A Tale of Two Cities

by Dahliaxat68

Summary

He sacrificed himself, because it was the logical thing to do. All in the name of love.

“It is useless to say it, I know, but it rises out of my soul. For you, and for any dear to you, I would do anything. If my career were of that better kind that there was any opportunity or capacity of sacrifice in it, I would embrace any sacrifice for you and for those dear to you. Try to hold me in your mind, at some quiet times, as ardent and sincere in this one thing.” — Charles Dickens, A Tale of Two Cities
Please drop by the archive and comment to let the author know if you enjoyed their work!