“... I can do that… But Lathe, I don’t pay his tuition…. I’ll lay off on putting money in his pocket for dates and stuff though… But I feel bad, he’s in college, he should be saving…” Damien held a conflicted look on his face.

“Damien, I know you want to make sure he’s set up for the future, but think about it. That future of his? If I'm not mistaken, you both are hoping to spend it with each other. You're not doing much besides just making him feel guilty about it at this point. Let his hard work pay off for him, okay? ...and if you're not paying his tuition, he must have a scholarship or something. I dunno. That's a thing I don't need to worry about right now. But, second point. Still very important. Damien, you're a big guy. You're tall, and not exactly light. Iroh? He's tiny and resembles a twig. A twig with osteoporosis. He's so scared every time you two are intimate that you're going to crush him. He really needs you to be careful with him, or work something out where he's not under your weight. You two can figure that out. But be gentle with him. And thirdly.” Lathe looked away, pinching the bridge of his nose. “...Iroh’s got worse self-esteem than Eren did when I first found him. That's literally how bad it is. He cuts, and he's depressed, thinking that soon enough you're gonna realise that he as a ball of nerves and ‘shit’ in his own words, not to mention as breakable as he is, is not worth the trouble of loving. He's scared that you're gonna get tired of dealing with all the baggage he's dragging around and leave him. He needs you to let him somehow know that you are going to help him, and that you're in this for the long haul. I’m saying all of this assuming you are, but tell me. Are you? Even with all the crap you didn't know about? Even now knowing he’s had these attacks weekly and didn't tell you because he was scared you'd give up on him? It's been eight years, Damien. Can you do more?” It's not easy to take care of someone like him. I know. And I won't blame you if you at least sorta question whether it's worth it. This is a lot of news for you.

Damien’s eyes were wide as he listened to Lathe say everything. He… He’s never told me any of this... He closed his eyes as he leaned against the wall, sliding down to the floor, his head in his hands as he quietly tried to process everything. “He… He’s cutting? And he’s scared of me in bed?... This isn’t the first time he’s had an attack like that?” Why doesn’t he tell me?
Lathe sighed quietly, breaking from his firm front and sitting next to him, his tone soft. “I know it's a lot to take in. But this has been going on for a while and Iroh’s been too scared to ask for anything else. He really needs the change. He needs someone gentle, someone who can help keep him calm, and someone who can make him feel loved and comfortable in his own skin. Someone who lets him contribute to the relationship. He needs that. Do you think you can give him that?” He gently patted Damien’s shoulder, unused to seeing him so distraught. “I've only seen you this upset once… he really needs you… I hope you can be there for him.

“Holy fuck… Lathe what am I supposed to do? How am I supposed help him when he doesn’t tell me anything? I want to help him, I thought we were doing better with it because he wasn’t cutting anymore… And he had stopped scratching, but I guess I was just blind to how he really was… Fuck.” Damien ran a hand through his hair, trying to think. What do I do now?

“I think a good place to start…” Lathe moved to help him to his feet. “…is with a conversation between you two. If we have to, you two can exchange honest texts. But you need to open this dialogue between you two up, or else it'll just stay closed. Opening it is the hard part. Keeping it open becomes habit, soon enough. Okay?” He watched Damien shakily nod, letting him open the door to the room again. He gently knocked on the bathroom door, still closed. “Iroh, are you done in there? You okay?”

Iroh was silent for a few seconds. “N-no…” Came his shaking reply as he held a cloth pressed to the inside of his thigh. It's bleeding again… He came towards the door, unlocking it and slowly opening it. I don’t want him to freak out...

Lathe didn't look mad at all, simply saddened as he saw him still trying to wrap his legs. His voice was soft and quiet as he spoke. “Do you need any help, Hon? You can take all the time you need to finish up, if you don't want me to.” I understand… but I just don't want you getting even more hurt if you don’t wrap them right.

“U-Uhm… C-can… Y-You h-h-help?” I can’t get it to stop bleeding, I did it so much deeper… He looked down in shame when his eyes met Damien’s. I should probably leave… I’ll have to find an apartment… He probably wants me to leave right away…

“Of course I can.” Lathe entered the bathroom, shutting the door behind him and having Iroh sit on the toilet lid. He fetched extra gauze and wraps from his bag on his hip, kneeling down next to him. “Iroh, move your hand, okay? Let me see.” Lathe’s tone was gentle, patient as Iroh hesitated before slowly peeling the fabric away, long cuts up his thighs, some lines faded, one in particular fresh and open. “Oh my…” Lathe gently pressed the fresh gauze to it. “Hold that there, okay? Gentle pressure.” He got another bit of gauze damp, wiping up the fresh and dry blood from his thigh. “Okay, I'm going to wrap up your leg now, alright?” He watched Iroh shakily nod, adding more gauze over the cuts before starting to wrap his thigh, being careful the gauze didn't shift. He soon pinned it in place, looking to his other leg, the lines starting to scab over. “...Honey, did you cut that last one just a minute ago?” Lathe looked up to him, watching him look away with shame.
“It's okay, it's okay... I'll get you fixed up... but you can't keep doing this... you're not just hurting yourself...” He spoke as he padded and wrapped his other leg. “You're hurting Damien by doing that... he can't stand that you're hurting yourself... he wants you to be okay. He doesn't want you to get hurt. He just wants things to be okay. And that's not just on him; it's on both of you. No matter what you may think of it, your body deserves respect. Even if you think it's worth less than dirt…” Lathe pinned the last wrap in place. “There is no excuse for hurting it. You've only got the one for the rest of your life. Treat it well. And I made Damien promise that he'll treat it well too.” He watched Iroh blush, smiling faintly. “He loves you. He wants you to know that.” He handed him the jeans he's had on earlier. “Now put these on. You and he need to have a bit of a talk, okay?
Through texts if that's more comfortable for you.” You both need to.

“I-I um... I think I can talk...” Iroh told him nervously as he slipped on his jeans, hissing as the fabric rubbed on the wraps. “My... My brother used to wrap them when I was younger... Mom and Dad never noticed.” He mumbled quietly. Why am I telling you this?

Lathe rested a gentle hand on his shoulder. “I know it's not going to be an easy habit to break... to get rid of something that you think has helped for so long... but you need to really try... okay? It was really hard when Eren did it... but I think you can do it too. I really do.” He smiled as Iroh looked to him with uncertainty. “You'll get through all this okay. Promise. Just take care of yourself, and all else will follow.” You need to put you first.

Iroh nodded before he moved to open the door, going to sit on the bed, holding his hand out to stop Damien as he came over to hug him. “Please don’t... I’m still... M-mental... And I can’t do touch during an attack.” He couldn’t look him in the eye. I probably hurt you worse than I can imagine, and I deserve for you to break every bone in my body and leave me for dead.

Damien looked heartbroken at that, but he sat down next to him, giving him space of a few feet, Lathe moving to hover outside their room. thank you... “...Iroh...” He choked on his words, having to stop for a moment, getting his composure back. “...I-I'll try and be better about paying for everything... I won't take everything over anymore. You... you're your own person, and you're capable of contributing. I just... I just got worried because I thought you should be saving your money instead, because you're still just in college... b-but... it's no favour to you. And I'll... I never wanted to hurt you... I love you, and when I try to show you that, I guess... I just keep forgetting how careful I need to be... I'll do better, I really will... and... a-and I just...” Damien stared hard at the floor, his eyes a bit glassy. “I just want you to know how much I think of you... how much I think that you're amazing, and insanely smart, and how you deserve everything that the world has for you... b-because you still th-think you're not worth it... that y-your body is worth the same with scars as it is without... but... you don't deserve to think that... I just want you to look at yourself in the mirror for once and be okay with what you see and I just want you to stop hurting yourself because it hurts like hell when I just think about it... and every time I caught you with new cuts I just... I... I just want you to be okay... I just want you to not hurt yourself for being worthless, because I think you're worth everything the world can give and more and I just want you to be happy…” Damien just let himself let everything out, his breath caught in his throat. Please… don't hurt yourself… don't…

Iroh listened to everything that Damien said, his eyes slowly coming up to look at the larger man’s face. You... You were only trying to help. “Um… My parents... They pay for college tuition… Well… They um, they actually don’t, my brother does, after he inherited the family fortune…” My parents have been dead for years... But my grandparents are still around, which is good I guess… “My parents died in a car crash when I was six… I was in the back seat, when a truck lost its trailer over the edge of the highway above us… It crushed the car instantly killing my parents and breaking almost everything in my body…” He paused to take in a breath, trying to calm himself down. I should tell him everything… Everything my brother managed to pull me through before he shipped me off across the world to get rid of me when he couldn’t take it…

Damien’s eyes widened, looking to him. ... What ??...you never told me any of this… He tentatively held out his arms for a moment, though he didn't move toward him just yet. “…Iroh, is it okay if I give you a hug?” He sounded hopeful, craving touch. I need someone to hold onto… or someone to hold onto me sounds more accurate...

“N-no sudden movements… S-slowly… o-okay?” I think I can handle that much. He slowly shifted so that he was further up the bed, so they could sit comfortably.

Damien slowly wrapped his arms around his middle, holding him close, his head resting on his shoulder. He stared at the ground, wanting Iroh to hug him back, but knowing he wouldn't when he was still so on edge. “...I just… I just really really love you… and I'm so sorry that that happened… that's horrible, losing both your parents out of nowhere like that… I'm so sorry…” Damien quietly sniffled, trying not to cry. Don't do it. I know things aren't that great right now but don't. You have to keep being strong. You have to...

“You can cry you know… My brother cried the first time he found out I was cutting… I was 8… I... I got diagnosed with claustrophobia when I was 7 because of the accident and so everyone tried to give me my space… Which was hell, it was like they didn’t even realize I was there until my brother saw the blood in the sink from me cutting my wrists and not bothering to clean up. They didn’t acknowledge me other than leave the room for a whole year… To me… It was a sign to get people to realize I was there… That I wanted them there… they flooded right back in once they knew I was cutting…” I kept cutting because it meant that I was going to have people stay, and try and help, they weren’t gonna leave me alone and ignore me...

Damien let a few tears fall, nestling his head into the crook of Iroh’s neck, finding comfort in the cool skin against his forehead. “That's… that's horrible… but Iroh, you don't have to do that to get people’s attention here. I'm not going to stop paying you my attention… I'll give you space if you want it, and if you said the word you'd have me right back next to you… here… all you have to do is ask, and you’re given an open set of ears. A friend. I just… it's not the way to get the attention you need…” I don't want you to cut… I want you to be happy and feel okay with yourself because when you feel okay you’re… you don’t run away… you come find me instead…

Iroh nodded, leaning into Damien’s arms the slightest bit. “I kept cutting, I was put on depression medication at the age of 9, and when I was 11, 5 years after the crash, I tried to commit suicide… My brother found me in time and got me to the hospital… They sent me to a therapist… But he was just after my family's fortune, and never really helped… I started middle school, half the size of my classmates because of the accident messing with my growth plates… I was bullied, so much that I was pushed down the stairs when I was 13 and shattered my whole arm from my wrist to my shoulder… I was diagnosed with Osteoporosis, and everyone looked at me differently… No one wanted to be friends with the kid who could break at any second.” It was horrible… And I kept cutting, trying to get people to realize I needed someone again, and I got nothing …

That’s horrible …. Damien slowly shifted to bring Iroh into his lap, his face still buried in his shoulder. He deeply breathed in his scent, trying to keep calm, wanting his thin arms to wrap around him too, but too scared to ask. I can't be a damn emotional pansy right now… I'm not supposed to be… I'm supposed to be tough for the both of us… but… I don't wanna right now… is it okay to not be…?

Iroh tensed for the moment that he was moved before he settled into his large arms, his own much thinner ones holding onto him. “I was alone, ostracized… I couldn’t take it… I tried 4 more times… And you know that scar… The big one in my midsection?” You should know… I should tell you, should tell you everything.... I can’t believe I tried to do that… It go so serious… That I was shipped away…

Damien shakily nodded, melting into Iroh’s touch as he was hugged back. “…Iroh… w-what did you do…” His voice was quiet and full of worry, tears falling down his cheeks. I don't wanna lose you… I wanna keep you… please…

“In Japan… There’s a tradition when one brings shame to his honor… Or his family… That the person should perform Seppuku…….” He grew quiet, trying to see what Damien would make of it. Will you figure it out?

Damien’s hold on Iroh was still careful, though he held him closer, shuddering. No…nonononono… “Y-You…” He kept his face buried in Iroh’s neck, trying to calm down. “B-But… but…” His voice was small, scared. “...but I don't want you to die… y-you have to stay… y-you have to…” I love you too much… you can't… “...s-stay… p- please stay…” I really really want you to…

Iroh nodded, curling into his strong arms. “I was in surgery for 19 hours and 34 minutes… They had to realign my entire digestive system… My brother couldn’t put up with it… I’d brought the family shame in failing the seppuku… So I was shipped overseas to San Francisco, where I was in the hospital before I was entered into College… And I met you once I got off my colon bags… Believe it or not.”

...you could've died... and I wouldn't have you to hold on to... “...d-don't...” He swallowed hard, trying to speak clearly. “N-never try anything like that again… I…. I don't want you to leave me… I wanna keep you…” I want someone who'll actually hold me... and who will let me hold them... I don't wanna give that up when I already have it... “D-Don't panic, I'm just laying us down, okay?”

He very slowly shifted them, stopping when Iroh whimpered in worry, taking his time until Iroh was laying on top of him, Damien trying to stay calm, clutching his shirt for dear life. I don't wanna let go...

Iroh shifted a bit, moving his arms to sneak under his neck and settle his face near Damien’s ear. “I always had a fear that you would find out that I was suicidal… So I tried to hide it… I always think people will find out… And it always makes me anxious, because they looked at me like your average human being…” I wanted to keep that...

Damien quietly sighed as he felt Iroh’s warm breath on his neck, enjoying the closeness. “Iroh, just because you're suicidal doesn't mean you're any less than your average human… America is a lot different than Japan culturally. You can just do stuff that normally would be unthinkable and nobody bats an eye. Like us being a thing- completely normal in America. At least, it's starting to become that way. But I know too many people who've cut or contemplated suicide at one point… and I'm not saying I've never seriously thought about it… it was years ago, but still… yet it didn't make any of them less than human. They got out of their dark places and even when they were still there people looked them in the eyes and talked to them completely normally. People can't look at someone and think ‘oh they're suicidal and a disgrace’ and disrespect you. They don't have a certain look. You just… all you have to do to be accepted as a normal human being is to be kind and polite and not be openly racist. Add good manners and you're golden. But it doesn't take much to be respected at least as a human here.” It doesn’t… it's harder for me to get people to treat me normally, because I look really intimidating, but as long as you're polite people warm up to you quickly.

“So… It’s okay… To be gay here?” In the states? It’s really okay?

“You're always going to have your pockets of people against gays, that's no doubt… but yes, it is. Here there’s a lot of places where us being gay is okay. It should be okay everywhere.” He moved to lightly peck Iroh’s shoulder. “But some countries are a bit behind the times.”...if you do something shameful, why the hell is the only solution death? ...just... why ....

Iroh nodded, holding onto him tighter. “I… I-I love you…. Y-you know that?” He asked timidly as his lips brushed the shell of his ear, gently. His body let go of all it’s tension and melted into Damien’s chest, loving his arms wrapped around him. I... I think I can finally calm down now....
...you're always so scared to say it... Damien shivered a bit as Iroh’s lips brushed his ear, tilting his head a bit subconsciously. “...I l-love you too... s-so much...” He let out a small gasp as he felt his lips timidly brush his neck, relaxing into the bed as Iroh kissed at his neck lightly. ...you never initiate anything... are you... do you...?

Iroh's hands moved to cup Damien’s jaw as he shifted to start kissing his ears, gently brushing his lips all over his ears and moving to his temple. I want to make sure you know that... I don’t know how to show it...

Damien sighed quietly, letting Iroh tilt his head and kiss where he wanted, his hands roaming gently over his back. He felt emotion kick at him, craving touch, though he made no move to flip their positions. ...I... I love this... “I-Iroh...” .....whatever you're doing... don't stop... He chuckled as Iroh seemed lost as to what to do, his voice quiet and breathless. “K-Kiss my neck... please... it feels really good when you do that...”

Iroh’s face flushed as Damien spoke, his hands shifting from his jaw to his hair, gently tangling his fingers in his locks and turning his head so that he had better access to his neck. His movements were slow and jerky, peppering every bit of skin with kisses, licking the soft skin for only a moment before returning to his soft kisses. What else am I supposed to do? Damien... Help.... He mentally pleaded with him, so unsure of how to ask for guidance. You always do the foreplay...

Damien gave him plenty of room, letting out an airy moan as Iroh gently licked his skin. “Mmm... y-you can lick if you want... you can nip too... mark me, if you want... it's okay... feels... feels good...” Damien was melting into a puddle as Iroh kissed his neck up and down, his eyes betraying his want. ...I want this... I really want this...

Iroh nodded, shifting a bit, his legs moving to practically straddle his chest. He let his tongue drag across Damien’s skin, licking long stripes across his skin. His skin tastes salty... Soon enough he let his teeth gently graze down his neck, timidly, as if expecting Damien to push him off after he did something. I don’t know what I’m doing still.

Damien let out quiet moans as Iroh lapped at his neck, sighing deeply as Iroh straddled him. His hands still roamed his back, one hand drifting to his waist, the other tangling in Iroh’s hair. “Nngh... more... please... you can be rougher with it... you don't have to be scared to... I love it...” He gasped as Iroh nipped at his neck, his hand gently keeping him in place at his neck, feeling himself slowly harden. I want you... please...

Iroh gently nipped at the skin, looking at the bright red marks he created before licking the spots, an idea crossing his mind. He moved lower towards where it would be more easily hidden before taking a large patch of skin and biting down harder than he ever had before. It should leave a mark…

Damien gasped loudly as he bit down on the sensitive skin, feeling pleasure with a twinge of pain. “I-Iroh… nngh…” He moaned as Iroh bit down again on another patch of skin, feeling his canines dig into his skin. “Careful, please… sh-sharp teeth…” He groaned as Iroh roughly sealed his lips over his skin, sucking hard and causing a dark mark to bloom on his neck. “Haa… f-feels really good…” I want it... I really want it… He felt Iroh bite across his shoulder, soon leaving a ring of marks around his neck. More… I want more…

Iroh lapped at the skin he abused with his teeth, leaning up to look at his work. I don’t have any more room. “I-I’m s-sorry… I got carried away….” He seemed to shrink a bit, pushing down into his chest, as he gently touched his bruising skin. It’s… It’s blooming in dark reds.

“I-Don’t be sorry…” Damien smiled weakly, leaning on one elbow and cupping Iroh’s cheek. “That felt really good…” He gently pulled him into a sweet kiss, tilting his head and slowly moving his lips against Iroh’s trembling ones. He swiped his tongue over his lips tentatively, soon coaxing Iroh’s tongue into his mouth, wanting to taste him. I love this...

Iroh shook a bit in his arms before he calmed down, noticing that Damien wasn’t being rough like he always was. He’s... He’s being gentle now... He let his lips part, feeling Damien coax his tongue into his mouth. He’s being really gentle. His shaking hands gently ran through his locks, so unsure of where this would eventually end up as he was shifted off of Damien’s chest and into his lap as he sat up. I fit in his lap so easily.

Damien slowly ran his hands all over Iroh’s back, holding him close as they kissed languidly. He whimpered quietly as Iroh shifted on his lap, his face flushed red as he sat up. His hands moved to rest on Iroh’s hips, trailing lightly over his lower half, close to his clothed nether. He broke their kiss, moving to kiss down his jaw to his ear, his voice a low, soft murmur. “You can say no, Iroh, but… if I’m really gentle… can I have you?” Please? I don’t want you to be scared of being intimate... I want you to feel good… not terrified...

Iroh let out a soft whine as Damien’s lips moved down his jaw. He’s been gentle so far.... I think I can trust him. He nodded subtly before finding his voice. “Y-yeah… You can… If you’re g-gentle.” He blushed, feeling Damien’s hard length through his clothes, his own length starting to harden in response. I don’t want to be scared.

“I promise I will be.” Damien kissed slowly down his neck, sucking gently on the skin at the joint of his neck, lapping at the small marks in apology before marking another sensitive spot. He moaned quietly into his neck as Iroh let out a quiet moan, hearing his breath hitch as he gently marked him. I want to do this right... I want to love you right... His hands moved to his collar, slowly starting to unbutton his shirt, looking up to him for permission and stopping when he seemed to tremble at his touch. “Is this okay?” I can slow down...

Iroh looked at him with a flushed face, his hair tousled from Damien’s fingers. “Y-yeah... Just... Don’t panic...” I did my stomach this morning too, so it’s wrapped. He swallowed hard as he watched Damien’s fingers slowly go down the shirt, and pause as he spotted the wraps across his stomach. Shit ... Maybe he won’t want to...

Damien nodded, leaning up and letting their lips lightly brush as he unbuttoned the rest of his shirt, pushing the fabric off of his shoulders. He pulled back to look at him, his face falling as he saw the bandages wrapped around his stomach. “...Iroh...” Damien looked back up to him, his hands careful on his back. “Don’t freak out, Honey, okay?” He slowly shifted them, Iroh on his back as Damien loomed over him, careful to prop himself up well above him. He leaned down to lap at his neck, slowly kissing down his chest. He paused as he reached the bandages, pressing a feather-light kiss to the middle of his stomach. “Please... never do that to yourself again...” He was very careful of the wraps as he moved over him, beginning to kiss and lick across every sensitive spot he knew on his chest, marking him in the spots that made him shiver. I want you on cloud nine... you deserve it...

Iroh looked down at Damien as he started to relax his body. His breath was hitched, letting himself make small pants and noises as he was lavished by Damien’s tongue. It feels really nice, he’s being gentle, really gentle. I like this, I like it a lot. He let out a loud moan as he found an overly sensitive spot on his chest. He remembers where all of them are...

Damien gently sucked on that spot that made Iroh moan, smiling faintly as Iroh squirmed a bit under him, gently holding his hips in place as he lavished his body with attention. He left a smattering of small marks, his hands drifting to the waist of his jeans and playing with the hem for a moment. Even the playing field first. He sat back for a moment, shrugging off his jacket and tugging his tee over his head, showing off his defined muscles. I always make sure I’m in really good shape... I thought you’d like it if I had lots of muscle... He looked up to Iroh, gently going to nip at his neck, his hands going to catch Iroh’s wrists, placing them on his shoulders, murmuring quietly. “It’s okay to touch. Wherever you want.”

Iroh’s shaded eyes followed his movement as he got rid of his jacket and his t-shirt. He’s really hot... Damn, his body is great ... He watched him, tensing when his wrists were caught before he relaxed again, letting his thumbs gently rub over the ring of large hickeys he gave him just a few minutes ago. I want to do it again... His eyes flared with want and need as he squirmed under his touch, unsure of how to ask him if he could. What do I do? I wanna do it...

Damien pulled back after a moment, catching his look of want, seeing it on his neck. “...hm? The marks?” He watched him nod, smirking after a moment. “If you wanna add more, be my guest.”
He gasped as Iroh immediately moved up, clinging to him as he attacked his neck. He moaned loudly, trying not to melt on top of him as he worked. I love it... He rolled them over again when he stopped trusting himself not to melt, his hands coming up to tangle in Iroh’s hair as he worked his way down his chest. He gasped as Iroh took a nipple into his mouth, teasing the nub with his teeth and making him moan loudly. More... my God, more, please ...

Iroh’s face resembled that of a tomato as he continued to tease Damien’s nipple, his hands roaming the rest of him, near his abdomen and the hem of his pants, but not daring to go lower. He moved his head over to his other nipple, opening his jaw as wide as it would go before biting around it hard, to a point where he drew blood from one of his canines. He pulled off of him, lapping at the wound with remorse. I’m sorry, I didn’t mean to bite that hard.

Damien gasped as he drew blood, squirming a bit under him. “P-Please, be careful... your teeth are sh-sharp...” He looked down at him, watching him pull up and away from him, moving to gently catch the back of his neck, not wanting him to shift off of him. “N-No, Iroh, please, it’s okay... it’s okay, really...” Damien smiled to him softly, leaning up to kiss him again, barely tasting a bit of blood as their tongues danced around each other, waiting for Iroh to relax again into his arms before he spoke. “Can we flip over?” He smiled as Iroh nodded, switching them again and gently sucking at his collarbone. He felt hands trailing all over his chest, going to fiddle with the button of Iroh’s jeans, looking up and quietly asking for permission. May I...?

Iroh watched him with a slight look of fear. “G-gently?” He asked quietly. I honestly don’t think that I could take it any longer if you were rough with me at this moment in time. His hands shook a little as he pulled them away from Damien’s body, looking a little flustered. I really don’t want you to be rough... I don’t wanna be scared...

Damien nodded, his eyes hooded as he moved to kiss him. “Gently.” They kissed softly, Damien’s hands being careful as they unbuttoned his jeans, slipping them from his legs without tugging at the wraps, tenderly holding Iroh’s waist. I won’t be rough... you can’t take rough... lovemaking is what you need. What you deserve. Damien shimmied from his own jeans, breaking their soft kisses to gently nudge Iroh down onto the mattress, kissing down his chest, skipping over his stomach and pressing feather-light kisses around the bulge in his boxers. He held his hips with care, slowly pulling the boxers down and letting his hard length free, gently kissing from his hip to his base, lightly nipping at the skin around it. He held Iroh’s hips down as his lips moved to press a kiss to his tip, closing around the hot organ and slowly beginning to suck, bobbing his head, mindful of his teeth. I want this to feel really good for you... you deserve so much better than what I’ve given you...

Iroh’s eyes were wide as Damien took his length into his mouth. He’s... He’s actually giving me a blow... He gasped in shock as he began to suck, the sensation completely new to him, his hands gravitating up to his face to hide his own mouth. He tried to mute his high gasps and whimpers with his hands, his eyes glued to Damien’s face as he sucked. Oh my god... He’s really... Holy shit, he’s never done this before... “H-Haa... D-D-Damien... Haaaaa...” He closed his eyes as he let out a loud groan, his whole body shaking from the overload of sensations. It feels really good… Iroh barely notice his glasses fogging up near his cheeks from his attention being completely drawn to Damien and his actions.

Damien watched with dark eyes as Iroh quaked under him, his tongue teasingly swirling around his head. He thought he saw Iroh’s glasses clouded a bit, pausing just a moment, coming off his length and gently taking Iroh’s glasses off of him, seeing his red eyes. …you’re crying… but you don’t look sad… “You okay?” He watched Iroh fervently nod, smirking. “Alright then…” This is a lot for you… I guess it can be overwhelming a bit… such a change of pace… and what you’ve wanted the entire time… “I might as well continue, hm?” Damien chuckled quietly as he nodded again, his eyes silently begging him to keep going. He set the glasses on the side table and moved down the bed, licking a long stripe up his length, staring right at him and breathing over his head. “But only if you let me hear you~” He grinned before starting to suck on him again, his hands teasingly moving over the skin near his base, keeping him from bucking up. I love your voice… you normally aren’t too vocal, but now, god damn…

Iroh’s eyes followed his movements, his body seemingly following his words without much thought. He didn’t even realize that he had moved them away from his mouth until he let out a particularly loud cry, gasping and moving to cover his face with his hands. Shit, shit… “D-Damien…” His voice was muffled from coming behind his hands. “D-Don’t tease…” He whined, tears falling down but hidden behind his hands. I don’t think I can take much more… It feels so weird…

Damien slowly pulled off of him, dragging his tongue over his slit as he came up, kissing his tip. “Of course…” Damien moved up so he could rifle in the nightstand for a moment, soon enough coming back with a condom and a tube of lube. He gently lapped at Iroh’s neck as he slicked his fingers, still kissing his neck as a finger traced his pucker. “Whenever you’re ready, love.” I want to take this slow… make sure you feel okay… not hurt…

Iroh nodded, shifting his neck so that Damien would be able to lick his neck with ease. He shivered as he felt a cool finger dip into his warmth, still considerably loose from the pounding Damien had given him the night before. I’m still so loose… His brow furrowed a bit as he started to remember how roughly last night had gone. Fuck…. Did he tear something? I don’t remember feeling anything tear… But he was so rough, it’s a possibility. He swallowed thickly, trying not to freak out as he felt Damien’s finger entered him further, reaching deeper. Iroh’s body shuddered, his breath catching as he closed his eyes to try and calm down.

Damien stilled as he felt Iroh shudder, going to lightly kiss him. “Iroh, please, don’t be scared… I’m going to take good care of you. I really will. You tell me the second anything hurts, okay? Tell me if you want me to stop.” He waited for Iroh to nod and breathe out a ‘yes’ before starting to loosen him again, going to lap at the other side of his neck. He was careful as he added more fingers, going slow as he thrusted four in and out of his slick hole, soon withdrawing from him. He still sucked at his collarbone, leaving small marks as he rolled on the condom and slicked up his length. His hands moved to tenderly hold Iroh’s waist, looking up for permission as his tip gently nudged his entrance. Whenever you say. This is about you- you tell me what you do and don’t want this time.

Iroh had kept his eyes closed to keep him calm, feeling him withdraw his large fingers, letting out a soft whimper. He opened his eyes as he felt his thick length poking at his entrance. Holy shit… Iroh’s eyes widened as unmistakable fear took over his eyes as he looked down at where Damien was, the situation reminding him too much of last night. I…. I don’t want you to crush me… He shook his head, moving away as he pulled his arms up, curled into his chest. Fuck, why can’t I get over this? This is cruel for him…

Damien pulled back a bit, thinking. You don't want me to crush you… ...hmm… ...I never thought you'd want to, and it's gonna make you feel a bit exposed, but... He smirked after a second, kissing his cheek. “Don't worry, love, I've got an idea…” He still had his hold on Iroh’s hips as he rolled them over, Iroh straddling his hips, his length nestled in his asscheeks as he got situated. “This okay? If we do it like this?” He lifted Iroh an inch from him, just to help give him the idea. I can't crush you like this… but I can certainly help you along...

Iroh opened his eyes, blushing as he saw that he was face to face with Damien, a small squeak sounding as he was lifted up a bit. “I-I um…. I uh…..” He grew quiet when he couldn’t find the words to express himself, looking away with a full on blush. This is fucking embarrassing… But… He can’t crush me… His body seemed to calm down as the thought made it through his mind. But if he’s gentle…. Will he be able to get off? He’s always so rough when he cums… It’d be cruel to make him just get me off… He felt his lip quiver a bit as so many emotions fought to take over in his head, so unsure of what he should be thinking.

Damien watched as Iroh struggled in his mind, leaning up on an elbow and cupping his cheek with a hand, his thumb gently brushing his jaw. “We don't have to do this if you don't want… if you liked what I was doing before for you, that's all we have to do. I only want this if you do. I only want what you want. What you like . That's all this has to be.” He watched as Iroh brought a hand up to keep his hand on his cheek, looking away unsure from him as he thought. ...this is hard for you... because you're trying to figure out what's okay and what isn't... after so long of just taking what I gave you...

Iroh’s eyes slowly came up to meet his. “B-but… We don’t do gentle…. What if it’s not enough? What i-if I’m not e-enough?” He didn’t really realize he was still speaking as he rubbed his thumb on Damien’s hand, enjoying the stable presence. “It’s cruel… Just because I want it, that you have to settle for that…..I-It’s cruel to you….” I should know...

Damien looked at him with saddened eyes, his tone soft. “Iroh, that's exactly the thing I'm guilty of… I made you take what I gave without any wiggle room… that was cruel of me. I guess… I made you feel that anything besides my way… that your way… it just wouldn't do… and I'm so Iroh shook his head. “It’s not f-fair to you… You can’t do what you like with me…” You’d break me in half if you did… “I don’t want to keep you from that… If you can’t enjoy yourself… I understand… You could tell me…” I wouldn’t be surprised if you wanted to back out...

“And I haven’t let you have what you like. It’s not just about me, Iroh. It’s about you just as much. Even more so… you’ve trusted me enough to take control of pretty much every time we have sex… I’m not doing a good job of loving you if I don’t let you like it… and… I’ve never had anything besides it rough… but who knows? Maybe I’ll like taking it slow. It’s been long enough, the same pace for years. A change would be nice. …and… maybe eventually… a change in who tops…” He shook his head when Iroh seemed to look scared at that. “Not now, it doesn’t have to be now, or even soon… just a thought, maybe sometime… baby steps… you can start by being the one to kiss me first. That would be an achievement.” You never just do stuff on your own… it’s always me starting everything. His expression softened from his playful expression, looking over his features, carefully picking his words. “I want this… because you’ll like it… love it… and it’ll feel good for me too… maybe I’ll like it better… and no matter what, I owe you what you want. This is… this is important…. and I want you to like it… and think it was worthwhile.” I want you to want this kind of love… not be scared of it, but want it… maybe one day start it… and maybe even finish it...

Iroh listened to him, his eyes glued to his as they shifted around and different emotions flitted in front of them. “C-can you s-sit up?” I want you to hold me… I won’t feel so insecure. “P-Please?” He asked, moving to lay down on his stomach, to become flush with Damien, shifting and gasping as he had shifted back slightly and impaled himself with Damien’s length, a loud sigh coming from him as he was drilled, the head of his thick prick nestled within him. “F-Fuck…D-Damien…” He whimpered, so unsure of what he wanted to do, either to sit up, or lay down with their chests flush. Just the tip’s in… And I’m… Fuck ...

Damien shivered as he suddenly found his tip encased in warmth, arousal pulsing again through him as he heard Iroh swear. He shifted, coming out of him for the moment as he moved to lean back against the pillows near the headboard. He had Iroh in his lap, holding him close and lifting his hips. He gave him a sweet kiss before he slowly eased him onto his length, Iroh slipping down his member until their hips met, groaning at the feeling. “Nngh… so tight…” He kept his eyes on Iroh’s face, drinking in his pleasured look. “W-Whenever you say…” He kept his hold on Iroh’s hips, not moving until he said so. I want you to love this...

Iroh looked back at Damien, his eyes full of lust and want as he wrapped his arms around his wide shoulders, humming gently. “W-Will you h-help?” I can move, but it won’t be comfortable if I do all the work. I feel full, it feels good.
Damien pulled him closer for better leverage, lifting his hips up until just the tip was still inside of him. “I can definitely help…” You're so light, this works perfectly… Damien moaned as Iroh slipped back down his length, starting a gentle, slower pace for them, cupping Iroh’s ass. I... I like this… it's a different kind of intimate… and I like that...

Iroh’s gasps and moans were quiet at first, though soon started to grow in loudness. “D-Damien… Mmmm, it feels so good…” He leaned his forehead against his, looking into his eyes as Damien easily lifted him up and down. This... This feels nice, I don’t feel like he’s going to tear me apart... And he’s being really gentle... Iroh dipped his head down to bite his neck, taking a large patch of skin, but not breaking it.

Damien was lost in Iroh’s eyes, both of them saying so much with every emotion there to be easily read. He felt vulnerable, but he wasn’t scared...you aren't going to hurt me, leave me... you're not... I can give you this... and I won't ever regret it. He made a small sound of dissent when Iroh broke their deep gaze, though it soon dissolved into a deep sigh and quiet moans as Iroh bit his neck again. “Nngh… careful… m-mark me up… please…” I want you to... I always leave marks on you... but you never really did for me... I want some...

Iroh nodded, his chocolate eyes looking over the mark he made. “O-okay… Keep doing t-that…” The pace we’re doing...is really good. It’s comfortable . He dipped his head back down, sucking on his skin in multiple places. He let out a loud cry as Damien found his prostate, his grip around his shoulders tightening as he rolled his hips, feeling Damien’s length hit it dead on. “Fuck …”

Damien moaned as Iroh rolled his hips and ground further down on him, aiming for that same spot as he kept their pace. He thrusted up a bit as he let Iroh fall on his length, thrusting deeply into him and onto that spot. He let out quiet moans as Iroh panted and swore, his head tipping back as Iroh moved to suck more marks onto his skin, giving him all the room he wanted. I want you to mark me... please...

Iroh took the skin with greed as he moaned in between marking Damien. “Damien, fuck, it feels good...d-don’t stop…” God please don’t stop... He whimpered, feeling the tears beginning to well from the relief he felt. This feels so good, so much better than anything we’ve ever done... Iroh could already feel the heat pooling in his abdomen. It’s really good, I’m gonna cum soon… “Shit.”

Damien groaned as he was marked, his heels digging into the bed as he moved Iroh on his member. Fuck... it feels really good... and he's actually marking me... Damien moved his head, bringing Iroh’s head up from his neck and leaning their foreheads together. He kissed at the corners of Iroh’s eyes, seeing the tears welling up. They both made quiet sounds as they stared into the other’s eyes, their pleasure there for the other to see. “I-Iroh… I…” I won't last much longer... Damien whimpered quietly, wanting release. I wanna cum...
Iroh let out a loud cry as Damien gripped his hips “D-Damien…. Haaaaa..” He whimpered, feeling the warmth pooling in his abdomen. It feels so good… He squeezed his insides, wondering how Damien would feel with the added pressure. I hope it feels okay… Iroh threw his head back as he rolled his hips down onto Damien’s, grinding himself down on him. It feels sooo good…

Damien let out a strangled cry as Iroh squeezed around him, feeling the heat between his legs grow. It burns… “Haaa… I-Iroh… nngh….” Damen’s hold on his hips tightened a bit, watching as Iroh bounced on his length. “You looks so hot…” I love it… His expression changed, his voice airy as he panted. “I-Iroh… c-close…” I’m gonna cum… He whimpered, grinding up into Iroh every time their hips met.

Iroh nodded and continued to let out breathy moans as he was bounced on his length. “I’m g-gonna…. Cum….” He closed his eyes as the sensations threatened to throw him over the edge. “C-Can I c-cum?” Iroh whimpered, hoping that Damien would let him. I want him to… I won’t be able to hold back…

Damien smirked, dipping his head down to suck a mark on his neck, murmuring smoothly in his ear. “You may…” He let on hand move from his hips, still bouncing him as his hand closed around his length, slowly pumping him. “...but only if you let me hear you.” I wanna hear you fall apart...

Iroh blushed all the way down to his neck, his breath hitched as Damien closed his hand around him. “Fuck…. I’m gonna…. Damien !” He shouted when he felt himself being pushed over the edge, tightening around him even more as he splashed their chests with white. Holy shit… He could feel the warm glow take over his whole body, moans leaving his throat roughly as Damien continued.

Damien gasped as Iroh cried out, squeezing his insides around his length. Fuck… “F-Fuck… I-Iroh… I… haaaa… Iroh …” Damien let out a low cry as he finally came, his motions a bit jerky as he rode out his orgasm. He stopped his motions, still buried in Iroh to the hilt, both of them panting as they came down from their highs. They kissed deeply, breaking for breaths before tangling their tongues again. “Mm… you felt so good …” I love it...

“That…. That was… That was perfect .” Iroh looked at him with pure adoration and love. “T-thank you…. It means a lot… I-I’m sorry I couldn’t tell you before…” He swallowed the lump in his throat, or at least tried too, looking away in embarrassment. “I uh… I should go wash up…..” He moved to get up off of Damien, unable to look into his eyes. He’s probably mad at me that I haven’t cleaned up already…. Iroh almost seemed to shrink at the thought, looking down to the mess he had made between them in shame. “I’m sorry.”
“My God, I love you…” ...I love that look... I only sometimes see it... “W-Wait.” Damien caught him as he shifted to get off of him, gently cupping his cheek, studying him. “D-Don't be sorry... that was wonderful. And... it's okay that you couldn't tell me before. I'm glad I know now.” He gently brought him in for a sweet kiss, the look in his own eyes dreamy when they broke apart. “...want me to clean up with you? Maybe.... share a shower?” I'd like that... “You know... saving water, and all that...” That's totally the reason... He looked over Iroh’s chest, lifting him off of his length and onto his back on the bed. He knelt next to him, dipping his head down to gently lap at his chest, cleaning him of his release. I love you...

Iroh’s eyes widened a bit as he was moved around, his gaze going to his wraps before looking away. He’d see them.... He’d see how bad they are... “I um... I d-don’t.... I... O-okay...” He gave in thinking about what Damien would want. I don’t.... I don’t want to make him mad...

“Nevermind, then. We don't have to.” Damien easily conceded. “I know you don't want to, so we won't.” He smiled as Iroh looked to him with surprise, smirking a bit. “I know, it's so easy. You don't want it, we don't do it.” He kissed across his chest. “Simple.” All you ever have to do is say the word. “If you'd rather shower by yourself, go ahead.” It's cool. Really. We can take small steps. We should.

“O-Okay...” He stuttered and moved off of the bed, he didn’t know that the wrap around his stomach on his hips was starting to turn red, he hadn’t even noticed. I don’t want him to see how much I did this morning....

Damien’s eyes widened as he saw four distinct red spots on each hip, staining his wraps. Fuck. “Iroh, you're bleeding.” Damien moved off of the bed, discarding the condom before moving to his side, his hands hovering over his love handles and Iroh looked for the blood. “Honey, are you gonna be okay?” I'm worried... “Do you need help rewapping those?”

Iroh’s eyes widened as he heard Damien’s words. I’m bleeding? What?.... I don’t feel it... He looked down to see the patches of red seeping through the wrappings. Fuck there are a lot of them open... Maybe sex wasn’t the greatest option.... He looked down, moving away as he pulled his thin arms into his chest. “C-Can I have my g-glasses...”

Damien nodded, handing them to him and catching his jaw with his hands after he put them on, tenderly holding his gaze as his hands cupped his face. “Iroh, please don't be scared of me knowing... you don't have to show me what you did, but just know I'm not mad.” He pecked the corner of his lips, watching Iroh blush down his neck at the small gesture. “You can go ahead and clean your cuts up... but tell me if you need help, okay?” I don't want you to be scared to ask when you need it.
“You're not mad?”

“I couldn't ever be mad at you.” Damien smiled warmly to him, his eyes soft. I love you too much to be mad.

“C-Can you help?” He asked quietly, looking down at his shaking hands as he reached for Damien's. I don’t want to be scared anymore...

Damien twined their fingers, pressing a kiss to his temple. “Okay, I can help you.” He let Iroh pull him along to the bathroom, watching him retrieve fresh wraps and gauze from under the sink. Lathe must've left you these... or you still had them... either... “Okay... here.” Damien carefully unpinned the wraps around his middle, Iroh holding the ends. “It's okay, Iroh. As slow as you need.” I don't want you to be too scared.

Iroh swallowed thickly before he slowly began to reveal the many gashes that were bleeding on his abdomen and hips. “I’m sorry... I couldn’t stop...” He leaned into Damien’s shoulder, slowly. He moved to get gauze and hold it to his side to try and stop the bleeding. “You need to put pressure on it... Otherwise It won’t stop.” His voice was quiet as he spoke, his eyes downcast.

Damien nodded, his face falling as he saw all of the parallel cuts on his skin. “Honey...” You can't be doing this... He took the gauze and pressed it firmly to the cuts, not moving it around and holding the other sheet in place with his other hand. He waited for Iroh to finish cleaning the other scabbing cuts before checking if they had stopped bleeding, his touch feather-light as he cleaned them up. “Iroh, I don't think you can shower without them bleeding again...” They've just barely stopped... and there are so many of them... “...isn't there any way to shower with wraps on, and then just change them after? So they don't get opened up more?” I don't want this to be more painful than it has to be...

“They’ll open up with wet bandages too... Just stop the bleeding for right now and I’ll be fine in the shower.” He murmured, setting down the gauze when he had stopped the bleeding on his right hip. I’ll be fine.You don’t need to worry about me...

Damien nodded, gently peeling the gauze away. “Okay... do you want me to help you wash? Or do you want it to be just you?” I don't know what you want... I want you to be comfortable.

“Y-You can shower with me... I don’t mind... Y-You saw them...” He murmured, moving to unwrap his thighs as well, which had completely scabbed over. At least these ones might not open...
Damien watched sadly as Iroh finished unwrapping himself, watching him drop the wraps into the trash. He went to turn the shower on, waiting for the water to heat up. He reached for Iroh, his hands cupping his jaw, gently pressing kisses all over his cheeks and lips as the water warmed. He stepped into the stream of water when it wasn’t cold anymore, Iroh carefully stepping in after him, out of the direct spray of water, the steam keeping him warm. Damien reached for the washcloth, rubbing soap into it yet hesitating, scared to try to wash Iroh. \textit{I don’t wanna try to wash your cuts, and then open them and make you hurt...}

Iroh looked up to Damien as he hesitated. “W-What’s wrong? I-If you’re mad at me, I completely understand…. A lot of other people would be mad too.” His shoulders slumped as he looked away in shame. \textit{I know most people don’t take well to this kind of thing.}

“No, it's not that… I just… I'm scared to hurt you… soap in your cuts isn't gonna feel nice…” \textit{Nope… “I’ll be really careful, but… I just really don't wanna hurt you… t-tell me if I'm being too rough… okay?”} He waited for Iroh to nod before he gently pressed the cloth to his wounds, very carefully beginning to clean him up. \textit{I really really just want you to be okay...}

“I’m not afraid if you open them up… I-I n-normally open them up t-to clean them out…” \textit{That’s how I make sure they're clean.} His large doe eyes looked up to Damien with innocence as he was washed. \textit{I’ll be okay… You don’t need to be scared, that's my job.}

Damien shakily nodded, still extra careful as he ghosted over the cuts, wincing and apologising profusely with every cut that opened and bled. \textit{I'm sorry… I don't want you hurting even more…} He let Iroh take the cloth from him when he was done, his eyes apologetic. He watched Iroh rub more soap into the cloth, letting his eyes slide shut as he began to wash him. He shivered a bit as the cloth swept over his sensitive marks, leaning into his touch. His hands moved as if to hold his waist before they stopped, instead lacing behind his neck as his chest was washed. \textit{I like this… and how did I almost forget? I have to be careful now…} He quietly whimpered as he felt Iroh’s lips on his collarbone, gently sucking dark marks onto his skin, leaning into him, his hands moving from his neck and threading through his hair, gently keeping him in place at his neck. \textit{Please...}

Iroh let Damien thread his hands through his hair, not really bothered with his touch, his lips still running over his collarbone, now leaving soft pecks on his skin. His hands gently rubbed the cloth lower, cleaning him up before he moved to reach lower, gently placing kisses on his hips as he washed Damien’s strong legs. \textit{He’s got so much muscle… He’s so much bigger than me… I still don’t know how this will work out, and I’m surprised that I’ve been able to at least somewhat keep myself together for the past eight years…. In those years......... He kept me a secret from his friends. They didn’t even know he was gay… Should I tell him that I’m planning on going back soon? That I probably won’t be…. Be coming back? \textit{Fuck...}
Damien watched with shaded eyes as Iroh washed his legs, his hand still gently threaded in his hair, though he didn't try to push Iroh to do more than gently kiss his hips. My God, I love you. Damien gave Iroh a loving look as he stood, both of his hands gently cupping his cheeks as he leaned down to tenderly kiss him, holding it for a long moment before pecking his nose, smiling warmly and taking back the cloth. He set it aside, reaching for the shampoo. He squeezed a bit into his hand, moving to gently wash Iroh’s hair, his fingers gently working into his locks. He watched his expression, soon seeing a worried look flitting across his features as he thought. ...Huh? “You okay, Iroh? You look worried…” You shouldn’t be… What’s wrong?

I should tell him... He looked down and away as he shuffled closer to Damien. “D-Do you promise…. Not to be mad?” I don’t think I can take you being mad at me. His fingers moved to hold onto Damien’s hand, swallowing thickly as he waited for his response. That I’m not going to be here past graduation....

Damien nodded, gently pecking Iroh’s forehead, looking worried. “I won't be mad, Iroh. You can tell me anything.” I can't be mad at you. It's okay.

“I-I… I’m leaving … After graduation……” How is he gonna take this?

Damien blinked once, then twice. “W-Wait… what?” "...you're leaving? “W-What do you mean?”...leaving… as in… for a month? ...for a year…? ....for forever....?*

“A-An…. Uhm…. Aniki…. He wants me to move back to Japan…” I can’t say no... He’s paying for my education, I owe everything to him... He swallowed hard, looking down at his feet as he shuffled on them.

Damien just stared at him, thinking. Your older brother… wants you back in Japan…? Well, it's not surprising, but… “......you don't have to……” He watched Iroh solemnly shake his head, his face falling. “......did you tell him you would? ...do you even want to?” He swallowed hard, looking away as he twined their fingers. “...would you be just… leaving me here… alone?” I don't wanna lose you… I wanted to keep you… like... forever… I love you...

Iroh swallowed hard, pulling his hand away as he curled in on himself. “I…. You make it sound so much worse…” Worse for you … Do you think I actually want to leave? “I don’t want to… B- But… I can’t not go back… He’s been paying for everything, my medical bills, my education…. Literally everything that really needs to be paid… I can’t tell him no…. I have to go…. He already booked a flight home for me… I have to call him, and get a thing for Felix…." I’ll need to tell him I’m a major fuck up… Iroh could feel his chest clench, sadness taking over his whole being, though he tried to hide it. You’ll want me to stay.
Damien shook his head slowly, in disbelief. I can't... you can't just... why would you want to go back... to the pressures that made you try to kill yourself... why... I... I don't want you to leave me alone... I wanted to keep you forever... but... “Iroh... you don't have to listen to him and move to Japan if you don't want. We can take over paying for stuff if you don't want him to anymore, we’ve got the money saved up. You can call him and cancel the flight, you don't have to move back... he can't make you...” Damien pulled Iroh close, his mind completely rejecting the idea of Iroh leaving. No.... nonononono you can't leave...

Iroh started to completely break down in Damien’s arms. “He’s.... He doesn’t know about you, I was so afraid to tell him about us....” He’ll cut off his ties with me, and if he does that I can never go back to see mother and father’s graves. “I... I don’t know what to do.... I haven’t been.... I want to be able to see Mom and Dad again...” His arms slowly wrapped around Damien’s middle. I don’t want to leave without you.

Damien wrapped Iroh up in a warm embrace, gently playing with his hair. “...you don't have to completely move... stay for a month or something, perhaps... but come home... please...” I don't want you to stay there forever... I don't wanna have to be without you... not for so long... after I've had you to hold on to for so many years...

“Will... Will you come with me? Please.... Please ? I don’t wanna go alone, he’ll keep me there, and I don’t want to stay there...” He’ll lend me out as a fucking whore. I don’t want to do that, god no..... “Aniki... He’ll do horrible things...” His lithe body began to shake as the thoughts of other men touching him came across his mind.

“Of course I'll come.” Damien cooed to him quietly as he began to shake, reaching over to stop the hot water, gently guiding him from the shower. We need to get you wrapped up and dressed... then we can just chill for a while, talk, make out or whatever it is you need to make you feel better about this. And like hell I'll let your brother keep you away from me. You're mine . He gently patted him with a fluffy towel, gently pressing kisses to his cheeks as he shivered from fear and the cold. It's okay, Iroh. I've got you.

Iroh seemed to calm down further as he was wrapped with a towel, though most of his wounds had begun to bleed all over again from the shower. At least they’re clean now. “Um.... Bandages… Gauze....” He mumbled before he shifted on shaking legs to get to the extensive kit he had on the counter. I hope I have enough... I really do, I don’t want to have to make a trip to the medical supply place in the city...

Damien nodded, gently drying him off fully before reaching for the gauze to staunch the bleeding starting on his middle, wrapping him with Iroh’s help over the layer of gauze. He winced as he took in just how badly Iroh’s thighs were cut, gently dabbing at the cuts and helping him wrap those securely too. Once they were no longer bleeding and wrapped up well, he gently pulled Iroh flush to him, gently kissing his lips. I wanna keep you… and I just want you to get better about everything… I don’t want you so scared of me all the time… I don’t want you treating yourself like crap… please, just… Damien gently pulled Iroh into the bedroom, wanting to get them dressed, helping Iroh carefully shimmy into loose, comfortable clothes before moving with him back to the bed, wanting to at least hold onto him, Iroh settled on his chest. …I just want you to be okay. “We can just chill for a while if you want… we can go back downstairs whenever you want, or we can just stay here and make out or just nap… whatever you want.” He played with his damp locks, his voice soft.

Iroh blushed as Damien helped to settle him down and get everything wrapped along with drying off. I’ll be okay… I will be okay… He’ll come with me… Maybe I can call Aniki? Tell him I’ll book a flight? “I um… S-Should I call Aniki?” Before it gets too late… He shifted around, getting comfortable against his chest, a soft sigh leaving him as he got comfortable.

I kinda just wanna lay here and make out because we have a year to get that flight changed… But then again, you sound so damn sexy when you speak Japanese… Fuck… “Later. Let’s just chill for a while.” He gently ran his hand over Iroh’s back. You don’t need the extra stress. And besides, I’m comfy.

Iroh nodded, curling up into the safety of his arms. “Th-Thank you for understanding…. I’m sorry you have to put up with this…” You won’t like meeting him… Aniki just wants me to run his ‘business’ while he gets all the fucking credit for it… He’ll keep me locked away from the outside world, and he’ll let everyone in the fucking organization use me…

“It’s very okay, Iroh. It’s not your fault.” He kept him wrapped up in his tender hold, gently brushing his lips to his cheek, smiling faintly as Iroh blushed darkly. Hmmmm… I wonder if he’d be up to a bit of making out? I want to… Damien let their lips lightly brush, relaxing further into the bed as Iroh tentatively kissed him back. My God, I love you… “I love you so much…” His voice was a quiet whisper on his lips, his eyes sparkling a bit. I really do.
Chapter 61: The Trouble of Being a Foster Parent

All’s been well, we’re back home… well, at least Levi, Jake, Eli and I are… Dad never told me where the hell they were going for their honeymoon…. I probably won’t know for a long time…. Eh, I’ll get over it. Eli’s starting to teeth, which is only sort of a nightmare. He’s adorable as all hell, which is why I take pictures of him constantly, and post them on twitter, tumblr, and I’ve taken a few videos of him and posted them on YouTube…. Oh yeah, I have all my followers back finally, and even more since the studies came out about the serum, no one thinks that I’m a lunatic anymore, and a few people have seen the videos and have already contacted the foster agency to try and get a day to come look at him. That’s the real nightmare aspect to all of this, the constant calls about the adorable teething baby. I can’t do anything though, I’m not legally responsible for Eli, and people are freaking out because some still don’t really trust me to care for a child… the first few times we had to get Scotty and Casper involved since Lathe listed them as emergency contacts for the Agency, and all I can say is that Eli hasn’t left my arms much, unless I’m asleep and Levi’s putting him in the crib, or feeding him for me. Jake’s been pretty chill, but he’s a bit of a handful, wanting to ride the horses, but I won’t let him ride Luna, and Charlie doesn’t necessarily understand that he can’t run around with Jake on him… He’ll learn eventually, and I can’t help but want to be holding Eli all the time now. Krampus and Nene are back along with Lucifer, they all simply adore the two new additions we’ve got. Most of the time they’ll be in the spare room right next to my room, which is now practically Jake’s room……. I’ve repainted it…. A few times, he found paint when he had a break from reality, which I think was triggered from all the stress of moving around and everyone making sure that he was well cared for. It… It was a huge shock to see him like that, freaking out and rambling on about the randomest things, I’m just thankful he couldn’t hurt himself. He was alone for far too long before Levi found him and grabbed him, and of course that freaked him out even more until I had to put Eli down and then went to find both of them covered in fresh paint, Jake trying to claw his way out of Levi’s arms. He was crying, and starting to scream, and I didn’t know what to do… Blake was standing right behind me, along with Maisie… I got his attention once Levi let him go and he just crumbled into my arms after that. To say that I felt horrible would be an understatement. I didn’t let him leave my sight for the days following that, which were quiet to say the least. Once Dad got home… People started coming to the house left and right to try and see if they could adopt Eli, or at least meet with him. Jake was there too, and every time someone asked about him, their voices grew hushed… The state is required to state the reasons that his parents put him in foster care, which… isn’t a good one, to say the least. He’s schizophrenic, and will be on constant medications, just like me. Most people don’t like that, they don’t want to deal with the possibility of Jake’s mentality becoming worse than it is… but they’re willing to take care of a baby. If I was in Jake’s shoes… the way the people look at him after they know… I think I would hate myself more if I knew that that’s why I couldn’t find a home, and why my own parents abandoned me. More than 10 couples came in the first week, none of them were prepared for the full evaluation Dad gave them, and the worker couldn’t be more pleased, and actually asked if we were willing to take on more children, though we can only take on two more I guess, with all the restrictions… I don’t want them to leave though, Eli’s been…. Already… and it’s only been a week. Eren paused as he looked at the painting he was working on, a picture of Eli happily teething. He could already feel the tears falling down his cheeks as he tried to calm himself down, the doorbell had rung a few minutes ago, the new parents downstairs getting everything for Eli together from Lathe. I can’t do this… I can’t… One last look at the painting he had been doing was all it took before the sobbing started. He dropped the brush he was holding, his paint-covered hands coming to cover his face as he finally let it out, slowly finding his way to the floor as he cried, curling up to himself, Blake starting to panic on the other side of the door. He’s going to either get Dad or Levi… and then they’re gonna freak out, the people taking Eli away will think we’re fucking psychos… Fuck… I need to calm down… or you need to leave me alone….
“...so that’s all of his things, let me get his birth certificate-” Lathe turned as he heard a loud whine, watching Blake come scampering over, pawing at his leg. He turned back to the couple, worried and apologetic. “Excuse me a moment.” He followed Blake as he led him to the art studio, opening the door and seeing the unfinished painting on the table first, and then hearing Eren’s soft sobbing from the corner. Oh no... I knew he'd be like this... “Eren, Honey...” Lathe moved to where Eren had curled up, going to kneel next to him, pulling him close into a hug. “Eren, I know it’s sad that he’s going to go with another family, but he’ll be taken good care of. It’s okay...” He gently pecked his temple, his voice soft. “Do you maybe want to come say goodbye...? Or have you already said what you wanted to?” You've been with him all week... you knew this was coming... you looked so miserable last night...

Eren clung to Lathe as soon as he knelt down, beginning to sob into his shirt. “I... I already told him... Y-You should go... They'll get the wrong impression if you're gone for too long...” He sniffled as he tried to calm down, letting go of Lathe as Blake came up to him, licking his face with fervor. I just don't want him to leave... “W-What if he can’t fall asleep? What happens then? I don't want him to leave... He got used to being in my arms... He’s used to sleeping in his crib in our room...” New tears fell and quickly replaced the old ones, Blake struggling to calm him down and lick them away, his voice broken and awkward. I can't calm down, not anymore.

Lathe nodded, giving him a weary smile, gently pecking his cheek. “He'll be okay, Hon. He will.” He rested a gentle hand on his shoulder for a moment before standing, untangling them and heading back into the kitchen, grabbing the papers in the plastic paper protector from the kitchen table. He smiled warmly to the couple again, handing them the sheet. “Sorry about that- but here are his papers. Birth certificate, and his medical records, immunisations and all that. That's about it, then.” He watched as Eli looked to him, reaching a hand out in a grabbing motion for his green tie. He reached out a finger, Eli happily latching on, making Lathe smile. “You be good for your parents, ya hear? Try not to drive them too crazy.” He gently drew his hand back from his grasp, ushering the couple to the door, wishing them well and shutting the door behind them. They'll be wonderful parents. He meandered back to the kitchen to straighten up the table, catching a glance of them in the driveway, both looking impossibly happy. They really will be.

~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~

Eren's a fucking mess.

He won't eat, he legitimately can't sleep, and all he wants is for Eli to come home again. He's inconsolable... I don't know what to do. I guess he thought we would keep him for a lot longer than a week... but Eli was all over the Internet, and he just got snatched right up... I dunno... he was adorable, of course, but there are people who want kids and can't have them. It's what we signed up for. Lathe put the mortar and pestle back into the cupboard, washed thoroughly, going back to the mug on the counter. I don't know how else to get him to sleep... he wants tea, and he refuses to take the sleeping pills he needs, so... in order that he doesn't end up killing himself over this... Lathe stirred the powder into the hot water, soon bringing the mug to Eren in the living room, on the couch with Levi. He handed Eren the mug, making sure he had a firm grip on it before letting go. He gave a quick wink to Levi, who winked back. I had to tell Levi, so he wouldn't panic when Eren went out for twelve hours. He traipsed back to the kitchen, cleaning up from dinner. He looked up as not ten minutes later Levi was carrying Eren up the stairs, lax in his hold, his eyes finally shut in dreamless sleep. They shared a sympathetic look before Levi disappeared up the steps, Lathe returning to his cleaning the kitchen. Soon enough the counters were clear, Lathe going with his mug of warm coffee to the couch, nestling in the empty nest to watch TV quietly, tired. He was half asleep when he heard a quiet creak, looking over to see Jake standing near the stairs, looking down with his blanket wrapped around him, clutching the warm fabric close. “What's the matter, Jake?” Lathe's voice was soft, shifting to stand, coming over with his empty mug. Everything okay?

“I… I don't think Levi likes me very much…” Jake mumbled as he walked closer to Lathe, leaning his head against the taller man’s chest, closing his eyes as he tried to relax. “He locked the door…” Even though he’s been letting me sleep with him since Eren won’t sleep with me… Does he really not like it that much?

Dammit, Levi… you know Jake needs someone around… “I'm sorry about that. I think he does like you. He probably just needed to be by himself with Eren for once. He misses their alone time, I suppose. Eren hasn't been sleeping much lately. I'm sure everything will be fine.” They need that… but then again, Eren's knocked out… Lathe hugged Jake close, ruffling his hair gently. You need to learn to sleep on your own… you can't sleep with someone forever… “Tell you what, Hon… let me rinse out my mug, and we can go upstairs. You can sleep with Ieva and I if you want, or just me if you like. Whichever you're more comfortable with.” I'm always around, and Ieva isn't… you're definitely more chill with me.

Jake nodded, his hand coming out of the blanket and holding onto Lathe's shirt. “C-Can I sleep with both of you?” He asked quietly, as if he would say no. I don’t wanna sleep alone.

Lathe nodded, smiling warmly to him, gently pecking the top of his head. “Of course you can. Here, let's go for a little walk.” He led Jake into the kitchen so he could rinse out his mug, turning off the TV before leading him up the stairs to their bedroom. He quietly opened the door, smiling faintly as he saw Ieva nestled under the covers, bringing Jake inside. “Alright kid, up you go.” He helped him onto the bed, gently prying his hand from his shirt. “Don't worry, I'm just going to get into pajamas.” He coaxed Jake to let him go, moving to grab clothes and change in the bathroom, soon returning, seeing Jake sitting on the edge of the bed, nervous to move. “Come on Hon, move over.” Lathe gently moved Jake in between him and Ieva, pulling the blanket up over them and wrapping his arms around Jake as he clung to him.

Jake shook in nervousness as he held onto Lathe’s tank top with a white-knuckle grip. *What if I… What if I do something wrong… I don’t want to be taken away. *“Y-You won't m-make me leave…. L-Like Eli?” He asked quietly.
Lathe’s face fell, his hand carding through his hair. “Jake, Honey… we didn't adopt you… we’re your foster family for right now. Eli was our foster kid too. He was adopted by a very nice family who wanted a kid… It wasn’t as if he did something bad… he was adopted into a permanent home. And I'm sorry Jake, but if someone wants to adopt you, they can… we’re not going to keep you forever.” His eyes widened as Jake started to shake harder, tugging him on top of him, holding him close. “I'm so, so sorry Honey… but we can't hold onto you forever… I’d love to… but there are families out there who would love to have you and don't have other ways to have kids… I'm sorry Jake…”

Jake seemed to sniffle as he curled up a bit, a thought crossing his mind. “W-Who would even want me?” I’m a problem child… even my own parents got rid of me… Why would other people want me?

“Lots of people would… there's no way we’re the only family that knows how good of a kid you are.” Someone will come along that will just fall in love and take you home… take good care of you… you’re a bit of a handful sometimes, but you’re very much so worth the patience and the effort. Lathe pressed a kiss to his forehead, keeping him close to his chest.

Jake could only nod as he sniffled and started to calm down. I need to calm down… I really do… He became silent as he shifted to get comfortable again, the tears still coming as he continued to think about a few things. I don’t want to leave here…. I don’t want to leave Eren… Or Lathe…. They understand me.

Lathe reached to the nightstand as Jake still shook with quiet sobs, gently dabbing at his cheeks with the soft blue fabric in his hand. “Don't cry, Jake… I know it’s a hard thing to think about… but it'll be okay. You'll find a family who loves you, I promise. And if it doesn't work out if you're adopted… you can always come back here, give finding a home another go.” Some family who adopts you might not entirely understand what they're getting themselves into… they might not be prepared to deal with one of your episodes… it could happen… it's why every time someone asks about you and they learn you’re schizophrenic they seem to shut down at the idea of taking you home...

... I can come back? I don’t have to stay with the people who take me away? Jake seemed to sigh in relief as he heard those words, his body melting into Lathe's touch as he slowly started to stop shaking. I can stay….
Chapter 62: Broken Hearts

It’s already September… where the hell has the time gone…? Lathe looked around the kitchen as six of them ate at the kitchen table, Levi and Eren smiling to each other across the table, one of their two new additions- Tucker- sitting quietly across from Jake as he ate, Sammie, their new three-year-old addition, sitting next to Lathe and eating, letting Lathe wipe her mouth when her food missed her mouth. Two more, and Jake’s still around… we haven’t found a new home for him yet. And we’re not going to be seeing them all the time soon- they start school tomorrow. Sammie gets to stay home though- but I’m going to see if I can work with her on the alphabet, maybe figure out small numbers. I bought a big set of blocks with letters and numbers on them so she can build all she wants. Some have neat shapes too, they’re not all cubes. We’ve already gotten the other shopping for school done, they have what they need, and they’re enrolled, of course… I hope they adjust well enough… He smiled as Sammie looked to her small dish with a pout, getting up to get her more when she looked at him, imperiously waving her arm and demanding food with small words. It sounded like she said ‘food’- so she gets food. He sat down again soon, sipping from his mug, studying the empty seat across from him with worry as dinner soon ended. She's not home… She would’ve called… He took the dishes to the sink, letting Sammie down from the high chair to run off to the living room where her toys were still set up as she left them, starting to clean up. He had placed the last dish in the dishwasher when he became very worried, no sign of his pregnant wife. She’s alright… …right? …I need to call… Lathe reached for his cellphone, dialing her number quickly and holding it to his ear, waiting as it rung and rung before it picked up, speaking. “Ieva, Honey, are you alright? You missed dinner and you didn't call, I'm worried…” Is everything cool?

There was a loud commotion on the other end of the line, a rough voice, certainly not Ieva’s, on the other end. Whoever it was cleared their throat before speaking. “Excuse me… But are you Mr. Quo? This is Dr. Angret at Trost Medical….” Please tell me you're finally on your way…. Your wife is distraught…

Lathe’s stomach dropped, his eyes wide, voice weighted with worry. “…oh my god, is Ieva okay? What happened?!” Lathe immediate went to the door, sliding into his boots and grabbing his wallet. Whatever the fuck it is, I need to get there now. “Please, tell me she's okay…”

The doctor swallowed. “Your wife is fine; however, our condolences go to your family… She’s very distraught, you should hurry and bring her home, she’s been in here far too long.” She needs to move on…

...what… oh god… what happened… is… the baby… are they… oh god… no … “I-I’m coming…” Lathe hung up, hopping into his car and rushing to the hospital, impatient as the woman at the front desk directed him to where he needed to go, walking quickly down the hall and not bothering to knock before he entered the correct hospital room. He froze as he saw Leva sobbing, cradling a too-tiny bare form to her chest. Lathe’s stomach dropped, tears starting to form in his eyes. …is… but… “I-Ieva…” He slowly stepped forward, seeing the broken look in her eyes, finally getting a look at the face of the small baby she held, peaceful, unmoving. ……but…… they’re not… …not....
Ieva blinked away the tears as she let out a shuddery breath. “Her name’s Elina Rose… Born September 7th at 2:23pm…. Deceased on September 7th 2:25pm…. Her heart was beating… she was beautiful…” She smiled sadly, gently touching their child’s skin. “She weighs eight ounces… and she’s five and a half inches…” She began to cry all over again as she gently touched her baby. “They couldn’t do anything…. She was too premature…” I wish there could’ve been something.

...it's been hours... and... Lathe barely noticed the tears streaking down his cheeks as he stepped close, studying Elina’s reddened face. .....why... I thought... we were going to be okay... and that we could keep whatever children we were given... but... we have to bury her instead... “...she's beautiful… but, Ieva… Honey…” He gently reached out, his touch feather-light on Elina’s skin, knowing they would never see her smile, or hear her laugh, or guide her steps. “...we have to let her go…” You can't stay here forever... just staring...

Ieva shook her head, fresh tears forming in her eyes. “I…” Her voice was broken, a shocked sob leaving her throat as she saw Lathe gently touch her small body. “I can’t leave her… This is my fault… I can’t leave her… I- I can’t…” She started to ramble off as she sobbed, the two barely noticed Eren coming in with a worried look until he dropped the keys to his car, the clatter forcing her to look up. “E-Eren…”

Eren’s eyes almost instantly watered as he walked forward to come closer, though pausing to see if he was even allowed to be close. It’s.... My sibling.... Or what should’ve been... What’s their name? I want to know.... He barely noticed the hiccup that left his lips as he tried not to cry.

Lathe turned as he heard the keys fall, tears still falling down his cheeks as he looked back to the tiny baby. His fingers ghosted over her cheek as he spoke, his voice shaky. “...y-you had a little sister.... Elina... for two minutes... but… they couldn't do anything… she was too premature…” She's so small... “...she's five and a half inches... weighs eight ounces... she's so small...” ...but we can't keep you... Lathe looked up as Eren moved to the other side of the bed, a hand over his mouth as he studied his sister. ...I'm sorry...

Eren was struggling not to let out a loud sob. Oh my god.... I just saw you leave.... And I followed you, but when you came here, I wasn’t expecting this.... He watched as Lathe’s finger gently caressed the small figure, looking at it with sorrow. This... This isn’t right.... “I-I… I-I’m s-sorry.” His voice was barely above a whisper, tears continually rolling down his cheeks as he tried to calm down. I... I wanna hold her... But I’m afraid to ask, I don’t want to rip her away from Mom.

...I want to hold my daughter... Lathe shook a bit as he held out his hands, his voice quiet and shaky. “C-Can I hold her?” I really want to... He was patient as Ieva took a long minute to convince herself to slowly bring Elina from her chest, Lathe holding her with utmost care, bringing her close. ...I wonder what color your eyes were going to be… ...I wonder what your voice would've sounded like… ...I wonder… if you would've let me teach you how to play the piano… how to cook… how to make a snow angel… how to spell your name… Lathe could barely hear Eren as he started softly singing, though he didn't take his eyes from Elina’s face as he and Ieva sang. ...I wonder how old you would have been when you made me stop tucking you in at night… I wonder what color your hair was going to be… what your favorite color would have been… ...what your first words would’ve been… ....we don't get to know now..... we just.... we don't.....

I pray you'll be our eyes, and watch us where we go.
And help us to be wise in times when we don't know
Let this be our prayer, when we lose our way
Lead us to a place, guide us with your grace
To a place where we'll be safe

La luce che tu hai
I pray we'll find your light

nel cuore restera and hold it in our hearts.

a ricordarci che
When stars go out each night,

eterna stella sei

Nella mia preghiera
Let this be our prayer

quanta fede c'e
when shadows fill our day

Lead us to the place, guide us with your grace

Give us faith so we'll be safe

Sognavo un mondo senza piu violenza

un mondo di giustizia e di speranza
Lathe was shaking as the song finished, unable to stop from crying, not wanting to let go of his daughter. I don't wanna let go… b-but… I h-have to… Lathe looked up as Eren came up to him, seeing the quietly inquiring look in his eyes. He looked back to Elina, gently brushing his lips to her forehead before carefully handing her to Eren, burying his face in his hands, letting out a shuddery sob. I don't wanna have to bury her… I don't wanna… why are you making m-me do it…

Ieva seemed to have calmed down for a moment as she saw Eren gently cradling Elina closely, her hands going over to Lathe to tug at his sleeve to bring him to sit on the edge of the bed with her. I need you to hold me… I… I can’t believe this happened… I… “I…. I’m…..” She choked on her words as she struggled to apologize to him. *Can I even still have kids? I can’t believe I did this to him… I can’t believe I did this to her… I… I feel absolutely horrible. Her sobbing continued as she clung to the hem of his shirt, slowly leaning her head towards his shoulder. Her tears were for a completely different reason. I can’t do this again…. Not to him, not to another one of our would-be children. I can’t.

Eren held Elina close to his chest, as if he was afraid to drop her. “I love you, Elina.” His voice was soft, broken as tears fell. “I love you, and Mom and Dad do too, don’t you worry about it.” He whispered quietly, his lips pressed gently against her forehead. “I’ll love you forever, no matter if you’re here or not.

Lathe moved onto the bed next to Ieva, immediately wrapping her up in his arms and letting her bury her face into his chest, both of them shaking like leaves. “I-I’m… Honey, I’m so sorry….”

...you were here for so long without me… why didn’t someone call me? I… I would’ve wanted to be here… to help you in this… to see Elina live, if just for those two minutes… so maybe… she could've known what my touch felt like… so I could've given her a kiss and said goodbye while she was still here...

Ieva shook her head almost immediately as she held onto him. “M-My fault…. I-I’m s-so sorry…” Her words broken and choppy as struggled to speak correctly to him, hiccups and sobs marring her voice. I’m so sorry that this happened, this is all my fault, I should’ve been more careful… I…. I can’t believe I did this to you, that I lost Elina… I’m so sorry…. She buried her face into his shirt, feeling her chest tighten in guilt as his arms wrapped around her in a strong embrace. I don’t deserve these arms anymore….

Lathe gently rocked them, hearing Ieva begin to sob into his shirt, holding her closer. He gently ran a hand over her back, trying to give her what comfort he could in her grief. He watched with teary eyes as Eren held Elina, watching him quietly murmur to her, unable to make out any of his words. He felt like he had been holding Ieva for an eternity when Eren was next to him again, offering him the tiny baby. He and Ieva reached for her, holding her close to them. “...Elina… we love you…” “...I don’t wanna have to give you up… I don’t wanna…” He looked up as the Doctor came again in the doorway, gently knocking at the frame. “...you’re here for her… because we can’t take her home… because she’s not…...she’s not alive… “...I hope you’re in a good place, Elina. ...we’ll see you… sometime.” He gently kissed her forehead, looking over as Ieva shook harder, still gently holding Elina to her chest. "I don’t know how we’re going to convince you to…...to let go..."

Ieva shook her head, holding her small body close to her chest, quiet sobs racking through her body. I… I can’t do this again, I don’t want to go through the pain like this ever again. “I-I’m so sorry…. Elina, I’m so sorry…” I didn’t want this to happen to you. The nauseous feeling once again returned as she saw the doctor come closer to her with his gloves and a mask around his face. I can’t… I can’t give you up like this, absolutely not. “N-No….” I don’t want to let you go. I’m a horrible mother… This must be the world telling me I’m not a suitable mother to raise a child…. I’m sorry Lathe. “Y-You’ve married a horrible excuse for a woman….�” Her words were a ghost of a whisper as she almost tried to hide Elina from the doctor as he got closer to the side of the hospital bed.

Lathe’s face fell, his words quiet in her ear. “Ieva, this isn't your fault… it's not something you could've controlled… it just… it just happened. It doesn't make you any less of a person… I'm so sorry you had to deal with this for so long alone… I… I love you, Ieva… and I love Elina too…” He rested a gentle hand on her shoulder, his expression apologetic and sad, his eyes glassy with unshed tears. “…but we have to let her go. We can't hold onto her for longer… and it's unfair and cruel and I hate it… but… we can't keep her. She’s somewhere nice, I'd like to think… and we’ll see her again sometime… but, for now… we have to let her go.” …I don't want to… but we have to. He gently pressed a kiss to Ieva’s cheek, his gaze on Elina’s tiny features as the doctor held out a hand for her. “…I'm sorry, Honey… but we have to.” …we’ll give her all the respect of a proper funeral that we can… but…. there's nothing more for us to do now...

Ieva’s eyes seemed to glaze over as she slowly handed over her small child to the doctor, tears falling from her eyes, looking absolutely broken. I’m so sorry. She let out a loud sob as the doctor took her away, and out of the room. Her hands were shaking as she pulled her knees up to her chest, wrapping her arms around them and sobbing. “I-I… I'm so sorry, L-Lathe…” How could you keep loving me when I did this to you? How can I even love myself? I’m a disgrace, I should’ve denied him…. this… Everything is my fault… I’m not good enough to be a mom.

Lathe gently rocked them on the bed, barely able to tear his eyes away from the face of his daughter, the last he would see of her. …it looks like she’s sleeping… His voice was a barely audible murmur, but Ieva was inconsolable, and soon the two of them were crying into each other’s shoulders, shaking with grief and sorrow. ….I'm so so sorry that I wasn't here… I left you alone when you needed me most… I’m so…. so sorry...

Ieva continued to sob into his shoulder for a long time, her sobs falling silent as she tried to calm down. “I-I'm sorry… Um… Can you… Can you let go? I-I wanna go home….” I don't want to stay here any longer. She pushed a little at his shoulders, her eyes downcast and glazed over. I don’t deserve your comfort… I deserved to be alone for that...

Lathe nodded, sniffling and wiping the tears from his cheeks. He climbed down from the bed, looking over to where her clothes were, in a bag next to the bed. He picked them up, looking to her. “….d-do you need help, or can you manage?” I don't know if you can get dressed okay or not… I don’t know how much pain you might still be in… if you can move okay...

“I um…. C-Can you help?” I can’t reach my toes, my body is…. It doesn’t feel like my own, and labor is exhausting. “I’m exhausted from the four hour labour…” It wasn’t nice…. She sniffled, reaching her hands up to wipe away her tears. I can’t believe that this happened, I’m horrible… She shifted, moving to get rid of the blankets over her legs. The nurse came to clean me up after a few hours after she was born… She got me some new clothes too…
Lathe gently rested a hand on her shoulder, helping her sit on the edge of the bed. He helped her slowly dress into loose clothes, putting her socks and shoes on for her. He didn't let her step from the bed though, looking around for a moment. A wheelchair would probably be best… I don’t know if you'd be comfortable if I tried carrying you...

Ieva kept her eyes glued to the floor as she waited patiently, and without another word. I wanna get out of here, I wanna go home, lay in my bed and try and forget about it…. But that’s not going to happen is it? She felt the tears start up once again, slowly trailing their way down her cheeks. I’m pathetic.

“Eren, grab that wheelchair behind you please.” He turned as he heard a small sound, seeing Ieva beginning to cry again. He reached gently to her, tipping her head up a bit to look at him. “Honey, I'm so, so sorry… I'm so sorry I wasn't here for you… four hours and I wasn't here at all… not even after… I should be the one apologizing… I left you to deal with this all by yourself… I feel awful about that... but please, don't blame yourself for this. It's not your fault. It's awful, what happened… but it's not your fault. I don't blame you.” He kissed her cheek, his features soft. “We’ll get you home, Hon.” He looked over as Eren moved the wheelchair close to the bed, carefully moving Ieva from the bed to the chair. I'm sorry… fuck… I had one job… and I fucked that up...

Ieva was silent as he moved her, her eyes looking right through him. I hate this… Why does he think that it’s not my fault.. when it is ? It is my fault, you should be yelling at me.... You should be furious with me, I deserved to be alone, especially after what I put our daughter through... I didn’t even give her a chance. She shook her head as more tears fell down her cheeks, her hands in her lap the only thing she would look at.

Lathe pushed her from the room, Eren following them like a lost puppy as they walked through the halls to the front lobby to get her discharged, and out the front door to the car, Eren going to his own as Lathe eased Ieva into the passenger’s seat. He saw the faraway look in her eyes, understanding. ...you're not going to be yourself for a long while... ...I don't think I will either... ...I wonder if you'll ever want to try again… maybe you'll be too scared this will happen again…...you probably will.... ...I don't think you'll want to try anymore... ...you probably won't.... ...I'm going to need to come to terms with that... Lathe was quiet the short drive home, thinking. He helped Ieva from the car, her eyes still focused on everything and nothing, getting her and the chair up the steps to the porch and through the door with Eren’s help. His voice was soft as they came inside. “Do you want to sit on the couch?” He watched her shake her head, not looking away from a spot on the floor. “....bed upstairs?” He watched her nod slowly, moving to pick her up. “I need to carry you… stairs.” He cradled her carefully, ascending the steps and going to their room, the door kicked shut behind them. He laid her on the bed, climbing in next to her and wrapping her up in his arms. He was silent, tears falling down his cheeks as his thoughts ran in circles. ...you're never going to want to try again.... I just know it.... ...but... but I wanted us to have our own kids... but... b-but...

Ieva squirmed in Lathe’s arms. Why are you still here? “Y-You’re not gonna leave?” Her voice was broken, scratchy as she sniffled, not feeling comfortable in the arms of someone who should hate her.

Lathe looked up to her, his voice timid and quiet. “...d-did you want m-me to?” He watched her nod, swallowing hard as he forced himself to let go of her, wanting more than anything to latch back onto her. ...but I don't wanna let go... “...I'll be downstairs... ...I l-love you...” So much... Lathe turned to leave, the door closing quietly behind him as he padded down the stairs. He went to the couch in the living room, dragging the blankets and pillows into a pile and burying himself inside, feeling incredibly lonely without Ieva next to him. He seemed shut down, just staring ahead at his feet, his eyes glassy though tears refused to fall. ...I'm sorry... I'm so, so, so sorry...

Eren watched Lathe walk down the stairs, a sad look on his face. That's not right... He shouldn't look like that. He made his way into the kitchen, brewing a fresh pot of coffee and making a cup just the way Lathe liked it, slowly padding up to him, offering him the coffee mug. “I made it for you, just the way you like it...” His voice was soft, trying to coax him to drink it.

Lathe saw him out of the corner of his eye, his voice quiet, seeming to draw even further into himself, a blanket pulled over his head like a hood. “...n-no, thank you...” I don't want coffee... I just want to be alone... but I want Ieva too... ...and I want Elina... and to not be sad... but I don't get Ieva because she wants to be alone... and I don't get to have Elina because I don't know why... she had to go home months before she even got to live... and I'm sad... and I don't know how to fix any of it...

Eren sighed quietly, putting the coffee mug down, sniffling a bit. “Can... Um...” He swallowed as he wiped away the tears that formed. I'm trying to be strong here and it's not working. “I... Never mind... Don't worry about it.” I can deal on my own... “I'm gonna bring the horses in for the night.” He hurriedly wiped away at the tears that tried to fall from his eyes. I can be strong.... I'll be strong for the both of them.

Lathe looked up to him, weakly reaching out to catch his sleeve. “I-It's fine... what is it?” ...if I don't even even know how to help myself... I should at least try to help you... you lost a sister... His face fell as he saw Eren cry, his heart breaking further. No... you're not supposed to cry... He gently tugged Eren closer, having him sit next to him on the couch, reaching out to weakly hug him. He felt his head fall onto his shoulder, Eren beginning to shake. ...don't be sad... you're not supposed to be sad...

I'm... I'm sorry... “I’m supposed to be strong for you.... I-I’m sorry....” He sniffled, trying to smile and brush it off. I only got to hold her for a few minutes.... She was so small ... His head stayed on Lathe's shoulder, sniffling. “Y-You should be with Mom, she’s probably worse off than me....” She’s a most likely a wreck, especially if I’m like this...
Lathe's voice was shaky, his voice catching in his throat. “S-She… she didn't want m-me to stay… b-but I wanted to…” She doesn’t want me around… but I need her… Lathe gently ran a hand over Eren’s back, keeping him close as he sniffled. “I’m sorry…. b-but thank you… for trying to be s-strong…” I can't be strong enough for myself right now… much less myself and Ieva… and I can't ignore you either… I'm supposed to be strong in this… and I can't do it…

“You should still be with her… I was talking with her nurse in the hall, she has Postpartum Depression Dad…. You remember when I was depressed, and you wouldn’t let me be alone… Mom probably feels awful about herself… Can you go be with her please? And promise me you won’t let her do anything she’ll regret?” Can you be strong for us? He turned his head as Sammie came up to them, a small worried look on her face. I should go put the kids to bed… He shifted up, a small smile on his face as he bent down to pick her up. “Why don’t we get you to bed?” He struggled to smile through the tears for her. I have to be strong….

It makes sense that she's depressed… but… “...she wanted me to leave… and I don't know if… if I can be strong for anyone… I can't even be strong for myself right now… I can't think straight… I can't really think at all about anything… I just…” He looked back to his feet, quiet. “...I think I just... need to sit here… and mourn…” I was gonna have a daughter… she was so small... but… we can't keep her… why couldn't we keep her… she deserved to live...

“Okay… But you should at least go up and make sure Mom eats something, and try and talk to her, please?” I know it's hard on you guys, but…. It’s hard on everyone too, and we need some sort of functioning adult around here, Levi's leaving in less than a month… He smiled softly as Sammie babbled in his arms, taking her up to go to bed in her bedroom, tucking her in with a kiss goodnight, going to get Tucker and Jake out of the game room in the basement and upstairs to go to bed since they were starting school in the morning. They're leaving me too... This isn’t fair, everyone’s leaving me…. My sister.... We didn't get to bring her home.... We didn’t get to dance together... We didn’t get to ride together on Charlie... He slumped down against the door with a silent sob as the weight once again hunched his shoulders over. I... I'm not strong enough to do this...

Lathe silently nodded, though it felt like hours passed where he didn't move, unable to bring himself to. He stared ahead, sometimes glancing over to the mug of coffee where it sat on the wood tray in the center of the couches, having gone cold. ...why can't I fall asleep... I don't wanna think... I just wanna sleep... He stayed nestled in the blankets for a long while, long after the kids had been put to bed, long after the room became too dark to see in. I don't wanna think… ....I want things to be better…. ....I wanna feel better...... ...but I don't know how to fix it... I can't fix anything... It's my job to fix things like this and I can't fix it because I don't know how... someone make it stop hurting... I don't wanna hurt... my chest hurts a lot... I don't want it to... I want leva to be okay... I don't want her to be hurting... I wanna hold onto her... but she doesn't want me to.... ...someone help... please... I don't wanna be alone... Lathe glanced up as a dim light turned on by the stairs, seeing Levi moving from the floor lamp next to the stairs to the kitchen. ...he probably just wants a snack or something. Lathe kept staring ahead until he heard the tell-tale clink of glass, seeing him coming over to the couch with a bottle of Crown, the seal unbroken with two glasses in hand. “...you know alcohol makes me an emotional wreck. I think I'm enough of one as it is.”
“I know…” He sighed quietly as he got up to get a bucket of ice before coming back over and filling both glasses. “I know, but sometimes men need to cry even if they don’t want to.” Levi offered Lathe the glass, settling down next to him. I’m gonna need to drink for this…

Lathe took the glass from him, staring down into the amber liquid. “…it’s not like I don’t want to… but… I don’t think I can…” ……this might fix it… Lathe glanced up again, shrinking back at the deadpan glare Levi had fixed him with. D-Don’t… I can never tell when you’re mad at me or not when you’re glaring like that...

“Just drink it, you’ll feel better. Trust me, you’re holding back your tears and it’s not good for you. You need to cry and this shit helps.” You’ll be able to cry all you need to… Levi tipped his glass back, his gaze softening as he relaxed into the couch. We have a long night ahead of us…

Lathe looked back to the glass. ……it’ll fix it… Lathe tipped the glass back, gulping it down, ignoring the burn in his throat. ……I want it fixed..... He stared at the now-empty glass for a long moment before he held it out to Levi in a quiet demand for more. Gimme.

Levi sighed quietly before filling the glass and sitting back to sip at his own. “If you don’t want to talk at first, that’s fine, but once you let it out you’ll feel much better… Remember about three years ago… I had to drink with you, because I had one of my officers die in my arms…. And how we talked about it, I needed that, and I think you might too, so I’m giving you an open ear.” I really hope you’ll be okay, I know it’s hard, especially with someone who wasn’t even given a chance....

Lathe stared at the glass he was holding, slowly nodding his head. He reached over to pat the space next to him, waiting for Levi to shuffle a bit closer before leaning his head over on his shoulder, not able to find words until he started feeling the effects of the alcohol, sipping at the end of his second glass. “...I just…” He sniffled, finally feeling tears threaten to spill over, not in any hurry to stop them. “...I’m so scared that she’s never going to want to try again… what happened was awful… and I couldn't be there for her… not in her labor… not in the few minutes Elina was alive… not in the hours she held her tiny body…. I wasn't there… I'm…” He faintly shuddered, tears trickling down his face. “...I'm just… I'm so upset that even if she wasn't going to stay long… even though Elina had to go back home so soon… that I couldn't at least be there to kiss her head and… and tell her I loved her… at least let her hear my voice… even if she didn't know who I was… or what I said… I... I only got to say it... when she wasn't there to hear... kiss her when she couldn't feel... hold her when she wasn't there to hold... b-but... it’s not like it’s Ieva’s fault… it’s not like she planned it... I don’t know what went wrong... I don’t think we’ll ever know... b-but I’m scared... she won’t... want to try to have kids anymore... and I really, really want kids... I’ve known forever... but... I just... she won't... she blames herself... and I don't know how to fix that... because telling her it’s not her fault won’t work... I just... I... I... I don't know how to fix any of this... if anything can be fixed... and a big part of me just wants to give up and be sad for a really long time... because I don't know what else to do now... Ieva doesn't want me holding her... she probably doesn't want me in the same bed as her, so I'm here on the couch... and I know it probably sounds really shitty and selfish of me but I really just want to sit here and ignore everything else and mourn because I don't get to have a kid anymore and probably never will…” I can’t fix this… just… let me mourn… please… I don't wanna be responsible and strong… I just wanna sit here and cry and be really sad and not have to be strong but be okay with being weak… and learn to be okay with not having more kids and not having the one I thought we were going to be given to hold onto and teach the alphabet and piano to and spoil rotten and love like we should've been...

“You have Eren….” Levi’s voice was quiet as he listened to him speak, closing his eyes for a moment. “You have me too… And you’ll have all the foster kids that we all know are gonna end up here… We’ll… We’ll get through it…… As a family…. “We have a support group… A very large one at that… We’ll be okay, we’ll get through it, we’ll help you get through it. “I wouldn't have been surprised if you wanted to mourn, though I will give you a bit of advice if you’ll take it…” If you don’t want it, you don’t need to hear it, I won’t make you.

Lathe sniffled, shaking a bit as he sipped from his glass. “…w-what…?” I don't know where to start to deal with any of this..... ...help...

“Talking helps… Even if you can just say a few words, it helps…. And if you’re really worried about not having kids, you should talk to Mom, she’s not gonna know what you're thinking until you say something, and you’ll never know how she feels about it until you guys talk…. Mom’s mourning too, and mourning isn’t easy when you're alone…” It hurts, it hurts so much… I’ve already lost too many of my shitstains that they call Marines...

“B-But she didn't w-want me there…” Lathe shuddered a bit harder, gripping his glass tightly. “I-I tried to h-hold her and sh-she didn't know w-why I w-was still th-there… she's so uncomfortable with m-me being there… I really really w-wanna hold her and h-help and have her help m-me too… b-but… she won't wanna… t-talk…” Lathe started to dissolve into hiccups and tears, shuddering harder when Levi moved the quilt over him a bit and wrapped an arm around him, leaning into the touch. “I-I'm… I-it h-hurts… I… I want h-her back…. ” I just want my wife…. I want Ieva… even if we don't talk for a while.... I just wanna hold her... and for her to hold me too...

“She’s probably in shock Dad…. I remember when I was in shock I started smoking…. Let alone, most of it might have been weed, but we all deal with it differently… Eren goes into physical shock…. You’re reacting differently too…. But once the shock of what just happened to her wears off, I’m sure that she’ll never want to let you go for awhile…” I really hope that that will be the case. His touch was light as he gently rubbed his shoulder to comfort him.

“...that was weed?” Lathe looked to him with surprise, glaring at him and weakly smacking at his shoulder. “Bad Levi. No.” Lathe finally let his hand drop, his head on his shoulder. “No drugs. Drugs bad. Hurt liver.” Lathe stared at his hand, glancing up when Levi shook a tiny bit, glancing up and seeing him wanting to laugh and desperately trying to hide it. “...shut up, you gave me liquor.” He stared at his hand again, his tiny smile fading back into a saddened expression. “...I just… I want her… I need her to hold onto…. so… should I just…. see if she doesn't kick me out when I go upstairs?” He pondered the glass he held, lifting it and knocking the whole thing back, looking to the bottle on the table, not sure if moving to get more was worth it. …more... please...

Levi sighed quietly and pulled his glass away. “Slowly, or I’ll put the bottle back, got it?” He grumbled as he pushed it farther away, trying to keep it out of reach.

Lathe muttered quietly, sipping at the glass and resisting the urge to swallow it in one go. He leaned heavily onto Levi, needing the quiet company as they both drank, the night stretching on as Levi finished off his fifth glass, Lathe on his seventh. He was a tearful- if silent- mess, crying until he didn't have any tears left, clutching Levi’s shirt with both hands after Levi finally succeeded in prying the glass from his hands, his breath heavy, hiccuping once in a while. My chest feels better... I'm sad... but it doesn't hurt.... and this person is warm...

Levi gently held Lathe close. “Do you feel at least a little bit better now?” I can’t believe I’m still coherent, but it wasn’t that much compared to what he drank. He murmured softly into Lathe’s ear as he rubbed his back to calm him down. Please don’t cry anymore...

“...I still wanna cry… but… my chest… doesn't h-hurt anymore...” Lathe clung to him even tighter as Levi shifted, not wanting him to leave. “No, d-don't go… I don't w-wanna be alone… s-stay… I...” His vision blurred a bit, his gaze going from the floor to the stairs, his voice quiet. “...I wan’ lev… wan’ her… to h-hold....” He let his eyes slip shut, Levi keeping him from swaying forward as he passed out. Warm...

Levi groaned. “Now I need to take care of his drunken ass now...” Slowly the two of them made their way upstairs- well, Levi did, carrying Lathe- and he put the older man back in bed with Ieva, who instantly curled up to his warm body. Good.... Just as it’s supposed to be.

Lathe occasionally tried to move in the night, but Ieva’s weight grounded him, and he reached out on instinct as she shifted, pulling her further on top of him, surrounded by her warmth and scent. He cracked his eyes open the next morning, bleary, taking a moment to register his pounding headache, groaning in discomfort. He tried to reach a hand up to rub at his eyes to find them trapped by Ieva, smiling wearily as she still slept. ...I love you.... His expression fell as the day before came back to him, worry twisting his stomach. ...we need to talk... sometime... He slowly extracted a hand from under her, gently petting her head, staring at the ceiling as time dragged on, drifting. ...I'm sorry... He drifted back into consciousness as he heard a sound, turning his head to see Eren setting a tray of food on the side table, his voice hoarse. “...what… what time is it?” Soup... is that soup? It looks like soup... I want soup...
“It’s noon, so wake up Mom, Levi and I are going to go get the kids from school, and then we’re gonna start with riding lessons.” He slipped out of the room and started his way down the stairs. Time to go get the kids, I’m so excited, I get to practice with picking kids up from school! Yay!

“...You be damn careful w’ th’ horse…” Careful with the riding lessons... “Sammie can’t ride yet, Eren, she's too small...” But Eren was out the door by the time he spoke, and he sighed, turning his head back to Ieva, her long furiously red mane splayed out on the bed. He gently ran a hand through her locks, carefully shifting so he could duck his head down, lightly brushing their lips, kissing her awake. I don't want you to think I'm mad at you... and I don't want you to feel alone in this... “Good afternoon, Hon… Eren brought us lunch.” His voice was soft as she blinked awake, seeing for a few precious seconds a content look before he saw the memory of the day before hit her, unsure of how to deal with the thoughts. “It's okay love, it's alright, don't worry...” Lathe gently brushed a stray lock of hair from her face as she seemed ready to cry all over again, wrapping her back up in a warm embrace as she started to shut down again, clinging to his rumpled shirt tightly. oh no... please don’t cry... I'll start crying too...

Ieva let a tear fall without even meaning to do it, a small choked sob escaping her. “I-I’m so.... So s-sorry... I... I didn’t mean... I didn’t want....” She shouldn’t even make out a sentence as she started to sob. You probably don’t want to hold me... I need to forget about it... I want to move on... but I can’t... You probably hate that it happened, that I can’t give you what you want... I’m so sorry.

Lathe quietly cooed to her, gently pulling her on top of him, trying to comfort her with his touch. “Ieva, Honey.... I'm not mad... it's awful, what happened... but I could never blame you for this... we didn't want this, it's not like you did anything on purpose... I don't blame you... I... I love you... and I’m sorry I wasn’t there for you when you needed me... you deserved support at a critical time... and you got nothing... I'm so, so sorry for that...” He held her as she shuddered, feeling his own chest tighten as tears threatened to spill. If anyone fucked up, it was me... and I'm so, so sorry for that...

Ieva shook her head as she began to full-out sob, her cries loudly filling the room as she clung to his shirt. “I-I....” She could barely get a word out as she choked on her own words, beginning to hiccup already. You weren't listed for my emergency contact.... And my phone died.... I couldn’t call you, it was my own damn fault... She shook her head as her grip got strong on his shirt, her head resting on his chest. “W-w-why?” Why did this have to happen to me?

“I don't know... I don't know why... but... she had to go home... and hopefully she’s happy where she is... she couldn't stay.... so let's hope she's okay wherever she has to.” He gently rubbed her back as she cried, tears starting to fall down his own cheeks, sniffling. If you can't stay with us... stay somewhere nice... and be happy...

Ieva whimpered a bit as his ring tangled in her hair for a moment, but otherwise melted on top of him. “I’m so sorry…. I-I know you wanted to see her so bad….” She sobbed more as her shoulders shook even harder. You wanted to have a kid even more than me... And I did that.

Lathe gently untangled his hand from her hair, taking off the rough ring and setting it on the table nearby before going back to petting her hair, his voice quiet. “...she only had two minutes… Even if she wasn't there while I gave her a kiss, and held her... I'm glad I got to see her at all... I just hope she's somewhere nice... happy...” I'll get to see her sometime... maybe not soon... but sometime... I hope she's okay... makes friends.... knows that we love her...

Ieva simply nodded as she continued to sob loudly, clinging to him. “I... I killed her… I’m... I’m so sorry Lathe.... I didn’t mean to…” I hate this.... I hate that I did that... I hate myself because I killed her.... She tried to quiet down as her grip slowly loosened on his shirt, trying to control herself.

Lathe gently rubbed circles into her back, trying to coax her to let it all out. I... I need to be the strong one here... I need to be... “Honey, you didn't kill her... it wasn't like you decided she shouldn't stay... it was a freak accident of nature... and nature can be cruel... I'm sorry I wasn't there for you... but please... you can't blame yourself... you need to take your time to understand that you couldn't help what happened... and we need to learn to move on... I know you didn't mean this to happen, but it did. ...we can learn to be okay again.” He murmured sweetly into her ear as she shivered in his hold, his quiet voice helping her to let out all the ragged sobs she had left bottled up inside until her eyes were dry, having run out of tears. We both needed to just let everything out... before we can start to come to terms with this... He waited until her cries turned to sniffles, his voice endlessly patient and gentle. “How about we sit up, Honey? Eren brought us soup. We should both eat, before it gets cold.” We’ll learn to be okay again.

Ieva sniffled as she picked her head up to look at the large bowls of soup on the nightstand, a lost look in her eyes. “I-I... I don’t know... I-If I can e-eat...” She slowly moved to sit up, getting off of Lathe’s chest as she gently rubbed at her eyes. I'm not hungry... I don’t know if I'll ever be hungry for anything ever again.....

“It's alright Honey, let’s at least try, okay?” He sat her up with him, untangling them and stepping from the bed to move the tray over Ieva’s lap, carefully settling back next to her. He handed her one of the two spoons on the tray, picking up his own. “You can take small spoonfuls if you're not sure if you can eat, but please try, okay? You've gone a long while without eating... I have too. We could use a warm meal.” It might make us feel better... Lathe took a small spoon of his soup, waiting for Ieva to shaking take one as well before they both tried the soup. It took a moment before the flavor registered, Lathe feeling dormant hunger begin to gnaw at him as he remembered what soup it was. ...venison..... I'm hungry... and it's really good... He started to eat normally, still moving a bit slowly, not wanting to unnerve Ieva and wolf his bowl down.

Ieva had her head down most of the time, her eyes glazed over as her thoughts consumed her, the spoon slowly circling around the bowl. I killed her... I killed our only child.... What if.... What if I can’t have anymore? What am I supposed to do? What if I can’t conceive ever again? She swallowed hard, a soft whimper escaping her lips as she looked away, putting the spoon down and pushing it away from herself. “I-I can’t...” Her words were almost silent as she got up off the bed, moving to their bathroom that was joined to their room. I can’t do this... Not with him here... I can’t stay here... You're acting like nothing happened... Why aren’t you mad at me? Mad at me... Because I can’t give you what you want? She shook her head as she slowly padded into the dark room, nausea quickly rising in her stomach as she slid down against the door which was still open. I don’t know what to do anymore.

Lathe moved the tray carefully back to the table before following her, gently knocking on the unlocked door. “Ieva, love, please... can we please talk a bit? I promise I'm not mad at you. I want to be here for you.” We both need all the help we can get...

“Why?” Her reply came out in a choked sob. “W-Why aren’t you mad? Y-You should be furious with me...” Her voice was full of confusion as she moved away from the door to sit on the toilet, the lid closed, burying her face in her hands. I killed your daughter... You could get a divorce for all I know and end it with me.... I’m so scared that you’re... You’re just gonna leave me... She looked up as she heard the knob turn, the door creaking as it slowly opened. “Why? You should be mad at me...” I don’t... I don’t want you to be... But why aren’t you? Isn’t it common to place the blame on the mother who can’t even be a mother anymore?

“Love, I could never be mad at you for something like this...” Lathe padded up to her, holding his hands out for her, wrapping her up in a warm embrace when she stood. “It's not your fault, what happened. It wasn't something you tried to do... it just... happened. There's no other way to say it. It happened, and it was awful, but you didn't do it on purpose... and I'm not going to let you take all the blame for it because that’s just awful....you tried so hard to give me what I wanted... and I love you for that... but losing Elina isn't about to make me stop loving you...it's going to take awhile, and if you ever want to try again- and I'm not saying you have to, it’s your body and health- we’ll talk about the terms. But you and your health always comes first. And if that means you don't want to try again... I understand. But please, just don't blame yourself for this... I love you, and Elina does too... I'm so sure she does. You did what you could, and at the end of it, you couldn't save her... but you gave her what love you could... and that's what mattered. Someone held her and loved her in what time she was alive... and I'm sure that she loves you so much for that.” I'm so sorry you went through that alone... I'm so, so sorry...

Ieva sniffled as he pulled her close. “B-But why? Why can’t I blame myself? Shouldn’t I? Because what if I can’t give you what you want ever again? What if we can’t have kids anymore? Then it’d be all my fault!” She cried into his chest all over again. I don’t want to lose another child like that ever again.... But what if that’s all my body’s good for? “I don’t wanna go through that again... I don’t wanna lose another one...” She whimpered as she started to calm down from her semi-shouting episode. I need to calm down, he doesn’t deserve to get yelled at...
“Honey, what I want is not everything.” Lathe’s voice was a bit firmer, one hand slipping up to thread through the hair at the nape of her neck, cradling her close. “Your job in life is not to give me what I want. That's not the most important thing. It would be nice to have our own kids, yes. But I don't want them if you're too scared to try to carry again. And I don't want us to try if there's a big chance you'll get hurt. You're the one who this affects the most, and if you're not okay with it and if it's more likely than not you'll get hurt, we won't. ….We just won't try again. I'd love us to, but that is not your responsibility. All you need to worry about now… just worry about recovering… and moving on. Because we need to learn to move on, or nothing will get better…” We have to… or else we’ll stay stuck in sadness and if you never stop blaming yourself there's no chance you'll want to try to conceive again...

Ieva looked up to him, sniffling, tears in her eyes as he brushed them away with his thumbs. He’s being really gentle… but I’m a murderer… I can’t… She closed her eyes, scrunching her face as the thought caused her chest to clench. I can’t believe you actually love me still… “I-I…. I’m s- sorry....” She hiccuped as she took in a deep breath, attempting to calm down once again, trying to distract herself, putting her forehead against his chest.

“It's okay Honey… it's alright…” He gently rubbed circles into her back, coaxing a few quiet sobs from her before she calmed down and her tears became snifflers. He chuckled quietly as he heard her stomach growl loudly, gently brushing his lips to her forehead. You still need to eat… and I'm still really hungry. We haven't eaten in like, twenty-four hours… “I think we both need to try to eat again, okay? It's been a long time since we last ate. We’ll both feel a little bit better.” His hands were soft on her waist, guiding her back into the bedroom where the warm soup still sat, waiting for them.

“But….” She trailed off as he stomach growled again, nodding as they sat down. Her hands were shaking as she picked up her spoon, slowly beginning to eat a bit more. Wait…. The kids.... “D-Don’t you need to pick up the kids?” I forgot about what day it was...

“Levi and Eren went to retrieve them, I think. At least, Eren did. If Eren didn't make Levi stay home to make sure Sammy had someone to watch her I’d be very mad.” He hesitated a moment, standing. “I should probably go check- it's very quiet.” He left her with a quick kiss, moving from their room and leaning over the banister to look into the living room, sighing in relief as he saw Levi with Sammie in his lap, reading her one of the many Biscuit books they had lying around nowadays. Good, someone’s watching her. He gave Levi a weak smile when he glanced up to him, Levi giving him a small nod before looking back to Sammy as she pointed to a small bird on one of the pages. Lathe let them be, going back to his and Ieva’s bedroom. “Levi’s downstairs, reading with her. They’re fine. But I do know Eren’s retrieving Tucker and Jake. He was going to take them riding a bit when they got home.” I just hope he makes sure they don't get trampled. Or mentally scarred. ...Charlie likes running away with Jake... It couldn't have been worse timing to hear a loud whinny, Lathe immediately jumping again to his feet. Crap, it's happening again, isn't it. He went to their window, pulling back the shade with worry, Ieva behind him. They both let out a collective sigh when they saw Jake on Charlie, Eren right behind him in the saddle as they walked around a circular path in the grass, Tucker watching from near the barn door hesitantly. “Thank god, they're fine.” Lathe had a hand over his heart, smiling faintly as Jake let out a happy, if surprised sound when Charlie shook his head for a moment. \textit{They're fine... they're fine.}

Ieva smiled softly, looking to Tucker, still standing near the door of the barn, ready to bolt. “Is it just me… Or does Tucker seem like he’s drawn in on himself? I mean, I know he’s been here for over a month, but you don’t think that he’s given up have you? Sammie gets more visitors than he does….” Her voice was quiet as she curled up to Lathe’s warm body. \textit{He’s in his room most of the time, and doesn’t really talk to Jake I’ve heard.}

Lathe furrowed his brow, thinking as he turned to pull Ieva into a warm embrace. “…I don’t think so. Then again, I’m not that good at reading him just yet. He always looks ready to run off, and I was told to watch for that. Hopefully he’ll warm up to us all, but I’ll be keeping an eye on him.”

Yeah, he’s the wildcard here. I’m not sure if he’s gonna want to stay put much longer, since he doesn’t seem to like it much here anyway...

Ieva nodded, smiling as Eren helped Jake with the reins on the horse. \textit{We’ll make sure we watch him....} She groaned as her stomach growled, loudly at that, alerting her that she should be eating. “Fo~od” Ieva went towards the bowls of soup again to sit down and eat. \textit{They’ll be fine... He’ll get along...}
...what am I even doing here. Tucker looked to Jake and Eren with only vague interest, leaning against the barn door. I don't see what the big deal is with the horse, anyway. It doesn't look like it'd be that hard to ride him. Ugh, I just wanna go back inside. Or just leave. ...that last one sounds better. But we're a bit of a ways from town, it'd take a while to walk, and I can't run the whole way... I'd get spotted too quickly. Tucker tried to blend in with the wall, meandering into the barn after a while, studying the walls. Ugh, it smells awful in here. He turned as he heard Eren and Jake get closer with Charlie, watching out of sight as Eren tied him to a post and left, seeming to forget he was there. ...he must think I went inside. Tucker looked from the door where Eren had just left, then to Charlie as he looked to him, still in his tack, tilting his head at him. An idea clicked. ...I could probably manage... I could get decently far and then ditch him somewhere... he'll be fine... and I'll be free... Tucker slowly approached Charlie, reaching a hand out slowly to pet his neck, determination settling in his mind. I'm getting the hell out of here. He moved to the door of the barn, pushing it open and going back to untie Charlie. He put one foot in the stirrup like he had seen Eren and Jake do, struggling to heavy himself up into the saddle, finally managing to get his other leg over him. Okay. Now what. He eyed the lead warily as it dangled near Charlie’s legs, reaching forward a far way to unclip it, letting it fall to the floor. He took the reins in hand, careful as he pulled on the left side. Charlie began to turn around to face the door, and Tucker was still for a long moment, not sure how to get the animal under him to move forward. “...Uhm... giddyup?” He doubted it would work, swaying his feet and hitting his heels still in the stirrups against Charlie’s sides, jerking in shock as Charlie suddenly moved, trotting out of the barn. He tried to steer him left, going down the beaten path from the barn to the front lawn and driveway, passing the driveway and getting Charlie to turn left onto the street, going along the left shoulder of the street. He had wide eyes, beginning to panic a bit as Charlie picked up speed, not sure how to get him to stop. Fuck, I didn't think this through. How do you make him stop?! Tucker looked around for some sort of help, seeing nothing but woods to his left and an open field to his right. Fuck. Fuckfuckfuck what do I do?! Tucker looked around as they came upon the first house on their left, letting out a shocked sound as Charlie suddenly moved, trotting out of the barn. He tried to steer him left, going down the beaten path from the barn to the front lawn and driveway, passing the driveway and getting Charlie to turn left onto the street, going along the left shoulder of the street. He had wide eyes, beginning to panic a bit as Charlie picked up speed, not sure how to get him to stop. Fuck, I didn't think this through. How do you make him stop?! Tucker looked around for some sort of help, seeing nothing but woods to his left and an open field to his right. Fuck. Fuckfuckfuck what do I do?! Tucker looked around as they came upon the first house on their left, letting out a shocked sound as Charlie seemed to suddenly stop listening to him and disregarded the tugs on the reins, going to search the grass, sniffing. “W-What are you doing? This is someone’s yard!” Tucker didn't know what to do, hearing a crunch after a minute, seeing Charlie chewing something, orange crumbled below him. “W-what is that? ...is that a carrot? Why the fuck are there carrots in this person’s yard?” He looked up as he thought he saw a swish of curtains from the front window, panic setting in. I'm gonna get spotted and taken away again. “C-Charlie, come on.” He tugged on the reins, Charlie however resisting, whinnying loudly in protest. ...fuck, he's not listening. He tried to bail, trying to get his feet from the stirrups and get off of him, and he would have, if his foot hadn't gotten stuck. “Crap, crap, crap my foot...” Tucker looked up as someone came from the front door of the house, looking like a deer caught in headlights as a short blonde approached him. Fuck... fuckfuckfuck what do I say ?!

Armin made his way down the porch steps, pulling his jacket around his lithe body. “What are you doing?” He asked quietly, watching as Charlie made a soft noise, jerking forward to eat another one of the carrots on the ground, causing Tucker to lose balance and fall on the ground, his leg still tangled up in the stirrups, Charlie dragging him around to get more food. This is interesting... I have Eren’s horse in my yard... And one of the kids who obviously doesn’t know how to ride a horse...
“H-Help me! My leg is stuck! It's gonna break off! I'm gonna get stepped on!” Tucker panicked, his arms coming up to protect his head as he was dragged on the ground, Charlie disregarding him and munching happily on the carrots scattered on the lawn. He looked back to the blonde on the lawn as they pulled out a cell phone, his face draining of color when he heard him start speaking.

...how the fuck does he know who my foster family is?! Is it the horse? Who the fuck is this?! “My God, stop talking and get me out of this thing so I can go!” He immediately shut his mouth, paling.

_Fuck, I wasn't supposed to say that. Now you'll know I'm running away. And you'll tell him and I'll have to go back and he'll hit me... fuck ...

Armin sighed quietly. “Yeah, he is... Hold on a second... Charlie, stehenbleiben!” He sighed as he watched the large horse pick his head up before standing perfectly still. _Does this kid not know anything about Charlie? And tried to ride him?_ He turned his attention back to the phone. “Make sure you bring Eren, he tried to ride Charlie... Yes I'll get him out of the stirrup and make sure he doesn’t run.” Armin hung up the phone coming over to where Tucker was struggling on the ground. “Lathe and Eren are coming, they’ll be here soon, so you might want to try and figure out what your gonna tell them.” He went to Charlie first and gave him a carrot while he stood perfectly still. _That’s a good boy._ He watched Tucker struggle a bit more. _I'm only gonna help you if you ask..._

_Fuck._ “Can you please get me out of this thing? I'd like to not get either trampled or have a leg broken.” Tucker pleaded with him, though his eyes remained shape, on the blonde’s every move. _The second I'm out of this thing, I'm getting the fuck out of here._

Armin couldn’t help but laugh a bit. “Charlie’s not gonna move unless I tell him to, so your fine. Wanna tell me why you're still trying to run? I know Lathe’s a little on the eccentric side... But he’s a good guy, and I assume that Eren tacked Charlie to put you through a riding lesson? Did you just take the horse and go?” Armin’s words were sharp as he raised an eyebrow, taking hold of Charlie’s reins, not at all attempting to help Tucker at the moment. _Nope, he’s learning a lesson first._

“What the fuck do you care? Just get me the fuck out of this thing! Let me the fuck go!” He struggled to untangle his foot, trying to reach the stirrup. “So what if I want to leave? It's not like this shit matters anyway. I don't need any of these fuckers trying to ‘help’ me. I wish someone could just learn to leave me the fuck alone.” Tucker looked up as the door opened again, seeing another blonde come out onto the lawn, eyeing him and Charlie with a glimmer of amusement in his eyes. “And who’s this fucker? Are you gonna turn me in too? I swear to god I'll knock your teeth out if you try to keep me here, just someone get me the fuck off this horse.” _I'm so fucking done with this._

Erwin chuckled, ambling over and studying Tucker’s predicament. “I dunno... I have a feeling you're not gonna stay put otherwise. And this ‘ fucker’ happens to both be this one’s boyfriend and a Staff Sergeant, so I'd really like to see you try. It'd be amusing.” _This is already very amusing._
“Oh Jesus fucking Christ not you two…” Fucking disgusting. “I can't fucking stand it. Eren and Levi have a perfectly good bedroom to do all their mushy crap in and they're always downstairs cuddling on the couch and hogging the TV or just somewhere and they're always kissing or touching and it's so fucking gross.” He didn't even care that Armin was trying to hide a hurt look and Erwin looked wary of him as he kept struggling to get his foot out of the stirrup. He only stopped when they seemed to look at something behind him, hearing a car door shut. He paled again when he flopped onto the grass again and looked up, seeing Lathe looming above him, looking less than pleased. “U-Uhm…” Fuck… don't hit me…

“I'm sorry about him, you guys. Come on, let's get you free.” Lathe easily heaved him up, Eren coming up behind him to free his foot. Lathe set him down, keeping a firm hold on his arm. “You, are coming with me.” Lathe dragged Tucker to the car, letting Eren deal with riding Charlie home. He watched as Tucker silently got into the passenger seat, locking the doors and turning the car around, glancing to him. “Mind telling me what that little outburst was about?” Oh, I heard everything. But I want you to register what you said yourself.

Eren looked down as he took the reins from Armin. “I’m sorry you had to deal with that, I didn’t think that he would actually try and ride him… And I thought he went inside to hide away… But I guess this is all really my fault as it is.” I can’t help it though. Levi’s leaving in three weeks, with Erwin. He sighed rubbing his neck as he spoke softly to Charlie, letting him lean his head down to continue eating the carrots on the ground. “I’ll get you more carrots Armin…” My horse ate practically all of them.

Armin shook his head, giving him a weak smile. “That’s okay, Charlie’s the only animal who got interested today so far. And the pictures of Tucker freaking out were kinda funny. That’s the escapee you were telling me about?” He watched Eren nod. “Figures. ...I wonder how he hasn't shouted at you and Levi already about being gay… you two looked shocked.” He felt Erwin wrap a protective arm around his middle, leaning into the touch gratefully. “…I get the feeling Lathe’s about to lecture him though, so don't you yell at him too. That'd be overkill.” Yeah, Lathe didn't look too happy.

“You have pictures? How long was he dangling?” I can only imagine what Charlie did to him, for all I know he was running and then came to a sudden stop. He could have a broken jaw, neck, ribs, arms… Eren shook his head trying to rid himself of the images. “I was careless…Leaving him out like that…”

“About ten minutes, but he only fell off after Charlie was at a full stop. He tried to get off, foot got stuck, etcetera. He looked fine. Oh!” Armin took out his phone, scrolling through the pictures. He smiled when they came across a few shots of Tucker looking terrified, one of him in midair as he fell without much grace.
“You're afraid that if you're around Eren and Levi enough, you'll turn gay like them.” ...that's so fucking ridiculous. “Is that really how it works? Do you not feel stable enough in your ‘manliness’ that being around two gay guys is enough to turn you gay? In that case, you need to get your shit together and figure out what the hell you are if you can be so easily swayed.” Lathe glanced over to Tucker, seeing him angrily glaring at him, though he was gaping like a fish, unable to find words. “I assure you. Being around gays doesn't turn you gay. Hell, the majority of people I've ever had as friends were gay, and I'm pretty damn sure Ieva isn't a man. So let’s get one thing damn straight.” Lathe parked the car in the driveway, and turned to look at Tucker, his face stony. “You need to understand that your happiness doesn't matter more than anyone else’s, and nobody else’s happiness matters more than yours. That means that if you don't want anyone harassing you for liking the people you do, you have no right to harass who others love. I can't tell you how many times I've seen fights break out because someone decided the only way to ‘fix the gay’ was with their fists because they wouldn't listen to them. They get called every name in the book, and I could have ten people here within the next ten minutes to tell you everything they've ever had thrown at them, metaphorically and literally. I'm sure that you don't want that.” He watched Tucker slowly shake his head. “Then stop harassing my family and my friends. I don't care if you're homophobic. I'm just letting you know that kind of harassment can get you in serious trouble around here, and it could get you punched when you're older.” Lathe finally stopped ranting, turning to the house. “Let’s get you inside. One more stunt like that and you're grounded for a week. It'll only get worse after that. ...y’know, I have a question.” He turned to Tucker, looking incredulous. “Besides Levi and Eren, why the hell would you want to leave? You've got everything under the sun at your disposal here to keep you occupied, you're well fed, we got you new clothes, and I gave you a brand new laptop for starting high school. I work my ass off to cook good meals for all of us, painted your room when you said you hated the color, and tried everything to get you to open up just a bit. What do you hate so much about this?” I don't fucking get it… I've done everything!

“I hate that nobody fucking wants me!” Tucker shouted out right away. “I hate that I'm in fucking foster care! Do you know what the chances of me being adopted are? I'm 13! No one wants to adopt a fucking teenager! I'm too old for anyone to want! My own mother didn’t even fucking want me! The kids at school won’t talk to me either! They yell at me that I’m gay because I live with that fucking fag you call a son!” Tucker shouted and opened the car door, slamming it shut before running towards the street at the end of the driveway. “I don’t wanna stay here dammit!” He shouted, continuing to run before he saw Eren coming at him while riding Charlie, coming to a stop in front of them.

“I know you don't like it, but you’re going to have to deal with staying here, or so help me I will make sure Maisie never leaves your side so I know where you are all the fucking time.” Eren looked at him with narrowed eyes, his lips a thin line. You hate me being gay that much, well, sucks for you, I’ll stay away from you if you want. “Get in the house.” His voice hard as he watched Tucker nod, tears in his eyes as he walked towards the door with his head down, and shoulders slumped. Eren sighed as he looked at Lathe with his head in his hands, a sad look on his face. “Um…. Armin offered his spare room to us…. We can leave for a little bit, if it’d be easier while Levi’s still home… That is…” I can come and take care of the horses while they’re at school. He looked down as he hopped down off of Charlie, talking him out back towards the barn.

Lathe watched Tucker go into the house with his tail tucked between his legs, sighing and running a hand through his wild hair. “All month?” He watched Eren nod, sighing. “...I guess you two can if you'd want to give him space… that's very kind of them… I think it'll ease the tension a bit… but that doesn't mean you two get to skip the dinner two days before they leave. I'm spoiling you four before I have to wait four years to do it again.” And that's not an if. That's a when . Lathe gave him a weary smile, ambling with Eren towards the barn. “If you all just want to chill and be around each other in peace, go ahead. But make sure I at least see you sometime. It'd be weird to go from bugging you two with breakfast to the house being a hell of a lot quieter all of a sudden.” ...my God, I wonder what would've happened if I ended up with a kid who would've wanted to leave home and start their own life like all other young adults do… I'd do terrible with an empty nest.

“It’s only for three weeks, Dad… I’ll be back soon enough… You’ll have to get Tucker and Jake into a morning routine, then pick them up from school… They’ll forget that I’m supposed to be there anyways…” He smiled softly as he got Charlie into the tethers, untacking him with a solemn look on his face. Who knows, he’ll probably try and avoid me anyways, I doubt we’ll be seeing much of each other anymore. “I’ll tell Levi to get packed when I get inside… I’ll come and take care of everyone after the boys go to school.” His hands were beginning to shake as he started to brush Charlie, the horse wouldn’t stand still, trying to move away from him as he got more emotional. He can tell that I’m not holding it together… I guess I’m just… I wasn’t prepared to be hated so much all over again… It’s like Highschool all over again...

Lathe rested a gentle hand on Eren’s shoulder, trying to help him calm down. “I'm sorry… but don't worry too much. The kid’s thirteen and has had it really rough. I'm certain he's not going to be like this forever. He needs a bit. He's barely lived yet.” Lathe gave him a small smile, his hand slipping from his shoulder when Eren had calmed a bit. “I'm going to head back inside, alright? Make sure the barn door is shut before you head up to the house. Lathe waited for Eren to nod before he turned, ambling back to the house. One thing after another… there's too much crap to deal with… murr....

Eren took only a few minutes to finish up brushing Charlie and bringing him back into his stall before going to the house, going right upstairs and looking away from Tucker as he went down the stairs. He went right to their room, pulling out a few drawers and starting to pick out clothes quietly. Lathe’ll call them down for dinner soon, and I’ll pack.... Maybe eat after them, relieve some of the tension in the room, and then we can go to Armin’s place… He sighed quietly as he packed for the both of them in a large suitcase.
It wasn't fifteen minutes before Levi appeared in the doorway, knocking at the frame. “Eren, dinner’s been ready for-” He stared at the suitcase full of his and Eren’s clothes. “...huh? ‘...what crime did you commit and what state are we fleeing to?’” Levi deadpanned, looking at him curiously.

“Loving you… We’re moving to Armin’s until you and Erwin leave....” Eren replied without so much as turning to face Levi. You’ll laugh... And I’m being completely serious... “I’ll eat after I’m done packing... Tucker won’t eat while I’m there anyways...”

Levi didn't laugh. He was stunned, studying Eren as he packed their clothes, clearly upset. “What happened with him? Something bad besides him running must've happened...” Levi moved to his side, his arms wrapping around his middle, pulling him close, wanting to calm him and make him feel better. Talk, because this only kinda makes sense.

“Levi... Just not now... I just wanna be alone right now, please just let go.” It’s things like this that got us his hatred.... “Go eat... Is there anything you want packed?” Now that you’re here I can ask... His hands pushed down on his arms, trying to free himself.

Levi let Eren go, stepping back a bit, wanting to hold him but knowing he should try to give him space. Crap... not good... “Uhm, nothing too particular... just make sure I have plenty of boxers and socks, I guess... thanks.” This is now a thing... Levi let him be, going back downstairs to the kitchen. He shot Tucker and Lathe in turn a questioning look, earning him a scared and slightly hateful glare from one and an apologetic look from the other. ...fuck... I need to know what's going on... it's been one fucking day... things need to not go wrong all at once. Not cool.

Eren came down as they were cleaning up dinner, a sad look on his face as Lathe was cleaning dishes, taking one of the plates and reheating the pasta everyone else had for dinner. “Is mom putting the kids to bed tonight?” His voice broken and quiet as he spoke. I know that I can’t put them in bed ever again, not with how much I’m hated... Maybe he’ll get Jake to hate me in time too...

Lathe nodded, looking up for a moment. “Yeah, she is. Tucker is going to be a handful... but I think Jake would want to say goodnight before you and Levi leave. He looks up to you, and even if it's not that long a time you two are gone, it's going to seem like forever to him.” Lathe dried his hands, going to give Eren a hug. “I think you should eat, then the two of you should maybe say goodnight, and then you can leave. At least you.” He loves you. And you should at least say goodbye.

Eren nodded, going to sit down and eat his plate, his eyes looking dull as he could no longer find the stomach to eat from his plate anymore. I’m not hungry. He cleaned up after himself quietly, making his way upstairs where Jake was fighting against Ieva to be put in his room. He doesn’t want her to put him to bed. “Jake…” He called for the small boy and watched as he stopped fighting, and ran over to his side.

“I don’t wanna go to bed!” Jake whined, clinging onto Eren, his face showing his confusion as Eren moved a bit, so that they were at eye level with each other. “Eren..?” What are you doing?

“You need to be good for Mom, okay? I’m not gonna be here anymore to put you to sleep, okay?”

Jake’s face instantly paled to one of horror. “No! You can’t leave! You can’t leave! You can’t leave me! You promised you wouldn’t!

“It’s only for a little while Jake, then I’ll be back home, you need to be a big boy for me.” Eren had a sad smile on his face as Jake nodded, hugging him tightly to his chest.

Jake shook his head, holding onto him. “I don’t want you to leave.” His voice was a soft whisper as he clung onto Eren. You promise me you wouldn’t leave, He looked towards the stairs as Levi started to come upstairs, tears forming in his eyes. He’s really leaving….

Levi hesitated for a moment as he saw Jake clinging to Eren, his eyes softening after a moment, padding up to them. “Hey Jake.” He opened his arms as he got close, Jake moving to latch onto him instead. He crouched down, holding him close and rubbing his back. “We’re going away for a little bit, but we’re not going to be gone forever. Three weeks, kid. It’s okay.” He pulled back, wiping away Jake’s tears. “Don’t cry, it’s okay. It’s nothing you did. And we’ll see you again soon enough, okay? You’ve gotta be good for Mom and Dad while we’re gone, okay?”

“O-Okay…” He sniffled as he wiped at his eyes, the tears slowly starting to subside as he started to calm down. I need to be a good kid… He had his head down as he was ushered into his room and tucked into bed without much of a fight. He smiled as Eren and Levi came in to kiss his forehead before they left.

Eren closed the door behind him and looked down, taking in a deep breath. His eyes finally looked up to meet silvery ones. “Shall we get going?” We could leave now, and settle in for the night.

Levi sighed quietly, nodding. “Yeah, we probably should. I hope Jake holds up okay without us around- and I hope Tucker doesn’t act up too much while we’re gone.” We can only hope, really…
Levi reached out slowly to gently cup Eren’s cheeks, pulling him in for a soft kiss, their lips barely brushing, trying to comfort the other. “They’ll be fine. ...Let’s go.” Levi had a hand on the small of Eren’s back as they walked to their room, getting their suitcase and heading downstairs. He looked up as he saw Lathe and Ieva on the couch, Lathe having pulled Ieva into his nest, the two of them talking quietly. ...so much has happened in two days... it's not right... “We’re going to get going now… we’ll be back during the day to take care of the animals and stuff, so we won't be gone all day, but…” It’ll feel a bit weird, I guess. Especially since Lathe is so damn clingy- he’s probably going to go nuts within the first five days.

“But it's still going to be for a majority of the time.” He watched them nod, sighing. “I don't know what else there is to do… I don't think he’s going to budge at all… I'm so sorry about that.. but it is what it is. We’ll all live.” He smiled wearily, standing with Ieva and holding out his arms. “Now get over here and give us our mandatory hugs goodbye, dammit.” Yes. They’re mandatory.

Levi chuckled quietly, giving his mom a soft hug and returning Lathe’s tighter one, pretending to roll his eyes in exasperation when his forehead was kissed. “My gosh, we’re going to be down the street. We’re not going to, I don't know, Malaysia for a year.”

“Levi.”

“What.”

“Just deal with it.” We all know you're just a big softie. Just go with it.

Eren smiled softly, walking right up to the two of them and hugging them tightly. “Thank you for letting us do this… I really appreciate it…” His words were soft as he felt their arms wrap around him tightly. I’m so glad you guys are my parents.

Lathe rubbed circles into his back, pressing a loving kiss to his cheek. “Of course- anything to keep you two sane. We’ll try to manage.” He smiled, him and Ieva bringing them to the door. “And try not to get on too many of Armin and Erwin’s nerves, alright?” They waved as the two of them walked to the driveway, closing the door behind them. It's just three weeks. What's the worst that could happen?

Lathe suddenly stopped, reaching back to rap his knuckles on the wood door frame. A lot, that’s what.
Chapter 64: Things Have Changed

It wasn't an hour before their stuff was stowed upstairs, the four of them sprawled out over the couch downstairs, watching some sappy movie Eren had found on one of their shelves and insisted they watch. Neither couple was paying much attention, though- Eren and Levi were admittedly getting handsy and Armin had decided it was a perfect time to make out with Erwin. Mine.

Levi couldn't help but feel a bit awkward, Eren kissing his neck and making him want to moan loudly with Armin and Erwin two feet away. Fuck... I kinda want you... but it'd be so awkward if I just drag you upstairs... then again, Erwin and Armin apparently don't give a shit... god, I can't think straight like this with you kissing me like that... Levi let out a quiet groan against his will, his hands on Eren’s waist as he lapped at his neck. He's playing dirty... god, I want him...

Eren smirked, pulling Levi into his lap, as if to hide his hardon that was starting to strain against his pants. God, he sounds wonderful... He continued to lap at his neck, taking his teeth and biting down hard at the joint of his neck, leaving a larger mark. “I want you...” His voice was sultry, right in Levi’s ear, his hand roaming over his abdomen down to his crotch and hooking his thumbs into Levi’s pants. I want them off, Armin and Erwin won’t care.

Levi clung to Eren for dear life, panting heavily as he was kissed. He shuddered as hands roamed his front, tensing as Eren tugged a bit at his pants. “H-Here?” B-But... Armin and Erwin are right there... “U-Upstairs...?” He let out a sinful whine as Eren attacked the other side of his neck; if the other two weren't aware of what they were up to, they surely were now. Fuck... I want it... He tentatively ground down on Eren’s crotch, feeling the hardness hidden there. My God, I really want it...

Eren groaned as Levi ground down into his crotch. “Hmmm, here...” I don’t want to move you upstairs. “Right here...” His murmured, leaning up to bite his neck again as he heard shuffling around them. He opened his eyes, looking to Armin as he got closer to them.

Armin couldn't help but let his eyes wander over them, studying Levi’s fit form with a bit of muted want. We’ve switched once before... maybe... “…mind if I join you two?” Armin’s voice was soft, tentative but laced with want, his cheeks flushed. I’d love to...

Eren looked up to Levi’s flushed cheeks for a reaction. Well, it’s really up to you... How about you Levi?” His eyes grazed over his strong body, licking his lips in want. I want him.... I really want Levi...

Levi’s hold on Eren tightened subconsciously, a possessive feeling flooding him for a moment. Mine. He relaxed, though, at Eren’s response, looking over Armin for a moment. I dunno... I mean, you're a good friend, but... I dunno if I'd want to be the one taking care of you...
...if I'm not the one making the first move... Armin, think. Something. Anything. Armin stood, moving until he was behind Levi, gently pressing against his back as the shorter man still straddled Eren’s waist. He felt him tense as he rested his hands on his arms, letting his lips meet the unmarked side of his neck. He felt Levi slowly allow himself to melt, and a particularly rough nip earned him a deep moan, letting his teeth scrape his skin. So that's how he likes that...

Levi tilted his head to give Armin more room, a hand moving on its own behind him, holding Armin in place to kiss his neck. Feels good... He looked up with dark eyes as Erwin moved, watching him move behind the couch to where Eren was. He watched his fingers ghost over Eren’s jaw, tilting his head back to seal their lips together, watching as it quickly became heated, their tongues tangling easily after a moment. Fuck, that's hot... Levi let Armin guide him from Eren’s lap- though he only let go of him begrudgingly- soon settled in Armin’s own lap, hands wandering as his neck was attacked. Fuck...

Armin’s hands came down to unclip Levi’s belt, his fingers working quickly. I want you out of your clothes. His hands worked their way across his body, helping him out of his shirt and his pants, moving them to lay down on the couch cushion, his lips finding his collarbone. “Levi…” His voice husky as he reached down to rub Levi’s length gingerly. I really wanna do this... And Erwin agreed earlier.

Erwin hummed into Eren’s mouth, heat settled in his stomach as Eren reached up, twining his fingers behind his neck, wanting the other closer. Erwin broke away from him for just a moment, coming around to the other side of the couch and slipping his hands under Eren’s thighs. He lifted him, turning to fall onto the cushions, settling with Eren in his lap as their tongues met again, heatedly making out as their hands moved to rid the other of their clothes. Erwin tugged at Eren’s sweatshirt, pulling it and the graphic shirt underneath off before immediately moving to latch his lips to a perky nipple, feeling Eren arch into his touch and grip his hair, teasing the bud. You sound so hot...

Levi’s hands moved desperately to get rid of the fabric between them, craving touch and shivering when those soft lips met his collarbone again, his movements stuttering, finding it hard to focus on anything other than the sensation. Fuck... “O-Off…” He pulled at Armin’s shirt, Armin helping him undress him, both of them soon in nothing but their boxers, Levi bucking into Armin’s touch, wanting more friction. Fuck... feels good... more... He palmed Armin through his underwear, gasping as Armin’s hand slipped past his waistband and took hold of his length, groaning low and long as he began to stroke him. Fuck...

Armin’s face twisted into a smirk as he fondled Levi’s whole length. “You like this? Or do you want more?” His hand drifted lower in his boxers, teasing his entrance gingerly. I wanna do more to you, because Erwin never lets me do more to him.
Eren let out a loud moan as he became putty in Erwin’s arms, feeling his large hands leave hot trails all over his body. “Er-Erwin… Ha…. Fuck…” His voice was loud as his moans got closer together. This feels great, what you’re doing. “Hmm… M-more…” I want you undressed too, this isn’t fair… He whined as he tried to unbutton Erwin’s shirt, struggling with it. It’s not fair… You’re so much bigger than Levi...

“God, m-more…” I want it… Levi let Armin tug his boxers off the rest of the way, all of their clothes thrown haphazardly away from the couch. He gasped when their bare lengths touched, his hold on the blonde tightening as a hand drifted to grip his ass. He watched as the other hand was soon presented to him, fingers gently brushing his lips. His eyes lit in recognition, taking them into his mouth, sucking on the digits and coating them with saliva. He released them when he decided he had teased Armin enough, letting them free, leaning further into his chest as the hand moved behind him, his legs spread wide for him as he straddled his lap. He quietly whimpered as the fingers traced his pucker, panting as the first finger entered him, feeling up his soft walls. More… please, more …

“Of course.” Erwin’s voice was smooth, smirking as he unbuttoned his shirt, letting Eren push it off his shoulders, leaving him in a tank top that left little to the imagination, and soon that was gone too, watching as Eren nearly drooled at the sight of his defined muscles. “Hmm… you like what you see?” He chuckled as Eren responded by reaching out to run his hands over every line of muscle, dipping his head down again to kiss him roughly, a hand moving to palm Eren through his jeans. He grinned as Eren let out a sound and broke their kiss, his sinful whine filling the room. Damn … making sounds like that, no wonder Levi’s so crazy about you...

Eren whimpered as Erwin’s hands almost seemed to grab his skin and hold onto it tight enough to leave indents for a few moments. His eyes were full of lust as Erwin kissed his collarbone, letting out lewd noises almost every second, his hands still running over the definition of his abdominals, enjoying the feel of having strong hands roam him and being able to openly do that to another. I haven’t had sex in so long… we didn’t really get a chance ever since Jake comes into our room most nights… He closed his eyes relaxing into his touch, a soft groan escaping his lips, leaning his head down to nuzzle into Erwin’s shoulder, breathing in his heady musk as he took in everything he was feeling. More conscious of his body, he could feel how fast his heart was beating, and how warm he felt along with the dribble of precum that was slowly leaking from his erect length. I want him to touch me more.

... Holy fuck… Levi can suck, and really well too. Armin’s eyes were wide as he watched Levi tease him with his tongue around his fingers. His other hand wrapped around his waist to pull his ass cheeks apart to give himself more room as he inserted a finger, gently at first, probing the area to make sure it wouldn’t cause him pain or discomfort. “Tell me if it hurts, okay?” He whispered into Levi’s ear as he nipped at it, tugging on the shell for a moment before returning his focus to his finger inside Levi. He wiggled it, a smirk on his lips as he heard a heavy moan and felt the body above him shudder. Holy shit… that sound, you sound amazing… I can only imagine what it would be like to watch Eren fuck your brains out… let alone Erwin.
“O-Okay…” Levi rested his forehead against Armin’s shoulder, panting and moaning as he was stretched. He whimpered quietly as he felt another finger slip into him, feeling the slight burn of the stretch. He let out a quiet cry when the fingers curled up inside him, brushing that spot inside him. “...th-there...” Levi’s voice was quiet, his hands roaming Armin’s lithe form as he slowly moved his hips back against the hand pushing far into him. It’s been so long since Eren and I have had time to be intimate... Jake’s always sleeping with us... Levi looked over as he heard Eren moaning loudly next to them, unable to keep from taking his eyes over his and Erwin’s forms. ...god, I wonder if we could switch after this... I’d love to ravish either of them...

Erwin took his sweet time undoing the button of Eren’s jeans and slipping them down his legs as he lapped at his neck, biting across his collarbone. He smirked as Eren shuddered, moaning above him. He sounds amazing... He glanced over as he heard a cry from next to them, his eyes darkening further as he saw Levi melting with Armin’s ministrations. ...then again... Erwin returned his attention to Eren as the man shuddered when he wrapped a hand around his length, slowly pumping him and lifting a hand to his mouth, a small mischievous spark in his eyes for a moment. “Suck.” ...but for now, I get to take care of you.

Eren instantly took Erwin’s fingers into his mouth, his tongue circling around them slowly and languidly, knowing that Erwin was enjoying the show he was giving him. His hands... They feel so fucking good on me... He bobbed his head on Erwin’s large fingers, even gagging when they went too far, his eyes watering in only a moment. Fuck, I went too far... He whimpered as he pulled his fingers back, coughing for a moment as he tried to collect himself, though now Erwin’s digits were lathered in his saliva. Eren rested his head on his Erwin’s shoulder, lifting his hips in offering. Do it... I want it... you’re so big... I can feel your hardon through your boxers. His fingers made their way to Erwin’s pants, tugging on them, wanting to see him in his naked glory.

Armin looked over as well when Eren started to cough. Is he okay? I don't remember him ever having a gag reflex before. “Hmm... You must like hearing that sound? Eren choking on something thick? Just wait until he’s choking on something a bit bigger than fingers...” Armin’s voice was low and sultry as he slowly eased in a third finger, making sure to stretch Levi out adequately. Need to make sure I go get the lube for everyone....

Levi let out a strangled sound as a third finger slipped inside of him, the friction becoming too much as they slid in and out of him with increasing resistance. “...A-Armin... lube...” It'll make it feel much better... Nevertheless, he still whimpered in protest when Armin’s fingers drew out from him, letting him shift him onto the couch. A rough nip to his neck finally convinced him to let the blonde go, watching him walk to the stairs before he disappeared, letting himself watch the pair next to him with hungry eyes. He felt a pulse of arousal as Eren loudly moaned, watching Erwin’s first finger slip into his hole. God, that's hot...

Eren whined as only the tip of Erwin’s finger entered him. “I want more... P-please...” He begged as he rolled his hips down onto his finger, a loud moan escaping him as he clawed at Erwin’s back. Holy fuck... Shit... It feels so good to be filled again... “O-Oh god... more please...” He spread his legs further, his eyes drifting over to look at Levi, his cheeks flushed and his eyes watching his every movement. I wanna fuck you too… but Erwin has other plans I think…

Watching Eren spread himself wide so easily for Erwin, hearing and seeing his immediate pleasured reaction, Levi couldn't help but feel instantly possessive, moving a bit subconsciously towards them. Mine. He barely caught himself after a moment, though he saw Erwin return his look with a knowing one, Eren too swallowed by pleasure to have noticed. ...but then again… Armin had me completely at his mercy in minutes… how is this any different? It's not. Levi looked up as he watched Armin coming back down the stairs, a black tube and small package in his hands. He watched him toss the package on the coffee table, already breathing hard as Armin coated his fingers in the slick liquid from the tube. His hands reached for him as the blonde moved over him, his legs spreading open in anticipation as those fingers again brushed his entrance, whining as they pushed past the muscle again. ...you know what? Just stop being jealous and enjoy it. ...hopefully we get to switch again.

Erwin sucked at Eren’s neck, though he was careful not to leave marks as he slipped a second finger inside of Eren. He chuckled as he caught the possessive look in Levi’s eyes, his own fluttering shut as he worked to make Eren writhe under him. Jealous, are we? Question is, are you jealous of me … or him ? He curled his fingers inside of Eren’s warmth, kissing up and down the soft skin of his neck as he yelped, shudders running through him. He nibbled at his earlobe, his voice low and quiet. “Hmm… where should I tease you? …. there ?” He brushed against the spot that had made Eren gasp, earning him a strangled cry, feeling him tremble at the stimulation. Jackpot.

Armin had moved Levi to his knees, bent over the couch, his fingers teasing at the man’s entrance before pushing into it gently, wiggling his first finger in to stretch him out once again. I want to make sure that you’re okay with having something in you before anything happens with me. He shuddered as he heard Eren’s piercing cry fill the whole room, completely drowning out the noise of the movie in the background. I’m so glad I asked… We haven’t done this in forever, and the last time we did this, it was a complete mistake, years ago.

Eren couldn’t even help the lewd noises that were coming from his throat, a groan leaving him as Erwin stopped moving his fingers for a moment. “F-Fuck…” He whined, his hips moving on their own, though not exactly against his will. “Er-Erwin… Fuck…” He moaned loudly, even ranging a few octaves as his prostate was thoroughly abused. Fuck it feels amazing… I want it… I really want it… Does Erwin want it too?

Levi whimpered his head dropped as Armin stretched him again, groaning in relief as it quickly became two fingers. He sighed as a third entered him, the slight burn fading after a while, moving his hips with every thrust of his hand. God, it feels so good… fuck… His length was painfully hard, neglected between his legs, his knees far apart on the cushions to give Armin as much access as he wanted. He didn't hear the quiet crinkle of foil, only glancing up as he heard a moment of stuttering, followed by a sharp gasp. His eyes widened as he saw Eren clinging to Erwin for dear life as he slowly slipped into his heat, burying himself to the hilt inside of him as he sucked at his ...wait. What. “H-Huh…?” His eyes widened as he felt something brush his own hole, Armin’s hands on his hips. ..we’re... all the way...? Levi forgot to even ponder objecting when lips found the nape of his neck, Armin easily sliding into him, relaxing around his length. ......I'm certainly not about to object... One more glance to his right. ...as long as Eren decides to share...

He's so tight... Erwin went slow, his hands roaming Eren’s front as he waited for him to adjust around him. “...you’re really okay with this?” He looked a bit worried for a moment, and that seemed to uncloud Eren’s eyes a bit for a moment, nuzzling back into the crook of his neck when he nodded. Good. Hopefully Levi won't pitch a fit. He glanced over, meeting Levi’s eyes just as Armin slid into him, the look in them sending a pulse of arousal through him. Damn ... he doesn’t look like he's about to complain. He waited a long moment before he carefully ground further into him, eliciting a low moan from the man below him. “...Can I move?” I want to move so badly... it already feels too good...

Eren whimpered for a moment as he adjusted to the size of Erwin’s length. “F-Fuck you’re huge…” His words a hiss behind clenched teeth as he took in a breath to ease the pain. It’s a decent stretch, but it’s bearable. He nodded after a few moments, having finally gotten used to him, his breathing heavy as he leaned his head on Erwin’s shoulder, letting him take over the movements. I want you to take over... Levi hasn’t taken control in a long time... and I wanna submit...

Armin grinned as Levi relaxed into putty under him, bottoming out in a moment as his hands were gentle over Levi’s skin. He’s tight, but he looks like he’ll loosen right up... Eren sounds like he’s having a worse time adjusting. His head dipped down to nibble on Levi’s ear gently, his voice soft in his ear but as deep as he could get it. “Tell me when you’re ready… I’ll ravish you…” I’ve been wanting this for so long, it won’t be difficult.

“God, move… I want you to…” I like bottoming way more than I like topping as of late... and Eren doesn't always want to top... I could use being ravished... Levi sighed deeply as Armin nearly pulled out before thrusting back in, his head dropping onto the couch cushion, gripping it loosely as he started a decent pace, his voice breathless as he felt hands all over him, lips nipping and sucking at his shoulder blades. God... I really like this....

Erwin’s hands cupped Eren’s ass, lifting him up his length before bringing him back down, both of them moaning at the sensation, though he detected a note of pain in Eren’s voice. He dipped his head down to suck at his neck and distract him, Eren gasping and rolling his hips subconsciously as he began to attack his Adam’s apple, surprising him for a moment. Soon though, his expression melted into a smirk, diving right back in to mercilessly lap at that same spot. Hmm... He soon had a steady pace going, his eyes darkening as Eren murmured into his shoulder. More? Alright... At Eren’s demand, it wasn't long before Erwin flipped their positions, his feet firmly planted on the floor as he began to pound into Eren, his gaze raking over the writhing man beneath him. Beautiful...
Eren let out a shuddered breath, watching Erwin’s muscles ripple as they switched positions, his heavily scarred back presented to him as he kneeled on the couch, leaning over the back. "He’s so fucking big. I… I want it…” His cries got louder as Erwin instantly picked up the pace. "He’s so deep, I can feel him everywhere… Holy shit, this is so fucking nice…" "F-Fuck me… please… Master… please…” "Fucking use me to your own pleasure." His head tilted to the side to watch Armin as he started to absolutely drill Levi. "Fuck, it looks like they’re having a good time… I soooo wanna screw Armin… fuck, he’s next on the list…" He put his head down, exposing the back of his neck to Erwin, in hopes that he got the point across to him.

Armin continued his ministrations, a hand coming up to tug on Levi’s locks, pulling his head to the side so that he could kiss his neck, his other hand gripping onto his muscled hip. "He feels so good… and he’s so fucking responsive…" He let his teeth bite into the skin on Levi’s neck, making sure it would still be able to be hidden, though only leaving a small mark. "Can’t leave too many of those… Especially if we’ll be out on the town a lot…"

Levi moved his head willingly when Armin tugged it back, gasping as he was bitten, leaning into every touch and bite. "God, I love this…" His length began to ache even more, feeling a sensation he so much had missed. "...nngh… I-I’m… h-haah… God, I want it… I really want it…” Levi arched his back more as Armin somehow sank even further into him on each thrust, his voice heightening in pitch. "...God… so good…"

Erwin’s eyebrows shot up in surprise, and it took a moment for the thought to register. "Master, huh? ‘Fuck you, hm?’" Erwin smirked, slowing his thrusts and reaching a hand to stroke Eren firmly, a note of amusement in his voice. "...would you like that?” "It sure as hell sounds like you would… but I’d like to hear that again .

“M-M-Master… P-Please…” He stuttered as his length was touched for the first time since he was penetrated, though he whined when the pace was slowed. "Please… I’ve been a bad boy…. I need to be punished…” "He whimpered, turning his head to look back at Erwin, trying to push back onto his length. "I want it… and you’re being a fucking tease now…"

Armin moved to grab onto both of Levi’s hips, pulling him back onto his length with each hard thrust. "Y-You feel so good….. Fuck , Levi…” He snapped his hips as he increased the pace even more, clinging to Levi’s hips even harder, leaving small red marks since he wasn’t strong enough to bruise. "Now… if I remember correctly, his prostate should be …. Right about….

“HA!” Levi cried out in surprise as Armin suddenly found his prostate, gasping for breath as he was pounded into the cushions. “A-Armin… I-I… w-won’t l-last…” "I can’t- not like this …" Levi tried to hold on longer, involuntarily squeezing around Armin, though the moan next to his ear forced him to relax, letting himself get closer to the edge. He arched his back as the pace grew more erratic, finally, letting out a sound of bliss as he came, Armin’s thrusts still going, prolonging his release. He could hear another cry, knowing as his thrusts stuttered in their pattern that Armin’s... coiled had snapped. He slumped into the cushions, trying to catch his breath. “F-Fuck, Armin…” Levi turned when Armin drew out of him, moving to suck at a spot on Armin’s neck in thanks, pulling him into his lap. That was wonderful. He kissed up under his jaw, both of them tangled in the other, catching their breaths for the moment. Levi looked over, watching Eren and Erwin.

Erwin grinned, his eyes dark as he reached a hand to Eren's hair to pull his head back, his lips ghosting over Eren’s neck. “.....well…. since you asked so nicely.” Erwin ground into Eren, beginning his hard and fast pace all over again, hand stroking Eren in time. He bit Eren’s shoulder as the man shuddered and begged him to keep going. He could hear it in Eren’s voice that he wasn't going to last, nibbling up his neck to murmur in his ear. “Eren?” He glanced up, Eren looking to him, ready to obey any order he gave him, his mouth open in a silent moan. “Cum for me.”

Eren’s eyes dilated as he whined. “M-Master…” His gasps were strangled as he struggled to keep his body from shaking from the pleasure overload he was experiencing. It feels… It’s so good… He could feel his coil already starting to tighten in his abdomen. I feel really warm… Eren’s eyes closed as he let his arms give out under him, leaning completely on the couch and letting Erwin fuck him senseless as the sensation built. “M- Master… I’m… I’m cumming….” He whined, his mind going blank as he finally came, his high pitched moans filling the room as Erwin continued, prolonging his own orgasm as his prostate was repeatedly abused.

Erwin’s pace grew erratic, his pace thrown off as he tipped over the edge when Eren's warmth squeezed his length. He groaned into his shoulder, pumping Eren and milking him of his cum. He drew out of him after a long moment, moving and pulling Eren into his lap, kissing up under his jaw. So good… Erwin and Eren panted, trying to fix their breathing as Erwin glanced over, his breath catching for a moment as he saw Levi eyeing him like a piece of meat. He smirked, his eyes running over Levi's form, his voice low. "...mind trading?"

Eren groaned as Erwin pulled out of his heat. I want it back... It felt so good... He put his head on the larger man’s shoulder, looking over to Levi and Armin. Those two looked really hot.... Hmm, but Erwin's nice and warm, I don't want him to let go. Eren also seemed to melt in his hold, relaxing even more than he had in Levi’s arms months ago.

Armin watched as Eren curled into Erwin’s body like it was the most natural thing in the world. What? Why are you getting so comfortable with him? Armin had to catch himself before he let his anger boil over the edge. “Let’s switch…” His voice a little harsh as his gaze was directed towards Erwin, his jealousy obvious. Let go of Eren. You are mine, not his.

“Gladly.” Erwin shifted Eren off of him, Armin tugging him away from him, but he didn't have a moment to ponder it before Levi was in his lap, staring him down with lust in his eyes. He chuckled, his hands drifting up his sides, going to murmur in his ear. “Eager, are we?”
“Is that a fucking problem?” Erwin answered him by roughly nipping at his neck, instantly melting Levi into his hold. ...obviously not... Levi greedily ran his hands over Erwin’s defined muscles, teasingly tracing down his v-line towards his already hardening length. His head tilted in submission as Erwin kissed up his neck, letting him kiss wherever he wanted. Eren isn't always the kind to take control... and I want someone to take control... I really want that...

Eren whimpered when he was pulled away from Erwin’s strong arms. “Armin...” Eren whined, moving into Armin’s body, his own lanky one draping over him. I need to collect myself... Erwin was rough... “What do you wanna do?” He mumbled, his hips starting to thrust a bit, rubbing his length on Armin’s waist as he got hard from the slight friction. Eren’s eyes widened as his head was grabbed and he was shoved off of the couch and his face pressed down to Armin’s crotch. Huh? What’s going on? Why is he grabbing me like that? Why’s he throwing me like that? He flinched as Armin smacked his cheek, looking up to him, a sliver of fear in his eyes as he looked up to him.

Armin’s hand stung a little from smacking his cheek. His eyes look wonderful... I wonder what would happen if I pull on his hair? He heard Eren whimper like a hurt puppy, a twisted smirk playing on his lips. “I want you to suck me off, and if you choke I don’t care...” His words were hard as he pulled Eren’s head towards his length, feeling his heart beat rapidly from the excitement this was bringing him. I am such a sadist...

Levi was thoroughly occupied with Erwin, gasping when their bare lengths rubbed together, holding Erwin in place as he sucked hard at his nipples. Fuck, feels good... He was already a panting mess, but his attention for a moment switched as he heard a pained, scared whimper, looking over where Eren was sucking Armin obediently, a red mark on his cheek. What the fuck...? “A-Armin, d-don’t... don’t freak him out...” Levi managed between breaths, worried. He can’t take that kind of rough... reminds him too much of... things...

“He’ll be fine...” Armin’s voice was still a bit harsh though now he was holding onto Eren’s head by his hair on the back of his head. He’ll be fine, don’t worry. “I’ll break him in for you, he’s pretty docile for a hothead like him...” I wonder if he’s ever fought back before? He seems to be taking it pretty well. And his red cheek looks amazing, I should make his other cheek look like that... Erwin never gives in to this sh*t, so I can’t do it often... He brought his hand down to Eren’s cheek, taking it in his fingers and pinching the skin, eliciting a beautiful whimper from the boy. That’s amazing...

Eren whimpered as he struggled to pull his head away from Armin’s grasp, wanting to get away from this even for just a moment to try and see the panic that he felt was starting. It’s happening again... I don’t want it to happen again... His eyes widened as Armin seemed to let him get up but before he could get off of his length, his head was pushed down almost all the way to deep throat him. Fuck... He could already feel his gag reflex kicking in, struggling to breathe.
Levi had to force himself off of Erwin, shoving him away before moving to stop what was happening next to them. No, you'll panic... you'll panic you can't panic... Levi gave Armin a dangerous look, shoving his hands from Eren's head as letting Eren pull off with a gasp, coughing harshly for air. He hugged him tightly to his chest, Eren curling right into his hold. He recognised the look in his eyes all too well. He's so scared... “Armin, that kind of rough control he can't do. It terrifies him.” Yeah, don't.

Armin watched as Eren coughed, a flicker of worry in his eyes as he saw Eren curl up to Levi. “I... I didn't realize, I thought he would be okay, he was fine when Erwin was being rough with him…” Fuck... I should've done that with Levi instead of fucking his tight ass... He looked over to Erwin. “How come you were allowed to be rough?” Why can't I be rough too? I want you to feel a bit of pain... You were holding onto Erwin a bit longer than I liked.

“If he was going to protest, he could've said something. And he asked. It wasn't all my idea.” Erwin looked to Armin, his expression neutral. “It's not all about just one or the other.” We know this. Don't kill him out of jealousy, please. That'd kill him, and the mood.

Armin grumbled something before moving closer to Erwin. “But you're mine... And he should know that.” I want him to realize Erwin is not up for grabs, no matter how hard he tries... He looked at Eren as he started to calm down in Levi’s lap. “I didn’t mean to freak him out, I thought he could take it...” I was obviously wrong... Shit.

Eren was still shaking in Levi’s arms, his face buried in Levi’s neck, breathing in his scent. I need to calm down... Levi probably wants to get back with Erwin... I wanna watch... And then maybe Levi will take care of me? “W-W-Will...” He trailed off as his voice died, his fingers fidgeting around Levi’s pale skin.

Levi gently kissed up his jaw, holding him close. “Hm? ...want me to take care of you?” Levi tried not to sound disappointed. ...fuck, and I was looking forward to having Erwin fuck me...

Eren shook his head as he was kissed, calmed down about as well as he could be after what he went through. “N-N-No.... It’s... I-I... I’m f-fine…” He stuttered as he started to pull back away from him. I’m okay, I’ll be okay... I’ll be fine... He stopped, he won’t do it again....

Levi nodded slowly, letting Eren untangle them. ...I don't know if you'll want Armin to touch you... He suddenly felt hands rest on his hips, gently tugging him backwards into Erwin’s lap, lips trailing over his neck. He smirked as he saw a flicker of lust in Eren’s eye, trying to speak clearly. “...y-you're welcome to w-watch...” God, I want him... He shivered as he felt his length slip between his asscheeks, hands beginning to roam his front. I want it... so badly...

Erwin chuckled as Levi melted into him, his hands teasingly running up and down the inside of Levi’s thighs, the smaller man spreading his legs further open for him. Erwin kissed down his shoulder, sucking at a patch of skin that had Levi shivering, leaving a red mark and kissing the spot. He paid their audience no attention as he wrapped a hand around Levi’s length, slowly stroking him. He smirked as the motion earned him a sweet moan, purring into Levi’s ear. “Feeling good, hm?” You sure as hell sound like it.

“God, yes...” Levi shuddered, a hand reaching back to hold Erwin in place at his neck, aching deeply. “M-More... please...” I want it... you're so big, you'll feel amazing... I want it...

Erwin smirked as he felt Levi’s hand behind his head, keeping him pressed to his alabaster skin. You're so handsome while you're like this... His large hand traveled up to Levi’s mouth hooking his fingers into his lips as his other hand gently came down to stroke Levi’s long length. His motions were slow, his thumb teasing his slit to elicit a response. I want you to want it...

Levi immediately moved to suck on the digits brushing his lips, swirling his tongue around them and teasing them, pressing kisses to their tips. He whimpered as his thumb brushed his slit, gasping quietly. “Hah... Erwin...” Levi looked over his shoulder to him, wanting to turn around. I wanna see you... Levi shifted himself around, grateful that Erwin’s hand returned to his length. He clung to him as the hand drifted from his mouth down south, spreading his legs wide for him. “...God... I w-want it... please...” He whimpered as the first finger slid inside of him, grateful when Erwin leaned down to roughly kiss him, tangling their tongues. More.

Erwin’s lips moved fluidly against Levi’s, his fingers opening him up bit by bit, easily sliding into him since he had already been opened up by Armin. He’s loose, it shouldn’t be too hard... He soon had three fingers inside of Levi, his teeth capturing Levi’s lower lip. He’s hot ....

Levi whimpered into their kiss, trying to relax around Erwin’s fingers. It burns a little... but it’s a good burn... Levi whimpered as Erwin slipped in his pinky finger as well, needing a long moment before he was loose enough around him. He whined as suddenly the hand was gone, though he gasped when two hands cupped his ass, lifting him up and over his impressive length, shivering in anticipation. Erwin caught and kept his gaze, his mouth open in a silent moan as he slowly sheathed himself in Levi, moaning when their hips met, Erwin grinding up into him. “F-Fuck... you're huge ...” Levi tried to push his hips further down, stuttering. “M-Move... please, move ...” I want it so badly...

Erwin chuckled quietly before picking up Levi’s thighs and bringing them up a bit as he lifted him almost off of his length before pushing him back down and thrusting up into him, getting even deeper than his initial thrust. “God, you’re so fucking tight…” You’ve never taken anything this big in before, have you? Erwin watched Levi pant as he start to pick the pace up, lifting him and pushing him down, and thrusting into him all the same.

Levi was breathing heavily, gasping for air as Erwin picked up the pace. “God… f-feels so good…” I love it… Levi was aching for more, letting out a surprised sound as suddenly Erwin moved, laying him on his back on the couch, looming above him. He gasped as Erwin started thrusting even harder, his hands reaching up to tangle in his hair, mussing his normally immaculately-combed hair. His hands roamed his shoulders, his back, both of them unable to tear their eyes from the others face, drinking in their expressions. Fuck, he’s too goddamn handsome when he’s falling apart like that...

Erwin groaned as he got his hands behind Levi’s knees pulling his legs up towards his chest and sinking deeper into him than he thought was possible. He’s so warm, and he feels so soft… “Levi … I wanna hear you.” He grunted, thrusting into him with a brutal pace, already feeling the coil tightening in him. I won’t last long… And I wanna be able to take care of Armin too…

“H-Hah… E-Erwin… nnngh….” Levi let himself moan freely when Erwin lifted his legs, shaking with pleasure. So good… Levi whimpered as Erwin gripped his hips tight enough to bruise, gasping loudly when Erwin dipped his head down to suck a dark mark on his collarbone. Fuck… “E-Erwin… I’m gonna… hng…” Levi tried to keep himself from letting go so soon, pleasure building in his abdomen. “…E-Erwin, I wanna cum… m-make me cum… p-please…” Levi begged him, craving touch.

Erwin smirked, his hand drifting to Levi’s length, gently pumping it for a moment before firmly grabbing it. “I want you, to cum for me.” His voice was husky against Levi’s ear, his hands roughly handling him as he pounded him into oblivion. The noises you’re making are wonderful...

Levi clung to Erwin for dear life, crying out loudly as he was stroked and pounded over the edge, decorating their chests with cum, drowning in bliss. He heard Erwin moan into his neck as the man above him came, his thrusts carrying him through his orgasm. Soon, Erwin was nearly collapsed on top of Levi, both of them trying to catch their breaths. Levi pulled him down for a kiss anyway, their tongues tangling languidly for a long moment. Thank you.

Erwin’s lips were gently moving on Levi’s lips, pulling back after a short while to breathe, slipping down to lay beside Levi on the couch. That was awesome, I didn’t think you would sound that wonderful… But I can definitely see why you wanted Eren over anyone else… “Damn, you’re a great fuck….” His words were husky from his throat being irritated from moaning for so long, his hands gently caressing Levi’s chest, a glimmer of adoration in his eyes until he heard a quiet whimper towards where their two others were. Huh? What…? His eyes were wide with shock as he saw Eren sucking off of Armin again, Armin’s hands gripping his hair and pushing his head down farther. Shit… Armin, you’re still fucking trying?
Eren whimpered as his head was pushed down farther on Armin’s length. Why? I thought you stopped? Why are you grabbing my hair like that again? He struggled to breathe through his nose as his head was pushed even further. I can’t… I don’t wanna do it!

“Look who’s talking… God, that was wonderful…” Levi rested with Erwin on the couch, their limbs tangled lazily, sharing his adoring look before nestling into his neck. He would have been fine to fall asleep like that, warm and sated, when he and Erwin lifted their heads at a distressed whimper, looking over his shoulder to where Armin was trying to get Eren to suck him off again, roughly forcing him to deepthroat him. “Armin, what the hell?” Levi didn’t want to leave Erwin’s gentle hold, opting to turn over and grab for the nearest object- a stray sneaker- and throw it at his back, hitting him hard enough to make him jump and let go, Eren immediately pulling off and away from him, moving closer to the couch. Levi reached for him where Eren sat scared on the floor, softly pecking his temple before glaring at Armin. “We told you, don’t fucking force Eren to do something if he doesn’t want to do it! It’s not that fucking hard. I can get that you want to be rough and control, but when Eren doesn’t playfully resist and instead is legitimately scared, you need to step off. Being forced to do something uncomfortable would freak anyone out, but we all know why it’s even worse for Eren.” Levi felt his anger flare, but a heavy hand on his side, running up and down to calm him, steadied his mind, taking a deep breath. “...I’m sorry for getting so angry. But please, get it in your head that if both people aren’t into it, it’s not gonna happen.” Yeah, no. If Eren wants to deepthroat you, he’ll let you know some way or the other. And if you're being too rough, he'll let you know then, too. But it does jack shit if you don't listen to his words or his cues. Levi felt Erwin shift to press flush against his back, holding him as Levi murmured quietly in Eren’s ear to stop his shaking. “It’s alright, it’s just a miscommunication… it can be fixed, don’t worry…” Armin damn well better fix it.

Eren had tears prickling in the corners of his eyes, though he did not let the tears fall, sniffing instead as he rubbed at his face, pressing his side into the couch, his head down, almost flinching when Levi reached out to touch his head. I want to be alright… I don’t want him to do that… I thought he would be gentle… but he kept getting rougher… He whimpered as he curled up to the couch, wanting to be held, but not sure how to ask since Levi was comfortable with Erwin wrapped around him. Does.... Does he not want to? I.... I… He probably doesn’t…. Maybe this wasn’t a good idea.... What if I just opened the door to break both of our hearts?

“...Erwin, move your ass over.” Levi made Erwin scoot further back on the couch, reaching for Eren. “Now get your ass up here.” Levi coaxed Eren from the floor, his arms wrapping around him and hugging him close, feeling Eren cling to him in turn. The three of them were warm on the couch, Levi sandwiched between feather-light kisses up his neck, and faint shaking and glassy eyes. He gently pressed kisses to Eren’s cheeks, murmuring to him, trying to soothe him. You’re fine. It’s all okay. I promise.

Eren’s shaking soon stopped, though his eyes remained glassy as his mind ran away from him. He probably really likes Erwin… I wonder if they’ll do this while they’re away? I don’t know if I could ever do this with Armin… He was really nice at first, but then he wanted to control everything, and
I can’t handle that. He closed his eyes, curling his legs up to his chest as he huddled close to Levi’s arms. He’s only doing this because I’ll freak out... Maybe I should go upstairs... and let them have their fun... Eren let out a soft sigh, shifting away from the two of them on the couch and standing slowly, starting to grab for his clothes which were strewn all over the room. I’ll let them be. He jumped a bit as Armin moved across the room and back over to the couch to lay with Erwin and Levi. It’s probably better that I just go....

Levi couldn't stand it, watching Eren pick up his clothes and forlornly turn for the stairs. No... this isn't right... Erwin’s hands fell easily from his hips as he shifted to stand, catching Eren’s arm, turning him to face him, pulling him into a hug. “Eren, I'm so sorry about this... do you want me to come upstairs with you too?” He gently kissed his earlobe. “...If you want me to, I can take care of you...” You kinda got the short end of the stick, as it is... I can fix that. “...but don't just leave...” I wanna stay here, but I want you to stay here too... let me hold you... please?

Eren flinched as he was pulled into a hug, though once he realized who was holding him, his shaking beginning all over again. “I-I… I’m sorry… I’m probably ruining your fun...” he mumbled dejectedly, his head down and eyes glued to the floor. Just go back... I know you probably want to... I’ll be okay on my own, I need to get used to it anyways...

“You're not ruining anything, you know that.” He kissed him softly, their lips barely brushing before he pulled away, studying Eren’s face for a moment. “...I think we both could do with some sleep...” He turned his head as he heard tired mumbling, looking back to the couch. “You say something, Eyebrows?” You sound tired as hell.

“What do you say we drag some blankets down here and we all sleep together?” Erwin yawned as he stretched his arms around Armin, pulling the small blonde closer to him. I wouldn’t mind doing that, and I’m sure sleep would make us all feel better.

Eren looked down and away as he blushed from Levi kissing his lips for only a moment. I ruin everything, so don’t lie to me... He was silent, waiting for Levi’s response, shifting in unease. His body had begun to shake again, his hands barely holding onto the clothes he held in his arms. I might still have a panic attack... I need to go take my pills, and maybe go hide in a corner for awhile...

“I like that idea... you'll have to give us a little bit, though. Eren needs to calm down, and we’ll reassess what's happening, okay?” His eyes showed relief as Erwin nodded in understanding, glancing down and moving to pick up a pair of jeans next to his feet. How the hell did they get so far away from the couch? ...eh, who cares. It was worth it, dammit. Levi felt a bit odd, being nude as he ushered Eren upstairs to the guest room. He got him a glass of water from the bathroom when he saw Eren fumble with his pill bottles, making sure he swallowed the whole thing down. He slid into a clean pair of boxers, letting Eren do the same before pulling him close, sitting on the edge of the bed with him, threading a hand through his hair. “It's alright... I'm sorry Armin was being so rough with you… he just got carried away, I suppose. But he knows better now, I guess. You're fine. It's okay.” I'm not letting any of that shit happen again. If Armin tried to force you again, I'd probably entertain the idea of murder.

Eren nodded, his hands shaking as he held the glass of water. He still kept his head down as Levi curled up to him. “I… I… I’m sorry… for suggesting that… Armin got jealous… And um…” So am I… because you looked so much more comfortable with Erwin than you ever are with me… He kept his eyes down on the ground still as he tried not to cry. “I-I… I didn’t mean for things to escalate like that… I’m really sorry…” You probably think I’m a fucking whore… Which I am, I have been for a long time… how could I forget?

...oh. “…with me and Erwin like that… and with you and Erwin tangled up… I can get that Armin was jealous…” He gently rubbed circles into Eren's back. “…I'm sorry if I made you jealous too… you know how clingy I get, and apparently Erwin does too a bit… I'm sorry… but you know I could only really love you, right? And Armin and Erwin are fucking engaged, so there's that. One of us even threatening to step in the way of that is pretty much forfeiting one of your limbs. It wouldn't end well.” Armin and Erwin are great, duh, and they're each other’s, also duh, but you… you're mine.

“Y-You…” He started off strong though his sentence trailed off to broken mumbles. You were comfortable with him… And you’re not with me… I noticed that… Eren shook his head pushing Levi away from him a little bit, feeling the fresh burn of tears start. I can’t give you what you want… You won’t even make it official… Even I’m starting to have doubts if you’re really going to stay or not…

Levi looked hurt as Eren weakly pushed at him, though he kept his hold tight on his middle. “Eren, I'm sorry… I really am… but I was tired because I'd just gotten my brains fucked out of me twice in half an hour and I'm always too fucking clingy after sex whenever I'm in the mood where I want to bottom, and Erwin was right fucking on top of me and he was warm and I was sleepy. I just…” I should tell the truth… “…it's been awhile since we’ve had the chance to be intimate, but even when we had all the time we wanted, you never liked topping… you always did it just to do it, to barely sate me, and you always acted awkward when I wanted nothing but to just cling to you all morning and keep you wrapped up in bed with me… it happens sometimes, and you always seem to just want to get it over with…. tonight was a nice change for once, and I… I’d love it if we could be more like that… if we could put more into being intimate… I'd love that… because I owe it to you… and I miss the attention…” I do… I could use a thorough fucking more often….

Eren’s head hung on his neck limply, the feeling of knives digging into him with Levi’s words. I... I didn't realize that I'm that horrible of a lover… He sniffled, bring his hands up to quickly wipe away at his tears. “I… I’m sorry… I didn’t realize you h-hated that…” I try my best.... And I'm a nervous wreck whenever I try, but here I am.... Knowing that... That Erwin can satisfy you better than I can… It hurts… “Probably…. hurts…” he muttered to himself, his hands shaking even worse now that his feeling of panic started to rise again. You’ll wanna leave me, and stay with them...
Because I'm a useless whore… that no one wants to keep… Not even you… He didn’t realize that he had been mumbling all his words, his eyes slowly closing as he tried to calm down again, his hands shakily pushing on Levi again.

Levi’s eyes widened as he heard everything Eren was mumbling, shaking his head. “Nonono Eren, none of that is true. I’m not about to leave you over this; I really, really want to keep you. And please, you’re no whore. You’re not. And…” Levi sighed, resting his cheek on Eren’s shoulder. “…I just thought I should tell you. Because intimacy is really important in a relationship and I just wanted you to know… because I’m sure there are things you want me to be doing that I’m not.” He looked up to Eren, his voice quiet. “Eren, be honest. Is there any way I can make our intimacy better? Anything.” I don't want sex to become boring… I don't want you to lose interest…

Eren picked his head up, his questioning eyes met Levi’s pondering ones. Should I? But it’s not really going to help is it? Because I can’t do it that rough…. I’ll start to panic and I almost panicked when Erwin took over, but I was okay, I did that…. I told him he could, I told him I would submit…. But you like to submit far more than you used to… Eren was muttering nonsense under his breath as he shook his head, his eyes gluing back to the floor. I don’t wanna tell you… You’ll get mad at me… I don’t want you to leave when you’re mad at me…

Levi gently reached out a hand, coaxing Eren to look back up at him, his features softening as he saw the conflict and fear in them. “Eren, it’s alright. You can tell me anything. I promise I won't get mad.” He softly kissed his cheek. “I just want you to like what we do when we’re intimate. That's it. That's all I want.” It's important that you like what we do. It's never just about one or the other. It's always about us.

Eren whimpered shaking his head again. “I don’t… I don’t like it…..” You're gentle with me, and you probably think you're doing a good job with trying to help me cope… But it's not helping… He sighed quietly, turning away from him. “It doesn’t help…” I…. I can’t do that anymore...

Levi looked worried, trying to understand. “W-What isn't helping? I don't understand.” Explain it to me. Let me fix this.

“Y-You're gentle…. It doesn’t help…” His voice was shaky as he started to curl up to him. “I…. I can’t get over it…” That week… It’s replaying in my mind…Over and over again… I remember everything …

Levi pulled him closer, not sure what to say. “I… I'm sorry… I just… I thought it would help… but if it's not, I won't… at least not as much as I often am… just…” Levi nestled into Eren’s shoulder, murmuring. “I'm still sorta learning how to love you, because after everything that happened trying to love you is a bit like walking on eggshells… if you want me to love you a certain way, you can tell me. Even in the middle of things, if you don't like something. Okay? I'll try to do better…” I just want you to like what we do...

Eren sniffled, but nodded as he curled up into Levi’s arms. “You’re not…. You’re not rough enough…” I’m so used to having memories replaced with other ones, I need you to be rough, to get rid of that horrible week…. He let a single tear fall down his cheek, burying his head into Levi’s chest. I want to be able to get rid of them...

Levi nodded, kissing the side of his neck. “Okay. I'll try to be better.” He waited a moment for Eren to stop shaking, his voice quiet. “What do you say we get dressed and head downstairs to sleep? Is that okay? We can stay here if you want, I'd just tell them we’re sleeping on our own.” It's no big deal.

“N-No…. We can G-go…” He murmured quietly, slowly getting up to get dressed into his pajamas. I wanna be okay... I wanna be able to be comfortable .... His hands had almost stopped their shaking when he pulled on his tank top. “L-Let’s go d-downstairs…..”

Levi nodded, having pulled on a black pair of sweatpants and a light grey tank top. He tugged on socks too before moving to catch Eren in a light kiss, pulling him along to the stairs. They padded to the living room, chuckling quietly as they saw Erwin and Armin tangled up in a huge nest, looking warm and sleepy. Levi nudged Erwin with his toe, though his voice held no venom as he spoke. “Move your butt, Erwin. Leave some room for the rest of us.” He moved to settle next to him, Armin on Erwin’s far side and Eren still next to him, reaching for the blanket. “You'd better not starfish, Smith.” As long as I don't wake up with your foot digging into my spleen, we’re good.

Erwin, smirked, cracking open one eye. “Is that an order, Ackerman? You know I'm higher in rank than you.”

“Shut it and obey anyway.”

Erwin chuckled, reaching over and tugging Levi- and in turn, Eren- closer, wrapping an arm around him. “Whatever you say.” I don't starfish, don't worry.

Levi mumbled something indignantly, turning when Eren moved him onto his side, facing Erwin, though he was confused for a second. “What're you…” He understood when Eren wrapped his arms around Levi’s middle and pressed flush to his back, Erwin coaxing him to nestle into his shoulder, Armin occupying the other and dragging a blanket over the four of them. Levi let an arm drape over Erwin's middle, letting his eyes slide shut, feeling the gentle huff of Eren’s breath on his neck and the slow movement of Erwin’s chest as he breathed. ...it's warm, and I'm sure as hell not about to complain.

Eren fell asleep silently, though he woke with a start, looking around to the surrounding darkness, hearing the soft snores of everyone else. It must be early morning… Fuck… And I’m awake now, I’m not gonna be able to sleep anymore. He grumbled quietly, moving to let go of Levi and slipping out of the blankets, moving to cover Levi back up since he had moved them off of him. I should let them sleep… What if I went to take Charlie for a ride? Clear my head…

Erwin cracked open an eye as Levi shifted off of being on top of him, still asleep. He looked up, seeing Eren stretch, about to get up. He reached out a hand, brushing his wrist. “Leaving so soon?” His voice was rough from having just woken up, smirking faintly. You can't leave just yet… we all had… plans…

Eren looked up, his eyes full of fear before he put the face and the voice together. Oh thank god… It’s just Erwin… “I um… I was gonna go ride Charlie… Since it’s so early… Sorry for waking you.” He whispered pulling his arm away, and shifting to get up and make his way towards the kitchen.

Erwin carefully caught his wrist in a gentle hold, his voice apologetic as he saw the flickers of fear in Eren’s eyes, even as he forced them down. “I’m sorry for scaring you, Eren, I really am… but wouldn’t you rather stay a while? It's warm, and if my internal clock is correct…” He tilted his head back, making out the numbers on the cable box. “...it's barely five thirty.” He gently tugged Eren back into the nest with them, shifting the covers back over him. “Try to sleep more?” It's too early to get up, much less go riding when it's cold and pitch black outside and you could be sleeping instead. …or doing other things. But I don't think you’d want to right now.

Eren shook his head, starting to move against Erwin’s grip, letting out a soft whimper as he was pulled back into the nest. “N-No… I-I’m gonna go riding…” He started to move again, panic setting in when Erwin wouldn’t let go of his wrist. I wanna go… Master doesn’t want me to leave… But I can’t sleep, and riding will calm me down.

Erwin let him go when he heard Eren say ‘No,’ pulling his hand back. “Eren, it’s too early… it’s still too dark out to see and it’s going to be freezing… please, at least wait for dawn.” If you can't see shit, there's no way I can just let you go riding; Levi would have my head when he found out.

Eren hurriedly shook his head, curling up into a ball within a few seconds. “I wanna go riding… Charlie knows his way around… we’ll be fine…” His words were quiet, and his head tucked into his knees made him hard to understand. I’m acting like a child… but why won’t he let me go?
Erwin couldn't make out his mumbling, sitting up, Armin shifting off from his shoulder. He rested a hand on Eren’s back, sounding worried. “Eren, I'm really sorry... you can go if you want, I guess... I can't really stop you... but just be careful, okay? It's still hard to see. And you're probably going to want a coat.” Dammit, I'm being overprotective again. Ugh, I always do this... “And I'm sorry for sounding like a damn mother hen, but I just don't want Levi to wake up and get pissy that you went riding while freezing your ass off. He'd kill me for that.” ...he probably would actually ponder it, too.

“'Maim' is probably a better word.” Levi blearily reached for Eren, sitting up and practically draping himself over him, nuzzling into the nape of his neck. “It's balls O’clock and you're thinking of riding? Eren, listen.” They were silent for a moment, waiting for Levi to continue, but were confused when he didn't say anything else. But he didn't have to- they soon heard a tell-tale pitter-patter on the roof. “...on top of that, it's fucking raining.” Levi looked to Eren, turning his rare puppy-eyes on low. “Stay? It's warm... mur...

Eren lifted his head, his heart beating a mile a minute, his breathing a bit shaky. Stay? They want me to stay?

... b-b-but... I-I... can’t sl-sleep...” He murmured before he pulled his knees in further to his chest, hugging them tightly to himself; he was self conscious about what had happened the previous night, and from what had woken him up. I don't want to fall asleep... not now... Not while I'm still thinking of it...

He needs to relax, he looks like he's about to shatter from nerves... Levi risked a glance to Erwin when an idea came to him, the two of them having a silent conversation for a few seconds before turning back to Eren. Levi let his hands go to Eren’s hips, his voice soft in his ear. “...you don't have to stay if you stay, you know...” I'd be okay with it... if you are.

Eren’s cheeks instantly flushed at his words, thinking back to what had happened last night. “I don’t wanna be a whore...” His mumbles were next to silent before he let go of his knees and let them down, laying back into Levi’s arms a bit. But I’m so used to being shared... I... Okay...

Levi’s brow furrowed, lightly kissing his neck. “...none of this has meant that you are... you're not. Not at all.” Never. He glanced to Erwin who looked a bit confused, murmuring to Eren again. “...we don't have to do this here. You don't have to share anymore if you don't want to. We can go upstairs... be alone, if you want.” If that's what you need, that's okay. Anything.

Eren clammed up, silent as he moved to curl up to Levi’s chest, burying his head into his loose tank top. I’m used to being passed around... I guess it’s only natural to keep doing it... once a whore, always a whore... He shrugged, letting out a soft sigh as he glanced over to Armin’s sleeping form. He’s still asleep....

Levi scooped Eren up without another thought, moving to get his feet under him and lift him up.
He sent Erwin a look, who nodded in understanding. We need our own time… Eren needs to come to terms with what we did last night… I think he might regret it… or it stirred thoughts up… mostly the latter, but… I dunno…. Levi padded up the stairs and to their room, hip-checking the door shut and moving to lay Eren on the bed. He climbed on top of him, hands on his slim waist as he looked up to him. “…are you sure this is okay?” I don't want you to feel forced…

Eren looked up to him with slightly teary eyes. “I… I-I’m sorry… I didn’t mean… I… I didn’t want… I uh… Uhm…” He trailed off once again the words stuck in his throat. I promised you… I promised you I wouldn’t do that again… and I broke that promise… I agreed with you right there in front me… Why would you want something that can’t keep a promise… I’m a whore… I shared myself… you should be mad. Eren rolled over as he continued to ramble, his head to the side as he laid on his stomach, a lot of his scars still visible from where his sweatpants hung low and his tank top was pulled down.

Levi looked worried as Eren dissolved into fearful rambling, moving to lay behind him, arms winding around his middle. “Eren, Honey, it's okay… don't be scared… tell me, what's wrong? Let me fix it.”

Eren was silent for a moment, his teeth biting into his shaking hands to keep him from talking though he soon let go to start mumbling again. “I… I broke it…. You’ll be mad…” You’ll be fucking furious with me… Even though you watched… I wasn’t just yours… I slept with Erwin too…

“Broke what? I don't understand…” I don't get it…

“P-promise…” I promised you… I promised you I wouldn’t… “I…. I slept with him… And… And I liked it… I’m sorry… I broke it…” He whimpered, curling up a bit further, hiccups forming his his throat, his whole body shaking as he realized exactly what he had done. I’m sorry… I’m so sorry…

It clicked. A promise, made years ago after Armin and Eren confessed to being less than innocent with each other while they were away. “Eren… Nono Eren, it's okay, you didn't break your promise…” He moved to Eren’s other side, gently kissing his cheeks, trying to soothe him. “Eren, I was right there the whole time. And I let Armin and Erwin have me too. If anything, I'm the one who should be apologizing. But we knew, and we were okay with it. It's not a bad thing you enjoyed it; I'd be shocked if you didn't. But it's okay, Eren. You didn't break your promise. It's okay with me that you shared yourself; we all decided to share. And that's okay sometimes. You need to know that. Just because you shared doesn't make you anything less to me.” I'm still completely smitten and I still love you, if that's what you think.
Eren looked to Levi with large eyes, watching his lips move with every word. Huh? His confusion reached his face in only a moment. “You… You're not mad?” *He’s not mad at me? For anything? Not even mad at me for enjoying it?* Eren bit his lip, waiting for Levi’s words of confirmation, not wanting to be too disappointed if he was misunderstanding him. You’ll still want to touch me? And love me?

Levi shook his head. “I’m not mad. I couldn't be.” Levi dipped his head down to nip at Eren’s neck, shifting to straddle him, hands on his chest. “You looked like you were very okay with going all the way, and I got into it too. And of course it felt good. That’s the point.” He smirked, sucking a mark at the joint of his neck. “I’m not going to be mad because you liked it. I liked it. Armin and Eyebrows started the whole thing, and they're engaged.” He looked up to Eren, a mischievous look in his eye for a moment. “…we’ll say that community sexcapades are an exception to your promise. But for right now….?” He bit his soft flesh, earning him a high-pitched gasp. “...I don't wanna share.” Mine.

Eren gasped, his eyes wide as he watched Levi move him around. Huh? What? He doesn’t wanna share? So he wants me to…. Okay. He lifted a shaking hand to Levi’s hip, his thumb hooking into Levi’s sweatpants and tugging them down a bit. I guess I can do that for you…

Levi reached down, gently swatting Eren’s hand away. “That’s my job, Eren.” He chuckled as he saw the flicker of confusion in his eyes, kissing the spot under his ear. “I want to take care of you.” You asked me to, last night, when I asked how I could fix our intimacy. He moved to tug Eren’s tank top up and off, his lips and tongue trailing down his chest to his nipples, teasing them, scraping them with his teeth. Let me fix this. I want you to feel really good.

Eren let a loud moan out of his mouth, his body shuddering as Levi held him tightly. He’s… He’s completely serious… He doesn’t want me to have him. “L-Levi…. A-Are you s-sure?” You don't normally top much anymore… His words were stuttered as he watched Levi’s lips latch all over his chest, unsure of what to think.

Levi looked up from where his lips drifted over his chest, smirking when Eren cried out as he gently bit his pink bud. “I’m very sure.” You look so hot like this… He lapped at the bud in apology, kissing it before moving to the other, abusing that one and teasing the other with his fingers. His hand rested on his stomach, his fingers splaying out and trailing closer to the hem of his sweatpants. He hooked a finger in the hem, tugging them down agonizingly slowly.

Eren’s eyes closed as he felt his breathing hitch, the cool air of the room causing him to shiver. It’s cool in here… His hands are really warm. He whimpered as Levi pulled his pants down, but left his boxers on his hips. I want them off. There was already a damp spot from where his length was leaking, the excitement finally settling into him, his body fully responding.
Levi’s hands moved to Eren’s waist, leaving a trail of marks down his stomach before kissing the outline of the bulge in his boxers, smirking. “...is someone... excited?” He chuckled when Eren swore under his breath at him, catching the hem of his boxers in his teeth and pulling them down, tossing them off the bed. He sat back on his haunches for a moment, tugging his own tank top over and off his head, eyeing Eren spread before him and flushed down his neck hungrily. I missed this. He reached for his length, teasingly running a fingertip up the underside of Eren’s length, watching Eren shiver under him. He watched a bead of precum drip from his slit, his eyes shaded. “God, that’s hot. You’re so slick…” He wrapped a hand around his length, his hold firm as he stroked Eren. “...just for me.”

Oh my god…. Eren’s eyes widened, his hands gripping into the sheets below him from the pleasure of just being grabbed. I’m sensitive... It feels so good. “Levi… M-more…” His voice was weak as he tried to speak, failing horribly, flushing all the way down his neck from the tip of his ears. It feels... It feels really good and he’s not even doing anything much more than barely touching me… I want him to do some more to me. I want him to control me. Eren shift under his gaze, his eyes locking with Levi’s as he reached out to playfully shove at his shoulder, trying to get Levi to get a bit more physical with him. I want you to take over completely.

Levi let Eren playfully shove him, quirking an eyebrow, a mischievous look in his eyes before it melting into being cool, collected. “Hm, being…” He shifted forward, catching Eren’s hands and lifting them over his head, pinning them against the bed as he murmured in his ear. “... naughty, are we?” He dragged his tongue up Eren’s neck, reaching for Eren’s tank top. He kept him distracted, kissing at his Adam’s apple as he tied his hands through a slat in the headboard, keeping him there. An idea came to him, reaching for his own tank top. He pressed a soft kiss to Eren’s cheek before he covered his eyes with the fabric, loosely tying it in place so it wouldn’t slip. “Can you see anything?” He smirked as Eren stuttered out a ‘No,’ his hands roaming his front. “Good.” His hand dragged up the inside of his thigh, looking over his lithe form hungrily. “That’s just what we want…” I want you to feel really good...

Eren let out a sharp breath, his back arching off the bed as his thighs were touched, opening them further for him. It feels good... “T-Touch me more...” Eren begged quietly, his body shivering in anticipation of being completely exposed and defenseless. I want to erase the memories... Erase them for me, please.

“Only if you're good...” Levi’s voice was smooth in his ear, his hands roaming all over him, though they traced around where Eren wanted to be touched the most. He finally decided to have mercy, his left hand wrapping around his throbbing member, the other brushing his lips. “Suck.” I don't want this to hurt too much.

Eren lifted his head up to take Levi’s fingers in his mouth, gently sucking on them, his tongue wrapping around them to coat their saliva. He shifted so his heels were on the bed, helping give him leverage as he tried to take in his fingers further. I wanna be good for you, you haven’t done this since... Since before the accident...
Levi watched with hooded eyes as Eren sucked on his fingers, pulling them from his lips when they were thoroughly slick with saliva. He soon replaced them with his lips, kissing Eren deeply, murmuring praise against his lips as his hand drifted to his entrance. He gently pushed a finger past the ring of muscle there, finding him still decently loose from the night before, soon able to push a second in. He brushed his fingers around the soft flesh deep inside him, looking for that spot.

Eren whimpered for only a moment when he felt the intrusion, though slowly got comfortable with it, his mouth opening in loud moans. He hasn’t found it… Does he remember where it is? He shifted his head to the side, producing his neck to him and whimpering for him to do more. Take control, dominate me… Please … I need you to.

Fuck, where is it? Levi’s eyes lit up as he saw the new skin bared to him, diving in to claim it. He sucked harshly at the soft, smooth skin, leaving him with many marks, not caring to try and hide them. Mine. Levi chuckled as he felt Eren arch into his touch finally, gasping for air as he brushed a certain spot over and over. There it is. Levi eased another finger into him, stretching him further. “…you sound wonderful…” Beautiful.

Eren writhed under his touch, letting out a shuddery breath as his fingers flexed against the restraint. I want him… It feels really good, and I feel really warm… He let out a high pitched cry as Levi marked a sensitive spot while abusing his prostate. “F-Fuck…” Eren tried to move his hips down to try and get more of his fingers in, desperately wanting more. I want to be had, I want to be yours.

Levi quietly moaned against his skin, Eren’s pleasureed cry in his ears. He slid his hand from him after a long moment, kissing up his neck as Eren whined at the loss, one hand spreading his own slick precum over his length. “It won't be long…” God, I can't wait anymore… Levi moved, lifting Eren’s legs up over his shoulders, lining up with his entrance. His dripping head brushed his quivering hole, pushing past it steadily as Eren whined and bit back sounds until their hips met, pressed flush. “Say when.” I hope you're ready when you tell me… I'm not going to want to be gentle…

Eren struggled against his tank top, trying to pull out of it, and getting some burns on his wrist for his troubles. I wanna be able to hold onto you… His breathing was ragged as he adjusted to Levi’s wide girth, still feeling the slight burn of being stretched. I want him to be rough… I like this… This is a lot better. Eren opened his eyes to see nothing but darkness, his mind immediately recalling images of the countless times he was tortured with a bag over his head, panic setting in until he convinced himself he wasn’t in danger, and that he’d be alright. I’ll be fine, Levi’s not like the others… “G-Go ahead…” His voice a bit shaky, trying his best to hide the slight fear in his words.

Levi nodded even though Eren couldn't see him, grinding further into him, both of them moaning as Levi went deeper. He drew nearly completely out of him before thrusting back in, starting a decent pace. He groaned at the friction, picking up speed when a Eren started to cry for more, roughly fucking him into the mattress. Mine.

Eren let out strings of moans, saying Levi’s name over and over again like a mantra. He was still tugging at his wrists, trying to free himself, getting brush burns all over both of his wrists. He’s so big… It feels so good… He still wants me…

No he doesn’t.

Huh?

You’re just saying that to make yourself feel better, I bet that he hates that you let Erwin fuck your toilet ass.

Eren’s eyes widened, panic filling them as he struggled against the restraints more. No… No no no no… His heart rate skyrocketing as Levi’s hands grabbed his hips, pulling him onto his thick prick, and his mind mucking up more images. But… He’s not like that.

He will be, he can’t love a man. Be real here, he wants a family, not to have to deal with your sorry ass.

I wanna see him… Levi reached up, pushing the blindfold off of Eren’s eyes, kissing his cheek, still pounding him mercilessly. “So good…” His eyes were full of love and want, though they flickered with concern as he saw the fear in Eren’s eyes. “Are you okay?” He slowed a bit, not sure if Eren wanted him to keep going. We can stop if you don’t want this… if you’re having second thoughts.

Eren looked up towards where his hands were tied up. Take them out, take them out, I don’t wanna be tied up… They always tied me up… He struggled still with the tank top, trying to make his way out of it with brute strength. I can’t… I can’t have them tied… Let me go…

Levi let Eren’s legs fall from his shoulders, reaching to untie him, his lips brushing over his.
“Okay, okay. Hands.” Levi untied his hands, tossing the offending fabric away, gently holding his red wrists. “M’sorry about that.” He moved to cup Eren’s cheeks, their lips brushing. “…tell me what you need.” Help me make you feel wonderful.

“D-Don’t tie me up…” He whimpered, moving his wrists from his hold to tightly wrapped around his shoulders. “Th-They always tied m-me up…” I can’t do that… You can’t do that to me…

“Okay.” Levi kissed him deeply, starting to move his hips again, steadily thrusting into his heat, Eren’s moans muffled by the lips sealed over his. Anything. Levi whimpered quietly into their kiss, the bed creaking the smallest bit under them as Levi ravaged him. I want you screaming in pleasure...

Eren’s arms clung to Levi’s shoulders, pulling his body down against him, his hands clutching Levi’s hair in a white knuckle grip. It feels really good... Soon Eren’s voice was loud in Levi’s ear, his legs wrapped around the smaller man’s waist. “L-Levi… Levi… Fuck me, please.” He begged between moans, his body pressed flush against Levi’s strong body.

“Gladly.” Levi pounded Eren into the sheets, his teeth sinking into the soft flesh of his neck before sucking hard at the spots, leaving mark after bruising mark up the tender flesh. He smirked as he saw them, peppering the smooth skin, many very visible. He groaned into his neck, his hands holding Eren’s hips tight enough to bruise. “...Eren… I'm not gonna last…” So good… “God, you're so tight… feels really good…” I love this...

“L-Levi…” He groaned out the other’s name, feeling his coil starting to tighten. “I'm gonna… Can… Can I cum?” Eren words were rushed, and full of pleasure as he arched his whole body, a loud scream leaving him as Levi thoroughly abused his prostate. I can’t hold it… Let me cum…

Levi mouthed at his neck, dragging his tongue over the warm skin. “You never have to ask.” He murmured in his ear, feeling an overwhelming heat growing in his abdomen, his hips moving somehow faster, roughly fucking him. “...Just let go. God, I wanna see you cum.” Levi pulled back, drinking in Eren’s expressions as it morphed into one of bliss, feeling him tighten around him. Fuck, so handsome…

“Levi!” Eren screamed as he tightened around him, his eyes almost rolling back in his skull from the pure pleasure. His vision blurred as he came in between them, his hold still tight around Levi. That felt amazing …

Levi moaned into Eren’s mouth as his hips stuttered, cumming hard inside him. He pulled out, collapsing on top of Eren, wrapping him up in a warm embrace. “So good… I love you, so good for me… perfect...” He murmured praises into his ear, kissing him deeply before nestling into his neck. “Sleep? Warm...” I wanna sleep... you're so warm... Levi drifted with Eren in his arms, not noticing when Eren slipped from his arms half an hour later. He blinked awake, cold and his arms empty.
Chapter 65: Regret

_Huh?_ Levi looked around, his head dropping back onto the bed with a huff. _He went riding, didn't he... murr... well, he's probably at the house, then._ He heaved himself from the bed, moving to get dressed. _I'll go say hi- it should be just Lathe and Sammie around now._ He meandered down the stairs, waving to Erwin and Armin as they cuddled in the nest, empty mugs nearby. “I’m just heading over to the house for a while.” He shut the door behind him after they bid him goodbye, their car gone from the driveway. Levi jogged down the street, the rain having tampered down to a light mist, noticing how small the shoulder of the road was as a single car passed him. He turned up the driveway, knocking on the door.

He heard a small sound from inside, Lathe soon opening the door with Sammie in his arms, smiling. “Sup.” He let Levi in, shutting the door behind him. “I saw I was missing a horse this morning when I went out to feed the animals, kinda thought you'd be with Eren. He was too far out to be seen, though.”

“Yeah, Eren woke up wanting to ride, and that woke me up. I kinda fell asleep again, and he'd left. I dunno, just wanted to say hi.”

“Of course- you literally live here.” He chuckled as Sammie reached out, grabbing one of Levi’s hoodie strings. “She appreciates the company.”

“Mm. Misses the better story-teller.” Levi smirked as Lathe made a mock indignant sound, a hand over his heart.

“You wound me.” Lathe went about fixing an omelette the way Levi liked them, a kettle on the stove for tea. “You've still got the ‘Oh God Child' face. Every time. ‘Want me to make you something to eat? I didn't hear you mention breakfast anywhere in your spiel.”

“Please, and thank you. I'm starving.” Levi sat at the table, smiling faintly to the toddler in his arms. He studied her blue dress, playing with the hem and inspecting the the tag idly for a minute before his eyes widened, looking up. “Lathe?” He showed him the tag near the bottom, a familiar spark insignia embroidered on it. “Been busy?”

“Ma~ybe.” Lathe went about fixing an omelette the way Levi liked them, a kettle on the stove for tea. “Is that a problem?”
“No. You did a really good job of it, though. She certainly looks happy with it.” He smiled as she giggled happily, babbling about something and tugging at Levi’s collar.

“Thanks! I dropped a lot of money on that machine I’ve got. It’s the greatest thing. You see all those designs around the neck and shoulders, the fish and stuff?” He watched Levi nod. “I picked where I wanted the different images on the fabric, and the machine just did it automatically for me.”

“...that's the coolest damn thing.”

“I know! Oh, and don't tell Jake, it’s supposed to be a secret for his birthday, but he’s getting a big quilt. It's why nobody’s allowed in the sewing room for the week.”

“That explains the huge pile of colorful fabric you dragged home.”

“That'd be it.”

“Hm.” Levi hummed as Lathe set an omelette and mug of tea in front of him, Sammie in his lap as he picked up his fork to eat. “He’ll like it- if you're the one making it, it's gonna be awesome.

Lathe’s cheeks tinted pink for a moment, washing the dishes. “Thanks.” His brow furrowed, setting the pan in the drying rack. “...Jake came into our room in the middle of the night last night. He got scared because you two weren't in the house. He was worried, wanted to know you two were okay.” He rinsed off the cutting board, setting it aside. “He really loves you two… I don't know what's going to happen when he gets adopted. The first time he slept with Ieva and I, right after Eli was adopted… he sounded terrified at the idea of leaving. He doesn't want to lose us. I don't know what to do…” Part of me wants to keep him here, but at the same time there are lots of families out there who would love to have him….

Levi nodded, swallowing before speaking. “Yeah, I know…. he’s so attached to us… on one hand, there are families who could give him a nice home that isn't as busy as ours, but on the other… he admires Eren so much. And he's so used to him being around.” He looked to Lathe, seeing the thoughtful look in his eyes. “...what are you thinking?” It was simply an inquiring tone, wanting to know what was making the gears in his head turn.

“...we should keep him, shouldn't we.” He's old enough to know what's going on, to grow attached. And he's schizophrenic; God knows half the people in this household are more than qualified to deal with an episode. And if we had to make him leave, my god, all hell would break loose... “...his birthday is in a week. I'll ask on his birthday if he wants to stay for good; he'd probably be ecstatic that he doesn't have to worry anymore about being forced to leave. Right now, it's just hanging over his head. He doesn't want that.” He'll have a very good home here, guaranteed. “Tucker, though…” He watched Levi shake his head. “Yeah, I know. Too many gays. He'd probably be much happier if some super-religious anti-gay couple picked him up or something. It's whatever. He doesn't like any of us, and I'm not saying I hate the kid, but it's just another thing to deal with. It's just... mutual distaste?” Lathe shrugged, leaning against the counter. “I'm just scared about what his future is going to be like, so openly against gays.” He chuckled, looking faraway for a moment. “Reminds me of Scotty when he was a freshie, actually. He'd blanch every time he saw two guys stand too close together or brush hands or hug too long to just be deemed friendly. It wasn't super common where I went to high school, but you had your smattering of couples, of course. It was inevitable. But he never seemed to notice the girls if they were being more than friendly. I dunno, they were always just kinda like that. It was just normal for them to always be messing with each other's hair or giving big hugs or practically napping on someone's shoulder when they were tired. It's just how it was. But I remember a lot in college particularly where he got a lot and I mean a lot of nasty looks for shit he said in a bar or walking around campus. Personally, there were length of instances where I would've gladly punched out his damn teeth. It was bad...” He sighed, his arms crossed over his chest. “He doesn't have to go through the whole 'me being gay is okay' enlightenment bullshit Scotty went through. I just wish he'd shut the hell up about it being unnatural and gross. He came downstairs after you’d gone and asked where you'd run off to, and he just looked relieved and my god he was so dumb…” Lathe facepalmed, his forehead in his hand. “He literally started talking under his breath as he went onto his phone, and he said ‘Thank God I don't have to see those gay fuckers for a month.’ He's grounded for a week at this rate, his escape attempt and the comments. He know that he earns a day in his room without electronics for every slur now. I can put up with a lot, but hate speech I refuse to.” Lathe shook his head, looking up after a minute, blushing in embarrassment as he saw Levi was finished, listening with Sammie still hanging onto him, quiet and looking around with patient eyes. “I'm sorry, I rambled…” He picked up the dishes, turning back to wash his plate. “Do you want more tea? The water’s still hot.”

“Sure, thank you. And it’s fine, really.” Levi gladly accepted the mug, a curious look in his eyes as he spoke. “You never talk much about being in high school or anything, it's not something I'd heard too much about already. It's always pretty vaguely described.” You don't like talking about it- I always listen a bit closer when you do talk about it. I know it was rough for you, but that's most of what I know.

Lathe shrugged, rubbing the back of his neck. “Yeah… I dunno, really talking about what it was like as a kid just seems… daunting. There's a lot of memories I'd sift through, and I just... it wasn't fun. And Eren would probably want to hear about it. Ieva too… and I don't know if I'd want to tell it all twice…” I don't wanna tell it all to just one person, because Eren would want to hear the whole story too and Ieva wants to know a bit more even if she doesn't ask... she knows it'd be hard for me... it's not nice to think about.... “...and with everything I'm not in the mood for telling the whole story…” No thank you...

Levi nodded, understanding. “That's fine. I kinda had the idea it would be a bit of a tear-fest. ...and that we'd probably have to get you a bit drunk before you talked.”
“Probably. It's a long-ass story.” Lathe looked over to the huge window that overlooked the backyard, everything still as it was earlier that morning. “Eren’s been gone a long while.”

“Yeah, he has been.” Levi trailed off, his brow furrowed a bit. I'm kinda worried…

“Hey, Uhm, Lathe…?”

“Ping his phone?” He chuckled as Levi embarrassedly nodded, pulling out his phone. “Alright, I'll ping it. And I'll make it scream this time so he knows to check it and come the hell home.” He swiped on the screen, soon hitting the button. He jumped as he suddenly heard a loud alarm noise, Levi nearly jumping out of his skin as something in his pocket made a very loud noise. He reached into his pocket, shutting off the alarm on Eren’s phone hurriedly. “Crap, I didn't know I had his phone on me!” He tossed it onto the table, soon looking to Sammie, who looked at him with wide eyes, her face growing red, eyes glassy with tears. “Oh nonono Sammie, it’s okay Honey, don't cry.” He cradled her close as she cried for a moment, gently rocking her back and forth, reaching for a napkin to wipe her nose as it ran, dabbing at her tears. “It's okay Honey, it's okay. I'm sorry for the loud noise.” He waited for her to calm down and for her cries to die down into sniffles, softly pecking her cheek, looking back to Lathe who frowned at the phone. “....so what do we do?”

Lathe shrugged, staring at the phone, then back out the window. “...we wait. But he's a strong kid, and every last one of them is put away for good. He'll be okay. Let's just hope he doesn't come home with hypothermia.” He'll be fine. “...want to see what I've got going for the quilt?”

“Sure.” It’s probably really cool, knowing you. Levi stood, following him with Sammie in his arms.

Levi was still in the house when the boys came home from school, Tucker going straight to his room, not around long enough to do more than give Levi a look of distaste before Lathe glared at him, sending him scurrying up the stairs with his tail between his legs. The two of them were worried as time wore on with no sign of Eren or Charlie, dark storm clouds looming threateningly in the sky. “It's going to rain soon.” Levi looked out the window, having resorted to pacing the first floor as Lathe cooked dinner, Sammie copying him and running around with a soft stuffed rabbit in her hands (which Levi was sure Lathe had sewn for her). She squealed as thunder sounded overhead loudly, toppling onto the floor and clutching her bunny close when the lightning flashed. She looked ready to cry before Levi scooped her up, carrying her over to the window as it started to rain. He reached out a hand to the window, touching it as she seemed to recoil. “See? Safe.” He murmured to her quietly as thunder crashed, trying to soothe her.

It took a long few minutes, but soon Sammie reached out a tentative hand, touching the glass with her fingers, sounding nervous. “...s-safe?”
“Mhm. We're safe inside. It's okay. The rain can't hurt you. It's water.”

“Wah?”

“Wah-tah?”

“Watah.”

“Watah.” She smiled as Levi nodded, throwing up her hands. “Watah! Watah!”

“Thanks for giving her a Brooklyn accent, Levi.” Lathe cast him a teasingly deadpan look, smiling. “It's good what you're doing- if she grows up scared of the rain it'll be a problem.” He looked over as he heard the game room door open, Jake scurrying over looking scared, burying his head in Lathe’s stomach before he could speak. “Jake, what’s wrong?”

“L-Loud…” It's loud... make it stop...

“It's just a bad thunderstorm, Jake, it's okay. It's going to be loud for a while but it'll pass. Don't worry, we're inside. We're safe. At worst, the power will go out and you'll have to stop playing Minecraft. It's alright.” Lathe carded a hand through Jake’s hair, though he nearly jumped out of his skin as he heard a loud ‘Bang!’ He looked up to see the back door had been thrown open hard enough to dent the wall, Eren standing in the doorway drenched with his clothes covered in mud and what was unmistakably blood. “Oh my God, Eren.” Lathe let go of Jake, running to him. “Eren, you're covered in blood! Are you okay? What happened to Charlie? Is he okay? Oh my, get in here, you're soaked.” Lathe ran to the nearby closet, getting out a towel and starting to dry Eren off. “Eren, you're freezing! What happened? You scared us half to death!” What happened?!

Eren lifted his shirt in the front, looking at where a wound was struggling to heal. “I don’t have enough... I think I might need stitches.” He muttered before he took the shirt completely off, not bothering to hide his bites and hickeys in different shapes from both Erwin and Levi. “He got me pretty good, wasn’t expecting it…” He grumbled, pulling his bloodied knife out of his back pocket and dropping it in the sink. Hurt like a fucker getting his horns out...
Lathe was frantic as he tried to stop Eren from moving, shutting off the stove and turning his full attention to Eren. Right now, fuck dinner. “Eren, stop moving so I can dry you off and get you dry clothes so you can at least be half-comfortable while I stitch up what look like stab wounds so tell me right the fuck now what happened?!” Lathe smacked Eren upside the head, drying off his hair quickly before moving over his chest, pressing it against the wounds there. “Hold that there firmly. I'm going to go get my medic bag, some clothes for you, and lots of towels.” Lathe ran off quickly, soon coming back with his bag over one shoulder, and clothes and towels draped over his arms.

“Eren, on the couch. Now.” Lathe spread out towels, getting Eren to lay down before washing his hands, starting to set up to clean his wounds and stitch them. “Alright, talk.” What. The fuck.

Happened.

Holy shit.... He’s fucking furious... “Can you agree not to be mad at me if I tell you it was in self defense? I need to go patch up Charlie after this...” I need to make sure he’s okay too. “Levi... Can you go outside to the barn and start to untack him, I can take care of his wounds after Dad finishes with me...” He groaned, wincing for a moment as he watched Lathe start stitching him up. *I hate stitches... * Fuck ...

“Eren, take a good look at Levi right now.” Lathe’s tone was bordering icy, looking over to where Levi was desperately trying to calm Jake who shivered violently, looking terrified. Sammie in his arms had wide eyes, looking ready to cry. “Levi, take them upstairs, okay? Try to calm them down. It’ll be fine, Jake, just go with Levi. I need to patch Eren up.” He waited until they were gone up the stairs to speak again, his face stony. “A couple of things. First off, you must be dense as all hell if you think I'm going to let you go take care of Charlie when you’re freshly stitched up like that. I'll take care of it. And second, what the fuck were you thinking?!” Lathe was nearly shouting, looking furious. “You went riding for hours and hours on end without telling anyone where you were going, not even taking your damn phone, and you come into the house drenched and bloody and you expect us not to be mad or at least a bit worried?! You sure as hell didn't take any food with you, you had just a fucking t-shirt when it’s barely sixty out... did you even think?!” Lathe seemed ready to break down, tears threatening to spill. “I just lost my fucking daughter and Tucker ran off with Charlie yesterday and we were both so damn terrified that something had happened to you on top of it... don't fucking do that!” Lathe buried his face in a hand, shuddering as he began to sob, everything catching up with him. “S-Stop fucking scaring me like that for once...” *I was so scared... and you come in looking like you just got stabbed... I... Don't do that... please..."

Eren watched with wide eyes as Lathe shouted at him, taking a deep breath to try and calm himself as he felt panic clutching at his chest. I can’t... I don’t wanna be yelled at. “I didn’t leave without warm clothes... They got torn to shreds... The buck charged us... I had to get Charlie away from him but that meant putting me between him and the buck... He charged again, and got his antler around me and into Charlie’s side, it’s not deep, but they need to be cleaned... I got the worst of it, when I tried to get back on Charlie... He charged at us again, and his antlers went through my side... I had to grab my knife and cut out a chunk of it’s throat... I wasn’t expecting it since they were docile almost all day while we were watching...” Eren winced, grabbing at his side as he shifted to sit up. I need to go take care of Charlie... He was trying to stay calm, knowing that Lathe could very well expect him to lay on the couch to rest.
“Lie the fuck back down, I'm halfway through a stitch.” Lathe had lost his filter, too done with being collected to think about what he was saying anymore. He went back to work when Eren immediately obeyed, his eyes dark with muted anger, grief, and misery. “...m'sorry for yelling... I just... I just kind'a shoved everything into a corner of my mind... but... I'm just not okay... my daughter is dead, Tucker is a ticking time bomb and just too much stress, and then you come home bloodied and soaked after being attacked by either a very territorial or rabid deer... I just...” Lathe tied off the last stitch, starting to pad them with gauze before wrapping everything up. “...I'm sorry for yelling... I...” Everything seemed to click with Lathe when he started packing things up, watching Eren sit up with a pained expression. He looked horrified, flushing with shame. “...my God, I screamed at you... I'm so sorry... I... I'm sorry...” Fresh tears dripped down his cheeks, burying his face in his hands, breathing hard. I fucked up...

Eren looked at Lathe with worry as he started to cry, gently reaching a hand out to pull him close and into a hug. “I-It's okay... It's really okay... We need to go take care of Charlie, then you can be mad at me all you want.”

“N-No, it's okay... I'm not mad... just... worried and scared...” He looked up as Eren shifted to hug him, moving to gently push him back onto the couch. “You shouldn't be crouching and stuff with the stitches where they are. H-Here.” Lathe shoved his clothes into his hands, standing to lead Eren to the bathroom. “Change, okay? You're still wet, and you're freezing. I'll make you tea, then I'll go untack and patch Charlie up, okay?” Lathe didn't leave room for protest as he ushered Eren into the bathroom, going to make tea. He looked up as he heard the front door open, seeing Ieva kicking off her shoes and hanging up her coat. ...crap, dinner is barely started...

...I've come up to him, hesitating to give her her kiss, stuttering and looking to the floor. “I-I'm sorry, but dinner is barely started... Eren went out riding this morning and he didn't tell anyone where he was going and he didn't have his phone and he got attacked by a deer and he's soaked and I had to give him stitches and Charlie still needs to be patched up and I had to ignore dinner and I'm sorry-” Lathe stopped when Ieva cupped his cheeks, his eyes still red from crying, shaking a bit as she looked at him. “...I-I'm sorry...” ...... Don't hurt me... I'm sorry... I tried to make dinner......

Ieva’s eyes widened as she gently cupped his cheeks, holding him close. “It’s okay, Lathe, it’s okay, you don’t need to cry, really, you don’t need to cry...” Her arms wrapped around him for a few moments, calming him down. “Slow down, you said something about Eren going riding, is he okay? And I can worry about dinner, you don’t need to worry about anything, just breathe and slow down before you speak. Now, do you wanna try again?” I want you to calm down a little, you’re still crying, and I can’t help you if you're crying. She gently thumbed the tears away from his face, a gentle smile on her lips and warmth in her eyes. I’m not mad at you, you couldn’t have planned for Eren to stay out that long.

Eren all but jumped into the bathroom once Lathe shooed him into it. I need to get changed, I need to go out and get to Charlie.

Lathe breathed deeply for a moment, his hand coming up to hold her hand on his cheek, leaning into the touch. Thank you... for understanding... “E-Eren went out riding this morning, he told Levi but didn't say where, and he was gone when I went out this morning. He didn't have his phone, and we didn't think he had a jacket or food. He was gone until half an hour or an hour ago, because he and Charlie got attacked by a deer. ...that reminds me, he needs a rabies shot… probably… but anyway, I stitched him up, and he's changing while I'm making tea because he's still freezing, then I'm going to go patch up Charlie and see what I can do about any wounds for him. ...I'm sorry… Jake was scared by the thunder and then Eren crashing inside scared the hell out of him and I screamed at Eren because it's been so stressful and I just was so scared… I probably freaked him out…” I'm sorry… I need to be strong, and it's not working...

Ieva pulled him into a hug, holding him close as they both took a few deep breaths. You need to calm down, we’ll be okay… We can do this together. “Okay, I can go make sure Jake's not freaking out… And I can handle dinner or we can get take out, haven’t had pizza in awhile…” She murmured reassuringly. “You wanna go get Eren that tea and then why don’t you take him down to see Charlie?” The horse has got to be freaking out...

Lathe clung to her for a long moment, sniffling. “Pizza is okay, I guess… but Eren needs to lay down and rest, drink tea and warm up… he just got stitches, I don't want him overexerting himself… I can take care of Charlie…” He needs to relax… he can't be up and about for a bit...

“You expect him to stay away from his horse when he’s injured?” She asked as they heard the back door open and close in quick succession. “And there he goes… You wanna go after him? He’s not gonna stay away, so I think you should just let him stay okay? I can bring his tea down to the barn. He’s probably trying to calm down Charlie.” She sighed quietly, pulling away to look to the backdoor seeing that Eren’s boots were gone along with his rain coat, the bathroom door open and showing an empty room. He really just went outside… Wonderful...

Lathe sighed, rubbing his eyes with his sleeve. “I…” He swallowed, shaking his head. “...I'm just going to pack my medic stuff up and then take care of his soaked clothes and all the towels…” Lathe cast his eyes to the floor when Ieva kissed his cheek again, letting her hand fall from his cheek as he went to start cleaning things up. ...I don't deserve that kiss…. I screamed at Eren... I can't believe I screamed a him like that... what the fuck is wrong with me?

Ieva watched him leave with a worried look on her face before she looked at the window, towards the barn, seeing a silhouette enter through the barn doors. Oh my god, Eren… Should I go out and try to help him? But I think Lathe’s going out... She shook her head, taking the menu for the pizza place they had in the drawer and making her way upstairs towards where she heard the whimper of quite a few children, looking at the nook at the top of the stairs and seeing Sammie, Jake and even Tucker clinging to Levi as thunder cracked around the house after a bright flash. Are they all that scared of thunder? Well, Tucker seems to be doing okay with Levi right there… I don’t know what got to him before though… She stepped up, sitting down near where they were, opening up the menu, pulling her phone out. “Okay, who likes pizza?” We’ll need to figure this all out.
Eren had limped outside and into the barn, getting inside before anyone had spotted him, or so he thought. Charlie… His eyes were drawn to the multiple flesh wounds on the stud’s sides, bleeding quite heavily, though Eren knew they were okay as long as he was bandaged and the bleeding stopped. Okay, tack off first… He struggled to unclip the saddle with his shaking hands, finally getting the saddle off and dragging it away with the strength he still had. He could hear Charlie’s hooves clicking on the ground as he moved around, antsy from his injuries. Bridle next… His hands continued to fumble with the fastened equipment, Charlie not cooperating in the least to make it easy. I need help… I need Dad to help me…

Charlie straightened a bit as a riding crop tapped his hindquarters, Lathe’s voice weary. “Stop fidgeting, Charlie. Things will get done faster this way.” Lathe moved up near Charlie’s head, moving to unclip the bridle, slipping it over his ears and handing it to Eren. “Mom’s ordering pizza for everyone… they're all terrified of the thunderstorm. All three of them practically piled on top of Levi upstairs…” ...and I know you won't leave Charlie until he's okay, so I'm not going to make you leave… Lathe looked away after a moment, moving to inspect the wounds in Charlie’s side. They're not too deep… as long as we stop the bleeding and clean them out, get them bandaged up… he'll be fine. “...I'm sorry for yelling at you. I really am.” I don't want you to hate me because I lost my temper… Lathe dug in his medic bag, looking for things to disinfect his wounds. We'll get you fixed right up…

Eren looked over to Lathe as he put the bridle away, and heaved the saddle up onto the stand they had in the tack room. Why are you sorry? “You, you don’t have to be sorry y’know…” He looked at Charlie, slowly coming up to him with shaking hands and petting his nose gently, trying to calm him down further. This might hurt for you, but we’re gonna try and do this well.

“...what do you mean, I don't have to be sorry? I lost my temper and screamed at you like I hated your guts. And I don't. I was frustrated and scared, but that got away from me. And I'm sorry for that. ...I'm supposed to be strong while all this is happening… but it's not going too great…” Obviously. Lathe had to pick up the crop again, tapping Charlie’s hindquarters when he started to move, obviously not liking the sharp sting of the wipe in Lathe’s hand on his wound. He reached over, handing Eren the crop. “Keep him still for me; I know he's in pain but we can't have him going and getting infected.” No, that's not good… that would be very bad...

Eren nodded and tapped Charlie a little harder on his hind legs. “Stehen Bleiben.” He watched as Charlie straightened instantly and only moved to pin his ears back when Lathe cleaned out his cuts. He doesn't like it, but he follows commands to the T. “You don’t have to apologize, I deserved it…. I should’ve known better than to take Charlie through a herd like that close to mating season…” His words were a bit sad, his eyes fixed on a point on the floor. “You don’t need to be strong… I mean I know it helps everyone else… But it’s okay to rant if you want…” You probably hate me for going out like that anyways…

“...I just think… I think I couldn't outright say it… but I said it twice… and I'm just… I'm just tired… I'm not mad… and I'm out of words for now… but, just…” Lathe looked up to him, his mouth open to keep speaking when a loud crack sounded nearby, the lights going out above them.
“...fuck, lightning must've hit close by... power’s out.” He looked up to the rafters, Abby’s eyes a barely noticeable gleam in the dark, the animals making louder sounds around them. “The backup generator in the garage is good for lights and the sump pump, but that’s it... so we’ll hook that up when we get back to the house. Until then...” Lathe moved to a wall, fetching an electric lantern and turning it on, hanging it on a nearby post. “I'll finish cleaning him up, and bandage him up.” Lathe went back to work, remembering after a minute that he had been in the middle of saying something. “...oh, right. Eren, a word of advice.” He grinned, looking over to Eren wearily. “Stop scaring the crap out of me, okay? It'll extend my life by a few decades if you stop giving me as many heart attacks as you do.” Really, tho.

Eren instantly put his head down further, his chest full of anxiety as he held onto Charlie’s halter. I know, I’m a bad kid... I know I’m a whore... No one loves to be involved with me... He swallowed thickly, his hand coming up to cup Charlie's large jaw to keep him calm. He remained silent, nodding in the darkness and keeping his face away from the light so Lathe couldn’t see him almost on the brink of tears. He doesn’t need to worry about me, I'm a useless whore...

Lathe finished within a few minutes, running his hand down Charlie’s neck. “Good job staying still, Charlie. You did well. Come on, let's get you back in your stall.” Lathe led him over to where Luna was waiting for him, immediately nuzzling close when they were in the large stall together. “Alright, Eren. Let’s-” Lathe stopped as he held the lantern at his side so the glare wouldn't blind them, seeing the glint of Eren’s glassy eyes. “Eren, what's wrong?” Lathe moved to hug him tightly, feeling Eren resist for a moment before slumping into his hold. “Eren, I'm sorry... it's okay, please, don't cry...” Don’t be sad...

You’re not the one who’s supposed to be apologizing! I was the one who was trying to run away from everything! He gasped as he felt Lathe’s arms stiffen around him, his eyes wide, trying to pull away, only for Lathe to hold onto him tight. “L-Let go.... I’m-I’m sorry...” I said it out loud... Fuck, now Dad knows... Shit. “Le-Le-Let g-go...” He whimpered, tears freely falling down his cheeks. I didn’t want you know...

Lathe moved to kiss Eren’s cheek, pulling away from him and giving him a small smile. “Eren, it's like you said. It's okay to not be strong sometimes. ...but don't lose yourself in it, okay? You're fine. It's all going to be fine.” Lathe kissed his forehead, trying to get Eren to believe him, at least somewhat. It really will be okay. He chuckled quietly as Eren snatched his kerchief from his pocket, wiping at his eyes. “Let’s get you in the house, okay?”

“Will it really be okay? Even when I was the one who broke our promise?... And became the useless whore my Father wanted me to be?” He took the kerchief, holding it tightly in his hand as he walked towards the door, Blake barking on the other side of the door, Krampus at his side and trying his best to bark as well. I broke it, I don’t even deserve to be his lover...

Lathe frowned at that, a bit confused. “Eren, you're not a whore. You never were. You were forced into doing all those things; it's not like you chose-

“I chose last night damn it!” Eren shouted, not really at anyone in particular, but he just broke down after the words were out. He slumped down to the floor and curled up into a ball as he cried, enough to cause himself to hiccup. I chose to be one…

Lathe’s eyes widened, the bruises all over his chest flickering in his mind. Last night? ……?

“Eren…” Lathe sank down to the floor just inside the house with him, wrapping his arms around him as Eren shook. “Talk to me, Eren. Tell me what happened.” Did Levi not know? Or…

Eren picked his head up to look at Lathe with teary eyes, shaking his head as he struggled to form words. “I… I’m sorry… I didn’t… I didn’t think we’d t-take it th-that far…” He continued to hiccup, curling into Lathe’s chest a little bit. I didn’t want to break the promise… But I did …

Lathe’s eyes flickered with vague understanding, trying not to sound accusing. “…did Levi know what was going on?” He watched Eren nod. “…did he switch too?” Another nod. “You're weren't… forced, were you?” Eren immediately shook his head, and Lathe carded a hand through his hair. ...I've got no place to judge what you four do. If Erwin and Armin wanted to even while they're engaged, well... I've got nothing to yell at you for, do I? “It sounds like it should have been okay… but are you regretting it?” This time, Eren was quiet, staring at his hands. “…it's okay that you shared yourself. Even if you went all the way… your body is yours to give. And Levi certainly didn't seem like he held anything against you for it. These are your decisions to make.” I'm pretty damn sure he still loves you to bits.

Eren was quiet as he cried into Lathe’s chest. I didn’t want to… But I agreed… “I didn’t want to… I-I-I agreed… L-like I was on autopilot…” He sniffled and kept his head down, looking at his hands as they began to shake, Blake coming up and taking one of his hands into his mouth. I felt like I said yes… Just to say yes… “H-He trained me… To be a-a whore…… L-Levi w-wasn’t even upset… But… Sh-shouldn't he b-be?” Eren hiccuped as he looked up to Lathe with tears glittering his eyes. Does he even love me still? He wasn't possessive of me, he didn’t even try to get Erwin to stop...

Lathe rubbed circles into Eren’s back, holding him close. “I'm sorry, Eren… I know it feels like it's habit now, to agree to that sort of thing… but I'm just telling you that if it ever happens again, and you want to stop, you could say no even in the middle of everything, cut it off. But as for Levi…” Lathe shrugged for a moment, thinking. “…maybe he just wanted a change of pace for once, and didn't mind it… didn't mind that someone had you, if someone had him… maybe you two are still trying to find what works for you two… I don't know. That's not something you need to tell me… but that reflex is ingrained in you, to submit, to agree to whatever is asked of you in that sense… but it doesn't make you a whore. At the end of the day, you are a person who didn't choose to do the things they've done on their own. But you need to know it's okay to try and take better control of who you're intimate with, and how… it's important. I'm sorry if you regret it… but you can't let it eat at you. It happened, and Levi seems okay with it. I think you two should talk later. ...and I think you still need to make peace with the fact that some things are still left behind from what happened to you, things you can't change. Make peace with yourself. It'll be okay.” You're a strong kid... you'll get through this. Talk with Levi, really talk. It'll do you some good, I think. For both of you.

What if he’s grown bored with me. “He looked so comfortable with Erwin…” He sniffled reaching a shaking hand to pet Blake. “I can’t satisfy him in the bedroom, our relationship is rocky at best, and he’s leaving soon… Going overseas to be with the person who can satisfy him the most… And I’ll be here, alone, forgotten, and hated.” His words were a little clear as he started to calm down, the weight in his chest seeming to increase with every syllable. Tucker still hates me, and he’ll teach Jake to hate me too…

“You’re a strong kid… you'll get through this. Talk with Levi, really talk. It'll do you some good, I think. For both of you.

“Eren… you and Levi need to have a serious talk about this… it won't do any good to run away from it and hope it'll be better when you get back… and Erwin’s known Levi longer than you have… he might've just read him really well, or guessed what he wanted and got it right… or he just felt spent and collapsed onto him. Whatever the case is, you two need to know what the other wants and needs and if you two are butting heads about what you want… there needs to be some kind of compromise… or things could go sour… but Eren, don't think that Levi is going to forget all about you and cheat on you while he's gone. It's one thing for it to be consensual, with the other person right there, knowing what's happening… but it's something entirely different to do it without knowing… especially if it's going all the way. He's not going to forget about you, he could never. He's so smitten it’s unbelievable. He loves you. ...and I think you need to hold on for a while longer. ...My guess is that he wouldn't want you to lose a fiancé… that maybe him still being your ‘boyfriend’ might make it easier. But I know he’s going to fight tooth and nail to come home to you, and he needs you to wait for him. This is important to him, what he's going to do. He really needs your support. But don't think you’re not enough for him. He thinks you're worth going to hell and back for. Give him a chance to prove it.” He needs time, still… be patient with him. He's probably been ring shopping for a year at this rate… but I think he's hella nervous, too. It's a big thing to ask. He wants it done right.

Eren sniffled, letting out ragged breath. A boyfriend… That’s all I am to him, nothing more… He has no ties to me… I haven’t gotten him to sign any adoption papers yet, and he hasn’t proposed, or even mentioned proposing… I guess I’m not the one he wants… Eren’s eyes were downcast as he shifted to his feet, his voice cracking. “I’m sorry that you had to sit through all that… I’m gonna go…….” Can’t go upstairs… Levi’s there… “Paint….” He whispered after a moment, walking off in the direction of the hall…

But an arm on his hand caught him, and a voice that definitely wasn't Lathe’s filled his ears. “Eren?” Levi turned him, his arms wrapping up around him as he felt Eren shake, his voice soft. “Eren, let's go sit, okay?” He gently pulled him along to the living room, everyone else still upstairs as the storm went on. He pulled him onto the couch, having Eren in his lap, leaning back against his chest. He gently ran his thumb over his stomach, thoughtful. “...Eren, I heard all of that… and…” ….I don’t know how else to make you think I wanna keep you… and because I haven’t proposed, you think I'm not going to stay… ...but... I wanna propose right… but... you won't believe me otherwise. “...Eren, I don't know what I could possibly say to make you believe me... but... you're the one I want to spend forever with. Please.... wait for me. And I'll wait for you. Wait so that I can come home and marry you like I want to. I don't have a ring yet, and I don't know how I want to ask you... but for right now... please... hang on for me... because I'm going to come home. I'm not going to let them take me away from you. I'm going to come home and marry you so hard your head will spin. I just... I need the time. And I'm so sorry for making you wait forever, making you think there wasn't a light at the end of the tunnel. No matter what word we use to describe each other and what we as ‘us’ are, it'll still hurt the same if I don't... if I don't come home. But I'm going to. I know that every day I'm going to wake up and think that all I have to do is be okay at the end of the day, and then I'll be one day closer to spending forever with you. You're the one I wanna spend it with. Not anyone else. Nobody else could make me want that. ... can you wait for me? Please?” ...am I proposing? I think I'm proposing. During a power outage in a huge ass thunderstorm on the couch after you got stabbed by a fucking deer. ...well, at least life isn't ever dull around here... but I was going for something a bit more... romantic. Less terrorized children, more... I dunno, peace? You know what, stop worrying about it and just worry that he'll fucking say yes, God Damn It because I wanna marry you!

Eren was quiet for a few moments, trying to figure out what exactly he was supposed to say to that, and so unsure of what to make of it. He... Did he just do what I think he just did? “I um... I... I think I... Yes...” I'll say yes... Eren smiled, the dopey grin taking over his face as he slowly shifted and wrapped his arms around Levi’s shoulders. “I will ... I'll wait.”

Levi found himself beaming, moving Eren to kiss him deeply, going to straddle him on the couch, their hands wandering the other as they made out heatedly. Mine. All mine. My god, he said yes... Levi didn't hear the quiet sound of a motor starting off in the garage, only breaking from him as lights flickered on, diving back in kiss him. “...wanna... go upstairs with this...?” Levi smirked, his hands on Eren’s hips.

Eren’s eyes widened, though he slowly shook his head, his hands going to hold onto Levi’s, bringing them off of his hips and holding them for a moment before he pulled them up to his mouth, kissing his rough fingers for a moment. “Not... Not right now... I still need to calm down... and I’ve got stitches...” He whispered, kissing his knuckles. “I think Lathe would have your head if I tore them...” Eren moved to lift his shirt to show him the many stitches on his stomach. It's still pretty sore.

“Yeah, I just might.” Lathe chuckled as the two nearly jumped out of their skin, shaking his head, a big box in hand. He looked pointedly to Levi, quirking an eyebrow. “I get he’s tempting, but you'll just have to chill for a bit. Now, I'm going to deliver these candles around the house, so please, don't mind me. Carry on doing not too strenuous things.” Lathe disappeared up the steps, grinning as Levi and Eren flushed. They're too easy to rile. And they asked for it, making out on the living room couch. Eren certainly looked happy. ...I'll ask about that later.

Levi sighed, shaking his head. “I'm so done with that guy...” Levi looked back to Eren, his hands cupping his cheeks. “But that's fine, I can wait.” Levi smirked, his eyes soft. “We've got time, still. ...but can we go upstairs anyway? I don't want to make out in plain sight.” Because I wanna make out, dammit! You technically just said you'd marry me and I'm clingy so please deal.

Eren looked away, a sad smile on his face. “I um… I don’t know if it’s a good idea to go upstairs…” He shifted to get his elbows under him, boosting him up. Tucker’s up there… I don’t really wanna be near him right now… I don’t think I can even deal with being looked at the wrong way. “We should go make sure that Armin and Erwin are okay…” I don’t wanna stay here.

Levi nodded, gently pecking Eren’s lips. “Yeah, it would be a bit problematic getting you up those stairs… and the company up there isn’t the best at the moment…” Tucker’s gotten a free pass to roam around since the power’s at a minimum. It's a huge house, we’re focusing on keeping the lights on, I guess. “But yeah, we should see how they're holding up out there. Their power probably got cut too. I think lightning hit really close, got a tree or something.” He pecked his cheeks, still not able to keep his lips from him for long. “Y’know, we ordered a ton of food earlier. Wanna invite them over, and then we’ll head back over for the night?” There's a literal feast on it’s way… and Erwin and Armin are dealing with us for a month, we can at least feed them for one night.

Eren nodded, shifting out from under Levi and sitting up. “I’ll go and pick them up… You stay here…” He murmured, leaning over to peck his cheeks before getting up off the couch and heading towards the front door to get his shoes and coat. I need to get out and calm down.

“But, your stitches-” Levi caught himself as he protested, taking a deep breath before letting his hand fall from where it reached to catch Eren. ... You need time to yourself. You just told me you needed to calm down. He gave Eren a reassuring look, moving to kiss him goodbye. “Just be careful not to strain them, okay? Please.” I want you home in one piece. Levi bid him farewell, if just for half an hour, turning and looking around the still house, everyone having gravitated towards the upstairs. He could barely hear Lathe’s quiet tenor, and he smiled as he heard a collective gasp from the kids upstairs. He's got to be telling them some tale... he's good at making them up, or remembering them if he read them once. But he might be reading one. I wonder which… Levi found himself wandering upstairs, leaning against the banister and watching as Lathe distracted Jake and Tucker with Homer’s The Odyssey, the two of them buried in a nest of blankets and pillows near the couch, the heavy epic poem open in Lathe’s lap. ...he really is great at this... ...this whole ‘being a parent’ thing... ...it's awful that Elina doesn't get to have this... that Lathe doesn't get to do this with her... ......Eren’d mentioned wanting children... maybe... maybe we should... I mean, I've been on board the whole time, but... what if we got the kid while I was gone? ...would that work? Would we wait for me to come home? I don't know anything about where to start for this...... I swear, I'm going to need legit help to be a dad... Sammie doesn't cry every time I hold her, so that's good... but... god, I can't care for a kid... how do you do it? I have no damn clue how Lathe manages... He watched as Sammie let out a sound of protest at just sitting next to Lathe, not understanding the story. She's so small to know any of this sort of thing... Levi watched with wide eyes as Lathe picked her up and set her on one leg, the book on the other. He managed to keep the book in place as he rocked her back and forth as if they were on Odysseus’ nameless ship, gesturing widely as he described the home of the Cyclops, Sammie drinking in his expression and motions. ...he's so good at this... I could never be like that...
Eren took the car down the mile long section of road need to get to Armin’s house. He parked the car, carefully holding his side as he got out and then used the spare key Armin gave him to get in the side door. “Alright! Stop fucking and put your clothes on! We’re going to dinner at my house.” Eren shouted into the quiet home, hearing footsteps scatter around upstairs. Ah, so they fuck in the bedroom and not just the other rooms of the house. He waited a few minutes before Armin came down in sweatpants and a loose hoodie. “Eyebrows coming?”

“Yes, and how did you know we were… You know…” Fucking? Armin’s whole face flushed as he slipped some shoes on.

“Armin, is that even a question? When are you ever not fucking?”

“He has a point.” Erwin appeared next in a plaid shirt with faded blue jeans. I wonder what we’re doing for dinner. “Where have you guys been all day? Levi left without eating this morning… And no one ever saw you leave…” He trailed off as he saw Eren simply lift up his shirt and show off a large gash and many stitches. “What does the other guy look like?” I can only imagine what Levi did…

Eren shook his head. “I was out on Charlie and we got to close to a herd of deer, it’d almost mating season, so a buck charged us… Now are you guys coming over to dinner or not?” There lights are on, and I can hear their generator running, so it’ll be fine for now.

“Well shit. And yeah, we’re coming. You think we’re about to turn down free food?” Erwin chuckled, his top under the open flannel not covering every mark that had been left on his neck. “Did your Dad cook?”

“Nah, we ordered out after he abandoned cooking to deal with my chest and Charlie’s wounds. ...it's kinda been more or less hell at our house for the past two days. But we’re dealing.” Not much else to do, is there. “But I imagine Levi wasn't exaggerating when he said there's a literal ton of food headed to our house. Hope you're in the mood for pizza.

“...Eren, it's free food. We’re in.” Erwin slid into his boots, reaching for a rain jacket.

“Good. Let's go then, before the pizza beats us to the house and everyone eats without us.” Eren smiled, leading them to the car. He didn't much mind when the two of them curled up into the backseat for the short drive, letting them hold the other while he drove. He shut the car off in the driveway, the house still mostly dark. “Oh, and… please, just don't… Tucker's been hell for the past two days, obviously. Just… I dunno, don't act gay.” Eren couldn't help but smile as the two of them snickered, fighting the grin. “I'm serious!”

“What, is it obvious? Do I walk in a gay fashion or something? Is gay an accent now?”

“Shut up! My god, you're horrible!” Eren waved them off, getting out of the car laughing. “If Tucker tries to kill you I'm not stopping him!”

“Yeah yeah, we know.” Erwin leaned down, planting a firm kiss on Armin’s lips that left the blonde obviously wanting another when Erwin pulled away. “That'll have to tide us over, then.” Good enough. He meandered behind Eren as they went up to the house, wiping off his feet and kicking off his boots when they came inside. ...Tucker is going to probably flip his shit when he sees all four of us in one place.

Eren sighed quietly as he saw the headlights come into the driveway as he kicked his shoes off. “Dinner's here!” He called loudly into the open house. We get to eat in a few seconds... So everyone come down...

Tucker practically catapulted off of Lathe’s lap, racing down the stairs in a few seconds though he stopped dead in his tracks, seeing the two blondes in the house. Why the fuck are there more gays here? I don’t get it... why did we invite them over?

“Company!” Lathe happily exclaimed as he came down the stairs, walking over with Sammie in one arm.

“Mmy!” Sammie threw up her hands as she tried to copy Lathe, happily reaching for Levi as she was handed over.

“I need to pay the guy for however the hell much you all ordered, so you get the child.” His eyes widened as he saw how much the man was bringing to the door. “...that's not even all of it, is it.”

“Nope.” Levi shook his head, smiling faintly as Sammie played with his hoodie strings. You're too adorable.
Eren took the first few boxes of pizza that the delivery guy had, the man pulling out the receipt for Lathe and going back to get more boxes, giving the man a chance to sign and Eren the chance to get back to the front door to take more boxes inside. I can make a plate quick and then go hide I guess, I know Tucker doesn’t want me at the dinner table with him anymore…

Lathe signed the long receipt with a sigh, shaking his head. “…you all are lucky I love you.” My God, children are expensive. Lathe took the next boxes he was handed, setting them on the counter. He looked up as he saw Eren start to fill a plate, catching his elbow. “Hey, wait for the rest of us. We don't even have the last of it in yet.” He watched as Eren shook his head, his brow furrowing. He looked from Eren to the plate, then something clicked and he glanced to Tucker, eyeing the whole scene with distaste. “…Eren, no. You are not about to let Tucker decide what goes in this house. You and everyone else are going to sit at the table and we’re going to eat as the dysfunctional sort-of family we are. If he doesn't like it, he can go upstairs without dinner. I'm not letting his opinion ruin your happiness.” No way.

Eren was quiet before setting his plate at his usual spot at the table, following Lathe out to go help with the rest of the food. I’ll be good, and I guess I’ll leave it up to Armin and Erwin, and if they don’t wanna stay we won’t. He glanced over at Armin, holding Sammie in his arms as she played with his hoodie strings. That’s adorable…

Lathe carried over the last boxes, tipping the delivery guy before thanking him as he left, going to rearrange the boxes on the counter, cutting the tape that held them closed. “Alright, because there's so many of us, the only rule is don't take half a pizza as your first serving. Cool?” He grinned as everyone nodded, going to take Sammie from Armin as they lined up to grab plates and fill them with pizza and wings, everything Levi and Ieva had ordered. “Sorry kiddo, we've got to find you something else to eat. You're still growing: you need good food.” Lathe poked her belly, smiling as she giggled. He set her down as he went to fix her oatmeal with fruit, all he could think of to make that didn't need too much to be done. Hot water, oatmeal, cut up apple pieces… she likes Cheerios… and the juice with the vegetables in it too. Lathe scooped her up, setting her at the table with her food before going to fix a plate for himself. Let's just hope Tucker doesn't act up…

Tucker had grabbed a plate and sat himself down next to Jake, over shadowing him almost as he quietly started to eat. I swear to god if one of the fags sits next to me, I’m gonna fucking say something… He watched, an evil grin forming on his face as he saw Eren sit beside him. He’s really asking for it. “Fag.” He muttered under his breath, low enough so only Eren could hear it.

Eren faultered a little as he heard Tucker’s harsh word. Maybe if I act tough… No, he knows his words get to me, because I’ve been sheltered, I’ve forgotten all about those hateful words. His gaze flitted down to his piece, silence growing over the whole table as everyone else sat down to eat as well.

Sammie happily munched on her Cheerios, picking up her spoon with one hand, trying to get a spoonful of oatmeal to her mouth when she dropped it back into her bowl, pointing to Erwin who sat near her. “Huh?” She had a worried look on her face, reaching over and tugging on Erwin’s collar, pointing to a purple patch on his neck. “O-Oh… Kay? Is mister okay? Is mister hurt?

Erwin reached a hand up to his neck, realizing from the sensitivity he must have a hickey there. His cheeks tinged pink, smiling to her and brushing her hair from her face. “I'm okay, don't worry. ...you'll understand when you're older. Eat your oatmeal, okay?” He nodded to her bowl, Sammie’s attention bouncing back to her food, chuckling as she went right back to concentrating on getting it in her mouth without missing. That's adorable.

Tucker’s eyebrow twitched, dropping his piece of pizza and standing up to look at the table. “I’ve had enough of this! I’m calling the foster agency! How can you go around letting these perverts walk around the house so freely? And then let Sammie, who is three , look at a hickey and try and figure out what the fuck it was? That fag doesn’t even have the decency to cover up! Why the fuck are you allowing them in your home to taint the minds of Sammie and Jake!?” Tucker shouted, seething as his glare focused finally on Eren. I’ll get you out of this house if it’s the last thing I do!

The entire table was silent in shock as Lathe stood, looking deathly calm. He looked up, staring Tucker down, looking him dead in the eye as he spoke. “I wonder what the foster agency would say to a homophobic thirteen-year-old cussing out his foster family and insulting everyone who’s tried to make this work. I wonder if they'd be mad we try to teach acceptance here, make sure that you don't grow up hating a fair share of people for no legitimate reason. And I wonder what they'd say if they knew you came into this house, trying to drive my own sons out of here just to make it more convenient for you.” Lathe didn't waver, watching Tucker shrink. “I don't have to keep you here. I didn't have to sign up to foster kids. I've tried everything to make you at least sort of content with being here, and nothing has worked. And I'm sure nothing will until my family is out of the picture. And if you think you come before my own sons, you really need to pull your head out of your ass and figure out how this house works.” A pause. “You can take your food with, but you need to go upstairs. I didn't think you'd want to sit at the same table as some dirty faggots.” Lathe’s tone was cold, something very rarely heard. I'm done with you. I'm not letting you get in the way of my family’s happiness.

Tucker glared back at Lathe, grabbing his plate. “Fine! I’m going upstairs!” He shouted back and went up the stairs, stomping the whole way and slamming his door shut behind him. I don’t wanna be there anyways.

“......well shit.” Levi was the first to break the silence, watching as Lathe sank back into his chair, his head in his hand. “...that was a long time coming.”

“Yeah, it was.” Lathe shook his head, looking at the now empty space. “I know you can't force someone to change their opinions… but my god, if ever I would have wanted to…” Lathe shook his head, his eyes on his plate. “M'sorry about that… but it all needed to be said.” Yeah... I can't let him get away with this sort of shit...

Jake looked around the table, glancing over to Erwin for a second before looking back to his plate, his voice timid. “.........what's a hickey…?” I don't know that word...

Eren seemed to pale as he looked over to Jake. What am I supposed to tell him? “Uhm… Well you see, when you're older, and you find someone you like very much, you might feel a bit possessive over them, and if you are, sometimes you'll leave a mark on their skin, it’s called a hickey, but you're not allowed to do it, or have one until you're much older, understand?” Eren asked, looking over to Jake to see if he understood any of what he said. Please don’t make me explain again...

Jake looked to him with wide eyes, looking back over the table between Armin and Erwin, speaking after a moment. “......so…. do I have to have a boyfriend or a girlfriend first?” Is that how it works?

Eren sighed quietly, looking down at his food. “It doesn’t matter, you can pick whoever you want, but you need to be older, understand?” He asked without looking at Jake again. Maybe I am a bad influence on you… I’ll have to make sure that I stop that… I know I’m showing that it’s alright to be gay… But I’m not sure if I’m doing it the wrong way and my body language is forcing you to be gay… He put his head down, defeated as the words crossed his mind, standing after a moment and taking his plate back into the kitchen without another word. I don’t think I can eat anymore...

“Okay, I know. Dad told me I can't date anyone ‘till I'm thirty.” Everyone at the table stifled a laugh, Lathe’s cheeks tinted pink for a moment. That's a long time. Jake watched Eren stand forlornly, reaching out to grab at his sleeve, stopping him. I know that look… you look sad, and then you leave and hide... “......Come back, o-okay?” Don't run away, please...

Eren looked back at Jake, his sad look seeming to fall a bit more. You're so attuned to me now… “I’ll be back, don’t worry…” He gently messed with the boy's hair, going to the kitchen, setting his plate on the kitchen counter before retreating to the bathroom and locking the door behind him. I'm gonna throw up, I feel like shit . He slowly kneeled down in front of the toilet, feeling the familiar clench in his gut as he threw up what little he had eaten. Fuck… I didn’t think I would ever need those pills ever again... Now I might need them to eat anything...

About ten minutes had passed before there was quiet knocking at the door, a worried voice coming from the other side. “Eren? Are you okay?” Levi’s brow furrowed when there was no answer. “...we’re worried about you, Eren. Are you okay?” Talk to me.

Eren looked over towards where the door was locked before he reached to flush the toilet, standing up and turning the sink on to wash out his mouth, still pretty quiet as he opened the door, his eyes dull. “I… I can’t eat.” He murmured, leaning his head down into Levi’s shoulder, sighing quietly in disappointment. I thought I was better…

Levi gathered Eren up into his arms, gently rubbing his back. “I’m sorry… I’m really sorry about him… he doesn’t get it yet… hopefully he will. But we can’t let him get to us so easily… it’ll be okay.” Levi shepherded Eren from the bathroom, Jake coming up to tug on Levi’s sleeve.

“I-Is Eren okay?” He looked worriedly between Levi and Eren, his eyes wide when Levi shook his head a bit. He immediately moved to glomp onto Eren’s waist, burying his face in his chest.
“Nooo… Eren needs to feel better… Tucker’s just a big meanie. Don't feel bad.” I don't like seeing you sad… “Don't be sad…”

Eren smiled softly and ruffled Jake’s hair. “It’s okay, I’ll be fine Jake… Tucker’s words just made me think of something that happened a long time ago, but you don’t need to worry, I’m fine now.”
He smiled softly, though it didn’t completely make it to his eyes, but only Lathe and Levi would be able to tell. I’ll need to see if I can get the nausea pills from Casper again…

~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~

Eren parked the car a little ways away from the pharmacy, his hands fisting his hair as he thought about what was about to happen. *I need to get nausea pills, which I haven’t used in almost a year…
Holy shit…* He found the courage to get out of his car and walk to the pharmacy, taking a deep breath before walking in and going towards the counter looking worse for wear.

James looked up from the computer, his eyes flickering with recognition. “Oh, it’s you, Eren. You didn't drag your psycho of a Dad with you, did you?” He looked past him, not seeing him. Thank god, he drives me nuts.

“No… I didn’t, and could we maybe keep my visit between us? I don’t want my Dad to find out.”
He doesn’t need to know…. He doesn't need to worry about me… “I came to look for Casper actually…” He took a quick look around, noticing the purple-haired man was nowhere to be found.

“Sure, I guess. And Casper isn't around anymore. On his last day he just gave me his business card, told me I'd get my pink slip in the mail and left! That fucker’s the owner of this goddamn company! How the hell was I supposed to know that? He spent all his time here texting and counting pills, it's a wonder we haven't gone under without proper management.” He's literally insane…
“That’s Casper for you… wait… Are you telling me you got fired?”

“Well, I thought I was getting fired. I was freaking out for the next day and a half until I get a letter from the company, first-class and official and shit and I thought I had to clean out this desk, fix up my resume and find a new job… but instead, because Casper is a little shit…” James pointed to the framed sheet of pink paper on the wall. “He sent me that pink slip of paper:

Dear James,

This is your very own slip of pink paper.

You still have a job, even if you are an insufferable human being sometimes.

Thank you for putting up with my crap for the past ten years,

-Casper Pandreivitch, your secret boss.

PS: Lol u thought u got fired ;P

...and that is why I fear for everyone who buys shit from his company.” James shook his head, looking back to Eren. “So, whatcha need, kid?”

His words were quiet, laced with sadness as he looked down to his thumbs. “Do you remember the pills I was prescribed that helped with the nausea?” I know Casper was the one who managed my pills and all but they gotta be on file or something if you don’t know...

“I remember Mr. Crazy send that script over forever ago…” James tapped away on his keyboard. “...but I forget the name, so let's see what we gave you… ah, those. Got it.” James stood, going in back and looking over the shelves of stuff. “Casper hasn't got anyone else back here with me, though. I think they've got someone starting next week. I'll be glad when they do; you need two people back here to fill prescriptions and answer phones and just all the crap you need to do.” James set the bottle on the counter, scanning it and typing into his computer. “That's the one. We’ve got smaller or bigger bottles, if you think that's too much or too little.” He shrugged. Whatever you need, kid. We shouldn't waste perfectly good medicine.

“I… I um… I think this is okay. I’ll pay for it, because I really don’t want Dad to find out.” Eren iterated again as he pulled out his black credit card, his hands still shaking as he held it out for James. I don’t want Dad to know… At all.

James slowly nodded, taking the card and swiping it through. “Alright… I'm not going to pry too much, but…” James handed the car back, looking serious for a moment. “Even being as much of an ass as he is sometimes, your Dad is a very qualified doctor. It doesn't matter to me that you're trying to hide this because they're not major pain killers or anything, but if whatever’s going on stays the way it is for too long, you should probably talk with him.” He had you on a whole cocktail of stuff when you first came in… he knew what he was doing. And he obviously still does-he hasn't killed you yet. ...but still... they're just nausea pills... why are you trying to hide these?
They're just... they're nausea pills. It's no big deal.

Eren looked down at the card as he put it back in his wallet. “I know that I should tell him, but… I just, I don’t want to lay more on him when he’s already got so much to deal with…” I don’t want to add more stress onto him. “Thanks for these though.” He smiled softly, a hint of sadness in his eyes as he took the bag James had on the counter. “Tell Casper I said ‘hi’ when you see him.”

James watched him leave, curiosity getting the best of him as he dialed Casper’s number, waiting for the purple-haired man to pick up the phone. I wanna know why he’s trying to hide something like nausea pills... And he was looking for you, you must know something!

Casper had his feet up on his desk, his pen running quickly over test result forms when his phone rang, picking up. “This is Casper Pandreivitch, CEO of Parsec Pharmaceuticals. What can I do ya for?” Huh, I don't get too many calls till around five...

“You can get me another co-worker, asshole.” James chuckled into the phone. “Working in a big office is not your job… Anyways, Eren was looking for you today, you forgot to tell him you moved to the main office.” Seriously, how could you forget?

Casper grinned, tossing the clipboard onto the desk for the moment, gazing up at the ceiling. Thank god, a break from paperwork. “I'm surprised this is the first time you've called to complain. I expected at least twenty by now, James, how disappointing.” He chuckled. “We’re working on it, someone new starts Monday. Try not to kill them; it’s their first job in the field. And I thought Eren knew I was working around here a bunch now; he knows how big of a project we’ve got going on.”
You'd think he'd remember. “What was he doin’ at the pharmacy, anyway? Lathe send him in with a pile of scripts again, running his errands for him? I told him not to do that.” He did that once. I sent Lathe such a passive-aggressive text rant he didn’t do it again.

“No, I make no promises... And Eren came in alone…. He actually didn’t want Lathe to know that he came, are they having an argument or something? He came in looking for nausea pills, you know why he needs them?” I’m really curious...

Casper’s brow furrowed. “More nausea pills? Why the hell would he care if Lathe knew? ...but he needed them the first time around ‘cause he wasn't used to eating…” ......he might not want Lathe to know what’s going on because so much stressful shit has gone down in the past three or so days… ...maybe stress is getting to him, making him feel sick? ......that would make sense. If I remember correctly, Lathe told me a bit about Tucker being seriously homophobic… he’s much less than civil around Eren or Levi… it could be getting to him. “...I think he’s getting sick from a lot of stress they’ve all been under as of late. Just a lot of crap happening at once, and they’re trying to deal… I’ll talk to Lathe anyway. And if Eren gets mad that you told me and therefore by extension let Lathe know, that’s your own damn fault. But thanks for telling me. Eren doesn't like to admit when stuff is getting to be too much.” Lathe should know anyway. Even if he doesn’t do much about it… even if there's not much he can do. He should know.

James sighed. “It’s your fault if he finds out! I was just curious… Oh! When is Levi leaving?” I know he’s getting deployed soon…

“I think in about three weeks… it's not long until then… and then he’ll be gone for four straight years. That’s a long-ass time… I’m sure that isn't helping stress levels either… Lathe is going to have one son in a war zone, and Eren is going to be a lot more alone for four years…” I know he’s got to be worried about Levi waiting for him… because he hasn't proposed yet… “And it’s going to be the same for Armin. Do you remember that blonde Eren came in with last year with that pile of scripts? His boyfriend is leaving at the same time for a tour. They're both going to be missing boyfriends. And they just got engaged, so it's going to hurt a lot for the both of them. I expect there to be a lot of moping for the first solid month.” Yeah, there will be many a tear.

James nodded even though Casper couldn’t see him. “He seemed really on edge, he didn't have Blake with him either… I’m worried about him, he didn’t look happy at all, especially when he found out you weren’t here… I thought he was gonna leave… I think you should talk to Lathe… I don’t want him to be snooping around and overdosing…” I’m worried about him, really worried.
“Alright well, I gotta go, a customer walked in, bye.” James hung up the phone as the door chimed, a heavy sense of dread consuming his body. I don’t remember the last time I was this worried.

“Bye…” Casper hung up, staring at the ceiling blankly for a moment. ...if Eren is stressed enough to not be able to eat… he could be stressed enough for his old symptoms to come around… Casper immediately pulled out his cell, Lathe being one of the many speed-dial options on the keypad. It didn't take long before Lathe picked up, Casper cutting him off before he could say a word. “Lathe, I'm worried about Eren.”

...the fuck? Lathe took his foot off the pedal of the sewing machine, his brow furrowed. “...okaaaay….. why? Did something happen?” Do I not know about something?

“Well… I just got off the phone with James, and he told me that Eren came into the pharmacy today, and he picked up some nausea pills… But he didn’t want you to find out… Do you know anything about that?” Casper’s voice was questioning as he tapped his fingers on his large desk.
“You also forgot to tell him that I don’t work there anymore too! What gives?” I’ve not worked there in like... A couple months...

Lathe’s eyes widened, thinking. “Nausea pills? Why would he care about those?” They're just... nausea pills... but... “I dunno, he was feeling sick last night... after... ...after Tucker had an outburst when Eren and Levi and Erwin and Armin were at the table. Sammie saw a mark on Erwin’s neck, he brushed it off well enough for her when she got worried, and Tucker just screamed at me before looking like he was going to tear Eren’s throat out. ...it's got to be that... the stress of everything and then a seriously hostile-feeling home right now has to be really getting to him.” That makes sense...

Casper nodded even though Lathe couldn’t see him. “Well, we were worried, because he didn't want you to find out, and I was thinking that maybe his old symptoms are starting to pop up... Because Levi’s leaving...” I know it’s at least a touchy subject with Eren at best...

Lathe listened to Casper’s careful words, slowly nodding. “...I'll keep an eye out. I was hoping we wouldn't have to worry too much about him... I mean, I knew that there was at least going to be a lot of tears and moping involved-” He heard Casper hum in agreement. “...but I hope he doesn't... I hope he doesn't start cutting again or... or trying to overdose...” I really hope he doesn't try that shit again... if I lost him...

Casper sighed quietly. “I'll make sure James is on the lookout too, in case he comes in looking for painkillers... But if James could tell he looked depressed, I can only imagine what he would look like in front of anyone who really knew him.” I can only imagine what he looked like... Maybe a drowned rat?

Lathe nodded, his brow furrowed. “Okay, thank you for telling me... I'll have to text Levi, ask him to keep a closer eye on him... they're not in the house much, you know this. I hope he doesn't pick up those habits again... he must really look out of it if James could be worried enough to call you.” Crap... this isn't good...

“I think he was more so curious as to why he didn’t want you to know... But it was enough to warrant a call... Oh, he didn’t have Blake with him either.” That was another thing that had me worried...

“He keeps forgetting to bring Blake places with him... we all just keep forgetting, he's mostly just a pet these days, but he really should have him at Armin’s in case any-” Lathe looked up as he heard a muffled barking downstairs, Blake’s, soon followed by the yelps of many a small dog. Oh my. Blake just started barking- I think Eren’s over to take care of the animals. I need to go talk to him.”
“I didn’t tell you anything! Tell him I say ‘Hi’!” Casper called back to him as he heard the line go dead. I really hope Eren’s okay…

“Then how the hell—” Lathe stopped talking when Casper hung up, stowing his phone in his pocket.
...well, if I say Casper said hi, he’ll know. But whatever, it’s Casper’s fault. Lathe stood, quickly walking to the stairs and descending them, running out the back door to the barn. He heard the sounds of whining grow louder as he came inside, Maisie and Blake both pawing at his legs as he tried to feed Charlie and Luna, even Krampus and Nene trotting around his legs in a circle, yelping at him. He’s not okay. “Eren Honey? Are you—” Lathe stopped when he turned Eren to look at him, the look in his eyes shattered. “Eren, come here…” Lathe wrapped him up in a hug, resting his head on his shoulder. “Talk to me, please. I know you haven't been feeling well.” Tell me what’s wrong.

“I’m—I’m fine…” He stuttered, his arms slowly and shakily wrapping around Lathe’s waist. “I’m fine… I’ll be fine… You don’t have to worry…” I can get better on my own…

“I’m your Dad. It’s my job to worry. And I’m worried that all this stress has been getting to you lately.” He rubbed circles into Eren’s back, his voice quiet. “Do you wanna talk about any of it?” It might make you feel better.

Eren shook his head. “No… I’m gonna take Charlie for a ride… Um, i’ll-I’ll try and be home soon, I need to go….” He mumbled, looking away from Lathe, sniffling a little and trying to hide his tears. I’m fine, I’ll be fine, I can take it… “I’ll be fine… You really don’t need to worry about me, I can handle being alone…” Eren gasped quietly as he realized he said that out loud. Fuck.

Lathe shook his head as he heard Eren’s voice, pulling away from him and looking him in the eyes.
“Eren, after what happened yesterday, where you got stabbed by a territorial deer, I’m not letting you go riding that far out there. Absolutely not. Now come on, let’s feed the rest of the animals and then get you inside, okay? I’ll make you some lunch.”

“No buts, Eren. Please. I’m not letting you run away from this.” We need to deal with it before things get worse. Lathe pecked his forehead, his eyes melancholy. “I’m sorry, kid, but I’m worried.
And you’ve barely begun healing. You need to be careful.” He nodded to his stomach. You just got stitches… you need to take it easy.

Eren…. He’s right. “I’m sorry, it’s just, I needed to get out of that house, I swear, all Erwin thinks about right now is getting laid… And I just… I can’t deal with that right now…” I keep thinking about how Levi and Erwin are just gonna be fucking like rabbits while they’re gone… And I can’t stand it….

Lathe nodded in understanding, moving with him to help feed the rest of the animals. “They're leaving so soon… I think Erwin just… we’re all just people, Eren. And they’re going to be gone for four years. I think he just wants to make up for lost time… because he's really going to miss Armin. They're engaged… and if he's trying to get you and Levi involved too… I think he just needs touch… because he's going to go so long without it. He's trying to cope with losing that aspect of life while abroad.” He's going to miss Armin like hell… and Levi is going to miss you too… a lot ...

“But he keeps trying to get at Levi’s ass… And it’s really starting to piss me off, but I can’t say anything about it!” Eren gasped as he shouted at Lathe, clamming back up again. I wasn’t supposed to tell him, at all. Or anyone!

“Then tell him it pisses you off! Here, let me fix up your rant for you.” Lathe turned to him, wearing a well-schooled bitchface. “Erwin Smith, I get that you might really like having a piece of Levi, but he’s mine and it's really pissing me off. Just cool it with him for a while, alright? I think Armin would want to have you to himself for a while, anyway.” Lathe grinned to him, cocking his head. “How was that?” That'll probably do the trick.

“But I don’t want him to get angry at me… And Armin… I don’t want him to get mad at me either… And and… And Levi is enjoying it… I can’t please him like Erwin can.” He murmured, fresh tears forming on his cheeks as his shaking hands held onto Lathe’s shirt. I can't take something he enjoys away from him.

“But Eren, it's not just about Levi. And it’s not just about Erwin. It's about all of you. You need to understand that, man up, and go be a pissy overprotective boyfriend to get Erwin to step off.” Lathe held him close, carding a hand through his hair. “I get that a change of pace is something Levi can get really into… and it's not that it’s bad for him to enjoy it… but if Erwin is keeping Levi all to himself, we have a problem. It shouldn't make them mad that you're getting possessive; you think that it's stepping over a very important boundary. It'd be better to tell them than to brood. Nobody would want that.” He gently swayed them, trying to calm Eren down. “You need to let them know that even though sharing is okay, it's okay to an extent. There's a limit. And they should respect that.” They're good friends; they'll respect it. Most likely.

“But what if they don’t? Erwin’s probably going to be doing this the whole time they’re overseas!” Fuck, I'm acting like a motherfucking child.

“If you're that worried, you need to tell them. You're scared Levi might be tempted to cheat on you- and your fear isn't too unreasonable. They've gone all the way before, they enjoy each other, it's going to be a long four years… it seems like it might happen. But I think you literally need to tell the both of them, or at least Levi, tell him what you told me. You're scared he's going to need relief during those four years, and he is. But he shouldn't cheat on you over there. Erwin would be cheating on Armin, too.” You two need to talk...

Eren sniffled, nodding as he kept his head against Lathe’s chest, enjoying his comfort. “Can we…
Can we feed the animals now?” His hands were still shaking heavily, clinging to Lathe’s shirt. I don’t know how I can tell Erwin… Let alone Levi.

Lathe nodded, pecking his cheek gently. “Alright, let's feed them. Then we’ll get you fed; that'll make you feel a bit better I think.” The fed the animals together in comfortable quiet, and soon all the eggs were gathered from the henhouse and Gill and Jill were milked. They walked back up to the house, Lathe putting away the eggs and studying the egg drawer. We've got a lot… “What do you want for lunch, Eren? I'll make you anything you want.” Your pick.

Eren looked at him, fiddling with his thumbs and biting his lip… “Um… Omelettes… But I need to g-go to my c-car really quick…” I need to take nausea pills, and you don’t know about those...
He stood up from the island, starting towards the hallway to get to the front door.

Lathe moved to catch Eren’s arm, taking a deep breath when Eren turned to look to him, his voice wary. “…I know about the nausea pills. …James called Casper, and Casper called me. …we’re worried that the stress of everything is getting to be too much. It's not something you have to hide.
I understand. I really do. …it's been a very stressful week, we’re all feeling the pressure.” Lathe gave Eren a hug, soon letting him go. “You come right back, okay? I'll have your food fixed for you in no time.” You need to eat.

Eren’s eyes widened as he heard Lathe speak. He… Fuck you Casper! I'm going to fucking murder you later… He nodded silently before slipping outside and into his car, trying to decide if he should leave or if he should go back inside. Dad knows now… He pulled out his phone, fury taking over his mind as he texted Casper.

EY: You son of a bitch! How could you tell him? I thought I could fucking trust you!

CP: Eren, it's not like I thought I had a choice!

CP: James called me and was //worried// about you!

CP: James!

CP: //Worried!!/

CP: I thought I should tell Lathe because A: he's your DAD, B: he's a doctor and should know this shit, and C: we’re worried as hell that everything from the week might be getting to be too much...

CP: ...we don't want anything bad happening to you.

CP: I'm sorry but that's what it is...

EY: I still hate you, I hope you realize that. Asshole.

CP: Yeah yeah, sure, Casper’s an asshole, blah blah we know this

CP: Even if you think I'm bullshitting you I actually do care so

CP: Just deal with it.

CP: You're stressed out, and we want to help.

CP: What the hell is the problem.

EY: Alright! Fine! IM STRESSING THE FUCK OUT! Alright! THERE I FUCKING SAID IT!

EY: and i’d rather not tell you because you might end up hating that person, and I’d rather see them alive...

CP: I already hate Tucker, Eren

CP: Lathe told me aaaaaaalll about him

EY: It’s not about Tucker… I can take the hate… What do you think I did before Lathe picked me up?

CP: I'm not going to answer that question which I'm half-sure is rhetorical CP: ...look, if you're not going to tell me why you're stressed out and pissed off, fine.

CP: That's not my business.

CP: But we’re worried about you, and if you wanna talk, fine.

CP: We can't force you to do shit.

CP: So I'm fucking sorry, okay?

EY: ....Do you //really// wanna know?

CP: It's likely that you're not gonna shock me, even if it's really bad- go for it if you want

EY: Erwin’s fucking Levi and apparently out of the four of us, I am the only one who is not okay with it...

CP: ......wait

CP: so like was this
CP: ...a gangbang situation at some point

CP: Because if it's going too far

CP: ...that’s a thing that’s happened before with people I sorta knew

EY: Well, it was a gangbang the first time... But then I guess it happened again while I was out... Armin told me...

EY: And I don’t know how the fuck I’m supposed to tell Levi that I don’t want him to do that!

EY: I can’t satisfy him in the least! He’s so fucking comfortable with Erwin! It’s like I don’t even //exist!//

CP: ...first off, I'm going to say that step one is probably to go talk to Levi

CP: ......and now please put up with this line of questioning

CP: This Armin and Erwin couple, they're engaged, yeah?

EY: yeah… um… They were the ones that got engaged at Lathe’s wedding... The other ones, not you shits...

CP: I know but just go with me here

CP: whose idea was the gangbang?

CP: like did someone in particular like.. idk ‘lead’ it or set the tone idk

EY: Armin and Erwin, and I agreed because I thought we weren’t gonna go all the way, like we did forever ago when we were in HS… But… Erwin wanted to go farther… And I couldn’t say ‘no’

EY: I’m a fucking whore too, which is just the best image I want the guy that I love to see… Oh yeah, just fucking wonderful

CP: Eren, what you did doesn't make you a whore

CP: I get the feeling you've probably told others this and heard the same fucking response

CP: But it doesn't make you a whore if Levi was doing it too

CP: If it was all consensual and you were cool with it at the time just to have fun, that's fine

EY: I didn’t want to! That's the problem! I agreed on fucking autopilot! I just responded like my asshole of a father practically trained me to do... And I hate myself for that...

CP: but that doesn't make you a whore

CP: Sure, now you regret it. Understandable.

CP: Things can seem like a good idea in the moment and then smack you in the face with how bad of a decision it might have been

CP: Not all the time

CP: But sometimes.

CP: But because Erwin pretty much decided for the group how far you all would go, would you say he pretty much led the whole thing?

EY: Yeah...

CP: okay…. and you and Armin would've paired off for a bit, yes…?

EY: … Well, we didn't go that far, I couldn't handle him... I barely got out of a panic attack...

CP: ...so would saying he was really rough with you be an understatement…?

EY: Yeah… I didn’t want him to be and it freaked me out...

CP: ………okay so promise you won't get even madder at me for this CP: but just how possessive of Erwin would you say Armin is…?

EY: …. A good bit… Armin went right back to Erwin as soon as he was done with Levi basically...

CP: ………Eren I'm sorry if I turn out to be wrong and accidentally talked shit about your friend for no reason

CP: ...but do you //know// Erwin and Levi had sex again?

CP: ….I mean....

CP: Armin might be highkey jealous....

CP: ………and he might have lied

CP: PLEASE don't kill me for saying it but just think about it

CP: It kinda makes sense...

CP: And Levi wouldn't just cheat on you when he still //has// you

EY: ………… Holy fuck.... What do I do if you’re right tho?

CP: Honestly I’m kinda in the mood to go find my old baseball bat from where I hid it under the bed but y’know

CP: laws are a thing

CP: So honestly I’d ask him if Levi and Erwin seriously cheated and if he says yeah then suggest you all call a house meeting and confront them
CP: That would be the point where he starts to sweat and admits he was lying

CP: or you all have a legit house meeting about boundaries and shit

CP: Either way it would work kinda okay

CP: oh and btw Lathe wants you to get the hell inside with your pills before your omelette gets cold

CP: Oh, and stop smacking the steering wheel so hard

EY: what the actual hell, alright fine… I think I might just talk to Levi though, then rat Armin out.

CP: Eh, that works

CP: At least you two can have a serious conversation

CP: If you talk to Armin right away, that might go sour right off the bat if he sees you’re suspicious

CP: Idk just don't do anything to get engagement called off or whatever

CP: Even assholes deserve love

CP: Apparently

Eren sighed, reaching into the passenger seat and grabbed the bottle of pills he needed out of the bag, opening the car door to step out. He made it inside a dark look on his face as he came into the kitchen to sit and eat. I'm gonna fucking kill Armin if he was lying. Eren sat in front of his plate, which was still warm, his hand going back into his pocket to pull out his phone and started a new text conversation.

EY: Get your ass over here within the next 5 minutes, or I swear to god you will never be allowed to come home.

EY: Time starts now.

LA: Well fuck okay

LA: Goddamit you took the car

LA: Ah well, Erwin wasn't using his bike anyway

LA: Am I in trouble or some shit? What'd I do?

EY: That depends… Get your ass in this house or so help me god you will be skinned on the spot…

LA: Fuck I'm coming!
It wasn't four minutes later that the doorbell rang, Levi catching his breath on the front steps as he waited for them to open the door. He swallowed hard as Eren answered it, his cool glare settling on him. fuck. “…is everything okay…?” Levi stepped inside and kicked off his shoes, looking worried.

Eren grumbled something that sounded like a mockery of his words as he stalked back over to the kitchen. You are going to sit and eat with me. His eyes almost seemed to glow in anger as he forked another piece of omelette in his mouth. You'll figure it out soon enough…

Levi followed Eren back to the otherwise empty kitchen, shocked at the furious glare he was fixed with. …you're never angry… what happened? “Uhm…” Levi tentatively sat across from Eren, not knowing what to say as Eren simply stared at him, judging. “…is this… Uhm… about what happened two nights ago? I just…” He tried not to shrink back as Eren seemed to scoff at him, looking away. “…I don't know what’s gotten you so mad …” *…what'd I do ?

“Is it true? Did you let Erwin fuck you yesterday while I was gone ?” Eren’s worked were hostile as he stabbed his fork into his omelette, eating the piece with brows furrowed in rage. *I need to calm down, and I can only imagine what the hell you two fucking did.

Levi’s eyes widened, shaking his head after it clicked what he asked. “W- What ? No! Why the hell would I do that? Just because we all had a gangbang two days ago doesn't mean I threw all sense of boundaries out the fucking window! Who the hell told you that?” What the hell? I've already got you! At that's fucking cheating . I'm not about to cheat on you.

“ Armin !” Eren shouted back at him as Levi rose his voice. “Armin fucking told me! Which is why I left this morning without saying a word to you! I couldn’t stand that you felt more comfortable with him than you ever were with me!” Eren had started to cry, all of his bottled up emotions starting to let loose. I'm sorry… I didn’t want to yell… He put his head in his hands as he started to cry, his whole body shaking on the kitchen stool across from the shorter man. I'm so sorry…

Levi’s eyes were wide, his mind running into overdrive. “But why would Armin…” ..........he's fucking jealous . “Eren…” Levi moved around the table, wrapping Eren up in a strong embrace. “Eren, Armin saw what you saw and must’ve gotten jealous… but I couldn't be more comfortable with him than you… at the time, he and I both had just gone two rounds… I was tired, he was warm, I just kinda collapsed into him… it's not that I like him better… Eren, I love you… I wouldn't just do something like that. I'm so sorry…” Levi rested his cheek on Eren’s shoulder, holding him close as Eren shuddered. Armin, I'm going to fucking kill you.
Eren leaned into his hold. “Y-You didn’t? A-Armin was l-lying?” He asked again, making sure that he was understanding Levi’s words correctly. I wanna make sure.

“I think he was really jealous of how boneless I became after round two… it wasn't like I was extra comfortable with him for reasons other than ‘I was tired, and he was right there and warm.’ I think Armin lied because he was so jealous… and he wanted to make you jealous too… of how comfy I looked with him…. …we need to talk to them later… than can't be happening…” That's awful... I get that he's jealous, but to lie about that? What the hell?!!

Eren nodded, curling up to Levi’s strong chest. “I'm… I’m sorry I believed him… I should’ve doubted it… I should’ve thought that you were different, but I… I couldn’t…” He whimpered quietly as his hands continued to shake. I'm sorry... I'm so sorry, I should've trusted that you wouldn't cheat. “I’m sorry…” His eyes were full of tears as they fell.

Levi guided Eren from the chair, sweeping him from his feet carefully and moving them to the living room, knowing Eren wasn't going to stop crying for a bit. He murmured soothingly to him, soon laying down with Eren on his chest, his words reassuring and sweet in his ear. “It's okay Eren, you were worried about something like this happening… it's only reasonable that you doubted me… I'm not mad at you, just at Armin… it's alright, we’ll get this sorted out, promise. I'd never do that to you. I'll behave for you. I really will.” I'm going to wanna come home after my four years and take a few weeks off of doing anything else and just ravish you… if you're willing to wait for me, I damn well better keep my promise and wait for you.

Eren could only nod.
Chapter 67: Stitches

It took a solid hour before Eren calmed down, slowly taking in deep breaths as Levi played with his soft hair. “Can we go on Charlie?” I wanna go riding… “Dad doesn’t want me to go alone…” His hands still held onto Levi’s shirt, not wanting to let go.

Levi nodded. “I guess… but at the first sign of deer we’re changing direction. I don’t want anything bad happening again. And we’re bringing cellphones too.” Levi shifted them both to sit up, softly kissing Eren’s cheek before helping him stand. He gently brushed their lips, bringing Eren over to where their boots and coats were. He glanced to the table, seeing Eren’s half-finished omelette. “You sure you’re not hungry or anything?”

Eren shook his head. “N-No, I’m not, I just wanna go riding…” I’m not sure I could eat anymore even with the nausea pills. He kneeled down, starting to tie his boots, his messy hair covering his eyes. I should’ve had faith in Levi… It was stupid for me to think that he cheated…

Levi nodded, slipping into his own boots and lacing them up. He helped Eren into his jacket, grabbing his own windbreaker and walking out to the barn. Levi helped Eren bring Charlie out of his stall, heaving his saddle up onto his back and helping to tack him up. He handed Eren a helmet when he untied Charlie, strapping his own on. “You’ll need this.” You forgot it last time.

Eren smiled softly, taking it and clipping it onto his head, pulling the bridle over Charlie’s head and helping himself up onto the saddle. “Why don’t we get going?” He had a small smile on his face as he reached his hand out to help Levi up. I wanna go out and get fresh air, cause I need to calm down, and I want you to hold me.

Levi smiled softly, stepping up to swing his leg over Charlie. He wrapped his arms around Eren’s stomach, resting his head on Eren’s back. He looked around as they started to move, Eren bringing them down a path through the forest. It was quiet, the light speckling the ground, the leaves on the trees turning different colors. This is nice… Levi’s brow furrowed when he felt something warm on his hand, pulling it back to look at it, gasping as he saw red all over his palms. “Eren, my god, you’re bleeding!” Fuck, your stitches!

Eren looked down at his waist where the red was beginning to seep into his shirt and jacket. Well fuck… “Eh, I’m fine…” He murmured, urging Charlie on, not wanting to deal with it. I can deal, I’m not bleeding that badly…

Levi reached forward, getting hold of Eren’s hands over the reins and tugging, trying to get Eren to stop. “Eren, please, turn around. One of your stitches could be tearing at your skin. Please.” Stop so we can go back home and get you fixed up again!

Eren sighed quietly. “Well, if you're going to complain about me bleeding, then put some fucking pressure on it…” I couldn’t even tell that I was bleeding… Holy shit… He moved the reins to turn Charlie back around to the house, which was still in eye shot. “You might as well call Dad so he can meet us at the barn.” I can only imagine how freaked out he’d gonna be… But this has probably been bleeding for a long time...

“Got it.” Levi pulled out his phone, one hand staying firmly pressed to his stomach as he pressed the button to call Lathe, holding the phone against his shoulder with an ear as he waited for him to pick up. He didn't have to wait more than one ring for him to pick up, obviously worried as he spoke on the other end. “Dad, can you meet us at the barn with your medic kit? Eren’s stitches started bleeding again, I think from the strain…” A moment. “…got it.” He hung up, wincing as he slipped the now bloody phone back into his pocket. “We’re riding up to the house- Dad will get you inside and fix you up while I get Charlie back into the barn.” Yeah, your health comes first.

Eren nodded, getting Charlie to go towards the back of the house, barely noticing just how tightly Levi was holding onto his stomach. They got to the house rather quickly, Lathe racing out to meet them, only then did he look down to see how much red was on everything. “Fuck… I didn’t think it was that bad… Dad… You have to call Casper… I need another shot of the serum…” This'll heal as soon as that happens, I need it… He could feel his chest tightening as he reached his shaking hand down to hold onto Levi’s bloody one. Fuck, I’m losing blood… I’m actually… Fuck this isn’t good..

“Yeah, no shit.” Lathe reached out to help Eren off the horse, picking him up and kicking open the back door. He set him on the kitchen counter, cleaned off and under lights for him to properly see what he was doing. “Okay, shirt. Off.” Lathe ran to get a thick towel, coming back and pressing it against his chest, having Eren hold it in place. He picked up the bloodied shirt to toss it in the sink and out of the way, noticing something as he saw his fingers easily become covered in red. …your blood… it's so thin … Lathe didn't spare it much thought at the moment, washing his hands and pulling out his phone. He dialed Casper’s number and tossed it onto the counter on speaker, getting things from his bag as he waited for him to pick up. He cut him off before he could speak, his voice stern yet worried. “Casper, I need you to get me a vial of the serum now. Eren’s bleeding badly, and he got stitches yesterday, but he’s still not healing well. Hurry, please- I'll let you take notes.” Just get the hell over here.

Casper’s eyes widened as he quickly got off of his chair, heading towards the elevator. “How badly are we talking here? Am I gonna need to meet you at the hospital?” How badly is he bleeding? I can tell you're not doing too well with it, you have me on speaker for one, and I can hear your panic… He tapped his foot in impatience as he waited for the elevator to finally take him up to the top floor, hitting the lights until Hannah looked up, pulling the phone away from his ear for a second. “Get like 10 vials and needles, we need to hurry!” He shouted across the open space which was now attributed to reproducing the serum. Come on Lathe, talk to me. He turned to call for the elevator again, listening to Hannah shift around the room to get everything he asked for ready.

“I don't think you need to to meet me at the hospital, it can be managed. I need to run and get him an IV bag from upstairs, but besides that I think we’ll be fine for a little bit. Just don't dawdle, okay?” Lathe ended the call, running to the stairs. “I need that IV bag now…” Your blood is so damn thin …. and you've lost plenty over the past two days, I think...

Casper shook his head as Lathe hung up on him, turning as Hannah finished packing up the supplies, a thought coming to him. “Get your computer, Lathe said you can take notes… We have a new case.”

Hannah nodded quickly unplugging the charged electronic before she put it in it’s case and briskly walked over to him. “Who is it?”

“Eren, which is probably why he was worried, apparently he got stitches and he’s bleeding through them.” Casper let Hannah step into the elevator first, following her. I don’t get why his blood would be thin...

“Blood thinners?”

Huh? Did I say that out loud?

“Yeah, you said that out loud too, you tend to do that when you're thinking about something.” Hannah shrugged watching the number on the elevator switch ever so slowly.

“Anyways, no he’s not… Any other ideas?”

“Disease?”

“No, you know his file inside and out too, don’t be pulling that crap now…”

“Stress?”
“Fuck… We need to hurry.” Casper’s words were rushed as the doors finally opened and the two of them made their way to Hannah’s truck which was parked closer to the door. “Promise not to kill me?”

“I make no such promises…”

Eren groaned as he held a towel to his stitches. Fuck... It’d starting to hurt... “D… D-Dad?” Eren called out as he heard feet thunder down the stairs. It hurts... I’m getting dizzy... I’m scared... He could feel his chest tighten up as he tried to take in another breath, finding it almost impossible. Fuck... No no no no no!

Lathe was immediately next to him, brushing the hair from his face. “I'm right here, Eren, don't worry. I know it feels hard to breathe but you need to just stay cool for me, okay? We’ll get you all fixed up in no time. Promise.” Lathe pecked his forehead, moving to get an IV going. “I really need to just steal one of those stands...” Lathe reached for a few twist-ties, securing the IV bag to the light fixture hanging over the table. “That'll work for right now. Come on, stay awake for me kid.” Lathe rested a gentle hand on his arm, the other carding through his hair. “You’ll be fine, just hang on until Casper gets here with the serum. Then you'll be just fine, okay? Just focus on breathing for now.” You'll be okay. ...at least, you damn well better be.

Eren’s eyes were wide, his pupils dilated to a point where his Irises were only a thin rim around black. “It... It... It hurts...” He whimpered, his breathing ragged and his chest tightening further as he started to wheeze, which was freaking him out more. “I don’t... I don’t wanna die...” Eren cried out, his hands shaking as he felt the towel in his hand soak up more of his blood, his stitches not holding the thin blood. I’m scared... I’m really scared... where’s Levi?

Lathe gave him a small smile, knowing he couldn't start to panic too. I need to be strong here. This time, it's not an option. “Eren, Honey, look at me.” He coaxed Eren to focus on him, maintaining a calm look. “You’re going to be just fine. Help is on the way. We’re not going to let this get any worse, okay? I know it's scary, but you just need to stay calm and breathe. I'm right here. We’ll fix that pain as soon as we can, Hon. Just breathe, okay? Here, with me. Try to breathe in.” He sucked in a breath as Eren tried to, watching as he shakily inhaled. “And let it out.” They both did so, Lathe trying to soothe Eren’s nerves and keep him breathing. Just don't stop breathing on us... that's your job, the rest will follow.

Eren struggled to keep up with Lathe as he focused on breathing. “W-Where’s... Where’s... L-Levi?” He asked, starting to hiccup and wince everytime he hiccuped. Fuck that hurts... He whimpered hearing a door slam open, so unsure of where in the house it came from. *Who’s here?
His eyes were full of tears, which quickly ran down his cheeks. I’m scared…

Levi didn't even bother to kick off his boots, running over to Eren’s side. “How's he doing?” He moved a hand to his arm, the other brushing away his hair, on Eren’s side opposite Lathe. You don't look so good...

Eren’s eyes widened as he looked up to Levi. “I’m… I’m…. I’m sc-scared…” His words were barely audible, his eyes starting to close as he got even dizzier. My head hurts… I can’t feel my toes… Not good. “T-toes…” He hiccuped weakly, wincing as his whole body jumped. It hurts...

Levi was at a loss for words, not knowing what to do or say....he's losing so much blood... but he's already got an IV in… I don't know what we could do… besides wait... “Eren, we’ll make sure you come out of this okay. You'll be fine. You really will be.” ...you'd better be... “...what was it with your toes?”

“Blood loss. Can you feel them?” Lathe moved to tug his shoes off, throwing them over towards the backdoor uncaring. “Try and wiggle them for me, Hon.” Come on, anything?

Eren struggled, barely able to move them at all. I can’t feel them… His vision started to blur, his head moving to the side as his eyes closed further. He heard another door open quickly and slam in the background. Huh? ........Who’s that? Eren couldn't keep his eyes open any longer, darkness overwhelming him.

Hannah came right over, her eyes widening at the bloody scene in front of her. She set the box with the vials and syringes a safe distance away from the blood, opening it and putting on gloves. Who knows what’s sterile anymore… “What’s his blood pressure?” This is bad, he’s bleeding too much… I don’t get it.... What’s wrong with him?

Lathe immediately dug into his bags getting a blood pressure clip. “I completely forgot, I have one of these now…” He clipped the monitor onto Eren’s index finger, waiting for the reading, paling as he saw the reading. “...165 over 105 mmHg. Stage two of hypertension. ...fuck…” Lathe felt fear set in, that his own son was dying on the table in front of him. Fuck… we need to fix you… “Get the serum ready, note how much is in the syringe at a time, okay? We need to take good notes on how much serum heals different wounds.” He soon was wielding a pair of silver scissors, cutting the wraps down the sides of his chest. “We’re going to do what we need to, Eren. Just hang on.” Lathe moved to reveal the first of his stitched on his stomach, pressing the rest of the towel and wraps over the rest of his chest. Come on, let's do this.

Hannah nodded and started to get one the syringes set for the serum, flicking the syringe to make sure she had the right amount in it. “Okay, Levi, grab a sterile wipe and clean up his arm, Lathe, keep up the pressure, and do not take out the stitches, where did he get the injury and how deep is it?” Hannah was rattling everything off as she prepared three syringes, one for his stomach, one for his chest and one for his arm. I really hope we can do this in time… His breathing is getting shallow. She turned her head to Casper. “Call Scotty, get two transfusions, he’s not making platelets… Or he’s used too many of them…” I don’t know which it is right now, but his blood is not thick enough to be considered normal.

“On it.” Casper pulled out his phone, Scotty on speed dial. He held the phone to his ear, waiting tensely for him to answer. “Pick up pick up pick up… Scotty!” He cut Scotty off halfway through his greeting. “Look, can you drop whatever you're doing and run two blood transfusions over? Eren’s kinda in crap shape right now and we can't really get him to the hospital at this point. He needs blood, please.” Get your ass the fuck over here!

Scotty eyes widened, giving his clipboard to a nurse nearby, thinking for a few seconds. “Alright, I’m on it, I’ll be over in a few minutes.” He hung up and started to run down the hall, signing out two transfusion bags from the bank, going out to his car with his scrubs still on. If Casper’s asking for two... It’s bad…

Eren’s breathing grew shallower, his eyes closing even more as he completely lost consciousness. I’m scared…

“Eren! Eren come on, wake up!” Lathe snapped in front of his face, his face falling when Eren’s eyes wouldn't open. “He's out.” He looked back up to Hannah, trying to remain cool and collected. “Multiple stab wounds to the chest, about 21 from a buck’s antlers twice… they're not too deep, about a half inch to an inch.” Lathe swallowed, looking back up to her. “Whenever you're ready, I guess…” Scotty won't be more than ten minutes.

Hannah nodded, looking over to Levi and the panic on his face before grabbing the first needle. “We should wait for a blood transfusion…. But I think a nosebleed is less serious than what his body's doing now. 50 cc’s in his abdomen… Her hands didn’t shake at all as she got the needle just over Eren’s navel, putting it in and injecting it completely into his system before grabbing the next with her now bloodied glove, moving it to over his heart and administering it there. “Get a heart monitor on him, or someone better be reading his pulse.” I need to see how this works or not! Why isn’t he steaming yet? I don’t understand! Don’t tell me we already lost him? That can't be possible….

Lathe looked to the clip on his finger, reading the small screen. “His heart is beating, but it's very faint… keep going.” We can’t let this get worse. Where the fuck is Scotty?!
Levi moved out of Hannah’s way, trying not to panic. Eren’s barely still alive… no… he has to stay alive… he… he has to… Levi felt an arm around him, Lathe pulling him to the other side of the table, letting him play with his chocolate hair. ... I want you to be okay…

Hannah shook her head, picking up the last of the vials, inserting it into his arm, emptying it. “Make sure he’s still breathing…” His chest isn’t moving much… “Come on, Eren, you can do it, you can pull through…” She immediately started to set up another vial when Eren’s body didn’t start to steam. This isn’t good… Does he have any blood left in him? She gasped as the door slammed open, hearing hurried footsteps come towards them. Oh thank god!

“I’m here! Move!” Scotty moved Lathe aside for the moment, quickly switching the solution bag to a blood transfusion, the red liquid starting to flow into his veins. “How’s he holding up?”

“He’s not steaming yet, or healing visibly. I don’t…” Lathe stopped as he saw a tiny curl of steam come from the uncovered wound, the flesh struggling to weave together and patch itself up. “It’s working, once he gets that blood he should start healing a lot faster. Scotty, my bag, use the swabs and get a sample of his thin blood from the table. We need results from that for later.” We need to figure out what part of the blood is responsible for moving that serum around to the right places. Lathe watched as Casper readied a fourth shot, Hannah having set up her laptop and taking furious notes. “Note that barely ten seconds after the transfusion began, the effects of the serum began to take place.” Yeah, we need all of this on the record. “Start a timer while you’re at it, so we can see at what stages what happens.”

Hannah nodded, typing quickly. “Check the stitches, are they being forced out? Or is the skin growing over it?” I need to know, it tried to grow over the metal in his body. She looked up as she heard a sizzle come from Eren’s body. What was that?

Eren’s body was steaming from every injury possible now, the skin starting to grow and start to weave together. His heart rate started to pick up, and the blood that still continued to bleed got thicker with the new blood transfusion. I feel warm… Already he was starting to gain consciousness. I feel really warm… His eyes cracked open, looking around as the steam picked up as he finally gained consciousness, looking around the blurred mess that was in front of him. What… What happened…

“Eren?” Levi breathed a sigh of relief when Eren weakly tried to crane his neck to look at him, brushing his lips over his forehead. “Thank god, you’re okay. We’ve gotten you more serum, you’re having a transfusion, and you’re healing okay. You’ll be fine soon, promise. You will be.” You damn well better be.

Eren smiled softly before he turned to look back as he winced, a large cloud of steam taking over the area over him. “F-fuck…” It hurts… He whimpered, his body forcing a row of stitches out of his body, and weaving right over the flesh. It’s warm…

Casper was watching Eren’s face. “Pain spikes are synonymous to plumes of steam…” He watched as Hannah instantly started to type, looking over to Scotty. “Go get the thermometer from your car, I know you still have it in there…” We need to know how hot he is…

Scotty nodded, running from the room. It took a minute before a car door slammed, running back in with the thermometer. He went to put on gloves, grabbing a towel to hide Eren’s front. “Sorry kid, we need to take your temperature.” He sent a look to Levi, watching as he started to murmur soothingly to Eren, trying to keep him calm. Scotty carefully tugged Eren’s jeans down and off, pulling his boxers down as well and inserting the thermometer, reading the small monitor’s screen as the number climbed. “...we’re at 127.7° Fahrenheit.” Crap, it’s climbing… “It’s climbing… after ten seconds, we’ve risen to 129.1° Fahrenheit.” Crap…. “Are you getting times with all this?” He looked up, watching Hannah nod. He noticed Eren’s body beginning to tremor, Levi and Lathe both murmuring in his ears, trying to keep him calm. “You’re doing very well, Eren. Very well, just hang on, you’ll be fine soon…” He studied the stab wounds, fanning some of the steam away. “Five wounds completely healed, more on their way. Stitches are in the process of being forced out, a couple are free of their wounds.” He picked up a pair of tweezers, lifting the freed stitches and dropping them into a small envelope.

“A couple of wounds are confused, in a way- they’re trying to grow over the stitches, but then they decide to force them out.” Casper watched intently as webs of skin prodded at a stitch, figuring out what it was before moving to shove it from his skin. That's so weird… and cool.

Eren winced as his skin slowly started to heal together. I hate this… I hate having to do this… I hate it so much… He whimpered, tears spilling over his eyes quickly as he struggled to move. “O-out…” I want you to take them out…

Hannah watched, pulling her phone out and giving it to Casper. “Start recording this, we need video to see how it reacts to foreign bodies.” This is interesting as it is… She made sure to take even more notes, adding temperature and heart rate and blood pressure. His blood pressure was slowly returning to normal, along with his heart rate as he got more blood into his system.

“We need to let them do their thing this time around, Eren. I’m sorry, but we have to know how the serum acts like this. It won’t be much longer. Just hold on.” Levi reached for a softer towel to wipe the blood from Eren’s face as his nose bled, pinching his nose. “You’re doing great, Eren… you’re doing fine…” Levi kissed his forehead, cradling his head.

Eren laid still, hissing in pain as the wounds continued to heal, barely noticing when the blood bag had been drained and he was given the second along with another IV. My head feels really fuzzy… I feel really warm. He was almost oblivious to the conversations going around him as data was collected off of him. I’m a test subject… Fuck … After hours of sitting and watching, taking notes and recording, Eren’s body finally stopped steaming. He lifted his head up from the pillow it was resting on, looking down to his almost flawless skin. It’s funny that the scars get healed back into place too… Well, I guess I’ll have them for a while…

Levi carefully wiped the last of the blood from his face, gently cleaning him of blood as things were washed and put away. “You did well, Eren… you’re fine now. I know it took forever, but it’s over. You were out for a lot of it.” … should I tell him now… or…? “…Jake and Tucker came home while you were pretty much asleep… Jake has a black eye… but he wouldn’t tell Lathe who hurt him…” Poor kid… I don’t know who would punch a third-grader at all… let alone that hard. In the face. Levi gently pet his hair, his voice a bit worried. “Lathe had to set his nose… that wasn’t fun…” …and I don’t think I should tell you… but Tucker didn’t look the least bit worried about him…

Eren’s eyes widened, his eyes filling with rage. “Where is he? I wanna see him… Is he okay? How badly was his nose broken?” I wanna know who the fuck would hurt my precious Jake! They will pay. He moved to sit up, struggling a bit as Levi tried to hold him down to the counter still. “Let go! I wanna see Jake.” I need to know who the fuck did that!

Levi held down Eren and didn’t budge, but he did look up to where Casper was flitting through everything Hannah had typed down, sounding a bit worried. “Casper, can you go upstairs and see if Jake can come down? They’ve been upstairs for a bit, and Eren wants to see Jake.” Jake didn’t want to play minecraft… he tugged Lathe upstairs with him after his nose was set to hide… he’s really upset… He watched him nod and jog to the stairs, turning back to Eren and gently pressing pecks all over his cheeks. He’s coming, just relax, okay?” If he’s up for it, he’ll come downstairs. I think he’d like to see you and talk with you.

A few minutes passed in quiet, the only sounds that of typing and the floor shifting under people’s weight. A heavy set of feet padded into the kitchen, and soon a smaller pair was set onto the floor, Jake walking up to the counter, wrapped up in a soft blanket. “E-Eren?” Jake whimpered as he sniffled, the pain in his nose still very noticeable. “Hurts….” He looked ready to cry as he saw some of the blood that had dried on his skin and the counter, not sure if he could reach for him. “A-Are you o-okay?” You got hurt… you were steaming… did you get burned? Are you okay…?

Eren smiled softly as he turned his head. “I’m okay Jake, you don’t need to worry about me, I’m all fixed up, Casper got me all better… Do you wanna talk about what happened?” He asked quietly, shifting to look at Jake fully. What happened to my little brother? I wanna know…

Jake looked away, though he seemed to relax a bit when Eren reached out to gently card a hand through his hair, moving forward and leaning into his touch. He opened his eyes though, looking to the floor when he look Eren in the eyes, mumbling. “...but... I'll get in trouble...” I don't want him to hurt me more... he'll know if I tell you... and then he'll make me hurt more...

Eren shook his head. “No, why would you get in trouble? No one would be mad at you. We want you to be safe while you're at school... Do I need to come talk to your teachers? Maybe change your room?” Eren offered Jake the chance to speak up, his hand still going through the dirty blonde locks. You'll be okay, I'll make sure of it. He barely noticed that Lathe and Levi started to clean him off until they got wet sponges and started to sponge off the blood. Fuck that’s wet... Oh... It's just a sponge, they're cleaning me off... Oh thank god, it's over with.

Jake looked from Levi, to Lathe, then back to Eren, but he still shook his head, ducking his head down. “...n-no... it's okay... they're not in my class anyway... th-that wouldn't h-help... I'll be f-fine...” He'll hurt me again if I tell... he'll know right away if I tell... I can't tell on him... he'll get mad...

Eren’s brow furrowed when Jake spoke. The person who’s hurting you, isn’t in your class? “Are they older than you?” He asked quietly, finally sitting up when Levi let go of him and bringing Jake into his chest, holding him close. I want you to feel safe here... I want you to know that we can help.

Jake nodded after a moment, his arms wrapping around him immediately, burying his face in his chest but whimpering when he jostled his nose, turning his head. “H-He's older... a lot... I-I can't tell... he’ll know when I tell... and he’ll get m-mad and h-hurt me again...” I don't want him to hurt me anymore... I can't tell...

“No Jake, we’ll protect you, I promise, you’ll be okay, please tell me, I don’t want you to get hurt anymore...” Eren gently rubbed his back, trying to get him to calm down and to tell him. I want you to be okay. “I promise you won’t get hurt, you only have to tell me if you want...” I know that might be better.

Jake seemed to hesitate for a long moment, taking in a shaky breath and letting it out. “......I-it... it w-was...” He heard faint footsteps on the second floor approaching the stairs, clamming up and huddling closer to Eren, trying to hide. “N-No... h-hurt m-m-me...” He's coming... he'll know... help me hide... keep me safe... please...

Eren wrapped his arms around Jake even tighter now. “It’s okay Jake, you don’t need to be scared to tell me.” His words were whispered in Jake’s ear, holding him close as he slowly slipped off the counter, pulling Jake into his lap as he sat down on the floor with him. I want you to be okay, please don’t be scared.
Jake was shaking in his arms, looking over near the stairs with wide eyes. “...b-but... h-he’ll...” He'll come and hurt me... but... but Eren won't let him.... right? ....and Dad won't... and Levi won’t... and Dad’s friends won’t... right? ...can I tell him? Jake reached up, pulling Eren closer, whispering in his ear, terrified. “...T-Tucker d-did... h-he.... he was m-mad... th-that... that I'm o-okay w-with... y-you and your f-friends...” He doesn't like you... and he doesn't like that I like you... “He got m-mad...” He curled up as he heard footsteps approaching, clinging to Eren, his eyes full of terror. “Don't let him hurt m-me... I'll be good.... I promise...”

Eren’s eyes instantly hardened as he pulled Jake even closer. ....What? It was Tucker? That shit’s dead! He looked over to Tucker as he came down the stairs towards where everyone was congregated, glare directed at him as his rage boiled. “Dad... Get that ungrateful son of a bitch out of this fucking house. I don’t give a shit where the fuck you take him, but get him out. I don’t wanna see him ever again.” Eren’s words were sharp and icy with unchecked anger. I want to beat your face in, but I can’t do that right now... I wanna hold Jake, keep him safe.

What? Wait... Lathe looked to where Tucker was, seeing him pale as Eren cradled Jake close, his eyes full of anger. “Are you telling me Tucker did that?” He pointed to Jake, and his eyes grew furious as Eren nodded, moving and snapping the back of Tucker’s jacket as he tried to flee. “No you fucking don’t.” Lathe grabbed hold of his arms, dragging him into the living room as he struggled, trying to get free to no avail. “You're seriously fucking dumb if you think I'm going to let this of all things slide.” Lathe pushed Tucker onto the couch, and the boy immediately found himself flanked on all sides by six adults and two dogs, all of them furious and staring him down. Lathe crossed his arms, watching Tucker shrink as he was surrounded. “...you punched a eight-year-old in the face and broke his nose because he isn't homophobic. You're thirteen. You're not exactly some three-year-old who doesn't know what they're doing is clearly wrong. You live in the same house as the county Police Commissioner. How stupid can you be?” He shook his head, looking away. “You really are an ungrateful son of a bitch. You've bounced from foster home to foster home because you've been an ungrateful son of a bitch and I decided to take you in because I thought maybe you needed a better environment. I've tried everything in the book to make this work and you seem hell-bent on destroying our family just because you're a fucking bigot. I can't fucking believe it.” He looked to Tucker again, expectant. “Well? You got anything to say in your defence? I'd love to hear it.” Lathes tone was cold, glaring at him. What the hell are you going to say now?

Tucker was completely pale, struggling to swallow the large lump in his throat. What? I thought I beat him enough to keep him quiet! “I... I...” He trailed off, looking down in shame. What are they going to do?

Lathe shook his head, biting the inside of his cheek, looking away, thinking. “I need to call the foster agency about this. They need to know exactly what's been happening. But the real question...” He looked back to him, studying him. “...is what the hell we’re going to do about this.” He tapped his foot, his eyes narrowing. “While on one hand, you've been one motherfucker of a houseguest.... I don't think I want anyone else to have to deal with your bullshit. I wouldn't wish that on my worst enemy.” You're fucking terrible. “For right now, you're going to sit right there and just stay put. I need to find the number for the foster agency and we’re going to call them together, okay?” You don't get to run away from this.

“O-Okay…” Tucker’s words were shaky, bring his knees up to his chest. Why the fuck did I do that? I screwed myself over… Fuck..

Lathe came back with a business card, his cell phone in one hand, dialling the number and setting it on the coffee table on speaker. He sat on the couch near Tucker, Levi and Eren sitting as well, though the others filtered back into the kitchen to pack up and go over notes, still listening. Lathe waited for someone on the other end to pick up, pressing a button to redirect the call when it came through, waiting as they were put on hold for a few minutes. He looked up as he noticed Tucker shaking in his seat, quirking an eyebrow. “Oh, so now it matters? I guess you never expected to face any sort of repercussion.” He shook his head. “They need to know this in case someone comes around who wants to adopt you. This isn't getting brushed under the carpet.” You did this to yourself. “Your chances were already low enough, because you're so old. But now? ... why did you think it was a good idea?” You're a fucking idiot.

..... I'm never gonna be adopted, am I? Tucker felt the tears rush to his eyes, quickly brushing them away, putting his head down. “I-I… I let my anger get the best of me…” I’ll be stuck here...
With people that hate me… Fuck … What have I done?

Lathe sighed, reaching over and pressing a soft blue cloth into his hand. “...I'm sorry about that.”
Fuck, I always go soft when tears get involved. “-But you need to understand that what you do now is going to stay with you. You're getting older- you just started high school. You need to own up to what you do. And you need to learn to control your temper. Quiet disdain is one thing, but abuse is another. I don't know how much we can trust you now.” Not much for a while, at least. “...I hope you know this means you're not going to have the same freedom you did for a while now.” We can't pretend everything's fine, even if you truly apologise.

Tucker just slowly nodded, taking the blue cloth from Lathe’s hands and gently holding it to his face. I just sealed the deal to my own loneliness… And all it took was one flare up… Now I know why Mom gave me up… The only words she told the nurse was that she didn’t want a monster like my father… He sniffled, feeling a sinking feeling in his chest, knowing that he’d probably be forever alone in his room for the rest of his stay here. I’ll be there… And allowed nowhere else.

Lathe gave him a weary, sympathetic look as he tried to get his tears under control, turning back to the phone when it picked up.

And that was it. I talked to the people at the foster agency with Tucker sniffling and looking scared the entire time. He looked terrified when they asked if we wanted them to put him somewhere else-
I said no, of course. We still want to try and help him. But I don't think he wants to have to start over again… but he's still going to have to work to earn back any trust. Lathe reached over and ended the call, looking back to Tucker. “We need new rules for the time being. I think it’s obvious that you're going to be grounded for a while. We’ll say the next four weeks.” He held up a hand when Tucker looked ready to weakly protest, speaking. “We can make it three if you're well-behaved. But while you're up there, you can't have your phone, your laptop, anything. If you need your laptop to do homework, you can come downstairs and work in the kitchen. And unless I specifically say otherwise, your new curfew is nine o’clock. Absolutely no later than that, or there'll be trouble.” He watched Tucker nod, standing. “Okay. Fork over your technology, and head upstairs. We’ll call you down for dinner. We do still expect you to be able to eat at the table. You need to learn to at least be civil, okay?” He rested a hand on Tucker’s shoulder when he stood, trying to calm him when he flinched. “I'm not about to hurt you, Tucker. But you need to learn from this.” This is your life in jeopardy if we don't do anything about it.

Tucker simply nodded quietly and averted his gaze from Lathe’s eyes, slowly backing away before going off to get his electronics and all his cords and bring them downstairs, not looking anyone in the eye anymore, and he especially stayed away from Eren and Jake. I fucked up…. I did… I'm not getting adopted am I?

Lathe got out a basket for his things, setting it on a side table in the kitchen for Tucker’s stuff. He caught his arm for a moment, turning him, his voice soft. “I really am sorry about what I said, about you not getting adopted… but either way, for while you're here, you're stuck with us as a family. I hope we can make it work. We don't all hate you. We might be mad, but we don't hate you. ...this can work if you let it.” Give it a shot, okay? Lathe let him go, curling the wires up neatly. “Dinner won't be long, okay?” We still need to feed you. I never did like the idea of making someone skip dinner… I hated that as a kid… it wasn't fun. That's just mean.

“Y-You’re p-probably right though…” He murmured before he nodded and slinked off with his tail between his legs to go upstairs. I guess I have a long time to think about how I’m a Monster just like my father… No one wants to adopt a monster, Lathe’s right… He looked to his door, swallowing thickly as he slowly opened his door, closing it behind him and going to sit at his desk and stare at his homework he was still doing. I don’t know what I’m doing anymore… I don’t know…

Lathe sighed as Tucker scurried away, turning back to the mess of their kitchen. “...oh my…” He saw the things still strewn over the counter, including missed drops of dry blood. “Can someone clean that up, please? I need to start cooking dinner...” I forgot about that... “...Uhm...” He looked to Scotty and Casper, Hannah behind them as they hovered over the laptop. “...you all can stay if you want...” ...I guess you can...

“Can I bring a horde of people and puppies over?” Hannah instantly piped up as she looked at the counter, moving to clean up all that she had brought. The others can clean up the blood. Yeah, no, I'm good.
Lathe chuckled quietly, looking to her. “Of course you can. Go ahead.” He turned back to the fridge, counting eggs and setting them out, going to fetch flour. He waited for the counter to be well cleaned before he set up, ignoring everything around him as he worked. He had a pile of ravioli sheets stamped out soon enough, and went to work on the filling and sauce. He was mindless as he worked, his thoughts everywhere and nowhere. ...what are we going to do...

Hannah had gone home and picked up Sharon, their three dogs and the litter of puppies. The puppies were contained in a small corral, with Jake in the middle with Eren, letting them crawl all over their legs and feet. Levi was helping to set the table with Ieva as she got Sammie ready to eat.

Tucker was still quietly set in his room, struggling over his homework, but now having no way of asking for help. I can’t ask Eren…. He’ll kill me if I even talk to him… He picked his head up a bit as he heard the noise increase downstairs, the sinking feeling in his chest returning. God... I hate being alone... And I’ve sentenced myself to a life of it...

Lathe drained the water from the ravioli, turning off the heat on the stove. “I’m going to go get Tucker for dinner, see how he’s holding up.” He didn’t look too good... Lathe went upstairs, padding to his room. He gently knocked on the door, opening the door a crack. “Tucker? Dinner’s ready. You doing okay?” He sounded a bit concerned, looking and seeing Tucker sitting with barely started homework, his pencil hovering over the page but never moving to make a mark. “...everything alright?” He padded up behind him as Tucker glanced over his shoulder, looking over the worksheet. “Algebra I?” He looked over the sheet, seeing only three questions were answered, a few others set up, but left unsolved. “...how’s your work going?” Doesn't look like it's going too well.

“O-Okay… I guess, I’ll come down w-when I finish....” I can do this on my own... He shifted a bit away from Lathe, keeping his head down, returning his focus to the paper. I hate math... I’m not good at it...

Lathe’s brow furrowed, letting his hand fall from his shoulder. “Please, Tucker, dinner’s still hot. We’d like you to eat with us. You can come back to this after. ...and if you need help with it, I used to teach nearly everything. You can ask.” Come on, please? “There are puppies downstairs.” You can play with the puppies for a bit if you want.

Tucker paused for a moment, thinking about it. Puppies... Okay, I can come downstairs for puppies... He slowly put the pencil down and stood up. Okay...

Lathe smiled faintly, ushering him downstairs. “Are you hungry at all?” He watched him hesitate, shaking his head after a moment. “...puppies?” A small nod. Lathe chuckled, bringing him into the living room. He nudged Tucker to the floor, whistling into the house. There was the jingling of tags, a dozen dogs and puppies swarming them in a minute. Lathe stepped out of the mess, though Tucker got the brunt of it, dogs and puppies clambering over him, licking his face. So much pup.

Tucker’s eyes widened to the size of dinner plates as he got trampled by all the dogs. “Holy shit!” I was not expecting a stampede! He could barely stay sitting as all the dogs licked all over him the puppies climbing all over him and Krampus trying to steal his shirt… He looked up to see Lathe had gone to sit with everyone at the dinner table. I’m alone again… well… I guess I’ll go back upstairs after a few minutes.

Lathe sat down at the table, smiling to everyone. He glanced up as he heard the puppies whine in the other room, seeing Tucker standing and ambling back to the stairs with his head down, Nene trailing after him and yapping, wanting her pillow back. “Tucker, come have dinner Hon.” Lathe called to him, standing to retrieve him. There's no spot on the table that isn't next to or in front of someone gay, but you're going to sit next to me and deal. ...please.

Tucker looked over to the table shaking his head. “I’m gonna go back upstairs… I have a lot of homework.” Homework that I can’t do for classes that I’m probably already failing… He turned his back to them, moving to continue up the stairs before he felt a hand on his wrist pulling him back, turning to see Lathe holding onto him. “Huh? W-What are you doing?”

Lathe tugged him along to the table, setting him in the seat next to his own place. “You're going to sit at the table and eat dinner and be civil.” Lathe didn't give him time to object, and soon had a hot bowl of ravioli in front of him, pushing his chair in. “Okay?” He handed him a fork, sitting next to him. Deal, and eat your tasty food.

Tucker looked up around the table to see two new faces who he hadn’t seen before. Who are those two? I don’t know who they are… He looked between them to the small child in the high chair, watching them both fussing over the child as he struggled to eat with a small spoon. Wait… Are those two… Fuck, they didn’t even know me but probably hate me now… He looked away from them to see Eren glaring at him, which caused him to put his head down in shame and barely pick at his food. I’m not hungry…

“Eren, be nice.” Or at least civil. Lathe gave him a look that left no room for discussion, though he could tell Eren wanted to argue. If we're just openly hostile, nothing will get fixed. Lathe gently nudged Tucker, getting him to glance up a bit, his voice quiet. “If you finish everything, you can have ice cream while we work on your math.” I know you probably need help with it. It's the first days- you're going to need help for a bit until you get your feet under you.

Tucker looked at his eyes for a moment, nodding before returning to his pickings. I’m not really hungry... I don’t feel that great anyways… “I-I… I can do it on my own…” He murmured quietly in between bites. I don’t need help… I can do it, I’m older… You said so yourself…

Lathe nodded. “Okay, if you think you can. Just have me check it when you’re done, okay? And if it’s not done by eight, I’m coming to help you. You need to get it done and still get a good night’s sleep.” We’re going to do this right. If you don’t understand the basic stuff, god help you when it comes to the more complicated things later on.

Tucker nodded and slowly finished the bowl he was given, standing quietly and going to put it in the sink. I can do it…. Maybe … He walked off, leaving the rest of the table in their cheerful banter. I can do it…

Lathe let him go, chatting with the rest of the people at the table happily, getting to hold Maverick and chuckling as he tugged at his tie. You’re growing up… and you’re so goddamn adorable…
Two weeks until he had to leave.

Levi pondered the idea, Eren wrapped up in his arms early on a Tuesday morning, playing with his brunette locks. ...you thought I'd cheated... well, Armin told you, and you wouldn't think he'd lie, but still… ...I just… I wanna prove it to you. Prove that I'm in this for the long haul, but... I can't just propose... people don't just propose, I don't have a ring or ideas, and I don't want to leave you as a fiancée... I... what would work, then... that I'd be around for a long time...? A long while passed as he thought, content just to lay with Eren’s warm form as a sort of blanket, his scent all over the sheets. ......we had talked about a family... having one of our own... but we'd have to adopt... ........if I signed adoption papers, we'd be stuck with each other for years ... ...that's it. But... I wouldn't be around for the kid when they're that little......they might not even remember much... or... Eren wouldn't be by himself, what am I thinking? There’s Lathe and Ieva, duh... oh my god, they'd be grandparents. Holy fuck... that's a weird thing to think about... but... it's a kind of commitment Eren wants us to have... and the kid won't exactly be growing up with just one person raising it... well, them. ...maybe I should do that.... Levi was jarred from his thoughts when Eren shifted on top of him, nuzzling further into his chest with a tired grumble about being hungry. Levi chuckled, shifting to roll them over, kissing his cheeks and going to stand and dress. “I'll make you breakfast, don't worry.” That I certainly can do. ...and I can do the rest later today.

Eren opened his eyes a crack, rolling over to watch Levi get dressed. “Hmm... Come back here.... I want you...” He grumbled, reaching an arm out to try and lazily grab him even though he was feet away. Fuck, you were warm...

Levi smirked, turning back to him. “I'm just that impossible to resist, aren't I?” Levi ambled back over to the bed, quirking an eyebrow when Eren dragged him back by a belt loop and pulled him back onto the bed, soon with Eren back on top of him. “...why do you do this. I was going to make you food. Are you not hungry?” Levi’s voice was lightly joking, gently poking Eren’s stomach. “I guess I can just let you starve if you don't want me to make pancakes.” Fine by me. I just won't share.

“Hmm... As tempting as that is... Dad will make me breakfast... But I wanna eat some sausage first.” He smiled, his eyes still having a slightly tired look in them as he reached to unzip Levi’s pants, a grin forming on his lips as he looked up to him. I haven’t given you a morning blow in a while.

“Oh really?” Levi sounded slightly breathless, still a bit playful even as Eren moved to straddle him. “What kind? Beef, turkey...?” Any light joke died in his throat when Eren pecked down his stomach to where his slowly hardening length hid, his hands running over Eren’s shoulders, gently threading through his hair.
Eren smirked, leaning into Levi’s touch. “I think you know what kind…” He bit his lip seductively, crawling down as he pulled at Levi’s shorts, looking down at the bulge in his boxers. “It’s really hard to get… Maybe you could help?” He asked seductively, his fingers trailing down his clothed member. I want you squirming…

Levi watched him as he teased his hard clothed length, shivering as his fingers ghosted over the fabric. Damn tease. “…hm? Help you get rid of this?” He ran a finger along the hem of the boxers, watching Eren nod faintly. “Hm, maybe…” He hooked two fingers in the elastic, slowly pulling them down over his hips. He stopped for a moment when Eren could see the coarse black hair around his base, pretending to think. “Then again, are you sure you wouldn't rather have something else…?” Levi chuckled faintly as Eren swatted at his hand, tugging the grey boxers past his hips, his length free. He watched with blown eyes as Eren’s lips hovered over his length, anxious and already leaking.

Eren licked his lips, his eyes full of lust as he leaned down, licking a stripe across the head of Levi’s thick prick. I want it… It’s so big… He slowly eased his jaw open to help him get more into his mouth. Eren had to stop when he was barely halfway down his length, choking a bit on him before pulling back to breath. I can’t deepthroat him without gagging… fuck ...

Levi whimpered quietly when Eren started to slip down his length, though his look turned to one of worry when Eren choked, making a small sound as he came off of him. He reached down to brush at his hair, his voice quiet. “Don't choke yourself on me…” I won’t make you do that.

Eren looked up to him with hungry eyes before nodding, moving his head down. His lips slipped around Levi’s length, getting as far down as he could and sucking him hard, his ass moving up in the air, getting into a better position to try and bob his head. Eren’s right hand came to stroke whatever he couldn’t reach, his eyes going to focus on Levi’s to see how he was doing. God, I love that expression on his face…

Levi’s lips fell open in a silent moan, his hands roaming Eren’s shoulders, not wanting to grip his hair and scare him. “Ngh… f-feels good…” Levi tried not to buck up into Eren’s warm mouth, his heels digging into the bed. God, it feels really good…

Eren shivered as Levi’s hands ran over his shoulders. Fuck… His hands… I want them all over me… He picked his head up after a few minutes, coming off with Levi’s length with a lewd pop, a line of saliva connecting them for a moment. Eren’s hand slowly stroking him and spreading the slickness around him. His eyes were hazy as he looked up to Levi’s face to see his reaction. He looks so hot… My god… He tilted his head, licking a stripe up Levi’s engorged length, his ass wiggling in the air.
Levi’s eyes darkened as he saw Eren lewdly pick a strip up his hard length, feeling precum drop down his member. Fuck… I want it… “Damn tease… c’mer.” Levi moved a hand under Eren’s chin, gently pulling him up from his length. He moved to roll them over, his hands wandering Eren’s still-clothed chest, dipping down to suck marks over his neck, still littered with bruises, both new and fading. “…I want you…” His hands ghosted south, brushing over the hem of his boxers, his words murmurs. “...I really want you…”

Eren whimpered as he was flipped over, not expecting it at all. He groaned when Levi’s mouth ran over his soft skin, his hands down to his soft boxers. Fuck, his hands… They feel so good… “Hmmm…. I want it too…” I really want it… Especially since I know you’re mine… He thrusted his hips up into Levi’s hands as he was touched. I want it…

Levi chuckled against his skin, his fingers hooking in the waistband of his boxers. He slowly slipped them down his legs, his head moving to the other side of his neck as he grasped Eren’s length, slowly pumping him. I want you feeling really good… and we can take all the time we want. “…mm… feeling good up there?” I wanna hear exactly how you feel… “Haa… Fuck Levi… Don’t stop, please don’t tease me… I want you to have me, I want you to make me yours.” I wanna be for certain that I’m yours… He whined as Levi thumbed over a rather sensitive spot on his length, his body leaning into the pleasure. I want…

Levi smirked, kissing up his neck. “I’d love to.” Levi sat back on his haunches for a moment, going to tug his shirt up and off, tossing it off the bed without much care. He lips immediately reclaimed Eren’s chest, making their way south. He pecked Eren’s hip, though he purposely avoided Eren’s throbbing organ. He instead moved even lower, soon faced with Eren’s entrance. His hands roamed Eren’s legs and sides, moving to lap at the ring of muscle, teasing it with the tip of his tongue. I haven’t done this to you in forever…

Eren let out a high pitched gasp, his whole body shaking as Levi continued to assault him with his tongue, his back arching off the mattress. Oh my god! “Le-Levi!” He shouted as he grabbed at the sheets under him. *Oh my god… It feels so good! Eren’s toes were curled, his heels digging into the mattress, feeling Levi’s large hands cup his asscheeks. It feels so good …. The door wasn’t locked- the both of them had forgotten to lock it the night before, collapsing in a tangle of limbs. It was silent as someone opened it a tiny crack, dark brown hair for once not obscuring a wide green eye. It watched, conflicted and drawn in by the scene in front of it, the sounds coming from the room making him feel strange, trying to lure him in. He couldn't help but watch them for a solid five minutes, a throb in his jeans snapping him from his trance. He quietly shut the door again, quickly scurrying to his room and locking the door behind him, collapsing onto his bed, so unsure of what to make of the sounds echoing in his head and how they made his nether ache. …b-but… but I’m not… I’m not gay… …but… I-if I am… I couldn’t ever tell them, I’d look like such a fucking asshole ... but... I don't.... I don't know... ...it could make sense... I mean... I've been tripping over myself every time I'm in the same room as Devon... but... I mean... am I... am I really...? Tucker took in a shaky breath, his hands moving to take care of himself, and when a whimper caught in his throat, he was thinking of a head of shaggy blonde hair.

Levi was wearing a shit eating grin as he gazed up to Eren, the tip of his tongue prodding at his muscled rim. I love watching you when you're like this... Levi decided to have mercy, kissing up to his length, licking up the underside of it and gently sucking his tip for a moment, kissing the spot where precum dribbled out. “...God, that's hot...” Levi reached to the nightstand, grabbing a small tube of lube. I don't want this to hurt much. Levi poured some over his fingers, rubbing the slickness over his digits. His hand moved to trace his pucker, nipping at his neck as one pushed past his entrance, feeling up the soft flesh. You deserve to feel amazing...

Eren’s hands had a white knuckled grip on the sheets below him as Levi slipped a finger inside of him. Oh fuck... Yes! Eren let Levi move him around in a hazy blur, his shouts and moans filling the room for the next hour as they made sweet love to each other. Eren collapsed under him exhausted, his eyes almost immediately closing, his body aching from the pure bliss. That felt amazing ...

Levi only rolled off of him when Eren’s neck was thoroughly marked up, feeling possessive of him. Mine. He stretched his arms over his head, tucking Eren back in before moving to actually get dressed this time, padding downstairs and meandering over to the kitchen, not much caring that a mark or two were probably visible on his neck. He gave Lathe an odd look, the older man at the table with a mug of coffee, an eyebrow quirked at him.

“Just so you know, you two were loud as all hell. It's a wonder I don't just soundproof your rooms.” Lathe chuckled as Levi turned scarlet, sipping from his mug. “Finally come down for breakfast?”

“Yeah, m’starving. Eren’s passed out, though, but he'll be hungry when he gets his ass up.”

“Figures. Jake and Sammie are around in the living room, but they just had a snack, really. Could do with proper breakfast. Haven't seen Tucker yet, though. Probably upstairs having a heart attack.” He watched Levi laugh, moving to open a drawer at the table, pulling out a thick cookbook. “Think pancakes would make a good peace offering?”

“If not, sucks for him.” Levi smirked as Lathe laughed, tossing his apron at him. “C’mon, old man, you’d better help.” It wasn’t an hour before the kids were herded to the table, Tucker fetched and Eren woken from his post-sex nap, munching on pancakes with chocolate melting on top while Lathe tried to keep up with demand, cooking the rest of the batter. Levi helped with dishes when the kids scampered off, full, drying the rest of the plates. “Alright, I'll finish this and then I've got a few errands to run.” Levi stowed the rest back in the cupboard, and didn't even think about it when he pecked Lathe’s cheek before running off upstairs. The action only occurred to him when he fished a different pair of shoes from the closet, thinking. ...I don’t really do that, do I. ...huh. Well, he can deal. He’s Dad. I'm sure I just activated hovering, overbearing and caring Dad Mode or something. Levi soon traipsed back downstairs, and pretended to roll his eyes when Lathe gave him a hug goodbye and kissed the top of his head. Yep, we're cool. It was a short drive to the police station, looking around a bit warily when he came in, looking to the officer at the front desk. “Uhm, is there any way I can talk to Commissioner Quo?”

The man at the front desk looked up with a raised eyebrow. “Do you have an appointment, son?” Who the hell are you…?

Levi sighed, reaching for his back pocket. I have to fight to talk to her, I guess. He pulled out the small wallet that held his military ID, showing it to the officer. “Sergeant Ackerman. And no, I don't. But can you please tell her I'm here to talk to her?”

The man raised his eyebrow even more as he picked up the card, reading it quickly. “And just what do you need to speak with her about, Sergeant?” Why are you here? On what business?

Levi sighed, taking back the card when it was handed back. “Look, I'm her son. Can you please just let me talk to her? Call her, tell her I'm here. We need to talk.” It's important.

The man looked at him once again with a confused expression before picking up his phone and dialing a few numbers, waiting for her to pick up. “Hi, it’s the front desk… There’s Sergeant Ackerman who wishes to speak with you… And he claims he’s your son…” He waited for a moment before nodding. “Of course, I’ll send him do-... Oh, okay I’ll tell him, thanks.” He hung up, looking over to Levi. “Well, Sergeant, it appears as though the commissioner is coming to greet you, go sit and wait in the lobby.”

Levi nodded, putting his smaller wallet away and going to wait, studying the lobby of the station. It was only a few minutes before Ieva came out for him, standing and giving her a faint smile. “Hey Mom… I uh, I need to talk to you about stuff…” He shifted a bit awkwardly, glancing to the person at the front desk who was trying not to make their eavesdropping obvious, “...but not in the lobby of the station, please...

Ieva was surprised to actually see Levi at the station when she came into the lobby, smiling as he smiled at her. “Of course, you can come to my office.” She waved for him to follow. “Sean, get back to work.” Her words were harsh as the man at the desk straightened immediately and went back to whatever he was doing before. She sighed shaking her head and motioning for Levi to follow her through the throng of offices and people, finally getting to her quieter office and ushering him to sit. “So… What brings you here?” Didn’t know that you were coming...
Levi rubbed the back of his neck, looking at his feet as he spoke. “Uhm, well… Eren and I had talked a lot about… about having a family, and I’d, uhm, I’d like to go through with it before I leave with adoption paperwork…” Eren wants that commitment… and I’d most likely be home when they really start to get big and remember stuff… I’d want to be home for that… for when they start school and stuff…

Ieva put her pen she had picked up down, and looked up to Levi with a bit of shock. “So is this like a mock-engagement?” I know you haven’t proposed yet, and I need to ask, since Lathe said that you said you would marry Eren eventually earlier this year…

Levi looked to his hands, his cheeks burning. “…I asked him to wait for me… because I just… I don’t have a ring or any damn idea how to propose… and … I know it wouldn’t help much with the pain… but, if I didn't come back… I’d rather I just be his boyfriend, and not leave a fiancée…”

Levi looked up as Ieva moved, stunned as she smacked him hard across the face, sputtering, holding a hand to his stinging cheek. “W-What was that for?! What the fuck did I do?

Ieva’s eyes were burning with tears she refused to let fall. “Don’t you dare! Don’t you dare say something like that! Like you won’t come back! Don’t you fucking dare! You are coming back or so help me god! You need to have faith that you’re going to come back!” I don’t want to think about what Eren would do if you didn’t come back home… I don’t wanna imagine it…

Levi looked to the floor, his voice quiet. “I want to come back. I'm going to fight tooth and nail to come home after my tour…. but…” There's a chance I'll die. And that scares me. “…I just want to give Eren what I can… if I sign the papers, we'll be stuck with each other for years and years. ...and he's dying for some sort of commitment. ...and this is the commitment I can give him right now…”

Ieva nodded. “If you’re going to try for parenting your own children… like I’ve heard Eren’s been talking with Hannah about, you only need to sign joint custody papers.” Less than the adoption process… That’s for sure… still not sure how Lathe flew us through the system, everything changed after Eren got adopted… So maybe they think we’ve gone through all the training videos… And the classes… And all the other paperwork… She smiled softly looking at Levi. “We can go down to the courthouse and do that now if you want, and I can call Eren to meet us there.” She started to pull out her phone from her pocket.

Levi stopped her, reaching out when she took out her phone. “Nonono wait-” He shrunk back when she looked at him in surprise, looking away again. “It's supposed to be a surprise.” I wanna go home and tell him it's done, that he has me for years and years...
“You do realize he’s gotta sign it… Right? And someone needs to notarize… Oh fuck it, let’s just get the papers and I can notarize it at the house.” I don’t give a damn anymore, I’m not doing anything but paperwork anyways… She got up, motioning him to follow her to the door and down the hallway the other way, towards large double doors. Let’s get what we can done.

Levi nodded, following her down the hall. I need to do this for Eren… and having a family with him… that’d be wonderful. It took a few hours for them to get what paperwork they could done, Levi signing the papers where he needed to. All that was left was for Eren to sign them, and Levi found himself overbearingly nervous. …I hope I’m doing the right thing… Levi found himself knocking on the door to the art studio, traipsing inside where Eren was painting. “Hey, Eren? Can we talk?” Please?

Eren held up one finger as he focused on adding a detail to the picture of Charlie in all his glory.
“One minute…” He murmured and finished up the small piece he was working on before he put the paintbrush down along with his paints and turned on his stool. “If it’s about this morning… I know I was really loud… So I’m sorry if Dad embarrassed you…” I can only imagine what he said… let alone if Tucker said anything…

Levi nervously chuckled, shaking his head. “No, that’s fine, Dad bugged me only a little before we moved on to breakfast… but Uhm, I actually wanted to talk about us having a… a family.” Levi sat down on a stool next to Eren, not caring Eren’s hands still had wet paint on them as he reached out to take hold of them. He gently ran his thumbs over the back of them, his voice tentative. “…I went down to the police station today. I… I signed joint custody papers. If you sign them too, and then we donate our sperm… we’ll be stuck with each other for all that time. We’d have a kid. …and I really want that. …is that okay?” Levi looked up to him, nervous. …is it okay that I just went and did all that?

Eren’s eyes were full of disbelief as their eyes met, blinking to try and comprehend just what exactly was going on. Oh my god… Did he just… Did he… Oh my god! His eyes almost instantly had tears in them as he jumped, pulling Levi down to the floor with his arms wrapped around him and kissing him deeply, without a care in the world. You’ll be mine …

Levi was stunned as Eren shoved him to the floor, though he couldn't help but return his enthusiasm as a hot tongue forced its way into his mouth. They were a heap of limbs on the floor tangling, curling the other closer. Levi forced himself to break the kiss before they could get too carried away, sure that with enough time Eren would get ideas and roughly fuck him into the floor with the door wide open. “Mom’s got the papers… she can notarized it, you just need to sign them… you're… you're really okay with this?” …really? As in… you're happy to keep me for 21 years? … Me ?!

Eren’s eyes widened at his statement. “Why wouldn’t I be? Levi, this is amazing, do you realize what this means to me?” He asked, the shorter man, who he was now straddling, his hands holding onto Levi’s shirt, a huge smile on his face. “It means that I know you’ll be mine… For a long time…” We don’t have to be married… Even if this is all you want from me, a family, and not to get married… I can deal with that…

Levi stared as Eren beamed, wanting so much to commit the image to memory. He reached up a hand, gently cradling Eren’s cheek, his voice soft. “...I’ve never seen you look so happy … I… I want to keep you…” Levi smiled softly, his eyes shining as Eren reached up to hold his hand in place over his cheek. “...we get to keep each other for a long, long time… I love that.” Levi reached his other hand up, gently bringing Eren down for a deep kiss, this one much slower as their tongues tangled languidly, heat smoldering between them. He breathed against his lips before diving back in. “I love you so much…” So much ...

Eren kept his arms wrapped around Levi’s shoulders as he was pulled down. Little did they know they had an audience, a young and easily influenced one at that, but before anyone could realize it, the green-eyed teen left to go hide up in his room, the throbbing in his pants too great to ignore. Eren lifted his head up to breath, a huge smile on his face as he kissed Levi’s nose and cheeks, holding his jaw with both hands. “Levi… I love you… I wanna go sign those papers…” Please… Can I?

Levi smiled, blushing as Eren pecked all over his cheeks. “Okay, okay. I’ll let you.” He tugged him back down, though, when he shifted to move, murmuring in his ear. “And I hope you didn’t plan on walking much for the next couple of days…” You deserve everything I can give you. Everything you want.

Eren’s eyes narrowed. “Damn tease.” He muttered, shifting off of him anyways and dragging him to the kitchen where Ieva and Lathe stood with huge smiles on their faces. He had to take a deep breath to try and calm down as he picked up a pen. Oh my god… I can do it… I can really do it… He had tears forming in his eyes as he smiled, his bright teeth taking over his entire face.

Lathe and Ieva looked like the proudest parents ever when Eren signed the papers, tackling him and Levi with a hug before letting them run off, letting the occasional shouts from upstairs slide.
Chapter 69: Worrisome Findings

Levi and Erwin left last week. Eren’s been holding up kinda okay… but he misses him a lot already… it’s so obvious. Armin too. Eren’s back on the nausea and sleeping pills full-time now. He’s been really quiet, and he’s been riding Charlie a hell of a lot more now… oh yeah, Luna had her filly! Her official name is Fleet Feet, but we just call her Arya. She’s just adorable. Lathe went about baking cookies, his way of keeping sweets in the house. Sammie’s still around, so she just runs around the house and asks questions like it's her job. She's a big ball of energy, and it's all I can do to keep this house running and keep her entertained at the same time. She wanted to help bake cookies, so I let her press the button to turn on the oven, and right now she’s running around in an apron and a chef hat. Blake is trying to keep up with her, but he’s had to take a few breaks. She’s tired him out a bit. ...he’s getting kinda old. And Eren still needs a PTSD service dog… I need to call Moblit one of these days.

“Wha’s dat?”

Lathe looked to what Sammie was pointing at, tapping the instrument in his hand. “It's called a sieve. You put the flour through here and it makes it all nice and floofy because then the flour doesn't stick in little clumps.” He watched her nod, satisfied with that answer before returning to her circles around the kitchen, Blake trying to stop her and lick her. So she takes up a ton of time these days… and Jake is officially my son! He immediately said yes when I asked if he wanted us to adopt him, and everything was official the next day. And he tugs his new quilt everywhere with him, he loves that it shows the day on one side and the night on the other. He's been so happy… Tucker isn't grounded anymore, he got out of that on good behaviour three weeks in, so two days ago. But he still hides up in his room most of the day, doing homework. He's really been working at it; he should be doing well. I think they send report cards home soon. Lathe looked up as the phone loudly rang, setting down the sieve and wiping his hands off on his apron. He look to the wall phone, his brow furrowing. The school? Something up? Eh, probably an automated thing about progress reports or something. The first one is always the time to schedule a thing to meet their teachers. He leaned against the wall as he answered it, smiling faintly. “Y’ello?”

“Hi Lathe, it’s Mike… Do you have a couple minutes?”

Lathe’s eyes widened, straightening up a bit subconsciously. “Uh, yeah, I do. What’s wrong? Did something happen?” …did Tucker get himself in trouble?

“It’s about Tucker… So, I need to ask… You’re a teacher, so why is he flunking every class?”

Lathe’s eyes widened, gapng like a fish. “Y-You're joking.”
“I'm not, Lathe. He's failing every class he's taking.”

“H-He’s what?! How the hell...?! “I didn't have any idea he was doing poorly. He was always working on homework, and he never seemed to be really struggling... he never asked for help, even when I offered to, and I never had time to check the online grade book, I didn't think I needed to... is he... really? Every class?” What the actual fuck?!

“Not every class...The academic classes are the ones he's failing. He’s got an A in PE, and a B in the engineering elective... But everything else is either a D- or an F.”

...so he’s okay with PE, where you just need to move around and pay attention to the rules of the game... everything else except for Engineering is terrible... “...can you remind me what they do in that engineering class?”...hm....

“They go through the architecture of buildings and make models using balsa wood... Why?”

“...I'm going to look at his grades and papers the second he comes home... I don't think it’s that he’s not paying attention, and he's definitely trying at least, he spends hours at the kitchen table on homework every night... I think maybe he's just not being taught in the way that's most effective for him... a bunch of the stuff in engineering would be hands-on, and his grade in that class is a clear outlier... everything else, you really can only teach it visually. I'm going to talk to him when he comes home, but I think that’s it. Have you heard any teachers complain that he's not paying attention, any notes on his grade book entries or anything?”

The phone was silent for a moment. “No, not that I’ve heard of, let me pull up his grades again...” Another pause. “Yeah, German was the one class he doesn’t pay attention to... And there is another comment to stop disrupting class...”

German... “...I think he might have a bias about learning German already, he's heard Eren speak it in the house a bit... and he and Eren are barely civil, so... I'll make sure he stops disrupting class. ...those progress reports come home today, right?” I think they do... it's Friday.

“They do... Your kids should be home soon, the buses left a while ago.”

“Yeah, it'd be another ten minutes at most. I'll make the most of this weekend, get Tucker caught up as much as I can. I at least hope Jake is doing better than D’s. Then again, it's second grade. He should be fine.” He's a smart kid.
“Jake’s doing fine, though his teacher came to me when he came in with a black eye… And I had a bit of a talk with him, but he said the problem was resolved, did you know about that?”

Lathe hesitated for a minute. “Yes, I did. His nose had been broken. I had to set it… we figured out what the problem was, and everything is fixed at the moment. It's been dealt with appropriately.” I think things are going to more or less be alright.

“Alright, well, I’ll leave you to it then, and I think maybe you should come in and teach sometime, I’m still looking for substitutes… I liked when you worked…”

Lathe smiled, looking down as Sammie came up to him with Blake at her heels, clinging to his leg.

“Wan’ cookie!”

“They'll be done soon Honey, I need to talk to the principal for a bit still.” He sighed as she pouted, leading her over to the kitchen table, the cordless phone tucked against his shoulder. “I dunno if I have the time anymore, Mike. It was fun teaching, but now I've got a whole flock of kids to look after and I'm going to be getting more sometime… and I practically take care of every friend I ever made that still lives around here. Maybe I could sign up to tutor sometimes, but for right now, I've got too big a household to run to substitute.” Lathe got out a small spoon, picking up a small spoonful of cookie dough and handing it to Sammie. She studied it with wide eyes, taking a nibble before giggling. “And it's not helping that Sammie’s at the ‘question everything nonstop’ stage.” She's got more energy than me. And I live off coffee!

“Ah, kids, they grow up too quickly, I remember when Eren came in as a freshman… He was the second recorded person to be taken off school property on a stretcher…”

Lathe’s brow furrowed. “…who was the first?” … why should I remember this…?

“… I can’t tell if you’re joking or not… It was you, getting under a textbook avalanche, the apple doesn’t fall far from the tree I guess.”

Lathe chuckled, shaking his head. “I can't believe I forgot about that; Olivia knocked that whole shelf over in the library on accident. Getting cut by that plant pot wasn't fun. I guess it doesn't-” Lathe looked up as a key turned in the lock of the front door, Jake coming in, followed by Tucker. “The two troublemakers have arrived. I'll talk to you later, Mike. Try not to stretch your teachers too thin taking over classes.” Lathe hung up after a moment, taking Sammie’s cleaned-off spoon and dropping it in the sink. “Alright you two- Tucker, Jake.” He made sure he had their attention, petting Blake for a moment. “I'm going to finish up baking before I go over any grades, okay? It'll be a bit more than an hour.” I need to focus on one thing at a time here. Lathe gently nudged Sammie forward, and she beelined for Jake, clinging to his leg.

“Minecraf’!” I wanna watch!

Tucker watched Jake smile brightly, taking Sammie’s hand and leading her to the living room. Still doesn’t warm up to me… always goes to Jake… doesn’t even bother with my existence… He swallowed thickly as he felt another pang in his chest, guilt returning to him. I'm screwed… Aren’t I? Lathe’ll make me sleep in the barn… He sighed, putting his head down and going upstairs, slowly opening his door and going over to his bed and sitting down. What if he thinks I’m hopeless and he calls the agency again? I’ll never get adopted… and at least I’m not in an orphanage here… I’ll be here until I’m kicked out when I’m 18… No one will adopt a thirteen year old… What am I thinking… No one will want a monster like me… Mom didn’t even want me… and now I’ve screwed myself over even worse. He barely noticed the time that flew by as he stayed curled up to one of his pillows, quiet in self-loathing.

Lathe quietly knocked at Tucker’s door more than an hour later, opening the door, a small plate of cookies in hand. “Tucker? I brought you a snack. And we need to have a talk, Hon.” He shut the door quietly behind him, watching Tucker shy away from him, obviously scared. “You're not in trouble, and I'm not mad. It's gonna be fine. Here.” Lathe held out the plate, waiting until Tucker tentatively took it. Lathe pulled the chair over from his desk, sitting down across from him. “I got a call from your principal just before you came home. Mike told me about how your grades are.” Lathe tilted his head a bit. “What do you think the problem is? Do you just not understand the material? Or is it something else?” I want to fix this. I don't want to yell or anything. I can see you think I'd be mad.

Tucker swallowed hard, looking down to the plate of cookies in his hand before putting the plate down on his nightstand. I can’t eat those… “I’m sorry…” I’ll try harder… I promise…” Tucker looked down at his hands, trying not to cry as he felt the guilt wash over his body, keeping his head down. I fucked up… and you're probably yelling at me in your head. “I-I’ll leave my computer d-downstairs…” “I’m grounded again… I know…

Lathe moved his chair forward a bit, pressing the blue kerchief into his hand, resting a hand on his arm. “Tucker, I'm not mad at you. You're not grounded. None of that.” Lathe watched as he looked up to him with disbelief, giving him a small smile. “I don't think the problem is your effort, which isn't lacking. I've seen you working at the kitchen table; you really do try. The problem, I think, is that you're not a visual learner. Everything is visual in your normal academic classes, but in engineering, you do a lot of modelling. It's hands-on. I think that's what you need. I could help you get caught up with everything over the weekend and throughout the year so you can keep going with your class’ pace when you need the help. What do you think?” Accept the help. You need it.
Tucker looked down at his hands. “I um… I can figure it out… o-on my own…” I can do it… you don’t want to bother yourself with it anyways… “C-Can I go do my homework now?” He stood, though kept his eyes on the door, just wanting to get out of the room, the air thick with tension. I wanna go downstairs...

Lathe stood with him, looking matter-of-fact. “How about we go and do your homework? Tucker, I've got a Master’s in teaching and substituted nearly every class in the school you go to for six years. We’ll go through it together. I think your GPA would appreciate it.” He picked up the plate, moving out of Tucker’s way. “And I spent hours on these- they're for you when you want one.” But you're probably not hungry right now. “I'll bring them downstairs. We’ll get out the whiteboard and everything.” We’ll deal with all this.

Tucker nodded in silence, going down to the kitchen, freezing as he saw Eren by the sink. Shit… what do I do…

Lathe had grabbed Tucker’s bag from his room, slung over his shoulder. He was too distracted to even get his actual work… “Hey Eren? You used the whiteboard last. Where’d you put it?” We need that.

“The big one?” He turned, sipping from his glass of water, looking between the two of them.

“Yeah, the one with the wheels and the tray for markers. Where’d you shove it? We need to do math.” And lots of it.

“Funny, it’s covered in math… I was teaching Jake… It’s in the studio, the expo markers are in there too.” Teaching him integrals was a lot of fun…

Lathe grinned, nodding. “Gotcha. C’mon, Tucker, we’re relocating.” Lathe ambled to the studio, his jaw dropping as he saw the predominant symbol on the whiteboard. “...you taught a third-grader integrals?!” What the hell?!

“And derivatives!” Eren’s shout came from the kitchen down the hall to the studio. He enjoyed it… Middle school will be a breeze…

Lathe was stunned, dropping Tucker’s bag and studying the numbers, some of them undeniably in Jake’s writing. Lathe reached out to erase the board, writing a long equation on the board with fractions and terms with two variables. “One second, Tucker.” Lathe walked to the theater room, Jake curled up on a seat with Sammie, building a big mansion and letting her help him decorate it. “Hey Jake? Can you come here for a second, please?” I wanna see if you retained anything...

Jake looked up with his big doe eyes, nodding and following Lathe into the studio. “D-Dad?” He stopped at the door seeing Tucker was in the room as well. I don’t wanna go in there... He’ll get mad at me...

Tucker saw the fear in Jake’s eyes, the guilt rising up in his chest once again. He think’s I’m gonna hurt him... and I’ve tried to apologize to him... but all he does is run away from me... He sighed, looking down at his hands in defeat. The monster Mom never wanted is all that he ever sees.

Lathe held out a hand, leading Jake into the room when he took it. “I just want to see if you could help me with something. I need to derive this.” Lathe pointed to the big equation on the board, holding out a black expo marker to him. “Do you think you could help me?” I want to see what you know. “I’m right here, Jake. Just do your thing. Tucker isn’t going to be mean anymore. Promise.”

Jake looked between Tucker as he backed away from the whiteboard, the marker, Lathe and the equation on the board. He studied it for a moment before he uncapped the marker and started to write everything out flawlessly. This is easy.... It only took him a few moments before he was done. “Done!” Jake announced proudly, a smile on his face.

Lathe stared in awe at his work. ...oh my god. “...it couldn't have been, what, an hour at most, that you learned all that in? ...my God, kid.” Lathe grinned. “You're going places.” We’ll see how many grades you skip. Lathe ruffled his hair, taking back the marker. He glanced up as he heard a quiet sound, seeing Tucker with his face buried in his hands on a stool, looking broken. He looked back to Jake, shooing him along. “You can go play minecraft, Jake. We’ll let you two know when dinner is here. Pizza sound good?” He watched him nod with a smile. “Okay. Go play.” Jake soon scampered back into the theatre room, Lathe turning back to Tucker, going up to him and gently prying his hands from his face. He looked worried as he saw tears staining his cheeks, reaching out with the same soft blue fabric to wipe them away. “Tucker, Honey, I’m sorry-” He wasn’t surprised when Tucker tried to shove him away, his voice laced with concern. “Tucker, it's not the end of the world. We’ll get you caught up and where you need to be. Just because Jake learned what he did so fast doesn't mean you can't get to where he is.”

“Yes it does…” He whimpered, looking down at his hands again, tears being wiped away with the blue fabric, though this time he didn’t try to shove Lathe away. “I’m stupid… just like all the kids say I am... they say I’m a stupid fag... Because I can’t get higher than a 50 on anything…” High School sucks... and it was bad enough in eighth grade... I barely passed... “I don’t wanna repeat a grade again…” His hands turned into fists, clenching and unclenching in his attempts to get rid of the need to punch something. If I’m not a monster... maybe Mom will come find me? He didn’t notice he had spoken out loud, beginning to hiccup from sobbing.
Lathe’s face fell as he heard him speak, sitting next to him and hugging him with one arm, gently wiping at his tears. “Honey, I'm sorry… I'm so sorry about your mom… and I'm sorry that you've been having to deal with this… you're definitely not stupid, believe me. We'll make sure you pass this year with flying colours, okay? We're not even through the first quarter of your first year yet. There's time to fix things. ...and you're not some monster. You're an intelligent human being and you're learning how to deal with emotions in a way different than what you've made habit. Things will work out.” Lathe hugged him close, letting Tucker bury his face into his shoulder and cling to his sweater, sobbing. He gently rubbed his back, coaxing him to let it out. It'll be okay… He murmured in his ear, trying to soothe him.

“Jake always runs away too…. And I feel horrible…” Tucker cried as he clung to him. I hate this… I’m all alone all the time… and I’m stupid… who knows… maybe I’m a fag too… then the world really is just trying to throw everything bad at me all at once...

Lathe carded a hand through his hair, his voice contemplative. “…have you tried apologising? Like, actually apologising and asking for forgiveness? Because he doesn't think you're sorry… he doesn't think you're not going to do it again. You broke his nose…”

“I’ve tried… and he always just runs away, or he’ll ignore me when I try to talk to him… I hate it… but I guess I did this to myself… didn’t I?” Tucker asked sniffling as he tried to reign in his emotions. I did this to myself... the monster inside fucked everything up.

Lathe shook his head. “Honey, you did some bad things, but you need to stop blaming yourself and move past it. You're trying to put it behind you, so let it stay there. But we need to let Jake hear that you're sorry. Otherwise he's going to be terrified of you for a long time. Want me to go get him? Apologize and get that off your chest?” It could do you some good.

Tucker nodded, his eyes downcast. “I just don’t want him to run away… that’s all anyone ever does… they leave me somewhere and run away…” Jake does it all the time… No one likes to talk to me at school, they all run whenever I try and talk to anyone… I’m all alone most of the time… Eren hates me and refuses to be in the same room as me without glaring at me……………… Mom ran away too…..

Lathe nodded, kissing his forehead. “I’m sorry, Hon. I'll be right back with him.” Lathe gently untangled Tucker’s hands from his sweater, padding back to the theatre room. “Jake, can you come here again please? It's important.” Lathe reached for his hand when he paused the game and came up to him again, leading him back into the studio. His firm hold kept him at his side as they approached Tucker, who was trying to calm his sobbing. “Jake, Tucker has something really important to tell you.” Listen to him and don’t just run this time.
Jake looked up at Lathe as he was pulled into the Studio room once again. Am I doing more math? Wait... Tucker’s crying... Why’s he crying? He looked concerned for a split second before backing away a bit when he saw Tucker clench and unclench his fists. What’s he doing...

“J-Jake... I um... I’ve been wanting to say t-this for a-while... But...” He paused, struggling to swallow the lump in his throat. “I-I’m really sorry... About everything... W-what I said to you... The way I acted, h-how I hurt you... I’m really sorry, and I’ve been trying to tell you for weeks...” And all you ever did was run away... I couldn’t help but blame myself... “W-Will... Will you forgive me?” You’ll probably hate me still for the rest of your life... I broke your nose for god’s sake... Tucker’s eyes showed a look of utter defeat as Jake stayed silent for a long while. He won’t...

...does he mean it? ...I don't think he wants to hurt me anymore... Jake let go of Lathe’s hand, taking a small step forward before he suddenly moved fast to hug Tucker, colliding with his legs, the side of his face nestled into his stomach. “S’okay.” You won’t hurt me. He tensed a bit when Tucker hugged him back weakly, though he relaxed after a moment. He pulled back after a bit, looking up to see Tucker’s cheeks still wet with tears. “You don’t have to cry... I forgive you. That makes it better.” Don’t be sad. He poked Tucker’s stomach lightly, his eyes doe-like. “Don’t be sad. We get pizza later. Everyone likes pizza.” At least don’t cry... Jake shuffled, looking down to his feet. “...if you wanna... will video games make it better?” I don’t know how else to fix it... but I wanna fix it...

Tucker chuckled a bit, reaching up to wipe away at his eyes. “I’m sorry, Jake... B-But I have work to do...” I’m sorry, but I’ll have to be alone for a bit longer... He smiled softly as he watched Jake move around. He won’t run from me anymore...that’s good... “Why don’t you go back and play minecraft? Okay?” His words were soft as he leaned down to kiss Jake’s forehead, looking down to the floor again, guilt still in his eyes. That helped... But I still feel really guilty about it...

Jake nodded, giving him a toothy smile as his forehead was kissed. He poked him gently again, sounding content. “When you need a break, come say hi, okay?” He waited for Tucker to nod before he turned back to Lathe, getting a kiss from him before scampering back to the theatre room before Sammie got took antsy.

Lathe smiled, looking to Tucker. “That help?” Do you feel much better?

Tucker looked to the floor, shrugging a shoulder. “Yeah... but I still feel really guilty...” I was an asshole to him... I broke his nose...

Lathe gave him a sympathetic look. “I understand. But Jake is a sweetheart. He forgave you, tried to make you happy, and then invited you to play minecraft in the span of thirty seconds. Sometimes forgiving is that easy. I don't think he'll hold it against you much.” Jake will have completely moved on from this incident in no time. Lathe reached out and Tucker went to give him an actual hug, standing there for a long moment in understanding. When they broke, Lathe grinned. “Alright. What subject do you wanna catch up in first?” We’ve got our work cut out for us.

Tucker seemed to instantly pale once again. “I uh… I don’t understand math… Like at all…” I really don’t and it’s really embarrassing when I get yelled at because my homework's not done...

“Alright, math to start.” Lathe erased the board, speaking over his shoulder. “Alright Hon, could you get out all your math papers for me? I want to see what it is you're supposed to be learning and we’ll go through examples.” He waited for Tucker to pull out his binder, taking the pile of papers in the math section. He flicked through them for a moment, his brow furrowed as he saw the angry red letters at the top of the pages. “Alright, so how about we start with the basics- fractions. Okay? So, when you have a number like this-” He drew ½ on the board, turning to him as Tucker sat down to listen and watch. “Where one of them is over another and separated by a line, we have a fraction. That means that the number isn’t a whole number, meaning instead of being 6 or 7 for example, it's in between. We all know what numbers ½ is in between, right?”

“....Uhm… one and two?”

Lathe’s eyebrows shot up. “...no. One half.”

Tucker shifted uncomfortably. “......Uhm….” I don't know…

...I need to break out examples. “Here, you know what, we’re going to need the fruit example. Come on.” Lathe pulled the whiteboard out the door and into the kitchen, setting it near the kitchen table, seeing Eren busy decorating some of the roll cookies he had made. “Sorry, Eren, we’re borrowing part of the kitchen table.” Lathe went to grab a cutting board, an apple and a knife, setting them all down. “First off.” Lathe took the marker again as Tucker sat at the table, drawing arrows to the top and bottom parts of the fraction. “These two bits have names- the top is the numerator, and the bottom of the denominator. You can remember because denominator starts with D as in ‘down.’ Now, the bottom tells you how many pieces a number gets cut into. And the top tells you how many of those pieces you are using. So, if we have one half…” Lathe pointed to the denominator. “We cut the number into two pieces. It's like cutting this apple into two pieces, right down in the middle because the pieces are all equal…” Lathe cut the apple, holding up one of the hemispheres. “And the one on top tells you how many pieces of it you use, so we use one of the pieces.” He showed it to Tucker. “And that is one half. So, if we have less than one apple, but more than zero apples, what numbers is one-half between?”

Tucker stared hard at the apple, thinking. “...one, and… zero?” His eyes lit up when Lathe nodded “That’s right. Now, what if…” Lathe reached out to change the denominator to four. “We had this fraction? How should we cut up the number, or our apple here, so that we have four equal pieces?”

“…y-you could… cut each piece… in half….?” He watched Lathe nod, relieved that he was getting some things right.

“Yep!” Lathe did just that. “Now we have four equal pieces, and if we only wanted one fourth, how many pieces would we need?”

“…j-just one?”

“Yes, because the numerator tells us we only want one piece. Now…” He reached out and changed the numerator to four. “Now, can you tell me what number that is?” He watched Tucker hesitate. He was about to speak when Eren interjected.

“If you cut the number one completely apart and then put all the pieces back together, what would you have?”

“…the number one, … OH.” Tucker looked between the apple and the board, understanding flickering in his eyes. …so that's how it works…

“Mhm! But oh no, look-” Lathe changed the numerator again- this time to a five. “The numerator is bigger than the denominator. That means that we have more than one full number. But it isn't big enough to be twice the denominator, so it can't be more than two. Following?” He watched him hesitate. “The numerator is five. Think of it this way- isn't this, the same as this?” He wrote out 4/4 + ¼ on the board, watching Tucker hesitate again. “Because the denominators are the same, we can add the numerators. The denominators tell us what size pieces we have, and the numerators tell us how many we have. The denominators only tell us size, so they need to be the same to add the tops. But the size stays 4. So if I add ¼ and ¼…” He pushed two quarters of the apple together. “Now I have two ¼-size pieces of apple. That fraction is 2/4. But, think. Doesn't two go into four evenly?”

“…yeah… twice…”
“Right! So, if I divide four by two, we get two. And if I divide two by two, we get one. That’s the simplified version of the fraction. Simplifying fractions is almost like taking away the cuts we made in the apple. We have the same amount of apple, but now it’s all in one piece. Get it?” He watched him nod with wide eyes, grinning. “So. Can we say that four quarters and one quarter make five quarters?” A nod. “But what is this the same as?” He pointed to the four fourths.

“…one?”

“Say it with a bit more conviction- you know the answer.”

“One!”

“Yep! So then we have…” He drew a new number, a one next to ¼. One and one fourth. What numbers is this between?”

“One and two.”

“Yes!” Lathe grinned, setting down the marker. “Now, what if…” He wrote out ¼ + ½. “What do you think we should do?” He watched him hesitate. “…the pieces need to have the same denominator to add them. They need to have the same size pieces.”

“U-Uhm… we could… make… the one half… t-two fourths?” He watched as Lathe nodded, rewriting the numbers. “And then it’s three fourths?” He pushed the pieces of apple together on the table in front of him, studying it. So that’s how it works...

“Very good! Now, another one-” He put up one fifth and three twenty-fifths. “Any ideas?”

“…u-Uhm… does the one fifth become… uh…” He counted on his fingers, thinking. “…Five twenty-fifths…? And then it’s eight twenty-fifths?”

“Wonderful! Does that simplify?”

“U-Um… n-no..?”
“Correct.”

“Crap… wait, really?”

“Yeah! You're right.” Lathe grinned, writing the answer down. “Now, multiplication. This one is easy because you just multiply the two numbers together. So if we have ten twelfths and two sixths, what will they multiply to? We just multiply too by top and bottom by bottom.”

“ Twenty…” Tucker moved to grab his paper and pencil, scratching down twelve times six. “…seventy-seconds?”

“You're getting it! Now, last but not least, division.” He wrote a fraction divided by a fraction. “Now, we use keep-change-flip for these. So what we do, is we keep the top number… change division to multiplication… and then flip the bottom fraction so that it’s upside down. Then we just multiply. Okay?”

“Okay.”

“But if we divide a fraction by a whole number… wouldn't we say that three is the same as three over one?”

“You?”

“So if we just flip that …”

“Oh my god it makes sense.” What the shit! This is great! I kinda get it!
“That's good! So, you see that worksheet there that has all the fractions problems on it? Erase your old work and redo it all, okay? We need to make sure you've got this down before we try to move on. I'll order us all pizza while you're doing that, any you can take a break when you're done. At most we'll do one more lesson after dinner.”

“Okay. ...can I eat the apple?”

“Yes you can. Here, let me core it.” Lathe soon had a bowl of cut-up apple for Tucker to snack on as he worked, leaving the notes on the board in case he needed them while he called for pizza. We'll get him back on track.

Eren watched over Tucker, helping him and pointing out small mistakes when it came to multiplying the numbers, making sure he stayed on track. He's doing well with this now, I didn't know he needed help… I could've helped him a long time ago.

Lathe ambled downstairs a while later, putting the menu back in a drawer. He watched with surprise as Eren hovered with Tucker over his math sheet, pointing out small errors and helping him multiply the bigger numbers together. Eren likes helping him? Better observation- Eren isn't hissing at Tucker’s very presence ?!

“Alright, is there a back to the sheet? Or did we finish?” Eren asked watching Tucker flip it over and groan about the work on the other side, this time using variables. Oh no, he’s not sure how this works…. “Alright Tucker, time to do a crash course in variables.” He went up to the whiteboard, writing a few letters. “Any letter in math is called a variable, meaning that the number they represent varies… So let's say X equals 2.” He wrote 3X on the board looking to Tucker. “What’s this?”

“...if they're next to each other… does that mean they multiply?” He watched Eren nod, looking back to it. “So…. if X is two… six?”

“Good.” He erased the 3 in front of the X and wrote a 2 in the top right corner. “Do you know what this symbol means?” How much do you understand?

“U-Uhm… that’s a… uh… an… e-ex… something…”

“Do you know what it does to the variable?” Try something a little easier…
“U-Uhm… it multiplies it… by… something…”

“Okay, so this is what it means…” He wrote out two X’s separated by parentheses, right next to each other, turning back to Tucker. “What is this?” Please say you know that they multiply still. His eyes looked behind him as he saw Lathe cross his arms. “Oh… Sorry, um I took over….” Fuck….

Lathe just waved on for him to continue. “Oh no, don't mind me. Just supervising my student teacher. Just make sure he knows the right words- exponents and parentheses.” You didn't correct him when he said ex-something.

Tucker looked back to Eren, his cheeks pink a bit as he felt he was being closely critiqued. “U-Uhm… those are parentheses… they… that means they multiply together… being next to each other…” I understood that...

Eren nodded, pointing to the 2 above the X. “This symbol means the same of this the one with the parentheses… Okay?”

“......u-Uhm… b-but…” I don't get it… “Why does it… I-I don't…”

“Mind if I interject?” Lathe stepped forward, taking the marker when Eren handed it to him. “You have this term right here. It could end up being a number, a variable, or a bunch of numbers in parentheses, but you have this term you want to multiply. What you do, is that you want to multiply it by itself. The exponent just tells you how many times you write that term down. So, x^2 means X x X. X^3 means X x X x X. All numbers have a one exponent implied. So X^1 is just X. And any number is implied to have a 1 exponent unless they write otherwise.” Lathe handed the marker back. “That make better sense?”

“I-I think so… so, the big number is the one you multiply over again… and the exponent thing tells you how many times to do it? So… would, like… two with an exponent of three be… four and then two, so eight?”

“Yeah, very good!” You're catching on. Lathe looked up to Eren, giving him a small shrug. You need to make sure you're really explaining things. You started teaching that like a new piece of information, when it'd only be true in certain cases. They were equal; but the parentheses didn't do that by themselves.
“Maybe you should be teaching him... I’ll just help out with homework... How’s that?” I’m not really suited for teaching...

“Well, he needs a lot of remedial help, so you can help with what I’ve already taught for right now, but you can maybe end up taking over at some point if you want.” But right now, leave the new stuff to me. “You doing alright, Tucker? Do you think you can keep going?”

“Y-Yeah, I’m okay for right now.... I’ll do okay for right now.” I think so...

“Okay.” Lathe ruffled his hair gently, going to clean up the living room from Sammie’s stray toys. She left the little trains everywhere... we’re missing a few... there were a few more... I think... three more? He looked under the couches first, under the table, and was about to go check in the Theatre room before he heard a tiny pitter-patter of feet, shaking his head. “Krampus.” He soon caught sight of the small dog, which was-of course- carrying a small green wooden train with wheels in its mouth. It took a long five minutes to catch him, imploring him to drop the train, finally getting him to let it go mad drop it onto the ground covered in slobber. “Bad dog, no.” Lathe picked up the train, scolding Krampus as he tried to get it back. He went back downstairs to wash it off and dry it, putting it back in the bin and closing the lid on it well. This is why we can't have nice things...

Krampus whined, following him and watching him clean it off and snap the lid on it. No! I wanted the play thing! Sammie wanted to play! He whined, pawing at Lathe’s leg before he heard something hit the floor, his eyes instantly going to the expo marker quietly rolling on the floor, forgotten. His perked ears turned as he moved over to the marker, sniffing it and picking it up and scurrying off, starting to chew on the marker, easily breaking it in half and beginning to eat it. It tastes weird... There’s water inside...

Lathe moved through the house, everything a blur as Tucker worked on his math, as pizza arrived and people were herded into the kitchen to eat. Lathe welcomed Ieva home with a kiss and after food everyone was shepherded into the theatre room for a movie night, everyone laughing like crazy at Monty Python and the Holy Grail, big bowls of popcorn passed around. Lathe quirked an eyebrow as he heard a sound in the background, immediately looking for Eren when Blake began to bark. He was confused as Eren looked back to him, confused himself. What the hell..? “He probably spotted someone in the yard. I’ll check it out.” Lathe stood, going upstairs to the kitchen. He looked to the stairs, padding up curiously as Blake kept barking. ...what’s up here that’s freaking you out? His eyes widened as he saw Blake sitting next to Krampus, the small pup curled up in the corner, whimpering. A mostly-eaten expo marker was in front of his paws, his jaw red from the dye. Fuck. Lathe knelt next to him, gently petting Krampus and looking to his eyes, seeing pain as he whined for help. ...we need to get you to the vet. Now . Lathe ran back downstairs to grab a sheet of cardboard, poking his head into the theatre room. “I need to take Krampus to the vet. He ate an expo marker and he's pretty sick. He should be fine soon, don't worry.” He smiled to Jake, who immediately looked to Eren in worry. Lathe left them as Eren tried to calm Jake and smooth over his worries, going to grab a plush dog bed from it’s spot upstairs. He soon knelt next to Krampus, very gently lifting him into the bed and tucking a small blanket around him. “We’ll go get you fixed right up, Krampus. Don't you worry.” Lathe picked him up, carrying him to the car and locking the front door behind him. He set him in the backseat, driving as smoothly as he could, any jerks or harder stops causing the pup to whimper in discomfort. Soon he was carrying the dog into the veterinary hospital, speaking to the receptionist, worried. “Uh, hi, my dog here ate an expo marker and he's been really sick. He might have eaten other things from around the house- he's got us worried.” Something could be really wrong...

The woman nodded, picking up a phone and dialing a few numbers. “Doctor Zoe… We could have an emergency surgery case… Yeah, out front…uh, no, not yet…” She held the phone to her shoulder to muffle her talking. “What’s your dog’s name? And is this their regular vet office?” She looked at Lathe expectantly, looking to the small dog with worry. He’s whimpering in pain everytime he moves.

“His name is Krampus, and yes, we come to see Hanji for all of our pets. The name is Lathe Quo- she knows who I am. We were colleagues.” It was awhile ago, but she’s like me- even if I dyed my hair red, got an accent and moved out of state, she’d know me if she saw me.

The woman nodded and relayed the information, having to pull the phone away from her ear when Hanji screamed on the other end. “She’ll be out soon, don’t wor-” she was cut off by the door to the back slamming open and Hanji scrambling out to see Krampus.

“What’d he eat now?” I know he likes to run away with shit...

“ Majority of an expo marker, possibly a small wooden toy train, other things that've gone missing. Probably some change in there.” Most likely.

Hanji sighed quietly. “How much of the marker was gone? Am I dealing with small pieces of plastic or large pieces?” The marker won’t poison him, it’s completely fine… It’s the chewed up plastics which are sharp ...

“Ninety percent of it was gone… probably larger pieces…” Lathe looked worriedly between Krampus and Hanji. Is he gonna be okay...?

“Crap, okay, we need to get him in surgery. That plastic is bad news for his stomach. It could cut up his insides.” Hanji carefully took him, bed and all, from Lathe, taking him into the back. “You might want to sit down, Lathe- this could be a while.” Hanji had him prepped for the surgery in no time, his belly shaved and cleaned before putting him under, starting the procedure. A few hours had passed before she finished stitching his stomach back up, looking over to the tray next to the dog. ...that’s a ton of shit... Hanji came back out to the front room after a bit, ambling up to where Lathe was, kicking his shoe to wake him up from his light doze. “So, Krampus is fine. It's surprising, given we had to remove the plastic marker from his stomach, along with a small wooden train, a spare house key, a twenty-sided die, a leather tag, three marbles, sixty-seven cents in spare change, and a cell phone. Thankfully, the battery in the phone was completely fine - the backing was on so tight, it couldn't even digest past the initial plastic casing. The damn thing still works.” ...what even, man... “I'm going to suggest that you keep a cone on Krampus for a while so that he's not able to just grab anything in his mouth and eat it. He needs to stop that - otherwise, he's going to be in a hell of a lot of pain again at some point.” Yeah, not good.

Lathe’s eyes widened in shock, nodding immediately. “Yeah, we need to take care of that problem. It's gone from him hiding things around the house to hiding them inside him. ...but... a cell phone? I don't remember any of us losing a cell phone...” ...but... Sharon lost hers in the house... “Was it an old brick of plastic?”

“That's one way of putting it. Digested, it still worked.” I'm surprised. And impressed.

“...Sharon bought an iPhone after that incident... said it was a sign she finally had to get one. Oh my god, the house key... and that train wasn't small, either... my God, we need to get him to stop...” It's legitimately gone too far...

“Well, it looked like the train he worked on for awhile, it was in sizable chunks for him to swallow, but I’m going to send him home tomorrow, I want to keep him overnight and make sure he comes off the anesthesia okay, then he’ll have a cone around his head and his belly will be sensitive for awhile so I want him on a soft food diet for a few weeks...” That should help him get reacquainted with food...

Lathe nodded, wearily smiling. “Okay, sounds fine. We need to get him used to eating the right kind of food again.” He stood, shaking Hanji’s hand. “So, I should come and get him tomorrow before lunch?” Will he be free to go then?

Hanji shook her head. “I’ll bring him over tomorrow, I need to do all Arya’s shots since she’s been suckling for a couple days. What time do you want me to come over?” I can be over pretty much anytime...

Lathe nodded. “Would about ten in the morning work okay?” We’ll be in the barn anyway feeding the animals and stuff around then.

Hanji pulled out her phone looking at her schedule. “I’ll be there around 10:30 if that works?”
“Yeah, that's fine. We don't have much going on tomorrow.” Lathe smiled. “So can I expect to see you then?”

“Yeah, you’ll see me and probably my husband, he works specially with dogs… So he can help you out with getting him not to eat everything in reaching distance.” Moblit should be able to help him…

“Okay.” A pause, Lathe’s eyes widening. “Wait, you're married? Since when?” And why wasn't I invited?

“I’ve been married since before I started teaching but… We were separated for awhile, and he came back and we’ve been back together since I quit teaching…” I don’t think I knew you when we got married… I didn't wear my ring at work, which is probably why you never knew…

Lathe smiled, lightly punching her arm. “Glad to hear things are working out. What’s his name? Tell me about him, anything.” I wanna know who the lucky guy is.

“Well, his name is Moblit, he works out in the city and he matches service dog with their owners… He’s really sweet and gentle, he’s a good guy, you’ll like him.” You’ll get along right away…

Lathe’s eyebrows shot up, shaking his head slowly. “Hanji, Moblit was the one who got us Blake and helped us with having a service dog around. He's great! I approve. But now the next time I see him I have to threaten him with death if he makes you upset.” That's now a thing that needs doing.

Hanji smiled softly, chuckling a bit, shaking her head. “I think he figured it out after we were separated for 10 years… The first 7 weren’t that great for the both of us… But it's better now… And I have my Moblit back… I didn’t know Blake was one of the dogs he trained…” She smiled sheepishly, looking down. 20 years… “We’ve been back together for 3 years now…” Hanji showed him her left hand, letting him see her ring. He got a new one for me, when he came back… It was a nice thought…

Lathe smiled warmly, his eyes crinkling a bit at the corners. “That's really good to hear, Hanji. I'm glad he makes you happy. I'm still going to threaten him with murder, though. You can't stop me.” Nope, I don't care if it's Moblit. I'll kill him if he makes you cry.
Hanji smiled softly, shaking her head a bit. “Alright, alright, I’ll bring the hubby with me to deliver your pooch and give your filly shots.” I can do that…

Lathe chuckled, nodding. “Sounds like a plan. I'll see you tomorrow, Hanji. And thank you.”
Chapter 70: Rape

It was six weeks after the first quarter progress reports came home. Lathe had baked cookies earlier in the day- he decided to make it ritual, and everyone liked them, so he thought why not- and waited for Jake and Tucker to come home. He looked up when the lock turned, smiling and ushering them over to the kitchen table. “Welcome home! Come on over, moment of truth you two. Let's see the report cards.” He took the envelope Jake handed him, the eight-year-old looking the tiniest bit nervous, but rather happy. Lathe undid the small metal hook, unfolding the paper inside and reading over the column of letters. He grinned, ruffling Jake’s hair. “Very good, Jake! All A's and one or two B’s. You keep up that good work, Honey.” He kept the paper from inside, signing the label on the front of the envelope and handing it back. “Remember to give that to your teacher on Monday so she knows I saw it, okay?” He smiled as Jake nodded, letting him scamper off with two stolen cookies to the game room. “Alright, Tucker. Let's see how you've improved.” Lathe took the envelope Tucker shakily extended to him, unhooking the metal and reading over the paper inside, nodding his head in approval. “All B’s. Very very good! That's a major improvement from earlier this year. You keep up the good work, and maybe next quarter you'll do even better.” Lathe gave him a small smile, standing to give him a tight hug. “I'll sign your card. Grab yourself a few cookies; you deserve it for all your effort.” You've tried so hard to do well. It's paid off already.

Tucker smiled, hugging Lathe back slowly, letting out a sigh of relief. I thought it might've still been all F’s and D’s… When Lathe let go he meandered over to the cookies, picking up a few. He looked over when the backdoor opened, seeing Eren walking in and kicking off his shoes. His eyes widened and he flushed to his ears, dropping the cookies back on a plate as he ran off to go hide in his room, taking his school bag upstairs with him. No no no no… Not again… It… I can’t be gay… I'll be such an asshole to them, they can’t know...

Lathe watched the exchange with confusion, quirking an eyebrow. “...what the hell was that?” ...that's such a weird exchange… wait… .....hmmm… His eyes widened as he heard a door slam shut upstairs, looking back to Eren, thinking. .....he's acting like he has a crush on Eren.... but, he doesn't..... ................does he...? Lathe looked to Eren who shrugged, leaving to follow Tucker upstairs. He gently knocked at the door, his voice gentle. “Tucker, Honey, can I come in?” He heard a quiet sound of assent after a moment of silence, stepping inside and shutting the door quietly behind him. He saw Tucker curled up on his bed, sitting up against the wall and hugging a pillow, the look in his eyes conflicted, sad. Lathe moved to sit on the bed next to him, his voice soft. “You acted a little strangely when Eren came in just a moment ago. ...is there something you want to talk about?” I'm here to help you with whatever is going on.

Tucker immediately shook his head, hurriedly burying his head into the pillow. “N-no! I’m fine! Really! Don’t worry about me, I’ll be fine…. just leave me alone… Please !” He mumbled into his pillow as he held onto it tighter. You don’t need to know, you’ll hate me if I tell you… but I’m not sure.... and I really like Devon... what do I say ? Eren would probably laugh at me if I told him I was gay....
Lathe didn't move for a moment, thinking. "you're thirteen... you're just getting to the point when stuff with your body begins to happen... you could just be confused about what you are... confused about feeling attracted to other people at school..." Lathe’s voice was as gentle as ever, picking his words carefully. "...Tucker, you're at the point where the way your body reacts to different things is changing... if you're worried or confused about anything... you can talk to me. It'll stay between us... I'll always be open to talk with you, but if you need more time to just think by yourself, that's okay too. Whatever you need.”

"You can kick me out or we can talk. It's okay either way.

You were quiet for a moment, looking down at his hands as they shook. “I um... I think I might be... a um... I think I might be a f-fag...” His words came out in a whimper as he looked down to his feet.

I think I like Devon...

Lathe shifted a bit closer, pulling Tucker into his side as he saw his eyes start to grow glassy. “Hey, it's okay, don't be upset. And you don't have to call yourself that.” He gently rubbed his arm, his voice soft. “Everything you're feeling is going to be new to you for a while. You don't have to put any labels on yourself right now because you don't know what you are. It's hard for anyone to know exactly what they are, especially since you're so young. ...is there someone you have a crush on?” That'd be how you started thinking you might be gay...

Tucker nervously nodded, twiddling his thumbs, trying to think if he should tell Lathe who it was.

but he’s older than me.... What if Lathe thinks that’s weird?

Lathe watched him nod, though didn't push too hard when he hesitated to speak. “You don't have to tell me much about him if you don't want. Is he in your class?”

It's okay to tell me stuff. I'm not gonna judge you.

Tucker shook his head again. “N-No... H-He’s a senior...” And he’s built like the gods created him... He’s really muscular, and his face is just perfect...

Ah. Well, I'm not too surprised... but you probably won't get a chance to know him. “What's his name? Have you talked much?” Casper and Scotty are almost three full years apart, but they knew each other well enough from being in the club for two years together... and then a bunch of college... well, special circumstances.

“His name is... D-Devon.... And he um... He’s in my engineering class... But that’s it...” I only get to see him once a day... And he’s gorgeous ... “It’s not gonna work ever... I-is it?” Tucker looked up to Lathe, a look of sadness etched across his face.

Lathe shrugged one shoulder, giving him a faint smile. “If you really wanna give it a shot, you've got a lot of work cut out for you. Relationships aren't a piece of cake. He's going to go to college next year, and that could be really far away. He could be gay and have no interest, or he could be straight and that's it. Maybe give it a try if you want. But you need to be prepared if he turns you down or just laughs at you. He could think as a freshman and senior couple, it couldn't work. There aren't many. Just start out being friends with him, okay? See if you get anywhere with that. You don't wanna just shove your feelings in his face; that'd scare him off.” Yeah. Don't do that.

“M-Mr. C-Clarke put us together for a project… And I-I don’t know what to do… He wants me to come after school to his house… B-but I can’t though…. Because we’ll work on it for awhile… And I won’t be able to bike home before nine… And we won't be able to get work done because I can’t talk at all when I’m in the same room as him… I don't know what to do.” Tucker sniffled as he hugged his pillow impossibly closer to his chest. Devon thinks I’m weird as it is…

Lathe nodded, resting his cheek on his head. “Yeesh, you're crushing hard … y'know, I think that if you let me know when you're heading over, and you just need to text me, as long as you text me when you leave his house to come home you can stay out later than nine. And I can come pick you up when it gets too dark if you need me to. But not just because you have a crush- you've got a project with work to do. That's important too.” Lathe pecked the top of his head. “Because you're stuck together on this project, if things go sour you'll still be stuck for the project and that could get awkward… just don't come off too strong, okay? Try to be his friend, first and foremost. If that doesn't work, nothing past that will. At least, nothing that'll last…” You can only go so far with mutual tolerance.

“I-I’m s-sorry… B-but I'm g-gonna stay upstairs…” He murmured, turning his head away from Lathe. I can contemplate how I'm too much of a coward to say anything in front of him…

Lathe nodded, softly pecking his temple. “Don't be sorry, Hon. Everything will be kinda tough for a bit, but you'll figure things out. We can talk whenever you want.” Lathe stood, letting Tucker cling to his pillow, looking back to him when he opened the door. “Oh, and another thing-” Lathe winked, giving him a small supportive smile. “Good luck.” He quietly shut the door, making his way downstairs. Honestly… I don't think any luck will help. You'd really need a lot of it.

A week later, Tucker texted Lathe he was biking to Devon’s house to finish up the project the two of them were working on, and it was nearly 11 at night when Tucker finally texted, saying he could come home.

Lathe had been worried sick for the past two hours, not knowing why a sense of dread was washing over him. He’s fine, he’s fine. They just wanted to finish up what they could all at once instead of having it drag out another day. They’re fine. It’s all fine. Lathe quickly moved to the car, driving to the address Tucker had given him, watching as Tucker wheeled his bike to the car to put it in the trunk, looking miserable and disheveled. He had the back doors locked, motioning Tucker up to sit in the passenger’s seat. He smiled faintly when Tucker clambered inside. “You get your project done, Hon?” He watched him simply nod, staring at his shoes as he buckled up. Something told him not to leave just yet, and he looked over Tucker, studying him. He looked hastily put-together, his hair barely under control, and he had an empty look in his eyes, shifting uncomfortably in his seat. He looks like he just ran a marathon… “…Tucker… are you... okay? Did something happen?” ………no……..they wouldn't've…. You're too young… .

Tucker shook his head, biting his lip as he looked towards the house he was just in, his heart racing as his hollow eyes filled with tears. “N-No… C-can we G-go home…?” Please? I don’t want to be here anymore…

Lathe didn’t nod, but he put the car in drive, starting to drive away from the home. “…Tucker, did he hurt you?” He was headed for the hospital, but he didn’t let on. I don’t want you to freak out… but we have to take care of you. He can’t just get away with this shit.

“I-It h-hurt…. So much…. A-and h-he w-wouldn't st-stop..” Tucker whimpered as he wrapped his shaking arms around himself, trying to calm down. I get to sleep when I get home… Sleep it all away…

Lathe looked heartbroken to hear that, careful as he drove them to the hospital. “Tucker, love, it’s okay, you don’t have to worry about him anymore right now. It’s all over, I’m right here. We can’t go home just yet, Honey, we need to take care of you first. I’m sorry, but we need to fix this, and then we can go home and you can sleep all you want. It’s okay.” We’ll do what we can to help you...

Tucker immediately protested. “N-no… I wanna go home… P-please… I just wanna go h-home…” Tucker's broken eyes looked over to Lathe’s as he pulled into the hospital parking lot, shaking even more as they parked. N-No… I don’t wanna go, they won’t help me… They’ll call me a fag too!

“Please, Tucker, these are good people here. They wouldn’t be working here if they didn’t want to help. We need to take care of you, and I know you don’t wanna do this but it’s for the better. We’ll let you go home and rest soon enough, okay?” Lathe got out of the car, moving to the other side when Tucker shut the door, his legs and his whole body shaking like a leaf. Lathe scooped him up into his arms and Tucker barely protested, carrying him into the hospital with care, murmuring soothing words into his hair. He looked to the worried receptionist. They know too well that when I come in, it’s bad… “Uhm, hi…” He didn't notice Scotty just about to leave, circles under his eyes. “…my son here needs a rape kit done...” I can’t believe I just had to say that...

The receptionist looked even more worried before she noticed Scotty. “Scotty, one last case for tonight and then you can leave.” I know Lathe knows you well, the kid should be more comfortable
Scotty groaned as he stopped walking and turned, rubbing his eyes. “Martha, do you have any idea what time it is? I’m exhausted, and why the hell do I need to-” He paused as he looked up hearing a soft sob, looking up to see Tucker crying in Lathe’s arms. What? What the fuck?

Lathe looked up from trying to calm Tucker to Scotty, looking weary himself. “I just picked him up from what was supposed to be him working on a project with a fellow classmate. ...Scotty, he’s just been raped. Please help.” Then you can leave and we can all go rest...

Scotty’s eyes widened as he heard Lathe speak. Raped? He was raped? But he’s so young ... Who in their right mind would do that? He nodded, motioning Lathe to follow and bringing him to a quieter wing on the first floor. “Take his clothes off, I’ll go get a kit…” No one deserves something like that... Not even Tucker...

Tucker was crying horribly in Lathe’s arms, not wanting to let go. “I-I’m sorry… I shouldn’t have done it....” I said it... And it made everything worse.

Lathe set him gently on the hospital bed, cooing to him quietly. “Tucker, it’s not your fault.... I’m so sorry Honey, but you need to know that what you said and did wasn’t why he did this. None of this was your fault. He did something awful, and we can’t just let him get away with it. We’re not gonna. Okay?” He watched Tucker shakily nod, letting him keep his fists firmly on his sweater. “Tucker, we need to get you in a hospital gown, okay? I’m sorry, but we need to get you undressed. We won’t let anything bad happen anymore. I promise.” He gently tried to pry his hands from his sweater, softly pecking his temple. “You’ll be okay.” Swear it.

Tucker slowly let go of Lathe’s sweater, his hands shaking as he let Lathe take off his shirt which had hidden countless hickeys, fist marks, and bruises in the shapes of hands. He did so much... He didn’t care that it hurt... It felt like he was ripping me in two....

Lathe looked over his battered chest with sad eyes, taking the shirt and taking his shoes and jeans off, a few bruises on his thighs. He gave him the thin gown, turning away. “You can put this on, okay?” He waited for the rustling to stop, Tucker tapping his arm and handing him his stained boxers for his pile of clothes. Lathe sat next to him on the bed, letting Tucker curl close and bury his face in his chest. He waited patiently for Scotty to come back, trying to calm Tucker when he started crying even harder. You’ll be okay now. We’ve got you.

Scotty let Lathe try and calm Tucker down as he carefully packed away all of his clothes in a large brown paper bag, marking them appropriately. He’s gotta calm down, because he’s not gonna want me to do what I need to do next… He slipped on a pair of latex gloves, getting a vial out of the large bag that held everything he needed.

Tucker’s eyes widened as he saw Scotty get rubber gloves on right away. What’s he doing? Why is he putting those on? He eyes were wide in shock as Scotty got closer to him, shying away as he came close. I… I don’t wanna be touched…

Lathe cradled Tucker close, trying to keep him calm. “Tucker, it’s okay. Scotty needs to take samples of fluid from you… it’s not a nice thought but you need to let him do his job, okay? It’ll be over soon, Honey. I’m right here. He won’t do anything bad.” Don’t worry about him. Just stay calm, okay? Please?

Tucker struggled not to jerk away when Scotty moved him around gently, barely hearing him explain what he was doing to him. He felt the rubber gloves near his hole, freaking out when he felt something nudge his entrance, clinging to Lathe for dear life. I don’t wanna be touched…

Lathe held Tucker tight as he whimpered and cried quietly, letting Scotty do his job. He held him solidly against his chest, murmuring quiet praise in his ear when Scotty had filled his test tube, trying to stop his shaking. “You did fine, Honey, just fine…” We can help you now.

Tucker was a mess as Lathe held onto him, freaking out as Scotty took his hands. That was until he realized he was only trying to clean out under his fingers, trying to get as much DNA as possible. What did he say?

“How old are you Tucker?”

“I’m th-thirteen…”

“How long ago were you raped?”

“Ah… Uhm… An hour, I…. I think….”

Scotty nodded finishing up taking up all the DNA he needed and putting it where it needed to go. “I’ll go get you some scrubs… If you need to talk to Lathe you can close the door…” I’ll leave you guys alone for a bit… Because I need to get the camera to take pictures…
Lathe looked to Tucker, watching him nod when Scotty left. He let him go for just a moment to close the door quietly, coming back and bringing him into his lap, cradling him close. “Talk to me, Honey. Tell me what happened.” Talking might help... instead of bottling it up.

Tucker sniffled as he was cradled close to Lathe’s chest. “We... We finished our project... And it was late, so he told me to stay for dinner... He made us some waffles...” Tucker has to stop talking as he clung to Lathe. “And I don’t know how it came up, but I said that I liked him... And he at first laughed it off and s-said that I didn’t.... And I told him that I really liked him... That’s when he got mad.... And he snapped at me...” He got so angry, so quickly...

Lathe held him close, gently rubbing his back. “It's okay Hon, you didn't do anything wrong... if he wanted to tell you he wasn't interested, he could've done anything besides what he did...” Lathe gently pet his hair, thoughtful. “...I don’t want you to think that every time you try to start a relationship with someone you like that this sort of thing is going to happen. This, or humiliation... not every time. Crushes come and go... and I hope you know that it isn't always like that. ...painful, I mean. You'll understand better when you're older... but you should know that this doesn't mean giving that part of yourself to someone else is any less important. You still have a lot of growing up to do before you ever get there... but you should know that.” I don't want you to settle into the mindset of 'I'm ruined, I'm ruined and nobody should have me, nobody will want me...' because you always need to understand you deserve respect, especially when it comes to that... you need to understand that. I don't want to give you enough time to start to think otherwise.

“I... I-I don’t w-want it to happen again.... Is-is it because I hated people like me before? Is this my punishment?” My punishment.... For being the monster like my father, that my mother never wanted, that no one ever wants... “I’m never gonna get adopted.... Am I?” His eyes were full of pain, looking to him with brokenness. No one will.

Lathe gently kissed his cheeks, his words soft, trying desperately to help ease his mind. “Tucker, nothing you could've ever done would warrant this... it was nothing you did, and everything Devon did. It's not your fault.” He held Tucker close, gently rocking them back and forth. “Honey, back at the front desk, I called you my son. You staying with us might not be a temporary thing. You could end up staying until you're eighteen. Maybe longer. But you have a home with us now. I don't want you to think that getting adopted is the only way you'll find a home. We’d love to have you in ours. You're more than welcome to stay.” You've changed a lot... and after this, I'm not about to abandon you. You need the support more than ever now.

“I was given up 3 minutes after I was born... My mom never came to look for me, and my Dad probably never even knew about me.... I was adopted twice... And brought back because of my temperament both times not even a year later... I was 3 the first time, and 8 the second.... I didn’t understand at first but when I was 8... And I was brought back... I knew no one wanted me. I’ve been relocated, time and time again... None of the foster families want me, they just take me because the program pays them to house me... I just... I want someone to take me home, who’s brought me home because they’ve wanted me… But no one’s ever done that… I’m sorry Lathe… But am I ever going to be adopted, be perfectly honest with me… Am I ever gonna be adopted?”

I’m not am I? No one actually wants me… And this… This just pushed things to a whole new level of being thrown away.

Lathe was silent for a long moment, his words careful. “…Tucker, a lot of things happened when you came to our home. You stole a horse and tried to run away with it, you tried to drive Eren and Levi apart because they’re gay, and you punched Jake for supporting them and their gay friends, and mine too. You even came home with straight F’s on your progress report. And we kept you in all of that. I don't think you've stayed adopted or will be, not because you're some awful human being and you're certainly not… but because nobody knew what to do with you. It's hard to think you'll like someone when they have a tendency to run, to shout, to fight back. It's not easy to think that. But I kept thinking, “Maybe it's not him that's the problem. It's the people that take him in and where they put him.” Lathe gently rocked them, staring at his shoes. “With stealing the horse and running away so many times before, maybe he's not running from a place or a person but an idea, the idea of being ready to go home to a nice family and not having one really want him. With trying to drive Levi and Eren apart, fine, he's homophobic. But that's no reason to shove him somewhere else and make someone else deal with him. With punching Jake, everyone gets angry. But he doesn't know what to do with that emotion, maybe he was never taught where to go with it. With the failing grades, he tries so hard, but maybe he's not learning it right. Maybe he doesn't learn the way the teachers teach. They're all things that can be fixed or at least helped. And I thought if anyone could help, it could be us. But I didn't just keep you around to mess with you and punish you. And it wasn't like I couldn't get rid of you, we had opportunities, especially when Jake came home with a broken nose. We kept you because I thought you could still turn out to be a good kid. I had a gut feeling and I gave a whole ton of shits about helping you get where you needed to be and when you came home with good grades and you’d been on good terms with Jake and Eren and Levi lately and you actually smiled I was so proud of you… and you should know that we care about you so much. We want what's best for you. And if nobody else wants to come and love you like their own son, god damn it I'll do it for them twice over. We love you, Tucker. Just because we might not be permanent doesn't mean you can't make our house a home. We'd love it if you did.” …we love you. Even Eren and Levi, although Levi is getting kinda hard to read. But I'm sure he does. And Jake adores you too- he always asks you if you want to play a game with him and Sammie. Ieva and I love you. You've got a family and you barely even know it.

“But…. You didn't choose me…. That's all I want…. Is for someone to choose me…. To want me, and keep me longer than a year…. I know the patterns… I’ll be taken away soon…They move me around every few months…. ” I won't be able to keep my grades up… And I won't be able to get cookies for B’s…. I might even get raped again…. I won't be able to talk to them…

Lathe gently kissed his cheek, holding him closer. “...Tucker, the day you leave the house, I'm going to cry my eyes out… we’d miss you so much… we were asked if we could take you specifically… and we said yes. And we chose to keep you, too, even with everything that happened. If you get taken again, it won't be because we can't keep you or don't want you anymore. It'll be because you're adopted, or you're old enough to want to move out and live your own life. But until then, we want to keep you. We really, really do.” Lathe sniffled, rubbing his eye. Fuck, I'm going to cry anyway just thinking about it... we don't want to give you up because we choose to. But we'll give you to whomever will adopt you and love you. And that will be okay, because you deserve to be loved by someone.

Tucker shut himself up, simply nodding and holding onto Lathe as the door opened, Scotty holding out scrubs for him. Are those for me? He held out his hands, taking the blue clothes from him.

“You should get dressed… The police would like to speak with you… Oh um… If you're comfortable with Lathe... someone needs to take pictures of all the marks on your body.” I was required to call them whenever someone has to use a Rape Kit…

Lathe nodded, taking the camera Scotty handed him. “Alright, thanks Scotty.” Lathe looked to Tucker, shifting out from under him. “This won't take too long, Tucker. Can you let me take the pictures the police need?” He watched Tucker nod, helping him move to take off part of the gown, hiding his nether as he took pictures of his bruised torso, the marks on his back, the scratches on his thighs. He apologized over and over as he had to take a picture of his entrance, an angry red with a small tear. He really hurt you… Lathe helped Tucker into the scrubs, letting go of him to open the door. I just want to fork over this camera, let the cops talk to him and get him home so he can sleep until noon and I can make him whatever he wants for lunch and try to make him feel better…

Scotty took the camera first, taking a look at all the pictures, swallowing hard as he saw all the bruises and scratches and the angry red tear at his entrance. That’s horrible… God…. He let the two cops look at the pictures. “He’s not stable at the moment… So just basic questions please.” Scotty led them to the room, letting the two men enter with him. Please don't ask hard questions to him….

The shorter man spoke first, trying to seem as non-threatening as possible. “Hi… My name is Officer Brandy…. But you can call me Mike if you want… Can you tell me what your name is?” His voice was soft as he crouched on the floor, trying to make himself appear small as possible to help Tucker feel safer. Ted can take notes… It's easier that way.

Tucker eyes the man warily, curling in on himself into a small ball on the hospital bed. “U-Uhm… my name’s Tucker…” Why are you crouching like that…? It looks weird… Tucker felt oddly vulnerable without Lathe next to him like he had been for the past hour, looking to him with pleading eyes. Come back… please… He soon got his wish, visibly relaxing a bit when Lathe sat on the bed and pulled him close again.

“Tucker, huh? I like that name… You seem like a smart kid… Can you tell me this guy’s name? And how he relates to you?” Easy questions, you can do it, not about the topic at all, ease him in… The man pointed to Lathe as he sat down with Tucker. Pretty sure that’s Lathe.
Tucker glanced up to Lathe, easily shifting until he was in his lap, his fist tightening on his sweater. “U-Uhm… t-this is my foster parent…. h-his name is L-Lathe…” That's all he'll ever be… isn't it...

“Okay, Tucker. You're doing great… Do you think you could remember your birthday for me? And tell me how old you are?” How old are you? I know we were called in because it was a minor that got raped, but we need to be sure...

“Uhm… December 24th… 20XX… I-I'm thirteen…” He wanted to hide, not wanting to be asked questions. I don't wanna think… I wanna go home and forget and sleep… I wanna go home...

“Okay Tucker, just a few more questions and they’re getting a bit harder… Do you know what happened to you?" I know this is a lot to ask, but I need to.

Tucker nodded, looking down at his feet. “......I got raped…” He looked to the officer, the look in his eyes one of defeat. “...is this the part where I tell you everything I know that happened…?” I don't wanna… but if I have to… I can try… maybe...

“No, you don't have to tell us everything… But can you tell us who did it… And where maybe? If you can remember… You’re being really brave.” I want you to know that.

“I-It was my engineering class project partner… Devon Bracknell… I was at his house to work on our project… 182 Maple Court… ...he forced me from the kitchen to…. to the couch in the living room…” He hurt me… hit me and got mad when I tried to get away… he wouldn't stop… even when I screamed and cried in pain...

Mike nodded. “That's all you need to tell us, you’re very brave… I think we have all we need, can you think of anything you want to tell us?” I want to make sure we’re not missing something that only you know.

Tucker was quiet for a moment, but his voice was even when he spoke again, staring at a tile on the floor. “...he had me down, raping me for three hours… it was barely eight when we went to eat dinner and he dragged me to the living room… and he finally stopped at eleven… I finally got to text Lathe to come get me then…” He finally let me go... Tucker burrowed his head into Lathe’s chest, desperately wanting to get away. “H-Home…” Lemme sleep… please...

Mike nodded to Lathe. “We have everything we need, as long as he’s cleared from the hospital, you can go. Drive safe…” I can’t necessarily tell you to have a nice night, when your son was raped... The two men then exited the room, going to get the box of evidence that Scotty had collected.

Lathe scooped Tucker up, cradling him close and walking from the hospital room. He felt Tucker’s head fall onto his shoulder, close to falling asleep as he set him in the passenger’s seat of the car and shut the door. It was a short drive home, bringing the tired teen into the house quietly. He brought him upstairs, getting his shoes off and helping him sleepily change into loose, warm pajamas. He tucked him, about to kiss him goodnight when his hand reached up tiredly, his eyes pleading with him.

“S-Stay?” I don't wanna be alone...

Lathe smiled wearily, kicking off the boots he hadn't bothered ditching at the door. “Let me go get changed so my tie doesn't kill me in my sleep?” He watched Tucker nod, the ghost of a smile on the boys lips before it disappeared. It didn't take long for him to change into pajamas, traipsing back into his bedroom. He chuckled when Tucker immediately moved to make room for him before burrowing into his chest, pulling the blankets up to their chins, his arms wrapped solidly around him. He pecked his mop of hair, letting his eyes slip shut. “Goodnight, Honey.” You'll be okay. I won't let anyone hurt you anymore.
Chapter 71: The Skype Call

Finally, I’ve got time to call him. Levi sat down at one of the tables in what was a sort of a commons area on base, for once not running around on some assignment like the dozens of people around him. He set up his computer, putting an earbud in his ear so he would actually hear Eren speak, his boot tapping the dusty ground underfoot. His skin was already beginning to tan, a product of the hot, dry, and sunny climate. Levi clicked the call button, waiting for the image to pop up onscreen. He smirked when Eren finally came on screen, his voice not having any bite in it, lightly playful. <“Hey Eren. The house falling apart without me around yet?”> It's nice to see you again. I already miss you.

<“The house might not be… But I am, that’s for damn sure… Holy shit, you’re so tan! What the hell, you’re going to be darker than me at this rate.”> And that is hard to accomplish…. Eren took his computer down to the kitchen counter to plug it in. <“I take it you have some free time since you’re calling me?”> He had a sad smile on his face looking at Levi, knowing he could be whisked away any minute to go back on the clock. I miss just being able to talk to you…. You’ve been gone almost two months and I’ve talked to you like twice …

Levi smirked, running a hand through his hair before inspecting the golden back of it. <“It’s been nothing but work in the sun this whole time, I barely have a spare second to breathe. I haven’t been able to call as much as I’d like to.”> His look was a bit wistful. <“I miss you. But I think I’ll manage okay. I have been, more or less. How are things back home? Sammie still around? Tucker still more-or-less reformed? Or do I have to yell at him?”> I’d rather not, but y’know. He doesn’t get to make Eren upset. Nobody does. I even smacked Lathe the one time for scaring the crap out of Eren. Lathe!

The smile on Eren’s face disappeared. <“Um… They’re okay… I guess, Sammie’s gonna be leaving soon, there’s a family that’s showing interest… And Um…. Tucker was raped last week, so he’s been staying home… It was one of the upperclassmen in an elective he had… He’s coping… or at least trying to.”> His words were soft as he looked down at the keyboard trying to think how Levi would react to that. What will you think about that?

Levi had to purposefully try to keep his jaw from hitting the floor, his eyes full of sympathy. <“Oh my God, that’s terrible … is he at least kinda doing okay?”> It'd be awful if he fell into a bad mentality about it… if he shut off to everyone… he needs to get better.

<“A bit.”> Lathe poked his head onscreen from behind Eren, waving to Levi, a sad smile on his face. <“He spends a lot of the day sleeping or just chilling upstairs, but he comes downstairs to do the work he’s been missing. I’m trying to coax him back out of his shell, but it’s not going too well just yet. But I think he’ll be okay. He’s a tough kid.”> He really is.
Levi chuckled when Eren jumped at Lathe’s sudden appearance, looking thoughtful. He smirked as Lathe’s cheeks tinted pink, looking between them. If Sammie’s going to have a new home soon, can I say hi to her? While I know I still can? She’s adorable...

“I’ll go fetch the tiny humans to say hi- then I’ll let you two have your ‘alone time.’” Lathe laughed when Eren stuck his tongue out at him, going to gather up the two kids from the living room where they played with colorful building blocks. “C’mon, Levi wants to say hi.” Lathe scooped up Sammie and balanced her on one hip, Jake following like an excited puppy and immediately waving when he saw Levi on the screen.

“Hi Levi!” He grinned wider when Sammie tried to say the same, giggling. “We miss you.” It’s weird that you’re not here anymore… but you said you’ll come back, so I guess we just wait now. But we still get to talk to you!

Levi chuckled, waving. “Hey Jake. Hi Sammie.” He looked to Sammie, his eyes softening for once. “You be good for your new family, okay? I hear someone wants to keep you. I’m sure they’ll take good care of you, so behave. …sometimes.” He smirked when the other laughed, Sammie making a grabby motion at the screen. I’m sure you’ll be fine. You’ll like your new family.

“You heard him, Sammie. Cause just enough trouble to keep your parents on their toes.” Lathe pecked her cheek, sighing when she started to squirm in his arms. “Okay, okay, you can go back to playtime if you wanna. Say bye-bye to Levi, Honey.” Lathe pointed to the screen, waving.

“Bye-Bye Levi.” She managed to make the ‘v’ sound, something she accomplished when simply tugging on his sleeve to get him to give her juice or read her a book didn’t always work. She waved, giggling when he waved back. She moved to tug on Jake’s arm when she was put down, wanting to go back to playing. Wanna build stuff!

Levi watched his a melancholy smile as Sammie and Jake disappeared from the screen, thoughtful. She’s gotten so big already… you give her a kiss for me, okay? I’ll miss her. But we won’t be without another little ball of energy for long… I don’t think, at least. Levi watched as Lathe waved him goodbye, leaving them alone. Did you find someone to carry for us…? I wanna know when we do… I wanna know when the due date is...

Eren nodded, watching the two kids go off and play. It’s… It’s a process, Hannah’s trying to get an egg to accept my sperm… And once she can do it… We start looking for someone… I know it’s gonna be a long time, but… We’re really going to try, and Your sperm is frozen for now, and Hannah’s using mine so that we won’t run out of yours anytime soon.” He twiddled with his thumbs, watching them before he looked up to Levi. I’m sorry, I know we don’t know... everything yet, but as soon as we know who it is, I’ll tell you, and I’ll tell you as soon as Hannah can get an egg to take my sperm.” Eren’s face was twisted between a smile and a frown as he looked over the monitor to see Tucker downstairs. “Tucker, do you wanna say ‘hi’ to Levi? ...Why are you looking at me like that?” He raised an eyebrow as Tucker slowly came over.

“Why are you speaking in German?” Tucker’s eyes were large as he slowly came up to Eren, looking at Levi, waving quietly. Levi looks tan…

Eren smiled softly, reaching over to rub Tucker’s back, pulling him close. “I make sure that he keeps up with German, it was one of my promises that he has to keep while he’s away…. You wanna try? Levi should be able to know what your saying, and I can help you.” Come on, let’s see if you’ll open up with us.

Tucker warily nodded, looking to Levi, thinking hard as he spoke. <“...Good Afternoon, Levi… um…”> Tucker thought, a tiny mischievous flicker in his eye as he thought of one of Lathe’s trick sentences from a German tutoring lesson. He carefully pronounced the words, but made it sound casual. <“On a scale of one to lamp, what flavor is the sky?”> I wanna see if you understood that. He heard Eren snicker next to him, trying not to make it obvious it was a joke. I wonder what your answer is.

<“........what?”> Am I going deaf, or is the connection bad…?

<“I said …”> Tucker and Eren had to fight to get their giggling under control. <“O-On a scale of one t-to l- lamp …”> Tears pricked at his eyes from laughing. <“W-What flavor is the s-sky?“> He couldn’t stand Levi’s perplexed expression looking away, a hand holding his stomach. <“W-We really want to know!”>

Levi just stared at them, slowly repeating their question. <“...On a scale of one, to lamp … the flavor of the sky ?”> He’s fucking with me. He looked up at the sky, seeming to ponder the question. <“I’d say giraffe. Medium-rare.”> Just about.

Eren struggled to hold in his laughter as Tucker look to the screen with confusion. He doesn’t know what those words are… He couldn’t help but let his laughter slip, trying to cover his mouth. Oh my god this is great …

Tucker smacked Eren’s arm, wanting him to translate. “What’d he say?! Tell me! Stop laughing and tell me!” I don't know those words!
Eren continued to laugh harder when Tucker switched to English, struggling to calm down and tell him without laughing. “Levi said Giraffe… Medium-rare.” His bit his lower lip as he chuckled, looking behind Tucker to see Lathe staring at them with wide eyes. Well… Tucker hasn’t really laughed since he moved here… Let alone spoken much after the accident…

Tucker cracked up harder at that, his eyes for once glimmering with mirth as he looked to Levi again. “A-Are you sure you don’t detect a h-hint of-of zebra in there? M-Maybe elephant?” He watched as Levi was obviously trying not to bust out laughing, glancing up as he caught sight of Lathe leaning on the banister, trying himself not to fall over with laughter. This is great!

Levi needed a minute, speaking when he was sure he wouldn't immediately start laughing when he did. <“Oh my God, he's turning into a mini Lathe.”> ….come to think of it, everyone starts to turn into Lathe when they’re around him too much. …well, not too much… a lot. And I haven't seen him so happy the entire time we've had him.

Lathe was stunned that Tucker looked as happy as he did, relieved that Tucker seemed to be doing very well compared to the rest of the week. I haven't seen him so happy… I'm so glad he's enjoying himself for right now. Let him forget about being sad or worried- he could use good humor.

Eren smiled softly and rubbed at Tucker’s back. “You hungry? We can make you something to eat, and you can talk to Levi if you want?” You’re smiling… You're really smiling…<“How much time do you think you have Levi?”> His words were soft as Tucker nodded, moving to sit next to Eren, looking to the screen expectantly.

<“Who knows? Probably half an hour, ish, at least. I don't think they'll snatch me up to do anything else for a bit.”> He looked to Tucker, who had a confused expression. <“Plenty.”> His face lit in understanding at that, smirking. “And I'm in the Middle East, not Africa. If anything, the air tastes like camel.” Levi glanced up as someone at a nearby table chuckled, giving him an amused look. <“I'll try to make my sentences simple.”> …he still looks confused. <“Me words simply. Okay?”>

Oooookkkaaayy. <“Okay!”> Tucker nodded, looking to Eren, leaning his head on his shoulder for a moment. “Can I have a grilled cheese please? You make them the best. …don’t tell Dad I said that.” No, I can hear him thinking ‘Gee, thanks.’ already.

Lathe was stunned, he and Eren sharing a shocked look. …did he just… he did, didn't he. Finally. Lathe grinned, ambling over and faking a disapproving tone, ruffling Tucker’s hair. “So I make terrible grilled cheese, do I?”

Tucker grinned sheepishly, batting away Lathe’s hand. “I didn't say that…”
“Really? Because it sounded like you totally just insulted my cooking skillz.” The ‘z’ in ‘skillz’ was audible as he hugged him from behind. “I oughta tickle you for that.” Tucker struggled in his hold at the threat, tickling his ribs only for a moment before letting him go. “Okay, fine, I'll just go take me and my awful cooking skills elsewhere.”

Tucker reached out and snatched Lathe’s waist, tugging him back for a hug. “Your cooking skills are not awful. ...much.” He laughed as Lathe nearly got his ribs again, playfully shoving him back. “Stop trying to tickle me!”

“Mur.” Lathe stuck his tongue out at him, and Tucker did right back, causing Lathe to chuckle and amble off, letting them alone again. He called me Dad...

“...Tucker, you're literally turning into Lathe and it's awesome.” This is very amusing.

<“Where… Are you? East… Center?”> Tucker struggled to try and remember how he was supposed to say everything, unsure since Levi had said everything in English. But where in the Middle East is he? He looked over to Eren as the brunette got out stuff for grilled cheese. How do you say grilled cheese?

<“Where in the Middle East?”> He watched Tucker nod after a second, making sure to speak clearly. <“I'm in Iraq right now. I can't say where exactly, but that’s the country. It's hot and dry as hell, just know that. It's all desert around here.”> At this rate I'll have skin cancer by next Thursday.

Tucker looked to Levi with a completely lost look. Why can he speak so fluently? I don’t get it. “Eren… What did Levi say?” He whined, turning his head to the taller man. “He talks too fast… And he’s using words I don’t know.”

Eren sighed shaking his head a bit. “He said he’s in Iraq, but he can’t tell you where, and that he’s really hot outside… Knowing him he’s complaining about it being hot because his soldiers are probably dropping left and right from overheating.” He finished up making Tucker’s sandwich, handing it off and making himself one. <“How many passed out today Levi?”>

<“Three that I know of, they've been dropping like flies… it's not as bad as when we first got here, but still, you'd think they'd be doing a bit better coping with the heat.”> Levi watched Tucker dig into his sandwich, a flicker of jealousy in his eye. <“...I would kill for a grilled cheese right now.”> Tasty...
Eren snorted from where he stood. <“Well, you’ve got something to look forward to coming home to at least.”> Yes, you only care about your food… <“Not even wanting to see me, just wants my food… Ugh… So painful.”> He dramatically fainted behind Tucker so that Levi could see. What’s gonna be your response?

<“Well Eren, we do know your sausage is to die for.”> Levi was wearing a shit-eating grin, listening as Eren made noises akin to that of a dying whale while trying to hold in his laughter. <“I know what my first meal is going to be, coming home…”> You.

Eren grew completely crimson as Tucker turned in his chair and asked what Levi had said. <“It’s better for me to know and for you to not…”> He sighed when Tucker gave him another look. “Alright, English, I’m sorry, I’m in the habit of speaking my mother tongue…. Anyways, Levi’s saying adult things….” He slipped Levi the bird while Tucker’s back was turned. <“Think of the children, will you!? My heart cannot take promises for that long… And you’ll forget about it probably, so it’ll just get my hopes up for nothing…”>

<“Maybe.”> Levi chuckled as Tucker evenly glared at him for a moment before turning back to his sandwich, no real malice in his look. <“Have you been causing Dad much trouble?”> It was a test question, and Tucker seemed to think hard for a moment before nodding. Levi smirked. <“Good. Just checking.”> These things are important. <“Studying going okay?”> Has Dad tutoring you helped your learning by yourself in the classroom?

Tucker shrugged, his eyes seeming to dull as he thought about school. <“I… Not want to go back….”> I really don’t not after what he did to me. He shifted uncomfortably in his seat, flinching a bit when Eren sat next to him. It’s just Eren…

Levi considered him for a moment, careful so he could understand better. <“Even if you don’t… you have to. Not everyone is so mean. And you need to learn from your teachers. Dad has to keep the house from falling apart. You should try to go back soon. Promise me you will.”> You can’t stay home forever… I know what happened was seriously traumatic, but not everyone is like that… you need to try to go back. You can’t stay home forever.

Tucker was quiet for a moment, nodding after a long pause. <“I… I can try…”> I don’t wanna go back… Devon’s still there, he doesn’t have his court date yet… And I’ll have to go in for that…. I don’t wanna see him…. Tucker squirmed in his chair, trying not to think about what happened as Eren pulled Tucker into his lap, his hand carding through his hair.

Tucker was facing away from the camera as Eren pulled him flush. You’re trying not to cry, but it’s okay if you do… His hand gentle as it slowly made it’s way through Tucker’s dark brown locks.
“It’s okay.” He whispered quietly to the boy as he felt him shudder in his arms. You were trying not to panic…. He gently rocked Tucker to try and calm him more, feeling him begin to relax. <“His rapist doesn’t have a court date yet, but as soon as he does, Tucker will be brought in to testify on that day…. Devon’s still allowed at the school, I’m not sure they know what’s going on really, Dad’s been letting Tucker stay home.”> Let’s hope that that explanation helps a bit, so you can understand what’s going on around here.

Levi’s eyes widened. <“Are you serious? They need to know what’s going on with their student, because when all of a sudden he’s put away for life they’re going to be shocked. ….and if Tucker wants to go to school and feel safe… but they let Devon go to school and scare Tucker every time they’re in the same room… I think that’s against Title IX or something. Remember when we watched that movie in class?”> I think that's a thing… <“Look, tell Dad that he and Zacharias need to talk about what Devon did. He shouldn't be in the same classes as Tucker anymore, because it's keeping him home, which means he’s missing classwork and falling even more behind because Dad can't be a teacher for eight hours a day anymore with so many people to take care of.”> He's a miracle worker, but he's not a time lord. There's a difference.

<“I know… But his parents are trying to cover it up as best as they can, it hasn’t even made the news around here yet. I could only imagine what it would be like if the national news came and did a story on it…”> Eren kept running his fingers through Tucker’s hair, watching as Lathe came to get him. He’ll be okay, he’s getting better at least...

“C’mon, kid, up we go.” Lathes voice was soft as he scooped Tucker from Eren’s arms, looking to Levi onscreen. <“...I do need to tell them. I've been dragging my feet about it, but it should be done. I'll call him today if I can.”> I have a house to run, and Tucker has classes to attend. Lathe gently kissed the top of Tucker’s head, meandering with him to the living room, quietly asking if he wanted to play cards. Anything to help you feel better.

Eren watched them go off out of sight with a sigh. <“Oh, um, let's put that topic aside for right now… Hannah’s horse had her filly. She’s gorgeous….”> A wide grin had settled on Levi’s features, a happy smile, his hands supporting his head as he watched the screen and people move around behind Levi. So many people are there...

Levi smirked, his chin in his hand. <“When did Luna have her? Is she still struggling to get her hooves under her?”> If she's still at the point where her legs are like ‘lol what’s walking’ I’d love to see it.

< “No, Arya’s not struggling anymore, she’s about three and a half weeks old, she’s a really good runner already, we have to watch her because she can slip through the fence, and she’s done that once already… I had to go get Charlie and go out and find her, she didn’t get far though, which was good.”> She’s a little escape artist… We’re gonna have to lock her door with a lock and key when she gets older.
Levi chuckled. “Arya? Nice name. But I thought they had to be given, like, an official name or something?”

“I dunno, a thing because she’s a pure Bavarian Warmblood.”

“Arya’s her barn name… Her registered name is Fleet Feet, and as soon as we registered her I’ve been getting emails about how much people are willing to pay for her… The highest I’ve gotten so far was $150k from a man in Idaho… She’s got the bloodlines for competitive jumping…”

“I almost wanna keep her just to see what she can do…"

“Wow, that’s a lot of money. And it’s a fitting name for a filly that seems to want to run away.” Levi chuckled, running a hand through his hair. “But we need to remember too that Hannah owns her too; so she’s, like, a joint-custody filly. But that’s great!” That’s a ton of money to pay for one horse…"

“Yeah, it is great, and I guess I can get used to the joint-custody now before I have to deal with you and my kids… That’s just gonna be a nightmare, I can see it already!” Eren joked as he sipped from the glass he had gotten forever ago. “I don’t really know what to do though… I don’t have a schedule I need to keep anymore since Jeff dropped me. I know Dad said he would produce my music for me… But, I just… I don’t know what to sing anymore. I guess I’m kinda lost… It’s even worse now that I don’t have you right by my side now. What am I supposed to do?” Eren’s voice started to get a bit shaky towards the end of his spiel. I don’t know what to do anymore.

Levi looked to his hand, not knowing what to say. “...I’m sorry you have to go on by yourself for a while… but you’re not alone. You have everyone back home to support you… but… you have a lot of time now and nothing to do with it. I….” Levi didn't know what to do besides shrug, looking up, his face falling as he saw the torn look in his eyes. “Eren, please don't cry…” Fuck, I can't hug him or kiss away his tears or anything…. "Maybe you should look around for some kind of job, have something to do during the day if you don't know what to do with yourself… it'll help keep your mind busy…” I don't know what you'd do… but… anything might do you good…"

“Yeah, the uneducated pop star is going to get a job…. That makes total sense, Levi…” Eren wiped away the tears that started to form in his eyes, sniffing a bit. I hate this… I just go out and ride all the time… and Charlie just puts up with it… I haven’t taken him to any competitions either… maybe I could do that? “Maybe I could take Charlie to a competition?” What do you think about that suggestion?

Levi nodded at that, smiling faintly. “That’s definitely an idea. You’re a very good rider, and Charlie certainly seems able to do whatever you want him to. I think you should.” You’ll have fun. “It seems like a better idea than bagging groceries somewhere… and now I can't stop thinking of celebrities doing that.” Yeah, that's a ridiculous idea. You yourself could do so much better.
It is a ridiculous idea, thank god you realize that…. Maybe I could leave for a little bit, go and stay with Hannes for a bit? I mean Dad’s got his hands full with the kids as it is… Maybe I could set up something in Germany, maybe a concert… I’m not sure how many people listen to my music anymore though… But Youtube keeps sending me checks, and I get royalties through Jeff still… So maybe there is an audience out there… wait… can I get there on a boat? I am not flying there, no way… nope, I’m never getting on one of those metal death traps ever again…”>

He shook his head, his chocolate locks moving everywhere. Absolutely not. I hate flying… I will never do that ever again!

“Well, even if you did sail there, you’d spend a bit on a train getting into Europe to Germany. It’s not exactly on the edge of the sea. But that’s quite the idea. You and Hannes get to spend time with each other- we all know how me he’s missed you- and you could do stuff there. I dunno, see the horses he tends, visit where your home used to be, set up a concert even if you wanted. It could do you some good. …but wait awhile until Tucker’s a bit more stable, okay? I can tell he’s been a lot more clingy to you and Lathe than usual because of what happened. He needs the support.”

And he’s been doing so well… I can’t believe something like that happened to him… < “…I’m sorry to bring the topic back… but, Uhm… how did it happen…? Do you know much?”>

“I can’t help but be curious as to how this guy got the opportunity and took it…

“Well, Tucker I guess talked to Dad last week, saying that he had a crush on Devon, and that he was really confused as to what he was… Devon’s a senior… They were in the same engineering class, and apparently they were paired up for a project… So they wanted to finish it up on Friday night so they didn’t have to meet over the weekend to finish it by Monday… I guess Tucker said something about liking him, and at first Devon laughed at him, and Tucker told him he really did… This was all over dinner that Devon had fixed them ’cause he was staying late as it was…. Devon grabbed him and took him to the couch in the living room and overpowered him… You know Tucker, he’s not a big kid… And Devon is twice his size…. I’m just worried about how he’s gonna see his crushes from now on… And he slept with me the other night when Mom came home late… I’m worried about him, he seems like he’s getting better, but I don’t want him to end up like I did.”

I really don’t… He covered his mouth, as if feeling sick by the words he spoke. I don’t want him to go through what I went through.

Levi was worried when Eren covered his mouth, the brunette looking a bit sick. <“I’m sure he’s going to be just fine, Eren. But he’s going to need some time. Plenty of it, given this was his first crush on a guy. He’s young and confused about what he is, and it’s not surprising really that he’s flipped the switch from being homophobic to maybe being gay or bi or whatever since he’s at that age. We both know what it was like.”>

He watched Eren nod, shrugging. <“He’s got to make plenty of amends with himself after this, but hopefully he’ll be his old self again soon. He’ll be okay. He’s tough, and he’s got you and Lathe to talk to if he needs to.”>

He’s got a good support system in place; he’ll be okay soon.

“I’m still worried… Tucker keeps everything bottled up, and tries to handle it himself… Remember how he was failing earlier this year? Well, he never told us, he just struggled with his homework in silence, and I’m so worried that there’s so much he’s not telling us…”>

Eren had to cover his mouth again as he felt nausea run through him once again. I… Fuck I think I’m gonna be sick… I feel horrible about this… I should’ve gone over there to get him, but Dad said he would text when he needed a ride… <“I um… I need to go… Hold on…”> Eren hurriedly got up and went to the bathroom that wasn’t too far away from the kitchen, closing the door and locking it as he became acquainted with the porcelain bowl once again. Fuck I couldn’t keep it down…

Levi waited in tense silence as Eren ran off, looking green. *He's throwing up… fuck… *he must blame himself for this, at least a little bit… he's so worried… It was a long fifteen minutes before Eren appeared back on screen, looking worn out. <“Eren, you're literally worrying yourself sick. You can't; that'll make things worse. …you need to trust that he'll come out of this okay. He'd been so scared to tell you about his grades; he was fearful that he'd get yelled at, punished. But after all this? Even when he talks to Lathe about maybe being gay, even when he's raped and feels sick and disgusting, all that you and Lathe wanted was to help him and to take care of him. I think he's beginning to understand just how many shits you two give about him. I think he's going to be a bit more open, but keep a careful eye on him, okay? Try to have small conversations about stuff if you think he's hiding something specific. But don't push him too hard, okay? He'll get defensive.”> He's in the fragile spot of being vulnerable and unsure of whether to trust you two at the same time. Careful.

Eren nodded, thinking of a few things that popped into his head. <“Is it okay if we switch topics? I feel like I’m gonna get sick again if we keep talking about it….”> Eren didn’t wait for a reply before he nodded, running his shaking hands through his hair. <“Can we think about names?”> Please, I wanna switch topics…

<“Tiny human names?”> He smirked when Eren nodded, looking down at the table, thinking. <“Ugh, names are going to be the hardest part of all of this…. and we need middle names, and if it's a boy or a girl…. …if it's a girl, Lilian might be a nice name… and a boy…. hm… anything that isn't Michael.”> Yeah, no Michaels. Sorry not sorry. There are too many of them already.

<“Not Lilian, I got harassed in middle school by a girl named Lily, she shoved me in a locker and everyone forgot about me… I was in there for almost a whole day… Lilian is a no go.”> My daughter will not be named Lilian or Lily or any other variation of that fucking name!

< “Well then, okay. And now I'm out of ideas. I had literally one idea, and now it's gone. ...but I'm still thinking…”> Why do people ever think this is easy? <“...Rhododendron.”> It's not nothing… but pretty close to nothing.

<“Levi, if I could threaten abstinence you wouldn’t be gettin’ any…. I am not naming my daughter after a goddamn bush …. Now, try again, before I make my way to Iraq and skin you for suggesting it.”> Eren narrowed his eyes, straightening himself in his seat. No… No bushes…
I have no damn idea how to name a fucking child. Delilah sounds pretty, so there.

And now we’re onto either song lyrics or flowers… I can’t tell which but either way, I don’t want her to be stuck with people randomly blurt out “Hey there” and then expecting her to continue the song, nope, also not happening. I refuse… And I’m making a list of names our daughter/son shall not be named… Hahaha, Voldemort. I’m making a list called ‘The Children who shall not be named’. Voldemort used his powers against me… I’ve turned to the dark side… They have Daniel Radcliffe… And all of his fine ass.

Are you saying you prefer Daniel Radcliffe over me? I'm insulted, Eren. That hurts. And last I checked, he was one of the good guys. Yeah, Harry Potter doesn't bring an evil image to mind.

I never said he was evil… I just said the dark side has him… As in like a possession… That can be lost or traded… And yes, A) he’s a fucking movie star, B) He’s Harry fucking Potter, C) I could hear what Harry would moan like! It would be awesome!

I legitimately can't tell if you're fucking with me or not right now.

I couldn’t possibly be fucking with you, we’re on a Skype call half way across the world from each other… How does that constitute as fucking with you?

Levi smirked, leveling Eren with a cool look. “I know it’s a stretch, but hey, maybe I'm just desperate. A man can dream, can't he?” I wish … Ugh, the things I'd do just to get a kiss...

….. Desperate…….. Eren smiled softly, trying to hide his unease. I know what he said… I need to try and believe that he’ll wait too … “I guess he can… He can also try and imagine names for our future child.”

Levi dropped his head onto his arm, groaning. “...Eren, can we just accept I'm useless for names at the moment? Gimme time and I'll probably have a suggestion in, like, a month. ...tops.” I can't names...

Eren watched him drop his head, a frown flitting across his lips for a moment before disappearing. “Can we just accept that-...” His eyes widened as he looked up. “Jake… Put the knife down…”
It’s one of his mental breaks... And to think that he was fine a little bit ago... Eren looked between Levi on the screen and Jake before silencing the computer completely. “Jake… Can you hear me?” His words soft as he slowly got up, slowly getting closer to Jake. He could see the younger boy shaking as he weakly held the knife in his hand, watching Eren come closer with wide eyes. You need to calm down Hun... But first I need to get the knife away from you....

Wait, what. Levi picked his head up and watched with wide eyes as Eren moved off the screen, paling the slightest bit. Jake’s having one of his breaks? What?! Fuck ... I can’t see what’s happening... Levi heard the quiet hush of Eren’s soft voice, the tremor of Jake’s. Jake, don’t get violent and hurt Eren... please don’t...

Eren slowly came up to Jake, watching him as he watched back, the two of them almost analyzing each other. What are you doing Jake? Where are you... I know you can here me... But what memory are you in? “Jake, the bad man’s not here anymore, okay? I’m gonna come close to you… Don’t freak out, it’s just me.” His words were gentle as he stepped ever so close to Jake, quickly grabbing his wrist that held the knife and bringing Jake into his body after the knife clattered to the ground, letting out a heavy sigh and burying his nose in Jake’s hair. Oh thank god, you’re okay for now... Dad... Where’s Dad? Dad needs to come help...

Lathe’s head poked out from behind a corner a few moments after the knife loudly clattered onto the floor. “What was that-” He gasped when he saw the large knife on the floor, Jake trying to relax in Eren’s hold. “Eren, did he...?” He saw him nod, coming over slowly, trying not to seem threatening. “Jake, Honey… are you okay?” He reached out, a hand gently carding through his hair. Don’t be scared of me... please.

Jake flinched for a moment before he turned a teary eye to Lathe to see him. Dad? “I... I-Is... B... bad man.... Gone?” He whispered quietly, looking around in worry in the kitchen, as if terrified of a force unseen. I... I can’t see him...

Lathe nodded, moving to hold onto him with Eren, the two of them calming him and cooing to him quietly. “The bad man is gone, Jake, we’re all safe. You’re safe. It’s okay, Honey. Don’t cry.” Lathe gently wiped away his tears, tracing small patterns into his shoulder as Jake sniffled, his red face smushed against Eren’s chest. It’s okay... Lathe looked up to Eren from where he’d knelt on one knee, his words soft. <“Do you want me to take care of him, or...?”> I know Levi is probably still on the line... and Jake is kinda okay... this wasn't a bad one, I don't think...

<“I think that would work… Take him upstairs…”> He murmured quietly slowly starting to release Jake, watching his head pop up in confusion. Don’t freak out.

Leaving? Are you leaving? Jake’s eyes were wide as he watched Eren kiss his forehead, his hands beginning to shake. Why are you leaving?

“Jake, Dad’s gonna take you back upstairs… Okay?” Levi’s still on skype…

The smaller boy looked over to Lathe, who was on his knees now, nodding and slowly slipping his hands from Eren’s shirt to Lathe’s. Okay… I can go with Daddy…. His shaking hands gripped onto Lathe’s shirt as the man stood up and lifted him, his head nestling into his shoulder. “B-bed?” His voice was small as he held onto Lathe, still a bit shaky.

“Okay Hon. We’ll get you upstairs for a nap.” I know how these breaks really wear you out… Lathe cradled him close, bringing him upstairs to get him in pajamas and tuck him in. He’ll be out like a light… probably until dinner…

Eren sighed as he watched him walk away with Jake in his arms. Okay… He’s okay… Good. He made his way over to the computer, unmuting it. <“We’re all good now…”> I swear every time you call crazy things happen… <“Anything crazy happen where you are?”> His eyes looked hopeful. I don’t think I could leave Jake alone… Let alone Tucker right now…

Levi just slowly shook his head, his expression still one of worry. <“No… another person just dropped like a sack of potatoes from the heat again… but we just expect that now.”> Nothing unusual by our standards… <“I’m sorry so much is happening when I can’t be there…”> You two have a lot on your plate…. and I can’t help…

<“Well, we might be getting a few more kids after Sammie’s gone… The foster agency is thinking about giving us a group of boys… Brothers that wanna stay together, and they range from Tucker’s age to Sammie’s age… They don’t wanna be split up.”> I can only imagine what some of these kids have been through, and I know what Tucker’s been through, which is probably why he’s gonna ask to sleep with me again tonight. <“Some of these kids…. The horror stories I hear… Especially from Tucker, about what other kids have been through, it’s heart breaking…”> I wish we could take more, we have the means and the space, but I’m not married, so I can’t take any… I don’t live in a separate location either…

<“I can’t believe how broken the system is… I’m really glad Dad signed up to do this as quickly as he did. The kids that go through the system- Tucker, Jake, Sammie- and everyone else… they need a place to support them until they find permanent homes… you’re doing such a good job of it…”> And knowing Lathe, he would be just fine with plenty more than six foster kids at once. He could do a dozen… he’s so patient.

<“Thanks… Let’s see is there anything I’ve forgotten to mention…. Oh, the school is thinking of allowing Jake to go to the high school for math classes…. I kinda taught him all the way up to Calc AB….”>

Eren rubbed the back of his neck in embarrassment from the shocked look Levi have him. What… He’s got an exceptional brain… He should use it…

< “…I struggled so hard through that class for a lousy B and Jake just knows all that? What were you thinking, teaching derivatives to a third-grader?! I’m not saying I’m not impressed, but my god, man…”> Levi just shook his head, smiling faintly. <“If he thinks he can do it, let him. …and see if he can learn the other grades’ worth of stuff just as quickly. Maybe he can end up skipping a grade or two. If he retains history and science at this rate along with everything else, probably.”> That’d be amazing…

< “Well, did you see the guy that made ‘history of Japan’… That video I made you watch a bunch of times? Well he made a video called ‘history of everything, I guess’ and I showed it to Jake a few times, and he remembers the whole damn thing… I’m starting to think he’s got a photographic memory.”> *He very well could have it… <“He knows how to integrate too… And do all the volumes and areas on the graphs….”>

< “If he understands integration, I’m not sure anything else could explain it. Lathe so needs to talk to Zacharias and see if he can test into a different grade; he could probably do it if Lathe helps him study. He still has copies of what the different grades’ classes are supposed to know. I remember he has this binder full of exam outlines and shit.”> *He needed them when he subbed near the end of the year; if you got him as a sub in May, the class was in for a review of the course. <“It sounds like he could test into the high school grades, at least for math. He should so have him take the AP exam in May, just to see how he’d do.”> Probably, he’d do well.

< “Yeah, I guess, I know in Math he should be able to take the exam… but I would wait until he goes through a class, that’s an easy A for him now…What am I missing… Oh yeah, um, Krampus finally got back to solid food again… Remember when Sharon lost her phone in our house? The one she called a plastic brick?”> Most likely, we tried to look for it… It was in his stomach for as long as you’ve been gone… <“Well, um, we found it, in his stomach, along with an expo market he tried to eat.”>

<“...Krampus ate Sharon’s cell phone. And an expo marker.”> Levi shook his head when Eren nodded. <“My god, that dog’s gonna get himself killed… let me guess, someone had to take him to the vet after the expo marker got eaten?”> That'd explain how you found the phone… and the fact that he's apparently been off of solid food for a while…

< “Yeah, Dad took him, they also found one of those wooden trains Sammie’s got and it looked like he chewed that to pieces… and some change… And the spare set of keys we couldn’t find….”> He’s getting almost as big as Blake… And Blake’s getting old… I’m gonna need to look for a new dog soon…
"Honestly, I’d probably just have a cone on his head for the rest of eternity so he couldn't get crap off the floor. ...that, or I'd probably drive everyone nuts making them clean shit off the ground so he can't go gobbling it up. But he really chewed up one of the wooden trains in half? Those were legit solid trains, they're made for the abuse of toddlers… but apparently not for the aggressive chewing of the wild doge.”> Apparently not. "And unless you clean those keys in boiling water first I wouldn't use them.”> I myself wouldn't want to use half-digested keys, no thank you. I'd break in first.

"Well, Dad had since gotten a new set of keys, and you should see him…”> Eren rose his fingers to his mouth and whistled loudly, hearing the click of nails against the floor as a small flock of dogs got close. “Krampus, come here…” He got off the stool to pick up the smaller dog from the pack, his cone still on his head and his stomach still decently shaved. "This is Krampus now... A lot thinner than he was before… And he’s got a scar running down his stomach.”> Eren carefully lifted the whining dog to show Levi the huge scar, setting him down in his lap after to gently pet him. "He’s not allowed to take the cone off for awhile…. Hanji’s orders… Oh and we found out that Hanji’s married to Moblit, the guy that paired me with Blake, and right now he’s looking for another dog for me…”> He knows Blake’s too old to go around with me anymore...

Levi’s eyebrows shot up at the sight of the scar running straight down his belly. "Ouch. Well, at least he won't be eating up anything that isn't food anytime soon. ......and Hanji got married? Huh. I took them as the type to be already too married to their work to have any time for a relationship.”> His voice lost some of it’s playful tone, sounding a bit more serious. "And Blake is getting kinda old… it's been a long time since you got him.”> He's done so much for you...

"Yeah, apparently they’ve been married since before we had her as a teacher, can you believe that? Blake doesn’t leave the house much anymore, and mostly concerns himself with entertaining Sammie and walking around the house with her. Nene’s getting a lot bigger, she's harder to push off of you once she’s asleep, and she just sleeps all the time. She’s in Tucker's room a lot more now, since he’s been sleeping at home a lot more, they’ve been besties for the past week and a half.”> They’ve looked really cute together. I should really start painting pictures of them.

"Huh, she always had us call her Ms. Hanji if you used the ‘Ms.’, but I know we mostly just called her Hanji, so… I dunno. But that's weird to think of- she never mentioned him before. Blake’s got his work cut out for him; Sammie’s got enough energy for three adults. And that sounds like Nene- always napping and able to convince you to let her sleep on the bed.”> You can't ever say no to her... she just wants to sleep. We empathize too much, so he always wins.

"Well, I guess they’d been separated, and Moblit finally asked to marry her again… I guess they’ve been married for about as long as we’ve been alive… But she never wore her ring because they weren’t together… Yeah, Blake has to take some breaks every once in awhile…”> Eren looked up as Lathe came in. "What are we making for dinner? And is Jake okay?”> I really hope he is... Eren shifted in his seat, shifting the computer so that Levi could see the both of them.
"Jake’s just fine, I have him in bed for a nap. He needs some rest and should be fine when he wakes up. Tucker too- he’s asleep, couldn't last for more than one game of Follow the Queens. It's a tiring day, and it's barely two.”> Lathe plopped down next to Eren, running a hand through his shaggy hair, looking tired. <“I’ll think of something to make for dinner. I might take the easy way out and let everyone make sandwiches and eat what they want. There are leftovers too… it's a foraging night.”> Lathe put his head on his arms on the table, sighing. <“Ugh, I could use a nap myself…”> I could use some sleep… I've been up really late and waking up really early… I'm worse than Ieva at this point...

<“Why don’t you go nap then? I can take care of dinner and set out a sorta-buffet of leftovers and such, shouldn't be much of a problem, go nap… You look like you need it Dad.”> You’ve gotta be so stressed out lately… Especially with everything going on, I know you and Mom aren't necessarily on the best of nightly terms at the moment… Nothing has come out of your room in two months… Eren gave him a reassuring pat on the arm. “Go sleep.”

Lathe looked up, giving him a weary look and standing. <“I think some rest will do me good… thanks, Eren.”> He tiredly waved to Levi, flashing him a small grin. <“I'll see you soon Levi. Take care of yourself.”> Lathe let his arm drop as Levi bid him goodnight, ambling off tiredly for upstairs. It didn't take long for him to change, his clothes folded neatly as always before he collapsed into bed, immediately knocked out. Ugh… I ache everywhere....

Levi looked back to Eren when he was sure Lathe wouldn't hear, his voice soft, brows furrowed a bit with worry. <“...do you know how he and Mom are doing, since…”> The unspoken word hung in the air, heavy. I know it's been hard on them… but I don't know if things have mended much since then… Dad had been distant at best a lot of the time when I was still home...

<“Not good… They haven't had any relations since then… Mom’s a lot more… How do I put this? Quiet, I guess? She sometimes just clings to Dad and starts crying… Though it’s mostly once the kids are asleep… She’s not been sleeping well… And neither has Dad really.”> Eren sighed, looking around the quiet house, Sammie quietly playing with blocks while Blake was laying by her. I wish I could do more… And help them try and get back together again...

Levi looked sympathetic, the quiet in the house behind Eren feeling out of place. <“...they lost a kid… it's going to take some time, but…”> It's been a while already.... <“I hope things work out in time…”> They’ll learn to move on… <“Dad seems really worn out… if anything, he needs a break…..”> And probably a good lay. But that’s hard to fix.

<“Yeah, I think the two of them just need a good bang to get it all out… Anyways… I think I might make some brotchen with Sammie… Keep her occupied….”> it would help out with sandwiches… If people decided they wanted them.
“That'd probably fix a lot of their problems, it's got to be driving both of them nuts. And good luck trying to get Sammie to focus on anything for two seconds. You'll need it.”

“I think I can manage it, especially if I tell her that I’m teaching her…” Eren turned his head. “Sammie…” He smiled when he got her to look at him. “Do you wanna learn how to make some special rolls with me?” Come on, I’m sure you’ll want to…

“....m-me… make stuff? ...learn?” Sammie looked to him with curious eyes, lighting up when he nodded. “Me learn!” She immediately scampered over, colliding with his legs and holding tight. I wanna learn to make the thing!

Eren smiled, picking her up and resting her on his hip. “See that Levi, she wants to learn. And then she can help anytime she wants to learn, isn’t that right Sammie?” I knew it, you'll stay entertained…

Sammie beamed toothily, sounding happy. “M- Me help Eren! Learn stuff!” She looked over and saw Levi on the screen, her eyes going wide, waving at him. “L-Levi!” Miss you! Haven't been home…

Levi smiled, waving to her. “Hey again Sammie. You be good for Eren, okay? Don't get too much dough in his hair. Just enough to get him annoyed.” You've got the skill. Don't let us down.

Eren chuckled quietly, setting her on the counter. “Alright Levi, I think this is goodbye for now… Say bye bye Sammie.” He had a gentle smile on his face, boosting her up a little bit. You can say bye.

Sammie smiled, waving her small hand at Levi. “Bye bye!”

Levi waved to her, smiling faintly. “Bye, Sammie.” <>And I love you, Eren.” Levi winked to him, smirking. I'll see you soon.
Chapter 72: Illness is a Bitch

Ieva was long gone to work by the time the kids were supposed to get up for school. Lathe stirred from sleep when he heard the sounds of the house waking up, the sheets on the floor, kicked off sometime during the night. He barely registered the sounds outside the door as dull thuds of footsteps and muffled voices, all of them sending muted pain through his skull. His limbs felt heavy, breathing was a chore, and he radiated heat like a furnace. Guh… Lathe heaved an arm over to the nightstand, fumbling blindly for his phone. He struggled to unlock it and type out a short message, dropping it when he was sure it sent.

LQ: Eren help

Eren felt his phone buzzing in his pocket, a small sigh escaping his lips as he set a pancake on Tucker’s plate, setting the pan down when he made sure that all the kids were eating properly. What is it? His eyes widened at the text message and he looked to Tucker. “Make sure that Sammie finishes up her plate…” He watched the older boy nod before scampering off to the stairs, bounding up them two at a time. What’s wrong? He went right to Lathe’s door, coming and closing the door, taking in the sight of Lathe sprawled over the whole bed, the sheets on the floor along with his cellphone. “Dad?” His voice was timid and quiet as he slowly came up to the man, feeling his forehead and realizing just how hot he was.

Fuck, he’s sick… Of course he is…

“I’m gonna go get the fever medication, okay? Do you want me to bring you anything else? I got the kids up and eating right now, then I’ll get them dressed and get them to school… You just stay in bed and rest.” Eren had knelt down beside the bed, letting his fingers glide through Lathe’s black hair. He’s pale… Paler than he normally is…

Lathe blearily blinked at him, barely able to nod, his eyes sliding shut after a second. “...bright…” He barely mumbled, trying weakly to burrow into the bed, wanting to get away from the light and the sound. Hurts…. “...okay… water… please… can't move….h-hurts…” I feel awful… everything hurts… He felt a dull thud in his head, and the lump in his throat kept him from whimpering in pain. Head hurts… hurts to think… guh…

Eren nodded, getting up and pulling the curtains together and then turning the light off, darkening the whole room. “I’ll be back, do you want me to make you something for breakfast?” I can make oatmeal, if you think you can eat it? His voice was full of concern as Lathe buried himself into his bed. He’s never sick, I can only imagine what it’s like for him…

Lathe tried to shake his head, the idea of food making him feel sick. “...n-not hungry… th-thank you…” I wanna sleep… make it stop hurting… He didn't have to wait long, having stayed absolutely still, trying to minimize his pain when Eren came back with medicine and a glass of cool water. He moved his hands next to him, weakly trying to force himself to sit up. Even with Eren helping it was a struggle, and he swayed to the side as his head spun. He leaned back against the headboard, trying to focus on the new task at hand. Water… pills… take…. Lathe held out a shaky hand for the pills, trying to keep a solid grip on the glass to wash the pills down. Lathe didn't have the energy to be embarrassed when Eren had to held him hold the glass to his lips, his coordination thrown off. He struggled for a long minute to swallow down the whole glass, grateful when he was allowed to slump back onto the bed. “...thank you...” I wanna feel better...

Eren smiled softly and leaned down to peck Lathe’s forehead. “Okay, I’m going to push Jake on the bus to school, and dress Sammie and Tucker, I called Casper so he’s gonna come over and take care of Sammie to make sure she’s entertained while I talk to Mike about Devon still being in school. If you need anything, Casper will be here, or I’ll be home by then, okay?” Eren’s voice was soft, his hand running through Lathe’s hair, not bothered by the sweat that made his hair damp. He’s covered in sweat. “You want me to get you a new pair of boxers? So you can change? You’re covered in sweat...” I don’t want you to be uncomfortable...

Lathe could feel his hair sticking at the back of his neck, finally registering that his hair was plastered to his forehead too. “......no thanks... didn't even notice... won't help....” I'll need new ones after two minutes... “...and if you need to... say we could make a Title IX complaint...” That's a thing...

“That's what I’m going in to school for, and I have one of the cops that helped with that coming too... To escort him home...” Eren leaned down to kiss his forehead and gently tuck him in. Tucker should go back to classes, but I’m not letting him in the same building as Devon. “I’ll come back up before I leave to tell you Casper’s here, okay?” He had a soft smile on his face, his hands gently running through Lathe’s hair, gently touching his scalp.

Lathe smiled weakly, nodding a bit. He leaned into his gentle touch, chuckling for a moment. “...that sounds like what I’d do. Even better, really. Thank you, Hon. Tucker needs to get back to classes.” He sighed as Eren tucked the sheet back around him, feeling very warm but resisting the urge to kick it off. “Okay, make sure you tell me so I know who to text in case I need someone to wait on me, okay?” Lathe quietly joked, letting his eyes slip back shut with a small smile as it earned him a small chuckle. You'll do just fine.... After all, Mike has to listen. ...it's the law we're talking about.

Eren smiled, going back downstairs to make sure Jake made it to the bus, Sammie on his hip the whole time, Tucker getting all his work together to go back to class. He waited patiently for Casper to make his way over, handing Sammie over to her. He made a quick dash upstairs to tell Lathe that Casper was there if he needed anything before he ran back downstairs to get the keys to the car, ushering Tucker down the steps and locking the door behind him. “You okay?” You look like you're regretting this a little.

“Will... Devon w-won’t be there... W-will he?” Tucker’s voice was shaky as they backed out of the driveway. We’re really doing this.... I’m really gonna go back...
Eren sighed quietly, focusing on the road as they began the short drive. “Devon is going to be there for just a little bit... he's not going to be there for long, though. A police officer is going to meet us there and Devon will be called to the principal’s office. We need to all talk about the pending charge against him, and how him being there is keeping you from your education. It's a Title IX violation, so Mr. Zacharias will have to send him home. But once that's done, he can't be on school grounds while you are. And you're most likely going to win the case, so he won't be coming back. I know it sounds complicated, but he's not going to be coming back to school and making you or anyone else feel unsafe. I don't even know if the school knows about the charges at all. They need to; it could happen to someone else. And we can't have that.” Eren soon had the car parked, seeing a squad car near the front door of the school. “That's our backup. Literally.” Eren reached over to pat Tucker’s shoulder, giving him a reassuring look. “It'll be okay. We’ll take care of this, and then you can go back to class and focus on learning.” This'll work out. Eren got out of the car, waiting patiently as Tucker stared through the windshield at the school. Give him a minute. He needs to get up his nerves... this is a big thing for him.

Tucker looked with wide eyes as Eren got out, looking back to the huge building before them. He swallowed thickly, looking down at his hands as they shook, starting to shake himself. This is it... I... I get to go back to school... Tucker barely realized he had gotten out of the car until he felt Eren’s arm wrap around his shoulder. I’m okay... we can do this... I can do this. His eyes made a beeline to the squad car as the door opened, producing Officer Brandy from the previous week. It’s the strange officer... the one who asked me all the questions. Tucker kept his head down as Eren and Officer Brandy led him into the school, feeling the silence of the hallways try to consume him as they made their way to the office. Oh no... it's really happening... Tucker started to shake even more as the secretary called for Mike to come out of his office.

Mike stepped out of his office a few moments after Nanaba got off the intercom. “What’s this?” Mike’s eyes instantly drifted to the scene in front of the desk. I can smell the nervousness coming off of Tucker... “What’s your business here Eren? Do you have an explanation as to why there’s an officer here too?” What is going on.... ?

Eren nodded, his arm around Tucker reassuring. “Yes, Mr. Zacharias. There's something you need to know about one of the students here; and an explanation as to why Tucker’s missed more than a week of classes. Would you rather we all talk in your office, or...?” Anyone can kinda walk in and hear this... yeah, not the best option...

Mike looked between Tucker, Eren and the officer before nodding. “Come in, let’s get this over with.” What is with your crazy family? Tucker was failing at first, now he’s not.... And he’s missed the past week of school.... He watched the three of them file into his office, Tucker silently shuffling into a seat as he made his way to sit at his desk. “Alright, start talking.”

Eren nodded, standing next to Tucker, a hand on his shoulder. “Mr. Zacharias, Tucker has a classmate in engineering, a senior named Devon Bracknell. They were assigned a project, and as such, met at Devon’s to work on it outside of school.” ...I can see you’re already thinking I’m crazy.
...and I don't know how to explain shit without outing Tucker... “...things escalated the last night when they tried to finish the last of it. When Lathe went to pick him up that night… he could tell quickly things had gone very wrong. There's currently a criminal case, aggravated rape of a child, pending against him, and a date is still to be set. His parents have tried very hard to brush things under the rug.” He explained, Mike looking completely shocked. “Tucker has been out of sorts…
terrified of coming back to face him in school. It's why he’s missed so many class days. But he deserves an education. ...which is why we’ve asked Officer Brandy to come with us today.” Eren nodded to the Officer at his left. “Because of the circumstances, it is a Title IX violation for Tucker to be forced to come to classes with Devon still present. We also are concerned that something else of this nature could happen again.” ...you're a good principal... just, please go with this... Devon can’t stay around other students while he has these charges against him... and Tucker can’t miss any more school...

Mike looked between Eren and Tucker’s shaking form, swallowing a bit as he looked up to Officer Brandy. “He doesn’t have a court date?” Well, I know he’s 18... He’ll be charged with an adult sentence.... Which is life... He sighed quietly, reaching to the intercom and pressing a button.
“Nanaba?”

“Yes, Sir?”

“Call Devon Bracknell’s parents, now, I want them both in my office in an hour, their son will no longer be attending classes within our facilities, call him to the office too, he’s not allowed to leave the building unless it’s in the back of Officer Brandy’s cruiser...Understood?”

“Of course, Sir, I’ll call him down first then call his parents.”

“Thank you Nanaba.” Mike looked up to Eren. “Thank you for telling me, he’ll be expelled by the end of the day…” His eyes looked softer than some people thought possible. “Tucker, once he’s in the office, you’re allowed to go back to classes, and you won’t have to worry about him anymore.”

Tucker’s eyes were wide as he watched Mike look at him with soft eyes. Devon’s coming here?
Then... Then he’s not gonna bother me ever again? He’ll.... He’ll be gone?

Eren sighed quietly in relief, his weak smile grateful. “ Thank you, Mr. Zacharias.” I'm glad you understand how awful this is... He ran a soothing hand over Tucker’s shoulder, though his brow furrowed when Tucker still seemed to shake with nerves. “Tucker, it's okay. You might see him once leaving this office, but then you're home free.” It's okay.
Tucker nodded clinging to Eren’s shirt still. “C-Can you… Can you take me t-to class?” I don’t wanna go alone…

Mike smiled, looking at Tucker as he held onto Eren. He certainly is a big brother… “You can take him, and then you can go, I’ll take care of the rest of this.” *You won’t want to see me rip into the parents or Devon for that matter."

Eren nodded, guiding Tucker to stand, slinging his backpack on his shoulder. “Thank you sir. Really.” He waved to the principal as they left before turning his attention back to Tucker, his hand on his back a reassuring presence. “You don’t have to worry about him, Tucker. We’ll do what we have to to make sure you don’t feel scared.” Anything. They turned down a hall to bring them to the high school, the classes mostly empty since classes had already started. Eren suddenly became hyper aware of another pair of footsteps in the halls, Tucker’s hold tightening on his shirt as they approached from an adjacent hallway. “…it’s okay, I’m right here.” Eren murmured to him, and Tucker pulled him down to where his classes were, turning into the hall. Eren kept Tucker from freezing up as Devon walked their way, his bag on his shoulder. He just tried to usher Tucker past him and down the hall, not wanting to make things worse. …don’t be scared. I’m right here.

The blonde looked up as the pair rounded the corner, seeing Eren escorting Tucker down the hall, and everything clicked. “You. You fucking snitch.” He dropped his bag, uncaring as he lunged for Tucker, fury in his eyes as he lashed out, aiming a punch for his face. His fist met flesh, but he realized what he had hit a second too late. Eren had shoved Tucker back and away from him, catching the fist and quickly had him slammed to the cold ground, pinning him as he fought and shouted angrily, desperately trying to get free. “I’m gonna go to fucking jail because of you! For years! If I can't kick your sorry ass now I'll do it when I get out!”

Eren’s eyes widened as he twisted his arm a bit more. “Shut it.” His voice was hard as he watched Devon squirm under him. “Tucker, go to the office and get Officer Brandy…” He watched as Tucker nodded and hurriedly ran off. “You miscalculated asshole, I hope you fucking realize what you did to my brother. You’re lucky I don’t knock you out right now.” I could kill you if I fucking wanted to…

“What the fuck are you talking about, asshole? The hell did I ‘miscalculate?’” What the fuck do you mean?

“You think you're so smart … That the Romeo and Juliet Law will help save your fucking ass but it won’t, you raped him! You raped a child! You go to prison for life, fuckwad, maybe you’ll be treated there the same way you treated my brother.” He shoved Devon’s head down to the floor to keep him in place. Fuck you and trying to keep this all under wraps, you stupid ass. You deserve every second you’re put away!
“He’s not a fucking child! And it wasn’t fucking rape! Get the fuck off of me!” He made an angry, pained sound as Eren twisted his arm up, still struggling to no avail. Fuck...

“Tucker’s 13. A child in the state’s eyes, fuckwad, and you overpowered him, your DNA is all under his fingernails! He was struggling! You raped him! He said ‘No!’ He didn’t want you to do that to him!” He growled out, a deathly aura emanating from his entire being. You’re sick.

Devon’s eyes widened, everything he had reassured himself with thrown out the window. …He’s thirteen. The Romeo and Juliet laws don’t apply anymore. Fuck. “…that’s bullshit… he’s not thirteen…” Devon heard footsteps quickly approaching, his struggling becoming increasingly desperate. I can’t go away for my whole life… “Let me go! Get off of me! GET OFF!” Devon struggled still as Officer Brandy cuffed him and heaved him to his feet, his eyes filling with terror and dread. He still struggled as he was dragged to the main office, his last look back at Tucker and Eren pleading. …I can’t go to prison...

Eren’s look was unforgiving, not showing any sympathy as Devon was hauled off. He instead turned to Tucker, moving to envelop him in a hug, letting him cling to him tightly. He ran a hand through his hair, murmuring to him quietly. “…you’re so tense… you won’t be able to think in your classes. “…one more day off of classes? So we can get you home and help you chill awhile?” He smiled weakly as Tucker nodded, kissing his forehead and going to pick up his bag again, bringing him back to the main office. He let him stay outside as he signed him out, not wanting him to be near Devon, as far from worry as he could manage. He brought him back to the car, both of them heading home. I need to get Sammie back from Casper, and we can make food, and maybe put on a movie. …and make sure Dad isn’t dying. “Want me to make soup for lunch?” His voice was gentle as they walked to the house, Tucker sticking to his side, looking forlorn. I’m sorry that had to happen...

Tucker nodded, looking up to him. “H-He was gonna h-hit me… T-Thank you…” He wrapped his arms around Eren’s waist once they got inside the door, burying his face into his side. I wasn’t gonna ask you to come with me… I’m glad I did...

Eren smiled softly, ruffling Tucker’s hair as he pulled him close. “Why don’t you go pick out a movie and I’ll go see what Sammie and Casper are doing today?” It can’t be too bad a mess in the playroom yet... Could it be?

“Are people home?” Casper called from the playroom, waiting and sitting completely still as Eren traipsed over. He suppressed a grin as Eren gazed at him, sitting on the floor while Sammie clumsily painted his cheeks and hair with finger paint, a brush laying forgotten on a sheet of paper. “…she wanted to paint. I've just accepted my fate by this point. She's happy, and it’s Crayola or whatever. It'll wash out. And if not, I didn't even really like this shirt too much.” Eh, it's a dress “Don’t worry, it’ll wash out… Sammie, paint is for the paper, not people…” How many times do I need to tell you that? “How about we clean you guys up? Tucker’s getting a movie to watch… And I’ll make popcorn if we can wash up fast.” Use food to your advantage…

Casper gave him a thumbs up. “Got it. Hey Sammie-” Casper reached over, taking her hands gently. He watched with dismay as she looked ready to cry when he wouldn't let her touch his hair again, thinking. Something. No tears. Anything. Casper let her put her hands on his cheeks one more time, handprints in bold blue on his skin which made her giggle. He grinned, his voice quiet and playful. “Let's get you washed up, ‘kay? I know art is fun, but we can have popcorn and a movie instead. A half hour is enough for now.” He lifted her up, balancing her on one hip and bringing her to the bathroom. He winked to Eren, smirking. “I don't care about my dressy shirts, anyway. Professionalism is for boring people.” And I ain't about to become boring, so. “What about Mr. Dying-of-Dysentery upstairs? He hasn't texted or yelled, and he should probably eat something.” He could probably use food.

Eren nodded, following them to the bathroom as they washed up. “I’m gonna make popcorn and then bring up a bowl of soup to him, think you can handle them with a movie?” Knowing Tucker it’s How To Train Your Dragon…. Sammie will be able to watch it and keep interest…

“I can handle a toddler and a teen with a movie. Popcorn and not-work is involved; I've got an incentive to behave.” He smirked, gently washing Sammie’s hands and arms of the paint, getting off the specks from her cheeks and nose. “Let’s just hope Lathe gets better soon- if it turns out to be the two-weeks-of-death, I get the feeling you're taking over his job.” If that happens, be scared.

“I can only hope.” Eren gave a brief smile before meandering to the kitchen, starting to warm Lathe’s soup as well as get popcorn all set up for the ‘theater goers.’ A giant bowl should be plenty for them popcorn wise and I can make sure that Dad’s okay and comfortable.

You’d better hope- he hasn't had a spell like that in years. He's due a few weeks of hell. Damn him and his immune system…. “Alright Sammie, let’s get settled in, okay?” Casper carried her to the movie room, helping Tucker set up camp in the theatre room and drag all the blankets and pillows to two loveseats near the middle. Today's been a rough day, huh? You were supposed to go back to classes… but with what I know was supposed to happen, and if things went sour…. you deserve one more day off.

Eren ran downstairs once the popcorn was finished, helping to situate them all into Tucker’s makeshift nest. “Alright, I’ll put the movie in, and then I’m gonna go upstairs to check on Dad.” He turned to the DVD player, getting the disc in and making sure that Casper had all the remotes needed to operate the whole setup. “Alright, I'm going up.”

“Okay, we should be all set.” Casper was half-joking, buried under blankets with Sammie in his lap, Tucker curled up to his side with a huge bowl of popcorn and three remotes to operate the system. “Try not to kill him, will you? I'm pretty sure he still owes me money from something.” Can't pay me back if he's dead.

Eren rolled his eyes as he made his way up the stairs grabbing the soup in the kitchen which was now in a large bowl and made his way upstairs to Lathe’s room. He slowly opened and closed the door, setting down the bowl of soup on the nightstand before sitting down on the side of the bed, his hands gently running through Lathe’s hair as he felt for his temperature. Well, he’d not as warm as this morning, but still warm… Slow and steady… “Dad… I brought food, you think you can eat something?”

Lathe hadn’t moved the entire time Eren was gone, drifting back to wakefulness from his light sleep. He sighed quietly, leaning into the soft touch. Feels nice… “Mm…” Lathe looked up, blinking to clear his vision, seeing the bowl on the nightstand. “…food…?” He watched Eren nod. “Food.” He got his arms under him but still struggled to lift his own weight, Eren still having to help him sit up against the headboard. He accepted the bowl gratefully, his hand a bit shaky as he started to eat. “Thank you…” He looked up, remembering something. “…did the school thing go okay? What happened?” Is Devon taken care of?

“Devon thought he wasn’t going away for a long time…. He called Tucker a snitch when we were walking to his class and Devon was called to the office, he tried to hit Tucker, but I caught his fist, and then pinned him to the ground… He’s not gonna get out of it for a long time… He’ll be given a life sentence because Tucker’s 13… I brought him home, so he could calm down before going back… Devon’s being expelled and I can only imagine how much Mike’s gonna lay into him and his parents, he was in cuffs the last I saw him.” I can only imagine, Mike scares me still. And I graduated years ago! Okay well not years … But two…

Lathe whistled low, looking up to him, worried. “My god, an angry Mike is a terrifying Mike. I'm just glad nobody else at that school is going to need to worry about him. ...he's going away for life.” Lathe sounded disbelieving for a moment, setting his spoon down, thinking. “…it's hard to understand how quickly he just threw his future away. He's not going to get to do what he wanted… not that he entirely deserves it, from what I'm thinking, but… his whole fucking life. He's barely an adult…” Lathe shook his head, looking back to his soup. “…but thank you. For protecting Tucker.” He looks up to you. “Is he downstairs with Sammie? Or is Casper still watching over everything?” It's a good thing you could get ahold of him on such short notice… we’ve all been buried under paperwork as of late… then again, for a CEO, he always balanced work and doing what he wants pretty well…

“Casper’s there, and I have enough time to start making a huge dinner, I’ll bribe Casper with food to keep the kids out of my hair while I do chores… That should work.” Eren smiled as he ran his hand through Lathe’s hair again. “You’re still warm, do you want me to get a towel out of the freezer?” I put them in this morning, they should be cold, maybe make you feel better. He watched Lathe eat carefully, thankful that he was at least eating something, looking over to the clock on the nightstand. It’s almost noon… well, the kids are eating popcorn, and I’ll give them sandwiches after the movie to make sure they actually ate something…

Lathe shook his head, the idea making him shiver. “No thanks… I’m okay… but thank you… what were you thinking of making for everyone?” I don't wanna freeze… I prefer being warm… “Remember to actually feed the animals… not the kids, the animals in the barn. They need taking care of too…” There’s a lot to do…

“I get up at four to do that every morning… they’re fed and out grazing right now, don’t worry, they’ll be fine, they’ve got their jackets on.” They won’t freeze, and I’ll pull them in once things are in the oven. “My food… They’re gonna get a taste of german food now, and they won’t be able to say jack shit about it. I’ll make some stew for you, it’s easy on the stomach, and I’ll invite Scotty over since Casper’s here… I’m sure they’ll understand if you decided to stay up here instead of come down to eat… do you remember if we have any bills that need to be paid?” I know you handle all that stuff, so I should probably ask before you pass out again and before I forget to ask.

“...Uhm… yeah, lemme think….” Lathe wracked his brain, trying to think of what had needed doing. “They're all on my desk… the envelopes have the dates they're due on them in pencil… it's late in the month, so they were today’s job for me… sorting out the credit card bills…” He tried to think of how to explain it, his eyes closed as he thought of the setup. “There's an accordion folder next to the desk, on the littler table, it has a bunch of receipts in it from the year organized by month. Just make sure everything got charged correctly, and I can write checks later.” You can't write them for me… that's not a thing that's legal, I think… it's not that hard… “...and, Uhm… I don't wanna get anyone sick… and I might pass out right after I eat, so I think I'll stay here… but thank you… really… I'm sorry you're stuck doing all the work…” I'm used to doing all of it… You're not, really… I mean, you help a lot, but most of it's on me...

Eren smiled softly as he nodded. I’ll do those after, then let the horses back in and feed them again. “I’ll get them done tonight, I’ll wait until you’re done, so if you think of anything that needs to be done, just tell me, and I can always write the checks to pay off the bills, I have enough money Dad.” You don’t need to worry about that… really you shouldn’t be worrying about it. Eren kept his fingers running through Lathe’s hair, trying to make him feel at least a little bit better. I know you’ve been wearing yourself thin, I need to step it up.

Lathe shook his head, looking down as he tried to eat. “You don't have to pay the House stuff though…. you don't have to foot the gas or electric or anything… I'll take care of all that… please, just worry about your credit card, okay?” You don't have to pay those bills… you've still got a lot of life left… let me take care of my family. He looked back up to him, a mischievous flicker in his eyes. “I'll find out if you do, and I'll sneak the money back into your wallet and glue it there.” He couldn't help but lean into the soft touch, eating the warm soup contentedly. Feels nice… tasty…
warm… Lathe sighed, his eyes closing, his soup mostly gone. Feels nice… I miss stuff like this… nobody's home anymore… Lathe looked to the sheets, his cheeks growing red as he thought. ...I miss everyone… I miss Ieva… she won’t hold onto me anymore at night… and she doesn't want me holding her either… His cheeks grew hot, a tear falling down his sickly grey skin, more following after it silently. ...I'm sorry…

Eren felt Lathe shake slightly, trying to figure out how to make him stop crying. Fuck... What do I do? He decided to pull him close, running a hand through his hair. “I’m sorry… for all I’ve put you through, I’m really sorry…”

Lathe let him pry the bowl from his hands and move it to the side table, react to cling to Eren, sobbing into his shoulder. ....everything’s been shitty.... And work distracts me... but now I have nothing to do but think... ‘I don't wanna think about things... but now I have nothing else to do... besides think… and be sad…” I don't wanna... “I-it's nothing you did... it's not your fault…. just…” …but... I don't wanna burden you with all my worries... “...I'm sorry... I've been lonely a lot lately… and there's no one to cling to… even Ieva won't let me hold her anymore…” Lathe held onto him with a tighter grip, shaking in terror. “I don't wanna drive everyone away… am I making everyone leave…? I don't wanna be alone anymore… but... you've got a life to live… and I don't wanna make you spend it here… you don't have to…” I wanna be selfish... but... I don't wanna, either...

Eren watched him cry, letting him cling, gently running his hands through his hair. “Don’t worry, I’m not going anywhere, and neither is Mom, you don’t have to worry about anything, really, I’ll be right here… And um, I wanted to ask you who your contractor was… I wanted to buy the lot across the street, and build a house...” Not even really a big one... Just a few rooms, not the monstrosity that this place is... Eren was quiet as he held Lathe closer to his chest, letting him cry on his shoulder. You’ve been bottling this all up, you’re getting sick because of it... You can’t be doing this.

...but... you won't be here... ..........but I can't be selfish... I shouldn't... “...I'll... I'll give you their business card later...... but... why just across the street... i-if…” If you could just stay here...
...but.... I shouldn't baby you forever... you wanna start a family... I should be glad it's just across the street... “…n-never mind…” I can't keep you here forever...

Eren smiled softly. “Well, I was talking with the adoption agency, and they said that if I moved out of the house with Levi, you could get more foster kids, now that you’ve adopted Jake… I thought maybe you would like that, but I need to talk with Levi, and he likes it here, so we might not, it was just a thought.” He murmured softly as he held Lathe still. I don’t wanna let you go but I should go let the horses in. “Do you need anything else before I go? You can always text me if you need something.”

“N-No... I just... you scared me…” Lathe sniffled, rubbing at his eyes. “If you have a house built and stuff… I mean, taking on more kids would be nice… but… you just damn well better be over here for dinner 99% of the time…” I still want you to be around… Lathe needed a moment to convince himself to let go of Eren, his arms coming back from around his middle, knowing he had things to do. “…even if you put the house there and don’t even really use it… I know it sounds so pretentious, to put a house somewhere and not use it…” Lathe chuckled quietly for a moment at the absurdity of the statement. “…but whatever you end up doing is okay. I can’t baby you and Levi forever. I can’t keep any of you forever. …I need to understand that.” I don’t wanna… but I have to.

“You do bring up a wonderful idea though: having a house to go fuck as loudly as we want in… That might actually be a good idea.” That might be a really good idea… A fuck house… Hahaha! Eren slowly slipped off the bed, helping Lathe lay back down. I think that might work…

Lathe turned completely red, shaking his head. “It might save Tucker and Jake from a lifetime of mental scarring, so sure. Whatever you and Bae want. Just don’t ask me to recommend what ‘amenities’ should go in the bedroom.” Yeah, no. Not my business. He nestled into the pillow as he laid back down, splayed out over the sheets, humming as Eren pecked his cheek. “Y’know, I’m gonna get you sick at this rate.” Lathe weakly shooed him with his hand, smirking faintly. “Go. Go and be healthy and not deathy like me. There are children to feed, and I’m not just talking about Sammie and Tucker.” I’m talking about the guy with the purple rat on his head that he won’t take off for some reason.

Eren smirked, nodding. “Alright, text me if you need anything, or can think of anything I need to do.” He picked up the bowl of soup to take downstairs to wash. Alright, horses first… Eren was running around the house for the next hour and a half, bringing in the horses and feeding them as well as starting the food. He got the rolls into the oven, along with some brazen meat. Thank god we still had venison left. I know the kids will eat it, and Casper will pretty much eat anything I put in front of him. He sighed, pulling his phone out to make sure Lathe hadn’t texted him. He’s still asleep probably… Let’s see, I should call Scotty to come over for dinner. He dialed his number waiting for Scotty to pick up. Come on…

Scotty had just collapsed into the chair at his desk in the hospital when his phone rang, sighing exaggeratedly before fishing it from his pocket. His eyes widened when he saw Eren’s name on the display, answering quickly. “Eren, is everything okay? Did someone get hurt?” I need to assume something’s gone horribly wrong- most of the time when you call me, something has.

Eren smiled softly. “No, everyone’s fine. …well, Dad’s sick in bed, so Casper’s here watching the kids, we’re having German cuisine for dinner, you’re invited.” I think that covers everything I wanted to cover?

Scotty’s eyebrows shot up, quiet for a moment. “….so… no emergency surgery?”
“Nope.”

“No life-or-death situations? Not counting Lathe, he's invincible.”

“Not that I'm aware of.”

“I need to write this down on the calendar. The first damn time you called me and something tragic wasn't happening.” He chuckled, hearing Eren laugh on the other end. “Okay, I'm in of course. When should I be over?”

Eren smiled. “Well whenever you can come over I guess, though you'll be given child supervision duties…” The only downside to being invited to dinner.

“Eh, that's cool. We’ve babysat Maverick enough at this point to know somewhat how to wrangle children. I'll be over around five thirty, six at the latest. Tell Casper I love him, will you?” Tiny favor. I left before he woke up and didn't get to say it this morning like I normally do.

“Ah, yeah, I will when he comes up. Bye.” Eren hung up after a moment, continuing his duties as chef. He picked his head up when he heard soft feet pad up the stairs, coming into view as the lot of them came into the kitchen. “Hi guys, I’m in the process of making dinner, lunch is sandwiches of you’re still hungry?” Tho it’s like two in the afternoon right now. “Oh, Casper, Scotty said to tell you that he loves you.” Eren smiled as Casper blushed heavily, going to help the kids make sandwiches. I’m glad he’s here. He continued to work about in the kitchen, shooing Jake and Tucker out when they came to snitch. Those two rascals are going to eat dinner before it’s even on their plates…. Eren was almost oblivious as Ieva came home, and a few minutes later Scotty came in. It’ll take about another hour to finish up baking everything, then everyone can dig in. He continued to stir various pots and pans, getting out serving dishes and putting them on the large island opposite the stove. It will be a feast tonight!

Casper came into the kitchen for a moment as he heard Scotty come in, happily accepting a sweet kiss from him, pouting a bit when he pulled away. It earned him a tiny nip to the neck, soon smirking. “Glad you decided to help wrangle the kids they've got running around.” It's lowkey a struggle to stay sane with the three of them crawling all over you and trying to explain minecraft. He looked over as Ieva looked around the kitchen questioningly, wrapping an arm around Scotty’s middle and speaking. “Hey Ieva. What’s up? You look confused.”

“Yeah, a bit. Where’s Lathe?”
It clicked, Casper nodding his head to the stairs. “Oh, I don't know if you know, but he woke up really sick this morning with a hell of a fever. Eren’s been acting in his place today, it's why I came over to babysit the kids and make sure they didn't get themselves in trouble. He's been upstairs in bed all day, as far as I know.”
Ieva’s eyes widened before she went off and made her way towards the stairs, slowly opening the door to their room when she got there. Is he still sick? And how sick? Does he just have a fever or is he throwing up too? She looked to their bed, a soft sigh escaping her when she saw that he was sleeping still, and that he wasn’t surrounded in vomit. Okay, well at least he’s still asleep, I wonder if he’ll be able to eat anything for dinner, the whole house smells amazing. She slowly made her way to the edge of the bed, sitting down and starting to reach to touch his face, though thinking better of it and swallowing hard as she pulled her hand away. No. I can’t wake him up… I’m not sure he’ll even want me in the room.

Lathe blinked as the bed shifted under him a bit, looking up and recognising who it was. Ieva. He reached out, taking gentle hold of her hand and bringing it to his lips, gently kissing her knuckles. “Welcome home, Honey. I’m kinda sick, so kissing you probably isn’t the best idea.” His tone was quiet but light, looking up to her with a loving look. I missed you… He nearly purred as a hand ran through his hair, leaning into the touch. If me being sick gets me pets, I need to get sick more often.

Ieva smiled as Lathe leaned into her hand. “I’m sorry for waking you up, I was going to let you sleep, you still look really pale… Have you eaten anything today? Do you need any more medicine?” She shifted further into the bed, getting closer to him as she ran her fingers through his damp hair. Your hair is soaked with sweat… Holy fuck…

Lathe relaxed as her hands moved through his hair. “Mm, I could probably use more medicine, the stuff in the little orange bottle… but it's fine, I've been napping all day. Eren made sure I ate soup, and he's making stew for me that won't upset my stomach…” Lathe felt hair sticking to the back of his neck, shifting uncomfortably when he became aware of how damp the sheets were. “...sorry, I need a shower… and I need to change the sheets…” Mur…

“I can change the sheets if you wanna go take a shower before Eren’s done making your stew… The house smells amazing, can you smell it at all? Or are you going to have him make this all over again when you can smell the house?” It smells like a bakery, but also like the best food in the world.

Lathe shook his head, pouting a bit. “My nose is plugged… I can't smell anything… but given how well Eren cooks, I was probably going to make him cook everything again soon anyway. And that sounds good… thank you.” Lathe managed to sit up, his legs shaky a bit as he stood, though he grew steady after a moment. A light peck to his neck gave him a dreamy look for a moment, ambling to the bathroom to take a shower. He had the water turned up very hot, washing the sweat away and letting the steam unplug his nose, rubbing at it while it ran. At least I'll be able to smell for the first five minutes out of the shower… Soon he came back into the bedroom with damp- but this time clean- hair and a towel around his waist, going to fetch clothes. He smiled softly when he finally smelled the feast cooking downstairs, changing into comfortable clothes. “God, it smells awesome… too bad I won't be able to enjoy it for more than ten minutes before I can’t smell anymore again.” Shame… it smells awesome … god, I'm hungry…
Ieva looked over as she unbuttoned her dress shirt in their walk in closet, the only thing on her besides a matching bra and panty. Huh? Oh, yeah, that’s a thing. “Well that’s good, maybe I should have Eren bring you a spoonful of horseradish to knock everything out of your system.” That gross shit works...

Lathe blanched, slipping on a tank top. “Gross, I don't even vaguely like horseradish. A whole spoonful? No thank you.” Lathe moved to the bed to start putting cases on the pillows, swallowing when he noticed Ieva changing in the walk-in closet, hanging up her uniform jacket, tracing over her red lace-clad curves. ...fuck... she’s wearing the red lace... Lathe couldn't help himself, forgetting about finishing dressing the bed and ambling up behind her. His lips softly met her neck, his hands gently pulling her back against him at her hips. “Are you trying to tempt me?” We haven't had sex in so long... we've barely touched... I don't give a damn if I'm sick. I want you...

Ieva gasped in surprise as she felt his lips on her neck. “Y-You... Still want me?” Even after what I put you through with Elina? I thought you'd never wanna touch me again, and I was so afraid to let you hold me... I don't want you to leave me... Her eyes looked up to Lathe’s, slowly turning so they were looking each other directly in the eyes. Do you really mean it?

Lathe wrapped his arms around her middle, leaning their foreheads together. “Of course I still want you... I could never stop loving you... but you seemed like you didn't want me to barely touch you... and I thought you didn't want me anymore... I'm sorry...” He moved to nuzzle into her neck, drinking in her scent. I miss you... “...I've missed you... being close...” I just want things to be okay again...

Ieva’s eyes widened, feeling the tears begin to form in her eyes as she leaned into his hold. “I-I’m sorry... I didn’t want you to... I didn’t want you to leave... I’m so sorry, Lathe... I...” She choked on her words as her hands gripped onto his skin. Fuck... I fucked this up again... I’m fucking horrible with relationships.

Lathe held her close, pecking her cheeks, trying to calm her. “Nonono Ieva, Honey, it's okay... I love you so much... I'd be lost without you... I wouldn't know what to do with myself... I've been going insane for the past two months, we've been so distant... I love you... and... I want you to know that...” Lathe held her close, his head dipping down after a moment to nibble her neck gently, his voice a quiet murmur. “......would you let me make it up to you?” I want you to know how much I love you... I don't want you to doubt that... and I miss you. A lot....

Ieva nodded hurriedly, clinging to him tighter. “P-Please, I want you to hold me...” I want to know that you’ll hold me still, that we can do this together...
Lathe smirked, picking her up easily, holding her close as he carried her to the bed. “Don’t worry… we’ll do much more than that.” Lathe laid her on the fresh sheets, climbing over her and diving in for a deep kiss, not caring that he was sick. Their hands moved in desperation, stripping the other of what little clothes they had, reaching for familiar, hot skin, craving touch. It wasn’t long before Ieva was moaning wantonly under him, Lathe groaning into her neck, grasping tight enough to bruise on the other as they drowned in bliss and each other. I missed you… and I love you. Lathe pulled Ieva close, eyeing the particularly dark mark on the left side of her neck, sated for the moment. Beautiful. “My God, I love you… you’re wonderful…” He gently pecked her neck. “Too good for me…."

Ieva chuckled softly, laying her head on Lathe’s chest, slowly running her finger up and down his abs. “No…I think just right for you…” I’m not too good, and I’m good enough… So just perfect… She leaned her head down to peck at his chest. Should… Should I ask him

Lathe smiled softly, a hand moving to run through her hair. “Just perfect for me. …I can’t believe I got so lucky… strong-willed, smart…” He let his hand drift to the small of her back. “Beautiful….” You’re perfect… if anything, better than perfect

Ieva had to take a deep breath before she shifted, flipping so that his hand lay now on her stomach and her head turned towards Lathe’s. “I um… I wanna ask you something… I-If that’s okay…?” I want to…

Lathe nodded, his thumb running soothingly over her stomach. “Of course. You can ask me anything, Hon.” What is it? I promise I won’t be mad, whatever it is.

“I um… Y-You can say no, if you want… But… C-can….?” Fuck, how the hell am I supposed to ask this? Ieva clammed up, her whole face blushing as she looked down to her hands, trying to keep from covering her face. I can’t… Fuck… But I want to…

Lathe looked worried, his voice soft in her ear. “It’s okay, Hon, you know you can ask me whatever you want. I won’t get mad, I won’t judge. Anything.” He pecked her temple, his look reassuring. “Anything.”

Ieva nodded, her voice quiet as she spoke. “Can we… Can we try again?” I know that you hated it when we couldn’t have Elina… And I don’t know if you’ll even let me try again… I just… I want to, I want to try…

Lathe’s eyes shone, looking hopeful. “You… you really want to?” He watched her tentatively nod, shifting her off of him so he could kiss her better, his hold on her middle loving. “I'd love to… And I hope you wouldn't mind starting tonight…” ...I know that's not how it works, but fuck it. I love you and I want you. Excuse the logic.

Ieva’s eyes widened as he shifted to hold her closer, a smile quickly playing on her face as she reached up to bush a stray hair behind his ear. “I’d love-”

“God dammit, put some clothes on, the both of you, I thought you were sick Dad… don’t go making Mom sick either!” Eren brought up a huge pot with hot pads and two bowls. “It’s stew, and it’s been stewing since noon so the veggies are all mush, you’ll be able to keep them down… Please eat something before you try and do any more of that.” Eren waved his arms toward the bed where the two of them lay pressed together, his eyes shut tightly once he put the food and bowls and spoons down. I’m out… That’s just gross, I walked in on them fucking, ugh, God why !?

Lathe flushed, immediately tugging a sheet up to cover them, grateful when Eren left and shut the door. “You could knock!” Lathe called after him, embarrassed. Fuck, there goes the mood… Lathe looked back to Ieva, giving her a sheepish grin. “...I'm sorry if I make you sick.” He leaned down to kiss at her neck one last time. “But at the same time I don't care.” He grinned as she whimpered when he roughly nipped her skin, moving off of on top of her. “Mm, so.” He stretched his arms over his head, looking back to her. “Hungry?” I hope so, because sex will have to wait until I've eaten.

Ieva nodded, shifting her legs over the bed and getting up to put her panties on, shuffling around to grab his shirt he had worn for only a minute out of the shower and putting it on, covering herself. “Yeah, food would be great.” She smiled with a blush on her face as she watched Lathe get up off the bed to put his boxers on and then move to the large bowl of steaming soup. It smells sooo good.

Lathe’s cheeks were pink as he saw Ieva in his tank top, finishing spooning out stew for the both of them. “Here.” He handed her one with a spoon, sitting on the bed next to her. They leaned on each other as they ate, quietly enjoying the stew. “Eren’s a good cook. I should make him make dinner more often.” I really should.

Ieva nodded, finishing her spoonful. “I think we should designate a day of the week when Eren cooks… Every week.” That would be fantastic… I really wanna do that now. “What about Saturdays?” That should work with all of our schedules right? She hurriedly spooned another mouthful, groaning in bliss. It’s so good.

Lathe blushed as Ieva quietly moaned, his cheeks growing red. “That sounds like a good idea.” Food. Lathe was quiet as he finished, not feeling hungry enough for another bowl, as good as it was. Lathe was quiet when Ieva set her bowl down, moving to gently tug her back into his lap. “So… Anything you want to do?” Anything… particular you have in mind?

Ieva gasped as she was pulled into his lap, a soft giggle escaping her lips. “I um… I wanna go for another round, i-if that’s okay?” She looked hopeful as her hand slowly came up to cup his cheek, leaning back into his chest. I want you, I really want you.

Lathe smirked, leaning into the touch. “Hm… I wonder if I would mind…” Lathe moved them back onto the bed, Ieva splayed out under him as he leaned down to kiss her neck. Things slowed way down from their desperation earlier, Lathe worshipping every inch of her tanned skin as he slowly undressed her again, teasing her breasts with his tongue and rubbing her clit in slow circles. I want you to feel amazing… He soon found himself without his boxers, kissing down her chest to her stomach, even further south to her nether, licking up her rosy folds, tasting her as he teased her. His hands roamed her front as her heels dug into his back, driving her close to the edge before stopping, lapping at her skin in apology as he kissed back up her body, nestling into the crook of her neck, his hands resting at her hips. The tip of his length brushed her entrance, murmuring quietly into her ear. “Whenever you say, Hon…” I want you to feel wonderful...

Ieva blushed fully as he completely took control. God, I’ve wanted this for so damn long…. Please, Lathe, I need you. “I need you, please Lathe, I want your everything, I want you to make love to me.” She took in a sharp gasp, her back arching off the mattress in bliss as she felt Lathe sheath himself to the fullest. “Mhm, you’re so big… So good, so good to me… I love you, Lathe. I really do, I want you to keep me, please.” Ieva wrapped herself around him, her heels pulling him closer in and a soft moan leaving her lips before she sucked in a sharp breath as Lathe began to move slowly. So good...

Lathe blushed scarlet as Ieva spoke, his voice smooth and low in her ear. “My God, I love you… I'll always keep you…” Lathe sucked possessive marks all over her soft skin, his hands roaming her curves. “So beautiful… you're perfect for me…” He moaned quietly as she gasped in his ear, his hips moving at a steady pace, slow, taking in every feeling. “So good for me…” I love this... I missed you....

Ieva whimpered quietly as he thrusted particularly deep inside of her. Fuck, he's deep... “L-Lathe… Haaa, you’re so deep.” She moaned as he pulled out and thrusted right back in again, feeling her insides clench every so often. It feels really good, I missed this. She could feel the heat that was already starting to take over her body once again. Her nails dug into Lathe’s shoulders, starting to leave trails of scratches across his back. I love you so much.

Lathe let out quiet sounds when she clenched around him, his body growing warm, loving the feeling of her clinging to him for more. I wanna take care of you... and I promise I always will. “...mm… so good...” Lathe nibbled at her neck, pride flaring in his eyes as he saw the red marks littering her neck. “All mine...” Lathe kissed every mark, lapping at the skin. “You sound... wonderful… you're gorgeous when you're open for me like this, slick and moaning… just for me.” His hands held her hips, his thrusts still slow and sensual, though he pushed deeper into her, listening to her gasps with dark eyes. “You're so good to me…. how could I ever have deserved you…” I don't know how you ever could have thought I was worth it… you're…. you're just perfect … and I love you so much…

Ieva groaned as she pulled Lathe close, a hand ruffling through his hair, gripping it and holding his head to her neck. Oh my god, you feel so good … She whimpered as she felt his lips lock onto her neck, her heels digging into his back further. “Ahh! L-Lathe! Please… Fuck right there!” Ieva let out a loud gasp as she arched her back up, shaking from the pure intensity. Fuck, he found it! Ha! Shit!

Lathe picked up the pace as Ieva began to tremble in his arms from pleasure, whimpering into her neck as she tightened around him. “Ieva… hnn… f-feels really good…” He began to roughly suck at her neck, beginning to steadily pound into her, trying to aim for that one spot that made her moan and shake, feeling heat pooling in his abdomen. I can't last… but I want you on cloud nine...

Ieva let out another loud gasp as Lathe continued with his actions. “L-Lathe, oh my god… Please… Feels… Feels good… I… I can’t…” Not anymore… I can’t hold it. She could already feel herself tipping over the edge, already beginning to close around him. Fuck… It feels so good… “L-Lathe!” Holy shit! Her eyes blew wide as he thrusted directly onto her sweet spot, taking in a sharp breath.

Lathe whimpered into her neck as she tightened around him, his pace becoming erratic, his coil snapping as he pounded deeply into her, crying out into her neck. His chest heaved for breath as his thrusts slowed, stilling inside of her. He needed a moment before he moved to kiss her deeply, his arms winding around her and pulling her flush against him, not wanting to let go. Perfect for me… mine… only mine… no one else's…. “I love you so damn much…” Lathe rolled them over so she was on top of him, wanting her steady weight on top of him. My god, do I...

Ieva cried out loudly as Lathe made her finally go over the edge, getting impossibly tight around him. Holy shit, that felt so damn good. “L-Lathe… my god…” She whimpered as she was shifted on top of him, feeling him go deep within her, groaning. Ieva bit her lip as she lifted her body up a bit, her hips going down on him. Would you be up for more?

A whimper caught in Lathe’s threat, his eyes still coloured with love and want as he settled her in his lap. The room for the first time in months was full of quiet- and sometimes not so quiet- sounds, low and quiet moans, the smack of lips on skin and the motions of lovemaking. They were exhausted by the time they fell asleep, and even more so when they woke up, Lathe still with a fever and Ieva burning up, calling the station on her cellphone. Lathe curled up next to her, clinging to her bare middle. “M’sorry I got you sick…” We kinda got very carried away… He looked up as his cellphone suddenly started ringing, a tone playing he didn't hear often anymore. “...why is the school calling at dead-O’clock? It's too early for this…” He reached over for the phone, Ieva wrapping him up in a hug as he answered, his voice rough and raspy. “...hello? Mike?”

What do you want.

“Hey, can you come in? The AP German teacher collapsed yesterday, and there aren’t any substitutes who are anywhere near fluent…”

“...Mike, I just so happen to be in the middle of dying.” He chuckled as Ieva lightly elbowed him at that comment, returning his attention to the phone. “I would, but right now I’m kinda very sick, and I’ve got too much going on in general. But, I would recommend you ask the perfect candidate, imported from Germany and possessing too much free time as of late.”

“...what?”

“I'm talking about Eren, Mike. My son. Is it cool if I pass the message on and blackmail him into going to teach?”

“Will he be able to handle a class? He’s never taught before, and if I remember correctly he didn’t even go to college!”

“He taught our third-grader foster-kid-now-son math at such a level he could probably pass the AP Calculus AB exam with a solid four. He taught an eight year old integrals, and the kid understood. And he's completely fluent in German, so that's also a thing.”

“Alright, fine, blackmail him then, I need him in class by 8 and he’ll have decent pay.”

“Fair meme.” Another elbow in the ribs. Lathe tried to stop Ieva, grinning. “Okay Mike, I'll do that. I promise he won't do horribly. I think he’ll be just fine, and the students won't be mistaught anything.” He should know how to teach his own mother tongue if given a set of guides on what to cover. Simple. How does anyone think you teach English? Lathe hung up, immediately texting Eren.

LQ: Sup homeslice

LQ: So Zacharias has this proposal thing for you
LQ: If you show up at the high school by 8 AM and teach a bunch of AP German students all day

LQ: He'll give you money

LQ: And if you don't I'll cry :'(

EY: … It’s five o'clock in the fucking morning, why are you up?

LQ: Because Zacharias is a principal and his job is to freak out over finding someone to substitute AP German and called me to ask if I could sub

LQ: and I can't, for multiple reasons, some of which are obvious

LQ: just tell me so I can give him an answer and make him go bug someone else or go back to sleep

EY: what the hell am I supposed to do with Sammie? I can’t leave her here with you!

EY: and if I went how will I know that you two won’t starve from fucking like rabbits last night?

EY: …. Waiting

LQ: We need to think of someone as a sitter for Sammie because we can't infect her too

LQ: As for food, I think we’re more than capable of operating a phone to order takeout.

LQ: Jk there's a shit ton of leftover stew

LQ: That shit was epic btw

EY: I thought your nose was plugged? And do not eat anything that has tape over the container lid, it's spicy and you two will get sick from it.

LQ: The shower I had last night unplugged my nose and it didn't stuff up again surprisingly

LQ: and thank you for that warning

EY: Good that means you’re getting better, all the credit card stuff is organized in your office and the checks just need to be signed, also on your desk by the bills if you can make your way down there… Don’t fuck like animals all day, I’ll call Hannah, she’s up by now, or she hasn’t gone to bed, to see if they can take Sammie...

EY: God that was a fucking long one

LQ: no comment

LQ: Also I guess that's a good idea for a sitter, I hope Sharon won't mind too much since she's the one who's home like all the time

LQ: ...and now that I say that I wonder since Hannah does the errands if she ever leaves the house
LQ: Probably not

EY: They came over for dinner last night while you two were going at it like fucking rabbits…

LQ: …don't tell me you all had to listen to us while you ate

EY: No, I heard you last night because our rooms are next to each other, and you couldn’t even tell that I knocked on the door when I brought your soup up, so I know you were fucking…

LQ: …I'm not sorry

LQ: But don’t think we hadn't ever heard you and Levi fucking before

LQ: So let's just call it even

EY: No I know, we can call it even, and it’s good, your room’s been quiet for way too long...

EY: I texted Hannah, she said she’s off today, so to bring Sammie over before 8

EY: you can text the dog to tell him I’ll be there by 8…

EY: what the fuck am I supposed to wear to this shit?

LQ: Oh, Blake has a cellphone now? I didn't know

LQ: Jk don't come in here and murder me

LQ: I'll tell Mike

LQ: And thanks

LQ: …and yes, it has been.

LQ: And think dress-shirt-and-tie sort of stuff

Lathe smiled faintly, sending a message to Mike, telling him Eren would be there on time. He then tossed his phone back onto the side table, turning over to Ieva who held his middle gently, giving him puppy eyes. “...turn over.” She did, and Lathe moved behind her, his hands pulling their hips flush. His arms wound around her, gently cupping each breast and nestling into her thoroughly bruised neck. “Much better.” He kissed her shoulder blade sweetly, feeling warm. “Sleep. We've got all day, and I'm exhausted.” Yes we do. And for once, there won't be any kids in the house. ...one of the few times I'd prefer it that way.

Eren was running around for the better part of the morning, making sure that everyone was dressed and ready to go to wherever they were going. He had eventually found a suit and tie and some nice shoes from his closet. When the hell…. Oh, I think Jack sent this with the prom one as a gift, I haven’t worn it…. oh well, it’ll work. Eren made sure Jake and Tucker had a lunch as well as Sammie before sending the two older boys on the bus and getting Sammie into her car seat. It only took him a few minutes before he had Sammie dropped off with all her things, the car seat, her lunch and a few of her toys which would keep her occupied. He thanked Hannah for taking her and smiled softly, kissing Sammie’s forehead before driving to the school. So I’m teaching AP German? I think that’s a class where everything is in German....

The class was buzzing with chatter by the time Eren walked in, some of the kids grinning when they realised he was a sub. A noirette shushed his friends behind him, whispering to them with a smirk. “Let me do this.”

“Uhm, Dave, I don't think he'll buy anything you tell him… I think he graduated from here like a year ago or something…”

“Come on, he'll buy it.” He turned around before the boys could protest, shutting them up when he raised his hand. “Excuse me, sir?” He waited patiently for the man to call on him, speaking with an innocent expression. “Mr. Schultz lets us have our phones out during class as long as we still take notes and pay good attention.” Come on, I need to check Twitter... and then tweet everyone how dumb the sub is for buying this bullshit.

<“Nice try, I was his student not that long ago, Dave, and this class is to be spoken entirely in German, so would you like to ask the question again?”> Eren raised an eyebrow, clearly unamused with the question. I believe I’m allowed to take their phones away if I see them.

Dave turned a bit red with embarrassment as he felt the whole class look at him, looking to his desk as he deciphered what Eren said. <“N-No, sir… sorry.”> Fuck.

Eren smirked, moving to the chalkboard and picking up a piece of chalk to write his name. <“My name is Mr. Yeager, yes, I am the singer if any of you ask, and no, I will not sing and waste time in class.”> He wrote a few more things down, various vocabulary words getting increasingly difficult. <“Dave, since you so humbly fooled yourself in front of class, take a crack at it. Write the word in English under it.”> He sat down on top of the desk, holding out the chalk for Dave to take. You won’t be able to answer half, but I’m expecting that to see where Mr. Schultz left off.

Dave stood, swallowing as Eren handed him the chalk. He stared up at the board, panicking. I barely know half of these. “Uhm…” Dave reached out, writing some of the words out, skipping only one near the top and nearly every word near the bottom. He hesitated as he stared at the other words, not recognising them. <“Uhm, Mr. Yeager, I don't think we ever learned these words…”> I would at least recognise them if we did...

<“Thank you, so you guys just finished Chapter 3 in the textbook then.”> Eren hopped off of the stool and erased the work that they’d both done. <“You can take your seat, Dave…”> He continued to write a list of words on the board, a long vocabulary list. <“The next section is about culture. I hope you’re all prepared, and maybe if you’re good I’ll bring in some traditional German food along the line.”>

They all perked up at the mention of food, getting out their notebooks and hurriedly scribbling down the long list of vocabulary and their translations. The class payed very good attention after those first few minutes, taking detailed notes as Eren went on to describe different facets of German culture. Time whizzed by until the bell rang with Eren mid-sentence, all of them jumping as they realised how long it had been.

<“Alright, class dismissed, have a nice day!”> Eren told them hopping down off the desk and adjusting his tie before looking at his watch. Well, this should be a piece of cake, and I wouldn’t mind bringing in food for them, though I’d have to do it for all the classes… Eh, I can do it. That reminds me, I need to go shopping for food at the grocery store. I can see if Hannah and Sharon need anything too.

EY: Do you need any groceries?

EY: I’m stopping at the store before I get Sammie.

EY: Also do you wanna come over for dinner again? I have to cook again, and I always make way too much.

SW: Thank you so much! Here, have a list

SW: It's not much but I have plans

SW has uploaded an image to the chat

SW: Also dinner would be really nice, thank you

SW: But I'm bringing apple pie and ice cream and you can't stop me

EY: Okay, and do you have anything against Venison?

EY: We have a lot of it in the freezer and it makes for a good meat in soup…

SW: That sounds amazing actually

SW: Wonderful!

Eren put his phone down as he saw the kids coming into the room, a quiet hush as students looked at him in awe. So they recognize that I’m a singer... well, doesn’t really surprise me. “Which level is this? German...” He trailed off as he grabbed the sheet of paper that had all the class info on it. “Ah, German I, that means you're all freshman.” Okay, let them settle down and let the bell ring before we introduce ourselves.

One of the girls near the back stared at him with wide eyes for a long moment, suddenly digging into her bag for something. Come on, come on... aha! She soon produced a blank sheet of computer paper and a pen, standing and shyly coming up to the front of the room, barely able to glance up at Eren. “U-Uhm, Mr. Yeager?” She tinged pink as Eren nodded, holding the paper and pen out. “I-I’m a big fan of yours... is it okay if I have your autograph? Please?”

Eren chuckled a bit, nodding and reaching for the paper and giving her his autograph. “Alright, go sit down now.” He smiled as she scampered off excitedly, almost squealing to her friends. Well, that went better than expected... He closed the door as the bell rang before pulling his stool out in front of the class. “Okay, so I’m Eren Yeager, you can call me Mr. Yeager, and I am the singer, no I will not sing, but you’re more than welcome to ask anything you want about what it was like in Germany, I am fluent, and I’m here to teach instead of Mr. Schultz, and if you’re good, I’ll bring in traditional German food along the line...” I don’t know how long I’ll be teaching for. He got off the stool and started to write down simple words within the German language, trying to see just where everyone was at. It’s November, none of the classes are too far yet.

Everyone in the class watched as he wrote the words down, knowing a majority of the words and recognising the ones they didn't remember. It was a simple enough class, and the first part of class went with translating simple sentences before it ended up being Eren talking all about his life back in Germany. They all reluctantly packed up when the bell rang, having been completely drawn into Eren’s stories.

Eren watched the students leave, getting acclimated with teaching quickly, though he realized how repetitive it was for teachers to teach multiple classes the same thing. God, I can see how people go crazy. He sighed quietly as the day finished and his ninth period class ran out of the classroom, picking up his things and about to leave the room when he heard the loud speaker.

“Mr. Yeager, please report to the office, Mr. Yeager, please report to the office.”

God dammit, and I was just about to leave. He sighed as he made his way to the office, being ushered into Mike’s office right away. Oh god, what does the Dog want now?

“So how was your first day?” Mike took in a deep breath, looking over him with calculating eyes.
God, he reminds me of Erwin… “It went well, the students are easily bribed with food and cultural stories, which is good I guess. I didn’t let them use their phones, and I think I did really well at least, they understood what was being taught. I wanted to ask you how long I’d be teaching them for?”

“Well, I was gonna talk to you about that… How about the rest of the year? Mr. Schultz won’t be able to return to teaching.” You remember how old he was… He had a stroke, he won’t be able to come back.

“I-I’m sorry did you just say the rest of the year?”

“Yes, Yes I did.”

“I mean… um, I guess I can, does that mean I get supplies for my room?” Like more chalk? I used a lot today…

“Yes, they’re in the office, you just need to come down and ask for them, that’ll be your room for the rest of the year, and I’ve heard nothing but good things from the AP students, so you’re doing quite well.”

Eren gave him a toothy grin as he stood up. “Awesome, so can I go now? I need to go shopping, pick up the little one, and make dinner.”

Mike chuckled softly nodding and motioning towards the door. “You can go, I’ll have your contract ready for tomorrow morning.”

Eren thanked him and went to his car, pulling his phone out and calling Lathe’s cellphone. Come on, pick up, I need you to do stuff so I can make soup when I get home. He put the phone on speaker, tapping his fingers across the wheel, waiting as the phone rang. He pulled out of the lot, making sure not to hit anyone, making his way towards the grocery store. I need to get our list and Sharon’s list and keep them separate, and also get whatever I need for soup. I can see if Scotty and Casper wanna come over again.

Lathe huffed a bit in annoyance when Eren’s tone quietly played on his phone, tangled up with Ieva on the couch downstairs, cuddling as they watched TV. He reached over for the phone, answering with a bit of a rough voice. “Eren? What's up?” Mur.
“What are you doing right now?” I need things to get done, you don’t have to do much... so don’t complain about it.

Lathe looked to the ceiling, then to Ieva on his chest, tracing his abs with a light finger, then back to the ceiling. “Cuddling with the waifu, only sorta watching TV. Why? If it's errands, no. You have a car. And non-contagious ailments.” I wouldn't trust myself in places where there are lots of people.

Eren shook his head. “No, I just need you to go to the freezer and pull out the bag of venison shoulder and start to thaw it in hot water, as well as make sure all your nasty toys are away... whatever you used all day, the kids will be home soon. I’m going to the store, so send me a picture of the list on the fridge..... OH! I also got a job for the rest of the school year.” He pulled into the parking lot of the grocery store, taking his phone and putting it against his ear as he got out of the car. I should be able to get everything I need. I might need him to take a look in the cabinet too... just to see what we have.

Lathe groaned exaggeratedly, moving to sweetly kiss Ieva as he shifted out from under her, ambling towards the kitchen. “Making me get up and do stuff... and everything’s away, don't worry. We’re too smart to not clean up. Here, have a picture.” Lathe took a picture of the list, sending it to Eren. “And I'm surprised you didn't accidentally burn the place down today. You were sane enough to warrant the rest of the year? To Zacharias?! I'm impressed.”

“Hey, he hired you too, ya'know. And apparently bribing them with food really helps out.” They paid attention all day...

“Of course it does! Teenagers do nothing besides eat, rebel against their parent’s wishes, and do just enough work to pass their classes. Also I think I bugged Zacharias about the job to the point where he accepted just to get me to stop leaving messages on his answering machine. He probably thought I'd get myself hospitalised after the first chem Lab and fix the problem.” Most likely. ...I honestly have no idea why he didn't fire me after the first time he heard I burned the class instructions. I got away with that shit like twenty times before they finally stopped giving me those. ...it was great.

“Why does that not surprise me? Oh and put clothes on, I’ve invited people over for dinner... make sure you have the bag that’s labeled shoulder too... I don’t want any other cut.” The shoulder will be perfect to cut up and tenderize and then put into a big pot... Oh I should have you do that too... “Can you get the big pot on the stove top and fill it with water to get it going?” He entered the store, getting a cart and starting to go through the first aisle.

Lathe nodded, setting his phone down. “Kay, I've got you on speaker. And don't worry, we have clothes on. But dammit, you're making me do person stuff... I could be cat napping right now...”
Lathe got out the meat he wanted him to, getting a metal bowl in the sink full of hot water, dousing the airtight plastic bag in it until the water went cold, refilling it and doing it again. “I'm thawing the right cut of meat, yes, the shoulder, and the pot is on the heat. What else?” If there are lots of people coming over, I guess I can human...

“How’s Mom feeling? Is she up to a full house? Or just the standard table we usually have?” And by that I mean Casper, Scotty, Hannah, Sharon, Maverick and the doges... How much better is Mom feeling?

“One moment.” Lathe meandered over to the living room, smiling as Ieva held the pillow he had been laying on close. “Honey? We’re apparently having people over for dinner. Is it okay if we just have the usual ‘neighbors’ come over? Or are you up for a full house?” If anything, we’re both of just generally lethargic by this point...

Ieva opened her eye as she cuddled closer to the pillow, taking in Lathe’s scent. “Hmm… I think I’ll be okay with a full house, it was practically full last night, I can do it, I can always go upstairs after we eat if I need to rest some more.” Though we’ve been napping, then fucking, then napping, then fucking some more all day... Which I needed desperately. “Who else are we inviting that wasn’t here last night?”

“I dunno, probably Armin, and some more of Eren’s high school friends. I'm making him invite Marco and Jean now that I think of it. But I dunno who else he had in mind. But okay, thanks. And we can head upstairs if you don't feel well, of course.” He gently pecked her cheek, slipping back to the kitchen. “We’re clear for a full house. Who were you thinking? I'm making you invite Armin, Jean, and Marco now, by the way.” That's now a thing that's happening.

“Well, you've answered your own question... Can you see if we have Bay Leaves? I can’t remember how many are left... Oh and check the Dill, Thyme, White Pepper, and Parsley please.” That should be all the spices that aren’t really sold in bulk that I need...

“I know for a fact we have fresh parsley and plenty of it... we have a bunch of bay leaves still, at least seven... we’ve got a ton of thyme... we don’t have much dill... and our white pepper is just dust. We need more of that definitely.” Yep, that's a thing. “It's a wonder I don't just buy this crap in bulk. Or grow it.” ....actually, I don't think thyme is that hard to grow... or parsley...... or dill... come to think of it, we use a ton of rosemary too... and basil... but I already have a basil plant... .... Lathe looked over to where the plant sat in the windowsill. ....but it looks lonely.... Lathe shook himself from his thoughts, looking back to the phone as he heard a buzzing. “Sorry, what was that last bit?” I'm off in LaLaLand again.

“What’s the veggie situation, I know we’re out of potatoes, and we’re just about out of carrots, how does the celery look? And the onions...” How much did I use? This is my problem... Trying to Remember...

Lathe inspected the fridge, then the pantry. “We need celery, and we don't have too many onions. Get a sack of them, and get a few of the big sweet onions, will you? Six should be fine.” We need those. “Oh! And make sure to get a thing of heavy cream and salted butter. Not the kind you always end up buying- the kind I like to get.” Just do it.

Eren sighed quietly, shaking his head as he thought about a few things. “Alright, I’ll get you your damn heavy cream… How much sugar do we have?” I know I’m asking a lot, but you’re in the kitchen so I don’t care.

Lathe went back to the counter, unlatching the sugar jar and peering inside. “A lot. And we have a half-empty bag in the pantry, so.” Yeah, plenty. “Oh, and make sure to get a lot of little red potatoes too while you're there.” I like those. They're easy. And tasty.

Okay, anything else you can think of while I’m here?” I feel like I’m just taking everything and shoving it into my cart.

“A leek… hmm, I need to think… we also need to think about what we can make that doesn't involve meat, since Marco’s vegetarian…” Lathe tapped his foot, thinking. “What were you planning to make? You’ve got me in the cooking mood now.” I wanna help! I haven’t been able to do shit yesterday and most of today. I wanna do stuff.

“Beef stew, you can make a veggie stew if you want? I’m also going to be baking Brotchen when I get home too, be prepared for that.” Everyone loves my rolls. “Oh and Sharon insists on bringing over an apple pie and ice cream for dessert, so that's accounted for unless you wanna do something else too.” That’d be a lot of dessert… But there are a fair amount of people coming.

Hmm….” Lathe tapped his foot, thinking. “I know she bought an ice cream machine, so she'd be making it… she babbled all about cooking when I went over once and didn't know what it was… but a single pie probably won't account for what, twelve people? ...y’know, my chocolate stash has gotten kinda excessive…” Lathe looked to the stack of bars, many unopened. “...I think I'll make a bunch of chocolate chip cookies… with different flavours, of course.” That sounds good to me… but I might be crazy, so. “Does that sound okay? And I'll make collard greens, I remember Marco likes those.” He can eat those. I still have the recipe on my phone somewhere...

“Sure, just make sure we have olive oil before you start anything.” He looked down at the quickly filling cart, shrugging as he made his way over to the produce and began to pick out multiple things. I need… you… you ……... you.... You and you. His eyes examined every inch of everything he picked up and only took the best of the best. This should work for potatoes… to the onions.

“I always make sure we have, like, a gallon on hand. I barely use anything else, honestly.” Olive oil for the win. “Oh, also add a lemon to the list… and I think I know what to do with our surplus of eggs… Uhm… what else… fresh asparagus, about two bunches… I can't think of anything else. Tonight, we shall feast! This is going to be great. “And Casper and Scotty are probably going to bring alcohol again, so we've got drinks covered. ...I'm joking, we've got stuff to properly hydrate everyone.”

Eren rolled his eyes, looking over to the asparagus display. “You're actually going to make me touch those horrid green spikes?” Those things are fucking disgusting! How could you even like them!? He shuddered remembering the time when he forced himself to eat them when Lathe put them in front of him so long ago. God they're gross.

“Yes, I am, because asparagus is the shit and I'm sure people at the table will appreciate it. Also they're still Ieva’s favourite vegetable so deal with it and get me some that looks less disgusting than the rest.” Anything to get myself some decent asparagus. It's just a fucking vegetable. ...except for broccoli. That's just a pile of crap masquerading as nutrition.

“Ugh... I don’t wanna… you can’t make me!” I won’t do it... I won’t touch it...

“You forget how quickly I'm able to change every lock in the damn house. And how easy it is to leave a door open late at night...” Nobody wants to hear that, do they.

“So... You’re k-kicking me out?” Damn... didn’t think he would go straight for the jugular...

Lathe stopped, staring at the phone when he heard Eren's tone waver. “Nonononono Eren, I didn't mean it like that, I meant you'd be stuck outside with a bunch of groceries and a key that doesn't fit. I just imagined you'd be confused as hell as I laughed from a window for five minutes before letting you in. I'm not gonna kick you out over some fucking asparagus, that’s dumb. I'm sorry, bad joke. I didn't think.” I know how scared you are that I'm going to kick you out... I'm so sorry...

Eren had to collect himself for a moment. It was just a joke... He's not... He's not gonna kick me out... It was just a joke. He had to close his eyes, taking in a shaky breath as he forced himself not to cry. “O-Okay… I’ll be home soon then, bye.” He hung up hurriedly, going over to the display case and picking up two bunches of asparagus and silently meandering through the rest of the store to get the food they needed. I need to calm down... It was just a joke...
Lathe looked forlornly to the phone as the connection cut, pocketing it after a moment. “M’sorry, Eren…” Lathe shook himself from his mind again, washing his hands and donning an apron. He heard a mumble from the next room, coming back to Ieva on the couch, kneeling next to her. “What’s up?” He watched her eye his apron with distaste, chuckling. “We’ve got a bunch of people coming over, and I haven’t done anything in two days. I wanna help.” She pouted, and Lathe rolled his eyes for a moment, leaning in to give her a deep kiss, his hand cupping her cheek for a long moment. They broke apart when they heard a key in the front door, looking up as Tucker and Jake came in, the former dropping his bag by the door and grumbling about a snack, the latter immediately scampering to the kitchen and trying to reach for the snack shelf of the cupboards. Oh no. “The tornadoes are home.” Lathe grinned, pecking her cheek one last time before going to get them a snack and shooed them from the kitchen, getting set up to work. There’s cooking to do. Lathe had the mixer going on one of many cookie dough batches when the door opened again, Eren bringing in an armful of grocery and an armful of toddler. “Eren, careful, you’ll drop that.” Lathe ran over, taking the grocery bag. He stopped as Eren gave him a weird look, realising what he just did. “I guess it says a lot when I'm apparently more worried you'll drop the groceries than drop the kid.”

Eren sighed quietly, shaking his head, putting Sammie down and watching her run towards the theater room where Jake was probably hiding out. “I guess… Get back to your kitchen, I’ll bring in the rest.”

“Okay…” Lathe set the bag down for the moment, moving to envelop Eren in a warm hug, his face in his shoulder. “M’sorry about what I said… I didn't think, and I certainly didn't mean it. You can stay forever if you want.” Of course you can.

Eren was stiff for a moment before wrapping his arms around Lathe’s waist. “No, it’s okay, you don’t need to apologize, I need to learn when to take a joke, it’s fine really, I need to get the rest of the groceries.” He mumbled trying to pull away from Lathe’s grasp. I should get the rest of it in, you’ll wanna cook…

Lathe sighed, moving to kiss his cheek before letting him go, giving him a weary smile. “So I make sure you know- You and Levi and your family staying here is always going to be more than fine with us.” He crossed his thumb over his heart. “Swear it.” There, I swore on it. That might make it a bit better.

Eren watched the small action, a bright smile forming on his face as he almost seemed to skip out the door and down the steps to the car. I can get this done quick. It barely took Eren any time at all to grab all the groceries and start to pull out what he needed for his soup. Bay leaves first, and then the other spices.

Lathe sighed in relief as Eren seemed to brighten right up, turning back to the kitchen just in time to see Tucker snatch an entire bar of orange chocolate. “Thief!” Lathe chased Tucker out of the kitchen, sighing and turning back to the island. “At least I have like three of those.” He got all the dough mixed, having a wide enough variety of chocolate to make six kinds of chocolate cookies. That should be plenty. Lathe had taken over a large stretch of counter with his cookie production, many cooking racks set out with cookies on them, labelled so he knew which kind was which. I’ll need to get coloured plates or something to keep these straight… I think we might have some somewhere…

Eren had taken over the actual counter space by the fridge, his whole area covered in flour as he started to knot the dough for the rolls. It should be good like that.

Lathe set another pot on the stove, filled with water and more than a dozen eggs. He chuckled as he saw Eren working with the dough, a smear of flour on his cheek. “Eren, you've kinda got something on your face.” He reached out, getting a pinch of flour and flicking it, dusting Eren’s face. “Fixed it.” Much better.

Eren barely had enough time to close his eyes as his face was covered. “Oh fun… Are you done with the oven yet?” I need it…

“I have two more batches, so half an hour at most while the ones inside finish baking. Then it’s all yours.” We've got some time, though. Lathe moved to rifle for plates, stunned when he found himself dusted with flour, looking back to see Eren grinning mischievously, chuckling at the white powder dusting his hair. “Aw, I was hoping I wouldn't go grey that fast.” Nooo, my youth…

.........Shit, Dad’s getting old… Well I mean only sorta, he’s still kinda young. I mean, 39 is young……… Right? Eren couldn't help but laugh as Lathe shook his head, which dusted his shoulders as well. “It’ll just sneak up on you, and take over!”

“Oh it's happening all right. Even without flour I keep finding grey hairs.” Lathe just chuckled, shaking his head a bit as the flour dusted over himself. “Eh, it's why then invented hair dye.” I'd like to keep my hair black for a while longer, thank you. Lathe caught an odd, sad look in Eren’s eyes, sighing and moving to peck his cheek. “Hey, c’mon, I’ve still got a good fifty years left in me. That's plenty of time. And who knows? Maybe it's just enough time to finally drive you mad.” I've got time. Plenty of it.

Eren sighed, shaking his head and getting out a bunch of veggies and starting to chop up everything to go into the stew. He’s already cut the meat in in very small cubes. I can finish up the soup while I’m waiting to put the Brotchen in the oven.

They both went back to cooking after that, Lathe having to go fetch a damp towel and get the flour out of his hair before he could continue. Can't have flour on everything. Lathe had all the cookies on coloured plates moments before the eggs were done boiling, getting to work making devilled eggs, piping the filling in and sprinkling paprika over them as potatoes boiled for mashed potatoes. Tucker and Jake were enlisted to set the table, putting out plates and silverware neatly after they figured out whether the fork or the knife went closer to the plate. Lathe was just putting the eggs on a plate when the doorbell rang, suddenly becoming aware of what he was wearing. “Crap, I'm still in pajamas.” Lathe quickly put the rest on the plate before running off upstairs. “I'll be half a minute!” I should probably look somewhat presentable. Probably.

Eren shook his head, going to open the door, smiling as he saw Armin. “Hey, Armin, come on in, dinner should be ready soon.” I hope at least… He looked back to the kitchen as a timer went off, quickly going to pull out the Brotchen from the oven and putting them in a large bowl with a towel over it to keep in the warmth. Well, Brotchen’s done, now we just need everyone else to come…

Lathe quickly made his way to his room, shutting the door behind him before noticing Ieva in their walk-in closet again, changing. He smirked, ambling up behind her and resting a hand on her hip, pointing to something near her with the other. “Mind handing me that red flannel, honey?” Red it is.

Ieva gasped a bit when she felt his hand on her hip, having not heard him walk in. She smiled at him, reaching for the flannel and turning to kiss his nose as she gave it to him. “Hmm, wanna help me pick something out?” I can’t decide!

Lathe looked at the many shirts they had hanging in the closet, studying her half. “Hmm… you look wonderful in everything …” He reached out, plucking a dark blue shirt from its hanger and handing it to her, pecking her cheek. “But I like this shirt best.” You look good in blue.

Ieva blushed, taking the shirt and slipping it on, grabbing a pair of black pants as well and slipping those on. I think this'll work. “Who’s coming over?” Will I know everyone?

“A lot of people- Casper and Scotty, duh, Hannah and Sharon, Armin, and then Marco and Jean. And we're apparently required to feed the kids, so they'll be there too. Of course.” Everyone gets to feast today.

“Ah, okay, I know them all well enough. And we’re having stew?” I can smell it, kinda... My nose is pretty stuffed...

“Stew is the main course, yes… but there's also mashed ‘tatoes, deviled eggs, brotchen, collard greens, asparagus …” He watched her eyes light up at that. “And Sharon's bringing apple pie and ice cream, and we have a ton of chocolate cookies, all kinds of flavours for dessert. I also had shrimp thawed. It's a right feast.” *I keep using that word—*but it fits. Lathe slipped from her side, going to find a pair of jeans and changing out of his sweatpants. Open flannel with white tank top, jeans, socks… I think I'm good.

Ieva watched him get changed, biting her lip and forcing herself to look away. Nope, keep you head out of the gutter… She slipped out the door, coming down the stairs as the doorbell rang, opening it to be greeted by Casper and Scotty holding cases of beer and other assorted liquor. “Did you clean out the house to come over here?” I can only imagine… A soft smile was on her face as she let them in, watching Casper instantly scamper to the kitchen. “There goes the hooligan…”

Casper set the liquor on the counter near the glass doors of the liquor cabinet, looking over the counter where everything was in various stages of being cooked and finished. “Oooh, deviled eggs…” Casper reached for one, only for Eren to smack his hand away. “But fooood….” Casper pouted, hanging his head dejectedly when Eren shooed him from the kitchen. “Mur.” But I'm hungry … eh, food soon.

Lathe chuckled, watching as Casper perked back up when Scotty kissed his cheek. He sighed when he saw the case of beer in Scotty’s hands, shaking his head. “Of course you decide to pay us back in alcohol.” Of course.

“If you didn't expect it, I don't think you know us anymore.” Casper joked, quirking an eyebrow at him. “Up and walking- glad to see you're not still suffering from the plague.”

“I'm only slightly dying right now, actually. But thanks. I already infected Ieva though, so watch out.” He laughed as Casper jumped, mockingly looking at Ieva in fear of being ‘infected.’ I missed having everyone around.

“Your door's open. That actually makes this easier.” Sharon poked her head inside, looking at the unfolding scene, a pie covered with tin foil in her hands, protected with oven mitts. “It's still too warm to just tote around, so we should probably use a cutting board…” Yeah, don't wanna burn anything. She looked up gratefully as Eren ushered her and Hannah inside, going to set the pie down as the bowl of ice cream Hannah carried was stored in the freezer, her other arm full with Maverick. She looked to the huge assortment of cookies, her eyebrows shooting up. “......wow. That's a very impressive assortment.” Can we have dessert first? Please?

Hannah shifted her hold on Maverick, looking over to the food that was being put into large bowls. Holy shit... So much food! “Who are all coming over? You made so much food....” We could feed an army at this rate.
“Well, Jean eats about as much as a fucking horse so….” Eren snickered as he continued to dish out the sides and put them on the extended table. When’s Horseface gonna get here anyways?

“I’m not entirely sure one guy justifies the sheer amount of food here.” Sharon looked over the rest of the food. She looked over the congregation, catching sight of a certain blonde. “Blondie’s here too… I’m awful with names… What’s his name again?”

“That’s Armin.”

“Oh yeah, Armin. And if Jean’s coming, Marco’s coming. Then there’s us, the crazies, Eren and his parents, the kids…” She watched as Tucker and Jake lurked with Sammie near the theatre room door, checking if it was time to eat yet. “…I understand now.” Yeah, there’s a lot of us.

Eren snorted, continuing to dish out things before taking bowls and filling them, putting them on plates on the table. Leave one for Marco, cause he gets Dad’s stew. He barely noticed that Casper was trying to ask him a question as he continued with his work.

Ieva watched Casper try and get Eren’s drink order, shaking her head. “Casper, leave him be, he’s concentrating. You can get his drink when he’s done.” You’re not gonna be able to get it right now.

Hannah went up behind Casper, having handed Maverick to Scotty. “Can I have a glass of berry vodka?” I am getting hampered today, I am not gonna care at all, I have off the rest of the week…

Casper quirked an eyebrow, nodding anyway. “Oh-Kay… I really hope you don’t have work tomorrow.” Casper moved back to the liquor cabinet, pouring her the drink and handing it over. At this rate, Sharon doesn’t get a drink. Which is good, because she doesn’t drink anyway.

“You do realize that you make my schedule…. Right? And that you are the one that can’t drink because you have work?” Hannah sipped at the drink, a huge smile on your face. Hope you remembered that tidbit… I have off the rest of the week.

Casper groaned, putting bottle of scotch right back down from almost pouring a glass. “Crap, I forgot… Dammit…” He sighed, going to pester Lathe and tempt all the guests with alcohol.
“Casper, I don't want whiskey, thanks but no thanks.” Lathe shooed Casper off of him as the doorbell rang again, going to the door. “I wonder who that could be…” He smiled as he opened the door for Marco and Jean, the former having a hand on the waist of the latter. “Hey you two! C’mon in, we’re just about to eat. Watch out for Casper, he’s trying to get everyone drunk.”

“Note taken. I'll be driving then.” Marco nudged Jean as they walked inside. “You can drink if you want.” I wouldn't want more than a glass of wine anyway. I don't drink much. “Thank you for inviting us, by the way. Dinner smells wonderful.” Marco smiled faintly, looking over the small crowd of people. There's a lot of people over. Is today some special occasion? I don't think so...

Jean looked at Marco with disbelief. He never tells me that I get to drink! Hell yeah! “Casper, I want a glass of Beam with a shot of fireball!” My go-to drink, I get to drink!

Eren finally came back into the kitchen, setting down the large pot, and covering it. “Okay, Dinner’s ready, the bowl without stew is for Marco, everyone else sit wherever!” His voice carried over the squealing children as they raced to take their seats. So freaking adorable… Eren had set the table for 12, even though there were 13 people in attendance. I’m not gonna sit, I’m in charge of keeping the food continuous. Once everyone was seated Eren brought out the sides, giving Marco his vegetarian stew as well as his vegetarian collard greens. Okay, that should be everything…. That goes out on the table for right now… He shifted on his feet looking over the full table as everyone ate to make sure he wasn’t forgetting something. I feel like I am… I feel like I’m forgetting something…

Lathe sat near the head of the table, looking over the table full of people, watching Eren look over the table and shuffle a bit awkwardly. …wait… “Eren, we’re missing a chair. You get to eat dinner too, you know.” Lathe joked lightly, standing. “Alright, everyone on this side of the table, shuffle a bit more towards this end.” Ieva, Armin, Marco and Jean all immediately made room for Eren at the end, Lathe going to get a table setting. He rested a hand on Eren’s shoulder as he passed him. Go downstairs and grab another chair, Hon. I'm getting you silverware and stuff.” You deserve dinner. You cooked half of it, so why not?

“I-I’m fine, I need to help refill stuff when people run out, I’m fine really, and I’m not really that hungry anyways.” Eren had followed Lathe into the kitchen as he started to get a plate from the cabinet. I'm fine, really, I'll be okay, and I would just sit there… I'm not hungry at all… “Really Dad, don’t worry about it.” Eren pleaded with him, grabbing his arm to pull it away from the shelf. I can't eat…

Lathe turned back to him, catching the desperation in his plea, his brow furrowed. “Eren, Honey, are you alright? Is something the matter?” Lathe rested a hand on his arm, his voice soft and quiet so the others didn't hear and worry. What's wrong? “And don't bullshit me and say it's nothing. Please, talk.”
Eren’s brow furrowed as he tried to think of how he would actually say it. “Um… The last time, we were all together like this… Was when Levi was still home…. “I lost any appetite I had when I thought about that…."

Lathe’s face fell, looking sympathetic and pulling him into a hug. “I’m sorry, Honey… are you sure you still wouldn’t want to sit with us? Even if you just talk and stuff? You don’t have to eat anything. It’s okay.” I understand how much you miss him… we all miss him.

Eren shook his head. “N-No, I’m gonna go bring the horses in, I forgot… You guys eat, I’ll be back to help refill stuff eventually…” I was occupied with making food that I didn’t feed them either… Fuck…

Lathe nodded, kissing his cheek. “You go do that, then. It's okay, Hon.” Lathe let Eren scurry off, sighing and returning to the table. “You can un-squish, Eren’s not eating.” Lathe just shrugged when they gave him inquiring looks, thankful they simply accepted the silent answer and moved back into place. Lathe sat back at the table, the room filled mostly with the clink of silverware on plates and some quiet chatter as they ate. I hope the next time this happens Eren will want to eat… we worked so hard to make everything, it seems like a bit of a waste if he doesn't get to enjoy it with us. But there are going to be leftovers, most likely. There’s a lot of everything.

Eren sighed quietly as he got out of the house, making his way to the barn and whistling for the horses who made their way to the gate to get back in the barn. He kept his head down as he got them all in their stalls and he fed them all. Just me and you guys… I hate this… I hate that he’s not here… I hate it… I hate it all… Eren could feel the tears forming in his eyes. “I hate this… I hate this so much… Because I’m all alone…. And no one seems to realize that I’m not okay, they don’t… I hate that I’m all alone… I hate that I agreed to this! I hate it! I hate it!! ” Eren shouted loudly, crying as he punched at the wall. I hate it. He gritted his teeth and grabbed Charlie’s gear, leading him out of his stall. I need to get out of here.

Jean looked to Lathe as they started to clean up. “So what’s the bastard’s problem?” He legitimately just left! ...Wait, is that him? “Where’s he going?” Why’s he on a horse??

“Jean, language.” Marco lightly scolded him, elbowing him in the ribs.

“Sorry…” Jean ducked his head down a bit at that, though he quickly looked back to the window. “But seriously, where the hell is he going?” He’s legit just booking it out of here.
“He’s supposed to be bringing in the horses, but if he’s still getting them inside it’s taking a while—”

Lathe looked out the window, seeing Eren with Charlie fully tacked, riding off into the field. “Oh hell no. The last time he pulled this shit he came back after eight hours and a deer attack.” Lathe threw the dish towel onto the counter, ditching his apron and running out the back door, shouting for him. “EREN! Come back!” I’m not letting you do this shit again. I know it’s hard not having Levi around but I’m not letting you run away again and let yourself get killed.

Eren looked back as he heard a shout in the distance, unable to make it out as he urged Charlie faster. I wanna ride, really ride… I wanna get out of here… He could feel the warm tears slipping down his cheeks as Charlie started to get closer to the trees. I wanna get away for a little bit…

Lathe looked relieved when Eren turned to look back, but huffed in irritation as he looked back and rode into the woods. I know you heard me. At least my voice... I can’t ride after you, that’s a death wish. I’ve never ridden alone before... He looked back as he saw a few figures lingering in the window, looking worried. ...but I know someone who definitely has. “Hannah!” Lathe ran back up to the house, coming inside and immediately looking to her. “Eren rode off into the woods, and given what happened last time, he'd be gone for literally the entire night unless we go out to get him. Up for a ride?”

Hannah looked up, setting her drink down on the table. “Well, problem one, Luna can’t carry two of us… Problem two, I assume you’ve never ridden her before. Problem three, why would he be out the entire night? Can’t you just call him?” I mean, I could ride, but by the time I get Luna tacked… He could be at least a mile out… Charlie’s fast!

“Calling won't do him any good, he'll ignore any calls I make. Last time this happened he was out for eight hours and got attacked by a deer, and didn't even bother coming straight home after he was bleeding from it. Badly.” Lathe looked back outside, starting to grow nervous. I already can't see him... and tacking another horse would take a while... too long. “...forget it. There might be an easier way to solve this.” Lathe dug out his phone, quickly tapping away at it. “....aaaaaand… thank fuck, he has his phone on him.... whoa he's going fast. That's one of the longer trails.” Lathe looked to the back door, making up his mind and moving to jump into his boots, grabbing a heavier jacket. “I'm taking the ATV. I need to catch up to him, and that means making good time of it. Hopefully I'll be back soon. I'm not letting him get himself killed. Again.” Yeah, no. Fuck that noise.

Hannah looked at him, nodding. “Which trail? I’ll tack Luna and then take the other side of it and meet him…” That should work, right? She stood, following him to the backdoor after grabbing her shoes and jacket. What’s going through his head right now?

“I haven’t found any time to mark trails or put up posts; nothing has a name yet. And Eren’s moving really fast, and he could even go off the trails if he wanted to. And it’s not up to me whether he even stays on the damn property. I think it’s best if it’s just me; he wouldn't want to be swarmed the way he is right now anyway. And yes, two people counts as a swarm to him right now.” Lathe shook his head. “I have my phone so if I need backup, I'll call the house. But I'll head out by myself for now. Thanks, really.” It's for the best. Right now, he needs someone he might actually listen to out there quick.

Eren could hear Charlie’s hooves thundering under them as they rode along the side of the nearly-abandoned road. We've been riding for at least an hour… He started to slow Charlie down, the large horse panting and sweaty under him, but otherwise fine from the exertion. He pulled out his phone, grimacing at the sight. 15 missed calls from Mom, 10 missed calls from Dad… Jake and Tucker texted me… Everyone… Except for one … Eren didn’t even register that he was crying again until his vision was blurry, putting his phone away and leaning down into Charlie’s withers, trying to calm himself down. He urged him on at a slow trot. Come on, let’s keep going for a little longer before we head back.

Lathe didn't take more than five minutes before he was moving quickly to the small road, the fifteen-foot dirt border of the property. He could see the small blip on the map in the distance, picking up speed. Come on, don't run off on me. Don't do it. He glanced every few seconds to the phone latched securely in front of him, seeing Eren riding nearer the road. Good. Maybe he hasn't heard me yet. He kept an eye out in front of him, sighing in relief as he saw a small speck move out of the trees and onto the dirt road. That's him. He kept an eye out in front of him, sighing in relief as he saw a small speck move out of the trees and onto the dirt road. That's him. Lathe kept an eye on the gas gauge as he followed him, not getting any closer to Eren as he chased him. He's going so fast…

Eren had picked up the walk to a steady trot down the road, gripping his reins tightly. I hate this… I hate all of it… He picked his head up when he heard the roar of a motor in the distance. Huh? Someone actually uses this road? He turned to look at the ATV hurtling towards them. What the fuck? Is that Dad!?

Lathe slowed as he got close, riding alongside them with a few feet between him and Charlie. “This is the police! Pull over!” Lathe spoke loudly over the sound of hooves on dirt and the sound of the engine. He tried to joke, but his eyes were desperate, pleading with Eren under the old-fashioned goggles. Come on, just stop. Charlie looks tired, you look miserable, and I was terrified for you the entire ride here and need to give you a hug. And then smack you. And then give you more hugs.

Eren shook his head, though pulled Charlie back into a slow walk, watching Lathe slow down to match them. “You’d only be the police if you were Mom, and since you aren’t I’m going to continue. Good day to you, sir.”

“Well, then take my advice as your equal, a fellow citizen. Pull out your phone there, good sir.” He watched Eren fish it from his pocket. “Open up your texts, please. I do believe your Mother, AKA the police, have contacted you many a time to cease these horse-riding activities, have they not?
I'm simply doing my duty as a law-abiding citizen to make sure you obey the law.” Please stop? Pretty please?

“You know I came out to ride so that I could clear my head after an hour or two and then come back… You thought I’d try and do something stupid which was the only reason you came… Because you can’t trust me.” Eren’s voice was emotionless as he turned Charlie around, starting to head back to the house at a walk. You all can’t trust me to be fine by myself… Probably the only reason you haven’t kicked me out yet…

Lathe felt like he’d been punched in the gut, stopping the ATV as Eren turned around. He took hold of the goggles, tugging them off and turning to look at Eren, shaking as he stared at his back. He couldn’t help himself as he shouted, his voice full of anger and terror. “I came out here because the last time you pulled this shit you came home after eight fucking hours and a deer attack! I had to give you stitches on the kitchen table and you nearly fucking died so excuse me when I’m fucking scared shitless the second time you do it! I don’t wanna fucking lose you!” Lathe trembled, his voice catching in his throat, burying his head in his hands. “I can't fucking lose you…”

Eren had stopped Charlie, hopping off of him and walking along side him. “I’m going home.” His words were quiet as he leaned into Charlie’s side. You can yell all you want on the way back, go on, I can take it… Maybe it won’t drive the nail in… But it’ll help keep up the cracks. “Got anything else to yell at me about while we’re at it?”

Lathe was stunned, not even realising he was crying, not knowing what to say at Eren’s complete lack of emotion. …..I don’t know how the fuck he got so far gone so quickly… but… be careful. Lathe dropped his hands, staring at the ground. “……I know Levi being gone is seriously hard to deal with. I know I won't be able to understand that as much as you. …….but don't make it seem like both of my sons aren't home anymore these days…” You're not acting like yourself… I don't want you to talk to me like we're only mildly tolerating each other. I don't want to lose both of you at once. You're gonna kill me if it feels like we’re nothing more than enemies for the next four fucking years.

Eren kept walking, contemplating if he was going to respond, though he found no words for himself until his mouth spoke before his mind could stop him. “He’s not your son. That’d be weird, especially since we’ve had sex, that’s like… Committing incest… Isn’t it?” His tone was a little softer as he looked over his shoulder at Lathe. “Are you not coming home… Or are you gonna come too…” You’re just sitting there…

Lathe didn't even bother looking up, tears silently falling down his cheeks. To me, he's my son. As much as you are. “……I don’t know. I get the feeling I wouldn't feel at all welcome in my own home.” If you're gonna keep talking like nothing matters anymore, I'll just sit here awhile. At least the trees won’t make me feel like a fucking failure.
“You came out here to bring me back home, so bring me back home… Dad, if I’m not allowed to come out and cry then neither are you… Come on, let’s go home, Mom’s probably worried about you.” I could always text her to come pick you up…

Lathe’s hands were balled up in fists, clenching and uncle Ching as he blankly stared at the ground. “Did you not hear me?” Lathe looked up at Eren, emotion draining out of his face, his eyes glassy. “You’d be allowed to come out here whenever you want if the first time you didn’t come home needing emergency stitches and blood transfusions. Me? I actually respond to texts when I receive them and don’t stay outside for more than an hour or two, much less eight. You can go home. You should. But I’m going to stay right here… I’d rather not dwell on the fact I apparently made an enemy out of you. I didn't know I was a terrible father.” He shrugged, looking back to the ground. “Apparently, now you don't even plan on marrying Levi when he comes home. If him being my son-in-law turns you off so much to the idea, I don't know why you entertained the idea as much as you have.” I thought you wanted to marry him. ...I guess not.

Eren stopped in his tracks, Charlie’s nickers trying to get him to continue, though he wasn’t having any of it. “What the fuck did you just say? That I wouldn’t marry Levi? Do you even know who I fucking am ? I’d say yes in a heartbeat!” He dropped Charlie’s reins turning around and making a beeline for Lathe with clenched fists and gritted teeth. “That’s not what I said! I said don’t refer to him as your son dammit! Because he’s not! He’s not your son in law!” I’m scared he never will be!

Lathe looked up as Eren started for him, standing, his hands raised in front of him in surrender, looking a bit scared. “Eren, it's like you said he's not family! Have you heard him lately when he refers to me? He's been calling me Dad since Ieva and I got married, and he calls her Mom! He's like a son to us, but that doesn’t mean anything about your relationship changing. What's the deal with it?” I don't understand... why the hell are you trying to say he can't be like a son to me?

“What’s the deal with it? What’s the deal with it? Well I’ll fucking tell you what the ‘ deal’ is!” He came up to Lathe, grabbing him, his anger turning to sadness. “Because everyday he’s gone I’m afraid! I’m afraid he’ll only be considered like a son to you! And that he’ll never actually be your son… He hasn’t proposed… He hasn’t said a single word about engagement to me! How can I not be upset when you think about him as a son and all he thinks about me is just some person … That he won’t tie the knot with? Yeah we’re trying to have kids… But you don’t need to married to have kids! I’m afraid that he’s not really mine , dammit! That’s why!” Eren’s whole body was shaking as he let it all out. Fuck... I wasn’t supposed to tell you... He let his knees buckle out from under him, tears running down his face quickly. “I’m sorry… I’m sorry I yelled, I just… I just…” He struggled to take in a shaking breath. I hate this so much... This worry that's continually making me sick , and so self conscious....

Lathe’s eyes screwed shut as Eren grabbed his collar, waiting for a punch that never came. He finally looked up when Eren stopped shouting, his own eyes matching the sadness and worry in Eren’s. …fuck… “Eren…” Lathe’s voice was quiet, catching Eren when he stumbled and slowly lowering them to the ground as he began sobbing. Lathe wrapped him up in a hug, keeping him in his lap and gently running a hand through his hair as tears streaked down his own cheeks. ……I’m so sorry…… “…..Eren….. I know he wants to marry you.” Levi, I’m telling him this and I’m not gonna be sorry. “I remember hearing from him sometime… that he’d rather go overseas and leave behind a boyfriend, and not a fiancée… that maybe then, if he hadn’t already promised to marry you… if he didn’t come back… it wouldn't hurt as much. ……but I think he was just hoping as much as he could that it would be true… because we all know it wouldn't help at all. ……and when we went up north, visited Marcus… when we went to the trampoline place… I remember hearing him ask to jump in after you into the foam pit, and the guy manning it asked if you two were related… …Levi just pointed at you, and he said like this, ‘I’m gonna marry him.’” He cooed quietly to Eren as he shook harder, trying to calm him. “He wants to keep you… I know he does… he loves you so much…. and he wants to come home. He'll come home for you, and I'll personally beat the crap out of him if he doesn't propose within a month of getting back here.” Otherwise he'd be taking waaaaaaaay too damn long.

Eren had calmed down immensely when he listened to Lathe speak quietly in his ear. Charlie walked over to them and sniffed at his hair, breathing down Eren’s neck in his attempt to calm the young man. He chuckled a bit at his last statement, nodding… “I-I’m sorry , I guess, today was just bad because… Um… Levi tried to call me on skype during work… And I had to decline the call and then mute the next time he tried to call… And I feel horrible about it, but I don’t know what to do anymore…” Work helps to take my mind off of things… But… It only helps so much… “I didn’t mean to yell, I’m sorry, I don’t hate you… Please come home, I don’t want you to be gone too…” Eren clung to Lathe’s shirt, feeling hot tears roll down his cheeks at just the thought. Not you too… I promise I won’t bottle it in anymore...

Lathe nodded, holding him close. “I'm sorry for yelling too… you scared me when we noticed you running off like that, I could only think the worst… I let my anger get the best of me… we can go home. After all, we’ve got a job to do.” He watched Eren look up to him curiously, weakly smirking. “Drown our sorrows in pie and cookies.” He smiled as Eren just shook his head and chuckled, kissing his nose. “C’mon, everyone’s probably worried. And we can't let them eat all the dessert by themselves.” Lathe helped Eren stand, rubbing at his eyes. Guh, I could use something sweet… and a really long nap… and a few more hugs...

Eren smiled softly, looking at him. “I um… I know this isn’t the best of times… But Sammie’s new parents are coming to pick her up tomorrow… Will you be able to take care of that?” I hope you'll be feeling up for it… I need to go to work...

Lathe nodded, rubbing the back of his neck. “Yeah, I guess so… I don't wanna have to let her go yet, but this is what we signed up for, isn't it?” She gets extra kisses goodnight and her favourite breakfast tomorrow. Lathe retrieved his goggles, hanging them around his neck. “I'll miss her.” She’s such a good kid… I hope her new family will take care of her.
Eren nodded and he turned to Charlie, pulling his bridle off. <“Follow me.”> He gently pet Charlie as he nickered, a soft smile forming on his face as he put the bridle in his lap, sitting down behind Lathe and wrapping his arms around the older man tightly. I can’t ride… My legs feel so weak…

Lathe smiled, turning the ATV around and making their way down the road at a pace Charlie could comfortably keep up with, cutting through the woods to the path and soon parking in the barn, Charlie behind them. He felt Eren’s hands slip from his middle, hopping off the ATV and helping Eren bring Charlie back into the stall with Luna and their filly. Lathe had an arm around Eren’s shoulders as they walked back to the house, smiling weakly when Ieva opened the door, looking worriedly between the two of them. “We’re okay, don’t worry. Things got sorted out.” We’re kinda okay now. Kinda sorta.

Eren nodded, though when he saw people in the background, mostly Jean, he kept his head down to hide his face. I won’t run anymore… Why is he still here? “Um… C-Can I go up to my room?” I wanna hide… I don’t want people to see my like this, my face is all red and blotchy still, I can feel it. Eren’s hand was still clinging to Lathe’s shirt in the back, his legs feeling a little more stable as they walked, though still shaking under him. I actually might need your help getting up them… god damn stairs!

“Yeah, you can. Wanna take something sweet with you?” He watched Eren shake his head. “Okay. C’mon, let’s go.” Lathe brought him to the stairs, helping him as he took shaky steps up to the second floor, patient as he struggled. He walked with him to his room, letting go of him at the door. “You can just chill here, then. But we’re making sure you eat something tomorrow morning.” Lathe pecked his cheek. You can hide, and I’ll let it slide that you skipped dinner. But you need to eat something so you can function tomorrow.

Eren nodded, going to his bed and slipping out of his clothes. I wanna sleep, sleep is good… Really good… He got out of his pants, leaving his shirt on and just flipping back down on the pillow, sighing as he let his body sink into the mattress. Sleep…. He was out long before anyone left, his body curled up above the covers.
“Mr. Yeager please call the office, Mr. Yeager please call the office.”

Eren picked his head up, putting his marking pen down. What do they want now? I finally got into the zone with correcting these tests… He got up, making his way across the empty classroom to pick up the phone attached to the wall and dialing the office extension.

“Hello?” The office receptionist answered the phone quickly.

“This is Eren, do I need to come down?”

“Oh no, Eren, are you in your room?”

“Yeah, I am.”

“Okay, you’re guest will be down in a minute.”

Eren’s brow furrowed as he thanked her, hanging up. Guest? What the hell? He shrugged it off, sitting back at his desk and continuing to grade the pile of tests he had. Who the fuck would it be? The students know that I’m in my room until 4:30 after school.

Footsteps quietly patterned down the hall, a freckled face poking into the classroom. Marco smiled when he saw Eren, stepping inside. “Hey Eren. I thought I’d find you here. My dad and I made you something for your birthday, since we didn't hear about anything going on for it. Happy Birthday.” He set the box in his hands on the desk, a cake box from the bakery. I hope he likes it when he gets to eat it later…

Eren looked up in shock. “Huh?” He looked down at the box on his desk, instantly recognizing the shape of it. “But Marco… It’s not my birthday?” I mean… I don’t think it is? His brow furrowed in confusion as he looked up to Marco.

Marco tilted his head a bit, glancing at the box. “It’s March 31st…. right? Your birthday? That was yesterday… and we didn't hear if you had a party or something, so we made you this. ….did I get the date wrong?” I was so sure it was yesterday...

Eren’s eyes were wide as he listened to Marco. “Oh wow, we all must’ve forgotten. Geez, where the fuck are the days going… Thank you Marco.” I didn’t realize… And no one in my house remembered either… That’s impressive… No call from Levi either… I’ve been concentrating on AP work lately. “Well I guess I’ll take the rest of the night off and take the cake home, thank you, really.” I appreciate it.

Marco’s eyebrows shot up, surprised. “Everyone forgot? Geez, that’s something. I’d’ve imagined at least one of you would remember. At least you.” Marco eyed the stack of half-graded papers. “Then again, you seem to be swimming in work yourself…” The kids probably don’t know when your birthday is. And now there’s six kids running around, so we all know Lathe has barely got time to breathe … “You’re very welcome. Anything for you.” Marco smiled, nudging Eren’s arm. You’re a good friend. The least I can do is give you cake.

“I wouldn’t put it past me, I almost completely forgot about Dad’s birthday earlier… The boys’ll be happy that we have cake for dessert… It’s probably pizza night since it’s Friday…” I’ll get home and ask the boys what they want for dinner. He gathered his things and grabbed the cake with a soft smile on his face, walking out of the high school with Marco chatting with him. I need a break, I’ve been stressing out about everything… Levi’s not skyped me at all…. I really really hope he’s okay… The last message was that he’d be off base for a bit… But it’s been 4 whole months since then… He got the cake into his car, slowly driving to the store to pick up ice cream. If I know Marco, he made me a huge Ultimate Chocolate Cake… Freckles and his obsession with chocolate… It took him only an extra ten minutes than normal to get home, getting in and setting the cake on the island counter, hurrying the ice cream into the freezer. “BOYS!!” Eren shouted into the house, hearing feet thunder into the kitchen, bright eyes and huge smiles. “What’s today?”

“Friday!” All of them said in unison.

“Yes it is, so what kind of pizza are we getting?” I know you guys can all mostly agree.

Philip, the youngest at 5 years of age, came up to him, a curious look on his face as he tugged on Eren’s fingers. “Can we haff b-bacon?” Pweease!!

Eren smiled ruffling his black hair, looking to the older boys. “Philip requested cheese and bacon, what we think about that?”

“That’s good with me.”
“Yup, me too!”

“I can eat that.”

“Alright I guess that settles that then, does anyone want wings too?” He watched as Tucker nodded. “Tucker you want the usual?” He watched Tucker nod before he said the boys could go. Alright, I’ll write this down for Dad to order… Where the heck is he anyways? Well, the boys are good with watching each other… He jotted down the pizza order and left it on the counter for Lathe to see before going up to his room to change. He pulled his phone out of his pocket, opening up the skype app to see if Levi had called. Still nothing… What if he’s hurt? Is he okay? He didn’t call today… Or yesterday… Did he forget too? I mean, for us, it was a normal day… Dad didn’t make Black Forest Cake. I can say that I’m at least grateful that it wasn’t like any other birthday I had when Grisha was still around… He shuddered as his mind brought up a few choice images, shaking his head to try and rid himself of the horrid thoughts. Eren sighed quietly, getting out of his dress clothes and into his riding clothes. “Boys I’m going out to ride Charlie! Watch Philip while I’m out! Dad and Mom aren’t home yet! Be good!” He shouted into the house, knowing that they’d be fine and going out of the back door and towards the barn to get Charlie’s tack, dragging it over his shoulder and going out to the pasture to tack him. It’s getting warmer out… That’s good…

Lathe traipsed down the stairs a few minutes later, having finally reached a breaking point in the paperwork upstairs. He smiled as he saw Lucas tucked into a corner of the couch reading, smiling warmly. “Lucas, I take it Eren came home?” He watched him nod and silently point to the kitchen, meandering over to the table. He picked up the note on the table, chuckling. “I guess we all know what’s for dinner, yeah?” He smiled as he heard Lucas laugh for a moment before quieting down again, his eyes never straying from the pages of his novel. A real bookworm. “I’ll call that in in a little bit. It’s still kinda early to eat, given how quickly they’ll have it out here.” Lathe tucked the order in his pocket, looking over the kitchen and noting the distinguishable box in the counter. Oooh, something from the bakery. I hope it's muffins. Lathe walked over, lifting the lid of it. He froze as he read the cursive writing in black frosting on the brown chocolate cake. ...Happy Birthday Eren. .......we fucking forgot his birthday. Shit! I've been so damn busy with the kids I forgot all about it! I owe him a cake... and an apology hug. “Any idea where Eren is?” Lathe called out to the living room again.

“Uh, he's in the….” Lucas stubbornly kept reading, a hand gesturing to the back of the house as he searched for the word in the back of his mind. “......the horses... stable, barn, thing…” Lucas didn't even register Lathe’s chuckling at him, too engrossed in True Grit to notice.

“Much specific, very vocabulary, wow.” Lathe grinned, moving to the backdoor and stepping into his boots. “Hopefully I can catch him before he goes off riding again.” I know he'd be back in a rather timely manner, but I wanna catch him soon if I can. Lathe was out the door in a moment, walking over towards the field near the barn where Eren had set up jumps, watching Eren for a moment before catching his eye, waving to him. “Yo Eren, can we talk a bit?”

Eren slowed Charlie to a walk, coming close to Lathe before hopping off. What’s this about? “Did Jared steal the dinner order again?” He asked, wiping his brow on his sleeve as Charlie nickered at Lathe, his ears perked towards the tall man. “It should be on the island counter…”

“No, I’ve got that. It’s Friday, and the orders the same as last week’s. And the week before that, and the week before that.” Lathe chuckled, shaking his head. “Actually, I saw the box on the counter. The one with the birthday cake. Eren, I’m really sorry we forgot about your birthday. Now we’ve got six boys hanging off of us twenty-four seven and I’ve been too buried in work to think of anything. I nearly forgot my own birthday even was a thing. But I’m sorry.” Lathe held out his arms. “Can I have a hug and not be scared you'll slap me?” A mischievous light flickered in his eye. I don't think you will slap me. But I have to make sure.

“It’s alright, Dad, really. I forgot about it too… Until Marco came in…. Levi hasn’t even called once …” Eren sighed quietly at his words, a small flicker of sorrow in his eyes. I'm fine… I'll be fine… He smiled softly and leaned into Lathe’s open arms. I can live with it...

Lathe pulled him into a warm hug, gently rubbing his back. “M’sorry you haven't heard from him… I’m sure he's fine. He's probably up to his eyes in work, but I know he'd love to have a few hours to talk.” ...I might message him and see if he responds, see if something’s up. I dunno, just a ‘Hey you've been quiet for a while, everything going okay? We'd all like to talk and stuff’ or something. I'm allowed to miss him too.

“ I’m up to my eyes in work…” Eren chuckled quietly, wrapping his arms around Lathe’s middle. “You wanna go riding?” It might make me feel a bit better… “I’ll have to go back to the school to get the rest of the tests I need to grade.”

Lathe paused a moment, blinked. “...are out suggesting you take me with you on Charlie to the school to get a stack of tests?” I probably heard that wrong...

“You know… That wouldn’t be a bad idea, wanna go? We’ll walk the whole way…” Charlie will be faster than us actually walking... Eren smiled cheekily. “You can see how I decorated the room.”

Lathe sighed, shaking his head with a smile. “You're insane. Then again, so am I. I'm in.” Lathe let go of Eren, letting him hop back up, taking the hand offered to him and heaving himself up behind him, holding onto his middle. “Okay kid, just try not to get us killed on this thing.” This ‘ride the horse’ thing is still a weird idea to me... I can't get used to it.
Eren smiled more, gently urging Charlie on and up the driveway to go up the road. “Can I ask you a question?” I feel like my students aren’t prepared, they’re done with the material, we’re in review mode now… And I don’t know what to do.

“I'm not giving you money, you have enough of that.” Lathe grinned. “Yeah, go ahead. What’s up?” You sound a bit nervous about something.

“What do I do with the AP students… I feel like they’re not prepared… And we’re done with the material… What do I do?” I really don’t know what to do with them anymore… ”I want them to be able to do really well… And I’m afraid I’m not giving them enough to do that.”

Lathe pondered the question for a moment. “...there are a couple things to do. As for vocabulary and stuff, you could make a huge-ass Quizlet with all the vocabulary they need to know and the ones that might be tricky… and when it comes to culture and stuff, I'd say make a Kahoot. You know what those are, right? The multiple-choice games on the internet? Just let them use their phones during class for it. But something easy would be to look over some of the old released AP exam questions, do some of those in class together. As for speaking, just start having really weird, intricate conversations. If you can get them to have full normal conversations with each other, they'd be in pretty good shape right at that. But something easy would be to look over some of the old released AP exam questions, do some of those in class together. As for speaking, just start having really weird, intricate conversations. If you can get them to have full normal conversations with each other, they'd be in pretty good shape right at that. I dunno, have them pretend to order pizza from another student or have them try to give ‘tech support’ to one another, or have someone explain, for example, what a penguin is without using certain words and make them get creative. Anything to keep them using all the words in their vocabulary and put them together correctly.” Lathe looked at Eren’s expression. “I can just hear you cringing at how much work that sounds like. I'll help you. But remember- if you keep teaching, and you just might, you'll have all this crap already done for next year, or for the next teacher and their set of students.” That's the good thing. “I think I have a list of the tricky vocabulary words still tucked away somewhere in an old binder, a thing I jotted down one day when the students just kept telling me all these words they kept forgetting or messing up. You should probably have that.” There were trouble spots for the entire class- they should probably be accounted for. They're bound to strike again.

Eren nodded, urging Charlie forward still until they got to the school, about a half hour later. He pulled out his keys from his pocket, and he clambered off of Charlie, tying him to the post near the door. “You’ll stay here and munch on the long grass…. We’ll go inside.”

Lathe chuckled, following him to his classroom. His eyes widened as Eren ushered him inside, looking around in shock. The desks were gone, and in their place rugs were spread across the floor, large pillows strewn around in their stead. Two bookshelves were shoved against the back wall, and where they weren't stuffed with German textbooks they were full of small trinkets and healthy potted plants. The only other furniture in the room was Eren’s desk, littered from edge to edge with papers, some in the middle of being graded, some precariously perched in stacks, threatening to flutter to the floor. “......how well did you say your kids were doing, again?”
“Top grades…” Eren murmured without a second thought and moved around the pillows carefully to get to his desk. “Try not to step on the pillows…” The freshman think it’s weird still… They’ll get used to it...

...... “This is a scientific study waiting to happen.” ......now I want in on that. Lathe carefully stepped over them, looking over the many papers on the desk. “You've got a ton of papers here. How much homework do you give?” Hopefully not a two-page packet every night... god, one of the teachers here used to do that and the kids wouldn't stop complaining... they stopped caring really fast...

“They get journals every night, they need to write one full page, front and back, I won’t let them type it… And it’s about whatever they want to rant about, they find it fun, and I find it fun to read. We have quizzes every other week on Thursdays, and Tests every three weeks on a Tuesday… And once a month they do a research paper, which is three pages front and back about a part of German culture they learned about in class… The AP students take well to it, and are better speaking than I thought they would ever be.” It’s worked out well, and none of the kids really complain about it...

“......you definitely inherited my teaching skillz.” You could hear the ‘z’ on the end of the word. Lathe grinned, looking over one of the papers. “They've been doing so well, and you've really gotten running this class down to a science. They're learning their culture thoroughly, they're speaking well, keeping up their vocabulary and expanding it and getting used to normal syntax and grammar with writing these journals… I'm impressed. You picked up teaching really easily. You didn't google ‘how to teach?’” Lathe quirked an eyebrow at him, smiling.

“No, I didn’t google it. They weren’t pleased when the first homework assignments came back to them, covered in red from corrections of simple errors… And we basically watch videos in class or we have a discussion, or I tell stories of my childhood that are relevant… I also asked Mike about getting a grant to go back to Germany for a little while over the summer… To see how much the culture has changed and to better prepare the students next year…” I still feel like I'm missing something though....

“That all sounds amazing, Eren! Really. Have you started drafting a final exam at all yet? At this point in time, just outlining one would be more than enough. But what I did one year, when I was running Trig for a bit, I made up a few practice exams, let the kids stay after or come in on the weekend and take them, see about what they’d get on the real thing. You could ponder doing one for this class, see where everyone is.” It might help you figure out where to go from here.

“You mean I can give them the exams that are on the AP website?” That’s a thing I can do!?
“No, they put them there for teachers to stare at and forlornly think about how badly their class is going to fail. Yes! My god, print out a bunch and give it to them! You can do that! It'd save you time from having to write one yourself yet. There are a few up, so you can mix up questions you think they need to go over, or even do a few questions in class as a class and walk through them. Whatever works. The exams are there for you to use. But I really would recommend giving them a full-length exam to tell where they are. You can give it in parts during classes over a few days. But you should figure out where to go for review before you blindly start going.” That'd probably be a good idea.

“But what do I do about the speaking portion of the exam?” How the hell do I do that? Eren continued shuffling through papers and making a few neater stacks. I can get this done this weekend...

“Hmm... what if you made them play charades in German? Someone gets a word, they have to describe what it is to the class in German, and have students guess what it is? If it's random enough, it could work...” I dunno, I never got the AP kids. I got the ones a year below them, but not AP really. Except like one day in the middle of the year. It wasn't much.

“But it’s like a DBQ almost... It’s weird... It’s more writing after listening to audio tracks... And then I think we have to record something too and send it in...” I’m so thoroughly confused...

“OH! It's transcription and pronunciation! I did the same exact thing in high school for French! You listen to a tape in French, or in this case German, and write down what was said in French, checking spelling and if you understood where words began and ended, just making sure you heard it right-”

“No... It’s um... You have some audio tracks... And it’s like statements that are like documents... And you write a persuasive essay... For the first part... And the second part, I think it’s listening to directions and then giving audio responses...” I think... I might be confusing shit... And I fucking took this course and I can’t remember it... Wait, why can’t I remember it? “W-why...?” Eren’s face grew pale as he struggled to figure out why there was a blank space in his memories... I don’t remember... At all...

Lathe watched Eren pale, a hand moving to his shoulder. “Eren, are you okay? We can just check online later, it's no big deal...” He watched Eren shake his head, moving to sit Eren down in his chair. “Eren what's wrong?” Something’s very wrong...

“I can’t remember it... At all... I can’t remember what we did during senior year... Why can’t I remember?” I don’t remember taking the AP classes... Or any other classes...
Lathe thought, wracking his brain for a good reason. ...think, what happened around that time that could've made you forget that and could be logical and not-too-concerning... well, you were in a coma for a good chunk of time. That's a thing. “You were in a coma for a good chunk of time after your exams... you might have memory loss. Totally normal, Hon, don't panic.” Lathe tried to placate Eren as he looked more and more scared. ...think of something, maybe we can jog your memory just a little bit... humm... “Do you remember what happened when you first woke up? Do you remember waking up at all? I'd been reading Harry Potter to you…” Can you fill in any blanks? Something simple to start, something you should remember.

Eren’s brow furrowed as he struggled to remember. “I um... It... It was bright... Really bright.... And everything was white and black....” I don’t remember any colors...

“Okay, the hospital room was mostly white, and any shadows were black because it was the middle of the damn night... do you remember what I was reading to you? Or the series? I was about halfway through the series when you woke up.” Did you hear much of it...?

Eren shook his head, moving to stand and grab the stack of papers he wanted. “C-Can we go? I have everything now... And I need to make sure that we order pizza... “W-We need to order pizza.” Change the subject... Change the subject... Eren moved away from his desk and carefully towards the door, holding the large stack of papers. I can’t! I don't wanna think about it!

He doesn't want to think about the big gaps.... I can understand it. You're supposed to have memories there... but they're not there. It's scary. “Yeah, we can get going. And I still have the pizza order, I might have to call it in from my cell phone since the ride takes a while back to the house. But that's not a hint to make him gallop the whole way Eren, don't give me that look.” He glared at Eren for a moment as he caught the evil look in his eyes, both of them just laughing after a moment. “I'll call it in, they're used to this crap by now. It won't be much more than, what, 45 minutes? With the drive, an hour. That's fine.” The kids shouldn't be too antsy by then.

“Can you get Garlic wings for me too?” I want something more than just pizza tonight, even though we have cake. He ushered Lathe out of the room locking the door behind him and then ushering the two of them outside where Charlie waited patiently munching on the grass by the door. Good horse... Eren smirked, coming up to Charlie and getting him untangled. Alright buddy... Time to go home...

“Course. I wonder if they'll be able to see us walking down the street on a horse as I'm calling in the order.” Lathe hopped up behind Eren on the horse, dialling the pizza number from memory and holding the cell phone to his ear, looking at the order in his hand as they made their way down Trost. He glanced over to the bakery just in time to see Marco facepalm from behind the counter, trying hard not to laugh as someone picked up. “Uh, hi, I'm calling from the horse outside your store to place an order for delivery.” He looked into the pizza place as they passed it, the woman at the front desk looking stunned as they meandered down the street on Charlie. “Hi! So, can I have….” Lathe casually read off the order as if what was happening was totally normal. Totally. After a moment he hung up, stowing his phone back in his pocket. He made sure to wave to James behind the counter of the pharmacy, the man in question just catching sight of them and looking like he'd seen a ghost. “Honestly, by this point you'd think people would be used to us doing shit like this.” They need to understand this is normal.

Eren shrugged. “I don’t think many people saw Charlie the first time we took him down this road.” His words were still a bit quiet, his voice wavering a bit. I need to calm down… He took in a deep breath as they finally cleared the busy street and head towards home. “D-Do you think Levi forgot too?” I mean, it’s reasonable that we all forgot with everything that’s going on around here... But would Levi forget?

“...I don't think so. I'm sure he'd remember. Here, let me do this. I'd been meaning to since yesterday.” Lathe pulled out his phone, opening Skype. “I'll message him, see what's up.”

LQ: Yo Levi you have a minute or ten

LQ: We haven't heard from you in a while and we're worried LA: I've been trying to call Eren, believe me!

LA: But my calls won't go through and he won't respond to my messages

LQ: Kk I'll see what's up

“Eren, excuse me for a sec.” Lathe picked Eren’s pocket easily, soon opening his phone and scrolling to Skype, opening it and going through it. He opened Levi’s contact, his brow furrowing. “No messages… looks like everything is in order though…” He hovered over the small bubble near Levi’s name, realising something. “You've got to be kidding me.” Lathe clicked a button, and soon enough a call from Levi was incoming. Lathe answered it, putting it on speaker. <“Levi, Eren accidentally had you on mute from a while ago when he was hella busy.”>

Eren’s eyes were wide. I did what.... I did that? I made it so Levi wasn't messaging me? <“I-I’m so sorry, I didn’t mean to block you really, I didn’t realize that what I did made it so you couldn’t contact me… We’ll be home soon, so you can see the boys.”> You haven’t met Philip, Jared, Lucas or Mark yet. <“We started looking for someone to carry for us… Hannah got an egg fertilized…”> Well, that should be news, because Lathe doesn’t know yet either....
Levi’s eyebrows shot up, a bright look in his eyes, his voice warm. <“Oh my god, that’s amazing to hear! You let me know the second someone volunteers to carry for us, okay?”> We’ll actually have a kid… they’ll be ours … <“Oh yeah, I remember you saying something about getting some more kids after Sammie gets adopted. Anyone new around just yet?”>

<“Try four .”>

<“Are you telling me you have six boys running around the house and you haven't had a heart attack yet? I'm impressed.”> Yeesh, Lathe, your hair will be snow white by the time you turn forty. <“And its fine, Eren. An honest mistake. Just as long as you don't do it again; I missed your voice.”> Levi winked, smirking. I missed hearing from you. A lot .

<“You really have no idea… I’ve missed being able to speak German with someone other than my students and Dad…”> I’m still correcting my students, especially in the younger grades… <“Are you alright? Like, really okay?”> I want to make sure you're okay.... He smiled as they got into the driveway, going to the barn and hopping off of Charlie, helping Lathe down. Charlie’s had a good exercise... He can go back in the field.

<“Yeah, I'm okay. I'm just waiting on getting a new helmet, I need a new one after the one I got like a month or two ago.”>

<“Why? There something wrong with your old one?”>

<“Well… all I'm saying is that it did it’s job spectacularly… but it’s kinda… I'll just show you, that'll explain it better.”> Levi reached over, picking up his helmet and holding it up to the camera. It was absolutely riddled with bullet holes, no square inch having gone untouched. He winced a bit internally as Eren and Lathe went dead silent on the other end, putting it down at looking at their shocked faces. <“...yeah… I need a new one.”> ...they aim for the head. Nothing I can do besides wear my helmet and pray.

Eren felt the nausea start to come to his stomach. Oh my god… He... He could’ve died… He... Oh my god … His face was pale as he walked away in silence, untacking Charlie and putting him in his stall. The gravity of the situation Levi was in finally started to hit him. He... He might not come home.... No ... He was still quiet as he walked past Lathe to go towards the house, Blake standing at the top of the stairs whining with his tail wagging slowly as he got closer. Blake won’t come down the stairs anymore… I’m gonna need to take him to work on Monday… Fuck… His whole body was shaking, leaving Lathe to hold the phone with Levi on the other end. I... I can’t …
Lathe had a hand over his mouth, silent as he processed the new information. …you're working so close to death… Lathe watched Eren walk past him, a blank look in his eyes as he walked up the stairs. Lathe moved to sit at the kitchen table, searching for words. <“......we both knew that you were risking your life, doing what you're doing out there… ...but seeing that just made it real.”> Eren's not going to be himself for a while… he was already so scared of you not coming home… and then there's that …

Eren just barely made it to his room before he slumped down against the wall, Blake moving to sit in his lap and try and calm him down. He could feel something warm on his face, not registering the tears that fell. His hands shaking horribly enough that he couldn’t grab onto Blake, his eyes blown wide as he felt the bile rush to his mouth, spitting out the acidic taste that remained after he expelled it from his system. His eyes were wide as he struggled to take in a breath. I'm having an attack… Levi's not here… Levi might not come back… He might…. Die …. His breathing was labored as he was dragged into the center of his room, Blake’s weight barely registering as he began to sob. No… He has to come home! He can’t die! He can’t! He can’t!

Lathe looked up as he heard a quiet thump upstairs, looking back to Levi, thinking. <“...he's going to need to process it… I know we all haven't talked in a while, but I think we should talk when Eren’s not so… Uhm…”>

<“Distraught.”> Levi sighed as Lathe nodded, noting the weariness in the older man’s eyes. <“I'm sorry to have had to say it like that… to say how close to death I am all the time in that way… they aim for the head. It's what it is. But if the equipment does its job, and I do what I'm supposed to properly, I'll come out of this more or less okay.”>

<“...just… try your damndest to come home to us alive and in one piece, okay?”>

<“That's all I've been doing, Dad. You should probably go make sure he's okay.”>

<“I will. Good luck, Levi.”>

<“Thanks. And good luck with the kids. You sound like you'll need it.”>

Lathe chuckled. <“I will. Bye.”> Lathe hung up as Levi waved, stowing his phone in his pocket and making his way up the stairs. He saw Mark hovering near the door with a worried look on his face, going to rest a hand on his shoulder. “You okay, Mark?”
Mark looked up to Lathe as he heard him, his eyes betraying his worry. “He… He’s not okay…. He was throwing up… And he’s crying… But um, is it bad? If Blake went with him?” I don’t know what to do, this never happened before! Mark kneeled down to pick up Nene, holding the small dog to his chest and petting him. They’re all just staring at the door…

Lathe looked to him with sympathy, looking at the small flock of dogs congregating around the door. They all know something’s wrong with Eren… “We told you about Levi, right? How he’s in Iraq?” He watched him nod for a moment. “We’re all just really worried about him, we finally got to talk to him again today for a bit… but everything he’s going through got a lot more real to us. He's worried sick, literally.” His voice softened, gently guiding Mark to the stairs. “Here, how about this. You know where the pizza money is, right?” He watched him nod. “I need to make sure he’s not panicking too badly… but you're old enough that you don't have to stay in the dark about all of this. You're getting old enough, and could be here for a while.

Mark nodded heading down the first few steps before he stopped and turned to look at Lathe again. “Will… Will Eren be okay?” I want to make sure he’s okay… He’s not been eating much lately, but I thought everyone else noticed that too…

Lathe hesitated, sighing quietly. “Four years is a long time, and it's not exactly safe, where Levi is… I don't think Eren’s going to be himself for a while… it's hard just to understand the fact he's going to be gone for that long… and it's another to come to terms with the idea he might not come home. I don't think he'll entirely be himself until Levi comes home. But he’ll be okay. We all need to be there for him. I’ll do what I can for right now. But things will be okay once we start talking to him more again- Levi, I mean. He accidentally got blocked on Skype. You all can finally see him soon, say hi. It worried us, going silent for so long. …but I'll stop rambling. He'll be okay soon. Promise.”

Mark nodded, going down the stairs, followed by a sleepy Nene and the soft hum of chatter downstairs.

Eren’s sobs reached through to the other side of the door, though he sounded choked, like he was being strangled. He lay close to motionless except for gasps for air from his constricting airways. It hurts… It hurts… He’s not gonna come home! He could feel Blake’s weight settling in on his skinny frame, trying to pull him out, but he was too far gone at that point. I don’t want him to die…

Lathe immediately moved to the bedroom once Mark was walking down the stairs, opening the door and wincing at the puddle of vomit on the ground. He moved around it quickly to Eren’s side, kneeling next to him and murmuring into his ear, a hand brushing through his hair gently. <“Eren, Honey, come back to me, just stay calm. It's okay. Levi’s just fine, and he's going to be able to come out of this okay and come home to you. It'll be okay, Honey, believe me. He's going to come home to you.”> Come on, even if I myself am struggling to believe me, you have to!

Eren’s gasps were sharp, running out of oxygen as his chest continued to tighten, his eyes severely glazed over and his fingers starting to spasm and jerk. I can’t hear… The ringing’s too loud… It hurts… I want Dad! I want Levi! Levi come home please! He was struggling to get in a breath, barely able to do so.

Lathe struggled to find words, laying next to him and pulling him into a hug, hands running over his back as he tugged him on top of his chest, Blake getting off of him and letting him. ....think… he wants Levi… what would remind him of Levi? …uh….. he's acting like he can't hear me, so audio won't do much… I doubt we still have any of his stuff that still smells like him or something… ….actually….. Lathe thought hard, shifting Eren gently back to the floor before quickly moving to the dresser, opening the bottom drawer. ...this is all Levi’s stuff… this is probably a dumb idea, but it’s an idea... Lathe fished out one of the hoodies buried near the bottom of a stack, a simple dark grey. Lathe moved back to Eren, putting the hoodie in his hands, insisting he take it. He moved so Eren rested his head on part of it like a pillow, hoping for the best. Come on, work …

Eren’s fingers continued to spasm as he struggled to hold the fabric, turning his head to try and move away from it though his body went shock still as he picked up a scent from it. L-Levi…. Levi's here? Tears threatened to spill over as his breathing slowed down, getting better to a point, but he was still panicking. Where’s Levi? I want Levi! His eyes seemed to be getting less clouded as he buried his nose into the hoodie, his stiff body starting to go lax and his hands actually became able to grab the shirt. Levi….

Lathe laid down next to him, relieved as tension slowly began to drain from Eren as he drank in Levi’s scent. He misses him so much… He's so scared for him…. Lathe gently threaded a hand through his hair, gently petting him. “Levi’s going to be okay, Hon. He's going to come home to us, and he's going to be okay. Promise.”> He damn well better….

Eren's hands clenched and unclenched around the hoodie, his eyes closing as he tried to take a deep breath, starting to cough as he found his throat was still a bit constricted. His eyes were starting to slowly uncloud, and his body turn to the side, his head nuzzling into the hoodie as he relaxed more, the rest of the tension in his body leaving him when he could take in an easy breaths. Eren finally moved his head, clutching Levi’s hoodie as his tears began to dry a half hour after Lathe had knelt beside him. Fuck… That was bad … My chest is tight… Really tight … It hurts…

Lathe soothingly murmured to him as they lay on the floor, trying to help coax Eren to relax. That was bad … you haven't had a panic attack like that in a long time… “……Eren, how are you feeling?” You look like you've calmed down enough to talk a bit… more or less…
“C-Chest…” Fuck, my voice is hoarse... Don’t tell me I was screaming? I can’t remember it at all. He struggled to swallow, trying to calm down as he held onto Levi’s hoodie. I don’t want to let go... Did the boys see? Do they think I’m weird? “B-b-boys?” Eren still struggled to get a few words out, his chest extremely tight, like someone was choking him.

“They're downstairs, Mark was put in charge of them and making sure they eat. They're fine. ...Marks the only one who noticed anything, but it's fine, really.” Lathe gently nudged Eren onto his back, letting Blake move to the other side to lay down, licking Eren’s cheek. “Just focus on breathing for now, okay? It'll come to you. Just take it easy.” You'll be okay more or less in a little bit.

Eren nodded, slowly taking in a few breaths, trying to relax and even out his breathing. “I couldn’t... Take it... Seeing that... I hated it...” I hate that I can’t be there with him... I hate it... His eyes glanced over to Blake as the dog weakly sat down. “You need... to text... M-Moblit...” I need a new dog... Blake doesn’t come with me anymore.

Lathe looked up to Blake, sighing quietly as the dog wearily looked between Eren and Lathe, quietly whimpering. He's getting old... he can't come with you and properly help you anymore... “...okay. I will. You need another dog.” Lathe reached out to gently pet Blake, whose whimpers quieted, still looking to Eren with worried eyes. Blake reached out a leg, pawing at Eren’s arm. He wants to help...

Eren slowly reached an arm up to pet Blake behind the ears, a soft smile on his face. “I smell pizza... I-Is food here?” It probably is... I was panicking for a long time... “I think I threw up...” He mumbled as he let Blake lick his face, a soft smile coming across his lips. I missed you bud...

“Food is probably here, I think they went ahead and started eating. Which is okay.” Lathe looked over near the door, the puddle of vomit still sitting on the floor. “....and yeah, you did throw up. I need to clean that up.” We can't just let it sit there. Lathe chuckled as Blake moved to make himself right at home on Eren’s chest, licking his cheeks as Eren pet him. *That's adorable... “Here, I'll clean up the mess and you stay put for the moment, just chill a minute longer. Then we’ll go eat. Are you hungry much?” You might just wanna sleep. “You can go to bed or something if you want to, though. That's your call.”

“N-No, I wanna eat with the boys... M-Maybe we can call Levi a-again... So he can meet them all and say ‘hi’. Not sure if the boys really know he exists... Eren let his eyes close as he relaxed, catching his breath again. I haven’t panicked that badly in a long time..."

Lathe nodded, leaving him for the moment to get a bucket, mopping up the mess from the hardwood near the door. After he washed his hands three times he came back to get Eren, Blake reluctantly leaving his claim on his chest to let him stand. Lathe helped Eren to his feet, walking with him to the stairs. They all made their way downstairs, Blake slowly following along with the flock of doge, all of them piling around the kitchen table as the boys ate. A few of the dogs sat next to the chairs, waiting patiently for someone to drop something. Nene nudged Mark’s foot with his nose, quietly whining. The dog lit up when Mark offered him a piece of pepperoni, his tail wagging as he ate the small piece of meat and licked his hand before going to lay down with the others. Lathe let Eren help himself from the counter as he retrieved a laptop from the theatre room, opening up Skype. He set the laptop on the table near the head of it, facing everyone. “Whenever you're ready, Eren.” Once you sit down, you can call him.

Eren nodded and sat down at his seat, Blake sitting behind him incase he had another attack. “You can call him.” I've calmed down, I can deal with this... He picked up his pizza barely taking a bite before Levi answered the skype call. <"Well that was quick.”> Didn’t think you’d answer that quickly...

<"I don't have much to do at the moment… and I'm worried. ...I'm sorry for scaring you with that… are you doing okay?"> You look a little worse for wear… <"...is that my hoodie?> He chuckled when Eren blushed. <"I'm just surprised it took you this long to start wearing all my stuff.”> I expected it around day four, not month four.

<“Yeah, it’s your hoodie, your clothes are still small tho…”> This only fits because I haven’t been eating much anymore… But oh well. <“I’ll be fine, just don’t show me things like that ever again…”> He looked to see the boys looking between the screen and him as they spoke. Oh right… “Boys, this is Levi, Levi this is Jared, Lucas, Mark and Philip.” He pointed as each of the boys waved at Levi, smiles across their faces.

Levi waved to each of them, his eyes wide. “Wow, there’s a lot of you. Hi!” Levi managed a small smile, looking between them. “All of you, do me a favour and try not to drive Eren or Lathe insane, ‘Kay?” They need their sanities. Especially since Lathe now has six fucking children to take care of.

“We will, don’t worry.” Mark’s deep voice resonated throughout the kitchen before he picked up a wing on his plate and eating. So are you considered my brother? Or…? All I really know is that you exist and everyone cares about you.

Philip looked over, his large brown eyes looking at Levi with curiosity. “Daddy… Why is big brother in a box?” Why is a he in the computer?

Eren sighed silently, giving a sad smile on his face towards Levi for a split second before he hid his face with his food. They think of you as a brother… So Dad hasn’t told them, and neither has Tucker… So what do I do about this? How do I tell them he’s my boyfriend? Would they understand the concept? Would they be repulsed? I don’t think I could go through that all over again. His eyes flickered over to Tucker, who had his earbuds in, connected to his phone. Well, I think he said ‘Hi’ to Levi at least… Blake whined as he shifted to Eren’s side, struggling to get up on his back paws to put his paws on his lap. You're getting old, Bud. He let his hand come down to Blake’s soft fur, rubbing his ears to let his nerves settle. I’m getting a new dog… Maybe I’ll get a new one tomorrow…

Lathe chuckled, ruffling Philip’s hair. “Levi’s picture is on the computer, but he's on it himself. He's really far away but he has a camera, and that picture is what the camera sees.” He smiled as Philip made an ‘ooohhh’ expression, waving to Levi with a toothy smile.

Big brother? ……oh, yeah… they don’t know. At least, Philip doesn't. Levi glanced to Mark, who seemed to return his questioning look. I don’t know if you know, and you don’t know if I am technically your brother… which I’m not. But you might not know that.

Lathe watched Levi and Mark’s silent exchange before Mark’s look was directed to him, mouthing ‘later’ to him. You're perceptive, I'll give you that. Besides the fact that he and I both have black hair, he doesn't exactly look like Ieva and my kid. ...neither does Eren. Eren being adopted explains it, but Levi isn’t exactly adopted. ...eh, you were bound to find out if you stuck around long enough. I think you'll be fine… but I dunno if Eren would appreciate me outing him... especially with how that went with Tucker. Even if he isn’t as suckish as he once was, and Mark is pretty chill... idk.

Levi looked around a bit as he heard a quiet yap, watching with an amused expression as Nene hopped up onto the vacant chair next to Mark, her paws on the table and looking to the teen with her best puppy eyes, quietly whining as he ate a chicken wing. She wants food… “I hope you're not going to make her just watch you eat those wings by yourself Mark. Just look at that face.” As if on cue, she whimpered loudly. Just give her food. She's no troublemaker, she can eat people food.

Mark looked back at Nene a soft smile on his face as he pulled off some of the chicken from his plain wings, making sure there was no bone in it and letting her lick it off his finger. “I swear, all you ever do is sleep and eat…” And she’s getting big too… They’re a year old now, so they’re about Maisie’s size, but still have that puppy body with the oversized head… Quite adorable.

Nene happily ate up the chicken and yapped in agreement, leaning up to lick Mark’s cheek, making him sputter before hopping off of the chair, trotting back to the small dog pile, laying down to nap again. Tasty…
“Mark, you have dog all over your hand.” Lathe pointed to the sink, flatly glaring at him as Mark casually went back to eating his chicken wing, staring challengingly at Lathe as he chewed.

“...when you get dysentery, don't come crying to me.” Lathe sat down, sighing exasperatedly when he was immediately pestered by Krampus for food, looking to the whining dog with raised eyebrows. “Really? No, your stomach is still healing. Shoo, go nap.” Lathe shooed him away, and turned back to his plate when Maisie interrupted him before he could take a single bite of anything, just shaking his head in exasperation. “My god, it's like I've got eleven mouths to feed.” Lathe tore of a piece of chicken wing, checking for bone before letting Maisie lap it up from his hand, satisfied. “And now, because I don't want to die of dysentery ..” Lathe looked pointedly to Mark, going to walk his hand from dog saliva. “- I'm going to wash my hands.” And not end up like literally everybody in my party on Oregon Trail.

Krampus watched Lathe get up from his chair, struggling to get to the top of the tall chair, getting his front two paws on the seat, his head barely reaching the high counter as he turned his head to try and get to Lathe’s plate. I want food! I can’t eat anything! And you guys always take stuff away from me! I hate it! He whimpered as he struggled more to try and get it before he stretched his body out too far, yelping in pain from his stomach before dropping down to the ground without food. No… It hurts, I can’t reach it... I want the food though!

Lucas picked his head up from his book, looking to Krampus as he whined and whimpered on the floor. “Yeah…. Real effective Krampus…” Is he okay though? He’s whining… But it’s probably just because he can’t reach the food.

Huh? “Oh crap, what'd he do?” Lathe came over after he dried off his hands, gently petting the whimpering dog. “You don't get people food, Krampus. You know you've eaten too many bad things and your stomach is still healing. We can't make it worse and let you eat a chicken bone or anything. It's still soft food for you.” Lathe nudged Krampus to stand, the dog doing so after a moment, dejectedly going back to the small dog pile. Sorry. But it's for your own good. Lathe sat down one more time, finally able to start eating. I just want to eat something! Is that too much to ask?

“There's never a dull moment with all you heathens, is there.” Levi just shook his head at their antics, smirking. Probably not. There's too many of you for that.

“I’m home!” Ieva called out from the door as she closed it behind her, locking it. Maisie came up to greet her for a moment before returning to the kitchen to wait for food to be dropped. “Did you guys start eating yet?” She called as she started to pull off her high heels. I'm off tomorrow, I get to relax... Thank god ...

“The waifu is home! And yes!” Lathe beamed, reaching an arm out for her as she calm up to the table, kissing her cheek. “We finally got ahold of Levi after someone accidentally muted him.” Lathe sent Eren a pointed look for just a split second, soon grinning again.
“Hey Mom!” Levi waved, smiling faintly. It's good to see everyone again. I missed you all a lot.

“Levi! It’s so good to see you! I’m glad you’re doing well, keeping your soldiers on their toes, I hope?” Ieva asked as she moved around the counter to get a plate started for herself. Did Eren actually mute Levi? Wow… I didn't think that was possible… well, now we know.

“Trust me, they don't need me to do that for them.” We’re on our toes enough already. Even in our sleep. ‘I've been doing okay, pretty much. Everyone’s learning to take care not to pass out from the heat, which is quite the improvement. I'm glad to see you all too.’ He looked around to all of them, finally able to see everyone in the family. Jeez, there's a lot of you. I have a feeling they're all keeping Dad on his toes nearly as much as we've been.

Eren smiled as the boys asked various questions about Levi, letting them talk to him since it was their first time. They like talking to him… That’s good, I really hope that they won’t mind that he’ll be like this for awhile…. In the constraints of a laptop screen.... Eren swallowed thickly, pushing his barely touched plate away from him for a moment. *I’ll let them talk… If I leave they won’t notice, just like how no one noticed that it was my birthday…

Don’t be upset…

Why can’t I be upset? They forgot about me.

They didn’t forget…

Yeah they did, Mom and Dad both did…

But you can’t leave, you need to eat!

I’m not hungry.

Listen to yourself! You’ve been losing weight left and right! You need to stop! It’s not healthy!

What do you know about being healthy?

Eren kept his blank gaze focused on his almost full plate, not really aware of his surroundings. I want him to come home…

Jared, who sat next to Eren and in between him and Mark, looked over to Eren, seeming to stare at him for a long while. He reached over and tugged at his sleeve, his words worried. “Wh-Why aren't you eating? A-Are you being sad again?” Don't be sad! Stop it! Be happy! The person is in the box!

Eren snapped out of his daze as Jared pulled on his sleeve, taking in a sharp gasp of surprise, panic flooding through him until he realized where he was and what he was doing. His breathing slowed down, his eyes closing for a moment as he tried to collect his bearings. “What is it Jared? Do you need more food?” I didn’t hear what you asked…

Jared’s brow furrowed, shaking his head after a moment. He sounded more insistent when he spoke again, tugging harder on his sleeve. “N-No, stop being sad! Y-You don’t eat when you’re sad!” He pointed to the laptop, sounding matter-of-fact. “Person is in the box. Be happy!” Why aren’t you happy to see person? He’s been gone a long time. Didn’t you miss him?

Eren smiled softly, pulling his sleeve away from him as he ruffled his hair. “Don’t you worry about me Jared, I’m all grown up, you need to eat so that you can grow to be big like Mark, okay?” I like that you’re trying to ease the depression… But it won’t work… Don’t let Dad see though. He’ll find out if you make a big deal out of it.

“I-But, but you still get to grow n’ stuff! Don’ skip dinner no more!” *You need to eat! I-I always eat my dinner! An’ I get seconds lots! B-But you don’ finish!” Jared watched as Eren tried to shush him, shrinking a bit as he saw the many pairs of eyes glancing to them, quieting. “…promise you’ll finish. …please?”

Eren was at a loss for words, pulling his hands away from Jared’s and putting them in his lap. I can’t promise you that… “Jared… I can’t… I’m sorry, but I can’t…” Eren’s voice was barely above a whisper as he turned away from the small boy, trying not to look him in the eyes, guilt washing over his entire being. I can’t… Really…

Jared watched his entire demeanour change, a bit confused as he whispered. He reached out and poked his arm, his wide eyes innocent. “N-No cry… Uhm… eat pepperoni?” Jared pointed to the few pieces on Eren’s pizza. “Th-Then you can go do stuff?” If you won’t finish, eat part of it!

Eren shook his head again, pulling his knees up to his chest, underneath the hoodie and holding them close as he be me a small ball. I can’t…. I really can’t… Dad’s gonna notice…. Fk.

Jared huffed, scooting his chair back to stand, going over to where Lathe was and tugging on his sleeve, his voice worried. “D-Dad, Eren won't eat again.” Fix it!

Lathe looked up, wiping off his hands and nodding, patting Jared’s shoulder. “Okay Hon, thank you for telling me. But you should know that Eren has reasons to sometimes not eat. He sometimes doesn’t feel well enough to eat, and he doesn't want to get sick. It's okay, you don't have to worry about him. Go sit down again, okay? You, on the other hand-” Lathe poked his tummy, smiling as Jared giggled. “-you need to eat so you grow up as big as Mark, ‘kay?” He smiled as Jared nodded, scampering back to his chair with a mission. He’s such a sweet kid… he only means well.
Eren kept his head in his knees, not really participating in the skype call. The boys wanna talk to him…. Which is more important than me… I wonder how much more I would lose if I stopped eating. Would I survive even? Eren shuffled closer into himself, liking that he could fit inside of Levi’s hoodie. I like this… It smells like him…

Levi gave the boys a soft smile as they asked him numerous questions, studying Eren as they quieted down. ...it looks like he's drowning in that hoodie… And he can pull his knees up in it…? <“Eren, have you been eating much?”> You're so much smaller...

Eren froze, silent with fear and guilt striking through him in a second, a soft whimper escaping his throat. You’re gonna be mad... And then Dad’s gonna be mad too... He kept curled up in the hoodie, not daring to move. He could feel the eyes of everyone in the room boring into his body. They’re mad… They’re mad...

Lathe stood, quietly going over to Eren. <“Wanna take the laptop upstairs and talk alone with him?”> I know you don't want to be down here… But you miss Levi.

<“N-No… L-Let the boys talk with him.”> Eren’s words were quiet as he moved slowly out of the chair, his head down and submissive before he scurried away. The boys can talk with him. He went to go hide in the vault downstairs, know that he’d be able to stay in there for awhile and not be disturbed. The boys don’t know this place...

Lathe watched with worried eyes, looking down as Blake lifted his head from where he lay, whining as Eren scurried away, but not getting up. He can't follow Eren when he runs away like he used to... he can't run too much anymore. Lathe was distracted again when a small hand tugged at his sleeve, looking to Jared.

“Can, Can I have his pizza? He didn’ touch it.” It doesn't have germs.

Lathe was distracted by the boys for the next hour, making sure they all had enough to eat before giving them all a piece of cake, promising they could tell Eren Happy Birthday later, but that right now he needed his own time. They bombarded Levi with questions, and he was endlessly grateful Levi was patient with them, especially Jared and Philip, when the latter piped up. They all seem to adore him already. Lathe picked up a sleepy-looking Philip after he had eaten his piece of cake, the boy tiredly resting his head on Lathe’s shoulder. “Bedtime, kid.” Lathe smiled as Philip just yawned, weakly holding onto his purple sweater. So damn adorable… Lathe went upstairs with Philip in his arms, going to help him into pajamas, making sure he brushed his teeth before tucking him into bed, pecking his forehead.
“D-Dad..?” Philip’s voice was quiet and tired, but held a quiet note of fear.

“Mhm?”

“...c-can you check the bed f-for monsters?”

Lathe smiled, nodding. “Okay.” Lathe moved to the bed, kneeling down and moving the blanket, looking around. “Nope, no monsters under here.”

“....but w-what about the closet?”

Lathe moved to the closet, sliding the door open and looking around. “Nope, none here either.”

“S-Sure?”

“I'm sure, Hon.” Lathe moved back to the bed, brushing Philip’s hair from his eyes, a thought coming to him. You've asked me a few times to check for monsters... you came into the bedroom once, scared there was something under the bed. “Would you feel better with a nightlight?” I think we have one...

“W-Wha’s a nightlight?”

“It's a tiny light that plugs into the wall so you can see when it’s dark. It’ll keep all the monsters away, too. Monsters don't like the light.”

“Th-They won't come if I h-have one?”

“If you have one, we’ll be doubly-sure they won't come.”

“Y-Yes please.”
Lathe smiled, leaving him for just a moment to fetch a small light from under the sink in his bathroom, having bought many to put in the bathrooms. He made sure it had a new lightbulb in it before going to plug it in and turn it on, the room soon lit with a faint gold glow, enough to see where you were going in the middle of the night. “That better?” He smiled when Philip nodded, going to peck his cheek. “Okay, Honey. Sweet dreams.” Lathe moved to hand him a small stuffed dog from near the foot of the bed, his eyes sparkling when Philip sleepily clung to it. He quietly closed the bedroom door behind him, turning to the stairs. He was surprised to see Mark hovering near the nook, looking a bit awkward. “Mark? Something up?”

...is this about Levi? It's about Levi. Well then.

Mark shuffled on his feet. “Is um... Levi really your son? I-Is that why Eren ran off?” Does he worry that much about his brother? Where did he go? The horses are all in the barn still... And he's not in his room, or the studio... “Where did Eren go?” His voice was full of worry as he stood there in the nook, his thumbs twirling around each other.

Lathe sighed quietly, moving over to him. “Here, c'mon, I've got explanations to give.” Lathe brought Mark over to the small couch in the nook, sitting next to him. “Mark, first off, you're fifteen. You're the oldest of the six of you. I expect you to be the most understanding of this, okay? I don't think some of your brothers are old enough to understand all that’s going on yet, okay?” He watched Mark nod, resting a hand on his arm when he looked even more concerned. “You don't need to worry too badly, it's okay. If Eren’s still in the house, he’s probably in the studio or his closet. Either way, I wouldn't bother him. He needs to just be away and out of sight sometimes. ...he's always had trouble with stress and anxiety, and he sometimes has panic attacks. They mostly happened years ago, they've been very rare lately... but with the stress of Levi being in so much danger, he's got a lot more reason to be stressed out. Now, a quick thing...” Lathe pondered how to say what he wanted to. “...Eren isn't my biological son. I adopted him a long while back, when I was a substitute teacher for his chemistry class. He was in a dark place, but it took me a week to decide to adopt him and make sure he grew up better than he had been. Levi... Levi was Eren’s assigned lab partner during chemistry that first year. He's not our son either; we’re not related at all. Around the same time I adopted Eren, when he was I think seventeen or something, so it’s been about... I wanna say five or six years... but around then-” Lathe studied Mark’s face, waiting for a reaction as he continued. “...they started dating, and they've been going steady for quite a while. He's practically lived with us the entire time, and I know Eren is worried about Levi coming home in one piece, and he’s upset and scared that he hasn't proposed yet.” ...Don't freak out. Whatever you do, don't do that.

Mark just listened. “Oh...” He was quiet, expecting Lathe to continue into something even worse. “T-That’s it? That’s the reason? I could see that.... It’s understandable.” Okay, so he’s not our brother... That’s fine.

Lathe stared at him for a long moment, honestly surprised. ....nothing. “......Mark, you're my favourite.” Lathe just shook his head for a moment when Mark gave him an incredulous look, explaining. “It’s just... my god, when Tucker found out Eren and Levi were a thing he freaked the hell out. He changed a lot, which is good, and rather obvious at this point, he isn't as mean as he was… but I was just expecting the same thing by default. Sorry. And thank you.” For not freaking out that a ‘faggot’ touched you or some shit like that.

Mark shrugged. “Who am I to judge? Oh, can I have a friend over tomorrow? She wants to learn how to ride…” Please please please!  He had a huge blush across his face as he looked Lathe in the eyes. I really want her to come over… She actually said yes!

Lathe chuckled as Mark immediately became a blushing, embarrassed mess, grinning. “Only if you tell me what the lady’s name is.” Yes you can, you doof.

“Her name is Claire, she’s really sweet, and she likes horses, but she can’t get one… So can we go riding?” I hope we can, I really want to go riding with her...

“Hmm, that depends. How well do you know how to ride? Remind me.” If you can't feel confident riding by yourself, either I or Eren is going to have to be outside with you two.

“Eren let me do jumps on Luna while he was on Charlie… They were small jumps… And I’ve ridden on Charlie before…” Mark mumbled, a happy smile on his face as he twiddled his thumbs more, his cheeks flushed with embarrassment. “Can she come for lunch and dinner?”

“Now remember, tomorrow’s Saturday. It'll be a full house for dinner, and it’s mostly if not all German cooking. As long as she’s okay with that, of course. You might want to ask and make sure, though. It’ll be a lot of people she won’t know.” Just double-check. Or at least give fair warning.

Mark nodded, rubbing the back of his neck. “Um… I’ll go call her… When can, um, when can she come over?” When can she come over at the earliest? Her Grandma wants to drop her off.

“I'm fine with her coming over anytime later than eight or nine, but maybe 11:30 would be best. She’s here for lunch and dinner, but she doesn't get caught up in the aftermath of breakfast. And there’ll be plenty of time for going riding, and whatever else you two decide to do.” Lathe shrugged one shoulder, quirking an eyebrow as Mark blushed harder at that. “Your call, Mark. Better let her know the plans, hm?” Lathe nudged his arm.

Mark nodded, a smile across his face. “Th-Thanks Dad.” He ran off to his room, pulling out his phone and quickly dialing a number, putting the phone to his ear. He finished talking with Claire after about a half and hour, his heart thumping wildly. She said her Grandmother makes German food too… She’s perfect! I can’t wait at all!
Chapter 75: Sudden Guests

Mark could barely sleep as he thought about the next day, his alarm not coming soon enough for him to get up to go out and take his 10 mile run in the morning. He got out at his usual time at 4:30 in the morning, a little surprised that he hadn’t heard Eren move or go outside at all. Where is he? Is he alright? He looked out the window to see that the horses were still in the barn. Well, they should be out by the time I get back. He started his run, his body feeling like he was walking on air because he was done before he knew it. It’s only 5:40.... What the actual hell? I’m usually not home for another 20 minutes…. Mark shrugged going to the kitchen to get a glass of water, looking out the window and seeing that the horse still weren’t outside. What? Why aren’t they out yet? “Eren?” Mark called out softly, knowing the older man was usually awake by now. “Eren… Are you okay?” He was quiet as he searched the rooms quickly though he got even more confused when his search became futile. His car’s out front…. Maybe he’s still asleep. Matt’s eyes portrayed his worry as he opened Eren’s door to see his bed still made from yesterday. He never came in here… Where the fuck is he?

Lathe was up a few minutes before six, hearing a creaking outside their bedroom. Someone's up… probably Mark or Eren… Lathe just shifted closer to Ieva, nestling further into her shoulder until he heard Mark calling for Eren, sounding like he was searching for him. Lathe silently slipped from the bed after a moment, coming out of their bedroom and looking to Mark, rubbing the sand from his eyes. “Mark, what’s wrong? Is everything okay?” Guh, and I was hoping to get another hour of sleep... I still might tho…. ....maybe...

Mark looked over to Lathe, worry clearly evident in both his eyes and his voice. “Where’s Eren? He’s not anywhere in the house… His car’s still here… and the horses aren’t out yet… and he usually has all the barn chores done by now… I’m worried about him… He just disappeared!” Oh no... This is not happening. I am not losing a brother!

Lathe listened, staying calm and reaching a hand out to him. “Okay Mark, we’ll figure this out. He can’t be that far away, and I'm sure he's okay. Here, one sec.” Lathe went back to get his phone, pinging Eren’s phone when he came back outside. They looked up as they heard the sound, finding the phone sitting on his dresser. “...I can't say I'm too surprised. He probably wouldn't want to be bothered. Here, let's see if we can get one of the dogs to help us, okay? They'll make this easier.” Maisie might be best- Blake is getting old, Krampus gets distracted easily, and Nene will refuse to do anything at this hour besides sleep. Lathe led him downstairs to where the dog pile was, petting Maisie and waking her up. “Hey girl, I'm sorry it's early, but we need some help. Can you find Eren?” He waited for her to get up, repeating the instruction. “Find Eren.” He moved to the coat rack when she just looked at him, getting Eren’s jacket and letting her sniff it. “Eren.” She seemed to understand the notion, trotting off.

Mark watched her first go up the stairs though after a few minutes come back downstairs and go towards the studio and recording room. Where is he? He’s not upstairs...
Lathe and Mark headed for the studio rooms when they heard whining, Maisie sitting in front of the chalkboard in Lathe’s studio room, staring at the seam in the boards with drooping ears. “Well shit. I knew I was forgetting something when we had the new doors installed.”

“The what? What is she looking at?”

“The storage room.” Lathe turned, going over to the computer and snatching a card from under the keyboard. “It’s sort of a storage thing slash hideout slash bunker. Excuse me.” Lathe moved Maisie out of the way, sliding the metal card down part of the seam. It moved an inch from the wall, Lathe able to slide it out of the way like a huge sliding door. Maisie immediately trotted in and nosed at a pile on the floor, Eren tangled up in his Grandfather’s old wool blanket. “Eren, Hon? You okay?”

“It’s fucking cold in here… And apparently very sound proof… Did none of you hear me?” His voice was hoarse and his eyes looked glassy, drool dribbling down his chin. I had a seizure… Because I was panicking so much… I was trapped! I don’t like being in cages… And that’s what it fucking felt like…

Lathe immediately moved to his side, pulling him close. “We didn't hear you, no… my god, you're freezing…” He noticed the line of drool on his chin, his eyes widening. “Eren… did you have a seizure?” You don't drool in your sleep… and you only drool when you have seizures.

Eren nodded, slowly leaning into his touch. “Probably from the 10 panic attacks when I found out I couldn't get out…” I was freaking out… I hate this… I hate being in a cage… “Can you carry me? My legs…” I have pins and needles… It's not fun...

Lathe nodded, getting his arms under him and heaving Eren up, steadying his footing. He looked back to Mark, giving him an unsure smile. “Mark, you'd better be taking notes. If you ever build anything that functions like a door for people, make sure it can open from either side. Close that, could you?” He watched Mark nod, making sure he didn't trap Maisie inside on accident as he carried Eren upstairs. “I’m going to engage doctor mode for a little bit, but I should be down to make breakfast soon.” Don't worry, I'll feed you all. Lathe soon had Eren in his proper bed with the blanket still around his thin frame, brushing the hair from his face. “I'm so sorry, Eren, I didn't think to have it open from the other side just in case… I'll fix that, promise. Can I get you anything?” Lathe wiped the drool from his mouth with a tissue, looking worried.

“Barn chores… Oh is Claire coming over today? And will you help me go shopping for dinner after breakfast?” I want to make sure we have enough... The hooligans are coming over along with Jean and Marco... And Armin... And apparently Tove has another litter so those pups are coming too. He winced as he flexed his toes… “Can you get Blake? Or Nene… Actually get Nene, she’ll just sleep on my chest…” That’ll help calm me down…

“Claire is coming over, yes. Mark asked me last night, their kinda-date is a go for lunch through dinner. I'll have Mark take care of the barn chores, give him something to do besides freak out over Claire coming over. And I'll go with you shopping, of course. We need a lot of food to feed as many people as we have tonight. Don't we get puppies too?” He smiled when Eren nodded. “Sweet, puppies are always nice… and I'll get you Nene. She'll appreciate some attention.” Lathe went downstairs, plucking the small dog from the dog pile and carrying the sleepy pup upstairs. She acknowledged Eren when she was set on his chest, immediately making herself at home as he pet her, shuffling a bit and slowly wagging her tail in contentment. Happy pup. “I'm going to go make sure the animals get taken care of, and also make sure we all don't starve.” That's probably a good idea.

“Do we have stuff for French toast?” I want some of your French toast… I haven’t had that in forever… “Sorry you had to wake up so soon…” He murmured quietly, drool dribbling down his chin. *I’m still drooling… Fuck …

“It's okay, Eren. It's more than okay. You needed to be found; and we found you. That's what matters; that we make sure you're okay.” He handed Eren a fistful of tissues, letting him wipe his chin up as he drooled. “I think we do; we always have a ton of bread on hand. French Toast?” He smiled when Eren nodded with pleading puppy eyes. “Okay, okay. French Toast it is. Now, you rest while I take care of stuff, ‘kay?” He smiled, pecking Eren’s forehead and leaving the door open as he padded downstairs. “Mark?” He found him in the living room easily enough, flicking through a few channels to see what was on that early besides cartoons. “Could you please take care of the animals out in the barn? I know Eren or I have shown you how to do everything at some point or another. I need to make breakfast and get stuff ready for today.” I need to make a shopping list, feed an army, then do the actual shopping with Eren, get home and make lunch for everyone… it's going to be another long day.

Mark nodded getting up after turning the TV off. “Um… Why was Eren drooling?” He asked quietly as he looked at Lathe, worry across his features. Is he in pain? Has he been drooling and I haven’t noticed?

“...Eren was panicking a lot when he got locked in the storage room…. with so much panicking… he ended up having a seizure. It's one of the aftereffects. He's okay right now, it doesn't seem like it was a bad once, but it happened, and that’s the telltale sign of it.” He's okay, though, “Eren’s been through a lot of tough stuff. There's a lot he has to deal with because of that, but it's nowhere near as bad as it used to be. This is a bad spell because of what we saw yesterday. I shouldn't say… but we’re scared for him. And this whole episode with the storage room made it worse. But he'll be okay with a bit of rest and some breakfast. Okay?” He watched him tentatively nod. “Okay. Now go make sure the animals don't get too fussy.” He watched Mark scamper off, going to the kitchen to start working. Breakfast first...
Mark made his way out the back door and to the barn. He got out the leads for each of the horses, bringing them all outside, watching as Charlie instantly trotted out into the field to look around for Eren. It’s weird… Charlie looks for him in the field… I know that the tree in the middle of the field has leaves, so it’s good for shade, and Charlie will stand there with us… “I think Claire will like riding, I really hope so.”

The first one up after them was Lucas, who only came downstairs because he’d left his book on the coffee table, immediately setting up camp in the living room to read. Ugh, I wanna go back up to my warm bed… but that would mean stairs… and I have the couch… ...eh, I’m good here. Predictably, he was dead asleep after a few more minutes, woken up by Tucker nearly tumbling down the entire flight of stairs. He nearly chucked his book at him for waking him up, opting for throwing the nearest pillow he wasn't using. Thus began a practical war in the living room, waking up nearly the rest of the house when Lucas fought to get away from Tucker as he tried to tickle him.

... this is totally a normal morning for people. Lathe just buried his face in his hands as they fought playfully, shaking his head. .........I'm going to need a year-long nap at this rate. With everyone up at once, Lathe moved quickly to start breakfast, the flock of children (including Eren, tailed by an eternally-sleepy Nene) and dogs moving to the breakfast table, including Ieva. He pecked her cheek before his attention was instantly monopolised again, sending Lucas to get Mark inside for food. He needs to eat too.

Mark came in from the back door not even a second later. “God it smells amazing… Is Eren downstairs yet?” He came into the kitchen, seeing that everyone was downstairs already. “Um… if I take Claire-”

“Take Charlie, and use the big saddle, it will fit you both…” I know I know, you’re crush is coming over…. He smiled softly, drool dribbling down his chin and the wetness reminding him to grab a tissue and wipe himself up. I probably look like a child to them all… Great, that’s wonderful…

Soon enough, by some miracle, the kids were fed and shooed upstairs to get dressed (more out-of-pajamas than anything) while Lathe did dishes, grateful like he always was for their dishwasher. He was just finishing putting the groceries away when the doorbell rang, moving to the front door. “Comin’!” Lathe opened the door, looking down to their guest. “Claire?” He smiled when she nodded, hiding his surprise. You’re literally half Mark’s size! “Hello! And you must be her grandmother?” He nodded to the weathered woman behind her, who stood only a few inches taller than Claire.

“Hello, Mr. Quo…” Claire’s voice was small and quiet as she smiled sweetly at him her white teeth in a perfect line, a soft hint of blush on her face. She looked up to her Grandmother and looked a bit worried. <“This is Mark’s Dad… He says hello.”>
The old woman smiled at him, leaning on her cane a bit as she shifted. “H’llo.” Her voice was lathered in a thick accent, her hand shaking a bit as she put her hand on Claire’s back. <“When should I come back to pick you up?”> This man looks nice… He’s very tall. It was very nice of this Mark to offer you to come over but I barely know what he’s said and it’s been all of 8 words…

Claire turned back to face Lathe, a worried look on her face. “Um-” How should I put this? Grandma doesn’t really speak English… And refuses to learn…

Lathe looked to the woman, to Claire, then back to her grandmother. <“Is German better, ma’am?”> German works.

<“Ah! Sweet boy you are! I’m sorry, I was under the impression you didn’t speak German. This is Claire, she’s quite shy… Is this Mark around? I’d like to meet him if I could…”> Her eyes seemed to light up as she had to tilt her head up to look Lathe in the eye, carefully keeping her balance on her cane. This helps, he can speak with me…

Lathe smiled, nodding. <“My son- well, one of them, the oldest- he’s from Germany, and it came up so much I found it very useful to know. And come in, please. Mark shouldn’t be far away, at least you'd think since he’s expecting you.”> Lathe ushered them inside, sweeping the front room with his eyes, looking outside through the large back window. <“Oh, he’s still out back with the horses. I'll get him. Make yourselves at home, I won't be a minute.”> Lathe smiled warmly before moving to the back door, stepping onto the back porch. He wolf-whistled out to the field, effectively getting Mark’s attention. “They’re here, Mark!” Now get your ass up here to meet the fam!

Mark's eyes went wide and he bolted towards the door, though when he got to it he hesitated to turn the knob and go inside. What if this ends up being a horrible date? What if she doesn’t even like me? She could very well just be here for the horses. Mark barely had time to register what was happening before the door was opened and Lathe pushed him in, hearing Eren swearing at one of the cans on the counter, and quite loudly at that. What is he doing now? His face completely blushed when he saw Claire standing beside her grandmother where she sat. Oh my god she’s gorgeous…

“Eren, stop swearing! We need to at least seem like civilised people.” He grinned when it got a laugh out of Claire, going to nudge him. “What’d that can of peas ever do to you?” What, spit on your shoes? Insult your imaginary friend’s hat?

<“No, it broke the fucking can opener!”> Eren shouted as he showed him the once working can opener, which we now in two pieces. <“I have more cans to open! I need to get the soup going especially with how much I’m making.” He paused when he realized something. There are other people here? “Is that Claire?” His voice quieted as he looked to the petite girl. She’s half of Mark….

<“That is she. Now, Eren, before you go swearing up a storm, know that both of them understand us right now…”> He gave him a pointed look when Eren blushed in embarrassment. <“But also-”> He gestured to one of the devices on the kitchen counter. <“You could just use the electric one, which is perfectly functional.”> I would know, because I’m apparently the only one who ever uses it. He sighed as Eren just blinked at him, taking the can. <“Here, watch.”> Lathe showed Eren how to get the lip of the can in the right spot, pressing the small lever and holding the can up so it wouldn’t spill when the lid came off. <“Think you can handle that?”> It’s easy.

<“That’s fucking sorcery!”> He chuckled as he heard a soft laugh behind them and this time it was Claire’s grandma. He smiled, looking over to Mark and his awkwardness. <“Go embarrass him Dad… I dare you.”> This’ll be interesting….

Lathe looked over Mark, who was awkwardly shuffling his feet, not sure what to say or how to say it to Claire. “Mark, I think you might want to fix your jaw, it looks like it’s come loose. You look like a fish.” Lathe grinned when Mark turned bright red, shutting his mouth embarrassedly when Claire laughed. Lathe turned to translate what he’d said to her. She too chuckled, all of them watching the awkward attempt at teenage interaction. He looks like he never saw her before, but only saw pictures. This is very amusing.

Mark looked to Claire, their eyes meeting as she smiled at him. Oh shit… She’s so cute. “Uhm… W-Would you like to get a drink… F-For lunch?” We can let Dad and your grandma embarrass the crap out of me. He seemed to get a slap to the face as he realized something. You could very well never want to talk to me ever again after this.

“Oh shit…. She’s so cute. “Uhm… W-Would you like to get a drink… F-For lunch?” We can let Dad and your grandma embarrass the crap out of me. He seemed to get a slap to the face as he realized something. You could very well never want to talk to me ever again after this.

“Sure, I’d love to.” Claire’s voice was small as she followed him into the kitchen where Eren greeted her and informed her that grilled cheese would be made for lunch and traditional German cuisine would be up for dinner. Wow… He’s making everything by hand… Not even grandma does that anymore…

Lathe looked over to Claire’s grandmother, something registering. <“I’m sorry ma’am, I never got your name.”> It’d be weird to just call you Claire’s grandmother the whole time.

<“Ah well you see… My name never translates well, it’s a flower that’s incredibly hard to pronounce, so you can call me Rose or Rosie is fine. I see your Eldest is making German food, he starts early from scratch then?”> Rose was very observant for her age, a small smile across her face as she took in the bright house. It’s very large…
Lathe nodded. <“Yes- Saturday is his day to do the cooking. He starts early, makes enough food to feed an army, and we have a lot of friends over for dinner. We just started doing that sort of thing a few months ago- it's always fun. You should join us!”> I think you'd like it.

Rose scoffed, looking down a bit. <“I couldn’t possibly intrude, it’d be rude… Not only that I assume not many would know my language, it would be awkward at best. Thank you for the offer though, I know Claire will be in good hands today.”> I should get going, Claire doesn’t want me to embarrass her.

Lathe gave her a sympathetic look for a moment, shrugging one shoulder. <“You wouldn't be intruding, believe me. But alright. And we’ll take care of her, don't worry.”> Lathe winced as Eren swore behind him, hearing a small clatter. <“…..or maybe worry just a little.”> I'd be at least slightly concerned. <“But I'll make sure to embarrass her for the both of us.”> That got a chuckle out of Rose and Claire seemed to blush darker at that. That's right kid, be forewarned. Lathe held out a hand when Rose moved to stand, helping her to her feet. He walked her to the door, his smile warm. <“She can be picked up around eight or eight-thirty, any time after that is just fine.”> We wouldn't mind having her over for a while after dinner. She'd have to continue to be sociable, but we ourselves? We're good.

Rose thanked him, slowly making her way down the porch and to her old car, a happy aura around her as she left. He’s a nice boy in a nice family….

Mark had practically made a fool out of himself during lunch, though he didn’t mind, as long as Claire had a smile on her face and her beautiful fits of angelic laughter. God she’s beautiful… And she’s so shy it's so sweet… He helped gather all the dishes before going to Claire’s side, taking her hand and tugging her out the door and to the barn. “Come on, you can see the horses…”

Claire’s cheeks were pink as Mark took her hand, letting him pull her to the backyard. She smiled, Mark slowing them down to a walk as they went to the barn, though she gently squeezed his hand, a small cue that he didn’t have to let go. I keep forgetting that he's so tall… …and cute… They soon walked into the barn, Claire’s eyes going wide as she saw Charlie and Luna in their stall, nuzzling the other. Oh my gosh horses. “Hello…” Claire came up with Mark to the stall door, reaching a hand out as Charlie looked up to inspect her. She waited, completely still as Charlie sniffed her before going to gently pet his neck, her touch very light. “What are their names…?” They're both in one big stall.

“This big guy right here is Charlie, Luna is his mare, she’s the black one behind him, he’s very protective, and the filly is Arya… She like to sleep next to the door though and Charlie is probably blocking your view of her.” She likes to try and escape when you open the door… That's why she hides there… Mark had a happy grin on his face as he held Claire’s hand gently, his heart thrumming in his chest. I hope she can't hear it... Ah!

“They have a filly?!” Claire looked excited, standing on tiptoe to see over the stall door, struggling to get a good look. “I can’t see her, I’m too short... can we open the door? I-If that’s okay?” She quickly caught herself when she became excited, blushing and quieting down, glancing away. I can’t help being excited! Ah!

Mark blushed as well before he let go of Claire’s hand for a moment, going to close the barn doors on both sides. “Arya’s a little escape artist.... So I wanna make sure she stays inside...” He came back and opened the door just a crack, not enough for Charlie to get any ideas about the door but enough that it disturbed Arya who quickly got to her feet and squeezed herself out, looking around for a way out. He closed the door behind her as she walked around them, whinnying loudly at the two of them. “This is Arya.” She’s solid black like Luna, but she’s got her tall white socks like Charlie does. “She’s about.... 3 months old now... actually closer to 4 months, she was born only a few days after Levi left.... And you have no idea who that is... He’s one of my older brothers, he’s out in the Middle East right now, on a tour.” Mark babbled, blushing furiously. Oh she probably didn’t want to know all that...

“Oh, he’s in the military?” She watched him nod, smiling faintly and turning her attention back to the small horse as it circled them, whinnying and looking for somewhere to go. “Hello Arya.” Claire reached a hand out, catching Arya’s attention for long enough to have her stand still and let Claire pet her neck before going back to searching for an escape route. “She’s so cute! And you said escape artist- has she tried to run away before?” I don’t know how far those legs could get her before someone noticed.

“Yeah, we have to watch her every time we put her out in the field, otherwise Eren ties her and Luna together... She fits through the fence....” Mark watched as Claire stroked Arya’s neck. “Arya.” He whistled for her when she strayed off again and she bounded back over towards them with a soft whinny, looking ready to play. She’s such a goofball. “I’m gonna bring Charlie out... you might wanna stand over there....” He watched Claire nod and move a bit away as he opened the stall door again, getting Charlie’s halter and bringing him to the ties, he clipped him to the wall and he went to where Arya was, picking her up and bringing her to the stall with Luna. Please be good for your mother Arya.

Claire laughed quietly as Mark just picked Arya up to get her back in the stall. “It’s so funny how you can just move her around like that.” She looked over when she felt something brush her cheek, standing completely still when she realised Charlie was sniffing her hair. “Uhm... hi...?” Claire stepped away from him, and Charlie settled for more petting. “I'm half-certain he was going to eat my hair.” I dunno. Maybe brown hair looks tasty.

“He nibbles a bit, especially on Eren’s hair... Maybe it’s because your hair is the same color...” Mark moved around, getting Charlie all tacked up and making sure everything was tight. “So you get to choose if you’d like to sit in front of me, or behind me on the saddle.” I’ll be able to lift you up, then hop up. He unclipped Charlie, leading him outside and getting him to stand still so he could lift Claire up. I want you to feel safe.

“Uhm… could I sit in front of you?” I’ll be able to see better that way… Claire made a sound of surprise as Mark took careful hold of her waist, lifting her up so she could get up on Charlie. She finally got her leg over the other side, moving up in the saddle so Mark could vault up behind her. She looked down, seeing how high up they were, feeling a bit strange as Charlie moved under her. She tightly held onto the front of the saddle when they started to slowly walk, nervously smiling. “…I'm riding a horse…” This is so cool…

Mark smirked as he had to wrap his arms around her to hold onto the reins. “You are riding a horse, and it’s gonna seem weird at first, but Eren taught me to go with the rhythm of the horse. Move your whole body how Charlie is, and it won’t strain you as much.” That’s how I was taught at least, to move with the horse… Mark blushed as he felt Claire move back in the saddle a little to get more comfortable. Oh my god, she’s so close…. I can smell her strawberry shampoo… It’s amazing …

Claire blushed as she moved a bit further back in the saddle, feeling most comfortable when she was pressed against Mark’s chest. …this is cool… and Mark’s warm… Claire let herself move freely as Charlie walked, getting accustomed to the gentle sway. She was very aware of his arms, wrapped securely around her. I like this…

Mark was mostly quiet, letting Claire enjoy the ride, and enjoy the beauty of the outside. I can take her through the forest… Maybe we’ll see deer? “Wanna go through the forest a bit?” His voice was soft as he leaned to the side to look for her reaction a bit better. I like this, it’s nice. We should do this more often…

Claire’s cheeks tinged pink when she realised Mark’s face was so close to hers, glancing away and nodding. “S-Sure..” She let Mark steer Charlie towards one of the forest paths, looking around them with wide eyes. It’s so pretty…

“We might see some deer, so keep your eyes peeled.” He deflated a bit when she glanced away from him. Did I do something wrong? Maybe she didn’t like that I was that close to her? But she’s leaning against my chest too… And she’s pressed against my nether…. Fuck… There are so many ways this can go wrong… Mark willed himself to calm down as he walked Charlie through the forest, the trees giving adequate coverage from the sun and making it easier to see. The deer should be coming up soon…

Claire looked through the woods as they walked on, her eyes soon catching the flick of a tail, nearly having missed the first doe a few yards away. “Mark, look.” She was quiet, pointing over to where the doe was, watching them warily and curiously. She didn't get any kind of acknowledgement, looking over her shoulder to see Mark with a morose look, tilting her head. “Mark, are you okay?” You seem out of it.

Mark nodded, looking towards the deer. “Y-Yeah, I’m fine…. There should be more, the fawns aren’t that big yet you should be able to see a few.” He whispered to her, loosening his grip from around her waist a bit. Maybe she’s uncomfortable with me holding her like this? “You need to be quiet though…. They spook easily.” His words were soft as he watched the deer, shifting back in the saddle for only a moment. I need to stop thinking about it... If anything happens... It’ll be because I couldn’t control myself... Popping a boner is a shitty way to get a one way ticket to single-land.

Claire nodded, through her face fell a bit when Mark’s gentle hold on her waist loosened. Noooo, don’t let go. She nervously moved to rest a hand over Mark’s on her stomach, still looking for more deer and trying not to stare back at Mark, unsure how he would react. I don’t know if you’re cool with this or not... what if he’s not? Crap...

Mark felt her hand shake a bit on top of his. Oh... Does she want me to let go of her? Well, I mean, I need to hold onto the bridle... So... I guess she’ll have to put up with it. “Um... There’s a lake back a ways in the forest and there’s a grassy patch where we can sit and watch the wildlife, if you want.” His words were whispers as he let his arms stay loose around her.

She’s shaking... Is she not comfortable on the horse? I can get off if she wants to sit on the saddle alone...

“That’d be really nice.” Claire gave him a small smile, her eyes warm. You sound kinda nervous... then again, I wouldn’t be surprised if I did... She looked back to the woods around them, her expression peaceful. “It’s such a perfect day for this.” She gently ran her thumb over the back of Mark’s hand, comfortable with his hold on her. This is really nice...

Mark blushed as he felt Claire rub his hand. Does she not want me to hold her? His thoughts were conflicted as he picked up Charlie’s pace a bit and led them through the forest and towards the small lake that was almost entirely clear. “We can sit if you want? The stones on the water are easy to get to... I-If you’re up for that...” That’s what I mean... We could go back home if you wanted to...

Claire nodded, smiling as the small lake came into sight, the surface still and sparkling. “It's really nice...” Claire waited patiently as Mark stopped Charlie by a tree, hopping down before she swung her leg over Charlie again, grateful that Mark helped her jump down. She looked around for a moment, reaching for Mark’s hand and tugging him over to a picnic table, one of a few that looked to have been there for quite a while. She made Mark sit next to her on the bench, looking out at the lake. It really is a beautiful day. And it’s such a nice spot out here.
Mark blushed as Claire jumped down into his arms and was even more surprised as she pulled him towards the picnic table. He sat down next to her, though gave her at least a foot of space to make sure that she was comfortable, taking his hand back and watching over the peaceful scene. The turkeys are at the edge on the other side… There’s a lot of them over there… The movement had caught his eye, drawing his attention as the flock milled around in the grasses.

The movement caught Claire’s eyes too, pointing with bright eyes. “Look at all the turkeys. There’s lots of them over there.” She didn’t want to be too loud and scare anything around them, a hand moving to Mark’s arm to get his attention. There’s so many of them… I’ve never seen so many in one spot. She looked to him when Mark seemed to jump a bit at the touch, tilting her head a bit quizzically. “You sure you’re okay?” You’re pretty jumpy…

“Oh, y-yeah, I’m fine really…” He looked down a bit, knowing he didn’t sound very reassuring, his arm coming up to rub the back of his neck in embarrassment. Shit… I’m acting weird, she’s noticing how nervous I am… “I’m fine… I wonder if we’ll see anything else soon…” Mark kept his focus off of Claire, seeming to edge away from her for a second. “Who knows, we might be eating those this year…” We could be… I heard Dad made it in the oven last Thanksgiving.

Claire pouted the tiniest bit when Mark seemed to scoot away from her a bit, moving a bit closer to him. She watched him do it again, moving close again. No running. She gave him a Cheshire smile when Mark looked over, trapped and unable to move further without getting up or falling off.
“Nowhere to go.” She triumphantly moved her head to his shoulder, sighing quietly and looking back over the lake. ……if you shove me away or something… I’d probably deserve it. But please don’t. You're cute and comfortable.

Matt watched her move, getting close to him until he had nowhere to move to. “Claire… You don’t have to push yourself to do anything… If you’re not comfortable, you don’t have to push… I’ll be fine really.” His arm wrapped timidly behind her back, resting on her waist. I said it… I don’t want you to be like this because you think you have too…

Claire picked her head up, giving him an even look. “It’s not like I have to force to do this, Mark. I just wanna rest my head on your shoulder and watch some turkeys wander around.” She put her head back, smiling faintly. “Though the arm around me is an added bonus.” I can appreciate this.
“As long as you’re okay with this?” You've been acting weirdly nervous, so...

Mark seemed to sigh in relief, and lean into Claire’s side, scooting closer to her. I like that you’re straightforward… I can never say what’s on my mind at all. “What should we do while we watch the turkeys run around…??” I've never really had a date before… Wait, is this even considered a date? Are we dating? Or are we just friends ? I hope it's the first option…
“Well, we could do a few things. We can talk, or stay completely silent and laugh whenever one of them trips over their own feet. Or, because I really like you and you're cute, there's option three, where we go over to that tree and make out. You can pick, or I'll pick for you.” She looked up to him, smirking when his brain seemed to shut off. This is very amusing. “Anything?” She chuckled when he just gasped at her like a fish, leaning up to peck his cheek. “That's what I thought.” She tugged on his arm, standing and pulling him over to a shady tree, pulling him down to sit next to her on the ground. She moved instead, making herself comfortable in his lap. I really hope you don't mind me being so blunt. I can't not be when I know what I want. “...you're looking at me like I just grew a second head. Relax, I just wanna make out. That's it. So don't freak out, ‘kay?” She watched him still struggle for words, her features relaxing a bit from their mischievous look. “You can say no if you don't want to. M'sorry if I'm being way too forward for you...” I have no way to tell if how forward I'm being is normal... I dunno. I just don't see the point in dancing around it or being subtle. Takes too damn long.

“N-No....” His eyes widened when Claire moved back a bit, his hands instantly going to grab her wrists. “T-That's not what I meant... I mean... You’re fine... I like that about you... That you’re blunt about everything... And I... I’d really like option 3.” He murmured, pulling her down into his lap and close to his body. *I feel a bit better now that I know how far you wanna take this... Be warned tho... I’m not gonna be a great kisser...” I’ve never dated anyone before...
Claire quietly hummed into their kiss, her tongue beginning to map out Mark’s mouth, searching. She felt her lips turn up at the corners when their tongues met and Mark noticeably shivered under her. She quirked an eyebrow for a moment when Mark slipped his fingers into her back pockets. Now we’re getting somewhere. It feels nice... They were like that for a while, tongues moving around the other, until Claire got a bit impatient. I don’t wanna do more... but... Claire pulled back from his lips, pecking the corner of his reddened lips and softly kissing down his jaw, going to gently kiss and lick at his neck, searching for any sensitive spots. She smirked when Mark quietly whimpered, her breath huffing against his skin in quiet laughter, mouthing at the sensitive skin. Hmm... do you like this?

Mark felt Claire shift down on him, her mouth felt like fire on his skin and when she found a spot near where his neck met his shoulder, he felt a pulse run through his whole body. His eyes went wide as a whimper of delight left his lips, his hands still situated in her back pockets, gently grabbing at the supple flesh. Shit this is bad... She’s on my crotch again... Fuck... This feels really good.... Mark knew he had to stop her from continuing on his neck if he was going to save face in front of her. “C-Claire...” His words were close to a whine as she attacked the spot she’d found, sending yet another strong pulse through his body. Fuck... There goes that plan... I can’t control it.... Mark could feel his pants beginning to tighten. Shit shit shit shit shit! She’s gonna think that I’m a greedy dog that just wants her body....

Claire smirked, thoroughly enjoying every sound that left Mark’s lips. Dammit, I’m going to hurt my neck again. Claire shifted down again so she could more easily nibble and suck at his skin, soon feeling Mark’s hardness under her hips. She just shook her head, smirking. “Someone’s excited...” She just went right back to tossing his neck, letting her teeth scrape his skin, though she tried not to shift back fully onto his hips. She lifted her own hips up a bit when Mark’s hands left her pockets to better cup her ass, a quiet sound leaving her lips as he massaged her globes. You make such nice sounds... ...but I don’t think I wanna help you with your little ‘problem’...I mean, I like you, but don’t expect me to suck you off or give you a handjob on the first date.

Mark groaned when Claire moved back onto his crotch, though he was grateful that she lifted her hips, giving him better access to her rear. “Ngh... Claire... W-We should sto-Ha!” He let out a high pitched cry as Claire grazed her teeth over the skin behind his ear. Oh fuck... His pants tightened even more, creating an extremely uncomfortable situation for him. Fuck... I need to do something about that... Mark pulled his hands from her globes, moving them to her shoulders to gently push her up and off of his neck. We need to stop... I’m completely hard and it’s very uncomfortable right now. Jeans were not a good idea. “Claire please... Stop...” He whined, trying to push her off but not wanting to hurt her feelings at all. I don’t want to do that to you... I don’t want to make it seem like I don’t want this... I do, but I’m hard and this is very embarrassing...

Claire didn’t push it, nodding and leaning down just to peck his lips one last time. “Sorry, I’ll stop.” She shifted off of him, laying down on the grass next to him, slinging an arm over his stomach. She couldn’t help but look to his clothed crotch, her eyes widening when she saw his bulge. holy hell, he’s huge... She gently ran her hand over Mark’s stomach, both of them resting in the grass, waiting for Mark to calm down. Sorry, but I ain’t going any further. “M’sorry...” Claire pecked his cheek after quite some time had passed, Mark’s bulge all but gone.
Mark shook his head. “It’s fine… I should’ve been able to control myself … Do you wanna start heading back? Or…. Are we gonna stay here? I’ve calmed down after that embarrassment…. God, how foolish can I be? He shifted to sit up before standing and going around the large tree to shift his pants around. She’s never gonna want to come over again… I fucked this all up… Mark looked at the ground dejectedly for a moment before taking a deep breath and going to lean against the tree, looking down on Claire. “I think we could help Eren out with dinner, if that’s okay with you? Or you can help me do barn chores if you want…” Will you even talk to me anymore after this?”

“We can head back, that's cool.” She winked to him before standing up, standing up on her tiptoes. “Couldn't keep my hands to myself.” She softly pecked his ear, taking his hand and tugging him back over to Charlie. “If I say yes to chores, does that mean I get to feed animals and stuff? If so, yes.” I like animals. …duh.

Mark shook his head at her enthusiasm. “I’m starting to think you came for the horses…” And not for me…. His words were stuck in his throat as he looked down at where Charlie was eating grass from. “Up you go.” He took a gentle hold of Claire’s hips and boosted her up on top of the saddle, though he didn’t get up behind her instead taking Charlie’s reins and walking beside him. I’m not completely in control, and me being behind her would not work out at all...

Claire blushed as she was lifted onto Charlie, though she pouted when Mark walked next to them, leading Charlie instead of riding with her. She poked his shoulder, her voice lightly teasing. “I didn’t just come for the horses, you doof. And you could ride in front of me if that'd be better for you.” Well, for Mark Jr. it might be. Dunno.

Mark paused for a moment before shaking his head. “No, I should probably stay here… I don’t think I could handle it either way…” Better to be honest… I don’t think I could handle it if she put her arms around me… Mini me would be happy. Mark flushed as he walked beside Charlie, his eyes gravitating towards movement that was his brothers were outside playing with bubbles by the house. Of course they are...

Claire blushed at that. “Whatever you say.” I'd probably get too handsy for my own good. She was content to watch their surroundings as they rode, soon out of the forest and heading to the barn, the boys waving from the backyard near the porch, many bottles of bubbles on the wood steps. She waved back to them with Mark, watching as Maisie trotted over and circled them, studying her as she sat on the horse. “Mark, what’s their name?” She waved to the dog trotting alongside them. They look friendly.

“That’s Maisie, she’s really well behaved, though she does like to jump up onto Charlie, so I’d be mindful of that.” Mark stated and led them towards the barn, getting Charlie into the ties, reaching his arms up for Claire to jump into them, watching as Maisie vaulted herself up onto Charlie’s rear, sniffing at Claire’s hair, moving to lick at her face as she stood gracefully on Charlie’s rump.

Called it… I knew she was gonna do it once she came down to us.

Claire giggled, trying to hold off Maisie from licking her face. She turned, jumping off into Mark’s arms and giving him a quick peck on the lips. I like that I get to just do that now. “Hello.” She reached a hand out to pet Maisie as the dog still stood on Charlie, managing to scratch behind her ear when she ducked her head down to sniff her hand. She’s very well-behaved indeed. She smiled when Mark’s hands rested on her hips, pulling her close for a moment. They simply leaned against each other for a moment, until Arya whinnied loudly enough to break the spell. “I think someone’s getting impatient.”

“Yeah, she knows we’re in here, and she’s not happy she doesn’t have access to the rest of the barn.” She just wants out. He let go of Claire’s waist, going to close the barn door before opening the stall door and letting Arya run around, whinnying loudly once again. He shook his head as he got the saddle off of Charlie, going to set it in the tack room. Maisie jumped off of Charlie and trotted around, chasing Arya around the barn and into the stall again, sitting by the entrance to keep her in. Herding dogs are the best.

Claire watched Maisie herd Arya with an amused expression, petting Charlie absentmindedly. “She sure must come in handy, keeping Arya somewhat out of trouble.” She sure looks like she knows how to wrangle her.

Mark nodded, finishing up with Charlie’s tack and then leading him into the large stall. “In ya go big guy.” Maisie got out of the way and let Charlie get into the stall, going to circle around Claire, Mark’s eyes looking around the barn. “Tucker must’ve come in to do the chores, everyone’s got food.” He shrugged, going back to Claire and leaning down to kiss her deeply, his arms wrapping around her waist. I love this…

Claire smiled faintly, standing on her tiptoes, her arms winding around his shoulders, one hand going to play with his hair. She made a quiet sound as their tongues tangled again, soon finding herself backed up against the door of an empty stall. I really like this… She nearly whined in annoyance when Mark’s lips left hers, but the sound caught in her throat when Mark kissed down her jaw, her hold on him tightening when he started to lap at her neck. “...mm… feels nice…” I love this…

Mark shuffled, getting his grip on her and lifting her up a few feet into the air and pinning her to the wall so he didn’t have to bend over to kiss her neck, his lips trailing all over her neck, the world around them simply shut out of his mind, his full attention directed on Claire and all the noises she was making. You’re so beautiful.
Claire clung to him tightly, her legs instinctively wrapping around his middle, a hand tugging at Mark’s hair, keeping him in place at her neck. Don’t stop… “…ngh… M-Mark…” She quietly whimpered, the sound insistently coming from her as Mark teased her skin, gasping as he got a bit rougher. Feels good… god, it feels good…

Mark led Claire back into the house about an hour later. His hair was a little messed up and his lips were redder than they’d ever been before. My lips hurt… But I don’t care at all… Nope… That was the best way to get my lips to hurt. “I’m gonna get water, do you want some too?”

“Yes, please.” My throat’s really dry… Claire was easily distracted by the dogs that had set up camp in the kitchen, all deciding as one to swarm and investigate the new human.

Newest human? Blake walked over, sniffing Claire’s hand and legs. Newest human smells like big new human. That one. Blake looked up as Mark handed Claire a glass of water, nudging Mark’s leg. Big new human has a human. Yay! But she's a small human. But my human has a small human too, so it's okay.

“I feel like I'm being judged by the family.” Claire giggled, the dogs nosing her legs. “What’re their names?”

“Blake is the one that’s got white all over his face… He’s old… Then Nene’s asleep on your foot and Krampus is trying to see if you have food on you.” Mark took a sip from his water looking over to Lathe as he came down to help Eren in the kitchen. Hmm… They're making a lot… It must really be everyone all over again.

“She's asleep on my foot? Already?” Claire reached down to pet the dog, the said pup looking up to her sleepily before going right back to her nap. Human is comfortable. I sleep here.

“Don't be surprised- all she does is eat and sleep. Just don't let Krampus get at anything in your pockets- he'll try to eat it.” Lathe smiled to the two of them, Mark’s red lips and mussed hair not going unnoticed. ...hm. You're at least at first base then. Or at least partway to second. Or you're there already. I dunno, I never understood the baseball metaphor thing. You're somewhere.

“Eren’s called in reinforcements, so I'll be helping cook. I trust Mark told you there are seventeen other guests at the table, not including you or the many puppies that’ll be attending?”

“Yes, he told me- that's a lot of people.”
“It is, but nine of them are us and the kids out back. But don't worry- even if more than half of them low-key judge you, they're good people. They'll like you.” Lathe smiled warmly, trying to put her at ease. He looked up when the phone rang, moving to it. “You two go do whatever it is teenagers do. Eren and I can manage cooking, Mark, so don't try to drag our guest into cooking.” I know you like to help, but not today. Lathe plucked the phone from the wall, leaning back. “H’yello?”

“Hey Lathe! It’s Mark!”

“...Mark? As in Markiplier?” Lathe grinned. “Good to hear from you! How are things going?”

“Actually pretty good, but I have a question.”

“Oh? And what might that be? You can't steal Eren, it's his night to make dinner.”

“No, actually we were wondering if we could stay over the night? Our flight was delayed in Wichita... And we don’t really wanna stay in a hotel if that's okay with you?”

“First, question. Who is this ‘we’ of which you speak? You and Jack, or is it the whole four of you?”

“It’s just Jack and I…”

“Yeah, we’ve still got room, surprisingly. I dunno if you know, but we’ve got six foster kids right now. There’s space, of course, but if you wanna stay for dinner you’d have to be okay with eighteen other guests. It’s everyone-come-to-the-house-for-a-feast night, Saturdays. German cooking.”

“Six foster kids! That’s great, Lathe! Damn, I can only imagine how much he’s making, but can you squeeze two more at the table? We can be there in two hours.”

Lathe looked to the clock. “Of course, that’s fine. Dinner might take another hour after you're here, but you're very welcome to chill. Anything to keep you out of an airport terminal longer than you need to be there. And trust me, there'll be plenty for everyone. Come hungry!”
“Good! We’ll see you in two hours then! Thank you!” Mark hung up to go get their rental car for the day with Jack. We’ll be leaving tomorrow at around 6pm… Great, at least we won’t have to wake up early.

Mark looked to Claire, a blush on his face. “Wanna go watch a movie in the theater room?” I think that would be a good place to go next…

Claire nodded, leaning into his touch when his arm drifted around her. “That sounds good.” I get to cuddle with you… sweet! She followed him to the theatre room, intent of curling up to him the second she got the chance.

Mark set up the large screen, bringing the remote back to his seat when he got Netflix up and running. “Okay, we have Netflix at our disposal, as well as YouTube.” We can watch whatever you want to.

Claire shrugged, leaning into his side when he sat down. “Hmm, what's a good movie to watch… have you ever seen Zombieland?” I love that movie… I dunno, if you expected me to pick some kind of chick flick, ya, no.

“Yeah, have you seen World War Z?” I’d rather watch that… It’s a better Zombie movie. He wrapped his arm around her side, a smile on his face. You are perfect.

“I wanted to, never have. …yet.” She smiled when she saw the look on Mark’s face, seeing him immediately go to pull it up. “Wow, no weird comment about me liking zombies? Impressive.” I like you. She sipped from her water glass, going to set the plastic cup on the floor, out of the way where she wouldn't kick it. Her now-free hand wound around Mark's middle, happy when he shifted to let them be closer.

“Why should there be a weird comment about you liking zombies? A lot of people like Zombies.” I wouldn’t say somethings that was rude to you… Like ever …

“I dunno. I kinda automatically expect people to like anything but undead, flesh-eating beings at this point. It's not a personal thing.” Claire pecked his cheek, her thumb rubbing his side as she shrugged. “Sorry. Just don't ever expect me to rope you into watching some dumb chick-flick or Twilight or something. I just think a bunch of it’s crap.” You don't have to worry about that, believe me.
“Marvel or DC?” That’s gonna sound random, but whichever you say is what I’m going to movie marathon with you. He tilted his head to rest on hers, enjoying the warmth her small body held. She’d fit in my lap... Oh my god, I just realized that. His face flushed as he pulled her closer to his side, enjoying the closeness.

“...hmm… Marvel.” I'm not a die-hard fan, but to me, if I had to pick, it's obvious enough. ......I wanna be closer... “Watch out, Mark.” Claire shifted, moving into his lap and making herself right at home, enjoying the feeling of Mark’s arms winding around her, resting her head back on his shoulder. “...mm, you're comfy.” She sighed when Mark gently nipped at her neck, groaning when his phone vibrated. Ugh, interruptions. Mur.

LQ: I don't wanna be killed by intruding if I don't need to LQ: Do you two want popcorn or nah

“Dad wants to know if we want popcorn or not… And he makes some really good popcorn… He didn’t want to intrude…” Well that’s good… I mean, I'll take popcorn. His arms wrapped around her waist showing her his texts, kissing her neck gently.

Claire quietly chuckled, leaning her head to the side and giving Mark more room. “Popcorn sounds good… tell him plenty of butter and we’re good. But not much salt if he can help it.” No thank you.

MB: Claire requests lots of butter and not too much salt please!

Mark wrapped his arms back around Claire’s waist, a smile on his face as they watched the first few minutes of the movie in comfortable silence.

It wasn't long before there was a quiet knock on the doorframe, Lathe with a big metal bowl of popcorn in hand. “Here you two go.” Lathe handed Claire the bowl, chuckling as she immediately began to stuff her face. “Just don't spoil your appetite.” Lathe left before Mark could complain he was being too much of a dad to Claire, vanishing back to the kitchen. They can be alone.

Claire was glad Lathe didn't take her request with a grain of salt. “I love your Dad. He makes good popcorn.” She looked over her shoulder, smiling cheekily. “Don't worry- I'll save some for you.” Maybe.

Mark chuckled, holding her closer to his chest. “Maybe you could feed it to me?” His voice sultry in her ear, licking her soft skin teasingly. Will you actually?

Claire quirked an eyebrow at him, smirking at his tone. I like the way you sound like that. “...hmm, maybe....” Claire relaxed further into his arms as he softly nibbled the skin behind her ear, taking a piece of popcorn and holding it to Mark’s lips. She watched Mark take the piece from her, letting his tongue slip against the tips of her fingers. She fed him another piece, and a third, Mark deciding on the last piece her fingers were too coated in butter to let slide, boldly keeping her gaze. God dammit, that's hot. It was too tempting. When Mark finally released her fingers she set aside the bowl of popcorn and turned in his lap, straddling him again and going in for a kiss, grateful as it quickly became heated. You're too tempting.

Mark’s lips met with Claire’s in a heated kiss, his tongue quickly slipping into Claire’s warm cavern and mapping out every inch that he could, tasting the butter and popcorn from the snack. It’s nice… I like this… Even if my lips hurt after this. His hands made their way to cup Claire’s ass to keep her up and to keep from craning either of their necks. Her tongue dancing against his sent yet another pulse of arousal through him. I’m gonna get hard again...

Claire made a small sound as Mark gripped her ass, breaking their kiss and trailing kisses back down his neck, her fingers tugging his tee shirt out of the way as she dove into lap at the soft skin, teasing every spot she could reach. I hope you like this... you sure sound like it. Her hips comfortably rested on Mark’s, though she tried not to move too much. ........if you get hard again, I honestly don't know what to do about it... I'm sorry, but I want you to feel nice, but at the same time it feels like a kinda crappy move. ......I have no idea.

Mark felt himself slowly getting aroused once again. Fuck, this is so embarrassing… His cheeks tinted red as he let out a soft moan every now and then, his hands still gripping Claire’s ass. Mark’s large hands were able to massage them thoroughly as she found spots all over his skin. Damn it… I’m hard again . He could feel that his pants were once again tight against his body, his long length wanting to be released from it’s denim confines. Dammit ...

Claire could feel Mark harden under her, keeping from grinding down on him, lifting her hips a bit in mercy. She kissed up his neck, hesitating, her hands on Mark’s shoulders. She rested her forehead in the crook of Mark’s neck, her voice soft and quiet. “...I don't want to go much further. But I feel bad that I'm working you up and then giving you nothing.” She didn't know what else to say, waiting for Mark to respond. ...I dunno what to do... help?

Mark shook his head. “You don’t have to do anything about it, I can go take care of it, it’s fine…” He murmured softly into her ear, gently letting go of her ass and shifting a bit so she wasn’t directly on his hard length. “You don’t have to worry about it at all, it’s my fault really… I’m sorry.” I have no control over my body... We’ve found that out today… His hands gently rested on her hips, moving her head so that he could look her in the eyes and show her that he wasn’t angry or anything. I want you to understand, I expect nothing from you... This is technically our first
She smiled faintly, her hands drifting up to the back of his neck. “Hey, I'm the one who can't keep their hands to themselves.” She pecked his cheek, soon grinning. “Also, I’m seriously hot. It’s understandable.” She moved to roughly nip at Mark’s neck, letting him go only after he let out a needy whine. Nope. She shifted off of him, letting him go.

Mark almost let out a soft whimper as she shifted off of him, though the discomfort in his pants outweighed the want to stay. I need to take care of this. He walked from the main section of the basement and into the bathroom, closing the door behind him and locking it before he unclipped his belt and unzipped his pants, pulling them and his boxers down to let his long length free. God... That feels so much better. He moved towards the toilet, beginning to stroke himself to alleviate his situation.

Claire settled back into the couch, munching on popcorn absently as she tried to get back into the movie. A good ten minutes had passed and she sighed, glancing over in the direction Mark had gone. He's taking forever... but, that's a good sign... right? It was another five minutes before Mark came back and sat down next to her, immediately curling back up to him. “Feeling better?” She smirked, watching him blush. You're so damn cute when you blush.

Mark’s whole face flushed as she spoke. “Y-Yeah, I do...” He pulled her closer, settling into the couch and relaxing as they watched the zombies take over. This movie’s pretty good, I’ll have to find more that we can binge next time... Wait, will there be? “Do you wanna come over next week? If that’s okay? And maybe you can sleep over? I have a track meet the next day... I-If you wanna go to that?” It’s the first of the season... And I’ve been doing well for a sophomore...

“Mark, if it involves doing chill stuff like this, food, and you, hell yes.” Claire buried her face into his shoulder, clinging to him. You're very comfy.......... I could legit just sleep here right now... ...that's a tempting thought... I must be channeling my inner Nene. “I’d like to see you compete at your track meet. You’ll leave them all in the dust, I’m sure of it.” You're so enthusiastic about running, it's insane. You'll do great.

Mark smiled more, his teeth bright in the dark room. “Maybe I can see if Eren can bring us home after school on Friday... If you wanna stay over Friday night too... And maybe make it a fun weekend?” I dunno if you’d wanna do that or not... I’d love to have you over over a lot more now.

Claire gave him a Cheshire grin. “I'm beginning to think you just want me allll for yourself.” She kissed him sweetly. “I'd love to.” I'm so in.
It was about five-thirty when a car first pulled up the driveway, Lathe answering the door for Mark and Jack. “Hey you two! Come on in. Dinner’s getting there, but it’ll be a half hour still.” Lathe ushered them inside, letting them ditch their shoes. He groaned when a timer beeped. “Ugh, that one's mine. Sorry, it's a production. Make yourselves at home!” Lathe ran off to the kitchen, checking that the potatoes weren't boiling over and that nothing was burning.

“Thank you so much for having us, Lathe. And don't worry- I'm not about to complain that you're busy cooking for us.” Jack placed his shoes neatly on the large front mat, sighing when Mark plunked his down haphazardly. ...well, the six other small pairs of shoes look pretty haphazard, so he fits right in.

Mark went off before Jack could stop him, snooping around in the front living room, looking around at the magazines, books, coloring books and all the other reading and coloring materials scattered all over the place. He found Nene asleep on her dog bed, his instant reaction to take out his phone and start to take countless pictures. Ahh! She’s so cute!

“Mark, what are you- oh my god puppy!” Jack quieted to whispers when he caught of sight of the sleeping dog, kneeling next to her quietly. He watched her wake up from her doze and look over to him, quietly judging the man with the green hair before yawning. So cute! Jack reached out to pet her, and Nene just stared off into space, having come to terms with the two pairs of hands petting her. Many human. Much affection. Wow. “...Nay nay?” Jack read her name tag, quirking an eyebrow. “That's probably not how you say it.”

“It’s Neh-Nay!”

“That makes more sense. Thanks.” Jack called over his shoulder to the kitchen, not wanting to yell so close to the sleepy pup. I don't wanna scare them. ...her? Him? I dunno, them. Nene. “How many pictures are you taking?”

“I’m at least at like … a hundred by now.” Mark continued to snap photo after photo, not realizing the other small dog come up to his side and instantly grabbed at his phone, take it from his hand and then bolting off. Huh? Hey! “My phone!” Mark started off running after Krampus, leaving Jack to pet Nene. I want my phone back! You little thief!

“Did he just steal your phone?” Jack laughed as Mark ran off after the small dog, accusing it of being a thief. That's the greatest!

“Did a different dog steal your phone?” Lathe watched Mark chase after Krampus, his eyes widening. “Don't let him get away, Mark! He has a habit of eating literally anything! Catch him!”
Lathe set down the fork he was holding, going the other way around the house, hopefully to trap Krampus. He can't snitch anything he wants anymore.

“He what!” Mark shouted as he chased after Krampus with even more vigor. Holy fuck! He better not eat my phone! He watched as Krampus paused for only a moment when he saw Lathe, quickly skirting around him, only to be caught by Mark as he came up the stairs with Claire.

“What did he steal now?” He kneeled down, grabbing the phone from Krampus’s mouth atmad looking it over. “It doesn’t look like it’s cracked… It’s just covered in slobber—” Mark froze when he looked up, meeting Mark in the eyes. Oh my god… It’s Markiplier. “Am I dreaming… Please tell me this isn’t a dream.” OH MY GOD!

Claire stared, completely shocked as she tried to absorb this new information….what. Claire reached over to her Mark, smacking his arm. “…Are you seeing the same thing I am?” …no way. Just, no.

“What’s going on?” Jack poked his head out from around a corner, Nene trailing after him, eternally sleepy. He smirked when he saw the very-familiar expressions on the teens’ faces. “…ooohhhh, they’re in denial. Give it a minute.” He grinned, watching them look to him with even more distinct shock. That look is always the greatest.

Mark looked between Mark and Jack before down to Krampus and Nene, looking to the phone in his hand and slowly wiping it off on his pants. This is Markiplier’s phone! Ahh! I’m actually touching it! I’m in his presence! ’I um… Sorry, Krampus will steal everything if you’re not careful.” He shakily handed back the phone watching as Mark looked over it. Mark looked back to Claire to see her still looking at the two of them in shock. This is… Is actually happening… Wait… Are these guys Eren’s friends? I mean I know he’s on YouTube… But I’ve never watched his videos… maybe I should.

Claire looked between the two of them, an odd thought hitting her. …wait. She turned to Mark, looking very confused. “…why are there famous people in your house?” She turned back as the two of them laughed loudly, Lathe and Eren snickering in the kitchen.

“Hmm, let’s see…” Jack turned to Eren and Lathe, pointing to each of them in turn. “Eren Yeager, famous pop star… Lathe Quo, famous in the medical world for that ‘immortality serum’ stuff you’ve probably read about somewhere… Jacksepticeye and Markiplier, YouTube let’s-players and personalities.” Jack grinned, watching Claire absorb all of that. “A good chunk of this family is famous for some reason or another. And they tend to know famous people. Well, some.” Kinda.
Claire looked between all of them, her shoulders slumping after a moment. “...wow. I feel really inadequate now.” She waved them off when they made dissenting sounds, grinning. “I'm kidding, yeesh.” She smacked Mark's arm, glaring at him lightly. “You didn't tell me your older brother was a pop star who got adopted by a magician and knows famous gamers!” What the hell, man? I wanna know this stuff!

“Um… Well, he’s your German teacher… I thought you would’ve known by now… I mean, Eren brings me home from school most days… I thought you were aware of that sorry, and I really don’t know who he hangs out with except for Armin… He’s pretty chill…” Mark rubbed his arm after he was smacked. Sorry that I didn’t know that you didn’t know... Yeesh!

Eren rolled his eyes. “Come in the kitchen guys! I’ll let you snitch while we wait for the hooligans and the rest of the gamers!” Hannah and Sharon will be very happy to see you guys!

“Oh no, more famous people?” Claire mockingly groaned in exasperation, though they all scurried to the kitchen to snitch what they could. Everything looks so tasty … It wasn't long before the doorbell rang again, Lathe going to answer it again.

“I didn't bring pie. I brought cookies .” Sharon smiled brightly, carrying a heavy-looking tray of cookies covered with a clean dish towel. “Tell me where to put them.” She grinned as Lathe showed her where to set them on the counter, stopping halfway there when she saw two very distinct figures in the kitchen. “...I'm carrying things, I need to set things down before I freak out…” She set the cookies down, turning to Jack ad Mark and staring at them for a moment as Hannah brought in the bed of puppies, attempting to process this new information. “......I get the feeling I died on the way here and am having the greatest dream ever before I go off to hell where I belong.”” She grinned as they all laughed in disbelief, bouncing on her toes. I don't wanna pounce on them with hugs because they might be like 'what the hell are you doing’ but I want hugs!! “Can I have a hug pretty please?” She grinned widely as they nodded. Hugs!!

Mark instantly opened his arms. “It’s hugging time!” He shouted and bounded right up to Sharon and hugged her happily, he barely noticed that Hannah had brought in a box full of puppies along with three large dogs. I love hugs!

Hannah set up a small play area to protect the small pups from the other dogs, letting Tove come close to her new litter and letting them suckle. They’re only two weeks old, so we can’t leave them at home… Their eyes are starting to open for the first time. So adorable!

Sharon laughed as Mark got her into a crushing hug, smacking his arm weakly. “Lungs… collapsing… hug… too strong…” She gasped for air when she was let go, only to roll her eyes when Jack then tugged her into a hug. What is life anymore. She laughed when they let her go, looking back over to her wife. “Hannah, look up!” You haven’t seen them yet, have you. I wanna see your reaction, then I need to go fetch Maverick.

Hannah looked up and over towards where Sharon was after making sure Tove was settled with the puppies. Her eyes widened as she clambered over the fence, a huge smile on her face. “Oh my gosh… Um, Hi… I’m Dr. Laskowski.” She held out a shaking hand as she watched them both with wide eyes. This is actually happening! Holy shit!

Jack looked to Hannah’s outstretched hand, then back up to her face. “…you can ask for hugs, we just crushed your wife to death, or did you miss that?” He chuckled as she blushed, pulling her into a hug when she tentatively held out her arms. “And so formal! Can I just call you Hannah? Is that cool?” I’m gonna go nuts if I call you Dr, Laskowski for the rest of forever.

Hannah nodded, brushing her hair back behind her ear as she looked down. “I apologize, I’m hard of hearing as of late… And yes, you may call me that… I’m just used to being professional because I’ve been in meetings for the past two weeks with Casper… The Doctor with the purple hair, you guys know him, he’s not formal at all…” It doesn’t help at all… She smiled warmly at Jack before going to hug Mark as well, smiling widely that she got to do that. I love this!

“I thought it was a purple rat someone pinned to my head?” Casper poked his head through the door, Maverick on his hip. “You left your car door and front door open.” He strode right in, kicking off his shoes. I give zero shits that I just baby-napped Maverick.

“Well, it's that too.”

“You're not supposed to agree, Lathe! Whose side are you on?”

“I'm on my side.”

“I'd swear, but I'm holding a baby.”

“Yeah, please don't. They don't need any help growing up to swear like a sailor.” Hannah and I will do plenty for that ourselves.

Hannah sighed, taking Maverick from Casper’s arms, holding him close to her chest. Getting big still… I swear he’s heavier every time I pick him up. “Um, guys, Mark and Jack are here…”
Apparently.” She spoke up quietly as she ran her hand through Maverick’s hair, smoothing it out. His hair’s getting thick too…

Eren scampered off into the kitchen once the timer beeped loudly, signifying that everything in the oven was ready to be taken out. “Alright everyone take your seats! Dad, call Horseface! Find out where those two are, and call Armin too!” Those guys aren’t here yet. “BOYS!” Eren shouted up the stairs, hearing the familiar sound of doors opening and closing and rushing feet. This will be fun…

“Gotcha!” Lathe dialled Jean’s number on his phone, waiting for someone to pick up as he watched the familiar sight of the five boys stampeding downstairs to get a place at the long table. He grinned when someone picked up, hearing Marco's voice instead. “Yo, you two on your way yet?”

“Give us two more minutes, Mr. Quo. Jean’s driving and we’re just down the road.” It won't be long.

“Cool- make sure he doesn't crash the thing.”

“He won't- he's got precious cargo to take care of.”

“...your dog?”

“Yeah, him too. But I meant me.”

Lathe laughed, Jean telling Marco to shut up embarrassedly in the background. Too damn adorable. “Okay, two minutes. I'm counting.” He ended the call, dialling Armin’s number.

“I'm in your driveway, what do you want? Oh, can you open the door? I have a cake and I need both hands to carry it.”

“Cake? I like cake. Okay.” Lathe hung up, going to the front door and seeing Armin ambling up the driveway with a decently-sized cake. Lathe grinned. “That’s a lot of cake.”
“Isn’t there like an army here?” Armin glanced over his shoulder as he heard Jean’s truck roll into the driveway. “So is everyone here now?” I think it is… Wait? Who else is here? There’s another car? “Who else is here? Are we celebrating Eren’s birthday today?” I hope we are, that’s what I made the cake for…

“You brought a birthday cake, so apparently yes. And famous people are here.” Lathe held the door open for him, going to clear a spot on the counter for him to put the cake. “And thank you so much, Armin.”

“No problem, it kept me and Marco occupied today, he came over to help… It was nice to have someone else in the house.” I’m all alone, at least Eren’s got a job that gets him out of the house, I finish all my work by noon, and then I have nothing to do all day…

Lathe smiled faintly to him, though he didn’t know what to say to the last part. …I know it must be hard, especially since you’re alone in that big house… “Well you two certainly did a beautiful job of decorating it.” He’ll love it. “I need to find candles for this thing; I’m not letting Eren get out of it now.” Lathe grinned when Armin just shook his head, rifling through a nearby cupboard for a moment, setting the candles next to the cake on the counter for the moment. He looked up, seeing most of the guests weren’t at the table, but around the couch, which had been pushed together completely to make a sort of pen for Tove and her pups. Everyone wants to see the puppies. “The puppies will be there when dinner is over, people. Are we going to eat or what?” He started to herd everyone to the table, getting them all to sit down.

Eren started to make his rounds, bring dish after dish to the table for people to eat. “Marco, there’s sauerkraut and veggie stew the German way, or I have collard greens, what do you wanna start with first?” Always cater to your veggie friends… and I made you a lot of your favorites… He was setting down the large basket of brotchen in the middle of the table, watching as Mark took a bite of the food curiously before moving it into his mouth. Oh that’s right, Mark and Jack have never had my cooking before… Well, this’ll be a shock for them!

“Vegetable stew, please. And thank you so much, really.” You’ve been amazing in accommodating that I don’t eat meat. I appreciate that. Marco took a roll, passing the basket to his right, and it went around the table. Everything he makes is the best, really. Marco watched with everyone else as Mark and Jack curiously tried the food before Mark proceeded to shovel it into his mouth, Jack eating much more neatly, but with visible restraint. I think that’s a pretty good sign.

A not-so-small pack of dogs was alternating between circling the table and inspecting the pups, though at that point most of them were on their hind legs with their paws on chairs or the table, wanting to get a nibble of something. There were clear favourites- Krampus was shooed away while Nene was given a small piece of meat for sitting next to Lathe quietly for two seconds. The nine dogs eventually decided to leave the humans alone to their feasting, piling in the couch pen around the tiny pups, napping or watching Tove lick and nose at any pups that squeaked and squirmed, calming them.

Eren smiled as he sat down beside Lathe, enjoying the sweet silence as everyone stuffed their faces. He got up to make sure that food bowls and plates were refilled so that no one went hungry, the schnitzel being everyone’s favorite and the first thing to be completely consumed. Good thing I made enough. Eren watched as people slowly began to pick at their food, having started to get full. His head turned when he heard a soft knock at the door. Huh? Who’s here now? “Do you want me to get it?” He started to get up from his chair looking at Lathe to see if he wanted him to go or not. I know you have your thing with answering the door…

Lathe patted his arm, standing instead. “No, I’ll get it. You eat.” Lathe pushed in his chair and made his way to the door, opening it. He smiled when he saw Rose on the front stoop, holding a platter of German sweets. <“Hello Rose-”> He was surprised when she held the platter out to him, taking it after a moment. <“Ma’am, thank you, you really didn't have to…”> He ushered her inside, his smile warm.

<“Oh no, deary, really. I had the house to myself today, it was the least I could do to thank you for letting Claire stay over today.”> She needs to be getting out of the house more… Rose slowly followed Lathe into the house, immediately greeted by Eren and Mark, Claire following suit a moment later. <“Oh no, please sit and keep eating, I just came to bring some dessert, I hope I made enough with the number of people here.”> Her voice was soft and cheery as Lathe returned with a chair for her. <“Ah, Thank you.”>

<“We were very happy to have her today. These look wonderful, thank you.”> Lathe pulled up another chair for Rose at the table, one side of the table immediately making room for her. <“At this rate, we need an even bigger table.”> Lathe motioned for her to sit, picking up his own empty plate when he saw a few people were finished. He and Eren cleared the table, making sure everyone stayed put. First and foremost, they made sure everyone had another plate for dessert, and Lathe made Eren sit back at the table. “Armin and Marco made something for Eren’s birthday a few days ago…” Lathe carried in the cake with three lit candles on it, setting it in front of Eren. “But first, we have to sing.” He grinned as some of the people at the table groaned in exasperation, though they all sang Happy Birthday with a smile of their faces.

Eren wasn’t expecting a cake to be put in front of him. “Oh my god, guys, this is too much, really…” He blew out his candles when they had finished singing, a large smile on his face. “So you made me make dinner for my own party?” He chuckled as everyone laughed. It’s good to have people around again, I really like this… “Well come on, I’m not gonna eat it all.” He waved them all closer, starting to cut the cake up and hand out pieces to everyone, the cookies and German pastries set out along with ice cream, everyone digging in happily. Wow, this is a pretty good party, I like that everyone’s enjoying themselves… I wish I could call Levi…

The rest of the night passed rather quickly, everyone enjoying the desserts, especially Rose’s sweets. After lots of time playing with the flock of dogs and chattering on, everyone left for home, Lathe going through the mountain of dishes methodically, grateful- as he always was- for having enough foresight to get a second dishwasher. There are too many of us. We need it.

Mark ambled over after helping get Mark and Jack situated in the guest bedroom upstairs. Everyone else is practically asleep by now... “Um... Dad?” I wanna ask if Claire can come over so she can ask Mrs. Rose... Mark moved to Lathe’s side, helping with the dishes and loading them into the dish washers. I can help... Maybe that’ll help get a good answer on whether she can come over or not...

“Hm? What’s up, Mark?” Lathe smiled as Mark fell into place in the line, handing him dishes as he rinsed them and letting him arrange them in the dishwashers. Either you’re being helpful as usual, or you want something and are trying to make me want to say yes before you even ask. ...probably the latter.

“Can Um... Can Claire sleep over on Friday after school and Saturday so that we can go to my track meet on Sunday?” I really want her to be able to come over. I really like her... And that’s not my crotch talking... He continued to put the dishes in the dishwasher, his shoulders slumped, as if expecting Lathe to say no. I mean he could... None of the other foster parents ever let me bring friends over, or any girls for that matter... And we are at that age that we’d be thinking about stuff like that, so I guess he’s got every right to deny it... It was stupid to ask. Mark started to shake his head. “S-Sorry... I um... sorry, I shouldn’t have asked... Thank you for letting me have her over today.” It was nice... And I’m surprised she’ll even talk to me still, especially with what happened.

Lathe quietly thought about it, but he was surprised when Mark seemed to accept defeat before he’d even spoken. “Hey, I’m just thinking. I wasn't about to just flat-out deny you. Let me ponder this.” Lathe nudged him, glad that Mark perked up a bit more, looking hopeful as Lathe kept washing. They’re obviously involved enough to be boyfriend and girlfriend. And she’ll be sleeping over with him two nights in a row... and if they’re in the same bed... they are at that age... “......I’m going to say yes. But...” Lathe held up a finger before Mark could get too excited. “We still need to talk, so brace yourself. I’m just going to get the speech out of the way. Try not to break a plate while I do this.” Lathe handed him another plate, watching Mark pale a bit when he seemed to realise what he was about to go on about. “Both you and Claire are young adults. And I know you two are very close- don’t think your messed up hair and swollen lips went unnoticed.” Lathe glanced over to him, watching him completely flush with embarrassment. “But I’m not here to judge you.” Lathe looked back to what he was doing, his expression mostly neutral. “You’re your own person and all my job is is to make sure you don't get yourself killed or in a mess you really don't wanna be in. That being said- I'm not saying this because you're expected to be at this point already, or that you need to hurry up and get there- but if and when you two become sexually involved, you need to stay safe and protected, without going into too much detail. I'm sure you understand what I mean.” He glanced over, watching him nod, his face buried in his hands. It's my job to look after you. And to embarrass the crap out of you. It's obligatory. Lathe passed on the last dish, watching Mark pale them both and start them. “One more thing- come with me.” Lathe nodded to the stairs, walking upstairs with Mark following, dragging his feet. He can probably feel the impending doom. “One moment.” Lathe disappeared into his room, coming back out after a moment. “It’s not because I’m trying to embarrass you, it’s because the last thing you need right now is a kid. And after doing this with Eren, it's obligatory.” Lathe shoved the small package into Mark’s hand before he could protest, smirking when he saw him flush an even darker shade of crimson. It's pretty much mandatory for all my kids now when they start dating. Welcome to the family.

Mark’s face flushed completely, though he looked down to the box in his hands, reading the measurements on the bottom of the box. Shit… I’m gonna have to tell him. “U-Um… I-I appreciate the thought… B-But these won’t fit me…” They’re too small…

Lathe tilted his head a bit, thinking. “…I think we have smaller ones…” We probably do….

“Um… It’s not that Dad… They’re… They’re not long enough…” God this is so embarrassing… “C-Can I go to my room now?” His face was completely red. Oh my god, why!?

Lathe’s eyebrows shot up, taking the box back from him. “One second, and then you can go run away and ask the universe why you got stuck with me.” Lathe disappeared back inside, handing Mark a different box and letting him run off to his room immediately. I'm not sorry. ……but if those ones are correct… when the actual hell did you go through puberty? Those are the same size I use… …I'm not going to question this. Lathe just shook his head, going back into his room, shutting and locking the door.
Chapter 76: Wacky Weekend Part 1

I’ve been having the best week at practice with the track team, and right now I’m in the long distance running… I still get up to do my morning 10 mile run… Only I’ve been doing it in like an hour and a handful of minutes… Maybe I should ask Dad about that… I’ve been so excited since Monday, Claire said it was a go to come over on Friday night and stay the weekend! AHHHH! I’m going home with her soon! We don’t have practice today because we have the meet in two days… Coach told us to Carbo Load tomorrow night too… I wonder if Eren can make me some sort of pasta dish. Mark’s breath caught in his lungs as he saw Claire waiting by his locker with a bag, ready to leave to go home with him. “Hi Claire.” His cheeks were pink as he spoke to her, a happy smile on his face as he put the books he didn’t need in his locker, his stomach feeling as if it’d been taken over by butterflies. Oh god… I hope I put the condoms away… I’ll have to make sure when we get home… I don’t need her thinking I expect sex…

Claire smiled, her own cheeks tinted pink. “Hey Mark. Doin’ okay?” She quirked an eyebrow at him and nudged his elbow, chuckling as he blushed. “I just like poking at you. I understand- I get you all to myself this weekend. It’s a great thought. Claire reached for his hand when he was finished putting his books away, tugging him towards the door nearest the parking lot.

Mark blushed more as he let her tug him along, very few students lingering in the halls at this time. “Eren should be by the car.” “I wonder if we’ll go riding right when we get home? “What do you wanna do when we get home?”“ I could suggest a few things, but only if you can’t think of anything.

“Well, I’m leaving all my homework for late Sunday and study halls… what do you say we go riding again? I really liked that spot by the lake…” Claire smirked, slowing her pace a bit so they were walking side-by-side, fingers laced. Honestly, I just wanna make out in peace. Though the grass did kinda stab my knees and arms, and it probably wasn't nice to your back… “We should bring a blanket or something though, something that'll feel nicer than stabby grass.” I'd happily kiss you senseless on one of the picnic tables, but those probably would be less comfortable.

“Yeah, I can pack a blanket on Charlie’s saddle pack… Maybe we can take a few snacks with us…” He led her to Eren’s car helping get her stuff in and greeting Eren. Once they were in the car, Eren drove them home, opening the front door for them and welcoming Claire to the house once again. “Dad… Can you make us some snacks to take out riding with us?” Mark asked as they came inside, going to the kitchen where he knew everyone was getting Lathe to make snacks. You make really good ones…

“You two are order number six, but I'll see what I can do.” Lathe had his hands full with the other kids hanging off of him, but he nodded to them, managing to keep the kids placated and finishing the couple’s pile of snacks first. “You'll need something to carry them in. You could fetch the picnic basket from the pantry and make a thing out of it if you want.” It's got literally everything except food already in it. “If you wanted something to drink, you'll have to get that yourselvessorry, but everyone’s getting antsy.” Antsier than they already were.

Mark nodded, taking his advice and getting the picnic basket, finding that it had a blanket in it already. I’ll still pack one... We might want two. He turned to Claire, a blush on his face. “Sorry, um... I never really asked where you wanted to sleep tonight?” His voice quiet as he stood close to her. Wherever you want, I won’t push you to sleep with me.

Claire shrugged one shoulder, her cheeks dusted with pink. “I kinda assumed I’d sleep in the same bed as you... I'm okay with it, but if you're not, that's okay, we can figure out something else...” ...I was kinda looking forward to it tho... dammit...

“No that’s fine, if you wanna go out your stuff in my room, it’s the third on the left.” You can go put your stuff in my room while I get us drinks. “I’ll go get us drinks for the trip.” He went off towards the basement to get at the large water bottle supply they had.

Claire nodded, heading upstairs with her backpack and clothes bag, traipsing inside and dumping her stuff by the foot of the bed. She looked around, inspecting the room. Sparse, tidy... there’s no way his room always looks like this, though. She ran her finger over a shelf, seeing no dust. Aw, he cleaned everything for me. Now. To snoop or not to snoop... I’m snooping. Claire smirked, quietly opening the drawer of his nightstand, just wanting to poke around a little before he got suspicious. Her eyebrows shot up as she saw the box on top of the clutter inside, flushing red. …...what the hell does he have Trojan Magnums for? What, does he expect sex...? And there’s no way he’s that big. It's obvious enough from last week he's big, but... no way. Claire wasn't gonna let him get away with it, snatching two of the foil wrappers and stashing them in her pocket, intent on questioning him later. If all he wants is sex I'm gonna kill him, dump him in the lake, and steal Charlie.

Soon enough everything was packed up for the ride, Charlie tacked up, and they were off, the ride through the woods comfortably quiet. Mark’s breath gently huffed against her neck, his arms wound securely around Claire’s waist the entire time. ...okay, this is nice. He is adorable and sweet, but again. Kill him, dump the body, steal the horse. Claire let Mark hop off Charlie first when they reached the lake, jumping into his arms again, the action becoming familiar. She set up camp under the same tree as the week before while Mark tied Charlie to a tree, setting down both blankets. She smiled when Mark sat down next to her and kissed her cheek, both of them immediately rifling through the basket for something to eat. They were quiet as they ate, looking over the calm water, seeming to simply want to enjoy the other’s presence for the moment. At least, Mark was. Claire was formulating a line of questioning, setting down her water bottle. “Hey Mark? I've got a question. A few, really.” Claire moved, sitting down in Mark’s lap again on his thighs, a bit of room between them. I wanna see how quick you catch on. “...is there a specific… reason, you wanted me over for such a long time this weekend, with two overnights?” She crossed her arms, unable to help looking a bit mad. I wanna like you. But I need to question this too.

“Well I had planned to ask you if you wanted to come to the first track meet we had but then I found out last week that it started really early so I thought it’d be easier for you to stay over to go… And then to stay tonight so we can watch horror movies tomorrow, because I can’t watch them with my brothers and I’ve been dying to watch them with someone.” His voice was steady as he gave her his reasons. Was I being selfish? If you didn’t want to stay... You didn’t have to agree... I wouldn’t have been upset...

“...okay, but are you sure those are your only reasons? It didn't have anything to do with you and me, sleeping in the same bed...?" She flatly glared at him after a moment, her expression done when he looked embarrassed and confused. “Mark, I'm only kinda sorry for snooping, but I found your condoms. I wanna know whether you legitimately wanted this to be a chill weekend or if you thought you had me in a vulnerable enough position to get me to agree to let you fuck me.” There. I said it.

“What? Why would you think I would ever think like that?" His voice sounded hurt as he listened to her. You went looking through my stuff? “I asked Dad if I could have you over... He gave me a fucking sex talk after agreeing and he made me take the condoms. I've tried to put them back into his room, I have no intention of using them at all... God no... I... He kept putting them in my room until I just hid them... It was embarrassing enough to go through that with him. If you're that pissed about it I’ll sleep on the couch.” Mark’s voice couldn’t shake the hurt he felt, like he’d been stabbed in the back. She doesn’t trust me... I should’ve figured that... He shook his head, moving her off of his lap and onto the blanket next to him, his eyes not coming up to meet hers. That hurts...

I really messed up... “Mark, wait, I'm sorry.” Claire wanting to hug him tight and bury her face in his neck, but only managed to look him in the face, wanting him to look up. “I'm sorry, I was nosy and poked around a bit, but I saw the big pack of condoms and I freaked out a bit... I didn't think otherwise you'd just want that but I couldn't help but be a little wary when I saw them... I'm not mad, I just got really worried... ...please don't be mad at me...” Claire drew up into herself, internally beginning to panic. I just screwed myself over... crap, I didn't wanna mess this up... I really like you.... nonono...

Mark looked over to Claire, shaking his head. “Just forget about it, I'll sleep on the fucking couch tonight.” He could already feel the anger flooding his body start to calm, taking in a deep breath and closing his eyes to calm down. Don’t snap at her... It’s your own fault for just wanting to be around her... Selfish prick.... He rubbed at his face, trying to think of what to say. “I'm sorry I snapped...” You probably wanna go home... Great... This worked out so fucking well...

Claire felt her cheeks flush with shame, tears pricking at her eyes. Don't cry. Don't do it. You deserve to be yelled at for that. What the hell were you thinking, snooping around and then blatantly accusing him like that?! “...I'm really sorry for accusing you like that... I didn't wanna believe anything I was saying... I was hoping I was wrong...” Claire wanting to cling to him, but instead just curled up to herself on the blanket, pulling her legs to her chest. Can we just start this entire exchange over and pretend everything's okay...
Mark looked over to Claire, his chest clenching as she curled into herself. No, this isn’t right. Mark reached out, pulling her into his lap again, his arms wrapping around her waist. “Don’t cry, Claire, it’s okay, I forgive you, just don’t think I’m just looking to fuck you the second I get the chance… I mean yeah, it would be nice, but I’m not that kind of person… And because I guess it’s a family tradition, Dad made sure I had condoms… Since he thinks we’re dating… Which I think we are…” To be honest I’m not really sure what our relationship is labeled as…

“...is giving someone condoms the second they have someone to potentially fuck a tradition in your family?” Did I hear that correctly? Her eyes widened in disbelief when Mark nodded, sighing heavily and slumping into his hold, going to cling to him. “I can understand the appeal, but my god, your Dad needs to chill. …...and are we dating?” Claire looked up to Mark, a tiny bit scared. “I’d kinda like us to be.” I wanna date you…. please ?

“If you want to, that’s perfectly fine with me.” He murmured softly in her ear before dipping his head down to kiss at her neck. We came here to make out I believe… It should help us forget about what just happened. His hands were gentle as they pulled Claire closer to his broad chest. I just kinda wanna hold you and try and control myself this time around.

Claire gasped quietly when Mark’s lips met her neck, letting him pull her back into his lap and against his chest. “I’d love to…” ...that means you’re my boyfriend now. I like the sound of that. Claire clung to Mark’s broad shoulders, letting out tiny whimpers as he kissed and sucked at her neck, letting him take over. I really like this… “Uh, o-one question though…” She ran a hand up to his hair when he didn't stop kissing her neck, only humming a bit in acknowledgement. “...w-were the condoms the right size?” ...I wanna know if you’re really that big…

Mark stopped kissing her neck for only a moment. “Curious… Are we?” He nipped at her ear gently, his hands resting on her hips lightly. They are, but let’s see how long it’ll take her to realize that….

“M-Maybe…” Claire let her hands wander over Mark’s chest, wishing that he wouldn't handle her so gently. Her hands splayed over his chest, running down south, dangerously close to the hem of his jeans. I really wanna know…. ...and I kinda want to get acquainted… “Too damn gentle…” She barely mumbled in his ear, though she was immediately rewarded with a rough nip to her neck, his touches becoming much more insistent. Better. She let out a small sound of surprise when Mark flipped their positions, Mark looming over her as she rested on her back, wanting him closer. More… get the hell down here.

Mark used his larger body to his advantage, caging her under him with his limbs, making sure she had no escape. His mouth soon connected with her skin again, his fingers having moved her shirt to the side so that he could mark her somewhere hidden. Dad would kill me….
Claire felt him tug at her shirt, whimpering as he roughly sucked at her flesh. That's going to bruise... I kinda really want it to... “M-Mark... I can... I can lose the shirt... I-if you want me to...” I'd love it if you wanted to keep exploring....

Mark looked between her and her shirt, a seductive look overtaking him. “Would you be comfortable with that?” I don't wanna push you, but that would be great... His length was already starting to outline itself in his pants, and he could feel his jeans getting tighter, but at the moment he didn’t care. Mark’s focus was directed at Claire, and every little noise she made. I want to do this right...

Claire slowly nodded, reaching down to grab the hem of her shirt, pulling it up over her head and tossing it aside. She blushed as Mark drank in the sight of her, feeling very exposed. She was a bit nervous as Mark dipped his head down, though her hands soon came up to thread through his hair, whimpers coming from her throat incessantly without her permission as he started to kiss and nip at her chest, teasing her breast. “...f-feels good...” More...

Mark’s eyes looked down her olive skin, his hands coming to tease at her bra, as if wanting to get under it, but not going as far as that until she said it was okay. *I want you to feel in control of this. *His mouth let mark after mark as he trailed down her front, soon leaving open mouth kisses when he got to her abdomen, his sultry eyes looking up to meet hers. God I love this... I love the noises you’re making... You sound wonderful.

Claire felt him tug a bit at her bra, and she thought for a moment....his lips on me there... it'd feel wonderful... “M-Mark... I-I can... I'm okay without m-my bra...” I can lose it... I kinda want to... “...but only if you ditch your shirt too.” There are abs under there. I want them.

Mark seemed to smirk, pulling back to sit back on his haunches. His hands went to the hem of his shirt and pulled it up over his head slowly, giving her a show. His abs were solid, not as defined as Levi’s, but definitely there. Mark let his eyes wander down to Claire’s awed face. “Like what you see?” I hope you do...

“A lot...” Claire reached a hand for him, wanting him back on top of her. She dropped her hand when he didn't move, sitting up a bit. Oh yeah... Bra first. Claire reached around her back, unclipping the clothing, slowly and tentatively letting it slip from her chest. She looked away from Mark, her cheeks burning. I hope you don't think I look weird or something... I just want you to like this...

Mark shifted down to trap Claire once again, his eyes hungrily looking over her whole front. They’re small, like the rest of her... That's perfect. His left hand came up her stomach gently, slowly cupping her supple flesh. Her skin is so soft. His fingers gently grazed over her mound, gently grabbing it. Mark leaned down to gently kiss around her other breast, his lips soon latching onto a perky nipple and gently kissing it. I want you to feel good too and I really hope I’m doing this right.

Claire’s hands roamed his back, her legs instinctively wrapping around his waist as he sucked on her breast. “Mark… Feels good… m-more…” She whined as he lapped at her chest, gripping his shoulders. More...

But how much more? I’m not really sure what I should be doing here… Mark decided to keep his pace and continue to kiss and suck on her breasts, leaving small marks over the flawless skin. He was lost in his own thoughts as he shifted, his hand claiming her other breast and his mouth beginning to tease her other nipple. I want you to feel really good… And I hope you know what feels good for you...

Claire mewled as he shifted attention to her other breast, her hands buried in his hair. Feels really good… Her hands moved back down his shoulders, wanting desperately to explore him. She let out a sinfully loud sound as Mark carefully scraped his teeth over her nipple, blushing darkly when she realized how much she was reacting to the stimulation. Fuck, I keep forgetting how damn loud I get… She moved her hands to his shoulders, pushing and rolling them over, so that she was on top of him. She moved when Mark’s lips let her go, going to suck marks of her own down his chest. She nearly immediately realized how hard he was as she straddled his crotch. She smirked, dragging her tongue over a patch of sensitive skin, lightly grinding on his clothed hard-on. .... someone's excited… She traced a finger down a small patch of dark brown hair under his navel, a finger brushing the hem of his jeans for a moment. I don't know how far you wanna take this… I still don't want sex. Duh. But there's other stuff too… I dunno. That's your call.

“If you want… I can lose the pants too.” His words were cheeky as he put his arms behind his head to prevent from craning his neck as he watched her. I can tell you really wanna know how big I am… You can go ahead and look, I don’t mind…

Claire rolled her eyes, smirking. Her fingers went to unbutton his jeans, kissing down from his navel as she did. She tugged his jeans down his hips, her eyes widening and growing dark as she saw just how big he was. …fuck, he really is huge… She completely tugged off his jeans, tossing them out of the way before laying on her stomach between his legs, Mark flushing as she hovered over his length, still mostly hidden in his boxers. A finger reached out, tugging at the hem of them. “…would you mind losing these, too?” Please? I have ideas...

Mark looked a little wary, thinking on how she thought he was only after sex, making sure he thought out his next words carefully. “I’m fine with whatever you wanna do… Just don’t push yourself because you think you have to.” I could always just go take care of myself again… And that would be fine… He held his neck up as he watched her between his legs, shifting them apart so she had more room, and better access.

“I'm not about to ride you or something, relax.” She kissed the outline in his boxers, enjoying the sight of him shivering. “I'm doing what I want because I want to. And I think you'll like it.” She slowly tugged his boxers down, setting the out of the way before she was faced with his bare organ, standing stiffly. “Mm, you really are that big…” She leaned down, nipping gently at the base, watching Mark as she did. You already look like you're about to lose it. She dragged a finger up the underside, watching a drop of precum drip down his impressive length. “Damn, that's hot.” She leaned forward to lick it away before Mark could respond, her hands coaxing his hips to stay in place. She closed her lips over his tip, carefully sucking him, watching for his reaction.

... Did she just say- ....................... Mark’s mind went blank as Claire licked the bead of precum off of his head, a shudder running through his whole body as he felt something pulse through him, which increased the second he felt her lips on his length. That's fucking hot... He couldn’t help but let out a loud whine as she began to bob her head slowly. Oh my god... She’s giving me a blowjob ...

Claire propped herself up on her knees, bobbing her head a bit farther down his length, mindful of her teeth. He's too big... I can't get much of him in... She came off of him, instead opting to lick stripes up and down his length, mouthing at his shaft, her hands running soothingly over his thighs as he shuddered. You sound wonderful...

“Hmm... C-Claire...” he moaned out her name as he struggled to keep his hips from jerking into her hand and mouth. Her lips feel so good... And I’m trying not to do anything wrong... Mark whimpered when she popped off him, her saliva connecting them for a moment before she went back to his length. “Claire...” His words were husky as he enjoyed her mouth all over him. It feels so good, much better than my hand.

“Hm?” Claire looked up to him, dragging her tongue over his slit before stopping to kiss down his shaft. She faked a hurt look, nuzzling near his base. “Oh, is it too much? I guess I can stop...” I just wanna hear you beg.

Mark let out a loud moan as Claire licked his sensitive head, his eyes widening as she stopped. “N-no... Claire, please don’t stop... It feels really good... Please don’t...” But I guess if you don’t want to... I can get up and go take care of myself... Not that I want to do that at all... Mark's shoulders slumped, starting to push himself up off the blanket, expecting to be denied. Shouldn’t’ve gotten my hopes up... just like everything else...

Claire’s hands on his abdomen stopped him, sucking at the underside of his base, effectively stopping him in his tracks. “I'm not gonna stop, Mark. And besides.” She sucked his tip for a moment, smirking around him as he whined. “You make the most beautiful sounds.” Yours are my favorite. She slowly bobbed on him, her hand stroking what she couldn't reach. So big…

Mark slid back down to lay on the blanket, closing his eyes as he felt her mouth return to his aching hardness. Oh my god… She's so good at this… Wait, could that mean that she’s had sex before? She asked about the condoms… And if they fit… That must mean she knew what size they were? He groaned from the pleasure though, and let out a loud cry as she found a very sensitive spot on his cock, his eyes going wide in an instant and his hands moving to grip the blanket below him. Oh my god… He felt his coil beginning to tighten, a sense of dread filling him for a moment… How are we gonna clean that up? We don’t have anything to put it in…

Claire noticed when Mark seemed to be quickly nearing the edge, the way he began to shake under her. She didn't stop her ministrations, her lips stopping at his tip, sucking very hard on the reddened flesh as she stroked him firmly. I wanna watch you cum… and I'm okay with swallowing. I don’t mind it.

Mark closed his eyes, scrunching his toes to try and keep from going over the edge. “C-Claire… There… There’s gonna be too much…* Ngh, Fuck!” He shouted as his coil snapped, his hands slowly beginning to let go of the blanket. The cum that Claire couldn’t handle now stripped across her face as even down her torso. Oh my god… That was fucking wonderful… His breathing was already regulated as he was used to running under such conditions. Mark picked his head up to see the scene in front of him. “Oh shit… Claire I’m sorry…” That’s been built up for a very long time… That had to have been a lot to try and swallow… And I can tell by how much is on you that it was a lot.

Claire struggled to swallow his load, not managing well, her eyes shut as he came on her face, feeling some hit her chest. Crap. …probably should've expected that. And he did try to warn me, so… “S’okay.” Claire licked her lips, though she reached over to the picnic basket for some of the packed napkins, wiping herself off. She smirked at Mark as she did. “You sounded really sexy.” She chuckled when he still flushed, pecking at his cheek. “Just informing you.” Because seriously. Damn. She made a small sound of surprise when Mark tugged her back into his lap for a kiss, her eyes slipping shut when their tongues met, kissing languidly. Mine. She could feel that Mark was still hard, breaking their kiss and sighing. “Are you insatiable?” She teased him, a hand going to wrap around his thick length. You're still really hard…

Mark groaned as he felt her hand grab his length. “Claire… you’ll make it worse… It’ll go away eventually… I want to make you feel good again….“ His hands drifted to her jeans, teasing the hem. “That is… If you're willing to take this off…” I really hope you are… I want you to enjoy it… You made me enjoy mine… God that was awesome… My body feels like it’s on cloud nine.

Claire smiled faintly, her head falling into the crook of his neck. “Okay.” She shifted, letting go of his length and moving to unbutton her jeans, tugging them off and out of the way. Her breath caught in her throats when suddenly Mark’s hands were all over her, one hand brushing down theront of her panties and slipping down to run over the fabric covering her folds, the fabric completely soaked. She shifted on her knees to give him better access, clinging to his broad shoulders. I really want you to take control of this… please….

Mark’s fingers were covered in slick within a few seconds, his voice heady and rough as he spoke. “I see that someone else is excited.” You’re wet… It feels weird… But eh. “You’re gonna have to tell me what to do… I don’t know the first thing in helping you.” Mark admitted honestly, his breath in her ear as he bit her earlobe. I love seeing you shudder when I talk in your ear…

Claire judged her head forward a bit, grateful when he began to nibble behind her ear, the spot sensitive for her. “O-Okay… I’ll help…” Claire shifted them, laying down underneath Mark. “U-Uhm…” She shivered with anticipation as Mark’s hands rested at her hips, slowly dragging her panties down and out of the way. She lay completely exposed to him, wanting him back on top of her. She thought as his hands came back up to her hips, looking to her expectantly for some kind of guidance. “Uhm… s-so, like with you… you can use your fingers or your mouth… be mindful of your teeth, and Uhm… j-just… just go ahead and I’ll tell you what feels good… I don’t know how to explain this to you…” If you understand how sex works in the slightest, you’ll get a decent part of it down.

Mark nodded, slipping down between Claire’s legs, pulling them over his shoulders as he ducked his head down to timidly lick at her rosy folds. I hope I’m doing okay… She tastes sweet… And her slick is kinda thick… His tongue was gentle as he licked a long stripe up her entrance, his nose buried in her pubes as he looked up to meet her eyes. Am I doing this right?

Claire whimpered, her heels pressing into his back. “Y-You… Use your tongue… my clit is really sensitive… so is my entrance…” She whimpered as Mark tentatively nudged the small nub of her clit with the tip of his tongue, shuddering as he began to repeatedly tease it. “Th-that feels really good…” More…

Mark continued his ministrations with her clit, getting a bit ballsy and trying to suck on it gently as his fingers slid up to her entrance, coating themselves again in her slick. He slid a finger into her heat. God she’s so wet… All wet… All for me…

Claire gasped as he sucked gently on her clit, groaning as he slid a finger into her heat. She tried to push her hips down when he did, wanting him deeper. Fuck, feels good… “Y-Yes, like that… god, feels good… m-more…” She was rewarded with another finger, grateful that he slowly began to thrust them in and out, rubbing her deeply as she rocked her hips, in rhythm with his motions. “God, just like that…” Feels good… you caught on so damn quick… thank fuck…

Mark soon had four of his fingers thrusting in and out of her entrance, curling his fingers to try and massage her insides. God, she’s soft on the inside… I would love it… If I could ever have it… Probably won’t tho… She’ll find some reason to hate me and we’ll break up… And I’ll be depressed for a bit… His shoulders slumped as he thought about things turning out like that, and his actions slowed as he looked away from her eyes. I don’t want it to be like that…

Claire looked down to him with hazy eyes, her voice sounding breathless. “…M-Mark? What’s wrong?” You slowed down… don’t slow down… “P-Please, keep going…” …but. “…did you change your mind? W-We can stop…” Fuck, do you regret doing this? I really fucking hope not...

Mark shook his head, quietly apologizing to her before resuming his ministrations in silence. No don’t be worried about it, it’s just me… You don’t have to worry about anything … His fingers curled around, trying to make her forget about his mind lapse. I’m sorry for stopping… He was mumbling quietly, licking her clit when he wasn’t.

Claire didn’t have much time to be worried, gasping for breath deeply when his fingers curled, rocking her hips insistently. “God, Mark, there… feels so good… please, right there…” His strokes became more firm, her heels digging into his back in an effort to keep still. More… feels good...

Mark continued to pleasure her, his hands more assertive and controlling when he heard her moan. She sounds sexy… Like she’s enjoying it… That’s good, right?

Claire moaned loudly, her breaths coming in deep gasps as Mark pleasured her, panting as he rubbed firmly against her g-spot. “T-that spo, Mark, right there, my God it feels so good there… don’t stop… please… d-don’t stop…” Fuck… She felt incredibly warm, heat slowly pooling in her abdomen. “…w-wanna cum…” Make me cum, please ....

Mark continued his ministrations, his lips claiming her clit, sucking on it with vigor. She wants it like this… He kept his fingers rubbing down on the spot within her that was making her go wild. I love hearing you like this… And I really hope it’ll stay like this...

Claire’s breaths came in pants, her legs shaking as she felt herself creeping towards the edge. “M-Mark… I-I’m gonna… Gonna cum… Nngh…” Claire’s heels dug into his back, unable to hold in a sharp cry of bliss as she felt bliss wash over her, her juices leaking over Mark’s lips and hand. Fuck… so good… ...my god, with just his hands… he feels better than any dick I’ve ever taken… ...fuck… Claire fought for breath, sighing as Mark’s fingers left her, her hips jerking a bit as he licked her clean. She didn't notice him wiping his hand on the blanket as she reached down, pulling him close for a kiss, content with his weight on top of her, wanting the steady presence. “…that was wonderful… thank you…”
Mark was in his own little world as he tried to clean up, surprised as letting out a soft squeak as he kissed her for a moment, his lips feeling numb against hers. I don’t want this to end... But I feel like you’ll find a reason... For all I know you’ll still hold the condom thing against me. He closed his eyes, pulling off of her only a few seconds later. He sat up, looking around for clothes. How long have we been gone? Dad probably thinks we had sex... Fuck ... I’ll probably be teased... Who knows, he might even be mad at me. His eyes were sullen as he pulled his boxers on, his long length completely flaccid.

Claire pouted when he broke their kiss early, sitting up and reaching for him. I want cuddles tho... why do you look so sad...? “Mark...” Claire reached around his middle, her head resting on his shoulder. “...you look upset. You don’t... you don’t regret this... do you...?” Her voice was small, almost afraid to hear his response. Please don’t regret it... I don’t want this to have ended us if we rushed into being so intimate too fast...

“No... It’s not you, I promise... It’s just....” He trailed off, his voice small as he lifted his hips up to put his boxers on, covering himself. Mark stood, grabbing his jeans and starting to put them on. We should get dressed, Dad’ll have dinner ready soon. “We always get it delivered at the same time...”

Claire nodded just for the moment, dressing and grabbing hold of Mark’s wrist the second they were done, tugging him back down to the blanket. Yeah, we're not going just yet. Claire shifted them so Mark’s head rested on her chest, half-sprawled over her as she carded a hand through his hair. “.....Mark, can you please tell me what's wrong? Something’s bothering you all of a sudden and I'm worried.” I'm worried that what we did isn't sitting well with you and we need to fix something. “And dinner can wait, please don't just say that we need to get going for that.”

Mark just grimaced, turning his head. “You don’t need to worry about it really... I just... I’ve had a shitty past five years and I just...” I don’t want you to leave too... And I don’t want something to fuck it up... _But I can’t say that... “I just wanna go home.”_ He mumbled quietly, moving to sit up once again, keeping his eyes away from her. I’ll do something wrong... Mark got up after untangling himself from her hold, getting up to get Charlie ready, his mind in a fog.

Claire let him get up, going to pack the picnic basket back up, keeping an eye on Mark, who looked completely out of it. You look so... what's the word... h... hollow. Claire set the packed basket on the ground, hugging Mark from behind as he finished getting Charlie ready. “...I wanna keep you.” She quietly mumbled, her cheek pressed to his back. I wanna keep you... I don't wanna have to give you up... “...I'm sorry for being shitty to you earlier... and I'm sorry about whatever it is that's happened to you... I wanna be here for you.” _I don’t like seeing you so sad..._

Mark tensed as soon as she wrapped her arms around him. “Claire... I just, if you don’t want it to end.... That’s all I need to know... And that’s all I’ll ever need from you.” Not many people know about my issues... I don’t want to load them off onto anyone else... Even my Dad doesn’t know...
“D-Did you pack the blankets?” I wanna go home…

Claire’s hold on him tightened, her thumb running over his stomach soothingly. “...Mark, I don't want this to end. I wanna hold onto you for a very long time if I can. I really do hope we work out.” ...it's kinda a weird thought, when you realize every relationship either ends with marriage or with a breakup. But for right now, I'm keeping you. “Yeah, I packed them… they should probably get washed when we get back.” I'm sure that would be appreciated, even if they don't know what they would appreciate by it. They don't have to know.

Mark nodded, turning to Claire and lifting her up on the saddle. I'll be able to hold you until we get back. He vaulted up behind her, his arms immediately wrapping around her waist, burying his face into her shoulder, taking a deep breath before letting Charlie walk back to the barn. He never lifted his head from the crook of her neck, not saying a word. I feel so drained…

Claire leaned into his touch, able to keep Charlie going in the correct direction as they headed back to the house. He's being clingy all of a sudden... is he scared I'm going to just ditch him? ...well, I was a bit of a bitch earlier... but it was a misunderstanding... that can't still be the problem.... She looked over to the house when it came into sight and they came out of the forest, swallowing hard when she saw Lathe on the back porch, looking up from his book seemingly expectantly from a distance. ...well shit. Claire didn't know whether to just keep going towards the barn or steer for the house, though Lathe answered that for her when he whistled loudly, getting Charlie’s attention when he called for them. Fuck. Charlie declined for the porch, still ambling along, though he obediently stopped just before stepping on the freshly-planted garden, Lathe coming down from the steps.

Lathe studied Mark warily for a moment, seeing the vacant look in his eyes. ...something isn't going well. “Dinner’s been here for quite awhile... why don't you two go inside and eat, okay?” Lathe looked between the two of them, taking Charlie’s lead and heading for the barn after they jumped off. I can't make their decisions for them. But they need to not get carried away with what freedom I'm letting them have as they chill here and make dumb ones.

Mark’s throat was dry as he struggled to swallow, looking at Claire with hollow eyes. “U-Um… Let’s go in and eat.” He led her up the stairs, holding open the door with his head down. I fucked up... She’ll think I’m weird... She knows I have baggage... He tried to clear the many thoughts swirling around his head, getting out plates for the pizza that was left over. I hope she’s okay with pizza... That's what we usually get on Fridays... Oh, I need to tell Dad and Eren that I need to eat carbs tomorrow. “Um... There’s probably some wings in the fridge if you want some of them?” There’s always leftovers…

Claire felt like Lathe could read what they had done easily, her head ducked down in embarrassment. Fuck... there's no way he doesn't have some idea of what we were doing… Claire ambled inside, going over to the kitchen table where things were cleaned up, turning when Mark got out a plate of leftover wings, another of pizza. ...oh, right, it was pizza night... “Thanks...” She trailed off, holding herself a bit awkwardly while they microwaved themselves leftovers. She felt her cheeks burn with shame as the back door opened again, Lathe coming inside and kicking off his boots. Claire looked up when Mark said he was going to the bathroom, watching him leave helplessly, alone with Lathe whose presence scared her. Fuck...

Lathe set down his half-full mug and the scribbled-over printout of medical journals on the table, coming over to Claire. His voice and look weren't judgemental: they were worried. “Claire, do you know what's gotten to Mark? He looks very... vacant. Is everything okay?” He was genuinely concerned, his brow furrowed the slightest bit. I wanna make sure you two are okay.

Claire was quiet, trying to think of what to say to the man towering over her. Well... He's not mad at least... That's a good thing, right...? And he gave Mark condoms... So... Should I tell him? Or should I just gloss over what we did? “Um... I-I'm not sure... He was like that for the whole ride back... Um... I think it might be my fault...” Her head hung as she heard the microwave beep, not even moving to get their pizza out. He'll probably wanna take me home...

Claire was quiet, trying to think of what to say to the man towering over her. Well... He's not mad at least... That's a good thing, right...? And he gave Mark condoms... So... Should I tell him? Or should I just gloss over what we did? “Um... I-I'm not sure... He was like that for the whole ride back... Um... I think it might be my fault...” Her head hung as she heard the microwave beep, not even moving to get their pizza out. He'll probably wanna take me home...

Lathe looked very worried when she spoke. “Why do you say that? It's okay for you to tell me.” If whatever you two did you think caused this, it's fine to tell me. I won't be mad, whatever it is.

Claire’s face flushed in complete embarrassment. “I um... I went snooping in his room... And I found the condoms in his nightstand and I thought he was gonna try and get me to have sex with him... I jumped to conclusions and he got mad at me for thinking he was like them... Then we did a few... Um... Things... And he just seemed really out of it after... And I think I might’ve pushed him too far too quickly...” Claire could feel the trademark sting in her eyes as Lathe looked down on her. Oh great... I told him... I really told him...

Lathe looked sympathetic as he heard her sniffle, his eyes softening as he guided her to the island a few feet away, sitting on a stool across from her so that he didn't tower over her. “I'm sorry, I might've caused a bit of this mess... I knew that you two were getting involved at least somewhat the last time you were over... I made sure to tell him it was for whenever you got to that point... it was better than nothing. It's not like he just wants that from you. He really likes you. And as for why he's acting like he is because of what you did...” Lathe looked to his hands, thinking. “...I'm not sure. It could be a lot of things- thinking about what all of this means, maybe. It could be different. It probably is. But whatever it is, I don't think it's your fault.” Lathe rested a hand on your arm. “If he's having some sort of internal crisis because of this, it still isn't your fault. Doing stuff like that isn't some small deal; it can be difficult to manage sometimes. I'm sure he'll be okay with some time. But if you haven't already, try to talk to him. He might open up to you, and if not... I'll smack him upside the head and tell him to quit moping. No, I won't really do that.” He shook his head when she looked up to him in shock. “But I'll try to set this straight if he doesn't want to talk. A moody boyfriend isn't any fun.” He smiled reassuringly to her. Things will sort themselves out, either way. It'll be okay for the two of you.
Claire looked up to him, a small tear running down her face. “I-I… I really like him… And I don’t wanna give him up because he regrets something…” Claire folded her arms on the counter, putting her head down as she tried to calm herself down. I really hope we can be okay… She picked her head up when she heard a plate sliding towards her, Lathe having gotten her pizza from the microwave and giving it to her, along with a heap of napkins. “T-Thanks…” Claire sniffled softly as she started to eat, her actions weighing heavily on her mind in the silence of the kitchen. Where did Mark go?

Mark stood under the stream of hot water running down his whole body, his eyes closed in contemplation, his fists clenching and unclenching. I fucked up… She’ll leave… She’s probably asking Dad if she can go home… Maybe it was a bad idea that we did that… He sighed, his shoulders slumping and his head coming to rest on the cool tiles. Maybe she won’t leave? If she’s still down there when I get out… Maybe I’ll still have a chance to make this right… Get rid of the condoms… And take it back a couple steps. He shifted to turn so his back took up a majority of the spray, staring at the white tile across from him in the shower.

Lathe set out another plate for Mark, his brow furrowing when more time passed. “Where is he?” Lathe moved to the stairs, walking up and seeing Lucas in the nook with a book. “Lucas, did you see where Mark went?” We're concerned.

“Yes… Did Claire leave?” He asked quietly. He looked like a wreck… Lucas’s eyes went back to his book. You’re gonna wanna know why he was upset, but I can’t tell you. He flipped the page, waiting for Lathe to respond.

“No, she didn’t. She's still downstairs, eating. ...do you know what's wrong with Mark?” Lathe watched Lucas immediately shake his head, though his brow furrowed. You barely even thought of what the problem would be with Mark. “I know you know.” You're not great at hiding it.

Lucas sighed as he set his book down. “I'm not allowed to tell you.” Nope, I've been sworn into secrecy. “Mark doesn’t want anyone else to know.”

Lathe sighed, crossing his arms and studying Lucas. “I will allow you a Barnes & Noble shopping spree with no restrictions if and only if you tell me what Mark’s deal is and you share the books.” Ieva's saving that bribe for a point when I direly needed it. Now is that time.

Lucas was quiet as he thought about it. He really doesn’t want anyone to know... But he just offered no restrictions. “Okay, fine, I’ll tell you, but you can’t tell him I told you.” His eyes looked to Lathe to make sure he was serious about knowing.
Lathe nodded. “I won't snitch. Just please, tell me. It's important.” If it's bad enough he swore you to secrecy, we really need to know.

“He has separation anxiety.”

...that actually makes perfect sense. He was so adamant that his brothers stuck together, and jumping from home to home... this whole ‘foster care’ thing must've really been hard... I know they bounced around a few homes before coming here... it was all too much effort, four boys at once, and Jared needs more attention and help sometimes because he’s autistic... and Philip might be too, so... oh. I've always gotten the idea he really tries to do stuff and make this easier for us, having so many kinds in the house, but I thought he just wanted to be nice... but he's doing his best to make it easy enough that they don't have to leave another home again. And he's scared Claire's going to leave him. They had their first real sexual encounter, and if Claire got mad because of the condom thing and they made up... he's still scared. He doesn't want to lose her, and he's terrified he will anyway. “…Thank you, Lucas. It makes sense. Books next Sunday? Not tomorrow, though. You can write up a list of the stuff you really want. But of course, knowing you, you're going to get ten more books for each you write down so I'm expecting to be there for a very long time.” He grinned when Lucas nodded happily. You and your books. It makes sense that your Lit grade was the highest on your report card.

“Yeah… He’s had it since CPS found us…” After Mom died... And then Dad just up and left us. “He doesn’t like when people know… So just… Give him time, please… He’ll bounce back, especially if Claire stays, he’ll be fine. He doesn’t want you to worry, which is why we keep it a secret now…” Lucas nodded at the date, trying to think of a few books, and making a mental note to make a very large list. I get all the books I want ... Lucas looked to his book and then back to Lathe. “Did they ever tell you how they found us?” It was horrible ... We lost one sibling to it... Maybe more...

Lathe shook his head, sitting next to him on the couch. “I'll give him time with it, okay. ...and they never did tell me how they found you all... what happened?” It doesn't sound like it was good...

“Mom died... Of a Heroin overdose...Dad never wanted us to begin with….” He paused as he tried to figure out how to and where to start. I'm not sure where to start? Do I start with Mark’s treatment as a child? Or mine?

I knew your Mom died... and that your Dad just up and left... but I don’t know the details of it... “...you don't have to tell me everything now if you don't want to...” If you wanna tell just bits and pieces that's okay... and we don't have to talk about it now... but eventually, I'd like to know what all happened...
“Well, Dad tried to drown Mark when he was an infant… So he was in the hospital a lot… CPS was at the house a lot… Dad was put in jail but got out on good behavior… He started to shoot up with Heroin all over again… Mark went through it a couple times… Then they had me, and Dad really went off the handle… he dropped me a lot, to try and get me to die, cause he didn’t want another kid, he beat Mom a lot too…” Lucas swallowed thickly as he thought about the horrible things his father did and got away with. He was a sick man. And Mom couldn’t do anything about it…

Lathe moved over, reaching for Lucas and letting him shuffled closer into a hug, running a soothing hand over his back. “I'm so sorry… that's horrible …” But we’re never going to be like that. We’re going to take really good care of you four. We give so many shits about you all. …but to imagine that your own father wouldn’t even allow his own children to just live … that's… I can't understand it. “…what happened when Jared was born?” If he flipped his shit when he had two kids… I wonder what happened when he found out he had three …

“Well…. We were gonna have a sibling before Jared… My dad was furious… He beat Mom and then made her almost overdose… She lost the baby at the hospital… He beat Mark a lot more after that… And when Mom had Jared, he just got high all the time… He would slip drugs into Jared’s food, he’s got autism because of that really.” He was absolutely horrible …

Lathe looked pained to hear that, holding Lucas closer when he sniffled. You would've had another sibling... maybe not a brother, maybe a sister... but they weren't allowed to live.... that's.......... “M' so sorry… that’s got to be really hard to know…” They were quiet a little while, Lathe murmuring quietly to Lucas as he tried to control his breaths, the boy shuddering in Lathe’s arms for a bit. Lathe rested his cheek on his head, Lucas having shifted so he was practically in Lathe’s lap. “...and Philip?”

Lucas rested his head on Lathe’s chest. “Dad got even higher… Mom couldn’t take it and overdosed… She couldn’t take it anymore…. She was gone … But Mark found her… He was 10 … Our father ripped him away from Mom’s body… She did it at home, and died with the needle still in her arm…” Mark was screaming ... Dad told me to take Jared and Philip downstairs.... I was 8 when it happened... We were all skin and bones, and we didn’t want to get whipped with his belt so we followed his directions.

Lathe gently rocked them when Lucas’ hands gripped his sweater, feeling his cheeks growing hotter. ……that’s.... fuck …. “Nobody ever deserves that… your Mom didn’t deserve that abuse… neither did all of you… and I can’t… I can't understand what it must’ve felt like… to see that…” I knew something bad had happened... but I didn't know it was... so fucking awful ... Lathe held him a bit tighter. I'm not gonna let you be hurt like that again. I'm going to take good care of you four and make sure you don't get split apart. You're staying together.
Lucas sniffled as he held onto Lathe still. “Dad beat Mark before throwing him at Mom’s body. He left, taking his keys and driving off…. I remember Mark screaming at Mom to wake up…. And to open her eyes, and he wouldn’t leave her body… We didn’t have a way to get to school, or feed Jared, we were all skin and bones…. CPS got called… And they came in and took us… They had to pull Mark from Mom’s body…it was starting to decompose and really stink… We weren’t found for a whole week.” I was picking in people’s trash to find food for us… Mark lost so much weight…

It hurt, an image in Lathe’s mind of the four children’s faces gaunt, jaws and cheekbones sharp, eyes sunken and dark, not knowing what to do besides stick together. …….. “……I can’t say I’m sorry enough…” Lathe carded a hand through his hair. “…..you all don’t have to worry about something that horrible happening again… if I can help it, I’m going to do what I can to keep things much better for you…” I just want you to be happy…. and stay that way...

“They took us to separate hospitals… Mark started to freak out that we weren’t together there first… We’d been split up to try and get adopted quicker… Especially me… Philip and Jared… They thought Mark would be a lost cause after 10 years of abuse… His scars are mostly faded now… But… His back is laced with small silver lines… You can’t see them unless you look for them… They put Mark in a home across town from us… And he ran away to the orphanage we were in just to see us before the agents came and ripped him away from us once again. I was told he had a massive breakdown after… And I knew that he had separation anxiety before the program took him to get a mental health exam…” He was so drawn in...

He really, really wanted to hang onto his brothers… I can’t imagine anyone who wouldn’t be torn up if their brothers were suddenly gone… “He would've been pretty old to be adopted… but he went all the way across town on foot…” Lathe smiled faintly, rubbing his back.

“Barefoot…. His feet were all cut open and bleeding, and he didn’t care.” I remember looking at his bloody feet as he walked in…. They were raw ...

“He cared so much about you three. He didn’t want to have to let his family go… or what was left of it.” …that would've been hell, having to run across town barefoot to see your siblings just to be dragged off moments later…. “…how did they let you all stay together?” They would've fought hard before giving in…. a pair of siblings I would understand keeping together, but four of you as one unit? The chances would've been minuscule of you all getting adopted or cared for properly...

“Mark’s mental health… It continued to get worse until the doctors had to step in, because he wasn’t eating or sleeping and he would pace at night because he couldn’t sleep… We were used to sleeping together on the couch, bodies on bodies… And to go to having your own bed, even if it was small… Was a lot to handle.” I should really just start writing this into a book… Maybe someone would read it? And maybe the system can change? Maybe kids won’t need to go through what I went through?
“How were you others holding up? It sounds like it hit Mark very hard, but what about you?” If he was reacting that badly... it must've certainly affected you and the others at least somewhat. Something clicked, in Lathe’s mind. ...sometimes you four will be running around the house stirring up hell, or you act like you're each other’s worst enemy, and then ten minutes later I just find all four of you in a pile on the couch. ...you four really care about each other.

“Well, we deal with it as best as we can.... Jared still doesn’t understand what happened or why we don’t have a Mom or a Dad like any other person… And Philip has known nothing outside of the foster system…. I think it hit Mark worse because he grew up with it longer than anyone… And he was really attached to Mom which is what I think really set it off.” He’s taking an awfully long shower… Lucas lifted his head as he heard the stairs creak, seeing Claire timidly come upstairs.

“So she still is here…” Claire’s words were soft, her cheeks flushing in embarrassment as she remembered what she’d told Lathe only minutes ago. He knows we did something… He was chill about it… But it looks like Lucas has been crying… Should I ask to go home? I mean it’s late but I know where the spare key is… “Sh-Should I call my grandmother to get me?” I'd completely understand… You probably don’t want your son having sex or anything of that nature. Claire’s hands were trembling right along with her whole body.

Lathe looked up when Claire spoke, not having noticed her walk up the stairs. “Claire, you don't have to leave. He's most likely just taking a shower. ...are you okay?” He could see her trying not to shake like a leaf, reaching with his other arm, the one not holding Lucas to his chest, patting the spot next to him. “You can chill with us if you want.” He watched her hesitate, knowing she wouldn’t want to be rude, but also didn't want to intrude on whatever his and Lucas’ conversation was. “You don't have to. It's fine. ...but I think he really wants you to stay. We all do- you're wonderful company. And after what happened earlier, I don't think walking out on each other is what you two need.” I'm sure that if you left, based on what Lucas told me Mark would probably have a breakdown… and I can tell you want to stay. You two can cuddle and make up later tonight, and it'll be okay. “You can check his room, see if he’s there- I never got past the guard dog.” Lathe nodded to Lucas, smiling faintly as the boy chuckled quietly on his arms for a moment. One thing at a time.

Claire nodded and she slowly crept past the two of them. Lucas was crying? Why was Lucas crying.... She made her way to Mark’s room, opening the door quietly and her eyes widening as she saw him in his naked glory going through his dresser to get boxers. Her eyes widened and she yelled in embarrassment as she turned quickly and closed the door with a soft slam. Oh my god... He was naked... Her breathing was in pants as she slumped down to the ground with her back against the door. FUCK!

Mark’s head whipped to the side as he heard the door opening, his face flushing as Claire yelped and closed the door as she retreated to the hallways. I think she saw me... Fuck ... He put his boxers on and he put a pair of sweatpants on before heading to the door and opening it for her, watching as Claire gracelessly flopped down on the ground between his feet. “Uh… Hi…” He blushed as she scrambled to her feet, her hands still shaking minutely but he didn’t notice. “Did you eat?” I hope you did...

Claire flushed, looking away. “Y-Yeah, I did… we were kinda worried when you didn't come downstairs again to eat... your food got cold... again. Did you um... take a shower or something? Your hair looks wet.” You probably did... a warning would've been nice so I wouldn't worry so damn much.

“Oh, yeah... Sorry... I just needed to clear my head... Do you wanna go back downstairs? I know everyone else is probably watching Netflix in the theater room... I’ll go warm my food up again.” He stepped out of his room, fully prepared to go downstairs, not even really acknowledging that he had hickeys all over his chest. I’ll go eat, if you wanna come down with me...

Claire reached for him, stopping him. Fuck, Lathe can't see you like that . “Uhm, Mark... you might want a shirt.” She ran her thumb over one of the marks, tugging him back to the room. Shirt. ...sadly. I'd love to stare at your abs all day, but I don't wanna explain the hickeys to a bunch of kids while they're still innocent.

Mark was confused that he was dragged back into his room. “Huh?” He looked down, flushing in embarrassment as he saw he had multiple hickeys across his chest and abdomen. “Oh... I didn’t even realize...” Thank you for saving me from embarrassment. “Thanks...” He went into a different drawer and pulled out a t-shirt, putting it on, a blush on his cheeks as he led them out towards the stairs, only to stop when he saw Lucas crying in Lathe’s arms. Huh... I swear if someone hurt him... Mark saw red for a moment, clenching his fists. “What happened ?” Mark’s voice was both angry and worried. What happened!?

Lathe looked up, clutching Lucas closer when the sound seemed to set him off even more, sobbing into his shoulder. “Mark, it's okay, nobody hurt him... he’ll be fine. Promise.” He looked from mad and worried Mark to Claire, his voice soft. “You two should go downstairs, eat and chill, okay? I've got him.” He'll be okay. Swear it. .....it's just that this isn't easy to talk about.

Mark calmed down when he knew that it wasn't something that he could beat someone up over. “ Alright... We’ll go downstairs...” I'll talk to him later... He took Claire downstairs and to the kitchen to reheat his food. “Um... I'm sorry I just kinda up and left... I needed to clear my head.” Please understand I didn’t try to leave you.

“I-It's okay...” Claire wrapped her arms around his middle as he stood near the microwave, burying her face in his warm neck. He smells nice... “......I'm sorry I keep asking, but... you... you really don't regret this...?” I can't be sure... you said you didn't... but you're acting so weird... that worries me...

Mark paused, turning his head to her. “No, I don’t... I really enjoyed it, thank you.” His eyes were softer than they were a few moments before. “It was nice... And I’d love to do it again with you... But...” How do I tell you without you wanting to leave?

Claire felt relieved when he spoke, though she sounded wary when Mark trailed off. “...but...?” I loved what we did... and I really like you... but what has to change? I can change, what we do can change, that's fine... I just wanna know what it is... because I might not be able to do what you're about to ask me to. I need to stop worrying, he hasn't even asked yet...

“But I have baggage... And not a lot of people know about it, Dad doesn’t even know...” Fuck... How do I tell you that I have separation anxiety .... Or that I have abandonment issues?

Claire’s hands ran over his back gently, still resting her head on his chest. She relaxed a bit when his hands wrapped around her waist, the two of them standing there comfortably. “...everyone’s got their issues... ...if you don't want to tell me right away, it's okay... we can go at whatever pace you need if that's what you mean... I don't mind.” Every new relationship, or even old ones, I've heard, need work... you tell me whenever you want.

Mark nodded, leaning down to kiss her forehead. “Thank you... I just, it’s really embarrassing, and not a lot of people take it well, and I just don’t want that to happen all over again.” I’ve had too many people leave me...

...is it really that bad? “I'm sure it’s not that bad. But it’s okay. Whenever you tell me, I won't judge. For right now, we’re cool.” Claire stood on tiptoe to kiss his cheek, smiling when Mark pecked her lips. “Now someone needs to stop stalling and eat dinner, dammit.” Baggage, later. Food, now.

Mark made an exasperated noise as he flung his arms in the air, putting his plate in the microwave and eating it up. Well, maybe I’ll be okay with this... Hopefully... but I don’t want her to get really close if she’s not gonna stay...

Claire smiled when Mark exasperatedly sighed, standing up tall and giving his neck a rough nip before letting him go, enjoying the scandalized look on his face before going over to the table. The rest of the night was rather uneventful, the two of them monopolizing the living room TV before going to sleep late, cuddling close. ...he's really warm... Claire enjoyed the arms wound strongly behind her, laying on top of his chest, his heartbeat in her ear. The steady sound lulled her to sleep, waking up in the early afternoon. Mark’s hands still a steady presence in the small of her back. She shifted her head a bit to look up to his face, looking particularly handsome in the dim, light, hair mussed and lips slightly parted in sleep. Fuck, he’s hot… I’m so fucked. Hm… he hasn't woken up yet… Claire carefully shifted, making sure she didn't wake him up as she moved lower under the covers, nudging them back a bit. It's late enough in the day to be sleeping… and I wanna do this, so. Claire tugged his sweatpants over his hips, doing the same for his boxers. She brushed her hair out of her face, ducking her head down and kissing a line down from his navel to his base, lifting his flaccid length with one hand and wrapping her lips around the tip, gently sucking. She lightly stroked him as he began to harden, her eyes never leaving his face. hm… I wonder when he’ll wake up… Claire didn't stop her ministrations, glancing up every time Mark made a quiet sound, or his breath huffed, but he was still solidly asleep even when he was cumming, Claire swallowing what she could and licking up the mess from his chest. She looked back up to his face, her eyebrow quirking when his eyes were still shut. She shifted further up to kiss at his neck, sucking more marks onto his skin as her hand turned to his length, still painfully hard even after his orgasm. Come on, wake up. I wanna hear you moan, dammit, it sounds hot….

Mark shifted from Claire’s mouth, his head turning the other way as he started to wake up. His whole body feeling like he was going through an adrenaline rush, though when he cracked open his eyes he found himself hard as a rock and his reddened length in Claire’s hand. He let out a soft groan as he started to fully wake up. Damn… She’s giving me a hand job to wake me up? “C-Claire?” His voice was rough and deep as he turned his head back to see her. What are you doing?

“You didn't wake up when I blew you… and you're still hard…” She grinned cheekily to him, lapping at a new, reddening mark in apology. “Good morning, babe.” Her thumb brushed over the slit of his cock, mouthing at the joint of his neck. Good morning indeed.

Mark groaned, tilting his head to give her more room. “Hmm… You already blew me? Fuck…. That’s hot…” What time is it? His eyes searches he room looking for his clock his eyes widening as he saw the clock said 1pm. Holy shit… “Did Dad come up here yet?” He whimpered as her thumb brushed his slit once again. He’ll want us awake soon…

“Nope, haven't heard a thing from him.” She buried her nose into his neck of a moment, breathing in his scent. “Though I know someone I'd love to hear a lot more from…” You sound so hot when you moan… She nibbled the spot behind his ear, her teeth scraping his skin. Please?

Mark’s throat betrayed him as he let out a loud moan, his hand immediately coming up to cover his mouth. He tried willing his hardon to go away, but with her hand working him like that, he couldn’t help but shudder. “C-Claire… Ngh… We’ll get caught…” That’ll embarrass the both of us…

“Then try to stay quiet. But the door’s locked, and your Dad probably has child-wrangling to do.” ...and he seemed so chill with the fact we got sexual yesterday. I told him and he just seemed to take it in stride. ...he probably expects us to either sleep in or grope each other, or both. And I can live with that.

Mark groaned as he slowly let his hand fall from his mouth. It feels good... Really good. “I-I... Fuck... Slept t-through you b-blowing me?” He moaned in between his words, hissing when she pressed hard on a sensitive area on his length. Mark felt a pulse run through his body, warming up and his toes beginning to flex from the pleasure.

“You did. A shame, too. My lips are too sore to do it while you're awake.” Claire grinned when Mark glared at her, his look not very convincing when his pleasure was obvious. She slid back down his body, releasing his length from her grasp and lavishing him with attention from her tongue, her hands running over his strong thighs. He's got muscles... and a voice, shit... I don't think anyone's sounded as wonderful as you. And that's me being serious.

Holy shit…” Mark’s eyes widened as he propped himself up on his elbow, the other hand going to run through Claire’s long hair. “I’d love to wake up like this from now on.” His voice was still husky as he watched her with shaded eyes. It feels so fucking good. Moans filled the room as he felt his coil beginning to tighten. I want more... But you’ll leave if I ask for that...

“Holy shit…’’ Mark’s eyes widened as he propped himself up on his elbow, the other hand going to run through Claire’s long hair. “I’d love to wake up like this from now on.’’ His voice was still husky as he watched her with shaded eyes. It feels so fucking good. Moans filled the room as he felt his coil beginning to tighten. I want more... But you’ll leave if I ask for that...

“If you keep making sounds like that... I'd be more than happy to oblige.” Claire locked up his shaft, her lips sealing once again over his tip and sucking hard, firmly pumping him when he whined and whimpered, knowing he was close. He was trembling when he came again, Claire swallowing down his slightly smaller load, her other hand running up and down his thigh, feeling the shaking muscle. She came off of him when he finally began to soften, her hands roaming him as she leaned up to peck the corner of his lips, Mark catching her off guard when he suddenly pounced, getting her under him and kissing her deeply. She smirked, leaning up into his touch. I'd be very happy to do this all the time...

Mark slowly leaned his body down to press her down into the mattress, happy that he was much taller than her and much stronger so he could appropriately cage her. He broke the kiss, a large smirk on his face. “Hmm, so, how long do you wanna stay in bed?” He asked quietly, his hand going down to his pants to pull them back over his hips. I wanna know, we get to go watch movies while Dad and Eren cook dinner all day today.

Claire sighed as she felt his weight on her, her arms wrapping around his back, pulling him closer. “Hmm, a while...” One of her legs hiked up a bit, her hips rising an inch from the bed, as much as she could with him pressed against her. “...if you want to help me with something...” Fuck, I want your hands on me again...

“Hmm... Should I?” His voice was still rough from waking up minutes ago, and his eyes still dark as he nuzzled his head into her shoulder. What does she want help with? If I do what I did last night everyone in the house will know what the fuck we’re doing. His hands were gently reaching under her head, tangling in her hair and moving her slowly to give him more room by her neck. Mark arched his back, his hardon still slowly going down, but his bulge against her crotch now. Hmm, I wonder if you would let me?

Claire moved her head to give him more room at her neck, unable to help from grinding up to him a bit when she felt him press his hips down. “...p-please do... I’d... ah- appreciate it... Mark for fuck’s sake…” Claire felt impatient, though she immediately shut up when Mark’s hands firmly grasped her ass, instantly putty in his hands. …god, your hands... I want them everywhere...

Mark let his knees spread out wider to get better balance over her, his hands reaching down to curl her ass and pull her against himself. Hmm... You fit right up next to me... His hands moved around to the hem of his night shirt, slowly pulling it up to reveal her perky nipples. Shit that’s so hot... His mouth dove right in, sucking on a decadent bud without a second thought while he ground against her, slowly getting harder. Hmm... I wonder if you’d let me take our clothes off...

Claire whined as Mark sucked on her breast, trying to move her hips back against Mark’s, feeling him harden against her nether. Fuck... “O-Off...” Claire managed to move her arms, tugging her nightshirt off of her and tossing it out of the way, moving to Mark’s top, wanting that off too. Fuck it, I want these clothes gone.

Mark froze the instant the stuttered words left her lips. D-Did I do something wrong? His eyes were full of concern and slight panic before he saw her tugging her shirt off. Oh... She means the clothes... Mark pulled back to sit on his ankles, pulling his shirt over his head and pulling it off and away. What else do you want off? His eyes followed her movement, wanting to follow her instructions to a ‘T’. I want you to be comfortable... What are we doing?

Claire sat up, following him up and resting her hands on his waist, trailing back down to his sweatpants hem. She leaned her forehead against his chest, staring down at his abs and the growing bulge underneath them. “...u-Uhm... c-can we... can we get rid of everything?” I wanna feel you again... please...

Mark nodded, his hands coming to her shoulders to gently push her back down onto his bed, his hands then trailing down her body to pull at her pants. He let his fingers hook into both her pants and her underwear, dragging them both down in an instant. I hope you’ll be able to keep it in... He started to situate his head between her thighs. Is this what you want? I can do this.

Claire flushed when his head dipped down to her nether, though she reached out, stopping him, drawing a bit closer into herself for just a moment before relaxing again. “N-No... you too.
Mark’s eyes seemed to grow dark as he shifted away from Claire, slipping off the mattress to pull off his sweatpants and leave them on the floor. He picked his way to the nightstand, opening the top drawer and pulling out a condom. I don’t know what the hell she wants to do… So just get this in case… He set it aside for now, slipping back under the covers with her, his eyes drinking in her naked form with utmost reverence. She’s beautiful...

Claire flushed as she watched him strip, eyeing his sculpted ass without shame. God, he’s gorgeous… She watched him go through the nightstand, her eyes widening when he pulled out a condom and placed it on top, letting him slip back into bed and on top of her. “...d-did you… uh…” Claire looked away, picking her words carefully, reassured a bit when Mark’s hands rested on her hips. “I-I know how mad I got yesterday… a-about those… I-I'm not mad anymore, and… and I'd trust you… I-if you really...if you really wanted to…” ......I don't think I wanna go there yet though…. but… if you wanted to… I don't doubt it'd feel wonderful… but… I don't... I'm not sure...

Mark shook his head, laying down against her, looking into her eyes. “We don’t have to unless you're completely sure you want it… It’s just there in case you decide you're ready… that’s all it is, I can wait.” He murmured, softly in her ear, feeling his length throb between his thighs. I’m hard… Hmm, well we could do something else without going all the way… Mark arched his back, which put his warm length on top of her heat, letting it rest there, taking up heat. She’s so freaking warm...

“I-I don't want to… not now… t-too soon…” It's only been a week since we fucking kissed, I need more time than that. Claire felt Mark’s length brush over her folds, feeling it perfectly curve and sit in her folds, slick and hot. ......fuck, I'm beginning to regret that decision… Claire whimpered, one hand moving to keep his hips in place, the other tugging him down for a hot kiss, feeling his tongue invade her mouth. ....it's so soon…. fuck, I kinda want it… but... fuck, I don't know...

Mark’s tongue wrapped around Claire’s though he pulled back seeing the confusion in her eyes. “Do you want me to stop?” He asked quietly, kissing her cheeks, shifting back, which rubbed himself against her clit. Fuck that felt good… I’m hard again ...

“N-No, I'm okay… I just…” I can't decide whether I want you to fuck me into the mattress or not…. ....fuck, I really kinda want you to... but you probably don’t… fuck… She whimpered loudly when he shifted, her hands gripping his hips tightly to stop him, grinding back against him, her mouth open in a silent moan as he slid against her folds and her clit, the slickness overwhelming. “....f-fuck that feels good…” Get the fuck back down here. She let Mark reclaim her lips, moaning into his mouth as they ground against each other, their nethers slipping against the other. Claire’s nether began to ache, knowing how close they were. ....I could reach the condom if I wanted to… fuck ... I don't know what to do ... I... I want him... I really fucking want him... Claire reached blindly for the nightstand, picking up the foil wrapper. She broke their kiss for a moment, her eyes pleading with him as she showed him the wrapper. “...M-Mark… I really want you… I-if it's okay…” God, please say yes...

Mark’s eyes were blown wide with lust as he slowly reached to take the wrapper from her, pulling his thick length away from her heat, using his teeth to open the condom and put it on his length, slowly rolling it down to his base and making sure it didn’t slip. It fits… He put his hands over her shoulders, staring down at her as his tip nudge her entrance. “Are you sure?” I will, I’ll do whatever you want...

“I-I really want you… b-but…” Claire tried to shove aside the ache in her nether for a moment, looking to Mark’s eyes. “A-Are you okay with this?” I want it… but if you don't… we won't. I won’t make you do that just for me...

“Promise me you'll stay?” He asked quietly as he reached his head down to kiss her nose, his eyes looking into hers for her answer. I don’t want you to leave after we finish… I don’t think I can take that...

“I'll stay.” She immediately promised him, her legs slipping up to hook behind his back. “I wanna stay. It's not like I would want to leave after this. I promise. Really.” She tried to sound genuine even as she sounded rushed, swallowing hard and trying to compose herself, finding it hard with Mark poised to enter her. “......I want to stay with you after this. This isn't the end of us. This isn't all I'm here for. I'll stay.” She reached up to cup his cheeks, fingers playing with the hair at the nape of his neck, her eyes tracing his features. …...

She’ll stay… She’s not gonna leave after this. He smiled softly, leaning down to kiss her for a moment before slowly pushing his head into her tight entrance. I don’t know how much of this you'll be able to take, we'll go slow. Mark groaned as his hands moved to rest on her hip, ready to pull her back onto his length. Only my head’s in…. She feels so freaking warm...

Claire whined as he entered her, panting as she realized how thick he was. ...fuck, he's so big... “...B-Big… ngh…” She pushed at Mark’s hips with her feet a little, slowly coaxing him into her until they were flush, the sensation of being completely full perfect to her. He hasn't even moved yet… and he feels wonderful already… “Y-You… you can move… but... start gentle… please…” Don’t worry, you’ll get to pound me in a little while. She was practically drooling at the idea of it, moaning deeply when Mark ground into her a bit before moving to thrust. Fuck...

Mark slowly pulled out almost to the tip before slowly thrusting back in. She’s gotta get used to how big I am.... He gently pulled her hips closer to his as he thrusted, his fingers kneading into her side and trying to get her to relax around him. She’s so tight, it feels so good... “hmm… Claire, you’re beautiful …”
She could only imagine what she’d looked like, desperate for him to fuck her and moaning freely as he started his rhythm. She tried to smirk but could only manage a faint smile, reaching for his cheek. “You're so handsome…. it hurts…” She kissed away the worry at the corner of his eye at that. “I… h-hah… m-meant that… in a good way…” It's a compliment…. …fuck, it feels so good…. “I-I… f-feels good… feels really good…” Her moans filled the room, getting used to Mark’s size, grateful when he built up to a decent pace, her breath coming in deep pants. “M-Mark… so good… so good to me…” …I love this...

Mark groaned loudly, his hips pulling out and then snapping back into her, his hands easily leaving bruises on her hips as he used them for leverage. Oh my god… It feels sooo good… “Hmm… C-Claire… Y-you're so tight …” He could feel his body growing warm as he started to quicken his pace, and really start to pound her into the mattress. “Shit…” This is amazing …. Mark didn’t notice anything around them at that point, completely focused on Claire and how she writhed under him. God that’s so hot.

Claire’s back arched, whimpering as Mark started to really pound into her, her hands scrabbling for purchase on his broad shoulders. “F-Fuck, Mark… haaa…” She felt very warm, heat slowly growing between her legs. “Feels good… oh god it feels good… hah…” Whimpers came incessantly from her throat, Her eyes raking over Mark’s form above her. God… he's amazing….

Mark’s eyes were locked on her’s, watching everything that made her moan and shudder, taking note of it. Holy shit… But I haven't found your spot yet…. He shifted his thrusts as he pounded into her, trying to look for the spot that made her go wild. Where is it? Mark felt her shake in his arms, hopeful that he wasn’t hurting her as he continued to pound into her. “C-Claire…” He curled his toes as he felt the heat around his whole body build, knowing that he would be able to feel himself coming to the edge soon. Hmm, I hope I can get her to cum before I do…

Claire whimpered as he shifted around inside her, her mouth falling open in a silent moan as he reached an angle that felt perfect , her hands moving to grab his hips, keeping him at that angle. “M-Mark…. right there… that feels great… s-so good…” Her hands moved back to his shoulders, her voice breathless as he relentlessly pounded into her, feeling a strong heat pooling, beginning to ache for release. “I-I'm close… fuck, Mark, so good…” I'm gonna cum...

Mark smirked as he found that spot for her, continuing to thrust as deeply as possible for her. I love this... I love this so much... “Cum for me….” His voice deep as he moved his hand so his thumb rested on her clit to rub it and help her get there. I hope this’ll make it more pleasurable... Mark could feel the warmth beginning to build in his abdomen, starting to pant as his grip tightened on her hip. I want you to feel good...

Claire gasped, letting out a shuddery moan as his thumb rubbed her clit. “F-Fuck… Mark… I.....”
She gasped loudly, her breath in short pants, letting out a strangled cry as she felt herself cum hard, tightening around Mark. Fuck... I love this...

Mark let out a loud cry as he felt Claire tightening around him. Fuck... Tight... He could barely get himself to continue to thrust, his pleasure coming in a wave and forcing him over the edge.

Claire pulled Mark close as she felt him pulse inside of her, feeling bliss wash over her, both of them soon basking in a hazy glow. “Mark… that was wonderful…” Claire felt him slip out of her heat, going to throw out the condom before coming back to the bed. She reached out and pulled him close, lazily kissing each other as they relaxed on the bed, tangled up in the others warmth. Soon she shifted them, resting her head on his chest, content. They laid there for a while, before Claire spoke some minutes later. “......I'm hungry, and there's a problem.” She felt Mark tilt his head down to look at her. “...I don't wanna get up.” She grinned as Mark sighed in exasperation. I'm being legit, here. Food.

Mark rolled his eyes as he got up out of the bed. “I’ll see what I can get from the kitchen…” He looked for his boxers, and slipped on his sweatpants and shirt on, when he heard a knock at the door. He made sure to give Claire her clothes and make sure she was covered in the blanket first before opening it. He had a huge blush on his face when he saw Eren on the other side of the door.

“I uh.....” I don't know what to tell you.

Eren shook his head. “Well... A) You both are really loud so it’s a good thing that everyone else is outside in the backyard... B) Get dressed and come eat, we made pasta for lunch since you both missed breakfast. C) Dad hopes you used a condom, and D) Good job! But make sure you take care of your lady.” Eren smirked and slapped his shoulder before scampering off. Hahahahaha, I've been wanting to say that to someone! Well now I have some brothers I can tease...

Mark just stood there in shock, unsure of what to think. “Um... Claire, I believe we’re expected downstairs together.” He murmured quietly, seeming to have his tail tucked between his legs. I don't wanna go alone either...

“...that was the last interaction between you and Eren I ever expected.” ...and now we have to go downstairs where your Dad and brother are, who know we had sex. Fuck... Claire got dressed, tugging on her jeans and a tee shirt, making sure no Mark's were visible on the other’s neck. She brushed out her hair so it wasn't wild, putting it in a bun before she turned back to Mark. “...well, let’s go see what happens...” I'm not sure I wanna anymore. “...we could just go out through the window...” She tried to make light of it, but Mark still looked like he was dreading it as much as she was. “...fuck it, let's just go, I guess.” She wanted to drag him out by the arm, so she did. ...after my one real interaction with Lathe... ...I don't think he could be that mad about it...
Lathe glanced up when Eren traipsed down the stairs again, tilting his head. “And?”

“They’re coming, don’t worry.”

“Good.” Lathe kept peeling apples, piles of vegetables and fruits next to him that needed peeling and chopping. Hopefully they know I’m not about to tear their heads off. He looked up when two other pairs of footsteps sounded down the stairs, seeing Mark and Claire waking down with each other, as if they had heard the world was ending and they couldn’t do anything about it. “You two can stop moping now.” Lathe chuckled when they looked at him in shock, waving a hand to the table. “Eat your pasta before it gets cold. All I’m going to say about you two is that if I see either one of you crying, I’m on a manhunt for the other. You used protection?” He watched them both flush, seeing them nod. “Good. That’s all I’ve got to say.” Lathe shrugged one shoulder, going back to his peeling. It should go without saying that you two need to take good care of each other. And I’m not about to scream at you for making that decision on your own. It’s not mine to make. As long as you two aren’t dumb about this, we’re fine.

Mark seemed to sigh in relief as Lathe took what they had done in stride. Well that went better than expected. “Um… Y-You're not mad at us?” His voice was a little shaky as he sat down with Claire. Someone needs to ask, I need to be sure… I don’t want you to be secretly mad at me….

“Nope. I’m not mad about this. You two get to make your own decisions. My job is just to remind you to not do something dumb and smack you upside the head when you do, then help you fix your mistakes. It’s not to be mad that I can’t live your lives for you or something. Don’t worry about it. And I like you, so it’s okay.” Lathe nodded to Claire, smirking and going back to peeling. You’ve got my approval. Just don’t do anything dumb and we’re fine.

Mark nodded after a few moments, slowly picking up his fork and taking a bite of his pasta. “What’s on the menu for dinner?” He scoffed when he got ‘food’ as the answer from Lathe, turning to Eren.

“Good food.”

“You guys are impossible …” I hope that you guys remembered I need to eat Carbs today… He continued to eat his pasta with vigor, appreciating the smells filling the house. Good food is a valid statement I guess.

Claire chuckled quietly, picking through her pasta, noticing that many of the pieces had different shapes. “What kind of pasta is this?” There are tons of shapes in here…
“Well, we make our own pasta, and the kids all wanted to watch, so I showed them all kinds of different shapes you could make with pasta noodles. You've both got quite a jumble there. But it should taste all the same.” As in good.

“It’s very good, thank you.” She smiled faintly, eating a small pillow-shaped piece. You make your own? It’s very good… oh, that’s the pasta roller. She noted the small metal piece of equipment on the edge of the counter. How did I not notice earlier? Grandma has one.

“And I assume I’m getting some kind of German pasta tonight?” I hope so, that’d be weird if I had something that isn’t German on Saturday… His eyes looked over to Claire as she had a soft smile on her face while eating the pasta, a smile on his own face. Well, I feel much better about us now that you’ve stayed the night…

“I know, I know, load up on Carbs, track meet tomorrow, my son is a crazy person who runs every morning at four AM, we’re aware.” Lathe grinned to him cheekily. You’ll get your carbs, chill.

“Four AM?” Claire looked over to Mark in shock. “How do you manage?” I can’t get up earlier than seven… what the actual hell?

“Well… Um, I didn’t go running today, but I usually wake up at around the same time Eren does…
He goes out to take care of the horses and I go out for a 10 mile run… Though last week I did 20 miles…” Because I was on cloud nine that you were over… That and I love running… “Why, do you think that’s weird?” Mark swallowed his next forkful, looking over to Claire curiously. Please don’t think I’m weirder than a I already am…

“All I know is I’d pass out after the first thirty yards, and I normally refuse to get out of bed if it’s earlier than seven. I admire that more than anything. Functioning at 4 in the morning? A miracle.”
She grinned as she heard a quiet chuckle from the kitchen, moving to peck Mark’s cheek. I knew you love running, but man, that’s insane.

Mark blushed to his ears, a soft sigh leaving his lips as he smiled like a lovesick fool. Once they finished up their plates, Mark took them to the sink to wash them and put them in the dishwasher, being quickly ushered out of the room and told to go watch the kids outside. “Um… you wanna get dressed into real clothes to go outside and watch the kids?” Mom must’ve been called into work.

“But I am in real clothes. Unless these are imaginary.” She grinned as Mark just shook his head, pulling him back to the stairs. “Sure, you probably don’t want to be in the sun with black sweatpants on.” Nope, that wouldn’t be too comfortable. “I need to grab some shoes anyway.” I think I left them somewhere in your room... somewhere... I dunno, I’ll find them.

Mark nodded and led her up the stairs, and started to get changed into some shorts and a t-shirt that showed off his arms and clung to his body. Hmm, I wonder if she’ll like this?

Claire tied her shoes, unable to help herself as she glanced up as Mark got changed, tracing his fit form. Dammit... She just shook her head at his choice of shirt, meandering up behind him and wrapping her arms around his waist. “Are you trying to make me jump you?” Because if you are, you’re doing a damn good job. “The shirt is very much appreciated.”

Mark’s ears felt like they were on fire. Well that's good... “Alright, shall we go see what the boys are up to?” He reached his hand down to take hers. I want you to be okay with being around my brothers... He squeezed her hand and smiled softly, kissing her knuckles, and the rest of her hand as he bent down to do so.

Claire blushed as he kissed all over her hand, smiling. “Yeah... we should make sure they don't get themselves killed.” That would be bad. She laced their fingers, bringing him downstairs with her to the back porch, a spot on the back set up, shade cast over a table, a cooler with random drinks and juice boxes in it and boxes of snacks on the table abandoned in favour of blowing bubbles and watching the dogs go nuts trying to catch them. Even Nene was awake and involved, sitting in front of Lucas as he blew bubbles around her, just looking at the bubbles with a completely shocked expression, jumping a bit when she hit one with her paw and it popped. That's adorable. “I think the dogs are confused as to the nature of bubbles.” That's very amusing.

“It’s amusing that they haven’t figured it out from the days upon days that the boys play with bubbles with them... Pretty sure Eren’s gone out and gotten more bubbles for basically everyone like five times in the past month.... My brothers are addicted to bubbles.” Which I guess is okay, at least it’s not drugs anymore... That was brutal... I remember when I was drugged to a point where I was addicted to Heroin almost as much as my father... That was scary... Especially for a seven year old... He sighed in relief as the thoughts crossed his mind. They’re so much better now...

Claire smiled, watching Philip run around with a small container of bubbles, Krampus trotting after him and poking his nose at the bubbles, trying to taste them. He made a face when he finally got one, shaking his head and following the boy again, though he didn't try to catch more in his mouth. “Heh, Krampus doesn't like the way they taste.” That's adorable. She looked over the large field behind them, Gill and Jill contentedly grazing, Arya in the field tied to Luna to keep from escaping, Charlie not far away. Her eyes wandered over to the chicken coop, only now just noting its existence. “You people have chickens too?” She shook her head when Mark nodded, grinning. “You're running a legit farm here. Next thing I know a greenhouse will pop up into existence and your dad will ride by on a tractor.” How am I just noticing this? It's legit right next to the barn. It's right there.
“Well, Eren was thinking about a garden… So that he can grow spices that he uses a lot to cook… It might be coming eventually, and he wants to get a better area for Charlie to ride… He wants to start competing soon, and the trailer for Charlie’s coming in soon. I know that much…” I also heard Eren’s trying to arrange a trip to Germany over the summer… But that was when I was eavesdropping… So I dunno what to make of that.

“...you people must never sleep.” Claire chuckled, watching the boys run around. There certainly seems like there’s always something that needs doing. “And you’ve got nine mouths to feed, and once a week it’s like thirty, so it seems like it’d make sense you use a ton of spices all the time.” You people are crazy. “Eren rides a lot?” Claire looked over to him. I haven't seen him ride yet. Do you mean compete like random local or state stuff, or like serious competitions?

“Yeah, he rides Charlie when he gets home if I’m not on him…. And all the jumps and stuff in the Arena over there… He made those… I guess he’s a jumper… So I dunno.”

Claire looked over to the jumps, both low and tall, her eyebrows raising as she eyed some of the taller ones. “That's pretty cool. I need to see that sometime.” It'd probably be really fun to watch. Claire leaned her head on Mark’s shoulder, smiling when his hand found her waist. I like this. After a while of running the boys were laying in the grass, tired, the dogs chilling with them, enjoying the sun. It was only when Lucas came up to the table and rifled through the cooler for a drink did the other two remember it was there, scampering up for something to drink, snatching snacks and sitting at the table with them. Krampus was trying to convince Lucas to give him some granola, Nene and Blake both happy to go to a shady part of the patio, a small section having their water bowls next to a small area of rugs, getting a drink before laying down for a nap. They're so cute. Claire reached down, giving Krampus pets instead of food as he made his rounds, the pup finally giving up and trudging over to the rugs.

“I swear, that dog never learns that he can’t have food….” Mark watched Krampus lay down dejectedly. He’s almost as big as Blake… They’re just a bit over 1 year old and they’re already so big… Nene’s a bit smaller but I’m chalking that up to being that she’s a female. “Do you have any pets Claire?” I never thought to ask you. He looked to her, intrigued as he sipped from a juice box.

“No, not now… I used to have a few goldfish, but that was a long time ago. I never had any pets like you guys do.” Claire sipped from her own juice box, shrugging a shoulder. “We never really had the money to get a pet and take care of it….” Another mouth to feed… I dunno, it's not all that… but still…

“Ah, we never had a pet growing up either… Unless you count Philip as a pet.” He smirked as the frown on his brother’s face formed. Here we go.
“I’m naw a peh!” Philip shouted at him, an angry look on his face. No! I’m not a doggie!

Claire elbowed Mark in the ribs, and he had the decency to look slightly guilty, of just for a moment. She couldn't help grinning though, shaking her head. “Are you sure? You're not a dog? Maybe a cat?” We have to check and make sure.

Philip’s eyes widened in horror, hurriedly shaking his head and then getting up to run to the door and inside. He went right to the kitchen, clinging to Lathe’s pants and starting to cry. “Im naw a peh!” I don't wanna be a pet! His small body shook as he clung to Lathe.

Lathe immediately set his peeler down when Philip ran inside, towelling off his hands and going to hoist Philip up, hugging him close. ...he’s not… a pet?

“No, Philip, it's okay, you're not a pet. It was a joke, don't worry.” They sometimes like to tease Philip... but the problem is that he can never tell it's a joke... Lathe rubbed his back, letting him cry into his shoulder. He walked him back to the patio, Mark going to open the door for him when he saw him with his arms occupied. Lathe set Philip down on the patio again, pecking his forehead. “It's okay, Honey. You'll be okay?”

He watched him nod, sniffling and wiping at his cheek with his fist. “Okay. Go finish your snack, ‘kay? Dinner won't be for a while, still.” Lathe shooed him back to the table gently, looking to Mark and Claire. “Why did I think I could trust you two to adult out here…” He just shook his head, grinning and disappearing back inside. Mark at least should know Philip can't take a joke. He knows he literally cannot tell...

Mark felt his heart sink. Fuck... He swallowed hard, looking over to Claire. “Sorry…” He mumbled quietly, his eyes a bit downcast. I knew that I shouldn’t’ve done it... And yet I did...

Philip soon started to eat his snack, his tears forgotten quickly. I’m not a pet! Even Daddy said so! He had a cheeky smile as he munched, looking to Jared and poking him, which led to a poking fest between the two boys. “Jareh…” He whined when Jared poked at his shoulders and pushed him a little.

Jared grinned as he pushed his brother, a slow smile on his face. He watched as Philip tried to stop him and couldn’t, which led to him poking the boys stomach. He can’t stop me! He giggled, seemingly happily with his dominance over his younger brother.

Philip giggled when he poked his stomach, struggling to fend off Jared’s attack when he started to target his stomach. “N-No! Ickles!” He giggled, weakly smacking at his hands, finally catching his hands, trying to catch his breath. “S-Sahp!” No more tickles!

Mark soon had to step in and get the two brothers away from each other, to make sure that Philip didn’t pee himself which he tended to do when he was tickled too much. He made sure that Lucas and Jake were okay with their books as they huddled on the patio chairs in the shade. Mark then went to go find Tucker to make sure he was alright. He found the younger teen in the garage cutting wood. What's he making? “Tucker!” He shouted over the loud machinery, trying to get his attention, seeing that he was wearing safety glasses, and large ear pieces to block out the flying wood and loud noise. He’s cutting up the big tree trunks on the table saw? What’s he doing with it?

Tucker finished the cut he was making when he noticed the movement next to him, releasing the trigger on the hand saw and turning to him when it stopped spinning. He moved an ear piece back, quirking an eyebrow at him. “What?” I'm in the zone. What's up?

“What are you making? I wanted to make sure you haven’t killed yourself… I mean you are working with power tools.” I'm curious… What's with all the wood? He moved carefully around to see the long pieces of wood on the floor most the same length, and all the same width. Huh… Trying to get as uniform as possible I see…

Tucker looked up to the plans pinned to the wall in front of the table, tapping them. “I’m making an elevated garden thing for Eren. You know how he wants to grow his own spices and stuff? I'm making a thing for them, there’s a really good spot on the porch for it. It'll line the one railing, plenty of sunshine there. I would've made it sooner if I'd know when the hell Eren’s birthday was, but we didn't, so I'm making it now. He'd better like it. And if you tell him any of this, I'll smack you. Eren’s banned from the garage for the next week, and I don't need you acting suspicious.” Nope. That's my job. Something clicked, and Tucker looked around for a moment. “...don't you have a girlfriend to dreamily stare at?”  He grinned as Mark flushed. I had to. And I'm not sorry.

Mark’s eyes narrowed, throwing back his own retort. “You’re just jealous because you haven't asked Dad if Henry can come over yet.” He watched Tucker freeze and pale. “What? You know you could just ask… Dad would be fine with it, I mean Levi lived here before we got here…”

Tucker was shocked, not understanding a few things, blushing furiously, red threatening to creep down his neck. “H-How did you know about Henry?” Who the fuck told you? Another thing clicked. “A-And how did you know about Levi? That he and Eren are a thing?” If you knew Levi lived here as a boyfriend, you knew it must've been Eren’s. Did Lathe tell you about that? But he couldn't've told you about Henry, he doesn't know anything about him….

“Well it’s obvious with how much you ogle him at school that you like him, just ask him to come over or something… Like a homework date… It doesn’t even need to be a date… Though I must say, Henry is a looker.” He grinned as he teased him, putting his head in his hands, his elbows resting on the table as he watched Tucker panic. This is too cute… “You don’t have to freak out, I knew you were gay…”
Tucker stopped, hiding his face in his hands, peering between his fingers at Mark. “H-How the hell did you know that? Fuck, you can't tell Dad I have a crush on someone! Please don't tell anyone!” Fuck, I'll never hear the end of it... can't I just stare at wonderful eye candy in peace? “I-It's not even a crush, if you tell Dad then he'll invite the kid over himself for dinner or something and I just don't really care, I don't care about having him over…” If he comes over and we end up alone at all... ...I don't want it to happen again...

Mark rolled his eyes. “That’s your reason? You know you can just call him a friend and have him over for homework… And I know you’re gay because you were jacking off to gay porn in your room… you don’t close your door…” You’ve got a bad habit of doing that… I hope you realize that...

I don't close the door? ...fuck! “That’s how you came to the conclusion I was gay? Pretty solid reasoning there.” Tucker was blatantly sarcastic, glaring at Mark.

“You kept crying out for Henry…” He smirked, starting to mock Tucker in his fit of ecstasy. “Henry… Henry! Oh Henry! I love messing with you, but honestly I couldn’t care less if you were gay or not...

Tucker was a mix of angry, embarrassed and upset, shoving at him. “Shut the fuck up! I don't want Dad hearing this shit!” He turned away from him, want to just get back to work and not have to deal with Mark. “If you say a fucking word to Dad I'll rip your throat out. Go... just go ogle Claire or something, I don't really care.” I don't wanna talk about this. And I'm not inviting him over. We all know where being alone with a crush got me before...

Mark gasped as he was pushed away. “Geez! Why are you so goddamn defensive about this? You don't have to ask him over, but did you ever think maybe he wants to come over? I mean you've been friends since he transferred in. Isn’t he like the only one who talks to you? Why is that?” How come everyone avoids you at school? I noticed that when we got transferred in...

Tucker threw down his earpieces, knowing Mark wasn't about to go away. “He's the only one who talks to me and I still won't invite him over because a ton of fucked-up shit happened and I don't want to talk about it! So can you just fuck off now and leave me the hell alone?!” Tucker glared at him, looking more mad than anything. He watched him just drag over a stool, sitting at the table, looking to him intently. “I don't wanna fucking tell you.” Tucker looked away from him, picking a pencil up to mark a piece of wood to be cut. Just go the fuck away...

“I’m sure it can’t be as bad as what I went through… Please enlighten me, you know you won't be able to get me to leave Tucker.” Mark pressed on, resting his head in his hands again. I wanna hear this. “I’ll tell you what happened to me after… I went through a ton of fucked-up shit.”

“...I keep forgetting that all of us are fucked-up in some way or the other. I just keep assuming it's just me.” Tucker sighed, dragging a stool over, sitting down and looking up to the carefully drawn plans. “I was at school for the entire year this year, since fall. I took engineering, and there was this one guy in it, a senior named Devon Bracknell. ...he was my first crush, and I'd just sorta realised I might be gay. I had a thing for him.” He swallowed. “But later in the year we were paired for this dumb project, I barely even remember what it was, something about a bridge. But we were working on it at his house sometimes, and mostly during classes, but I'd told Dad he Uhm… he wanted me to stay late one day so we could finish it all in one go… and I ended up telling him how I might be gay for Devon… so he knew I wanted to tell him about having a crush on him…. and he let me go, but when he picked me up, he knew that… when I told Devon after we'd finished the project, and he’d asked me if I wanted something to eat, I told him I had a crush on him… he laughed, but he just… when I told him I was serious, he he got really mad… and he was… he just was so strong… and he grabbed me and dragged me over to the couch… and...he raped me for about two hours.... but Dad knew when he saw me that something had gone really wrong… he took me to the hospital… and… we ended up pressing charges… he's away in prison for life… so… nobody wants to talk to me… and Henry is the only one who doesn't know… and I don't think anyone wants to talk about it… so they must not have told him…” He won't want to be my friend anymore if he knows I got raped... and I don't want to be alone with him… I'm just... I don't want it to happen again.

“You’re afraid it’s gonna happen again… aren’t you?” Mark’s tone was serious and quiet as he watched Tucker squirm in his seat. Hit the nail on the head… Didn’t I? “You’re afraid that Henry’s gonna end up being just like that scum… That whenever you're alone, it could happen? So you aren’t gonna ask him over… That’s a dick move if you're the only one he talks to… Don’t you think? Or are you not his only friend? I only see him around you .”

“I'm fucking sorry for being traumatised! And he's got friends! He talks to people in his classes, he's got to have someone that qualifies as a friend besides me.” ......right? He doesn't talk about anyone else, really... ...shit, does he not have other friends? ...maybe people don't wanna talk to him because he only really talks to me? Fuck , I screwed him over friends-wise... “...I'm scared something's gonna fucking happen. You'd think since I know him better and have reason to think he wouldn't do something like that, it would help. But it doesn't. I'm still scared as fuck. There, I fucking said it.”

“Yeah, you fucking said it, good job... Now you can go tell Dad, and then invite Henry over because if he knows you're scared he won’t leave you two alone… You legitimately just need to ask, and stop being the stubborn little fuck you always are.” Mark’s tone was completely serious as he looked Tucker over. You're only a year younger than me... Though I can see how a senior would’ve been able to easily overpower you... You're not that strong, but by the looks of it you're either been training with Dad or Eren, or both, there’s a little bit of muscle...
Tucker looked ready to panic, shaking his head. “I-I can't! I don't want to!” He stepped away when Mark stood, herding him to the door to the house. “N-No, Mark please …” He was helpless as Mark got him inside, shoving him into the kitchen. He tried to run off, but he knew he couldn't bail when Lathe called for him, reluctantly trailing into the kitchen, his head ducked down a bit.

Lathe watched with amusement as Tucker suddenly was shoved into existence in the house, the shover quick to get away. Must be Mark’s doing. “Tucker? Get over here, will you?” He studied the boy as he dragged his feet over, glancing up to see Mark peeking from around a corner, watching. What’re they up to?

Tucker nervously played with his hands, looking down. “Uhm… so… you know how we always have a bunch of people over for dinner and stuff…” He glanced up when Lathee was quiet, though it was simply a sign for him to continue. “Uhm… c-could we uh… add one more… please?” He’ll be here while a lot of other people are here too… I’ll be okay with that...

“….what's his name?”

“Henry. Wait.” Tucker looked up, realising that he has practically given it all away when Lathe’s eyes lit up. “Nonono please don't go into hyper dad mode! Don't act weird or anything while he’s here, if he decides to come… just…”

“I know, I know. Don't freak out about the kids’ crushes. You people tell me like every time there's the barest hint of a crush among you all. I won't be weirder than normal, don't worry.” Lathe ruffled his hair, grinning cheekily. “Now go call and invite him so he has time to tell family and whatnot. And make sure you tell him there’ll be lots of people, and lots of weird food we promise he'll like. But there'll be normal food too.” Sharon graciously forked over her apple pie recipe, and all it took was me finally agreeing to her style of character development. ...I will probably come to regret that decision later for reasons I will not dwell upon. But it means I can make apple pie whenever I want! “Oh, and some of the usual crazies will not be present. Casper, Sharon, and Hannah are all gone out to Wichita for some meeting thing. Dunno why Hannah dragged her with though, since Scotty has Maverick and is still coming anyway.” I dunno. Reasons.

“O-Okay.” Tucker nodded, running off upstairs. ...I have to call him now. I can pretend to and say he can't come… but... I want him to come... he can meet the weird-ass family I'm always telling him about… Tucker stopped in his room, rifling through his pocket for his phone, sitting on the edge of the bed. Just call him. Just do it! ...or you can text him. That'd be easier…. Tucker’s thumbs hovered over the keys, finally tapping out a message.

TQ: Hey Henry
TQ: My family always has really big invite-like-everybody-we-know dinners on Saturdays.

TQ: If you'd be okay chilling with my crazy family and their weird friends who are low-key actually kinda cool.

TQ: You can come.

TQ: ...please.

HP: What time? I'll see if my brother can drop me off?

HP: I'd love to get out of the house... Oh and do you have the notes from Mr. Yeager’s class?

HP: Remember I had the bloody nose and had to go to the nurse?

TQ: If you're here by six you're good but you can really come whenever you want if you wanna just chill or something.

TQ: And yeah, I have Eren’s Notes...

TQ: Oh uh that's a thing...

TQ: Eren’s kinda my brother, so...

HP: ...... What.

TQ: Dad adopted him a while ago, and he got me not even a year ago from foster care, so...

TQ: my kinda-sorta pretty much yeah I guess brother.

HP: DUDE! THAT’S SOOOO COOL!

HP: Why didn’t you tell me?

HP: Tucker he’s our teacher! How does that even work!? And he’s a famous YouTuber! Ah! Oh my god! This is gonna be awesome! You think he’ll play MarioKart with us!?

HP: Or does he not play without other YouTubers?

HP: I would totally understand if he doesn't want to...

HP: .... Sorry that was a lot...

TQ: that got very real very fast.

TQ: But I'll try to answer in order-

TQ: He exists in the same house as I do, helps me with homework and yells at me in the morning to wake the hell up.

TQ: I know for a fact he thinks MarioKart is the shit but he wildly fluctuates between kicking ass and seriously sucking.

TQ: Also he's the one mostly in charge of food for tonight and we have to feed a small army.
so maybe either after dinner or some other time idk

TQ: And he’d play without putting it on YouTube, he doesn’t really do let's plays too much

TQ: The last one that went up is like a year old so idk

TQ: It's a sporadic thing really

TQ: I heard that Eren will do them if and only if Mark and Jack show up and steal him for a day, possibly with others

TQ: Otherwise nah man

HP: HOLY SHIT!?!? You met Mark and Jack!? The //legends//!?

TQ: Dude they just kinda showed up to dinner last week because their flight got delayed in Wichita or something

TQ: They just sometimes end up in our house

TQ: We stopped asking them to leave after a while because they don't listen

TQ: Idk this crap just happens

TQ: Lookit the dinner table last week

image sent

HP: I think I just died a little that you didn’t invite me last week…

HP: it’s probably better this week, so I don’t embarrass myself in front of them…

HP: That would be embarrassing…

HP: So my brother can bring me over at 5 will that be okay?

HP: I’m struggling with my German workbook… Will you be able to help?

TQ: A) I didn't even know they were gonna be there until like five solid minutes into dinner TQ: B) Ya five is fine to come over TQ: C) Yeah I can help, I already did the work so I know what the deal is HP: Okay thanks Tucker! See you then!

Tucker stared at the message, his mind in overdrive. ...if it’s three now… two hours until Henry gets here. ...fuckfuckfuck what do I do?! Tucker put his phone back in his pocket, going back downstairs. “He’ll be here at five, Dad!” Tucker made sure he heard him before escaping back into the garage, sitting at the table and putting his head in his hands, internally freaking out. Two hours… fuck ….
Mark had a Cheshire grin on his face as she watched Tucker come into the garage with a soft sigh of relief. “So… When’s he coming over?” I promised you I’d tell you how fucked up I was… So if you wanna ask go ahead and ask…

“Five… I’ve got two solid hours to freak out internally…” Tucker leaned his head in one hand, looking over to Mark. “…so. What’s your deal?” I’m curious.

“Well, let’s start out with the fact that my actual father never wanted kids to begin with. He was a Heroin, crack, cocaine, meth, and Marijuana addict…. I was the first one born between my two parents…. Alive at least… He hated that we had another mouth to feed because it took away money from spending it on his oh so precious drugs…” My father was a dick with no regard for my life, or anyone else’s. “He tried to drown me when I was 6 months old…” Did some serious damage for awhile...

Tucker stared at him, trying to process this. “…well shit.” He didn't know what else to say, running a hand through his hair. Fuck… that's horrible … how could someone try to kill their own son? He was quiet, waiting for him to continue.

“I was a fucked up child… I lost too much oxygen to the brain…. And the doctors had thought I’d gone brain dead…. Dad went to jail, and believe it or not got out on good behavior a few years later… But before he left he had enough time to knock my Mom up again, and while he was away out came Lucas… He was furious when he came home to another mouth to feed. Dad got me addicted to Heroin at the ripe old age of three … and whenever he held Lucas he’d drop him… To try and get him to die too…” Mark’s words were a little shaky as he remembered the sting of the needles entering his arms before feeling like he was on cloud nine. That addiction ruined my life… I really hope that I never get the chance to get the stuff ever again… I’d go downhill too quickly...

….oh my god… I just… I can't understand it… why the fuck would anyone…. to a fucking toddler … “….what happened with… with Jared and Philip?” With Jared, if your Dad was around long enough to figure out he had autism… fuck...

“Well, when he got out, he knocked my Mom up again, and 16 months later out came Jared… He beat Mom and me and Lucas… I was 7 so I started to figure out why Dad was beating us so often… Mom lost the first child she got knocked up with… Then she got pregnant again…. Dad went off the handle as started to just pump us with drugs and keep us locked in the basement, he’d refuse us food …. We were growing skinny, he’d refuse us education … CPS never came to help us again…. When Philip was born, he beat my mom almost to a point of death… Though she decided she couldn’t take it and OD on Heroin… I was the one that found her cold body on the couch… And I wouldn’t leave her.” I remember that her eyes were open and glazed over… She looked like she a wax figure…. She was so cold too… Her body was so pale … “My Dad’s the reason he’s got autism… Pumping him with Heroin until he started getting learning disabilities and speech impediments…”

Tucker had his head in his hands, attempting to comprehend what the four of them had gone through. “......Mark, I'm so sorry....” That's.... that's fucked up. “....what happened… since you didn't have parents around to take care of you…?” They let you all stay together… someone would've had to fight tooth and nail for that...

“Well, when I refused to leave Mom’s side, Dad pulled me off and beat me, and he drugged me with Heroin again, at this point I was an addict, through and through. I crawled back to Mom’s body after he left… Dad never came back, and we’re not entirely sure where he went. We were in the house alone for a week without food… Lucas went through our neighbor’s trash to find food for us… We almost lost Philip, because we didn’t have formula to give him…. And we were all starting to get withdrawal symptoms from not having Heroin or anything else in our systems…” It was bad… I remember holding Mom one minute and then throwing up the next…. The house reeked so bad after that Week…. It didn’t help that Mom’s body was decomposing either....

“Nobody found you for a week? Couldn't they tell something was wrong if you all didn't show up for school?” It’s legally required for you to go to school... at least until you're eighteen... “...it took that long ...” I can’t imagine what that week must've been like... and having your mother’s corpse on the couch there the entire time... fuck .....

“We never really went to school, so I guess it was normal for us to miss an entire week’s worth of school…. The reason they found us was because he neighbor called the cops.... He was concerned that the same kid had been picking out of his trash for the past few days … The cops that came and got us were horrified of our condition…. We were all sick and weak, and complete addicts , I kept asking for drugs… We were taken to the hospital separately… I didn’t even notice because I was still drugged after a week …” Mark pulled up his shirt, showing where there were faint scars on his abdomen in small circles. “Needles always left a scar on me…” Mark proceeded to show Tucker where all the scars were on his body. There are a lot... But I’m just glad I can’t get at is anymore.

“I know that if I ever got ahold of Heroin ever again… I’d be going downhill so fast they wouldn’t be able to stop it…”

Tucker stared at the silvery scars, shaking his head. “…I don't know what to say… that's fucked up… that all that happened to you… and they let you stay together…? How'd you manage that? All the kids I knew that went through the system lost track of their siblings after a while…” Some of the real little kids even forgot about them... it was awful...

“Well, Philip almost got adopted out… But due to my trauma of being dragged away from them and then separated... I had panic attacks that we weren’t together... I walked barefoot across the city to go and see them.... I cut up my feet horribly, and I was hospitalized after I was ripped away by CPS again... I wouldn’t eat... I wouldn’t sleep... I couldn’t calm down without my brothers...
The doctors finally had to step in and say that we had to be together... For my sanity... They’d already listed me as a lost cause so it was a last resort.” Mark gave him a sad smile, reaching over to rub his shoulder. “Eh, enough about me... Let’s talk about Henry shall we?” He seemed to cheer right up from the solemn look in his eyes just seconds ago. I wanna make you smile, you’re too serious...

Tucker looked surprised at the sudden change of tone, blushing again and looking away, rubbing the back of his neck. “I already told you, I texted him and he's coming over in two hours... ish...what else do you wanna know? Don't answer that.” Tucker just glared at Mark when he opened his mouth again to speak. “Go ogle Claire, and for God’s sake don't tell me you left her with the kids.” If that's the case, you need to go rescue her right the fuck now.

“No, I left her and Lucas with the kids.” Lucas can deal with the two kids when they get into squabbles... He chuckled as he stood, putting his stool back where it was. “I guess you're right though... I should probably go back.”

“And stare at Claire like a lovesick fool? Yes, that's exactly what you should do.” Tucker deadpanned, though he nodded as if in all seriousness. “And would it kill you to bring me a juice box and a granola bar or something? The snacks are far away and I'm in the middle of shit.” He gestured to the random wood planks strewn about. Snacks.

“Yeah, yeah, I’ll get you your damned snacks! Just shut up and make your damn veggie boxes.”
Mark joked, going out of the garage the way he came to get to the backyard seeing that the boys had picked up the bubbles again and ran around the yard, this time with Maisie following after them. That's cute, and it appears as though Lucas and Jake are still reading and Claire has migrated from the picnic table to the couch under the awning, playing on her phone. He shrugged as he went to the coolers to grab another juice box and then a granola bar from the snacks. This is for Tucker...

Claire looked up when Mark ambled back over, smiling until she realised he turned right back around to leave again. “How dare you abandon me.” She threw a crumpled wrapper at him and hit his shoulder, smirking mischievously. She saw him turn back, looking very worried all of a sudden.
...huh...? “...Mark, just get over here for a second.” She reached for his wrist when he got close enough, tugging him down to peck his cheek. “I know you're not abandoning me. I'm right here, and you're right there. I'm guessing you're acting as snack delivery? We are missing one of the six....” I think his name is Tucker...? I'm trying to keep all the names straight. I think that's his name. ...Pretty sure.

“Yeah, Tucker’s in the garage... So he requested snacks... Oh um, his friend Henry, you know Henry the guy who transferred in with his older brother a while back?" I think you talked with his older brother before? I'm not really sure... Mark waited patiently for a response. “I think his name is Greg... I know their last name is Portman...”

“...Greg and Henry Portman?” ...fuck, of course. She smiled a bit sheepishly, rubbing the back of her neck. “Yeah, I know them. Henry’s pretty cool. But I only really know him because I dated his brother a while ago...” The guy only wanted sex. I swear... out of the three guys I dated before you, two of them turned out to just be after my body. What the actual hell. “But what about him?”

What's up?

“Greg is bringing Henry over for dinner in about an hour and a half... And you two dated before? I didn't know that..." I knew you dated before but I didn’t know you dated older guys... Probably why you knew everything for sex....

Claire pinched the bridge of her nose, her eyes shutting. “I dated him for like three months, I dumped him because he was just chasing after my ass. Wasn't hard to figure out after a while. He was awful at being subtle.” She shrugged a shoulder and looked up. “Don’t worry. He isn't any kind of competition. And that's cool. Did you invite him, or was it someone else’s idea? Just curious.” I haven't heard you talk about them before, so idk. I kinda assumed you didn't know either of them.

“Tucker invited him... Well Henry at least... But hopefully Greg won't do anything stupid...” I've heard he's got a hot head... And he’s one of the football players at school, who always think they’re so much better than every other athlete... He shrugged, shaking his head a bit to rid the thought. “I'm gonna go deliver this to Tucker now.” He smiled softly, leaning down to peck her cheek before heading off to the garage again. I'll just have to see, I mean, he’s got strength over me, but I’m pretty sure that I could run away from him without breaking a sweat.

“I wouldn't put it past him to try something dumb.” Claire smiled as he pecked her cheek, blushing when Lucas and Jake made gagging sounds from where they sat reading. “...shut up.” Just read yer damn novels.

Mark came back into garage with Tucker’s requested snacks coming up to him and tapping his shoulder. “I got you a snack... and a juice box...”

Tucker turned again, grinning and taking the offered food. “Thank you, peasant. You are dismissed.” Tucker wore a shit-eating grin, looking to Mark challengingly. Hm, O could get used to a snack-delivery service...
Mark held a hand over his heart, wounded. “Uh! Fight me, Bitch!” Mark shouted back playfully. “Get back to work, you have an hour and a half until Henry gets over here and you’ll probably wanna take a shower, then search through your closet for ‘something decent to wear.’ Actually you should probably just go now… Give yourself time to jerk it off in the shower…” Mark had a smug grin on his face now. And you thought you were slick.

Tucker glared at him, trying to force down the red staining his cheeks. “I will literally get Dad to come out here and kick your ass for me.” ...if anything, he'd probably just smack you upside the head then grumble at you for a second before going back inside. ...yeah, that. Ugh, he needs to teach me some Judo or Karate or whatever the hell it is he knows so I can properly kick ass. Tucker went to put stuff away, glaring at Mark as the older teen ambled away to the backyard again. ……Henry probably wouldn't appreciate it if I smelled like sweat and sawdust. I should shower… …….and only maybe.

Mark had a huge grin on his face as he walked over toward Claire to sit down on the couch next to her. “I see the boys are still playing with the bubbles, and none of them are crying… which is a good sign.” Thanks for dealing with the kids while I embarrassed the crap out of Tucker.

“Oh, there were almost tears. Philip got Maisie a bit too excited and she accidentally knocked him over. He was gonna cry but Maisie just started licking his face and it turned into giggles really fast, especially when Jared started to tickle him a bit to cheer him up. More happened in the past two minutes than the last half hour.” I thought Philip was gonna have a crying fit and I'd either have to intervene or get Lucas and Jake involved, or even Lathe.

“Well, good thing dogs can sense when we need them… I know Blake could for Eren… I wonder when we're getting another one soon? Blake’s too old to follow Eren around anymore… He mostly just stays in the house.” He really is gonna need a new dog soon… He turned his head as he watched Philip run away from Maisie yet again to be chased, but this time holding one of her toys. Oh this is not gonna end well, I can tell… Mark prepared himself to have to go and comfort his brother, though the tears never really came, Maisie having learned to be gentle with Philip and instead of yanking the toy from his grasp she followed him with her tail wagging.

“…I think she's learning the small child doesn't like to be yanked or knocked around.” She's being much more gentle with him. Dogs really are very perceptive. “Blake follows Eren around?” Claire looked to Mark and tilted her head, confused a bit at his vague statement. Eren needs a new dog to follow him around?

“Yeah, Blake is Eren’s service dog… He’s got PTSD…” I dunno if I’m allowed to keep going... I know he had an episode a while back because Levi hadn’t called in awhile.
Oh... “Okay, I didn't know.” I wonder what had happened... it's not really for me to know. I might be curious, but that doesn't make it my business. “How old is Blake? He isn't joining around with any of the kids’ antics, and you said yesterday he was pretty old...”

“Let’s see… Eren got Blake when he was 16… At the age of 5, and Eren’s 22 as of last week Friday… And Dad hit 40 two weeks before that…. So Blake’s 11 so he’s hitting the age range where they start to die… But Blake’s given back to the people who raised him…. For each of the litters that him and Maisie had, his trainer got two… So he’s got 8 of Blake’s kin in training… And maybe one of the first two will be Eren’s dog… They’d be about 3 now…” But I’m not sure, I know Hannah gave Moblit two of Tove’s pups too…. Mark spoke softly as he moved to curl up to Claire’s side, though soon just opting to bring her into his lap and cling to her. This is comfortable... I like this.

Claire blushed furiously when Mark dragged her into his lap, glaring as Jake and Lucas snickered at her surprise and embarrassment. She forgot to be mad when she felt a pair of soft lips peck at her neck, hidden by her hair. ...dammit. “I'm literally going to kill you....” Claire nevertheless relaxed into his hold, her head back on his shoulder. ...I want a better angle... Claire shifted a bit in his lap, sitting sideways with her feet stretched out a bit, arms around Mark’s shoulders and nose buried in his neck, not giving a damn about the mocking chittering from the two boys reading nearby. You decided to cuddle, so we're going to cuddle dammit.

Mark held Claire close to his chest, looking over her shoulder to glare at the boys, giving them both the middle finger. “Hmm.... Claire, we’ve still got an audience, we gotta keep in PG.” I want to keep a hold on you... You’re mine, and I’m sure Greg’s gonna say something. His large hands splayed over Claire’s back, taking in a deep breath and smelling her shampoo. She smells like flowers... I hope she’ll stay after this weekend... And hopefully she’ll be okay with waking up early tomorrow since we start at 8 tomorrow morning, and I need to be there at 7 at least...

Claire nuzzled into his neck, nodding. “Okay...” ...but since my back is to the kids... and I have tons of hair... they won't notice... Claire tilted her head a bit, her lips softly brushing over his neck, gently kissing and lapping at the flesh up and down, lightly nipping the joint of his neck with her teeth. I'll be careful to not excite you too much... but you're right here, and I wanna, so.

Mark groaned as he felt Claire’s lips and teeth on his skin. Oh fuck.... Claire ... “Claire... Oh my god...” his words were a gentle hiss in her ear as she nipped at him. He struggled to keep his pulse of arousal down, whimpering softly. Claire.... Oh my god, please no more. “Hmm... You gotta stop...”

Claire pouted, leaving one last gentle peck on his neck before nestling back into her new favourite spot, breathing in his scent. He smells nice... Claire let her eyes slip shut, catnapping on Mark’s chest when the door opened some time later, cracking an eye open to see Lathe ambling down the porch steps to where the boys and the dogs were. They were flopped in the grass, trying to catch their breath, though Lathe walked over to Philip, picking him up easily, a small stuffed animal for the dogs slipping from the boy's hand.

“C’mon, Hon.” Philip was leaning sleepily against Lathe’s shoulder as he spoke softly, tired from all the running around. You really wore yourself out. You could use a nap. Lathe carried him into the house, nodding to Mark and Claire, sticking his tongue out at Jake and Lucas, who stuck their tongues out back at him. We’re all ridiculous. Lathe couldn't help but smile fondly, Philip sound asleep in his arms by the time he made it to the door. He smiled to Eren as he went to the stairs with the napping child, his son silently chuckling before going back to peeling potatoes. I love you all.

Mark had ushered everyone inside within the hour, and let them all play in the living room as the delicious smells filled the house. It was a half an hour after that that the doorbell rang and Mark got up to answer it, seeing Henry and coming face to face with Greg. “Thanks for bringing Henry over….” I’m not sure what else to say to you….

Claire got up after a moment of hesitation, following Mark to the door. Eh, it's Greg. No big deal, really. She stood a bit behind Mark as he opened the door, waving to Henry when he saw her. “Hey Henry.” She looked up, seeing Greg look between the two of them in confusion for a moment. Hm. She moved to the side a bit when Mark opened the door fully to usher Henry in, her arm casually slipping around Mark’s waist. She glanced over to Greg again, and saw the moment it clicked followed by an angry look. Fuck, here we go.

“Are you fucking serious, Claire? You dumped me for this piece of shit?” Greg’s voice was full of anger as he pointed at Mark. Really? I'm so much better than him!

“Greg, we’ve been over this. You were only after my ass and then got way too angry when I called you out on it. I'm not dealing with that.” Yeah, no. I deserved better.

Greg’s hands turned into fists as he grabbed at Mark’s shirt, his eyes narrowing as he saw a hickey from where he’d pulled the shirt. “Like this fuck is any better, I bet you whored yourself out to him, didn’t you?” You already fucked him? So why’s he so much better than me?

Mark glared back at Greg, his hands coming up to try and pull on Greg’s wrist to get him off. Why the hell did I even think of answering the door! I should’ve had Dad get it! He’s furious! What the actual fuck!?

“Ex cuse me.” Lathe walked straight up to them the second Greg grabbed Mark’s shirt, watching Mark struggle to get him off. “You need to let go of my son and leave before something bad happens.” I'm not gonna let you punch Mark for doing nothing wrong. You're Claire's ex, I've deduced that much. But you don't need to be so damn furious about it. Lathe stood at his full height, having a good six inches on Greg, staring down at him with a dark look.

Greg’s eyes widened a bit as he held his grip on Mark’s shirt. “Well, your ‘son’ is dating a whore.” Greg growled before letting go of Mark’s short with a shove, turning and jogging down the stairs. A whore who can’t keep her legs closed...

Mark had to step back a few feet to keep from falling down, his eyes wide. What’s he talking about? That Claire's a whore? His face showed his confusion, his gaze going to Claire as if to ask what the hell Greg was talking about. What?

Claire just shook her head, looking to him apologetically. “I'm sorry about him…. he gets really angry when he doesn't get what he wants. One of the reasons I left him. Gets what he wants with his fists.” Not good. Claire gently tugged his arm, looking gratefully to Lathe as he closed the door, looking to them worriedly. “Thanks for that…” She looked to Mark, tugging him back over to the couch. I just wanna hold onto you after that...

Mark looked at Claire as he was tugged along. “What was he talking about?” He murmured softly as she pushed him on couch and her coming to crawl into his lap. What was Greg talking about. “He called you a whore…. Why?” His tone was serious as he watched her move. Why would he call you that? That's horrible!

Claire leaned her forehead to his neck, murmuring near his ear, quiet enough for just him to hear. “…promise you won't be mad or something…?” She waited for him to murmur ‘Promise’ before she sighed against his skin, her voice small. “...so, I guess you could kinda tell before last night and stuff that you weren't exactly my first…” Mark was quiet, and she took that as a cue to continue. “…he called me a whore because I slept around a lot freshman year… with a bunch of juniors and seniors and stuff… it was so dumb… the relationships all lasted for like three or four weeks max… they all acted so nice to me… but after they finally convinced me to have sex with them they stopped caring so much… you think I’d’ve learned by boyfriend number five in six months that something was wrong… I was so fucking dumb. “I don't want to make that same mistake again. I hope to God I'm not with you.” I like you… I don't want this to follow that same pattern.

Mark was quiet for a moment, holding her close. “So am I a better fuck then Greg?” I wanna know, I kinda wanna rub it in his face later… Get back at him for grabbing me by my shirt. His voice sounded genuinely curious and not the slightest bit angry. I can't judge you about decisions you made in the past…. I just wanted to know why he called you that without any warning...

Claire paused, pulling away and looking to him with a slightly stunned expression. “…did you legitimately not hear a word I just said?” How the fuck are you not furious or something? Not even a little mad?

“No, I heard you, and I just don’t know why you expect me to judge you for it? You even said so yourself it was a dumb decision…. Why would I be mad at you?” I can’t judge you on something you did in the past. Mark’s hands gently ran up and down her back, trying to calm her down as she perched in his lap. I couldn’t stay mad at you…

Claire stared at him for a moment before she dropped her head back into the crook of his neck, softly kissing his neck. “…thanks… and yes. Yes you are.” A much better one.

Mark smirked and pulled her flush against his body. “Good… Now we’ve got at least an hour and a half for dinner I believe, wanna just lay on the couch?”

Claire nodded, shifting with Mark to lay down, on top of him on his chest, enjoying the smells of dinner mingling with Mark’s own scent. “Hm, you're warm. If I fall asleep I'm not sorry.” I wouldn't mind a nap… I'm comfy, so.

Lathe meandered over to the stairs when things settled down a bit, taking his sweet time. Tucker will want to know Henry’s here. ...but I want to see this spectacle, and everyone else might, so. Lathe looked up the stairs, his hands cupped around his mouth as he shouted. “TUCKER! PERSON IS HERE!” Come and entertain him, dammit! Nobody else here besides Claire knows him, and she’s sleeping on Mark or something. He chuckled as he heard something fall onto the floor, hearing a pause before Tucker shouted back.

“O-Okay! One second!” Fuck, just pick a fucking shirt! It doesn't even fucking matter! Just pick one! Tucker looked between the options quickly before grabbing one at random, an emerald green plaid flannel, throwing a black tank on under it so he could leave it unbuttoned. He looked over himself one last time, eyeing the hair that wouldn't be tamed with exasperation, nervously shuffling for a moment. ...you know what, fuck it. Good enough. ... hopefully. Tucker left his room, pushing down his nerves when he approached the stairs, smiling when he saw Henry. “Hey Henry. What's up?” Fuck, he looks even cuter than usual today... Tucker was hoping to death he wasn't blushing, walking over to him with socked feet.

When his foot slid out from under him, landing him flat on his ass. Fuck. He blushed furiously as the people around him laughed or tried to hide it, seeing Henry struggling not to laugh, though it was obvious. Great job, Tucker. He scrambled to his feet, trying to save face. Guh. “...god dammit.” Tucker held his face in his hands for a moment, feeling humiliated. Fuck.
Henry couldn’t help but snicker as he watched Tucker get up. Wow, that was embarrassing. “Hi, Tucker…. So um, what do you wanna do first?” He had a huge smile on his face, his bright teeth shining brightly. Henry’s hair was slicked into the usual spiked bangs, the sandy blond hair not covering an inch of his flawless skin as he looked directly at Tucker. He wore ripped black jeans and a dark grey band shirt, which also had multiple holes in it all over, his black and dark grey plaid backpack slung lazily across his shoulder. “You also didn’t tell me that you lived in a fucking mansion.” This place is fucking huge! No wonder you guys have so many people come over for dinner...

Tucker couldn’t help but glance over to Lathe when Henry swore, the man quirking an eyebrow at him, glancing to Henry and back. ....oh. “Well, it is pretty big, I just never thought to mention it…” Tucker rubbed the back of his neck, looking around as he thought of what they could do. The kids already took over the TV out here… we can't exactly get them involved if we start a game of cards against humanity, and they'll want to play if they see it... but.....nothing will happen. And if something does and I scream loud enough, there are lots of people to come running. “We’ve got the Xbox hooked up to the big screen in the theatre room, if you want to play or watch something, that's an option.” Tucker shrugged one shoulder. Just chill, Tucker. Chill. Don't act weird and make this awkward.

“Do you have COD?”

“Yeah, a few of them, I haven't played too much… I've mostly been playing GTA if I get the big screen.” It's the best.

“Dude, let’s go steal some fucking Camaros!”

Tucker grinned at his enthusiasm, but the two of them looked over when Lathe cleared his threat, looking to Henry.

“Sorry to be a bit of a killjoy, but that's a vocabulary word I don't think some of the kids need to know.” Lathe nodded over to where the kids were huddled around the coffee table, all playing with the huge bins of legos. Philip in particular had looked up as Henry had spoken, his eyes wide, drinking in the scene. He doesn't exactly need to know that word.

Henry instantly flushed in embarrassment. “Ah… Sorry…. I’ll try and keep my mouth shut…” My brothers don’t necessarily care if I swear… It just doesn't really come up as a problem. Henry didn’t know where to look, shrinking in Lathe’s presence. He’s fucking huge.

“It's fine, just not around the kids. I'll make sure they don't wander in on you two playing GTA.
Then you can swear all you want.” Lathe shrugged one shoulder, going back to cooking as if nothing happened. It's cool. But I don't want the kids swearing until they're old enough for me to explain what the words mean and for them to understand.

Tucker sighed, reaching for Henry's arm. He tugged him along, bailing him out from the awkward situation. He let go of him as soon as they turned the corner, speaking as they stepped down to the theatre room. “Yeah, there are little kids around. You and Dad are cool though, don't worry. You looked terrified, and yeah he's huge and intimidating sometimes, but he's a goddamned pushover, so it's whatever.” Yeah, he doesn't really care much about that kind of stuff. Tucker walked up to the back of the theatre room to the small flat area, a grid of shelves of consoles all with their own spot, the wiring behind them complicated but neat. Tucker hit the button to switch to the Xbox One, going to the second shelving unit and quickly finding GTA V. “Pick a seat wherever, it'll only be a second.” Now where the hell did the controllers go... right next to the console, of course. Soon Tucker walked back where Henry was, plopping next to him and handing him a controller as the screen loaded. “So, whatcha think?” You look amazed at all this.

Henry’s eyes were wide as he took in the area. “I can’t believe you live here… I would kill to have this place in my basement! This is fucking awesome!” Henry’s excitement was clearly written across his face as he took a controller, thanking Tucker. This place is massive! It’s so cool! “Did you ask your brother if we can play video games after dinner?” He was completely forgetting that he needed to do his homework as well. I wanna play video games with you! This is the first time you invited me over and this place is video game heaven!

“We probably can, but dude, weren't we going to do homework? You said you needed help with German or something.” We need to work too... “When’s your brother coming to get you anyway? Just like as a frame of reference, I'm not counting the minutes ‘til you leave.” Tucker dismissed that notion easily. ..........I wonder if we ask Lathe if he’ll let you stay the night... we can just chill and play video games and stuff...

Henry shrugged. “I told him I didn’t know when dinner was… So he said to text the group chat and one of my brothers would come pick me up… Apparently Brett is gonna be home for some reason, I dunno, but if it’s late Brett will probably pick me up.” Honestly, I was just planning on staying until I was kicked out...

“...so, idea. What if I asked Dad about you staying overnight, and we do German and stuff now so we can play whatever we want after dinner until like three in the morning?” Sounds good to me... but I dunno if you'll want to... fuck, I already asked. Just wait for the damn answer.

Henry stuck his tongue out of his mouth slightly as he started to think. “Do you have a spare toothbrush?” My brothers wouldn’t really care, and staying up until 3 sounds fucking awesome! “I won’t be able to promise staying up until 3 though…. I can promise at least 1.” I’m not used to staying up late.
Tucker couldn't help but glance to where his tongue peeked out from his lips, snapping out of it after a second. “I-I was exaggerating anyway, and yeah, we’ve got tons stashed upstairs. I’ll go ask Dad, alright?” He watched Henry nod, ditching his controller and starting out of the room. He stopped, pointing to his backpack. “Homework.” He grinned when Henry groaned exaggeratedly, leaving. He walked to the kitchen, poking Lathe’s elbow from where he fussed over the stove. He swallowed when he turned to look at him, his nerves returning.

“...I keep forgetting how big you can make yourself look...”

“...Uhm... can Henry stay the night... and can we have the theatre room after dinner please?” We wanna play video games... and stay up late and eat junk food and try to steal planes and blow shit up....

Lathe pretended to ponder this, stroking an imaginary goatee. “Hm, should I let Tucker chill with his bf all night or not...”

“He's not my boyfriend!” Tucker immediately shut up, hiding his face in his hands as he turned crimson, hoping to God Henry didn't hear. Fuck, I don't want this to get awkward for any of us...

“...j-just... can he please stay over?” Please don't push it... I love you, but don't.

“...as long as you both have your work done and it's okay with his parents or guardians or whatnot, it's okay. You two can end up sleeping anywhere except the living room- I think Mark and Claire have those couches called at least for a while.” They'll probably migrate upstairs, but they called the TV for movies. They asked, like, two seconds ago. “...Tucker, I have to ask...”

“...yeah, I have a crush on him.” I knew you were gonna ask...

Lathe was surprised he answered the question before he asked it, smiling softly, ruffle his hair as his hands fell from his face. “Don't you hesitate to come get me or anyone else if something goes sour, okay? And good luck. You don't have to go too fast about this, you know.”

“...I know... but... fuck...” Tucker was quiet, staring at the floor. Goddamn it. He's just too fucking cute for his own good and I just really fucking want him to kiss me, god damn it. “...I'll be careful.”

“Okay.” Lathe smiled, shooing him back from the kitchen. “Now go, dinner isn't for another hour. Now might be a good time for homework if it needs to get done.” Then you don't have to worry about it.

Tucker nodded, going back to the theatre room, glad the darkness hid his blush rather well. He sat down next to Henry who had his German workbook open in his lap, already started on the page.
“You're about half-finished. What needs work?” I already did the whole thing, so I know all the answers. Eren checked it.

“I don’t remember how we’re supposed to do the bottom section, I know he told us in class and I can’t remember for shit.” Henry flipped the book over to show him the last section on the page he was working on. “Are we translating? Or are we fixing the grammar? Or are we doing both?” I don’t remember… Ugh! This is so frustrating! I hate that this is our review... Even if it is easy, I can never remember what we’re supposed to do!

“Well, the English under them are what the translations are supposed to be, they're not different questions to translate into German. It’s like ‘This German sentence is supposed to translate into that in English. Make it do that.’ So you need to fix grammar here.” Easy enough.

“Oooooohhhhhh…. See that makes so much more sense now, thanks.” He murmured quietly, quickly able to fix what he was supposed to. “Is there anymore? And am I staying over? I'll need to text my brothers.” They’ll freak out if I forget.

“Yes, you're cleared for tonight. Get this done and the entire video game collection is open for use.” Legit anything you can think of is back there. You'll go nuts. And then probably make us play GTA anyway. And that’s awesome, actually. “So you've got it, then, what you're doing?”

Henry nodded, pulling out his phone and handing it to Tucker. “Can you text the Group chat called ‘Fuckwads’ that I’m staying over tonight?” I don’t have a passcode, so you should be able to do it… His attention went right back to the homework to begin to finish it.

Tucker nodded, opening the phone, smiling faintly as he noticed the COD Black Ops background. Of course. Tucker opened the messaging app, typing into the group chat.

HP: This is Tucker

HP: Henry’s staying overnight, so don't worry about picking him up until tomorrow

BP: I called it! He’s gay!

KP: … Will you grow up?

BP: Nope!

KP: Thank you Tucker, can you tell your Dad to text me? So I have his number in case something pops up and no one’s at the house tomorrow?
HP: Yeah, I will
HP: Thanks

BP: HE’S GAY AND YOU'RE ALLOWING HIM TO STAY OVER!?
KP: We don’t //know// if he’s gay or not! Stop freaking Tucker out!
BP: But he’s never asked to stay at anyone else’s house!
KP: And your point?
BP: .... True he doesn’t have any friends!
BP: He’s a loser! HA!
HP: He's not some loser, chill man
HP: I know you're his brother and have some excuse to be like this but legit
HP: Chill
BP: Dude! His boyfriend is backing him up! I fucking knew it!
KP: I //will// kick you from this group chat!
HP: I'm not his boyfriend!
HP: And //please// kick him from the chat?
BP: No! I’ll be good!
KP: Tucker can you just give your father my number? Before Brett gets out of hand?
HP: If this doesn't count as ‘out-of-hand,’ I'll run

“One sec.” Tucker ran off with Henry’s phone, going into the kitchen and tapping Lathe’s arm again. “I've been told to give you Henry’s responsible brother’s number.” Tucker smiled when Lathe immediately forked over the phone, quickly typing in the name and handing it back.

HP: Kay Dad has your number
HP: I'm gonna go make sure Henry doesn't fail German now
BP: It’s too late for that, but good luck!
KP: Thank you, Tucker, tell your father to call me when he’s got time before 1 am HP: First, my brother is the German teacher at our school, so.
HP: And I will, I'll make sure he calls
KP: Thank you, and I might be sending Henry home with you for tutoring from your brother! Thank you.

HP: That’d be cool, Eren pretty much does that with me anyway, and Dad and Mom are both fluent too

HP: And it's no problem!

Tucker tossed the phone back to Henry when he was back in the theatre room, watching him jump when it landed on the page right in front of him suddenly. He grinned. “One more sec. You almost done?” He looked over the sheet, seeing only a few more unfilled spaces. Cool. He ran off to the kitchen again, Lathe turning this time before he leaned on his elbow to see what he had to do now.

“What now, kid?”

“Henry’s brother wants you to call that number I gave you sometime before one AM. He wants to talk or something.”

“Cool.”

And that was that. Tucker went back to the theatre room, collapsing onto the loveseat. “You done yet? It’s been all of fifteen seconds, you should be done.” Tucker was grinning, obviously messing with him.

Henry waved his arm at him glaring. “Yeah yeah, I’m on the last one, dumbass…” I want to make sure I do this last one right. He was done within the minute and packing away his workbook again. “Alright, what do you have hidden away from me?” I wanna know what you mean by ‘collection’.

Tucker grinned evilly, tugging him up by the arm and leading him up the steps between the loveseats, to the area at the top where the projector room would be. A projector was set up on a table, but the room was open, the far wall covered with a huge grid like shelving unit, organised by console and then alphabetical by title of nearly every game worth hearing about. Dad kinda went all-out… he even dug out all his old consoles and then got the games he never got around to trying out… “Take your pick. The console choices are all behind you.” He nodded to the small wall separating the small area from the rest of the theatre, the waist-high shelf holding the entire collection of consoles, the switchboard neatly labelled on top with arcade buttons to pick the one you wanted and small lights to show which was selected. Dad did a really good job rigging this whole thing...
“Did I die?” I think I’m really in heaven! Henry had a complete look of awe, almost looking like he was ready to drool a bit. His eyes instantly wandered to the Xbox One games, looking over the various titles. He’s got everything! Watch Dogs, Modern Warfare, CoD, and a lot more first person shooters…. I’m in heaven!

“Nope, it’s all very real. You gonna pick something, or are you gonna stare at them and drool all day while I just pick Skyrim and force you to just sit there and watch?” If that’s what it takes to make you decide… “And I literally give zero shits what we’re playing, as long as I can play with you. Anything multiplayer is cool, any console.” Your pick. “And this isn't the last time you're coming over, so you don't have to kiss the wall of games goodbye forever tomorrow.” You legit look like you're ready to wine and dine that fucking shelving unit. …and god dammit, shelving unit, I called him first!

“Can we play Call of Duty? The multiplayer rounds on the mini maps are always fun.” Especially when I can kill my brothers when we play against each other… He pulled out the Black Ops disc for Xbox One. “That good?” He asked as he looked into Tucker’s eyes. His eyes are really green… Almost like his shirt color…. Hmm.

“Sure-” Tucker couldn’t help but blush a bit when Henry seemed to study his eyes, not able to look a way, stuttering a bit and hoping to death it wasn’t noticeable. The yellow light that lit the game titles had little mercy, his pink cheeks more noticeable. “As long as you let us play a round of zombies now and then… I-I’m better at those.” …I don’t suck as much… ……...fuck, just kiss me already, fucking hell...

Henry nodded. “Yeah, we can do that.” I don’t really like the zombie ones, always scare the crap out of me… They look too fucking real. “Let’s get a round or five in before dinner shall we?” He grinned excitedly, scampering back out towards his controller. I get to play video games! Woo!!!

Tucker nodded, watching him grin widely before he disappeared back down the steps and hopped over the back of the couch, landing comfortably with a flop. …fuck… I’m sooooo fucking tired. Tucker went after him, hopping over the back of the couch as well. “Move over or I’ll sit on you.” Tucker couldn’t help but feel a bit disappointed when he moved, settling next to him. …crap… and I wouldn’t’ve minded sitting in his lap… Tucker tried to ignore the thoughts, CoD distracting him well with how terribly he was doing in every lobby they joined while Henry went on to dominate the maps. It was about half an hour and fifty deaths later that Tucker threw up his hands. “Dude, I fucking suck ass at multiplayer. After this round is over, we’re playing the Alcatraz map on zombies.” It's happening.

“Alright, fine, we’ll play the fucking zombie game!” He glanced over to Tucker with a cheeky grin plastered over his ever white teeth. “What?”
Tucker couldn't help but ignore the game in favour of staring at Henry as he spoke, studying his handsome features. He snapped out of it when he looked at him oddly, rubbing at his eyes. “Nothin’, nevermind it. Now just bail on the round so we can play zombies and laugh when you die ten seconds in.”

“You can’t die ten seconds in, jackass! The game is modeled so that you’ll survive at least a fucking minute!” Henry growled at him as he got head shot after head shot. These guys are mine!

Tucker was confused, looking at him warily at his tone. ...he could just be way too into the zone, but I'm like thirty percent sure he's mad at me for some damn reason... “....Henry, you okay?”...you're weirding me out.

Henry held up one finger to quiet him as he pulled out a knife and killed someone from behind, effectively ending the game with the final kill. “I’m not that bad at the zombie game you know.” He rolled his eyes as he lounged back, waiting for the game to show off stats. I got the final kill.... And the most kills...

“I was just joking, yeesh. With a kill-death ratio like that, you'll outlive me by twice the rounds I survive.” You'll do way better than I can. Tucker went to select the game he wanted when he could, shrugging one shoulder. “Just don't sound like you're about to kill me again and we’re cool.” That was legit concerning.

“Huh? Oh sorry, when my brothers and I play, things get heated... We’ve wrestled over it a bunch, to see who’s better.” It's like a sport at my house, I didn't mean to make it sound like I was gonna hurt you. “Sorry...” He mumbled quietly, looking to the display. I don't get to pick weapons or anything, which sucks.

.........fuck, I wouldn't mind wrestling with you... just as long as you pin me... fuck, Tucker, get your head out of the fucking gutter! Just start the damn game! Tucker hit the button to launch the game, waiting for the moment they could set off running, immediately going to board up windows and quickly gain points. I need points for the Olympia still... it works well for me...

Henry followed suit, obviously a little off set by the new game situation. I hate zombie mode.... I don’t like that I just can’t run around shooting people’s heads off.... I need to stay put, like a sitting chicken! He kept his eyes on the screen, getting a bit panicky as the boards started to get hit. They’re coming.... Oh fuck.

“Dude, do something! Stab them through the boards, it gets you more points. Also we can't exactly use up all of the ammo we have just yet, and it'll work for the first few rounds.” Tucker glanced over when Henry started to tentatively move in to kill some of the zombies, quirking an eyebrow. “If you don't kill enough and get the points you need, you'll never be able to afford a better weapon.” C’mon, I'm doing all the work. “Legit, it's the first round. If you down I'm not saving you.” Nope, not my problem.

Henry seemed to find that, without the use of his pistol to save ammo, he mostly got up close to the boards and started to knife the zombies through the slats, keeping them at bay while Tucker moved around. Is this all I'm doing?

Tucker sighed as he saw a mob of them break through a window, going on his way to unlock a door. “Henry, get those and then let’s get a move on. We should probably make it to the first area the mystery box could be, it's not too far. Do you have enough points for a better weapon yet or no? Buy one off the wall, I'd recommend the semi-automatic for you, but I'm a shotgun person.” You should. I have enough for the door and for the Olympia, and we've barely started wave two. ...are you even doing anything?

“Uh... Yeah, hold please.” Henry went off and went to the wall, getting an semi-automatic, and a grin on his face once he knew how much ammo he had. “Alright I’m good for 60 zombies… Where is the most effective place to shoot them?” It is a head shot, right? Henry maneuvered his player towards where Tucker’s was. He’s played this before, and is good at it.

“Headshots are best, but you need to conserve as much ammo as you possibly can, because that gun is going to resemble a useless piece of plastic by round ten and you need to rack up as many points as possible for doors and better weapons. Shoot in the head, and don't waste any ammo. Sometimes there are ammo drops when you shoot zombies, just run over the gold floating things they leave behind. But don't run over the nuke drops.”

“Don't ?”

“No, don't. They become very useful in later rounds, but while the killing is this easy, we just want the points. You see a nuke, and unless we’re at the end of a wave, leave it. It's all about biding time.” Tucker ran down a hallway, opening another door and easily knifeing any zombie that came in his way. “I don't want to hear a single gunshot until round four.” Nope. “Cover for me, will you?” Tucker didn't give Henry a moment to object before he ran to a spot and electrocuted himself. Spooky ghostly mode engaged. Tucker quickly worked to restore power and open a door, electrocuting the zombies that herded around them in the meantime, Henry holding them off well enough while he interacted with his body, able to help him. “Cool, so that door’s open…” Tucker disappeared down the stairs without hesitation, and they made good time, getting to the first spot by round four. “Yes, the box is here! You take a go at it first, I still need points.” The walls need boarding up again...
Henry just watched in shock as Tucker took the lead with this. What the fuck is going on!? He got up to the crate opening it and watching the various guns spin around and watching the teddy bear fly by. “Um…. What’s good for this since you refuse to let me even use my gun at the moment?” I feel so out of place on this thing, like what the actual hell.

“Well, your pistol is about to be obsolete, so you can just run a round and let the zombies trail you for a bit, empty your ammo in them, get points while you still don't have to worry much. But that box gets you the good stuff, but since ammo is so limited, we’re keeping from using it all while we can help it.” Tucker ran around in a circle, a mob of zombies trailing him in a neat group. He emptied his pistol into them, only a few managing to fall before he got out his knife, taking them down one by one with a few good stabs, careful not to get too scratched up. “What weapon do you have? Replace your pistol, there's no point in keeping it. …dude, switch to your pistol. …now take the fucking gun before the box shuts!” He watched him quickly follow the order, holding a futuristic gun. “Aw man, you got a ray gun on your first try? Lucky. Those things are great. As in the alpha gun. Shoot a round or two at this mob, will you? Near the feet.” Come on, you can manage. “Have you ever played this game mode for more than two minutes?” It doesn't seem like it.

“Nope… I can’t do zombies.” He murmured back as his hands shook a bit, holding onto the control as he let the ray gun shoot towards the horde’s feet, watching them all fall quickly to the ground. “What the fuck, this thing is awesome!” He continued to run around in circles, getting a large horde around him and starting to unload his pistol first before knifing them and then letting the large crowd come in closer, which warranted the ray gun. This thing is fucking awesome!

“What do you mean, you can't do zombies? It's easier than a bunch of real-life players shooting at you constantly. These guys are at least predictable. C’mon, we need to go find the ethereal wolf head and feed him some corpses or something.” That's a thing we need to do. Tucker quickly took his spin at the mystery box while Henry held off the horde, sighing when he simply got a better pistol, switching out the ammo-less starter pistol. “Better than nothing, I guess. I’ve got to save points for the doors and stuff…” Whatever. I can get galva knuckles sooner if I just go with it. “C’mon, stairs.” Tucker led them up a flight of stairs, running through a few adjacent rooms before they met a few more zombies, shooting them and watching the wolf head into existence on the wall, the corpses sucked over to it, watching it chew them up. “Kill them close enough so the wolf can have them.” It's a thing, don't ask.

“What I mean is that I fucking hate zombies….. What the fuck is that thing !?” Henry shouted and almost jumped as he saw something ghost across the screen. He froze for a few seconds before going back to killing zombies. I don’t like this… What the hell! What the fuck is going on!?

Tucker laughed as Henry jumped out of his skin at the sight of him as a ghost, having mercy and pausing the game. “Dude, we can just go back to multiplayer or something, it's fine. I didn't know a bunch of animated zombies and an electric ghost was enough to make you shit your pants.” Tucker wore a shit-eating grin, looking over to him. Lol.
Henry shook his head. “N-No… I-I’m fine… Um, I’m gonna go get a glass of water.” He murmured and jetted out of the room like it was the last place he wanted to be. I fucking hate zombies…. I hate them, I really hate them…. Because they always look so real . I seriously hope he’s not secretly one of those slasher movie lovers…. I’d never be able to even think about a relationship…. A relationship? He’s invited me over once , to play video games and I’m already jumping it to relationship status? Fuck ! He finally made it up the stairs, entering the kitchen after only a moment and gaping at the number of people that had arrived while they were playing video games. When he said a lot…. I didn’t think he meant this many people.

Lathe and Eren were still fussing over the stove, in high gear cooking mode. The older man glanced up, chuckling as Henry seemed to sneak to the open kitchen, wanting to avoid the mass of people. He spoke up over the heightened sound in the room, many people talking, dogs and puppies yapping, and kids playing. “Yeah, Saturdays are a production. Whatcha need?” It's lots of people, yeah.

“U-uh… J-just a glass of water please.” I hope the fucking stutter goes away, it’ll be hella embarrassing if it doesn’t. Henry blushed in embarrassment looking over to see Eren just a few feet away and freezing. Oh my god… It really is him… I mean I should feel better around him knowing he’s my teacher but…. Oh my god it’s him!

Lathe nodded, getting a glass for him and nodding to the fridge door. “Water and ice right there.” He looked from Henry to Eren and back again when he didn't make any move to get his drink. “...you're either in shock because that's your teacher, or because of his songs and stuff.” Most of which I wrote, by the way. Humble brag. But legit I can't tell why you're not moving right now.

“You have a celebrity living in your house…."

“Eren has a golden throat, apparently I can science and my wife can order the police in this county around however she wants. ...welcome to the Quo household.” Lathe just shrugged, giving him a small grin. “Oh, did you hear the one where Markiplier and Jacksepticeye came over for dinner last week because their flight in Wichita got cancelled?” It's a very good one where there's no punchline or BS. Very amusing.

“Yeah, I did hear about that… That’s awesome…. Oh… Um, I think Kevin wanted to talk to you when you got the chance....” He murmured pulling out his phone to read through the texts. Fuck! Brett you asshole! How could you even tell him I was anywhere near gay! Fuck! He invited me over too, now he’ll think I'm weird.

Ieva made her way into the kitchen, looking over Lathe and Eren working as well as a teen she’d never seen before. “I’m home… And just who might you be?” You’re new here… And you look like you’ve seen a ghost. Am I that scary in my uniform?

Lathe looked over, smiling when he saw Ieva. “Hey Honey.” He blushed faintly when she ambled over and kissed his cheek, glancing over to Henry. Well, now he knows my wife is a cop. There you go.

“U-Uhm…” Henry snapped out of it when Lathe gave him a pointed look, looking back to the woman in uniform. “Hi, Mrs. Quo. I’m Henry, Tucker’s friend… he invited me over to stay the night…” Henry rubbed the back of his neck, shuffling his feet a bit. Fuck, I’m no good at this shit... and I can't help but be intimidated by the fact that you're a fucking cop...

Ieva smiled, her hands slipping down to her sides. “Well it’s nice to meet you Henry, now if you’ll excuse me, I should go get changed.” She had a huge smile on her face as she walked towards the large hallway before turning back. “Oh and tell Eren to stop worrying about the schnitzel, it smells like it’s done.” It smells so good in this house and I love it.

Lathe swatted Eren’s hand away from the platter that had the schnitzel on it, covered with foil to keep hot. “Eren, stop it, it's fine. We took the temperature and everything, nobody will die of malaria from eating it.” It's fine. Lathe looked over the counter, many things already in serving bowls, ready to be moved to the table. “...are we ready to eat?”

“We're ready to eat.”

“Sweet! Henry, fetch Tucker, will you? We need to herd people to the table-” He looked over as the doorbell rang. “...or at least, Eren does. I'll get that.”
Chapter 77: Wacky Weekend Part 2

Lathe hung the towel over his shoulder back on the handle of the oven, asking over to the door. If it's Girl Scout cookies I want ten boxes of each. He opened the door, stunned instead to see a teenager on the stoop, someone he didn't recognise. “...yes? Can I help you?” you don't look very good... He was worried when they gave him a solemn look, lost for words, looking lost altogether. “...are you okay?” What's wrong?

The boy struggled to clear his throat, coughing into his sleeve for a moment. “D-do… Do you h-have any scraps? That I could take?” I just need a little more food for today, and maybe if I get enough for tomorrow... His eyes were bloodshot from his coughing fit a few moments after, a sunken look to them. “I-I’m s-sorry to disturb you....”

Lathe looked them up and down, something clicking. ...he's a runaway. “Here, come inside, you look in pretty bad shape...” Lathe motioned for him to come in, the door clicking shut behind him. “It's fine, don't worry, you can eat with us if you like. Can you tell me what's happened to you?” Why are you running away?

The boy shook his head quickly, though regretted the motion instantly, stumbling a bit on his own two feet. “I-I shouldn’t stay…. T-Thank you f-for your time...” I can’t stay... They’ll ask questions... There’s a lot of people here... I picked the wrong house to come to.... He moved towards the door behind him, a hand reaching out to grab the knob. I need to get out...

Lathe’s eyes widened as the kid nearly crumpled to the floor, desperate to get out. Lathe reached for their shoulder to steady them, the boy finally looking up, meeting his gaze with scared eyes. ..........he reminds me so much of myself..... he's terrified. “Hey, don't panic, it’s alright, I can't make you stay inside. You can go outside if you want. But can you at least let me bring you some stuff? I'll get you hot dinner, something to drink, a blanket, I can tell you're freez... you can stay for a shower and rest for the night in an actual bed if you want to, we’ll give you breakfast. I can give you money for a hotel room for the night. Anything so you don't have to sleep on the streets.” Lathe quietly pled with him. It'd break my heart if I let you leave, knowing you were going to sleep in a ditch somewhere...

He looked at him, before looking beyond him, at the eyes that looked out to him from the table where everyone was sitting. Shit... So many people have seen me... “I-I… I’m g-gonna s-stay outside...” He murmured quietly, putting his head down in shame as he looked away from the small children. They probably have no idea.... Better keep it that way... “T-Thank you, s-sir....” He quickly got out of Lathe’s hands and he got outside, shivering a bit at the cold blast of air before sitting on the front steps. I shouldn’t’ve bothered him...
Lathe watched him flee to the porch, looking back to the table, making up his mind. He went to the kitchen, getting out a plate. “You guys can all eat without me, I've got stuff to take care of.”

Something bad must've happened... I don't want him suffering any more than he already has been... who knows how far he’s gone on foot... Lathe soon nudged the front door open, a thick blanket draped over his arm, holding a plate piled with hot food and a bottle of water. He gave the teen a weary smile. “You can sit at the table we have out here, you know. You can do that. It'll make eating easier.” Lathe set the plate at the table, motioning for the kid to come over, trying to seem nonthreatening.

"I don't wanna hurt you. I just really wanna help.

The teen slowly got up off of the porch step, stumbling a bit as he got up and to the table. “T-Thank you really… You're too kind.”

You don't even know me... Not like you ever will... But... He thanked him again as he was handed the blanket, wrapping it around himself. It's so unseasonably cold at night now.... Whenever the sun starts to set it just gets colder than it should...

Lathe smiled to him. “Of course. It's the least I can do.”

I've adopted two kids and foster five. It's nothing. “...do you need someone to vent to, or should I just let you be?” Lathe’s voice was gentle, not wanting to scare the teen any more.

The boy shook his head, picking up the fork with a shaking hand. “N-No, thank you for the meal.... You're really kind...” His voice was rough, and broken, like the boy’d seen all horrific things in life. I just needed food... So maybe I came to a good place to get food? He gave me a whole plate... And it looks good... But it looks really rich too... The teen had a sad smile on his face as he lifted it to his mouth, knowing he wouldn’t be able to eat much of it. It is rich....

“I've adopted two kids and I'm fostering five more right now... it's in my job description.” Lathe smiled, the teen looking up to him with surprise. “You eat as much as you want or can, and the other offers still stand. But don't just run off when you're done, okay? I'll at least give you some stuff for the road.”

You look like you'll need it...

The teen nodded, slowly returning to his food. “T-Thank you.” His voice was barely a whisper as he picked up his fork again to eat, pulling the warm blanket closer to his body to keep in warmth. It's actual food... It's not garbage anymore... He heard the soft click of the front door closing behind the generous man as he returned to his family. I'm all alone again, it's what I’ve been reduced to... He couldn’t help as he started to sniffle, tears threatening to spill from his bloodshot eyes. He’ll let me take a shower here? The teen barely got through half the plate before he knew he needed to stop. I can't eat anymore of this... He picked up his silverware, setting it on the plate before he got up to neatly fold the blanket before picking up everything neatly, trying to man up and knock on the door again. It's probably locked... they wouldn’t want a stranger just being able to come into their house.

Lathe had been glancing up from his plate to the window every few seconds at the table, unable to help from checking on him. ...he was so bony when I grabbed his shoulder... he's got to be seriously underweight… I wonder how long he's been walking… what has he been eating…? Probably not much, if anything… he asked for scraps… he sounded like he would've been grateful to dig through the garbage… that's awful… Lathe watched as the boy stood some time later, seeing him straighten up and move to the door, though a knock didn't sound for a bit. …he's got to be nervous… if he knocks, I'll let him in. Lathe was patient, smiling and setting his mug down when he picked up the soft sound of knocking. There he is. “I'll get that.” Lathe stood, going back to the door and grabbing another bag set on the kitchen table on the way, packed with snacks, water bottles, toiletries, a folded up poncho, anything he could think of if the boy just wanted to leave. He opened the door with the bag hanging off his arm, smiling to the teen. “You finished?” He watched the boy nod, his voice soft. “Would you like to stay the night? We have plenty of room for you, we'd love to have you.” Breakfast, a bed, and a hot shower are all involved. ...please?

“U-Uh….W-Would I be able to t-take a shower? A-And use y-your first aid kit?” I really need to clean out all the cuts on my feet before they get infected… He swallowed hard, fear obvious in the boy's eyes as he waited for Lathe’s answer, shaking in his torn up boots.

“Of course you can shower. And I used to be a general surgeon- you can use the kit we have, and I can help you if you need it.” I don't know how hurt you are or where... “Come in, it’s freezing.” Lathe motioned him inside, taking the half-eaten plate from him, covering it and stowing it in the fridge quickly. If he leaves tomorrow, he’s taking the leftovers and then some. “Here, c'mon upstairs with me, okay? We’ll get you set up in one of the rooms. Do you want me to wash your clothes for you? We’ve certainly got some you could borrow for after you shower.” We’ve got to have something comfortable for you to sleep in... I didn't take those boxes of older clothes down to the mission yet... we’ve probably got your size in there, most of them are Eren’s old clothes… and you could use new shoes....

The boy looked both surprised and fearful as he took a few steps on the hardwood floor only to get to a carpeted stairway. “U-Uh.... S-Sir… Sh-should I t-take my boots o-off?” I don’t want to get the carpet dirty... But if I take my shoes off he’ll see my feet...

“You can if you want to, but it doesn’t matter if you get the carpet dirty. ...what shoe size are you?” ...you'll need new ones definitely...

“I-I’m not really sure… I got them a-at a s-store for b-beggars.... T-they don't h-have a size.....” The boy stuttered as he followed Lathe closely up the stairs, still quite timid around him. This place is so big... This guy must be rich... I'm still scared.... He's being nice... Almost too nice...

“We’ll find you a new pair, those ones have obviously seen better days…” Lathe went to one of the first unoccupied rooms, one he knew had an adjoining bathroom. “Here, you can sleep in here for the night. I'll go find you a change of clothes before you get in the shower, okay? Make yourself at home. ...do you want to tell me your name? It's okay if you don't.” I can understand wanting to remain anonymous... but it's likely we'll never meet again after this, so it won't matter much.
Shit… He’s asking questions again… I can give him a fake name… “Y-You can call me T-Tim….” That’s what I tell everyone who asks… And that’s all they’ll ever get. He slowly took off his first jacket. Lathe would’ve been able to see the large holes in the fabric as he laid it out on the bed. Everything’s got holes… I’m surprised I don’t have holes.

“Okay, Hun. You can call me Lathe or Mr. Quo, whatever you want, really. I’ll be right back.” Lathe slipped away, going down to the basement to fish the boxes of clothes out of the storage space, cutting them open and sifting through them. Let’s see… underwear, socks, sweatpants, tee shirt, hoodie, all clean. And as for shoes… Lathe went up to the hall closet, going to dig into the back, pulling out one of the three pairs of his metal-toe boots, the smallest pair. He might fit these… neither I nor Eren can fit them. He took them all upstairs, going to quietly knock at the doorframe, though he caught himself for a moment, seeing the teen with most of his layers shed. He was in a tattered tank top, a ripped up pair of jeans, and he’d tugged the ruined boots off of bruised, battered, scratched-to-hell feet. “Oh my god, your feet …” They look horrible … Lathe set the clothes on the table close to the door, coming over to him. “Sit down on the bed, okay? I need to see your feet, make sure nothing’s infected.” That’d make this worse...

Tim shook his head, again regretting the decision immediately as he slumped on the bed, struggling to clamber away from Lathe as he came over. “I-I’m fine, it’s okay…. I can get to them later, I just n-need the first aid kit…..” The boy’s eyes were full of fear as he slowly pulled his feet up close to his body, trying to hide them with just as badly bruised, and cut hands. I can get it myself....

Lathe stopped, nodding and not moving to him, understanding the look in his eyes. This is all a new environment, new people. He won't trust me much yet. ...but I have to try... “Honey, you’re malnourished, dehydrated, sleep deprived if the bags under your eyes say anything, probably sick from being out in the cold and rain for so long, and you’re battered and bruised. You nearly pass out when you shake your head. I know you wouldn't want to go to a hospital or something, but I have half a mind to drive you to one and admit you. You're not in great shape. Can we make a deal? You can go and take as long and hot of a shower as you want, sleep as late as you feel like sleeping, and then take whatever food you want tomorrow morning, but after you shower, come to me fix up your feet, because you can't walk like that if they're not properly wrapped. You shouldn't walk at all with them trying to heal, but it’s what I can do for you. You can even keep the clothes if you want. ...does that sound okay?” I just don't want you in so bad of shape...

Tim was quiet for a minute, his eyes looking over his body. “I-I can't repay you for this…” It's why I asked for scraps....

“I don't care about you repaying me. You don't have to worry about a thing here besides yourself. It's okay, really. ...do we have a deal?” Say yes, please.
Tim was quiet for a few more minutes before nodding. “O-okay.” That’s fine I guess, my clothes won’t be soaking wet or smell anymore, which is good I guess… “C-Can you show me h-how the shower works?”

Lathe nodded, smiling. “Okay.” Lathe brought him to the bathroom, showing him how to use the shower, where the shampoo and conditioner were, getting him a towel and washcloth, a toothbrush with toothpaste, a razor to shave, everything. “I’ll wash the clothes you’ve got out now, and you can give me the rest later, okay? Take your time.” Lathe gathered up his coats, taking them downstairs, leaving Tim by himself. I’ll wash these, throw them in the dryer, and see if I can’t fix some of the holes in them… Lathe washed them all on a delicate cycle to not beat them up too much more, getting out a small sewing kit and starting to patch the windbreaker when it was dry. This one’s most important… it has a few big tears, but the rest is on the seams… I can use the machine for that… Lathe worked quickly, patching the clothes as they came out of the dryer. He even replaced the broken zippers and snaps on them, tying the ends of the threads off neatly. It was about two hours later when he came upstairs with the jackets and hoodies, his torn pants still waiting to be patched. “Hon, I’ve got your jackets and stuff clean and fixed up…”

Tim looked at the clothes, tears starting to form in his eyes. “Oh my god… He fixed all the holes…” He leaned slowly towards where the jackets were on the stand. Tim picked them up, slowly examining them, his eyes threatening even more to shed tears. They’re all fixed. Who is this man? He’s a saint. I’ll have to pay him back somehow. He waited patiently for Lathe to return. “T-thank you really. You’re so kind.” It’s almost a little scary how much thought you put into this...

Lathe just smiled, setting his bag on the bed. “I was in the same place as you when I was a teen… practically lived under a bridge for a few years. I understand how hard it is.” It’s difficult… and terrifying… and just horrid. ...coping isn’t easy, and every little bit of help was a huge relief if it meant not worrying for just a moment. “Hop up, Hun. Let’s get you cleaned up.” I hope they aren't infected. Lathe was patient as Tim sat back down on the bed, moving his foot was in his lap, inspecting the angry red cuts. ...well shit… “Hate to break it to you, but they’re infected… how long have you been walking in those boots?” They didn't do even a mediocre job of protecting you… they did a horrible one.

Tim was quiet for a moment before he wiped at his face with a thin wrist. “T-Two years…” His voice was broken as he kept his eyes away from Lathe. God only knows what you’ll say, you’ll probably yell at me. “They… they’ve probably been i-infected for quite awhile…” I’m probably running a fever too… but I just feel cold...
“...mine were dress shoes.” Lathe inspected the other foot, thinking. “Paper thin, they were being thrown out... I had to constantly have my feet wrapped... no arches, nothing... if I stepped in a puddle, I just resigned myself to it... drying them off never helped much anyway, skin would just peel off anyway...” It just happened... a part of existing, I dunno. “I have new boots for you.”

Lathe nodded to the pair sitting next to the bed. “If you fit them, you can keep them. They have arches in them, and they'll keep your feet dry and protected. I have others if that's not your size.”

Lathe reached for alcohol wipes, needing to clean out the cuts. “I'm really sorry, but I need to clean these out. It's gonna hurt, but you'll be okay.” You can do this. You'll get better this way. Lathe started to clean the cuts on the bottom of his feet, surprised when Tim didn't even flinch. ...huh.

Lathe worked up to his ankle, stopping there. “Hun, do me a favour and tell me the moment when you feel me touch the bottom of your foot with my finger, okay?” Lathe let his finger hover out of sight under his foot, waiting a moment before tapping his foot. He didn't register anything, the teen quiet. Another tap. Nothing. He pressed his finger into his foot, only then getting a response. “...oh my... you only noticed when I dug my finger into your foot...” Lathe sighed, moving on to his other foot with the alcohol wipes. “I wouldn't be surprised if you have flat feet after all this time... and you've got some nerve damage...” Well shit... Lathe moved to gently wipe a cream over his feet, thinking. ...should I offer... no, I shouldn't... he'd lose blood, and he won't want an IV. Lathe did what he could, starting to wrap up his feet. “When I'm done, try the boots on, and I can get you a bigger pair if you need them.”

We'll get you set up for tomorrow...

Tim thanked him quietly, his voice a little softer now that he was able to clear his throat a bit better. “I um... What time do you usually make breakfast... I don't really want to bother you anymore that much, especially with all you've done for me already.” I couldn't possibly ask to stay until I felt better... that would be wrong, and he's already been nice enough to me.

“With how tired you look, I wouldn't be surprised if you woke up around when we normally eat lunch. My son- one of them- has a track meet tomorrow, but I'll make Eren drive him. What do you say I wake you up at around six thirty, seven? I'll make breakfast then, everyone else would be up. And you don't have to worry about getting in the way at all. You're very welcome to stay as long as you like- until you feel well, at least. You don't look too good.” Lathe reached out, feeling his forehead with the back of his hand. “Yeah, you're burning up. I suspected as much. Here, take these. Two of them, okay?” Lathe handed him a small orange bottle and a bottle of water from the depths of his bag, finishing one foot and starting on the other. Anything to get your systems back on track as soon as possible... you could leave anytime you want... you might bail in the dead of night, who knows. But for now, I'm going to help you feel better.

Tim thanked him again, taking the pills he was given and handing them back. He drained the bottle of water without even thinking about it and watching him finish up wrapping his feet. Okay, I'll try the shoes on and then I'll see if I can sleep... I should be able to... I think I still have my knife... he didn't take it away did he? Tim glanced over towards the small object on the other nightstand. It's still there... He seemed to let out a sigh of relief as he slowly pulled the boots to the bed, sitting down to tug them on over his feet. They're a bit big... but that means if I could eat enough to grow I'd still fit in them... “They... they fit, thank you, M-Mr. Quo.” What do I do now?

Lathe smiled, standing from the bed, packing back up. “I'm glad. I'll get the rest of your clothes cleaned and mended, okay? You should get as much sleep as you can. You'll feel better.” Lathe hesitated to leave, resting a gentle hand on Tim’s shoulder. “I know what you're going through is really hard, and that you've been away from your home for a while and that it's hard to accept help… but I think you should really consider staying a short while. I'm not going to make you leave, but I'm also no forcing you to stay. Your feet need to mend, you're fighting a cold and you barely have any meat on your bones. I’m not making you make this decision now, think about it. And you can change your mind whenever you want. You’re free to leave and come back if you change your mind. I'm just making sure you know the offer is there. I know it’s hell. And if you ever want to talk or just want a snack, come talk to me, okay?” It's hell. And nobody deserves it.

Tim nodded after a few moments, slowly starting to get up onto the bed. “Thank you, but I’ll be leaving tomorrow…” I don’t stay in one place for more than a night… He shifted so that he could get under the comforter, and slip between the soft sheets. I’ll definitely be able to sleep here for the night.

Lathe nodded solemnly, going to take the rest of his dirty clothes. “Okay, Hon. Sleep well.” Lathe was gone after that, turning out the light for him, going to finish cleaning and patching his clothes, working late on them with an expert hand. He won't mind if I add a pocket or two to this jacket… I've got the same material as a scrap… I'll line them nice, too… along with some snacks… and maybe some money… Lathe came upstairs past midnight with the finished stack of clothes, the jeans having been torn apart and patched up to look new, the seams even sturdier than when they were new. Lathe was silent as he set them in a neat pile on the large desk against the far wall, leaving for his own bed. I hope he feels better in the morning…

Eren was the first to wake up in the house, at the crack of dawn. He knocked on Mark’s door to get them to wake up. “Rise and shine love birds, we’re leaving in an hour, so get up and get dressed.” Eren made sure that there was movement before he scampered down the stairs and outside to let the animals out and to feed them their morning meals. Okay, what to make for breakfast? Mark will want a smoothie… so I can make smoothies for all of us… and maybe some cereal for myself? I wonder what Claire’ll want?

Mark groaned as he heard Eren at the door. And I just finished falling back asleep from getting up an hour ago…. Fuck… He raised his head, leaning over towards Claire, kissing all over her face, waiting for her to get up. Come on, time to open up your eyes. I have a big day today! I’m so excited that you get to come and watch! He had the feeling of butterflies in his stomach as he thought about the track meet which started at the ungodly hour of seven in the morning. But then I think we’re done after noon.

Claire blinked awake slowly, smiling softly as he kissed all across her cheeks, a hand coming up to catch his chin, bringing him in for a slow kiss, tugging him on top of her. Her hands lightly wandered for a moment, both of them just basking in the others presence for a minute or two. She reached down and gave his ass a playful squeeze, grinning and breaking their kiss. “Today’s the day you do the running thing.” She pecked his nose, her eyes warm. I get to see you run and leave the others in the dust! I also get to see that lovely ass and those long legs in action…
“It is, shall we get up? Get dressed, so I’m not tempted to make yesterday morning happen all over again.” He giggled quietly and he slowly got up from where he was, his body completely naked. As much as I would like a repeat of yesterday morning, I've got to run...

“...but what if I don't wanna?” Claire leaned up to hug his middle, she herself also completely bare. “Tell you what. If after the meet we have enough alone time before I get picked up, if you do well enough in the meet I just might ride you.” Claire nipped his neck, feeling him shiver. I'd love to...

“Damn… That’s a tempting offer…. And I think I might be inclined to do even better now.” He murmured and he stood, letting his length hang between his legs, though it started to perk with the usual morning hardness. Hmm, I'll need to get rid of that...

Claire slowly stretched, getting out of bed and going to slip into a change of clothes when she noticed Mark’s slowly hardening length, unable to keep her eyes off of him as he started to change. Hm... Claire sidled up to him, turning him from the armoire and pecking his lips, her hands wandering down his sides. “...would you like me to... help you, with that?” Please?

“Hmm… Claire, that’s too tempting...” God, that's gotta happen now. “Please.” He murmured breathlessly, his fingers running through Claire’s hair gently, and lovingly. I’d love for you to do that...

Claire smirked, kissing him again before moving to her knees, kissing up his hip, her hands running up and down his strong thighs. Fuck... he's got muscle... he's perfect... Claire kissed to his base, nipping it before moving to take his tip into her mouth, slowly beginning to bob her head. So thick... he's wonderful...

Mark groaned as he watched her take as much as she could in. “F-fuck… Claire …” It feels so good, and the sight... Oh my god I will not be able to hold it... It’s too early... He groaned, his eyes full of adoration as she continued her ministrations.

Claire moved one hand over his side, gently massaging his balls as she sucked on his long length, sucking harder as he let out choked moans. Come on, I wanna taste you. She moved back to suck at his tip, her other hand coming up to stroke his shaft as she lapped at his tip, nudging the slit merclessly. You sound so wonderful when you cum... I wanna hear you moan...

Mark let out a whine as he felt his coil tighten uncontrollably. “C-Claire… f- fuck …” He couldn’t control himself as he came into her mouth and all over her face. Fuck... I feel warm...
Claire struggled to swallow his load, unable to and letting him cum on her cheeks so she didn't choke. She pumped him firmly through his orgasm, letting him ride it out, lapping his release from his tip. She licked her lips, standing and taking the tissue Mark offered her, wiping off her cheeks before she was immediately pulled in for a hot kiss, melting into it. Fuck... She whimpered quietly when their tongues tangled, whimpering into his mouth. She pouted when he broke the kiss, reluctantly letting go of him. Dammit... I want him... I'll get him later... dammit...

“Let’s get dressed... Eren will not wait for us, and he will barge in, he knows where the key for the door is.” He’s not as nice as Dad. He went over to the adjoined bathroom, quickly cleaning himself up before he got into his speedo underwear. Gotta wear this with the uniform...

Claire started to change, clipping on her bra and stepping into panties before tugging on leggings and a nice top. I hope he likes these leggings... I brought them specifically so he can see whatever he likes... She meandered to the bathroom to wash up, smirking as she saw him in just a speedo. “Jesus, Mark, put that thing away before I spontaneously combust.” Claire fanned herself with her hand, her gaze raking over him. He’s so toned... fuck, he’s hot and he’s in a goddamn speedo... I’m not gonna be able to think of anything else.

“What?” He turned around giving her full sight of his abs and his bulge, a smirk on his face. “Like what you see?” I hope you do.... I fucking hate trying to cramp everything into my speedo...

“Fuck yes...” She grinned as he blushed, still unused to her being so blunt. “God, the only things I’ll be able to do at that meet is ogle you and think about you wearing that speedo. It should be illegal to be that attractive.” She moved to peck his lips, nipping his neck lightly. “Well, with any luck we’ll have enough time after to get you out of it... now move so I can wash my face.” I’m seriously turned on right now, but I low-key feel gross, so.

Mark smirked and pecked her forehead before heading out of the bathroom, and back to his room to slip into his tight uniform. Good thing my hair doesn’t grow that fast, my legs and pits are shaved... Oh right, I need deodorant. He rose his arm to apply it generously, turning back to see Claire. His eyes raked over her appearance. Damn.... She’s fine... As fine as fine can be.

Claire washed her face once she had control of the sink, brushing her teeth and then trying to untangle her long hair. It never gets easier. Soon enough she was throwing her hair up into a long ponytail, her wavy hair still making it far down her back. She dragged her stuff out of the bathroom, smirking as she saw him in his tight uniform. “...and I thought I would be able to keep my hands off you...” I really wanna just strip you right the fuck now but I can’t.... dammit...
tea in his hand along with the morning paper.

“Big day today, your smoothie is in the fridge Mark, Claire what would you like in yours? We have bananas, apples, strawberries, raspberries, blueberries, blackberries, oranges, lemons, limes, peaches, star fruit, pomegranates, and dragon fruit.” There’s a lot of choices just in the berry section...

Claire stared at him in shock. “...that’s a lot, Uhm… orange, lemon, raspberry and pomegranate please… if that's okay....” Why do you people own so much fruit?

Eren nodded and got out the selected fruits and started to expertly chop them up and put them in the blender. “Okay, regular yogurt or greek yogurt?”

“Greek.”

“Strawberry or plain vanilla?”

“Umm… Vanilla.”

“Milk or OJ?”

“Geez how many more choices do I have?”

“Milk or OJ?”

“Um… OJ.”

“Alright, protein powder? Vitamins? Anything?”

“Um, no thanks, just the smoothie.”

“Alright, you can go look in the pantry to see if we have any cereal you like or I can make eggs and toast really quickly.” Eren set off to make her smoothie, making sure that he did it quickly to prevent from waking up the kids. I got my tea, I’ll be all set, I’m good with just a granola bar, then maybe I won’t need to take my nausea pill... He set out Claire’s smoothie once it was done, on the counter, grabbing her a bowl when she had selected her choice of cereal. Mark getting his green smoothie from the fridge, and already half way through a protein bar. Mark’s going through food like there’s no tomorrow, and he’s not gaining any weight. He’s muscular... but he doesn’t have muscles like Levi does, that’s for sure. Eren watched them as they both ate quietly, getting himself a large travel mug and making a tea to go. “Mark make sure you have enough water, I’m packing a big snack kit with protein bars and I froze a few of your smoothies, so that they’ll thaw and you can drink them if you want… while you’re on break or something… and Claire I’m bringing waters for us too. Get whatever you two want packed and we’ll get going.” He watched them nod as he put the dishes in the sink and rinsed them out, setting them aside to dry and going to pack a cooler of waters and Mark’s smoothies. He then packed a bag full of snacks for him and Claire as well as extra protein bars for Mark. I dunno if they’ll get hungry or not... this is the first track meet we’ve ever gone to. After both of them had everything in the car and themselves he got into the driver’s seat and started towards the track meet at Sina public High school, a good half hour away from their house.

Mark’s knee continued to bounce for the entire ride as he looked out the window. The match will go fine… It’s us against Sina… it should only be about 4 hours.... And I think Claire is staying until dinner… maybe we can go riding after? Out to the Lake? His mind went completely blank as he watched out the window as the houses went by. We’ll be to Sina soon.

~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~

Lathe was quiet when he ascended the stairs, the muffled sounds of the kids eating breakfast following him. A few of them are up… I made smoothies and pancakes with all the fixings... Lathe poked his head in to Tim’s room at seven on the dot, having wanted to let him sleep as long as he had said. He could really use more rest... but I told him I’d wake him up. Lathe moved to his side, reaching out and gently shaking his shoulder. “Hun, it’s Lathe, Mr. Quo. Wake up, breakfast is waiting-”

Tim was asleep soundly until he felt someone touch his shoulder, his hand immediately closing around his knife as he brought it out towards whoever was touching him. I don’t have money… Get off of me! His eyes were wide with panic as he held the knife with shaking hands.

Lathe watched with shock as Tim immediately raised the knife to him, quickly and effectively disarming him on instinct, soon having the knife in his own hand. He moved to set it on the far desk, turning back to him. “Hun, I'm not about to kill you, chill the hell out! It's fine.” Lathe held his hands up in surrender from across the room, giving him space to get his bearings. Well shit...

Tim’s eyes were wide with shock as he looked around his surroundings in confusion. Where am I?
Was I drugged again? What happened to me? He looked over his body barely remembering what had happened the previous day until he saw the bandages that he’d poorly wrapped around himself last night after locating some bandages. Oh... I... I’m okay... fuck... I pulled a knife on him...

“I...” Tim’s mouth was dry with guilt as he looked down and away. I should leave... I was disrespectful... “I... I-I’m sorry...” He started to shake, curling up to himself. “I... I didn’t mean...” He trailed off, the sunken look in his eyes that much worse as he started to really wake up and realize what he’d done. I bit the hand that fed me...

Lathe’s expression soon shifted to one of sympathy, coming over to the bed. “It's okay, Hun, you did it on reflex, I understand. I was the same way for a long time.” It still happens once in a blue moon... I remember I nearly blindly tackled Levi once forever ago when he smacked me awake.... Lathe sat down next to him, wanting to help him as he shook from fear. ...when Eren gets this scared, he needs hugs a lot of the time... but you probably won't want a hug.... ...but at the same time, I don't know when the last time you've had friendly human contact was... you could be lonely for all I know. I have no idea. “Are you okay, Hun? ...do you need a hug, or do you just want space?” I'm fine with either. You won all my sympathy the second you showed up, really...

Tim shook his head, slowly to try and keep himself from blacking out. “I-I’m sorry....” He mumbled quietly, feeling the first tear fall down his cheek, the next few following not even seconds later. “I-I’ll get dressed... And... And get going....” I’m staying here too long as it is...

Lathe shifted a bit closer to him, pressing a soft blue cloth into his hand, his other hand on his arm. “Hey, it's okay Hun, you don't have to cry. It's okay, really, it is. You can get dressed, but please, stay for breakfast? I'll make you pancakes and a smoothie, any kind you want. It's okay.” Lathe wanted to pull the teen into a hug, but he didn't, trying not to crowd him. Please don't cry...

Tim looked down to the cloth, using it to wipe at his face, his eyes still retaining their bloodshot look. “O-Okay.... A-A smoothie... s-sounds fine...” His voice was weak as he sniffled, looking away from Lathe as he slowly handed back the cloth. My head’s pounding... I need to quit crying...

Lathe shook his head a bit, letting him hang onto the cloth for another moment. “It’s fine, Hun. And don't worry- we'll send you off with more food for the road when you do go. How are you feeling?” Lathe raised a hand to his forehead, his brow furrowed. “Hun, you're burning up even worse... I really don't think you should even be getting up... you can rest awhile longer and I'll bring your food up here if you like, you must be exhausted.” Lathe tried desperately to persuade him, not able in good conscience to make this sick teen walk around or leave. You're really sick... you must be around 102 or 103 by this point... which is bad...

Tim looked down at his feet. “N-No… I’m gonna get dressed and I-I’ll eat…… T-Then I need to go...” His voice was a little harder as he slowly shifted to get up, his legs wobbling weakly as he made his way over to his clothes. “W-where do you want me to put the clothes I borrowed?” They’ll probably need to be washed...
“You had room in your backpack, right? If not, they go in your new bag of supplies there.” Lathe motioned to the bag, sitting innocently next to his backpack. “If the ones you already had weren’t enough to keep you warm… and we’ve got more spares, if you want them…” Whatever you need. ...and if you have to go, I’ll let you. You’ve gotten this far...

“I-I couldn’t possibly take more from you, you’ve already given me a new pair of boots… And fixed all my clothes… And let me shower and sleep more than I ever have in a long time.” That was the best I’ve slept probably since I was still living with Mom...

“And the fact that it’s been so long is exactly why I’m doing this. You’ve been away from home a long time, you deserve a bit of peace and care once in awhile. They’re yours, Hun.” Lathe smiled. I know it’s a hard thing to accept, but I want to give it.

“T-Thank you…” He murmured quietly and got everything ready to get dressed, watching as Lathe left the room. He quickly packed away his new clothes before putting his layers on, slowly and delicately. He laced up his new boots and picked up his bags. Hmm… My wallet… Where’s my wallet? He checked his pockets, thankful that he’d taken his ID out and put it in his own bag when he opened the wallet up to see multiple twenties in there that were not there before. What? Why…. I can’t take this....

Lathe went to where the kids were finishing up breakfast, clearing the table a bit from finished plates, cleaning up a bit until Tim came downstairs. He smiled to him, pausing when he set the small stack of twenties on the counter. ...okay, so he noticed the money. Play dumb about it, Lathe. Not that though, the other thing. Be meek, I dunno! “...I just don’t want you starve or freeze out there… you don't deserve that.” Because you will. You’re malnourished and I have no fucking clue how you’re not dead yet.

Tim shook his head slightly, looking torn. “I can’t take this… You’ve already done too much.” His voice cracked as he looked down at the stack. I can’t take all that, I’ll get fucking robbed if I have so much on me...

Lathe nodded quietly, taking back all but two of them. “At least keep that. Enough to get you sandwich stuff for a little while…”

Tim looked torn as he looked down at the money Lathe left. “I don’t deserve it… You’ve already done too much for me… And I can’t pay you back for anything.” Tim tried to push the two twenties towards Lathe again. I really can’t take this from you...
Lathe sighed, taking one and leaving just one on the counter. “You also don't deserve to starve, and look around you. I don't give a damn if you can't repay me, you don't have to. I know you can't repay me for it. But I know you know what hell feels like and I want to make it at least the tiniest bit better for you for a week or however long your food lasts and forever long your clothes keep you warm because I just remember being ecstatic over finding a damn quarter on the sidewalk and being banned from every store in my county for petty theft because I wanted to eat and nobody deserves that. Now take it so I can make you pancakes and get you a smoothie and let you relax for a bit.” You deserve a moment of peace and a good meal for once, and to worry a little less.

Tim nodded without fighting back, putting the bill into his wallet which now held his ID, but Lathe wouldn’t have been able to see it as he quickly put it into one of the inner pockets of his jacket. “Just the smoothie please… I won’t be able to stomach pancakes… D-Do you have any to-go cups?” I know I might be asking a lot… But I don’t want to stay here and bother you any more than I already am…

“...I'm not gonna make you stay if you don't want to, so I can get you a thermos, it'll hold plenty. But you can stay and skim the paper if you want, I don't know how in touch you are with things going on…” How long has it been since you heard any news?

Tim shook his head. “N-no thank you… I don’t even really know what day it is anymore.” They all just blend together, and I can never tell what day of the week it is… “A-And a thermos would… Would be plenty.” I shouldn't fight him anymore… If he wants to give me a thermos I can wash it out at a gas station in town maybe…

“...Hun, it’s April 10th. It’s a Sunday.” Lathe looked over his shoulder to Tim, seeing him look at him as if he were crazy. “...what?” Realisation dawned on him. “...when do you last remember hearing the date?” If you've been gone at least two years… what do you last remember…?

“Christmas… I think… Because everything was closed… And I remember getting frostbite…” I stepped in a puddle without realizing it… That was the day when I thought I’d be a goner… It’s already been three years, then… That I’ve been gone… Tim looked down at his hands as they shook. “I didn’t realize it was already this late in the y-year.” I’m 17...

Lathe couldn't help but faintly and ruefully smile. You and me both… “It's already April, but it's been so unseasonably cold… that's probably why you didn't realise it.” Lathe motioned him over, gesturing to the row of fruit on the counter. “Pick what you want in your smoothie, Hun. I'll get you a thermos.” Lathe made his way to the steps, disappearing down to the basement to rifle through the camping gear for a decent thermos. He returned with a nice stainless steel one with a ring to clip it onto his backpack, seeing him with a small pile of fruit next to him. “What'd you pick?”
“Um… Strawberries… Raspberries… A banana… an Orange… And the um… Dragonfruit, please.” I haven’t had a smoothie in a really long time. “Why… W-why do you keep calling me Hun?” He sat down on one of the stools, slouching a bit as he put his hands on the counter, watching his hands horribly shake.

“Because I know your name isn’t Tim. I know you don’t want to get attached to anything and you don’t want anyone to get attached to you, but it won’t make it hurt any less. And in the first three seconds I saw you, you managed to make me give a shit about you, so you’ve earned the title.” Lathe spoke lightly for the latter half of his words, working to make his smoothie, making sure to add extra vitamins to it. “I’m making executive decisions as to yogurt and whatnot because you need vitamins, dammit.” Lathe added Greek yogurt and milk, blending the smoothie up and pouring it into the cleaned thermos, handing it to him with a melancholy look. He watched him stand on shaky feet, walking with him to the door. He opened the door for him, turning him and giving him a quick, gentle hug before letting him go. “You be careful, okay? Take good care of yourself, or at least try to.” Please change your mind and stay… The words Lathe didn't say but wanted to were obvious in his voice.

Tim slowly stepped out of the house and onto the porch holding the metal thermos with both hands in his weak and shaky grasp. “Thank you… I brought this upon myself… but thank you for letting me sleep here, and I apologize for the inconvenience.” He smiled weakly at him, barely showing for a moment that his gums were bleeding minutely. I should get going. He slowly ambled down the steps and towards the road, heading towards town.

“You're no inconvenience, Hun. You're always welcome here.” Lathe smiled to him, waving as he started down the driveway before shutting the door quietly, leaning against it with a heavy sigh, his conscience weighing heavily on him. ...he's so sickly... I should have made him stay... he should be in bed resting with breakfast and at least the comics to amuse him or something... resting, sleeping... fuck, I never gave him pills. He needs medicine! Lathe ran upstairs, grabbing the small bottle from his room, stopping and looking over the room. The bed was neatly made, everything back in place, as if he were never there. The sapphire blue handkerchief lay neatly folded on the dresser, one of the two things that didn't belong, right next to the small medicine bottle. ...I just want you to feel well again, as much as you can at this point.” Lathe resisted giving him

Tim was surprised as he was stopped, having heard the jogging feet behind him and expecting a runner to pass by him. Oh... Medicine... “T-Thank you…” He murmured quietly, taking the bottle from Lathe’s hand into his own shaking one. “You didn’t have to run just for medicine, I would be fine without it.” I mean I’ve survived this long… But just maybe… Tonight might be my last… He didn’t notice that Lathe had shoved the handkerchief into his pocket, having not felt the movement at all.

“...I just want you to feel well again, as much as you can at this point.” Lathe resisted giving him another hug, his mind kicking at him to drag him back inside and make him better. “...I worry. Just… good luck.” Lathe looked to the ground, turning to amble back to the house. ...god dammit...

“Thank you, Mr. Quo…. It was really nice to meet you.” His words were soft as he turned away as well and made his way to the street and towards town. I think I can drink and walk at the same time... He could barely open the thermos with how badly his whole body was shaking. I can do it...

Lathe dragged his feet back to the house, unable to kick the guilt building up in the back of his head, feeling heavier. ...I could've done more... Lathe looked up when he noticed movement, Ieva moving around the kitchen, straightening up. “Hey, Honey. Good morning.” Lathe moved to hug her around the waist, kissing her cheek before dropping his head onto her shoulder, unable to shake the sad, sinking feeling. I should've done more...

Ieva looked up as he greeted her. “Good morning, Hun. Is ‘Tim’ still sleeping?” She let him wrap his arms around her, soon turning her body and hugging him back. How is he? I know you stayed up late fixing his clothes.

Lathe shook his head, burying his face in her neck. “...he left a couple minutes ago, but I ran back out and made sure to give him medicine... he's so sick, burning up, but I couldn't make him or convince him to stay... so I made him a smoothie, he didn't want pancakes... and he just left... he's in such bad shape... and I can't do anything else about it...” If anyone could help him... it could've been us... and I didn't do enough... Lathe started to faintly tremor in her hold, sniffling a bit.

Oh no... He’s gonna be crying... He’s guilty.... Or at least that's how he feels. “No honey, there’s no reason to cry... You did everything you could to help him, that’s all that matters.” She started to rub his back, gently cooing to him. “You even said he’d be happy with scraps... And you offered him so much more... ‘Tim’ probably wasn’t used to that, Honey you did a wonderful thing, don’t be sad about it.” You can’t cry, the kids won’t understand... They don’t understand why someone stayed in the house...

Lathe couldn't help it, hot tears falling down his cheeks, holding onto her tightly. “H-He reminded me so much of myself when I was that old... I-I just... I let him walk out the fucking door and he looked ready to collapse and I can't believe I let myself do that...” ... he needs to change his mind and come back so I can take care of him and make him better first... “I know I can't force h-him... b-but...” I feel so shitty about it...

“Lathe, you can’t force him, I’m sorry but if he wanted to leave you needed to let him go. I know it’s hard..... I really do, but if he wants to he’ll come back...” Ieva rubbed his back as she held him even closer. “Why don’t you go to Mark’s track meet? I can take care of the kids, you can keep your mind off of things?” I know you wanted to see Mark run, apparently he’s ridiculously fast...
...he won't come back though... I know he won't... “O-Okay…” Lathe forced himself to let go of Ieva, kissing her cheek before going upstairs, going through the motions of washing up and dressing. ...I hope he finds a few people who are at least a little kind to him... Lathe went downstairs a bit later, kissing Ieva goodbye and ruffling many mops of hair goodbye before he left, walking to his car. He hoped he wouldn't see Tim on his drive into town, knowing it would make his heart hurt, but it made him worry even more when he didn't see him at all. It was a half hour before Lathe parked at Sina high school, heading over for the field. I hope I'm not too late... they've started, but it hasn't been long I don't think...

Eren and Claire watched in amazement as many high school boys were running along the out door track, the sun doing very little to keep everyone warm. Good thing I had extra hoodies in the car. He picked up a program that Mark had thrown at them with everything he was doing circled and the times. Let’s see... He’ll be up again in 15 minutes... “We’ve got 15 minutes until he runs for a long time…” It's a long dash...

Lathe studied the stands, making his way over to where Eren and Claire sat, sitting next to them. “‘Sup. How’s Mark doing?” I hope I haven't missed too much..

“Absolutely horrible, he’s only broken 3 state records in his first four runs… The last one only set a district record.” He’s a fast little shit. “He’ll have colleges looking at him probably pretty soon… Mark’s a great athlete…”

“...if you're joking I'm going to smack you.”

“He’s not, they announced it and everything, I believe that everyone’s been talking about him this entire time.” Claire piped up as she kept her gaze focused towards Mark as he stretched out. He’s so fucking hot! Ah I’m gonna die while I’m waiting for this to be over...

“...well shit.” Lathe watched with interest as Mark raced ahead of his opponents in every heat he was slotted for, the others following him only by yards and yards when he crossed the finish line, his times and broken records sounding over the speakers. A few more broken state records... many more broken district records... ...I think I smell a college-level athletics scholarship.... The smile slowly returned to Lathe’s face, waving when Mark looked over the crowd and saw them, looking proud of him. You're doing so insanely awesome... It was his second-last heat of the event, all the other racers looking wary as Mark casually stretched for a moment. They all know they won't win... hm. Lathe watched as within a few moments they were off, Mark running ahead, easily leaping over his set of hurdles, steadily pulling ahead of the others. He's doing great! Come on... Lathe watched with a bit of worry as Mark nearly stumbled after landing from his third last jump, though he kept going. Just two more... almost there... Lathe watched Mark jump over the next hurdle, winding as his foot caught on it, effectively throwing him off balance.
The fall was the furthest thing from graceful.

It happened too fast to really understand what was happening until it was over- Mark was on the ground, on his back, his hand over his mouth as he tried to muffle sounds of pain. His leg bent as if he had a second knee halfway through his calf, bloody white bone sticking out from the flesh, his left arm laying limp on the ground next to him.

Fuck. That got very bad very fast. The race of course immediately stopped, Lathe running down the stands and trying to get past the fence as the medic and coaches ran out and the other racers turn away, more than a few throwing up. Someone threw a towel over his leg to hide the injury, and someone called an ambulance. Lathe couldn't tell if Eren or Claire were behind him or not, just focusing on getting to him. Lathe finally was able to get past the fence, running over to the group huddled around Mark. “Mark!” Lathe saw the men around him turn to him, not moving to make room for him. “Please, I'm his father. Did someone call an ambulance?” They should've… Lathe was grateful as they made room for him, kneeling next to him. He looked over his arm, already bruising partway down his forearm. “It's okay Hon, just breathe. I'm so sorry.” Lathe very gingerly prodded his arm, wincing a bit as Mark gasped in pain. Both bones… “They're both broken… shit…” Lathe looked up to Mark’s face, seeing the fear in his eyes. “No, Mark, Hun it's okay, we can get you all fixed up. I know it really hurts right now but soon enough we’ll make the pain stop and you'll be okay. Promise.” Lathe carded a hand through his hair, knowing it was a waiting game until the ambulance got there.

...he's going to need surgery for that leg… at least enough to get the bone back in place before… .......would we let him use serum…….? Fuck, I don't know.... but nevertheless, putting you back together is going to be a production. It's a good thing I can pull strings. “Don't worry, Mark, I'm just going to call Scotty, let him know what’s happening.” Lathe pulled out his phone, quickly dialling the number and holding it to his ear, speaking as soon as he picked up. [Scotty, it’s Lathe.]

[Oh fuck, what happened now?]

[Mark’s first track meet was today, he tripped over the second last hurdle. His right arm is broken, and his left leg too. The fibula broke skin. I'm not sure yet if we’re going to use serum to fix this but either way he's going to need surgery to at least get the bone back in place.] I don't want Mark hearing this- he can't panic more than he already is.

[Alright, I’ll see what my schedule looks like.... ] There was a pause and some shuffling at the other end of the line, Scotty flipping through papers. [Well, OR 6 is open.... When are you coming in? Do you know yet or is the ambulance not at the high school yet?]

[It's not here yet… oh, crap, we’re not at Trost. The meet’s at Sina, we’re pretty far away… I'll tell them to book it to Trost, we’ll be there as soon as we can. Mark doesn't exactly feel that great.] His other hand still carded through his hair, trying to calm him somewhat.
I can only imagine, surgery would keep him out of the rest of the year and maybe next season… But I’m not necessarily sure what his mindset is like right now, make sure you calm him down. I’ll look for you on the intercom when the call from your ambulance gets patched in.]

Oh my god…. I’m never gonna be able to run again… I’m done for… Mark’s tears were quickly falling down his cheeks from both pain and humiliation. I hit the hurdle…. I broke my leg and my arm… I have a bone sticking out of my leg and it hurts … Mark’s breathing was shaky as he slowly started to close his eyes, his good arm coming up to hide his face from his coaches. This is such an embarrassment….

[Got it, Scotty. I'll see you.] Lathe hung up, his full attention turned back to Mark. “It's gonna be okay Hon… I talked to Scotty, we’re going to fix you right up. ...but there's something very important I need to tell you about, before you even get in the ambulance. I know you love running, and we all want you to keep running. You have so much potential, and you still do. No, Hon, I'm not saying you'll never run again, no, you most definitely can.” Lathe tried to comfort him as he let out a choked sob, waiting for him to calm again. He picked his head up when he heard sirens in the distance growing louder, looking back to Mark, his voice serious. “There’s something Scotty, Casper and I have worked on for a long while, a kind of serum. It’s like a shot- it’ll make healing much faster, as in walk up the stairs later today without help faster, as in use your left hand to carry a bucket of sand faster. But it hurts while you're mending. It can really hurt for a little while, but it’s your best chance for your leg to heal properly and for you to stay in this season for track. You can think about it on the ride to Trost, but we need to know what you want to do. It's up to you; you're more than capable of deciding.” Lathe stopped talking when the ambulance came onto the field, moving with the others out of the way to let the paramedics carefully get Mark onto the stretcher, coming with them. Eren grabbed his arm, looking confused. “What-” He watched as Eren held up the keys to his car, just shaking his head with disbelief. “I've taught you too well.”

Dammit, he picked my pocket without me noticing again . Lathe turned back and ran to the ambulance, hopping inside. “He needs to go to Trost- there’s an OR waiting for him there already.” Lathe moved next to Mark, staying out of the way of the many doctors running around. ...what the fuck is going on? This surely isn't about Mark… Lathe looked up the hallway as he saw a stretcher rolling away from him, able to catch just a glimpse of the patient through a break in the doctors and nurses, seeing a bare pair of battered feet. ........oh my god. Lathe felt his stomach sink, immediately running over when he saw Scotty was hovering over the stretcher as well. “Scotty! What happened to him? I know he was sick when he left, but…” Lathe was able to... break through the wall of doctors and make it next to Scotty, looking with worry over the teen’s gaunt face, his eyes shut. ...fuck, is he okay...?

“Worst case of Sepsis I’ve ever seen.” Scotty told him looking over the clipboard. “ID says this guy’s name is James Julian… He’s 17… And from…. Nebraska? That can’t be right… Jennie, go check his ID again, make sure this information’s right.” He can’t be from Nebraska, the town is hundreds of miles away...

“...he didn't tell me much… but he did tell me that the tattered boots he was wearing had served him for at least two years… he’s been gone at least that long… someone needs to check for any old missing persons reports. Someone must've noticed he’d been gone all this time.” ...Sepsis... fuck, I should've known that those infections probably had been there long enough for it to be a threat... “How did he end up here?” He didn't want to go to the hospital.... we compromised, but he was so adamant about it...

“Collapsed outside of the police station in town, apparently he went unconscious right then and there… But at this rate we won’t be able to administer any antibiotics in time to stop it…. It’s in his heart and lungs, the only thing we can really do is see if the serum can do anything or let it run it’s course, which would mean death in a few hours.” It’s bad... Really bad, his feet are absolutely horrid. The infection in them spread like wildfire... He’s got a 108 fever too...

...he would've gone twenty minutes at most outside the house... the police station isn't that far... “Please, we should see if the serum can do anything. We need to at least try.” I can't just let us do nothing .... I can't ...

Scotty shook his head. “He’s got no next of kin here… He’s not 18, I can’t legally give him the serum without someone responsible for him signing it off.” That’s how this medical trial works.... We can’t do anything... ‘I’m sorry, Lathe...”

“I’ll be the one responsible for him.” Lathe didn't have to think before he spoke, his grip on the edge of the stretcher turning his knuckles white. “Scotty, I look at him, and all I can see is me when I was seventeen, and he doesn't deserve to lay in a hospital bed and die because he doesn't have family… I can't let that happen to him...” we need to try ...

Scotty looked up as Jennie came back with the clipboard, taking it and seeing that his hometown still had not changed. “Okay, so he is from Nebraska, Jennie, I need 500 cc’s of TitanX and I need two bags of AB+ for transfusion.” *We’re gonna try to help him out... “You’ll have to sign a waiver, and is Daniel looking at Mark? I got an assistant to help with all the serum and bone cases...” You just appeared over here, did you leave your son alone?
Lathe looked torn, looking over his shoulder. “I-I don't know who he’s with…” I can't be in two places at once... fuck...

Scotty sighed quietly, shaking his head. “Go find Mark and tell Daniel to move him to Room 9, we can fit both of them in there…” He unlocked the gurney and started to move James to the specific room, making sure Jennie knew to bring all the supplies there as well, hooking him up to the IV again and to a heart monitor. It's irregular... Joy.

Lathe nodded, casting one last look to James before letting go, turning and hurrying back down the hall. He scouted the ER, bumping into someone. “Sorry-” He stopped when he saw their name tag, immediately pulling them over out of traffic. “Daniel- are you Scotty’s assistant?”

“Uh yeah… And who are you?” I've never seen you before? Daniel looked at him cautiously, trying to figure him out.

“Dr. Lathe Quo, one of Scotty’s close colleagues. Do you happen to know where I could find Mark DiAmici? Just came in in an ambulance, left broken fibula, right broken radius and ulna?” Cmon, you might know this… hopefully… it's a god damn madhouse in here.

“Uh, yeah, I do, but unless you have a relation to him I can’t bring you in.” Scotty would have my head!

Lathe looked to him flatly. “I've been his foster parent for about five months now, now we need to get him to Room 9 because he and the runaway I took care of last night both need serum and I need to sign waivers and crap already on both of their behalvs, so can we please go?” Come on, there's shit we need to do!

“Oh Christ.” Daniel nodded, leading Lathe to where Mark was currently tripping out on morphine. “He’s received drugs for the pain.” He’s gonna be loopy. Daniel made sure everything was in order to move him before ferrying the bed to move and wheel it towards room 9. “So you know the guy from Nebraska?”

“Well, he showed up on the doorstep yesterday night asking for scraps just as we were about to have dinner. I made sure he had a whole meal and water to drink, but he sat outside to eat because we had lots of people over for dinner and he didn't feel comfortable, so I got him a blanket. I convinced him to come inside and shower, I washed and mended all his clothes, and cleaned and wrapped up his feet. I made him take cold medicine for the fever because I thought it was just a cold, I didn't know he had Sepsis… but I got him new boots since his old ones had the structural integrity of tissue paper, fed him a smoothie for breakfast and gave him more meds, and it wasn't like I could force him to stay and let me take care of him, so I had to let him go on his way… I sent him off with money and food, and his clothes were fixed, so I thought he could last a while longer. …but I was wrong. He's apparently been walking around for more than two years. I just…. I couldn't let nothing happen… he's gonna die if we don't try the serum, and there's no guarantee it'll work.” I really want him to be okay…

Lathe looked up as he noticed a cloud of steam starting to slowly pour out into the hallway, faint whisks near the ceiling. He's already trying. Lathe helped him steer the bed into the room, looking over with worry as Scotty hovered over James, administering the doses of serum, blood dripping from James’ nose.……he can't just die on us… he has to live...

Scotty looked as Mark was wheeled in with Daniel and Lathe pushing him. “Welcome to your first lesson in hell Daniel. That’s Lathe, and he’s responsible for these two, so get him the paperwork, it’s on my desk.” His voice was calm before he ran out of serum. “Jennie!” His shout carried into the hallway, quickly getting the nurse's attention, seeing the two patients in the room.

“I’ll just grab you the bottle and more syringes.” She went off as Scotty thanked her, hooking up a Transfusion for James and watching his progress. “He’s responding well so far, his heart beat is slowly getting back to a regular pace, and the temperature increase is normal for anyone who uses serum…” I just don't know if it'll be enough...

Lathe nodded, looking back to Mark. Scotty'd got James for right now. Focus on Mark. Lathe dropped his bag so it didn't weigh on him, going to inspect his arm first and foremost. “Mark, Honey, how are you feeling? Talk to me.” I don't know how much they gave you of what… Lathe watched with surprise as Mark just laughed, shaking his head at him. ….oh. “You legit feel nothing.” He watched him nod, considering this before shrugging. “Well, makes my job a bit easier. Don't worry, kid, this won't take too terribly long. The arm is easiest and doesn't require any surgery, so brace yourself.” Lathe worked skilfully to set Mark’s arm, wrapping it with the splint to keep it straight. “It was a clean break, its obvious it is when you touch it, so we don't need to worry much. That, on the other hand…” Lathe moved the towel from his leg, wincing as he saw the bloody bone. “….that is a problem. But one that we can solve.” Lathe inspected the flesh around it, soon shaking his head. “We can't just slip it back in, we need to open the wound further. Scotty, you're in scrubs. Help?” Lathe’s demeanour changed as he spoke and worked, trying to block out his emotions. I can't get overly emotional now... there are things to do.

Scotty looked over to what Lathe was doing sighing as he ripped off the gloves he was wearing and got a new pair. “Go watch James.” He stepped over to Mark’s side, getting a scalpel from the counter in the room, looking over the wound closely. Damn... That's a bad break, once I get my hands on more serum I'm gonna set it and then start him on serum...

Lathe nodded, moving over to the other bed, reaching instinctively and taking careful hold of James’ hand, his other carding through his hair as he studied the monitor. Doing okay... He glanced to the numbers every few seconds, but he mostly studied James’ pale face, smiling when... he saw his eyelids flutter, a small sound of discomfort coming from his throat. He met his dark eyes with a gentle smile, his words soft. “Hey, James. Don't worry, you're safe.” He tried to reassure him as all he saw was fear in his eyes, squeezing his hand. “Someone found you on the sidewalk outside the police station, called an ambulance. You're in Trost hospital’s ER. ...you're really sick. The infection in your feet spread, but we're giving you what we can to give you the greatest chances of getting better. And that’s all you need to worry about- getting better. You'll be okay here, you're in good hands.” You really are. ...given I'm a softie and will probably refuse to leave until I'm 100% certain you won't die on me.

James barely cracked open his eyes before he felt the pain flood through his body. I'm awake?.... I'm alive?.... But I shouldn't be. His eyes cracked open finally looking around the blurry room before focusing on a familiar face. It's him.... Huh? I'm in a hospital? “I-” James was reduced to a horrible coughing fit within seconds of trying to speak. I can’t stay here...

Lathe looked worried as he coughed, trying to keep him calm. “It's okay, you don't have to speak. And what we gave you hurts, I know. I know it must burn all over but it's the best thing we can give you. We want you to get better.” Lathe waited for the coughing fit to pass, still carding a hand through his hair, trying to soothe him. We can't do much of anything for the pain... I'm sorry...

James groaned as he closed his eyes tightly, a wave of pain running through his whole body, the cloud of steam intensifying from his bare body. My feet hurt...... I can feel them... I can feel my feet... “F-feet...” James’ word was a whimper that he forced out from behind gritted teeth. His gums were bloody, though quickly changing from bright red to a healthy pink as he started to heal. It hurts...

Lathe nodded, moving down to check on his feet. The cuts were healing very nicely, some of the skin starting to flake away, turning yellow. ... oh my. Lathe gently prodded at his foot with a gloved hand, feeling the skin resist just a bit, behaving like a sock made of skin. ...well shit. Lathe went to retrieve a clean scalpel, moving down to his feet again. “I'm not gonna hurt you, James, just stay still, okay? Your skin needs to peel, and we need to get at the infected area.” Lathe very carefully cut the skin from his feet, gently rubbing the few parts that stuck until they came free, large skin flakes fluttering to the floor. He winced as he saw the infected area, a pus-filled discolored cut with flawless pink skin around it. Well that needs draining... “This is gonna be fun...” Lathe moved to do the other foot, sweeping the skin flakes under the bed and more out of the way with his boot. We went to get a small container to catch the pus, not wanting to make a mess. “James Honey, I need to do just a bit of work here to deal with the infection that's making you so sick. It's gonna hurt, so brace yourself, but stay still, okay?”

James was barely able to move his body at all, but managed to give Lathe a weak thumbs up before closing his eyes and bracing for the pain, not expecting to hear another shout of pain in the room, which caused him to jump. What was that? It wasn’t me! Who was that?!
Mark cried out in pain when Scotty had set his leg into the proper place and then gave him the serum in both his leg and his arm to heal the wounds. Fuck it hurts! It feels like my body’s on fire too!

Lathe immediately moved the scalpel out of the way when Mark cried out, looking over with worry. He looked back to James, tapping his ankle to get his attention again. “You've got company, James, another son of mine. I'll explain later but for right now, you need to focus, okay?” I need to do this, otherwise this won't get anywhere…

James was shaking in his own skin, both in fear and in pain. What’s happening? What's going on? Why am I here? He was really starting to freak out but he kept his feet as still as possible for Lathe, his teeth still gritted, and his eyes closing again in pain. I’m scared, this really hurts… And I can feel everything…

Lathe sighed quietly, though he focused, carefully cutting open the infected cut and draining out the pus, cleaning the wound thoroughly. He did the same for the other foot, getting rid of two cuts that had been infected. …they're cleaned. Lathe immediately set down the scalpel and container, leaving the skin to weave over the now-clean cuts, going to make sure James was okay. His hand returned to his hair, his voice worried. “How are you holding up, Hun?” He looks more alert, that's very good…

James opened his eyes more, looking to Lathe as his eyes finally focused on him. “Why…?” Why am I here? I can’t afford this… And it’s not like anyone will come and help me with this.

“Because you deserve better than to be left to die alone.” I couldn't let that happen… it'd break my heart… “You deserved a fighting chance.” Lathe smiled wearily to him. “You don't have to worry about anything besides fighting off this infection, you hear me? That's all you have to do. It'll hurt for a while, but then it'll get so much better.” We’ll fix you up good as new. Lathe looked over to Mark, seeing his leg was steaming just a bit. “One moment, James.” Lathe moved across the room, seeing his arm unwrapped from the split, straight and without bruises. “How’re you feeling?” You look like you're doing pretty good… your arm is done healing and your leg is getting there… we’ll need to x-ray you just in case though…

Mark looked up to Lathe, a happy look in his eyes. “It doesn’t hurt… Will I get superpowers?” His voice was childish as he moved to sit up in his bed, wanting to grab onto Lathe’s shirt, though his hands fell short when he saw movement across the room. Who’s that? Is that Tim?

Lathe chuckled, smiling. “Yes, your puppy eyes have been upgraded. For a week, using them on me gets you practically whatever you want.” I'm a total pushover… mostly because I love you all too much… Lathe was resigned to let him him tug on his sweater when he turned to see what got Mark distracted so easily. Crap. “James, no, you shouldn't be getting up…” Lathe moved to his side immediately, gently pushing him back from where he was trying to sit up. “Please, just rest for now, okay? That's all you hold be doing for now. Your body has lots of work to do, and you can't go making it harder.” That's a very bad idea.

“Why am I steaming? What’s happening to me?” He voice was a bit clearer as he let Lathe push him down, though he moved to sit up successfully once he was let go, looking at the IV in his arm as well as the second blood transfusion that Scotty had put in. He hadn’t noticed that his nose started to bleed until he felt the warm liquid on his lips. Huh?

Lathe immediately had a wad of tissues pressed to his nose. “Don't worry about your nose bleeding, that happens. ...it's the medicine we gave you. A serum my colleagues and I worked hard to recreate and are still in the process of testing. It’s been so successful and it’s saved lives many times over so far, and it… it was the only chance you had. It heats your body up, you steam as your flesh works quintuple-time to repair itself. You’ll cool down eventually, and you seem to be doing much better. How do you feel? Legit, on a scale of one to ten, one being excruciating, and ten being I could probably walk around and do stuff with zero problems.” I need the frame of reference.

James was confused as he held the wad of tissues to his face. Huh? My nose is supposed to bleed… “I feel better than I have since I got frostbite…” This is the best I've felt in a long time… “How do you know my name?” His voice sounded fearful, expecting to be hurt.

“They found your ID in your bag or something. I was told you’re James Julian. ...and that you've managed to walk from Nebraska to Kansas in a bit more than two years. ...did you even know what state you were in?” You didn't look like you exactly remembered what year it was… “What could've made you walk that far...?” Lathe didn't expect him to answer that, shaking his head in disbelief. ...you're so far from home. ... why ...

James looked down, swallowing hard. “I don’t have a home….” His words were broken, and an utterly lost look was in his eyes. I have nowhere....

Lathe sighed, a hand going to rub his back lightly. “Talk to me, Hon. Who did you use to live with?” Opening up could make you feel better... and help us figure out who needs to know you still exist.

“M-Mom...” his voice was weak as he leaned into Lathe’s touch. “She couldn’t keep me…” And my uncle never noticed my presence at all... He left me alone, they probably don’t even care I’m missing...
Lathe moved to lightly hug James, the teen leaning into the warm touch, rubbing his side. “What was living with her like?” Did you have an apartment, a house…? Did you not have a roof over your heads?

“We lived in a 1 room shack on the outskirts of town….” It was barely better than living on the streets. He took in a deep breath as he looked to the steam billowing off of him, not even realizing that he was still so warm, he looked ready to cry all over again. I feel so much better… I can feel my feet, and my fingers… And my legs don’t really hurt anymore...

Lathe soon produced another blue cloth out of thin air, the teen looking at it with surprise. He smiled when he took it, resuming his careful hold on his thin middle. “…why did you feel like you had to leave? You would’ve almost been old enough to get a job, make some money. It would’ve maybe helped a bit.” Maybe you didn’t have to put yourself through hell like you did...

“I didn’t run away….” I didn’t run away from mom… And maybe my uncle expected me to go right back to Mom when he kicked me out...

“…did you get kicked out?” Lathe watched him nod, cradling him closer when he took in a shaky breath. “It’s okay, Hon. You can tell me, just let it out.” It's so easy to force yourself to not think about it… but after so long, it hurts to think about it at all...

“I-I don’t have a Dad… M-my uncle… He kicked me out…” I actually think that my Mom and my uncle might have been sleeping together... But I’m not sure...

“You three all lived together?” He watched him nod, tucking his head under his chin. “Did your Mom have any say in it…? Did she even know?” Your uncle very well could have kicked you out and you’d’ve been long gone before she realised it...

James nodded, looking down at his hands, clamming up. She was right there… She didn’t do anything ....

Lathe took his silence as his answer, his voice a quiet murmur. He felt hands weakly reach up to grab at his sleeve, letting James cry all he needed to. He was patient, waiting for James to calm down, his tears reduced to sniffs when he spoke again. “…do you ever think about going back… maybe trying to fix things?”

“I tried that once…it didn’t work…” I got kicked out again, then I never turned back… I just kept walking as far as my feet would take me before I would sleep on the side of the road.

Lathe nodded, quiet. ...we need to find them anyway... they're still your next of kin, and your mom specifically is legally responsible for you. [Scotty, is anyone looking for this kid’s family?] Phone calls, google searches, anything?

[Yeah, Jennie’s calling the police station in Harrison, Nebraska to see if there are any missing persons cases.] I don’t know if there will be judging by their conversation. “Alright, Mark, time to go get an x-ray.” Scotty got Mark into a wheelchair to take him out of the room. Let’s see how well you healed.

Lathe chuckled a little as Mark seemed to incessantly giggle at everything, letting Scotty move him around and wheel him from the room, a comfortable quiet settling. “They’re calling to see if you’re listed as a missing person.” Lathe explained, not letting go of James. ....I'm sorry... “...do you think they would have changed much since you last saw them?”

“No…” They probably didn’t put me in for that.

“...Honey, when’s your birthday?”

“April 3rd…” My birthday was a bit ago...

Lathe gave him a small smile. “Happy late Birthday… seventeen?”

James nodded, watching as the last wisps of steam edged off of him. He gave Lathe a weak smile. “I'll be on my own again after this…” I don’t really like that idea...

“...you don't have to be.” Lathe rubbed his side gently, waiting a moment. “The offer still stands. If you don't have somewhere to go after all this… we’d love to have you. And even if you don't stay that long, it's barely a year until you're free to go get a job or do whatever you want. But nobody’s making you do this by yourself. You can have a home if you want.” There's no way in hell I'm letting you just go back to wandering around without a fight.

“I don’t deserve a home though.” I was thrown out... I deserve to be on the streets.
“Yes, you do. You didn't do anything to deserve being kicked out of your old home, and there’s no reason why you should have nowhere to go. Nothing can justify that. You need somewhere to go when the day’s over or when things aren't going great. At least give it a shot…?” Please? It'd hurt so much to just let you go back to wandering...

James was quiet as he looked up to Lathe before he nodded. I… I guess I can try it out...

Lathe smiled, holding him close. Thank you… “…okay.” Lathe smiled, looking very proud of him. “If for the first few days I seem to be in hyperdrive, please understand that’ll pass.” I won’t always hover over you. Just enough to make sure you’re eating and healthy and happy. At least until you tell me to go away and pay attention to the other eight people in the house.

James smiled softly, nodding as he pulled his feet in to look at them. “They look better… and I feel a lot better.” His words were still soft as he shifted closer to Lathe, his eyes starting to close as he fell asleep. I’m tired….

Lathe moved to sit on the bed next to him, watching his eyelids droop. “I'm glad.” Lathe felt James lean fully on him, asleep within moments, still sitting up. He's so tired… of course. Lathe realised he was still weakly clutching his sweater, laying down next to the teen, letting him curl up into his side. Lathe ran a hand over his back, his mind finally quieting. He'll be okay… Mark is okay, and he's okay… he stopped steaming… so he must be healed… Lathe nearly fell asleep himself when the doors suddenly opening jolted him awake, turning to coax James back to sleep when the teen startled a bit against him. He needs all the rest he can get.

[He stopped steaming, so tests should probably be run, see if his Sepsis really is taken care of. He said he feels a lot better, and his wounds all do too. The infection is gone from his feet. And did we hear anything about his Mom or Uncle yet?]

Scotty nodded. [They won’t be able to get him… Both of them were arrested due to being complete blood relatives and then committing incest with each other… no one knew he existed apparently… There’s no records of him aside from his birth certificate and his learner’s permit.] Scotty got Mark back up into the bed, letting the drugs wear off. We should be okay now hopefully… He made his way over to where James was currently resting, getting a needle ready to draw blood.

Lathe winced, looking down to James as he slept. He slipped through the cracks so easily… it's like he didn't exist until he collapsed outside a goddamn police station. “He’s going to need the original if someone can track it down or knows where it is… he agreed to stay with us for at least a little while.” Lathe shifted a bit, gently shaking James’ shoulder. “Hon, Scotty needs to take some of your blood. It’s okay, you can go right back to sleep when he's done. He wants to make sure your Sepsis is completely taken care of.” That's an important thing he has to do.
James nodded, holding out his arm without even thinking about it. Okay...

Scotty sighed quietly as he took his blood, leaving them so that he could take it to the lab. He wasn’t lying when he said he had no home... And I wonder... if he says he never had a dad... if his Uncle is actually his dad.

James cuddled up into Lathe’s side again, holding him. “Is.... Is my Uncle my father?” I’m pretty sure he is... but I’ve never known...

Lathe sighed quietly, thinking. “....I don't know. But it sounds like he is.” ...... Lathe tugged him closer, carding a hand through his hair. You're still very warm... you'll cool down eventually though, you'll be fine....

“Is that why Mom always kissed him all the time? And he always made me sleep outside? So I didn’t take up the bed?” So that I wouldn't be able to see them while they had sex? “Is.... Did Mom have her baby? Or did D- my uncle make her get rid of it again?”

Lathe didn't know what to say, trying to process everything. “...if your mom did have her kid... I don't think they knew about them...... so, I don't think she was allowed to keep them...” Lathe rubbed James’ back, not knowing what else to do.

James nodded slowly, closing his eyes and letting sleep overtake him. He didn’t even wake up when Scotty came back inside.

[Good news... He’s healthy, aside from being obscenely underweight.... I also have a copy of his birth certificate for you. It also appears that he never went to any schooling.] Scotty handed Lathe a folder, letting him see the few small sheets that were there, showing that he got vaccinated and that he was born to his mother on April 3rd, 20XX.

Lathe slowly nodded. [It's not like all hope is lost because he didn't go to school. He can still earn a GED and maybe get a degree, or go to a trade school. It doesn't have to be like this forever.] Lathe shut the folder, looking to James with a tired expression. [Whatever it takes. ....he's cleared for discharge?] I wanna get these two home...

[Yeah, both of them are... Just take them home, I’ll fill everything out and then bring the rest of the files to dinner tonight, Casper, Hannah and Sharon will be back by then.] I'm coming to dinner because you made me use serum on him. [I'll take Mark out to Eren, he’s waiting in the waiting room… Have fun waking James up.

[Whoever said I’m waking him up? And I hope you don’t expect too much in the ways of dinner from me. I’ve got lots of Dad-ing to do.] Lathe carefully shifted out from under James, hauling the teen up in his arms. “Thank god he’s so small or I wouldn’t be able to do this…” He saw Scotty give him a look, glaring back at him. “I mean he’s short, and- ...shut up.” Lathe looked down as James stirred against his chest, walking with him into the hallway. “Don’t worry, I’ve got you. We’ll get you home and in bed as soon as we can, okay?” Lathe smiled when he simply nodded, walking towards the lobby. He saw Eren wave at him, ambling over. “Hey- ...where did Claire end up?” I don’t know what happened after we left….

“One of the Moms helped to bring the cars home, Claire’s chilling at home, I came to help with Mark…” He got Mark’s arm over his shoulder to help him on his wobbly feet. You’ll probably need help walking… “We got my car so everyone fits… is he gonna stay with us too?” Eren motioned to James, looking surprised to see him again. Did he end up here too? Lathe nodded, cradling James close. “Yeah, he is… it’s a long story. I’ll tell you about it later. But right now, I think we need to get these two home and let them rest.” They both could use some rest… Lathe followed Eren to the car, deciding to stay in the backseat, James stirring and obviously feeling more comfortable with Lathe right next to him to sleepy cling to. He swayed when Lathe got out of the car first, no Lathe chuckled when he reached for him, holding onto him. He reminds me of a sloth. In a good way. Lathe and Eren had to wait for Ieva to open the door for them, her shock no surprise when she saw Lathe carrying the runaway, all of his stuff slung over his shoulder. “Let me get him in bed and I’ll explain, okay?” Lathe pecked her cheek, grateful that she let him pass, going upstairs with Eren to get James in bed. He had made sure he changed into his pajamas to leave the hospital, the comfy clothes still too big for him, swallowing him up. “You need to sleep, Hun.” Lathe set him on the bed, tucking him in. He smiled faintly when James tried to hang onto him, ruffling his hair. “It's okay, I'll still be home. Don't worry, James.” Lathe gently cried his sleeve from his grasp, James already drifting and too tired to argue. ...I made the right decision. Lathe shut the door quietly, coming downstairs where Eren and Ieva were in the living room, waiting. “...I guess you wanna hear the whole story.”

Eren nodded, looking over to the staircase as Claire snuck away. She’s going to go and sleep with Mark… sure, sleep… we’ll call it that. “I thought you said he left the house when you got to the track meet…” At least that’s what I thought you said. “You didn’t take him to the hospital… how did he end up there?”

Lathe sat down on the couch, leaning back, his limbs feeling heavy. “He did leave this morning… he was still burning up this morning, I was still worried sick, but he really wanted to leave, I didn't see him on the drive to the track meet, but when we got to Trost after Mark’s ‘accident,’ the ER was a god damn madhouse. I was able to find out what was going on, I recognised his battered feet on the gurney… I ran over and Scotty had his chart. The kid’s been wandering around for more than two years and he started up in fucking Nebraska and he’d collapsed not too long after he left outside the police station. The infected cuts on his feet were bad, and the infection got into his blood… it's called Sepsis, and the options were either take responsibility for him and give him the serum and hope he gets better, or leave him to die. ...that was it. We gave him the serum, I signed the waiver…” Lathe shrugged. “...but he can't go home. He doesn't really have one. His Mom and his uncle- or his Dad, whichever- are in jail for having incestuous relations. ...we think he’s the product of that. All he’d have to go back to is a one-room shack that might've been torn down already anyway. And there wasn't any real record of him. Just a birth certificate and a learner’s permit. I don't know how he managed to get it… but he's never gone to school or anything.... they never knew he even existed.” It's horrible....fuck, he probably doesn't know how to do shit. Like cook. Does he know how to read? How long has it been since he set foot in a grocery store? Does he know who the President is? ...what doesn't he know? Probably a lot...

Eren was quiet as he tried to take everything in. “How long has he been gone? Do we know? He’s so skinny…” I... He’s skinnier than I was I think… but he looks like he should be taller than he is... But at least he’s healthy now. “How should we go about educating him? If he even wants that?”

Ieva was quiet as well, listening intently. “I think we should at least teach him basics… So that maybe he can live on his own if he wants to…” I hope that he’d be up to learning basic necessities.

“He definitely needs to learn stuff like cooking, writing and reading, basic math and accounting, he should get his license…. car maintenance, like checking tire pressure and oil levels, where washer fluid goes... how to use a computer would be a good one… grocery shopping and using coupons and stuff… how to use basic tools to fix stuff, like if a cabinet door was wobble or something he could fix it… all sorts of random stuff, but there's plenty to life that he needs to become familiar with.” ...I legit just described like everyday of my life ever though… I do that crap constantly….hm. “We’ll have to talk to him about formal education, but that’s really up to him. At this point he might want to go to a trade school, but I don't know. He could do well for himself if he masters a trade; he could work for himself, or for a bigger company. Who knows? But he’s got about a year until he turns eighteen- a year until he's an adult. It's not like that's a time limit or anything, but that’s just a frame of reference. We have to teach him how to adult. ...that actually sounds kinda fun. I dunno.

“If he can’t write we should get one of those books that the kindergarteners use… The ones where you trace the letters? He should be good at that, I hope. And who knows we might be able to find some aspect of his abilities that he’s good at.... He seemed subpar with his social skills, we need to work on that first.... Also the usual order for dinner tonight? I don’t feel like cooking.” The kids exhausted me while you were gone... Ieva waited for a response, looking to make sure the kids were still occupied with the movie Cars on the TV in the other room.

Lathe rubbed at his eyes, nodding. “We’ll get him that book, yeah, and he does need to work on his people skills… Scotty told me he was dragging more people over for dinner tonight apparently… he has to bring paperwork over since we didn't fill out the discharge forms and stuff at the hospital… but I've got half a mind to tell him bring the papers and tell people to not come…” ...I just wanna relax, eat, and sleep... that would be sooooo nice....
“Well… If we need to work on his socialization we should have at least a few more people over so he gets that there are more people he could rely on… You can stay by his side and I can take care of people if we order from the italian restaurant… get some pasta for a sit down meal that keeps well and can be reheated… It’ll be a little better than ordering pizza for him.” I’m open to doing that and I can play hostess so you can take care of James.

Lathe paused before nodding. “Yeah, you're right. And pasta sounds better than pizza. We need to ask for one of the big salad things, though. ...and James is probably going to want to sleep as long as he can… so we’ll wake him up later. He and Mark are both very worn out, I think it's rather obvious…” Yeah, they need sleep… but they need to eat, too. ..........we don't get paid enough for this crap......

Eren snorted and shook his head. Oh yeah… sure… “Claire and Mark are going at it like rabbits right now… She snuck up there a little bit ago…” Highly unlikely that he’s asleep right now. “But I guess that he’ll sleep better after they’re done.” A smirk was on his face as he looked to Lathe and Ieva. “As long as someone’s getting some... hahaha…” Eren couldn’t help but giggle at the sex joke.

Lathe dropped his head into his hands, shaking his head. “Eren, thank you very much for stating that so eloquently.” Lathe deadpanned, dropping his hands and leaning back against the couch again. He was too tired to really care about the comment, and he looked as tired as he felt. ......can I just, like... sleep here... please...

“Why don’t you go sleep with James? He was clinging to you earlier wasn’t he? I bet he’d feel better with you there.” Ieva smiled softly, pecking his cheek. “Then I can clean the house up and order italian food.” I can manage.

“...have I ever mentioned how much I love you?” Lathe smiled as she kissed his cheek, standing and stretching. “I could use a good nap…” Lathe ambled the stairs, getting changed in his own room before lightly knocking on the doorframe of James’ new room, opening the door a crack. He peered in, seeing him turn over, tiredly looking to the door. “Hey Hon.” Lathe left the door open a bit, coming over to the bed. “Sleeping okay?” You looked like you were awake when I knocked... and I doubt I woke you up, I have a very light touch...

James whimpered as he shook his head, reaching his arm out towards Lathe before patting the bed beside him. I can’t sleep... I feel weird in this bed... I don’t sleep in beds... I sleep in ditches...

Lathe smiled reassuringly to him, shifting under the covers with him, chuckling when James timidly curled up to his side, hanging onto his arm. Come on, that won't do. “C’mere.” Lathe tugged James on top of him, watching the teen tense before visibly relaxing into his hold, pulling the blankets up over them. “...it'll get easier to sleep in a bed. You'll get used to it.” Lathe let him nestle into his neck, feeling the gentle huff of his breath. Anything so you can get some decent rest...

“T-Thank you…. Mr. Quo....” James’ voice was quiet as he slowly closed his eyes, trying to relax in his arms. I don’t want to be scared of sleeping alone anymore. His grip slowly started to tighten on Lathe’s clothes. I want to be okay with people again...

Lathe ran his hands over James’ back, trying to coax him to relax. “You can call me Lathe, Hun.
Just Lathe. You're part of the family now, accept it.” Lathe smirked, cradling the teen close. It's okay.... you don't have to panic... “You don't have to be scared to sleep… if anything happens, I know Judo, I'll keep you safe.” Lathe was lightly joking, but he was also serious. I'm not letting you get hurt anymore.

James nodded slightly holding onto him. “I… I got my permit…. And then he kicked me out…” I was 14.... I've been on the streets for 3 years... “I… I haven’t slept in an actual bed in s-six years.... I-I think....” His voice was still quiet as he held onto Lathe, his fingers gently going over his clothes, feeling them. I can feel them...

Lathe nodded, holding him close. “It's been a long while for you....” Lathe sighed quietly, one hand coming up to cradle the back of James’ head. “You’ll get used to it.... and until then, you can come get me if you can't fall asleep.” Most likely. I'll appreciate the nap.

James nodded. “I haven’t eaten in a week… I was dumpster diving before I came to your house…”
You were the only one who would give me food... “ And I slept in a trash can the other night...
When it was raining.” He mumbled quietly, his breathing getting shallower as he got closer to sleep.

“I'll make you whatever you want to eat, and you can rifle through the fridge whenever you want…
we’ll teach you how to cook… and you'll always have somewhere to sleep here. You'll have more pillows and blankets than you ever thought you needed.” We just want you to be okay.... and happy... Lathe was dozing, falling asleep like that, with James grounding him.

~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~

Claire crept up the stairs when the three of the adults seemed occupied, wanting to stay out of mind. I wanna see him... he got hurt, and he looked tired... but he deserves his reward if he's still up for it. Claire quietly knocked on the door, opening it and poking her head inside. “Mark?” She smiled as she heard a tired grunt and entered, the door shutting behind her with a quiet click. She padded over to the bed, climbing in next to him. “...that was... a very, Uhm, interesting meet... but... you're okay?” She looked him over warily, as if expressing to still see white bone protruding from his leg. That was so fucking hard to look at... I nearly threw up...

Mark smiled softly as he shifted from where he was laying, showing her his leg was fully healed. “Yup, I’m fine...” Everything’s all good...

Claire let out a sigh of relief, tentatively reaching a hand out to touch the unmarred skin, relieved he was in one piece. “...by the way, how the fuck is that possible.” She dropped her head into his shoulder, drinking in his scent. That's not a thing that humans do... heal that fast...

“Dad apparently is a genius and has genius friends... It has some side effects tho... So um, yeah... I got a special kind of shot and it heals everything really quickly, but it drains you of all your energy.” He mumbled and flopped back down on the bed, a smirk on his face. I wonder how many records I set?

Claire’s eyebrows shot up. ...I need to look this up later. But for now... “You did awesome at the meet today, you know.” She shifted so she was on top of him, leaning down to lightly kiss at his neck. “You broke so many state and district records... so, if you’re up for it...” Claire shifted so her hips rested over his crotch, sucking at his neck. ...I can give you your reward.” You’ve more than earned it... and I wanna, so say yes... please, I haven't been able to think of anything else. ...besides the broken limbs thing.

Mark’s eyes grew dark as his large hands slowly came up to rest on her hips. “Absolutely, I’d love to watch you ride me.” He murmured with a smirk on his face, his left hand going to the nightstand to pull the drawer and grab a couple condoms out for her. “Go at your pace...” I can already feel myself hardening under her...

Claire smirked, taking one of the foil wrappers from him. “Hm, of course.” She set it aside, moving to tug Mark’s loose shirt off along with hers, feeling his hands trailing all over her as she moved to kiss across his chest, nipping at every sensitive spot she found. He lips latched onto a nipple, sucking on the pink bud as his hands splayed over his stomach. I wanna take my time a bit with this... just enough to properly tease you... She shifted her hips, lightly grinding down onto him, feeling him harden against her.

“Oh fuck...” Claire... Holy shit... He groaned as she ground down onto him teasingly. His hands moved to the clasp of her bra, wanting it off of her, but his eyes asked her for permission. I want it off ... I want all of it off.
Claire smirked, nipping the bud. “Hm, you want something…” Claire reached behind her and unclipped it, letting the fabric slip down her arms before tossing it out of the way, whimpering as Mark immediately cupped her bare breasts, gasping as he made her shift upward so he could take a bud into his mouth, whining with pleasure as his hands roamed everywhere. “…M-Mark… f-feels good…” Fuck…

Mark kept his mouth latched onto her perk nipple, his eyes closed and taking in all the sensations of Claire over his body. I will always be glad to do a good job if it means that I’ll be able to hold you close… His hands grabbed her ass, pulling her close to him, and grinding her down on him harder as he got even more engorged. I’m horny as all hell now…

Claire’s hands latched onto his broad shoulders, whimpering as he switched his attention to her other mound, wanting the fabric separating their nethers gone. “M-Mark…” She reached down, tugging at his sweatpants with a finger, trying to get him to comply. “O-Off…” She sighed in relief as Mark shifted to shimmy out of his sweatpants, though a needy sound caught in her throats as he ran his hands up the insides of her thighs, feeling her every curve through the thin leggings. She spread her legs a bit wider when he rubbed her through the fabric, unable to help it as she moved to get rid of the offending clothing. She froze when Mark’s hands met her hips, melting into his hold. His lips were on her nipple again, teasing it as he dragged her panties down her legs, soaked with want. “…fuck, Mark… I want you… so bad…” I want it… please…

Mark grinned as he came off of her nipple with a soft pop. “Hmm, I want you too… what do you say we get a move on with things?” His words were rough as he pulled her panties off of her, his hands coming to put her right over his hard length. God, you’re so fucking warm….

Claire smacked his chest lightly, reaching for the foil wrapper. “W-Wait…” She was impatient, quickly rolling the condom down Mark’s length and giving him a firm, teasing stroke before she moved back over his length. She was gasping for breath as she sunk down his length, basking in the sensation of being filled. So big… Claire leaned forward for better leverage, her head in the crook of Mark’s neck as she moved on top of him, riding him. “…f-fuck, you’re so big…” I love this… more… I know I promised to ride you, but fuck, the things I would give to have you over me, pounding me hard… …that escalated so fucking quickly but I don’t care anymore… fuck I want him…

Mark groaned in pure bliss as Claire encased him into her heat. Holy fuck… She feels so good! Mhm… Claire… You’re so tight…” His hands grabbed at her hips, helping to lift her up and down, his moans soft in her ears. She feels so good… But… I want more than this… But she promised that she’d ride me… But I dunno if I can take it… He felt a pulse of arousal go through his body, struggling to keep in his cries knowing that people were downstairs. “Can you be quiet? I wanna fuck you…” I wanna really fuck you, keep you pinned and have my way with you… And then I wanna cuddle and fall asleep with you.
“I really want you to... I'll really try to be quiet...” Claire couldn't help a small whimper as he drew out of her, slipping out from under her and moving her around. She found herself gripping the sheets and facing away from Mark, her head resting on a pillow with her ass in the air, at the perfect height for Mark’s hips. Fuck... “Mark, please ... fuck me...” I really want it...

Mark settled into his spot behind her, his tip slipping against her wet folds to tease her. “Hmm, you ready? Once I start... I’m not going to stop.” His voice was deep as he moved his hands up and down her thighs spreading her legs a bit further to give him better access. God, this view is amazing ... Mark kept his tip just at her entrance, ready to thrust forward and bury himself in her heat. I want you so bad...

Claire easily spread herself wider for him, moving back on him, wanting him to enter her. “Y-Yeah... please, I need you...” She choked on her words when he was suddenly inside of her, having to bury her face into the pillow when he started thrusting into her, needing to muffle her moans. Fuck...

Mark was easy with his thrusts at first, though he quickly started to increase the pace and how hard he was thrusting into her. God she feels wonderful ... Mark kept his hands on her hips, pulling her back onto his thick length to slam into her harder. “Hmm, you feel good...?” I wanna know if I’m hurting you or not...

“F-Fuck... so good... oh it feels so good...” Claire tried to bite back whimpers, burying her face into the pillow, loving the firm hold he had on her hips. She whimpered and moaned into the pillow, knowing she’d be too loud to moan freely. ....fuck... feels soooo good ...

Mark continued to pound into her, groaning in complete bliss over her. Soon he leaned over her back, letting his weight pin her to the mattress. “Fuck... Claire...” So good... He pounded into her without a care in the world if someone else would hear, the bed barely creaked, and the most noise was being made by their skin slapping together. Even though she’s moaning into the pillow, she sounds amazing.

Claire suddenly gasped, her grip on the sheets turning her knuckles white. “M-mArk, my God, there .... Haa, fuck ...” Claire was breathless, hearing his quiet sounds in her ear, tilting her neck as he nipped and sucked at her neck. Feels too good... god...

Mark made sure to keep his hickeys and bites where they could be hidden as he moved to sink into her and roll his hips, grounding into that one spot. “Claire... I... I want you feeling great.” I want you to be in complete and utter bliss... He kept his pace steady but his thrusts hard into her spot. I hope I’m doing okay...
“M-My God, Mark… feels so good… you… right there… oh right there… so perfect….” Claire felt warm all over as his hands drifted up her thighs and her stomach, afraid to move when he started rubbing her clit even though she wanted to shudder hard, not wanting to lose the perfect feeling. “Fuck, Mark…. oh god it feels so good…."

Mark continued to pound into her, feeling her grow even more wet as he rubbed her clit. God… She’s so wet, all for me. “Let go… I want you to cum for me…” I want to feel you tighten around me. “Hmm… Claire.” Mark could feel his body grow warm as his coil started to tighten.

Claire incessantly whimpered as he teased her clit, her face buried in the pillow, feeling a beautiful aching burn in her nether. “M-Mark…” Her voice was quiet and higher-pitched, her moans getting higher. “O- Oh … Mark, I… M- Mark …” She quietly cried out, tightening around Mark as she felt bliss wash over her, Mark pounding her through her orgasm. .....so good ...

Mark groaned as she tightened around him feeling his coil tighten incredibly fast as he pounded into her. “C- Claire …” He groaned as his thrusts soon became erratic, slowing as he came inside of her, groaning as he gripped on her supple flesh. Fuck… That felt so good… I feel so warm… He felt himself spurt string after string of cum into the condom, his head dipping down to rest on her back. Oh my god...

Claire was panting, wanting to collapse onto the bed and rest in her warm glow. “Mark...... that was wonderful…” Claire sighed as he slipped out of her, letting him go and throw away the condom before reaching for him, dragging him back on top of her. She pulled him in for a long kiss, wanting to feel his skin on hers. You're so warm... and you're too good to me...

Mark came back to lay in the bed with her, kissing her sweetly before pulling back to breathe. “You’re perfect …” He kissed her cheeks before pulling her under the covers with him and pulling her close. “I’m sorry, but I’m too tired for a round two…” He mumbled quietly and his arms wrapped around her. I’m exhausted ...

“That’s okay, I knew you wanted to sleep… m’tired…” Claire nestled into his shoulder, wrapping herself around him. Warm. Claire chuckled quietly when Mark went out like a light, letting herself rest heavy on his chest. Mine.

A few hours passed in quiet, Lathe waking up some time later, James still nestled into his neck. Lathe played with his hair for a moment, thinking. You could use a haircut… your hair is past your shoulders…. Lathe glanced to the electric alarm clock on the nightstand. I should get up, food and people will be here soon. Lathe very carefully shifted out from under him, James mumbling a bit in his sleep, though Lathe gently pried his hands from his shirt and pressed a kiss to his forehead, and he was back soundly to sleep. I'll get dressed, then wake him up when I know what the situation is. Lathe left quietly, getting dressed and padding downstairs, feeling much better after his nap. He looked over the living room, stopping short when he saw a figure sitting in the pen of their couch, the pups all tumbling over themselves around them, petting Nene in their lap. ....who the fuck is that? “Uhm…” They lifted their head, Lathe surprised to recognise them. “Sharon?”

She grinned, still petting Nene. Her hair was a bright copper collar, cut boyish, dressed in a white shirt with green long pants. “Notice anything else?”

“You’re dressed like the Drama person we haven’t named yet.”

“Bingo.” She chuckled, tugging on her hair. “But it’s actually my hair. I got it done earlier last week- you should’ve seen Hannah’s face when I came home like this.” It was the greatest.

“Nearly scared me half to death when I got home… I thought someone broke in and was kidnapping Maverick!” Hannah’s voice carried from the kitchen where she was currently helping Ieva dish all of the food.

Lathe laughed, shaking his head. “That does sound like something you would do. And not just because you actually went out and did it.”

“Yup! Now I’m just waiting for her to dye hers blue like she always talked about. The best part though is she’d have to go around with white hair for two weeks if she did.” Sharon wore a shit-eating grin, looking over to Hannah, who sent her a playful glare.

“You do realize I did that our second year in college while someone was off looking around other countries.” I’ve already gone through the blue phase. But I wouldn’t mind going through it again…. I found someone to do my hair here, I’ll see what I can do…

“Exactly, I missed it, so you have to do it again now.” She giggled, Nene nosing her cheek as her stomach shook, making her giggle more. Sorry, I keep making it hard for you to nap…

“Other countries? Where’ve you been all?”

“In order, to the best of my memory… Canada, duh, Italy, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, Great Britain, and Japan.” She grinned as Lathe just stared at her. “There were tours my schools offered. I seized the opportunities.” It was the greatest!

“Still not as many as I’ve been to!” Hannah shouted with a prideful grin as she brought steaming plates to the table where two kids were already starting to gather. “I’ve been to 15.”

“I’m so jealous that your studying was pretty much all abroad. And you’ve been shipped like everywhere for work. I never got the chance to do that backpacking trip through Europe like I wanted over my last summer in college. Otherwise I'd be winning.” She smiled wistfully, scratching behind Nene’s ears. I wonder if I'd ever get the chance to still do that sometime... I don't think so, with Maverick and work... but maybe someday. “Where’s your newest charge?”

Sharon looked to Lathe, an eyebrow quirked. I've already heard the whole thing.

“He’s been napping for a while, I should go get him up. It’s time for food, apparently.”

“Probably should. Make sure he knows we won't bite. Just maybe weird him out a bit.” She smirked, shooing the pups off of her so she could get up. He sounds like he could use some friendly people to get acquainted with. And he’s not much of a talker, but we’re here all the time. Things need fixing.

Lathe nodded, going back upstairs. He went to James’ new room, gently shaking his shoulder. “Wake up, Hon. It's time for dinner.” He watched him blearily blink at him, then look around the room, still getting used to his new surroundings. “...there are people over today, but you're sitting at the table with us today. Everyone’s really nice and understanding, you don't have to be worried.” Please don't freak out.

James flinched a bit when he heard about people, looking over to the bag of clothes sitting next to the bed. Great... those clothes aren't really the greatest for being around people... They were patched together yesterday for Christ's sake... “O-Okay...” His voice was weak as he slowly pushed himself up onto his elbows trying to think. Where am I again? I think I'm in Lathe's house? There's people over? And I'm supposed to stay at the table? I... I haven't eaten with people since.... Since my uncle moved in when I was four... I've always been alone to eat. He sat up watching as Lathe's mouth moved but not really hearing what he said. I need to sit with people.

“...change if you want, but it’s fine. We’ll be getting you new clothes soon anyway. ...are you listening?” Lathe stopped, looking to him expectantly, chuckling when James gave him a deer-in-headlights look. “You're eating with us at the table, our friends promised not to act too crazy, and you can change if you want. Honestly, your pjs are fine if you just want to come downstairs in that. Nobody will mind. But dinner’s being served- make a choice, Hon.” That's another errand-clothes shopping.
“B-but… I don’t have r-real clothes…” James looked down in shame, his hands coming into his lap as he tried not to cry. I’ll be an embarrassment in front of your friends… “D-Do I have to eat?”

Lathe moved to sit next to him, tugging him into a hug. “Hon, you’re fine the way you are right now clothes-wise. Nobody would bat an eye at a sweatshirt and sweatpants- with everything that’s happened, and they all know, you’ve got a sort of free pass. ...hey, it's okay.” Lathe wiped at his tears as he sniffs, comforting him. “We’ll get you some nice new clothes soon, and some kicks of your own. Right now, you're fine. It's really okay. ...and you should at least try to eat. You're so skinny- we need to put some meat on your bones. And we ordered Italian, so it'll be really tasty. Pasta, salad, bread, the works.” Lathe coaxed him to stand, walking him to the stairs. “It'll be okay. And after dinner, you can come hide up here again or you can play with the puppies.” Lathe pointed to the couch when they got to the stairs, clearly able to see the makeshift pen for Tove and her pups clambering over each other, sleeping, or idly watching the mayhem. “The others are probably trying to get food from the table.” You can play with puppies if you sit at the table and socialise a bit.

James swallowed as he saw the bundles of black fur moving around in the pen, his eyes wide with both curiosity and fear. What the hell? They’re small… He turned his head as he heard something against the wooden floor, Spencer coming to greet him. James simply screeched and jumped up onto Lathe, quickly clambering up his tall body to put distance between himself and the yapping dog. What do I do? He was shaking like a leaf as he held onto Lathe and surprisingly able to perch himself quite high on him. His eyes were wide with fear as Spencer got on his back legs trying to get closer to see him.

It's a new human! He rested his paws on Lathe’s hip trying to sniff at James. Why is he on top of big human? Spencer whined, wagging his tail with his ears perked.

Lathe was shocked as James immediately scaled up to his shoulders, holding up a hand for James to stay balanced on him, the other hand going to distract Spencer. “Spencer, sit.” Lathe finally got Spencer to sit, looking up to James where he perched on his shoulder, not needing his hand to balance. “James, this is Spencer. He's just curious about you, is all. He won't hurt you. C’mon, you're lucky I'm still built like a tank and you're pretty light. Down we go.” Lathe was thankful when Sharon whistled, getting Spencer away from him. He looked to him again, realising how furiously he was shaking his head, sighing quietly. “C’mon Hon.” Lathe tilted forward, easily catching James when he lost balance and fell into his waiting arms, setting him on the ground. “They're all friendly dogs, James. They’ll just sniff you, it's like saying hi. Maybe jump a bit if they like you. ...can you do this?” Lathe looked worried, seeing how scared James was. It's okay.

“I-It’s big… I-It’s teeth are… Are big…” James whimpered, trying to grab at his Lathe’s shirt, wanting the safety of height. I don’t want it to bite… His whole body shook as he turned to see people looking around the corner at them. Fuck… I’m an embarrassment… James really started to freak out as he heard more clicks, this time Blake slowly coming up to them.
New human is freaking out…. New human is nervous…. I can help new human. Blake slowly came close, his ears perked towards them.

Lathe held James from climbing up again as Blake came up to them. He held out a hand, Blake obeying the silent commands, stopping and sitting a few feet from them. “James, I’d like you to meet Blake. He used to be Eren’s service dog. He's getting pretty old, but he's still as friendly and gentle as he always was. He's very good at telling when someone is really nervous. It's his job to make people feel better. C’mere.” Lathe guided James to sit on the floor with him. “I'm right here, don't you worry. It's okay, he loves people. ...Blake, c’mere.” Lathe reached for the dog, watching him rise and slowly walk over to them, obviously careful of James. Lathe had a reassuring hand around James’ middle, keeping him from fleeing.

It's okay. I've got you.

James whimpered as Blake got closer and closer, the dog realizing that he needed more time and coming to him even slower, laying down and doing almost an army crawl towards him. James jumped when Blake got close enough to touch him with his nose first, sniffing him. He's gonna bite me! James was almost ready to cry as he was held down in Lathe's lap. I'm scared...

“It’s okay, James, just stay cool. He’s just inspecting you a bit, he knows you're scared. I'm sorry, Hon, but we have four dogs… they're gonna want to say hi sometime… and Blake is the oldest and nicest. Look.” Lathe reached out his own hand, Blake sniffing his hand and immediately licking his fingers when he recognised his smell. “He's totally harmless. He's too old to even run around anyway. It’s okay, he'll love you, I know he will.” He loves everyone.

James was still shaking in Lathe’s hold as he slowly let his hand towards Blake’s nose, letting him sniff his hand but as soon as he mouth opened to lick his fingers he pulled his hand back to his chest, shaking his head in fear. It’s gonna bite me… It’s gonna bite me!

“It's okay, Hon. It's okay.” Lathe watched Blake sniff at his leg, moving to rest his head on James’ leg, staring up at him with his best puppy eyes, looking completely innocent and non-threatening. “…you can pet him if you want. All our dogs love being pet.” You'd love Nene. All she does is eat, sleep, and ask for pets.

James slowly let his hand away from his chest. It was shaking horribly as he reached out to pet Blake’s head. If it moves I’m running. He seemed to relax a little when Blake didn’t move under his hand, only jumping when he wagged his tail and it thumped in the ground. Huh? What was that?

“It's okay, Hon. It just means he's happy- he likes being pet.” Lathe ran his thumb over James’ stomach, grateful that Blake simply laid on the floor and let James pet him, completely calm.
James slowly started to relax while he pet him, though he snatched his hand back in terror as Blake yawned. “Nonono, it's okay, he only yawned, he's just sleepy. He rests a lot more than he used to.” Sleepy pup. Lathe coaxed James to pet him again, petting his along with him. You need to be okay with dogs if you're going to stay here... and having a phobia of them in this day and age is not good... I know Sharon doesn't like bigger animals yet she lives with three and a litter of pups almost constantly- Tove is always carrying... I wonder if you'd be more okay with pups... they're too tiny to hurt you. “...are you hungry at all, Hon? I won't make you eat out here if you really don't want to.” It's okay. You can be social some other time with us. And you need to get used to nearly everything now- everything is new, including nice dogs.

“U-Uh… A-A little…” I think I can eat a bit… “C-can I s-stay with y-you?” James' stutter came out full force as he gently pet Blake, watching the older dog close his eyes and let his tail wag a bit, a little less afraid of the dog now. He just wants pets?

Lathe pointed to the end of the table, two spots empty next to each other, adjacent. He was grateful that Eren had them shift down a seat to make room for them. “You and I can sit right there. Eren on your left, and I'll be on your right. I'll be right there in case you get nervous or scared, okay?” He watched him nod, smiling. “Now, lets go get you some food, okay? Blake will follow us- he's your new bodyguard for now, 'kay? He likes you, he just wants you to not be nervous. He'll keep the other dogs from getting too close.” He's very good at what he does, even if he is getting old.

James nodded, shifting as Lathe did and following him into the room where everyone else had started to eat, Eren quietly welcoming them with a smile. There’s… There’s a lot of people… His eyes were still full of fear as he looked to Lathe. What if I do something wrong? What if I do something embarrassing? What will happen if I do something that’ll embarrass you in front of your friends… He sat down, looking to the large amount of food. It’s actual food…

Lathe smiled to him reassuringly, Blake sitting behind James’s chair obediently, acting the perfect part of a guard dog. Lathe sat next to him, his voice quiet as James warily eyed his food, his fork nervously hovering. “You don't have to eat everything. We did give you a lot.” As long as you eat something, we’re okay. Lathe glanced over as he saw movement, seeing Nene ambling over. Oh no, here we go.

Nene always looked sleepy on her feet. She meandered the length of the table, Blake having made Spencer and Rico give James extra space. He didn't for Nene, letting her sit down in between the teen and the older man, looking to the former with her best pleading eyes. Food? Can I has?

James flinched and shifted away from her. It's another dog… W-What do I do!? He shook, slowly grabbing a fork and trying to ignore the dog as he ate. Don’t look at it… It’ll go away…
Nene whined after a bit, her ears drooping when she realised she was being ignored. She looked to Lathe, hoping he would let her have food. Can I has?

Lathe reached for his breadstick, breaking off a piece. “James, Hon, look at this.” He waited for his attention, smiling and petting Nene with his other hand. “This here is Nene. All she does is eat and sleep, and sometimes beg for food or pets. But she's really sweet. All she wants is a snack.” Lathe reached down with the bread, letting her sniff it before licking it up. He watched her look back to James, sighing. “…wanna try giving her some? I can make her go lay down if you want.” She's my favourite though… she can have bread.

James shook his head and pulled his feet up onto his chair, pulling his knees into his chest and curling up. No… She’ll bite me when she gets the food… I can’t… I don't want her too… James was quiet, picking at his food from then on.

Lathe sighed quietly, shooing Nene away. Baby steps… He kept a careful eye on him, noticing he barely ate, his head ducked down, not talking at all as people quietly chatted around the table. Nobody really knows how to act around you yet… you're still so much a stranger…

Casper looked around the table, sighing quietly. This atmosphere is too awkward. ...might as well risk making it more awkward. “Hey James? We need your opinion on something important.” Casper leaned over the table, looking to him seriously. “…does my hair look more like someone pinned a purple rat, or a purple mop to my head? We’re not sure and it’s imperative that we know.” C’mon, at least laugh a little.

James surprisingly held eye contact with Casper, before looking to his hair. Well, I know what rats look like… “Um… W-What’s… a-a m-mop?” I don’t know what you’re talking about… “I-it l-looks like a clean rat… But like fluffed out… I-I guess…” That’s how I would describe it…

Casper’s eyebrows shot up. …you don’t know what a mop is? “Uh, a mop is like this tool thing you use to clean floors, it has like ropes on the end… crap, how could I better describe it…” Also, thanks for the compliment.

“It’s this big stick with like ropes tied to one end, and you get the ropes wet and use the stick to rub them around the floor and clean the ground.” Sharon mimed mopping, shrugging when James stared blankly at her. “That's the best I can think of.” …how do you not know what a mop is?

“It's a running joke that Casper’s hair looks like someone pinned a purple rat to his head.” Lathe nudged James lightly.
“Now that I've dyed my hair, I can't decide if I'm wearing cotton candy and have dessert already on hand or if I'm on fire and someone needs to get the extinguisher.” She looked to Ieva. “Though I think we know who could use the extinguisher more than me.” Her hair always legit looks like it's on fire, it's soooo pretty! And it's very long…

James stared at them blankly. “What’s a fire… Ech… Echstinger?” James tried to repeat the word as he looked to the silent table. Did I do something wrong? Do I not know a lot? I was at home… Then on the streets, my uncle and mom wouldn't let me go to school… He put his fork down and looked between Lathe and the other people staring back at him.

Lathe looked calm as he spoke, though he internally began to panic. He doesn't even know what a fire extinguisher is. Fuck… “A fire extinguisher. They're these big red metal containers that have stuff in them to put out fires in case one starts where it shouldn't so your stuff doesn't get burned and people don't get hurt. I'll need to show you where we keep them and how to use them.” I need to write down everything you need to learn about...

James nodded, curled up and his arms wrapped around his knees. “Um…” He trailed off as everyone looked at him, clamming up. I don’t know who you are… Are you friends? Family?

Sharon suddenly had an idea, looking back to James. “Another question, Hon. On a scale of one to lamp, what is your favourite colour of the sky?” You might understand that one a bit better...

“The… The purpley-pinky glow in the morning….” It means I survived another night...

...huh. A legit answer. “The dawn sky is really pretty.” She saw his moment of confusion. “Dawn is another word for early morning, when the sun is just coming up over the horizon, the line where the ground and sky meet. I like dusk best, when the sky is orange and the sun is just setting over the horizon.” She tried to explain the terms best she could, smiling to him. ...hm.

“I don’t like the night…” I don’t want to go to sleep, I’m always afraid I’ll never wake up again… I’ll die in my sleep… Something will happen in the night...

...because it's so cold and scary without a roof or protection… ...or you might not wake up. Sharon just nodded, not wanting to push that and remind him of things he wouldn't want to think of. “What’s your favourite season?” Probably summer… it doesn't get too cold at night during the summer.
...because it's so cold and scary without a roof or protection... or you might not wake up. Sharon just nodded, not wanting to push that and remind him of things he wouldn't want to think of.

“What’s your favourite season?” Probably summer... it doesn't get too cold at night during the summer.

“S-Spring... Because the rain meant fresh water... So I wouldn’t get sick from drinking f-from the creeks....” I used to get sick a lot. “I didn’t like throwing up.... I’d have to wait until n-night and drink from some-one’s hose...” His voice was a little louder as he got more comfortable speaking with everyone.

Lathe kept from reaching out to touch his shoulder, instead giving him a faint smile of reassurance as Sharon and everyone at the table carefully coaxed him into talking a bit. He's talking... and he's holding eye contact. Good. ....good.
Chapter 78: Unexpected Visitors

Lathe slowly woke up in a room that wasn't his, recognising where he was after a moment. ...oh yeah, James made me sleep with him again... ...where is he...? Lathe felt the spots around him, all of them cold. I thought he was on top of me... eh, he's up, either way. Maybe trying to get breakfast or something. Lathe smiled as he stepped from the bed. I'll bet he's standing in front of the fridge wondering what all the shit inside of it is. I'll have to explain dragon fruit. Lathe padded to the stairs, wanting to get his morning coffee, stopping at the top of the stairs in confusion. Blake was sitting at the top landing, looking up and whining, Maisie at his side, trotting around in circles, whining. Even Nene was on her hind legs, her front paws on the wall, yapping quietly. What? He looked down as Krampus trotted over, biting his pant leg and tugging him backwards towards them. “Whoa, whoa, what’s going on?” Lathe came over immediately, looking up to follow Blake’s line of sight, going pale. ...fuck. “James...?!” What the fuck are you doing up there?!

James shifted, expertly crawling along the high beam across the ceiling. “Yeah?” He seemed to be comfortable up in the air, far away from the dogs. No... It tried to bite me with it’s big teeth.

“...kindly explain to me why the hell you're crawling around twenty-five feet from the floor. By the way, get down from there right now.” Lathe was calm, though he looked a bit exasperated, watching him carefully. It's not like I can catch you if you fall. I'd break half my bones.

James shook his head, looking down to Krampus and pointing at him. “It was gonna bite me.” I just wanted an apple... I was hungry.. He was still perched comfortably, like it was the only place he felt safe.

Lathe looked to Krampus, then back to James. “Were you holding anything that vaguely resembled food?”

“Y-yeah...”

“Well there you go. This,” He reached down to pet Krampus. “Is Krampus. He has a reputation for eating anything and everything, including things that aren't food, like cell phones, car keys, wooden trains, and expo markers. He just always wants food, even if what you're holding isn't actually food. If you're holding something he knows is edible, he wants it. He wouldn't actually bite you. Now come down, you're making me nervous and I'm not letting you chill up there any longer. We’ve got a big day ahead of us both, and you also need to learn not be terrified of the doge.”

Nope. Not happening.

James slowly nodded before clambering over towards the corner, easily hopping from beam to beam to get there. Okay… he slowly slid down the wall, stopping himself as the dogs made their way to where he was, scared to step down, but low enough for Lathe to grab him. What am I supposed to do?

Lathe watched him with terrified eyes, nearly having a heart attack as he jumped from beam to beam, so scared that he would miss and fall to the ground below, breaking something. Or his fucking neck… Lathe moved, easily snatching him from the wall and setting him on solid ground, hugging him tightly. “Don't fucking scare me like that…” If you do that again I'll kill you. …well, panic until you're back over here, then suffocate you with a hug of relief. …same thing.

James stiffened when he was hugged. “But… I-I was safe up there…” The dog can get me now. He watched in terror as Krampus came closer until Blake managed to get him to leave him alone, sighing in relief. Okay, that’s the nice doggy. “W-What are we doing?”

Lathe let him go, smiling with determination. “Lots of errands, because you're not staying in the house all day. Here, we can talk while we food, okay?” Lathe ushered him down to the kitchen, his voice warm. “I've got things to do today, and since we woke up a bit later in the day, nobody else is home since the kids are at school and Eren and Ieva- my wife- are at work. That means we’re safe to do stuff.” Lathe brought him to the fridge, rifling through it for stuff. “First and foremost, we’re going to give you a small lesson in cooking. Wash your hands Hon, you're making your own breakfast today.” Day 1 of How to Adult.

James looked confused before he nodded. “Where’s the eggs? And the pan?” I'm used to fending for myself while Mom and Uncle were at work… We only ever really had eggs…

“I've got your eggs, but there's more, and I'll grab a pan too. But we’re going to need a cutting board and knife, one for each of us, because we’re not just making scrambled eggs.” Lathe dumped some vegetables on the counter. “We’re making omelettes.” Lathe went about getting things out for them, a pan sitting on the stove as he acquired a bowl and whisk. “Okay, first, vocabulary.” Lathe had everything set out for them, first pointing to the whisk. “Tell me what that is.” Let's see what you know.

“A metal loopy thingy.”

“…technically yes, but the metal loopy thingy has a name. It's called a whisk.” Lathe pointed to a green vegetable. “What about that?”

“Green……… It’s in a lot of food that gets thrown out… But I don’t know what it is… I eat it a lot… Most of the time it’s burnt… Is that why people throw it out?” Because it’s burnt?
“...people do end up throwing out burnt stuff a lot of the time, but I don't know why you'd find so much of it. It's a green pepper, and normally these big peppers are the sweet variety.” He pointed to an onion. “That?”

“That gets throw out a lot too... And it makes my breath smell after I eat it... Are we putting a lot in?” James' eyes were full of curiosity.

“...have you eaten one just like that? Like, whole and uncooked?” That's what you make it sound like...

“A part of it was missing before I ate it…” He looked down, twiddling his thumbs a bit and rocking back and forth on his toes and heels. Is that bad? “I was hungry…”

“Oh no, Hon, I didn't mean it in a bad way, I'm just surprised is all. People rarely eat them raw, but there's no problem with it. It's called an onion. People normally don't like cutting them up because the fumes get in your eyes and can make your eyes water.” Lathe pointed to a small bowl of shredded cheese. “Any ideas?”

“Does it have the puffy green spots on it?” James looked around for the usual mold which would warrant someone throwing away the cheese. It doesn't have them...

“I sure hope not. Those puffy spots you're thinking of is mold. It means that bacteria is growing on your food and eating it for you- not a good thing.” Lathe looked over when James seemed to pull himself closer, making himself look smaller. Oh my... “Hey, honey, it's okay…” Lathe pulled him into a hug. “I know you did what you had to to survive, I really do. But it doesn't make you any less of a person. You did what you needed to. But now you can live better, and I want to make sure you know how to, okay? We don't want you getting sick again.” Lathe rubbed his back, letting him go and smiling to him. It's fine. “Normally people throw things out once they see mold, so you would've seen plenty of it. But it's not too good to eat. It could make you sick. But that itself is cheese, it's normally made in big blocks from milk, but the factory shredded it for you so you can spread it on stuff and melt it, easier than cutting it up yourself.” Lathe pointed to a package of thick sliced ham. “Do you know what meat this is?”

“Sour.”

“...well, that's how it would taste when people throw it out... here.” Lathe grabbed a slice, cutting off a piece and handing it to James. “Try it, it's already cooked. It's called ham, it's pork, which comes from pigs. They're the pink animals that say ‘oink.’” Lathe actually reached for a post-it, thinking better of it and actually looking to the window, searching. “...he sometimes wanders around… see that pink animal there?” Lathe pointed, Oliver still wandering around, much more grown, nearly at waist height. “That's a pig.”

“It’s the same color as its meat…” That’s weird… He brought the small piece to his mouth, slowly eating it and savouring the taste. “It’s not sour…” But… It’s got a flavor to it… It’s nice...

“Nope. I'll give you a tour of the animals later- show you around the barn and stuff, let you hold a chicken, all that jazz.” Yep, you get to hold a chicken. I wanna see the look on your face when you do. “That sound agreeable?”

“Are chickens the big feathery things that run after you if you steal their eggs?” They always try and bite you too...

“...the hens don't chase me when I take the eggs… ...maybe? ...do I need to fetch one right now so we can check?”

James shook his head. “I don’t wanna get bit… it got my heel last time…”

“...I don't think you're thinking about a chicken. Here.” Lathe actually got a post-it, drawing a cartoonish if accurate chicken. “Is that what bit you?”

James shook his head. “No… It had a long neck… And it kept squawking at me.” It chased me for a full three blocks… I was only able to get two eggs too...

“...this?” Lathe drew another animal next to it, watching James nod. “...James, that's a goose.” Lathe smiled, doodling something else. “They're the big birds that honk at people and walk across roads when they feel like it, and fly in the sky in these v-shaped formations.” Lathe made a small doodle of the formation, each bird only a curvy v in the sky. They look like that. ...they're definitely not chickens. “You can hold an actual chicken-chicken later. A lot of the hens we have are very chill.”

“You can hold them? Do they bite? Like the doggies?” I don’t wanna get bit...

“The dogs won't bite you, they just like to lick and sniff and beg for food and pets. That's what dogs do. They'll only bite you if you hurt them or someone they love. A few chickens won't let you pick them up, but I know which ones will, so I'll make sure you pick up a friendly one. But the ones who won't let you stay away anyway, so you'll be okay. Bites are a last resort, really.” They won't want to hurt you, they'll only do it if there's no other real choice.

“But the black dog bit me…” The one who chased me up to the rafters…

“What, where?” Lathe watched him turn and tug up his pant leg, showing a few scrapes on his ankle. Shit… “Krampus was trying to stop you because you had food, you were probably running away from him. He missed. I'm so sorry Hun, he wouldn't mean anything by it. If anything once he realised it he would've licked the wound, tried to apologise. He wouldn't hurt a fly. None of these dogs would.” They'd all love you...

James was quiet and simply nodded, keeping his head down as he pulled his pant leg down again. It hurt when he bit me…

Lathe sighed, resting a hand on his side. “Here, let's get back to cooking, hm?” Lathe steered him back in front of his cutting board, reaching for the eggs. “So, step one is making the egg mixture that holds the omelette together. Take an egg, and crack it into the bowl like this. Watch me.” Lathe easily cracked the egg, dropping it in the bowl without any shell. “Your turn.”

James watched him with a raised eyebrow, biting into the egg and letting it drain before pulling it towards his mouth to lick at it. Why aren’t we just drinking it? He started to lick at the hole he’d created in the shell looking to Lathe as he watched him. Why are you staring?

...well shit. “Uh, James…” Lathe wasn't sure how to interrupt him, stunned. “J-James, you'll get sick eating it raw. Stop that.” Lathe gently swatted at his hand, getting him to stop. “Just… do what I did, okay?”...that was weird to just watch him do.

“But why are we putting it in a bowl? Isn’t it faster to just drink it from the egg?” James was really confused, licking up the drip from his chin. I've always eaten them like this… It's how uncle taught me to eat them... except we poured it into the pan... Right away.

“...we’re putting it in a bowl to mix up with other stuff before we cook it. You could get salmonella if you eat a lot of raw egg, it's not safe. Just give it a try, okay? With that one and the second one. One more look, okay?” Lathe tapped his second egg on the edge of the bowl, pulling the halves apart and dropping the egg in the bowl. “Give it a shot.”
James still tried to raise the egg to his mouth, going to crack it, before Lathe grabbed his arm. “But I wanna crack it…?”

Lathe sighed, moving behind him. “Here, we’ll do it together. We have the egg—” Lathe took hold of the back of his hand. “Now we crack it on the lip of the bowl.” Lathe had him tap the egg to the bowl, neatly cracking it. “Now, we use our other hand…” Lathe had him take hold of the two hemispheres of the shell, pulling just right so that the egg dropped into the bowl. “Okay? The last one is yours. Like we just did. It's a sanitary thing too just so you know, if you're cooking for other people.” They wouldn't like that.

“What’s sanitary?” I'm confused.

“If something is sanitary, that means it's clean. If you crack eggs like that, not only could you get sick, but you could pass germs to whoever eats what you made and get them sick. We don't want that, so you have to crack them this way.”

James nodded, cracking the egg on the rim of the bowl, not as cleanly as Lathe, but able to keep the shell out of the bowl. Okay... I'm assuming he doesn't want me to eat the shell….

“Do you eat the shell?”

“...no, we put that in the compost bin.” Lathe showed him where he could put it. ...I'm not even going to question this shit anymore. ...gotta get that calcium from somewhere, I guess... “Now, we're going to add a bit of cream. Do you know what a cow is? The big black animals with white spots everywhere, eat a ton of grass?”

“Y-yeah… The ones with the horns don’t like me… They chase me too...” I was going through a field and it almost hit me with it’s horns...

“They are called steers, they can be very aggressive… you don't wanna make them mad. We have two cows, but they're very chill, you can meet them later. The males are steers, but the females are the ones that you get milk from. If you leave their milk to sit for a little bit, cream rises to the top, and it’s a lot sweeter and a bit thicker than the rest of the milk, it has most of the fat in it. We’re adding just a tiny bit to the eggs, okay?” Lathe unscrewed the cap from the small carton, adding a small splash before handing it over. “Not too much, or your omelette will be runny.”

James took the carton, adding very little to his omelette before handing it back. I don’t want to use too much... He held out the carton for Lathe, a mere drop had been added. I mean I shouldn’t right? He’s only doing this because he feels like he has to... I could always just pack up and leave... James looked down, away from Lathe as he felt him take the carton away from his hands. I could come back right? Or would they not let me? I’m not sure if it would be rude or not… It probably would be, I mean, he’s trying to help, but… James turned his head towards where the neat line of dogs was. He saw Blake and Maisie sitting patiently while Nene was sleeping beside Blake, but behind him was what really put him on edge. Krampus was pacing with his eyes glancing up at James with every movement. He felt a sense of panic flood through him, like he should scale up the wall again. I don’t wanna get bit again…

Lathe rested a hand on his shoulder, snapping James out of it. “It’s okay, Hon. They know not to get too close to you. And if anything, Krampus is probably guilty… he’s sure acting like it.” He doesn’t look that happy… “Come on, Hon, let’s focus so we can eat sometime this year.” Lathe faintly smiled, picking up the whisk. “Okay?” He watched him nod and pick up his own whisk. “So, all we’re going to do is whisk this all together nice and smooth, okay?” Lathe started to, still speaking. “Don’t do it so that you spill stuff everywhere, but you want to break the yolks- the yellow floating blobs.” Come on, this part is easy.

James looked to the whisk and started to do what Lathe did, silently, his eyes having a sullen look to them. They continued their cooking lesson with James following his instructions silently, and with barely any eye contact. I’ll have to leave soon… He looked down at his omelette as Lathe plated it, slowly taking the fork he was given and beginning to eat obediently. He said we need to go shopping… What kind of shopping are we doing? Food shopping? I’ll be an embarrassment to him, I don’t know how to act, and I don’t really feel safe around people anymore… I also just have clothes that have been sewn together…. I wouldn’t be able act properly… and he lives here, people around here know him… It would really be an embarrassment… I don’t wanna go… James could feel his face heating up in shame as he thought about it. I don’t wanna go outside… I’ll be looked down on…

Lathe ate quietly, cleaning up a bit when he finished, James still picking at his food. After a while when James was simply staring at it, he spoke. “You done, Hon?” You ate most of it, which is good. Lathe watched him nod, scraping it into the proper trash and washing the plate, his voice warm and careful. “A few things can happen today. You and I are at least going to go shopping at the bakery. But there are other things we can do. We can go and get you some new clothes you like, maybe see if you want to put that permit to use in the mall parking lot. Or we can just do the bakery, then come back home and meet the animals and maybe start teaching you random stuff. You can pick.” The bakery is a requirement because we’re out of muffins and Marco is such a sweetheart you won’t have any trouble with him.

James swallowed hard, curling up to himself in silence. I don’t wanna go out… People don’t like me… I don’t wanna… He buried his face in his knees, shuddering as he tried to hold in his tears, flipping out when Blake whined at him, having not heard him come closer. He was on the verge of tears as he stood up on the chair, looking ready to bolt to climb up to the ceiling again. N-No…

Lathe turned when Blake whined, seeing James standing on the stool as Blake worriedly looked up to the teen, looking ready to cry. Lathe shooed Blake further back from the stool, coming up to him, plucking him from the chair without much resistance and setting him on the ground, hugging him. “Here, let me tell you something.” He soothingly rubbed his back. “The bakery I’m talking about is run by a Mr. Bodt, and his son Marco is always at the counter. He’s probably the only other person you’ll have to talk to. He’s a total sweetheart; I haven’t seen or heard him be anything other than kind and polite. You can’t stay inside forever. ...can we please just try that, and then come home?”

James let the tears that had welled up roll down his cheeks. But you know those people... They’ll look down on you too... Because I’m an embarrassment.... He kept his mouth shut as he simply nodded, keeping his gaze to the floor submissively. I’m gonna screw up...

Lathe soon wiped at his tears, pressing a kiss to his forehead. “It's okay, things will turn out just fine. I'm sure of it. You'll do great.” You will. “Let’s go get changed, okay? How about just your jeans, a shirt and your hoodie? We can go sift through clothes downstairs if you want.” I know you're probably very self conscious about your clothes... I did what I could, but they still look beaten to hell...

James shook his head, slowly prying himself away from Lathe before he noticed the dogs and sprinted away towards the stairs. No... No more... He ran up the stairs, a terrified look over his face as he closed the door behind him. He shifted through his worn out clothes, trying to find the ones that looked the best, finally picking out jeans, a t-shirt that used to be a bright green but was now a very faded version of said color, along with random stitch work everywhere. He then slipped on the hoodie that Lathe had given him to hide it all. I don’t want to push him... to do more than he’s already done... He probably doesn't like having another mouth to feed...

Lathe sighed quietly, going to get dressed himself. After about fifteen minutes he knocked on James’ door, his voice soft. “Ready to go, Hon?” I’m sorry... I know it's hard... but you have to do this. You can't hide forever. He smiled softly when he opened the door slowly, dressed and looking miserable. Lathe pulled him into another hug, guiding him downstairs to the car. “We won’t be gone long. And you can pick out whatever you want from the store.” We’ll be getting three of everything again I think, just so you can try them all. Lathe locked the door behind them when they had their boots on, bringing him to the car. “You're on the other side, Hon.” Lathe motioned to the other side of the car. ...please tell me you know how to open a car door.

James went around the car, looking down at the door, trying to figure it all out. How do you... He poked at the door handle, trying to see if it would open for him. Why’s it not opening?

“You see that handle you're poking? Grab it and pull.” Lathe opened his own, showing him how it swung out.

James grabbed the handle and tugged on it, watching it open up with wide eyes. Oh... Okay. He slowly clambered into the car, unsure of the surrounding area. I don’t like cars... Not anymore...
“Close your door, Hon.” Lathe tilted his head when James shook his head vehemently. “...why not? I'm not gonna hurt you.” It's okay.

James looked to the back of the car, seeing that there were in fact seats and not rugs or pillows... He wouldn’t be able to pin me... He kept his head down in shame as he curled up in the front seat, also not having his seatbelt on. I don’t like this...

....“Would you feel better sitting in the back, Hon? You'll be able to see me...” ........if you're thinking I'd try anything... oh. Oh. “Hon, I would never want to hurt you. I won't be able to reach you in the back if it would make you feel better.” It might...

James’ eyes were wide as he was thrust back into his memories. Come inside the back with us. We’ll have a bunch of fun. He could only watch as he was tugged into the back of the dark colored van and pinned to the floor without mercy. No more! Stop! He would shout, but the man wouldn’t stop and he wouldn’t let him go. He kept him locked in there for days before the door was finally unlocked and he bolted out. James was shaking in his own skin as he shook his head. “N-Not the back...” His voice sounded weak and full of fear. I don't want to... He pinned me down, and made my butt hurt...

Lathe nodded, reaching over and gently running a hand through his hair, trying to soothe him but not wanting to crowd him. He sighed when he leaned into his hand, his voice a quiet murmur. “It's okay, James, you're safe now. It’s alright, you don't have to sit there if you don't want to. Don't worry, it's okay now.” Lathe waited for him to calm, wearily smiling to him. “Nothing bad is gonna happen to you- I won't let it. Do you think you could try to shut the door? It’s okay.” I'm not gonna hurt you. Promise.

James slowly nodded before reaching out to grab the door. I... It won't happen, right?

Lathe smiled when he successfully shut the door. “Good. Now, one more thing. You need to put on your seatbelt. Watch me.” Lathe showed him where the strap was over his shoulder, showing him how it buckled across him. “Now you try. It's there to keep you safe in case we have to stop quickly or something unexpected happens.” It's easy.

James was wary but soon got the belt across his chest before curling up to himself again. I don't wanna be in here... He seemed antsy, ready to get up and bolt out of the car once the chance arose. I want out...
Lathe rolled down James’ window halfway once he started the car, turning the car around and going down the driveway, turning onto their street. He reached over to turn on the radio, quiet music filling the car, James staring at it with wide eyes. “That’s called a radio, James. You can listen to music on it, but the stations get to pick the music that plays. Sometimes there are ads so that the stations can make money and stay on the radio, but they don’t last too long. You can pick different stations and listen to different kinds of music, like pop or country or alternative kinds.” I get to introduce you to music… Lathe kept a careful eye out when they got to Trost, parking along the side of the road right in front of the bakery. He saw the same freckled brunette behind the counter, smiling. “We’re here, Hon. It’s just Marco inside that I can see. Let’s go say hi, okay?” Lathe rested a hand on his shoulder. “I’ll be right with you the entire time. Don’t worry.” It’ll go just fine.

James bolted out of the car the second he got the chance though once he was outside he felt very out of place. We’re in town….. It smells nice… James looked around with wide eyes, watching as someone came close to them a dog on a leash in front of said human. It’s big… He backed up, right into the car as the dog noticed his presence and started to veer towards him. Huh? Why’s it coming here?

Lathe rounded the car, putting a hand on James’ shoulder, smiling sheepishly to the woman looking to them with a flicker of confusion. “Sorry, he’s afraid of dogs.”

The woman nodded, guiding her dog away from James. “Sorry about that- Blaze, come back here.” She smiled sheepishly to them. “Sorry. Have a nice day.”

“That's fine, and you too.” Lathe looked back to James, guiding him by the arm across the sidewalk to the bakery. Danger avoided. Lathe opened the bakery door, ushering James inside. “Freckles?” Lathe grinned when Marco looked up to them with a soft smile, noting the way his expression changed when he saw James.

Marco still smiled kindly to him when he saw them. “Hello Mr. Quo. And hello.” Marco glanced to James, his eyes warm. “Don’t tell me you got another one.” You’ve already got like what, seven?

“Kinda-sorta. Marco, this is James, he’s gonna be chilling with us for a while. And James, Marco. He’s a good friend of ours and he’s normally at family dinners with us on Saturdays. He’s also effectively a pile of sugar at all times, and makes good muffins.” ...you can say hi if you want.

Marco’s cheeks tinted pink a bit at the compliment, smiling to James. “Nice to meet you, James.” That seems like Lathe, taking someone in at a moment’s notice. You look pretty shy…
James looked at him for a moment before shuffling behind Lathe a little bit, waving at him in silence. His eyes wandered around to the rest of the place. Usually I'm kicked out of places like this...

Lathe gave Marco a one-shoulder shrug, his eyes quietly pleading with him to understand. He can't human too well… “It’s day one of learning how to human, so I decided here was a good place to bring him. C’mon.” Lathe moved up to the glass case, James staying close behind him, using Lathe as a human shield and occasionally glancing up to Marco from behind him, nervous yet a bit curious. He looked over the things in the case, looking to James. “Anything in particular look tasty to you?”

James looked at one of the glass cases, making his way to a large ring of coffee cake, a sour cream coffee cake filled with walnuts, pecans and brown sugar. The cake was covered in powdered sugar and displayed on its own. It looks so good… I want it, but I can’t have it.

Marco watched as James seemed transfixed by the coffee cake, smiling to him. “The sour cream coffee cake? Do you want to try a piece?”

James looked fearful as Marco spoke, quickly shaking his head and going to hide behind Lathe. No… I'm not allowed to have any, because I can’t pay for it.

“It's okay. Hon. You're allowed to try stuff. If you really like something I'll buy some for you.” That's how this works. “Do you wanna try the coffee cake? You're allowed to.”

James was silent for a moment, slowly peeking his head around Lathe’s side. “Y-yes, please.” I wanna try it...

Marco smiled, nodding. He got a small plastic bowl and fork, cutting a small piece for him, holding it out for him. He watched James hesitate to take it, though he waited patiently, his expression calm and reassuring. It's okay, I don't bite.

James was slow to take the bowl, taking it and hiding behind Lathe again. He slowly took the fork and took a piece and bit into it. It does taste really good. He scrambled to eat the rest of the piece he was given before he even realized it.

Marco chuckled quietly when James scarfed down the rest of the cake, smiling. Looks like he likes it.
“You’re eating like it's going out of style.” Lathe smiled as James chewed the last bite. “We can get some to take home if you like.” You look like you really like it. “And can I try some? I need to buy enough so that James won't be short cake if I decide to raid the stash.”

Marco chuckled, nodding and getting him some. “I know how obsessed with coffee you are- you'll like it.” Marco handed the sample over, watching Lathe try it and just stare at the cup.

“...I think we’re going to need that entire cake.” That's too good... “Coffee in cakes... next thing you know they'll put chocolate in cakes.”

“...Uhm... Mr. Quo, chocolate cake has been a thing... for a very long time...” Marco looked at him oddly, lifting a hand to his mouth, trying to suppress a laugh.

“I'm just messing with you. But what'd you say, James, wanna help me eat that cake over the week?” It'll be gone in, like... three days. Tops.

James looked at him with awe. “Please?” His voice was small, using the puppy eyes as best as he could. I would love to eat that! It’s so good!

Lathe smiled, nodding. “Okay. You heard him, Marco. The whole cake, please.” Well, I know what we're having for dessert this week.

Marco smiled, nodding. “Of course.” He moved to box the cake for them, setting it on the counter. “See anything else you like?”

“Hm.” Lathe meandered with James down the case to where the racks of small muffins and rolls were. “We both know I end up getting at least thirty of these every week. But I think you should get to pick.” Lathe nudged James a bit, smiling to him. “Help me pick out a bunch, hm?” Everyone loves everything, which is great, because nobody besides Eren is too picky. ...expect Philip, he can get picky. But there really aren't wrong answers.

James looked to Lathe with confusion until Marco went towards the muffin case. I get to pick? His eyes were questioning as he pointed to himself. Me?
“Yes, you. You can help pick. We’ll take turns, okay? And everything is awesome, so there aren’t any wrong answers.” You’ll do fine. “You can start.” Pick something. Anything.

James looked at the muffins, looking around the different flavors before pointing at the coffee cake muffin. That one looks good… I want that one… If I can have it.

Lathe chuckled, Marco picking up the muffin and putting it in the big box he had ready. “Might as well have more coffee cake. A chocolate chip one, please.” Lathe pointed to the muffin, Marco picking one of those as well.

James looked back to Lathe as he pointed to a blueberry muffin. “What’s the b-blue stuff?” Is it moldy?

“Those are blueberries, they’re a little blue fruit that grows on a bush. Lots of people like them in baked stuff. You might like them.” I think you will.

James nodded before he shifted to hide behind Lathe again as Mr. Bodt came out with more pastries. No… He won’t like me. James gripped into the back of Lathe’s shirt, staying out of view of the man he’d never seen before. He’ll kick me out...

Lathe looked back to James as he hid, gently wrapping an arm around his shoulders and bringing him to his side. “Hello Mr. Bodt, it’s good to see you again. You’re always buried under cake and flour whenever I come by.” You’re always cooped up in the back- you’re busy making delicious stuff, which is great, but I don’t get to say hi too much. Lathe quietly pointed to a pastry with apple as he spoke.

Mr. Bodt looked up as he heard his name called. “Ah! Lathe my boy! How have you been? How’s Eren doing? Better yet I haven’t heard much about Levi, how’s the short stack?” Marco’s father was a joyful Italian as he came out from behind the counter and came to shake Lathe’s hand. I haven’t seen you in weeks! Marco always says you say hello. He smiled as he saw James shy away from him. “And who might this be?”

Lathe smiled as Mr. Bodt came around the counter, shaking his hand with a warm smile. “I’ve been doing pretty well, we all have really. Oh, and this,” Lathe turned to where James hid a bit behind him, bringing him to his side. “This is James, he’s going to be staying with us for a while. I’ve decided to show him around town, this is our first stop.” He’ll be going with me everywhere on errands over the next few weeks so he can learn how to human.
Mr. Bodt smiled kindly. “Why hello there James, is there anything here you really like? I’m sure Marco would let you try something if you asked.” He had a sweet smile on his face as he paused, watching James shift from Lathe’s side to hiding behind him. Is he scared? Well, I’ll stay here for right now… “How’s Eren doing? Is he singing again? I miss listening to his voice on the radio.” It was melodious… I hate that it’s gone.

James hid behind Lathe, shaking in his boots. I’m not gonna take anything! I don’t wanna! He shook as he held onto Lathe’s shirt tightly. I don’t wanna get kicked out…

Lathe reached behind him again, his hand on his middle, his thumb soothingly rubbing at his side. “Eren’s doing pretty well, hasn’t done much singing lately though. He’s got a job teaching German at Trost High School, which takes up a lot of his time. I’m trying to convince him to sing some of the stuff I wrote, though. I’ll get him back on the radio for you.” Lathe grinned. “Oh, and we’ve already been persuaded to clean you out of coffee cake, so don’t worry about that.” I wouldn’t mind going broke if it meant we get to keep eating all the random stuff you guys keep baking.

Mr. Bodt nodded, a happy smile on his face. “Well you should email me more, keep me updated on your family, Marco always forgets some interesting part of what goes on at your household… I’ve heard Eren’s looking to head to Germany this summer.” He must be excited to go back to his homeland.

“...he is?” Lathe looked confused, looking over to Marco. “Did Eren say anything about heading over to Germany over the summer?” If he did, I wasn't a part of the conversation....

Marco nodded. “He did mention it, a few months ago… he said he would talk to someone he knew over there about staying with them, I don’t remember the name… did he not say anything to you?”

“No, he didn't. And the only person I know he knows over there is a man named Hannes….”

“That sounds familiar- I think that was who he mentioned.”

“Huh. I'll have to ask him about that.” Lathe just shook his head, smiling faintly. “It seems like all of us are always doing something else.” There's a lot of us doing a lot of things… just yesterday Mark was breaking state records for running, then it was making sure you didn't die from Sepsis, and today it’s teaching you how to function as a human person. ...I need a vacation.

Mr. Bodt smiled softly, his eyes bright as he started to make his way behind the counter. “Well, I’m glad I could see you today, though I must say you need to drag Eren along with you sometime soon, I miss the boy.” I haven’t seen him in too long.

“I’ll drag him along soon, don’t worry. You know I’ll be out of muffins by Saturday. And it’s nice to see you again.” Lathe grinned, watching him disappear back into the back room, presumably to tackle the large amounts of food they needed to make. Lathe gently nudged James, nodding back to the counter. “We’ve still got, like, twenty-six more pastries to pick. Your turn.”

James poked his head out to listen to Lathe speak before shaking his head and burying his face into Lathe’s back. I don’t need any more… I’ll be okay with just that for this week… I can get some eggs from the chickens and eat those if I get hungry.

Lathe sighed, looking back to the case, counting everything in the case. There are twenty-four different things in here… “Marco, here’s the deal. Can I have three cinnamon rolls please…” He watched him stow them in the box, looking back up to him. “...and now one of everything else.”

Marco quietly laughed, starting on that. “You always seem to end up ordering at least one of everything.”

“It’s the easiest way to make decisions- everything is tasty, and it’s less mean than buying everything that has chocolate in it and leaving none for your other customers.”

“Point. One Quo dozen coming up.” … That’s what that order is called now. Marco boxed everything up for them, sealing them with stickers and running through Lathe’s card. “I need your autograph, please.”

“Stop it, you'll make me blush.” Lathe joked, signing the slip quickly. “Wanna help carry boxes, Hon?” He looked to James. We can take them and go home now.

James nodded reaching hesitantly to grab the bags, following Lathe out the door to the car, though he froze, watching Lathe open the back up to the car. N-no… Not again… I don’t want it to happen again. James was frozen in fear, his eyes showing nothing but terror. I’ll be a good boy I promise, just please anything but the back…

Lathe turned for the boxes, seeing James’ terror, remembering what had happened before their drive to the bakery. “No, James, it’s not that. I just need someplace to put the boxes, that’s all. It’s okay, just give me the bag and we’ll be okay.” Lathe held out a hand for them, trying not to look like any kind of threat. It's okay, Hon. I'm not gonna hurt you.

James was shaking as he slowly and very carefully approached Lathe still very unsure of the situation as he held out the bags for him. I wanna go back... I can go hide, no one will see me up in the rafters...

Lathe took the bag from him, stowing it on the floor in the backseat before shutting the door, going around the car. “It's okay, James, just hop in, okay? We'll be home soon.” These are new revelations for me. ...I need to write all this shit down...

James was again hesitant to get into the car, but he got in within a few minutes, and even closed the door before he buckled up. He pulled his knees to his chest, keeping his head buried so he didn’t have to watch the car move. I wanna go back... Go back to Lathe’s home....

Lathe got in with him, driving them home, shutting off the car when they finally reached the driveway. He let James run off when they were stopped, getting the bag himself and following to the front door where James awkwardly waited. “It's okay, Hon.” Lathe unlocked the door for them, letting him scurry inside. Lathe set the bag of boxes on the counter, looking over his shoulder when he noticed movement, James running upstairs and over to the nook, passing it and heading for the wall. “James…” Lathe’s voice was warning, nearly having a heart attack as James climbed the wall and caught a beam, dangling over the room for a moment before hauling himself up expertly. “James, get the hell down from there!” You're gonna get yourself killed!

James hurriedly shook his head. I don’t wanna come down, I wanna stay up here... People don’t look up, they don’t find me... I’m hidden here... “N-no... I don’t wanna come down.” He murmured and he climbed further out of reach as he climbed over the staircase without a thought in the world. I like it up here...

Lathe didn't want to panic, walking under where he perched in the beams, sounding very nervous. “James, you're scaring me. Get down from there now.” I'm not fucking letting you climb around the beams of the fucking house.

James pouted, shaking his head as he looked down to lathe. “I don’t wanna... I feel safe up here... People won’t find me…” *People don’t look up ...

Lathe’s face set, still scared, his voice firm. “James, you can't climb around up there like that, you're going to fall and break your neck at some point. It's not safe. And I don't care if you're good at it, you're not allowed to do that. Get down.” I'm not letting you.
James watched him, staring right down into his eyes still. “But I’ve only fallen twice... And I’m careful...”

“I’ve only fallen off a building twice before, because I was high up and the wind knocked me down...”

“I don’t care. Stop arguing with me and come down and you might not get in more trouble than you already are.” I don’t want to be mad at you. Don’t make me be.

James shifted his weight. “Why are you mad?” I can hear it in your voice... What did I do wrong? I feel safe up here, the dogs can’t bite me... He was quiet, his eyes wide as he waited for an answer. I’m not hurting anyone...

“Because you’re scaring me with your swinging around twenty-five feet in the air. If god forbid you slip and fall, I might not be able to catch you and you'll break a bunch of bones, collapse a lung, crack your skull, all that. I get that you feel safe up there but I’m not letting you put yourself in that kind of danger so get down right the fuck now so I can stop worrying.” I will physically remove you from up there if I have to.

“M-My skull’s already cracked... What’s the point if it cracks more? I don’t wanna come down... I wanna stay here, I’ll be careful I promise.” I don’t wanna go where the dogs are.

...what. Lathe was internally seething, trying to stay cool. “That's it. I'm getting you down myself and if your skull really is cracked like you say so, we might as well drag you to the hospital too.” I'm so done. Lathe ditched his socks, going up the stairs, assessing the situation. This shouldn’t be too difficult... Lathe was very careful as he got to the corner of the nook, grabbing the first beam and lifting himself up onto it, creeping along until he was over the living room, the floor far away. Lathe refused to focus on that, instead keeping track of the other beams and where James was as he shuffled away from him. Lathe carefully stood, stepping to another beam when he was close enough, able to keep his footing well. “James, I don’t want to have to haul you off of here. Just go.” Lathe pointed to the nook with one hand, looking a bit mad. You’re not allowed up here.

James shook his head slipping away on the high beams until he was far away from both the nook and Lathe. I don’t wanna come down.

Lathe grit his teeth, creeping after him, careful of his footing as he went on the beam after James, thinking he had nowhere to go. “Come on-” Lathe panicked as James suddenly moved off the beam, swinging underneath it like a monkey when he got too close. He turned around just as James was coming back on top of the beam, bracing against a beam above his head for balance and wrapping his other arm around James’ waist before he was out of reach, feeling him struggle for a moment before giving in. Lathe struggled to maneuver back to the nook with James, turning him around and hauling him up to cling to him while he moved them back to safety. He jumped down from the beam finally, not letting go of James even as he fought anew to get away. “No. I need to check your head for marks.” Lathe dragged him to the couch, sitting down and making James sit on the ground in front of him, his legs keeping him caged in and freeing his hands to go through his hair gently. Lathe gently felt around his skull, finding a ridge and tracing it along the back of his head, his brow furrowing. ...that's a problem. “Your occipital bone is pushed in… it’s not flush with the parietal bone anymore… when did you hit your head hard enough for that to happen last?”

How long has it been?

... Should I tell him? James was quiet as he looked down, letting Lathe’s hands trace through the sensitive area again. But... It’s been so long... I barely remember anything happening before that... “W-When I-I was five...” But I didn’t hit it...

Lathe paused, his hand threading through his hair comfortingly. “I'm sorry... it's probably healed by now... it's not a serious enough indentation to cause too much concern, and if you've had it for years... you're fine, I'd say. But you know what I'd recommend?” He paused for a moment. “...not climbing on the rafters and pushing your luck.” Lathe kissed the top of his head, letting him go. He smiled faintly when James didn't immediately flee, still staying put with his hands in his hair. “We can go do more stuff downstairs, you can go chill, or we can stay here like this for a bit if you want. Your choice.” I dunno... I'm having a hard time reading you still...

“But... I didn’t fall...” I didn’t fall when my skull was cracked... He shifted to look up into Lathe’s eyes, observing his reaction. “My skull isn’t cracked... Because I fell...”

“.....oh.” Lathe was quiet for a moment, his hands still playing with his hair. “M’sorry...” ...that's horrible... “I just don't want you endangering yourself when it’s very avoidable. ...do you want to tell me what happened...?” I don't really know too much about what your home life was like....

“My uncle did it... I was trying to climb up the tree so he couldn’t get me... He’d beat me when he gets mad... But he caught me before I could get high enough and pulled me down.... He didn’t bother catching me and I landed on my head... I don’t really remember why I was running from him... I can’t remember a lot that happened because of it anymore...” I guess it's a blessing? I can only remember so much pain. “I couldn’t feel my feet after that either...”

....I don't like the sound of that... “I’m going to call Scotty later, see if we can get you scheduled for an MRI sometime soon... that means we take you into the hospital and you're put in a special machine that'll take pictures of your brain. A CT scan would be good too, it does the same thing, taking pictures of your brain... and now that I think of it, you'll need a trip to the optometrist... they're the people that test how well you can see so we know if you need glasses or not so you can see better. A visit to a pediatrician, because you need a checkup and more importantly vaccinations...” Lathe noticed that James was starting to curl up to himself, murmuring to him.
“Hey, I'm sorry, I know it sounds like a lot… but we need to make sure you're taken care of. It’s not going to be easy all the time, but you're gonna get better. Promise.” I’ll make sure of it.

“Why do I need to go to the eye doctors? I can see fine…” James grumbled as he curled up, resting his head on Lathe’s thigh, almost wishing Lathe would rub his head again. It makes the aching stop…

Lathe sighed, taking the cue to gently massage his scalp, smiling faintly as James relaxed into the touch. “We just want to double-triple check that your eyes are doing okay. You only get the one pair to last you your whole life, and you need to take care of them.” Lathe faintly smiled as James seemed ready to drift off, reaching down and heaving him onto the couch, letting him rest his head in his lap, his hands returning to his scalp. You can relax… it's okay. “...I'm sorry if I sounded really mad at you earlier… I was more scared than anything. You don't normally see people climbing beams like it’s natural.” It was impressive, and terrifying.

“Hmm… It was… The only way… To get away from him…” James yawned as he closed his eyes, his body curling up as he felt the pain in his head skyrocket. Ugh… I have another headache… He whimpered a bit, curling into the fetal position and keeping his eyes closed. I want it to go away…

Lathe wanted to coax him to take a nap after the stressful afternoon, though he was worried when James curled up, whimpering in pain. “Are you okay, Honey? Did I hurt you?” Lathe moved his hands from his head, worried he would make it worse. Crap...

James shook his head, his hand coming to cover his ears as tears started to bubble in his clenched eyes. No… Don’t take your hand away… It hurts too much when you stop. His hand weakly tried to put Lathe’s hand back towards where his skull was a little caved in. It hurts… Make it stop … He whined when Lathe didn’t immediately touch his head. Rub it please … I want it to stop …

Lathe was tentative to rub it again, though he heard James huff with a bit of relief when he did, rubbing his head. “...does it feel like your head is splitting?” He watched James nod, wiping at the tears in his eyes. “I have medicine for migraines. I’m going to grab some, okay? I'll only be a moment.” Lathe slid out from under him, running to grab his bag from downstairs. He soon came back with migraine meds and a bottle of water, sitting James up. “Come on, get these down, they should help.” Lathe made sure James got them down and drank a decent bit of water, sitting on the couch again with him, massaging his head. ...this might not be a new thing… you're making me rub at the point where your occipital bone is pushed in... it could've been happening intermittently for years by this point… I'll ask when he doesn't seem to be in excruciating pain...

James was reduced to whimpers as Lathe rubbed the back of his head. It feels better when someone pushes on it… He let out tiny huffs of relief when Lathe pressed particularly hard on the spot. That feels better… “Mum…” He whined in his pain, trying to get to a point where he could sleep.

Lathe sighed wistfully, still massaging his head. I'm not your Mum... if anything, you'd eventually call me Dad... but there'd be a long way to go for that... “You try to get some sleep, Hun.” Lathe kept up his motions, coaxing James into sleep....I need to schedule that MRI as soon as I can...

Lathe slid out from under him, wanting to leave him to nap and make the call without waking him up. He was halfway down the stairs when he heard a groan of pain, looking back where James was pressing on the back of his head, twisting and unable to find any relief or comfort. Shit. Lathe was next to him again quickly, shifting them back into their original position, one hand massaging his head while the other pulled out his phone. He sighed in relief as James grew lax at his touch, glad he wasn't in as much pain. “I'm going to make a call and see if we can't get you in sometime soon, okay? I think we’d both like to know if there's something we can do to fix your migraines.” We need to see how that noodle of yours is doing... Lathe dialled a familiar number, waiting for Scotty to pick up. I never go about the normal way of scheduling shit anymore. I just call you and we end up getting in pretty quickly. Being a doctor has its privileges. [Yo, Scotty, I've got another favour to ask. Can you please see when the next MRI scanner is free? James has his occipital bone out of arrangement a bit- it's pushed in a bit and he's having really bad migraines. We need to know if there's something going on we can treat or hopefully fix.] It could be simple, or it could be difficult. I'm hoping it's not the latter.

[You said it was the Occipital bone? Can he see? ] The taps of Scotty clicking away on the keyboard sounded through the phone. [How far is it indented?]

Lathe nodded, reaching over to the bookshelf next to him and tossing a book on the floor about six feet away from them. “James, there's a book on the floor. What colour are the letters on the front?” Even if you can't read, if you can see, you should be able to answer that.

James shifted, barely able to open his eyes without sobbing uncontrollably. It's all black... It's all black again... “I-I can’t…” He cried as he reached to put pressure on the back of his head again. It hurts so much.

“Can you see anything at all, Hon?” He watched him shake his head, seeing his expression contort with misery and pain. [Scotty, I'm going to say zero vision. He can't see, but applying pressure to a particular spot on the back of his head on the indented plate alleviates some of the pain.]

Scotty was quiet for a moment. [Stop putting pressure on it, bring him in now, I'm paging the neurologist... He's got something wrong…] Really wrong. [Don’t put pressure on it, it'll make it worse in the long run for him.]

[You got it, Scotty. Ten minutes max. Thanks.] Lathe ended the call, his hand leaving James’ head.
“James, Hon, you can’t put pressure on it. Word is it's gonna make it worse. We’re gonna get you to the hospital so we can have those pictures done, okay? They’re getting everything ready for you.” Lathe stood, having scooped James up into his arms. “I'm sorry, but you can't get out of this one.” Lathe carried him down the stairs, setting James down on the couch so he could get his socks and boots on, wincing as James whimpered and cried in pain. He had his things together very quickly, coming back to get him, prying his hands from his head. “James, please, I know it makes it feel better but you're gonna hurt your noodle in a way we might not be able to fix. It won't hurt forever, but you need to be strong and tough it out this time, Hon.” I'm sorry….

James broke that instant into sobs. “It hurts…. Mummy… Make it stop…” It hurts, I want the pain to go away, I can’t see anything… He did keep his hands away from his skull, instead grabbing onto Lathe’s shirt and sobbing.

Lathe’s heart ached as he watched him break down, wiping away his tears, trying to comfort him. He was even more worried when he got a glimpse of James’ eyes, his left pupil fully dilated, the other tiny. ...shit. “Don't worry Honey, I'm right here, we're going to go do what we need to to make the pain go away. Come on, Hon.” Lathe scooped him up, James hanging onto him and crying into his shoulder. Lathe thought for a moment, going over to the kitchen island and quickly writing a note for the kids when they got home, leaving Mark in charge and ordering them to behave. He got them out the door and in the car, setting James in the passenger seat and buckling him in. It hurt to see James cry harder when he was away for two seconds to get in the car, starting the short drive to the hospital. It wasn't seven minutes later that he was walking into the lobby with James in his arms, the nurses at the front desk instantly recognising both of them, looking worried. They know he’s the runaway who recovered from Sepsis yesterday… and that I'm the guy who’s always around when someone’s health has gone to shit.

Scotty came in a few seconds later. “Lathe.” He called for him, opening the door towards the elevators instead of the ER. Let’s get him up in an actual bed instead of an ER room.

Lathe passed by the front desk and beelined for Scotty, James quietly crying into his shoulder still. “How long till we can get him in for an MRI? And we should maybe do a CT scan too, see if that gives us more information so we don't read anything incorrectly.” Something’s very wrong and we need to know what it is. “And his left pupil is dilated and the other isn't.” That should be the full update...

“That sounds like a problem with the Occipital lobe.” A woman's voice sounded from down the hall as they waited. Is this who Scotty was talking about?

“Ah, good, you're here. Lathe this is Dr. Nanaba Zacharius, she’s the neurologist here…” I didn’t think she’d get here this early.
Lathe looked to her, recognition in his eyes. “...are you married to a Mike Zacharias?” He smiled when she nodded. “It's nice to finally meet you, ma'am. I used to work for him.”

“Oh, you're the one he would always rant about. I've heard a lot about you.” Mostly good things, but also... strange things. But mostly good nonetheless. “Come, there's a half hour wait for the next MRI machine. We'll get him set up in one of the rooms.” Nanaba ushered them into the elevator, bringing them up to the fifth floor. She didn't talk much beyond then, bringing them to an empty room, skimming over James’ rather sparse file as Scotty went to get him morphine at her instruction. He's in a lot of pain, trying to curl up and crying... he needs to be able to control himself while in the machine, and making the pain go away will fix that, at least for as long as we need it to be. Nanaba tried to get a good look at his head from where he sat on Lathe’s lap on the bed, though he jerked his head away from her each time she reached for him, crying into Lathe’s shoulder and trying to get her to stop. ...oh my....

“James, Hon, it's okay, she needs to have a look at your head, it's okay, she's doing her job...” It was futile, James refusing to let go of Lathe, jerking away every time she tried to look at his head. He looked helplessly to her, grateful when Scotty came into the room again. “James, Scotty just needs to give you medicine to make the pain go away. You'll feel a lot better in a minute, promise.” He shifted him a bit, coaxing him to hold out his arm so Scotty could give him an IV.

James had teary eyes as he timidly held out an arm, letting out a loud cry as Scotty put the IV in his arm and taped it down. It hurts... He continued to cry for a few minutes, the morphine taking awhile to kick in before he grew lax in Lathe’s arms. It... It feels better... “Mum... I don’t want it to come back again.” The headaches hurt so much... He blinked a few times, trying to see if he could see, the room coming out around him in blurry outlines.

Scotty watched as Nanaba seemed to sigh in relief before putting gloves on. She decides to put them on now... Oh well, the kids like her, I know that much. He looked to Lathe. “How long ago did the headache start?” I can help out, I've got nothing better to do. There’s a sheet of simple questions, so... I can handle that.

“It hasn't been more than twenty minutes or so, really... one minute he was fine, then the next he was crying in pain...” Lathe cradled James close, though he made sure Nanaba could see his head well, letting her feel his skull. “We’re gonna try to keep the headaches away James, we’ll fix them. Don't worry.” ...I sure hope this isn't some huge calamity...

Nanaba smiled as he nodded, her hands gently feeling his skull, her brow furrowing. “When did it cave in?” I need to know the details about this, his brain is probably under pressure. “What helps the pain as you know of?” Her voice quiet as she spoke.
“He was tugged on and fell onto his head when he was five or so, hit the back of his head. All I know is that pressure at this spot here in particular,” Lathe pointed to it. “Right there it alleviates some of the pain, but not by much. But pressing at all on the indented area relieves the pain somewhat.” Lathe still had a careful hold on him, sort of relieved that James was lightly dozing against his chest, woozy from all the morphine he had been given. “...Scotty, how much morphine did you give him?”

“Enough to make him hover on the edge of sleep for a while. He needs to sleep it off after this if he can, not be up for hours screaming in pain.” Nope.

Nanaba nodded. “He’s got pressure in his skull, which isn’t good. We’re gonna need that MRI as soon as we can.” I need to see what I’m working with… It’s not good by the looks of it.

...that doesn’t sound good… could it just be the pressure of the bone on his brain? ...but that doesn’t sound right… there’s space between the brain and the skull, there’s fluid, and the bone isn’t pushed in far enough, I don’t think… what could it be… Lathe waited anxiously, sighing in relief when the room opened and they could use the machine. Finally. “C’mon, Hon.” Scotty removed the IV, James still dozing in his arms as they headed down the hall.

Nanaba led them down to the MRI machine, making sure the technician knew what part of the brain to scan. Okay, we get to see what the problem is. She watched as James was laid down and strapped into the flatbed, which let him get into the machine safely and securely. The technician and Lathe came back into the room. “Now we wait…” It took a moment for the images to come up, her eyes widening as she saw the large white spot start to form between the temporal lobe and Occipital lobe, running down to the spinal cord. This... This is bigger than I’ve ever seen. And I think I know what it is now... I hope it's not cancerous. “Lathe… I need to speak with you privately.” Her tone was grave as she looked through the multiple scans that brought up a 3D image on the computer. It’s worse that I thought possible...

Lathe was deathly quiet as he looked at the scans, looking quietly fearful. He nodded, quiet as he followed her to the hall. “......I know that picture looked very wrong… what was that…” I don’t know if I wanna hear the answer...

Nanaba nodded quiet as she thought about telling him, deciding the truth would be best. “It’s a tumor… And a very large one at that. It could be a number of things, but I’m worried about it’s size. It’s something I can’t treat here in this facility, so I’m going to be referring you to the Cancer Center of Kansas in Wichita...” Let’s let you process that whole spiel for a moment.

Lathe stared at the floor, holding his head in one hand. “...he’s got cancer… and that huge white spot was the tumor.” As if life hasn't already treated him like shit enough.... Lathe didn't know what to say, just blankly staring at the floor. ...fuck this. Just... fuck ... “...do you have any idea if he’ll live that long?” Is he gonna die when he's twenty-five? Or will life lull us into a false hope and take him at forty?

“Well, it depends, if it’s not cancer… The position of it might lead to some memory issues as well as eyesight and sensory problems… Part of his skull will have to be removed and corrected to relieve the pressure… but the tumor will have to be removed… If it’s cancerous, he’ll need to go through chemo and radiation, and if that works they’ll be able to figure out a plan from there on out. If it doesn’t respond well to the treatment, I can’t tell you to be honest… But his parents should be contacted and informed, even if they aren’t here legally… We should find out if cancer runs within the family… But I’m going to suggest that I perform a craniotomy here… and try and relieve some of the pressure within his head.” That should help stop the headache, but it gives the tumor more room to grow if not treated quickly enough…

Lathe nodded, trying to think. “...okay, that's probably a good idea so it doesn't do much more damage while we’re arranging to have the surgery… when you do it, isn't there a way to take a sample or something and test for cancer cells? Do you know if that could happen?” Brain surgery is not my forte… but I'm pretty sure that's a thing you can do… but I have to check...

“Well, it depends, if it’s not cancer… The position of it might lead to some memory issues as well as eyesight and sensory problems… Part of his skull will have to be removed and corrected to relieve the pressure… but the tumor will have to be removed… If it’s cancerous, he’ll need to go through chemo and radiation, and if that works they’ll be able to figure out a plan from there on out. If it doesn’t respond well to the treatment, I can’t tell you to be honest… But his parents should be contacted and informed, even if they aren’t here legally… We should find out if cancer runs within the family… But I’m going to suggest that I perform a craniotomy here… and try and relieve some of the pressure within his head.” That should help stop the headache, but it gives the tumor more room to grow if not treated quickly enough…

Lathe nodded, trying to think. “...okay, that's probably a good idea so it doesn't do much more damage while we’re arranging to have the surgery… when you do it, isn't there a way to take a sample or something and test for cancer cells? Do you know if that could happen?” Brain surgery is not my forte… but I'm pretty sure that's a thing you can do… but I have to check...

Don’t worry, relieving pressure isn’t my only motive for the surgery, I will be removing some and sending it to the CCK laboratories… He’ll be admitted, and if he needs to go to Wichita, we’ll have to arrange for special transportation….” I’ll find out what we can do to get him there if it comes to that… “I’m sorry this is all I’m able to tell you now, but I’m going to have his blood sent to our labs and check for any signs of cancer elsewhere in the body.” Just to make sure…

Lathe nodded, looking up to her. “That all seems like the best thing to do at this point… ...I'll see what we can find on his family, but… he barely came with a birth certificate. Other than that there wasn't record of him. I can only imagine that files like that might not exist for the family… I'll see about asking them directly…” But I can only do so much...

Nanaba nodded, a soft smile on her face. “Well, he’s going to be staying here… because of the amount of morphine he’s gonna be on… You’ll also need to tell him he needs to shave his head… or only a part of it will be razored…” Usually patients do the whole head before surgery. “And due to circumstances, we won’t be able to do the surgery for a week or so.”

“He can come home tomorrow when the morphine wears off, yes? And we come back for the surgery?” You make it sound like he’s here for the week...

“The facility isn’t legally allowed to give out that high of a dose of morphine to outpatients… He’ll need to stay here….. I can try and see if I can set him on a lower dose for shorter periods of time, but nothing is for certain at the moment. However, he is required for an overnight at this point.” Her tone was gentle, trying to ease Lathe into the situation ahead of them. Most parents don't like that their children have to stay overnight…

“Yeah, I figured. He's really loopy, I knew Scotty probably gave him more than enough for the pain… am I allowed to stay overnight? He's still incredibly skittish around nearly everybody and when he wakes up he might freak out… I don't want anything bad happening as a result.” I'm pretty sure I can, since I did with Eren forever ago, but I can't remember if that was bending the rules for me or not because I was an overprotective doctor of a father….

“He’s under 18, you're allowed to stay.”

“Cool. ...wait, what time is it..” Lathe looked to his watch, thinking. “My six won't be home for another two hours, then Eren and Ieva… and I need to grab stuff… I'm sorry, I'm trying to figure out what to do with myself right now.” Lathe seemed a bit flustered, trying to get his act together. “Okay, I'm going to make sure James gets back to his room okay and sleeps, and I need to run home and grab stuff. I did this once before for a month, I can handle one night.” I'm not going anywhere. ...at least once I have my shit.

Nanaba nodded. “Okay, I’ll call the CCK, inform them of your case, and tell them when the sample will come in…” She motioned him to come back to the MRI where Scotty and the technician were placing James on his bed and getting the loopy teen comfortable to go back up to his room. He’ll be out of it for awhile.

Lathe moved to the side of the bed, smiling when James met him with a tired, lazy look. “Hey Hon. You look sleepy.” ...well, you also look high on drugs, but y’know. It takes a lot out of you. “Don't worry, you can sleep soon.” Lathe helped guide the bed along and out the door, still processing the new information. ... what am I gonna tell everyone?

James began to giggle as they waited for the elevator to come to the floor they were on. “Why do you look like a dinosaur?” Hahaha… Dad’s arms look really short… He’s so tall… Is his head hitting the ceiling?

Lathe smiled, moving his elbows close to his sides, making it look like his arms were half-sized. “Maybe because I am a dinosaur. We may never know.” Lathe gave him a dramatic look, trying to keep a straight face as he weakly flailed his short arms, getting a laugh out of James and strange yet amused looks from the two next to them. I don't care if I make a fool out of myself. James gets special joke privileges.
James giggled more, though he looked confused when the door to the elevator opened and he was wheeled inside. “Daddy… Are we going to heaven?” His voice innocent and curious as he looked up to the bright white lights on the ceiling. Am I dead now? Did I fall?

Lathe’s heart caught in his throat, trying not to tear up, smiling to him. “No, Honey. You’ve still got a long ways to go before you get to heaven. You’ve still got lots and lots to do first.”

“Lots and lots?”

“Lots and lots and lots.” ...I really really hope so… I really hope they don’t need you back where you came from too soon…

James’ eyes went wide with acknowledgement for a moment, turning to Lathe. “Do I get to be a dinosaur too?” He sounded so excited as he looked down to his arms, pouting when they were longer than Lathe’s. I wanna be a dinosaur!

Lathe smiled, moving. “Mhm. You get to be a dinosaur too. Look.” Lathe moved his elbows, moving his wrists, watching as his eyes widened with happiness. “You’re already a dinosaur.”

“Rawr!”

“Rawr!” Lathe smiled playfully, both of them lightly swatting at the other’s hands with their tiny arms for a moment. ..........if you never got to really be a kid when you were little… like this… you can be one now. You deserve that kind of happiness.

James giggled and laughed before the doors opened and he looked to Lathe again. “Are we in heaven now?” I got to be a dinosaur!

Lathe smiled wistfully, looking to James. “Not yet. …it takes a really long time to get there.” Hopefully a really really long time for you…

James nodded and he looked around as he was wheeled down the hall and towards his room. “Daddy, where are we going?” It’s all white and grey here… Where is this place?
“You’re tired, right?” Lathe watched him nod. “Well you’ve got your own room here where you can sleep. We both know you could use all the rest you can get.” Lathe gently ruffled his hair. I can’t tell you that you have cancer like this … you wouldn’t understand a word of it… and it’d hurt even more telling you...

“Okay…. Are you going to work now?” Are you gonna come back? His eyes looked like he was a disappointed child that he was being left alone, but accepting it nonetheless, like a good kid. I can go to sleep, it’s quiet here...

“I’m gonna stay with you until you fall asleep, but then I have to go get some things. But I’ll be here when you wake up, Hon. I'll be like I never left. I'll be back.” Lathe smiled to him, seeing the flicker of happiness in his owlish eyes. ...Lathe, you can't cry… don't. Save it for the car...

Once James was securely placed in his room and hooked up to his IVs, it didn’t take long before the drugs overpowered him and his eyes closed. Scotty came back in at that point, looking to Lathe. “Lathe… Do you…. Do you wanna talk about it?” I know what Nanaba said… And the tumor is very large...

Lathe was staring forlornly at James’ sleeping face, peaceful, and he just shook his head, looking to the floor. “...I just need to process a lot of stuff…” …it's a lot to take in… Lathe stood, wiping at his eyes before going to peck James’ forehead. I'll be back before you know it. Lathe rounded the bed, Scotty still standing there, looking worried. “...I don’t… I don't know what to make of all this… I need to think…” It took him a moment to register that Scotty was hugging him, trying not to break down as everything jumbled in his mind. ...it's so much...

Scotty’s arms wrapped around his shoulders. “I should drive if you’re going somewhere… you’re too out of it…. And it’s okay to cry, I know it’s hard.” It must be really hard on you, he seems like a good kid...

Lathe opened his mouth to try to speak, surprised when all he could let out was a choked sob, burying his face into Scotty’s shoulder. “I'm s-sorry… c-could you…? I just n-need my stuff from h-home…” I need to tell Eren he needs to cook something tonight or order out if he's got no time, I need to explain why James and I won't be home for the night and why I'm going to be spending so much on medical care for him… “I sh-should call Eren… tell him what the new plan i-is…” Lathe let Scotty lead him from the room, hurting when James vanished from sight. He pulled his phone from his pocket, fumbling before finally calling Eren’s number. It took a few rings before he picked up. “Eren? It's Lathe. A lot of stuff just happened… um… we found out James has a huge tumor in his brain… I need to schedule surgeries and he can't leave the hospital for the night because of the morphine they gave him and I can't stay home today… you're in charge of dinner and making sure the kids do homework… o-okay?” I can't be Dad to all seven of you right now... I need to focus on being Dad for just one of you for now...
“Hold on for a second.” Eren pulled the phone away from his ear, going back into the classroom. “Class dismissed, go to the library to study for your exam, I won’t have after school activities today.” He watched all the students shrug, pack their books up and leave with quiet chatter between them all, finally picking his phone up to his ear again. “Dad are you there?”

“Y-Yeah… M’sorry for interrupting your classes… I just had to tell you, so that the kids don't all go without dinner… Scotty’s driving me home to grab my medic bag and my laptop, but that's it… I'm too much of a mess to even drive…” I'm a mess … I just wanna cry about it but that won't get anything done or get anything fixed...

“Alright I'm coming home now… Do you want me to grab the kids before I leave? So you can tell them? Or should we wait?” His voice was soft as he collected his things from his room and headed towards the office to tell them he’d be leaving and to make an announcement that there would be no German classes after school that day.

“N-No, I don't think you have to… They… they barely even know who he is… he's practically a stranger to everyone but me… and… I dunno if Jared or Philip would even really understand… we should wait, I think…” I can't have that conversation when I've barely even accepted the facts about it myself… “Th-Thank you, Eren… you don't h-have to…” I just didn't want anyone to starve...

“I'm on my way home. I'll meet you there, and start getting your stuff together.”

“O-Okay…. I'll see you then.” Lathe hung up after a moment, his face stony as they left, staring at the ground on their way across the parking lot. The ride from the hospital to his house felt longer than it ever had. ...James could have cancer... and if he does... it didn't look like living a normal life would end up being an option… Lathe silently cried on the way, rubbing at his eyes, trying to stop the tears. I can't... I can't break down now... He mindlessly left the car when they stopped in the driveway, walking up unseeing and opening the unlocked front door, Eren enveloping him with a hug the second he was in the door. He listed to the side a bit, hugging him back weakly. I can't cry...

Eren kept his arms wrapped around Lathe, a hand going to the back of his head and guiding his head to his shoulder. “Let it out, Dad… Cry now....” You can cry while he’s not here... Cry while you’ve got people to lean on. He felt Lathe shudder in his arms, holding in his own worry for the moment knowing that if he asked questions now it wouldn’t go over well with him.

Lathe’s hands weakly grabbed onto his shirt, hot tears welling in his eyes. “I don't w-want him t-to die…” He can't die... Lathe heard Eren murmuring in his ear, letting him steer him to the couch to sit, his face still buried in his neck. “I-It looks bad… the t-tumor is so b-big… i-if it is c-cancer….” Lathe didn't want to think about it, grateful when Eren didn't press, just holding onto him tighter. I don't want it to be cancer… I want it to be nothing and then they can get rid of the nothing and fix him and they'll send him home and he'll be happy… ...but that won't happen........... it's never that easy........

Eren held onto Lathe as he cried, keeping him close and against him. And life was just getting to be okay too... Everything was going right for once. “He’s a strong kid, he’ll make it, I know he will.” I’ve seen that he feels most comfortable with you, and that he’s got some problems, but I can also see that he’s a really really strong kid from that look in his eyes. “He hasn’t given up, don’t let him give up.” Eren’s hands gently rubbed against Lathe’s back as he kept him close. “If it is cancer we’ll be right there with him, we’ll be strong with him.” I know we will.

Lathe nodded, his breathing shaky. He needed a few minutes to calm down, sniffing after a bit, surprised when Eren was pressing his own kerchief into his hands, making him chuckle a bit at the irony of it. ...I keep forgetting that I'm not alone with this…

"Th-Thanks…. it's just… he reminds me so much of myself when I was that young… I wouldn't… I can't leave him to fend for himself at this point… he's a strong kid… he's gone this far… I don't want him to just give up after everything that's happened…” Lathe rested his head on his shoulder again, just wanting to be held for another moment. I won't let him give up… not now...

Eren was happy to hold him, glad Lathe didn't want to bottle in his emotions. “I know this isn’t the best time to tell you, but I finally got everything together and paid for for a trip to Germany, for me and the other German teachers… I um, I was actually gonna ask if you wanted to come with us and stay for a few nights before coming back? But with this.. I don't think you'd want to.” I thought you'd wanna go with us to see Hannes again, and then come back while we travel and experience culture...

“....Marco mentioned that you were talking about going back to Germany over the summer… I just… I don't know if I can, with everything going on with James… I can't sugarcoat it, he's got the knowledge of a five year old and he's about to be legally declared an adult in a year… And with this… I just… I'd love to, believe me, and if I saw Hannes again that'd be wonderful, but… I just… being a parent or a mentor doesn't mean you get vacation days…. or even sick days… I want to see if it is cancerous or not first, then maybe think from there…. but, for now… I don't think I can come… maybe another time I'll go with you, because I know you want to go back to see Hannes again after this… or at least, we should go so that he can see you again. He still really misses you.” He really loves you… I'll go with you some other time… but I have to be a Dad now...

Eren nodded, keeping Lathe close to his body. That's very okay, and if it is cancerous I know just the thing that I might do. “Um… Do you think we could call around and see if I can get a gig in Germany? Raise money for his medical expenses and such? I can call Mark, maybe we could do a charity live stream together… Make him a bank account of his own with whatever is left over.” I want him to be able to be financially stable if he pulls through, and I don't want you to have to worry about money. “I can do my part to help.”

Lathe nodded, weakly clinging to him. “O-Okay… that sounds wonderful… he won't have to worry too much about any of that, then… he’ll have enough to get back is feet after all this is over… but you don't have to… if it’s not cancerous… he won't need so much for treatment and stuff… most of what he needs is… is time… and patient people to teach him how to function as an adult… and I don't wanna put that on anybody else…” No… I should be the one doing that… and if he has his own account, he’ll be okay for a while if he leaves to live on his own and can't find a job right away or struggles a bit… he’ll have a bit a safety cushion… “But I don't think the entire proceeds of the livestream or the concert should just go to him… it should go to other cancer patients too… this isn't just about him… and if it’s not cancerous, he won't need so much…” It'll be more than enough...

“Well, I’m going to do it anyways. I could do both…. I’ll call Mark and see if we can arrange a livestream sometime after I’m done grading exams… And everyone is prepared for the AP, I made sure of it.” It’s only about two weeks until then.

Lathe nodded, leaning heavily against him. “…I'm sorry if I can't be Dad for all of you much in the next few weeks… I just… if I could be in two places at once… I would be… but I can't…” I'm gonna be spreading myself thin and making myself sick with worry for the next month at least… I just… I have to help James… I have to...

“Don't worry about us, I can handle our family. You take care of James, I’ll be home every day soon…” I don’t want you to wear yourself thin again. “You’re not allowed to get sick.”

“I think I'll make myself sick with worry by the end of this week… they're going to take a sample of the tumor to see if it's cancerous at the end of the week… I'll be too worried to do anything until we know for sure… and even then I'll be worrying all the time…” I know how I function in these kinds of situations… “When you were in the hospital, I was always there because I loved you and I was always worrying… that something would go wrong, and that if I left for even one day everything would go to shit… that if you woke up I wouldn't be there when you needed someone to reassure you and dote on you…” Lathe’s grip on his shirt tightened. “I can't stop worrying about any of you… I feel so responsible for all of you and that I always need to be there in case someone needs me… I never want to stay in bed even a few minutes later than usual if I'm still really tired, and I won't let myself take a break from being Dad until the house is completely empty… and even then it feels so wrong… because I need to find something to do… even if I feel like crap and just want to nap… I can't… I can't stop caring long enough to do nothing for more than a second…” I can’t stop feeling guilty for even sleeping lately… I just… I always feel like I need to do something… I just… I can't stop...

Eren shook his head and looked down. “Dad, you need to pull your head out of your ass. How can you not realize that you’re doing the best you can for us? And that we could never ask for more.
We’d understand if you wanted to take a break which was why I wanted to take you to Germany… But maybe now I’ll think about sending you and Mom on that vacation you never got… We really want you to understand that you’re already doing the best for us, and we understand that you need to focus on James, and we understand that we’ll have to step it up and take care of each other… I want you to go be there for James, okay? And be the Dad he never got the chance to have…. Because I know you can be that Dad and make him happy, but I don’t want you to get sick about worrying about the house too, just worry about him, can you do that for me?” Eren’s voice was earnest, and caring, wanting Lathe to listen to everything he said. *I want you to be okay, and if that means becoming the family man, I will.

Lathe tried his best to listen and believe him, though he shuddered as his mind completely rejected the idea, hating that he couldn't do both. “B-But… I…” It's not enough. “I can't h-help it… I look around at everything I've d-done and at the house we've built and at the kid’s grades and at how happy they all are and all our friends at dinner but it's not enough… I don't know why it's not enough… I can't give you all enough… I don't deserve time off… I can't stay away from you all, it'd kill me… I'd be nothing but a miserable pile of emotions… I wanna stay…” Lathe clung to him, his grip tighter. “I can't leave… don't make me…” I need to do more... I need to...

Eren looked to him. I'm going to use blackmail. “You need to take care of James, and if you don’t… I’ll cry.” Eren gave him the signature puppy dog eyes. You've been blackmailed.

It didn’t help much. Lathe just started sobbing, holding him tighter. “D-Don't cry… I wanna take care of James… b-but…”

“Then go take care of him, and I’ll call you if me and Mom need help…. But I need the practice too, to run the household, so please just try and focus on James for me please? And can I tell you some good news?” I found out today... and I’ve been wanting to tell you all day.

“...but…” but it's not enough....... “...w-what?” What good news.......?

“You’re gonna be a grandpa.”

Lathe paused, his crying turning into tears laughs, his face still buried in his shoulder. “R-Really?”

“You wanna see the ultrasound pictures?” They’re so tiny, but still, there’s a healthy heartbeat.

“Y-Yeah, please.” Lathe let Eren go so he could get them from the kitchen table, looking as he was handed the image, a tiny form in the picture. “......that's a tiny person…” Lathe smiled, rubbing at his eye with one hand. “I'm so h-happy for you…” I know you really wanted your own kids...

“But you know what that means?” Hopefully I can use this as blackmail.

“......what?” Lathe looked to him, trying to think.

“it means I want you to be there when they’re born… I want you to be there for my kids… But I need you to be healthy for that, okay? So you can't worry yourself sick anymore. Please just focus on James, and if you get worried, we’re only a FaceTime or Skype call away…” Please agree, I know it’s hard... But please ...

Lathe looked back to the tiny form in the picture, swallowing hard. “I-I'll try… I'll r-really try… I promise....” I don't wanna be so worried all the time… I wanna stop worrying so I can sleep at night... so that I can be there for you and your kid... I'll try...

“Thank you, really, I need all the Dad practice I can get.” I'm gonna need it… He had a happy smile on his face, looking to where Scotty sat checking his phone. “Well, let’s finish getting you packed, okay?”

“Okay.” Lathe gave him the picture back, standing. “I just need a minute...” Lathe walked to the bathroom, shutting the door. He washed his face, staring at his bloodshot eyes helplessly. I'm a mess... Lathe sighed, taking a deep breath before leaving, going to get his medic bag and round up his laptop and things. I need to not worry. ...that's it. Worry about James, and that's it. That's my job. ...fuck, I'm already failing at this... Lathe tried not to think about anything as he walked back downstairs, staring at the floor. Just think of nothing. ...nothing.

Eren stood, holding a bag of his medic supplies and his laptop bag all neatly put together. “Go get a change of clothes, if you need more I can bring more…” I can do that, and you should know by now you can rely on me a little more.

Lathe nodded, going back upstairs to get a small bag of stuff together, not even remembering how Eren ended up with his stuff. ...I can't even keep track of that ... Lathe came downstairs, a backpack slung over his shoulder, looking over the house, his gaze settling on the kitchen, the small table shoved against the wall with the grocery list and recipe books on it, the calendar hung above it. “Are you sure you can handle stuff? You know how picky Philip gets with his snack after school, and that Jared will have a fit if he doesn't get the banana muffin today since there's only one, and who likes what juice box and-”
“Dad… I’ve got this. Focus on James, and bring him home if you can.” We’d like him to come home…

Lathe sighed, wearily smiling to him. “...I know you've got this. ...but I still have to worry at least a little.” I'll try not to.

The day passed without much incident, Eren easily managing to placate the kids with food when they came home, helping them with homework and herding them into the living room or the theatre room so he could cook dinner. He explained everything to Ieva when she came home, seeing the confusion in her eyes when she stepped inside and saw him cooking dinner instead of Lathe. Today wasn't too bad… the kids haven't asked where Dad is yet… They seemed curious through dinner as to where Lathe was, eyeing his empty chair, but they didn't say anything. Getting them to school was a bit more of a production, getting them fed breakfast and putting together a lunch for Philip because he refused to eat the lunches at school. He had since cleaned up the mess of breakfast plates and was going over the grocery list, adding to it when Lathe and James came home.

Lathe was weighed down by his three bags, but it didn't mean he had refused James when asked to carry him, carrying the sleepy teen inside. “It’s good to see the place didn't collapse when I was gone.” Lathe faintly chuckled, moving to the couch with James, setting him down near Nene. She lifted her head up, seeing James dozing in her territory, studying him. ...suitable pillow detected. She stood, padding over to him and settling on his chest, content when he didn't freak out, falling asleep there. ...this human makes for a good pillow. They are warm, and not screaming in terror. I like this. Lathe chuckled as Nene made herself at home, looking back to Eren. “How did the morning go? Did you remember to make Philip’s lunch, or did he have to pester you?”

“Morning went fine, Mike understood when I told him I needed the day off, he said I could take it since I haven’t taken one yet… I remembered, I even got him another muffin to put in his lunch as a surprise, I’m gonna head to Marco’s and he more anything James needs, any dietary restrictions? The boys have asked for meat tonight, so I’m gonna go get some porkchops. Does that sound alright? Mom was all for the idea.” He had a happy smile on his face as he added Marco’s bakery to the list of stores he needed to go to. It went well, and I bet Mark will probably ask where you went, but the boys were okay with you being gone.

Lathe was surprised, seeing the list he was writing. “N-No, no dietary restrictions I can think of… Uhm…” Lathe started reading the list, seeing a couple things he’d written. “Uh, remember that Philip only eats the one kind of animal crackers, and everyone likes them best, the red ones with the pictures all over the boxes… and we get the thicker aluminium foil…” He looked up when Eren just gave him a look, blushing and stepping back, looking embarrassed. “...sorry… it’s just that I’m the only one who really writes the lists… just, making sure…” I have to hover, I'm sorry… it's my first impulse whenever someone does something I normally always do…
Eren smiled softly, chuckling, letting Lathe looked over the rest. “If you want to write notes on there you can, also, I think it might be good if you set yourself to look through my old clothes for James. Do you think that’ll occupy yourself long enough? Or should I give you some chores to do?” Eren asked softly, knowing that Lathe would need a list to keep him occupied and not worrying about anything. You need something to keep you occupied and it looks like James is out…

“...I'll write notes and then do that... the clothes sorting, and Uhm... give me stuff to do... please...” I wanna be busy, it feels weird to do nothing... Lathe reached for a pencil, rewriting the grocery lists, putting them in order of stores and departments, being specific with brands when he needed to be and with specifics on light bulbs and things. Doing it like this makes it easier... “I'm sorry for doing this completely over... but it makes shopping easier...” So you don't run around the store unnecessarily or miss stuff...

Eren nodded, reaching for a new piece of paper. “It’s okay, if it makes you feel better about it, that’s fine.” He started scrawling a list for Lathe.

1. Go through clothes and find things that’ll fit James.
2. Don’t forget to give James his morphine.
3. Send Levi a message on skype and see when he’s next available.
4. Got out and feed the horses, also make sure that Arya gets a bottle and eats at least half of it.
5. Check out Annabell, she had kittens awhile ago again... Yeah I found them this morning, they’re big, so call Hanji to see what we need to do with them...
6. Think about lunch (if you want to make it you can)
7. Call Mark... Or call any possible place in Germany to get a gig... I’m available between June 30 and July 15th in Germany and any time after in LA.

Eren pushed the list to Lathe. “Will that work for you?” I think that's enough.

Lathe looked over the list, nodding. “Yeah, I'll get started on this after I finish making this list correctly.” Lathe pretended to glare at Eren, laughing quietly when they made eye contact, looking away again. “I'm just joking. You’re learning to Dad, James is learning to human and adult, and I’m learning to chill. We’ve all got our own stuff to deal with besides lists. It’s certainly not the end of the world. But if you come home with the wrong kind of aluminium foil I will smack you.” It's not that hard to get right. “But I get to kitten, so that's a plus. Do I get to name them?” Kittens!!!

“I guess. I saw four at least, but there might be more. We can only keep one more so pick your favorite.” Eren took the list from him when he was finished and smiled. “Alright, you get on that list and I’ll get the groceries.” He smiled softly and started to get his shoes, noticing the pile on the couch. They’re all sleeping on or near him. “Be careful, the dogs are all on him, unless he’s too high to realize that.” That’s entirely possible.

“Oh, he’s just really high. He’s been very loopy with all the morphine Scotty gave him… he’s on a lower dose, but still. It’s a lot.” Lathe smiled at the pile on the couch, finishing the list quickly in his neat cursive. “Here’s the stuff you need to buy, and the piece of plastic you pay with.” Lathe forked over his credit card, pouting when Eren refused to take it. “Eren, I’m not making you pay for all the household stuff.”

“I can’t even use it- you got a new card and did that thing where you write ‘Check ID’ in the signature line. If any cashier checks I can’t use it.”

“…oh yeah… crap.” Lathe sighed, stowing it back in his wallet. “Whatever. I guess for you one shopping day won’t break the bank.” He shrugged. I never let you really contribute… I guess you can do this…

“Nope, YouTube is sending me bigger checks now, I did another cover… it’s up… I sent it to iTunes too…” I’m getting some more money. And I think I might have more than you right now… “I might have more than you at this point, especially thanks to Mark’s help…”

“Just wait until the serum gets FDA approval, Hon. And what song did you cover? I haven’t checked your sites in a while…” You haven’t updated much for a while, and I just kinda stopped checking that stuff on my phone at all… I’ve made myself too busy to look anymore….

“Despacito… “ I had to have Mom teach me Spanish. “I want to do a music video for it too, but I won’t really have the time for it… And Levi’s not here… It wouldn't be that great without him in it…” Eren got on his shoes, a smile on his face as he watched Lathe pull out his phone.

“Did you sing a thing in Spanish.” It wasn’t a question- Lathe was checking to see if he really did. “Oh my god, you sang a thing in Spanish. Sweet. And crap, that’s a lot of views.” *It's been...... two weeks? And that many people have seen it. ... well then. ......I'm sorry Levi isn't here. I don't know what to say about that anymore. ...maybe I don't have to say anything anymore. I think it's been that long… “Now we know the drill, right? Don't crash the car, get the correct kind of tin foil. That's all you've gotta do.”

“That's it? So what if I don't get the potatoes?”
“Fuck the potatoes. Tin foil, car and human in one unharmed piece. Everything else is a side quest.”

“Oh, so I’ve merged with the car now? Am I one with the car? Is that my real mission?”

“Just go before I actually smack you.”

Eren lightly laughed, going to kiss Lathe’s cheek, a smile on his face. “I’ll be back soon, don’t worry.” He walked out to his car and going to the store. Everything I can get in at least an hour and spend a few chatting with Marco.

Lathe smiled as his cheek was kissed, doing the same to Eren before letting him leave, sighing as the door closed. He looked to the dog pile, James still contentedly asleep with the many doge on top of him. It’s like he attracts animals. Lathe looked over as he heard a sound, Lucifer managing to nudge his way through the dog door. The cat stalked in gracefully, rubbing against Lathe’s leg on his way to the living room. he even attracts cats? What the hell? Lathe watched with surprise as Lucifer leapt onto the couch near James’ head, settling in like a hat while the dogs simply accepted his presence. ...I don’t understand, but I’m not going to complain. Lathe chuckled, deciding to go check on the kittens first. Kittens. I need to make sure they’re not overheating or freezing, that they’re all being fed and cared for and whatnot. Probably should bring them all inside... let’s check on them first. Lathe got on his boots and walked to the barn, heaving himself up to the loft, greeted by the sight of six kittens scampering around the loft, a few coming over when they noticed his presence and scurrying away when he got close. Their eyes are open, and they’re definitely doing quite a bit of moving around. They’re quite a few weeks old, then. Lathe looked to Annabelle, laying on one of the beams, watching her kittens with careful eyes. He felt her eyes on him as he carefully plucked the closest kitten from the floor, the kitten fidgeting and mewling in his hold, though it dissolved into purrs, growing lax as he gently pet them. Kittens... this one’s really cute... but they’re all really cute... we get to keep one... Lathe let the kitten go, jumping a bit when he felt something weighing on his from behind, leaning forward a bit. A kitten had jumped onto his back, making its way up his sweater to his shoulder, draping itself there. He held out his arm, and the kitten stood and walked down it, inspecting his arm and the ring on his hand. ...I like this one best. He chuckled as they all seemed to deem him safe, coming over to inspect him, crawling on his legs and in his lap. Even Annabelle came down from the beam to him, nudging at the kittens in his lap. Lathe laid down in the loft, quietly laughing as the kittens clambered all over him. ...this makes for wonderful therapy... ...oh yeah, call Hanji. Lathe managed to pull out his phone, typing in the number as one of the kittens batted at the strange device, holding it to his ear. It took a few rings before it picked up. “Hanji? Hey, it’s Lathe. I’ve got a pack of about six kittens that have open eyes and are running around everywhere that we just discovered in the barn. What do we do?” Halp.

Hanji was surprised to say the least, thinking a little bit. “Can you bring them inside the house yourself? I can come over in about an hour and do shots...” I can do that...
“They all can’t seem to get their paws off me, so I think I’ll manage. Thanks, Hanji. We never come up in the loft and the cat had them there, that’s why we didn’t find them until today.” You sounded surprised.

“It’s alright, I’ll be there in an hour and should I call Moblit? I think he said he had a dog for Eren.” I think everyone might be interested for it.

“Yeah, call him, but Eren’s gone shopping and could be a few hours… I can message him as well when Eren gets home, but that sounds great.”

“Moblit could get there within an hour as well, how’s Blake doing?” Hanji looked at Blake's file on her computer. He's already 11… Wow…

“He's doing okay, sleeps a lot more than he used to, but I guess we expected that. He doesn't really run around, mostly just chills with the kids. Still as well-trained as ever, and he's kept Philip from crying more times than I can count on my hands.” That dog’s as much of a miracle worker as ever.

“Well that’s good, my appointment is here for right now so I’ll see you in an hour to an hour and a half.” That should give me enough time to get there…

“Sounds great, Hanji. Thank you so much.” Lathe hung up, his arm dropping, just enjoying the fact that there were kittens all over him. Kittens. “Okay, lovelies.” Lathe sat up, gently moving the kittens off of him. “I'm gonna go get a cardboard box for all of you to get you inside, okay?” Lathe smiled as a few of them still clung to him, sighing. “Okay, we’ll go this way.” Lathe carried a few of the kittens down the ladder at a time, making two trips and setting them first few on the ground before going back for the rest, Annabelle leaping down and following them, herding her kittens along as they slowly made their way to the house. Lathe held the doggy door open for them, doing a headcount as they made it through, letting in Annabelle before coming in himself. He smiled as she led them over to the couches, setting up camp under the coffee table near James and the dog pile, all of the animals eyeing each other before deciding they were chill with the new developments. They're surprisingly getting along. Good. Lathe smiled, going to kiss James’ forehead as he slept before disappearing downstairs to sift through clothes for James. He had gotten carried away, repainting the design back onto a fading t-shirt when the doorbell rang. Hanji. Lathe immediately made for the front door, making sure he didn’t have paint on his hands and letting them in. “Hey, Hanji. Thanks again for coming over on such short notice.” He ushered them in, the heap of animals all lifting their heads, the kittens already tumbling over themselves to inspect the new arrival.

Hanji smiled as they looked to the large kittens. “Well, they certainly are a few weeks old. I brought their shots.” They paused when they spotted a human underneath the massive pile of dog. “And who might this be?” Their voice was quiet as they saw that James was sleeping, worried as the teen shifted in his sleep, his peaceful face no long present. Did I wake him up?

“His name is James, and it’s a long story… I think his morphine is wearing off… again, long story…” Lathe moved to the couch, his medic bag having been left nearby, fishing for the bottle of meds. “James? Hon, you awake?” Lathe brushed the hair from his eyes, Lucifer making room for him. “How are you feeling?”

“How long was I out for?” James’ groggy voice was full of pain as he reached for the back of his head. “Lathe… Am I on the couch?” How did I get down here? I don’t remember… Eh, I don’t remember a lot that happens when I get a headache like that…

“Yeah, you are. What do you remember last, Hon?” Lathe reached out to stop him from rubbing his head. “‘You can't do that, Hon, do you remember that conversation?’ I explained you couldn't… you might not remember, though…”

“No… You yelled at me for climbing on the rafters… And you were rubbing my head, and it felt really good, and I got a headache… Why can’t I rub my head?” I want the pressure to go away… It’s uncomfortable…

Lathe glanced to Hanji, grateful that they were busy, diligently working to give each of the kittens their shots. “…James, you can't rub at your head because it'll hurt you more in the long run… ...I can't sugarcoat this, Hon. I'm sorry. ...there's a big tumor on the back of your brain pressing at your skull and part of your brain. Pressing on the skull helps with the pressure, but hurts your brain. ...it's part of why you don't remember what happened during your migraine at all… we're not sure if it’s cancerous yet, but you’re going in for surgery on Friday to remove some of your skull so it won't ache anymore there. There’ll be another surgery later where they put you all back together, but right now we need to know if you have cancer or not. That's the big question. I'm sorry, Hon, but that's the way things are. We’re gonna help you through this.” Lathe took his hand, lightly squeezing. “We’ll make sure you come out of this okay.” I'll do everything I can to make sure you get better…

"…………… I have a tumor? “Is that why…. I’m falling over all the time too? And I can’t remember anything? And why I can’t see when I have a headache?” Is that the reason that I thought I've been going crazy?

Lathe nodded. “The tumor is pressing on what’s called your occipital and temporal lobes. It's compromising a lot of functions, and all of those qualify. ...Hon, do you remember what a goose is?” I wanna see if you remember this...
James looked at Lathe blankly for a long moment before closing his eyes trying to remember. “I uh… Is it… The one’s the chased me… When I stole the eggs?” I think that's what you said they were… He shifted his head to look at the dogs all around him, his eyes widening for a moment before he just gave up. I’m too tired to fight them to get off… Or climb a tree to get away from them…

“Mhm. And you don’t have to be scared of them, Hon. They piled on you an hour ago and have just chilled there. Same with Lucifer here.” Lathe reached up to pet the cat, James looking up at him. “He was using your head as a mattress. You've been a total animal magnet.” Lathe gestured to where a few kittens still were, hiding from Hanji and their shots behind their mother. They all just gravitated here. The doge all love you, and the kittens would too if they could reach you.

“I-I don’t remember cats in the house… And if I’m getting surgery… Will you just shave my head?” Get it over with, and get my hair out of the way… “When is it gonna be?”

..............I'm surprised he's taking this so well... you'd think he'd at least look worried..... but.... he's not. “The cats usually chill in the barn we have in the backyard, and we just found out today they had kittens. And you can just have the part of your head shaved that you need to, or you can shave the whole thing if you want. But most people only do part of it. Either way, since your hair is so long we can tie it off and cut it to donate.” That's a thing we can do.

James nodded, closing his eyes, his hands reaching to Nene and gently running through her soft fur. “... Just shave it all off… Can I pet a kitten?” I haven’t seen a cat in a long time… His eyes were still closed, the lack of sleep of the past few years having finally caught up with him and the pain of the end of a migraine, and the dull numbness from the morphine only made his eyelids stay closed. I’m so tired…

Lathe smiled, nodding. “Of course you can.” Lathe looked down for one, seeing Hanji let the one he had deemed the cutest go, scampering away from the person with the needles. Lathe gently picked them up when they came close enough, setting them on James’ chest where there was room, the dogs shuffling a bit to give the kitten space except for Nene, staying where James could pet her. “I’m thinking that this is the kitten we keep; we can’t keep the whole litter, and I think they’re the cutest.” He smiled as they nudged James’ cheek, licking it with their tiny tongue, making him giggle. “You can name them if you want.” I don’t know what to name them. And they like you, so you can pick.

“Hmm…. What are they?” Is it a girl or a boy? Do we know? He raised his other hand slow and jerky, reaching to pet the kitten near his head. Hmm... They’re really soft... His eyes were still closed and a soft smile on his face as he heard the tiny meows near his ear. Oh my god, that’s adorable… “Hmm, do you have anything for my head?” It’s still sore…
“They’re a she.” Hanji looked up them, their voice quiet.

“They’re a girl, then. And I’ve got meds for you here.” Lathe helped James take his medicine, making sure he drank plenty of water. “Anything come to mind?” Lathe smiled as the kitten nestled into James’ shoulder, still meowing quietly. So adorable...

“Hmm… Delia… I like Delia.” He opened his eyes to look over to Hanji. “Who’s that?” I don’t remember you. He looked up to Lathe, his one hand on Nene’s head gently petting her and his other petting Delia. She’s purring. He smiled even more as he felt Delia nestle against his neck and towards his chin. He stiffened when he felt paws slowly move around his other shoulder, turning his head to find that Lucifer was crawling down to his chest to nestle by Nene. Huh? Who was this guy again?

“That’s Hanji- they’re a vet that works in the clinic in town. They came to give all the kittens their shots since they were just found today. And that cat there is named Lucifer. The one using your head as a mattress? …you remember me telling you that?” I swear I said that like five minutes ago...

James’ brow furrowed, slowly shaking his head. “I don’t…” He murmured quietly, letting Lucifer crawl over him to lay beside Nene, looking over to Hanji as the last kitten let out a loud cry as they were getting a shot. Huh? What’s happening?

“The kittens just don’t like getting their shots, James. But they’re okay. Don’t worry. You’ll need your own shots soon, but that’s the least of our worries right now. Shots are things we give people and animals so that they’re better able to defend themselves against diseases. I’ll explain it later, Hon. You look pretty tired.” Lathe brushed at his hair, smiling faintly to him. “You and all the animals can get acquainted, but you need to sleep, okay? At least try to.” You look worn out...

“Hmmm…. Why am I tired?” He mumbled, turning his head to snuggle with Delia. I’m exhausted… James opened his eyes as he felt Blake shift from over his legs and get slowly off the couch and go over to Hanji. Huh? Does Blake know her? He sighed quietly as his eyelids closed without him even realizing it and his motions slowing down. I’m tired...

Hanji smiled as Blake came to greet her. “Hello there… Are you taking good care of everyone?” She smiled as he whined, looking over to James as his arm slipped off the couch and to the floor. “Is he asleep? You gave him morphine, I saw that much.” I wonder what’s up with him, I want to ask, but I’m not sure if I should. “What surgery does he need done? That he needs to shave his head?” Her voice was soft, but curiosity clearly present. I wanna know… I can’t help it.
Lathe smiled as James fell asleep before he could answer with Delia nuzzled to his cheek, the kitten as well soon falling asleep there. His smile was melancholy, brushing a hand through his hair. “...we brought him into the hospital for migraines, vision and memory problems yesterday… an MRI showed he has a huge tumor on the back of his brain. His head needs to be shaved so that they can remove part of his skull to release the pressure the tumor is putting on the skull and the brain, and they'll be taking a sample to see if it’s cancer or not. ...I… Hanji, this kid showed up barely four days ago asking for scraps at dinnertime as a runaway and already so much has happened… He reminds me a lot of myself when I was that young… I know I never really talk about anything when I was a kid and I know you’ve pressed for details before… but it was hard for me… and he’s had it harder. I wanna help him however I can.” And that's why I've taken him in as child number eight.

“Well, I think you’re doing a good job so far, he certainly seems to look healthy while he’s asleep and he’s covered in fluff…. When’s the surgery?” Her voice was full of concern as she looked over to him. I can only imagine how worried you are about hearing you say that. “Should I call Moblit? Or…” She looked around, trying to figure out if Eren was home when the door suddenly opened, Eren coming in with large bags on either arm. That went much quicker than I thought it would… then again, I’ve never gone shopping at 11 in the morning... Eren looked over to Lathe and Hanji, a smile on his face. “Oh hi, Hanji… how are you?” He didn’t wait for an answer as he went to the kitchen to set things on the island table, setting them down to let Lathe handle them. He'll want to do it...

“Friday afternoon… and now that Eren’s home, you can call him.” Lathe instinctively moved to take care of the abandoned groceries on the table. I need to put stuff away...

Eren’s brow furrowed but he just shrugged it off, going to get the rest of the groceries. He was just about to open the door when he heard a car pull into their driveway, turning to see Moblit parking his pick up. Moblit? Why's he here? He shrugged it off and went inside leaving the door open for him. “Mr. Berner’s here.” He murmured to Lathe, looking to him in confusion. “What’s up?” Does James need a dog?

Lathe looked to him, tilting his head a bit. “I thought you knew… you’re getting another service dog. Blake’s getting really old and he can't do the sort of stuff he always has done… with the way things have been, we thought it would be a good idea to have another trained dog in the house that they can go with you places in case you need them.” I know you've been doing so much better, but for rough patches or off days, or days when someone else in the house needs help, we have them.

Eren stood frozen as he stared at Lathe. What? He dropped the container in his hands, his ears beginning to ring. I thought I was doing better? He didn't register the commotion near the door as Moblit brought a new dog in. I....
Chapter 79: Time Turns

Eren stood frozen as he stared at Lathe. What? He dropped the container in his hands, his ears beginning to ring. I thought I was doing better? He didn't register the commotion near the door as Moblit brought a new dog in. I....

Lathe realised his mistake, immediately going to correct himself. “Eren, no, it's not like you're not doing better, you've improve so so much, you really have, believe me. It’s just for off days when you might need one for school and with the kids and now especially James, they’d be here for anyone who needs the companionship, I mean you've seen how many times Blake has kept Philip from crying or having a fit. And they keep Jared calm when he gets upset, and I mean look at the dog pile on James, he could use someone to keep him company if the stress gets to be too much. It’s not that you’re not doing well, you’ve done wonderfully. You're so much better. But I just really thought that we could use another well-trained dog in the house that could keep up with us still.” Lathe pled with him, trying to make the stunned and pained look in Eren’s eyes go away. “It’s not just for you all the time, Eren. It’s for off-days and times when things get too stressful. I’m so proud of your progress, but we both need to admit that Blake is getting old… he can't keep up like he used to. He's still a wonderful dog, of course. But we need another to keep up with us.” He can't run around like he used to, and he sleeps a lot more… we have to admit that.

Eren still had a shocked look as he saw a large Malinois come from around the corner, his dark tan fur different from all of their dogs. His eyes locked with the new dog’s, slowly slumping down to the floor as he felt his chest tighten, his ears simply ringing, and his mind trying to process everything that was going on. But... I-I don't need a dog... I don't want a dog! You're making me get one!? He could feel the underlying sensations of a panic attack as it started to creep closer to the surface. His eyes were blank as he stared face to face with the new dog, not able to process what as happening as the large dog sat in his lap, resting it’s head near Eren’s neck. Why?

Lathe looked to Moblit with worry, the man having heard the entire thing, looking worried as well. shit... I thought I told him... Lathe immediately knelt down next to Eren, seeing how confused and terrified he was as the dog sat in his lap, turning his head to look at him. “Eren? Eren, look at me.” It took a moment before Eren finally seemed to look at him. “It's not that you haven't made a lot of real progress. Blake is getting old, you still have your off days when things get really stressful, and when they're home they can be of real use with all the kids and especially since we just found out James could have cancer and could end up really needing some companionship too. It's not because you haven't done better. You've done so well. But he’s also for everyone else’s benefit. Blake keeps Philip from crying, Jared from having fits sometimes, and the rest of us from being too lonely. But he's old. He sleeps a lot more, he can't run and keep up with us much anymore. We all love him, but we need someone new to help keep us sane. I'm so proud of all the progress you've made. And that's all it really is, Hon.” Please please please believe me.

.... You wanted me to get a dog... He was still frozen as he slowly turned his head back to see the new bright blue eyes pierce into his own. It's a new dog... A dog I never wanted...
...he's not hearing me, is he. Lathe sighed, looking to Moblit and then to the dog, deciding something. "Moblit, I'm sorry, you'll need to give me a minute." Lathe shooed the dog off of Eren, heaving him up to his feet and dragging him out of the room, setting him on a chair in the living room. "Eren? Eren. Eren." Lathe shook him by the shoulders. "Eren, dammit, listen to me!" You need to stop staring into space and hear my fucking words!

Eren was still silent as he felt the oncoming panic attack, the new dog and Blake coming to Lathe’s side, trying to get to Eren. Am I… Am I going to be forever labeled as someone who can’t help himself? Is that what you truly think I am? His eyes were staring right past Lathe and down to the floor. Is that all you’ve ever seen me as? A pity project?

“....Moblit, can you get them out of sight please?” Lathe didn't even turn to look when Moblit wordlessly shepherded them back around the staircase out of sight, hearing Hanji follow him, both of them talking in hushed whispers. “Eren, you need to snap out of it and listen to me.” Lathe shook him, trying to get through to him, mentally scrambling to figure out what to do. He shook him again. “Eren, please. You need to listen to me. Tell me you can hear me.” Lathe looked to him helplessly as Eren still stared at the floor. “Eren, I get that this is new information and I didn't explain myself well right away, but you need to stop panicking and hear me out. It's okay, just listen to me.” Silence. “Eren, listen to me, damn it! It's nothing you did wrong! Snap out of it before I throw ice water at you!” Another firm shake. Wake the fuck up! I don't know what to do if you can't fucking hear me, because at this point hugging you and trying to console you would be rubbing salt in the fucking wound to you! So fucking listen to me!

Eren’s eyes finally moved as he was shaken. ..... Ice water? His eyes slowly began to focus and his fingers no longer locked in position as he flexed them. What were you saying? His head slowly lifted, his eyes going to look at Lathe’s. What's wrong? What did I do wrong? I don’t wanna be damaged... Levi won’t love me... He probably doesn’t... Maybe having a child was a bad idea... He didn’t realize he’d been speaking aloud.

Lathe’s eyes widened, shaking his head. “Nonono, Eren, none of that. You aren't damaged, Levi still loves you to death, and having a kid is the most wonderful idea… I know how badly you want kids. Now you need to listen to my reasoning with the new dog, okay?” He sighed in relief as Eren warily nodded, speaking evenly. “We’re not getting a dog simply because you need them. It's not the case. We know you sometimes have off days, so they’ll be there for that. We’ve also seen how well Blake keeps Philip from crying and Jared from having fits when he's frustrated or mad, and how he keeps us company when we’re lonely or sad. But Blake is getting really old. He sleeps a lot more, can't do much running around at all, and can't really leave the house. Sure, he will be there if you ever need him. But we need a new dog to keep up with us and the kids, and for you to take with in case there's a period of time where you do really need the support, just in case. I'm not saying it’s all the time anymore, it's certainly not. You've done so well managing yourself and I'm so proud of you and what you've accomplished. But the dog is mostly for the family to keep us all sane, especially since we just learned James might have cancer. But it’s important that we make sure he gets along with you specifically, in case there's ever a time you need grounding or to bring him with you. Even if it’s very rare these days, it’s most likely to happen with you. It doesn't mean you haven’t gotten better. It just means that you’re the same as everyone- that everyone has their off days and sometimes needs extra help. Hell, Blake’s had to keep me from losing my shit every now and then. It happens . It makes you human. They seem very friendly and I can hear from even here that they're dying to come in here and make you feel better about this whole situation I’ve just sprung on you. And I'm really sorry, I thought I had told you about getting a new dog. But that’s the situation. ...do you think you can handle that? Is this okay?” Lathe reached for his hands, giving them a firm squeeze.

I'm so sorry for making you panic... I swore I told you... I just thought I made the best decision for everyone....

Eren was silent, looking like he was ready to cry. That’s not really how you think…. Is it? He looked down to his shaking hands, nodding a bit and watching as the new dog came skittering across the hardwood floors to Lathe’s side, trying to get to Eren. I guess that I can deal with my own father only raising me to be a whore, and then years later after I thought I found the perfect home only to realize that I've been living in a secluded reality from everyone… “Y-Yeah…. I- I…..” He paused, looking as the dog finally opted to vault over the side of the armchair, nuzzling into Eren’s face and whining to be pet, knowing that he was stressing out. I'm a pity case to you....

Lathe looked helpless, shifting to sit next to him, hugging him close. “…this isn't because I don’t think you're capable of managing yourself or your emotions. ...it isn't that I pity or feel sorry for you. It isn't that I see you and only think of what you've gone through. I looked at Blake, remembered all the good he's done for not just you but for all of us, and decided that we would continue needing that kind of help even as you got infinitely more better. He needs to get along with you, first and foremost. But it’s also very important that he can get along with all of us and help all of us when we need him. This is not pity, Eren. It's not . It’s help when you really need it which is very rare these days and I'm so proud of that, but it’s mostly help when Philip or Jared get upset, when I get stressed out, when anyone gets too lonely, or when we need companionship in a stressful time of life. We could all use their companionship, Eren. I'm not looking down at you and only seeing helplessness. I'm seeing a very capable and independent human who sometimes needs help, and when I look around the house I see a family that could use a bit of help staying sane. Please understand that.”

Eren nodded slowly, looking to the dog, slowly letting them as he started to calm down a little bit. No panicking.... I can panic later... I’ll take Charlie out after dinner... Maybe I can even take a razor? He watched as the dog bit his hand instantly, their bright blue eyes staring directly into Eren’s. Shit... He’s gonna be even stricter than Blake... Fuck....

Moblit watched as Mikhail took Eren’s hand into his jaws, smiling a bit. “Eren, this is Mikhail…. Blake’s half brother…He’s been training with me for the past four years, and he should do wonderful things for you.” I hope so, he’s already got onto you about something… what are you thinking?

Lathe looked worried, his thumb gently rubbing Eren’s side. “…I'm so sorry for making you panic… I didn't want you to, I thought I remembered talking with you about it… but maybe with the whole James thing I just went over what I would've said too much… I didn't want this sort of thing to happen… I thought you'd like the idea of having a new young dog with us that's so well trained, I know the kids will love him… I was hoping you would too.” Lathe rested his cheek on Eren’s shoulder, feeling his face heat up a bit. *Fuck, don't cry… why the fuck do I want to cry? I made Eren panic, I know, but I can't fucking cry… there are witnesses and it's a shitty thing to do, Eren will feel bad for panicking when his worry was fucking justified because I didn't know enough to remember to have this fucking conversation.

Eren shook his head, slowly pushing Lathe back a bit so he could see his face. “Dad… Don’t apologize, really…. It’s not your fault, I over reacted, and I’m sorry… I just—” he groaned in frustration as his words left him, feeling Mikhail bite harder on his hand, leaving indents in the skin. *He knows… He can figure out so much… “I just…. Wasn’t expecting another dog….” That’s not the reason… But I can’t tell him what really went through my head, he’ll think I’m ungrateful...
Or he’ll worry he did something wrong… “I panicked… Didn’t I?”

“Yeah, you panicked, wouldn't listen to a word…...and Eren, we both know that's bullshit.” Lathe sighed, studying his eyes. “I know what it looks like when you lie. Is it because you think I pity you, or that I think you're not good enough to be left to your own devices? Both ideas are completely fucking ridiculous, just so you know. I don't think that.” Lathe tilted his head, his filter gone. “What the hell is going through your head?” It was a neutral question, his voice holding no malice, only worry.

Eren almost seemed like he was about to break down before Mikhail growled at him, forcing Eren’s attention on him, and his hands were shaking as he moved to pet him, feeling the sinking feeling in his gut return… *having kids was a bad idea… I... I got knocked off… So quickly, and by one sentence… I’m not fit to be a parent… Fuck … Levi’s gonna take the child and leave me behind…... And because of one sentence… I think Dad’s turned his back on me for years! ... I was doing so well, and now… Look where that’s got me. “You shouldn’t…. Be proud at all…” I’ve been doing nothing but finding ways to mask the pain and hide it, from you, from everyone, from Blake… But now… I can’t do that either…

“Eren, Honey…” Lathe looked hurt but he refused to budge, holding Eren tighter. “Eren, I couldn't be more proud of you. You’ve been so strong from the first day I met you and I've watched you grow into a responsible, caring young man and I couldn't be happier for you and your successes.
I'm so happy that you found success in music and that you found an amazing boyfriend and that you and Levi finally are able to have your own kid and that you always find ways to be kind and always want to help and I'm so proud of you… I'm so proud to be able to say that I'm your dad… I wish I had your strength… you really are something.” I'm always going to be proud of you, because you'll always manage to impress me.

Eren smiled softly, a small tear in the corner of his eyes, his lip trembling as he spoke. “And…. I wish I had your positivity…” You have no idea what goes through my head... we should keep it that way...
“It’s okay… if you stay strong for the both of us, I’ll keep both of us looking to the bright side.”
We can help fix that for each other. “…how do you like Mikhail?” Lathe sounded careful as he glanced to the dog, busy licking Eren’s cheek. He already likes you...

“I can tell already, I won’t be getting out of going around without him by my side…” I don’t think he’ll let me out of sight. “And… I think we can do that.” Eren smiled softly, leaning his head over to Lathe’s shoulder, enjoying his presence. I miss being held… I don’t get it a lot anymore...

~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~

Today’s another big day, per usual. “Philip, no, that's not food.” Lathe ran over to get Philip to stop sucking on the wooden train. I thought I was over getting people to stop eating the trains…
......well, every day is a big day around here still. Lathe made sure Philip and Jared weren’t eating the trains when he went back to the kitchen, making sure nothing burned. Mark is flying in today, and Eren went to go pick him up from the airport. He’ll be here just in time for lunch, which is good, because we can't delay lunch. The kids will get fussy. Lathe smiled as James flitted around the kitchen with him, helping him cook. He's been doing so much better… three weeks since the first surgery, and he’s been so much happier… he’s actually friends with the dogs now, particularly Nene, since she napped with him the entire time, but he loves them all. Mikhail too, even if he's stuck to Eren’s side all the time. Lathe glanced over to a small pile of new cookbooks on the counter, many pages bookmarked. And it's wonderful that everyone’s been so supportive of James and all of us… It seemed like every other night one of the couples was volunteering to cook dinner for all of us… it’s been so nice… and I've been thinking about worst-case scenarios a lot less… Mark and Claire are still going strong, they keep giving each other these dopey looks and it’s so sweet it’ll give you cavities just seeing it… and with school out they’re always together, mostly here, but occasionally at her grandmother’s home. And Eren’s done grading exams and stuff, so summer has officially begun. Which is kinda good, because I have lots to do and less time to dwell on stuff I don’t want to. Lathe looked over his shoulder as the phone rang, leaving James to hover over the stove, answering the phone. “Hello?”

“Lathe, it’s Sharon. Is Eren home?”

“Uh, no, he's not… what's up?”

“I need a big favour from him, but it’s small, but it’s important.”

“Uh…” Lathe grabbed a post-it. “Am I able to take a message?”
“Yeah, y’know how I’m bringing you that copy of that game/animation thing I wanted Mark to do during the stream thing? All Eren has to do is make absolutely sure that Mark writes in his name as ‘Markiplier.’ It’s very important.”

“......don’t tell me you remade a whole ton of dialogue and made new stuff just for that input.”

“I had to! I already re-recorded and resubtitled everything! Because it’s Markimoo!”

“Oh my god, okay… I’ll tell him. Caps matter?”

“Nah, it’ll recognise anything as long as Markiplier is in there somewhere. Thank you thank you thank you!”

“Oh my god you’re welcome, now I have to make sure lunch doesn’t burn!”

“Fine, go cook! Bye~!”

“You’re insane!” Lathe hung up, shaking his head. She’s ridiculous. Lathe set the sticky note on the side table, going back to oversee lunch. I heard it’s gonna be good, what she fixed up for this stream... Lathe was just getting things into serving dishes when the front door opened, seeing Eren leading Mark inside with his suitcase. “Hey Mark! How’re you doing? The flight okay?”

“Yeah, it went great, I got to sleep all the way here, after cranking out videos until I got on the plane this morning... You know I’ve been here like thrice, and I still can’t believe it’s this big!” Mark smiled as he came inside and went instantly for a huge hug. It smells amazing! “What’s for lunch? Please tell me you made enough for me!” I’m starving!

Lathe chuckled, hugging him tightly. “Lunch is something new- a bunch of our friends flooded us with recipes as of late. There’s chicken on the grill to be made into wraps, home fries and lemonade, or whatever else you want to drink. I’m hoping the kids will actually deem it worthy of consumption.” Lathe chuckled. “And now there are ten of us, so I’d say the place is just big enough.” But only just.

Mark chuckled watching as he heard thundering feet coming from the stairs. I think I hear children! “Oh my god, they’re so cute!” He watched as Philip and Jared raced down the stairs, quickly followed by Maisie and Krampus. His eyes then came to land on Mark. “Well well well, if it isn’t speedy Gonzalez! How are you Mark? I’ve heard you’ve been breaking records left and right?” Is that true or is Eren twisting my arm?

“......who now?” Lathe and Mark dramatically gasped, staring at him with shock.

“I thought you would at least vaguely pay attention to the cartoons Philip always insists on watching when you're in the same room.”

“Yeesh, sorry! But yeah, apparently I run really fast. They keep telling me I'm doing great, that I'm being state records and coming close to national ones… it’s insane when I look this up and they're serious .” Mark grinned, running a hand through his hair. “It's weird to see my name in the paper after every meet.” It’s so weird… but it’s so cool…

Philip looked up to the older Mark, coming up to him and interrupting him, speaking before he could and pointing up to his hair. “Hair wed.” It's red... other tall person has purple hair... other other tall person has orange... why all the colours? Pretty... I want coloured hair too!

Mark smiled, squatting down so that Philip could see his hair. “Yes, my hair is red, it’s awesome don’t you think?” He had a huge smile on his face as Philip nodded, looking over to Mark. He’s quite the charmer... “So, got any girls interested in you?”

Mark blushed a bit, nodding. “Yeah, I've got a girlfriend, Claire… we’ve been friends since I transferred into our school, she’s really great...” Understatement of the century ...

“Dah!” Philip piped up before Mark could continue, coming over to Lathe and looking up to him determinedly. “I wan’ coluh hair!” I wanna look cool too!

Lathe chuckled, ruffling his head of dirty blonde hair. “What colour would you want?” I'm curious...

Philip looked around, trying to decide. “Uh…. I like green!”

“Green? That's a very nice colour. Now, I'm not saying no, but maybe when you're older we’ll let you do that, m’kay?”
“B-Buh, I wan’ coluh hair!” Philip stomped his foot defiantly, looking like he would cry if he didn’t get his way. I want it!

Lathe knelt down next to him, not wanting him to have a tantrum. *Oh my… “It’s okay Honey, don’t cry.” …now I need to remember if coloured hair is against dress code at school… ...wait, it’s public school, who gives a sh*t. “Here, let’s make a deal. What if we wait a week, just a week, and if by then you still want green hair, I’ll let you get the ends of your hair green to try it out, okay? To see if you like it. Can you wait a week?” I think you’d look cute with green hair. And if you end up hating it, you won’t have to shave all you hair off to get rid of it. Just a trim.

Philip looked to him with wide eyes, nodding excitedly, bouncing on his toes. “O-Okay! I waih! I waih!” Philip hugged him tightly, giggling. I get to have green hair! I look cool like cool big people!

Lathe smiled, letting him go. “Now, can you go and get Lucas for me? I think he’s hiding upstairs. We’re gonna have lunch, kay?” Lathe grinned and Philip nodded, running off on his mission. I love him…

Mark’s eyes were wide from the exchange. “Well that just happened… And now I’m kinda glad I don’t have kids…” I wouldn’t know what to do with myself if I had kids…

Eren smiled as he came back after getting all of Mark’s things in a spare room. “It did just happen…” He helped usher the kids to sit at the table watching as Tucker eyed Mark warily before going over to Lathe to ask something. Hmm… Probably wants Henry to come over… Cause mark’s over… I’m sure he wouldn’t mind…

Tucker was twiddling his thumbs as he went up to Lathe. “U-Uhm, Dad?” Oh god, you’ll probably say no anyways, because he’s a guest… But it’s worth a shot right?

Lathe looked to Tucker, smiling. “Yeah, what’s up?” ...what’re you cooking up?

“Is it okay… If um… If Henry came to play video games for a little bit?” …. Asking about Mark is asking for too much as it is… Maybe I shouldn’t ask… Tucker ducked his head down further as the ache in his chest grew. “N-never mind… It’s okay…” Mark’s a guest… We shouldn’t bother him…

“….Henry, the video game junkie.” That’s legit what he is. “Tucker, you tell him to get his ass over here with his Xbox and a Sharpie so Mark can sign it or whatever because I know that’s your motive.” You two are always playing video games. It's obvious he'd wanna meet Mark.

Tucker had his eyes closed, not expecting Lathe to agree, and not to bother the guest, only to snap them open when he heard what came out of Lathe’s mouth. “C-Can I ask him to come over after lunch?” That wasn’t the real question I guess….

“...Hon, call him and I can pick him up if he says yes.” There's plenty of food. And it's Markimoo. I understand.

“I-I’ll call him after l-lunch.” I'm still way to embarrassed to call him about anything... We haven’t played video games in a week... Tucker went to go take his seat beside Philip and Jake, staring at his food and contemplating if he was really gonna call Henry or not. Maybe I shouldn’t... No, I probably shouldn’t.... I can’t get my hopes up that he’ll like me as anything more than a friend... He probably only likes me because he has the possibility of meeting YouTubers... And famous people...

Lathe and James were busy cutting up the chicken when it had finished cooking, making sure everyone had enough of everything before sitting down to eat. ... this is really good... I'm hanging on to this recipe... even Philip is eating everything.... and that's a miracle. Lathe sighed as the phone rang again, standing. “I got it.” Lathe walked over to the phone, surprised and a bit worried when he saw the number for the foster agency there. “...it's the foster people.” Lathe immediately picked up, turning around to lean against the wall, seeing the table look to him, the brothers glancing around to each other worriedly. “Hello?”

“Hello, Is this Mr. Quo?”

“Yes.”

“Oh good! We have some great news!”

“What kind of news?”

“We’ve found parents who will take all four boys for adoption.” The voice was very cheery on the other end, waiting for Lathe’s reply.

Lathe was quiet for a moment, looking over to the four brothers around the table. Mark and Lucas looked worried, glancing between their brothers. “...all four of them?” He heard the voice assure him they would be together, smiling. “That's wonderful to hear. ...when will they be officially adopted and stuff?”

“That's what I'm calling about, the parents have already filled out all the paperwork and want to know when they can take the boys.... When do you think that’ll be possible?”

Lathe was a bit caught off-guard, thinking. “Uhm…” I can't just say ‘tomorrow’ or something, that's no notice for them... and they need to pack up their stuff and say goodbye to people, I know Philip will want to say goodbye to all the chickens because he loves them and maybe they'll want to ride one more time... He looked to the calendar, thinking. “Is next Monday too far away?” I wanna hold onto them just a little bit longer... but I shouldn't be so selfish... I knew they weren't gonna be here forever...

“Hold please, while I figure it out.” The line went quiet for a few minutes as the woman on the other end was supposedly speaking with the new parents. “Mr. Quo?”

“Y-Yes?”

“What time do you feel would be best for them to pick the children up?”

“I'd say around 1:30 in the afternoon or so, after lunch...” They'll still have time to unpack their stuff when they get to their new home then...

“Okay, our agents along with the new parents will be around next Monday at 1:30pm, correct?”

“I meant the Monday after next, was that clear?” I don't know if you understood that or not... two days isn't long enough...

“Yes, we’ll be there in 9 days.”

“Y-Yeah, that's all good. Okay. Nine days, 1:30. ...okay.” But... but I love them...

“Thank you Mr. Quo, we’ll see you all then.”
“Okay. Goodbye.” Lathe hung up, and could hear the silence behind him. He couldn't bear to turn around, burying his face in his hands. But I love them... I wanna keep them... but I can't...

Mark looked over his younger brothers, seeing their look of concern when Lathe didn’t turn around. He rose to his feet, padding softly to him. “L-Lathe?” I probably shouldn't call you Dad...

           ..........you always called me Dad....... Lathe looked up to him, his eyes glassy, trying to smile. “Someone’s adopted all four of you. ...you've got a bit more than a week until they come to get you all. ....I'm sorry, I just....” I just don't wanna let you go...

Mark smiled softly, wrapping his arms around Lathe’s shoulders and pulling him into a tight hug. You shouldn’t be sad. “I-I’m sure we’ll still be able to call you... Even if we’re far away...” I have no idea where we’re moving to.

Lathe smiled, hugging him back. “I'll always look for the news, waiting for you to break more records somewhere.” Lathe smiled, rubbing his back gently. He didn't notice the other boys had gotten up until he was surrounded, Lucas, Jared, and Philip hugging him. “I...” Tears trailed down his cheeks. “I love you all so much.... I'm gonna m-miss you....” Please don't leave...

“We’ll miss you too.” Lucas said quietly as he held onto Lathe a little tighter. I'll need to leave the books here... And I was just getting used to everyone at school too... Oh no, what about Claire? How is Mark gonna take that?

Philip looked up as he clung to their middle, not entirely sure why Lathe was crying. “D-Don’ cw, Dah! Don’ cw! Is ‘kay!” Why are you so sad?

Lathe looked over to where Philip was, letting go of Mark to pick him up, heaving him up. “Yeah, you get heavier every time I do this.” Lathe smiled to him, seeing how happy Philip was to be taller than him. “Honey, you and your brothers are going to have a new home soon.”

“B-Buh... dis home!” Philip made a wide gesture with his arms. Is this not home? It's so home!

“You’re getting a new one, Honey. There's someone who really wants to have their own kids, and so they’ve adopted you four.”
“B-Buh… you no uhdop?” Philip’s eyes were wide. “B-Buh, buh… dis home! Dis home! I don’ wanna ‘noher home!” Philip teared up, clinging to Lathe and starting to cry. This is home! No other home!

Lathe wanted so badly to agree but he shook his head, shifting Philip to look at him again. “I’m sorry, Honey…” Lathe gently wiped at his tears, the child sniffling, trying to cling to him. “But I can't keep you all forever. I didn't adopt you. I gave you all a place to stay while trying to find someone to keep you forever. But that doesn't mean I don't love you and care about you.” Lathe gave him a small smile.

“Y-You luh m-me?”

Lathe smiled, nodding. “Lots.”

“Lohs an’ lohs?”

“Lots and lots and lots.”

Philip still looked unsure, clinging to him. “I luh y-you, Dah.” I love you!

Lathe held him tighter. “I love you too, Philip.” He nearly completely broke down when the other three hugged him tighter, hearing a quiet chorus of ‘I love yous’ around him. “I love you all so much…” I don't wanna lose you all...

Lucas looked to Mark, noticing how quiet he was becoming. Oh no… His hand reached out to grab Mark’s shirt before he could even let go of Lathe. Don't you dare leave… I know how this goes, and I don’t want you going through this again...

Lathe looked confused as Lucas suddenly grabbed Mark, looking scared as Mark started to pry himself from him and Lucas. “W-Wait, Mark…” He looked worried when Mark let him go, trying to get Lucas to let go of him. “W-what’s wrong? D-Did I do something?” What happened...?

Mark just shook his head, finally prying Lucas’ hand from him. I can't… I can't take this anymore… I’m going to lose everything again. He turned, leaving them all in the kitchen as he walked away, Blake getting up and following him. He disappeared up the stairs, Blake struggling with them ever so slowly.
Lathe choked on his words, hugging Philip closer. “Mark… I don’t wanna lose you before you’re gone… Lathe sank to the floor, the boys around him trying to comfort him, though it was useless. I lost him already… I… fuck….

Lucas looked between Mark and Lathe, growing angry, letting go of Lathe and storming upstairs, though he didn’t care who heard him as he began to scream at Mark. “God fucking damn it, Mark! You always fucking do this! As soon as you find out we’re leaving, you close yourself off like a fucking coward! I hate it! I hate that you always do this! Get your ass downstairs now, you MOTHERFUCKING traitor! You go off to mope about being separated again, when all you do is leave us to deal with it! To deal with it all alone!”

Mark was stunned as Lucas tore into him, watching him seeth and when he stopped speaking, he could hear Lathe’s sobbing and the hushed voices trying to comfort him. “…I keep leaving….. “…I just…” Mark looked to the floor, burying his face in his hands. “…I just don’t wanna lose everything again… it’s… it’s easier to ignore it…. I-I’m sorry… I left you guys alone… I…. I shouldn’t…” Mark looked up, vulnerable. “I-I’m sorry…” He looked away, moving to go back downstairs when his arm was caught. …fuck, he’s gonna hit me… …I’d deserve it….

Lucas grabbed Mark, pulling him to him and holding him close as he struggled not to cry. “You’re not losing everything… When will you realize that? That you have us?”

Mark hugged him back tightly, resting his cheek on his shoulder. “I kn-know I have all of you, but… but we’ve already gotten so used to our school and our home and we’ve made friends and we’ve found someone to call Dad and now… now we get to move really far away and not see any of it again…” I don’t want to leave… I really like it here… I have to leave everything behind… I have to leave Claire behind… fuck, how do I tell her…

“Well, we have to deal with it together… Okay?” We don’t want to deal with this all alone. He shifted so his head was on Mark’s shoulder, feeling the tears run down his cheeks. “I-I’m sorry for…. For yelling.”

“It's okay… I think I needed someone to set me straight about it… it's so much easier to run away from it…” …But I can't do that… Mark finally let of Lucas, tugging him back downstairs with him to where Philip and Jared, now with Eren and Mark, were trying to console him, the dogs and cats around, whimpering and meowing, wanting to help. Lathe was a mess, looking abandoned with Philip and Jared in his arms. …fuck… “L- I-I mean, Dad… I…” Mark knelt next to him, pulling him into a hug. “I'm sorry for walking away like that… it's just… so much harder to just face it and accept it…” I can't do that to you or my brothers… it's not fair.
Lathe breathed in shakily, nodding. “I-It’s okay…” Lathe leaned into the touch, looking up to Lucas. “And I guess I can let that whole spiel slide….” Thanks for screaming some sense into him...

Lucas nodded as he sat down on the other side of Lathe, letting him hug Mark. It felt good to finally get that off my chest… You two are probably gonna stay together for awhile...

Lathe sighed, his eyes slipping shut as he held onto everyone. I don't wanna let go… He opened his eyes as he heard a sound, looking over to see Philip asleep in his arms. He smiled faintly, rubbing his back gently. “That whole exchange really wore him out… I could use a nap too…” Lathe shifted a bit, chuckling when the brothers still held onto him, Eren and the older Mark slipping away from him. “We can migrate to the couches if you all want…” I don't think any of you want to let go… and I don't want you to either...

Mark, Lucas and Jared nodded, getting up to get out blankets and pillows. The boys waited for Lathe to come with Philip to the couches so they could all nap together.

Lathe smiled as they all assembled a nest on the couches, moving in with Philip still on his chest, smiling as the boy's nestled in on either side of him, tossing more blankets over them. They were all out in minutes, sound asleep. ...I love you all.

James watched them all fall asleep a soft smile on his face. I should get to bed too, I wonder if Nene will join me. He was slow as he walked up the stairs and to his room. I'm glad that my head doesn't really hurt as much as it used to, but I can't sleep like I used too… I still can't have the back of my head on a pillow…. He opened the door smiling as Nene followed him in a few seconds later. There she is. He smiled softly, getting in bed with her and curling up before he felt his eyes close and sleep overtake him.

Tucker had watched the whole scene unfold from where he sat at the table, now the only one there since Jake had shuffled to sleep with Lucas as well. So… I’ll take that as no Henry then…. I guess that’s okay, I can go sit in my room and work on some legos. He got up, helping Eren with the dishes from lunch, turning away from Mark and Eren, knowing the two of them probably wanted nothing to do with him. No one ever does....

Mark looked around as the family disbanded, helping Eren with the dishes. “So I guess it’s nap time now, apparently.” He chuckled as Eren shrugged and nodded. “Hey, I'd love to have a regular nap time. Who doesn't love sleep?” Mark looked up as Tucker started to slink off, remembering something. “Hey, didn't you want to have a friend over to freak out over me or something? That was a thing.” I'm pretty sure it was a thing...
Tucker froze as he heard Mark, turning to look at them, trying to hide his emotions in his eyes. “N-no… It’s fine, I can just call him tomorrow……….” He trailed off, looking to his feet. “D-don’t want to bother the guest.” He mumbled before continuing his way towards the stairs as well.

Maybe… No one’s noticed that I’ve been wearing long pants… No one will ever notice I guess…

“Aww… nooo, if you don't get him over here you'll make the guest sad…. ” Mark sniffled, pretending to be near tears. It's obvious you want him over. “Eren will bring him over, right Eren? Say yes.”

“Sure?”

“We?” C’mon, nobody else needs to be sad today.

Tucker was quiet as he looked back shaking his head and scampering off. No… I can’t invite Henry… I don’t want my thoughts to become reality…. He felt the sinking sensation once again in his chest, sighing. I don’t wanna cut again…. I already cut this week….

Eren sighed as Tucker walked away. “Just leave him be Mark… He’s got it hard as it is…” He was adopted and brought back within six months of being adopted… All he thinks of himself is a monster that nobody wants…. “Tucker’s got a lot going through his head…”

Mark nodded in understanding, going back to washing dishes. “…it’s a really great thing, what you and your family are doing.” It's so obvious how much you all care about and love these kids…. especially Lathe… Mark looked down as another dog sat by Eren, nudging Mark’s leg, sniffing him. “Hello! Who are you?” Mark reached down to pet him, pouting when the dog avoided his touch, looking up to him judgementally. “Eren, he's judging me. Help.” I just wanna pet him! He looks so cute!

“Mikhail, sit.” He watched the dog instantly obey and let Mark pet his head, though Mikhail stopped wagging his tail and his piercing blue eyes looked up to Eren. “Mark, this is Mikhail, he’s my service dog… And doesn’t really like it when other people pet him around me…” He’s always at my side… How have you not noticed him yet? He was behind you in the car the whole ride home… And he doesn’t let me be, my students didn’t understand why I had a dog either… That wasn’t fun, some of the seniors were talking about it after their exams… And I overheard them… I thought the name calling was over and done with?

Mark frowned, scratching his ear before letting him be. “Do you still really need the dog? Or is Blake just getting really old? I heard Lathe mention a bunch of random stuff on the phone, like how he’s eleven now. He was talking about getting another dog, for the house apparently. He just “Yeah, he was in the car when I picked you up, and he doesn’t let me leave without him, so I guess I need him still.” I hate the idea that I need a fucking dog still. “I hate the idea…” I hate needing him… “But I guess it’s for the family that I’m no longer gonna have….” The two who really need him are gonna leave… Eren finished up with the dishes, sighing as he looked down to the empty sink. “I hate needing a dog, I’d thought I’d been doing well hiding everything from everyone, and now with Mikhail, I can’t do anything without him staring at me and knowing something’s wrong…..” I haven’t been able to take any medications I might have gotten from James… well, actually that new kid at the pharmacy that they hired, James was in the back and didn’t pay much attention….. Thank God dad hasn’t found out yet… “Oh um, we’re supposed to get James’ results from the CCK… So I need to watch for the mail truck soon, but we can go downstairs and start setting up for the live stream in a few days, make sure everything works.”

“Seriously? He blended right in with the car.” Mark looked worried when Eren continued talking, looking sympathetic, though something clicked. “...you’ve been hiding stuff from the family? I don't think that’s… that that’s the best way to deal with stuff…” Mark shied away from the topic though, not wanting to prod too much at it. “I'm just saying maybe it could be a good thing…” Mark tried to change the subject as he handed off the last rinsed plate. “But yeah, we should make sure everything’s in working order. If we need new cables or anything, or if anything needs readjustment, it’s best to do it early on.” So we know what to fix... ......crap, now I'm worried about you...

“Alright, so here’s the big question, do we want to live stream on the computer or the Xbox? Or at least, what do we need to play on? Because I can set up either…. Oh do you know how to set up a GoFundMe? Or something like that? So they can donate?” I still haven’t figured out how to do that. Eren put the last plate away, turning to Mark and motioning him to the studio where his computer was. We’ll need to take this downstairs anyways...

Mark nodded, following him. “I don't do too much Xbox stuff, and PC is much easier to set up. That's where most of my stuff is in accounts and such anyway.” Mark followed him to the studio, walking him through getting a GoFundMe set up for James. I'm very used to PC stuff, I normally only do Xbox gaming on my own time, if I have any time to kill, that is… “And we can just direct them to the other page for the Cancer Research Center if they want to donate to that one. It’ll take like ten minutes to get this set up while we’re live at absolute most, it’s not that much, really. Once you have the pages it’s pretty straightforward.” Not too much to it, just plenty of arranging on the screen...

“Okay, so let's get everything downstairs and ready to go…” That’s really the long part of this...

Mark nodded, following Eren back upstairs. He noticed Mikhail was walking in circles behind them when they stood, seemingly distressed. Huh? ...dogs don't just do that... he wasn't chasing his tail or anything... Eren seems out of it too... He got his stuff, bringing everything downstairs to set up. ..........what the actual hell is going on with you? I'm really getting worried... Mark looked up as the doorbell rang, watching Eren go to get it. More people?

Eren was confused at first as he opened up the door, seeing Sharon. “Oh, right, dinner, thank you. Do you need help bringing anything else in?” You look like you have your hands full...

“Nah, I'm good. You already have my cookbook. And I left the child with Hannah, so it’s cool.” She smiled, coming in with her armful of groceries, heading over to the kitchen. “Oh! And before I forget...” Sharon came over to him, handing him a slip of paper with two codes on it. “These both get you the game for free off of steam- make sure Mark gets one on his account, Kay?” She watched him nod, beaming. “Thanks!” She moved back to the kitchen, rifling around and getting things out before tying on an apron, set to work. She looked over as Mark wandered out, waving to him. “Hey Markimoo!” I wanna see if you recognize me.

“......I know your face.” Mark studied her, coming into the kitchen. “......I know we must've met.”

“We did! I dyed my hair and cut a ton of it off, though. Even my wife didn't recognize me when she came home.” She grinned when recognition dawned on his face, nodding. “There ya go. I'm making you crazies dinner, by the way. I hope you like ribs.” I've got lots to do.

Mark smiled, nodding. “Y-Yeah, that sounds great, thank you.” He looked over to where Eren was studying a note, his curiosity piqued. “What’s that?” It's a bunch of letters and numbers...

“What we’re gonna be playing on stream first.” That's how this is gonna go. He put it into his pocket, making sure Mark didn’t see it. You’ll find out eventually. Eren’s eyes widened as Mikhail grabbed at his hand almost instantly as soon as it was in reach. But... I wasn’t.... Was I? Wait... Does he know that I have the pills in my pocket? Fuck ! Eren looked down to the piercing blue eyes latching on his hand. How the fuck... How does he know I have it? He didn’t watch me put them in my pocket...

“...uh, Eren, are...” Mark was unsure how to react to Mikhail biting Eren’s hand like that, though Eren didn't seem to be in pain. ...he looks scared. “A-Are you okay? Is he hurting you? You look scared, what's wrong?” I don't know what to do!

Eren shook his head, trying to reign in his emotions, panicking a little, struggling to take back his hand. “Mikhail! Let go of me!” His voice was rising with panic as he heard the low growl emanate from the dog’s throat. I’m panicking... This isn’t good... He knows I have the pills on me!
Mark watched, unsure of what to do as a Eren was dragged to the floor by the dog, watching a bottle of pills fall from his pocket, skittering across the floor. He went to pick them up, unable to keep from reading the label. "...that's a big word... uh..." Mark looked as Eren seemed to completely panic, reaching for the bottle of pills. "Uh, you want these?" Mark tried to hand them back, only for Mikhail to surge off of Eren and snatch the bottle from Mark, running off. He heard him drop the bottle in the next room, barking once to get attention. "Fuck, what's happening? "...Eren?!" Mark looked to him, shocked to see him scramble to his feet and run after the dog. He followed, stopping a ways away, seeing Lathe holding the bottle, Mikhail standing to guard the pile of them on the couches from Eren, the boys looking confused and scared.

Lathe looked to Eren carefully, reading the label on the bottle of pills. "I keep this on hand, but not in this size... it's a generic antihistamine, but you've never had allergies... ..." Lathe opened the bottle, dumping a few pills in his hand. "...Eren, these aren't allergy pills." He looked to him, standing from their nest. "Eren, what's going on." Out with it.

Eren had a look of shock. "This is why I didn't want a fucking dog! "Can I have my pills back?" His voice was full of panic, his eyes wide and his breathing starting to worsen. No! I was doing so well hiding it! You didn't need to fucking know!

Lathe looked to him as he started panicking, moving to calm him. "Eren, I just want to know what’s going on! Whatever you're taking, I need to know about it. I just want to help you. You don't need to hide stuff from me." Lathe moved to hug him, easing him to the floor. "I want you to talk to me, and tell me what's going on. I won't judge you. You should know that after all these years." I've never judged you. I just want you to be happy, and to get better. That's it. Talk to me.

Eren only started to panic more as he was grabbed and pulled down to the floor. "N-No... Get off..." He was trailing off as he struggled to get out of Lathe’s grasp. I didn’t want you to know! You thought I was doing better! I need the drugs to keep the thoughts away! I need them! I didn’t want you to know that I’ve become dependent on them! “I didn’t want you to know...” His voice was full of panic as he was struggling to push Lathe away, his arms weak as his muscles went rigid. I’m panicking! Fuck I’m panicking, I can’t breathe. He could feel his chest tightening, starting to gasp for air, his eyes were wide with fear as he struggled to breathe, his fingers locking in Lathe's shirt.

Lathe heard his breathing turn ragged, brushing his hair from his face, his voice warm in his ear, trying to calm him down. "Eren, it's okay if you still need your meds. If you still need the antidepressants, that's okay. You've been on them so long it’d be easy to understand you could grow dependent on them. It happens all the time when you take meds that long. Just breathe, Hon. I'm not mad, and I'm not gonna judge you. Just breathe Hon, it's okay.” Lathe brought him into his lap, his arms firm and reassuring around him. "I've got you, Hon." Just relax. It's okay.
Eren was still struggling to breathe for a long while before he started to calm down, relaxing into Lathe’s chest, warm tears falling down his cheeks. “I-I’m sorry… I’m really sorry…” Eren whimpered in Lathe’s hold.

“It’s okay, Honey, I understand. I know it’s a hard thing to admit, that even after all this time you still need them…” Lathe dabbed at his tears, smiling faintly. “But that’s how human bodies work. We get so used to the meds we take, and after enough time has passed, if we stop, we don't know how to handle it. You forget how to function without them, and it hurts. It really does. It’s okay to be like that, I'd be surprised if you could stop cold turkey with no problem. We can see if we can wean you off the meds, or if you just can't do it. And if you're taking those pills for more years, that's okay too… how long ago did you start them again? I thought we’d done a detox a while ago…” We already got you off of them, when… I think when Levi was just about to leave, you stopped taking them… well, ‘stopped.’

“I was doing so w-well… And then I couldn’t take it anymore…. I finally got them again three months ago….” I was doing so well. “Y-You thought I was doing better… And… And I felt horrible for having to take them again… B-Because I started cutting again… And I didn’t know what to do… I just… I hid them because I didn’t want you to worry…. And then when we got the dog, I-I thought you found out… And you were mad at me for falling back on the pills…” I hate having the fucking dog! He knew I was hiding it…. He knew...

“Eren, if I thought something was wrong I wouldn’t just get another dog, I'd ask you what was happening. I had no idea… I'm so sorry… we can fix this, Honey. You could've told me you needed a lower dose again, we would've worked this out. We still can.” Lathe gently rubbed his stomach, thinking. “We can try cutting those pills in half, see what a dose for you that isn't excessive looks like and go from there. But don't try to do this alone, Hon. I’m your Dad, you can tell me this sort of stuff. ...and it makes more sense now, why you freaked out so much about Mikhail… he's a family support system, not my method of Eren-surveillance. That's not what he is. But this is why he's been stuck to your hip, isn’t it.” It wasn’t a question. “…Honey, you never have to cut or do this yourself. I'm here, all of us are here for you. We've got you.” You'll be okay.

Eren nodded, leaning his head into Lathe’s chest again. “I… I need the full dose…” I've been on them too long… And I'm afraid that I’ll want to cut again if I go down in the dosage. “I’m sorry…. But I didn’t want you to… To worry… You were already stressed out enough and with everything that was happening, I couldn’t bring myself to tell you because I was doing better with the pills…. And I thought I’d be able to keep hiding them…” I got dependent, that’s why I offer to do the groceries sometimes... Because I needed to pick up my pills...

“It's okay… I know that I've been kinda swamped with stress lately, but this is still a big deal… your welfare is important to me, as much as anyone else’s. It’s not surprising you're still dependent on them… and at this rate, I think you might be for a very long time still… we’ll have to be very careful if we try to get you off of them again. It's no quick process. I mean months and months, half a year to a year, ballpark. But I think you'll come out of this just fine. We’ll make sure you have your meds, and if you ever start to think things you shouldn't or whatever it might be… now we have Mikhail. I promise his purpose isn't to antagonize you. It's to keep you, and all of us, safe.” He'll do a good job. He was very good about the pills, he'll do well for you and for all of us.

Eren nodded, curling into Lathe’s warm arms, sniffling. “Sh-Sharon’s h-here…” fuck… I can’t talk right… I keep hiccuping…

Lathe looked up, seeing Mark over by the kitchen table, quietly talking with Sharon who was expertly cutting up apple, a pile of slices growing next to her. “…I kinda forgot that we have company…” They watched as Mark snitched a piece of apple, Sharon not trying to stop him as he bit it. He immediately reacted to the bitterness, going to spit it out in the trash can, Sharon giggling. …oh, she must be making pie. Lathe and Eren both chuckled at the sight, Sharon looking over to them.

Ah, they're doing a bit better. Sharon smirked, holding up one of the apple slices. “Wanna try a piece?”

“Don't do it, the apples are evil!”

“Aww, they're not that bad.” Sharon popped the piece in her mouth, smiling as she chewed.

“…how.”

“Do you know how many pies I've needed to make to know the entire recipe from memory? It's the same as the number of times that I've snitched apple divided by ten.”

“.........I'm confused.”

“Just go snitch their animal crackers if you want something. They have the good kind.” Sharon smiled, going back to her chopping. Dessert- the most important part of dinner. These things need to bake before we bake the ribs, though, so they get done first. “Lathe, dinner is barbecue ribs, by the way. Just informing you.” You'll love them.

“Thank you for cooking, Sharon. It's very kind of you.” He smiled as she blushed, waving him off. “...how do you feel right now, Eren?” Today has already been so stressful…
“Well… Um, the mails here…” He murmured, showing Lathe the mail. The results from CCK are right here… I don't wanna open it… unless you want me to. His voice was small as he held out the letter shakily to Lathe.

Lathe stared at the envelope, realizing what it was, taking it from him. “...where's the letter opener.” Lathe was immediately handed it by Eren, opening the letter and taking out the papers, flipping through and reading. A minute passed, and he was deathly silent. “.............it's cancer. ...we have to call to schedule his treatment… he'll be going through surgery and chemo…” Lathe stared at the floor, burying his face in his hands again, feeling the kids and Eren all pile on him and give him hugs before he could cry, taking a deep breath. “...well… we know what to do from here. It'll go down a bit, but once the hardest is done, we can only go up. We’ll get there.” Hopefully... “I… I should go tell him.” Lathe stood, going upstairs to James’ room, lightly knocking on the doorframe. “James, Honey.” He came inside where he and Nene were napping, gently shaking his shoulder. “...wake up, Hon. There's something you need to know.” I'm sorry...

James cracked open his eyes, seeing Lathe, a soft smile on his face. “Hmm, is dinner ready?” He asked quietly, moving to stretch and sit up. Was I asleep that long already? I'm glad I'm actually able to sleep and no one bothers me anymore.

Lathe shook his head, sitting down on the bed next to him. “No, it hasn't been that long, Sharon just started a bit ago… Uhm… the results from the tests came in, about your tumor. ......I'm so sorry, Honey, but it's cancer. ...you need to go in for chemo, and then most likely surgery.” Lathe reached out to hug him close. “I'm sorry…” It's going to be really hard...

James froze as he looked back to Lathe, fear finally starting to kick in. “How… How big is it?” He murmured quietly to him, tempted to reach back to feel his skull, but knowing that he shouldn’t because it was still highly sensitive. How much longer do I have left? Will I even make it before we have the surgery? “L-Lathe… I’m… I’m sorry…” You took me in.... Without realizing how much trouble i’d be...

“...the tumor is really big… it goes from around here on you…” Lathe pointed to the back of his own skull, his finger trailing down to the nape of his neck. “To around here… you don't have to apologize, Honey…” Lathe tugged him into his lap, cradling him to his chest as he looked more and more upset. “Mark, the YouTuber guy, not the Mark we have with us, and Eren, they're going to be doing a charity stream, which basically means they play video games and do stuff to raise money. They're donating a ton of it to other cancer research centers, but they're donating some of the proceeds to you. We’re opening up your own bank account and we’ll pay for your treatment that way. Whatever is left will be there for you when you turn eighteen and go do independent person stuff. We’re gonna do everything we can for you, Honey.” Lathe rubbed his back gently, murmuring to him quietly. It's okay... we'll fix it... even if nobody knows how to fix it 100% of the time, we’ll fix it...
James smiled softly as he wrapped his arms around Lathe’s shoulders, taking a deep breath and quickly calming down. “That’s all I’ll need, thank you… Really… But um… Do we need to start right away? I’ve heard that doing chemotherapy makes you really sick, and I’m still trying to recuperate from brain surgery.” His words were mumbled near Lathe’s ear as he closed his eyes, already exhausted. I’m still tired, I can worry about my ticking time bomb later… honestly, it’s probably gonna hurt less than my childhood…

Lathe shook his head, holding him close and feeling him lean heavily onto him, laying down with him on his chest. “We need to start pretty soon, Hon… I know you’re still very worn out from your surgery, but we really can’t delay this much longer… it’s gone this far, we can’t let it go much more… and the chemo is going to take so much out of you either way… we’d best just start it and get you better a bit sooner.” That's all I know to tell you… it's all I can say…

James nodded against his shoulder. “After the boys leave… Then we can go…” he murmured again quieter, so close to falling asleep yet again. I’m tired... “hmm…. Tucker’s alone again…” He mumbled, struggling to keep his eyes open. I need more sleep… My nap wasn’t long enough… I heard him come into his room… But it’s been quiet… Enough to let me sleep decently at least.

Lathe quietly frowned, shifting a bit. “...okay. We’ll start you then, Hon. That'll give you lots of time to sleep and recover, okay?” Lathe moved out from under him, tucking him back under the blankets. “You sleep, okay? We’ll wake you up for dinner when it’s ready.” He kissed his forehead, slipping away and letting Nene crawl onto James’ back, falling asleep there. He made his way to Tucker's room, the door open. He watched quietly as Tucker sat on the floor with a single box of Legos, building the same house for the twentieth time. ...he's so stubborn... he won't let me get him anything, I mean look at his room... there's just... nothing ... he didn't even let me get him a real birthday present, and he refuses an allowance if he doesn't work for it... ...but he always looks so sad..... he's always away from everyone... Lathe very quietly knocked on the door frame, watching Tucker look over with sullen eyes. “Hey Hun. Can I come in?” He watched him stare at him blankly before nodding, shrugging and going back to building the house. Lathe traipsed inside, sitting on the floor near him, among the many lego bricks. “...how’re you doing, Hon?” He suddenly remembered something, his face lighting with recognition. “Oh, I had said I would get Henry so you two could play video games and stuff. Do you still want me to do that?” A moment of quiet. “...come on, you seem so lonely holed up in here. You need to smile and banter with someone.” Henry does a good job of that, making you look happier... you always seem to glow when he’s come over...

Tucker paused as he listened to Lathe before continuing to build his small house. “No... Henry and his brothers went on vacation.... I forgot about it, he wouldn’t be able to come over anyways...” He probably just wants to keep being friends because Markiplier comes over to my house... .... And I’m always supposed to be alone, I mean... No one likes the monster, so it’s a life of solitude for me... I can get working papers in December too... So I can find a job somewhere... “How long is Mark staying for? I can keep quiet while he’s here.” I never really got to know the plans for this week. And he probably doesn't want someone to interrupt his work. Tucker didn’t pick his head up again as he moved fluidly to finish up the house, taking it apart piece by piece and starting it all over again. At this rate I’ll never get adopted, I need to fend for myself...
“Mark’s gonna be here for a week, and starting tomorrow they’re gonna be doing livestreams. Every day has a theme and the funds go to a different cancer research organization, so it’s gonna be a busy week. But you can be somewhere other than your room, you know. You know we have the ability to pull off a huge game setup, we might even hook up a third computer if someone else in the house wants to give being player three a shot.” Lathe shrugged, seeing Tucker keep putting the house together apathetically, sighing. “...please, Tucker, don’t stay up here all the time. All you do is build and rebuild that one lego house. Are you sure you won’t let me get you a different set? Or a big thing of different pieces? I could get you all the pieces you want, you don’t have to make the same thing over and over…” You don’t have to be so sad and bored...

Tucker shook his head. “I told you, I don’t want you to get me anything, and I’ll buy more when I have the money…” I know I need to start saving every penny I find, because I’ll be on my own for college... And I’m stupid, so there goes any chance for scholarships.

I’m the one who gets your bank statements in the mail, you’ve got enough to buy six new ones right now. “Okay, then, I know how you really want to work for your stuff. There are always odd jobs listed on the fridge for when you want something else to do. ...and I do think you should come down sometime in the week, see what Eren and Mark are up to. Someone needs to supervise them.” Lathe smiled, his eyes warm. You shouldn’t be in here alone all the time... you must get lonely. “We miss seeing you around.” You’re always in here, except for at meals... that’s it, mostly... or you’re in the garage working and you yell at anyone who tries to interrupt you...

Tucker shook his head as he fumbled with a piece of Lego, furrowing his brow for an instant as he snapped it into place. “No, I’m fine up here, I... I might go and get more wood from the forest....” Chop down a bigger tree to get wider planks. “I’ll stay up here before and after dinner, and stay out of your hair.” You’re probably annoyed that you need to come talk to me... I know all my previous homes everyone just wanted me to shut up and keep quiet in my room.... “I’ll keep the door open...” I made sure the razor was put away...

“You know you're never a bother to have around, Tucker. We all love your company, we really do.” Lathe tried to convince him, his eyes pleading. “At least try to talk a bit during dinner, okay? You're always so quiet... I know you've got something to say. If asked when it's just one person around what you're working on you start gushing... you're always so stoic...” Lathe shrugged one shoulder, looking to him. It'd be nice to actually talk to you...

“What’s there to talk about? I’m boring compared to everyone else... I’m boring, I’m dull, I’m stupid and no one wants to listen to what I’m working on... They just smile and nod and then forget about it after a few minutes, so what’s even the point anymore?” He looked over to Lathe, his eyes showing that he was starting to crack. I don’t like talking when I know what the outcome is gonna be. “I’ll just be that ugly fag that nobody likes anyways... so why try and change it? I’m not interesting... At all, Eren’s a singer, Mark’s famous, you’re famous... Mark’s a runner with national titles, Jake knows basically everything up to high school education... Lucas can read a book in under an hour and retain all the information about it, Jared can draw like nobody's business… Philip at least can make a creative story about something he saw… Mom’s a cop, and she’s got great stories to tell… Sharon’s a game Developer… Hannah’s a crazy genius, and so are Scotty and Casper… Maverick’s starting to walk without help and he’s only one and a half, Armin’s a freaking lawyer! Marco practically owns a business with his father, and Jean makes decent money…. But me… I’m just a stupid fag who can’t do anything… And can barely get an ‘A’ on anything…” I’m not worth conversation… not in this household, where even the baby has got a light that’s shining brighter than mine… He sighed as he messed up multiple times on the house he should be able to do in his sleep, grumbling about something before tearing it apart from its uncompleted state.

Lathe looked crestfallen, resting a hand on his shoulder. “You’re forgetting the part where you’re handy enough to go out, chop down trees and then make the dozen planters we have lining the patios and decks with barely any help or instruction. All you ever asked was ‘where are the tools?’ and ‘how do you put the harness on Charlie so he can draw over these logs I just made with a chainsaw?’ You’ve got a lot to talk about and we’re interested in it all, we really are. I’ve seen your sketches of stuff to build, you’ve got ideas. And you’re the only one who was interested in helping me repaint the doors and fix the big speakers, and you’re incredibly handy. You have a real talent and you could do a lot with it. I’m really proud of that. I don't care too much that you’re not getting A’s and get B’s instead- book learning is not really your thing, as much as you try, I understand it, I taught. But if you wanted to really go and do construction and that sort of stuff professionally, you could get pretty damn far at this rate. You do so well with so little instruction and you've got incredible motivation. I'm proud of that. And we'd love to hear what it is you wanna make next.” I want to know this sort of stuff, because you keep making cool stuff…please?

Tucker shook his head, shrugging his hand off. “Construction bores people… Henry probably doesn't even remember what I built Eren for his birthday… It’s not something memorable, so why talk about it, there’s nothing exciting about what I do… Anyone who’s got the tools can do it. I don't understand what you're so proud of… Construction isn’t exactly a desirable profession…. You don’t get paid well… You barely make any money with the one job and a lot resort to two jobs… He started to put the legos away neatly into the container he had for them. “And I’ll stay out of the garage this week too, I know how much the noise carries to the house.” I probably shouldn’t do it in the garage anyways… The house is connected through one measly door… Everyone probably hates when I’m using the power tools. Tucker’s eyes were broken as he put the Legos away in their specified space. You didn’t even try and deny that I was a fag… So does that mean you agree ? That you think I’m a worthless fag? Hmph… That’s probably what you think. “Can you go?” I wanna be alone… I wanna cut… I shouldn’t… But I wanna cut again… I know everyone wants to ignore me… So why don’t you just ignore me already? Tucker swallowed thickly as he picked up his eyes to look at Lathe’s, his eyes barely showing any emotions aside from being broken. I’m a monster… Nobody wants me… Mark and Lucas are getting adopted… And they’re older, but they’re kinder, smarter, better looking, they don’t have tempers, and they have each other…. I have no one, so I sit alone, like I should be, and I’m quiet… And nobody wants to adopt someone like me… An ugly fag…. Even Lathe doesn’t want to adopt me… I don’t blame him, I’m a horrible kid.

Lathe swallowed, moving to hug him lightly. “...I don't know how to say what I want to and make you believe me… just remember that we love you, Tucker. Please don't forget that.” Lathe let go of him, not surprised that Tucker didn't try to hug him back. He ruffled his hair, standing and leaving him alone. They're on vacation… luckies. Lathe pulled out his phone, finding Kevin’s number and sending him a text.

LQ: You all are on vacation? I'm so jealous, where’d you all go?

KP: Vacation? I wish! I’m stuck at work.

KP: Why would you think that we’re on vacation? I barely have enough money to keep Brett fed.

KP: Fucker eats us out of house and home.

LQ: Tucker told me you all went on vacation, so Henry wouldn't be able to come over and play video games

LQ: Now I'm concerned

LQ: Probably just doesn't want to bother anyone...

LQ: He's holed up in his room half the time and the rest of the time he's in the garage building stuff and yelling at anyone who interrupts

KP: At least he does something productive, Henry does jack shit.

LQ: He's your stereotypical gamer all the time, isn't he?

KP: You have no fucking idea how annoying it is. I let him have the Xbox in his room one night and that was a mistake.

KP: I woke up to Brett screaming because he could hear gunfire and swore ‘someone’s in the house!’

LQ: ...well shit

LQ: Y’know………. there's a ton of shit we have to do around here, and if it gets both of them out of the house….

LQ: Is it possible for me to drag Henry over here?

KP: Don’t know how much help he'll be

KP: He’s dumber than a pile of bricks…

KP: But sure he’s at home...

KP: Our address is 403 Maria Ave.

LQ: Cool, and don't worry, there’s some stuff that even a rock could do if it had limbs
LQ: I’ll go fetch him and pry him from the television

KP: Oh, if Brett asks for the password to get in, it’s ‘Fuck Off Asswipe’

LQ: …..you know what, I’m just gonna go with it

LQ: Cool I guess…?

KP: Yeah sorry, he’s paranoid about letting people we don’t know in the house

LQ: Eh, it’s cool

LQ: I mean look at us, we have a seriously OP security system

LQ: Given one of them is sleeping at any one time, one can't run much and another will just eat whatever the intruders drop

LQ: But still

KP: Are you talking about the dogs? I assume you are KP: Thank you for also getting Henry on my ass about getting a four-legged mouth to feed.

LQ: Sorry, they're all too affectionate to new people…

LQ: Actually now that I think of it they'd be horrible guard dogs

LQ: What would they do, lick the burglars to death?

LQ: ...legit they'd probably try

KP: Greg said you live in the middle of nowhere though?

LQ: Well kinda yeah, our closest neighbor is a mile or two up the road

LQ: But we own a crap ton on land out here

LQ: About 325 acres give or take of just woods and stuff

LQ: There's a pond thing too that's kinda pretty idk

LQ: Lots of deer

LQ: And trees

LQ: And more trees

LQ: Did I mention the trees?

KP: Just go pick up Henry and get him off his lazy ass please and thank you

LQ: You got it! You won't have to worry about feeding him, we’ll give him dinner

LQ: You three are welcome to come for dinner too you want
LQ: There’s always enough to feed an army when we make dinner

KP: As much as I would love to take you up on that offer, if I don’t warn Greg about changes in meals he freaks out, so maybe another time?

LQ: That’s fine, then let me extend a different invitation

LQ: Every Saturday we always have a ton of friends over for dinner

LQ: Would you four like to join us then?

KP: Saturday could work, I’ll make sure Brett’s got the morning shift, and I’ll try and get off work… Thank you

LQ: Of course! And it’s every Saturday

LQ: Open invitation for whenever

LQ: I'll go retrieve the human/brick pile

Lathe stowed his phone back in his pocket, stepping into his boots and heading for their house. It was easy enough to find, parking in the driveway and ambling up to the front door, ringing the doorbell. He waited patiently, hearing some scuffling after a moment.

“What’s the password?” A rough voice was on the other side of the door.

...well, if this is the day I die, at least it'll have been amusing. “Fuck off, asswipe.” Lathe studied the door, surprised to see it open. ...well then, that actually worked. Lathe tried to keep a neutral expression as he saw Brett. ...I hate to say it... well, think it... but the man looks like a stoner... well shit. “Hi, my name’s Lathe, Henry knows my son Tucker. Can I talk to him please?”

Brett nodded, meandering over to the staircase and shouting up the stairs. “Hey gay boy! Your lover’s father is here!” He turned to Lathe, a wide grin on his face. “Want a drink? I got Bud light, Budweiser, Heineken, a few other local varieties.”

Lathe looked surprised, composing himself when Brett turned back around. “Uhm, no thank you, I don't drink.” I really shouldn't drink anymore, and it’s too early for alcohol… at least for me...

“Ah man, no fun… There he is.” He murmured after cracking open a can of beer, pointing to Henry, who was wearing khaki board shorts and a tank top. “There’s gay boy.”
“Uhm, thank you…” Lathe looked to Henry as Brett wandered off, smiling to him. “Henry, I have a really important mission for you. You need to do me a huge favor and get Tucker out of his room and out the damn house, please!” He’ll listen to you.

“Ummm… Okay? I guess… Sure, let me get socks for some shoes.” I guess I can go and get Tucker out of the house… Henry went off to get his socks, slipping them on and waiting by the door. “Do I need to bring anything?”

“Thanks, and not really. Just yourself and your phone. And you’re staying for dinner, by the way. …..actually… you managed to get that new Xbox, right? Bring that. And maybe your favorite controller. Don’t worry, there’s a reason. A pretty good one, too.” Lathe smirked. If you wanted anything signed, it’s probably be those.

Henry seemed confused as he shrugged and went back up to his room, taking a few minutes to pack it up. He came down with everything in a box, a smile on his face. “Okay, I’m ready.”

“Cool, let’s go, hm?” Lathe held the door open for him, waving to Brett and shutting the door behind him. He heard the lock click a moment after they left. The drive to the house was comfortably quiet, surprisingly enough, Henry taking over the radio. He got him in the house without incident, kicking off his boots. “So Tucker’s still upstairs, he kicked me out, so-”

“I got it.” Henry set the box down with care near the door, kicking off his shoes before scampering upstairs. His door is closed. …eh, in my house, it means jack shit. “Tucker, stop being a hermit and-” Henry opened the door and froze. Tucker’s wrists were cut, red parallel lines halfway up his forearm. “T-Tucker…? Fuck, are you okay?” Henry sounded really worried, stepping further into the room before Tucker held up a hand, stopping him. “Wh-Why?” Why the fuck are you cutting? Why the fuck are you cutting?

“Don’t you fucking dare tell anyone, I’m fine alright? What the fuck did you barge in here for?” It was closed! You’re supposed to knock! He seemed angry as he moved to clean up his razor blade, taking the towel and cleaning off the red droplets from his arms. “Close the fucking door! Jeez! Do you not know to knock!?”

“…..no… we never knock on doors in our house… we barge into each other's rooms so much we broke all the locks…” Yeah, I keep forgetting that’s not something everyone does… Henry shut the door, looking to him warily. “…if… if you really are fine, then… why? I don't understand….” What’s the point of it, then?

“‘Why’ what?”
"Why cut to fix a problem that you say doesn't exist?"

"Because I can, asshole, you don't know everything about me, so fuck off." Why are you even here. "How the fuck did you get here?"

"...your Dad came to get me... he asked me if I could get you out of your room and out of the house... I could probably do with being outside too, I guess..." The swearing and harsh tone didn't seem to phase Henry at all. "He made me bring my Xbox and a controller though, which I don't get... and apparently you people are feeding me dinner." Hey, I'm not complaining. I could use a nice meal...

"Uh, just go down in the fucking basement and you'll understand why.... Get out! " Tucker was furious as he pushed Henry out of his room and slammed and locked the door behind him. Shit! He knows! He fucking knows! He slumped down against the door, looking to his arm, seeing the red that still covered his arms, looking at the lines with a sigh. I couldn't help it... I kept cutting...

Henry looked back when Tucker locked the door, knocking on it, his voice laden with worry. "Tucker, please, stop doing it..." There wasn't any answer for a few minutes and Henry gave up, going downstairs, looking scared. I don't know what to do... he doesn't want me to tell anyone, but... I can't just let him do that! But... he'd get so mad at me... I'd never be able to come over anymore... and it's so nice here... and there's actual food here.... I can't stay quiet. Henry looked around, going around the house to find Lathe, seemingly out of sight. He stopped when he noted the woman with coppery hair in the kitchen, inspecting the scene before him. "...are you making stuff?"

"Are you staying for dinner?"

"Apparently..."

"Barbecue ribs, mashed potatoes, asparagus, apple pie and homemade vanilla ice cream. That's dinner, Hon."

"......you're a saint." Henry left her to cook, her laugh in his ears as he moved to the basement. He said a thing was down here... He stepped into the first studio room, stopping dead in his tracks as he saw Lathe and Eren helping someone with black hair with a shock of red hook up a bunch of computers on the table in a row, a camera facing the line of them. “...oh my god.” Henry had his hands over his mouth as the man turned to face him, nearly jumping up and down in excitement. “Oh my god!” You're MARKIPLIER!!11!!11!!1

Mark picked his head up as he heard an excited gasp. “What?” What’s worth the OMGing? Mark looked around the room. “Where’s the disturbance in the force?” Are you little dude’s friend?

Eren looked up with a smile. “Hi, Henry! How’re you doing kid?” Oh yeah, you’re a video game junkie…. Seeing Mark is gotta be like, really cool.

“...you're Markiplier.” Henry looked in awe, grinning. “I know you must have people fawning over you all the time but I’m just so excited!” Henry stepped into the studio, not sure if he was allowed to really approach him. ...you're Markiplier...

Mark smiled as he saw Henry, his smile following to his eyes. “So you’re little dude’s friend? Glad to meet you, I’ve heard you’re a video game junkie.” So you're name is Henry? Mark held his hand out for Henry, encouraging him to take it. Don’t be shy, I don’t bite... Much.

Henry shook his hand, still staring up at him with wide eyes. “U-Uhm… can I please have a hug?” Pleeeeееase?

Mark smiled even more. “Of course you can!” He quickly engulfed Henry in a bone crushing hug. Of course! I love hugs!

Henry laughed in disbelief as he suddenly found himself pulled into a crushing hug, hugging him back tightly. ...oh my god... I'm hugging Markiplier... I love my life... He smiled sheepishly when Mark let him go, shuffling his feet a bit. “Uhm, I have my Xbox and my controller... Uhm, is it okay if you please maybe sign them please?” I'll say please as much as I need to, I would be very okay with dying right now if you did. I'd be happy for the rest of forever.

“Sure, go get it, I’d love to sign that for you.” Mark was cheery as he looked around for Tucker, frowning a little bit. “Where’s little dude?” Did he not follow you? I thought maybe he’d come out if you were over.

“O-Oh, uh... he had to get washed up upstairs... he was a bit of a mess, so... but he’ll be down soon.” Henry looked nervous, glancing to Lathe before looking back to Mark and trying to smile, going back out to the living room to retrieve the box of stuff. He'd better come back downstairs soon... I hope he's not still... still cutting up there... He walked back into the studio room, seeing there was an array of Sharpies in a bin on one of the long tables, setting the box down. “Thank you so much for this…” It means a lot...

Lathe was suspicious when Henry tried to explain Tucker’s absence, silently slipping away from them after some time had passed and Mark was doodling all over Henry’s Xbox. He's taking a very long time... I have a bad feeling about this... Lathe came upstairs, listening through the door silently for a moment... no real movement... He heard a very quiet but pained sound, lightly knocking on the door, hearing Tucker jump at the sound, scuffling apparent. “Tucker? Tucker, is everything okay? You shouldn't be up here still, it's been awhile.” ....what's going on...

“Y-Yeah... I-I’m f-fine...” Please do not come in here, my arms won’t stop bleeding... Tucker looked at his arms and the long red streams rolling down the sides of his arms and onto his clothes, he had tears of fear rolling down his cheeks. I'm scared... I did too much too quickly... Please don’t come in! You'll beat me... You'll leave me alone to die... B-but... I'm scared. He let out a strangled whimper of pain as he felt the stinging sensation becoming numb. I...I....

Lathe was worried as he heard the quiet crying, his voice gentle. “Tucker, I'm really worried. Are you sure you're okay?” Lathe heard him say again that he was fine, though he could still hear the quiet crying. He sighed, reaching for his keys in his pocket. “I'm sorry, Honey. I'm coming in.” Lathe didn't give him time to protest before he slid the master key in to shove the tumbler aside, opening the door. His eyes were wide as he saw Tucker’s arms slashed up almost to his elbows, the boy frantically trying to stop the bleeding. ....fuck... “Oh my god.” Lathe immediately ran for his medic bag. That's a lot of blood... he cut himself... fuck... Henry must've barged in on him cutting... that's why he was so nervous... Lathe was back in under a minute, getting Tucker over to the desk, rifling for things in his bag while one hand moved through Tucker's hair, trying to soothe him. “It's okay, Honey, it's okay, I'm not mad at you. Just breathe, okay? We'll get you fixed up.” I'll help you fix this...

Tucker had tears running down his face as he watched Lathe come in, feeling the numbness creep up his whole arm. He shook his head, regretting it as it made his head spin and a nauseous feeling come to him. Why are you here? I'm getting blood everywhere... “N-No....” You'll regret helping me... I should've known that no one would want a monster like me, I should've done this sooner...

Lathe steadied him as he swayed, recognizing that he was losing too much blood. He's lost plenty... and it doesn't want to stop... “It's okay, Honey, this is for the best. Just keep your arm still, okay? I'll fix you up.” Lathe pressed gauze gently to the cuts, trying to staunch the bleeding. He couldn't do much else as Tucker silently cried, needing both his hands to keep the pressure up and get the bleeding under control. “It won't hurt so much in a bit, Hon, just stay cool.” Lathe went to get a damp cloth from the bathroom, very gently cleaning up his arm before adding more gauze over them, beginning to wrap up his arm firmly. “Almost done, Hon. Almost there.” Lathe pinned the wraps in place, moving to hug Tucker tightly when he was done. “....Honey... I'm so sorry... do you want to talk about it? What’s made you want to do this?” Lathe pulled back to look at him, worry etched into his face. What went wrong? I thought you were at least somewhat okay... I knew you had low self esteem, but... I didn't think you were cutting...

Tucker shook his head slowly and he leaned into Lathe’s chest, still shuddering as he cried. I... I can’t... I can’t tell you.... Tucker felt the sensation of guilt crash in his stomach all over again. I hate myself... I wish someone would want me... “h-hate.... I h-hate....” I can’t tell you, you'll just brush it off and tell me I’m fine... That’s what you always do. His hands were shaking as he traced over the lines under the wraps. Why did you wrap it....? I hate myself... I hate that I can’t control my temper.... I hate that I’m a pathetic fag, and that everyone agrees. I hate that you think I’m horrible, that you wouldn’t wish me on your worst enemy. You don’t even want me anymore.... “I w-wanna be..... A-alone....” His words were mumbled in Lathe’s shirt as he started to pull away from his arms. I just wish someone wanted me, and actually liked me for who I am... Everyone hates me.... I dug my own grave.... And even Eren’s new dog didn’t even realize I’ve been cutting.... I’m always all alone.... No one sees that I’m hurting inside.... I try and be strong and say I’m fine, because I know that no one really wants to be around me, but..... It hurts.... So much....

...he hates himself...? That much ...? “I don't think we can leave you alone now, Honey. I'm not gonna.” Lathe sighed as he weakly protested, holding him to his chest. “I’m sorry, but you can't be alone. I know you'll try to take the wrap off... and I don't want you to be by yourself up here right now. You're always alone...” Lathe stood with him, moving him to the bed so they could sit. “...and you don't have to be, you know. It's okay to exist outside of your room or the garage.” I can’t bring you downstairs right now, though... you're still a mess...

Tucker shook his head. “I-I’ll always be a-alone.... E-E-Even y-you said s-so....” You told me I’d have no chance of being adopted.... I’m all alone.... Whether I like it or not.... “A-And.... I’m not... I-I’m not good E-enough.... N-No one wants a fag.... No o-one wants a re-retard....” Tucker shuddered violently as Lathe held onto him. No one picks me... Ever ...

“What? I never said you’d be-” ...I was the one who had to tell him a bit after we took him in... how small his chances of being adopted were. “...Honey, come here.” Lathe laid down on the bed with him, pulling Tucker close. “I never said that you always had to be alone. If you're talking about when I told you what your chances of adoption were... that's completely different. Even when you're not adopted, you're not alone. Right now, you're not alone. There's a family in this house where you live, and you can be a part of it if you want to be. And you’re no ‘retard,’ and you're no ‘fag,’ so stop calling yourself that. You are whatever it is you are, and even if you might not get the best grades, you’ve got a real talent that could really get you somewhere if you went with it. ...I know it must really hurt to be the one nobody has seemed to want.” Lathe heard him sniffle, rubbing his back. “...but the night we found out you’d beaten up Jake, I made a decision. You remember what that was?”

“Y-Yeah.... You kept me, because you would’ve felt bad for giving m-me to anyone else... Because I have a temper, and I-I don’t know h-how to handle it... And I-I let my fear t-take over my r-rage because I couldn’t s-stop looking at guys..... I... I keep m-making mistakes, a-and I always try and be strong… B-because that’s what people want…….” Tucker broke down in sobs as he trailed off, his hands weakly grabbing Lathe’s shirt. I-I…. I can’t… I can’t do this…

“….that's not how I thought, when I made that decision…” Lathe gently ran a hand through his hair, thinking. “It’s okay to be gay, I know it's not something that you can just change… and it’s okay to make mistakes, because nobody can do everything perfectly all the time… but I didn't decide to keep you because I would've felt bad for the person who took you in-”

“But that’s what you fucking said ! How can I not think that’s what you think? No one wants anything to do with me…. Henry is probably only my friend because of Eren and all of his friends… And because of that, I’ve ruined his options of ever making friends…. No one wants to hang out with the fag at school, because I’ll just sue them for looking at me the wrong way! Eren’s new dog didn’t even realize that I was cutting, and neither did any of the other dogs! No one noticed anything…. And I… I can’t take this anymore, I’m not perfect in any aspect… And everyone… Everyone knows…. Everyone knows I’m not normal… And nobody wants anything that’s not normal…” Tucker was screaming at him in tears, his words slowly calming down as he leaned his head against Lathe’s chest, weakly smacking at him. “It hurts …. Because every decision I make is so…. Utterly wrong … And I know it is… I can never make the right decisions, and it always bites me in the ass… I just… I want to be able to fit in, and be normal, like other kids my age… and I can’t … you would think people wouldn’t care if you have parents or not, but once it got out that mine left me and didn’t bother to keep me, everyone judges me…. And I fucking hate it… I hate everything about it…”

Lathe let him vent, simply keeping him to his chest, quiet for a long moment. “…..Tucker, I'm so sorry…… and I'm so sorry for getting so mad at you forever ago… but I do know something else I'm sure I said… I told you that I thought it would be a better environment here. I meant that if you were going to learn to get better, to control yourself and to learn tolerance, that this was the place for you to do it. Anywhere else you’d still be frustrated with everything going on in your head… I thought that this would be a good place for you to grow up. …and you’ve grown up wonderfully… you’ve done so much better to be civil and accepting, you've found yourself a great pastime and wonderful talent, and you're working so hard trying to be independent, and I really respect all of that about you. I'm sorry, but when it comes to others… you can't control what they think about you. And I'm so sorry that your parents gave you up… but you're not alone in being left behind or hurt. Everyone in this house has something to say about that. But we’re all trying to learn to look to what we can change instead of wishing that we could change what we can't. You can't change what happened yesterday or the day before…. but we can control what happens today or tomorrow. …I just… I know it's been really hard to make friends, after what happened with Devon… but you just need to keep looking for someone that doesn't think you’ll sue them for saying hello… and until then, hold on to the friend you do have. Don't leave him downstairs by himself. You do so much to stay out of the picture because of what I said when I was so mad… and I can't change what I said… but I want you to know that I didn't mean we never wanted to see you again… you have changed so much, you're such a better person… we want you to be around… because so much these days it's like you don't even live here… you eat, you sleep, you play with your one lego set. You sometimes build in the garage but kick any visitors out. ….that's it. We miss you.” We really do...
“How could you miss what wasn’t welcome in the first place?” You were furious … And I was labeled as a problem child….. “And Henry can fend for himself, he’s better off without me, he’s isolated too, all because I was selfish and wanted someone to talk to… no one talks to him, not even Greg… And Greg’s his brother… Henry doesn’t need to be involved in my drama…..” He doesn’t… It’s not like he’s going to stay… No matter how much I would love to hear those three coveted words come out of his mouth, they never will. “I drag him down enough as it is, let him play with Mark… I don’t feel like going downstairs…” I’m a fucking mess, just wonderful …

“Tucker, we didn't welcome the homophobic, raging horse thief that you ended up being for a while. But we will gladly welcome the polite, civil, and talented you that you've grown to be. You needed to change- and that's not me trying to say 'you weren't good enough for us’ in some sort of conceited or selfish way, no. You did need to change because there were gonna be a lot of people who were different, and pitting yourself against the other is a recipe for disaster. But you've grown- you've become someone we loved knowing, ...but we don't know you or how you're doing or what you're up to because you're holed up in here or silent at dinner or yelling at us to go away while you're in the garage. We're not around you enough to understand you… and it's not selfish to want friends. We all need someone to talk to during school… anyone, to vent about dumb teachers or ask for homework ten minutes before it's due. But… I kinda get the idea that Henry’s home isn't the healthiest… it’s its own mess. But when he came into the studio at first, I caught his expression… he looked scared… and when Mark asked where you were, he became so nervous… I’m sure he was trying to find someone to tell about what you’d done to yourself… he was scared for you… he gives a shit about you, Tucker. That's worth holding on to.” He's a good kid… I'd hang onto him as a friend...

Tucker shook his head, his chest clenching as his words caught in his throat. I can’t tell him…. I can't tell him a single thing…. I’m a fucking coward too… Add that to the list of reasons why no one wants to hang out… He sat there, sniffling in Lathe’s arms, starting to rock himself a little, trying to calm down.

......Brett was… well, he wasn’t what I would think of when I thought of a responsible guardian… but he kept saying… “...Tucker, is there something you still need to tell me? Maybe about Henry?” ……..hm…… “I won’t be mad at you or judge you, Honey. Just tell me whatever you need to.” It's okay.

“W-When…. Y-your heart does t-that fluttery thing…. W-when you see s-someone…. W-what does i-it mean?” Please don’t tell me I’ve become attached so quickly .... I’ve been going years without getting attached to a person… Especially after I was returned the second time…

Lathe smiled, gently carding a hand through Tucker’s hair. Tucker’s got the feels… “That’s the same way I felt about Ieva since we’d started dating… you’ve got a crush, Hon… and it sounds like you’ve fallen pretty hard…” Aw…. Lathe looked down as Tucker instantly began shaking his head, trying to calm him down again. “Nono, Hon, it doesn’t always have to be what happened the first time… that wasn’t your fault, it was a serious anomaly… you’ve been around Henry a decent bit, really talked to him and are getting to know him… I think we would've realized by now what would happen when he's mad…. I mean, I've heard him yell in anger at the television and you two come out of it unscathed… …maybe not the controller, but you were fine. That sort of stuff just doesn't normally happen… and you don't have to tell him when you're the only ones home… but, I mean… do you think you have a crush on him? Be honest.” Please.

Tucker nodded, burying his face in Lathe’s shirt in shame. “I-I’m not gonna tell him….” I refuse to go through that again… “I don’t wanna get attached anymore…” Why does my heart exist? Just to keep me suffering? “My chest always feels so heavy ….” He grumbled as he slowly made fists before releasing them, trying to calm down some more and stop his horrendous crying. Henry can fend for himself… “I don’t wanna see him…”

Lathe cooed to him quietly, his voice soft. “Tucker, I know it’s hard… I really do, but you can't just abandon Henry because of this… he really likes you, and he likes coming over here… I know their family is in a rough patch, so it means plenty for him to have dinner here… I extended the Saturday night dinner invitations to them indefinitely today, you know… they're part of the extended family now… I think you should hang on to him still… even if you can't tell him right away… because he’s a good friend, and if and when you do end up telling him… he won't hate you for it. I just haven't seen anything to make me think otherwise.” Who knows...

“I’m not gonna tell him… And he’s never going to find out…” Tucker was quiet as he rubbed at his chest. “S-So y-you don’t want m-me to hole myself up?” He asked softly, finally looking up to Lathe, and this time showing the smallest flickering of hope. “It’s lonely… And my Legos don’t help….” It’s so boring … just like me and the rest of my life….

Lathe smiled to him, pecking his cheek. “I don't want you hiding in here forever, Honey… I don't want you to be a hermit… you need to come downstairs and at least socialize with the dogs a bit. And there's so much more to do and occupy yourself with… staying in here with one box of Legos… it's a long summer, Hon. …and it's okay if you don't tell him. Maybe you'll change your mind, or it'll happen on its own. …but for now, staying quiet is okay.” It'll be okay like that.

Tucker was silent, taking everything in, slowly becoming lax in Lathe’s arms as he started to finally trust him a bit better. I don’t have to hide anymore? Okay…. “C-can… Can I h-have m-more… Legos?” He murmured, his eyes going to meet Lathe’s for a second before looking away. Will you still get me some? I’m bored with the house...

“I'll get you a big thing of all kinds of random pieces.” Lathe smiled, pecking his forehead and letting him lay heavily on him. “Then you can build anything you want. …and maybe a few nice sets with actual instructions.” He looked down as Tucker looked up to him, unsure. “C’mom, let me spoil you. Please?”
Tucker was weary but soon nodded and held onto Lathe. “I-Is Henry still here?” Can you ask him to go home... I don’t want him to see me like this.

“He is, downstairs fanboying over Mark. I don't think we should send him home… if you still want a little bit to just calm down and chill, maybe wash up a bit or something, then head down, that's fine. But we can't leave him by himself all day.” God knows he needs supervision.

Tucker shook his head. “I don’t wanna see him...” I really don’t... I don’t think I can handle it, being with him now that I know I have a huge crush on him.

“...Tucker, I know it feels like it’s gonna be torture… but could you please give it a shot? I really don't want to make him just go home… so he’ll be at the dinner table anyway… and you're not getting out of dinner. ...look, if things really go south and you're about to break down, you can bail and I'll take care of it, okay? We’ll figure something out. ...but I guess you can choose.”

Tucker nodded, looking down to his legs where his jeans rubbed against his cuts. “C-Can you wrap my legs up too?” They sting, when my jeans touch them...I think the material is too rough...

Lathe looked down to his legs, worried. “I'll clean them up and wrap them, Honey. Here we go.” Lathe carefully eased them up, kneeling on the ground in front of Tucker as he sat on the edge of the bed, very carefully cleaning out and wrapping up his legs, wincing every time Tucker hissed in pain. It didn't take long before he was fixed up, Lathe looking back up to him. “…what's the verdict? You’ll come downstairs and try being around Henry? If I give you two something to do like chores or something you might not be able to think too much about it…. I dunno, it might distract you at least a little… but I don't want him abandoned down there.

Tucker nodded, looking down. “I-I can do the chores…. Let him play video games with Mark and Eren.” He’ll be happy… Tucker looked down a bit, moving to his closet to pull out his usual long sleeve flannel and his jeans. No one had noticed I was still wearing long sleeves.... Or long pants... Well, Dad might now...

Lathe stopped him, holding his arm. “I told Henry that his job was to get you out of the house. ...please, please try to do something with him. If you get to a certain point and you just can't handle it, then you can tell him you're just feeling very off and then flee. He'll understand I think because he kinda walked in on you cutting… but try, at least for fifteen minutes or something. There's enough space set up down there for four, five if we hook up my laptop. Try to join them, and if it doesn't work, you can leave. But you'll have Mark and Eren there too, so it's not just you two. Okay?” I think that'll work better.
“S-So chores? Or…..” You tell me to do chores with Henry, but then you tell me to go down and join them. I’m not sure what you want me to do… He made sure that all the buttons were closed to hide everything thoroughly, having done it so many times before. His eyes were full of different emotions as he looked to Lathe. I think I can go down now… My eyes are probably still red but I can’t help that…

“I was thinking that, but I forgot how quickly they were going to set up the computers for gaming. He's probably down there now with them playing something… I’d really appreciate it if you tried to socialize with all of them, okay? Really try. You can bail and do chores instead if you need to, which might get your mind off of it. I'm sorry I seem to be all over the place telling you what to do, just… video games with them, bail to chores if you can't. Is that okay?” Lathe studied his choice of clothes, thinking. Jeans and long sleeves… even buttoning the whole thing up… “...you've been wearing long clothes for months… how long have you been cutting?” It's a good way to hide it...

“New Years….”

Lathe moved to hug him, his voice soft. “I'm so sorry we didn't know, Honey… we didn't know…” Lathe pecked his cheek, gently leading him to the door. “Now let’s both go downstairs and be nice, okay? They’d all probably like to see you. Mark asked where you were.” Mostly because you and Henry are normally joined at the hip, but still.

Tucker nodded, making his way downstairs and into the kitchen to grab a bottle of water and weakly say ‘hello’ to Sharon. He then crept down the stairs silently, hearing the multiple curses flying from everyone’s mouth as he got closer to the studio. What are they playing? Tucker was silent as he slipped into the room and took a seat on the couch, watching them play rocket league from across the room. Ah, it looks like they’re all having fun… That’s good… His eyes turned to Henry, looking over the eye candy with a heavy heart. I’m not gonna tell him anything....
James groaned as the car stopped in the driveway. Fuck… “I feel nauseous…” He mumbled behind the mask over his face. “How long do I need to wear this mask again?” I know it’s so I don’t get sick from everyone else in the house…. But…. I don’t wanna wear it… It’s uncomfortable. James held his stomach as he slipped out of the car with Lathe. The boys are gone…. It’s quiet in the house…. Well I’ll be easier for me to sleep, my head hurts a little. Chemo fucking sucks, I feel like shit. We had to stay in Wichita until I felt okay to come home, God, I feel like I could throw up for ages…. And then sleep for just as long.

“For a while, Hon. You’ll get used to it. And we can't have you getting sick while you already don't feel too good, it'll really mess with your system.” Lathe got out of the car, the wind blowing his hair into his face. I need a haircut… it's getting really long… “C’mon, Hon.” Lathe helped James out of the car, letting him lean on his arm as they walked up and inside the house, the trees swaying in the breeze. It's been really windy lately… lots of tornadoes around the state… I hope we get lucky and don't get hit with one… I know we had the place built to withstand one pretty well given we’re in Kansas where this shit happens, but still… can't help but worry. Lathe brought James over to the couch where he could lay and watch TV and rest, Nene already nosing the other animals off to make room for him, trying to drag James’ favorite blanket over to the couch, freshly cleaned and folded over the arm of a nearby chair. “Nene’s getting the place all nice for you.” They chuckled as she gave up trying to drag the heavy blanket, instead sitting and looking to Lathe with her puppy eyes. “Okay, I'll move it for you.” Lathe had them on the couch and properly tucked in, handing over the remote. “I've got paperwork to do, but I'm right over in the kitchen, so just yell if you want stuff, okay?” Lathe pecked his forehead when he nodded, going to get his stuff gathered up and into the kitchen, the radio playing quietly, a habit when the tornado season really started. More paperwork… there’s so much stuff to do… Lathe opened one of the bank statements, smiling thankfully at the balance. Eren and Mark made so much on James’ day of the stream… hundreds of thousands …he’ll be set for his treatment and for whatever schooling he wants, and then some… I’m so glad… Lathe read over a few credit statements, writing various checks. Tucker let me get him all the Lego stuff he could ever want, he has a huge bin in his room with the miscellany and boxes of all sorts of stuff… He has to work on the desk though and clean up when he’s done, since Krampus can get in and eat the pieces if we’re not careful… he's gotten better about eating random shit, though, he hasn't licked the TV remote in two weeks! It's a new record. Eren’s doing the singing thing in Germany in a few days, too. Mercedes-Benz Arena in Berlin… the 17,000 tickets sold out within a week of scheduling it…. and it was so short-notice, only two months before the date of the show, tickets went on sale… We’ve already gotten like five calls on the home phone in the past week for venues trying to get ahold of him and book him for shows… it's ridiculous… Eren Yeager is back, and it’s good to say. …well, think. Lathe glanced up to the clock, trying to remember when the post office last emptied their post boxes. I think they do it at half past five… Ieva will be home around six thirty… that's a few hours… hm… Lathe was caught in thought when the song playing was interrupted, looking over to the radio.

“….and we are just getting word of a Tornado Watch for Sedgwick, Butler, and Greenwood Counties, nothing has touched down yet but we are watching cloud formations closely as a few could potentially become a serious threat to nearby residents. Winds are already picking up on the ground in excess of thirty or forty miles per hour and rising steadily-”
It was enough for Lathe to hear. He quickly shoved all the papers into their folder and into a cupboard, weighted with a paperweight. Those are important. Lathe ran upstairs, knocking on Tucker’s door, poking his head in. “Tucker, tornado warning. You know the drill, Honey, don’t worry. Get James, Jake and the dogs, I’ll take care of the animals in the field. I won’t be long.” Lathe watched him nod before running back downstairs, looking to James. “Honey, tornado warning. Tucker will help you downstairs to the safe room, okay? I’m getting the animals into the barn.” Lathe watching him nod and shift to sit up, running to get his boots and get Maisie before going out to the fields. The winds are picking up… “C’mon Maisie, help me get them inside.”

Tucker put all his toys away, making sure that Krampus was not in the room, running down the hall to Jake’s room and picking up the sleeping boy and getting him on his hip as he walked downstairs. He looked to Jake as he shifted in his sleep. “It’s okay honey, just go back to sleep….” His voice was soft as he carefully made it down the steps, looking to James. “I’ll be right back, I’ll take him down first.” He watched James nod before going to the basement and holding Jake as he shifted in his arms. You’re getting big…. I’m not gonna be able to carry you soon. Tucker went towards the door far down the hall in the basement taking the vase from the shelf in the hallway. Key, I need the key. He boosted Jake on one hip so he could get the key out, getting into the room with some difficulty before he set Jake on the cot in the small room. Okay, now James and then the dogs… Tucker had just made it back to the top of the stairs when he heard the sirens, his eyes widening. Fuck!

Lathe and Maisie had just gotten the cows in when he heard the sirens, turning and seeing Charlie still far out in the field. Fuck he’s still out there. “Maisie, get him!” You can run faster than me, and I need to get these stalls shut. Lathe worked quickly when Maisie bolted off, getting Charlie’s stall open and ready, Luna prancing a bit, distressed. Arya looked unsure and scared, Lathe barely able to keep her in the stall. Come on… Lathe waited for Maisie to return, hearing her bark and the clang of hooves second before Charlie trotted into the barn, Lathe immediately steering him into the stall and shutting it. That works. Lathe ran and heaved the barn doors shut, Maisie bolting off to the house. Lathe struggled to close them, managing to lock them and turning to run for the house, seeing far off from the open field opposite the house as a dark cloud swirled. Shit. Lathe bolted for the house, running upstairs to do a quick check for everyone, Blake whimpering from his dog bed in the nook. Everyone else should be downstairs… “Okay Honey, here we go.” Lathe moved to pick Blake up, bed and all, carrying him downstairs as the wind howled around the house, cooing to him as he whined with distress. “It’s okay, Honey, you’re safe.” Lathe got them down to the basement, Tucker waiting with the safe room door open, the door shutting behind him as he came inside. “Are we all here?” Lathe looked around in the dim light, counting kids and dogs. We’re all here… Lucifer, Delia…, Krampus, Blake, Nene, Maisie… Jake, Tucker, James… yeah, we are. “All right, let’s just try to chill, okay? All we can do now is wait.” Lathe sat down on the floor against the wall with Blake, all of them huddled together as the wind seemed to grow louder. They could hear some crashing outside, the sound of wood breaking and a crash above them, making them wince. That sounded like glass… It was a while before it started to quiet down, Lathe turning on the small battery-powered radio once they could finally hear. …can we come out now? They listened for the news that it was over, relieved when the message came over the air that they could. “Okay, lets go see what the damage is.” Lathe carried Blake back upstairs, letting him go back to napping in the downstairs no for a change of scenery, looking around as they walked. Nothing too bad, things look okay… oh. Lathe stopped when he turned to go to the backyard, a huge branch still stuck in the large back window overlooking the fields, more branches littering the yard. Another stick was on the floor, smaller and surrounded by glass, the small window over the sink broken as well. “Okay, stop moving wherever you all are, there's broken glass everywhere.” Lathe pointed to them, stopping them before they could go anywhere. “Stay put, I'll get you shoes since I still have my boots on.” Lathe retrieved them their glass-free shoes, going to sweep up the glass before inspecting the rest of the house. We can't get our feet all cut up... He just stared at the huge branch in the window, shaking his head. Thank god we have good tornado insurance... that's a huge-ass window and it'll be a bitch to replace... the sink window, not so much, but still. Lathe shoved at the branch with the end of his broom, wincing and covering his face with his arm when it finally fell, breaking off more glass in the process. Ugh... “I’ll get the packing tape...” Lathe got rid of the glass into the trash before covering up the gaping holes with clear tape, managing to hold the thing together. He went outside to clean up the glass from the patio, disposing of that before taking a look around the property, Tucker having decided to join him. “There are branches everywhere... a lot of trees broke, but they were pretty old... the roof is kinda okay, but...” Lathe picked up a stone, throwing it at the roof, watching it tumble down and take a loose shingle with it to the ground. “…yeah, that should get fixed.” A good roof is kinda important.

Tucker nodded, looking around to all the downed trees. “I’ll take Charlie out and the chainsaw and get rid of everything in the turnout first, then work on the rest of the field...” That'll keep me occupied... At least for a little while.

“That’s a good idea. Anything that's good for planks you can haul over to the big pile next to the garage, but a ton of this shrapnel can go over here for firewood and stuff. There’ll be plenty of it, and we can cut stuff to better sizes and maybe sell out front, since there's so much of it. We’d never use so much, it’d rot out here first. Maybe there's enough good wood here to build a treehouse or something,” Lathe smiled, thinking. I was thinking having one of those would be cool. James might like having one for when he feels better... he likes climbing stuff, so... “But either way, we’ve got our work cut out for us.” They ambled around to the front where the damage wasn’t as bad, and Lathe sighed when he saw the garden was so torn up. I'll have to replant everything.... again... “I don't think anything too serious happened, though... well shit, I'm damn lucky.” Lathe looked with wide eyes over to where the cars were, large branches having tumbled just feet from them. “If they’d gotten hit with big branches, we’d’ve had a real problem.” We kinda need those cars.

Tucker shrugged. “We would’ve figured it out... I doubt it would’ve been that bad.” His eyes shifted to Ieva’s truck as she pulled into the driveway, parking where she could before hopping out and racing over to Lathe. What happened?

Ieva looked like she was ready to cry as she came over to Lathe, wrapping her arms around his neck. Oh thank god, you’re alright.... You're all okay.... “I-It went right over the house....” I was so worried ...

Lathe hugged her tightly, his hand going through her hair soothingly. “It's okay, we got all the animals in and everyone got down to the safe room, we’re all fine. A few broken windows and loose roof shingles, but we’re all safe. Don't cry, Honey, we’re all okay.” Lathe turned his head, catching her lips for a sweet kiss, trying to reassure her. We're all fine, we're all okay. It's all okay.
“Oh thank god, I was so worried that you guys weren’t home yet and that Jake and Tucker were home alone when it happened….” Oh my god, I panicked in the office because I thought the kids were alone …. Ieva took a deep breath, calming down a bit as she looked to Tucker a soft smile on her face. I’m so glad they weren’t alone…

Lathe shook his head, smiling faintly. “It was a bit close, though- we weren't home for more than half an hour… I’m just grateful that you took over getting everyone into the basement so well. You did a good job, Tucker. I nearly forgot though that Blake needed to be carried downstairs. And Maisie was very good at getting the animals in. I'm just glad things went as smoothly as they did.” Lathe pecked her cheek, resting his cheek on her shoulder, still holding onto her. “I'm glad you're okay.” …the tornado went right over us… so, when I saw that dark cloud… that was the tornado. …well shit.

Ieva smiled holding onto him still. “How does the backyard look? Are any of the fences broken?” That would need to get fixed first.

“I didn't see if it did, but there’s a ton of wood everywhere… well, at least we have plenty of wood to replace any broken fencing. We still need to check on the animals, but I think they'll be okay. I made sure everything was locked up tight.” That barn is sturdy as hell, it'll be fine. It looked unscathed from the porch. “We should go look- come with.” Lathe still had an arm around her middle, walking with her and Tucker around the back of the house again, tracing the fencing with his eyes. “…a couple places got knocked down, but only one spot got smashed… the one big tree that we left near the fence because it made good shade for over there actually split… half of it is now on the fence… that’ll need replacing, but the rest can just get hammered back into the ground easy enough. That’s your new project, Tucker.” Fencing. “Let’s hope they're not all freaking out.” Lathe walked them over to the barn, unlocking the door and pulling it open. The animals were mostly quiet, the only real difference being that light spilled in from the ceiling in one spot, the roofing panel torn off. Hm. “That panel’s probably on the other side of the barn.” They went around the side, seeing it stuck in some underbrush at the edge of the forest. “Yep, there it is.” They checked on the chicken coop, the chickens a bit ruffled up but otherwise okay. “Alright, that's that. I’m going to get that tree limb off the back porch and then hammer that panel back onto the barn.” That needs doing. Lathe looked over his shoulder as he heard a whinny in the distance, shocked to see a white horse with black splashes all over their legs and forehead come trotting over the street, wearing a halter with the metal clasp for a lead broken off. “Whoa!” Lathe moved carefully, trying to get the horse to stop, holding up his hands. The horse slowed as it saw him, stopping and watching him warily as he approached, gently petting their neck. “Now who are you?” He looked over their halter, seeing a metal tag on the side of the halter, reading the tag. “Maximus?” Lathe noticed the horse respond to the name, standing a little more still, attentive. “Good, good.” He looked them over, seeing a number written on the horse’s side with grease. “There’s a phone number on you, good. It's the same on the tag. Let’s see if we can’t find out who owns you.” Lathe pulled out his phone, petting the horse with one hand and keeping them in place as he dialled, grateful that the cell service was still up. Alright, let's see if we can work this out. He called the number, waiting patiently for someone to pick up, speaking when the line picked up. “Hello, I have your horse Maximus here. He seems to have broken loose of his lead.” That part of the halter broke off, the metal ring looks worn…
“Oh thank god, I thought he was still in the barn, thank god… Where are you?” The man on the other end seemed extremely relieved to hear that Maximus had been found.

“104 Rosewall Avenue, Trost. How far are you? We’ve got a trailer and could bring him if you still need to get stuff in order where you are. We’re mostly fine here.” Not much to do of super-great important, just order windows and get the roof fixed, then put the fence up again. It'll take a day to arrange all that, most.

“Well, I’m in Sedgwick County, but I have a problem....”

“What’s wrong?” I can't just tell this isn't gonna be good...

“My barn was destroyed three days ago, and I’m still missing eight horses… We had the F-3 tornado roll in....”

“Oh shit, that's bad… uh, if you’ve got nowhere to put him, we can board him here for a while, there's plenty of space… but that's terrible ...” Eight horses missing...

“Well I’m glad that my list is down to eight.... It was ten this morning, we found one in the rubble and now Maximus is found.... I would much appreciate it if you could board him, do you have any experienced riders? Who would be able to ride him around? He needs constant exercise.”

“My son is the most experienced of us, but he’s in Germany… one of our friends boards her horse with us, I'll talk to her... if not, I'll always be around, I can ride fairly well.”

“Thank you, and it could be very possible that there will be more around where you are now? Maximus was the herd leader.... Most of the horses would've followed him.”

“We own over three hundred acres around here, and he came from a flat open field across the street… if someone tried to follow him, we’ll see them. I wouldn't doubt it.” Lathe looked to Tucker, nodding to the barn. “Tucker, go get a halter and a lead, would you? We’re going for a walk.” I wanna go see if there are any other horses in sight around front. “We’ve got plenty to do outside, and we’ll be on the lookout for any more. I have the feeling they might look for somewhere people are...” Lathe handed Tucker the phone on speaker when he came back, starting to change Maximus’ halter, careful not to spook him. “We’ll take him for a walk out front, see if he notices anything or if anything notices him.” They might...

“Thank you very much, the horses are very well behaved, if you find anymore you’re welcome to text me a picture of them using the same number, they all have grease on their sides, and almost all of them are white…. Oh um, my name is Zachary by the way, I don’t think I asked for yours.”

“Lathe Quo. Nice to meet you, Zachary.” Lathe smiled, starting to lead Maximus to the front, the horse easily following him. “He is very well-behaved, I must say. And we’ll be sure to let you know the second we find anyone else.” Lathe led him to the front yard, looking over the field, his eyes tracing the edge of the forest in the distance. C’mon… there’s another one of you out there somewhere...

“Thank you very much Lathe, I need to go and look for more animals as well as people, thank you very much.” With that the man hung up, and Maximus raised his head as he heard something, looking all around, finally letting out a loud whinny.

Lathe looked around as Maximus whinnied, looking over and seeing a white body in the woods to their left. There’s one. “We don’t have any more leads…” Lathe spoke as they came into the yard, walking over with the same number greased onto their side, their lead missing as well.

“I can go get Charlie and the rope?”

“Good idea, Tucker. Go do that, and grab the bag of carrots we keep out there.” Lathe held out his other hand for the horse, gently petting their neck as well. “Easy, hello there… Belle. Lovely name. Easy, girl.” Lathe calmed her, waiting for Tucker to return. Both horses turned to look as Tucker rode Charlie out, moving Belle towards him a bit. The two horses sniffed at each other before just looking at each other, chill with the situation. Belle didn’t fight when Tucker tied her to Charlie, Lathe sighing with relief. Good, she’s not fighting or anything. “Tucker, let’s get her and Maximus into a corral. Any other horses should gravitate over here if they followed Maximus at all.” That should work.

Tucker nodded, turning Charlie with the reins, looking all around with the higher vantage point. “White? We’re looking for white?” His voice was concerned as they were crossing the street, seeing a much smaller yearling gravitate towards the two larger horses. Well, there’s another… I think?

“Yeah- oh, there’s another. Hey.” Lathe held out a hand to the smaller horse, gently petting their neck when they came close to Maximus. They're very comfortable around us, which is fortunate. “And your name is… Lilly. Hello.” Lathe led her towards the corral with them, herding them all in through the gate. Lathe let Tucker back out with Charlie before shutting it, letting the horses wander around their new home for the moment. “Okay, that’s three. So there are still six missing. I’m gonna go get the mallet and put the fence back up that borders this corral, part of it fell over there, so to keep them from wandering off, I’ll do that.”

“Well, they’re in a corral taller than their heads, I’ll get them some hay and a water trough.” That should help them. Tucker went to go out Charlie back in the barn and get what he needed to give them. They’ve all got to be starving… We should have Hanji come and look at them…

Lathe nodded, looking to Ieva. “Uhm, do you think you could try to find someone to come and fix that?” Lathe pointed to the back window, held together with clear tape, a large branch still sprawled across the back porch, the furniture all tipped over.

Ieva’s eyes widened as she saw the branch. “Uh, yeah, I’ll see what I can do about that, and I’ll start making dinner for the five of us.” I can do that, I’ll let you guys handle the horses…

Lathe smiled, kissing her softly. “Thanks Hon. I’m glad you’re home.” …today isn’t gonna go out easy. Lathe smiled as she pecked his cheek, heading for the house. He went to the front of the house, going to get the mallet. He left, looking back out of the field, his eyes widening as he saw three white figures. Three of them in one clump? Lathe set down the mallet, grabbing a length of rope and starting for the field. He was still quite a few yards away when he slowed, thinking. …those aren’t horses… His eyebrows shot up when they turned to him, hearing a distinct ‘Baaaa!’ …they’re sheep… what the fuck do I do with sheep? How does one sheep? Lathe approached them nevertheless, tying a loop into the end of the rope, trying not to scare them off as he came close. He reached out for one, letting them sniff him before it turned, letting him pet it’s head and look at it’s collar. There’s the phone number again… “Okay, let’s get you all to our place and fed.” Lathe managed to string them together, leading them across the field to their house. He just shook his head when he finally got to their backyard, Tucker looking at him incredulously. “I found sheep.” Lathe shrugged, moving them into a separate corral next door to the horses. He found himself googling what sheep could eat, assembling feed for them from what was in the barn. He came back to find them happily munching on the grass near the horses, seemingly more content to be around familiar animals. …I forget that sheep like lots of grass. Lathe made sure they had food and water anyway, going back to get that mallet. We still need that. By the time dinner was ready, they’d acquired another horse, two more sheep, a pig, and a goat. This guy has a lot of animals… Lathe took pictures of all of them, sending them to the man. “I’m gonna need to go to the store after this and buy extra feed. There are a lot more mouths out there to feed than planned.” We have a small flock of sheep now.….idk, okay I guess.

“Can you call Hanji? She should check all the animals… And I think Eren made sure there was enough feed in the storage room.” There is enough hay for the horses…. And it’s warm enough that they won’t need any blankets.
“I will- still, though, his barn is destroyed and unusable, so we might have these animals for a while. I just want to make sure they all stay fed and safe. We have a small flock of sheep, and they’re fine with grass and water, but the given new horses need more than that, and so does the pig and goat.” We’ve got quite a few. “And more might show up during the night and hang out, so I think I’ll leave a water trough and hay just outside the corral for overnight.” Just in case.

Tucker nodded, looking to the trough inside the corral, moving to go get another one to set outside the large corral. “Can you go get Henry? So he can help get the turnout cleared quicker?” It needs to get done, and he’ll help... He’s been texting me non-stop since he saw me cut... And it’s starting to get hard to ignore it...

“Yeah, I’ll get him. I’ll see how they held up too, though I get the feeling the rest of town didn't get hurt too much.” Lathe jumped as his phone suddenly vibrated, looking to it with concern and answering quickly. “Hey Hannah. What’s up?” Now what's the damage?

“Hey... Um... Did you get more animals? And did they get out?”

“...no, and all our animals are still in the barn... wait, what kind of animal? Is it a horse with a number greased onto it’s side? We’re looking for those.”

“No... there's a sheep in the front yard just eating the grass and Sharon's outside trying to get it to stay put and herd the sheep that's decided the grass in Casper and Scotty's yard looks tastier, and Casper’s like holding a stick and trying to get it to stop eating the plants in the garden and Scotty’s all confused as hell.” There was a shuffle of the phone. “Wait... Maverick!..... And now the sheep are chill with my son petting them....”

...well shit. “Yeah, there’s this guy whose barn got destroyed in that F-3 tornado a few days ago… five of his horses, five of his sheep, a pig and a goat all kinda wandered into our yard today because they just kinda ran free. We’ll come get them, I needed to retrieve Henry anyway. Might as well make the rounds with the trailer and see if there are any more animals to round up wandering the streets. ...and yeah, they're all very chill, even the horses. Very well-behaved.”

“Okay, so um... What do we do? Like should we just like try and hold them? Maverick is petting them...” Hannah stepped out onto her porch, watching the sheep graze.

“Yeah, they like pets. Just keep them in sight, okay? They shouldn't do too much wandering once they've found grass they like. Just hang on, I'm coming with the trailer. Whatever you do, don't lose track of them. I'll be right there.” Lathe hung up, looking to Tucker. “Wanna go for a ride?” I could use some help sheep wrangling.
“Should we bring Maisie?” I mean, she’d a herding dog, so why not? He nodded, setting down the bale of hay he put out. That should attract some animals.

“Yeah, she’s good for getting them rounded up if they don’t wanna move. And just in general.” Lathe ran into the house to grab the keys, looking over to where Ieva was cooking. “Honey, Tucker and I need to bring Maisie and the trailer out into town. A few sheep turned up in Sharon and Casper’s yards. We’re gonna see if there are other animals wandering around before they get hurt or hit by a car or get too lost. And we’re dragging Henry back to get the wood shrapnel under control, so he’ll be eating over probably.” That’s the situation, pretty much.

“Okay, I will, does pasta sound okay for tonight?” I can make enough and Jake will help make the good kind. She smiled, kissing his cheek happily, seeming a bit more bubbly with Lathe…

Lathe smiled, moving to kiss her on her lips, holding her close for a long moment. I love you. “That sounds wonderful.” Lathe kissed her cheek, smiling warmly. “We’re gonna get going before the sheep eat all of their plants.” Lathe let go of her waist, moving to the front door, waving. “We’ll be home soon, Honey. If we take forever to get back you all can eat without us. We won’t make you starve. And it could take a while if it turns out a ton of sheep ended up in town.” We have no idea how long we’ll be out there...

Ieva nodded. “Alright, I’ll make sure that you guys will have enough, now go get the trailer hitched on my truck.” She smiled, handing over the keys to him. You’ll need the horsepower.

Lathe nodded, thanking her and taking the keys. He moved out the front door, going to get the trailer hitched to the truck, Tucker helping him as Maisie sat in the cab, ready to go. Lathe shooed her in between him and Tucker, getting the truck turned around and heading for town, both of them keeping a careful eye out for more animals. He sighed as he saw a few in Armin’s yard, attracted to the vegetables that he still kept littering the grass, the blonde taking pictures from his porch. “Oh Christ, there's a bunch of them.” Lathe parked on the side of the road, hopping out and letting Tucker open the back of the trailer. “Hey Armin! There's a guy a county over looking for these. We've collected quite a few ourselves.” He grinned, looking over the bunch of them. You've got one of his pigs too… less animals to track down.

Maisie stood at Lathe’s heels, waiting for the command to round them up. There are more… I wanna herd…. She stood patiently awaiting instructions.

Tucker was careful not to spook the sheep as he opened the back of the large trailer. Why we have such a large trailer… I will never know, maybe for multiple horses? Even though we really only have three? This thing will fit like…. Ten…
Armin shook his head as he put his camera down. “I had no idea where the hell they came from…. I got enough pictures of them munching….” They kinda gravitated towards the food….

Lathe laughed, looking to Maisie. “Alright, girl, get them in the trailer.” Lathe motioned towards the sheep, Maisie going around the flock and starting to lead them right towards the trailer. “You know that F-3 tornado a county over a few days ago? It destroyed this guy’s barn, Zachary. We have five of his horses and a bunch more miscellaneous animals. We’re trying to find as many as we can before they get hit by cars or even more lost. We know where two others are besides these now.” Lathe shrugged one shoulder. “I never thought I’d be doing this kind of thing…. rounding up some guy’s lost sheep… idk, life is weird enough that it just about seems normal.

Armin nodded and watched Maisie herd all of them into the trailer with ease. Well, that’s amusing to watch. “Well, she’s good at what she does, should I alert you if I see any mystery horses?” The next county over is just really down the street anyways, I’m surprised it took them this long….

“Yeah, please. They’ll have a big phone number written on their sides with grease, that’s how you know they’re the ones. We’ll come back and get them if you call. Thanks, and you might want to make sure you keep plenty of vegetables out for a few days. It’s better than the rest getting lost.” Lathe grinned, looking back when he heard the click of the gate, Maisie sitting obediently next to Tucker as he locked the door. “Alright, we’ll at least be a street over. Thanks, Armin. We’ll see you around!” Lathe waved, hopping back into the truck with Maisie and Tucker, getting them going to Maria. Lathe chuckled as he saw Casper and Sharon petting the sheep, the latter holding Maverick on one hip, the toddler petting the sheep as well. Scotty inspected the sheep with a confused look, and Hannah was absently petting one, looking around in confusion. Yep, more sheep. “More wildlife to wrangle.” They hopped out again, ambling up. “I see you’ve found more sheep.”

“Yeah, and they ate my plants.” Sharon looked over to the garden dejectedly. “I spent a good amount of time on that…. at least they make for decent lawn mowers.” She shrugged, smiling.

Hannah chuckled, moving to try and usher the sheep towards the trailer. “Um… How do we get them in the trailer?” Honestly I didn’t even hear them making a sound until Sharon told me we had unexpected visitors… These hearing aids do jack shit!

Tucker came around the back of the trailer, opening it up and watching the sheep eye the exit until Maisie barked and kept them in. She then ventured to Lathe’s side, waiting to be instructed again. “We use a dog…”

“I choose you, Maisie!” Lathe gestured and Maisie was off, Maverick petting the sheep goodbye before they were herded to the trailer, soon inside. “Maisie used ‘Herd.’ It's very effective.”

“I could kill you with this stick for that.” Casper couldn't help laughing, clutching his stomach. That was awful and great at the same time.

Hannah looked at everyone with confusion. “What?” What happened? She watched as Maverick went off to Maisie and pet her. God he’s adorable... But he’s walking ... and he’s only one and a half!

“It’s a Pokemon reference that I should get killed with a stick for making.” Lathe smiled, tilting his head when Hannah just stared at him, speaking very clearly. “You can't hear me, can you.”

“She hasn't been able to hear anything at all for the past few days, which is a bit disconcerting. I’m the one getting up at five in the morning again to feed the tiny human, which is necessary if he wants to live long enough to be a big brother.”

Lathe smiled. “You two planning on another tiny human?”

“Weeeelll... let’s just say if we didn't want another one, which isn't the case, too late.” C’mon, you’re smart. Figure it out.

Lathe thought for a second before grinning widely. “Wait.” He watched her nod excitedly, beaming. “That's wonderful!”

“Waitwaitwait.” Casper held out his hands, stopping everything and looking to Sharon. “.......I get to be the Godmother, right?” Please?

Scotty just looked to Casper, shaking his head. “Are you ever gonna consult me on things like this?” He raised a hand to his temple. Geez, we’re getting the dates for the wedding…. And you’re already pestering me about children...

“Are you ever gonna give me children?” Casper regretted it the second it came out of his mouth, paling. “Shit, Scotty-” Fuck...
Scotty’s eyes set in anger, turning around, getting in the house and slamming the door behind him.

You always use that phrase! And no, I can’t! If you wanted children you shouldn’t’ve said yes!
Casper moved after him, knocking on the door when it slammed shut, hearing him lock him out. “Scotty! Scotty, I'm so sorry, I didn't think, please open the door!” He gave up when he was met with silence, the front shades dropping. He sighed, resting his forehead against the door, his face in his hands. “...I keep fucking up like that…” I know he doesn't like hearing it…. But I keep fucking saying it without fucking thinking …

SO: You have the key in your pocket, dumbass, and don’t even think about coming inside right now.

SO: I swear I will throw something at you.

CP: Scotty, I just

CP: I'm a fucking dumbass who's mouth doesn't consult with their brain

CP: I'm sorry I keep fucking saying that kind of shit

CP: I didn't even fucking think and I didn't //want// to say it

CP: It just

CP: Happened

CP: I won't bug you and come inside but just

CP: I don't want you to hate me

CP: Because this is like the third time this week I did this shit and I feel fucking awful about it and I don't know why I keep bringing this shit up when we don't even have a fucking wedding date

CP: I just

CP: I keep fucking up and I know sorry doesn't mean shit but

CP: I'm sorry

SO: …. I’m sleeping alone tonight…

SO: And it’s the fifth time this week, and it’s only Thursday…

SO: Go find more sheep, do something you want to do…

SO: and if you wanted kids, you should’ve said No…

CP: ...you do understand that we’ve never had the ‘kids’ conversation

CP: I know you hate those damn remarks but because we’ve never talked about this shit
CP: When Sharon had Maverick all you did was stew and make me leave you the hell alone with your thoughts

CP: But I legitimately do not know if you're upset because you can't give me biological kids

CP: And I don't really care if they're not biological to both of us or even either of us

CP: But I don't even know if you mean kids in general

CP: I don't know.

CP: And the first time I said it I was kinda trying to be playful and try to get you to talk

CP: And it blew up in my face

CP: But I can't stop saying it

CP: I think because I don't know how else to try and start this sort of discussion

CP: and if I'm going to marry you

CP: and I really, really want to

CP: I need to know if you're okay with kids

CP: ...because it's really important to me.

SO: The reason I hate you saying that is because I know that you want kids, and I don’t want to deny you your happiness....

SO: But I don't want any....

SO: That’s why I get pissed off, because you keep reminding me about how you’re so much more likely to leave if I tell you I don’t want kids!

Casper’s fingers froze over the keys, silently staring at his phone. .......you don't want any kids.

SO: I understand if you want to leave but I’ve been angry with myself because I can’t even picture myself having any kids....

SO: I really should’ve told you before you said Yes....

SO: We could always break it off, because I know that it’s really important to you.

CP: I don't wanna break it off with you...

CP: It is important to me, but I don't want to lose you...

CP: I’ve spent so long loving you and to lose you now I just...
CP: ...I need to think about this…
CP: ...because I don’t know what to do…
SO: I figured as much… I’m off tomorrow, so I’ll take the couch tonight.
SO: I’m sorry you had to find out you had a choice to make like this…
SO: I was planning on telling you, but…
SO: you know how I am with words and emotions.
SO: They aren’t that great…
CP: Scotty, we both know you don’t exactly fit on the couch CP: and
CP: I don’t want to sleep alone
CP: I don’t want to have to get used to that CP: Can we just try to have dinner and sleep in the same bed like we always do?
CP: I just
CP: I don’t want things to change
CP: And I know you can’t really words…
CP: It seems like it’s easiest to send someone a text instead of tell them..
CP: You can think before you send something
CP: And we all know I can’t think before I speak, so…
CP: …but, I love you and I don’t wanna lose you…
CP: and I need to think about this
SO: I love you too…. Okay I think I busted my knuckles enough….
SO: you can come in…
SO: I’ve calmed down…
CP: Wait what

Casper put his phone away in his pocket, fumbling for his keys before coming inside, not bothering with his shoes and walking through the house. “Scotty? Where- oh my god.” Casper stopped when he saw Scotty in the kitchen, his knuckled bruised and bloody, the marble counter smeared with blood. “…did you punch the counter?” Casper moved to his side, looking over his hands gingerly.
“Oh my god… we need to clean you up…” Casper moved to turn on the tap, gently tugging Scotty over to run his hands under the water and wash away the blood, gently cleaning out the cuts. That looks terrible...

Scotty nodded, letting Casper clean him up. “I’m sorry, I snapped….” I haven’t punched anything in awhile, maybe I should get a punching bag and hook it up…. “What do you wanna do for dinner?” His smile was weak as he struggled to make small talk. You probably hate me… I don’t want what you want...

Casper looked up to him as he gently patted his knuckles dry, smiling faintly. “Do you want to go out to dinner? Just you and me? Or would you rather order out and watch dumb movies together on the couch?” I don’t want things to change… I've spent too long loving you to give you up too easily... I'm not gonna let us fall apart so easily...

“Where do you wanna go out?” Anywhere you wanna go… I need to make it up to you, I know kids have been your ultimate goal in life… And I feel horrible for stealing it from you… Scotty leaned his head down, resting his forehead against Casper’s. I fucked up...

Casper let his eyes shut, leaning into the touch, one of his hands moving to cup the back of Scotty’s neck. “Hm, I dunno… I’m okay with anything as long as you’re there.” Casper brushed their lips, kissing Scotty softly. I love you... so much...

Scotty had his eyes closed as he let Casper brush their lips together, though soon he leaned in more and kissed him deeper. He savored the feel of Casper’s soft lips against his own, his hands moving behind Casper and pulling him close to his own body. I’m so sorry... Please stay ...

Casper made a quiet sound as Scotty pulled him close, his own arms winding around him, gripping the back of his shirt. He tilted his head, easily giving Scotty access, feeling his tongue tangle with his. I wanna keep you... I don't wanna think about leaving... about us breaking it off... I wanna think about living with you forever... and having you to hold onto all the time...

Scotty’s hands wandered down to Casper’s ass, gripping him gently and lifting him onto the counter so he wouldn’t have to crane his neck. His hands were gentle as he touched Casper, almost as if he would shatter with the slightest touch. I.... I don’t wanna lose you, not after you said Yes... Because you're probably the only one who would say Yes to me as it is.... His kisses were gentle and slow, his tongue dancing with Casper’s, a soft sigh leaving his lips as his arms caged Casper on the countertop.

Casper’s legs instinctively moved to wrap around Scotty’s waist, their hips level, whimpering quietly when he moved forward and they rubbed against the other. I… I don’t want to have to settle for anyone else… His hands slid under the fabric of his shirt, feeling the warm skin underneath. I wanna keep this… He made a tiny needy noise as Scotty’s hands ran from his sides to his thighs, teasing him. I want you to have me… I want to know you still love me… I need you to remind me of that… Casper’s hands fist ed in his shirt, tugging him closer when his hands moved closer to his nether, whimpering into their kiss and hoping he understood. He sighed deeply as Scotty picked him up, leaning heavily onto his shoulder as he carried him upstairs, his hands running over him lovingly. Thank you… He didn’t resist when Scotty laid him on the bed, his own eyes loving as Scotty crawled on top of him, relishing in the feeling of hot lips on his and hands all over his body. Please… love me…

Scotty lowered himself down on top of Casper, his lips trailing from Casper’s down his jaw and towards his ear, kissing sweetly and sucking gently, careful not to leave anything visible. Hmm…… You’ll allow me to do this, but then what? Scotty simply shook his head, moving to the other side of Casper’s head, trying to rid himself of the thought. I think he’ll stay, hopefully…. But I know we’re gonna have to compromise and get kids anyways…. Fuck it, I should really just let him do whatever the hell he wants…. You know ‘Happy wife gets you a happy life?’ Why haven’t I just given in to his demands? Scotty’s hands trailed down Casper’s sides, his own hand working his way under and his long fingers splayed out over Casper’s stomach. I’m sorry that you wanted kids so much…. And I can’t give you any…

Casper reached up as he kissed at his neck, one hand tangling in his short hair, gently keeping him in place at his neck. Quiet moans and sighs left his lips as Scotty sucked at his skin, letting him unbutton his dress shirt and push it off his shoulders, raising his arms as the tank top came off too. He quietly whimpered as Scotty kissed down his neck, his lips latching onto a perky nipple, teasing the bud with his tongue. His legs wrapped around his middle, his fingers gripping his shirt. More...

Scotty was quiet as he listened to Casper moan, a soft smile creeping on his face. At least you’re enjoying it. His hands raked over Casper’s open skin, enjoying the feeling of his warm flesh. “I’m sorry….” He murmured against his skin as he very carefully made his way to the other nipple, sucking on it and listening to Casper’s response. God, you sound heavenly .

“I-It’s… nnggh…..” Casper squirmed under him a bit, holding his head to his chest, mewling as Scotty lapped at his buds. I don’t wanna think about it… b-but… “…n-not… ……..n-nevermind….” Casper clammed up, his eyes screwed shut. I don’t wanna think about it… I don’t wanna turn you off… I don’t wanna… but I can’t help thinking about it...

Scotty stopped picking his head up, and staring at Casper’s face. “Casper… Baby, talk to me.” I don’t want you to think that you can’t talk to me. “Please…” His voice was soft as he moved to kiss Casper’s neck, trying to coax him to speak. Please…

Casper turned his head, his face heating up as Scotty kissed his neck, holding him closer to him.
“N-Not…” He dreaded saying it, sighing shakily, his voice tiny. “…n-not even o-one?” ……if you won’t budge, I……. I don’t know what to do……

……... This is make or break..... Scotty looked to Casper with sorry eyes. “Casper…. I-I really don’t want any…. I don’t want to have that sort of responsibility over my head…” I am not the kind of material that a Father should be made out of…. “I wouldn’t be able to see them with how my work schedule’s like… I just….” It’s so impractical …

“W-We don’t have to have one right aw-way…” Casper’s fingers gripped his shirt tightly, sounding desperate. “We could w-wait until things s-settle, I could do so much of my job from h-home anyway… I just do management and make decisions, I can stay home… I….…” Casper choked on his words, tears starting to fall down his cheeks. “...I-I can’t have both…… c-can I……” I can’t have you, and kids… I have to pick ……. fuck, I…. I don’t know how to choose....

Scotty sighed quietly lifting himself up a bit so he could wipe away Casper’s tears. “Casper....” His words were soft as he held his face in his hands. “I…. I really don’t want to put anyone through not having a father…. You know how much that fucked me up when I was a kid…. I-I…. I can’t knowingly do that to someone…. And, I just, I’m not necessarily the best at handling children, I mean, I’m barely getting by with handling Maverick…. I’m not good parent material….” I’m really not, I’m a fucking Sadist ! I don’t do well with kids! That’s a known fact !

“I-It’s not like you’ll n-never be around…” Casper sniffled, looking to him. “And you’ve been doing so well with Maverick… you warmed up to him, and he just latched onto you like you were the best thing… I’ve seen you when you’re trying to comfort Eren or Lathe, and I’ve heard so much about how well you take care of your patients… I even heard all about how Sheila caught you when you were going through the hall because she couldn’t get one of the babies to stop crying and stop waking up every baby in the nursery, and you got them to sleep in like, two minutes.” Casper smirked as Scotty blushed, pecking his cheek. “It’s my job to hear this stuff… and… I think you’d make a wonderful father… and we have a big extended family to help us if we do have one and then have no idea how to take care of them… we have a wonderful couple next door who understand how to child, and I know Lathe would be ecstatic to have a kid to babysit and fuss over… it takes a village.” Casper looked up to him with pleading puppy eyes, his hands moving to cradle the back of his neck. “……in a few years, as long as you need…” As long as it takes… please ...

Scotty’s eyes looked into Casper’s, reading all of his emotions. He really wants one…. He sighed, closing his eyes and leaning his forehead down against Casper’s. “...One.” You can have one, but if the kid grows up horribly it's not my fault. I warned you. Scotty let his arms go lax, letting his full weight down on Casper, so he couldn’t go anywhere.

Casper sighed heavily in relief, smiling wearily, hugging Scotty tightly. “Thank you… so much…..” I'm okay with one. ...I'll try not to go into hyper-father-drive on them in the future, but no promises. “...I love you…. so fucking much....” I was so scared... I don't have to pick... thank fuck ...

Scotty smiled softly, shifting to lay his whole weight on him, letting out a soft huff. “I love you too...” He murmured quietly and kissed his ear lazily. Hmmm, well now I guess we’ve reached an agreement.... So what do we do now? Scotty laid there, waiting for Casper to move or say something. I don’t wanna upset this delicate balance.

Casper gently pet Scotty’s hair, sighing after a quiet moment. “Are you gonna make us go get food, or are you going to make love to me first?” I'd kinda like sex first.... Please?

Scotty kissed at Casper’s neck, gently blowing air against his ear. “Well.... Since we're in bed....” His voice dropped an octave as he reached to finish stripping Casper, sliding off the bed to make a show out of slipping out of his own clothes. I think we need to have makeup sex... or whatever the hell this would be called...

Casper let Scotty undress him, watching as he slid off the bed to strip, his eyes tracing him without shame. ....he's so handsome... and he's all mine.... Casper reached for him when he had turned around, grateful when he crawled back over him, their lips meeting for a deep kiss, Casper letting him take over. I missed being so gentle about sex...

Scotty’s hands barely put any pressure on him as his hands wandered over Casper’s warm skin. His skin is always so soft... He was making do with the available skin on Casper’s collarbones, sucking gently and leaving marks. I want you to be really feeling it.

Casper sighed deeply, his hands roaming Scotty’s shoulders as he felt him leaving a trail of hickeys around his neck. “Y-Yours...” Always... Casper whimpered as his hands ran soothingly yet teasingly over his chest and sides, down to his thighs, his length slowly beginning to harden from the stimulation. Although, he didn't feel the normal desperate need to rush. .......we've slowed down so much.... I love it....... I... I needed this...

Scotty made sure that he was gentle as he slowly covered Casper in hickeys from the collarbone and down. His lips slowly latched onto a perky nipple, sucking gently as his hand came to tease the other nipple, listening. I’m so glad that I don’t have to lose you too, I would hate myself forever if I did.

Casper mewed, squirming under his tongue. “Mm.... ngh...” His hands roamed Scotty’s back, running up to his shoulders and the back of his neck, tenderly brushing his thumb over his cheek before it swept back down over him again. You’re so good to me....
Scotty let a shudder run through his body as Casper’s hands ran over his neck. Oh my god… His hands… They feel so nice. His head soon moved down to his stomach, still leaving a trail of hiccups to his navel, nestling his nose against the soft skin. Casper… You better like this… because I’m trying to be as slow as possible before I ravage you….

Casper squirmed as he made his way to his stomach. “C-Careful… if you tickle me I'll kill you…” He jumped as Scotty blew a raspberry into his stomach, laughing as Scotty held his sides to keep him from moving away. “You bastard…” Casper smiled, his eyes bright as he cupped Scotty’s jaw, his thumb brushing over his cheeks, the corner of his lips. “…I love you…” So much…

Scotty seemed to melt at those words, his hands shifting to Casper’s inner thigh, gently rubbing his thumb against Casper’s supple flesh. I love this… You’re everything I could’ve ever wanted. His head dipped lower, and taking in the sight of Casper’s length, dripping a bead of precum, he barely contained his urge to just devour it. Scotty managed restraint and slowly licked at the bead, his eyes locked onto Casper’s wanting to see his reaction. I wonder what he would do if I rimmed him?….. We’ll find out I guess.

Casper whimpered as he felt his hot tongue on his length, trying not to grip his hair too tightly, his hands running through the brown locks. He blushed darkly as Scotty stared up at him, feigning innocence as he lapped at his length. ….that's so hot… His heels pressed into the mattress as Scotty teased him with his tongue, loving the tender touches of his hands running up and down the insides of his thighs. He's being so gentle… I love it…

Scotty watched with hungry eyes, his hands gently spreading Casper’s legs further so he could ease his way between them. He teasingly licked down to casper’s scrotum, worshipping every inch of him. I hope you're prepared for this… Scotty let his tongue dip down to his hole, listening to his high pitched gasp. Oh, you were not expecting this… I hope you like it…

Casper whimpered as Scotty’s tongue lapped at his skin with care, gasping when it swiped over his hole. “Sc-Scotty…?” Casper let Scotty move him, his legs draped over his shoulders and his back arched, shuddering as he ravished him. It feels so weird… but I love it… “F-Feels weird… f-feels good, too…” Casper couldn't help the incessant whimpers that forced from his throat. I can't believe he's rimming me… He felt Scotty’s tongue leave him, whining at the loss before he was rolled onto his front, his ass in the air, fully exposed. He didn't have time to be embarrassed before his tongue was on him again, his entire body shuddering, panting. God, I love this…

Scotty’s hands gripped onto Casper’s ass cheeks and pulling them apart so he had better access. God, the sounds he’s making… He could feel his body heat from the pulse of arousal that went straight to his length. Fuck, I'm so hard … He groaned as he moved his hand, lapping at his quivering entrance with even more vigor as he gently eased a finger into him. “Damn baby, you sound… Absolutely wonderful ….” I so wanna take you, but you won’t like that… I can take my time… His free hand gripped the ass cheeks as he let out a gasp. Holy shit… I want him…

Casper gripped at the sheets, on his elbows with his head hanging, looking behind him and seeing Scotty behind him, hungrily eyeing the taller man’s hard length as it hung between his legs. He sighed deeply as he felt him ease a finger inside, gently pushing back on the slick digit. “Mm… you're so good to me… f- feels wonderful…. ” His breathing was deep, relishing in the careful stretch as he added another slicked finger. He's being so gentle… it feels so good...

Scotty couldn’t help himself as he lifted his head, his teeth coming to gently nip on Casper’s ass cheek, his fingers easily slipping into his hole. He started to scissor his fingers, stretching out his tight pucker. God, we haven’t had sex in forever… I haven’t tied him up in forever either… I’ll need to do that soon. He even had the audacity to give Casper a hickey on his ass, smirking at his work. Well, you haven’t yelled at me to get off yet, so I guess that’s good… right?

Casper was practically putty as Scotty worked, letting him mark wherever he wanted. You can do what you want with me… I've missed this… we haven't really done anything for a while… I missed you…. Casper breathlessly chuckled as Scotty marked his asscheek. “Heh, you… you own that part of me too, hm?” His playful expression shifted back to one of want within moments, still shamelessly drinking in the sight of Scotty’s length. I want it… I want him badly...

“I own your everything…” Scotty's voice was rough and heady as he slipped in a third finger. I don’t want to hurt you… I want you to be loving every bit of this.

Casper shivered at the sound of his voice, trying to relax around his third finger. “I-It's all yours…. all yours…. ” Please keep me… He whimpered as his fingers moved deeply in him, groaning as they brushed his prostate teasingly, making him shudder with every brush. Please love me… “S-Scotty… baby, please… h-have me…” I ache… I want you...

Scotty grinned, his hand coming out of him as he kissed up his back, leaning his whole body on top of Casper’s, biting into his shoulder. I want to do this how you want it. His movements were slow as he gently nudged the tip of his length to his entrance. “Ready?” His voice was soft next to his ear. I hope you are.

Casper quietly whimpered as Scotty murmured into his ear. “Y-Yeah… slow, please…” He let out a deep gasp as Scotty slowly pushed past his entrance, melting as Scotty roughly nipped and sucked at the joint of his neck, feeling his body pressed to his back. It burns a bit… but it's a good burn… “Gentle… please…” I don't want rough… not now...
Scotty nodded, lapping at the skin of his neck in apology, slowly starting to pull out a few inches and thrust back in. He started a very slow pace, gingerly kissing all around his neck and shoulders. “I love you Casper… I really love you….” I wouldn’t trade you for anyone else in the world.

Casper sighed, quiet moans falling from his lips as Scotty started to move, swaying with his motions. “I love you too…. …always…” I’ve always loved you… I don’t ever want to lose you… He tilted his head, exposing more of his neck, letting Scotty mark his tan skin as much as he wanted, grateful for the lips on his neck. I’m so lucky… to have you… after so long of wanting you… I have you…

Scotty let out a low hum, letting Casper know he heard him. I love you, I love you so much, I want to do right by you, and if that’s making sure that we have a kid… Then we’ll have a kid… He kept his slow pace, his grip gentle on Casper’s hips, wanting him to relax in his hold. “You’re so handsome… So smart…” He continued his sweet nothings in Casper’s ear, moving his hips and trying to find Casper’s prostate with this slow pace. I want you to feel amazing…

Casper blushed at his words, his eyes unfocused as Scotty pleased him, his mind focused on the pleasure and the voice in his ear. “…..you’re too good to me…” How could I ever deserve this… I… He moaned freely as Scotty’s pace sped up just a bit, feeling his hands tenderly gripping his hips. So good…

Scotty let his pace increase a bit as he listened to Casper, listening to his moans, and his heavy breathing. He was playing him like a professional pianist plays a piano. I want to push all the buttons that make you sing… Scotty let one particular thrust be a bit more forceful than the others, hitting Casper’s prostate directly. God, he feels wonderful, I hope that I’ll be able to outlast him…

Casper’s moans became louder as Scotty sped up, the lewd sound of skin slapping skin and his own sinful whines filling the room. He panted loudly, shuddering. “S-Scotty… so good…” He gasped as he thrust particularly hard, feeling arousal pulse through him, aching. “…so good…. oh it’s so good…. …” He panted, whimpering as his neck was marked even more. Too good to me…

Scotty continued to thrust into him, his pace starting to build up a bit quicker and harder. I want you to feel really good… And it sounds like you are. Scotty gently pulled his hand away from casper’s hip, his fingers tangling into purple locks. He gently pulled, tilting his head back and giving him access to the underside of his neck. God, I love this with you… I want to be rough with you, but I know that this is not the time for that. His mouth soon made it’s way to Casper’s lips claiming them as he aimed for his prostate. I wanna make you melt for me.

Casper didn’t resist when Scotty pulled his head back, whimpering as he mouthed all over the soft flesh of his neck. He moaned into their kiss, bracing one arm under him and bringing his other up to tangle in Scotty’s hair. He whimpered as Scotty began hitting his prostate without mercy, feeling himself start to come undone. “S-Scotty… I-I’m…” He whimpered. “W-Wanna cum…” Please, make me cum...

Scotty pulled back from kissing him for only a moment. I think I’ll be able to outlast him, which is good because this is about him… Not me. “Cum then… Cum for me.” Scotty made sure that his focus was on Casper’s prostate, abusing it with every thrust. “I wanna hear you scream my name…. I wanna know that I can please you, completely and honestly…”

Casper whimpered as Scotty’s lips brushed his ear, feeling his hot breath as he spoke smoothly. …fuck… he’s too hot… “I-I…” Casper’s voice became even more high pitched as Scotty abused his prostate, feeling himself tip over the edge… “S-Scotty… o- oh …” Casper cried out as he came hard, feeling Scotty pressed against him, his hands everywhere, pounding him through his orgasm. So good…

Scotty had a small smile on his lips, making sure he pounded Casper through his orgasm, calming himself down as he slowly started to pull out from him. Good… I can help clean him up. Scotty’s large hands soon slipped from Casper’s hips as he sat back on his heels, looking over Casper with dark eyes. His dick was still standing to attention, red and puffy, begging for release. God, he’s so beautiful …

Casper whimpered as Scotty milked him of his release, looking helpless when Scotty pulled out, his hips moving backwards, wanting him back. “S-Scotty, but what about y-you?” Casper looked back to him as he sat on his haunches, dipping his back and presenting his ass to him, sounding a bit desperate, trying to entice him back. “P-Please… I want you inside… C-Cum inside me, please …” I want your everything, don’t do this ‘only about you’ shit now … I want you...

… I’d love to, but I’d be too rough… You can’t do rough. “No baby, I can’t… I don’t want to be rough with you.” His voice was tender as he reached a hand out to gently rub his ass. “I’ll be fine, Casper….” Really . His cock had other intentions and continued to stay hard as a rock, dripping copious amounts of precum from his slit as he shifted his legs out from under him. He massaged Casper’s ass cheeks, his thumbs dipping into his wet hole. Everything about you… It’s amazing…

Casper’s expression shifted from exasperation to pleasured anger, his voice breathy and quietly furious. “…..Scotty, I want you to so fucking badly… if you don’t fuck my brains out and cum inside me right now I’ll swear this will be the time I kill you.” His eyes plead with him, helpless, wanting and desperate, pushing back on his hands. Please … I wanna feel you cum inside… cum inside…

Scotty watched his eyes harden and heard his voice give off the slightest hints of anger. Shit….
Wrong answer… He was slow as he shifted once again, getting off the bed and planting both feet on the ground. Well, if you want me to go rough, I’ll go rough. Scotty used Casper’s angry confusion to his advantage, grabbing his leg and pulling him to the edge of the bed, his ass hanging off of the side, right at hip height. He entered him without warning, staying fully sheathed and listening for Casper to finally calm down. If you want it like this... I can do this.

Casper felt a flurry of emotions as Scotty just stepped off of the bed, anger and disappointment making his heart ache. “D-Don't leave…” Don't leave me like this…” He gasped as he was suddenly tugged backwards, finding himself with his own feet spread wide on the floor, braced over the edge of the bed. Fuck… He let out a deep groan when Scotty sheathed himself in him again, still sensitive, though he and his cock were still very interested. …fuck… I want him… “…S-Scotty…” Casper let him tug his head back again, looking up to him with pleading emerald eyes, his hips pushing back on his own. “….please, Master… fuck me…” I missed this… I missed you…. I missed your everything … I want your everything again...

………… He called me Master …. Without even being asked if we could be rough… Scotty felt his restraint break, his hand reaching down from his hair and going over Casper’s neck. I can feel the blood pumping through his veins. He had a grip on his neck not so much that he would pass out, but that it was there, and it was tight. His hips moved on their own, setting a brutal pace against him, the lewd sound of their skin slapping against skip increasing tenfold. Fuck he’s so tight… He feels…. It’s….. It’s so hard to describe…. “Hmm, if I’m master… Does that make you my slave?” Scotty’s voice was dark, right next to Casper’s ear as he pounded into him. Fuck we haven’t gone rough in forever …. I miss this… He squeezed a bit harder on Casper's neck for only a moment to see what reaction he would get. I’d love to get rough with you.

Casper trembled as Scotty pounded into him, feeling a bit light-headed. “Y-Yes, M-Master…” He whimpered as Scotty squeezed his neck even harder, fear flickering in his eyes for a moment. I don't wanna pass out… “Please don't make me pass out, Master… I want to feel everything, Master.” His cock was again hard, still very sensitive. It's almost too much… I wanna cum… I want to feel him cum inside me… I really want to feel that....

Scotty let go of his tight grip on Casper’s neck, drifting his hand back to his hair and keeping his head pulled back. Hmm… Okay, so he doesn’t want to pass out…”I’m gonna cum soon slave…. What are you gonna do about it?” He nearly growled into his ear, enjoying that he could be rougher. I really like this, and I’m so glad you’ll let me do this...

Casper pushed his hips back, whimpering as Scotty growled in his ear, his entire body heating up as Scotty abused his prostate. “N-Nothing, Master… I’ll let you… I’ll help you, Master...” Casper turned his head, Scotty meeting him for a hungry kiss, whimpering when he felt a hand drift to his length only to grip the base firmly. I wanna cum… “M-Master…”
Scotty chuckled almost wickedly as he moved to suck and nibble on the tip of Casper’s ear.

_Damn… This is so hot…_ “Hmm…. what is it, slave?” _I love having complete control over you._ He nipped playfully at his ear, pounding into Casper as he held his base. _I want you to wait to cum until I do._ He could feel his coil already beginning to tighten. _Fuck, you’re so tight. We haven’t done this enough…_

Casper whimpered, stuttering. “M-Master… I want to cum, Master… please …” _I need you…_ He trembled, his nether aching.

Scotty smirked, taking his grip and teasingly starting to rub his hand at his base in time with his thrusts. “Hm… But you can’t cum until I tell you to, understood?” _It won’t be much longer, trust me._ He could feel himself nearing his own edge as he teased Casper. _I’m gonna cum soon…_

Casper whined, shaking harder as Scotty pumped him, trying to hold back his own release. “Y-Yes, Master…” _He couldn’t help whining even louder as he struggled to keep from letting go, panting as Scotty nibbled at his neck._ “……I c-can’t, M-Master…” _If you don’t keep me from cumming I will with everything you're doing to me…_

Scotty nibbled up his neck and to his ear, biting down and tugging a bit harshly. He was silent for awhile longer, a soft grunt escaping him as he let go of Casper’s ear, his voice softer, and his thrusts becoming erratic. _Fuck… “Cum.”_ That was all he said before he stilled inside of Casper with one final thrust right on his prostate, letting go of his cock and letting him get his release. _Fuck…. It feels so good …_

Casper gasped, crying out loudly as he came hard, his release decorating the sheets and pushing back onto Scotty’s cock, feeling him fill him with his seed. _Feels so good…_ Casper relished in the feeling of being full, groaning as Scotty pulled out, letting the taller man pull him onto the bed and roll him on top of him, catching his breath. “……I love you…..” _So much…_ Casper looked up to him with innocent eyes. “Will you help me shower?” _I can clean myself out, but it's much more fun if someone does it for me…._

_Those eyes are innocent…. But those words…. Sinful as all hell._ Scotty nodded sitting up as he looked down to his flaccid member, covered in both of their choice fluids. _Great… That’ll need cleaning too, and I can only imagine that we’ll never make it to dinner tonight._ He followed Casper as he scampered to the bathroom, reaching his hand out and pinching one of his asscheeks. _Fuck, it’s so bubbly …_

Casper yelped in surprise, blushing as he looked back to Scotty, eyeing him and seeing his dirtied nether, flashing those same innocent eyes and reaching for his hips, pulling him close. _“I can clean here for you…”_ Casper looked over his chest, his hands slipping down his skin dangerously close.
to his nether. I'd love to...

“We’re never gonna make it out of the house, are we?” Is that a respectable question to answer you? Scotty leaned in to turn the hot water on, already feeling himself start to harden under Casper’s gaze.

“Mm, that depends…”

“On?”

“On whether you’ll fuck me against the wall or not…” Casper looked up to him with his prized doe eyes, his arms wrapping solidly around his middle. “Please?”

“You know your eyes and your words don’t match….”

“But they make you do what I want…” Casper gave him a small smile.

“I don’t think it’s very respectful for a slave to tell his master what to do…” He grabbed a fistful of hair, pulling his head back and exposing the front of his neck. I wonder if you’ll let me be rough…

“Then Master… may I please suggest you fuck me against the wall?” Casper looked to him, not fighting the hand that forced his head back. “Or we can play with wax if you’d rather do that, Master…” The candles are my favourite...

Scotty rose an eyebrow, a smirk on his face, his hand moving from his hair to his chin. His eyes bored holes into Casper’s whole body, critiquing him. “I think that might work…. You know where the candles and rope are?”

Casper shivered under his gaze, smiling faintly, sounding breathless. “O-Of course, Master…”

Fetch.” Scotty let go of Casper, slapping his ass as he left the room. Oh…. I am gonna have so much fun tonight...
Chapter 82: Levi's Personal Video

Finally … Levi walked across the base, his laptop bag slung across his shoulder. I finally have time enough to go back to my room and use this thing… it’s not like I only have ten minutes and have to make do with the commons… time is such a rare thing now… Eren sent me this video file thing like a week ago and I haven’t had the privacy to open it yet… he said I needed to be alone with headphones… so… Levi finally made it to his quarters, closing the door and sitting on the edge of the bed with his laptop in his lap, popping in earbuds. So now I’m alone with headphones. He went through his messages, clicking on the file and finally opening it.

The camera was focused on the floor in front of the bed, in Eren’s room. It was angled downward, and some objects were around on the floor. It only took a few moments before Eren stepped out from behind the camera, completely naked and wearing a cock ring. His whole face was flushed as he sat down with his legs apart, giving Levi a full display of his nether.

Levi flushed as Eren strode onscreen, drinking in the sight of his nether. Is this… fuck … He eyed the objects scattered around Eren for a moment, trying to process everything. Are those… sex toys? ……fuck …… I miss having him…. I’d kill to just hug him…………fuck, and he sent me this … god, I love him… Levi stared at his nether, watching his every movement.

“Uh… H-Hi… Um… I’m not really sure what I’m doing… But I wanted to tell you that I, um… That I really miss you… And that it’s getting harder to fall asleep without you or someone else in bed with me…. Um… I kn-know that you can’t come home and see me… B-but I thought that-that maybe this video would help?” Eren’s words were marred by moans and gasps as he had reached a hand up to tease his nipple, squeezing it and tugging on it, his other hand going to his hole and starting to stretch himself out.

...the things I would give to come home to you right now… Levi’s eyes darkened as he watched Eren beginning to stretch himself, a sight to behold. …he still sounds as beautiful as he always does… he’s… fuck, I miss him… Levi felt himself growing a bit uncomfortable in his pants as he watched Eren stretch himself further, shifting a bit. He's too hot… ....fuck.....

Eren was a moaning mess, his eyes full of lust locked onto the screen, which made it look like he was looking right at Levi. His hand wanted his chest, pinching at the skin that Levi would normally cover in bites and hickeys to try and stimulate the same effect. “L-Levi… I… I really want you…” His words were high pitched as his fingers got even further into his quivering hole, his body beginning to squirm as he continued. “F-Fuck… M-my fingers aren’t enough…” He reached for one of the objects next to him and the bottle of lube, lubing the large rubber dick, getting it to stick to the floor with the suction cup before kneeling down and trying to get it into him. He continually let out moans and whimpers as the dildo finally entered him to a point he could sit back and show it off to the camera.
Levi felt a pulse of arousal flow through him when Eren moaned his name, finally shifting back on the bed, setting the laptop next to him. His eyes were still glued to the screen, glancing to the locked door for a moment before he unzipped his pants, letting his hardening length free. He let his hand wrap around the shaft, pumping in time with Eren’s movements as he bounced on the large dildo. …fuck, that's hot... I miss your hot, wet heat... I miss leaving dozens of bruises all over your neck and your chest… I miss holding you... I miss you… I want you too...

 Eren looked like he was quickly getting near his release, and his cock ring kept him from going over the edge. He cried out in utter bliss as he should’ve gone over the edge, but no evidence was found of him doing so. “F- fuck … I didn’t think I would tip over that quickly… Thank god I got the cock ring.” His voice was a soft murmur as he slowly lifted off the dildo, a whine leaving his body as he laid down with his face facing away from the camera but his ass in full view. Eren brought his knees under him and reached a hand around to start fingering himself once again. “Levi … Ngh… I want your dick…”

Fuck … he's so hot… Levi stroked himself until he felt he was nearing the edge, though thinking better of it and slowing his strokes, biting back sounds, his nether aching as he brought himself back down. I wanna keep going with this video… fuck… He slowly stroked himself as Eren fingered his ass, his eyes darkening at his words. I'd love to fuck your brains out…. but I can't… fuck...

 Eren soon shifted over to the dildo again, slowly sinking down onto the glistening rubber. “Ah… Shit... Levi, n-nothing is as good as you…. F-fuck!” He cried out as he fully sheathed himself on the overly long dildo. His whole body was shaking in pleasure as he slowly lifted his hips, giving Levi the back view of himself sinking on the dildo. His hair was starting to become damp with sweat and his moans getting louder and louder. “L-Levi... Haaaa…”

Levi felt himself grow hot, stroking in time with Eren’s motions, his hand firm. …and nothing is as good as your tight, wet heat… your breathy moans in my ear, nails scratching back when you grip onto me too tight when I'm fucking you hard… ……….fuck, I miss that…. I miss all of it… Levi struggled to not make a sound as he stroked himself, aware of how paper-thin the walls were.

 “Levi… Levi…. Levi!” Eren moaned out his name like a mantra and he continued at a brutal pace for himself, his body finally pausing and shuddering as he let out a loud wail. “Fuck!” He groaned as he slowly moved to reach for another object, long and slim in style as he slowly shifted to face the front again, his cock even harder and redder from being denied the ability to release anything twice. “Fuck Levi… I’m gonna take this thing off… I wanna cum …” He whimpered as he slowly removed it, looking to the camera with wanting eyes.

Levi had to squeeze the base of his length to keep from cumming at Eren’s words, watching hungrily as Eren shuddered, his body screaming for orgasm. He's so fucking hot... holy shit... Levi watched as Eren slowly slipped the cock ring off, watching him slowly come down from his high, not wanting to cum right away. He watched with wide eyes as Eren handled the slim object with care, recognising what it was as he brought it to the tip of his cock. .....that's... fuck...

Eren slowly slipped the sound down his length, groaning as the cool metal slowly became warm and going down easier until he was holding it in place, turning the dial at the top and let out a sharp gasp as it made a soft noise. His eyes were blown wide and his mouth hanging open, not caring if he drooled. “Oh my god!” His voice was at least three octaves higher than it normally was. Eren’s hands shook as he slowly pumped himself, gritting his teeth to keep from cumming even from such little stimulation. “Ha-Ah! Le-Le- Levi !” His words were frantic as he let the dial turn another click, his toes curling from the overwhelming sensation. “Oh my god…” **

Levi was pumping his length hard, watching with hungry eyes as Eren seemed to drown in pleasure, turning up the volume a bit, Eren’s moans clear in his ears. So fucking hot... My god, now I want one of those... but I'd love to have you even more... Levi clamped his hand around the base of his throbbing length, his other hand moving to tease his slit mercilessly, refusing himself release. Feels good... and he sounds wonderful...

Eren’s eyes looked right into the camera, as he turned up the vibrations to max, his eyes widening as a result. “Oh... Oh... Oh! Oh my god! Ha... F-Fuck!” His eyes closed as he let the vibrations take over his shaking hands having to touch the floor. “L-Levi...” He whole body jerked as even more precum started to leak from his slit, starting to bring the sound with it. Eren watched the sight with a flushed face. “F-fuck.... Levi... Can I cum?” His voice was a desperate whine his eyes were glued to the slowly receding sound. Eren was even louder now, and his voice ranging a few octaves as he struggled to speak.

Yes, please, I wanna see you cum... Levi mercilessly abused his slit, fighting off release and watching Eren on the screen, his moans going straight to his cock. This is so hot... fuck ....

Eren moved to take out the sound, slowly and whimpering the whole time as he used his other hand to pump his length. “F-fuck.... L- Levi !” He cried out Levi’s name as he finally tipped over the edge, covering his chest in his white cum. “F- fuck ....... That felt so good, baby....” Eren’s words were soft, and his eyes blown from the bliss of having climaxed finally, his release decorating his chest. He took his fingers, starting to scoop it from his chest and then suck his fingers off. “I miss you, Levi...” **

Levi made a choked sound as he too let himself release, cumming into his hand, watching with dark eyes as Eren cleaned himself. I miss you too... so much... .....I wonder..... if I could come back for a few days... they probably would only let me do it one time... but I would get to say hi to you all again... and then remind you how much I love you....
Chapter 83: Tucker's Worst Fear

Eren’s been gone for a week... And he called this morning.... After he woke up.... Said the concert was a success, which is good and that he’d hopefully be home in another week after finishing up their tour of Germany. He’s been gone, and I’ve been helping with the laundry, and sorting everything so that Dad can help James.... He’s been legitimately throwing up every hour because of the chemo. Jake went over to one of his friends’ house to go play at the park or something... Not really sure what he’s doing... Over the past couple days we’ve accumulated 6 horses, 24 sheep, and two pigs from the guy’s barn from down the deserted road that I thought led absolutely nowhere, but I guess there’s a town on the other side of it.... The horses are really well behaved and I’ve been working with them on and off with Hannah’s help since Eren’s not here to ride them, they’re definitely not jumpers... and they seem to know lots of commands... Hannah thinks they might be dress-.... Dresstag? Dressegg? What was the word again? I don’t remember, but she showed me how to get them to a canter in the area the other day, which was exciting, and completely terrifying! I almost fell off, I didn’t expect the horse to move that quickly, but it’s okay now I guess that I’m used to it... I know I’m not looking forward to finding out what a gallop looks like on these horses. She’s also taught me how to tie up their hair and how to wash their coats properly so that they’re ready for showing.... I think that’s what she called it. But the guy who owned them came to take a look at them while I was building a shed for the sheep, and he seems like a nice guy and all... He looked worse for wear, but he seemed like he was grateful that the horses were all safe and accounted for now. He talked to Dad about their worth but I wasn’t really paying attention. The man did say that he would take the pigs back home, since their small shed was relatively put back together and he would come back as soon as a new barn was built and bring the horses back. I finished up the shelter for the sheep and they seemed to like it a lot more than being in their small corral. So after that I helped Dad bring the horses into the extra stalls we had. So he’s been worrying about James all day and said that I could go to my room and play with my legos... But I’ve got a different plan. Tucker watched as Lathe went back into the kitchen to get a small snack for James to try and keep down. He’ll be too busy to notice. He slipped upstairs moving into Eren’s room, quietly closing the door behind him, a blush on his face as he crossed the room, going to Eren’s nightstand and rifling through it for a second and grabbing the dildo. Fuck... this thing looks so much bigger than I thought it was...

Henry packed up his controller and thundered down the stairs, slinging a bag over his shoulder and largely ignoring Brett’s goodbye. Yeah, yeah, ‘Where you goin’, gay boy, off to see your lover?’ and all that good shit. I just wanna play video games. ...and may~be enjoy the eye candy when he’s not looking. “I'll text if I'm not gonna be home for dinner!” Henry called into the house before he kicked the door shut, going to get his bike from the side of the house. He was soon pedaling down the street, taking two turns before heading down the long stretch of asphalt, absentely keeping an eye out for stray sheep. He was panting a bit when he dumped his bike on the lawn, heading up to the front door and just trying to open it. It opened for him, Henry stepping in and shutting it behind him. “Hey Mr. Quo. Tucker around?” Henry watched Lathe jump as he spoke, Looking like he saw a ghost.

“Christ, Henry, you scared me. There’s this thing people do called knocking, you know.”
“But that's laaame. And is he inside or with the sheep again?”

“Upstairs, chilling with legos. Go say hi, I guess. And knock!” Lathe called after him as Henry scampered off, shaking his head. He's gonna scare the fuck out of Tucker.

Heh, knocking. Very funny. Henry went upstairs, meandering down the hall when he thought he heard his name. He stopped and listened, hearing Tucker call out again. ...what? Does he know I'm here already? Henry came down to his room, slowing as he heard his tone. He doesn't sound… is he…? Henry looked to the doorknob, praying that Tucker didn't notice as he very slowly turned the knob, peering into the room, his eyes wide as he stared through the small crack. He watched as Tucker lay on his back on the bed, his legs turned out wide as he fucked himself on a large dildo, his moans of Henry’s name filling the room as he moved, his hand unsure. Henry silently watched before closing the door again just as quietly, staring at the door with conflicted eyes, his own eyes shaded a bit. Is he really… is he really that into me? I mean… if he's… and he's saying… then… fuck… Henry convinced himself to walk from the room, hiding in a corner of the upstairs nook, the clear moans playing in the back of his mind. He looked up when Lucifer gracefully stalked upstairs, studying him for a moment before making himself at home in his lap.

I could use a good distraction… I don't think Henry Jr. can keep from being so excited otherwise…

Tucker was in his room for at least another half an hour, finally getting his relief, and starting to clean himself up. God… That felt… That felt better than I thought it would, I thought it would hurt… I thought it would really hurt… Tucker slowly changed into new clothes, making sure that he had long sleeves and long pants still. I should go outside… Maybe ride Maximus again… He slipped out of his room, jumping out of his skin when he saw Henry petting Lucifer. “Jeez! Do you ever thinking about calling ahead of time dumbass?”

Henry jumped as Tucker shouted at him, smiling sheepishly. “I'm sorry, I only got here a minute ago and Lucifer wouldn't leave me alone… he demanded pets, so I gave him pets…” Play innocent. You heard nothing. Nothing at all. “I thought it would be okay… your dad didn't kick me out, and I just thought it'd be cool if we just chilled or something…” Henry shrank a little under Tucker's glare. “M’sorry… I'm not used to how this stuff goes… oh, uhm… a-are your arms healing okay?” I'm still worried…

“Yeah, I’m fine, don’t fucking worry about it and go put your fucking sneakers on…” He grumbled, stalking off down the stairs to get his own shoes on. Why the hell do you keep asking me? I don’t understand, and I want you to fuck off about that! You’ll never understand anyway…

Henry nodded, shooing Lucifer from his lap and following Tucker back down the stairs, stepping into his shoes and dumping his bag by the door. He followed him into the backyard, looking over the shelter for the sheep. “You did a good job on the sheep thing, it looks nice.” You're really good “Thanks…” Tucker’s tone was almost deadly as he led him to the barn, getting out one of the nicer looking saddles and putting it out on a stand to hold it while he went to one of the stalls. “So… why the fuck are you even here?” For all I know you could’ve heard me moaning your name like a fucking whore…

Henry swallowed nervously, shrugging one shoulder. “I just thought you'd be in the mood to hang out, do something, play games or something, I dunno… my house gets boring as hell a lot and it’s nice to come over and see you.” Also Brett can be hell if you don't blend into the furniture properly, so that's a thing. “U-Uhm…” …fuck, do I just like… tell him? What the fuck do I say? I just… like, ‘Hey I heard you moaning my name earlier and like I’ve kinda thought about you too like that sometimes so wanna make out?’ Fuck, no, that's horrible, don't say a word of that… uhm… fuck, he might rip my throat out if I do it now though… he's royally pissed… fuck, uhm… “Hey, Tucker? C-Can I uh, tell you something?” Henry took a step towards him, his hand brushing his arm. I don't know what the fuck I'm doing but it's gonna happen, dammit.

“What? You wanna try riding? I wouldn’t do it with Maximus though, but I can tack up Charlie for you if you want…” Tucker’s voice seemed to calm down a lot more now that he was in front of Maximus’ stall. He turned to look at Henry, waiting for an answer. You’ve never really shown an interest in riding…

“U-Uh, w-well, sure, I guess, but that wasn't what I wanted to tell you. ...It's kinda important.” Henry’s hand very tentatively drifted, brushing the small of Tucker’s back, looking to him nervously for his response. Fuck, I feel like I'm too close… am I too close? I wanna be closer, but it doesn't feel right for telling you this… fuck, can I just skip this part and go straight to the part where we get handsy? Please? I don’t know if I can even do this… fuck. Henry looked a bit terrified himself. I can't do this… but it's too late to bail...

Tucker shifted uncomfortably. “Yeah?” His eyes were glued on Henry’s face, his eyes full of uncertainty. What do you want to tell me? Why are you holding my back?

Henry seemed to shrink a bit as Tucker looked at him oddly, his touch barely even there, looking away. “U-Uhm… I don't know how to say it, s-so… I… I kinda…. r-really, uh… r-really like you…” Henry swallowed hard, looking back up to him. Please don't smack me.

Tucker’s brow seemed to furrow as he backed away. “W-What do you mean? I mean… I like you as a f-friend…” I…. I don't know what you're saying, you can’t possibly like me… You like girls!
Henry blushed, swallowing. “I-I um… I actually… I mean… like-like you… a lot…” Is he just trying to cover it up? I think so… Henry’s hand came back to his chest, intimidated. I fucking hear him moan my name and it's still so hard to come out to him...

Tucker started to back away a half a step, seeming to start shaking. “N-No… You can’t… You like girls…. You even told me you did…” You can’t like me! You can’t! It'll happen again! I don’t want it to happen again. His eyes looked wide with slight fear, frozen in place.

Henry was stunned at his reaction, reaching a hand out a bit, trying to calm him. “Tucker, I know I said that, but I’m bi… I like guys and girls… and I just… I really like you…” His eyes widened as Tucker shook, sounding wary. “Tucker, please don’t freak out… ...are you okay?” ... Why are you panicking so much?

“But… But you c-can’t…” His eyes were wide as Henry got closer, frozen, so unsure of what to do. It’s gonna happen again... And Dad’s in the house... I can’t.... I can’t yell for him...

“Tucker, I... fuck, I just really like you... please please don't freak out, I just had to tell you…” Henry sighed, shrinking a bit. “Y-You can just reject me if you don’t want anything to do with me... fuck, I come over to your house unannounced, make you mad, confess and then expect you to be okay with it… I’m sorry… I can just... I can just leave…” Henry took a small step back from him, looking to the floor. ................maybe he didn't mean me... my name isn't exactly too unique..... I just..... I want it to have been me....... You know what, if I came this far.... Fuck it, I want my goddamn kiss. “I'm sorry, Tucker.” Henry stepped towards him, his hands slipping around his middle, gently pressing him against the stall door with his body and pressing their lips together, sweet and gentle. I kinda really have a thing for you... ...fuck, his lips are as soft as I always thought they'd be... he smells so nice... He felt Tucker's lips part with a gasp, making the split second decision and going for it, his tongue moving in, brushing against Tucker’s own for a moment, tasting him. He tastes nice... .................fuck, I'll never get to do this again....... Henry took in one last deep breath through his nose, relishing in his scent before breaking their kiss, gently pecking the corner of his lips. I'm sorry.... I really wanted to...

Tucker’s face was full of fear, tears trailing down his face as he shook, taking the opportunity to slip out of his arms when he could. I... I can’t... He backed away from Henry, never turning his back to him until he was out of the barn.“N-No... Not again !” Tucker screamed and ran away to the house, screaming and crying in terror. No! I can’t! I can’t do it again !

...what the fuck? “Tucker!? Henry went after him, watching with confusion and worry as Tucker bolted for the house. He quickly followed, stopping in the back door, seeing Lathe hugging Tucker tightly, trying to calm the hysterical boy down.
“Tucker?!” Lathe had caught the teen when he ran full force into the kitchen, the boy latching onto his sweater, crying. “What happened?” What the hell?!

Tucker shook his head, crying harder. “I don’t want to do it again! I don’t want it to happen again!” His cries were full of terror, flinching as he heard the backdoor open again. “D-Don’t let him in!”

Lathe looked up as Henry came in, looking hurt and worried and very confused, his cheeks painted dark red. .......... oh. Well fuck. “It’s okay, Tucker.” Lathe held up a hand, stopping Henry. I need to talk to you. “Tucker, I’m right here, don’t worry. All Henry is gonna do is go around the stairs to the living room the long way.” Lathe motioned for Henry to obey, watching him disappear for a moment before reappearing in the living room. “And he is gonna stay there-” Lathe watched him obediently sit, nodding in approval. “And now we are going to go this way to the back door. There’s plenty of room and stuff there, you’ll know when someone comes outside. I want to talk to Henry for a little bit, okay? You can go calm down and take care of the sheep or just sit under a tree, but just try not to worry about anything, okay? I'll talk to him.” Lathe was bribing them to the back door as he spoke. He needs to know about this if you two ever want to be a thing...

Tucker nodded, slowly making his way to the back door and going outside. He got far away from the house, going to the barn and going up to the loft to hide among the hay bales. I don’t want it to happen again... Henry likes me... I... I... He could've raped me... I don’t want to see him ever again...

Henry watched him leave, his eyes instantly going to Lathe. “He hates me…. Doesn’t he?” Don’t sugar coat it... Please. I fucked up, but how? I... I didn’t think he would react like that ...

“Honestly, probably not.” Lathe sat down next to him, shrugging one shoulder. “I’m guessing whatever you did, it involved something romantic and you cornering him. Correct?”

“Y-Yeah... B-But... W-why did he react like that ?” Henry’s eyes were wide. What did I do. “I... I don’t want him to hate me... I just, I... I really like him, and I don’t wanna walk away from him... I really like him.”

Lathe gave him a sympathetic look, gently resting a hand on his shoulder. “It’s fine, I’m sure he doesn’t hate you. ...but there's some stuff you need to know about Tucker first. Have you heard anything about a student who used to go to your high school, Devon Bracknell?”

“N-No... I never really heard anything about him from Tucker... Why? What did he do?” I don’t think I like the sound of this...
“Well, Devon was a senior earlier this year, before you transferred in. He was in Tucker’s engineering class… and he was Tucker’s first crush. They got paired together for a project, Tucker ended up staying late at Devon's house to finish it one night, and he decided to confess that night…. it, uhm…. well, the short of it is that Devon is kinda sorta in prison for life for raping a minor………” ....yeah. That's a thing. “He's still pretty traumatized from it… I don't think he'll be too okay with doing romantic or intimate crap with another person for a while.. he doesn't exactly trust those two things yet… but… I do remember that he told me a while ago that he was kinda scared…. because he has a crush on you.” ...I'm just gonna let all that digest.

.... What? “W-Why didn’t… Why didn’t he tell me?” He tells me everything… No one else talks to me… Tucker’s all I've got… “H-He’s got a crush on me?” So he was moaning my name!

“He’s so ashamed of it… He thinks so little of himself anyway, and it just made it worse… and he does. He really does like you. So what I would suggest…” Lathe shifted a bit, turning to him. “Is that you go outside where he’s calmed down, have him in the big field of somewhere nice and open, he really careful about it, and convince him to make out or something, I don't know.” That’s all the advice I've got.

Henry seemed to nod, standing a bit. “What do I do if he screams at me to go away?” I really don’t want him to hate me… He’s all I got…

“Just be really submissive and non threatening and just try to coax him into the field. If that doesn't work, get me and I'll wrangle him out there for you.” Lathe smiled reassuringly to him. “Good luck.” …you might need it.

Henry nodded moving to the backdoor and going towards the field, not seeing him anywhere.”T-Tucker?” Where is he?

Tucker peered out to look through the door. “Go away!” He shouted, before hiding again. He came back! Dad let him go! Fuck!

Henry winced, stopping quite a few yards from the barn. “Tucker… your Dad told me everything. I don’t wanna hurt you. I just… I wanna talk. Can you come out so we can just talk?” Please?

“N-No! Go away! I don’t wanna talk to you!” Get away from me… “Don’t come back here!” His cry was shrill as he stepped closer. I can’t… not you too.
Henry stopped, signing and sitting down in the grass, picking at the green stems. “I’m not gonna hurt you, Tucker. Really. I just wanna talk to you. ...I was hoping you’d know that I don’t want to hurt you… I don’t. That’s not how all relationships are, you know. I just… I really do like you… legit… and I just… can we please just talk? Like friends?” I don’t want to ruin our friendship... Henry forlornly picked at the grass, not even glancing up as Tucker pokes his head around the barn door. I don’t wanna scare you off even more ...

“The fuck do you want then? I... I don’t want anything to do with you… So just go away....” I don’t want it to ever happen again. I don’t wanna like anyone... At all ... He kept only a part of his face in view. I don’t wanna go through that ...

“...your Dad told me too… that… that you have a crush on me...” Henry kept his head down, absently picking the grass apart. “I know what happened the first time you had a crush was more than hellish but... but I'm not like that... I wouldn't try to hurt you or take advantage of you... I just... I was just dying for a single damn kiss... and I'm sorry that I just did that while you were so scared but I didn't think I would ever get the opportunity to ever again and I just... kissed you... I'm sorry... I'm really sorry, I just...” Henry shrugged, studying a blade of grass. “......I give a lot of shits about you...”

Tucker slowly stepped out. “W-Why? I’m nothing special... And I’m weak ...” I hate this... Why someone would want me would be ridiculous ...“A-And... Y-You can’t touch m-me.... Unless... I-I say...”

Henry nodded, looking up to him, his head still bowed. “I won't touch you unless you say it's okay, I promise. And... I just... I just do...” Henry searched for words, looking down again as he blushed. “You're really good at building stuff and you don't think my family and life are shit or at least you don't say it and you don't think I'm automatically an idiot for spending a ton of time playing video games and you're really good at them and we can just talk on and on about stuff and it's so easy and you always help me with my homework even when I seem to have the intelligence of a fucking toddler and you're just... I think you're just too handsome and fuck, I just... I really wanna kiss you again... but I won't, unless you say it's okay...” I really wanna kiss you again....

Tucker slowly and carefully stepped out of the barn, walking over to him and sitting down, pulling his knees to his chest. “S-So... Y-You really like me?” His eyes were full of wonder and curiosity, but overpowered by innocence. I... I don’t want to be alone with you though... He glanced towards the back of the house where Lathe was standing and watching them, and he seemed to visibly relax.

“I-I kinda sorta really do... I just... you're so... I just... you're great ... and... I'm just...” Henry shrugged, looking up to him hopefully. “I'm sorry if you don't want me to, but... can I please sit next to you?” You're still far away… I wanna be closer...

Tucker was silent for a long moment, looking at him with confusion. What is this? Why is my heart beating like a maniac in my chest? He shook his head, looking down and away, fear still quite obvious in his eyes. “N-Not yet…” I still don’t trust you… You pinned me to the wall...

Henry nodded. “Okay… I’m sorry…” Henry weakly smiled to him, still picking at the lawn. “…I... I really want us to be a thing… so... if we take really tiny steps where we need to… can we please be a thing?” Please?

“W-Wouldn’t you rather go out… W-with a girl? D-didn’t you ask Rebecca?” I thought you tried to ask her out last week?.... Isn’t that why you blew me off? I had to make the sheep pen myself! Tucker’s eyes drifted to his arms. I’m still cutting… Dad doesn’t know… But, I mean, I’m not worth your attention. “I’m not worth it… You’ll find out that you’ll hate putting up with me in a week or two and discard me just like everyone else…” His words were a mixture of pain and sorrow, obviously still hurting on the inside. I can’t … I can't take that opportunity from you...

“I did… it was a terrible idea… honestly I could find a pile of dirt with more personality, she's just... no... and then she got mad when I wouldn't kiss her goodbye and she just made it hella awkward and ugh… but we get along so well… we know how to talk to each other and can easily talk about anything and we don't have to change those standards... Is be fine if we didn't really change much… if we just did homework together and played video games, we’d maybe go get something to eat sometimes and I'd get to kiss your cheek whenever, I just… I'd like all of that… I want to date you … because it's easiest to date someone who's already your friend.” Kevin gave me this whole speech thing... it made sense, all of it...

Tucker looked wearily at him, curling up into a tighter ball. I wanna cut... “Y-You’re not… A-Allowed to be in the s-same room as m-me alone....” I can’t, I don’t want to be alone with you ever again... you’ll do something like that to me... I...

Henry seemed to wilt a bit at that, nodding. “O-Okay… if today just isn’t good… I know I’ve messed a lot up… I can go… I’ll leave you alone…” Henry sounded hurt, like it was the last thing he wanted to say. I don't wanna go… I wanna hold you until you're not scared... I wanna hug you and play videogames and have everything be okay... I just... I want at least a hug... but I can't have that... can I.

Tucker looked down at his trembling hands. Is my pathetic body... all I’ll be good for? “C-Close your eyes…. A-and keep them c-closed...” Tucker moved to sit closer to him, making sure his eyes were closed.
Henry kept them closed, his mind in overdrive as Tucker eased himself into his lap, his hands hovering. “C-Can I hold you? Gently?” Please?

Tucker was silent as he shook, his eyes full of fear as he looked to his hands near his waist. “Y-Yeah…” His voice was tiny, trying to figure out if he would actually be okay with Henry holding him. He’s keeping his eyes closed…. T-That’s good right?

Henry very tentatively rested his hands on his waist, his thumbs slowly stroking his sides. It's okay. I'm not gonna hurt you. “Tucker…. can I kiss your cheek?” Baby steps… please?

H-He… Does he want to do it? Is that why he’s asking… Tucker’s whole body shook with a new found terror and tears starting to bubble in his eyes. “Y-yeah…” He struggled to force back a sob,  hoping that Henry would at least be gentler than Devon was. It's all I’m good for…

Henry veeyes slowly leaned in, his lips brushing his cheek. He pressed butterfly kisses all over his cheek, slowly drifting up to peck away his tears when he heard him quietly sob. “Please don't cry… it's okay…” Henry pulled away, his eyes still firmly shut, one hand slowly moving to rub his back soothingly. Please don't cry… you don't have to…

Tucker stiffened when Henry’s hand rubbed his back, which encased him in his arms and his sobs got even worse. “B-Be gentle…. P-please…” Tucker was begging as he turned his head away from Henry. You… You want to make me yours… You want to do the same thing Devon did. “D-don’t be rough with m-me please…”

“What? Tucker, I'm not about to do that to you…” Henry’s hands retreated back to his sides, his voice gentle and soothing. “I'm not gonna hurt you. I'll only do what you tell me is okay.” Henry listed his hands from his sides, holding them up in a gesture of surrender. “There. You've always been the one in control. You can choose what does and doesn't happen. I don't want too much from you, and definitely not so much so soon…” Way too soon… I'm okay with just being like this for now…

Tucker shook his head, leaning his head down into Henry’s chest submissively. “B-But… I-I’m supposed to… To take it… D-Devon took it…. Y-You want it too…. Y-You pinned me to the wall…” Tucker's whole body shook as he sobbed, his hand coming up to scratch at the cuts on his wrist. I’m supposed to be obedient…. Dad doesn’t like it when I fight back… And I-if he m-made you come back outside…. H-He wants me to take it too?
“W-What? Oh, no, Tucker, I didn't mean that I wanted to take that from you by doing that, I just kinda... did it.” Henry ducked his head down, murmuring into his ear. “I didn't mean anything by it... if anything it only meant ‘I wanna kiss you so more.’ Nothing about hurting you or doing what you don't want... and just because Devon took that from you... doesn't mean that it is supposed to be taken from you. You don't deserve that kind of treatment. I won't ever do something you don't want me to when it comes to touching you or anything... okay?” Henry rested his hands in the grass, not thinking Tucker would want them back at his waist. I'm sorry... And I really don't want to hurt you...

Tucker was skeptical, his sobbing seeming to lessen. “D-Dad said I would be safe... w-when they put him away... But... It just got worse.” His words were mumbled as he kept his head down still, leaning into his warm body. He said no one would be able to hurt me... And they did... I can’t really trust anyone anymore...

Henry slowly brought his hands to his back, trying to calm him. “What happened? What got worse?” I'm almost afraid to know...

“D-Devon’s friends....” His voice was barely above a whisper. “They’re the reason no one talks to me... They’re the reason I cut.... Because they took away everything.... M-my dignity.... My m-masculinity....they kept taking it... Over and over and over again....” They never stopped, right up until they graduated... They called me so many names, they took so many videos... Everyone knows... I can’t trust that you haven’t see the video... For all I know you have... ‘H-have you s-“W-What? Tucker, I'm so sorry.... seen... what?” Henry slowly rubbed his back, holding him close with a soft hold. ...this isn't good, is it...

“T-The videos... G-Greg probably has them....” You should ask him, they were spread around school before you specifically came in... But Greg made friends, and he probably has them. “Y-You can make another if you want.” His voice sounded so broken and hurt, his eyes full of pain and sorrow.

Henry cradled Tucker close, gently pecking his head. “Nonono, Tucker, I'd never try to hurt you like that... I wouldn't. That's horrible ...” ...does your Dad know about this? “I'm sorry Tucker... I'm so sorry that you had to go through all of that...” ....I can't even comprehend it...

Tucker was slow to shake his head. I haven't told anyone... It was the reason I was cutting... “I-It’s okay.... I-It’s what I’m good for...” Probably the only thing I’m good for... Being tied up and then fucked from behind. Tucker let out a soft whimper as he heard footsteps get closer to them. What’s going on.... Who’s that?
“Things don't look too good over here…” Lathe knelt down next to them, reaching out and gently carding a hand through Tucker’s hair. “....and what was that other thing you were talking about…? I don't remember hearing anything about it…” I legit thought I was losing my mind when I read that off your lips....

Tucker froze in Henry’s grasp. He… How does he know about it? He wouldn’t’ve been able to hear anything… His grip tightened on Henry’s shirt, shifting away from Lathe. No one knows… You don’t know… You’re not supposed to care…

Lathe let his hand fall from his head, though it remained in his shoulder. “Tucker, I’ve been on the porch this whole time, making sure this goes over okay. We knew you were gonna be skeptical of even getting vaguely near Henry. But when you really started crying in his lap I got worried… and I started reading your lips to see what was happening. ….it's okay Tucker, it's okay.” Lathe rubbed his back with Henry as Tucker shook harder, his voice soft. “We’re not mad at you, were just worried.”

Tucker shook his head. “I-It’s the only thing I’m good for anymore…” His words were mumbled and he kept his head down in submission. It’s…. The only thing that anybody would ever want me for…. My body, this horribly abused thing …. “H-Henry can make a video t-too…” You made him come back, you probably want him to rape me too…

Henry didn’t know what to do, his hands moving up to Tucker’s shoulders, hanging onto him gently. “Tucker, I really mean it. I don't want to take anything like that from you. I'm not like that…. I really don't want to see you hurt or upset about anything… I just… I don't want you to be hurt…” Henry gently pecked his temple. “You're the one in control right now. You're the one right now who gets to decide what does and doesn't happen. And whenever we're doing anything, it’s never just one person’s decision as to what happens. It's both of us.” You need to understand that.

Lathe looked between them, his voice careful. “Tucker… what video were you talking about earlier…?” I didn't catch that…

I… I should tell him… “He…. He said something…. About Devon’s friends… And a video they took of him…” I think it might be a bad video. “I think they might’ve done something equally horrible …” But I can’t be sure…

...oh shit. “Oh my…. I'll have to look into that…” He looked back to Tucker, his voice soft. “Honey, what happened with Devon’s friends? We need to know.” It's important that we both hear this...
Tucker shook his head. “They…. They did it too…” They made videos… You want Henry to make a video of it.

Shit. “Do you have names, honey? Anything like that?”

Tucker shook his head. “They all graduated…” They did it every day after school.

“We can look through a yearbook and you can point out faces… they shouldn't get away with that, Honey…” I never thought this would end up happening… revenge for putting their friend away for life...

Tucker shook his head, putting his hands over his ears. No! They said that we can’t put them away… We can’t… They made me agree… “I-I agreed….” He murmured quietly. It’s why I cut!

“You what? Did you want any of it?” That doesn’t sound right...

They told me I had to say yes…. “Y-yea…. I-I agreed…” We can’t do anything against it…. Tucker shifted out of Henry’s arms, sitting on the ground near him. We can’t do anything ....

“…Honey, there’s this thing called duress… it means that if you did something because you were legitimately forced to, you're not responsible for that action. It also means that if you consent because you felt forced to, that you had no choice but to agree, that consent isn't valid. Is that what happened?" There's no way you agreed to that shit...

Tucker whimpered as he nodded, cuddling up to himself and shaking. “Y-You want Henry to make a video too…” You don’t want me to be happy....

“What? Why the hell would I wish that kind of thing on you?’

“I don’t want to hurt you! I just want you to be happy! I'm not here to make you upset or anything, I care about you.” We’re worried...
“Y-You said I’d be safe…. A-And they did it….. All of them…. Every day…” No one asked what was wrong, and Devon's friends used me to get any and all frustrations out of their system... It always hurt... “...it hurt...”

“...I... I didn't think that would happen.... Honey, you could've told someone so much sooner, we’d’ve fixed this…” Lathe ran a hand through his hair, his eyes wide. “I had no idea…” Oh my god...

Henry watched with resignation as Tucker curled into himself next to them, his voice quiet. “Can I touch your shoulder?” He watched him slowly nod, resting one hand there, trying to reassure him. “I’m sorry we didn't know… I didn't think anything that wrong was happening…” I had no idea… fuck...

“I thought you would’ve seen the videos by now... They gave them to everybody... It’s why everyone ignores me, or whispers when I walk through the hall.... Y-You probably noticed that…” You’re observant.... I hate to say that I’ve been dealing with it, but I thought it would go away when they did....

“.....I always thought you had friends in other classes… I thought it was weird that you never mentioned anyone else, but... I didn't think there was no one…” Henry spoke carefully, sympathetic. I don't know what to do about any of this...

“I’m just a good for nothing whore that no one wants to deal with.... Y-You can go if you want…” You said something about leaving earlier... I expect now that you know, you’d probably hate me anyways... Tucker’s eyes were full of sorrow as he raised his head a little bit. No one ever wants to be around me... “The videos are on pornhub... And a few other websites…” They always made me watch them...

“...I'll go about taking those down later. They shouldn’t be out there.”

“And… I mean, if it's okay... I wanna stay... because I don't think you want to be alone... but if you really aren't okay with me being around, I can leave.” It's okay.

Tucker shook his head, getting up and going towards e house. “You should leave…” I can’t do this anymore... I can't sit there with you, I’m not supposed to... I'm just a whore everyone hates.... I spread my legs for anyone that can force them open.... You don't want anything to do with me... He kept his head down as he disappeared in the house, going to his room, locking the door before grabbing his razor. I can't take it...
Lathe looked to Henry with sympathy, patting his shoulder. “I’m sorry… you of course can still come to dinner Saturday… but I think you need to call before coming over now.”

Henry nodded, looking down. “Okay… and thanks…” I’m okay with real food on Saturday… that’s fine… “I’ll try to remember to call… just… fuck…” Henry buried his face in his hands, breathing in deeply. That went horribly… and so much has happened to him… what if he doesn’t want anything to do with me? What if he wants to be in a relationship but actually being in one with a man scares him too much for it to ever work? …fuck …

“I’m sorry… I really am…” Lathe glanced up as the back door closed, something in his gut telling him not to let him be alone. “I don’t think I can leave him alone now… I just need to get him back downstairs… if you want to stay a bit on the porch I can send you home with lunch…” Kevin told me a lot of stuff, I get the idea that money’s pretty tight between all of you…

“Th-That’s okay… you don’t have to…” Henry glanced up as something nearby moved, Lucifer bee lining for him from the house. He always comes over to me when something’s gone wrong…

Lathe watched Lucifer climb into Henry’s lap, demanding his attention. “I’ll go wrangle Tucker and make you lunch to take home, okay?” Lathe smiled when Henry nodded, heading for the house. I can’t leave Tucker alone. He walked quickly through the house, going upstairs to his room, knocking. “Tucker, Henry’s still way out in the backyard. It’s just me, Lathe. Open the door.” I'm sorry, but it's not optional.

“Go away…” His voice was weak as he cut another line across his forearm, watching the blade slice through his skin. I don’t want to do this anymore…. Everything got out! Now even more people know I’m a whore …

No. Lathe immediately went to unlock the door himself, opening it without any other word. He moved to get the razor out of Tucker’s hand, tossing it in the garbage. “I’m not letting you kill yourself over this.” Lathe pulled him along to the bathroom, going to clean and wrap the cuts. No. I'm not letting this happen.

Tucker was silent as Lathe dragged him to the bathroom. Henry’s still here… I want him to leave… He watched Lathe put his arm in tight wraps, looking down in shame when he was done. You’re gonna yell at me either way? Because I hid it.... And because you’re taking care of a whore. “You should call the agency…..Take a kid you’ll actually want to keep around until they’re adopted.” His words were broken and full of sadness.
Lathe sighed quietly, moving to hold his jaw with both hands, his words determined. “Tucker, I want to keep you around still. Nothing that you’ve done makes you worth any less or more of a burden to me. It’s okay. We’ll get through this, okay? We’ll all help you. We’re keeping you.” Lathe pecked his forehead, giving him a small smile. I’m keeping you.

Tucker just stared at him blankly for a moment before he nodded and looked away. Okay…. I guess…. I mean, it’s no use talking anymore, is there…?

Lathe sighed, kissing his temple. “I’m going to go make lunch. Are you at all hungry? I’ll make you whatever you want.”

Tucker shook his head, shifting to get up in silence. I’ll go sit on the couch like the perfect child you thought you had, and I’ll stare at the TV… maybe if I’m good you’ll let me sleep with my door on it’s hinges… He reached for the doorknob turning it slowly to venture downstairs.

Lathe sighed, pecking his unruly mop of hair one more time before letting him go, cleaning up the bathroom before going downstairs to make Henry lunch. ……I can't believe any of this… it's just… insane…

Tucker sat there at the edge of the couch, curled up into himself. I can’t eat…. I’m not hungry… He barely noticed the time fly by as he stared at the blank TV screen. Henry shouldn't come back…

Lathe eventually came into the living room, having sent Henry off with a paper bag of food, looking to Tucker staring at the TV. “….do you wanna watch a movie?” He watched him shrug. “….is it okay if I at least turn the thing on?” Another shrug. Lathe sighed, not knowing what to do. He simply turned it on, a Harry Potter movie marathon on. As always. Lathe moved next to him, kissing his temple. “That’s from Henry. ……he really does care about you.” Lathe left him alone to process the new information, going to fetch his laptop. I have videos to take down….

Tucker watched with blank eyes, not even recognizing that James came in to watch the movies with him. Henry can't come back… I don’t want him to come back…

Lathe got out the laptop, setting up in his office upstairs. He searched Tucker’s entire name, and the first option was about the lawsuit, which was expected. But then the porn sites began to show up. Lathe clicked on one, blanching just at the thumbnail, quickly moving to save the video to a folder away on the laptop as evidence. With any faces or voices in that video, there are people who can't get away with this. He scrolled further down the page, finding a phone number and getting out his phone, calling. It was a long few hours of getting the videos he could find taken down, having to argue with some of the representatives he spoke to. These aren’t staying up. He managed to get a majority of them down before searching using the specific video file, even more coming up. Shit, they’re up everywhere… He managed to get a lot of them taken care of before he finally looked to the clock, his eyes widening in surprise. Shit, it's late. I never made dinner. Lathe immediately went downstairs, Tucker in the same spot, accompanied by James. “I’m so sorry I didn't make dinner, you two, I’ll fix you something—”

“It's okay, Dad. I heated up leftovers and made Tucker nibble some. I already cleaned up.” James looked to him, waving.

“O-Oh.” Lathe paused, looking over them. “Well… wait, is Jake still with Lucas? I thought he was gonna be driven back.” Their Mom said she'd bring him home...

Jake popped out from behind the corner. “I had dinner with Lucas and Philip, and Jared and Mark….” He had a happy smile on his face and hugged him. “You didn’t hear me when I said I was home… James said I shouldn’t go in your office… Is Tucker okay?” He's been silent the whole time I’ve been home.

Lathe knelt down on one knee to properly hug him, looking to the happy child. “Tucker’s got a lot going on that isn't all very good, so he's not going to be in a very good mood for quite a while. Don't hug him too much about it, 'kay? He’ll get better with time. Promise, Hon. Now how are all four of those rascals doing?” I'm so glad they're not states away… and Jake gets along with all of them swimmingly, particularly Lucas.

“They’re good… Lucas says he misses the nook upstairs for reading, Mark won one of the state championship races…” I remember him telling me that. “So…. Is he not gonna talk anymore? He hasn’t talked since I got home…. Or really moved...” I'm worried about him... Is he alright?

“That's wonderful to hear… and we’ll have to invite him over sometime so you can chill here too. And as for Tucker… he's got lots and lots of thinking to do… and he's just not a very happy camper right now. He's gonna be pretty quiet for a while. Don't try to ask him about it much, okay? He just needs to do his own thing for a while.” He needs time... plenty of it...

Jake looked down a little bit. “O-Okay, um… Can I have ice cream?” I was a good boy today!

Lathe smiled, ruffling his hair. “Yep, you can have ice cream. But only if you say the magic wo~rd.”
“Please?”

“Okay.” Lathe smiled, going with him to get ice cream. I love you all...
Two days. Lathe padded back down the stairs, having gone up for just a minute, Jake and James still helping to unpack the rest of the groceries. Eren has more, ahem, items, and we're getting ready for the feasting of Christmas Eve and Christmas. I've made sure we'll have plenty of food for the whole troop of people who accepted the invite for Christmas dinner—...which is nearly everybody...

Plus one. Lathe double-checked the reminder on his phone. Early Christmas morning... that's when he'll be coming in... I'll be meeting him at the door, and he'll be just in time to kiss Eren awake. I know how much they miss each other... “Alright, as soon as we get everything away, we start getting some stuff ready. That means making too much applesauce and apple pie, which means peeling every apple we bought.” Legit tho. Lathe was very grateful for the help, everything in its proper place before they got things out to cook. Tucker's doing his one thing. He's been mute since the whole thing of Henry confessing... he won't let him come over anymore for anything besides food. But they've become regulars at the dinner table on Saturdays, which is nice. Tucker got his working papers a bit ago, so he's job hunting right now... I wonder what he'll end up doing first... Dunno. But he'll have to remember to say more than ten words of he wants to get hired anywhere, because he'll most likely have to interact with customers somewhat at least. Lathe glanced to the clock, letting the boys peel and cut up apples as he made pie crusts. I dunno... he could use something to distract him in his spare time... I got the videos taken down, and it took awhile, but... I figured out the pattern.... the entire football team that Devon was on. All of them showed up in the video, and I looked through a yearbook... the whole thing isn't over yet because we have to track these guys down and get them here, but... I'm not sorry that we're doing this and pursuing the case... I know they were just high schoolers, but it was gang rape... multiple times over... I just... no. They can't get away with this. Lathe tried to forget about it for the moment, the three of them working busily. They videos would be put back up as soon as they're taken down... fighting the companies was so damn difficult.... I would finally get through to someone who actually would do something, take it down and disable the user from posting more stuff since they'd put them right back up again... and then they'd come up under a new username. It's been... really difficult. We're tracking them all down, so hopefully once something happens, they won't come up again, but... I just really hope this'll end...

Eren came out of his studio, loosening his tie from around his neck. “Okay, that meeting was completely pointless... I mean it was nice that I only needed to wear a shirt and tie, cause they can’t see my pants... But Jeff was just apologizing the whole time and trying to get me to sign with him. Geh! Why do I have to be famous!” He groaned dramatically as he walked towards the stairs. “I’ll go get dressed for helping around, oh and I heard Tucker got a job...” He texted me a few minutes ago... He should be home soon. “It’s with the local handyman... I guess he doesn’t really need to talk, just fix stuff when it comes in...” It’s a perfect job for him.

“...That actually sounds perfect for him. He’d do well, I think.” Lathe felt his phone buzz in his pocket, checking it and seeing the text from Tucker. “Yeah, he got it. I'll have to go pick him up from the interview.” Lathe set down the rolling pin, untying his apron. “Hopefully he'll do a good job. But I do think he will.” He will.
Eren nodded, starting up the stairs. “Well go pick him up! I’ll start making food when I get downstairs.” He ran up the stairs and he was going through his drawers, his brows furrowing as he saw the extra bottles of lube. … When did these get here? I’m never gonna use that much all alone… He sighed quietly, looking down to his feet. I get to call him for his birthday tomorrow, that’s good. Eren smiled softly at the thought. I’m definitely gonna do that. Maybe I’ll send him more pictures for him to look at… He made his way downstairs, looking through the groceries and seeing the glazed ham in the fridge, looking to the post-it note on it. 250… for four hours… Okay so this should go in now I think… right? Or are we having people later? Well, it can wait until Dad gets home, I’ll start with some rolls. Eren shuffled for the necessities and started to create a few batches of dough.

James poked Eren’s elbow, looking up to him. “Dad said when we were getting the groceries that the ham has to go in the oven…. but I don’t know where the roast pan is.” I never got it out before...

Eren nodded, cleaning off his hands before showing him where it was. “Think you can handle the oven?” I’m proud of you, you’re doing much better, even if you look even more sickly than you did when you got here… Chemo is not your friend right now… But you’re doing much better around the house, I’m glad.

James nodded, going to get the roast from the fridge. He stuck the sticky note to the microwave where he would see it, going to start the oven, pressing the right buttons to turn it on. He was careful as he opened the plastic with a knife, draining it and lining the pan carefully before setting the roast on it, looking to Eren. “Do you know if we do anything fancy with it or not?” With the one thing we did there were all tons of veggies in the pan too...

“No, we just put it in, we got an already glazed one…” He smiled as he glanced over as James checked over everything. I’m so proud...

~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~

Tucker waited patiently in the store front, the owner beside him looking out the window as it snowed. He said I don’t need to talk… and my interview was just fixing a few things… and apparently I did a good job…. He’s gonna pay me for every hour I work, and he says I can come in anytime I want, just to clock in and he’ll pay me at the end of the week… He has a soft smile on his face, watching the snow fall slowly. Dad’s getting rid of the guys who raped me… well, he’s putting them away… Even though they keep uploading more of the videos…. The state even sent some officers from Wichita to come and help investigate because some of the seniors went there for college… I’m just glad that everyone leaves me alone and my teachers don’t give a fuck that I don’t talk… I don’t have any classes with Henry, and I barely see him, and I probably won’t see him anymore, which is good, he’s got new friends. He’ll forget about me soon.
Lathe soon pulled into the parking lot, waving to the man inside the small shop as Tucker came outside, looking excited. “You look excited. How did everything go?” Tell me what happened all!

Tucker smiled as he started to type into his phone, showing it to Lathe after a moment.

TQ: My interview was fixing a TV and a radio… and a clock… I did it really quickly so he said he’d pay me every hour I clock in and I can come in and work when I want to starting in January. I’ll probably go after school, okay?

He had a large smile on his face as Lathe read the text. I’ll be able to save for college.

Lathe beamed, looking to him and handing back the phone. “That’s great! I’m really proud of you, Hon. And you can go after school to work, of course. You just need to text so I know when to expect you home or pick you up when it’s this snowy, okay?” That's great!

Tucker nodded, his small smile turning into a large one, before it faltered a bit.

TQ: Is Henry coming for dinner tonight?

Oh god…. I don’t think I can handle that… I haven’t seen him since Thanksgiving when him and his brothers came, and apparently Greg showed Dad more videos that had been posted… He knows too… which means his older brothers all know. He swallowed hard, looking down to his hands which had begun to shake.

“It's just us for dinner tonight, Honey. Tomorrow is Christmas Eve and the day after is Christmas… that's when the big dinner is. ...and they're all coming to it. I wasn't about to turn them away for it, they always come over for the big holidays.” Lathe rested a hand on his shoulder, his voice soft. “It'll be okay, Honey. You don't have to worry at all about him or his brothers. You'll be just fine. And I'll beat up anyone who gives you shit for you.” Lathe gave him a small smile, lightly joking. You'll live.

Tucker nodded, watching the snow fall as they drove back home. I don’t wanna see him… It’ll be so awkward… I'm sure that he’s seen every video Greg’s got his hands on…

Lathe got them home without incident, letting Tucker go over to chill with the dogs in the living room while he went back to the kitchen to work, seeing the boys starting to assemble the first pie, about to dump in the filling. “Don't do that just yet, you two. We can't bake them for a few hours still, let's wait so the crust doesn't get soggy and sticky. You can assemble the other crusts first.”

Apple, chocolate, lemon meringue, and cherry. Oh yeah, I have cherries to pit. Fun. Lathe moved to get the cherries out and set up at a cutting board, steadily working as the boys fussed over getting the other three crusts in their pans. "The ham's already in the oven, so the other crusts have to wait until after dinner to bake since the fillings don't need to bake. Lathe covered the cherry filling when it was done, moving on to cleaning and cutting up strawberries, Jake helping him with a small paring knife while James cut up vegetables to cook for dinner. Eren was working nearby to whip up more batches of dough, a pile growing next to him. I love the help... there's nobody who can do this all by themselves.

The next day passed quickly, and early Christmas morning the house was silent, everyone save one still asleep. The lock quietly clicked, Lathe opening the front door for Levi, smiling. “Welcome home.”

“It's great to be back for awhile.” Levi smiled faintly as he looked around, some of the dogs stirring in the living room. He took off his boots and came further inside, seeing Blake on his plush dog bed in the living room, his eyes blinking up to him tiredly. “Hey.” Levi moved to pet him, petting all the dogs that quietly came up to him, sniffing him. I missed you all. “So can I go wake him up now?” Levi looked up to Lathe.

“...are you really gonna ask me that? Go give him his damn Christmas present.” Lathe smiled as he nodded and quietly went upstairs, chuckling and going to get coffee. It might be four in the morning, but I'm up. ....then again... maybe I should go give leva her present...

Levi stepped carefully as he passed the kids’ bedrooms, carefully opening Eren’s door. He smiled as he saw him asleep, setting his bag down near the foot of the bed when the door was shut behind him, moving to the side of the bed. He reached to cup his jaw with one hand, turning his head gently and softly kissing him, feeling him shift as he woke up. “Good morning, baby. Merry Christmas.” I missed you.

Hmm... But it’s only four... “Hmmm... not yet Dad.... I wanna sleep another hour...” He grumbled as he shifted to turn away from him and move a bit away. One more hour, then I’ll go take the horses out...

Levi’s eyebrows shot up, chuckling a bit. “Last time I checked, I was your boyfriend and not your Dad. And besides...” Levi clambered onto the bed, his lips brushing Eren’s earlobe. “Wouldn't you rather have your present now?” His hand moved down his side, softly nibbling the flesh. I wanna give it to you now... you can sleep later...
Eren’s eyes opened lazily, shifting to look at Levi, his eyes completely full of amazement. “Hmmm… I think that might work….” I’m dreaming… I don’t wanna wake up, let him do whatever he wants with me. He rolled over, curling up to Levi, a soft smile on his lips as he leaned in to kiss him. I miss this… and I’m starting to go crazy thinking about this.

Levi kissed him gently, slowly deepening it as he moved over Eren, pulling back the blanket and letting his hands wander over his body, feeling him. I missed you… Levi swiped his tongue over Eren’s lips, slowly tangling their tongues as his hands slipped under his sweatshirt, feeling up his sides. So warm...

Eren groaned, squirming under his touch. His hands… they feel so real, I love this… He moved his hand to Levi’s digital camouflage jacket, pulling the buttons apart. He pulled back from their kiss, his breath hitched and his eyes looking into Levi’s silvery ones. Fuck, I hope we go all the way...

Levi smiled faintly, kissing down his jaw. “God, I love you…” Levi shrugged off his jacket, tossing it out of the way and tugging Eren from his sweatshirt. His lips trailed down to his neck, starting to suck dark marks onto his neck, nibbling at the soft flesh. “I've missed you… so much…”

“I miss you too…” Eren groaned as Levi’s teeth grazed across his skin. “P-Please Levi… Don’t tease me please.” I don’t want you to tease me, I want you to ravish me, completely …

Levi smirked, lapping at his skin. “Don't worry… I'll take good care of you.” Levi slowly undressed them both, enjoying the feeling of Eren’s hands exploring him as if it were their first time, his nose buried in his hair and drinking in the familiar scent as he made love to him, picking up speed and pounding him when Eren begged him to. I love you… Levi whimpered as Eren moaned loudly in his ear and squeezed around his length, both of them cumming hard tangled in the other. Levi panted to catch his breath, looking up to Eren, chuckling a bit breathlessly when he saw him passed out. Of course… Levi drew out of him, lapping up his release from his stomach and throwing away the condom. He tucked Eren back in, stealing some of his clothes before traipsing back downstairs, letting him sleep. I finally get to have real tea…

Levi soon sat at the kitchen table with a nice teacup, enjoying the peace and quiet, looking around, particularly at the photos dotting the walls. They all look so happy… He particularly studied a growing mural on the wall. He saw Lathe and Ieva, their hands on his and Eren’s shoulders, a growing group of kids surrounding them. It's all of them… Jake, Sammie, Eli, Mark, Lucas, Jared and Philip… Tucker and James… and James is bald… I've missed so much, being gone… He quietly contemplated this, studying their expressions. It looks so much like all of us… we all look so real… …I've missed everyone… He looked down as Nene sleepily trotted over, curling up at the foot of his chair, quietly whining. ......aw… “C’mere, girl.” Levi let her come up into his lap, petting the small dog and letting her sleep in his lap, smiling faintly. I've missed just peaceful interaction… I like the quiet… it feels weird now… but comforting.

Lathe traipsed downstairs himself after a while, dressed in sweatpants and a tank top, a few red marks visible on his neck. He looked over to Levi, both of them silently judging the other, shrugging after a moment. We both look like hot messes. Whatevs. “I'm surprised Eren isn't clinging to you and refusing to let go.” You'd think he'd fight you leaving.

“He passed out….” Levi sipped at his tea, sighing as he sank into the chair a bit. “You guys are still trying?” I hope so, I know it’s hard, but you get to try… And I’m gonna be a father soon…. That’s gonna be scary … What am I gonna do with a child? “At this rate you'll be a grandfather before you have your own kid…oh wait, you will be.”

“Har har, don’t remind me. I see the gray hairs, I know they’re there.” Lathe moved to start a fresh pot of coffee. “And yeah, we are. ...I really hope we’re lucky enough to have at least one… at this rate that’s all we’ll get…” Lathe sighed, leaning on the counter. “How does it feel knowing you’ll be responsible for your very own tiny human soon?”

“It’s weird…. Eren won’t tell me what gender we’re having until I come back, he's told me that much…. I know they’ll be born in February… Or at least the due date is around then…. I’m upset I won’t be able to be there for him… When all that happens… So please, make sure you help him…” I won’t be able to… And heaven forbid that I won’t come back at all… That part scares me… I’d be leaving more behind… He looked down as Nene yawned in his lap, shifting for a moment before falling right back asleep.

Lathe smiled, nodding. “Don’t worry, we’ll help him adjust and learn.” Lathe moved to get out his old mug, yellow with train sketches on it. “...you’ll both be wonderful parents.” When you get to come home, you'll do well... and Eren will do well from day one. He'll learn... well, he'll figure it out at least.

Levi could only nod. “I’m not sure how great of a father I can be-” Six feet under… “-When I’m on the other side of a screen.” His voice was a bit strained, trying not to give away his thoughts. I can’t help but have doubts, my squad continues to fall left and right…. I got shot already, glad Eren didn’t notice that yet.

Lathe could hear the implied word as Levi tried to cover it up, going to rest a hand on his shoulder, sitting next to him. “I know the idea seems scary… that you might not be there for them at the end of this… but you need to keep trying and fighting while you're gone… you need to come home in one piece… better yet, alive.” Lathe said it, seeing Levi swallow. “You’ll come home to us when this is over. I know you will. It'll be okay.” It damn well better be.

Levi nodded, looking up to him. “Where’s Mom? Is she passed out too?” Let’s get away from the topic of me coming home…. I still have almost three years left in the service…
Lathe nodded. “Yeah, she needed more sleep… and I'm wide awake, so.” Lathe shrugged, staring into his coffee. Things have been weird between her and me… I've been neglecting her with everything else going on… I don't try to, but… it's a lot...

“How’s James’ chemo going?” He’s bald, I know that much, and he’s been doing chemo and radiation for awhile now I believe. He shifted in his seat, setting his now empty cup on the table.

“It's going…” Lathe looked to the painting on the wall. “He's been sick after every treatment like you'd expect, but he's doing so much better in general… he's learning how to adult and cook and he can remember stuff and he's just…. in so proud of him…” Lathe rested his head on one hand, smiling faintly. I really am proud of him.

Eren groaned as he shifted in bed. What the fuck did I do last night? Ugh… Did I go out drinking? My back hurts…. He slumped off his bed, not even noticing his nudity and instead just throwing clothes on. Dad’s up… That dream was fucking weird… it was like he was there … “Dad… I think I’m going cra-” Eren froze when he got to the living room, seeing Levi sitting on the couch and Lathe sitting on the arm chair. “Am I still dreaming?” I must be…. He’s not here, he’s thousands of miles away…

Levi smirked, Lathe chuckling as he set down his teacup. “I dunno Eren, you might be.” Levi stood, crossing the room and slipping his arms around his waist. “Or maybe I took my one break from my tour to come and see you…” Levi stood on tiptoe, pecking the tip of his nose. “I'm sure you can figure it out.” Come on, I'm really here. “C’mon… surely the sex wasn't a dream? You have the hickeys I gave you and everything…” Levi traced one with his finger, the look in his eyes mischievous and possessive.

